Carefully uncovering a rock-marking near the Ottawa River — Mr. Albert Gérin-Lajoie, chief of the archeological service of Quebec Historic Sites & Monuments Board. (See story.)

Excavation team 'works' site near Carillon

A team of about 10 investigators, working under direction of Mr. Albert Gérin-Lajoie, chief of the archeological service of the Quebec Historic Sites and Monument Board, did some preliminary digging in the Carillon area last Saturday. Scene of the investigations was not far from Lock No. 2 at Carillon — activities moving west to Cushing during the afternoon.

An interesting discovery in the Cushing expedition was a stone hut, different and larger in dimensions from similar structures found on the Ross-Lavigne farm, scene of excavations on the other side of the Ottawa River. This building measures 20 by 17 feet, and is 7 feet high; it is believed to be the type of structure used by early trappers.

Together with Mr. Gerin-Lajoie were — Dr. W. Walford, of Como (formerly of Grece's Point); Mac Walker, Mrs. Howard Watson, Dr. R. G. Rigby, of Lachute; Miss H. Lambart and Miss Marion Elliott, of Cushing; A. G. Talbot, of Brownsburg; and Gilbert Arnold, Jr., of Grenville.

Unusual sidelights as new date effective for civic elections

Two Lachute aldermen were re-elected by acclamation, at nomination proceedings last Thursday. Another would-be candidate, however, missed the boat — having arrived after 2 p.m., just too late to deposit his nomination paper.

Ald. Alphonse Thibodeau (Seat 2, east ward) and Ald. François Charlebois (Seat 1, centre ward) were returned by acclamation. It was René Labonté who arrived on the scene too late, to enter his candidate in opposition to Mr. Charlebois.

To replace Ald. Horace Lamarche (retired) in Seat 1, centre ward, an acclamation was given to Réal Urbain. Mr. Urbain has served previously on the Council, concluding a term uncompleted by ex-Alderman Gerard Lefebvre.

An unusual situation occurred in east ward, where no candidate came forward to fill the seat vacated by Ald. Stanley Holt, retiring.

The town secretary, Mme Yvette Raymond, announced another nomination for November 6 to fill this vacancy. If there is more than one nominee, the date for electoral contest will be November 13.

Messrs. Thibodeau, Charlebois and Urbain stand, elected for a two-year mandate.

View progress in campaign for Charities Fed'n

Lieutenants in the Federation of Charities campaign were summoned by Wilbrod Cousineau, president, last Wednesday evening at the Caisse Populaire, for an accounting of the campaign up to that date. At October 30, donations amounted to $11,000 on the $15,500 objective. Captains of the remaining canvassing divisions are expected to report to the treasurer without delay, in order to close the campaign.

Key workers, Horace Lamarche, Guy Lafortune, Liguori Chevrier and Tony Zaplaski, reported on their special departments of the canvass, also the treasurer, René Bélanger. Roland Labonté, campaign chairman, warmly commended all those who had given their enthusiasm and faithfully filled their role towards a successful outcome.

Prompt arrests on auto theft charge

A car stolen from in front of Grenville Cinema one evening last week, was recovered and two occupants arrested the same night — thanks to vigilance of Chief Hebert and Constables Burke and Duquette of the Lachute force, on regular night patrol. It was the suspicious appearance of two youths who parked the car outside a local restaurant, that led the police to investigate. They found that the pair had no registration nor keys for the car, a 1950 Meteor belonging to Mlle Yolande Guindon, of Hawkesbury.

The two arrested were 17 and 18-year-old Hawkesbury youths, who were turned over to Provincial police and will appear in court at St. Jerome this month.

Severely burned by fire, explosion in automobile

René W. Laurin, of 210 Evelina Street, was seriously burned on Tuesday afternoon of last week, when his car caught fire while parked near Lachute's chlorination plant, on the St. Jerome highway. Mr. Laurin was believed to be asleep at the time of the fire.

The fire was discovered by Roy Neill, who had left the car only a short time previously. He is reported to have pulled Laurin from the burning vehicle. Blasting powder in the car, also several cans of gasoline and a chainsaw, all exploded. Two other chain-saws were pulled from the blazing auto.

Three local insurance agents, Messrs. Linton W. Armstrong, Stewart and Wm. Jones, stopped at the fire while on the way to a meeting in Montreal, and summoned an ambulance and the fire department.

Laurin was taken to the Providence Hospital and attended by Dr. Marc Papineau, who described his condition as extensive second and third-degree burns affecting the face, hands and back. He was later removed to the Montreal General Hospital where, up to Saturday night, he was reported still in a serious condition.

Night robbery at Grenville

A night-time robbery netted thieves an estimated $1,000 at the general store of Hormisdas Legault in Grenville, over the week-end — according to Cpl. Aimé Bertrand, officer in charge of the Provincial Police detachment here. The robbery is believed to have occurred sometime Saturday night.

Cpl. Bertrand reports that the thieves gained entry to the building by means of a rear window, and stole the money from a safe.

The robbery is under investigation by the local Provincial Police office.

P.P. officer is transferred to city

Cpl. Aimé Bertrand, officer-in-charge of the Argenteuil detachment of the Provincial Police for the past year, assumed new duties with the Investigation Squad, working out of Montreal, commencing this week. Cpl. Bertrand came to Lachute from St. Jerome.

He is being replaced by Provincial Police Agent Maurice Dinelle, of Montreal, who will be moving to Lachute with his family shortly.

Infant found dead in her crib

Marie Florence Monette, three-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Monette, Richelieu Blvd., Ayersville, was found dead in her crib by her parents on Saturday morning last.

Local provincial police investigated the death and notified the joint district coroner, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, who pronounced death due to natural causes.

Rotary Club discussed member 'classifications'

Rotarian John Giles was in charge of the program for last week's meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club. So far as most of the members were concerned, he was to talk on the subject "The Inspirational Aspects of Rotary Membership". He got nicely started when he was "rudely" interrupted by another member who stated, in no uncertain terms, that everyone knew about this particular subject and why did he not talk about "classifications", a very important aspect of Rotary? It was some time before the astonished members realized that this had all been prearranged — with the result that the remainder of the program was devoted to an interesting discussion on this subject.

The adoption of the Classification principle came very early in the life of this organization, and has proved to be one of its outstanding characteristics through the years. A classification is considered as "loaned" to each active member and the standard club constitution provides that: (a) The active members of a club shall be classified in accordance with their respective businesses or professions, and they must be personally and actively engaged therein within the territorial limits of the club. (b) The classification of each active member shall be that which covers the principal and recognized activity of the firm, company or institution with which he is connected; or if he is independently engaged in a business or profession, his classification shall be that which covers his principal and recognized business or professional activity.

Furthermore, every Rotary Club aspires to have in its membership a representative of every recognized business, or professional or institutional activity, in the community, insofar as it is possible to obtain such representation in accordance with principles laid down in the constitution.

Lost in woods, search for hunter in Weir district

Edward David, a 23-year-old Montreal resident, was reported lost in the bush last Sunday, in the vicinity of Weir and 16 Island Lake. A search for the missing man commenced immediately. David was hunting with a group of five Montreal residents when he became separated from them.

Paul Gagné, a 16 Island Lake resident, accompanied by his dog, was reported to be heading the search. (Mr. Gagné and his dog are credited with having found two men lost in the same area several weeks ago.)

AT ONTARIO-QUEBEC CHAMPIONSHIP SHOW —

Lachute 4-H Calf Club among top winners

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club was among top winners at the Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec 4-H Calf Club championship show on Friday, October 27, at the Ottawa Winter Fair. The Lachute Club was represented by Douglas MacKenzie, Kenneth and Robert Rodger for the Ayrshires; Sheila and Sharon Meyer and Daintry Wilson for the Holsteins. There were over 500 dairy calves entered in the show. The class of Senior Holstein Calves had 70 entries alone.

The boys and girls were the guests of the Ottawa Winter Fair on Thursday evening at the horse show and R.C.M.P. Musical Ride.

Following is a list of the local winners:

Senior Ayrshire Heifer Calf — Douglas MacKenzie, Group "A"; Kenneth Rodger, Group "A"; Robert Rodger, Group "A".

Senior Ayrshire Champion Calf — Douglas MacKenzie.

Senior Ayrshire Reserve Champion Calf — Kenneth Rodger.

Senior Ayrshire Showman Winner — Douglas MacKenzie.

Senior Ayrshire Reserve Showman — Kenneth Rodger.

Reserve Grand Champion Ayrshire Calf — Douglas MacKenzie.

Senior Holstein Heifer Calf — Sheila Meyer, Group "A"; Sharon Meyer, Group "A"; Daintry Wilson, Group "B".

Senior Holstein Champion Calf — Sheila Meyer.

Champion Holstein Group — Lachute 4-H Club was Reserve Champion.

Receives license to practice law

Claude Dumais, B.A., L.L.L., son of Dr. Roger A. Dumais, of Lachute, recently received his license from the University of Montreal to practice law. He is presently serving with the law office of Lacoste, Lacoste, Savoie & Laniel, Montreal.

Sentiments and Sidelights

Kibitzing at a recent fire on Foundry Street above the grocery store of Fernando Carrière, conversation with a few old-timers revealed that these were the original premises of the late J. Willie Lefebvre, where he first started his agency for sewing machines. . . . The present showrooms of J. W. Lefebvre Ltée on Main Street are a long stride from these original quarters.

It was in October, a year ago, that the Chamber of Commerce organized its "revelation" tour of Lachute's primitive filtration plant, and pictures of the site were published in the two local papers. Just a year later, we are about to witness commencement of a half-million dollar filtration project. . . . Incidentally, this was one of Mayor Fernand Legault's election promises.

A similar problem in St. Jerome has been dragging on for 10 years past, still with no immediate solution in sight.

Had 4-H Day champion calf

Miss Edna Wylie, of St. Eugene, Ont., took Reserve Junior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion at the Ottawa Winter Fair 4-H Day on Friday last, with her Holstein calf, "Had-lee Glen Iris". Miss Wylie's calf was bred by Had-lee Farm of this district, owned by Mr. John W. Hadley.

Week's Epigram

A lot of fellows who say what they think, don't do enough thinking.

Old anchor is odd find, inland at Bayside Farm

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing — An odd find was made by Gilbert Arnold, Jr., in the pasture below the main road, on what is known as Bayside Farm (the property of Allan T. Graham before having been taken over by Hydro Quebec). Mr. Arnold, using a bulldozer at this spot, was surprised to uncover a huge anchor presumably from a ship or other vessel, which, because of its great weight, had sunk out of sight under the ground.

One amazing thing about this anchor is that it is not rusted, as one would expect.

Mr. Graham, consulted on the discovery, could throw no light at all on the matter. He recalled however being told by an older member of the family that, two generations past, a Mr. George Bradford operated a sawmill on the rivershore of Bayside Farm, and possibly the anchor could have been used as a weight in connection with the dragging of heavy trees down to the mill. Other friends in the neighborhood, on hearing of this strange find, feel that the anchor was first used by Capt. John Smith, a river pilot and great-grandfather of A. T. Graham, in anchoring rafts of timber when the river was too rough to proceed down to their destination, as the anchor was found on that portion of Bayside Farm that was once the property of Capt. John Smith. The old house which was taken down to make place for the later one built by his grandson, Mr. Andrew Graham (now residing with his son, John R. Graham) for his bride, prior to his marriage, was the Captain's old home. Capt. John Smith's wife was Margaret Dale, of Dales Mills (later Dalesville). The history of the Baptist Church in Dalesville makes mention of this John Smith as a young man being in the employ of the Mr. Dale who owned and ran the mill. Later, we understand, the mill was purchased by the late John Campbell.

Hydro chiefs have been informed, and it is likely they will take charge of the anchor, and remove it for historical preservation.

This 300-lb. anchor may be seen near the north shore of the Ottawa River. While not of ancient vintage, or of historical significance, it could doubtless tell an interesting story (if gifted with the power of speech) to explain its presence 100 feet inland from the river bank.

Porcupine pet is pure albino

(Our District Correspondent)

Rivington — Donald McCabe, a resident of this community well known for his love of animals, now has an unusual pet. Donald recently captured a pure white porcupine near his home. The animal, now penned in, is becoming quite tame. It is reported that the Lafontaine Park zoo is interested in acquiring the albino.

Priest injured in auto mishap

The Rev. Adrien Giard, priest of St. Julien Parish, was the victim of an automobile accident last Wednesday night while returning from Contrecoeur in company with his sister. The mishap occurred when the priest applied his brakes too late in approaching the Belle Rivière intersection. He suffered injury to his right thigh and was taken by ambulance to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome, where he is now reported much improved. His sister, Mme Robillard, also sustained a leg injury, and was treated by Dr. Marc Papineau.

Variety show by Boys' Club well received

The variety show held at the Lachute High School last Friday, featuring the Westmount Rotary Club's "Unity Boys' Club Talent Parade" and sponsored here by the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, was an excellent example of what can be done when the talents of the boys and girls in a neighborhood, and a little coaching of the right kind, are combined to produce a very enjoyable program. This was the case on Friday evening — the audience deriving full enjoyment from the many talents here uncovered.

A very good turnout was present, despite the nippy weather, to watch this program, which consisted of boys and girls of all ages; as a matter of fact, the youngest in the show was a boy only two years of age.

After the show the group, who are under the capable direction of Maurice Mariasine, were served refreshments in the school cafeteria. . . . It is understood that they are eagerly awaiting their trip to Los Angeles next year for the World Conference of Rotary International, where they have been asked to perform.

Recent reunion of Bradford kin

Group of Bradford relatives from Lachute district, Montreal, Ottawa and elsewhere, who gathered recently at St. Simeon's Anglican Church for the unveiling of a bronze plaque to the memory of their notable ancestor, the Rev. Richard Bradford. The Rev. Bradford (1752-1817) was the first Protestant clergyman to minister in the lower Ottawa Valley and Argenteuil County, and was "the first to plant the Church of England" in this territory.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

The ducks are still not flying the way they should, at least not around the North and Ottawa Rivers. They may be all gone by this time. After all, we were warned about the breed being pretty scarce this fall. A couple of unfavorable springs and summers played havoc with their nesting and this, with the falling off of the ducklings, has done the job. Some form of restriction over and above our present ones will have to be instituted, if we want any ducks around at all. Tighter regulations on shooting and so forth will probably come out of this, unless things take a turn for the better.

Deer passing out of the district have not been very numerous. I have seen a couple that sure took a prize for something (the smallest yet). These of course are the young that get killed at the beginning of every season, and I guess, until these get killed off, nothing of any size will be in evidence. I also saw a bear perched on the radiator of a car; this was not even cleaned in the field, so you can imagine the trouble someone went through to show off his trophy. Boy, what a job was in store when they got it home! It seems every year someone wants a trophy to show what a mighty hunter he is, and forgets to do the most important thing.

I wrote a couple of weeks ago about the lack of stores carrying hunting licenses. This still has not been cleared up, and it is still just as difficult to get them. Sure, we as residents know just where to go, but how many others do? I do not contend that every store that sells sporting goods should carry these, but I do think certified sporting goods stores should have them, without having to kowtow to someone who thinks differently.

Fishing is really good right now. True, it's not the kind of weather you crawl into the water to retrieve a bait, but it's worth losing a couple for a good bite. The Northerns certainly have not been of any great size, but plenty of them have been in the 3 to 5-lb. class. It's great fun catching them and letting them go anyway. I know of three boys out after them this past week who tell me they caught about 10, along with some very good perch. The perch were all taken on very small spinners and spoons. The Yellows and Golds were the favored baits. The Red and White Wobblers didn't get a thing this trip, and I was surprised at this. Usually this is the only bait that can be counted on to land at least one fish. According to information, not one fish was taken on this. Strange how fish will go for one bait one day, then leave it severely alone the next. . . . How we know fish!

All the hawks and summer birds have now flown the coop, and we will have to be content with our winter habitués. One interesting thing about these birds is the fact they will come down to feeders, where we can watch them. It is rather strange, that in the summer when so many different varieties are with us, little attention is paid to them. When all that can be seen is the snow, then we are more inclined to look for signs of spring, even though it may be months away. Not too many jays can be seen, but there are a lot of chickadees. Some White Cap sparrows appear around our place, but they are not too numerous.

Don't forget to build yourself some of the feeders and suet sticks. It is worth spending a little time on them, for the wonderful insight you will get into these creatures.

With the winter just a short jump away, it's about time for you who have snowshoes, to take a look at them. I hope none of you just stuck them on a nail and left them that way! But give them a coating of saddle soap or some such, and they will start to soften up a little. This is going to save you a lot of time when the snow comes in earnest.

* * *

The new fishing tackle is starting to show up for the spring and for the Christmas trade. Most of us can remember when fishing outfits were never shown until a few days before the season opened. Now, from all reports, it is one of the fastest and biggest sellers during the winter months. Actually, more is being sold in the winter than in the summer. . . . The latest monofilament lines are being made much smoother, and this should improve the cast of all users. Some of these lines have been very stiff and extremely hard to cast. . . . A new propellor-type spinner is also being offered. This is luminous and supposed to have reversible-pitch blades to increase or decrease the action going through the water. It seems like a good idea, especially for the summer. . . . Glass rods are also high on the list and seem to be getting better all the time. However, there is not much use in buying a cheap one, as they are all the same. I am talking of the better class of rod, in the $10-and-up range. Great strides have been made in these rods in the past few years, and what they claim for them is getting to be almost true! . . . There are some excellent reels at a reasonable price. I had the opportunity of seeing a reel made by eastern companies (that is, FAR EAST), something like one of the earlier models that imitated another European-type. This one is not an imitation of anything (a very pleasant surprise) and is an excellent product. . . . Wading boots that can be put up into a very small package and carried in your pocket, were another great product. To be worn over your shoes, they can be taken off in a couple of seconds. These will be a boon to fishmen who have to walk all day in a pair of waders.

Last of all, I want to give some of you a tip. Seeing a sawed-off shotgun of 12 gauge calibre being used tonight, I was naturally nosey as to where this job came from. It was sawed off by the owner himself, all 12 inches of it. The idea was that it would spread much faster, and therefore bag more ducks. Not a very good job had been done on the sawing end, and this made me wonder, just how many guns there are around like this. Not too many I hope. A job like this is not for home-handymen, and should not be tried — unless of course you carry a lot of life insurance. If you want any gun cut down, then get a gunsmith to do it. Another thing when the gun is designed, it is for a certain type of shooting and nothing else. So don't try and make one gun do for a half a dozen. Think it over, if you are going to try this.

Once again I am protesting — but most of you are accustomed to this by now. It could be that someone will read this and try and do something about it. . . . Hunters and the lack of care in shooting, handling, observance of laws, etc., when they have a gun in their hands. To think that anyone who has the price can go out and buy a high-powered gun along with a license — be he a misfit, degenerate or what-have-you — is startling. The present government had all kinds of reasons as to why no tests had been imposed by former governments. This may or may not have been true. . . . But this IS true: Our present authorities don't give a hoot about this matter. If they did, then the laws could have been changed a long time ago. . . . The only drawback to our present way of selling and issuing of firearms, is that the whole mess stinks!

When we see some of the supposed hunters and their ilk rambling around town — then figure out just how some of these characters got set in the bush! I am not "taking the Lord's name in vain," when I say — God help anything that walks, moves or even breathes during the hunting season!

Evidently the only way to get results, and to stop the abuse of existing laws, is to make ourselves so unpleasant that people begin to take notice. I know I am not going to be very popular when this is read, but as far as I am concerned, the County of Argenteuil SHOULD be closed to all deer hunting for at least three years. If things worked out, then a certain area of the County could be opened for a certain period, but only UNDER SUPERVISION. This has been done in certain parts of the U.S., with very good results, so let's get something going, either before all our game is shot to death, or before every human is.

With a gun in anyone's hands, it is wise to remember they also have power over life and death, and they can command this with only a few seconds' grace.

Goldie the dog is well on the way to recovery now, and as usual is getting into trouble. As you may know, the latest escapade was tragic for us — skunk trouble. Right outside the house one night, we heard her barking, and Edith went to let her in. That sure was a mistake on her part! By the time we got the dog out into the air again the house was beautiful. Man, what a stink! I'm telling you, tomato juice flowed like water. Gallons of Air-Wick spray, and what-have-you, were used, to no avail. Finally, after many washings in all these concoctions, the smell SEEMED to go. But once Goldie got into the water the next day, it was just the same. Now we keep her out of it. . . . And I hope she never runs into another skunk.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Women's Travel Authority

If you are one of the millions of women responsible for the family car, chances are your service station dealer will someday tell you the muffler should be replaced.

When he does this, turn off your feminine skepticism and take his advice. The muffler helps keep the engine quiet and carries motor exhaust to the rear of the car. After long use it may develop leaks. Result: noise and possible health hazard.

Understand the problem and you see why the solution makes sense.

The car exhaust contains carbon monoxide. Like many other substances, it is poisonous if breathed in sufficient amounts. In its pure form, it is colourless, odourless, tasteless and non-irritating. It is dangerous because it keeps blood from carrying its normal load of oxygen.

On long trips, stop every couple of hours for a stretch in the fresh air.

Always keep an air vent or window open — at least a little.

In a station wagon, never leave only the back window open — exhaust can be sucked into the car.

Don't snooze in a car with the motor running.

Don't carry pets in the trunk compartment.

If your engine becomes noisy — especially if it rumbles when idling — have the muffler and tail-pipe checked. Your service station will be glad to do this, every time he has your car up on the rack for lubrication.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

If you are uncertain about any point do not hesitate to send us your question. We will obtain an answer and publish it in this column.

Q. — I received a notice from the Unemployment Insurance Commission that I owed a certain sum of money which was called an "overpayment". Can this money be recovered by the Commission if I don't arrange to pay it back?

A. — Yes, amounts due to be repaid under the Unemployment Insurance Act are recoverable in the Exchequer Court of Canada, or by garnishment of wages or salary.

Q. — Since I cannot pay back in one lump sum the amount I owe to the Unemployment Insurance Commission, will I be able to repay the money in installments?

A. — Each case is determined on its own merits. It is suggested that you visit your local office of the Commission, where suitable arrangements may be worked out.

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The Hallowe'en dance held on October 28 at the hall was very successful. Costumes were varied and plentiful. First prize in the "most original" class went to Mrs. B. and Mrs. K. Bradford as Mammy and Pappy Yokum, with Mr. and Mrs. Hibbiton (as the Flintstones) a close second. Comrade Geo. Kirby as a lifeguard, 1910-1912 vintage, with bathing beauties (of the same era), Leona MacKimmie, Lorna Giles and Pat MacLean, picked up the honors for the most comical — while Comrade Tom Johnson and Janet Wilson took second spot as Mexicans. Honorable mention was also given to Comrade and Mrs. Bob Giles, Comrade Lloyd Bryson and Eunice Dandy, Comrade and Mrs. Fred Stein, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Binda.

Registration of all boys (up to and including those 14 years of age) interested in playing hockey under the Legion colors for the 1961-62 season, will take place at the Legion Hall on Friday evening, November 3, from 6 until 8 o'clock. Any questions that the boys may have will be answered at this time. If more information is required, contact Comrades Ernie Evans or Doug Ogilvie.

Please note that the Christmas dance and children's Christmas Tree party will both be held on December 23 — the party in the afternoon and the dance in the evening.

The poppy drive will take place Thursday, November 9, and Friday, November 10. The more help, the easier the job and the bigger the returns. Let's see a poppy in every buttonhole on November 11.

The Legion's 19th biennial convention opens in Halifax on June 3, 1962. The five-day convention will draw some 1,200 delegates. This will be the first time that a Dominion convention has gone farther east than Saint John.

Ideal Cleaners prize winners

First prize ($100) — Mrs. Stanley K. Dewar, R.R. 2, Calumet.

Third prize ($25) — Boyd Kerr, Calumet.

Fishing Assoc'n dance and soiree

A soiree and dance arranged by the Argenteuil Fishing (and Hunting) Association is set for November 14, concluding the season's activities of this organization. A feature of the evening will be the presentation of trophies for the past season.

There will be a good orchestra to accompany the dancing at this event, to be held at the Pavilon, Windsor Hotel, Lachute. The program includes a floor show. Hector Lepage is chief organizer. Tickets are now available, and members are asked to procure theirs early — from Paul Desjardins, Sr., Hector Lepage, or any active worker; or by telephoning LO 2-6363. Since this dance is open to the general public, members will have the preference in reservations, up to November 7. After that date, the sale of tickets will be unrestricted.

Receives with one hand – gives with the other

A gesture by Herb Graves, winner of the $1,000 top prize, in turning back $100 as a gift to the Richelieu Club, was duly appreciated by the Club directors. Mr. Graves (of Pollock & Graves Motors Ltd., Lachute) was the lucky ticket holder in a drawing held in connection with the Richelieu Club's ninth anniversary celebration. He is seen here receiving $1,000, and at the same time donating a $100 bill. ## Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

TO THOSE IN NEED

Some while back I wrote a column in which I said that the meanest of means tests is the one you fill out each year for the income tax people — because it is a test to find out how much will be taken from you, not how much will be given to you.

An editor wrote me about it. "I'm going to print your column about the means test," he wrote, "but you can be sure a bunch of starry-eyed cranks will scream that you're a callous character. You are as right as rain, though, and if the country doesn't start to give generously to those who really do need it and quit handing out money to those who ought to be able to pay their own way, there are going to be mighty bad times before we are through. In my opinion, there are very few excuses for a man who can't make enough in this town to pay his own way without climbing on other backs. Yet there are a few who, through no fault of their own, desperately need more help. Shotgun-type welfare payments ought to be stopped and the welfare money should be spent only where there is honest need."

He published the column, and so far there hasn't been too much objection to it. It seems to me that there are many Canadians who see clearly enough that welfare costs are getting out of hand and to whom promises of more and more welfare are no longer attractive.

I noted the other day that a professor, educated in Toronto, has been saying that "In an opulent society such as our own, the individual should be responsible for his own upkeep during the early stages of unemployment or sickness." That seems to me to be just a smoother way of expressing what I was trying to say. In most small emergencies, men can look after themselves and their families; it is when disaster strikes that help is needed, and then it should be prompt and generous.

This is a serious matter, because our social costs find their way into the price structure of everything we buy or sell. Prices get higher while profits get lower. Business begins to drag its feet, and unemployment mounts. Money for social services dries up. In the long haul, it is better to limit the load now than to continue until all the sources of revenue have disappeared.

Grandma would have blown a fuse! if she could have shopped at a modern store

Nobody had much of an answer for the age-old question "What will we have for dinner?" in Granny's time. She was tied by seasonal products and to the basic ingredients with which she roasted, fried and baked.

Canadian manufacturers have done much towards relieving kitchen drudgery. Better cooking methods, better tools, canned and frozen goods, semi-prepared foods — all have helped to provide the demand of the harassed housewife — LEISURE TIME.

Advertising has made a vital contribution to making prices within reach of all, because advertising makes for mass production and this means lower cost to produce — to sell.

Advertising too, provides innumerable answers to "What will we have for dinner?" New recipes, new foods, new menus, new ways to save time and effort.

This newspaper would be quite a different thing without the new ideas, where to buy and for how much, provided by the advertising.

New manager at B. of M., Arundel

DOUGLAS P. MURRAY

CHAS. C. FARRAN

Douglas P. Murray, formerly accountant at the Town of Mount Royal Branch of the Bank of Montreal, has been appointed manager at Arundel. He succeeds Charles C. Farran, who becomes manager at Almonte, Ont.

Mr. Murray joined the B of M at a branch in Montreal in 1949 and subsequently served at a number of other offices in the city. In 1958, he was appointed assistant accountant at the main Sherbrooke office and, after two years, moved to the Town of Mount Royal as accountant. He leaves that post to go to Arundel.

Mr. Farran, the departing manager, has been in charge of Arundel office since March, 1959. Interested in community organizations he was treasurer of the Boy Scouts Committee, as well as a member of the local Farm Radio Forum, the Rouge Valley Conservation Association, and the Mont Tremblant Horticultural Society. He also served on the executive of the Arundel Amateur Athletic Association.

Arundel

We are glad to report that Mrs. Leslie Cooke, who is confined to the Montréal General Hospital, is progressing satisfactorily.

Bank Manager and Wife Feted on Departure

On Sunday evening last, a social gathering was held in the United Church hall, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Farran who will shortly be leaving for a new position. We are sorry to say "goodbye" to these good friends, who have fitted so ably into the business, social and religious life of this community. After an interval of singing old hymns, Mr. Sidney Swail made a presentation to the guests of honor, expressing the best wishes of all, in their new surroundings. Refreshments brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Grace Church W.A.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Church held their monthly gathering in their meeting rooms last Thursday evening. After a period of quilting, a business meeting was held, presided over by Mrs. R. Henry; it was decided to hold another card party on the evening of November 9. A good crowd is anticipated and the proceeds are to be used in the work of the church.

Communion Service

On Sunday morning in the United Church, the Rev. W. B. Ball will administer Holy Communion. The congregation of the new Brookdale Church will be guests at this service.

Sympathy

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family and relatives of the late Mrs. Thos. Gray, of Montreal (the former Jane Cousens of Grenville).

Masquerade Winners

Master Clifton Nixon won first prize for the best costume at the Grenville High School masquerade party on Friday evening. The Misses Judy and Marilyn Cowan won the first prize in the adult group.

Prizes won at the Bar-X masquerade were as follows:

1st, Mrs. Roy Nixon; 2nd, Mrs. Ted Moncrieff; 3rd, Mrs. Fred Cousens; 4th, Mrs. Morely Bennett. A good time was reported by all who took part.

Lachute family visits Clarkson College

Among the 600 parents and friends of freshmen who visited Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, during Parents' Week-end (Oct. 13-14) was the family of Ronald T. Cairns, student in Business Administration, from Lachute. Dr. John Perry (seated), chairman of the Mathematics Department, demonstrated the new 1620 IBM digital computer to Ron Cairns (with back to camera) and to his guests — (left to right) Lorna Clark, Malcolm (Mac) Cairns, Ron's brother; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Cairns, Lachute.

Grand Mistress visits Lachute

The members of L.O.B.A. Laurentian Lodge 943 were honored by a visit from the Provincial Grand Mistress, Mrs. Clara Aitkins, of Bury, Que., on Wednesday of last week. The Worthy Mistress, Mrs. Jean MacDonald, conducted the meeting and presented the P.G.M. with a gift.

Distinguished guests included the Provincial Grand Master and the Provincial Grand Mistress of Ontario East, several lodge W.M.'s and Grand Lodge officers.

Visiting lodges represented at the meeting were Barbe, Grenville, Cornwall, Harrington and Montreal.

Refreshments were served at the close.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

CONSERVATION

I could never see the reason why they set aside a season for destruction of our creatures of the wild. Why they legalize the slaughter of our friends of wood and water, who are normally defenceless, meek and mild.

If a "sportsman" with a shotgun, or a rifle if he's got one, will set out to destroy a harmless critter, and derive a certain pleasure shooting holes in things I treasure — if he's a "sportsman", my remarks are bitter.

We hear talks on conservation from the leaders of our nation where protection of our wildlife is the theme. Yet the law protects the gunman, and I'm not the only one man, who wishes, he could realize his dream.

What we need is legislation to protect each child of Nature and prohibit guns and rifles to be used. To elect more forest wardens to patrol our woods and gardens, and to see the law's respected, not abused.

When a hunter from the city shoots another, it's a pity. But he only met a fate that he deserved. For he would have shot the other, whose welfare is what another, whose welfare is what should have been preserved.

Why waste a lot of cartridges by shooting down some partridges whose only wish is to be left alone? Why turn some forest denizen into a lump of venison? That's one thing that I could never condone.

If a woodsman who is starving has to shoot a deer for carving — which I must admit he has a right to do — then he has a valid reason to stock up on meat in season, and provide his hungry family with a stew.

But if you and I have plenty, and have food enough for twenty, and have money to go out and buy some more, then there isn't any reason why the so-called "hunting season" should give us the right to spill some creature's gore.

I'm all out for conservation — that's not just conversation — and I'm dead against all folks who carry arms. Let our pastors and our teachers educate our youth with features such as saving wild-life near our homes and farms.

Would you like to have a bullet through your gizzard or your gullet? In your stomach, lungs, or right behind the ear? If you're asking me, I wouldn't. And a wild-life-lover shouldn't ever try to do the same thing to a deer.

Be seein' ya

— Uncle Walt

Prize winners at K. of C. bingo

Winners in the Knights of Columbus bingo last Wednesday, October 25, were as follows:

Mrs. J. Cruise (2), Mme René Racine, Mme E. Vivarais, Mme J. Chartrand (3), Mme A. Poulin, Mrs. R. Dickson, Mme Galant (Rockway Valley), Mme Chéné (Rockway Valley), Mr. Watson, (Rockway Valley), Mlle J. Ouimet, M. H. Moigneur (Hull, Que.), Mlle L. Belanger, Mr. W. Farmer, Mme Leo Desjardins.

(All winners except those otherwise mentioned are residents of Lachute.)

As there was no winner in the "treasure hunt" to the value of $125, an additional $25 will be added, making it $150 on the next bingo night, to be held at the Knights of Columbus hall November 8.

Trade with Europe

TNS

Canadian industrialist E. P. Taylor joined the growing number of Canadian businessmen who have called for close co-operation between Canada and the European Common Market and approved of England's joining the market. Mr. Taylor told the annual meeting of the Chambers of Commerce in Halifax that "we must overcome, and quickly, our reluctance to trade with Europe."

Married recently at St. Julien

Mr. and Mrs. Gilles Poirier, whose marriage took place recently at St. Julien Parish Church, Lachute. The bride was formerly Miss Sonia Combie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Combie, Lachute; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Poirier, also of Lachute.

Wolf Cub and Scout leaders urgently needed

The two Wolf Cub Packs and the 1st Lachute Boy Scout Troop are in great need of leaders. The 2nd Wolf Cub Pack needs a Cubmaster or Cubmistress, and at least six assistants are required in the three units.

Will you volunteer to help? Ladies or gentlemen over the age of 18 years, willing to help in this most worthwhile contribution to their community, should phone without delay to Mr. Charles L. Duncan (LO 2-2947) or to Mr. Stewart Jones (LO 2-2956).

Courses in leadership are available, so that previous experience, although very helpful, is not necessary.

Please come forward! The boys need you!

Any person who has a hobby might like to instruct a small group in this hobby or craft. Craft instructors are welcomed too.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express sincere thanks to all my relatives, friends and neighbors, for cards, gifts and visits which brightened the tedious hours, both in hospital and at home, since my accident on August 9.

1c — Ronald Clark

Women's League at Brownsburg

Brownsburg —

The C.W.L. monthly meeting was held October 11 in the Parish Hall, with Mrs. U. Robillard presiding, also the Director, Father G. Hurtubise.

The president read an excellent report on the Provincial Convention held September 14-15 at Three Rivers, Que. Plans for the three-day English retreat were finalized for the fourth week of November.

The recent rummage sale was a success, and special thanks are due those not belonging to the League who donated to this sale. Tickets are now available for the annual Christmas dinner basket.

The meeting closed with refreshments, served by Mrs. Lena Seary and her committee.

'Quebec has no wish to live apart from Canadian community' – Lesage

By Roger Tetreault

Quebec, (CP) — Natural Resources Minister René Levesque told the "Resources for Tomorrow" conference in Montreal that the Quebec Government is determined to retain full control over the management and development of its renewable natural resources.

Mr. Levesque, repeating sentiments often expressed by Premier Lesage, said the conference has been a valuable forum for information on the growth of resources. However, he stressed that "Such progress has to begin in our own backyard."

He said there was a strong feeling across the province that its population was not getting a fair return from the present exploitation of the resources. If Quebec's desire to harvest the full benefits of its resources is not satisfied, then "Canada itself is in the soup".

Quebec wanted to play a full role in the Canadian Nation but only a healthy and progressive Quebec fitted this role.

Earlier, Premier Lesage pledged Quebec's full support of a national program for the managed development of forests, water, soil, fish and wildlife. But he cautioned that Provincial and regional rights must not be interfered with.

Mr. Lesage drew applause from the predominantly English-speaking audience when he pledged that Quebec will co-operate in the conference's aim of organizing resource management on a national blueprint.

He promised that Quebec's role would be an active one — "In spite of all the publicity given to the voice of a few." Quebec had no wish to live apart from the Canadian community, but wanted to be a positive element and a source of pride to the whole nation.

Premier Lesage announced a $40,000,000 stainless steel mill will be built at Tracy, on the St. Lawrence South Shore, about 40 miles northeast of Montreal. He said construction was to start immediately and was expected to be completed in "two or three years." The mill is to be built by Atlas Steels Limited of Welland, Ont.

Mr. Lesage said 80 per cent of the company's shares are owned in Canada, and about one third of them in Quebec.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Variety on the civic scene

SAYS AN old adage: "Variety is the spice of life." Not purely for the sake of change, but by reason of the weather and other factors, Lachute's civic election dates were changed from February to October. This is the first year for adoption of the new procedure, and, strangely, the election has produced two situation new to local experience.

Firstly, a newcomer arrived too late for nominations and failed to enter his candidature! Never in our reporting of civic affairs do we recall a similar occurrence in this town.

Secondly, there was no candidate nominated for the east end vacancy left by a retiring alderman, Stanley Holt. This is not unique; it has doubtless happened here before. But in recent decades, with major problems and big administrative expenditures, civic interest has maintained a keen pitch; and in east ward particularly, there has never been an oversight of taxpayers or a reluctance of candidates to ensure representation in every seat. . . . It may be anticipated, however, that east ward will come up with a well qualified resident to represent the public interests, in the new nomination date set by the town secretary, November 6.

These are two unusual situations in our civic experience.

Hunters and forest fires

FIRE IS A TRAGIC event at any time, but when our forests are being burned up by stupidity, then it is about time something was done about it. We are referring to outbreaks that are happening right in and around our own district. We were told of six in widely separated areas that were all going full blast. It is no use trying to pass this off as a seasonal and natural event. With the heavy influx of hunters, and the complete lack of care in woodsmanship, it is a wonder we have not had a major fire on our hands. Carelessness can be blamed for all these, and it will continue right on, unless some of the offenders learn that we love our forests and what goes with them.

Our National Employment office deserves a vote of thanks in getting so many men on the job as fast as they did. It is gratifying to know they can be counted on in events like this.
— B.A., Outdoors Columnist

Bigotry at its worst

RECENTLY, members of a separatist movement have, in various parts of the Province of Quebec, altered and defaced English inscriptions on traffic signs by painting them over.

The Province of Quebec Safety League considers these malicious acts have been accomplished in full consciousness and complete disregard for public safety. These acts call for the severest punishment, although those responsible for them obviously do not comprehend the possible results of their actions. This bigotry will bring disastrous results to the people of our province. Such fanaticism on our highways is as great a menace as drunken or reckless driving.

The task of driving a motor vehicle without accident is a continuing challenge, and motorists and tourists should not have to face new hazards caused by malice and vandalism.

More deplorable still is the vandalism which occurred at the national war memorial in Ottawa, since the above was written. . . . Painted signs of the flagstone base of the monument ("A bas la Confédération") had to be removed by sandblasting. To all right-thinking Canadians, this is nauseating fanaticism. Such tactics might well boost the cause of separatism — antagonizing the rest of the provinces until they welcome, and even encourage, the idea!

Biggest participating sport?

BOWLING, once the privilege of the landed gentry, has developed through the centuries to become — in Canada at least — probably the biggest participating sport on the calendar, with some 2,000,000 participants across the country.

The origin of bowling is shrouded in the mists of time. There is some evidence that it was played by the ancient Egyptians, and both the outdoor and indoor varieties were popular in Britain at the time of Queen Elizabeth I.

Bowling probably received its greatest publicity when Sir Francis Drake, engaged in a game of the outdoor variety, insisted on finishing it before sailing forth to deal with the Spanish Armada. At that time, however, it was only men of Drake's status who could participate in the game. In most cases the greens or alleys were on the landowner's own property, and this involved an expense which only the wealthy could afford.

Bowling came to England from the continent, where during the middle ages it had been a favorite recreation with the clergy in France and Germany. . . . It was introduced to this continent by the Dutch at New Amsterdam, where it was played in alleys operated by the taverns of the day.

Bowlers will tell you that it was not the right to vote but the advent of mixed bowling that gave women their full emancipation! It was here, they say, that women competed with man on an equal basis for the first time. No privileges were granted the feminine player as in golf or some other sports.

Here in Quebec women have become devotees of the sport in increasing numbers ever since.

Lesser-known traffic hints

LAST YEAR, 90,152 Canadians were injured in traffic accidents, 5,700 more than in 1959. Most common causes are neglect and poor driving practices. The majority of traffic accidents are due to carelessness, rather than poor driving conditions or mechanical failures.

Safety officials stress the importance of obeying the well-known traffic rules, and recommend some lesser known ones, as follows:

1. If hydraulic brakes give out suddenly on the highway, use the hand brake to slow down so you can shift to a lower speed, then proceed slowly along the edge of road until you can get help.
2. Avoid arguments or violent excitement over the manners of other drivers. Additional adrenalin in the blood makes good driving difficult.
3. Check tire pressures before starting on a trip. Under-inflated tires make steering difficult, cause driver fatigue, and cut down the life of tires.
4. Stop for repairs well off the highway.
5. Don't change lanes unexpectedly.
6. Avoid "closing up" in heavy traffic.

Nation of non-walkers

ARE CANADIANS becoming a nation of non-walkers? The answer is undoubtedly in the affirmative, and its effect may influence the physical fitness of our children. As one delegate commented at a Congress on Better Living, held recently in Chicago, "How can I expect my children to walk, when I ride everywhere myself? We parents are just too lazy".

It is fairly obvious that much of the blame for children's lack of physical fitness can be traced to the home environment, as so many parents and grandparents tend to spoil and soften their children.

Stressing the fact of the bad example that parents set by not taking enough exercise, one parent, mentioning the splendid physical condition of her children, said, "I am glad that I don't have a car; the children and I both have to walk". Another delegate said, "My husband and our three children all exercise for one hour after dinner."

The Health League of Canada heartily endorses the need of proper and regular exercise for children; it gives them a feeling of responsibility; the children become weak when parents expect too little of them.

'French-Canada has much to offer'

It is almost 200 years since the Nor'Westers pressed across the Prairies to the Pacific, across the Barrens to the Arctic. They had taken over and expanded the major industry of New France, the fur trade. In taking it over, they set a pattern for relations between French- and English-speaking Canadians, which has existed, in general outline, ever since.

In the Nor'West Company, the factors were English-speaking, usually Scotchmen; the boatmen who did the heavy work were French-Canadians.

There are many reasons why this relationship continued. The most important was the French-Canadians' own determination to resist the changes that were sweeping the rest of the country, because change might endanger the survival of faith and language in an era dedicated to their preservation.

All that is passing now. The new Government of Quebec Province has not only accepted the fact of a social revolution but is providing it with its greatest official advances. Quebec cabinet ministers state frankly that the province is generations behind, that it must catch up.

Education is the key, and a sweeping reorganization and expansion of educational facilities is the new government's major program.

Education at all levels is being made more available and less costly. Traditional classical colleges are introducing such subjects as engineering. Trades training is being enormously expanded.

Premier Lesage, in Paris recently to open Quebec House, a cultural and commercial legation, was given many of the honors usually reserved for heads of state. Quebec separatists, who have become more vocal since the official nationalist party, the National Union, went down to defeat last year, demonstrated in Montreal and Quebec City. "Today a legation," was their slogan, "tomorrow an embassy."

Mr. Lesage, in Paris, put the project into better perspective. Quebec House in Paris, like Ontario House in London, is intended to develop ethnic ties with France and commercial relations with the European Common Market, where the province hopes to find much of the investment funds it will need for its new development programs.

Such investment and such cultural ties would help to decrease Canada's growing dependence on the U.S. and the growing influence of the U.S. in Canada.

Quebec House, said the premier, is a symbol of Quebec's determination that French-Canadians shall take their proper place in Canada and in the world. It is time for that old relationship of boatman to factor to be changed. French Canada has much to offer both Canada and the world.

Fluoride benefits shown at exhib'n

The beneficial effects on teeth of fluorine in the water supply was graphically illustrated in an exhibit in Mediscope at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

Plaster casts of the teeth of 50 children, six years old, of Mount Forest, Ont., were displayed with a like number of casts from six-year-old Palmerston children. Mount Forest has 1.2 parts per million of fluoride naturally present in its water, while Palmerston has none.

The casts of the Mount Forest children's teeth show cavities in only six instances, and there are no teeth missing. Only four of the Palmerston casts showed perfect teeth.

The important thing to remember is not only that fluoride will greatly reduce tooth decay but that there is absolutely no difference in the effect whether the fluoride is put in the water supply by Nature or by man.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"There's a lot of human energy going to waste," said a welfare worker.

"Most people on unemployment insurance or social assistance would like to do some work, if only for exercise. The average man on relief would be delighted to perform some task that made him feel useful.

"Suppose you said to him: 'There's something you can do to benefit the community, if you feel inclined. Just visit the energy storage building and put in some time charging the batteries.

"'All you have to do is walk up a big moving staircase that turns an electrical generator. You can meet your friends there, and spend as much or as little time walking as you please.

"'The energy you put out to climb the stairs will be stored in batteries for use later on. The batteries will be installed in electrically-driven buses and garbage trucks, to serve the town.'

"There would be no stigma attached to this kind of work. Not only the unemployed, but businessmen and clerks who were getting out of condition, would be invited to spend an hour or two on the moving stairs, walking off their fat.

"The energy bank would become a popular meeting place. There's only one snag, though," my friend the welfare worker said. "I understand the average man's whole output of energy for one day would barely be enough to light a small bulb. But I think we should find a way to use that energy, for the benefit of the unemployed. After all, doing nothing is hard work."

Valuable horse fatally shot by hunters

(Our Mabel, Que., Correspondent)

When Henry Beauchamp made a routine check of his cattle and horses on pasture, Thursday of last week, he was shocked to find one of his valuable horses dead. The animal, which was in an open field near a clump of bush, had been shot with a shotgun and had been left to die. On examination, the veterinary stated the horse had been dead a day or two. It was his belief, as well as that of police, that the shooting had been done at night. Neighbors in the district have frequently heard shots in the night, and have expressed great concern about danger to their livestock.

What or when is something going to be done to curb such offences? If ANY person is entitled to obtain a license to carry a gun, regardless of his sense of responsibility, or attitude towards others — then why should farmers not be recompensed for such a loss?

Law requires motorists to signal direction

Motorists are obliged by law to give their direction signals in a clear and understandable way— reminds Prudentia. Today, the directional signal-light on a motor vehicle is a legal sign, but a careful driver gives the hand signal also. When driving along a highway the motorist or truck driver should always think of the motorist or truck driver who is following. By giving his hand signals, the person up ahead is doubly sure of avoiding accident.

FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Avoca

Mrs. Sandy Bates was the guest of her granddaughter, Mrs. August McAngus, in Ottawa for a few days last week.

Mr. Alex Bates and his aunt, Mrs. Chas. Duncan, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mrs. Albert Arthurs, of Port Colborne, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Bates last week-end.

Mrs. Geo. Kelly, who has been in Lachute visiting her daughter, Mrs. James Bates and Mr. Bates, has now returned home.

Messrs. Cecil and Burton Young have returned home from the north country, where they were employed in road work.

Mr. Thos. Provencal had the good luck to shoot a 160-lb. bear while hunting with friends last week-end.

The L.O.B.A. ladies of Alexandria Lodge 119, Avoca, and North Star Lodge, Harrington, gathered in the Harrington Orange Hall to meet the R.W. Grand Mistress of the Province, Mrs. Aitkins, of Sherbrooke. A number from the Avoca Lodge attended, and a pleasant evening was spent.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. D. McCulloch and his bride, who were married in Hawkesbury last Saturday. The reception was in Harrington School.

Mrs. Wm. Kelly and daughter, Carolyn, spent Sunday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McPhee.

Special Service

There will be no Sunday School or service of worship in the Avoca Baptist Church next Sunday, November 5. Instead, there will be a joint service of the Avoca and Rivington congregations at 11 a.m. in the Rivington Baptist Church. The young people will be in charge of the service, and the choir will provide special music for the occasion. People of the community are cordially invited to attend this special service.

St. Andrews East

Hockey for Minors

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Call me when hockey starts on TV," Junior reminds Grandad, who is visiting the family. Both of them are enthusiastic fans.

Every Saturday night, tens of thousands of Canadians thrill to the marvellous demonstration of superb hockey pictured in the N.H.L. league games. Maybe Grandad remembers the days when he played shinny on the ice of the creek which flowed through the village; perhaps Junior wishes he had the chance to practice under the direction of a good coach!

Some authorities suggest that the origin of the word hockey is from an Indian game played with a hooked stick. But most historians agree that it is likely that it began with a group of players on skates at McGill University in the 1870's who were hitting a ball with a stick. The game was followed up by the round ball travelling a very long distance when struck. One enterprising player cut off a piece from either side of the ball and thus produced the first puck!

In the early days, hockey was played on the frozen lakes and rivers and a large number played on each team. Only gradually came the regulation sheet of ice 200 feet by 85 feet. In pioneer Canada almost about every youth had some practice in playing hockey.

Today wide participation in hockey in a country where more and more people are moving to the large cities is not the simple thing it was then, when a patch of ice could be cleared on a near-by river or lake. Recreation leaders in community centres, schools and churches must have a lot of advice and have both voluntary assistance and money to spend on the rinks and proper equipment. In many areas, if boys are to play, leaders who influence public opinion must turn the spotlight on the contribution which hockey makes to the physique of young players. Minor Hockey Week publicity celebrations urge citizens to bestir themselves and see that provision is made for hockey for families.

The choice of books in a Juvenile library reflects the interest of the young readers. Hockey stories such as those by the Canadian writer, Scott Young, deserve their popularity.

The Department of National Health and Welfare has prepared information about hockey which is inexpensive and to the point. The author, Flying Officer J. Heureux, (R.C.A.F. Supplementary Reserve) is a professor of physical education at a Canadian University. The booklets 'Beginning Hockey'; 'How to Play Better Hockey'; 'Coach's Manual'; may be ordered from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa.

Parents will appreciate their valuable comments. Here are two from Coach's Manual: "The important thing is to develop a high quality of 'esprit de corps' that makes all team members putting the good of the team first, and that keeps a team from becoming easily rattled under pressure."

"Rough, dirty play, deliberate injuries, referee-baiting, with its accompanying violence among fans, and other such abuses could quickly sound the death-knell to amateur hockey."

Hockey is a truly Canadian sport and in every community, parents and all those with the interests of youth at heart should do all they can to promote this amateur sport. An editor of a Manitoba weekly, the Minnedosa Tribune, made this comment on hockey for juveniles:

"What does it mean to boys on the ice when the stands are nearly empty? Let us not forget that every game to them is the biggest game of the year and while we are remembering let us remember that they work their hearts out for each goal they make, whether it is a provincial game or a Saturday morning game with their neighbors."

The wise buyer at meat market

(Consumer Section)

Meat, carefully cooked, is appetizing and satisfying. It furnishes the high quality proteins, B-complex vitamins and important minerals essential for health at any age. A large part of the money we spend on food goes for meat and this warrants wise and careful shopping.

In order to buy meat to the best advantage, the Consumer Section at Ottawa suggests that you:

— Take advantage of seasonal supplies. Although beef is fairly steady in supply, pork is usually more plentiful in winter; veal in spring; domestic lamb from September to December. These meats are most likely to be lower in price during these particular seasons.

— Watch for "specials" at local meat counters and through advertisements in newspapers and on the radio.

— Consider the approximate number of servings in a pound of meat.

Boneless roasts — 3 to 4
Bone-in roasts — 2 to 3
Steaks — 2 to 3
Chops — 2 to 3
Stew Meat (boneless) — 3
Stew Meat (bone-in) — 2
Ground meat — 3 to 4
Cold cuts — 8
Liver — 3 to 4
Kidney — 3
Heart — 3 to 4
Tongue — 2.

— Figure the price per serving from a pound of meat. The price of meat may seem relatively low when given per pound, however it can become fairly high when figured per portion. Take for example, steak. We average 2 to 3 servings from a pound of steak. But certainly round steak with little fat and only one small round bone will serve more people per pound than T-bone steak. Again a leaner cut of meat is likely to give more servings per pound than an extra fat cut as the latter can lose more than 30% of its weight in cooking.

— Know the various cuts of meat and from what part of the carcass they are taken. This is especially important for women who shop in self-service stores.

— Select the cut best suited for your budget and for your recipe or intended use. You can't make prime ribs from a chuck but you can make a very delicious pot roast from it!

Concert star next Tuesday

"A very remarkable young pianist whose career is of distinct importance in this country . . . he is a pianist for those who love music, and that is surely a rare thing." — In these words The Gazette critic lauded Ronald Turini, Montreal pianist, on his performance in that city last year. . . . "Might remind the listener of the last generation of virtuosos — a Hoffman, perhaps, or a Rubinstein," said The Star. This gifted young pianist won second prize last May in the most highly competitive of world competitions, the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium contest in Brussels.

