RIVERFRONT SIDELIGHT —

Rivershore landmark on the move

One of the larger removal jobs this side of the Ottawa River prior to flooding, was the transfer of the Bar-X Hotel at Stonefield to higher ground. The sprawling structure was towed in two sections to the property of its new owner, Fred Crooks, one and a half miles west on the riverfront road.

Seen above is half of the building commencing its trip two weeks ago. The second, and original, half is presently being towed away. Contractors for the removal are Grenier & Freres, of Thetford Mines, who have been doing similar removals for Ontario Hydro on the other side of the Ottawa River.

The Bar-X was purchased by Mr. Crooks from Alcide Desforges, who operated the establishment for 10 years or so. Previous owners were the Fauberts. However, a fact not so generally known is that the original brick section of the establishment was an early hostelry and store built by Thos. Owens around 1860 when the lower Ottawa Valley was a hive of business and activity.

Silent drama of the rising river; transition in the Front of Chatham

Specially contributed by Miss H. Lambart

It happened today, Tuesday, February 27, 1962. . . . Last night at midnight the gates of Hydro-Quebec's new dam at Carillon were closed, and today the water backing up behind the dam has flooded out the Long Sault of the Ottawa. All day the residents along the old front road have been gathering in little groups to watch the water coming in, to comment on this and that, and to speculate on the new regime that lies ahead for all of us.

Considering the mutilated condition of the land awaiting inundation, the rising water has brought with it a calm and peacefulness that is almost welcome after the turmoil and the struggle of the past two years. The chain saws have been stilled, the felling of the trees is ended, buildings have been either removed or destroyed, and no longer shall we see, night after night, the bonfires flickering along the river banks after a day-long burning of brush and the residue of fallen timber.

The water has not yet risen to its full height. That will not come until towards the end of the summer, when the banks of the river above Hawkesbury and Grenville have been cleared. For the Long Sault of the Ottawa, the final stage of the flooding will make little difference. Its rapids and its churning white water have already been submerged. Its many historic sites and battlegrounds of the early days of our history, its portage routes, and most of the vestiges of its earliest canal systems, have already disappeared from view.

The actual clearing of the land for flooding began a year ago. Dewar's Island, opposite the head of the old Carillon portage, was the first to undergo the treatment. Before the ice went out last spring, men and horses crossed to the island and stripped it. This was the "Isle Perseverance" of the French regime — the name no doubt reflecting the feelings of those about to face the rigours of mounting the Long Sault.

After the trees and brush were cleared the fences came down, and after that, telephone and power poles and wires. Bulldozers knocked down solitary chimneys and pushed debris into holes and covered it. As if to ease the heartache, new snow has been covering each new scene of devastation as it occurred, so that, in its last days, the doomed area has been mercifully hidden from view by a mantle of white snow.

The water moving in on the barren white land this morning came very slowly, very quietly. It began under cover of darkness and was already well advanced by the time we could take a look in the light of day. Even then it was substantially hidden from view by the heavy fog. The water came in underneath the ice and snow, and lifted these to the surface as it came. Through the fog and the drizzle everything seemed to blend together into a mass of greyness, so that, in the broad parts of the valley, the act of flooding was accomplished almost imperceptibly.

At Grece's Point, in the middle of the Long Sault, the situation was different. Here, the river narrows at the foot of the long rapid coming down from Hawkesbury and Grenville, and passes into a deep gorge with steep, high cliffs along the north shore. The village is on high land overlooking the river; the road to the river front was open, not all of the buildings had been removed, and the clearing of the south shore was still in progress. The entrance to the Grenville Canal is also located here, and the lockhouse was still standing.

At this point the water seemed to move in quite rapidly. At daybreak it was seen to be already over the bank of the canal. By noontime, the lockhouse had been

35th Annual meeting of B'burg Women's Institute

Brownsburg — The 35th annual meeting of the Brownsburg Women's Institute was held in the High School on Thursday evening, March 1. This was preceded by a banquet, enjoyed by about 50 members and friends, during which two of the members, Mrs. Jessie Anderson (unavoidably absent) and Mrs. Ethel Tomalty, were presented with life membership pins and certificates for their faithfulness through the years.

During the business session it was decided to send a gift to the Save the Children Fund, also a remembrance to Mr. A. Robinson for his kindness, and a donation to the school kitchen.