Turini, one of the most exciting products of Canadian talent, is to be heard next Tuesday, November 7, at Lachute High School in the first of this season's Community Concerts.

DO SEEDS "BREATHE"?

Breathing is the process of taking in (inhaling oxygen, combining it with the other materials and expelling (exhaling) the unwanted materials formed by the new combination. Seeds are no exception to the rule that every living thing must breathe. Nor are eggs. Perhaps you have never thought that an egg is alive. But if you varnish an egg so that no air can get through the shell, it will die and no chicken will come out of it. The seed gets its air, or rather its oxygen from the air, through little pores in its outer coat. You must not plant a seed too deeply or it will not get enough air and will die.

A casserole commentary . . .

As a cooking utensil the casserole has a long and honorable history. It was among the first of the crude vessels fashioned from clay when some bright young female in the early dawn of civilization put her foot down and firmly announced to her cave man husband that she just wouldn't spend any more long hours standing over a hot fire! Maybe we're just taking liberties that anthropologists would object to, nevertheless it is true that the casserole, probably more than any other pot or pan, has long since proved its worth as a cooking container. And those of us who subscribe to the prepare-it-early-and-cook-it-later school of culinary techniques — particularly on those days when the afternoon schedule is crowded — bless many times over another application of the word casserole. In this case, as applied to recipes, taste-tempting mixtures which combine ingredients blended in interesting combinations chosen for their complementary textures and flavors. Quick Salmon Crisp is one such casserole and is outstanding on three counts — speed, flavor and appetite satisfaction. It has plenty of palate appeal thanks to the rich salmon goodness and a tasty bread crumb dressing with the surprise lift of celery seeds.

Quick Salmon Crisp

2 Cups canned salmon, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, 1½ cups soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion (or 1 teaspoon onion juice), ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter, milk, 4 clices bacon (cut-up).

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. (hot). Grease a six-cup baking dish. Flake the salmon, reserving the liquid. Blend salt and green pepper into salmon. Place in greased baking dish. Toss together bread crumbs, onion, poultry seasoning, celery seeds, pepper and melted butter. Add enough milk to reserved salmon liquid to measure half a cup. Mix into bread crumb mixture. Pile lightly on top of salmon. Sprinkle chopped uncooked bacon on top. Bake in preheated oven until thoroughly heated and topping is crisp; about twenty minutes. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

wonder QUESTIONS ?

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

Why does everything spin around when we are dizzy?

The feeling that things are spinning round is a part of dizziness. Dizziness may come from several causes. One is faintness, when not enough blood is going to the brain. There is a humming in the ears and the eyes do not work properly; things seem to whirl around.

Another reason for dizziness has to do with three little canals and two sacs in the inner ear. These together make up our organ of balance. If this organ becomes diseased the person may constantly suffer from dizziness — the feeling that things are spinning around.

As every child knows, we can make ourselves dizzy by turning ourselves around several times in one direction. This disturbs the organ of balance about which we have been speaking and the disturbance gives us the dizzy feeling. If you turn around the other way, you put things right by restoring the original state of affairs within the balancing organ. The name for the feeling that things are spinning round is vertigo; vert simply means "turn".

Why do our faces keep warm without clothes?

It is chiefly a matter of custom. Our faces, exposed to cold, do not get cold, but they do not feel cold because the nerves by which we feel cold are accustomed to this state of affairs and take no notice of it. In fact, all nerves act in this way; messages travel along them only when there is a change in the usual condition of the body. We tolerate, without noticing them, degrees of cold to which we are accustomed in our face and hands; but we actually feel that our feet are cold if we expose them. Yet people who are accustomed to bare feet feel no more and suffer no more from them than we do from bare hands. On a winter day we may not notice that our noses and eartips are cold, even when they are quite cold. You soon find that they are, if you put a warm hand against them. There is a tremendous difference between being cold and feeling cold.

How far can we see?

As we stand on the seashore the sky and the sea seem to meet, way off in the distance. That meeting place is the horizon. If we stand on a level plain we can, if there are no trees or buildings in the way, see where the end of the land appears to touch the bottom rim of the dome we call the sky. That also is the horizon.

Know many men who knit? Well James Norbury could show the ladies a thing or two—in England he is known as the man who's taught millions of women to knit on television. He learned as part of his training in clothes design and is now chief designer of the British wool knit firm of Patons and Baldwins. He was in Canada recently to show his designs.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

This is a good apple year. The federal agriculture department estimates that apple growers will have picked 15,000,000 bushels of apples in 1961, about 87,000 more than last year.

Ontario and Nova Scotia are expected to show increases and British Columbia and Quebec are expected to show decreases.

The first cultivation of apples in Canada was made from seeds brought to Nova Scotia from France. It's known that apple trees were growing near the town of Annapolis Royal in Nova Scotia in 1663. New England settlers, who moved into the area in 1760, brought European and American varieties with them.

Of the early varieties; only the Fameuse or Snow has grown to commercial importance.

The agriculture department explains that the McIntosh apple is familiar to almost everyone because it can be grown in all large orchard areas in Canada. It's excellent for eating fresh or for making pies from now until spring and "it gives off a marvellous aroma at room temperature or in the baking."

The Cortland is somewhat larger and flatter in shape but is related to the McIntosh. The Cortland, grown mostly in the St. John River Valley in Quebec and in Eastern Ontario, is crisp, mildly tart and a good all-purpose apple. It's ideal for salads because it does not discolor quickly.

For dessert purposes, the Red Delicious and Golden Delicious are in demand. They are grown mainly in the British Columbia and Nova Scotia valleys.

The round, wide-open stem ended Rome Beauty is one variety that is better baked than fresh.

The Northern Spy is red striped with a yellow background. It is firm, crisp and medium tart, providing general usefulness. The Northern Spy is popular in eastern Canada where it is grown.

To keep apples crisp and juicy, store in the refrigerator or in a cool, humid room. The amount of storage space you have should determine the amount of apples you buy at one time.

Coffee and Cake

Coffee and cake is a fitting end to many meals in Swedish homes. This Swedish apple cake is usually served with a cold vanilla sauce.

Ingredients are ½ cup butter or margarine; 2½ cups zwieback crumbs; 1½ tsps. cinnamon; 3 cups firm, tart applesauce; 2 tbsps. butter.

Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in frying pan. Add crumbs and cinnamon. Cook, stirring over low heat, until evenly browned. Alternate layers of crumbs and applesauce in a buttered eight-inch pan, ending with a layer of crumbs on top.

Dot with two tablespoons of butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for 25 minutes. Cool slightly. Unmold on serving plate. Sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar. Serve with sauce. Makes six servings.

Employees' Association informed on progress of Gatineau Power Co'y

Hull, Que. —

About 250 members and guests of the Employees' Mutual Benefit Association of Gatineau Power Company attended the Association's annual dinner dance recently.

Mr. George Swan, president of the Association, was chairman of the meeting, and the following are extracts from remarks made by Mr. Gordon Gale, president of the Company.

". . . Numerous activities are involved in carrying out the program of expansion and improvement to meet the steadily growing demand for electric service. . . . These activities were complicated for a period at the end of February by one of the worst sleet storms we have ever experienced which swept through Vaudreuil, Lachute, St. Jerome and Rawdon. It was necessary to replace over one thousand poles, many transformers, switches and other equipment, and in this regard I would like to repeat what I said at our meeting in Vaudreuil last June.

"Service was restored in short order with the help of our friends and neighbors and I again express my sincere commendation to all those who assisted in the burdensome task of construction and repairs.

"I would also like to express appreciation to all those who were without electricity during this trying period, for their forbearance, consideration and understanding. I am sure this wonderful attitude on the part of those we serve inspired the workers in their effort to restore service as quickly as possible.

"We are now serving over 105,000 customers at rates which continue to be lower than those charged by any similar operation throughout the whole of this continent. Householders enjoy more and more the comforts and conveniences of electric service, and the average annual consumption by our domestic consumer has now exceeded 4,800 kilowatt hours — substantially higher than the national figure.

"Our installations must make provision for the foreseeable future and it is with this in mind that we have just completed the installation of a transformer station at Paquin, near St. Jerome, having a capacity of 80,000 kilowatts.

"Gatineau Electric Light Company Limited has become an 'investment and development company' with the name changed to Gelco Enterprises Ltd. The primary objective of this new company will be to assist in the development of sound industrial projects in the territory served by our distribution system which, as you know, extends into the Counties of Pontiac, Hull, Gatineau, Argenteuil, Vaudreuil, Soulanges, Two Mountains, Terrebonne, Labelle, Montcalm and Assumption in the western portion of the Province of Quebec. Funds for this undertaking will be provided from the compensation received for our New Brunswick system acquired by the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission."

25-Year employee award

Presentation to Maurice Beaudry (foreman, Central Meter Room, Hull division) of a "25 year" gold button, in recognition of service with Gatineau Power during the past 25 years. G. Gordon Gale, president of the Company, makes the presentation.

Province-wide mixed bowling tournament

A $20,000 mixed bowling tournament for duck pin leagues, the first ever to be held on a province-wide basis in Quebec, will get under way November 5 and carry on throughout the winter months.

The tournament, which is open to all bowlers, bowling in their home alleys, is sponsored by Carling's, who have also been responsible for bringing major league baseball and NFL football to Quebec audiences via CBC television networks.

In this first major presentation of a participating sport the brewery has arranged a system of handicaps under which all players, from the newcomers to the old hands, have an equal chance at the prize money. . . . Bowling is one of the few sports in which the family can participate as a group. In recent years bowling has become one of the most popular participating sports in Quebec, with some 500 bowling halls in the province.

Details of the tournament have been distributed to all bowling alleys in the province.

Each bowling establishment will declare a winner each month and a final winner at the end of the season. Each of the establishment winners will then compete in one of the 33 district play-offs, to select a representative team for the final provincial championship for the provincial trophy and the top prize money. Members of the winning team split $2,500, with $1,500 going to the runners-up. In addition there will be trophies for the monthly winners in each bowling hall.

Radios to India project sponsored by Farm Forums

Ottawa — The first link in a chain symbolizing a close relationship between farm people in Canada and India was welded when Canadian Farm Forums initiated their "Radios for India" project. This hands-across-the-sea project had its beginning when Dr. H. H. Hannam, chairman of National Farm Radio Forum, presented a cheque for $110 to Mr. J. L. Malhautra, the Acting High Commissioner for India. The money was raised by the Junction Farm Forum in Sutton, Que., and will be used to purchase a specially designed transistor radio for the Forum in Mundama-han Village, Orissa State, India.

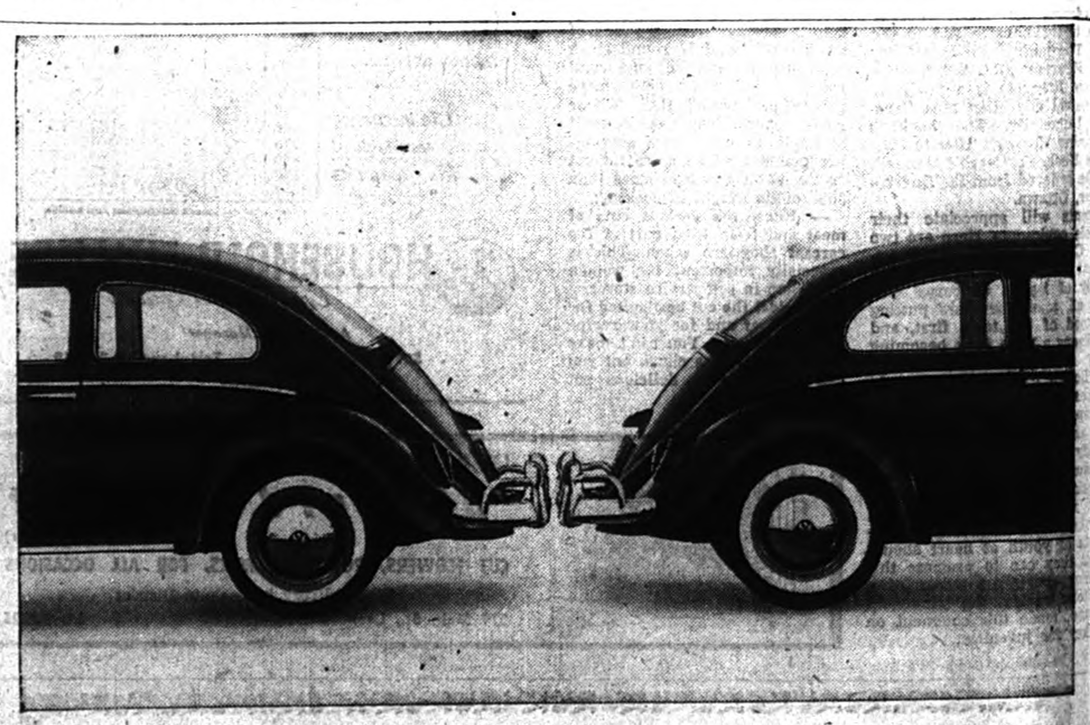

This unique project was first envisaged by a Farm Forum group in P.E.I., and it has been embraced by Forums from coast to coast. These rural discussion groups, in communities all across Canada, are now busy raising funds, so that they may soon provide additional radios for Indian Forum groups. They are raising funds through benefit programs, auction sales, fashion shows, social evenings and bazaars. It is hoped that, before the current Forum season in Canada is ended in late March, several hundred of these radios will be provided for rural communities in India who need them for educational programs.

The Sutton Junction Forum consists of 23 families in this community 40 miles southeast of Granby, and they have been meeting regularly for 14 years. They raised the money for this gift through a Fashion Show for ladies, showing the fashions of the past 100 years, and by raffling a painting that had been donated to them by James Cowan, a local artist.

This is a brand new project for the National Farm Radio Forum, the discussion groups which have for over 20 years, been a powerful force for good in rural Canada.

How to own two cars and still make ends meet.

Buy two Volkswagens. You go your way. She goes her way. And your budget won't know the difference.

Here's why: two Volkswagens will cost you less than one conventional car.

Think we're kidding?

Let's get serious.

The VW gets 38 miles to a gallon of gas. (More on the highway, a little less in traffic.) You'll never add oil between changes, and when it is time for a change, four and a half pints will do it.

You'll never need anti-freeze because the VW has no radiator. The engine is cooled with air. (Don't worry if you have two Volkswagens and one garage. The VW can't freeze.)

A Volkswagen can be repaired faster for less money. For example, we don't replace half the car to correct a crumpled fender. We can bolt on a new one in minutes.

You may be surprised how little it costs to buy a Volkswagen.* We've been able to keep the price low because we never change the basic VW design. We just keep making it better.

Any dealer who sells two cars for the price of one deserves recognition. And a visit.

*Montreal Port of Entry Price of $1695 includes front bucket seats, spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, tool kit and jack, windshield washer, two padded sun visors, directional signals and bumper over-riders.

Trade between nations is a two-way street. West Germany is one of Canada's best customers. And every Volkswagen sold in this country helps Canada to sell Germany more Canadian goods.

A celebrity on Canadian radio (1923)

The Bible Today

The Most Rev. F. D. Coggan, recently elevated to the Archbishopric of York, is the president of the United Bible Societies which is the co-operating organization for 23 Bible Societies throughout the world, the Canadian Bible Society being the third largest member. Archbishop Coggan, in answer to a message of congratulation on his elevation to the See of York, said in a handwritten note that he hoped his new function may in some way be of use to the whole cause of the Bible Societies "which is so dear to us. My interest will deepen rather than lessen, even if my time is less available." Dr. Coggan was for nine years a theological professor on the staff of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

The Rev. Dr. F. Birkeli, a vice-president of the United Bible Societies, has been appointed Bishop of Stavenger. He was previously director of the Norwegian Missionary Society and at one time was secretary for missionary studies in the Lutheran World Federation.

Fall thank-offering meeting at the Lachute United Church

The fall Thank-offering meeting was held in the United Church on Tuesday afternoon, October 24. The president, Mrs. G. Y. Deacon, gave a word of welcome, making special mention of Mrs. Smith, Christian Citizenship secretary, and Mrs. Dupré, a vice-president of the Montreal Presbyterial, who was the guest speaker.

The theme of the devotion period led by Mrs. Smith was Thanksgiving. Prayer should be confession — Thanksgiving, supplication and intercession to God. To know God is to be conscious of his presence. Our relationship to God is the in-dwelling of his spirit. We should pray thoughtfully with warmth towards the giver. Appreciation increases the thing to be thankful for. If we are truly thankful we will praise God. Psalm 100, which is full of the spirit of thanksgiving and peace, was read responsively.

A solo, "Art Thou Weary?" by Handel, was sung by Mrs. K. Simons.

Mrs. Dupré opened her address with the statement "What a wonderful time to be alive! What a wonderful time to be in the United Church! . . . It is very easy to be depressed when we read the daily papers, but we know, if we read our Bibles, that we still have God, you know," which says in part, "We hear of some who are even saying they would rather be dead than live under Communism. Some of the most magnificent Christians in the world are living heroically under Communism. Christians through most of their history have had to survive in a hostile society.

The speaker referred to the part played by the United Church in the World Council of Churches. They have studied thoroughly the book, "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World," in preparation for the meeting of the U.C.C. in November. The Church realizes the importance of the layity, and has been holding schools for laymen in cities across Canada. It also realizes that women should play a greater part. So a new board, "The Board of Women", has been added to nine other boards, and there will be more women on all boards. After January 1, 1962, all Women of the Church will be working together as "The United Church Women". The opportunity of the Church's lifetime is at hand. There should be a "stirring of the waters" in the Congregation, such as has not been since Church Union.

"We hear some saying that they do not know anything about the new organization, but they are the ones who have not been reading, as there has been a lot published about it in all the Church papers and in the daily newspapers. . . . The purpose of it is to unite all women of the congregation for the total mission of the Church, and to provide a medium for study, fellowship and service. It is a wonderful challenge to see that this is carried out. We must be there working and witnessing as we have never done before. In Matthew 28, we have the words, 'But some doubted.' Today a minority are Communists, a minority are believers in God. The majority are in doubt. We need only carry the message. The message will do the rest.

"Our Thank-offering today should be a time to dedicate our time, talents and material possessions to the service of Jesus Christ our Lord and Master."

The speaker, soloist and organist were thanked by Mrs. M. G. McCaskill.

Diary of a Vagabond

A PHONY SAINT?

I was a nipper of some seven summers when my mother decided to move her brood from the pastoral beauty of Summerside, Prince Edward Island, to the bleak, barren newness of the Canadian prairies' then largest city, Winnipeg.

Most moves are an exciting experience for the very young, but to me this was the end. The end of shore dinners, lobster suppers, games in seaside sand and my happy communion with other small fry as a student in a Roman Catholic convent. My sister and I were the only Protestant children enrolled and when the other students learned of our impending journey they pooled their pennies and bought each of us a St. Christopher medal. Christopher is known as the "Patron Saint of Travelers". Millions of Roman Catholics, and a considerable number of non-Catholics, carry Christopher medals on trips.

Though my mother did not approve, mine dangled from my neck on a chain that supported the small gold cross I had been given by my godparents when I was christened in my own faith.

When lost, that first medal was replaced several times. Why, I cannot say, but I feel very much more comfortable when the silver replica of this famous saint is nestled in my bag as I journey by rail from coast to coast.

Now I am made to believe that St. Christopher is not a saint to be recognized after all. Roman Catholic scholars think the same fate is in store for him that was the verdict concerning St. Philomena, who was stricken from the roll by a recent Vatican directive.

Future Status Shaky

The directive means that the feast of St. Philomena will be dropped from the Roman Catholic liturgical calendar, that all public devotions in her honor must be discontinued, and that churches dedicated to her must receive new titles.

Scholars who are dubious about St. Christopher's future status point to the text of the instruction issued by the sacred congregation of rites at the time that Philomena was dropped.

It noted that there are hundreds of saints, of unquestioned historical authenticity, whom Roman Catholics may venerate.

Therefore, the Vatican document said, it is "important to remove from diocesan calendars . . . the feasts of those martyrs and bishops of ancient times about whom there is little or no historical knowledge outside of their names."

A syndicated article by Louis Cassels went on to say, "Popular legend, which has been enshrined in a famous woodcut by Albrecht Durer, depicts St. Christopher as a riverman who carried stranded travelers across a swollen stream on his shoulders.

"Church scholars have found little historical evidence to corroborate the legend. The only firm fact that is known about St. Christopher, they say, is that a church bearing his name was built near Constantinople around the middle of the fifth century."

Personal Patron Saint

I was reminded, as I fingered my small medal, of the day I was to join the Royal Train when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip toured Canada on their last official visit.

Stranded on a siding, as our coach was sidetracked waiting for the Royal Train to pass on its way to Hamilton, Ont., I was in a panic for fear I would miss the greeting of municipal authorities in the steel city. Fortunately I was offered a ride in the official automobile of a Canadian National Railways police inspector. When I was safely tucked between two tremendous hunks of humanity in dark blue uniforms, I noticed a statuette of St. Christopher attached to the dashboard of the driver's car. He informed us that he had been to early mass to pray for a safe journey for all.

We needed those prayers and the protection of good old St. Kit for the highway was under contruction and I envied the Queen and her Prince safely journeying by rail on that hot and humid morning. Secretly I clutched my purse knowing my medal was tucked away in one corner of the coin pouch. Every time an earth mover, or an oversized bulldozer bore down on our vehicle I murmured a brief prayer. Directives can remove him from the Vatican's roll, but St. Christopher, Patron of Travelers, will always be my personal saint.

Polish seaman

A month of fear for a Polish seaman who jumped ship in Montreal has ended with the Government's announcement that he will not be forced to go back to Poland as he had been told but can stay in this country for one year with a chance to apply for legal entry. Francisz Tobiasz, a navigator, says he wants to learn more English and then he will do any work he can. He said it took 10 years of planning for him to escape from Poland.

Merchants play Santa Claus in Hawkesbury

In Hawkesbury, even as the excavation continues and the car traffic has slowed up, business carries on as usual; customers of this commercial centre are still pouring in from within a 50-mile radius.

A merchants' promotion program has been launched by this Association. From October 9 to December 13, the Hawkesbury merchants are offering their customers free entry slips to participate in eight weekly draws of $100 each. All these slips will be eligible for the grand prize of $1,000 cash. All draws will be held Wednesday nights at the Regent Theatre.

Last Wednesday, October 25, the $100 winner was Pete Jerome, of Hawkesbury, who made his purchase at Canadian Tire Corporation and whose slip was one of 20,000 accumulated within a week. René Lacroix, winner of the first draw, received his $100.

from Bernard Danis, president of the Association.

Those who come to Hawkesbury will witness the gigantic works in preparation for Hydro flooding, and will find many parking areas. The temporary road north of Main Street provides an excellent thru way or access route.

Yes, folks, the shorter days and colder nights are noticeable already. Pretty soon the colder days will be here!

The furnace has been idle all summer, but from now on it will start to eat up the coal or oil, and the cost of heating will be added to the family budget. We all expect this increased cost during the winter.

But I work for you all year 'round! You don't give me as much to do in the summer months, nor do I have to work such long hours, but with the cold weather and shorter days I know you will expect me to do all sorts of extra work and you will keep me working longer at the regular year round jobs!

For instance, in the winter you will ask me to do a great many things:—

Keep the lights on more hours: Buy a box of bulbs now so you won't run short!

Keep the TV on for all those good programs that are starting for the winter.

Run your oil burner night and day! Did you have it checked over and cleaned?

Heat your water from a lower temperature to the same temperature as you like to have it in the summer: By the way, have you put the insulation on your water tank yet?

Keep your car heated on cold nights: Put your anti-freeze in early!

Look after your extra cooking and baking in the holiday season!

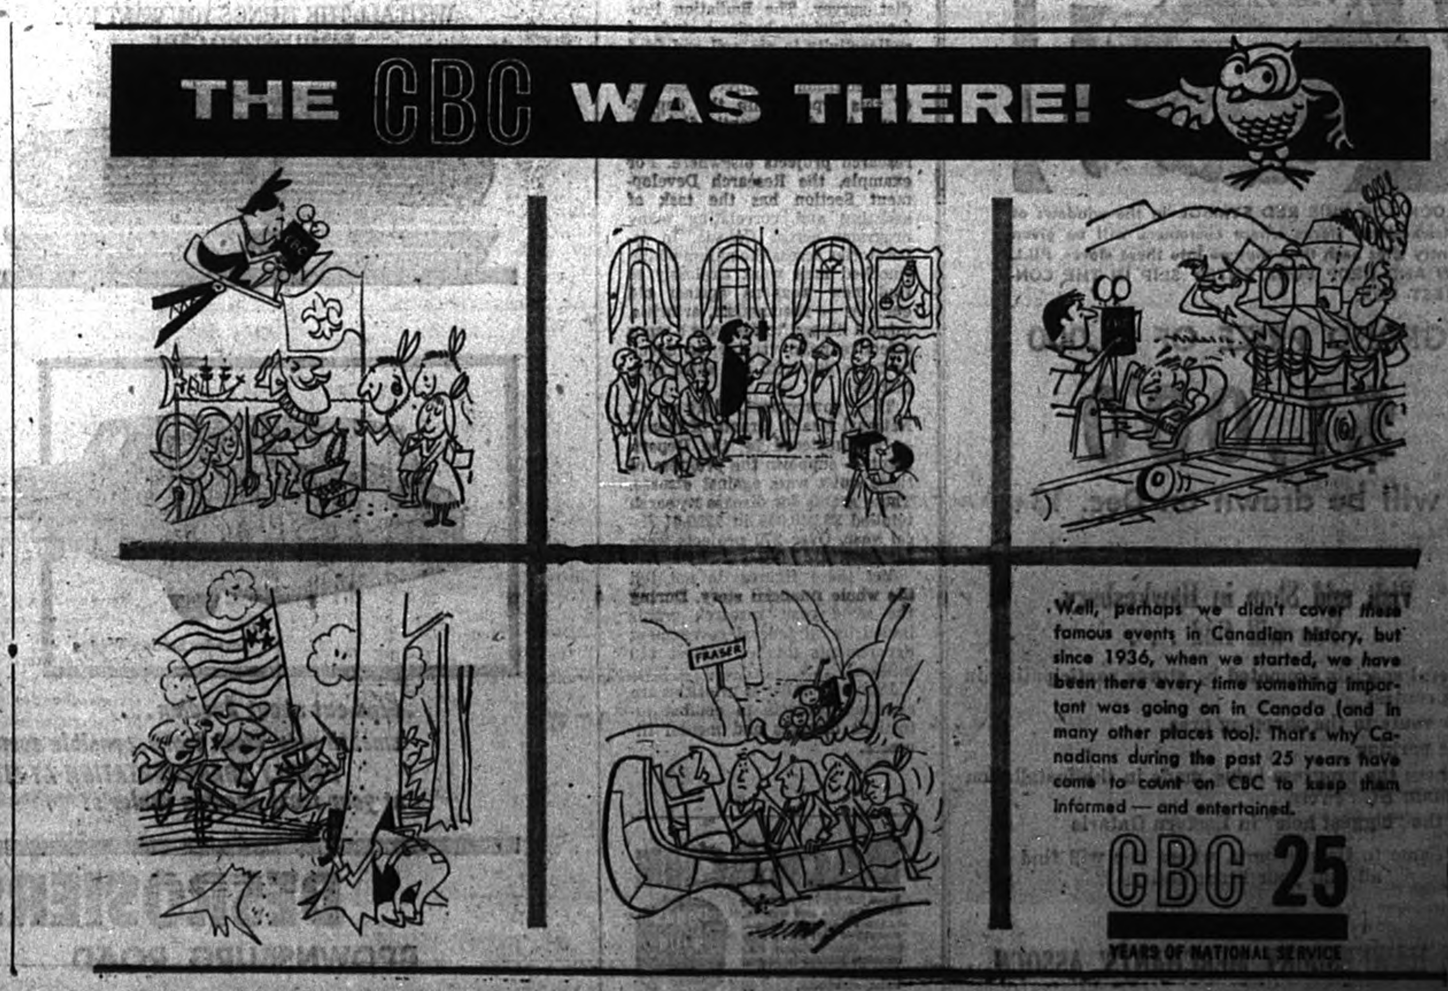

Operate the clothes dryer more frequently!

Jury divided — second trial ordered in charge of bribery

By the Candian Press

The first trial of Abbe Bergeron, charged with corruptly giving money to a member of Parliament, ended last month with a hung jury.

County Court Judge Peter J. Macdonald ordered a second trial after the jury reported it was unable to agree on a verdict after five hours of deliberation.

Bergeron, 45-year-old Cornwall service station operator, was charged with corruptly giving $10,000 in 1956 to Raymond Bruneau, then Liberal MP for Glengarry-Prescott.

The case revolved around a sale of land to the federal government.

Key Word

Judge Macdonald told the jury that the key word in the indictment against Bergeron was "corruptly." This implied "evil feelings and evil intentions" by the person giving the money to an MP, he said.

Earlier Wednesday, the judge rejected motions by defence counsel R. B. Sorenson of Ottawa for dismissal of the case and for a directed verdict of not guilty.

Mr. Sorensen argued that the crown had failed to show that Bergeron paid Bruneau in his official capacity as an MP, or that Bruneau took any action.

Antonio Arel, and Lucien Caille, officials of the Lefebvre Shoe Company Limited and creditors of Bergeron, had testified about a meeting they had with Bergeron and Bruneau in the latter's Parliament Hill office, October 11, 1956.

Handed Over Envelope

They said Bergeron had decided to give $10,000 in $20 bills to the MP. Bergeron handed over an envelope, they said, but they did not see the contents.

In a statement to police, Bergeron said the envelope contained $10,000 and that Bruneau placed the bills in his pockets. He said the "commission" was in return for a $48,000 land sale to the federal government and for the promise of a permanent government job.

Judge Macdonald said Arel and Caille were, in his opinion, accomplices and could have been charged. He warned the jury that it would be dangerous to convict Bergeron on their uncorroborated evidence.

Program outlined to raise incomes in rural Quebec

Dr. Ernest Mercier, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Quebec, will describe a new plan of the Department to raise farm incomes and assure the best use of human and natural resources in rural areas, on National Farm Radio Forum, Monday night (8.30), November 6, over CBC stations (also over CKTS, Sherbrooke).

The plan, known as "Consolidation of Agriculture", is expected to raise farm incomes, and also those of small towns and villages, and should also provide for full use of human and natural resources. It will involve regional planning and development, with which the Quebec Department of Agriculture and other departments will assist. As resources differ from region to region, so will the needed development differ. Success in each region will depend on local support which must come from farmers, town councils, Chambers of Commerce, women's groups and agricultural societies working together.

Dr. Mercier will explain the objective of the plan and the role of government, farmers and non-farmers. Following that the broadcast will deal with a specific region of the Province — a part of Brome County. The mayor of Knowlton, the president of a development project, a farmer who turned his farm into a resort, and the county agronome will give their views on the needs of the region and ways in which they might make use of the plan.

A large number of non-farm visitors are expected to meet with Forums on this occasion. Written material to accompany the broadcast may be obtained from Box 237, Macdonald College.

Memorial fund to drowning victim provides bursary

A news item in the Barrie Examiner states that a scholarship fund has been started to assist Grade 11 French pupils at Barrie North Collegiate. The scholarship is in memory of Patrick Woods, a keen scholar in French and languages, who lost his life in a drowning accident this past summer.

(Patrick was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods — Robert having been a former resident here — and his tragedy was cited in a Watchman editorial warning young swimmers against the use of snorkels.)

The scholarship idea was started by neighbors of the Woods in Midhurst, Ont., who hope to raise $1,000, giving an annual bursary of approximately $50. The principal of North Collegiate is enthusiastic about the fund, and will personally assist by being m.c. for a variety night November 18. All proceeds from the night will go towards the scholarship.

Researchers seeking medical breakthrough

One in a series of articles describing the Federal Health and Welfare Services Canadians get for their tax dollars.

In the war against disease, victory comes as the result of effort and energy expected. Canada today is pouring large sums of money into medical research and the outlook for significant victories is bright. As Hon. Waldo J. Monteith, Minister of Health, put it recently:

"Never before have we been in a more favourable position to look for major breakthroughs against many of those ancient enemies of man such as cancer or heart disease. Never before have we had greater opportunities for providing our people with the very best of health facilities and services. . . . Medical research holds an important key to the future welfare of Canadians."

Many tasks come under the Research heading in the routine operations of the Department of National Health and Welfare.

A new vaccine to be tested for strength and safety. A survey of diets among older Canadians. An estimate of how radioactivity has affected air, soil and food is needed. To meet such needs and others, the department's various divisions are continuously working. The Laboratory of Hygiene works to test the new vaccine. The Nutrition division undertakes the diet survey. The Radiation Profection Division begins a study of radioactivity in air, soil and food samples.

In addition to direct research of this type within the department, the department's divisions co-ordinate and consult on many research projects elsewhere. For example, the Research Development Section has the task of assisting and correlating many programs across Canada. In laboratories across the nation white-smocked men work tirelessly to find new weapons against old enemies — rheumatism, arthritis, mental illness; to discover a more effective polio vaccine, to develop more powerful and safer antibiotics.

The government, through National Health Grants of money — administered by the Department — supports the progress of these quiet wars against disease. These grants for disease research totalled $3,240,045 in 1960-61 fiscal year. Over 270 projects were involved.

Yet these figures do not tell the whole financial story. During the same year, research grants issued by all federal government departments totalled almost $10 million.

High on the list of priorities are research projects to combat infectious diseases and mental illnesses.

But much attention is being paid to ailments many persons consider minor, such as the common cold. Doctors and scientists have long blamed this apparently innocent condition for many more serious illnesses. Research to discover a cure for colds is thought to be vital and men are working on this problem as well as others.

The crusade for health seems never-ending. Many skirmishes are fought in the continuing battle against disease and death. Polio has been brought to its knees. Diabetes has been disarmed. But heart disease is still a powerful enemy. Cancer has not been beaten.

As long as these and many other diseases continue to take their toll, research must continue.

Life memberships to remaining founders on Legion's 25th birthday

On November 25 Argenteuil Branch 70 of the Royal Canadian Legion celebrates the 25th anniversary of its inception.

Twenty-five years ago this fall, a dedicated group of World War I veterans banded together to form a Legion Branch in Lachute. From the modest and auspicious beginning has sprung a strong, active and forceful branch, 200 members strong, taking its rightful place in the community and ever striving towards the fulfilment of its motto, "In War, Service to Queen and Country; In Peace, Service to Others."

There are 10 remaining charter members of the initial group, on the roll of Branch 70. Still active in business and a strength and bulwark of the branch are R. A. Giles, E. M. Jones, Chas. Duncan, Geo. Graham, T. Milnes and Geo. Leggett. Retired from business but still an activating force in the Legion are G. G. Mitchell, R. Hampton, L. Dallaire and Roy Fraser. In recognition of their 25 years of service, Branch 70 will present life memberships to these charter members on the occasion of the Anniversary Dinner. Branch 70 owes much to these dedicated men. They have been its guiding light; they placed the branch on the right road; they gave it the course and guided and watched over its trip down the route of 25 years. In later years members and veterans of World War II took over the management of the Branch, but behind them always are the benevolent fathers of its inception.

Credit for a large part of the success of Branch 70 over the past 25 years rightfully belongs to the citizens of Lachute. Being a charitable organization, the Branch has to depend on subscription and public funds for the bulk of its welfare work. All officers and members are grateful for the support the citizens of Lachute have afforded Branch 70 over the years, and extend their warm thanks. Appreciation is extended also, from the many veterans and dependents whom your generosity has enabled the local branch to assist in this period.

Join with Branch 70 in the celebration of its 25th Anniversary, and also in their prayers and hopes that the next 25 years may be equally successful.

Dissension is aired here at Liberal meet

The Argenteuil Liberal Association last week adopted a measure submitted by their executive, to relieve of their duties — Antoine Paré as president and Rolf Nelson as secretary-treasurer. Disinterest in the affairs of the Association was given as the reason for this gesture.

"It is no use hiding the dissension and uneasiness in our ranks," said Bernard Gosselin as chairman. " . . . We have here tonight the best elements of the party, men devoted to the cause of Liberalism; and I ask you accordingly, to endorse the decision taken by your directors some time ago."

Rodrigue Durocher, spokesman of the Liberal partisans in Argenteuil, urged solidarity in the interests of the party. "Our Association and the Liberal Party are democratic bodies, and as such it becomes an obligation to 'amputate' when necessary for the general health." Mr. Durocher avowed the local Liberals were in unison, despite the efforts of "five or six who would disunite us to gain domination."

By resolution of the assembly, Mr. Rolf Nelson was also asked to submit a report of finances within the next three weeks.

The members voted unanimously in favor of the executive's recommendation, conferring the presidency on Bernard Gosselin and the secretarial duties to Fernand Legault, Q.C.

Reports progress in re-location job and street upheaval at Hawkesbury

The self-reliant spirit of Hawkesbury residents has been responsible for the success of the area's relocation program — Ontario Hydro's director of property, Harry Hustler, said to a group of business men last week. The program involves construction of a main trunk sewer and lateral sewers on side streets, a new pumping station, a house-moving program, and clearance of 1,500 acres of wooded land along the Ottawa River.

The work is in preparation for new river levels caused by flooding on Quebec Hydro's Carillon power project next spring.

Mr. Hustler told members of the Eastern Ontario Development Association, who had earlier toured the power and relocation projects, that although Hydro had done everything it could to ease the situation, it was up to the people themselves to make the program a success.

"This they have done," he said. "They have demonstrated an unusual amount of self-reliance in overcoming difficulties during a period of upheaval. In one respect, their experience is unique. I understand this is the first time in Canada that a main sewer has been ripped out of the ground and replaced by a new one."

Mr. Hustler said virtually all of Hydro's property acquisition program is completed. "We're in the middle of moving houses out of the flooding area right now," he added.

The construction program, handled by consultant engineers, was on schedule. All phases under Hydro's control were on time.

One of the major problems was the effect of the sewer work on Main Street on business in downtown Hawkesbury.

"The merchants have been extremely understanding and co-operative," Mr. Hustler said. "They've worked intelligently on a problem not of their own making — and they've had a great measure of success." He referred to a promotion campaign by Hawkesbury merchants to attract business from a large area surrounding the town. Ontario Hydro built a temporary road to their own free parking lots.

Most stores held to their 1960 levels of business.

"I understand a few stores are doing even better business than last year," he said.

The program now underway will provide the elements for expansion in the future, Mr. Hustler said.

"It's up to the people what they do with their future, but from what I've seen they are not waiting for anything — they are grasping the initiative for themselves."

Liberal Assoc'n elects delegates to convention

The Argenteuil Liberal Association met last Thursday evening under chairmanship of Bernard Gosselin, and named its delegates to the Liberal Federation of the Province of Quebec, to convene at Quebec City this week-end, November 10-11-12.

The duly accredited delegates are — Rodrigue Durocher, Bernard Gosselin and Fernand Legault, Q.C. (as official spokesman, president and secretary of the Association, respectively), George Gardner, Wilfrid Morrissette, Odé Pagé, Paul Frappier, Lucien Ranger, Gaston Gagné and Willie Poulin.

Substitutes are — Maurice Pagé, Fernand Berthiaume, Gerald Vowles, L. P. Paradis, Rémi Séguin, Noël Lemay and Dollard Roy.

The agenda of the convention will include questions of electoral redistribution and electoral expenses — in addition to the election of a president to replace François Nobert at the helm of the provincial organization.

Lachute youth killed by tree at riverside camp

The untimely death of Jean Mainville, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mainville, Lachute, occurred around noon on Saturday following a mishap at the family's summer camp on the North River opposite Lachute Creamery plant. The youth, a student at l'Ecole Supérieure, was helping his father cut down a tree on their riverside lot. The falling tree caught and snapped a heavy limb on a nearby tree, which fell on the victim and crushed his skull. The boy died a few minutes later in his father's car, en route to the Providence Hospital.

The victim is survived by his parents, at their home on St. Julien Street, also two sisters, Nicole, a teacher at Ayersville, and Suzette.

Funeral was held Tuesday at 10 a.m. from the Menard Funeral Home, with rites at St. Julien Parish Church.

Keen interest in Scouting movement at Long Sault District annual meet

A rally and supper for the annual meeting of the Long Sault District Council brought together well over 100 men and women from surrounding points — a good omen for the enthusiasm of Scouting in this area. The supper, at the Legion Hall last Wednesday, was chaired by District Commissioner Mansiel Wilson, in the absence of the president, Dave Atkins, on business.

The District Commissioner welcomed the gathering. The high attendance, he felt, was a tribute to the energy of the retiring president, Mr. Atkins. Among evidence of growing interest, he acknowledged the initiative of Legion Branch 70 in taking over the sponsorship of the Scout movement in Lachute. Commissioner Wilson also read President Atkins' report for the District, including Arundel, Thurso, and Harrington; from these points there was evidence of keen participation this coming season. Five Queen's Scouts had been invested from the District in 1961. Mr. Atkins paid tribute in his report to the devotion of leaders in all groups.

Gerald Quinn, long-time and faithful secretary, gave his report on memberships and finances, and Wm. Bray, for the nominating committee, brought in the slate of officers. Messrs. Chas. Duncan and R. A. Giles led a session of community singing.

Speaker of the evening was Lt. Col. "Red" Martin, who was introduced by Field Commissioner Jim Robson. Lt. Col. Martin was described as a man of many interests, all constructive. Jim Robson touched upon his war record, professional qualifications, and particularly his role as provincial chairman of the Camping Promotion Committee.

Guest Speaker

The title of Lt. Col. Martin's address, "Grasped Hands", symbolized the aim and purpose of Scouting to stretch out to other nations with assistance and with understanding. "You are your brother's keeper" — this maxim, and the Scouting movement, had attracted many notable figures in public life, among whom special tribute was paid to the late Jackson Dodds, "a tremendous friend to the Boy Scouts of Canada".

"We have rockets, nose cones, monkeys, and men in space," said Lt. Col. Martin. "Science has advanced immeasurably, but man's relationship to man has been relegated to a rank of lesser importance.

"The Boy Scout movement would not exist without the volunteer worker," said the speaker, directing his observation to a considerable segment of the audience present. "It would be presumptuous to thank you for your selfless interest, and I know you do not want thanks." The many active helpers were urged at this point to enlist others in Boy Scout training and leadership.

Lt. Col Martin then elaborated on the promotion of camping, and described expeditions of the past season, in which Long Sault District leaders had participated. The exercises were aimed to train leaders in outdoorsmanship, resourcefulness, survival and winter camping. "Scouting is essentially an outdoor movement; its right environment is not the meeting hall or the church basement, more properly, the field, the woods and open country." Lt. Col. Martin described the aim of the project "To put OUT into Scouting". Two of these rugged experiments had taken place at the Harrington campsite in the Rouge Valley.

The speaker was thanked by District Scouter Bernard Jenkins, who had been one of those to share the exercises above referred to. Field Commissioner Jim Robson showed a brief film of a canoe camping trip on the St. Maurice River.

The new president, Jess Humphries, taking over the chair, expressed his pleasure at the high enthusiasm, and paid special tribute to the ladies (both wives and leaders) for their co-operation. He looked forward to a year of encouraging progress.

Year's Officers

New officers for the Long Sault District are as follows:

Past-President, D. N. Atkins; president, J. W. Humphries; vice-president, Clyde Reynolds; treasurer, C. Richardson; secretary, Gerald Quinn.

Rivington winger plays for RCAF in West Berlin

Metz, France — Leading Aircraftman Alvin D. McVicar, 25, of Rivington, Que., is a member of the RCAF Flyers hockey team which played a two-game series in West Berlin at the end of October. The team, stationed at the RCAF's 3 Fighter Wing, Zweibrucken, Germany, played against all-star teams formed from top players in the divided city, at the invitation of the German Ice Hockey Federation.

LAC Alvin D. McVicar

LAC McVicar, a supply technician at 3 Fighter Wing, plays right wing for the Flyers. This was his first trip to West Berlin although the team itself played two games there two years ago, winning both contests.

Formed in late 1953, the Flyers have become one of Europe's most popular teams, in demand in all hockey circles on the Continent. While not a member of the German National Ice Hockey Federation, the Flyers play a number of exhibition games with German teams as well as with squads from other countries.

LAC McVicar is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor McVicar of R.R. 1, Rivington. He is married to the former Rubena Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Young of Montebello; they have one child.

Dr. L. Middleton new alderman in E. Ward seat

Dr. L. A. Middleton, physician on Grace Street East, was elected by acclamation as alderman for Seat No. 1, East Ward. The nomination was submitted Monday at town hall, to fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of Ald. Stanley Holt.

This was the second call for nominations, no candidate having come forward for this seat on the appointed nomination date, October 26.

Police investigate recent theft from parked cars

Three overnight guests at a local hostelry awoke to an unpleasant surprise on Thursday morning last, when they discovered their cars looted to a total loss of some $500. The robberies apparently took place between midnight and 4 a.m., according to Q.P.P. Officer Richard Dubé, who investigated.

Reporting the robberies were Jean Corbeil, of Aylmer, Que., who stated he lost articles totalling $250; H. S. Billings, of Quebec City, who placed a value of $180 on his loss; and Marcel Beluse, of Pierrefonds, who estimated his loss at $90.

The robberies are under investigation of the Q.P.P. local detachment.

Bingo to boost Lions Club funds for welfare work

First of this season's fund-raising efforts by the Lions Club is a "silver dollar bingo" at Lachute Auditorium next Thursday, November 16. In addition to the fun and excitement of the evening for substantial silver-dollar prizes, there is a star attraction for the ladies — a special card for a mink stole, valued at $250. The admission price entitles players to 10 bingo games.

The Lions hope by this effort to raise a worthwhile sum towards their community funds. These provide aid in many phases of family and individual need, both physical and educational. The major recreation project of the Lions — the community skating rink, now embarking on another active season — is an enterprise which pays off immeasurably in wholesome sport and pleasure, for both children and adults. This community asset, however, needs funds to finance its operations; and public support at the coming bingo and similar events this season, will encourage the service club in its efforts. "Help the Lions to help others" is the appropriate slogan in publicizing this event.

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Perch fishing has been very rewarding this past couple of weeks. Excellent fish are being taken. Some of them are in the pound-and-over class. Sure, a lot of smaller ones turn up, but these need not be kept. The Northerns have not been hitting at all; no matter what lures were used, they just were not interested. From our knowledge of the North River and the time these fish should be striking, the Northerns should have been hitting like crazy right now. However, they are still waiting, and it is possible they will start battling. Let's hope so.

A couple of local sportsmen have been out watching the trout spawning. This is a good indication — seeing things like this, they are not as inclined to take more than they can use. This is a sight that should be seen by everyone possible. During times like this the fish will hit anything that comes near the grounds — so you can see it takes a sportsman to exercise restraint.

I have been told of a moose that was shot near Morin Heights. It was supposed to have been shot the first week of the deer season. Actually, I haven't been able to pin down just where, but it is more than possible. After all, if our supposed hunters will shoot pet cats, and a valuable horse — a moose would be a still easier target.

As regards the deer, fewer animals have been going out through Lachute than for several years past.

The rabbits are grand eating right now, very fat, and not too stringy. Also a point that I observed when skinning one of them. These animals have very thin fur, for the time of year. Also the "snow shoes" have no webs of fur between their toes. On other occasions when this has happened, it has turned out to be a mild winter. Could be that I'm getting to be a weather prophet too! Joking aside, this is not just a thought, but fact, about the rabbits.

Muskrats are very much in evidence along the North River. Maybe they have been there all summer but just weren't showing themselves. Squirrels are also having a good time. Even though a lot of them have been killed by cars, hunters, etc., they still seem to be surviving in a big way. Not too many of the black variety can be seen; as these are much bigger than the others, it is natural that they should be shot first.

A couple of the boys were here for information on winter camping; they intend to try it all winter. In winter camping a lot of new tactics have to be used, and so much different equipment (stoves, sleeping bags, winter clothing, etc.) that it will take me some time to make up a list. Anyone wanting a copy can give me a call, and if possible I will include it in a future column. I think this sport will really catch on among the outdoorsmen; and strange as it may seem, more and more people are starting this sport, with not too severe hardships.

I am happy to say that the lynx are still with us. How many, of course, would be hard to say. Some of them will have been shot by our supposed hunters, but not all of them. One gentleman on his way to work from Dunany told me that he sees them often on the road. From his talk they do not seem to be too scary. Animals are very funny, if they see no harm is intended, then they become almost tame.

I also heard of another man on his way to work who spotted three deer in a field. Seeing them, he tore home for his gun. You know what happened by the time he got back though. It is a safe bet that some speed limits were broken. . .

I can remember a long time ago, how a gang of us went out after deer. When we left Montreal for this jaunt, it was agreed no one would shoot anything except deer. Well, to make a long story short, a deer was shot, but it was not alive when we shot at it. Someone had leaned it up against a tree while he had gone for help to get it out of the woods! I often wonder what the fellow thought when he got back to his deer and saw all the holes in it. This happened many years ago — in Rattle Snake Harbour, or that is the only name I know it by.

While driving along the road this morning, I stopped the car to watch five partridge — one cock-bird and four hens. They were pecking the seed along the road and didn't even stop pecking when I drove up. It is queer how at times these birds are so wary you can't even get within gunshot range, while at other times you can almost hit them with a stick. As a matter of fact, all animals seem variable like this.

I have been asked by a couple of hunters why so much land is Private and Posted. I referred them to Sunnyacres in a recent issue of The Watchman. That should answer questions in anyone's mind. It is to be hoped this will develop into an organized effort — then maybe we won't have so many poachers running loose.

Jacklighting is still being carried on around the Dunany Road, but less than in former years. I think the reason so much of this takes place in the Dunany area is the blueberry marsh just before you get to the turn off from the main road. There are deer in this area, and I don't mind saying it, because very few people get into this place when after deer. The terrain is pretty rugged and soupy.

This is another reminder to you boat owners. How about taking another look at the forms on which you have placed your boats? I've seen a couple of these in my travels, and one of them in particular had slipped over on its side. If left any length of time, this boat will warp, even though it is fibreglass. Boats today are not cheap, and it is well worthwhile to make sure they are looked after. Even if you have all the money in the world, you still will be out of luck come the spring. Not too much damage will have been done to any boats at this time, but with the weight of snow this winter, you may be out a boat!

Thanks to readers who have given us tips on how to "deodorize" Goldie, the dog. All these have been tried and I must say the smell has subsided a little. It has to; the junk that has been applied to her hide — the skunk smell would have to beat it in self-defence. Thank you, all.

---

Some of the birds around Lachute sure are surprising. I think any of you who have feeders out will have seen some of these—crowned sparrows, wrens, tree sparrows, and so on. Most of these birds are not native to our part of the country — at least not thus far. Evidently this has changed, and we can look forward to seeing a lot more varieties during the winter than formerly.

Ladies' curling starts Monday at local club

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Ladies' Curling Club was held in the clubroom on Monday, with the president, Mrs. A. M. Vessie, in the chair.

Plans were made for curling to begin on Monday next, November 13. The first event will be the doubles competition.

This year the ladies have arranged an invitation bonspiel, 32 rinks having been invited. The bonspiel starts on Monday, November 20, and finishes on Friday, November 24. Mrs. E. H. Wilson has very kindly donated a trophy for this event, to be competed for annually.

Tea will be served each day, and members are invited to come and welcome the visitors, watch the games and have tea.

New town league to play schedule on Lions' Rink

A hockey league of Intermediate status, for amateur players over 18, has been formed here consisting of four clubs — Champlain, Textile Workers, Dow and Ayersville All-Stars. President is René Matte, Main Street business man, and a close collaborator in publicity and organization is Marcel Therien, of "L'Argenteuil" staff.

The teams (it is insisted) will be strictly of amateur ranking — with absolutely no remuneration to either players or referees.

The "Lachute Amateur Hockey League" will commence activities Monday, November 13, at 7.30 p.m., Textiles playing Dow; and at 9.15 Ayersville will meet Champlain. All games will be at the Lions Club rink, and the schedule will continue on Monday and Wednesday evenings of each week.

The assistance of at least four officials is sought by René Matte and his directors — these volunteers to serve in rotation, as timekeepers, etc., from 7.30 to 10.15 p.m. on the nights required.

Of Many Things

THE NUCLEAR BOMBS

It is a sad thing that in homes across the nation there are discussions about whether or not to build fallout shelters, how much food to stock for survival, and all the rest of it. What a terrible impression this must make on the minds and hearts of children. Even adults are feeling the strain of such threats far more than they realize, particularly the women who by their very nature, are even more protective toward their children than are men.

Nehru, of India, said of the recent Russian tests that they "not only contaminate the atmosphere, but pollute the hearts and minds of people everywhere."

One organization, The Voice of Women, has protested directly to Mrs. Khrushchev. This was a wise move. Far too many organizations have done their protesting in the wrong place, to governments which have no intention of starting a nuclear war, and no desire to resume testing.

Russia's testing of the monstrous bombs apparently has no military advantage. The purpose is purely psychological, an attempt to fill the rest of the world with terror so that Russia can make all the demands it wants. Russia hopes that with the air filled with fallout, we'll all begin to echo the slogan, "Better be Red than Dead". If Russia only knew it, however, her tactics are leading free peoples to drop that slogan for a new one, "Better be neither than either".

Unfortunately, these senseless tests are provoking hatred of the Russian people. Chances are good that the Russian people deplore these tests as much as we do, if they know about them. Indeed, Russian citizens are likely to suffer more from the fallout than those in other countries. But what can they do about it? They are not able to vote their government out of power. Even to criticize is dangerous for them. Their every thought and action is planned for them, from the top down, by the Kremlin. We should pity them rather than hate them.

Masses of people are seldom vicious. Only powerful leaders grow vicious. That is why power should always be limited. The day will come when the mass of humanity will refuse to give to governments any but the most limited power. Until that day does come, there will always be a danger that power-hungry individuals will attempt to rule the world.

Officers, committees named by Golf Club ladies' section

The closing meeting of the ladies' branch of the Lachute Golf Club was held Wednesday night, November 1, with the vice-president, Mrs. Howard Watson, in the chair.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. J. E. Leonard, president, who resigned because of illness. The members wish her a speedy recovery.

The nominating committee proposed their new slate of officers for the year 1962, as follows:

Scouting activities

BROWNSBURG GROUP COMMITTEE

Brownsburg — The Paper Drive on October 14 was successful. The committee appreciates the efforts of those who assisted in making it a success, and particularly the work of Stan Seary, who was in charge of arrangements.

Scout and Cub hockey was started on October 28. The Scouts will have the use of the rink at 9 a.m. and the Cubs at 10 a.m. each Saturday.

The committee was pleased to learn that four new assistant leaders have consented to help in Scout and Cub work. These include Alan Dewar, Assistant Scout Leader; Gerry Izzard, Peter Schaffeler, and Linton Tomalty, Assistant Cub Leaders.

Don Graham, the committee chairman, attended the annual Scouters' conference at Ste. Agathe on October 13-14. He found the conference both interesting and informative.

A father-and-son banquet is planned during Baden Powell Week, in February next year.

The Boy Scouts of Canada propose to publish a magazine for Scouts and Cubs, starting in August 1962. This magazine will be sent by mail to all registered members of the Boy Scouts of Canada. The cost for subscription will be 50c a year, to cover postage expense.

Convention film shown at Rotary

At the meeting of Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club last week there was a full-house attendance. The members were each treated to two cigars after the meal by Peter Denker and Larry Pressault, who had both become fathers of baby girls during the week.

After the celebrations film strips of the first Rotary International convention to be held in Asia, were shown by Arne Petersen and Fred Royal. The convention was the largest ever held in Japan, and also was the largest Rotary convention, with a paid registration of 23,378. The convention was from May 28 to June 1, and for the first time in Rotary history, large portions of the sessions were televised nationally in the host country; simultaneous interpretation was provided, and closed-circuit television was used. A fleet of 280 buses, 2,000 cars and a steamship, the "SS Tachibana Maru", were used to transport the throng to the vast Harumi convention hall in Tokyo, Japan. An Asian Rotarian, Nitish C. Laharry, of Calcutta, India, was elected president for 1962-63, and began a year of preparation before succeeding Joseph A. Abey of Reading, Pennsylvania, as Rotary's chief. Press and other news media coverage was unsurpassed in Rotary annals, especially when the Emperor of Japan broke precedent by addressing an international gathering of a non-Government organization. Japan issued a Rotary postage stamp. . . .

In the world's largest city, more banners, more welcome signs, more awareness by the public of a Rotary convention was in evidence (according to convention veterans) than at any time in Rotary's history — an awareness reflected throughout Japan. On the giant stage of Harumi convention hall, more than 900 of Japan's most famed dancers and actors — in two major shows and various smaller performances of ancient and modern entertainment — represented the greatest assemblage of talent ever brought together in Japan. The list of "firsts" seemed inexhaustible, and Japanese newspapers vied with each other in discovering new ones!

Junior champion at 4-H Day

The Cold War

We have lived through wars that were ghastly, cruel,
When our soldiers marched away,
When hearts often bled
And the blood flowed red,
As heroes fell in the fray.

We have seen them march home with gallant tread,
Proud of the deeds they had done;
But their hearts were sad
For the other lads
Who had fallen by a gun.

When the war was o'er we had witnessed peace,
That we thought would last for aye,
But the Cold War came
With its drastic flame,
And took that glad peace away.

Only the hands that have borne the nails,
Can lift the load of pain;
Would we turn to Him
When all hopes grow dim,
He could bring back peace again.

— Ethel Kettyle,
Nov, 1961 Brownsburg, Que.

Express transit change announced

Andrew Cleland, local Canadian Pacific Express manager, reports that a contract with Boyd's Express Ltd. has been signed to carry all express from Montreal to Ottawa. This will eliminate express on the trains, and is eventually expected to speed up the travelling time between the two centres.

Terminal for the C.P. Express contract is Lachute. Express will be received from Montreal around 8 a.m. and 12.45 p.m.; will depart for Montreal every week-night except Saturday at 5.30 p.m., and for Montreal daily at 3 p.m.

The Express Office will be closed nightly at six o'clock.

Diary of a Vagabond

A TARGET FOR CHAIN LETTERS

Ever been haunted by what might happen if you failed to follow the instructions in a chain letter? Have you lost friends and become as popular as a skunk at a garden party, because that stupid quality in the makeup of most humans prodded you to select victims on which to cast your burden of superstition?

I have been the fall guy for every type of chain letter that was ever launched. Only one paid off. I did get back two tea towels for one out of a promised 48. I still wonder what happened to $5.00 that, during the depression, was supposed to fish me a fortune from several hundred pocketbooks if the letter was kept going. It must have died in the waste paper baskets of my chosen list of "friends or acquaintances". Wonder what, of the five names listed at the head of the letter, each did with the dollar I enclosed.

Most tear jerking was the "prayer for our armed forces" which came my way during the second world war. Whoever invented the letter must have been a religious maniac. It distressed me for days, just thinking about it lying in a charred fragment on the hearth of the livingroom fireplace. To me this letter was sacrilege, yet how could I, with a son on the high seas in the Royal Canadian Navy, help but be disturbed by its contents. I was supposed to send the prayer to 20 people, yet the person who had sent it to me remained incognito.

I have been the target for apron, nylon, cigarette and paperback novel letters, but it remained for 1961 to produce a constructive chain letter with no strings attached. My mother wouldn't die of a heart attack, or my son be run over by a truck if I failed to keep the chain going. There was no monetary contribution to make, just send my favorite recipe to the two names at the head of the letter and to four of my friends. I was promised 16 recipes if I kept the chain going.

This type of letter I could endure, chiefly because it provided an opportunity for me to circulate a recipe I once begged a CN chef on the prairie-bound Super Continental to give me, but also because "CN Sweet and Sour Spareribs, Western Style" deserves to be family fare. A good recipe once launched will travel fast, even without the aid of a chain letter.

In case the curiosity of indoor, or outdoor cooks has been aroused, here it is:

CN Sweet and Sour Spareribs "Western Style"

½ Cup brown sugar, ¾ cup vinegar, juice of a 15 oz. can of pineapple chunks, 1½ lbs. pork spareribs (cut in 1" pieces), ½ tsp. salt, 2 fresh tomatoes (cut in small pieces, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¾ cup water, 1 oz sesame seeds (toasted), 2 cups rice, 2 tablespoons molasses.

Soak spareribs overnight in a mixture of brown sugar, pineapple juice and vinegar. Drain spareribs dry and fry until brown in ¼ cup of oil. Remove spareribs to saucepan, add pineapple chunks and molasses. Sprinkle fry pan with a little flour and mix well over light heat until brown, then add mixture of vinegar and pineapple juice, bring to a boil and pour over spareribs in saucepan. Boil this and simmer slowly, add tomatoes and simmer until spareribs are nearly cooked. Add cornstarch to thicken and leave until cooked. Season to taste. Serve in casserole lined with steamed rice, sprinkle with toasted sesame seeds.

Deficit an Investment

This is not intended to reduce the chronicles of a Vagabond's travel to a recipe exchange. I suppose I was reminded of the chain letter and a pudgy chef while reading President Donald Gordon's report to the Federal Government's Railway Committee, that every meal served on CN diners costs the Canadian taxpayer 88c.

This is typical of Mr. Gordon's forthrightness. Burly Scot that he is, he never pulls punches, or hides facts. He is at the helm of a railroad the people of Canada own. He loses 88c, along with every section foreman, or clerk in a shop. This kind of deficit shows no favorites.

What Mr. Gordon did not say at this time is that the railway has only one means of wooing passenger traffic back onto the rails — it must provide service. Train meals are the "amusement factor" in most journeys — an opportunity for the traveler to spend time in an atmosphere of excellent cuisine and good service. Our vanity likes to be indulged and our traveling dollar demands this.

Not every appetite will be satisfied with sweet and sour spareribs. Though the dollar sign on the menu would suggest that the price of a steak dinner should cover all overhead, the circumstances under which a train meal must be prepared, cuts any profit the ante might be expected to produce.

I was interested in a statement Wallis, the Duchess of Windsor, made in her current column published in McCall's Magazine. She said she and "the Duke" prefer to travel by train. But, and this is the point, she bemoaned the fact that United States railways are not trying hard enough to promote their passenger service or to hold it.

Our railways are providing good meals, clean cars and courteous service. This all costs money. I, along with many, think in ten years' time, when traffic arteries are a misery to navigate in the family car, travel by rail will be used more widely and appreciated. That is — if the standard of service is kept high. This, I believe as a taxpayer, is a good investment.

Brownsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacAdam returned last week from Calgary, where they were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Ray Taylor, Mr. Taylor and family.

Women's Institute

Mr. Wm. Steeves, young lawyer of Lachute, was guest speaker at the Women's Institute meeting, held last Thursday evening; he spoke on the subject of "Wills". The number of questions asked later, proved the interest of his audience. Mr. King Amos and the teaching staff of Brownsburg High School were also guests at this meeting.

During the business session it was decided to purchase a poppy wreath to be placed at the Cenotaph on November 11, and also to send a donation of $5 to "Care". Mrs. Lemuel Wilson, convener of Health and Welfare, reported visiting the Power Hospital at St. Philippe and plans are being made to visit again in the near future. Mrs. Wilson also read a letter from a Lachute resident commending the Brownsburg W.I. for sponsoring the recent entertainment for the Senior Citizens of this town.

Mrs. Clinic, of Fredericton, N.B., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Brent Connelly and Mr. Connelly.

Mrs. J. T. Seary returned home this week after visiting in LaSalle Heights and Rosemount.

MINSHALL (Verda) — At the Montreal General Hospital, Nov. 4, 1961, Verda Kettyle, beloved wife of Charles Keith Minshall, mother of David and sister of Hazel (Mrs. R. Tipping, of Coldwater, Ont.). Funeral held Tuesday from D. A. Collins Chapel, Pointe Claire; interment at Lachute Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

HOARE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Harlow, accidentally killed on Nov. 12, 1954. — Always remembered by Mother, Pearl, Ruby, George and Willie.

"On a road that's calm and peaceful,
Guided by God's loving hand,
You have gone upon a journey
To a fairer, brighter land.
Not a day do we forget you,
In our hearts you are always near,
God alone knows how much we miss you
As it ends another year."

MOLYNEUX — In loving memory of our dear sister, Mattie, who passed away Nov. 13, 1960. — Sadly missed by Irene, Tommy and family.

"Beyond the sunset, O glad reunion,
When we meet with our loved ones who have gone before."

McRAE — In loving memory of Wyman, who passed away Nov. 9, 1954. — Always remembered by the family.

"Like falling leaves the years go by,
But loving memories never die."

SEARY — In loving memory of my dear husband, John T. (Jack) Seary, who passed away Nov. 10, 1958. — Still loved and missed by his loving wife, Gert.

"Beautiful memories are treasured forever
Of happy days when we were together."

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

YOUNG — The family of the late Joseph James Young wish to express sincerest thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from many neighbors, friends and relatives, in their recent bereavement in the loss of a beloved father. ## Local Association of Girl Guides and Brownies

Just what is the "Local Association" — that seems to be the general question. The L.A. is a "mothers' group" formed to help the Guides and Brownies in any way possible. The Guide movement needs conscientious leaders, whose main interest is the Guides and Brownies. The leaders need yearly training so they may find new ways to hold the interest of the girls, and in order to have a successful Guide movement in the community, the support of the mothers is important. . . . So it is up to the L.A. to plan sales to help raise money.

Some of the leaders were privileged to attend a training session this past week-end in Lachute.

At present a White Elephant and Jewelry sale is being planned for December.

The next L.A. meeting will be on Thursday, November 16, at 7.45 at St. Simeon's Anglican Church. . . Parents please try to attend and hear the latest news and future plans of your Guides and Brownies. The organization also needs an interested mother who will become chairman of the L.A.

Catholic Women's League meeting

The Catholic Women's League of Lachute held a monthly meeting on November 6, presided over by Mrs. Leonard Bedard.

Minutes of the last general meeting and the executive session were read by Mrs. Cora Stephens. Mrs. Martel gave a detailed financial report. Among the reports handed in was that of the rummage sale convened by Mrs. George Lowe, who voiced a word of appreciation to those who had assisted in any way.

The pilgrimage to the Shrine in October drew a good attendance, as well as the Forty Hours devotions at Ste. Anastasie Church on October 4. On December 7 a mission will take place in the basement of Ste. Anastasie Church, with Father A. Baillargeon, O.M.I., in attendance — the mission to end on Sunday morning, December 10.

All English Catholics are welcome. Any information regarding the League magazine should be referred to Mrs. Peters and any used magazines forwarded to Mrs. R. Hebert.

A motion was passed to have a Christmas party for the members' children on December 17, with Mrs. Malette as convener. Mrs. C. Robinson will convene the tickets for the Christmas cake raffle — part of the proceeds of which will be donated to the CNIB.

The members were asked to assist at the cancer-dressing sessions during the coming season, and study club was also discussed. The meeting closed with prayer.

Legion Auxiliary held meeting

The November meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Branch 70, Canadian Legion, was held on Monday evening.

The first vice-president, Mrs. S. Bradshaw, was in the chair. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read by Mrs. R. Thorburn and Mrs. Ian MacDougall, respectively.

Plans were discussed regarding the Armistice Dinner, to be held this Saturday. A military whist will be held Wednesday, November 29, this being the last until January. Proceeds of the whist will go to the Lachute Local Association of Guides and Brownies.

Next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Monday, December 4, this being the Christmas meeting. All members are kindly asked to attend.

The meeting closed with the singing of "The Queen". Refreshments were served by the hostessses, Mrs. K. Kettyle and Mrs. J. Pillage.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Bob Underwood, of Scarboro, Ont., was the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. R. Skinner and Mr. Skinner, and also visited other relatives in this district.

Mrs. Eileen Lagar, Town of Mount Royal, spent a few days last week as the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Callicott.

Mr. and Mrs. Ord Anderson motored to Lake George, N.Y., on Sunday and were met by the latter's mother, Mrs. Harder, who returned with them after spending the past several weeks in White Plains, N.Y.

Church Suppers Held

In preparation for the every-member visitation on Sunday, November 19, in connection with the Sector Plan — a congregational supper was held Wednesday of last week at the Masonic Hall for members of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church; about 200 attended. . . . A similar function was held at the Hall last Monday by St. Simeon's Anglican Church, with over 140 attending.

From inspirational and social angles, both these events proved most gratifying.

Mrs. John MacKimmie spent last week-end visiting friends in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Parker were in Montreal last Sunday to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Jas. Parker, and sister, Miss Freda Parker. They were also joined by their daughter, Miss Carol, who is presently at the Children's Memorial Hospital in her nurse's training course.

Mr. Ron Cairns was home from Clarkson College to spend the week-end with his parents.

Joins Staff of Thurso Pulp & Paper Company

Doug Morrison, who has looked after pulpwood purchasing and extension forestry in the Grenville office of C.I.P. for several years, has left the employ of the Company for a position with the Thurso Pulp and Paper Company at Thurso, Que. Doug has always carried out his duties with efficiency and cheerfulness, and his unfailing good nature has made dealing with him a pleasure. Extension forestry work in the Grenville Division will now be carried out by Jaaap Salm of Harrington Forest Farm.

— C.I.P. Woods Notes

Dr. G. R. Rigby will be guest speaker of the Lake of Two Mountains Home and School Association, November 20 at St. Eustache. His topic will be the historical background of the lower Ottawa Valley, and he will show slides of the area to be flooded by the Carillon power development.

Old Friend Mourned

Numerous friends hereabouts regret the passing of Mrs. G. K. Minshall, of Pointe Claire — the former Verda (Kettyle) Morris of Lachute — who lived many years in this community and was actively engaged in church and welfare work. . . Many were present for the committal service at Lachute Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by her former pastor, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

In Essay Contest

Bobby Dawson, age 12, of Paquin Ave., Lachute, won a consolation prize among senior-class entrants in a Cat Essay competition held recently by the Montreal Cat Fanciers' Association. . . . Nearly 200 children from Greater Montreal entered the contest, and the essays were ranked by three judges, Leslie Roberts, Beatrice Munroe Brown and Gerald Iles.

Arg. bridge league attracts seasoned card players

The third meeting of the Argenteuil Bridge League will take place Monday, November 13, at Lachute Legion Hall. Boards will be dealt at 8 p.m. sharp, so players are urged to arrive 15 minutes or more in advance.

The league is shaping up as a good outlet for the enthusiastic bridge players hereabouts to test their skills. Duplicate bridge, of course, eliminates most of, but not all of, the luck involved. (If you win it was skill, if you lose it was luck.) It is fairly safe to say though, that the good players will win the individual tournaments and the best player will be the season's champion.

There is no resentment, of course, to the best players winning the championships, but it is felt that the same players will be regular tournament winners. As in bowling or most games of skill, a handicap system has been devised to give the average or novice player a chance at the tournament prizes. Season championships will not be affected by the handicap system.

First tournament winners were:
North-South — Mrs. L. Ayers and Mrs. G. Muir.
East-West — Mrs. G. Guilbert and Mrs. M. Carriere.

Second tournament winners were:
North-South — Mrs. Peverly and Mrs. Porter.
East-West — Mr. and Mrs. R. Courtien.

Christmas chorale by Arg. Choral Society

The Argenteuil Choral Society is preparing its program for a Christmas chorale, to be held in Lachute United Church on Sunday evening, December 17. Rehearsals are being held each Sunday afternoon at the church, starting at 2 o'clock.

Members of the society and interested singers are invited to attend. All information may be had from Mrs. Mason Crosby, president, of Brownsburg; Mr. Bernard Hewitt, secretary, of Lachute; or from the director, Mr. L. O. Hopkins.

APPRECIATION

I would like to express my thanks to friends and relatives for flowers, cards and gifts, and special thanks to Mr. R. A. Giles, during my recent stay in hospital.

— Mrs. E. Daigleish

Reception held at Sir John's Lake

Last Saturday a reception and cocktail party was held at the clubhouse at Sir John's Lake Club, to celebrate the sale of the 50th "estate" by Sir John's Lake Estates Ltd.

There were approximately 130 guests who were received by the president, Mr. Norman Romer. The latter announced that recent sales had brought the total to over 60 home-sites sold since this property was opened at the end of July last year. Over five miles of new roads have been built through the virgin bush, including one to the top of the "look-out"; this spot provides not only a bird's-eye view of the lovely lake, but also includes the Shrine and University of Montreal, and a splendid view of the mountains to the north and to the south in the United States.

A drawing was held for a model home to be built by the Club on the property of the winner, the ticket being drawn by Mr. J. E. Bourbonniere, promoter of Bourbonniere Camps on the North River, who has built himself an attractive log-cabin "hide-away" on Sir John's Lake. The lucky winners were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Tippet, of 68 Strathearn Ave., North, Montreal West.

An additional prize of a field-stone fireplace was offered by Geo. Riddell & Sons, local contractors who have built all the homes at Sir John's Lake Estates to date, and who currently have nine winterized homes contracted for delivery by next summer. This was won by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dempster, of 100 Hislop Ave., Montreal.

Sir John's Lake Club and Estates, one of the newest developments in this district, is bringing a fine calibre of new residents into the community.

APPRECIATION

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to friends, relatives and neighbors for the many cards, flowers and good wishes I received during the time of my accident.

— Mrs. Edgar Morrow

Pledged vows at United Church

Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacKenzie Haldimand, photographed following their wedding in Lachute United Church last Saturday, November 4. The bride is the former Constance Diane Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Rowe, Lachute. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival M. Haldimand, of Montreal. The couple will reside in Lachute.

NOTICE TO FRIENDS

In past years I have mailed several thousand Christmas and New Year's greeting cards — usually finding, afterwards, that several persons had been overlooked.

My wife and I have decided to confine our greetings to the medium of this newspaper . . . Until our Christmas and New Year's message, we both take this opportunity to extend best wishes to those who may be celebrating birthdays or anniversaries.

Thought for Remembrance Day

IT WOULD REQUIRE a long stretch of imagination to formulate the chronicles of the next war — a nuclear holocaust. God forbid that any shall be written, in our time or in the generations that succeed us.

The last two global wars, however, have left their poignant records. Even the official reports, ungarnished by literary suspense, undramatized for sales appeal, are grim and fearful. Passages from these records haunt our memory. They come to mind when certain incidents occur — like one last week, when Separatist fanatics defaced the national war memorial at Ottawa with lurid slogans; and when a Separatist speaker in a Quebec secondary school was hailed with a cry, "Give us the guns!"

World-wide indignation has been aroused by Khruschev and the Soviet nuclear testing; but no more hopeful for humanity is this temperament displayed by perverts of a Quebec ideology — especially young zealots who vandalize and demonstrate before they stop to think. Under-age idiots who would cry "Give us the guns!" should read the records of former wars, especially those bloody conflicts within living memory. The following passage, from The Watchman of 25 years ago, is a livid example. Referring to World War I, 1914-18, it states:

"On dark nights before one of the great 'pushes' along the Western Front, men were sent to set out row upon row of round, white-painted posts across the shell-torn wastes of No Man's Land. These posts were put there to guide the walking wounded back to their own lines. After a push started, you could see them slippery with gore as shattered men struggled painfully from one post to the next, often dragging mangled limbs behind them. At the end of each line of posts, Red Cross outfits gathered their pathetic human cargo and trucked it off to the stinking, overburdened base hospitals."

Schools suffer growing pains

THE QUEBEC Bureau of Statistics has just published a study of the finances of school corporations in the Province of Quebec. This study, which covers the years 1951 to 1960, brings to light the following facts which should prove of interest to taxpayers. . .

During this period, the debenture debt of school corporations rose from $53 million to $342 million while capital expenditure increased from $212 million to $735 million. The debenture debt therefore multiplied 6.4 times and capital expenditure 3.5 times.

Revenue amounted to $238 millions in 1960, an amount 3.4 times higher than the $69 millions figure of 1951. Real estate tax accounted for 59% of current revenue for 1951 while grants and sales tax amounted to 23% and 12% respectively. On the other hand, in 1960 the real estate tax represented 48% of current revenue while grants and sales tax contributed 30% and 16% respectively.

Again during the 1951 to 1960 period, expenditure covering administration costs, salaries, maintenance, transportation, debt redemption and interest multiplied 3.4 times, rising from $68 millions to $240 milions. It is noteworthy that funds assigned to debt redemption and interest reached $52.8 millions in 1960 as compared with $5.9 millions in 1961. Thus, the proportion of the budget allotted for these items grew from 8.4% to 22%.

In addition to statistics of a strictly financial nature, this study includes information concerning the number of school corporations, pupils, teachers and average salaries paid, etc.

Health officials on nuclear fallout

ONE REASSURING voice was heard last week on the possible effects of nuclear fallout . . . Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, said there is no real cause for worry in Canada over the radioactive dust from the current Russian nuclear tests.

"I don't want to gloss over the seriousness of the matter but, as yet, even with the explosion of a 50-megaton bomb, there is no real cause for worry," he said.

Dr. Zimmerman compared the current tests with those conducted in 1958 by the United States. He said fallout was not as heavy as it was then. He quoted figures of the British Medical Council to show that the 1958 radioactivity amounted to about 10 per cent of what people are always exposed to from natural sources. A dose 20 times as great as the natural radioactivity in the elements would cause sickness but no deaths, he contended.

Health department officials reported that so far Canada's milk supplies have not been contaminated by the fallout. At present, levels were not a hazard to the health of humans, animals, birds or other forms of life.

But federal health officials are uncertain about what the future will hold if Soviet explosions are continued over a long period of time. They admit that science as yet cannot state precisely at what level fallout from a nuclear explosion will become a danger to health. There was a tendency, they said, for the public to confuse the effects of a local nuclear strike with fallout from testing of nuclear weapons. . . . Radiation in the immediate area of a nuclear explosion is very high and can cause death to those who survive the blast itself. The best way for individuals in this position to survive is to build a fallout shelter. However, fallout from a distant nuclear explosion consists of fission products shot high in the atmosphere. These remain suspended in the atmosphere for periods ranging from days to years.

The radioactive materials in the atmosphere are of two types. There are short-lived products which decay over a brief period, and long-lived ones which remain active for many years.

Increases in the levels of fallout in air samples are caused mainly by the short-lived fission products. These disintegrate quickly and fallout levels drop almost as quickly as they build up.

Because the short-lived products retain their strength for only a short period, they have not in the past been considered a health hazard. However, this picture has changed as a result of the frequency of Russian nuclear explosions. Knowledge is incomplete concerning the possible effects on health of high levels of these short-lived products.

The Federal Health Department is giving this matter the serious attention it deserves.

Viewpoints and perspectives

BETTER DEAL ON PENSIONS. — Several of Canada's life insurance companies are getting set to buy more common stocks. Their aim is to make pension premiums produce bigger pensions, reports Paul S. Deacon, in the Financial Post.

They can do this, they believe, by investing more of the pension money they get in equities rather than just in fixed interest investments such as bonds and mortgages. Their main pension fund competitors, such as the trust companies, have been doing this for several years now. But most life companies have been operating under laws which, until this year, effectively blocked their making more than a very small investment in common stocks in relation to their total assets.

Now, investment regulations governing life firms allow much more flexibility. So the insurance men are setting out to win a bigger share of Canada's pension business, armed with the type of plan which had given their competitors a big edge heretofore in the pension field, plus some refinements of their own. With the aid of their big and aggressive sales forces, the life firms are expected to make the pension business more competitive than ever.

To curb hunting abuses in Gore, Wentworth, Mille Isles

(TO THE EDITOR)

Ste. Anne's, Que.
November 1, 1961.

Editor, Lachute Watchman
Sir:

I would ask the courtesy of the publication of this letter on a matter of public concern.

Recently, I wrote the Council of the Municipality of Gore, asking it to take whatever legal steps were possible to restrain hunting in their territory. I asked for this action for the following public reasons —

(1) Some weeks ago, when my husband was driving along one of the back roads, a shot hit the windshield of the car. It made a small hole, but did not penetrate. Otherwise, he would have been killed, the bullet-hole being in line with the heart.

(2) Some French-speaking hunters, on October 8, shot a pet cat of the household, a few yards from the garage. This was done knowingly and viciously, as an act of revenge, because they had just been told they could not hunt on the property.

(3) On October 29, we found the remains of a lunch-fire in deep woods, near the little lake on our property, about half a mile from the house.

(4) On the same date, we posted the land at the back, at some risk, as three shots from the Fraser property were uncomfortably close.

(5) In general, it is unsafe to walk on our land, or even on the road, during the hunting season.

I am told that, since it must work in a democratic society, that the Council would be greatly helped in putting down this invasion of killers, by an expression of public feeling.

Accordingly, I urge the people of the municipalities of Gore, Wentworth, and Mille Isles to write, or otherwise contact their respective Councils, giving them the facts which they need for legal action. I mean acts of wanton cruelty, recklessness, and disregard of the rights of property owners. We know of such incidents, but can complain only of what we ourselves suffer.

If a concerted effort is made, some action can be taken. We know of one area where the inhabitants have successfully curbed hunting. There is also the possibility of police patrol on posted land. We hear, second-hand, that such an offer was made by police, but was never answered by any municipality. It is for us, the common people, to make our wishes known; it is the part of the Councils to act. But first post your lands. Let us get together on this!

of Sunnyacres Farm,
Lakefield

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Charlie the storekeeper looks upon customers as pests.

He isn't rude to them. He just ignores them. Charlie's whole day — as far as I can judge — is spent taking stock or adding his accounts.

Sometimes a dozen customers will come into the store and stand there apologetically while the boss counts cans of tomato soup. They don't say anything. They seem to know their place.

Once in a while a customer will get restive and fidget a bit. Charlie catches him with a reproving eye and goes on with his accounts.

He isn't a harsh man at all. He forgives his customers these minor lapses from good behaviour.

He makes sure that his staff attends to business, too. There usually is just one girl on duty helping him. Charlie doesn't let her wander off catering to customers' whims. That would spoil them.

So Charlie drafts her to help check the stock. She is a good-natured girl, and sometimes she will peak out from behind the cash register as though to say: "Take courage, gang! As soon as we're through work, we'll have a get-together." That is the spirit that prevails in Charlie's store. Keeping the books and taking stock is the real work. Customers are a sort of by-product of storekeeping — a small problem to be disposed of when everything else is done.

The odd thing is that the customers keep coming back. Most of them like old Charlie. They wouldn't dream of boycotting him just because he happened to be busy with his accounts. That would be disloyal.

Besides, old Charlie is fairly tolerant about credit. Some of them are afraid that if they complain, the preoccupied smile will fade from old Charlie's face, and he'll say: "How about paying up, chum?"

That is the one thing above all else, that his customers dread.

Summer Homes

Summer homes along the river
Nestling 'mong the hills and dells,
Night-dimmed windows oft' reflecting
Moonbeam gold from glittering swells,
As the river robed in splendor,
Ageless, as Creation's Dawn,
Glides toward the bay out yonder,
Bending gracefully as a faun.

When the summer days have ended,
And their bird song hushed and still —
Dead leaves whispering 'neath your windows —
Cloaked by ice, each rippling rill —
Do you sigh, and long for voices,
Toned with love, and laughter-filled,
Songs and dancing-strains of music
Made by dainty hands and skilled?

Or do you drowse and brood in silence,
Dreaming of the days gone by,
When your walls were yet trees, waving
Leafy branches toward the sky?
Do you dream of re-creation
When Spring rules the earth once more
Filling hills and dells with beauty, —
Little houses, by the shore?

— Janet Pollock Graham

Hallowe'en for UNICEF

Mrs. Jackson wishes to extend her grateful thanks to all those who contributed in any way to the UNICEF fund, especially the youngsters, who worked so hard at collecting. The total sum amounted to $75.45.

Any child who took out a box on Hallowe'en may collect a free "Coke" at the Jackson residence on Saturday next, by courtesy of J. P. MacKimmie & Sons.

Cushing

Supper guests at the home of Mrs. A. Starnes last Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mitchell, of Lachute, and Mrs. Charles Thompson, of Ceylon, Sask.

Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller were the Misses Myrtle and Violet Bryerton, of Verdun.

Miss E. M. Graham, of Verdun, was a week-end guest at "Hillbank Cottage".

Women's Institute

Frontier Women's Institute held their Welfare and Health meeting under the convenership of Mrs. Harris Dewar, in the home of Mrs. A. Starnes on Tuesday. Nurse Allan, of the Smith Clinic, was guest speaker. The subject was "Hospitalization", and several felt that the provincial hospital insurance plan did not cover too much of the expenses after all.

Mrs. D. Neafsey carried off the contest prize, which was in connection with health. Mrs. I. H. Fuller received the prize given for the heaviest parcel of cotton for making cancer pads.

Mr. W. J. Chambers has been spending some time in the Smith Clinic again; friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cordner and children, of Essex Junction, Vt., were week-end guests of Mrs. Cordner's mother, Mrs. L. R. McGain, at "Tynwald".

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew, of Verdun, visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning over the week-end.

Guests on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chambers were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blore, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alder and Miss Vera Wylde, all of Montreal, also Mrs. H. Lighthall, of Lachute, Mrs. Douglas Bradford and Mrs. Marion McDougall, of North River.

Sympathy Expressed

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning left for Montreal on Sunday to attend the funeral of the late Verda (Morris) Minshall, a former County president of the Women's Institute. The community of Cushing offers sincere sympathy to Mr. Minshall and to Mrs. Minshall's sister, Hazel, and family.

Callers on Sunday, October 28, at the home of Mrs. A. Taylor were Mrs. J. D. Weir, Miss Olive Hartley and brothers, Douglas and Lawrence Hartley, all of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and children spent Saturday with friends in Senneville and Baie d'Urfé. Mrs. Taylor visited friends in Senneville for several days this week, and attended a meeting of the I.O.D.E., of which organization she is a member.

Mrs. J. Coney and son, Raymond, of Brownsburg, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller visited friends at Coteau Landing on Sunday.

Guests of Mrs. McGain on Tuesday last were Mrs. Melvyn Devonport, of Outremont, and Miss Mona Cregeen, of Longueuil. The Hollingworth family were Sunday guests of Mrs. McGain.

Mabel

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson were guests at the Haldimand-Rowe wedding in Lachute last Saturday.

Mrs. Cecil Clark, Mrs. Perley Clark, Mrs. Douglas Clark, Mrs. Bazil Clark and Misses Janet and Jean Clark, attended a trousseau tea in honor of Miss Ruth Cunning, at Vankleek Hill last Saturday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Villemar and Mr. Ted Fields, of Cornwall, also Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Jackson and family, Jerry and George Conell, of Lachute.

Mrs. John MacRae was hostess at a party last week when the children of the community received supplies to collect for UNICEF while out on Hallowe'en.

SHORT OBIT

Did you hear about the hunter who climbed through the fence with his gun cocked? He is survived by his wife, three children and a rabbit.

Avoca

Mr. Tom Harries, with his daughter and son and a little friend, called on Mr. and Mrs. Allan McPhee on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan McPhee spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, and their granddaughters in Aylmer, Que.

Miss Marjory Vaillancourt and Miss Joyce Andrews spent the week-end with their parents.

Mrs. Charles McKale, who has undergone a serious operation on her eyes at the Montreal General Hospital, is doing as well as can be expected. Friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Starke, of Montreal, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Arthurs.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

REQUEST OF THE FALLEN

We lay them down in foreign lands
Beneath the cold, damp sod;
Their work on earth accomplished,
Their souls we give to God.

Brave lads of our Dominion,
From east unto the west,
Begrudging not their sacrifice —
God grant their last request.

Let not future generations,
As they journey on through life,
Be called upon to settle
Another world of strife.

Give nations, Lord, the power
Of vision strong, to see
That a world of friendly neighbors
A peaceful world would be.

Let men heed not to color,
Nor criticize of creed;
Abolish, Good Lord, from them
Their greatest foe — of greed.

Then we, Thy sons, the fallen,
That Freedom might remain,
Will sleep in peace well knowing,
We have not died in vain.

— J. W. Oldford

This poem, taken from Rhyme and Reason, a souvenir volume of verse by Canadian soldier poets, covers the thoughts of many a veteran on November 11. . . . Wear your poppy, and see you on parade!.

A 69-year-old mother from Mission City, B.C., has been selected by the Royal Canadian Legion to represent the motherhood of Canada at the National Remembrance Day ceremony to be held in Ottawa on November 11. She is Mrs. Sylvia Kimmel, who, with her husband Harry Kimmel, lost three sons in World War II. Five of their 11 children were in the armed forces, within a month of each other in 1940, and all were killed within a six-month period in 1944.

Corporal Clifford Kimmel, 25, enlisted at Kamloops. He went to Italy with the Princess Patricia's and later transferred to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He was killed in Italy and is buried at Ravena.

Rifleman Gordon Kimmel, 28, enlisted at Vancouver. He served with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles and died of wounds while a prisoner of war. He is buried at Bretteville-sur-Laize, France.

L/Sgt Richard Kimmel, 30, also enlisted at Kamloops. He served in northwest Europe with the Regina Rifles.

Mrs. Kimmel, with her husband, will fly to Ottawa for the ceremony, where she will place the first wreath, after His Excellency the Governor-General places his on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen.

Four of Mrs. Kimmel's sons and one daughter served in the army during World War II. Her three deceased sons joined up

For Parents Only . . .

Your Child's Clothes

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"The clothes make the man," was an old Latin proverb. Many people think too much emphasis is placed on clothes, but they are important at every age.

The runabout child soon becomes aware of how he looks. Gay color, clothes that are easy to take off and put on, appeal to him. As soon as he begins to play regularly with other little tots he wants to look like other children. Adult standards of fashion or cleanliness make little dirt on him. He just doesn't want to seem queer or different from the other kids.

Desire to Belong

This desire to belong to a group and appear like the other children is strong all through school days. In large families, clothing must be handed down from an older child to a younger. But mother should do her best to make the second-hand article look as nice as possible. The addition of a new leather belt or collar and cuffs can brighten up an old dress which the older sister has worn.

Girls are more sensitive than boys to their chums' comments about their clothes. Once in a while every child should have some clothes which are completely new. Nor does it harm a small child to wear a "hand-me-down" which is clean and mended. Mothers who are friends can often help stretch their clothing dollars by exchanging out-grown articles in good repair with each other, or by patronizing an Exchange centre.

Never Hoard

Never hoard children's clothes for which you have no use! Pass them on to a needy family or contribute them to a clothing collection for destitute children. There is still a need for all kinds of articles of clothing for children under the care of the United Nations and in some centres for newly arrived Hungarian immigrants.

It is not easy with living costs so high for children to be given a major choice in picking out their wardrobe. Boys are notorious for being hard on their clothes. But if son has a voice in the buying of a new sweater or pants he is more likely to take a little better care of them.

Little girls love to go shopping with mother. If they know the outside limit of money which can be spent why not let Helen select a pink dress instead of a blue one?

As boys and girls reach their teen years they should be given more and more responsibility for the choice of their clothes. By experience they should learn to budget their clothing allowance so that it will cover big expenditures like a winter coat or a suit, and at the same time invest in the smaller necessary accessories from time to time.

Different Taste

Adolescents' tastes are different from their parents' — but after all, they are the ones who are appearing in the clothes which are purchased. When they realize how much good clothes cost they are more co-operative about contributing to the cost of their wardrobe, with money they have earned in their leisure time. By the time they graduate from Collegiate a boy or girl should be capable of looking after his or her own clothing needs and be able to shop independently, and keep within the money which the family income can set aside for his expenditure.

In planning for a child's clothes, parents must think not just of today's needs. They want their child to grow into an adult who can spend money wisely on clothes which are durable and becoming. Swift once made the cynical remark about a woman who "wore her clothes as if they were thrown on her with a pitchfork." Parents want their son or daughter to select their apparel with care, be proud of their appearance, and wear clothes in a manner which is an asset and not a drawback to the impression they make on their friends and on the public.

A Christmas tradition

CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING

Christmas begins in November, for families who enjoy celebrating the occasion in the traditional manner. Both the fruit cake and plum pudding require a fair amount of preparation, and each is at its best when allowed to mellow for a month or more before serving.

Preparing the fruits and nuts for these time-honored Christmas treats is usually a family affair, with everyone down to kindergarten age gathering around the table to help. Many hands make light work and, despite the awesome list of ingredients, the task is soon completed.

This week's recipe for Christmas Plum Pudding follows the traditional lines, for this is one time of year when it's fun to be old fashioned. Suet is the shortening that is customarily used and the presence of bread crumbs in the batter lightens the texture. Grape juice is given as an alternate choice to brandy for part of the liquid.

When the time comes to serve the pudding, re-steam it for several hours, then turn the heated pudding out into a large, round serving dish. If the family votes for the added drama of a blazing pudding, a little brandy can be warmed and poured over the dish before lighting it. However, every precaution should be taken until the flames die out.

Christmas Plum Pudding

(Yield — about 16 servings)

3 Cups dark seedless raisins, 1 cup halved seeded raisins, 1 cup cut-up prunes, 1 cup currants, 2 cups slivered or chopped mixed candied peels and citron, 1½ cups sliced blanched almonds, 1½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour (or 1¾ cups once-sifted pastry flour), 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon grated nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ground allspice, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon ground ginger, 2 cups coarse soft white bread crumbs, 1 cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 2 cups finely chopped beef suet, 6 well-beaten eggs, ½ cup liquid honey, ½ cup brandy or grape juice.

A day ahead of cooking time, prepare seedless and seeded raisins, pitted prunes, currants, peels and citron and almonds.

Next day sift together twice, then into a preserving kettle or very large bowl, the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, cloves and ginger. Mix in bread crumbs, brown sugar and suet. Add prepared fruits, peels and nuts. Using the hands, mix well until all pieces have been separated and coated with dry mixture.

Combine well-beaten eggs, honey and brandy or grape juice. Add to fruit mixture and combine very thoroughly. Three-quarters fill one greased large pudding bowl (about 12-cup size) with the batter — or use two 6-cup bowls. Cover loosely with greased foil or wet cookery parchment; tie down. Steam pudding over plenty of boiling water — 6 hours for larger pudding, 4 hours for smaller ones.

Uncover pudding and stand it on a wire rack until thoroughly cooled. Re-cover and store in a cool place to ripen for several weeks.

For serving, re-steam pudding about 3 hours for larger one, 2 hours for smaller ones.

Home Interphone has new features

"Home Interphone", a new communications service having such features as door-answering, hands-free talking and electronic baby sitting, will be available here by mid-November, according to Bob Bell, Bell Telephone plant manager here.

The system was market-tested by the company during the spring and summer and results indicated a demand for the service.

"Home Interphone" works entirely through standard telephones, including the Princess sets, with separately mounted loudspeakers. Built inside each telephone in the system is a microphone unit. Door-answering, listening in on a sleeping baby, rounding up the family with the "come and get it" call can be accomplished simply by lifting the nearest telephone receiver in the house.

When a call for one person is answered by another, the person who took the call can "hold" by lifting a small button. By turning another button this person can page the person wanted over the intercom system. The one the call is intended for can then answer at the nearest telephone.

Pressure cooker for canning

Home canning of most vegetables is risky without a pressure cooker, warns G. Strachan of the Department of Agriculture's research station at Lethbridge. Food-poisoning organisms that are present in most soils may contaminate them.

Contaminated foods do not always have offensive flavors and odors, nor are they always discolored. Pressure cooking eliminates all harmful bacterial cells and spores, at the same time preserving many of the nutrients lost through lengthy cooking.

Active bacterial cells are readily killed by boiling for five minutes. However, spores of these organisms will grow under favorable conditions and produce fatal poisons. The spores can be destroyed by temperatures slightly above the boiling point of water — temperatures attained only in an efficient pressure cooker.

Adding acid to the product destroys the spores but makes most vegetables unpalatable. All fruits and acidic vegetables such as rhubarb and tomatoes can be processed safely in boiling water without pressure cooking.

Mr. Strachan says that it is necessary to process each kind of vegetable for a specified time and pressure, as given in reliable canning guides. Some canning guides also indicate pressures needed at different altitudes.

Teatime Topics

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Interest in the "first ladies" has become almost as intense as the interest in the man elected to office.

This has been demonstrated many times. Jacqueline Kennedy is perhaps the outstanding example.

There's been a growing interest in Canada's first ladies too. Mme Vanier, wife of Governor-General Georges Vanier, and Mrs. Diefenbaker, wife of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, share the publicity accorded their husbands. In Toronto recently the wives of the seven men seeking the leadership of the Ontario Progressive party were closely scrutinized by the voting delegates. They seemed extremely pleased with the final choice of John Robarts — and his wife Norah.

The Robarts met while they were both students at the University of Western Ontario. They were married in 1944. Mr. Robarts returned to wartime duty in the navy. Following his discharge in 1945, he returned to legal training at Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

Home in London

On graduating, he spent some time in Hamilton. Later they moved to London where they now maintain their home. It's a 1920-built house with a central hall plan. It has a living, dining, sitting room and kitchen downstairs and four bedrooms upstairs.

Mrs. Robarts said she is undecided as to whether to establish a second home in Toronto to allow more home life with her husband and their children, Robin, 8, and Timmy, 5.

Norah Robarts says she has no other hobbies but politics. She used to collect antiques but gave it up because she found she had run out of places to put them.

Slim, dark-haired Mrs. Robarts says she has no preference in period styles for furniture but prefers furniture that is the "comfortable type."

She is determined to keep the life of her son and daughter as private as possible.

During the convention, one delegate shouted at Mr. Robarts, the education minister: "We hear your wife is a real doll."

"I think so," the new party leader replied.

Choosing Cauliflower

A fresh, good quality cauliflower is compact, has creamy-white curd and crisp green leaves. A rice-like grainy appearance of the head occurs when the buds are almost ready to open and may cause the cauliflower to be strong-flavored and tough.

Yellow or pale green leaves on the outside indicate old age. The size of the head has nothing to do with maturity, says the homemaking section of the Ontario agriculture department. . . . A 2- to 2½ pound head will serve five or six people.

Uncooked, cauliflower is a fine source of vitamin C. The amount of vitamin C is unstable to heat and air in most vegetables and fruits. Cabbage, turnip and cauliflower are all good sources if served raw.

"FLOATERS"

To make Soup Floaters, spread butter or margarine on small squares or rounds of bread. Sprinkle finely chopped nuts and olives over the tops. These floaters are especially good when used with cream soups.

Legion poppy campaign Thursday eve, Friday

George Kirby, chairman of the Branch 70 Legion poppy campaign, announces that house-to-house canvassing will commence Thursday evening November 9, continuing through Friday, 10th.

A parade to the town memorial and cenotaph will march off from the Legion Hall at 10.30 a.m. on Saturday, November 11. An addition to the Remembrance service this year will be a ceremony for "scattering of the ashes". The annual Remembrance dinner will be held in the Legion Hall at 6.45 p.m. on the same date.

Some of the questions encountered on a poppy campaign, and their answers, are as follows,

What does the poppy stand for?

— The blood red of the poppy stands for the blood shed by the many injured, and the black centres symbolize the death toll paid.

Why should I wear a poppy?

— When you wear a poppy or display a wreath, you honor the 104,000 war dead and you help the living.

How do I help the living?

— Your contribution provides quick help for needy veterans and their dependents.

Just what does this help consist of?

— Any veteran may appeal to the poppy trust fund for emergency aid such as food, shelter or medical expenses. There are also bursaries for their children's education in deserving and needy cases.

Doesn't the government provide pensions for veterans?

— Yes, many veterans do get pensions. But, many others, although handicapped, do not. However, no pension can provide for eventualities such as fire, a long illness on the part of the bread-winner or other medical or emergency expenses.

Does any veteran or dependent get Poppy Fund help?

— Yes. In fact 75% of all cases involve veterans who are not Legion members.

Does all the money raised through the sale of poppies and other supplies go to veterans' welfare?

— Most of it does. However, expenses, such as cost of poppies and other supplies, naturally would be deducted.

Are campaign expenses high?

— Campaign expenses are unusually low, because all work is voluntary.

How much of this money collected stays in the community?

— About 80%. The rest helps veterans by going to the maintenance of service bureaus across Canada which give any veteran or dependent help with pension and other problems. They will act on his behalf with the Federal Government. These service bureaus enable the Legion to keep a close check on veterans' legislation and recommend changes where changes are justified.

Can the poppy monies be used for anything else?

— No. The Legion constitution stresses that these funds must be held in trust. They are subscribed to by the public. They are held in a bank account separate from that of the branch and cannot be used for any other purpose than stipulated above.

How much should I give?

— We suggest that you give according to the dictates of your conscience.

HEALTH SERVICES FOR INDIANS AND ESKIMOS IN CANADA

One of a series of articles describing the Federal Health and Welfare Services Canadians get for their tax dollars.

This coming winter, an Eskimo woman on the east coast of Baffin Island will be able to eat properly once again. Years of chewing skins to make them soft and pliable for her family's clothing had worn her teeth down to the gums. Now her teeth have been replaced by properly fitted artificial dentures.

A five-year old Indian boy has just been re-united with his family on the Anahim Lake Reserve deep in the Chilcoten after a year's treatment for tuberculosis in the Coqualeetza Hospital, 450 miles away from his home.

The dentures, the x-ray diagnosis and treatment of the Indian boy were provided by the Indian and Northern Health Services Directorate of the Department of National Health and Welfare. The Directorate does much more — but it does so in the face of enormous problems — problems as old as the Indians and Eskimos themselves — as widespread as the length and width of Canada.

In dealing with the health problems of our two native populations, we cannot merely superimpose our ideas and will on theirs. They have to be convinced before they will cooperate whole-heartedly in what we consider good health practices and programs. And each group already has a deep-rooted culture which includes strong beliefs about life, death and the prevention and treatment of disease.

Our twelve thousand Eskimos are split into about 200 small communities all around our Northern coast. Our more than 180,000 Indians are scattered among fifteen hundred reserves from coast to coast.

In 1946, just over $3,000,000 was voted by the Federal Government to be spent on the health of Indians and Eskimos. This year the amount set aside for the same purpose will be close to $25,000,000. Six hundred and fifty nurses, 115 medical officers and 28 dental officers will serve them full time. These health workers will be manning 19 hospitals, 45 nursing stations, 30 clinics, and 80 health centres where out-patient services are provided. Additionally, I.N.H.S. uses the services of a large number of hospitals, physicians, dentists and dispensers throughout Canada, and works closely with the provincial health agencies.

Impressive facts and statistics. And this investment of people and money is showing results. One heartening example of this is the fact that the T.B. death rate has been brought down from just under six hundred deaths annually per hundred thousand in 1946 to less than thirty — lower than the death rate for the rest of Canada at the end of World War II. From combatting T.B., the emphasis in I.N.H.S. work with these two peoples is gradually being switched to such matters as child and maternal health and sanitation.

Our efforts are still spread thin. Even $25,000,000 only goes so far. To put a nurse into a remote Arctic area costs from $50,000 to $100,000 in initial capital expenditure; and it costs $20,000 to $25,000 a year to keep her there. The treatment of the average Eskimo T.B. case costs from $3,500 to $5,000 a year, or $3,500 to $15,000 per course of treatment, plus the cost of transportation. Transportation of one Eskimo woman, bleeding badly after childbirth, to southern hospital facilities recently cost about $7,000. The woman's life was saved — the money well spent.

Canada's Indians and Eskimos are gradually becoming more integrated with the general Canadian population. As this trend develops, as their earning opportunities increase, and as the North is opened up, so will the health and health services of these original Canadians continue to improve.

"At the moment" according to the Hon. J. Waldo Monteith, "the chief task is education. To give the people of the North the know-how which will raise their health level must be our over-riding objective in the years ahead".

What's new ?

Here are new ideas for your profit and pleasure, as reported in The Financial Post:

Cordless Power Saw — now the latest home power tool for outdoor jobs where no power outlet is handy. With an 8-in. circular blade, the unit weighs 11 lb. and is powered by an air-cooled, ¾ h.p. gasoline engine, about the size of a man's fist. It operates for one hour on its pint tank of gas.

Bird Psyche Disturber — It doesn't "poison" pigeons, but soft plastic material squeezed from a tube onto the birds' favorite ledge, exerts a slight clinging pressure on their feet when they land. This "sets up a feeling of insecurity" and makes them fly away quickly, says the manufacturer.

If You're TIRED

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. 81

HOW MANY ARE BANK CUSTOMERS?

A safe guess would be every one of them / That's because, in Canada, practically everybody has regular dealings with a chartered bank / Deposit accounts number more than 12½ million — or better than one for every adult. And on the books of the banks at any one time are 1,800,000 loans for just about every personal and commercial purpose / Through 5,000 branches, from one end of the country to the other, the chartered banks bring a full banking service within the reach of everyone.

Welcome comparisons with Jap textile mills

Montreal — Canada's textile industry is happy to invite comparison with that of Japan. This was the reaction to reports from Tokyo saying Prime Minister Diefenbaker had been impressed with the ingenuity and efficiency of Japan's textile industry and would like to study Canadian textile mills in comparison.

F. R. Daniels, president of Dominion Textile Co. Ltd., said his company's pride in technical and mechanical efficiency made it gratifying to expect Mr. Diefenbaker's visit "at the earliest opportunity."

Mr. Daniels said, "We are gratified to learn that we will be afforded the opportunity of showing Mr. Diefenbaker a number of our textile mills. Many other members of the Cabinet, we hope, will also wish to see them.

"We are satisfied that the Prime Minister will find the degree of modernity of our plants high and equal to, or better than, that of the mills of the United States.

"It is not surprising to us that he was impressed with his visit, while in Japan, to the Yogogawa plant of the Kanegafuchi Spinning Company. The Japanese textile industry was completely rebuilt following the last war, with the best of American technical advice, with American financial help and the world textile machinery market from which to buy.

"The Canadian textile industry sent a study group to Japan in 1955, and their findings were published in book form, complete with illustrations. Many copies of this report were sent to the government.

"We will welcome a visit by Mr. Diefenbaker and members of his Cabinet. . . Perhaps they will also find that the greatest difference between Canadian and Japanese textile mills is the wage structure. Our wages are eight times as high as theirs."

what are the basics of our Hospital Insurance plan

THE POLICY HERE...

Sickness is a universal hazard. And regaining health frequently calls for extensive and expensive hospital treatment. Since last January, our Provincial Government sees to it that you receive — free — the required hospital care every time your doctor deems it necessary. This includes standard ward accommodation, the usual meals and the agreed hospital services. That sums up our Québec Hospital Insurance Service.

...AND ELSEWHERE

In several other provinces, you must register and then pay a monthly premium in order to qualify under their hospital insurance systems. In Ontario, for instance, the monthly premium is $2 per person or $4 per family. Here, nothing of the kind. Québec supplies you with free hospitalization, providing you fulfill two prerequisites.

1st condition: BEING A RESIDENT

Firstly, you must have lived here at least three months. In which case, your children qualify from birth. But if you are just getting settled in this province, you must wait three months before being entitled to free hospital treatment.

THE CASE OF TRANSIENTS

Transients — such as tourists, visitors and relatives from other provinces — do not qualify under our Hospital Insurance Act. Services received by such persons in a Québec hospital are charged to the patient, or to the hospital insurance of his own province.

PROVING YOU'RE A RESIDENT

The hospital may request at any time that you prove your residency, namely, that you have been permanently established in this province for over three months. You can perhaps handle this by showing the usual identification papers: birth or marriage certificate, driving licence, credit cards, hunting or fishing permit, passport or what have you. If you are too weak or ill to comply personally with this formality, the person with you must attend to it.

2nd condition: THE DOCTOR'S RECOMMENDATION

Free hospitalization is conditional on your doctor considering it medically necessary. If he deems that your case can be handled satisfactorily elsewhere, you are not entitled to free hospital care. But if you are sent to the hospital on his recommendation, you may remain there as long as required from a medical point of view.

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

If you ever require urgent admission — for instance, as the result of being injured in a serious accident — the person in charge at the hospital may authorize your admission, without waiting to check with your own doctor.

A COSTLY OPERATION

As you can see, our Hospital Insurance plan provides every resident of this province with the required full-range hospital care — on a free and efficient basis. A truly colossal and costly undertaking: the assignment is to supply, as needed, free hospitalization to over 5 million insured residents — entailing this year a governmental expenditure of more than $140 million!

HELP US HELP YOU

Plain common sense suggests that each one of us fully cooperate with our Hospital Insurance Service. Never ask your doctor for hospital treatment unless it is absolutely needed. Never remain at the hospital one day too many: this is an unfair and costly practice. Don't stretch a fine prerogative. Your conscience . . . and your taxes . . . will feel all the better for it!

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

WHAT IS AN ODE?

One day recently, a lady asked me what an ode was. I gave her a look that seemed to say, "Don't you even know that?" and changed the subject. I was stalling for time to go home and look it up in the dictionary.

The definition was that an ode was a poem designed to be set to music, or what a song-writer today would call the "lyrics".

So I suppose that, if a man who writes a poem is called a poet then a man who writes an ode should be called an odor? That's what some people called me during the Second Great War, when I used to write words and music for some of the production numbers in the Army Show I travelled with for three years to the various camps in Quebec. All of which reminds me of the following story. . . .

A poet who had a daily contract with a newspaper was in a desperate situation. He could not think up a single idea for the following day's issue, and the deadline was just a few hours away. So he went for a walk in the early evening thinking that the exercise would stimulate his mind. He walked over the brow of a hill and was confronted with the most magnificent sunset he had ever seen. Out came his notebook, and he began to write, "Ode to A Sunset." The opening line was, "An Angel flew across the sky and spilt her radiant paints — "

Unfortunately, his handwriting was none too good. The typesetter did his best, but not quite good enough. It appeared in the next day's paper, "An Angel flew across the sky and split her rayon pants."

Probably the typesetter was bawled out, but given another chance. But he was fired a few weeks later when the poet wrote, "An Ode to My Son".

It began, "My Son, my pygmy counterpart — ".

But it appeared in the paper as, "My Son, my pig, my counterpart".

— What an odor!

Be seein' ya!

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Storage Losses In Feed Value

Farmers and stockmen often ask about feed-value losses in hay and grain during storage.

Carotene or provitamin A is an important nutrient in hay, but unfortunately hay loses its carotene fairly rapidly, especially during a severe sweating process. About one-half of the carotene as present in freshly stored hay is lost during the first six months of storage.

Dr. Bohstedt

While not all the carotene is lost during the first year of storage, we cannot expect very much of this vitamin to be left at the end of a couple of years. The hay may still be leafy and green but the green color is no carotene equivalent. Some other fat-soluble vitamins in hay seem to be affected, though not as much is known about their survival after long storage.

The water-soluble B-complex vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin, biotin, niacin and pantothenic acid are less affected. This was observed with both hay and grain during a year-long test at the University of Wisconsin.

Losses of carotene in silage, if properly made, are less than in hay, but still considerable.

Carotene in yellow corn is rather stable where the corn is stored as ear or shelled corn, but in ground corn the carotene and other fat-soluble vitamins are lost much more rapidly. Rancidity is largely responsible for the losses.

Grains or seeds that are lowest in fat, having only 1 to 2 percent fat, such as solvent process soybean oil meal or linseed meal store quite well. These would also include corn gluten feed or meal, and sorghum grains, barley or wheat. Concentrates with from 4 to 6 percent or more fat suffer considerably more deterioration in storage.

In raw soybeans, in contrast to soybean oil meal, so much fat remains in the embryo of the seed and so much enzymatic activity takes place in the oil-rich germ of the bean that even the protein content has been found to be reduced after three years of storage.

As much as possible, grain or similar feed should be fed soon after grinding and processing, when it is fresh and palatable and therefore conducive to rapid and economical growth, fattening and milk production.

Question: Is there special advantage to using only pure salt for stock salt, the kind recommended for buttermaking or water softening, or is rock salt with some impurities all right for livestock?

Answer: Impurities present in rock salt need cause no concern; they are simply other earth chemicals. They may even be beneficial, for it seems every few years a new chemical element is found necessary to animal metabolism. Also salt licks containing a lot of soil have served deer and other game animals for ages.

Tb. in poultry

Fowl tuberculosis is found on some Canadian poultry farms where birds are raised on the same ground year after year — according to Dr. J. E. Lancaster, of the Canada Department of Agriculture's Health of Animals Division.

He points out that once the avian Tb. germ becomes established it is very difficult to eliminate. If the poultry house is old or in poor repair it should be burned. The poultry range should be changed each year, the used ranges being put into crops only — not used for livestock. Direct sunlight on the old range combined with deep plowing-under of all litter and droppings is necessary if infection is not to be spread by wild birds visiting the site.

If an infected building is retained, it should be cleaned with lye and disinfectant.

All chickens culled for tuberculosis should be destroyed by burning or deep burial. If starting a new flock, it would be better to use hatching eggs which are an unlikely source of infection and can be obtained from disease-free sources.

Dr. Lancaster discusses the subject in Publication 1105, entitled Fowl Tuberculosis. Copies can be obtained from the Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

CROPS CHANGE

Sarnia, Ont. (CP) — This year's sugar beet harvest in Lambton County was only a fraction of what it has been in former years, but soybeans are rapidly mounting in importance as a cash crop.

Postal service cow testing and milk records

Professor J. E. Moxley, Animal Science Department, says that farmers who have no way of keeping milk records should plan this fall while time is available to look into the Quebec Postal Cow Testing Service. This method is every bit as good as other methods, and can afford the farmers some means of keeping records to upgrade their herds.

To take advantage of the Postal Cow Testing Service, the dairy farmer undertakes to pay an annual fee of two dollars, if possible in January when making or renewing his application. He also promises to test the production of all the cows in his herd throughout their lactation periods. This means that, on one day of each month (as soon as his sample containers have been returned to him) he has to weigh the milk given by each cow, at morning milking and again at evening milking, and write down the weights on the barn sheet provided for the purpose. He has to take a sample of each cow's milk from both milkings on this same day. Finally he has to return the box of samples in their containers to Quebec, without delay, along with the barn sheet. Testing thus takes only a little extra time and work on just one day a month, so that no one can fairly say that it is too tiresome.

The tools used on the farm for testing, namely balance, ladle, containers, and forms, are provided free of charge. Mailing cost to and from Quebec is paid by the Department of Agriculture.

Applications should be addressed to: "Postal Cow Testing Division, Livestock Service, Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Quebec City, Que."

LONE SURVIVOR

The city of St. Pierre on the island of Martinique perished in 60 seconds when the volcano at the peek of Mount Pelée erupted in 1902. Of the 30,000 inhabitants, says a Reader's Digest article, only one survived — a prisoner in the jail who was locked in an underground dungeon.

Efforts Needed to Keep Trade Growing

Higher Exports To U.K., Europe Benefit Canada

Pulpwood harvested by farmers, other woodlot owners, and the pulp and paper companies, and afterwards converted into pulp, paper, and paperboard, is moving overseas in increasing amounts this year.

In the form of Canadian newsprint, it brings the news of the day to readers in London, Edinburgh, and many other cities and towns in the United Kingdom. As Canadian pulp, it serves as the raw material for hundreds of European products, from German magazines to Italian milk bottle caps, and from Belgian books to Dutch cardboard boxes.

The trade is already important — and growing. Last year, Canadian shipments of pulp and paper to Britain and Western Europe totalled some $125 millions. In terms of volume, this was the equivalent of about 1½ million cords of pulpwood.

The economies of Western Europe continue to grow rapidly, and economic growth always means increased demand for pulp and paper. Recent estimates of paper and paperboard consumption, made by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, forecast that the U.K. and Western Europe will be using 30 million tons of these products by 1975, compared with only 20 million today.

Canada hopes to share in this increased demand. If she does the benefits, in the form of more jobs, larger payrolls, increased purchases of pulpwood, chemicals and other supplies, will spread out and multiply, ultimately benefiting every Canadian.

Through the years, Canada's trade in newsprint and pulp has been built upon the principle of duty-free entry to the markets of the world. Recently, the pulp and paper industry asked the Canadian government to seek to preserve this principle overseas, so that Canadians can continue to share in the expansion of demand in Britain and Western Europe.

Pulpwood harvested in Canadian forests, converted into paper and pulp, and shipped to the United Kingdom and Western Europe, represents an important part of the nation's trade. Canada hopes to share in the future growth of demand in these overseas areas, where paper and paperboard consumption is rising rapidly.

PIRATE GOLD IN OUR DOLLAR'S FAMILY TREE

No one knows for sure, but our modern dollar sign, $, is believed to have originated with the figure 8 stamped on "pieces of eight" which Long John Silver and others of his breed coveted as they scourged the seas in bygone days.

Whether this is a tall tale or a true one, we do know that the $ sign was in use in the United States before the introduction of federal currency and before our own decimal monetary system began in 1853.

But more interesting to most of us than the $ sign itself, are the figures that come after it, especially if those figures are in a savings account passbook from the Bank of Montreal. It's quite a thrill to watch them grow and grow as we save regularly. Interest payments of two and three-quarters per cent also help to swell the amount.

It makes sense to save regularly at the B of M and it makes for success in life, too.

To start your own "success fund", visit the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal soon. Paul Boivin, the accountant there, and Miss Lulu Miller of Ayersville branch, will show you how easy it is to open a B of M Savings Account.

Fatal fall, man killed at Hydro job

A worker employed on the Quebec Hydro project at Carillon — Leo Charette, 30, of Hammond Street, Lachute — lost his life at the construction site in the early hours of last Saturday. The fatality occurred at 3 a.m., when the victim fell from a height of 85 feet at unit No. 8 at the centre of the huge dam. Death was instantaneous, caused by compaction of the spinal column — according to Dr. A. L'Allier of St. Andrews East, physician for the Carillon project.

The victim, Leo Charette, came from Ste. Thècle, Que., to work on the Carillon construction a year and a half ago. He leaves a wife and young child.

An investigation into the death is being carried out by Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle and the joint district coroner, Dr. Roger Lavigne.

Mountain lion rare animal seen at Shrewsbury

Mrs. Clarence Good, of Shrewsbury, reports that one day last week she and her family looked out of the window to see a mountain lion in the yard at their home. The animal, tawny brown in color, measured about 5½ feet long, having a small head, massive bones and muscles, and a long tail with an upward curl. Its estimated weight was about 150 lbs.

Mr. John Good, 85-year-old pioneer of Shrewsbury and father-in-law of Mrs. Clarence Good, says he has never before seen a mountain lion in these parts.

Sentiments and Sidelights

It is to be noted that, in a period of eight months from the end of February to the end of October, Town Council held no fewer than 29 sittings, in addition to several caucuses. . . . A reminder that civic office is no sinecure; the duties of an alderman entail much time and effort.

A lawsuit has been instituted by the well-drilling firm, "Puits du Québec Enr.", against councillors in office 1959-60, for the Village of Ayersville. The suit for $25,500 claims costs for the sinking of two artesian wells.

Ayersville Council at that time comprised Mayor G. Paquette, Councillors Doug Simon, Rosaire Quenneville, L. T. Bigras, Maurice Dumais, Wilfrid Durocher and Nap. Corbeil. . . . Messrs. Paquette, Simon and Durocher are still members of the civic body. Developments are expected in a few days.

Police and fire report for month

The Lachute volunteer fire brigade answered 14 calls in October — eight in the town limits, three in St. Jerusalem and three in Ayersville. The firemen held four special practice sessions in addition to their regular monthly training period.

A report from the police department indicates 354 service calls during the month. There were 18 traffic accidents, 9 arrests, 5 persons injured, 6 missing persons found. There was one case of entry and theft, one auto stolen and two recovered; two bicycles stolen and four recovered.

A total of 73 tickets were issued for traffic offences, and $782.15 collected in fines. Receipts from this and other sources amounted to $908.35.

Also pictured, top row, are Roy Carpenter and Arthur Campbell, 50-year veterans, with J. S. Giles (centre), who has been 60 years in the Order; these three received their jewels some years ago. # $570,000 bond issue authorized for filtration plant construction

Four aldermen were sworn into office at the Council session last week, namely, Francois Charlebois, Alphonse Thibodeau, Réal Urbain and Dr. L. A. Middleton. Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C., was in the chair, and Ald. Linton Armstrong was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

Barron's Bridge

A letter from the Department of Public Works relative to rebuilding Barron's Bridge, informed the Council this department would approach the Department of Roads for a decision on location of the highway; in the meantime, however, the pedestrian-walk would be replaced.

Various Business

Permission was given to Lachute Association for Retarded Children to hold tag days on November 17-18.

The Council endorsed renewal of the lease for the town hall basement to the Department of National Defence, for $100 a month.

A letter from Dr. L. Turcotte, County medical officer, commended the Council on having established a new garbage site, and asked that the former dumpsite be covered with fill. The Council will comply with this request.

Two 12-ply tires were purchased from Fairway Sales & Service at $133 each — the lowest quotation among five bidders, including Desrosiers Automobiles, Pollock & Graves Motors, Deacon Motor Sales and Lacasse Automobiles.

Permission was granted for representatives of the Fire Prevention Annual to solicit advertising from local merchants.

A list of property-holders in arrears of taxes totalling $8,000-odd, was referred to the Finance committee for study.

$570,000 Loan By-Law

Ald. Francois Charlebois gave notice of motion, at this point, for presentation of a by-law at next meeting to borrow $570,000 as authorized by the Quebec Government, for construction of the filtration plant and incidental works.

The Council has also been authorized to borrow up to $250,000 on a temporary basis, to permit a start on this construction — the whole to be met by an issue of debentures according to the loan by-law now in preparation.

New Paint

It was decided to paint all civic machinery and equipment in the town colors, yellow and black.

December 26 and January 2 next were declared civic holidays, in the customary manner.

Réal Urbain, new "minister" of civic finance, gave notice that he will present a budget by-law for 1962 operations, at next meeting of Council.

Bills for a total of $15,315.22 were passed for payment. The fire brigade were given the use of the Auditorium on the evening of November 24 for a variety entertainment. Tenders are being invited to supply a two-ton chain-block, and also for purchase of the vehicle used by Lachute's former police department.

An adjourned session will be held November 15 at 7.30 p.m.

B'burg infant died in crib

Charles Brian Vary, 2½-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Vary, of Park Street, Brownsburg, was found dead in his crib early on Tuesday morning of last week. Joint District Coroner Dr. Roger Lavigne declared the fatality a natural death due to suffocation. No inquest was held.

On Remembrance Day, homage paid to dead of two global wars

A good attendance marked the annual Remembrance Day ceremonies last Saturday at the Memorial Park. On this crisp, cool morning hundreds of citizens, young and old, joined the patriotic groups of this community in a well organized demonstration at the Argenteuil County cenotaph. The program was arranged throughout by the Legion Branch 70. A large turn-out of members from this Branch, veterans of two World Wars, wearing medals and berets, led a parade from the Legion Hall to the cenotaph, accompanied by the martial music of pipes and drums.

Many Groups Represented

Taking part in the parade were the Legion and Auxiliary color parties; the Legionnaires; Highland Cadets; Harrington and Kilmar pipe band; 131st Battery artillery unit and mobile field gun; Ayersville Air Cadet squadron; Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs; Girl Guides and Brownies; and C.G.I.T. . . . Parade Marshal was Comrade Bob St. Laurent.

Legion President's Address

Master of ceremonies for the cenotaph rites was Comrade Jos. Martell, president of Branch 70, who gave an impressive address.

"On this day of Remembrance much will be written or said about the freedom for which the men we honor here today, gave up their lives," said Comrade Martell in his brief address.

"Ask anyone 'What Freedom?' and most will answer —

"Freedom from oppression; freedom for our independence and way of life. Freedom that all may live unmolested in peace and prosperity.

"But there were other freedoms for which men paid the supreme sacrifice. They are just as important, and perhaps have more bearing on a national and community level than internationally. They are — Freedom from Intolerance; Freedom from Hypocrisy; Freedom from Racial, Religious and Color Prejudice."

Concluding in this vein, the speaker said: "Tyranny and oppression get their start from intolerance, hypocrisy and prejudice. What we as individuals do on a civic, communal and national basis has a big bearing on what is done internationally. Then we do not break faith with those who died!"

Other speakers on the Remembrance theme were J. D. Latour, M.P., and Ald. Linton Armstrong, pro-mayor representing Fernand Legault, Q.C. Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion was another representative of Town Council, while a familiar figure at the annual ceremonies, W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., was unable to take part. Prayers were said by two local clergymen, Protestant and Catholic, the Rev. C. R. Lang and the Rev. Yvon Mailloux. Altogether it was a repre-

Election promises and public liability —

Ayersville disclaims damage risks in connection with Hamford bridge

The Department of Public Works and the Municipality of Ayersville are apparently at loggerheads over the Hamford Street bridge. The question in dispute is, which body shall accept responsibility for damages which might result from this construction, or from the displacement of sewer pipes in building of the piers — a detail which was not foreseen in drawing up the plans.

It is contended that this bridge was not asked for by the population of Ayersville, but rather by the mayor, who made it an election promise in the civic contests last May. The Council and the municipality feel they cannot assume the risk of expense, since neither was consulted on the building of this bridge. The mayor (it is alleged) appears little interested in Council affairs, and attends few of the meetings. (He arrived only at the tail-end of the regular October meeting, was absent from the adjourned meeting in that month, and also from the regular November sitting last week.)

In reply to a government request for Ayersville to take over responsibilities for the bridge, the Council therefore passed a decision to the following effect:

(1) The Council rejects liability for any damages which might occur to neighboring properties. . . . inasmuch as the municipality was not consulted on the engaging of contractors and has no control or authority over the said contractors.

(2) The Council also refuses responsibility for claims which might arise through moving of sewer and water pipes at the site of construction — for the same reason as cited in the above paragraph.

(3) The Council refuses to absolve the Department of Public Works of all responsibility once the work is completed — because (a) the Council has no say in the plans; and (b) for this same reason, the Council accepts no liability for defect or possible collapse of the bridge.

The motion covering this dictum was proposed by Councillors Plamondon and Cyr, and unanimously accepted.

The Council felt that — in view of municipal finances due to short-sighted administration — it could not saddle the population with risks of expense incurred in the fulfilment of an election promise.

Remove buildings for preservation

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing — Hydro Quebec workmen have begun taking down the buildings on Bayside Farm, to be re-erected later in a park at Carillon, when the construction of the dam is finished.

Lions give wheelchairs to Crippled Children's Soc'y

Club business occupied the Lions' agenda last week, at a well attended meeting chaired by Col. Ernest Emmett, president.

It is notable there were two charter members at the head-table, Phil Roy and Major G. G. Mitchell, with a record of 27 years' active membership.

By way of contrast there was a welcome for two new Lion cubs, Joseph Paré and Raymond Church, introduced respectively by Col. Emmett and Don Titman. A former president and Deputy District Governor, Horace Lamarche, inducted the two newcomers (who, incidentally, are uncle and nephew).

Lion Bob Haydon was booster at this meeting and gave an interesting outline of the growth of his business, which is the distribution and sale of personalized Christmas cards. Winner of Lion Haydon's prize was Claude Landry.

Ken Raymond briefed his fellow members on details of the Silver Dollar Bingo, tomorrow (Thursday) at Lachute Auditorium and Geo. Locke led a discussion on the organizing of hockey teams for the skating rink season. Mild weather had delayed the rink opening on the previous Saturday.

Welcomed among guests at this meeting was Wes Younkie, of Upper Lachute, an active member of the Northmount club.

The president and Lion Horace Lamarche brought to their fellow members the warm appreciation of Quebec Crippled Children's Society, for the gift of two wheelchairs given by this club through its Easter Seals proceeds. Lachute had been one of the Lions groups to respond to an urgent appeal for wheelchairs needed by the Crippled Children's Society.

Veterans meet for annual Remembrance Day dinner

The annual Remembrance Day dinner was held Saturday evening by Branch 70 of the Royal Canadian Legion, in their Memorial Hall. There was a splendid turnout, and following the morning parade — it being a Saturday — members were able to spend the afternoon reminiscing over bygone days and their varied experiences.

A tasty meal was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the ladies were capably thanked by Comrade E. M. Jones.

Comrade President Jos. Martell expressed a welcome to all members and visitors, and in his usual capable manner filled in for the "guest speaker", who was unavoidably detained. . . .

In part, he said, "This morning we joined in a toast of remembrance to our fallen comrades; this afternoon we met in a fluid toast to each other; now we partake of a solid and danceful toast to our guests and escorts; and tomorrow we offer a prayerful bouquet to those who are with us in spirit only.

"Remembrance is only part of our duty. The Legion's actions today on what the future portends, will have a great bearing on what degree of remembrance the next generation will have for us.

"Of late the word 'Separatism' is much in the news. All who are loyal subjects of Her Majesty the Queen — all who served their country in time of need — all who are true citizens of Quebec, whether by birth or choice — all Canadians should raise their voices in protest. As a loving mother bears the heartache and sorrow and carries on when a loving son or daughter is missing or lost, so would Canada continue without Quebec; but it would sound the death knell of 'Dominion from Sea to Sea'; and no longer would this be known as 'La Belle Province'."

In closing, Comrade Martell warned all to take heed of growing dangers and to be prepared for any emergency.

Following the dinner a social evening of dancing was held, the hall being filled to capacity.

On Sunday morning, veterans paraded to Ste. Anastasie Church and to the United Church for morning services. The procession was accompanied by pipers of the Harrington-Kilmar band.

Liberal Assocn. of Argenteuil County repudiates action of unofficial group

Following the publication in last week's edition of The Watchman, of a news report claimed to have been made by the Argenteuil Liberal Association, the following statement has been issued by the Executive of the Argenteuil Liberal Association:

1. The undersigned are the only properly elected officers and organizers of the Argenteuil Liberal Association recognized by the Quebec Liberal Federation.

2. The report of the proceedings of this meeting, carried in last week's Watchman that the President, Mr. Antoine Paré, and the Secretary, Mr. Rolf Nelson, had been relieved of their duties, is entirely misleading — inasmuch as this unofficial meeting had no authority to take such action.

3. The President, Antoine Paré, and the Secretary, Rolf Nelson, were recognized as the only official President and Secretary of this Association at the Congress of the Quebec Liberal Federation held in Quebec City last weekend. They alone were given the right to vote. No other persons claiming to be the President and Secretary were recognized by the Credentials Committee of the Congress.

4. Furthermore, the delegates purported to have been appointed by this unofficial group were not allowed to vote.

5. The true facts are that this Executive has for some while refused to associate itself with cer-

Paper canvass this Saturday

Lachute Boy Scouts are holding a paper drive on Saturday, November 18, starting at 8 o'clock. Please bundle paper or put in corrugated boxes, and place same in a conspicuous spot so the Scouts can pick it up.

This time two trailers will be ready for filling. On the last drive 30 tons of paper was collected — on which the Scouts (thanks to the public response) made $225 to assist them in their work.

Week's Epigram

Some workers have lots of "get-up-and-go when it's time to get up and go home. They're the ones who get "fired with enthusiasm".

Charities Fed'n campaign reaches $11,831 total

Reporting on the Charities Federation campaign up to November 13, the secretary, René Belanger, states that the amount subscribed was $11,831 at that date, on an objective of $15,500. However, it is expected the total will reach $12,000 when all contacts have been completed.

Wilbrod Cousineau, the Federation president, and Roland Labonté, campaign chairman, wish to thank all those who accepted roles in this campaign, and all subscribers who responded to the canvass.

Threat of appeal over valuation, item at Aysery'l

Rodrigue Desforges, of St. Philippe, was awarded a contract for snowclearing on a stretch of Bradford Street to Route 8 at $250 a mile, when Ayersville councillors assembled last week for their statutory meeting. Pro-mayor Wilfrid Durocher presided, in the absence of Mayor Gaetan Paquette.

A citizen, Georges Clément, presented a medical bill for treatment of his son following a mishap last August. The boy had fallen in a hole on Bradford Street and suffered a leg fracture. The bill will be sent to the insurance company.

A letter was read from Roger Lagarde, counsel for Gaetan Desrosiers, a Bradford Street ratepayer, threatening an appeal to Magistrate's Court if Mr. Desrosiers' valuation was not reduced to $8,000. . . . Since the valuations had been homologated on October 25 last, it was moved by Councillors Simon and Cyr to inform Lawyer Lagarde that the roll cannot be revised again at this time.

Salt for ice-removal on the roads this winter will be purchased from Sifto Salt Company at 97c per 100 lbs. f.o.b. Ayersville — this being the lowest of three tenders.

Building permit was granted to Allan Hay for an extension to his home on Providence Blvd., and accounts were approved for a total of $3,746.53 — the session then being adjourned until November 22.

New Prov. Police officer-in-charge

CPL. MAURICE DINELLE, new officer-in-charge of the Argenteuil Detachment, Quebec Provincial Police. Prior to his transfer to Lachute, Cpl. Dinelle was attached to the Criminal Investigation Branch. He was promoted to the rank of Corporal on November 1, when informed of his new duties. Cpl. Dinelle is married and has two children. He replaces Cpl. Aimé Bertrand, who was transferred to Montreal.

Infant burned in farmhouse fire, Ste. Scholastique

At Ste. Scholastique last Saturday, the youngest of a family of 11 children, a two-month-old baby boy, perished when flames levelled the family's farm house.

Police reported that the boy's father, Lucien Ouellette, ran into the burning home and rescued his elderly parents and several of his children.

Witnesses reported that Ouellette was working in the fields near the house when the fire started about 3 p.m. He was unable to save the baby, who was asleep on the second floor. Some of the children were away at the time.

Aldermen named to committees

Following are the committees of town councillors for different departments of the civic administration for 1961-62. (The first-named alderman is chairman in each case.)

Finance — Réal Urbain and all members of Council.

Social Service — Dr. L. A. Middleton, Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion, Alphonse Thibodeau.

Waterworks — Francois Charlebois, H. Stanley Church, Nelson Lepage.

Lighting — H. S. Church, Lauréat Laurin, J. P. Dorion.

Health and Reception — Dr. J. P. Dorion, Dr. L. A. Middleton, Nelson Lepage.

Police and Fire — Linton Armstrong, Réal Urbain, Lauréat Laurin.

Town Hall and Buildings — Alphonse Thibodeau, Francois Charlebois, Linton Armstrong.

Garage and Machinery — Nelson Lepage, Linton Armstrong, Alphonse Thibodeau.

The mayor is also a member of all civic committees.

Familiar voices Saturday night

Artist Jack Reppen's impressions of Danny Gallivan (left) and Bill Hewitt, picture them with a most appropriate prop — a CBC microphone. Although their faces may not be familiar, the voices of the two men are known in millions of Canadian homes. They describe the action during Hockey Night in Canada telecasts Saturdays, on CBC-TV. Gallivan covers Montreal Canadiens' home games from Montreal Forum and Hewitt is his counterpart for Toronto Maple Leafs, from Maple Leaf Gardens.

Many friends at funeral of late Mrs. J. A. Gordon

The death of a well known lady resident, Mrs. J. Archibald Gordon, occurred last Thursday following surgery in the Montreal General Hospital, where she had been a patient for only a week previously. The funeral was held Saturday at the C. Wray & Bro. chapel. The Rev. Wilson Bridge, her pastor, conducted the service in the presence of numerous Montreal and local friends. Interment was in the family plot at Mount Royal Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Gordon, 66 years of age, was a native of Montreal, daughter of the late Mr. Justice C. A. Duclos and Isobel Holbrooke. She was one of the original members of the Montreal Junior League. She served overseas with the V.A.D., and during her residence here since 1933, identified herself with many worthwhile community activities. She was a past-president of the Lachute Red Cross, a past-president of the Women's Institute, a member of the United Church, and an active curler.

Mrs. Gordon was predeceased by her husband seven years ago. She is mourned by two sons, Ian, of Lachute, and Stuart, of Montreal; a daughter, Mrs. Alex H. Holden, of Montreal West; a sister, Mrs. G. S. Harrower, of Montreal, and several grandchildren.

Former resident was well and favorably known

Late Mrs. C. K. Minshall (Verda Kettyle)

Funeral services were held Tuesday of last week for Mrs. C. K. Minshall, the former Verda Kettyle of Lachute, one of Pointe Claire's most beloved school teachers. Rites were held at the D. A. Collins Chapel, Pointe Claire, with the Rev. James Allen officiating.

Mrs. Minshall, who died November 4 after an illness of several weeks, in the Montreal General Hospital, had taught Pointe Claire students for a period of 20 years in both the Cedar Park School and John Rennie High School, and during this time made a multitude of friends.

Born here in Lachute, she had been active in C.G.I.T. work, Women's Institutes and numerous church and community activities. She was one-time president of Argenteuil County W.I., and a teacher at Lachute High School. She is favorably remembered by many old friends and fellow residents here.

The late Mrs. Minshall is survived by her husband, Charles Keith Minshall, son David, of Pointe Claire, and sister Hazel (Mrs. R. Tipping) of Coldwater, Ont.

Interment was in Lachute Cemetery, where many old friends joined relatives to pay their last tribute of respect. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough conducted the committal service, assisted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge.

Lifetime resident died at Dalesville

The late Howard Morrow

Following a lengthy illness, Mr. Howard Morrow passed away at his home at Dalesville, Que., on November 7. The deceased was the son of the late Wm. H. Morrow and his wife, the late Annie Seale, and was in his 49th year.

Mr. Morrow was a resident of Dalesville all his life, and will be greatly missed as a kind and helpful neighbor.

He leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Hugh, of Dalesville, and three sisters, Hilda, of Dalesville, Katie (Mrs. Russel Silverson), and Annie (Mrs. Norman Silverson), of Lachute.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. L. Hisey at the Dalesville Baptist Church on November 9. Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Russel Morrow, Reginald Morrow, Stanley Murdoch, J. A. Murdoch, Lawrence Stephenson and George Seale, all cousins of the deceased. Interment was at the Dalesville Cemetery.

Figures worth remembering

The average fatality rate caused by highway accidents for every 1,000,000 miles is — 4 in daylight, and 12 at night, that is between sundown and dawn. In other words, the danger of being involved in a serious accident is three times greater at night than in daytime.

"Prudentia" also emphasizes that 45 per cent of accidents causing death or serious injuries, occur on slippery roads (fallen leaves, rain, ice, etc.) But it is no use trying to explain the mishap, it is much better to prevent it, by adjusting speed, reflexes and driving habits to road and weather conditions.

By-law in Brownsburg prohibits street circulars, signs on poles

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Fire Chief Fern Brisson's report caused some concern at the November session of Brownsburg Town Council as it listed details involved in seven fires which had occurred during the previous month. The two most serious outbreaks were those in which houses were damaged, but along with these were a truck fire and a number of bush fires. With the recent rainfall, the bush fire hazard has been considerably reduced, but the fact that the fire department responded to seven alarms during the month, may serve to warn local residents that the risk of fire in their homes increases during the fall and winter months.

Chief Brisson brought up an interesting point when he asked the Council whether the fire department should respond to bush fires outside Brownsburg. The question becomes further involved if the fire is reported by a passerby, not necessarily by the property owner. If the equipment is taken out of town for use in fighting such a fire, who pays for it? The conclusion reached was that the township concerned must pay for the service, and Chief Brisson is responsible for making the decision to go or not to go.

Sounding of Fire Siren

Council also decided that, effective immediately, the fire siren will not be sounded for fires reported after 9 p.m., and police officers will not use their sirens when going to the fire. The object of these moves is to avoid publicizing the fire, in the hope that fewer spectators will turn up, thereby simplifying the job of both the firefighters and police officers.

Still on the subject of fires, Mayor René Lafleur paid tribute to Chief Brisson and his crew for the efficient manner in which they recently carried out their duties, extinguishing the blaze which caused some $1,500 damage at the home of Larry Frigault.

One point Council might do well to consider seriously is the suggestion that former Chief Arthur Robbins put forward some years ago. At that time Mr. Robbins strongly favored the purchase of some auxiliary equipment, to safeguard Brownsburg if a fire occurred locally when the main equipment was being used at an out-of-town fire.

Chief Roger Boutet reported 27 speeding fines issued during the month, along with four fines for illegal parking. Twenty-three traffic warnings were issued, and seven accidents were reported. Chief Boutet also listed seven arrests for disorderly conduct.

Through Chief Boutet's efforts, the safety patrols developed at both the English and French schools have contributed greatly to safer street crossing for school children. One of the boys has been provided with a uniform, and Chief Boutet hopes to outfit the others in the near future. This is a worthy project, which deserves the co-operation of all drivers.

With the school patrol system in operation during the crucial "to and from school hours", and a maintained vigilance by the radar speed control officers at all times, the traffic hazard for our children could be cut to a minimum.

Fern Brisson in his role as town foreman asked whether the rough road-surface on some of the newer streets would be smoothed out before snowfall brought a need for the snow plow. Council agreed that the streets needed more gravel, but the members were not too sure who should be held responsible for doing the job. Since the meeting, gravel has been spread in small quantities, but no matter who is paying the shot, there has been little money spent.

Must Remove Dumpsite

The town is still without a new dump area. Conditions at the present site are such that a move to a new location is mandatory, but in looking many years ahead Council must choose the new area carefully.

Handbills and Posters

By-law No. 110, for which a notice of motion had been made last month, was adopted unanimously at this session. The regulation prohibits the passing out of circulars in the town, except when they are delivered to the homes. In addition, the posting of notices, signs or advertisements on municipal property or telephone poles, is also forbidden. This should keep the town cleaner, — and save money for candidates in future elections!

While nothing concrete has been done so far, Council is making preliminary plans for the proposed sewage disposal system requested by the government. According to latest estimates, the project will cost approximately $300,000, one third of which will be paid by each of the governments, federal, provincial and municipal.

Fire prevention in schools, film and speaker at H & S

Fire prevention is a vital subject. It is especially vital when it concerns our homes; it is even more so when it concerns the schools, where so many of our children are collected under one roof. . . . It is a subject sufficiently important to the Canadian Underwriters' Association that they sent two representatives from Montreal to the District Home and School meeting on Tuesday of last week. But out of some 800 parents and teachers, only 21 parents thought the safety of their children while in school a vital enough subject that they wanted to hear what experts had to say about it. And what these 21 parents heard was certainly vital — and a little disturbing.

Mr. E. Gow chaired the meeting, and reports were given from various committee chairmen. Mr. T. Smith, chairman of the membership committee, stated that 204 parents had paid fees to the Home and School Association this year, which is fewer than last year — indicating perhaps that fewer parents each year are taking an interest in their children's education? However, the "skate sale" was an unqualified success — 50 pairs of skates, skis and ski-boots being sold out of the 90 pairs that were brought in. Another useful service is UNICEF, and Mrs. W. Butterfield, who was in charge of the Hallowe'en drive in Lachute, gave her report. Over 400 boxes had been given out, with a return of well over $200 — although a final count cannot be given until all boxes are in.

Mrs. G. Dobbie moved a motion of congratulation to Mr. Fred Royal on winning the Award of Merit, 2nd Degree, from the P.A. P.T. Association at their annual dinner in Montreal this fall.

Mr. Young, of the Canadian Underwriters' Association in Montreal, showed a fine film entitled "Our Obligation", which dealt in part with the fire that destroyed a school in Chicago, killing 95 out of over 600 children. The film was followed by a talk and discussion, with Mr. Hanson, manager of the Canadian Underwriters' Association. He stated that fire insurance in a school would be cut by 60% if the school was equipped with a water sprinkler system, and that under normal circumstances the cost of such a system would be met by the saving in insurance costs over a period of 10 years. Mr. Hanson pointed out hazards in the local school — things like acoustic 'Tentest' tiles which are of pressed sawdust, and are a big hazard; steel-encased windows and windows with screens fastened, so that children cannot get in or out of them; classrooms with no close exit to the outside except down a long corridor (any fireman will tell you that nets held under windows are hazardous themselves). Another very real source of danger is cleaning-cupboards filled with rags and inflammable liquids, cupboards which have ventilated doors, and into which boys smoking in the basement can throw a hasty cigarette.

What can be done before erection of a building, to ensure good fire protection? First, submit plans to the Canadian Underwriters' Association. There should be a building code drawn up and enforced by the municipal council. This should include a fire prevention code, and an electrical code dealing with anything that could cause a fire. As Mr. Hanson suggests, if such a building code exists in Lachute, has it been brought up to date?

Films on fire precaution are available to groups in Lachute through Don MacCulloch, fire chief of this town. It was through Mr. MacCulloch's efforts that this highly interesting meeting was organized.

The next Home and School session will be held January 10.

Odd Fellows held installation of officers

Annual installation of officers of Laurentian Lodge No. 14, I.O.O.F., was held in the Brownsburg Legion Hall on Tuesday, November 7.

The assembly was honored by the presence of D.D.G.M. Bro. W. Ryan and his suite, including the Grand Master, Bro. Sam Windle of District No. 1. Other brethren who attended were D.G.M. Bro. # On Remembrance Day, homage paid to dead sentative gathering, both as to participants and spectators.

The Remembrance program gave indication of more detailed planning with no overlooking of essentials. The two minutes' silence was preluded by Last Post and concluded with Reveille over a loudspeaker system, and during the silence, the pipe band played The Lament. This observance was announced, and terminated, by a salvo from the field gun, and the respective color parties dipped their flags in tribute.

An addition to the ceremonies this year was the spreading of ashes, symbolic of Remembrance, by the two priests; the rite was accompanied by fitting prayers.

The laying of wreaths was announced by the Poppy Fund chairman, Comrade Geo. Kirby, who called upon representatives of the Legion, the municipality and one or two of the more important bodies — then reading the list of families, clubs, churches, business firms, youth groups and public bodies for whom emblems of remembrance had previously been placed around the cenotaph. This usually lengthy procedure was thus abbreviated, in consideration of the cold weather and the public, yet none of its significance was lost.

The parade marshal took charge, the pipe band struck a fitting rhythm, and the several uniformed groups marched off in orderly fashion.

Chatham Twp. seeks change in election date

At the November meeting of Chatham Municipal Council, notices of motion were given for two by-laws to be approved at next meeting — one concerning the width of all new roads to be taken over by the municipality, and the other concerning installation of street-lights.

It was resolved to write the C.P.R. authorities asking them to dig their share of the line ditch between the railway property and that of Mme Clérinda Gauthier in Staynerville. . . . The secretary was also instructed to write Mr. E. Maccabée to remove wood which he had left at the roadside on Rochon Montée — giving him three days to comply with this request.

Councillor Adelard Gagné moved, and Councillor D. Leroux seconded, that the Department of Municipal Affairs be asked to sanction a change in date of the elections in this municipality, from May to January.

A letter to Mr. Clément Caron will request his acceptance of about two miles of winter road on what is known as the Cushing Montee.

Bills for the month amounted to $2,160.77.

Mayor Roméo Foucault chaired the meeting, with a full quorum in attendance.

Canadian pianist warmly acclaimed

The Community Concerts Association opened its season on Tuesday of last week with an evening recital by one of Canada's most brilliant pianists, Montreal-born Ronald Turini. This young performer was warmly applauded by a fair-sized audience, who called him back repeatedly for encores at the conclusion of his program.

Ronald Turini took second award last year in the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium's international contest, and following this success, the Canada Council honored him by arranging engagements with all of Canada's leading symphony orchestras from coast to coast.

The artist's season is again fully booked this year, in recitals and with orchestras in principal cities of the U.S. and Canada. He is also returning to Europe for a tour arranged by the Société Philharmonique de Bruxelles.

At the outset of this fine recital the audience was welcomed by Mlle Juliette Rodrigue, in the unavoidable absence of Mme Fernand Legault, president. Mlle Rodrigue also announced a social event, in the form of a reception, following the last program of the season next March; the Catholic Women's League will cater with refreshments.

Rotarians held inter-club meet at Hawkesbury

On November 7, Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club and the Hawkesbury Rotary Club held their semi-annual inter-club meeting — the Hawkesbury Rotarians being hosts at their regular meeting place, the King Edward Hotel in Hawkesbury.

A very good turnout of members from both clubs were present to hear the guest speaker, Bill Killough, of the Public Relations Department of Ontario Hydro Commission. Mr. Killough spoke about the work the Ontario Hydro is doing in conjunction with the Atomic Energy Commission. He then showed the assembly a film depicting the Atomic plant at Chalk River, some of the experiments that are being carried out, and how atomic energy is produced and put to work.

The film and talk proved very interesting, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Masons held past-masters' nite

Argenteuil Masonic Lodge held its annual Past-Masters' Night on Monday, when Wor. Master Bro. K. Billingham handed over his regular duties as head of proceedings to Past-Master Wor. Bro. Hector Mason, and the latter, with other past officers, conducted the ceremonies of the evening.

Two First Degrees were conferred, and lengthy lectures were delivered by the officers, who were congratulated on their splendid performance.

Visitors were present from Grenville and Cornwall who, along with local members, enjoyed a pleasant evening.

The Ant and the Grasshopper

We all know the Fable of the Grasshopper who gaily danced the summer away while the Ant was busy laying aside provisions and preparing for the cold winter.
There are some people who dance through the summer of their lives as unconcerned and unprepared as the Grasshopper. But other, wiser men and women provide funds against the cold winter day when they will be urgently needed. You can still enjoy life, and you will have added peace of mind, knowing that you and your loved ones are safeguarded by a life insurance contract of the Sun Life of Canada.
Why not discuss your life insurance problems with me today? You will be under no obligation.

J. A. POLLOCK'S
TIPS
ON PROTECTING EGG QUALITY TO IMPROVE YOUR EGG GRADES

1. Provide 1 nest for every 4 laying hens. Use thin nest rails that won't collect droppings. Keep litter dry.
2. Collect eggs at least 3 times a day in summer, twice a day in winter. Collect every 2 hours when temperature is over 90°.
3. Don't let eggs stand outside in sun, or in heated area. 2 or 3 hours of warm air will lower grades.
4. Wash eggs immediately after gathering in water 110° to 120°. Leave in water less than 3 minutes. Dry immediately.
5. Place eggs in cooler. Ideal temperature 50 to 55°. Ideal humidity 70%.
6. Precool egg cases and flats before packing eggs.
7. Spray eggs with Purina Egg Spray.
They'll hold top quality many days longer than eggs not sprayed. Eggs must be sprayed when they are fresh.
8. Feed Purina Laying Chows. I'd like to tell you how some of your neighbours are consistently getting top quality eggs, and making big profits by feeding Purina Chows. Why not call me, or drop in today and I'll help you to prove to yourself that Purina feeding costs less.

The new Ford car – Fairlane – a completely new car [especially in size and value]. Sized between a full-size car and a compact... priced below many compacts... and so well built you can feel it... Fairlane is probably the most sensible car you can buy today...
FORD FAIRLANE
Fairlane 500 Fordor Sedan . . . one of Ford of Canada's fine cars, built in Canada.

Features of the new Ford car
FAIRLANE IS A NEW SIZE—BETWEEN A FULL-SIZE CAR AND A COMPACT...
The Fairlane series is a completely new line of cars. It gives you the room, ride and performance of a big car at a price below many compacts. It's available in two series, Fairlane or the deluxe Fairlane 500.
SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT!
Visit your Ford Dealer now . . . take a ride in the '62 Fairlane—and actually "feel" the difference. Its solid single-unit construction brings you a new level of quiet and quality. That is because the floor, sides and roof are all welded into one solid unit so that there's no place for rattles to start.
NEW V-8 ENGINE...
Ford has developed a completely new V-8 engine that combines the strength of iron with the lightness of aluminum. As a result, the 221 cu. in. Challenger V-8, the newest from the world's V-8 leader, brings you responsive power with smoother, quieter, more economical performance. A new Fairlane Six will deliver substantially better mileage than any other in its class and it is actually more economical than many of the compacts!
ROOMY AND COMFORTABLE FULL-SIZE INTERIORS...
Inside, Fairlane is not a compact. It boasts traditional big car roominess for six passengers. Posture-perfect front seats are generously foam padded. There is a wide selection of luxurious interiors. And the optional choice of power steering and power brakes completes the remarkable standard of built-for-people comfort everywhere!
AS SERVICE FREE AS A CAR CAN BE!
The new Fairlane enjoys Ford's famous built-to-take-care-of-itself features. You go up to 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications . . . up to 6,000 miles between oil changes. There's a new 30,000 mile or two-year radiator coolant. Brakes adjust themselves—automatically. Ford Dealers give a 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty, whichever comes first.

Brownsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hebert and Master David Hebert were Sunday guests of relatives here.

Remembrance Rites

The large number that gathered at the cenotaph for the Remembrance service on Saturday, November 11, proved that the citizens of this community "still remember" and honor those who served their country in both World Wars and in the Korean War. Members of the Legion and their Auxiliary, Brownies and Cubs, marched in a body to the cenotaph, where Mayor Rene Lafleur, the Rev. Father Clement and the Rev. George Hicks took part in the service. Representatives from the different organizations and business firms placed wreaths at the cenotaph.

Mrs. E. MacLeod, Miss Marilyn MacLeod and Mrs. R. MacLeod, of St. Laurent, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Walter Townsend.

UNICEF Results

Brownsburg and district residents contributed a total of $66 to the UNICEF campaign — according to Paul Villard, organizer of the Brownsburg Brownie and Cub Packs and the Peter Pan Kindergarten canvassers. On behalf of the campaign, Mr. Villard expresses his appreciation to all contributors.

Avoca

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Andrews were Mr. and Mrs. Noel Cormier, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Broden, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Allan MacLeod, of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eastwood and family, of Bell Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Young and family, of Pointe au Chene.

Mrs. Pete Bennett returned to Montreal after spending two weeks visiting her brother, Mr. Ed Andrews and Mrs. Andrews.

Mrs. Ed Andrews spent a few days visiting her brother, Mr. Allan MacLeod and Mrs. MacLeod, in Ottawa.

APPRECIATION

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to all friends, relatives and neighbors for the many cards, flowers, gifts and encouraging letters I received during my stay in the Reddy Memorial Hospital.

— Mrs. James Crooks

Weir

Mrs. G. Cullen was here from Montreal to spend the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams'. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hendery, with their sons John and Hal, of Montreal, were also Sunday guests at the Williams home.

We are pleased to see Mr. Emile Courte home again after spending some time in the Reddy Memorial Hospital, Montreal, where he underwent surgery.

Mr. A. J. Kerr spent the week-end in Montreal and visited his wife, who is a patient in the Notre Dame Hospital. Friends hope that Mrs. Kerr may soon be well and able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gelston and daughter, Lyndadee, of Montreal, spent Wednesday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Loudin.

W.A. Officers Elected

At the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, the following officers were re-elected by acclamation for the coming year — President, Mrs. J. D. Williams; vice-president, Mrs. Jos. Loudin; secretary, Mrs. E. J. Craig; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Owen, Dorcas sec., Mrs. Cyrus Thompson, U.T.O. sec., Mrs. W. D. Morrison; Roberta E. Tilton sec., Mrs. A. J. Kerr; and refreshments committee, Mrs. W. D. Morrison and Mrs. Alex Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Henderson, of Montreal, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Howard were here from Cornwall to spend Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett's.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rawley left on Monday to spend the winter in Florida.

Mrs. W. D. Morrison is spending a few days in Lachute as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. D. MacKimmie and Mr. MacKimmie.

Harrington

Mr. Gilbert Young, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corl Young.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McMahon on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Walter MacLean, Mr. John MacRae, Miss Mary P. McMahon, Mrs. John McMahon, and Mrs. B. Meyer and children, of Lachute.

Mr. L. Campbell, of Montreal, and Mr. D. Trineer, called on friends here last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Formagie, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. G. McVicar and Joanie, of Grenville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. V. McVicar.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Carriere and son, Greg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan McGrath, of Dartmouth, N.S., are spending their honeymoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobbie. Other visitors at the Dobbie home last week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hamilton and son, Jeffery, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lough, of Montreal, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott MacLean last week-end.

Arundel

A serious accident occurred to David Graham last week, when he fell off his bicycle and suffered a broken ankle bone. He was taken to St. Jerome hospital, but is now home convalescing.

Mr. Clark Graham and Miss Morrison were guests at the home of Mrs. Alvin Graham over the week-end.

The annual "Remembrance Day" service was held by the pupils of the Arundel School, in the school auditorium on Friday afternoon. A touching address was given by Miss Gloria Graham. The public were invited to this ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Haylock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gray, of Gray Valley, over the week-end.

A short visit was paid to Mr. and Mrs. E. Bulley at their home on Thursday evening by Mr. B. Atkinson, Mr. J. Buckland and Mr. MacLean Marshall, prior to their attending the Laurentian Lodge Masonic meeting.

We are glad to see Mrs. Leslie Cooke home from hospital, now convalescing. Friends wish her speedy good health.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Farran leave this week to take up their new residence in Almonte. It is with great regret we say "Goodbye", and sincerely hope that the friendly ties they have made here will endure, in spite of distance. Friends wish them all success in their new locality.

Remembrance Service

"Remembrance Day" was observed in Arundel United Church on Sunday morning. The two-minute silence was observed and the choir rendered the anthem, "No Shadows Yonder" (Holy City).

Card Party

A successful card party was held in the meeting rooms of the Anglican Woman's Auxiliary last week. Cards were played at eight tables. Winners for the evening were Mr. Henry Williams and Mrs. Douglas Williams. The committee wish to thank all who attended and worked to make this event a success.

Old Friend Mourned

We are saddened to report the death of Mr. Hans Eberman, genial owner and host of Otter Lake House. Mr. Eberman was well known to all in Arundel, and many here have enjoyed his warm hospitality. The thought and sympathy of our community are extended to his widow. The funeral took place in Montreal on Friday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. P. Staniforth attended the funeral.

WELDEN — Mrs. James Welden, Sr., at her late residence in Kilmar, on Tuesday, Nov. 14. Funeral will be held on Saturday, Nov. 18, at 2 p.m. from St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Grenville. Interment at Calumet. Remains resting at New Grenville Funeral Home.

IN MEMORIAM

BRYERTON — In fond and loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Eva Bryerton, who passed away Nov. 11, 1958. — Ever remembered by her husband, Earl, and daughter, Freda.

"Your heart was the dearest in all the wide world,
Your love the best to recall,
For no one on earth could take your place —
You are still the dearest of all."

GORDON — In loving memory of my dear wife, Bella, who passed away Nov. 16, 1959. — Sadly missed by her husband, Archie.

"There is someone who misses you sadly
In the house where you used to be,
Someone who wanted to keep you
But God willed it not to be,
And sorrows too great to be told,
But to me who loved and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old."

GORDON — In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away Nov. 16, 1959. — Ever remembered by Jean and Eddie.

"Softly the leaves of memory fall,
Gently we gather and cherish them all,
Father in heaven, hear our prayer,
Watch over dear Mother with tender care."

GORDON — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away Nov. 16, 1959. — Remembered always by Tootie and Keith.

"If we could have life's dearest wish
And all earth's pleasures too,
Or pick from heaven what we could have,
Dear Mother, we'd ask for you."

GORDON — In loving memory of our dear sister, Bella (Cunningham) Gordon, who passed away Nov. 16, 1959. — Sadly missed by Beatrice, Hugh, Barbara and Gertie.

"We who were granted the loan of her kindliness,
We who were chosen to know her sweet smile,
We must be thankful the Lord in His graciousness
Shared those great treasures with us for awhile."

HOLLOMBY — In loving memory of Jean Morrison, who passed away Nov. 21, 1954. — Always remembered by her family.

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of a dear brother, brother-in-law and uncle, Garnet, who passed away Nov. 15, 1958. Also Aunt Mattie Molyneux, who passed away Nov. 13, 1960. — Lovingly remembered by Aldyth and family.

"God knew the road was getting rough,
The hill too steep to climb,
He gently took your hands in His
And whispered 'peace be thine'."

IN MEMORIAM

MacRAE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away Nov. 11, 1948. — Always remembered by his loving wife, Catherine, Ethel, Dorothy and Russell, and grandson, Reid.

"Two tired eyes are sleeping,
Two worn hands are still,
The one who worked so hard for us
Is resting, at God's holy will."

MARTIN — In loving memory of our dear mother, Charlotte, who passed away Nov. 18, 1950. — Ever remembered by her sons, Donald and Jim.

"Your name is often spoken,
Thoughts in silence fly,
To the days when you were with us —
Fond memories never die."

MARTIN — In loving memory of a dear sister, Charlotte, who passed away Nov. 18, 1950. — Always remembered by her sisters.

"It's not the words, they are but few,
It's the loving memory we have of you."

NIXON — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Rhoda, who passed away Nov. 18, 1948. — Ever remembered by her husband, Eddie, Alton and family, and Reta and family.

"A little prayer keeps us in touch
With a mother we loved and miss so much;
Your memory, dear Mother, will never grow old,
It's locked in our hearts in letters of gold."

ROBERTSON — In loving memory of Edwin H. Robertson, who passed away Nov. 19, 1957. — Always remembered by the family.

STEELE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bethel Steele, who passed away Nov. 19, 1960. — Sadly missed by his wife and family.

"One year has passed, how long it seems,
But in our hearts his dear face beams,
And only we who loved him know
How much we lost one year ago."

STEELE — In loving memory of our brother-in-law and uncle, Bethel Steele, who passed away Nov. 19, 1960. — Always remembered by Norman, Edith and family.

"He would not ask for grieving,
He would not ask for tears,
But only to be remembered
Through the passing years."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

KINGSBURY — Mrs. Harry Kingsbury and family wish to extend their thanks for the many messages of sympathy, flowers, cards, masses and acts of kindness tendered them during their recent bereavement.

MORROW — The family of the late Howard Morrow wish to tender heartfelt thanks and appreciation to their many relatives and friends, for kind expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement in the loss of a beloved brother.

Are Fallout Shelters the Answer?

A Better Remedy . . .

(Awake Magazine, Nov., 1961)

The growing emphasis on fallout shelters raises a timely question: Are shelters the real answer to the problem? Is it not peace that we need more than a concrete hut of questionable value? The horrible consequences of nuclear war should convince anyone that an ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure. But where can man find lasting peace?

The facts of modern history confirm what the Bible foretold long ago. Peace must come by God's kingdom, not by the conferences of men. Fulfilled Bible prophecies prove that our generation is on a collision course with Armageddon, the "war of the great day of God the Almighty." Since Jesus referred to it as the worst time of trouble ever known to man, it far overshadows even a nuclear war between the East and West. Furthermore, there is no doubt that Armageddon is destined to strike all the inhabited earth.

Who will survive that act of God and how? Its purpose answers both questions. Armageddon will remove wickedness from heaven and earth and pave the way for God's new world of righteousness. Survival depends, not on digging into the earth, but on delving into God's written Word the Bible to learn the course that pleases him. Protection depends entirely on being in harmony with God and his kingdom under Christ. There is no other place of refuge in the world crisis.

In view of this, it would be a mistake to become so absorbed in the campaign for survival of nuclear attack as to forget that a greater danger faces all of us. Seek shelter? Yes, but be sure it is in the right place and from the war that really counts.

Seek Jehovah, all you meek ones of the earth, who have practiced His own judicial decision. Seek righteousness, seek meekness. Probably you may be concealed in the day of Jehovah's anger. — Zeph. 2:3.

— Sent by Mrs. W. H. Warren, Calumet, Que.

Veterans attended United Ch. service of Remembrance

An interesting feature of the Remembrance service in Lachute United Church was the fact that members of the Lachute Branch 70 of the Royal Canadian Legion attended the devotions, along with their color party, and were piped into church by members of the Harrington Pipe Band. The wreath placed at the foot of the Communion table was dedicated to the memory of "The Unknown Canadian Soldier", and after making special reference to this, the minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, read "In Flanders Fields", the poem for Remembrance Sunday, composed by the late Lieut.-Col. John McRae. Mr. Lowell B. Hopkins was at the organ, and the choir gave an impressive rendering of "The Souls of the Righteous are in the Hands of God".

Speaking to a crowded congregation on the need for bringing Christ back to His rightful place in the life of the nation, the Rev. Wilson Bridge said: "At the present time there is a spirit in national and international affairs which dismisses Christ and His claims as being quite irrelevant. The tenets of His gospel must be applied to every single one of life's relationships, to every problem of our social and political life, or else they must be 'scrapped altogether'. Until we realize these things and put them into practice, there will be no real freedom, no true security, no permanent peace."

The service closed with the singing of the first verse of the national anthem, after which the Legion members, headed by the pipers, marched back to their headquarters.

"The Scene" IN BROWNSBURG

Remembrance Day in Brownsburg was typical of most of those that have gone before, insofar as the weather was concerned—cold and damp. In this regard, some fainter hearts were heard to say that the Legion parade would be better held during the summer. Could be, but there are those, too, who feel that perhaps the chilly, rather desolate atmosphere serves to bring home more realistically the true meaning of an Armistice service.

Perhaps in a gesture to further that same true meaning, owners of commercial establishments might themselves suggest that next year the wreaths purchased by them be placed on the cenotaph without the name of the donor being announced during the service.

Just around the corner — a zoning by-law for Brownsburg. The draft is now in the hands of the town councillors for perusal. From this will come such things as regulations governing location of commercial buildings, location of houses on streets, etc.

The youngsters' hockey league is underway again at the Arena. Some 115 boys, aged 8 to 16, make up 10 teams in three separate leagues. Instrumental in formation of the system again this year — Bill Dimock, Bernie Golphin, André Pilon, Ronald Cousineau and Gerry Ouellette.

Social and Personal

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh returned home to Lakefield after a week spent visiting in Shawville, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bradford were in North Bay on Wednesday, of last week, to attend the funeral of Mrs. E. Covey, mother of Mrs. Doug Bradford, Jr., of Cowansville.

Mr. Donald Heggie, of Ayers Limited, is attending the annual meeting of the Quebec Section, Cdn. Association of Textile Colorists and Chemists, in Montreal this week-end, and will chair a discussion on "Effects of Wool Processing or Wool Dyeing".

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Callicott last week-end were old friends from Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Blatherwick. Mr. Blatherwick was formerly chief architect of the Bank of Montreal. While here they renewed acquaintances with relatives at St. Philippe, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Heatlie. . . . Mrs. M. McDonald, of Montreal, was also a week-end guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Callicott.

"Every Member Visitations"

The term "Sector" in reference to two congregational meetings reported last week, was not correctly applicable to this year's solicitation. It is understood the campaigns being organized by Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church and St. Simeon's Church are two independent efforts, in the form of an "Every Member Visitation".

Mrs. Jas. C. Calder, Town of Mount Royal, and Mrs. Ernest J. Boyd, of St. Laurent, visited last week with their mother, Mrs. Robt. Hamilton, and their sister, Miss Mary Evelyn Hamilton, R.N.

The many friends of Mr. Norman Hodge, who is a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital, will be glad to know he has successfully undergone an eye operation, last week.

Mr. Joseph H. Bates and son, Tom, of Port Colborne, visited Mr. D. J. Bates and Mrs. Sarah Sutton here over the week-end. Mrs. Thos. Young, who has been visiting her brother Mr. Allan McPhee at Avoca, was also a guest.

Recovered from Accident

The many friends of Mr. Alex Hodge will be glad to know he has returned to work at the Brownsburg C-I-L plant, after a long convelescence following his car accident last March.

Attended Wedding

Among those who were in Chesterville, Ont., last Friday evening attending the wedding of Miss Alice Gain, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gain, to Mr. Stephen Thompson, were — Mrs. Fred Gain, Mrs. Violet Townsend, Messrs. Brent Townsend, Charlie Lister, Robert Gain, Misses Florence Gain and Sheila Nicoll, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nicoll, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gauley, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Gain, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Gain and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lister, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gain.

Women's Institute Drawing

At the November meeting of the Jerusalem - Bethany Women's Institute, tickets were drawn for a quilt which had been donated by a former member, the late Mrs. A. Stewart. Mrs. N. McGeorge was winner of the quilt, Mrs. W. Steeves drawing the lucky ticket.

Entertained in Honor Of Concert Pianist

Mrs. Jacques Bedard and Miss Juliette Rodrigue entertained at the former's home, following the Community Concert last week. Guests were the Association directors and the performing artist, Mr. Ronald Turini, pianist — also Mr. Leo Bernache of Ottawa, Canadian manager for Community Concerts, and Mrs. Bernache.

To Direct Campaign

Mr. Gerard Lefebvre, former alderman and well remembered here for his energetic organizing of charity and other campaigns, has accepted the general chairmanship of the 1962 Combined Appeal for the Blind — a $375,000 campaign in Greater Montreal next March. . . . Mr. Lefebvre is now vice-president and general manager of the Slater Shoe Co. (Canada) Ltd.

Attended W.I. Meeting Here

Among those attending the Lachute W.I. meeting from Frontier Branch, last Tuesday afternoon in the Legion Hall, were — Mrs. L. M. Gaston, Mrs. A. Starnes, Mrs. I. H. Fuller, Mrs. Warwick, Mrs. A. Heatlie, Miss R. O'Brien, Mrs. N. Morrison, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mrs. Jas. Coney and Mrs. D. Clark.

Will Debbie's prayers be answered?

The wheelchair at the end of her bed is the clue to what this little girl is praying for. She's praying for a miracle — a cure for muscular dystrophy within her lifetime. ## The Bible Today

When the Rev. A. W. Marthinson, Bible Society secretary in the Congo, visited the Rev. A. Graber, director of the Congo Protestant Relief Agency in Bakwanga recently, he was present when an old Congolese Chief called on Mr. Graber. He told how he had lost everything. His wife, who belonged to the Luluas, was "stolen" and his children were taken away. He lost his goats and his sewing machine. Then he said, "I lost my Bible, now I am a refugee here. I own nothing. I can't find my family and I can't start a new family. I have nothing to buy a wife with."

A new copy of the Holy Bible was placed in his hands. His face shone as he took the Book into his hands with loving care. This was to him a most prized and precious possession. Mr. Graber also supplied him with some food and this poor, deprived man went away greatly comforted.

Mr. Marthinson has supplied many copies of the Scriptures in the refugee camps in the Congo and more recently for the Umbundu people who have fled to the Congo from the persecution in Angola.

BELL LINES

by Bob Bell, your telephone plant foreman

NEW "NIGHT-ECONOMY" PLAN AND OTHER LONG DISTANCE REDUCTIONS

Now you can call your out-of-town family and friends in Ontario and Quebec on our new Night-Economy Plan and save money! On any Bell Company station-to-station call within Ontario and Quebec, placed after nine p.m. any evening, you will be charged at low night rates for the first five minutes. Then — keep talking! There is no additional charge for the next five minutes. (You get ten minutes of Long Distance time for the price of five.) From then on, every two minutes you talk will only be charged as one minute. On Long Distance calls where the basic rate is ten cents, you can now talk up to ten minutes on the Night-Economy Plan for ten cents and each additional six minutes for five cents. While the new plan is the lowest-cost Long Distance plan ever offered to our customers, there are considerable REDUCTIONS in most day and night "station-to-station" calls over 48 miles — the direct result of the economies that arise from the expanding use of automatic dialing equipment (Direct Distance Dialing).

Increased automation enables us to pass along to our customers the economies on station-to-station calls, but Long Distance calls requiring the more time consuming services of an operator are more costly to handle: rates for such calls will more closely reflect their actual costs. For example, PERSON-TO-PERSON calls have become somewhat more expensive over distances up to 276 miles, with noticeable REDUCTIONS FOR GREATER DISTANCES. The discount rates for person-to-person calls at night and on Sunday have been eliminated. The small surcharges for calls charged to a third number or for "collect" calls have been increased from 10 cents to 20 cents.

STATION-TO-STATION CALLS

Here it is November, with Christmas just around the corner! Yes, it's time once again to go over that old Christmas list and make sure no one is forgotten. Speaking of remembering folks at Christmas, one of the finest ways to make a lasting impression on your loved ones is to provide them with a thing of beauty that will give them year-round convenience and pleasure — a constant reminder of your thoughtfulness. May we suggest that an extension phone in color in the bedroom, kitchen, den or basement workshop would give this sort of pleasure and convenience. Why not provide someone dear to you with extension telephone service this Christmas? It's something that's sure to be well used and appreciated throughout the year. And, as an added feature, this wall or table phone — to put under the tree. One of our installers will come after Christmas to connect it where it's wanted. If the extension service is for relatives or friends, you can arrange payment on your own phone bill. To order, just ask the man in our green truck.

AVOCA

The Rev. Wm. Toller returned home after attending a two-weeks church conference.

Mrs. Alvin Campbell, of Lachute, spent a day last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Bates.

Mrs. George Kelly and Mrs. Howard Smith entertained a few friends to a "quilting" and tea.

Mrs. Hugh Bates entertained at a birthday party for her husband and his twin brother, Mr. James Bates, of Lachute, on Friday last. Other members present were his sister, Mrs. Wm. Gill and Mr. Gill, of Grenville, and Mrs. James Bates, of Lachute.

Mrs. Doherty has closed her store for the winter, and is returning to her home in Montreal.

The members of St. Mary's Church will meet for service Sunday, November 19, at 2.30. If the weather is cold, they will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Browne.

Week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McPhee were their daughter, Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, of Aylmer, Que., Mrs. Thos. J. Young and Mr. Thos. Bates (her nephew), of Port Colborne, Mr. Alex McPhee and Mrs. Chas. Steele, of Grenville, Que.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for the lovely cards, phone calls, visits and the many kind deeds shown me following my recent accident. Special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Ward Moncrieff for their kindness. — Mrs. H. W. Graham

Aged resident of Avoca, Que., was widely related

The late Joseph Young

On October 15, the family and friends of Joseph Young were grieved to learn of his sudden death, at the age of 82, at his home in Avoca. As testified by the large number of mourners at the funeral service, in the chapel of the New Grenville Funeral Home, he will be greatly missed by relatives and friends.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Kirk Feltham, assisted by the Rev. Wm. Toller.

Pall-bearers were — Grant Arthurs, Guy Kelly, Nelson Young, John Young, John McLean and Hugh Bates. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Avoca Cemetery.

Joseph, the son of the late Mr. William Young and his wife Jane Bates, was born at Avoca on July 8, 1879.

In September 1901, he married Elizabeth McNeely, who predeceased him in 1928.

There were eight children born of this marriage — William (accidentally killed at Ste. Adele, Que., in 1935), Leonard and Ancel, both of Port Colborne, Ont., Richard, of Grenville, Helen (Mrs. George Bisset), of Port Colborne, Guy, of Red Rock, Ont., Alvin, of Welland, Ont., and Alice (Mrs. John Noonan), also of Port Colborne.

In April, 1931, he married Euphemia (McLean) Kelly, widow of the late Jonathan Kelly of Avoca. Mrs. Young predeceased him in 1959.

Survivors of a family of 16 are five brothers and four sisters — Asa, Isaac, Robert, Harry, Edith (Mrs. J. MacRae), Gertrude (Mrs. George Andrews), Margaret, Priscilla (Mrs. D. Shaw) and Edward,

Also surviving are four stepsons and four step-daughters — Margaret (Mrs. H. Young), Lambert, Walter, Dora (Mrs. W. Arthurs), Elmer, Catherine (Mrs. G. Murray), Lorna (Mrs. E. Carson), and Harold Kelly.

There are also 28 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

Death removes hostelry owner at Otter Lake

The late Hans Eberman

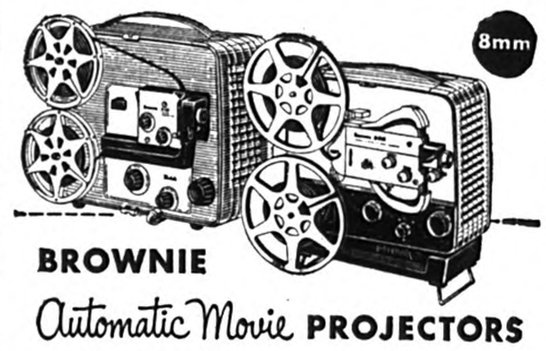

Montreal — Funeral was held Monday at the Lutheran German Church, Montreal, for Hans Eberman, well known resident of Huberdeau, who died November 9 in St. Mary's Hospital.

Born in Germany, he came to Canada at the close of the First World War. With his sister, the late Mrs. Kasnitz, he founded the Otter Lake House, a popular and well-kept hostelry.

Mr. Eberman had always been a great lover of music and aided musicians with many generous gestures. In 1953 he loaned all his facilities for the formation of the Otter Lake Music Centre.

Three prominent musicians, George Little, Mario Duchenes and Ian Simons, provided musical background for his funeral.

He is survived by his second wife, Margret.

Young Canada's Book Week

YOUNG CANADA'S BOOK WEEK is being celebrated across Canada, November 15-22. Hugh MacLennan, well-known Canadian novelist, is patron of this observance. Mr. MacLennan has a firm belief in the importance of making the best books available to Canadian boys and girls.

In his message, he stresses the impact books make on children. He says, "The books we read when we are young are the most important books we will ever read. They reach us freshly. They can bring the whole world to us, and if the world they bring is a true one, they are almost more valuable than school".

Nobody can ever measure what reading can do to a man who starts young enough. Just 139 years ago a child called Heinrich Schliemann was born in Germany. When he was a little boy he read, in translation, two of the greatest stories ever written, Homer's Iliad and Odyssey. Later he learned Greek, and could recite every verse of these great poems by heart. He made a fortune in business. He retired from business at the age of forty-one and dedicated the rest of his life to discovering the site of ancient Troy. He not only discovered Troy; he also discovered the lost cities of Mycenae and Tiryns. He did more than that; he founded the science of archaeology, which has unearthed and described civilizations which lived and died long before the Trojan Wars were fought.

Our own Gabrielle Roy, one of the finest writers Canada ever produced, was born as a poor girl on the Manitoba prairie. But her father had a collection of the works of Balzac in his attic, and the young Gabrielle spent hours alone with them until she had read them all. "I, too, will see Paris one day." Not only did she become a writer and see Paris; she became the first writer not a citizen of France to be awarded the Prix Fémina for services to French literature. . . . But similar examples are numerous.

No "small potatoes"

POTATOES have been a staple food for centuries, in many lands. But with the increasing attention to low-calorie diets in recent years, the potato has been getting a cold look from those wishing to reduce, and an outright rejection by some people under a medical diet, such as heart patients, who know the part that calories play in arterial thickening.

Now the lowly spud has found a powerful defender in the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. . . . The FAO, in its current world-wide "freedom from hunger" campaign, finds it worthwhile to remind people that the potato is easy to grow and store, and can be eaten without any complicated processing.

For the calorie-conscious, FAO says the potato contains relatively little starch, about 12 to 20 per cent. The average-sized potato has only 70 calories — fewer than a slice of white bread, a plate of spaghetti or a piece of pie. Biggest content of a potato, 70 to 80 per cent, is water.

Potatoes are grown in most parts of Canada. For Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, potatoes have long been a principal crop, and they are an important crop in areas of Quebec and Ontario, and indeed many other parts.

About 60,000,000 bushels of potatoes — including seed potatoes — are needed annually in Canada. Apart from domestic supply, there is a valuable export trade in table stock and certified seed potatoes. Potato production has mainly been confined to countries of the northern hemisphere, but its cultivation now is spreading to other areas in Africa, Asia and its original home in Latin America. Biggest production increase in the past decade is in southeast Europe, where it has more than doubled.

This world production as a factor in meeting the food demands of an ever-increasing population is certainly not "small potatoes."

Eskimos need training

A LEADING Canadian expert on the Eskimo has raised a question that should trouble us: Are we doing all we should to help the Eskimo become self-supporting?

Dr. Diamond Jenness, 75-year-old scientist who has spent much of his life studying Canadian aborigines, brought the matter up at the Resources for Tomorrow conference in Montreal.

There are about 11,000 Eskimos scattered throughout the North.

Dr. Jenness said only 400 in the 2,000-man labor force have jobs. Barely more than a dozen could read and understand instructions in a piece of machinery or fill out an employment form. Within the next 10 years only a few Eskimo children would qualify for high school.

He said family allowances and relief payments account for nearly half of the average Eskimo family's income.

Dr. Jenness, whose experience with Eskimos dates back 50 years to the time he spent several years living on Victoria Island and was adopted by an Eskimo family, suggested a plan.

He wants a training scheme that would aim at moving 100 young Eskimos out of the Arctic each year and into schools and training centres in such cities as Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Some graduates of the plan could be sent back to fill available jobs in the Arctic while others would be integrated into the labor force in the south.

The government's policy has been to try to train Eskimos in their own habitat. It hopes that as mining and oil exploration open up the Arctic jobs will become available for an increasing number of Eskimos.

Dr. Jenness says it might take 50 years to develop enough jobs. He declares that companies moving into the North are reluctant to hire Eskimo labor, preferring trained whites.

He notes that the Eskimo birthrate is higher than the national average and that, thanks to the efforts of government doctors, the death rate is down. But this only aggravated the problem of finding jobs.

Several other experts at the Montreal conference took issue with Dr. Jenness, maintaining that things aren't as bad as he paints them. But the comments of this respected scientist at least deserve serious consideration.

One industry out ahead

SOME OF SANTA'S best workshops are in Canada, and the world is getting to know it.

This year the United States is expected to increase its purchases of Canadian toys by about 50 per cent, and altogether, at home and abroad, 1961 sales of our toy makers are heading for a $120-million level.

The industry employs approximately 10,000 people directly and has made no accurate count of the thousands whose livelihood may depend wholly or in part on Santa's workshops.

While Hong Kong and Japan ship mechanical small toys to Canada (our toy industry has 60 to 65 per cent of the Canadian market), Canadian toymakers return the compliment. They ship toys to Hong Kong as well as South America, the United States, the West Indies and Commonwealth countries.

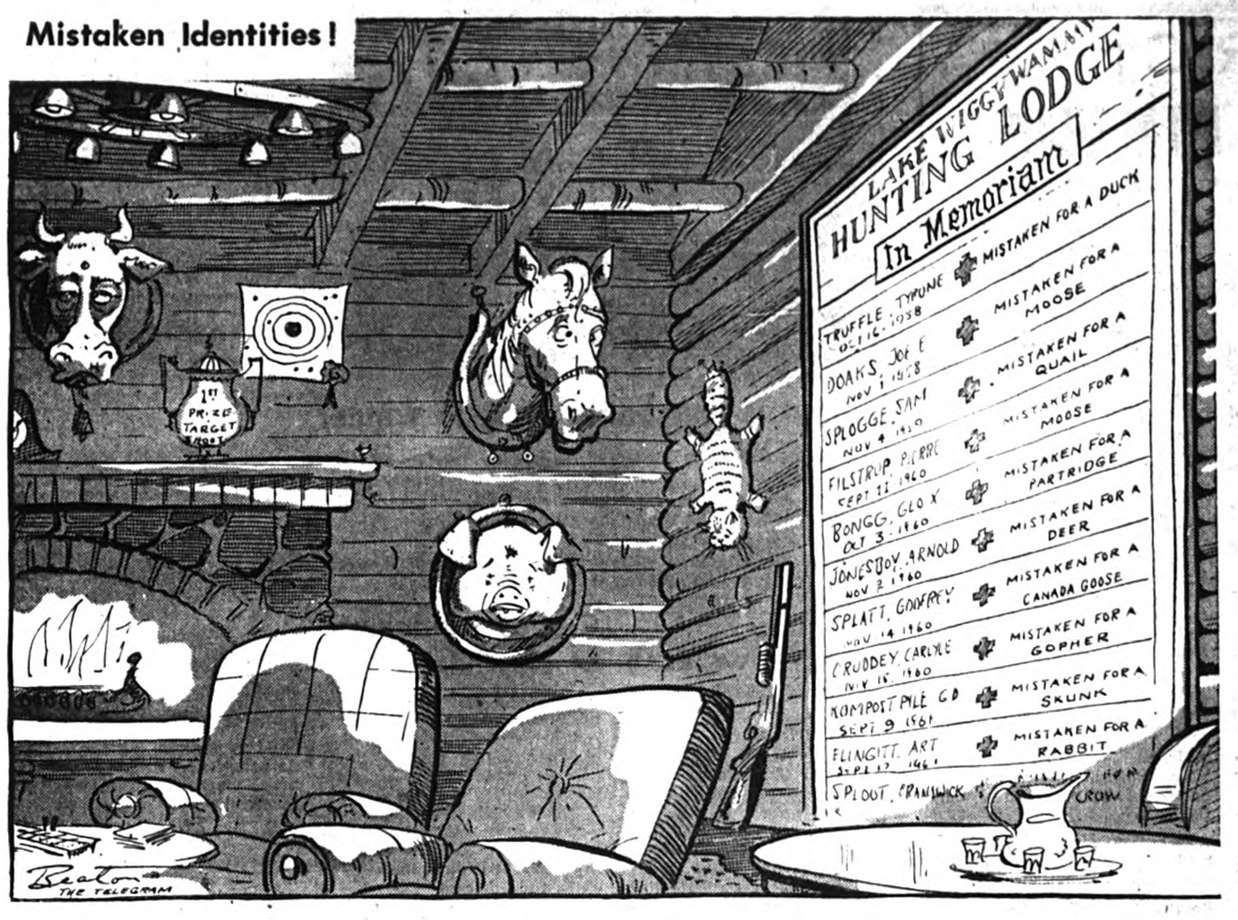

The toys made in Canada pretty well cover the field of childish desire. Realism, durability and educational values are strong influences in Canadian toy lines.

Viewpoints and perspectives

"MATERNAL WAGE". — The idea is now well established that a government hand-out can fix any ill, real or imagined. A current example is the suggestion that the government might pay a "maternal wage" to convince mothers in Canada that it is a worthwhile occupation to stay home and look after the house and the children.

Mistaken Identities!

COMMUNISM AND THE CHURCHES

The Canadian Council of Evangelical Churches, headed by Dr. Slade, pastor of the Jarvis Street Baptist Church in Toronto, is greatly concerned about what it believes to be Communist use of religion to advance the cause of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

The reason for its concern was, apparently, a visit to Canada by a religious delegation from Russia, headed by Jakov Zhidkov and two associates. According to the Christian Beacon, the Russian delegation is composed of propagandists for Khrushchev. That religious newspaper claims that the Canadians who sponsored the Russian visit " may be counted among the duped."

Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches, said bluntly that the three Russian ministers visiting Toronto are Communist agents, and that one is an elite member of the NKVD (secret police). Dr. McIntire added, "The real Christians in Russia tonight are in the underground, the catacombs, in Siberia, and thousands are in their graves. They're not walking around like these men."

What is one to make of these charges? The Gospel Witness, published by the Baptist Church, has accused the Baptist Federation of Canada of "collaboration" with Communists." On the other hand, there are leading spokesmen of the Baptist faith who defend and approve of the Russian tour and the man who heads it. One, Dr. Emlyn Davies, minister of Yorkminster Baptist Church in Toronto and the president of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, is quoted by the Canadian Press as saying, "The charges made against him (Zhidkov) are groundless and unworthy, but typical of the McCarthys of Protestantism. Most of the accusations are part of a smear campaign and unworthy of a Christian minister."

In the United States, there has been a struggle going on for many years between those who are convinced that the Communists are infiltrating church organizations, and those who are leaders in the ecumenical movement. It seems certain now, that the Russian tour has started similar conflict here in Canada. It is an issue which cannot but lead to very bitter disputes.

It would seem to me that much of this bitterness and ill-will could be avoided if a committee composed of members from each group could meet and study the situation calmly. Jakov Zhidkov has written many articles and made numerous speeches. Surely a careful study of his own words would disclose more truth about him than do the charges and counter-charges being hurled back and forth today between members of the same faith.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Remember Douglas Fisher? He is the member of Parliament for Port Arthur, Ont., who said that most Canadians do not recognize Britain as the mother country.

I wrote a piece to say that our system of parliamentary democracy and many of our most important principles of law were inherited from Britain.

The country was founded by British people, who defeated the French and then took them into partnership.

Therefore, I suggested, Britain is the mother country whether we like it or not.

Mr. Fisher has written me a letter to point out that he didn't mean any harm.

"You won't want my rebuttal," he says, "but as a corrective I thought you should know that (a) I have lived in England for five years as an adult; (b) I get my greatest pleasures in reading, history, sports, etc., from following things English; (c) I considered very seriously 10 years ago whether I should stay and live in England. Family ties brought me back.

"Despite this genuine interest and affection, I do not feel Canadians as a whole, as I know them, look to Britain for very much of anything any more.

"So I said so, in a context where a host of Aussies and New Zealanders were howling about the Mother Country forsaking them."

Mr. Fisher's summary of opinion may be accurate. A great number of Canadians — perhaps the majority — don't feel any warmth toward Britain.

And yet Britain is the mother country, because British people settled Canada — for better or for worse — and brought their system of government here. Britain ran the country until the time came to hand over the controls to the inhabitants.

These are the facts, and even if it should turn out that 99 per cent of Canadians don't like those facts, they still cannot wish them away.

As for myself personally, I still have affection for Britain, and I think that some millions of other Canadians feel the same way. I'm glad to hear that Mr. Fisher is among them.

NO FAIRY GODMOTHERS NEED APPLY FOR JOB

Everyone has his own special dream — a place in the country, a trip back home, college for the boy. But, for many people it's just plain hopeless.

But there's no magic involved to make your particular dream come true. You don't need a fairy godmother to do it — just a little determination.

Simply plan to set aside part of your income in a Bank of Montreal savings account. Do it regularly, and watch the balance grow. Watch the B of M's two and three-quarters per cent interest help swell the amount too.

Regularity is the secret, as hundreds of thousands of the B of M's more than two and three-quarter million customers know. They save as much as they can spare each pay-day, and their dreams are turning into reality.

Ask Paul Boivin, accountant at the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, about it — or Miss Lulu Miller at Ayersville branch. They'll show you how easy it is — and how profitable — to open a savings account. See about it soon!

Oversight in naming founders of Legion branch

TO THE EDITOR

Montreal, Que.
November 13, 1961

The Lachute Watchman
Dear Sir,

I would like to congratulate you on your item on page one of your issue of November 8, 1961, in regard to Argenteuil Branch 70 of the Royal Canadian Legion celebrating their 25th anniversary. However, it would appear that the facts you obtained were not exactly accurate, as one of the outstanding organizers of this Branch was Sgt. Harry Carpenter, a long-time resident of Lachute, who 25 years ago secured the charter from the Dominion Command in Ottawa, and it was he who induced the following to become members of this branch of the Legion: R. A. Giles, E. M. Jones, Chas. Duncan, George Graham, George Leggett, Tom Milnes, etc. . . .

Mr. Carpenter also made various trips to Morin Heights, Lakefield, Brownsburg, and practically all over the County of Argenteuil in order that the minimum of 50 members would join, so that a charter could be obtained from Ottawa.

Sgt. Harry Carpenter enlisted in the Royal Montreal Regiment in 1914, was wounded in 1917 and honorably discharged, and he succeeded First President Leslie Hooker as president in 1936, and was vice-president in 1937. He was a member of the 14th Branch of the Canadian Legion, Montreal, and was also member of the Toronto Branch of the Legion. In 1936 he received the Legion colors from the late Sir George Perley.

It is my contention that credit should be given where credit is due and I believe you, and all fair-minded people, will agree that Mr. Carpenter's name should be included along with the names of the Charter Members in your recent write-up.

May the Lachute Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion enjoy continued success in its many activities, particularly in its charitable endeavors.

Yours very truly,
— K. G. Riley

WHAT MAKES A WHIRLWIND

A whirlwind is caused by winds coming from opposite directions at the same time. When such winds meet they make a circular motion with great violence. Being pressed on by more wind coming behind, they may be driven upward with terrific force. At sea they may lift a column of water with them, thereby making a waterspout.

Student is merchants' contest winner

Miss Mariette Major, student of Hawkesbury, received a $100. cheque from Bernard Danis, chairman of the Hawkesbury Merchants Association. Miss Major was winner of the third contest picked out of some 25,000 entry slips; she drew the winning ticket, held by Benoit Seguin of Hawkesbury, as the fourth contest winner. Royal Comtois, m.c. at these drawings at the Regent Theatre in Hawkesbury, is looking on at the presentation.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. Graeme Bell and son, Craig, of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Anderson.

Bdr. Peter Clattenburg, of Picton, Ont., spent the week-end with his mother prior to leaving for Germany. . . . Bruce Clattenburg's ship, the "R. Bruce Angus" was in Picton to load on Friday night, and Bruce was able to visit with his brother before his departure for Germany.

Mrs. L. L. Pascoe, of Westmount, spent the week-end with her brother and sister, Mr. A. Snowdon and Mrs. G. A. Lilly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Webb are visiting friends at London, Stratford and Windsor, Ont.

Mr. Ralph Lalonde visited Mrs. Roth and Miss A. Eaton recently.

Mrs. Beckel is visiting friends in Brockville and Kingston, Ont.

Died in S. Africa

Sympathy is expressed to Mr. R. C. Eaton, who received a cablegram on Friday informing him of the passing of his sister, Mrs. Galloway, in South Africa. Mrs. Galloway visited here several times and made many friends.

Resident Died in Hospital

Mr. Lewis H. MacQuarrie passed away in hospital in Montreal on Saturday. To Mrs. MacQuarrie, many friends extend their sympathy.

Contest winner at Hawkesbury

On Wednesday night, November 8, the Hawkesbury Merchants Association acclaimed the winner of their fourth contest. Royal Comtois was master of ceremonies.

The entry slip of Benoit Séguin, a Hawkesbury resident, was picked out among 25,000 other entry slips. Mr. Séguin's number is worth $100 in cash.

Mr. Séguin's entry slip was picked out by Miss Mariette Major, also of Hawkesbury, the winner of the third contest. On this occasion she received her gift of $100.

It is easy to participate in this drawing, merely by shopping at one of the Hawkesbury merchants', identified by the red sign showing "the shaking hands". An entry slip is given with each purchase at one of these participating stores.

Grand prize of $1,000 will be drawn December 13, at the Regent Theatre.

Calumet

Mrs. Adam Page, of Bell Falls, visiter her daughter, Mrs. M. Cochrane, for two days last week.

Mrs. Sampson Arthurs spent a few days visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Arthurs. She also visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Arthurs. . . . Mrs. E. Young, of Pointe au Chene, called on Mr. and Mrs. Norman Arthurs on Friday.

The many friends of Alex Craig wish him a speedy recovery; he is presently a patient in the Montreal General Hospital.

Miss Marjory Arthurs, who is attending Macdonald College, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Arthurs.

Mrs. Alex Craig, Eileen and Anita, also Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lemay, visited Sunday with Mr. Alex Craig, in hospital in Montreal.

Visiting with Mrs. James Welden recently were her daughters, Hester, from New Jersey, and Mary, from Vermont.

Morin Heights

Teenage Group

Worthy of note during the past three months has been the Young Adult Group of the United Church, under the guidance of the Rev. Wesley Ball. This group has planned many Friday evening gatherings, of varied interest. The group of young people have demonstrated a high degree of responsible, but fun-enjoying attitudes to the meetings, which have been well organized and well attended. We wish the group every success, and our thanks to the Rev. Wesley Ball for his interest in our young people.

Mrs. Mabel Robinson, of Montreal, has been spending a few weeks with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lacken.

Mrs. E. C. Fayet spent a few days in Montreal last week, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Manthorp.

The Rev. W. Ball and Mr. Keith Seale spent last Tuesday in Cornwall, Ont., attending a missionary revival which was conducted there.

The Women's Institute held their November meeting in the school cafeteria last Tuesday. The meeting was well attended and a successful business session was reported.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Ethel Johnson were Mrs. E. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, all of Montreal.

Firemen's Ball

The annual Firemen's Ball was held last Friday at the Alpino Lodge, with a very large and happy community gathering to help celebrate the occasion. The Rev. Wesley Ball asked for the blessing at the dinner, and the proceedings were thus underway. The meal was excellent, beautifully served in a well decorated room and under candlelight. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of an engraved watch to the "Old Chief", Mr. Henry Gillingham, in appreciation from the municipality for his work done for the Fire Brigade. The band, a versatile group playing tunes and dances, was from the RCAF Station at Lac St. Denis.

Remembrance Day

The annual parade and Remembrance service was held as usual at the High School, under direction of the Rev. Wesley Ball, who preached a fine message of faith on this sad but memorable occasion. The RCAF parade was under the command of S/Ldr. Biddell, DFC, CD, and contributed much to the solemnity of the service. The Ste. Adele military band was also on hand, under the direction of Police Chief Whiteway of Ste. Adele. The Morin Heights Branch attended on parade, with the color party led by Colin Cameron, and under direction of Col. Green.

Dinner was later served at the Legion Hall to those who participated in the parade, together with all Legion members and their wives, by the Morin Heights Branch.

Mr. George Gardner and Mr. O. Page were in Quebec City attending a Liberal Convention last week.

Support your local Winter Employment Campaign
Why postpone enjoyment of needed improvement around your home, plant or business!
Every year more Canadians learn that winter is the very best time to get all sorts of jobs done.
Skilled workers are more readily available and, being more productive, give you better value for your dollar. Many firms also offer discounts in the off-season lull.
In addition to home improvements there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances, outboard motors and automobiles, as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.
By taking a realistic approach to winter work you will also be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When everybody works, everybody benefits.

For Parents Only . . .

Happy Meal Times

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"He won't eat! I am so worried about Junior that I am taking him to see a specialist this week."

"Really, I don't know what is the matter with Mary's appetite! She eats next to nothing!"

Have you ever heard remarks like these coming from anxious parents? Have you ever made similar comments yourself about your own child?

Strangely enough, eating which should be a pleasure, becomes a problem in many modern homes. This situation is hardly ever found in primitive civilizations. Nor are families where poverty makes food scarce, apt to be troubled by "non-eaters". Refusal of food mostly vexes parents of middle class and wealthy homes and is prevalent in the case of only children.

Here is one place where a child can successfully defy his parents. "Force feeding", even of a gentle type, is utterly useless for a normal healthy child. Bribes, threats, punishments, none of these are effective in solving this difficulty.

Parents must try to discover what is the underlying cause of the child's indifference to food. There are a number of reasons why a child may not want to eat. His refusal may not have one simple origin. Rather this may arise for several combined reasons. Only by patient observation can mother put her finger on the reason or reasons why her child won't eat.

The child may be a sick child needing a doctor's check-up. A tonic with iron and B-1 may be useful. Perhaps nibbling food between meals or candy is destroying the appetite. If a child is worried or upset, or if he feels hurried, he will not be keen about food.

Perhaps the child is copying an adult who has voiced a dislike of food. If the child's health is suffering over a period of time, a physician must be consulted. But if the problem has just appeared, mother may be able to deal with it herself.

When a child says "I don't want it" over one particular food, don't worry too much. If he won't eat meat, give him protein in other forms — fish, eggs, cheese.

Parents who are not too insistent on "clean plates" for every meal, have fewer eating problems than those who are too strict.

If a child refuses to eat what is set before him at one particular meal, don't let him get you all excited. Perhaps he is seeing if he can have some fun by "getting a rise" out of you! Give him twenty minutes to finish his meal. Don't coax, fuss or threaten. At the end of meal time, remove his dishes, and do not give him anything else to eat until the next meal time! This may sound hard-hearted but many parents can testify that this plan works.

There is a chance that a child may be refusing food because he is emotionally upset. He may think Baby Sister has been receiving too much attention. When he is reassured that he is getting his fair share of mother's care, his appetite is likely suddenly to return to him.

Mothers are concerned that their children should eat a well-balanced diet. But no diet should be judged by what is eaten at one meal or even during one day. A week is a better time-span for estimating a good or poor diet:

If there is a worried, anxious atmosphere at meal time, this destroys the relaxed, contented feeling which should be present. Are meals a happy occasion or a battle-ground in your home?

With flavorful accessories

FISH FILLETS WITH DILL PICKLES

Many dishes often considered basic Canadian fare are the result of contributions of Canadians of many cultural backgrounds. They give to our tables the delight of the mingled flavors of spices and seasonings that are characteristic of the lands around the world. And fish and shellfish are nearly always served with a tasty sauce or other flavorful accessory. Dill pickles are often used as garnish for fish dishes. This time they appear in a new role, sandwiched between layers of fillets which are set off by a cheese sauce with the spirited stamp of mustard and Worcestershire.

Fish Fillets with Dill Pickles

1½ Pounds fish fillets, 2 to 3 medium dill pickles (sliced thinly), 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ cup shredded process Canadian cheese, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon garlic salt (optional).

If fillets are frozen, let thaw on refrigerator shelf. Arrange half of fillets in shallow baking dish. Cover with dill pickle slices; top with remaining fillets. Brush with melted butter; sprinkle with salt and netmeg. Bake in hot oven preheated to 450 deg. F. until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about ten minutes per inch thickness of fish. This will take approximately eight to fifteen minutes. Meanwhile, melt butter or margarine; blend in flour; gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Add remaining ingredients, cook over low heat until cheese is melted. Place fillets on hot platter; pour cheese sauce on top. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Suppers for November

(Consumer Section)

Chowder is rich and thick and designed to be a meal in itself. Like other soups, it can be doubled or tripled at little extra cost. Potato and Corn Chowder, tested by the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, is good enough to warm the very cockles of your heart when served for supper on a cold, wet, November night.

Potato and Corn Chowder

3 Strips bacon (cut in ½-inch pieces), 1 cup chopped onion, 2 cups boiling water, 2 chicken bouillon cubes (optional), 3 cups diced raw potato, 1 can (20 ounces) cream-style corn, 2 cups milk or cream, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, a dash of hot pepper sauce.

Fry bacon in saucepan until crisp, then remove pieces and keep warm. Add onion to saucepan and sauté until transparent. Add water and bouillon cubes and stir until dissolved. Add potatoes and cook until almost tender, about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and bacon pieces. Heat over low heat until hot, but do not boil. Serve with a light sprinkling of paprika or parsley. Makes about 6 cups chowder — enough for 6 small or 3 large servings.

Note: If no bouillon cubes are used, add an extra ½ teaspoon salt.

As sure as you will have a roast turkey in November, you will have enough left over to make Turkey Croquettes for lunch or supper. This recipe is especially tasty with Onion Sauce.

Turkey Croquettes

2 Cups hot mashed potatoes, 1 egg (beaten), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ to ¾ teaspoon thyme or sage, 2 cups diced cooked turkey, 1 egg, well beaten, fine bread crumbs.

Combine potatoes, one egg and seasonings. Add turkey and combine well. Spread mixture on a platter and chill. Divide into 12 portions and shape into "logs". Dip each "log" into well beaten egg, then into bread crumbs. Panfry slowly in about 3 tablespoons fat, turning several times, until golden brown on all sides, 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 12 croquettes.

Onion Sauce

2 Tablespoons butter, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups milk, 1½ tablespoons chopped parsley.

Melt butter in top of double broiler, add onion and sauté until transparent. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually add milk, stirring until blended. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Then place over hot water and continue cooking for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add parsley just before serving. Makes about 1½ cups.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Nora Bullock walked into the Simcoe, Ont., post office 41 years ago she wanted to cash a British money order. She explained it so well that she was offered a job and joined the staff a few days later. The salary was $6 a week.

Now 60 years of age, she has retired. During her 41 years of service she missed only 20 days' work through illness. Most days, she walked the four miles to and from work.

An energetic woman, Miss Bullock is active in Simcoe community affairs. She is president of the women's business and professional club and president of the woman's association of St. John's Anglican Church.

For her "long and meritorious service" Postmaster General William Hamilton granted her a six-month retirement leave.

Miss Bullock plans to continue her community activities and "get into a few more things".

New Items

Remember a short while back when one lipstick manufacturer came out with a shade called café au lait? Now a manufacturer has come up with lipstick shades named after wines. One shade, Vin Rose, even has the flavor and fragrance of champagne. Other colors are sherry, champagne, Madeira, Claret and Dubonnet.

Also Honored

Another Ontario woman was honored recently. Mrs. Charles Cowan of Fergus, Ont., was named "Queen Mother" for bringing up nine children and helping six others — wards of the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

The Cowans' own children range from two to 20 years of age. Following the Second World War, two Italian refugee children were taken into the home.

Mrs. Cowan, wife of a water softener salesman, estimates that she washed more than 195,000 pounds of clothing during the last 10 years. Her gift for being Queen Mother? A new washing machine!

Buy By Season

To buy meat to the best advantage, take benefit of seasonal supplies, suggests the consumer section of the Canada Agriculture Department.

Although beef is fairly steady in supply, pork is usually more plentiful in winter; veal in spring; and domestic lamb from September to December. The department also advises consumers to learn the various cuts of meat and select the cut best suited to their budget and recipe.

DOGS' REFORM SCHOOL

The Home for Recalcitrant Dogs outside London, England — a sort of Canine Boys' Town — is a reform school for "people-biters", "dog-fighters", or "chicken-killers". Problem dogs are tamed by kindness into gentle, obedient animals, by experienced trainers who use no physical punishment whatsoever. The Home, which can handle 80 dogs at one time, has a waiting list of 200, says Reader's Digest.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Women's Travel Authority

Take the tension and temper out of driving, and you'll eliminate major causes of fatigue. A relaxed attitude and the proper position behind the wheel will add hours of comfort to your driving. You'll be a safer driver, too!

Many motorists, I've found, encourage fatigue by assuming uncomfortable and improper steering positions. How many drivers have you seen who sit bolt upright, tense and terrified looking? Steer clear of them!

Some advice: Don't be a stiff-arm driver sitting too far from the wheel. Don't be a low-slung driver, barely peering over the wheel. Don't be a chest-crusher pushing the wheel into the midriff. Instead, assure yourself of comfort and control, adjusting the seat so that your forearms are parallel with the plane of the wheel and your feet are within easy distance of the pedals. If necessary, prop yourself up with a car cushion for a clear view of the road.

An osteopath has said that all drivers should make smiling a habit. A smile relaxes the eye and facial muscles, and when the eyes are relaxed, so is the brain. Fatigue drives out good sense, sportsmanship, and courtesy. When this happens, look out!

Make it a rule to relax. You'll enjoy your driving more, and you'll be a better, safer driver.

NATIONAL HEALTH GRANTS, AN INVESTMENT IN LIFE

One of a series of articles describing the Federal Health and Welfare Services Canadians get for their tax dollars.

The Canadian baby born in 1930 could expect to live until age 60; today's baby can look forward to 68. Along with this increased life expectancy have come many health advances in the last three decades. Enormous progress has been shown in public health with the inauguration of the health grants in 1948. Once hopelessly-crippled children have been rehabilitated, mental patients once given up as incurable have been cured, and the ill in general get better treatment today. Both in the nature of its service and its costs, there is a wide difference between the hospital of the '60's and its predecessor.

In achieving this general brightening of the health picture, national health grants — federal money spent on health — have played their part. Money has been channelled into many health areas, also hospital planning and building.

Health is the primary responsibility of the provinces, but the federal government assists them with developments of new programs. This situation is very much like that of a partnership wherein one partner will supervise the administrative structure of the enterprise, advise and provide — while the other party sees to the executive side of the program. With this comparison in mind, it is easy enough to understand the reason for the national health grants, which are administered according to set regulations and principles, towards the benefit of the provinces and territories, including the humblest hamlet as well as the most progressive centre.

Health grants are funds provided by Parliament through the Department of National Health and Welfare. Each fiscal year, estimates are voted and approved in Parliament for the administration and the utilization of the monies. These sums are then applied, with the Minister's approval, to the assistance of public health programs and hospital planning and construction. The authorized expenditure last year amounted to $48 million. This tremendous amount of money was applied towards the following health grants which have done much to improve health services.

Mental Health, although one of the chief concerns of our country, is being dealt with in a very vigorous manner thanks to the assistance of federal health grants, in extending programs for the prevention and treatment of mental illness. Many new community mental health clinics for both children and adults stress prevention or the early treatment of mental illness, while new treatment procedures and larger and better trained staffs in mental hospitals have resulted in the return to society of many patients once thought to be incurable.

Child and Maternal Health has been assisted greatly in an accelerated and intensified program for the improvement of maternal and infant care. Fewer deaths, both maternal and infantile, have been reported through the well-mother-and-baby clinics and immunization programs provided by county health units, established through health grants. Statistics show that in the last two years maternal deaths decreased from 5.6 to 5.5 per 10,000 live births and the infant death rate from 30 to 28 per 1,000 live births.

Crippled children and adults benefit by an approved program of medical rehabilitation and prevention, and treatment of crippling conditions.

Tuberculosis control and cancer control also are aided by health grants to expand their programs of detection, free treatment and rehabilitation. Tuberculosis deaths are definitely on the decline; and cancer victims are getting more and more conscious of the excellent treatments provided through their provincial units.

Hospital Construction Grants have assisted Canadian hospitals in expanding their facilities by awarding them sums of money for building purposes and renovations. This means larger and better equipped hospitals to serve a greater population.

The Public Health Research Grant assists hospitals and universities in stimulating and developing public health research in many phases of medicine. From time to time a province, or two or more provinces will work jointly on such projects, resulting in useful findings which will benefit all Canadians.

The Professional Training Grant has enabled hospitals, laboratories, provincial and local health services to get competent help through special training of doctors, nurses, dentists, sanatoriums, laboratory technicians and other specialized personnel.

Dental health, both curative and preventive, is provided in some areas, specially in the remote regions where access to dentists is made impossible by distance and geographical accidents. For instance in Northern Ontario, the public health grants assist in the cost of staffing and maintaining a dental railway car, which serves the remotest outposts. VD control and radiological and laboratory services have equally been assisted by federal sums of money.

Co-operatives sell one-third of Canada's farm products

All agricultural areas in Canada have co-operatives to serve them, says Vernon Heighton, Canada Department of Agriculture economist.

Marketing, purchasing, service and fishermen's co-ops did $1,407 million worth of business in 1960, an increase of three per cent in one year. The 1,936 marketing and purchasing co-ops reporting (out of a total of 2,093) accounted for $1,364 million of this.

Value of farm products marketed co-operatively was $972 million, up $9 million. Co-ops marketed one-third of all agricultural products entering commercial trade, the same proportion as in the previous year. Sales of merchandise and farm supplies increased by $30 million to reach $363 million.

The Co-operative Fédérée de Québec, one of the largest multi-purpose farm centrals in the country, provided marketing, food processing and farm supply service to 375 affiliated local co-operatives, and did almost $117 million worth of wholesale business in 1960.

Newfoundland reported a decrease in the co-operative sale of farm products from $25 million in 1959 to two million dollars. In all other provinces, co-ops increased this activity.

The percentages of Canada's agricultural products sold through local co-ops were: dairy products 27.8; livestock 31.5; poultry and eggs 16.3; wool 72.4; grains 55.5; fruit and vegetables 49.2; tobacco 2.0; and honey 54.1. By provinces the 1960 sales were: British Columbia $65.1 million; Alberta $162.5 million; Saskatchewan $260; Manitoba $88.4 million; Ontario $184.3 million; Quebec $115.7 million; Maritime Provinces, $20 million. Interprovincial sales amounted to about $75.6 million.

Feed, fertilizer and spray material ranked first in sales of merchandise and supplies handled by co-operatives. They amounted to $116 million. Food products followed with $101 million and petroleum and auto accessories ranked next with $63 million.

There are 10 provincial and regional co-operative wholesales made up of local co-ops and belonging to the Inter-provincial Co-operatives Ltd., the national purchasing and manufacturing agency. The wholesales are central agencies for marketing farm products, selling farm supplies, and operating lumber mills, oil refineries, oil wells and coal mines.

Flour and feed headed the supplies handled by the wholesales, with gas, oil and auto supplies next; hardware and machinery a close fourth and groceries fifth.

New variety winter wheat

Ottawa — Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announces that a new variety of hard winter wheat has been developed by research workers in his department. Licensed under the name Winalta, the new variety will be grown primarily in southern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan.

Compared with Kharkov 22 M.C., Winalta is higher yielding, earlier maturing, of better quality, and equal in winter-hardiness. In milling and baking quality the new wheat approaches that of the better hard red spring types. It is susceptible to rust and bunt.

A limited quantity of registered seed was distributed to several seed growers in Alberta this fall. Several thousand bushels should be available for the 1962 fall seeding.

The adaptability of Winalta was determined by growing it over a period of several years at the University of Alberta and the Experimental Farms at Lacombe and Swift Current. Its milling and baking characteristics were established through tests at the quality laboratory in Ottawa.

Urges dairy industry study consumer tastes

Canada's dairy industry must look deeper into customer motivation if it is to sell more of its products, according to D. B. Goodwillie, chief merchandising officer of the Canada Department of Agriculture's dairy products division.

He was moderator of a panel discussion at the National Dairy Council of Canada at its annual meeting in Halifax.

Mr. Goodwillie said that milk production, now about 19 billion pounds per year, is apparently on the increase. Milk is still one of the best food values at the store and the population of the country is going up.

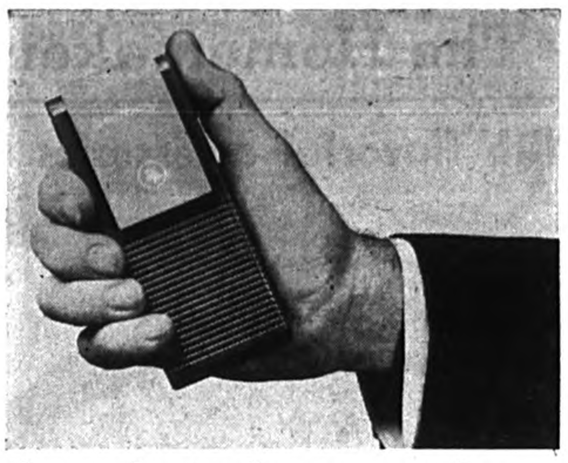

But, asked Mr. Goodwillie, why is per capita consumption of milk products going down? In 1960 the figure was 950 pounds against 1,062 pounds ten years before.

The speaker wondered if dairy products are not being "out-promoted and out-merchandised" by other foods claiming their share of the housewife's dollar.

In the face of such competition, producers and retailers need to know much more about the market — such as what customers want and why they want it; why tastes differ in different areas; would teenagers take to milk; do people drink it from habit or because it is food for them?

Finally, there is the question of price. There are many food and non-food products bidding against dairy foods and the price must be competitive to meet this challenge.

A pocket phone service

The nearest thing yet to pocket phone service will be introduced here at the end of November.

The Bellboy, a pocket-size transistor signal set, is Bell Telephone's new instrument — for people away from home or office who don't want to miss important calls.

"Essentially, it's an extension of the bell on your telephone," said Bob Bell, Plant Manager here. "We also consider it a step towards two-way pocket telephone service."

If someone calls while you are away from your regular telephone, the Bellboy sounds a gentle beeping tone. The "beep" lets you know you should go to the nearest telephone and call your office or other prearranged place.

Bellboy service will be particularly valuable to such people as doctors, clergymen, sales and service personnel and contractors.

The new service is effective indoors or out. It keeps the user in touch with clients or customers at all times. For example, if an important call comes in for a doctor while he is making his rounds, the person answering his calls immediately puts the doctor's personal signal on the air. This is picked up by the doctor's bellboy — and his alone — and he knows that he is to telephone in as soon as possible.

The personal signal-receiving set weighs only 7¼ ounces and can be carried easily in a pocket or clipped to one's belt. It is powered by three small mercury-cell batteries which have a life of about 750 hours or roughly three months. An on-off switch controls the power. Another switch permits you to turn off the tone signal after it is received.

Readers exchange observations on mountain lion

The north and the south of this County are keenly interested in the story about a mountain lion, which appeared in last week's Watchman. . . . Mrs. Clarence Good and her family, at Shrewsbury, sighted this rare animal recently from their kitchen window.

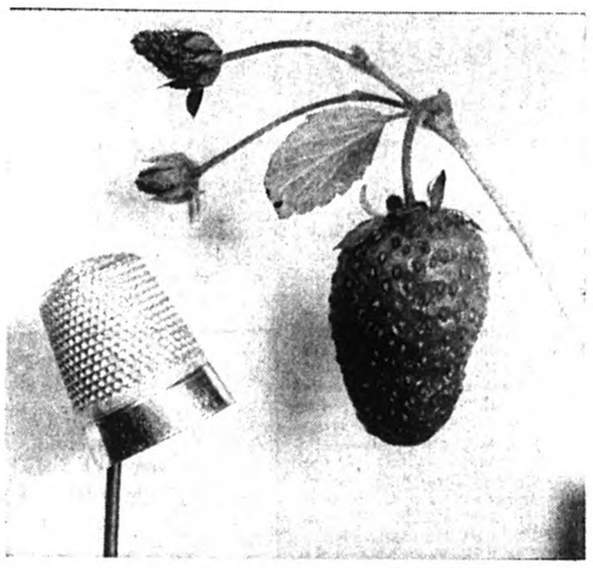

The story intrigued one of our readers down in the Ottawa Valley — Mrs. Tom Harries of Calumet, whose two children, Judy, 13, and Trevor, 9, had on several occasions reported seeing an animal of this description near their home; they spotted it recently on two successive days, at a creek which empties into the Ottawa River.

Last spring young Judy took a snapshot of the visitor's tracks in the snow. The footprints were the size of a man's hand.

Having heard her children's stories from time to time, Mrs. Harries now became seriously interested, and called Mrs. Good by telephone to exchange notes.

The animal at Calumet was described by Judy and her young brother as being the size of a Great Dane, with a small head and long sleek tail. They also said it had "stripes on its nose". . . . Mrs. Good, referring to her book on wildlife, thought this impression might be given by tufts of hair on the nose, which might appear like stripes from a distance.

The Watchman's Bob Atchison, and wildlife enthusiasts hereabouts, are much interested in these reports.

Strawberry in November

A ripe and full-grown strawberry was picked by Aimé Trudel (Lachute Upholstering) from his garden in the west end last Thursday, November 16. A thimble in the picture gives an idea of the size. This specimen is the fruit of a first-year plant, according to Mr. Trudel. Its late survival is an indication of the mild fall season enjoyed in these parts. — Photo, Syd Drew

Woodsman is victim of shooting fatality

Bill Gunn, a 41-year-old former Montreal resident who moved to Lachute several months ago, was found dead in the bush near Mount Maple around 9 p.m. on Monday. Investigation showed three bullet wounds in the body. Mr. Gunn is survived by his wife, who resides at 527 Francis Street.

Mr. Gunn was helping his brother-in-law, John MacRae of Brownsburg, to cut and pile wood. Mr. MacRae left the bush around two o'clock in the afternoon to report to his place of employment, and the victim remained at the scene to complete piling the wood.

A nearby resident, Calvin McAndrew, noticed the victim's car parked after supper, and called out to him, thinking he might be sick or lost in the woods. When he received no response, he notified Mr. MacRae, who arrived shortly afterwards, accompanied by Ernest Kennedy. They entered the bush and discovered the victim lying near the woodpile.

Provincial Police were notified, and Cpl. Maurice Dinelle arrived at the scene a short time later to carry out the investigation. The officer reported finding three bullet holes in the body, two in the back and the third in the head; the bullets were believed to be of .22 calibre. An autopsy was ordered, and the investigation is continuing. A robbery possibility is being investigated, as a sum of $10 was believed missing from the victim's pocket.

Found dead at his home

Alexandre Guimond, 64, of 431 Sydney Street, was found dead in his home on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. Guimond was reported to have been alone for some three weeks. He was believed to have been dead for several days when the body was found.

Municipal police were called to the scene, and turned the case over to the local Q.P.P. detachment. No inquest will be held.

To suspend construction work at Hawkesbury for Christmas season

Construction in the downtown section of Hawkesbury, along the Main Street shopping section, will be halted during the Christmas season — according to Harry Hustler, Ontario Hydro director of property.

"This one-month change in the work schedule will give the people of Hawkesbury an opportunity to observe the holiday season without the inconvenience of contruction along this section of Main Street," he said.

Effective immediately, construction operations will begin a progressive slow-down. All work should be stopped by December 1, and will resume in the New Year.

"We regret the unavoidable disturbance the project has caused during the past few weeks," Mr. Hustler said. "We hope the decision to stop work in the downtown area will help the people of Hawkesbury to have a more enjoyable Christmas season."

House on the move, Hawkesbury

This house, one of 10 to be moved out of a flood-designated area in Hawkesbury to a new lot, marks the progress being made on the town's relocation program. In the last few months Hawkesbury has seen an unprecedented spurt of construction in connection with Hydro-Quebec's new generating station at Carillon. When the headpond is flooded next spring, parts of the town along the Ottawa River shore will be affected. The relocation program involves a new sewerage system and pumping station, clearing of 1,500 acres of wooded land along the south shore of the Ottawa, as well as the house-moving program.

But it's business as usual, says Bernard Danis, chairman of the promotional committee of the Hawkesbury Merchants' Association. "With our promotional campaign, most stores have been able to hold their business at the same levels as last year — and some of them are doing even better." Key to the campaign is a series of eight weekly prizes of $100, to be followed December 1 by a grand prize of $1,000.

Note of concern from local fire department

Members of the Lachute Volunteer Fire Department would like to advise local merchants and businessmen that no revenue from the sale of advertising, presently being solicited by Public Fire Prevention Annual representatives, is being turned over to the local department.

This is a private venture, and all proceeds from the advertising go to the organization sponsoring the publication — which, incidentally, is being printed outside Lachute. The only benefit members of the department feel they are deriving from this publication is the possibility that information in the annual may save someone's life or property. No portion of the proceeds is being turned over to the local Council or Fire Department.

'Family program' for variety show, benefit event

The Canadair Variety Show, featuring "entertainment for the whole family," will be staged at Lachute Auditorium this Friday evening, under auspices of the Lachute Volunteer Fire Department. The program starts at 8.30 o'clock, and admission is 75c a person.

Master of ceremonies for the event is Jack Graham, who states the performance will feature songs, skits, folk dances, comedy and a ventriloquist. Performers are mainly Canadair employees. The show is several hours in length.

Proceeds of the event will be directed to the Fire Department's general fund for the purchase of necessary equipment.

Loan by-law adoption removes last formalities

Largest loan in town history to finance waterworks project

The Lachute Town $570,000 loan by-law for installation of a filtration plant, reservoir and water conduits, was formally adopted at an adjourned meeting last Wednesday with Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C., presiding. This loan of over half-a-million dollars, authorized by the Quebec Department of Health, is the largest debenture issue undertaken by this town since its incorporation in 1885. . . . The loan is reedemable in a period of 30 years.

In order to benefit by the federal-provincial winter works program, the corporation was authorized to effect a temporary loan of $250,000 to get the project underway. Besides considerably reducing the labor costs through this government aid, Mayor Legault sees possibility of a grant from the Fire Commission, in view of better fire protection.

The work is in the hands of H. J. O'Connell Ltd. and Pollock-McGibbon Ltd., while the firm of Francis Hankin & Co. Ltd. are supplying the mechanical material and equipment.

Estimate of Cost and Contingent Expenses

By-law 226 prescribing this loan gives the following breakdown of estimated costs:

(1) Tender by H. J. O'Connell and Pollock-McGibbon (as revised in letter dated October 12, 1961) for construction of dam, reservoir, filtration plant and laying of two 16-inch water mains. $353,065

(2) Tender by Francis Hankin Co. for mechanical equipment at filtration plant $113,267

(3) Fees of engineering consultants, Lorrain, Tourigny, Dubuc, Gerin-Lajoie & Laliberté $24,816

(4) Purchase of land, right-of-way, legal expenses (est.) $10,000

(5) Inspection and repair of town water system to prevent leakages. $46,000

(6) Printing bonds, and expense in loan issue. $22,851

Total — $570,000

In order to meet redemption payments and annual interests, Town Council proposes to levy taxes on all taxable property. Moreover, since the two adjacent municipalities of St. Jerusalem and Ayersville will share benefits of this improved water system, the Town proposes to petition the Public Utilities Commission for an increase in rates to these municipalities.

Bond Redemptions, Interest Payments

The $570,000 issue will provide bearer or registered bonds of $100 or multiples thereof redeemable at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Lachute, Montreal or Quebec within their 30-year term, bearing interest at rates not exceeding 6 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually the first of May and the first of November on presentation of detachable coupons.

Federal or provincial grants will be applied to these works and to reduction of the capital debt. Any residue of the loan may be applied by the Council to capital purposes without restriction as to transfer of funds.

If one of the given estimates should exceed the actual cost, the difference may be applied to other expense entailed in the project which may have been underestimated — providing the whole does not exceed $570,000.

The by-law requires no referendum to the taxpayers, since the Council has endorsement of the Department of Health.

Arundel students hosts at 'Tree Farm' evening

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — A successful bean supper was held on Friday evening last in the school auditorium, arranged by the "Students' Council". About 150 guests were present, and were piped to their places by Mr. Alec Lawson, with lively tunes. Father Deslauriers said the blessing, and all proceeded to do justice to the ample meal set before them. At the conclusion, Principal Melvin Graham welcomed the guests in a few well chosen words.

The financial statement was given by Dale Boyd, treasurer for the Students' Council, and Father Deslauriers then presented the "Tree Farm" certification, which was accepted by Miss Mary Thompson and Wade Welden.

Prof. Jones spoke a few words, bringing greetings from the Morgan Arboretum, after which the guest speaker for the evening was introduced by Mr. Marvin Davis. Mr. Reppert, the speaker, gave an interesting talk filled with instructive information. Dr. Morrison thanked the guest speaker, and a short and interesting talk was given by Miss Mary Thompson, president of the Students' Council. The National Anthem brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

The Students' Council are to be congratulated on this fine effort, bringing their work to the notice of many who are not closely familiar with what they are trying to accomplish.

Scholastique, St. Janvier, Bois-des-Filion and St. Andrews.

Citizen retired, goes to Florida for winter season

A well-known townsman, J. Romeo Charron, left Monday to spend the winter in Florida. Having recently disposed of his real estate and insurance enterprise to the firm of Deslauriers & Marcil Inc., he has now retired from business.

Mr. Charron was manager of the Banque Provinciale here from 1921 to 1942. Until 1945 he served as manager of the Selective Service and Unemployment Insurance district office; then he opened a business in real estate and insurance, which he is now terminating for health and other reasons.

A native of St. Jerome, Mr. Charron received his education there and at Ste. Therese. Entering the employ of the Banque Provinciale in 1910 at the age of 22, he was promoted to manager at Masson, Que. He subsequently managed various branches in Montreal, until coming to Lachute in 1921. With exception of a short period in Terrebonne, he has been here ever since.

His favorite hobbies were hockey and baseball in earlier years, and later, fishing and curling. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, and in 1925, was prominent among those inaugurating local golf activities.

Friends extend good wishes to Mr. Charron for the full enjoyment of his leisure years.

Student killed in hit-and-run; driver arrested at Verdun, Que.

A 25-year-old Verdun resident was arrested seven hours after a fatal hit-and-run accident in Pte.-au-Chene, in which Robert Ouellette, a 15-year-old Laval des Rapides student at the Seminaire des Pères du Sacre Coeur, was instantly killed.

The accident occurred around 7.30 p.m. Sunday, when the victim, accompanied by four other students, was walking along the side of the highway. They were struck from behind by a car, which failed to stop at the scene of the accident. Injured in the mishap was Marcel Deslauriers, 16, of Iberville.

Provincial Police officers here were notified, and following preliminary investigation by Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, Montreal officers arrested the Verdun resident at 3 a.m. He appeared in St. Jerome court on Monday, where he was charged with hit-and-run. The possibility of other charges is pending. The inquest is being held Thursday, 7.30 p.m., at Lachute Auditorium.

Liberal candidate replies to letter in recent issue

TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Editor:

As my name was mentioned in your paper by a so-called executive of the Liberal Association of the County of Argenteuil, I would ask the favor to make a point.

I wonder how an executive can issue a press communiqué and make a statement without calling a meeting of its members. If one refers to the Constitution of the Quebec Liberal Federation (under Constitution of County Associations) one can read, on page 30, that the executive council is composed of the following ex-officio members: the immediate past-president, Mr. Bernard Gosselin; the Liberal candidate, Mr. Rodrigue Durocher; and the secretary. Now we have never been called to a meeting; the council quorum must be eight, as specified on page 31 of the Constitution — which means that Mr. Paré and his group are not authorized to make a statement in the name of the Liberal Association, and furthermore, three or four recalcitrant members cannot speak in the name of the Liberal Association which has removed them from office.

According to the text of the Constitution, Mr. Antoine Paré, you are no longer president of the County Liberal Association, for the following reasons:

1. On page 31 of the Constitution, article "f", it is stated that any member who is absent from three regular meetings is considered as resigning his office, and his substitute is appointed by the board of directors at its following meeting. You have not attended a meeting for over six months.

2. You have been appointed president by the directors of the Association. These same directors can deprive you of your office; that is what they have done.

3. As president you have not fulfilled the duties of your office. On page 33 of the Constitution, it is stated that nine directors, stating their motives in writing, can demand the calling of a meeting of the board of directors. Sixteen (16) directors have demanded such a meeting, and you have ignored them.

4. On page 31 of the Constitu-

Rev. K. Trickey speaker at Rotary

Last week's meeting of Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club again marked almost a perfect attendance. One member, Robert Armstrong, was presented with his one-year perfect attendance pin.

After this presentation, the Rev. Kenneth Trickey gave an interesting talk on "The Importance of the Family". He stressed that the Christian home should have a friendly atmosphere in order to provide the children with both inspiration and love, so necessary in their upbringing.

"The family," he stated, "is the basic and fundamental unit of man's society."

Appreciate help, public response, in paper drive

Many helpers, and fine co-operation from the public, resulted in a very successful paper canvass by the Lachute Boy Scouts last Saturday. Robt. McAdam, who supervised this collection, extends thanks to all citizens and business firms who contributed. Warm acknowledgment is expressed also to those who loaned trucks, to others who drove the trucks and had charge of the groups, and also to Boyd's Lachute Express for their valued co-operation.

Those who loaned trucks were — Tony's Service Station, Pollock & Graves Motors, A. Paulsen, Paul & Graham, Lachute Tire Reg., Welden Motors, Don Boa's Garage, Deacon's Garage, Stuart Armstrong.

Those who contributed their time and effort with the boys, were — Mr. R. T. McAdam, Mr. L. McRae, Mr. J. G. Payne, Mr. E. Evans, Mr. H. Keatly, Mr. J. Mitchell, Mr. B. Noble, Mr. B. Laurin and Mr. T. A. Bignell.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Fuel oil distributors here, affiliated with their province-wide trade organization, are putting into effect a uniform tariff with the idea of meeting competition from the future natural gas system, and to provide their customers with service completely satisfactory from all angles. . . . The dealers decided to give no premium coupons, from December 1; also to ask co-operation of the public in not placing orders after 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

Town Council has retained the services of an engineer from the consulting firm of Tourigny, Lorrain (et al.) to give full-time supervision on construction of the filtration plant — at a fee of 2 per cent of the contractors' bid, viz. $353,000. The engineer will reside in Lachute for duration of the project.

There is no likelihood of water meters being installed in private residences to defray cost of the filtration plant — at least for the time being. This may be adopted in larger industries and business houses, however — places where water consumption is considerable. There will be no special tax on a valuation basis, but rather a water tax, so designated. . . . Nothing has been decided on this matter.

In connection with the filtration project, both the Provincial and the Federal grants for labor under the winter works program, have been confirmed this week.

Two injured at level crossing; one in hospital

A near fatality occurred Sunday evening at Simon's Crossing, west of Lachute, when the Montreal-bound train struck a car owned and driven by Roland Daigneault, of Rigaud. He was accompanied by Jean-Paul Servant, 25, of Bellingham Street.

The accident occurred at 7.27 p.m. when the driver of the car, seeing he could not clear the railway tracks ahead of the train, swerved parallel to the tracks and was struck a glancing blow by the on-coming cars.

Both occupants of the automobile were treated for injuries, Servant being transferred to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, St. Jerome, where he was reported to be in serious condition.

The accident was investigated by the local Q.P.P. detachment.

View on hunting and posted lands

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Watchman

Here I come after reading Margaret Cook's letter, also Leslie Kerr's. I would like to see those two out on snowshoes killing off the wolves that move in after hunting season, when the snow is 3 or 4 feet in the woods. I have proof that they are in Wentworth.

Now the law says we are not supposed to sell any part of a deer. But clubs will charge any fee from $10 a day for a hunter on their leased land, which has been given to them through some election promise. The hunter pays plenty for what sport he gets out of it. Around this County the rich man buys up all the deserted farms, posts the land and brings his friends in to hunt. But he does nothing to keep the wildlife restocked. My opinion is that the wildlife in the woods and the fish in the water were there a-plenty for everyone, given by our Creator. So why should any club or any group of people post our lakes and forests just for the benefit of a few? To my opinion this is worse than selling wildlife, because only the rich people can afford to join the clubs. To close the hunting season here would only benefit the rich man's club. And the wolves — who is going to go out and kill the wolves, if there is only about one deer killed for every 10 hunters?

I believe the season for deer and small game should be for the month of November only. When the season is closed for deer, it should be closed for the other game too.

Local hackneys and driver scored at recent 'Royal'

(Contributed)

Majesty's Heiress, fine harness pony owned by Mr. Richard Phillips of Brampton, Ont., won the Ladies' class at the Royal Winter Fair — driven by Mrs. S. G. Patterson of Lachute. Mrs. Frank Ryan, of Ottawa, was second in this class, with Lover Girl, and R. A. Campbell's stable of Beaconsfield was third, with Ashley Roberta.

Fashion King, hackney pony from StanPat Farm, Lachute, was third in three classes — Novice Pony, Under 13 Hands, and Owner-to-Drive classes — also, he put on a great show to be placed fourth in the Stake Class. This pony, along with a mare and foal from StanPat Farm, also did very well in the breeding classes, against the usual stiff competition found at the Royal Winter Fair.

The flowers, grain, fruit and all livestock appeared this year to be of better quality than ever.

Scouting activities

AT GRENVILLE

Grenville — The first Girl Guide meeting was held here September 26, with 16 Guides present. The patrols remained the same at last year, with May Keatley, Norma Cowan, Dianne Foreman and Mary Lou Frazer as patrol leaders. At the opening meeting a report was given by the three girls who attended weekend camp in September.

An Saturday, Armistice Day, the Grenville Guides took part in the parade held at Hawkesbury. After the ceremonies at the Legion Hall, the Hawkesbury Branch of the Canadian Legion generously supplied hot chocolate for everyone, at the Esquire Restaurant in Hawkesbury.

ACTIVITIES AT ARUNDEL

Arundel — On Sunday, November 19, the Arundel Local Association of Cubs and Brownies paraded to service in the United Church with their leaders, Mrs. Foster Ewart, Mrs. Wm. Owen, Mrs. Melvin Graham and Mrs. Stanley Dobie. Two of the Cubs presented the flag to the minister, Mr. A. Lawson, who gave a timely address on the Brownie and Cub activities. There was a large congregation in attendance.

On November 11 and 12, the Brownie and Girl Guide leadership course was held at Far Hills Inn, Val Morin. This very constructive and interesting course was attended by the Arundel Local Brownie Association leaders, Mrs. Foster Ewart and Mrs. Wm. Owen. There was a large attendance from Districts throughout the Province. The local leaders reported a very educational and enjoyable week-end.

New ammunition product at C-I-L Brownsburg plant

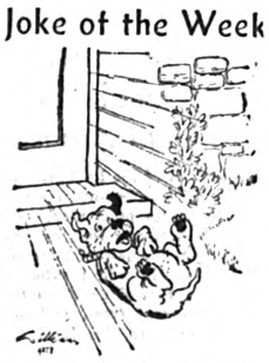

A new .22 calibre match cartridge, designed specifically for the target shooter, is in production by the ammunition division of Canadian Industries Limited. Now available at retail outlets, the new .22 long rifle cartridge, known as C-I-L Match, is of low velocity and has excellent wind-bucking characteristics.

The new match cartridges are packed in a distinctive new package and replace the Central V's line.

The cartridge was developed and perfected by C-I-L engineers and physicists. It was three years on the drafting boards and test ranges before it made its debut at the National Matches at Connaught Ranges this year. Both the Canadian champion and the runner-up used it throughout the tournament.

The C-I-L Match is manufactured at the Brownsburg plant, where a special match cartridge production line has been installed, and the equipment and tools on this line are closely supervised by the ballistics department.

A DIAMOND FOR YOUR FIANCEE

J.-Ulysse Nadon, jeweller and watchmaker, holds a diploma from the Gemological Institute of America qualifying him as a diamond expert. The course followed by Mr. Nadon, covers the technology of diamonds; the procedure of valuing diamonds and classifying as to color; and exact measurement of size and dimension. To test his qualifications Mr. Nadon was required to evaluate and classify a quantity of diamonds, the result being verified by the Institute. He has a diamond "lab" specially constructed in his establishment, equipped with the instruments essential to this craft.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The regular meeting held last week was well attended. The attendance drawing produced another loser. Cde. Forbes being absent puts another $5 in the kitty, and brings next month's draw up to $15. . . . Two new members, Comrades Brass and Brown, were welcomed into the branch.

Plans are finalized for the Christmas Tree party for the youngsters, to be held December 23. Don't forget the dance that same evening either!

The poppy campaign was very successful. Branch 70 would like to acknowledge with thanks the co-operation of the business men and the householders of the town of Lachute, for their support and assistance. Also to Arundel, Kilmar, Calumet, Grenville, St. Andrews and Cushing.

When one looks back on the recent Armistice and Remembrance ceremony and services held by the Branch, there is not much room for criticism. It was a "good show", well and ably presented.

The 25th anniversary celebrations are next on the agenda. By the time this is in print, every member will have been contacted with regard to participation in this important event. Another milestone will be added at this time, too. The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 70, Lachute, will be accepting the Boy Scout charter. This means that the Legion will be the sponsoring body for Scouting activities in the Lachute district. This is a job with grave responsibilities, and indicates the important place that the Legion plays in the activities of the community.

The Royal Canadian Legion on November 12 introduced a low-cost insurance program for its 250,000 members, and decided to expand its national track and field program. . . .

The meeting of the Dominion Executive Council approved an insurance program that will provide low-cost coverage to Legion members. An outstanding advantage of this plan is that it will enable any member to obtain coverage without a medical examination, if 40 per cent of his Branch enrolls. Under the plan, a member 40 years of age would pay $12 for coverage of $2,412 for that year. Coverage extends up to the age of 70, and while the premium remains constant, the amount of coverage lessens as the insured ages.

Council agreed to expand the Legion's track and field program to include ten provincial training clinics, in addition to the national clinic the Legion has been operating for six years. Under the new agreement each Provincial Command will finance its own clinic, and the national clinic will be financed exclusively by Dominion Command. Formerly the national clinic was financed by the joint contributions of Provincial and Dominion Commands. The national clinic will be held in Guelph, at the Ontario Agricultural College, in late August, and the total cost of the track and field program will exceed $25,000 next year.

Jurors disagree – third trial on bribery charge

CP — A hung jury — the second in three weeks — has forced a third trial of Abbe Bergeron of Cornwall on a charge of corruptly giving $10,000 to a Member of Parliament in connection with a government land purchase five years ago.

After five hours of deliberation the jury reported it was unable to come to a decision.

Bergeron, whose first trial also ended in a hung jury October 18, was ordered to be tried at the next court of competent jurisdiction. No date was set, and bail of $500 was continued.

The 45-year-old service station operator was accused of having given $10,000 in 1956 to Raymond Bruneau, 44, then Liberal MP for Glengarry-Prescott.

Bergeron testified he gave Bruneau the money as "commission" on the sale of some property to the federal government and in return for Bruneau's promise of a "life-time" job with the government.

No "Guilty Intent"

Defence Counsel R. B. Sorenson argued that Bergeron had no "guilty intent" and did not know in 1956 that payments to MPs for favors were illegal.

It was on this point that the jury, during its recent deliberations, returned to ask advice from Judge A. R. Willmott.

The government bought Bergeron's property at Hawkesbury for $48,000 as a post office site, five days before the alleged payment. Bergeron also got a job with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, but was laid off after 19 months when the Seaway was completed.

Crown Argument

Crown Attorney John Cassells, in his closing argument, said that after Bergeron was laid off, he complained to the RCMP that he had been "robbed" by Bruneau.

"This is the falling out of two conspirators," Mr. Cassells argued. One didn't keep his side of the bargain, so the other determined to shoot him down in flames."

Bruneau was a member of the Commons from 1949 until his defeat in the 1957 election.

Why will a Hammer Break a Stone When a Piece of Wood will not?

The force of a moving body depends upon two things, its mass and the speed at which it moves. A hammer falling freely and a piece of wood falling from the same height will hit the ground at the same speed. When you give a stone a blow with an iron hammer and another with a piece of wood, there is little, if any, difference in the speed of the descending blows. But there is a great difference in the two masses. Iron is one of the most tightly packed substances in the world. Its mass is far greater than the mass of the wood. You know that wood is so loosely packed, with so many air spaces, that it will usually float on water.

The force of the blow from the iron hammer is strong enough to overcome the force of cohesion that keeps the molecules of stone together. The stone breaks. The blow from the less massive wood is not strong enough to overcome the force of cohesion that locks the stone molecules together.

Liberal candidate replies to open letter in recent issue

tion, it is stated that the quorum of board of directors' meetings is eight directors who have the right to vote; there are not eight members in good standing who support you.

5. On page 30 of the same Constitution, it is stated in article 6 that the executive council has a meeting every second month. You have failed your duties by not calling a meeting of your so-called executive council. The directors having elected you to fulfill an office — if you do not fulfill it, it is their duty to replace you. This is what they did, on their own, without my intervening.

6. On 16th December, 1960, at the Hotel des Quatre Chemins, Brownsburg, it had been resolved unanimously: that only the candidate would deal with the government; also that the directors of the Association had to hold a monthly meeting on the last Thursday of each month. You have disregarded the wish of all directors. You have tried to deal with the government, thus creating confusion within the administration. You have not attended the regular meetings of the Liberal Association on the last Thursday of each month. The directors wanted these meetings — thus these meetings were legal and valid.

I have invited you personally, and by registered letter, in order to remind you of the wish expressed by all the directors on 10th December, 1960. The Quebec Liberal Federation has only to ratify these decisions, and this will be done shortly. Furthermore, the counties are autonomous.

When you say you do not wish to associate with certain of my activities, is it because these activities are too frank, honest and unprejudiced? Is it because I do not wish to cooperate that I invited you to all the meetings that I called? You state that in the interest of the party you do not wish any publicity concerning this affair. However, if you are so sincere, why not cooperate, and why be the object of dissension? We have put aside those small differences, and the majority of the directors have worked hand in hand with me — in the interest of the County, not in their personal interest.

All the directors of the Association, we will work together to promote the rights of the County. Our conscience is satisfied when we think of all that has been accomplished. Argenteuil has been forgotten in the past. We will place the County on the map again, and in a very prominent way.

Mr. Paré, you have left the board of directors of the Liberal Association — feel free to come back. The County needs everyone; you can contribute to its growth and greatness. I have always considered English-speaking people as fair and just. Mr. Stanley Rodger, you are no exception. You know that I have never refused my collaboration to all and everyone.

Let us forget past misunderstandings, and in the interest of the beautiful County of Argenteuil, of which we are all proud, let us all participate in the work of the directors of the County Liberal Association. I am convinced that we all wish but one thing, the prosperity and the advancement of the people of our community. Why, then, waste energy which could be so useful elsewhere? It is inevitable that our opinions differ, but let us forget this childishness and let us work together as sincere, honest, convinced, active public men.

Nonagenarian was daughter of pioneer couple

Late Mrs. Jas. Welden, Sr., Kilmar's Oldest Resident

The late Mrs. James Welden, Sr., of Kilmar (the former Ann McHardy), was born June 27, 1872, the daughter of the late John McHardy and his wife, Hester Crozier. She was married to James Welden on January 3, 1894; her husband predeceased her in 1936. She leaves a family of five — Thomas, of Montreal, James N., of Lachute, Robin, of Calumet, Hester (Mrs. James Porter), of New Jersey, and Mary (Mrs. Dubeau), of Rutland, Vermont; she was predeceased also by a son, Walter, of Calumet. One sister, Christine (Mrs. Christine McLaughlin), of Garry, Indiana, 14 grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren also remain to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Welden was in her 90th year when she passed away, November 14, at the original McHardy homestead where she was born, and where her grandparents, Norman McHardy and his wife Mary Michie, settled when they immigrated from Scotland in 1834. For a short time after her marriage, Mrs. Welden and her immediate family lived on the Scotch Road, and upon the death of her parents, she moved to the old McHardy homestead, where she resided until her death.

Mrs. Welden was one of 12 children and a former teacher who taught in many local schools, one being Lakeview School. She also was a music lover, and taught music in her early life. "Granny," as Mrs. Welden was affectionately called by the whole community, was beloved by old and young alike. Of late years, Granny's sight had failed somewhat, but she was still able to read her Bible, which she did daily. Her favorite Bible was one of large print given to her by her friend and pastor, the Rev. Raymond Stote, whom she loved and respected, and whose visits were always a great joy to her. Granny's whole life and kindly deeds were an exemplification of high Christian standards; she lived her religion every day in her kindly acts and gracious manner, and will be greatly missed by her family and many friends.

Former resident died in Edmonton, noted church-lady

Friends of Mr. D. J. Christie, a one-time resident of Lachute, will sympathize with him in the loss of his wife, early this month. The following obituary was taken from the Edmonton Sun:

Funeral services for Mrs. D. J. Christie (Victoria Bagshaw) were held in Strathern Church, conducted by the Rev. William Aiken Harvey, assisted by Dr. J. C. Elson of St. Stephen's College.

Mrs. Christie was married in Exeter, Ont., in 1906 and lived in Lachute, Que., prior to coming west to Davidson, Sask., in 1908. They later moved to their homestead in the Chatham district where they found no religious services of any kind, so Mrs. Christie started a Sunday School in her own home. She later became known as "Mother" all over the district because of her help in times of sickness and trouble.

When Mr. and Mrs. Christie came to Edmonton in 1919, Mrs. Christie taught Sunday School at at Metropolitan Church. She also joined the WA, became a life member of the WMS and was secretary for several years. She was also a life member of the Bible Society and an active member of the WCTU, also a director of the United Farm Women of Alberta.

Mrs. Christie was always interested in public affairs, not only in her own community, but across Canada.

She loved her work in Metropolitan Church but transferred to help organize the new Strathern United Church.

Mrs. Christie is survived by her husband, Dave; one son, Lloyd; two grandchildren, David and Ann, of Milet; also four foster-children—three daughters, Ganga, Gowri and Ratnaw, of Coimbatore, South India, one son, Hyon Kuk, of Korea; and two brothers, James and George Bagshaw, of Saskatchewan.

Northern Grenville

Mrs. Rolland Matthew, of Montreal, visited Mrs. Ed Matthew and Walter last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bazil Young and family, of Port Colborne, visited with the former's mother recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Jackson, of Brownsburg, visited Mr. and Mrs. Thos Hoare, Jr., on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Young visited Mr. and Mrs. Allen Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. L. Thomas, of Fabreville, last week-end.

Arundel

Mr. J. D. McArthur and son, Peter, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. McArthur, last week-end.

Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Stalker and family, of Ottawa, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Florence Graham, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keuster, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Houston, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mrs. Alvin Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Barrie and family spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. N. Graham. Mrs. Graham returned to Montreal with her parents for two weeks' visit.

We are glad to welcome the new bank manager, Mr. Murray, and his family. It is hoped their stay will be pleasant and friendly.

Mr. Hans Eberman is returning to Germany on December 19 to spend the winter with her parents. She wishes to thank all friends in this community for their sympathy and help in her recent trouble, and hopes to see them all when she returns in the spring to Otter Lake.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. George Kilpatrick, of Mille Isles (mother of Mrs. Sidney Swail), who was removed to hospital last week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Swail and family visited her in Montreal.

Cubs and Brownies Attend Service

A service was held in Arundel United Church on Sunday morning for the local companies of Cubs and Brownies. Peter Graham, Charlie Thorne and Billie Ewart presented the colors to Mr. Lawson, who placed them in the standard, and the national anthem was sung. At the conclusion of the service, the colors were then returned to the color-bearers, who led the Brownies and Cubs out of the church.

Auxiliary Meeting

A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Anglican Church was held in the meeting rooms last Wednesday. At the business session of the meeting, under leadership of the president, Mrs. R. Henry, tentative plans were made for the forthcoming children's Christmas party. At the conclusion of the business, quilting was resumed, and refreshments brought the evening to a close. Hostesses were Mrs. C. Fraser and Mrs. Leonard Rathwell.

Relatives, friends mourn long-time Lachute resident

Late Mrs. James Morrison

Funeral services were held Saturday, at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, for Mrs. James Morrison, wife of the late James Morrison of Lachute.

Mrs. Morrison, the former Elizabeth MacVicar, was the daughter of the late William MacVicar and Isabella Armstrong, his wife. She was in her 86th year.

The late Mrs. Morrison is survived by two daughters, Janet (Mrs. Gordon Hay), of Lachute, Bessie (Mrs. James McConnachie), of Pointe Claire; one son, Stanley, of Lachute; a brother, Robert MacVicar, of Laurel, Ont.; also 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Two children predeceased her — Ethel (Mrs. James Hay), and Gertrude (Mrs. Herbert Carlton).

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Nat Boyd, George Connelly, Emerson Noble, Robert Dance, Robert McConnachie and Bruce Hay. Interment was in Lachute Cemetery.

United Church at Brownsburg

Brownsburg —

A successful tea and bazaar was sponsored by the W.A. "B" group of the Brownsburg United Church on November 18.

The Explorers' group has been taken over by Miss Bonnie Gain, assisted by Miss Carol-Ann Amos.

A coffee party will be held in the church hall from 9.30 to 11 a.m. on December 2, to be sponsored by the W.M.S.

Mrs. Jack Beaudon will be guest speaker on Sunday morning, December 3, at the W.M.S. thank-offering service.

The annual congregational supper was held on November 21.

APPRECIATION

Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, of Upper Lachute, are grateful for the kindly gesture of many relatives, neighbors and friends, in tendering a reception last Friday to mark their 25th wedding anniversary. Appreciation is also extended for the many cards and greetings received on this occasion.

Ministerial group hears speaker on mental illnesses

On November 13 the Argenteuil Ministerial Association had as guest speaker for their meeting the Rev. J. A. McGonegal, B.A., B.D., resident chaplain at Verdun Protestant Hospital.

The speaker, who had taken special training in the United States, related in some detail the great transformation in recent years in the approach to mental illness and its treatment. New drugs and other modern ways of treating patients have cut the required treating time from nine months and over, to just three months and over.

The community has learned to some degree that mental and emotional disturbances are illnesses that often can be cured. We need to learn still further, to drop the stigma which until recently has been attached to a person so afflicted.

The clergy present gained some valuable information respecting their role in relationship to the Verdun Hospital and their ministry in the community.

Friends, relatives mourn passing of Gilbert Hamilton

Funeral service was held on Wednesday, November 15, at the St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, St. Andrews East, for Mr. Gilbert Robert Hamilton, who died suddenly on November 12 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. Shipman, in Montreal. The Rev. Dr. Harold Reid conducted the funeral service.

Mr. Hamilton was born in Montreal and lived most of his life in this community. His wife, the former Jessie Todd, predeceased him in 1938.

He leaves to mourn his loss four daughters — Mrs. T. Shipman (Myrtle), of Montreal, Mrs. R. Hyde (Margaret), of St. Andrews East, Mrs. V. Rayson (Elizabeth), of Montreal, and Mrs. P. Cloutier (Dorothy), of Montreal. One sister, Gertrude, one brother, William, of California, and seven grandchildren also mourn his loss.

Many flowers bore silent tribute to his memory.

The pall-bearers were — Messrs. Gordon Smith, Ross Brown, Keith McCaig, Ernest Calder and two grandsons, Tom Shipman and Wendell Hyde.

FIRE CLASSES

Foam Lake, Sask. (CP) — At a fire-fighting class held here, a building was provided to demonstrate fire-fighting, but the flames spread through surrounding dry grass. The water pumper intended to extinguish the fire in the building was used to put out the fire in the grass. Meanwhile the building burned down!

Argenteuil Bridge League

With three tournaments behind them, the bridge players of the district are establishing trends in the new duplicate bridge league. Winners of the third tournament were:

N - S — Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Filfe.

E - W — Mr. R. J. Moncrieff and Mr. S. A. Seary.

Getting off to a fast start for season championship prizes are Mrs. Pollock and Mrs. McGibbon, who, despite no first places, are pacing the league over three laps.

The fourth tournament will be held at 8 p.m. on Monday, November 27, at Brownsburg Legion Hall. Members are urged to sign in by 7.45 for a prompt start, and they would facilitate matters by phoning Mrs. T. Ponech at LE 3-4731 when they do not intend to play. Non-members are cordially invited to play, but in their case it is even more important to arrive early.

This Christmas, give a Bible

The Bible is still the world's best seller and the book which is treasured above all others. No gift will be more treasured by members of your family or by your friends than a Bible. Within a few days many Christmas gifts are forgotten but the gift of a Bible will not only be long remembered but will be cherished for years to come.

The manager of the Bible House in your area is an expert on the Bible and can advise you better than anyone else on the type of Bible most suitable for you to give as a gift or for your own use. In obtaining a Bible you are assured of the best possible service if you call at or write to the Bible House in your area (1450 Union Avenue, Montreal). This Christmas give the best gift of all — give a Bible.

His favorite portrait

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Come early – avoid disappointment

AT THE (calculated) risk of repetition, we bring to our readers once again a request to submit their news still earlier for publication while it is still news.

It is unfortunate that, whereas this newspaper arrives in the mails and on the newsstands Thursday morning of each week, actually it is printed on Wednesday morning. This may be misleading to contributors and advertisers, who think that Tuesday gives "lots of time" to typeset their material and find room for it in the paper.

Such is not the case. On Monday there is a flood of essential "copy" to keep our typesetters hopping, and columns galore to tax our remaining space. . . . Our forms are closed and The Watchman is "put to bed" Tuesday night. Therefore club reports, letters to the editor and what-have-you which arrive as late as Tuesday p.m., are usually out of luck. (This column has already expressed an opinion on club correspondents who wait until Tuesday to report their meeting held the middle of the previous week!)

In other departments too, please remember "our deadlines are definite" — display advertising, Monday noon; classified advertising, Tuesday noon.

Encouraging progress

LIKE THE MILLS of the gods, the wheels of progress sometimes "move exceeding slow"; but at least they move.

Sparked by a note in last week's news, that Brownsburg is studying a sewage disposal project, our observations reveal that considerable advance has been made in the anti-pollution campaign which once appeared a hopeless cause.

Following is an extract from the first issue of the Water Purification Board Journal, issued this month to coincide with the Resources for Tomorrow Conference held just recently in Montreal.

"As from this week, technicians will start work on an inventory of water pollution, not for the purpose of knowing whether a purification plant should be built or not, because it is evident that they will be required wherever domestic or industrial wastes are discharged, but simply to be able to estimate, at some date in the future, what progress is achieved, thanks to the means adopted to purify our waters. Furthermore, experts will visit all dwellings situated near rivers and lakes without sewerage systems, so that the efficient working of cesspools and septic tanks may be checked. . . .

"It will not be possible to achieve everything in a day, but a substantial report shall be placed before the Legislative Assembly next session.

"Since publication of the Water Purification Board Act, several industries have started work, and it can be expected that millions of dollars will shortly be set aside for the fight against water pollution."

Since the board took office last July, 253 projects for construction works, amounting to $6,500,000, have been received, 756 private establishments have been inspected in connection with their private sewage disposal systems, and in 164 cases, these were found unsatisfactory and modifications were imposed. In addition, more than 185 municipalities have been called upon to prepare plans for sewage treatment plants. As for 37 municipalities contemplating new sewage outlets, the board requested treatment plants.

Twenty-four municipalities and 13 industries which are located on the North River or its tributaries, and are polluting those waters, have been requested to prepare sewage treatment projects immediately.

Municipal and health officers and others who are concerned with sewage disposal and similar matters will probably find this Water Purification Board publication valuable. . . . In its first issue Dr. Gustave Prevost, the chairman, pays tribute to the late Hon. Dr. C. A. Kirkland, Minister of State in the Lesage cabinet, as follows:

"For over twenty years, Dr. Kirkland's work (promoted) public opinion about the plague of water pollution, and each year during the session he brought the subject up again. In 1960, the Hon. Mr. Lesage gave him the task of settling this problem. . . . It is regrettable that Dr. Kirkland could not have lived longer to see his work bear fruit."

The wage-earner's lot

MOST SIGNIFICANT of the taxation statistics for 1959 recently released by Ottawa was average annual income earned by the more than four million Canadians who paid taxes in that year.

At $4,113, it compares with the $3,204 annual average of five years earlier and the $2,881 of five years before that again.

A near-50 per cent increase in average annual income within a ten-year period is pretty good going, not least when measured against a bare 28 per cent rise in living costs as reflected by the revised Consumer Price Index.

The three mild recessions experienced during the decade would not seem to have hurt the working wage-earner any.

Arctic's future

IN CANADA'S Arctic islands today there are generally two types of settlements — trading posts near the Eskimo hunting grounds, and government scientific stations at widely-scattered points.

In between are the frozen wastes over which the Eskimos roam in their hunt for food.

In future years — perhaps not too distant — there may be startling changes. Development of atomic powered, cargo-carrying submarines, of atomic-fuelled power plants, of improvements in air travel and long-distance communications all give impetus to possibilities of industry in the Arctic.

"The off-again, on-again Canadian dream of tapping the oil, gas, gold, nickel and iron riches of the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions has come closer to realization this year than ever before," says the Digest issued by the Toronto Stock Exchange.

And, it says, "serious consideration is already being given to the possible establishment of secondary industries to save shipping costs through further on-the-spot processing."

So far oil drilling has attracted most attention. Vigorously prosecuting the search, Canadian, American and British oil companies this year have taken leases on more than 45,000,000 acres.

But mining companies also report finds of asbestos, nickel, copper and gold. Iron is already being mined.

An industrial future of the Arctic with its accompanying bustle of human activity was probably never dreamed of by the old explorers. The hardships suffered by such pioneer figures as Frobisher, Davis, Hudson, Baffin and Barents in fact dimmed for a long time world interest in the frozen Arctic.

The first navigation of the Northwest Passage was not completed by Roald Amundsen until 1906, and it took him three years. It's little more than 50 years since Peary claimed to have reached the North Pole in 1909, and only 35 years since the first flight over the pole by Richard Byrd and Floyd Bennett in 1926.

Now, the North Pole is a regular air route between Europe and the west coast of North America.

Who knows what the Arctic will be offering in another 50 years?

Of Many Things

ANNIVERSARY PRESENT

There is a tense atmosphere around our home these days. It is my fault. I started it all, with the best of intentions.

Recently we celebrated our 24th wedding anniversary, and I wanted to give Nora something special for having put up with me for all those years.

Then I had the hot flash. Nora is an extremely beautiful girl, so why not have her portrait painted, by a first-rate artist, and let that be our anniversary present?

Throwing caution to the winds, I telephoned one of Winnipeg's leading artists, and even before getting the price of the job (I was a bit too shy to start out in such a commercial tone with a real live artist), I had "commissioned" him, as they say, to do the portrait.

Nora was quite thrilled, as I had hoped she would be, but I had overlooked one fact. Ours is a house full of women — four daughters, ranging from ten to seventeen. They are thrilled too, and the posturing and preening that goes on around our place these days is just too much.

Nora has taken the sittings in her stride, and doesn't seem to have had her head turned too much; but the other four are simply insufferable.

"Daddy, do you think my profile is best from this angle or that angle? Should I hold my chin higher?" It's gettting a little annoying to say the least. A fellow can't get near a mirror to tie his cravat! And the other day, when I did get mirror room, I found myself taking a sly estimate of my own profile, mentally painting out the Adam's apple with which I was too plentifully endowed.

One thing, however, has been accomplished. The kids look at Mom with new respect, realizing something they probably had never even thought of before. She's a real beauty, aside from being a good cook, fine homemaker, and discriminating enough to see the sterling qualities that are hidden somewhere back of that Adam's apple that ruins an otherwise manly profile.

Over the Years

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, Nov. 19, 1886 —

Mr. T. Bannerman has gone to England on business, which will no doubt stimulate greater activity of Lachute industries.

Mr. J. L. Pollock, an old friend of this neighborhood, is about to open up a first-class grocery store in Mr. J. A. Bedard's building on Main Street.

Mr. G. F. Wanless, of Denver, Colorado, has been visiting his friends in Lachute and St. Andrews.

Fred A. Cooke, one of the rising young businessmen of Boissevain, Man., is visiting his sisters here.

W. Charland, Jr., of Quebec, is in Lachute looking after the erection of a steam sawmill.

55 YEARS AGO

Friday, Nov. 16, 1906 —

Dr. B. S. Stackhouse has left on the steamer "Empress" for a trip to the Old Country.

The Hon. Mr. Weir has secured a grant for the holding of a night school under auspices of the Lachute Board of School Commissioners, also one for the same purpose to be carried on by the Lachute Board of School Trustees.

Mr. Morgan, recently of London, England, has accepted a unanimous call to become pastor of Lachute Baptist Church.

Calumet — Jno. Prophet, who was accidentally shot in the leg by a companion, is now on the way to recovery.

Rev. Father Carrière, priest here for the past 12 years, has been appointed curé for the parish of Pointe St. Charles.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Nov. 19, 1936 —

Lachute's $40,000 Auditorium has suffered extensive damage again by fire. A blaze very similar to the disastrous outbreak which gutted this building two winters ago, originated in the furnace and spread to walls around the stage. Alderman K. McOuat, passing by the scene, raised the alarm.

Mr. Georges H. Héon, attorney-at-law, has been appointed Crown Attorney for all cases originating in the constituency of Argenteuil.

Starting December 6, the C.P.R. "milk train" will be resumed, leaving Lachute at 8.20 a.m. and returning from Place Viger nightly at 11.30 p.m.

Dolphis Duchesneau, prominent hotelman here, dropped dead unexpectedly. His hostelry, destroyed by fire last winter, had been newly re-built.

It is the intention of the Dominion Government to erect Canada's great war memorial in the capital in time for the celebration of next Armistice Day — according to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. H. Sabourin (valet service) has removed from Bethany Street to 49 Foundry Street.

Mr. J. S. Giles, as secretary of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, attended the National Safety Council conference in Ottawa.

Letter recalls details in forming of Legion branches

TO THE EDITOR

Royal Canadian Legion,
Quebec No. 71 Branch,
Brownsburg, P. Que.

Editor, Lachute Watchman,

Dear Mr. Editor:

This pertains to the letter from Mr. K. G. Riley, drawing attention to an oversight in the publicity concerning the founders of the Lachute Legion, which you so graciously published in the last issue of "The Watchman".

The writer also wondered why there had been no mention of Sgt. Harry Carpenter, and sincerely supports the contention that Harry played a major role in the starting of the Lachute Legion Branch. From other information in Mr. Riley's letter, however, inference may be drawn that Sgt. Carpenter was a factor in the formation of the Brownsburg and Morin Heights branches. To this extent, so far as Borwnsburg is concerned at least, if that was your correspondent's intention he would be inaccurate.

Both the Brownsburg and Lachute Branches were in formation at the same time, following visits of the then Secretary of the Quebec Provincial Command of the "Legion" prior to the Vimy Pilgrimage (organized by the Canadian Legion) in 1936. What Sgt. Carpenter endeavored to do in forceful, persuasive manner, was to seek the abandonment of Brownsburg's plans to form its own branch. This he failed to do, with the result that there are two strong and active branches in close proximity to one another, both of whom operate their own "Halls" and take keen interest in the welfare of their respective communities.

The writer believes that there is also another inaccuracy in stating that a minimum of 50 members were required to form a Legion branch. If the writer remembers correctly, only ten names of veterans who had served in a "theatre of war" were required at that time. The names on the Brownsburg Charter, which was granted on October 29, 1936, numbered 15 only. The Brownsburg Legion intends to celebrate its 25th Anniversary on December 2, 1961.

Yours very truly,
— Sidney H. Stilwell,
Branch Service Officer

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Lucy was on her way to becoming a tramp — glum, slouchy, mad at everyone.

She came from Europe. Her parents had separated, and her father emigrated to Canada. They made Lucy travel out and join him — against her wishes.

Then her father remarried. Lucy couldn't stand her home or her stepmother. She hung about with foul-mouthed, vacant young men, defied authority and finally refused to go to school.

Her father and stepmother wanted to send her to a girls' industrial school, but a judge decided otherwise. He made Lucy a ward of the court and entrusted her to an agency who found her a foster home.

Eighteen months later she was a different girl. She had begun to smile. She had said goodbye to her street-corner friends and returned to school. She was a healthy and attractive girl of 17.

What brought about this magical change? Loving care, discipline and acceptance.

I met the foster parents who had worked this miracle. He was an ex-teacher, now in a different occupation. She was a nurse. Both had been seasoned by troubles.

They were calm, kindly people who already had six children of their own. Lucy made seven. They treated her the same as the others: Chores to do at home; privileges that increased according to age and school achievement; a small allowance; regular study hours; an atmosphere of study and curiosity; no television-watching on week-days; lots of books in the house; outside jobs for older children (baby-sitting for girls, golf caddying for boys) in order to enrich their lives with responsibilities and human contacts.

"Being a parent is an all-day job," the man of the house said. "You have to work at it; be prepared to spend 20 years with each child.

"You have to give time to the children — not when you're ready for them, but when they're ready for you. A child is like a flower — the mind opens at a certain time, and you have to catch it then."

These people were non-joiners. They did not belong to any clubs. Except for the hours that the man spent making a living, they were full-time parents. Ther home was a factory for making citizens.

Not many of us could stand such a hard routine. But if more of us did become full-time parents, we could save the taxpayers a lot of money in jail, mental hospital and social welfare costs.

HIGHWAY HASSLE CAUSED BY INDECISIVE DRIVER

Canadians have always believed in plenty of freedom for everybody. It's in our blood to value things like freedom of religion, of speech, of the press, of sleeping in on Sundays if we want to.

Of course, some people do take unusual liberties with liberty. Like that woman who is always dashing around town. She was out for a drive last week and had a collision — with a man.

The policeman on the scene was a gentleman; so naturally he cross-examined the man first, about why he hadn't given the lady her half of the road. The man was pretty mad. He said he was ready to do just that as soon as he could figure out which half she wanted! . . . Which is a good example of what comes of indecision.

Maybe Canadians are not always models of decision, but there is one thing a lot of us made up our minds about a long time ago — and kept it made up. That's the importance of saving regularly for the future, at the Bank of Montreal.

A savings account at "My Bank" can mean so many things — an education fund for the children, help for the whole family if there's ever a rainy day, a down-payment fund on a new home. If you haven't yet started your own plan for regular saving, plan to visit the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal soon. Paul Boivin, the accountant there (or Miss Lulu Miller at the Arundel branch), will be glad to show you how easy it is — and how comfortable — to operate a B of M savings account.

DISTRICT NEWS

Morin Heights

School News

The Students' Council joined with the Young Adult Group of the United Church to sponsor a visit last Saturday to Montreal, in order to see the movie, "King of Kings". The party was under direction of the Rev. Wesley Ball, and more than 100 youngsters enjoyed the visit. The group were served lunch at St. James United Church hall.

Church News

The United Church congregation are proud that the new addition to the building, which will almost double the capacity of the church, is now under construction. Certainly, to judge by the overcrowded congregation each Sunday, even during the fall months (with summer visitors away), this new addition is necessary and also indicates the progress made by the United Church in this community.

The co-operation of all in this Christian endeavor is ample evidence of the spirit that now prevails within the congregation. There is much work to be done, and every member can take part in the completion of this extension. Under spiritual leadership of the Rev. Wesley Ball, and with God's blessing, this enterprise is sure to succeed.

Friends of Mrs. George Kilpatrick are sorry to note that she is a patient in the Montreal Neurological Institute; all take this opportunity to wish her restored health.

United W.A.

The Women's Association of the United Church held their November meeting in the church hall last Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was well attended, and many plans were made for the future — including the Christmas tea and sale on November 25 and the Christmas cooking sale on December 16. . . . Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Ball and Mrs. T. E. Seale.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reigert and Mrs. F. Carter, of Montreal, spent the week-end at their cottage here.

Mrs. Herbert Lacken spent last [illegible] in Montreal, visiting [illegible].

[illegible] and Mrs. Mel Meredith, of Montreal, spent the week-end here with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Seale.

Mrs. M. Graham and Mr. Williams, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Sims.

Cushing

Miss Florence Holmes, of Montreal, visited her sister, Mrs. H. Bailey, for a few days last week. Miss Cama Bailey returned to the city with her to spend the week-end.

Miss Alice Davidson returned last Wednesday evening after visiting Mrs. Cook at the home of Mrs. Murphy, Sydenham, Ont.

Buildings Taken Down

The old home and blacksmith shop on Bayside Farm have been carried off, to be rebuilt in the Hydro Park in Carillon after the completion of the dam.

Mrs. Percy McLeod and Mrs. Clifford Cooke, of Grenville, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Canning on Wednesday.

Miss Annie McDowell, of Notre Dame de Grace, was the week-end guest of Mrs. L. R. McGain, of "Tynwald".

The Misses Myrtle and Violet Bryerton, of Verdun, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson visited friends in Buckingham last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew, of Verdun, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning.

Mrs. Jas. Coney and son, Raymond, of Brownsburg, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott. Their Sunday guests were Miss Enid Robertson, of Montreal and St. Andrews East, also Miss Joan Owens, a student at Macdonald College.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thom and family, of Montreal, were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Thom, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cochrane, of Calumet, visited Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson on Sunday evening, prior to their leaving for Mexico to spend the winter.

Avoca

Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, of Aylmer, Que., spent Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan McPhee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bates, of Harrington, visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Angus, in Ottawa last week-end, also friends in Shawville, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Arthurs, and family, of Chute à Blondeau, visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arthurs, on Saturday last.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mrs. James Welden, of Kilmar, who passed away in her 90th year.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Tomachevsky on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Arthurs and family.

Took no chances!

Frightened by reports of hunters being shot by other sportsmen who confuse people with wildlife, Ted MacDonald stencilled "MAN" on the back of his jacket to clarify his species. He's one hunter who escaped unscathed in the woods this fall.

Grenville

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bigelow and sons, Kevin and Wayne, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Corl Gauley.

Mrs. Earl Gray, Town of Mount Royal, spent last week with her father and sister, Mr. R. White and Miss Eva White.

Miss Audrey Johnson, of Verdun, was the week-end guest of her cousin, Miss Helen Welden.

Mr. David Riley, of Ville St. Michel, spent the week-end as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dewar.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family and relatives of the late Mrs. James Welden, Sr., who passed away at her home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Villeneuve, and Mr. and Mrs. Déas Dupuis, have moved to their new home on No. 8 Highway, near Grenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Miss Linda Johnson, also Miss Inez Dewar, of Montreal, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Welden.

Rivington

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hotchkiss and family were in Montreal last week. While there, Miss Gloria Hotchkiss had a physical check-up following recovery from her accident.

Mr. J. Legault, of Valois, spent the week-end at his cottage.

Mr. C. Piprell, of Kilmar, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Home and School group of the Harrington Intermediate School.

Now that the deer hunting season is over, week-end motor traffic through Rivington has lessened considerably.

Domesticated !

Mr. Donald McCabe reports that his albino porcupine has become tame enough that he can pet it quite safely.

Weather Observation

This may be disputed by some, but it is a fact that there has been frost every month for the last 12 months.

The water level of the Rouge River above the dam has risen over a foot in the past week.

Tourist Bureau urges nat'l park at Mont Tremblant

St. Jovite — Immediate establishment of a federal national park at Mont Tremblant was strongly recommended by the Laurentian Tourist and Economic Bureau in a brief presented to the Province of Quebec Tourist Council. Located close to major population centres in the province and the principal points of tourist entry, Mont Tremblant offers all the natural scenic and recreational as well as economic facilities necessary for the establishment of a federal national park, contended Bureau President Jean Lalonde, who presented the brief to the Council.

Mr. Lalonde stated, "It is the Laurentian Tourist and Economic Bureau's understanding that the Federal Government is ready to establish such a park in the Province of Quebec as soon as the Provincial Government makes available the necessary site to do so. It is apparent that in the past this has been prevented for purely political reasons.

"The residents of the Province of Quebec and the many visitors to the province have been deprived of this privilege accorded to the citizens of all other Canadian provinces, for too long already, and it is the Bureau's belief that nothing further should interfere with a site such as Mont Tremblant offering all the possible requirements and conditions for a federal national park."

HELP FOR THE SIGHTLESS

One of a series of articles describing the Federal Health and Welfare Services Canadians get for their tax dollars.

Martha, busy with her farm household chores, hardly noticed the greyness around the house. Her kitchen, after 30 years of married life, was etched permanently in her mind — yet she found herself switching the light on to see where this pan or that knife was located.

Reading, even with her glasses, became impossible. Then, one day, partial blindness. A medical check quickly diagnosed the case as a cataract, the commonest remediable eye disease in older people.

Soon Martha underwent eye surgery for the removal of the cataract and again her eyesight was restored; and once more she is back in her beloved farm house, where with the aid of heavy correcting glasses, she has adjusted herself to a normal work day life.

Such is a typical case of what medical science has done and is doing to prevent, cure and remedy blindness for many Canadians. The Department of National Health and Welfare, Blindness Control Division, assists provincial authorities and medical officials in this field of blindness control.

Of the 24,000 registered blind persons in Canada, 8,670 between the ages of 18-70 receive $55 a month allowance paid on the basis of 75% federal and 25% from provincial funds. Certain provinces provide additional financial assistance.

The total expenditure on blindness allowances for the year 1960 by the Canadian government was over $4,000,000. In addition, funds provided by the National Health Grants program were used to assist research covering such subjects as diabetic eye conditions, corneal tissue studies, virus diseases of the eye, retinal detachment and the causes of glaucoma which affects 2% of all people over 40 years of age.

Since the Blindness Control Division's treatment scheme came into force in 1948, the federal government has provided medical treatment for the restoration of vision, to cover 700 blind persons. Last year alone, 105 people were treated.

Of the total receiving medical treatment, 77% of the cases were successful while in many of the remaining 23%, some improvement was achieved. Successful corneal transplants were carried out in 10% of the cases treated last year.

The Blindness Control Division works with provincial authorities in encouraging the testing of vision among school children. The earlier a vision defect can be spotted, the greater the chance of success for remedial measures in the child. Prevention is the key to blindness control. Stressing this in a recent address the Hon. J. Waldo Monteith, Minister of National Health and Welfare, said: "While substantial progress has been made in restoring the sight of certain blind pensioners through a joint federal-provincial treatment scheme, the real hope of the future lies in the field of prevention."

As part of the program, publications are also prepared and issued for free distribution. They include "Sharp Eyes for Teenagers", "Eye Trouble", and "Glaucoma".

The work and results so far achieved in combatting blindness can and will continue through the monies provided by your taxes to the federal treasury.

Support your local Winter Employment Campaign

Why postpone enjoyment of needed improvement around your home, plant or business!

Every year more Canadians learn that winter is the very best time to get all sorts of jobs done.

Skilled workers are more readily available and, being more productive, give you better value for your dollar. Many firms also offer discounts in the off-season lull.

In addition to home improvements there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances, outboard motors and automobiles, as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.

By taking a realistic approach to winter work you will also be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When everybody works, everybody benefits.

For winter vacation in the South and Canadian resort wear in 1962

Crisp Arnel-cotton in China blue and white woven pattern is an invitation to romance on a winter holiday in the South. The fabric resists creasing and washes easily. Styled by Canadian designer Vali of Josef, Montreal, for the 1962 resort and summer season, this patio frock will be available in fashion stores from coast to coast starting in November.

For Parents Only...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Your child is afraid

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Dady, I'm scared!" "Mummy, I'm afraid!" How do you react to your child's fear? Perhaps he doesn't say he is afraid, but you can see that he is frightened. Fear is written on his little face. The muscles of his body are tense. His heart is pounding like a hammer.

Fathers are sometimes annoyed when a son shows he is frightened. They forget how they felt when they were small! They may be more lenient with a little girl's uneasiness. But all the same, they are proud of their children when they are confident and sure of themselves.

Mothers are more apt to be sympathetic. Often all a child needs is a mother's reassuring arms to put courage back into him. Perhaps just a word of comfort will make the sun seem to shine on a gloomy day.

Parents are able to be more patient with their child's fright if they know that being afraid is a common experience of all little folk. No infant inherits fear of certain things. But a new baby appears to be frightened by loud, sharp noises. He is scared if he seems to be falling, likely because this makes the child feel insecure.

A little child is often nervous in unfamiliar surroundings or with a stranger. If he has no pet at home, a cat or a dog may petrify him. Between the ages of two and six, bad dreams of lions, bears, even burglars sometimes are so terrifying that a child cries out and wakes up. Almost every child at some time expresses fear of the dark. Terrifying movies or TV scenes, exciting radio programs and certain kinds of violent Crime Comics have tended to greatly increase school children's nightmares.

Unnecessary exposure to fear-provoking situations is a mistake in child training. Movies which are advertised as showing "most sensational and alarming scenes" are certainly NOT suitable for tiny tots or even public school scholars. A cross watch dog at a certain home, may be avoided by walking along with mother on the other side of the street. At the same time parents should explain to boys and girls that there are many movies suitable for juveniles and that most dogs are fond of children and enjoy their company.

It is always a help to be able to confess one's anxieties to a friendly person. Especially at bed-time a child's fears may be mentioned. The majority of youngsters, especially boys, who engage in rough play, secretly fear danger situations in which they may receive bodily injury. They may also be very much afraid of being called a "Sissy" when they are dared to do something they realize is unsafe.

In our modern world, so many children are injured playing on the road or crossing it carelessly that this is one area of life where even small youngsters should realize what may befall them if they are careless. Instead of unduly frightening him, a tiny child must learn that he must play in his own yard.

When he crosses the road, he is accompanied by a grown-up. He learns sensible caution, not fear, from his parent. A school age child must practice safety procedures such as crossing at right angles at an intersection and obeying traffic signals. Youngsters should know the traffic rules. They can look on the policeman, who is a traffic officer, as a friend.

The dentist and the doctor should also be spoken of as "friends". A visit to have a tooth filled or extracted, is not nearly so terrifying to a youngster, if mother has pictured the dentist as a person who wants to help people. Physicians often prefer to see their small patients alone because the parent's apprehension is most contagious. The child should be told that the doctor is a kindly person. Although his treatment may hurt, it won't for long. This helps a child to overcome his panic when entering a doctor's office. Letting a child know what to expect banishes the dread of the unknown, to some extent.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Tossed Mixed Greens
with Savory Croutons
Steak Done-To-A-Turn
French Fries
Zucchini in Stewed Tomatoes
Orange-Filled Layer Cake
Coffee Tea Milk

Measurements are level; recipes for 6

Savory Croutons: Cut 4 slices decrusted white bread into small cubes.

Into skillet measure ¼ c. butter, 1 tbsp. instant minced onion and choice of ¼ tsp. each dried rosemary, dill, chili powder or curry; heat until butter melts. Add bread cubes.

Stir gently to coat evenly Slow saute until golden brown.

Use hot as garnish for soups or entrees; or cold to toss into salad.

Orange-Filled Layer Cake: Stir ⅓ c. room-soft butter or margarine until light and creamy. Gradually beat in 1 c. sugar.

Add ½ c. milk and 1 tsp. orange extract.

Sift together 1¾ c. pre-sifted flour, ½ tsp. salt and 2½ tsp. baking powder. Add alternately to first mixture with ½ c. milk; beat thoroughly.

Whip 3 egg whites stiff; fold in. Transfer to 2 oiled (9") layer cake pans.

Bake about 25 minutes in moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit., or until cake test comes out clean when inserted in centre.

Cool in pans. Turn out and put together with orange filling.

Top with thin layer of orange or lemon icing.

Orange Filling: Heat together 1½ c. orange juice and 1 tbsp. lemon juice.

Meantime, cream together 1 tbsp. butter, 2 tbsp. cornstarch, ½ c. sugar and ¼ tsp. salt.

Beat 1 egg light and add. Stir until smooth.

Stir into boiling fruit juice. Simmer-cook 5 min., stirring constantly.

Cool before using, but do not refrigerate.

Lemon or Orange Frosting: Cream 1 tbsp butter.

Work in 1¼ c. sifted confectioners' sugar, adding 1 tbsp. hot milk and ½ tbsp. lemon or orange juice.

If necessary add more sugar.

ERASE WALL SPOTS

Keep a large soft rubber or art-gum pencil eraser with your cleaning supplies, and use it on painted walls and woodwork to remove marks. Clean the eraser itself by rubbing it on sandpaper.

If You're TIRED
Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. 81

Easy stay-up soufflé

Gone are the days when only the most skillful cook dared to prepare a soufflé; and then only if she were in a totally confident mood. Paprika Stay-Up Soufflé rises high and stays right up there. This soufflé delights the palate as well as the eye, because extra smooth evaporated milk gives the dish an extra creamy texture that's not possible with ordinary milk. So, rise to culinary heights with a dramatic-looking dish that knows its place and stays there.

Paprika Stay-Up Soufflé

(Makes 5-6 servings)

1¾ Cups (large can) undiluted evaporated milk, 2 cups (8 ounces) grated Cheddar cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 5 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 5 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Simmer evaporated milk in 1½ quart saucepan over low heat to just below boiling (2-3 minutes). Add cheese, salt, paprika, mustard and onion. Stir over low heat until cheese melts (2-3 minutes longer). Beat egg yolks with a fork until slightly thick. Add flour. Mix until smooth. Add small amount of hot cheese sauce to yolks. Mix well. Slowly return to cheese sauce, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat about 2 minutes until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar in large mixing bowl, until whites stand in stiff peaks. Gently fold cheese mixture into egg whites. Pour into 2-quart casserole which is buttered on bottom. Place a high collar of aluminum foil around casserole; tie tightly with string. Bake in a pan of hot water in moderate oven (350°) for 50 minutes. Remove foil and bake 10 minutes longer or until golden brown and knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Serve at once.

Specially Written for

By Edna Blakely,

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Kathleen Norris and Eleanor Griffith don't talk much about their jobs. And although they travel throughout Ontario, they don't mention where they're going next.

It's because they are bank inspectors — the first women inspectors for the Toronto-Dominion Bank. They've joined a staff of 35 men who visit Ontario branches auditing books and checking cash and securities.

They'll travel together on out-of-town jobs but will work with men while inspecting the 157 Toronto branches.

Miss Norris joined a Toronto branch in 1928. Her salary was $600 a year and with this she helped support her parents.

Miss Griffith began her banking experience in Havelock in 1943. Both were assistant accountants until their new appointments.

Miss Griffith left the banking field for a period while she attended the Eastern Pentecostal Bible School in Peterborough. She worked summers in the bank, then rejoined the regular staff at Kingston six years ago.

Miss Griffith said she never intended to go into the ministry.

"This was just a personal thing," she said. "I think it helps me to understand people better."

The biggest change during her 33 years in banks has been a change in atmosphere, Miss Norris said. It's changed from formidable to friendly.

"When the bank manager walked around your department, the staff practically stood at attention," she recalled. Banks are more informal now.

Old Fashions

Seventeen miniature replicas of inaugural ball gowns worn by wives of U.S. presidents were shown in Canada recently for the first time.

The gowns, from 1861 to 1961, are exact replicas of the original gowns on display at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.

The 1861 gown is a royal blue velvet gown with hoop skirts that was worn by Mary Todd Lincoln.

The 1961 gown is the simple white sheath with its flowing cape and chiffon overblouse which was chosen by Jacqueline Kennedy.

The gown chosen by Frances Folsom Cleveland in 1893 was heavy silk trimmed with Valenciennes lace ruffles. Her dislike of the bustle is said to have ended its popularity.

The rising draped hemline of Florence Harding's white satin gown of 1921 shows the first indication of the short skirts of the 1920's and the rose velvet gown that Grace Coolidge wore in 1923 is the earliest sleeveless gown in the collection.

INGRATITUDE

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

This was a "Believe It or Not" incident, for sure. I was called recently about a deer that had been shot, and I was later picked up to go and see it. Shot by Keith Hazel of Brownsburg, it certainly had everything! To begin with, this animal weighed about 250 to 300 lbs., dressed. A small set of moose horns were on this —and I do mean moose horns. After you read all this maybe you will be thinking the same as I am. There were six small tines on the big palm, which was 21 inches inside and 26 inches outside. The palms were 5 inches wide and 3 inches thick. The neck was a mere 30 inches and the head at the base of the horns was 12 inches. The feet were the usual deer's feet, and the same with the coat. What there were left of the teeth, could not be determined; they were worn right down to the gums. I have seen many queer specimens of deer in my travels, but this is the first one I have ever seen like this. Seeing the rack and not the body, you would swear it was a small moose. A later look revealed the chest was 51 inches. Believe me, a magnificent beast.

The rabbits are plentiful right now, and not too hard to shoot. With everyone out after deer, not much attention was paid to rabbits; however, since the deer closing, they should now be in demand.

Partridge are showing up all over the area. But the bags have not been anything to talk about. They are very scary; that is natural, with all the recent shooting in the bush. It is very difficult to get a shot at them.

Squirrels are still trying to chase everything out, and some of the black variety are getting used to the proximity of human beings. It sure is great seeing these around again.

With all the talk this past season of the stupid and dangerous hunters passing through this district, maybe something will come of it this time. I know it is easy enough to say just what should or should not be done, but on the right or wrong of hunting, some thought should be given by the Government to the innocent people involved in this deadly game. As far as I am concerned, there is only one thing that will bring any results, and that is for all of us to sit down and write a letter to the Hon. Gerard Levèsque in Quebec. He, the minister of fish and game, is the one with the power to right our wrongs. I am not saying one or two letters will do the trick, but send enough of them, and then something WOULD be done. After all, we are the electors who put these ministers in power, and there is always another election.

I mentioned, a couple of weeks ago, closing the season in the county for at least four years, then allowing shooting in a limited area only under supervision. This is still a good idea as far as I am concerned, but from the number who have phoned, there have been protests as expected. I know everyone likes hunting; but there are limits to everything, and the limit has been reached right now in Argenteuil County. . . . A petition could be made up and sent around to all interested; there are a couple of things that have to be fixed up before this is tried, but I'll let you know all about it next week. Keep your fingers crossed.

Winter camping has finally come into its own. This is a sport that is steadily increasing in popularity, and well it might. I know most people think this will be an ordeal of suffering, cold, dampness and so on, but nothing is further from the truth. You can be just as comfortable in winter as you can in the summer, and in a lot of cases, more so. No flies to bother you, anyway. Don't get the idea you can sleep out in a sleeping bag without a fire and expect to be comfortable; you won't.

A few precautions before entering into this: Don't try and do what you have done during your camping trips in the summer. Don't travel alone during the winter; this can be a fateful mistake and one not discovered until the spring break-up. Travelling in snow with gear is pretty difficult unless you have a toboggan. For those who have one, this will be worth noting. Undo the chains on the front, allowing the curve to straighten out. The bush toboggan is high in the front and tapered to the rear, to allow easier dragging. Anything from 8 to 9 feet is ideal for three people. Your tent should be double, and by this I mean it should have a weather skin over it. — Just what the name implies, double-wall; there is an air space between the inside and the outside, thus providing insulation of a sort. A wall tent is pretty hard to set up in the winter, so I would suggest an "A" tent. This is a tent made in the shape of a letter "A", somewhat the same principle as the bell tent.

It's pretty hard to peg a tent during the winter so here is what can be done. Shovel away all the snow except about 6 inches, then tie the tent down to poles that you have cut. Place these along the lower edge, making sure they are longer than the tent. You can weigh the ends of these poles down with logs, giving you more protection in a heavy wind. Once this is done, it is an easy matter to draw the tent up either onto poles or ropes.

Some winter tents have outlets for stove-pipes, but if yours has not, then build a good fireplace in front of the tent to allow warm air to be drawn in. A backlog wall can be built to carry away the smoke, too. In winter camping, a sewn-in floor is pretty hard to handle and should not be used; however, a good heavy tarp can be used with much less trouble. Do not seal up all the ventilation in tents during the winter, especially if your heating is being done by naptha, kerosene or primus stoves. You will find that one of these small stoves is more than adequate for any temperature. Naturally in winter, getting dry wood is not too easy. But if you do happen to have a small wood stove, then if weight is no problem, take it along — if your tent has pipe holes.

A down sleeping-bag is almost a must, along with a heavy wool blanket placed inside the bag to pick up any moisture from your body; besides it is much easier to clean than a sleeping bag.

A lot more is necessary for winter camping, which I will mention next week; this will include your own personal gear, clothing, food, etc.

For our bird watchers — how about putting a little food out for the birds right now? Suet sticks with some feed would be appreciated, I'm sure. I have noticed some very expensive feeders around the district, and it is great to think the birds will be getting the royal treatment this winter! But regardless of how extravagant the feeder is, the birds will more than pay you for it. And don't be surprised if some of the squirrels in the district visit them once in awhile.

It has been a number of years since I have heard about a cougar, panther, catamount — or what you care to call it. However, this one was seen and observed by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Good, of Shrewsbury.

So much has been written about these animals, and most of it wrong. It has been branded as a man killer, but actually it is only too happy to keep away from humans. Like most of the cat family they are very cautious, but on being seen, will take to their heels. Grayish brown fur and the lithe body certainly breeds fear, but they can be caught and tamed — so take it from there. True, they do damage to domestic stock, but only if the feeding is poor. Rabbits are much easier to catch and kill than cattle or sheep. Let's hope these magnificent animals are left alone and not shot for some time yet.

wonder QUESTIONS ?

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

I WONDER . . . Curiosity is a priceless gift. A youngster's daily questions indicate a bright, inquiring mind. They should be answered intelligently. In this column each week the editors of this newspaper, in cooperation with The Book of Knowledge, will print those questions — and the answers — most frequently asked by children of their parents.

Why do we get toothache?

The part of the tooth underneath the enamel is called dentine. It is much softer than the enamel so that things can pierce some little distance into it, and it is filled with tiny branches of the nerve that goes to each tooth. These nerve ends are not disturbed by most of the things we eat. Sugar is one of the things that excite them. If any of our teeth have their dentine exposed, we are likely to get toothache when we eat something sweet.

Very often it may be only one tooth that has its dentine exposed yet the whole of that side of the jaw, or nearly the whole of it, may ache. The reason is that all the nerves going to the teeth along one side of either jaw are branches of one nerve and when any part of it is disturbed, all teeth served by that nerve are likely to ache.

If we wish to have healthy teeth we must give them good care. Above all we should eat food that builds strong bodies and sound teeth. We need plenty of milk and milk products such as butter and cheese; also meat or other sources of protein; vegetables, fruits and grains in the form of bread and breakfast cereals. Natural sweets found in ripe fruits are better for our teeth than too many refined sweets like candy and sweetened soft drinks, good as they taste.

How do fireworks get their colors?

The name chemists give to the making of fireworks is "pyrotechnics" from a Greek word for the art of "making fire". The chemist often makes miniature fireworks when he wants to analyse a substance. He burns a bit of the substance and notes the color of the flame, for some of the elements burn with a telltale flame.

The color of such a flame is due to the element itself. This wonderful secret of nature has its origin in the lightning-like vibrations in the atoms. These vibrations set up waves that we recognize as blue or red or yellow or some other light. Thus, barium salts give a green flame, strontium salts a red flame. It does not matter whether we use strontium chloride or strontium sulfate; it is the strontium that gives the characteristic crimson color to the flame.

There are many colors that can be introduced into fireworks. Sodium salts give golden effects, lithium salts red colors, copper salts blue flames and so on. Some of these compounds require greater heat than others to make them burn brilliantly, and the science of the firework maker must come in so that the heat of the firework flame is hot enough to get the proper effect at the right time. The pretty little stars in party snappers are caused by tiny filings of iron, which burn with a fierce but rapid flash, giving the appearance of a star. Some fireworks have a practical service. Colored lights have long been used by ships at sea for certain signals. Star shells and signal lights have been widely used for night operations by troops on land.

Wives have say in running farm

In the majority of 352 typical Ontario farms, women help the farmer make his decisions on the operation of the farm and the farmer helps his wife make up her mind about important matters in the running of the home.

Canada Department of Agriculture's rural sociologist, Dr. Helen Abell, analyzing a joint study, adds a cogent reason for the female interest in the farm operation —

"Almost half of the farm women now do as much work around the farm (apart from homemaking duties) as when they first became farmers' wives from four to forty years ago."

Farm women make a decided contribution to the labor force of Ontario farms in that 98 per cent perform some work around the farm other than homemaking.

The work which the women do includes keeping farm accounts, operating farm machinery, feeding livestock and marketing farm produce. Nearly all do some work on the farm but a few, chiefly in teaching or sales work, have returned to their premarital work in order to supplement the farm income. More than three quarters of farm wives had worked in non-farm jobs, before marrying.

The pervasiveness of joint decision making by the homemaker and the farm operator emerges from the survey. Some of the decisions are relatively minor, some are of major importance but all decisions affect the farm family not only in earning a living but in attaining the best possible family life, the sociologist affirms.

This joint husband-wife function operates in varying degrees depending on the specific activity but it is clear that in the majority of farm families the homemaker and farm operator make most decisions as a team.

Implicit in her report, said Dr. Abell, is the fact that farming is indeed a family affair.

Maritime community pasture

COMMUNITY PASTURES—Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, accompanied by E. D. Haliburton, minister of agriculture for Nova Scotia, right, recently visited the Minudie, N.S., community pasture operated by the provincial government. This former marshland was reclaimed by the federal Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration and, along with two other community pastures has encouraged farmers to increase their herds. Mr. Hamilton was impressed with the pastures' potential for boosting cattle production in the beef-deficient Maritimes and offered federal co-operation in developing a program of pasture expansion for the area.

Mice valuable in livestock heredity experiments

Canada Department of Agriculture geneticists have turned to mice to save time in their livestock breeding studies.

"Laboratory mice," states Dr. J. A. Newman of the department's experimental farm at Lacombe, Alta., "quickly provide information on the inheritance of particular traits and on the best method of improving them."

Experience has shown, he points out, that the results of animal breeding research on mice are just as applicable to farm livestock in general as are results from any particular strain of farm livestock.

Use of laboratory mice offers many practical advantages to the animal geneticist. Litters of eight to 10 are born every month to a mature female, providing large numbers of offspring from any particular mating. Space requirements are small, a fact that permits precise control of the animals' living conditions.

Hundreds of strains of laboratory mice, developed for other purposes, are available. The breeding histories of these mice have been well documented for as many as 100 generations.

Farm couple big winners

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Taylor of Richmond, Que., have won the Canada-wide Ford Farm Family Quiz — it was announced by P. T. Willey, general manager, Ford Tractor and Equipment Sales Company of Canada.

Mr. Taylor was the only farmer to have a perfect score in the Ford Farm Family Quiz, which attracted 100,000 enquiries from all ten provinces. Of these enquiries, 5,200 actually submitted solutions to the judges during the period August 1 to October 15.

The reward which the Taylor family receives includes a Ford Falcon station wagon, Mercury truck, Fordson Dextra tractor and a number of farm implements of their choice.

The Taylor family were the guests of Ford of Canada at the Royal Winter Fair on November 17, where they were presented with their prizes.

Tile outlets need attention

Prof. A. Banting, of Macdonald College Agricultural Engineering Department, advises that drain tile outlets should be checked before winter sets in. The vents should be cleared of all obstructions such as accumulated soil, leaves, shrubs. To avoid further trouble it is good to keep these vents protected from stock, as they can soon render useless a tile drainage system by clogging the openings.

Outlets using ordinary tile vents can collapse by freezing in a couple of years. It is therefore good policy to protect the vent with a wooden box, galvanized steel tile, steel water pipe of correct size or vitrified clay tile.

If any wash-ins are noticed on the field, the tile should be dug up at that point and replaced immediately, as this can cause soil to build up very fast, rendering the line useless.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

How's Your Liver?

Years ago when many patent medicine ads called attention to liver ailments, a more or less joking greeting among friends was: "How's your liver this morning?"

We still have a lot of interest in the liver, largest of all organs of the body, whether we are concerned with human or livestock physiology.

Dr. Bohstedt

In reference to livestock, the liver has many functions. The liver secretes the greenish colored bile that gives a slightly alkaline reaction to the contents of the intestines and in that way favors the efficiency of the digestive enzymes there. The bile also emulsifies the fat in foods to prepare it for digestion.

Furthermore, the liver stores glycogen, or animal starch, and it regulates carbohydrate metabolism (body sugar use) in the body. It plays an important part in the prevention of ketosis, an acid condition.

The typical blood sugar is glucose, which is corn sugar. Thus the liver is called upon to convert all other kinds of sugar, fruit sugar and the like to glucose to serve the various needs of the body.

One of the most important services of the liver is to render harmless certain nitrogenous components or break-down products of food or feed protein so as to avoid autointoxication. Actually the liver serves as the sewer of the body. I am saying this very respectfully because we know how essential an efficient sewage system is to the health of a city.

The liver destroys worn-out red blood cells and gets rid of them, as another function of sanitation.

It helps convert the yellow carotene of butter and vegetables into colorless vitamin A, to which it must be converted to be used by the body. A quick adjustment of the eye from light to darkness, for instance, depends on the presence of vitamin A in the retina of the eye. In the absence of this vitamin we have night blindness and other afflictions in calves, colts and other animals.

Further functions of the liver are the building or conversion of starches or carbohydrates into fatty acids, making use of fat as fuel for the body. Part of the fat is converted into lecithin an essential compound in the body.

The liver also is a storehouse for various vitamins including vitamin $B_{12}$, the vitamin that protects the body from pernicious anemia. Trace minerals stored in the liver are doled out to the body, while they last, during periods of inadequate nutrition.

These many vital functions as they may apply to humans as well as livestock, are surely enough to explain the importance of the liver and no doubt justify the greeting: "How's your liver this morning?"

Question: May trace minerals be expected to improve a corn-and/or sorghum grain-soybean oil meal type ration already supplemented with calcium, phosphorus and salt?

Answer: The Purdue experiment station found that significant increases in gains in pigs from 30 to 100 pounds in weight were made by further additions of several or all six commonly used trace minerals, including cobalt. A very practical way of supplying these trace minerals is through the use of trace mineralized salt.

Comrades pay honor to charter members at 25th anniversary of Legion Branch 70

A highlight of the week-end, from community and social viewpoints, was the 25th anniversary celebration of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 70, at a supper last Saturday in the Masonic Hall. A fine representation of war veterans, wives, friends and town citizenry gathered for the occasion, which was a time of reverence and rededication, as much as a birthday celebration.

At the head-table, besides participating officers, were representatives of the Legion Auxiliary and Brownsburg branch, also of other community organizations, with the Rev. Wilson Bridge, padre; W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.; Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C.; Major W. Strover, representing Provincial Command; Comrade Hector Steele, District Commander; Linton Armstrong Assistant Provincial Commissioner of the Boy Scouts; and the guest speaker, Judge J. J. Penverne. Branch 70 president, Comrade J. O. Martell, presided, and Bernard Jenkins ably conducted the program. The head table guests were accompanied by their wives and ladies.

Bernard Jenkins, briefly reviewing the inauguration of the Legion here 25 years ago, paid passing tribute to Harry Carpenter and Sid Stilwell as prime organizers of the local and of the Brownsburg groups, respectively. He recalled that on charter night the late Rev. Henry Cousens had been chairman, and the late Comrade Ted Hammond was sergeant-at-arms. From a booklet "The Road to Socialism in Canada", Comrade Jenkins quoted examples of the sort of dangers the Legion must unceasingly combat, in the interests of a free and democratic Canada.

President Joe Martell highlighted the purpose of this anniversary, to honor the charter members still active in Branch 70; to these men he paid eloquent tribute. Of the ideals for which they fought, and for which their comrades died, he said, "Such is the heritage handed to us by the men we honor here tonight".

Mayor Legault, extending a civic welcome to guests "not of this town", remarked that the list of initial members of Branch 70 "sounds like a roll-call of the old citizens of Lachute" — synonymous with those whose community spirit had laid such worthy foundations, imbued with the sense of duty and civic consciousness. The mayor extended good wishes for the future progress of the organization.

Major W. Strover brought greetings from Provincial Command. In 1936, the inaugural year of this branch, subversive influences were gaining ground, in our universities and elsewhere, and it was a credit to local initiative that veterans had organized here against these challenging principles of the time. Major Strover also brought greetings from the Dept. of Veterans' Affairs, with which he is now associated in Montreal.

Mrs. W. Bradshaw, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Legion Branch 70, spoke with pride of the association of this group with the senior body, and the fine spirit of co-operation which had existed, over the past 11 years.

At this point, President Martell and Major Strover, the Provincial representative, officiated for the initiation of three new members, Thomas Leclair, Geo. H. Lortie and A. H. Taylor. This ceremony, conducted here for the first time in public, was designed to acquaint the general audience with the solemnity, the principles pledged, and obligations assumed, in Legion membership. The initiation was very capably performed.

Comrade Bob St. Laurent, M.B.E., as sergeant-at-arms, directed the presentation of colors as a prelude to this program, and also paraded the "recruits" and charter veterans for their respective parts in the proceedings. The sergeant-at-arms and color party were complimented for their precision, which added to the impressiveness of the whole occasion.

An interesting sidelight was the presentation of a charter to this branch, as new sponsors of the Boy Scouts Association in Lachute. Assistant Provincial Commissioner Linton Armstrong explained the organization and con-

Hit-run driver exonerated in death of young student

Inquest into the death of Robert Ouellette, young student for the priesthood at the Pointe au Chene seminary, who was killed while walking on the highway November 19, resulted in an "accident" verdict after jurors heard evidence last Thursday. The inquest was under Coroner Dr. R. Lavigne, held at Lachute Auditorium.

Marcel Marier, 29, an automobile painter residing in Verdun, was exonerated of blame.

Robert Ouellette, aged 15, was struck from the rear by an automobile proceeding eastward in Pointe au Chene, on the evening of November 19. The automobile was passing another car at the time. Ouellette was in a group of 20-or-so students walking from the seminary to the parish church.

Marier, driver of the car, and eight other witnesses were heard — including the victim's father; two provincial police officers from Lachute, Jean-Paul Légaré and Gilles Lavigne; the superior of the seminary; and two fellow students of the deceased, Marcel Deslauriers and Paul-Aurèle Pharand. The latter two declared to Roger Lagarde, crown attorney, that they and the victim were walking abreast beside the road, and Ouellette was about 2½-feet on the pavement of the highway. They were walking on the left-hand side of the road, in the direction of Lachute.

Principal witness was Léonard Carrière, 52, of St. Eustache, who stated he was passing the young students on the highway when a car passed him in the same direction, west to east. He heard a noise, and believing his car had been bumped, he chased the other motorist and forced him to stop, at the Constantineau Restaurant. After finding that his car had not been hit by Marier's auto, he advised the latter to return and ascertain what had happened. Marier agreed, but nevertheless proceeded on his way east. Carrière drove back to the spot, and learned that one of the young students had been killed. . . . Asked to identify Marier, the witness had some difficulty in this respect, as he believed Marier was not wearing glasses at the time of the accident.

Giving testimony (under protection of the law, at request of his counsel) Marier declared that he had not seen the young men walking at the roadside. When passing Carrière's car he heard

Autopsy held on body of slain woodsman

An autopsy performed on the body of Bill Gunn, 41-year-old Lachute resident who was found dead in the bush near Mount Maple on Monday of last week, revealed four bullets had entered his body instead of three, as at first believed.

Dr. Rosario Valcourt, Montreal medico-legal expert, made the autopsy at the Menard parlors, where the body was taken following the discovery. It was ascertained that two of the bullets, one in the head and one in the back, had been fired from behind the victim, thus eliminating any possibility of suicide. The two alternative explanations therefore are a hunting accident or — murder.

A covering of snow on the ground last week complicated provincial police investigations, by obscuring footprints or other evidence on which to reconstruct the killing.

It is recalled the victim was cutting and piling wood for his brother-in-law, John MacRae. His body was found near the woodpile, at 9 p.m. after a neighbor, Calvin McAndrew, noticed Mr. Gunn's car still at the roadside. A search then resulted in the grim and tragic discovery.

Another resident claims seeing a mountain lion

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

One morning in July around six o'clock, I saw a big animal walking in the pasture. I got a good look at it, for it was out in the clearance and was walking slowly like a dog. But I knew it wasn't a dog, for there were no dogs in Harrington that big. The very next morning it passed in the same place, at the same time and in the same direction. I remarked to my son and my grandson at the time, about this big animal I had never seen before.

From Mrs. Good's story in The Watchman about the mountain lion, and the description she gave, I am certain now that what I saw was a mountain lion.

— Mrs. Emily MacTavish

49 Years' service at C.P.R. station

J. Hormisdas Malette, assistant agent at the C.P.R. depot here, terminates his duties Thursday after 49 years' service with the Company. Actually he will take his retirement next February, 1962.

Mr. Malette, well known figure at the C.P.R. station, entered employment here when Philias Monette was the local agent in 1913, and has served under the numerous station agents appointed since that time.

J. Hormisdas Malette

At the age of 65 years (C.P.R. retirement age) J. Hormisdas Malette is virtually the last of the "old guard" on this section of the line. He is a family man with five sons and three daughters, also 50 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He is a former alderman of the town and warden of his church, Ste. Anastasie.

A friendly gathering of fellow workers and associates will be held Thursday afternoon, to wish him well on his retirement.

8-Year sentence for manslaughter; illegal operation

An English-speaking jury rendered a decision holding Dr. Basil Robertson, of Morin Heights, guilty of manslaughter — on conclusion of a week-long trial at St. Jerome last Monday. Justice Roger Ouimet, presiding over criminal assizes for the district, handed down a sentence of eight years in penitentiary.

The case arose from the death of Miss Anita Desaulniers on April 11 last, following an illegal operation.

Crown prosecutor on this lengthy trial was Fernand Legault, Q.C., well known Lachute attorney, while counsel for the defendant was a prominent Montreal barrister, Joseph Cohen.

Pedestrian killed on Highway No. 8 near St. Philippe

Aimé Pilon, 70-year-old St. Philippe resident died soon after being struck by a car on Route 8, a short distance from his home, around noon last Saturday. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury.

Mr. Pilon was walking along the left-hand side of the highway, going west, when a friend on a tractor offered him a ride. He crossed the highway into the path of a car owned and driven by Albert Levert, of Piedmont, County of Two Mountains.

The victim was taken to the Hawkesbury institution by ambulance. Q.P.P. Traffic Officer Richard Dubé investigated the fatality. Joint district coroner Dr. Roger Lavigne reported an inquest into the death would be held this week.

Charged with theft of material on Carillon job

Montreal — Two former Quebec Hydro Commission employees appeared in court last week on charges of fraud and theft, alleged to have taken place while they were working on the Hydro project on the Ottawa River last April.

Appearing before Judge Emile Trottier were Georges André Leduc of Beauharnois and Jean-Marc Montagne of Montreal, who were held in several bail bonds of $950 each pending preliminary hearing November 26.

Both men, said by police to have been in charge of receiving materials for the Carillon project, are charged with theft and conversion of more than 10,000 square feet of lumber worth more than $800 last April 12.

In addition, Montagne was charged with theft and conversion of 13,000 square feet of lumber, valued at $1,169, which is alleged to have been entered on the books as having been received but which was reportedly stolen en route to the project from Trois Pistoles, in the lower St. Lawrence River region.

Annual gathering of C-I-L 25-year club held at B'burg

Brownsburg — Five employees were welcomed into the C-I-L 25-year club here last Saturday evening. Included were Miss Alice Leblanc, Omer Gagne, Sam Rose, Linton Tomalty from the Ammunition Division, and Mrs. Evelyn Licop from Canadian Safety Fuse Company.

Limited to employees and pensioners having attained 25 or more years of recognized service, the club now boasts of 197 members.

Under the Company's Service Awards Plan, each employee completing 25 years of service is presented with a white gold pin, bearing the letters "C-I-L" in an oval, and set with four diamonds, and the choice of a suitably inscribed gold watch or silver salver. In addition, these employees are granted an annual four-week vacation under the C-I-L Vacation Plan.

Included at the head-table with Chairman John Duncan were club members K. W. MacGibbón, works manager, Ammunition Division, and J. B. Chalmers, general manager, Canadian Safety Fuse Company, and members of two typical veteran Company families, the Moncrieffs of C.S.F. Co., and the Wilsons of Ammunition Division.

Mrs. Alice Wilson (sister-in-law), Lemuel, Leonard and Oliver Wilson amassed a total of 172 combined years of service before retirement, while, in the Moncrieff family, Mrs. Bertha Enlow (retired), Rollie and Ward, have to date completed a combined 109 years.

Five retired members of this select group each have 50 or more years of service; these include brothers Leonard and Oliver Wilson, William Birch, Frank Hazel and Frank Vowles, all of whom were employees of the Ammunition Division.

An interesting observation by these veterans was the fact that several of those present were "youngsters" when the first Canadian ammunition was produced in Brownsburg 75 years ago. Captain A. L. "Gat" Howard was the first Works Manager, and Canada's second Prime Minister, the Right Hon. J. C. Abbott, was first President of the Dominion Cartridge Company, later to become the Ammunition Division of Canadian Industries Limited.

A social period, featuring songs and waltzes of yesteryear, concluded the festivities of the evening.

I.G.A. Store for Vankleek Hill

Vankleek Hill — A new I.G.A. Store opens its doors to the public here on Wednesday, November 29. The store occupies completely renovated premises, and Miss Theresa Rowan, who has some 14 years experience in the retail trade in both Alexandria and Ottawa, will be the manageress.

Go-ahead for St. Andrews school, to cost $202,460

Through the efforts of Mr. Rodrigue Durocher, Liberal candidate for this constituency, the Quebec government grant towards a new Catholic school at St. Andrews East has been increased from 80 to 85 per cent of the cost. The government has approved the construction of a 12-classroom building to include also a gymnasium-assembly hall — the rooms converging upon the hall, to save corridors, and the ground dimensions being 101 x 176 feet.

The administration quarters will include a medical clinic, the principal's and secretary's office, teachers' and school board room. There will be space also for a cafeteria and a Household Science department. The grounds will include a park, playground and skating rink.

The Catholic School Commission chairman is Dr. André L'Allier. The board has obtained permission to build in accordance with plans prepared by Rouse & Morin. The contract has been granted to Archambault Ltée for a sum of $202,460 — with ( as stated above) a government grant for 85 per cent of this cost.

Note to readers

Juvenile Court judge gave inspiring talk

The invitation to speak here at the Legion's 25th anniversary banquet, recalled to Judge J. J. Penverse of the Juvenile Court, Montreal, old and cherished memories of Lachute. Judge Penverne had been a law partner with the late R. L. Calder for 20 years, while he had also enjoyed close friendship with the late Sir George Perley — both of whom were intimately associated here. . . . Judge Penverne's war record is noted in the report of Legion proceedings.

At the age of 6, unable to speak a word of English, he had emigrated from his native Brittany to the State of Wisconsin. At the age of 7½ he came to Montreal where, in a private school, he was placed in charge of a "little mother", a Jewish girl, who taught him the language, the pride and love of nationhood. "In such spirit of brotherhood, that is an example of what Canada can do today", said Judge Penverne, decrying the distrust and animosity which would spread dissension, and the separatist influence that would cleave the roots of Canadianism. "Think of our glorious traditions from Britain — our glorious traditions from France; but in order to use this rich heritage, we must learn first to love one another," he said simply.

Our duty is to promote a practical democracy that is closely akin to Christianity. If we "can be witnesses to the Lord", we can convince people that we must live harmoniously together. The Royal Canadian Legion, said Judge Pen-

1,000 Youngsters on Lions' skating rink in week-end counts

At the Lions Club meeting last week in the Legion Hall, guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. L. Turcotte, County Health Officer, who discussed provisions of the new Quebec Hospitalization Plan. Col. Ernest Emmett chaired the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Lion André Lefebvre and thanked by Lion Tony Zaplaski. There were about 40 members in attendance.

The Lions' skating rink, priority project at this season of the year, was the subject of a gratifying report by George Locke, committeeman, who stated that activities were then near their peak, with hockey leagues in swing and game schedules drawn up for the season.

It was notable that, during the two previous week-ends approximately 1,000 youngsters had made use of this rink. It was urged that anyone having unused or discarded skates should hand them to Lion Jacques Bourgoing, rink manager, who would pass them along to needy families unable to buy skates for their children.

Lion Ken Raymond and his collaborator, Gaetan Malaket, reported the recent Silver Dollar Bingo a very successful venture, from which a worthwhile amount had been raised for the club's welfare funds.

Lion Gordon McOuat was "booster" at this meeting, and spoke briefly on improvements in paints, their distribution and sales. His prize, a can of C-I-L paint, was won by Bertrand L'Heureux.

Two court actions by Ayers'l citizens on assessments

Two legal protests against the municipality have been instituted by Ayersville property-holders seeking a reduction of their assessment. The two complainants, acting through their lawyer Roger Lagarde, are neighbors on Bradford Avenue, Gaëtan Desrosiers and Roger Côté.

The petition addressed to the Council contains 17 allegations. In the case of Mr. Desrosiers, it states that his property is valuated around 60% of its actual value, while the average rate is around 50% of value.

It is stated that this particular property is worth $11,674. The valuators assessed it at $8,500, and the Council reduced it to $7,000 when considering protests and revising the roll. Mr. Desrosiers now requests that the valuation be still further reduced, to $6,000.

In the case of Roger Côté, his first valuation of $8,000 was reduced to $6,750 on revision, and he now asks that the figure be reduced to $5,700 — citing the same reasons as those given by the other petitioner.

The roll having been duly homologated on October 25 last, Ayersville Council feels its position justified, and the secretary-treasurer, Jacques Poitras, has been authorized to represent the municipality in court hearing.

Councillor Gaston Plamondon expressed the general opinion of the Council, that the valuators had performed their duties conscientiously, and the Council had acted in all fairness to the taxpayers in homologating the roll.

In absence of Mayor Paquette and of Coun. Durocher (pro-mayor) the meeting was chaired by Coun. Doug Simon.

Ayersv'l presses demand for 'tutelage' by Quebec Dept. of Municipal Affairs

While certain municipalities repudiate the idea of Quebec taking over their financial affairs — this is not the case at Ayersville, which is more than anxious to be placed "under tutelage", and has petitioned the Department of Municipal Affairs (November 22) for the second time. At the Council meeting on that date Mayor G. Paquette was again absent; and the pro-mayor being detained at his work, the session was presided-over by Councillor Doug Simon.

It is recalled that on July 17 last the municipality asked to be "taken over", in order to re-establish its finances. Two creditors, "Les Puits du Quebec Enr." and the Bank of Montreal (Lachute) claimed debts of $25,500 and $23,300 respectively.

More recently, the well-drilling firm has instituted action against the Council members individually to recover the amount claimed. Also, at the last Council sitting, a registered letter from the Bank of Montreal claimed payment, with the least delay, of $23,300, representing the balance due under Loan By-Law 21 for the construction of sidewalks.

Since the municipality is in no position to liquidate this debt, it has sent another formal plea that Quebec Government should implement its request of July 17 last and place the administration under tutelage. . . . Coun. Plamondon moved and Coun. Cyr seconded the resolution, which was adopted unanimously.

Dining room of new motel named 'Le Voyageur'

Name of the new dining salon in connection with the new Golfer's Motel on Bethany Road, was chosen Tuesday night from hundreds of entries. The name is "Le Voyageur", submitted by two contestants, Mme François Charlebois, Bedard Blvd., and Mlle Lynne Poulin, Hamford Street.

After preliminary checking and elimination, there were 55 likely entries to choose from, and the selection from that point was not too difficult. The selection panel comprised Messrs. Léopold Carrière, Fernand Berthiaume, Fernand Legault, Q.C., Gaetan Paquette and Felix Touchette. Identity of the contestants was not known to the judges.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Ampleman were hosts to about 100 guests for this occasion. Their new, modern and tastefully appointed motel and dining room will open to the public on Friday.

Week's Epigram

Education means developing the mind, not stuffing the memory.

Trophies awarded at Fish-Game closing soiree

Around 350 persons gathered last week for the soiree concluding this season's activities of the Argenteuil Fish and Game Association.

An entertainer and orchestra contributed greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Trophies were presented for the season's contest, and 14 door prizes were distributed.

Trophy winners were as follows:

Dalma Lemay, Lachute, Association trophy for largest number of fish caught.

Maurice Desjardins won the Desjardins Transport award for the biggest barbotte.

Paul Céré, Molson trophy for largest Red trout.

Ernest Villemaire, Lacasse Automobiles trophy for the largest Grey.

Patrick Lalonde, Boyd's Express award for the largest doré.

Bernard Boyer, Molson trophy for the largest bass.

Réal Lemay won the trophy for the biggest female deer registered this season. There was no entry for the largest buck deer.

Hector Lepage, Molson's Trophy for the largest pike.

The Association takes this opportunity to thank Mr. Leonard Bédard, district agent for Molson's, for his valued co-operation during the past season.

Ayrshire breeders well represented at recent 'Royal'

Concerning two local exhibitors at the recent Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, the current bulletin of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association records the following:

W. Erskine Rodger, of Lachute, exhibited the winning senior bull calf with Woodlea Royal Leader. His 2-year-old bull, Woodlea Luck's Way, was third in his class. In the dry cow class Woodlea Evergreen Florence placed fifth.

John P. Bradley & Son, Lachute, placed well up in a number of classes. In the senior yearling class, Brookview Trixie placed third. Their junior yearlings were sixth and seventh, and their Graded herd placed fourth.

Another representative of this community, Miss Bessie Black, personally presented the J. H. Black Memorial Trophy to Mr. Tom Ride of Hatley, Que. This trophy is the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Club award for grand champion bull.

Pointe Claire foursome won ladies' invitation curling event

Last Friday saw the finish of the first invitation bonspiel of Lachute Ladies' Curling Club. Twenty-two different clubs were represented.

The trophy being played for was the Wilson Trophy, a beautiful silver bowl kindly donated by Mrs. E. H. Wilson, charter member of Lachute Ladies' Curling Club, for annual competition.

Some excellent curling was witnessed and the four rinks qualifying to return for the play-offs were — Hudson, Pointe Claire, Club de Granite and Sherbrooke.

In the semi-finals, played Friday morning, Mrs. Unwin's Pointe Claire foursome edged Mrs. B. Thompson's Hudson rink on an extra end, and Mrs. Irwin's Club de Granite four, in a close game, edged Mrs. McPherson's Sherbrooke entry.

In the main event final in the afternoon, Pointe Claire, with Mrs. L. B. Unwin (skip), Mrs. D. H. Cross, Mrs. Ken Bradford and Mrs. W. C. Black, were the winners. Runners-up were Club de Granite (Montebello), Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. G. Cartwright, Mrs. J. LeBel and Mrs. E. Bradley.

The consolation final went to the Sherbrooke foursome, with Mrs. D. B. McPherson (skip), Mrs. D. B. Racey, Mrs. J. A. Hogg, and Mrs. A. St. Onge. Runners-up were Hudson, with Mrs. B. Thompson (skip), Mrs. V. Larson, Mrs. J. Cosco and Mrs. J. Dundas.

Charter members of Legion 70 honored at 25th anniversary

stitution of the Boy Scouts, leading up to this procedure. The charter ceremony was formal and authoritative. Jess Humphries, president of the Long Sault District Council, was present to receive the charter from Mr. Armstrong. Mr. Humphries presented the document in turn to the Branch president, who finally entrusted it to the Branch member appointed Group Committee chairman, Comrade Ernest Gordon. The latter, in this manner, heads the Legion group assuming this new responsibility in the community.

A presentation of life-membership scrolls and 25-year medallions was made to the charter veterans still active in Branch 70, who were seated in a place of honor in the hall. Those receiving this tribute from President Martell were as follows: Comrades C. L. Duncan, Thos. Milnes, Roy Fraser, George G. Mitchell, V.D., Gordon Hampton, George V. Graham, Edward Jones, George Leggett, R. A. Giles, M.M., Léonidas Dallaire. There was fitting reference to those of the charter members who had since passed to their reward — and during the ceremonies, a tribute of silence was observed for the fallen of two world wars.

Comrade R. A. Giles replied on behalf of the charter members, speaking in a humorous vein of past memories and incidents involving old veterans of the branch. In more serious words, he thanked the president and comrades for the honor conferred on himself and his contemporaries, and looked for a continuance, and extension, of the Legion's efforts for veterans and their families in need.

Judge J. J. Penverne of the Juvenile Court was here introduced by Comrade Bernard Jenkins. Mr. Penverne, he noted, was awarded the Croix de Guerre and was twice mentioned in despatches by the French Government, for his services in World War I. In that war, also, he was the first McGill undergraduate to reach the front in 1914, under colors of the French Foreign Legion.

Judge Penverne gripped his audience with a stirring and thought-provoking address (reported in this issue), and he was ably thanked by Comrade Chas. Duncan.

"God Save the Queen" concluded this full and inspiring program, after which the gathering reassembled for dancing at the Legion Hall. . . . Altogether, the 25th anniversary proved a memorable milestone in Legion Branch 70 and in the affairs of this community, in which it plays its worthy part.

Congratulatory telegrams were read from the Hon. Paul W. Earle, O.B.E., C.D., Quebec Minister of Revenue, and Don Thompson, secretary of Dominion Command at Ottawa.

Hit-and-run driver exonerated in student's death

something bump, and later, when he got out to talk to Carrière, he found that his left headlight was broken and his left fender crumpled. He then became unnerved when he realized he had "hit something". He was so perturbed that he continued on his way and, in his excitement, took the wrong road in approaching Montreal. It was late that night when he reached home (the witness continued). Next morning he was getting ready to report to the police, when officers came and took him to provincial police headquarters in Montreal.

The witness admitted he had taken a drink with his father, in a hotel at Fassett. This was his first accident, he claimed, although he had been driving since he was 18. He also stated that he was wearing his glasses on the evening of the accident.

Victor Marier, father of the driver, who was beside him in the front seat, also stated that he saw no one at the roadside, but heard a bump when his son's car passed that of Carrière, in Pointe au Chene.

The five-man jury deliberated only a couple of minutes, before rendering their verdict of accidental death.

Inspiring talk given by judge of Juvenile Court

verne, addressing his immediate audience, can do much to iron out our little differences.

Child Welfare

The speaker noted with satisfaction that Branch 70 had entered into the promotion of Welfare and Social Service — which led him to speak of his work in the Juvenile Court, and to urge upon parents the need to confide in, sympathize with, and understand their children.

"In 90 per cent of cases of true delinquency," he said, "the real fault is ours, the parents'. The best educator a child can have during his first years, is his mother." The speaker impressed that we must give time and interest to our children, answer their questions and join in their play when they ask for it — not at some vague, future, more convenient moment. We must play the role of parents when they, the children, need us.

Judge Penverne cited cases in his experience where the home and family atmosphere were primarily responsible for wayward children.

His topic came from the heart, his sincerity was infectious, and no more convincing a speaker could have been invited for this inspiring occasion.

Introduced by Comrade B. Jenkins, Judge Penverne was thanked by Comrade C. L. Duncan, who hoped the speaker would "long be spared to preside over the Juvenile Court".

B. of M. report sets new records in many phases

Local, national and international operations of the Bank of Montreal have added up to the most active 12 months in the bank's 144-year history — according to Donald Hay, manager of the Lachute B of M.

Releasing the bank's annual statement covering the period to October 31, Mr. Hay said it showed that the local branch and some 875 other offices together had established new records in almost every phase.

Resources rose almost half-a-billion dollars to a new high of $3,950 million, he said, while deposits, including Canadians' personal savings of some $1,749 million, amounted to a record $3,647 million.

Loans Increased

Loans of all categories — including N.H.A. mortgages, farm and home improvement loans, call loans, Family Finance Plan advances and loans to business and industry — totalled $1,934 million, an increase of 9.08 per cent over the 1960 figure.

B of M earnings also reached a new peak, at $14,578,817. But this figure was only realized after income tax payments of $18,043,791, the manager said. The earnings figure was 2.5 per cent more than a year ago.

Shareholders Now 22,000

Of this amount, the bank's shareholders, now numbering some 22,000, are receiving dividends of $2.05 per share — a total of $12,453,750 (or $5,590,041 less than the income tax bill).

The manager also reported that "quick" assets amounted to $2,042 million, representing 54.56 per cent of liabilities to the public of $3,742 million, versus 53.97 per cent last year.

The value of premises is shown at $63,062,983, an increase of 13.3 per cent over the 1960 figure of $55,661,047, an indication of the extent of the bank's building and modernization program in this province and across the country.

GIVING

Generosity has never impoverished the giver; it has enriched the lives of those who have practiced it.

Rotarians hear English student enable her to study for her Master's degree at McGill University.

Miss Crawford first told the club a little about her town, Torquay, which is situated in the southwest part of England, and is about as famous as a summer resort as Florida is as a winter resort, as well as being a very historical place. She then told some of her first impressions of Montreal, and those parts of Canada which she has seen. The most amazing thing, to her, is the rapid pace of living — the roaring of vehicles on the streets and highways and the hustle and bustle of the people — always in a hurry. Another notable impression was the vast expanse of the country.

The evening was much enjoyed by those present, who appreciated a first-hand report on the work and goodwill the Rotary Foundation is doing, and how much it is valued by those who benefit from it.

IN APPRECIATION

It gives me great pleasure to thank all good friends and neighbors who so kindly remembered me while I was in hospital, by visitation, flowers, cards and letters.

Also I deeply appreciate the kind expressions and acts of good will shown my husband during my absence. Most sincerely yours —

Late autumn wedding in United Church

Dendy-Davis

The marriage of Marjorie Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis, of Lachute, to Mr. Cyril Robert Dendy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril J. Dendy, of Montreal, took place recently in Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating. Mr. L. Hopkins played the wedding music and Mrs. L. Armstrong sang during the ceremony. Baskets of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a floor-length gown of candlelight Duchess satin embroidered with Alençon lace, having a fitted bodice with a portrait neckline, the sleeves ending in points over her hands. The full bouffant skirt fell in deep folds to a sweep train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a pillbox of matching candlelight Duchess satin and lace. She carried a bouquet of pale pink and white carnations and trailing ivy.

Miss Diane Davis, as maid of honor for her sister, wore a frock of gold velvet with princess lines, a circlet of velvet autumn leaves in her hair, and carried yellow Shasta daisies.

Miss Jane Flemming and Miss Carol Ann Bentley, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in velvet dresses of forest green fashioned on the same lines as the maid of honor, wearing autumn leaves in their hair. They carried bouquets of apricot chrysanthemums.

Mr. Peter Dendy acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. David Findlay and Mr. James McNeil.

Mrs. Davis, mother of the bride, wore a pure silk bengaline gown of otter brown, with beige and brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Dendy, mother of the groom, was gowned in Dior blue with matching hat and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Dendy left for the Southern States, the bride travelling in a grey and black wool suit, with a gold hat trimmed with feathers, and black accessories. A corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses was pinned to her lapel.

Upon their return they will reside in Montreal.

Among the many out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ford and daughters, of Toronto, Ont.

Cyril Robert Dendy and Marjorie Joyce Davis, who were married recently in Lachute United Church. The couple are residing in St. Laurent, suburban Montreal.

Wedding of note at Vankleek Hill

Fraser-Cunning

A wedding of interest to many in this district was solemnized in the Presbyterian Church at Vankleek Hill, Ont., on Saturday, November 11, at 2 p.m., when Miss Ruth Cunning, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cunning, was married to Mr. Kenneth D. Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Fraser, of Ste. Anne de Prescott.

Yellow and white mums decorated the church for the occasion, and Mrs. D. MacPhee played the wedding music. During the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. A. Thompson, of Hawkesbury, the choir sang the hymn, "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden", and Mrs. Holmes sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of appliquéd nylon over taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a rhinestone tiara, and she carried white roses centred with an orchid.

Mrs. Bernard Rhode was matron of honor for her sister, and two cousins, Miss Carol Barton and Miss Janet Clark, acted as bridesmaids. The attendants were gowned alike in dark green French velvet, and carried yellow carnations.

Best man for Mr. Fraser was Mr. Carmin Howes, and the ushers were Mr. Harold MacDonald and Mr. Rudolf Milkovic.

Mrs. Cunning, mother of the bride, was gowned in beige velvet frappé with matching hat and brown accessories, and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Fraser, the groom's mother, was in teal green wool, with beige hat and brown accessories, and also wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Fraser left on a motor trip to points in the United States and Ontario, during which they planned to visit the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. The bride travelled in a teal green wool ensemble with white hat and black accessories.

On their return they will reside in Ste. Anne de Prescott, Ont.

Attended National Ballet

Organized by Mrs. Ernest Gow, a group of 43 girls from the Argenteuil School of Ballet witnessed a matinee performance of the Canadian National Ballet at Her Majesty's Theatre last Sunday. The party travelled by chartered bus, and following the performance, stopped at the "Rendez-Vous" for supper on their return. Mothers also accompanying the group were Mrs. Douglas Hay and Mrs. R. Noble.

Teachers' Assocn. hears speaker on World Conference

The Argenteuil Teachers' Association met on Thursday of last week at Grenville High School.

Guest speaker was Miss G. Getty, vice-principal of the Gault Institute, Valleyfield, who had attended the World Conference of Teachers in New Delhi, India, in July, 1961. Four hundred delegates attended this conference, and Miss Getty, president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, was one of the 11 Canadians present.

Her speech proved to be both informative and witty, as she related experiences on her trip to India via Tokyo, Hong Kong and Rangoon.

She stated that the responsibilities of the school varied throughout the world, from the small African village where the school is the centre of the child's world, to our system in Canada where the influence of the school is much less.

From her point of view the conference was worth while, because it helped her to appreciate the advantages of Canadian teachers, and to realize that the aims of teachers everywhere were similar.

A workshop for the A.T.A., to be held in March, was discussed.

A suggestion was passed for a brief to be sent to the Royal Commission on Education, to ask for a course of study in Physical Education.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Kerr announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Doreen, to Mr. Robert Owen Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lamb, of Lachine, Que. The marriage will take place on Wednesday, December 27, at Kerr's Farm, Lakefield, Que.

Young Miss Judy Gow entered the Smith Clinic at Hawkesbury on Sunday, and underwent an appendix operation the following day.

Fellow Editor Died

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Giles motored to Huntingdon, Que., on Tuesday to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Adam L. Sellar, whose death occurred suddenly last Sunday. A past-president and colleague of Mr. Giles in the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association for many years, Mr. Sellar published The Huntingdon Gleaner, which was founded by his family nearly 100 years ago. He is survived by his wife and one brother, Watson Sellar, retired auditor general of Canada.

High School sports events

Junior Basketball

On Friday night, both the junior girls' and junior boys' basketball teams travelled to Brownsburg High School for two games, in which Lachute High School were victorious.

The L.H.S. junior girls won by a score of 44-12. The three stars for this game were Janis Leblanc, Susan Evans and Ruthanna Barlow.

The junior boys, also victorious, won their game by 34-11. The three stars of this game were Herbie Underhill, Jamie Menzies and Richard Maidens.

Senior Basketball

Friday night, the Lachute High senior boys' basketball team entered the "Golden Ball" tournament held at Westmount High School in Montreal.

The first game was played between Rosemount and Lachute. Rosemount won by a score of 42-31. The three local stars of this game ere Gordie MacKay, Grant McGibbon and Gary Cruise.

On Saturday, Lachute participated in three games. The first was Lachute versus Westmount; Lachute won, 42-33, and the three stars were Grant McGibbon, Gordie MacKay and Ian Cairns.

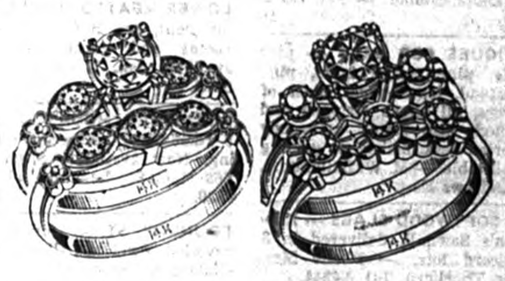

The second game was between Rosemere and Lachute; in this game also Lachute won, by a score of 46-33 — the three stars being Ian Cairns, Gordie MacKay and John Hay.

The third game was played between John Rennie School and Lachute. John Rennie won this encounter, 49-30. The three local stars were John Hay, Grant McGibbon and Gordie MacKay.

DIAMONDS AND A BRIDAL DUO FOR YOUR FIANCEE

J.-Ulysse Nadon, jeweller and watchmaker, holds a diploma from the Gemological Institute of America qualifying him as a diamond expert. The course followed by Mr. Nadon, covers the technology of diamonds; the procedure of valuing diamonds and classifying as to color; and exact measurement of size and dimension. To test his qualifications Mr. Nadon was required to evaluate and classify a quantity of diamonds, the result being verified by the Institute. He has a diamond "lab" specially constructed in his establishment, equipped with the instruments essential to this craft.

Cancer Society Lachute branch meeting held

The regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Cancer Society, Lachute branch, was held recently in the Court House on Grace Street.

An interesting report was given by Mrs. J. D. McOuat, who, with her husband, attended the annual meeting of the Society held at Lac Beauport, Que.

The date of the 1962 campaign was announced — April 2-16. In this district Mr. Roger Regimbal will be chairman, with Dr. Eric Mongeon and Mr. J. D. McOuat as co-chairmen.

Mrs. C. Duncan was a delegate in October to the Workshop held in Montreal, at the Mount Royal Hotel.

Mrs. Raymond Beaulieu has replaced Mrs. A. Giles as third vice-president of this branch of the Society.

Gifts, to be included in December packages, should be in at the December 12 meeting.

Parable of progress

THE FILTRATION project in Lachute was an idea promarily motivated by the Chamber of Commerce — so we are reminded in the current letter from that organization, announcing a supper this Thursday at which the mayor, councillors and contractors will be present. The filtration project will be discussed by authorities now in action on the spot. . . . The Chamber's letter (in French) winds up with a motto, that "patience and long vision achieve more than force and fury", or words to that effect.

With work well advanced on this half-million-dollar improvement, it is timely to recall the persistence of Lachute's Chamber of Commerce in pressing the matter — while in no way minimizing the successful endeavors of the mayor and councillors in bringing it to fruition. It may be remembered that the Chamber organized a visit to view the filter plant at Hawkesbury, and also a public safari to inspect Lachute's crude filter arrangements, still existing at the water intake.

In connection with this civic step, which will personally affect the health and satisfaction of every resident, high or humble, it is early yet for fanfare and jubilation . . . but it is never too soon to realize, that organized effort is the key to progress.

The city rush

THE ONLY Eskimo priest of the Anglican Church of Canada has made some remarks that should strike a sympathetic chord in the hearts of many Canadians.

The Rev. Armand Tagoona, 39-year-old priest whose congregation is at Rankin Inlet, 300 miles north of Churchill, Man., was in Winnipeg for a visit.

A year earlier he had seen his first city — Toronto — where he was ordained. He was asked whether he would like to live and work in the city. . . .

"Oh, no, never!" was his reply. "When I was in Toronto last year I was very dizzy from what I saw, and this year in Winnipeg it's exactly the same. Nobody seems to have peace in your cities. The people are always in a rush and seem to be very unhappy. I don't think they live full lives at all."

Mr. Tagoona wasn't quite correct. City-dwellers, for the most part, may look unhappy, but there are plenty who do enjoy their life.

He wasn't quite incorrect either. There are lots of folk in the cities who are downright unhappy. And who can blame them? When you think of the hours spent each day just travelling to and from work, the traffic jams and the crowded streetcars and buses, you have one idea of the disadvantages of living in large communities.

It's not so bad if there is lots of money but for the average wage-earner it's a struggle to get enough money to buy a house in the city that may cost as much as $10,000 more than the equivalent dwelling in a small town or rural area.

The development of suburban housing has revived some of the sense of being close to nature, but it's really more than a token. And the long lines of cars crawling out of town on summer week-ends is testimony to the starvation thousands of city-dwellers feel for the great outdoors.

We may not care to get as far away from it all as Mr. Tagoona. But many share his distaste for the dizzy pace of such places as Toronto and Winnipeg, and there's still plenty of space in this country without having to go quite as far as the Arctic Circle.

A conference of wide concern

THE 16TH ANNUAL convention of the Quebec Fish and Game Associations which takes place in Montreal next week, is not a haphazard affair, but a logical continuity of efforts aimed to educate the public in the conservation of our natural resources. Thus this convention will follow the footsteps of two national conventions recently held in Montreal bearing on identical subjects.

Wildlife management will be the theme adopted for this convention. Some 300 delegates expected from far-away places in the Province of Quebec — and representing some 489 sports clubs, associations, with a total membership of 60,000 — will gather for this annual meeting. All aspects of wildlife and forest management, of river and lake resources, pollution, tourist camping, etc., will be dealt with during the study sittings, and later the Federation will report their recommendations to the proper authorities.

Appeal for aid to universities

UNIVERSITY leaders gathered recently in Ottawa to chart the future course of higher education in Canada, gauge its cost and hear a speech by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Last year they submitted a brief asking increased federal grants to universities. Before this last conference there were mutterings that the brief had been shelved.

When the prime minister spoke, he said there had been no "shelving" and there would be sympathetic consideration to the request. But he suggested that the provinces, who have the main responsibility for education, are in better financial shape to help.

The conference agreed that an increase in federal grants to $2.50 per capita of population, from the present $1.50, is "essential" to meet a critical financial problem. It also said universities should receive $500 for every student enrolled in medicine, dentistry or post-graduate courses.

Roads and logging concessions

"PRIVATE" ROADS IN DISPUTE. — You can expect to hear a good deal more about public access to private logging roads, writes Beatrice Riddell in The Financial Post. These are roads built and maintained by private companies with cutting rights acquired from provincial governments.

In many cases the private roads are the only access to game — thick forests, fish-filled lakes, dandy picnic and camping land across the country. But they are usually barred to public use. As urban growth continues, there will be more pressure to make this land accessible to city dwellers for recreational purposes. In every province there are periodic "flare-ups" and each time it becomes a thorny political issue. Right now, B.C. is having one of its biggest private road battles.

Flouridation gaining in Canada

MORE AND MORE Canadians are drinking flouridated water, according to statistics just released by the Health League of Canada. These show that, as of October 1, 1961, 84 communities are now making use of this public health measure, serving 1,353,594 people in Canada. This represents an increase of seven places and of over 85,000 people since the first of the year. Four of these communities are in Saskatchewan, one in Ontario and two in Quebec.

One in 13 Canadians is now served by fluoridation programs. In the United States 45 million people drink fluoridated water from public supplies. This represents one in every four Americans.

THOSE WORK ADDICTS

A popular magazine has been dissecting the plight of what it refers to as "work addicts". The article made interesting reading, and was no doubt gobbled up with delight by the lazy bones among us.

Are you wondering if you are a work addict? Let old Ambrose assure you, without even the benefit of a personal examination, that there are about 99½ chances out of 100 that you are no such thing.

Let me give you one further bit of advice: go meet a work addict (if you can find that rare type) and try to pick up a bit of his reflection — it will probably add some years and a great deal of satisfaction to your life.

Work addiction is hard to come by. You can be exposed to it again and again, and still not catch it. Of all the diseases the magazine people are trying to scare us with these days, it is least to be feared. Magazines might have something when they hint that you have halitosis, grey sickness or athlete's foot, and perhaps they do some service to humanity with their preaching about such things. When they run so short of scare headlines that they must dream up this new illness called work addiction, they are scraping the bottom of the barrel.

All my life I have struggled to become a work addict, without any noticeable success. Just when I think I am about to become addicted, the hunting season arrives, or it's spring, or the winter TV schedule begins — and all these things are sure cures for work addiction. Some of my friends have also made a real stab at getting infected, but so far only one or two have been slightly touched by the illness — and they thrive on it. Guess the poor, wealthy, healthy, active fools don't even know they're sick!

No, I am afraid it boils down to this — there just isn't any such disease outside the fertile minds of the magazine editors. If there were, some smart merchandiser would package it and sell it, at high prices, to us lazy bones. I'd be first at the counter when the sale began.

MILADY VOTES FOR INDEPENDENT ACTION

The ladies, bless 'em, have improved their lot a good deal since the days of the kitchen woodstove. Now, gleaming white appliances stand ready for their command; frozen foods are in the freezer; and little cans of pre-cooked goodies line the shelves.

Makes you wonder why they need a stove at all — a can-opener and a few candles to heat them might do fine!

Actually, all these kitchen improvements are a good thing. With fewer chores at the stove, milady has much more time to enjoy life, and who can blame her for taking advantage of progress? A wife should have independence; it makes for happiness all around.

Nowadays, if the modern wife wants to visit in the next city, she goes; if she feels a new hat coming on, she buys it without reference to the Master for every penny she wants to spend. That's financial independence. A wife likes to feel she hasn't lost all her independence to become "just a housewife".

You know, it's surprising how quickly this 'independent' feeling grows when she has her own Bank of Montreal savings account. She deposits small amounts regularly, and when she wants ready cash for a new hat or a pair of shoes, it's there at the B of M, with interest.

Why not visit the Lachute branch of the B of M soon? The accountant, Paul Boivin (or Miss Lulu Miller at Ayersville branch) will be glad to show you how easy it is — and how profitable, to open a B of M savings account.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

The high-pressure magazine salesmen are with us again!

These laughing vagabonds bluff their way through the door in the guise of poor boys competing for a university scholarship.

They say nothing about money or magazines, but prattle on about their hopes of becoming doctors or dentists — with your help. All you have to do is give the lad a few minutes of your time. He is an Austrian (or an Italian, or a Czech). He hasn't been in Canada long, and his sponsors want him to try out his English on strangers.

In other instances he is an embryo business executive, sharpening his wits by conversation. It's all the same pitch. Oh, yes, the boy adds — there is another way you can help, if you wish.

At this point in the dialogue, his youthful, carefree smile fades into a cold, rocky stare. He goes into a salesman's crouch, and whips out a list of magazines with the speed of Billy the Kid drawing his Colt.

He still hasn't spoken about money. The magazines are valued in points. One thousand points wins him a university scholarship, and he has gathered 890 points so far.

Won't you help him get those last few points, so that he can go to college and be a doctor?

What does it cost? You surely wouldn't mind paying seven cents a week for a magazine to help a student — a future doctor? Well, there is a small charge of $17.98 to pay now, but there won't be a thing to worry about until next year, when another token payment of $14.79 falls due.

If you have fallen for this line of patter and signed the contract the lad is already looking at his watch. Before the ink is dry, he'll be on the road in pursuit of fresh prey.

He may be a genuine magazine salesman. In this case the magazines will arrive, as promised. However, don't look for your visitor on a university campus. You're not likely to find him.

And if you let your payments fall behind — wow! Bill-collectors' dunning letters will come at you from every angle.

It is true that salesmen have a difficult job. If they announced right away that they were selling magazines, few people would listen. Therefore they have to use deceit.

The editors and publishers of magazines may not like these methods, but they can't say "No" to an agency that can deliver many thousands of paid subscribers. They need circulation.

The trouble about the system is that it tricks old, vague and poor people into buying goods that they don't need and cannot afford. It leads to much misery when the bill-collectors' letters arrive.

Sometimes I think there ought to be a law against this kind of approach.

Morin Heights

Mrs. E. Goldthorp, of Montreal, visited friends here over the week-end.

W.A. Annual Event

On Saturday afternoon the Women's Association of the United Church held their Christmas tea and sale in the church hall. The large attendance was proof of the support of the community, and also made the event a success. Nearly $200 was realized, this being both gratifying and rewarding to the ladies who had worked so hard. Their sincere thanks are extended to all those who participated in any way.

Children's Hour

The Children's Hour held every Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the church and conducted by the minister, the Rev. W. B. Ball, is becoming more popular every week. At this service, which was organized early in the summer, films of the life of Christ and St. Paul have been shown. A new series has started prior to the Advent season. The children also participate in this service by reading the lesson and rendering solos and duets. As well as the youth of the community, a number of the adults have taken advantage of the service. All are most welcome.

Sudden Bereavement

On Saturday evening this community was saddened by the sudden passing of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Riddell (née Marilyn Dey). Sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved parents, and the Dey and Riddell families.

Friends of Mrs. George Watchorn are sorry to note that she is a patient in the Montreal General Hospital; all take this opportunity to wish her a speedy recovery.

'Irresponsible men glorying in their power' — inquiry and impasse on hunting abuses

November—month of dull skies — the dying of the year. One supposes that it is for these gloomy reasons that social activities reach their full bloom. Lately I read somewhere the report of a visiting dignitary of the last century. Of Montreal, he said that the populace amused itself all winter with a series of grand and colorful balls. He seemed to be amused rather than impressed. But evidently the custom has survived, for the accounts of three such evenings have helped fill the pages of the newspapers this week. I see that a friend of ours was resplendent in a brocaded rose and turquoise gown at one of the military dances.

But not for the writer such diversions — for we have been immobilized by influenza. It gave us a chance to rest, and as reading became tiring to the eyes, we fell back on stories storied in the mind. (A nice phrase, don't you think?) It is not a great mind, so the stories were trifling! We have a learned friend who once had to go for several days with bandaged eyes. He said he repeated to himself half the plays of Shakespeare, and a good section of St. Luke's Gospel. Happy the mind so furnished! . . .

Ours is different — we recalled our father, a whimsical giant of a man, who solemnly brought in to dinner a man wandering in the street, asking for one Henry Neill. Mother, used to the exigencies of living with father, calmly put the dinner on the table, and listened to the conversation, which turned on one Henry Neill. The stranger had come some hundred miles to make a business deal and was naturally desirous of learning about said Neill. . . . He wanted to know if he were honest. As honest as the average, said my father. . . . Was his credit good, could he expect quick payment? That, opined my father, was certain. . . . Was he a godly man? My father pondered that one; finally he said that he seldom went to church, but he had been known to do good deeds. This seemed to satisfy the questioner, who belonged to some obscure but godly sect. Came the dessert, and the inevitable disclosure — my father's identity. Anyway, the business was consummated.

We also thought of a story told us this summer by one of the oldest residents of The Gore. When he was quite a young lad, his mother was ill, and in the crisis, a girl of the district, now a respected matron living near us, came to help in the house. The two were bidden to put a pail of milk in the well, a common way of preserving food before the advent of refrigerators. Fooling around as young things will, they managed to spill a good portion of the milk. Frightened dismay. (Parents were not as now.) Finally, they pumped in enough water to bring the liquid up to its former level, and suspended the pail in the well. . . . There is no ending to this story. There never was. Nobody commented; nobody punished. Did the stern Victorian parent have a poor palate, or did he have a sense of humor?

We retold ourselves these stories partly as discipline, as our all-too-retentive memory persists in casting up the picture of the gory cat. We have nightmares about it. All this fuss about a cat! sneers a more hardened character. No, not all this fuss about a cat. Much more than that. It is a fuss about evil that has suddenly erupted in our paradise. It is quite true that one does not understand a spiritual truth until the word is made flesh. Evil and sin are words, but surely hunters and lawbreakers are flesh. Flesh can be dealt with, which is what my good friends in The Gore are trying to do.

Since we cannot be there all the time, we tap away on the typewriter — writing this one in authority, that one with influence. We have a polite letter from the Minister of Game and Fisheries; an equally polite, but ambiguous one from a Deputy Minister; and, just yesterday, a visit from a tall, suave Assistant Superintendent. From all this, we have gleaned these facts. — Unless the crime is a breaking of the laws about hunting and fishing, the Department is powerless to act. An act of trespass must be proved in the courts; the punishment is a trifling fine. It is possible to ban all hunting, but the policing must be done by the municipality concerned. It is even more feasible to ask for a Bird Reserve, which automatically outlaws all guns. The issuing of licenses is not curbed by any laws. Any moron with the requisite cash can carry a high-powered gun. To quote from the Deputy Minister's letter, "When a man pays for his hunting license, he must be aware of what he can do and what he cannot." What does this mean? For instance, he must be aware that he can shoot domestic animals. Or does it mean that the licenser is supposed to instruct the hunter? The trouble is here. The Government should enact laws that would make it more difficult for irresponsible men to roam about, glorying in their power.

The Assistant Superintendent told of a farmer in the Huntingdon district that ordered hunters off his land. They went. They returned with five carloads of hunters and parked at his gate. The man called the Provincial Police. When they came, they were powerless to act, for no laws were being broken. Are we to have this kind of terrorism in Argenteuil? Is the farmer not just as important to the country as the hunter? The Assistant blames the "New Canadians" for this upsurge of terrorism. But it was not New Canadians who caused our troubles, but the oldest Canadians in the country. We beg our readers once more to write, petition, talk with their council members. The peril is over for this year, but next year waits around the corner. Now is the time to prepare for then. Keep at it! This is supposed to be a democracy where the will of the majority is supreme.

How your Money worked at my Bank in 1961

Donald Hay, Manager
Lachute Branch
Bank of Montreal

This is my personal report to you on what the dollars you entrusted to us did in 1961. It must start with a "thank you" for the trust which you — and three million fellow Canadians — have shown in the Bank of Montreal, by depositing your savings with us.

Throughout 1961 your bank kept that money working hard for private individuals and for the community as a whole, through loans and investments. Much of that money went to people in all walks of life, to finance purchases of all kinds. It went to small and large businesses, expanding their operations. It helped create new jobs, it assisted farmers to improve their farms... built new schools and financed research and education . . . it paid for new roads and community modernization.

Every section of the country, and people in every walk of life, benefited by the money Canadians entrusted to the B of M.

Clearly, in 1961 these deposit-dollars of yours did a double job of work. They helped to build your future, and they did a big job in helping to make for a better future for Canada as a whole.

"MY BANK" TO 3 MILLION CANADIANS B of M

Facts behind the Figures in the B of M's 144th Annual Report

DEPOSITS: These stood at the highest figure in the history of the Bank. Nearly half is the personal savings of customers. The remainder is money deposited by business firms, community organizations and governments. At the end of the Bank's 144th year on October 31st, 1961, total deposits amounted to $3,646,622,258.

LOANS: Besides investments in government and other high-grade public securities, many thousands of loans were made throughout the year to people in all walks of life — to farmers, miners, fishermen, oilmen, lumbermen, ranchers, salaried people; to industrial and business enterprises large and small; to community organizations; and to Provincial Governments and Municipalities. Total loans at year-end — $1,933,790,626.

When you save money at the B of M you not only keep it safe and earning interest for you, but you make a sound investment for yourself in Canada's growth now and in the years ahead.

For Parents Only...

CHRISTMAS GIFT OF YOUR CHILD'S PICTURE

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

A child's photo taken by a good photographer is a possession which grows dearer to parents with the passing of the years. So does a picture of the family group. It is an investment which they will never regret because it opens the magic door to happy memories of happenings in the childhood of a son or daughter.

But the informal snapshots taken at home are also of great value. Color pictures are still rather expensive but a good color "shot" is indeed a treasure! For the majority of families black and white pictures taken even with an inexpensive box camera can produce excellent results. This is an activity which reserves a place in the home's budget for recreation.

A generation ago, amateur photographers were usually limited in their pictures to those taken out-of-doors on a bright day. But high speed film, flash-bulb attachments and photo flood lights have changed all this. Indoor pictures are now practical for beginners who will faithfully follow the directions.

There are a number of excellent inexpensive books on taking snapshots, on the market. Every public library has books on photography. This is a fascinating hobby for a family or for an individual. A little experience soon eliminates the mistakes of ruining a picture by moving the camera when clicking the shutter or the unfortunate choice of a background, or allowing sun to shine on the lens.

If a child is being taken to a professional photographer, he will likely agree that there are certain things which a mother can do to co-operate in a satisfactory result in her child's photo. Fit the appointment for the picture into a time in a small child's schedule when he is rested and happy. Don't be in a tense, rushed mood! This is so contagious and a child hates to be hurried.

Mothers often want their boy or girl to be clothed for a photo in a new suit or dress. This is all right if the child likes the clothing and feels at ease. But often a small boy will rebel against being scrubbed and his hair brushed and dressed in his "Sunday best". A much more pleasing picture might be taken in his favorite play outfit!

Contrary to the belief of many adults, a youngster does not have to be smiling broadly to take a good picture! There is nothing more artificial or self-conscious looking than the poor child who must "Smile Now!" while his picture is being taken. He is apt to stiffen and look most uncomfortable, even if his teeth are showing.

Watch an experienced child photographer at work and you will see that he takes time to let the child feel at home. Thus he avoids the stiffness of formally posed pictures. Just at the moment when the child is in a natural, graceful position, the photographer clicks his shutter. The home camera enthusiast would do well to follow his example.

It is easy for parents to take a picture without creating a fuss. Mothers and Dads have the opportunity to snap a child busily engrossed in play — the little girl with her dolly or the small boy on his tricycle. . . . These "action shots", which catch something of a youngster's personality, have a charm all of their own. Parents can never turn back the hands of the clock and take last year's pictures. . . . Don't let a month slip by without a snapshot session in your family!

Kindergarten kit is popular

Victoria CP — A do-it-yourself kindergarten kit is available to British Columbia parents who want to keep their children occupied at home.

This service of the elementary correspondence school of the education department has proved so popular it has been extended to all pre-school children. They are designed for children whose brothers and sisters were already taking correspondence courses.

"Then we began to get inquiries from other people," says Art Plows, director of the elementary correspondence program. "We are not in the business and we have not publicized the service, but between 80 and 100 kits were issued to people who inquired last year."

Small Charge

They are issued free of charge to children who normally would take correspondence courses, usually because they live in remote areas where it is impossible to attend regular school. There is a charge for children who live in school districts, the fee being cheaper in rural areas than big cities where private kindergarten instruction is available.

The kits include four activity books, one for each season of the year which is the theme of the lessons. There are also instructions to parents for handwork projects, coloring, preliminary exercises to prepare for learning to read, and a calendar on which youngsters may chart the weather.

The department has not yet been able to ascertain whether the kits make any decided difference in Grade 1 work but the public reaction has been rewarding, says Mr. Plows.

Heritage of Italian cuisine

FISH FILLETS SCALLOPINI

Scallopini is one of the many traditional and cherished recipes that are part of the Italian culinary heritage. Meat has always been a luxury in Italy and ingenious cooks devised this recipe to yield the most flavor from a minimum of meat. Although the most famous version features veal, beef or fish also are used. With such popular foods as a base and the addition of vegetable seasonings and the subtle tang of dry wine, the resulting delightful mingling of flavors easily accounts for the widespread popularity of Scallopini. The Fisheries Council of Canada passes along a Canadian adaptation of the treasured European recipe using waste-free fish fillets. Fish fillets Scallopini belie their low cost and speed of preparation with superb flavor and colorful appearance that gain them entry into the class of appealing gourmet fare.

Fish Fillets Scallopini

1 Pound fish fillets, cut into serving-size pieces, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paparika, 2 medium onions, 4 green peppers, ¼ cup butter or margarine, *¼ cup dry sherry.

Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika; dip each fillet into flour mixture to coat both sides. Cut onions into rings and green peppers into eighths. Melt butter or margarine in a large skillet. Add onion rings and green peppers and sauté until tender but still crisp, about five minutes. Lift out onion rings and peppers. Add fillets and pan fry just long enough to brown lightly on both sides. Add onions, peppers and sherry. Cover pan and cook four to eight minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

*2 tbsp. water and 2 tbsp. lemon juice may be substituted.

Taking your medicine seriously

Ever wake up, or at least about half awake, in the night with a splitting headache, or a pain in the tummy? . . . and stumble into the bathroom and reach for a bottle in the medicine cabinet? . . . and gulp down a pill or two, or a spoonful of medicine?

Sure, all of us have, and we are really risking serious trouble in taking medicine carelessly. As the American Medical Association points out, the medicine you are taking was prescribed for by your physician and he included careful and specific orders as to how to take it.

Simple rules are recommended for taking medicine, which can help to avoid an accident that may make your minor discomfort a lot worse:

1. Never take medicine in the dark. You should be certain you can see the bottle or pill box, to make certain it's the right one.

2. Read the directions carefully before taking. Those directions are there because they're needed.

3. Don't increase the dose or take it more often than directed without checking with your doctor.

4. If the label says "Shake before using", it means what it says. Shake it.

5. Don't take medicine prescribed for someone else. Just because it helped your husband's cough doesn't mean it's right for you.

6. Keep medicines out of reach of children. Some of the children's medicines today taste good, and the kids may eat them like candy. The small child who is rushed to the hospital after eating a whole bottle of sugar-coated aspirin tablets is an all too common occurrence these days.

7. Put the cap back on the bottle. Some medicines change strength if exposed to air too long.

8. Keep the medicine in its original box. Shifting sleeping pills into an aspirin bottle, for instance, could produce dire effects for someone else in the family.

DOLLS ARE FEATURE OF HOSPITAL SHOW

Montreal CP — Some 250 dolls were dressed by vounteers and judged during a special "Gift Shop Day" sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of the Montreal Children's Hospital. Eight of the dressers, ranging from 14 to 88 years old, received prizes. About 200 dolls were sold during the day, and the rest put on display in the hospital's toy shop.

Chemicals guard packaged foods

By treating packages with an insecticide, you can protect cereal foods from insects during the normal storage periods.

That's the advice of F. L. Watters of the Canada Department of Agriculture's Winnipeg research station.

He points out that packaged foods need protection since they may be shipped in infested trucks or stored in infested warehouses. Insects can easily penetrate packages through the closures and seams, and some can even drill holes through the sides of containers.

In tests at Winnipeg, treating the closures at the tops and bottoms of paper sacks with an insecticide protected flour from insects for more than seven months. The insectide, a mixture of pyrethrins and piperonyl butoxide, is one of the safest available.

The food does not come into contact with the insecticide and so does not become tainted. In addition to protecting the foodstuff from insects, the insecticide on the treated closures killed most of the insects that came into contact with the sacks. The food in sacks without treated closures became heavily infested during the experiment. Sacks with treated closures are available commercially.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Low, wide dressers and high, narrow chests are samples of the variety of bedroom furniture offered by Canadian manufacturers.

Bedroom furniture is more practical and flexible than ever, say members of the Canadian Furniture Manufacturers' Association.

The "standard" stub-legged suites of 10 years ago provided one vanity, one dresser and one chest along with the bed. But today's suites offer dozens of variations.

Dresser widths vary from 54 inches to 80 inches. Many of them fit under the high windows in the newer homes.

Drawers of chests are shallower and wider, which makes it easier to keep clothing tidy and to find things. Optional dividers for keeping shirts in order are offered by some manufacturers.

A 26-inch-wide tall-boy chest fits a wall area where there's a door three feet from the corner and provides plenty of storage space in five or six drawers.

The legs on the bed and other pieces are higher, making it easier to clean under the furniture.

Night tables generally have a wider surface top to accommodate more items and shelf and drawer space is more functional.

Blanket chests and cedar chests that fit at the bottom of the bed, bedroom benches, easy chairs and desks have all been correlated with other bedroom furniture.

Slim contemporary pieces in walnut with little or no hardware are favorities with shoppers but traditional designs, revamped and scaled for modern living, are moving into favor, say the manufacturers.

Dining Rooms Return

Home builders and furniture manufacturers have put a re-emphasis on the dining room in the past few years. With small-space economy housing the dining room had all but disappeared 10 or 15 years ago.

More new homes are including a separate dining room or at least a specific dining area. When the area is off the living room, dinette furniture can be obtained to correlate with the living room furniture.

Most pieces have been slimmed down but the table has been widened in some cases. Because of the smaller rooms 10 years ago, many tables were scaled down to 36-inch widths. This proved to be impractical when 12-inch plates were used. The new 40-inch width doesn't make much difference in floor space but does mean a homemaker can set a prettier table.

Because the buffet style of dining has become so popular, the buffet has become an important piece of furniture. Sliding doors are space-savers and hinged doors in the upper cabinet have magnetic catches for easy use.

Versatile hutches take the place of china cabinets and can be poised on the tops of servers, cabinets or on cupboard buffets, leaving ample surface space for serving.

Many table surfaces are mark-resistant and eliminate hot-plate worry and polishing care. Extensions for both round and rectangular tables bring the table length to eight feet or more.

OBLIGATION

If a free society cannot help the many who are poor, it cannot save the few who are rich.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHARES IN AIDING JOBLESS FAMILIES

Pete Deschene is a Montreal laborer with a family of four children. Last winter he was laid off and couldn't find another job. Pete was not covered by unemployment insurance. When his savings were used up, he had to apply to the City Welfare Department for social assistance.

Pete's kind of unemployment — the seasonal or temporary kind — is well known across Canada. Less publicized is another category of the jobless; the permanently unemployed who are also receiving help from city welfare departments and other welfare offices across Canada.

Programs of help for these people are administered by provinces and municipalities. Under the Unemployment Assistance Act, the Canadian Government pays half the cost. This help has different names in different areas: social assistance, general assistance, general welfare assistance. In some places it is still called "relief".

In cases of proven need, many provinces and municipalities give additional aid to people already drawing certain other benefits. These include people getting Old Age Security Pensions, Old Age Assistance, Blind Persons' Allowances, or Allowances for the Disabled. In these cases too, the federal share is fifty per cent.

Describing the cost-sharing policy in a recent address, Hon. J. Waldo Monteith said: "The Dominion Government stands ready to pay 50% of all provincial and municipal expenditures on supplementary benefits. We do not even place a limit on how much we will share in. If a province should decide to give supplementary benefits of say, $100 a month, we would come across with half that amount."

Welfare officers in provinces and municipalities decide who gets assistance and how much. The Canadian Government's only stipulation: those assisted must be unemployed and in need. People coming into the Province from other parts of Canada must not be denied assistance.

In the year ending March 31, 1961, the Canadian Government channelled some $51 million into unemployment assistance. Average payment in which the government shared in a specimen month (September, 1960) was $14.89 per person in Newfoundland; $27.87 in Ontario; $23.15 in Saskatchewan; and $36.13 in British Columbia.

Assistance rates vary. In general they are higher in the industrialized central provinces and in the west, than on the East Coast. Large cities usually have higher rates than smaller towns and rural communities.

The number of people getting assistance varies with the national employment picture. But the permanently unemployed total is fairly constant, making the variation less than might be expected. Thus, Ontario's total for July 1959, a high-employment month, was 63,000. By January 1960 it rose to nearly 80,000. Comparable B.C. figures were 35,000 and 41,000.

Federal sharing in the programs does not cover medical care costs. But the government does share in hospital care costs through the federal-provincial hospital program. Most provinces have schemes to help recipients of assistance meet their medical costs.

Detailed information about programs should be sought from provincial Departments of Welfare.

WHO COMMANDED THE GREEN MOUNTAIN BOYS?

From 1770 to 1775 Ethan Allen was colonel of the Green Mountain Boys, an irregular force that was formed in his home state of Vermont at the time when control of Vermont was in dispute between New York and New Hampshire. Allen had served with the British during the Seven Years' War but in 1775, after the outbreak of the American Revolution, he and Benedict Arnold captured Ticonderoga from the British. Later that year, however, he was captured during an unsuccessful attack on Montreal and remained a prisioner until an exchange was effected two years later. In 1780 Allen took part in Vermont, which had not yet joined the Union as a state, under the British flag. The negotiations failed. It is felt that his real purpose may have been to force the United States to take firm control of the area. He died in Burlington, Vt.

A totally new Mercury size...
Meteor has arrived!

A foot longer than compacts, a foot shorter than big cars, the new sized Mercury Meteor joins the big Monterey and the compact Comet to meet your driving needs to a dollar.

Its name is not new. Everything else is! From totally new unitized body to every dimension.

Meteor's wheelbase is a long 116½ inches, turns washboard roads into real smoothies. But it's also inches shorter than a big car. Lets you slip into parking spots you used to pass by.

Also new in a lively way are Meteor's new engines. There's a 145 horsepower V-8 engineered for plenty of pep and economy too. If a Six is your size, Meteor's 101 horsepower Big Six fills the bill. And cuts your gas bill at the same time.

Meteor's beautiful new interior seats six without a shoehorn. Luggage is welcome. Should be. The trunk is 31.6 cubic feet huge. And this is also the quietest Meteor in history. And—the most service-free.

In Meteor, chassis lubrications are up to 30,000 miles apart. Oil change interval is up to 6,000 miles. Brakes adjust themselves. Aluminized muffler lasts up to three times as long as ordinary mufflers. And the new 2 year or 30,000 mile radiator coolant is factory installed.

Meteor's name is not new. But its size and everything else is. Size it up for yourself in two series: Meteor and Meteor Custom. The totally new Mercury Meteor, one of the Ford Family of Fine Cars—built in Canada.

Mercury—now in Canada's three most-wanted sizes!

1 COMET—the Compact Mercury... smartly ahead of the compact crowd. Still only looks expensive!

2 METEOR—The New Size Mercury... totally new except for its famous Canadian name.

3 MONTEREY—The Big Mercury... the big brand of luxury for the man who needs and appreciates a big car.

Certain items illustrated are optional at extra cost.

Cdn. bovine Tb eradication example for other countries

Canada's successful fight against bovine tuberculosis has had some far-reaching results.

Dr. R. J. McClenaghan, of the Department of Agriculture's contagious diseases section, reports that Peruvian cattlemen have followed Canada's bovine TB eradication program with considerable interest and with a view to launching a similar program of their own.

It took Canada 38 years to complete its TB testing program. While the disease has not — and may never be — completely wiped out, the level of infection in Canadian cattle herds has been cut to 0.087 per cent. Years ago it was estimated as high as 30 per cent.

But in Peru, Dr. McClenaghan said, the level of infection in dairy herds today is at least 50 per cent and may run as high as 85 per cent.

Dr. McClenaghan was in Peru to attend a conference on animal disease control, convened by the Peruvian Cattlemen's Association.

Although hampered by the language barrier, he was called upon repeatedly to explain Canada's undisputed success in combating and controlling animal diseases and offer suggestions that might help Peruvian cattlemen.

Methods of controlling bovine TB, foot - and - mouth disease, brucellosis and other diseases — some of them not yet found in Canada — were discussed at the conference.

Although Canada has completely eradicated foot-and-mouth disease, the sickness reaches epidemic proportions in Peru, he said.

"Little is done in the way of prevention. Vaccination against the disease is not compulsory and adequate control measures are lacking," he reports.

Because he could not speak or understand Spanish, it was not possible for Dr. McClenaghan to address the conference. But two papers he prepared were translated into Spanish and read to the delegates. He answered questions and gave advice with the aid of an interpreter.

One of his papers dealt with the history of foot-and-mouth disease in Canada and the methods used to eradicate it and prevent its re-introduction to this country. The other treated the subject of health requirements of animals exhibited at Canadian exhibitions.

Dr. McClenaghan visited several Peruvian farms. . . . "When compared with Canada, the actual cost of feeding animals in Peru might be less, but Peruvians have a problem in that their entire operation is carried out by hand labor. While the labor is cheap, the volume of work accomplished in relation to the cost would probably out-balance mechanization." Dr. McClenaghan said that on one farm he visited the farmer had 14 or 15 hand milkers, and he had to provide housing accommodation and food, as well as a small amount of money or salary.

NEWFOUNDLAND HOUSE

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood has named his $100,000 ranch at Roaches Line, 50 miles from here, "Newfoundland House." He moved to the ranch in 1959 after being asked to leave Canada House, which the federal government later sold.

Grenville teacher wins $100 prize in Hawkesbury merchants' contest

Hawkesbury — Miss Denise Berthiaume, who won the fifth drawing of the Hawkesbury Merchants' Association, did the honors for the drawing of the sixth prize ticket, last Wednesday. Holder of the lucky number, drawn from some 30,000 entries, was Jean-Paul Pichette, a school teacher at Grenville. Mr. Pichette will receive his $100 award this Wednesday from Bernard Danis, president of the Association, at the Regent Theatre.

Similar weekly awards will be held November 29 and December 6.

Finally, on December 13 at the Regent Theatre, all entries of the eight weekly contests will be pooled together, and a guest of honor will draw the winner of the grand prize in this contest, $1,000 cash.

It is estimated there will be 160,000 entries eligible for the grand drawing, by tickets issued with purchases at 85 participating stores in Hawkesbury.

To commemorate first W.I. In Quebec

The Quebec Historical Monuments Commission, Quebec, have stated that they will place a plaque in Dunham, Que., to commemorate the first Women's Institute formed in the Province of Quebec.

On January 27, 1911, Mrs. George Beach, of Cowansville, called a meeting of interested women in Best's Hall, Dunham, and, with the assistance of Mrs. Jean Muldrew of Macdonald College, organized the the first Women's Institute in the Province.

A plaque was unveiled in Stoney Creek, Ont., where the first Institute in the world was organized in 1897. The birthplace of the founder, Adelaide Hoodless, has been named an historic site and the house has been furnished and the grounds planted to conform to that period in history.

NEW SIZE—RIGHT BETWEEN A BIG CAR AND A COMPACT . . .
The new Ford Fairlane offers the room, the ride, the performance and the finish of a fine car. It brings you automotive advances you could not buy two years ago in any car at any price . . . yet it is priced right down among the compacts!

SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT!
Solid single-unit construction brings you a new level of quiet and quality in the new Fairlane. A new dedication to the highest standards of body craftsmanship results in extraordinary freedom from noise, vibration and harshness.

NEW V-8 ENGINE . . .
Ford has developed a completely new V-8 engine that combines the strength of iron with the lightness of aluminum. As a result, the Challenger V-8 brings you responsive power with smoother, quieter, more economical performance. A new Fairlane Six will deliver substantially better mileage than any other in its class and it is actually more economical than many of the compacts!

ROOMY AND COMFORTABLE FULL-SIZE INTERIORS . . .
Inside, Fairlane is not a compact. It boasts full-size big car roominess for six passengers, with a wide selection of luxurious interiors to choose from. Posture-perfect front seats are generously foam padded. In fact, there's a remarkable standard of built-for-people comfort everywhere.

TWICE-A-YEAR MAINTENANCE!
Spring and fall—that's all for the average driver! Ford's famous built-to-take-care-of-itself features make it possible—features that eliminate many normal service routines. You go up to 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications . . . up to 6,000 miles between oil changes. There's a new 30,000 mile or two-year radiator coolant. Brakes adjust themselves—automatically, for the life of the linings. Mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion—even the body panels beneath the doors are galvanized. Its Diamond-lustre finish never needs waxing. Ford Dealers give a 12 months or 12,000 mile warranty, whichever comes first.

SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT!

Certain features illustrated are optional at extra cost.