Miss Janet McOuat is in charge of the millinery course given here this week, when many of the members and others will make their "Easter bonnets".

Seven new members were welcomed to the branch and delegates were appointed to attend the county and provincial conventions.

Highlights of the Branch activities were given by the president, Mrs. T. Zimmer. The president thanked all who helped during the year, and paid a special tribute to the secretary, Mrs. C. E. Prosser, for her co-operation and able assistance. A special treat of home-made cookies will be sent to the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital this month. Excellent reports were given by conveners of all departments of the organization.

"Over Ninety" Birthday Club

Mme Alfred Deslauriers today (Thursday) attains her 102nd birthday. This venerable old lady, residing with her daughter, Mme Ferdinand Desjardins, Wilson Street, is clear of mind and perception, but spends most of her time in bed since a fall two years ago which deprived her of the use of her legs.

Objective $4,000 in district appeal for Red Cross

Preliminaries are in hand for a well-organized campaign here to co-incide with the Red Cross national appeal, March 24 to April 7.

Howard Morrison, district chairman, and Gaetan Leclair, co-chairman, are busy rounding up their key campaigners to ensure a complete coverage of all communities and rural settlements in the area prescribed by Lachute District. Roger Gravel, an experienced organizer in such campaigns, is giving the benefit of his experience and advice.

The Quebec provincial budget for Red Cross work is $1,350,000. Objective for this district is $4,000, and headquarters will be in the Saulnier Building (Room 3), generously provided by Donat Saulnier, proprietor. A typewriter has been loaned by Walker-Kingsbury Inc., and campaign literature and direction will emanate from this office.

B'burg Legion wins Zone 12 curling honors

Brownsburg may be justly proud of the showing made by the Legion team skipped by Cde. Hec Steele. This rink, with Cdes. Harold Hewitt (3rd), Jack Broadfoot (2nd) and George Gagné (lead), met with six other Zone championship rinks at St. Hilaire last Friday and Saturday, to lose out only by a narrow margin to Baie Comeau for the right to represent Quebec at the National tournament in Fredericton at the end of the month. Brownsburg were the only rink to have a win over the champions.

In the Brownsburg Legion branch playoffs, with 12 teams, Hec Steele's rink and Andy Hardie's won the right to represent the branch.

In the Zone 12 elimination contest between two teams from Lachute and St. Jerome, Brownsburg's two rinks were semi-finalists, with Steele's foursome winning the championship.

Thanks are due to Molson's Brewery for sponsoring the contests up to and including the provincial finals.

Provocative meeting fails to unite Argenteuil Liberal ranks

Roger Lagarde, B.A., LL.B., elected president

Assocn. elects officers and sector delegates

An attempt at reconciliation in the Liberal ranks of Argenteuil failed miserably, at a rally here Saturday designed to reorganize the Association on a harmonious basis. Discord was pre-eminent — to such extent that three key figures on the platform, Alphonse Barbeau, representing the Liberal Federation of Quebec, Antoine Paré, retiring president, and Rolf Nelson, secretary of the Association, unceremoniously left the Auditorium where the meeting was assembled.

Unpopular Decision

Dissatisfaction was apparent from the first, when Mr. Barbeau explained to the delegates that a five-man "honor committee" had decided to split one of the sectors (Lachute, Ayersville, St. Jerusalem, Hill Head, Hill Foot and Lakefield) into two parts — Lachute in one, and Ayersville and the remaining communities in the other.

Another contentious matter was the announcement that only the delegates in one sector would be qualified to elect the representative for that sector — the general understanding having been that all positions would be filled by a common vote.

These last-minute decisions, formed since the issuance of letters calling the meeting, were the spark that blew the powder-keg — many of the delegates interpreting these measures as an attempt to elect certain specific persons.

There was a general protest against these "11th hour procedures". Interruptions and questions came from all parts of the hall. It was asked why the Federation had waited two years to take a hand in the dissensions of this County; there were charges that Argenteuil is being "led around"; there were accusations and counter-accusations. Mr. Barbeau meanwhile, in the centre of this storm, tried to explain that his presence was only to conduct this meeting, and to apply the measures adopted by the Federation and the "honor committee". The assembly insisted however that the original procedures, as outlined in the notices of meeting, be now adhered to.

Ultimately Mr. Barbeau left the platform, followed by Mr. Paré and Mr. Nelson, and a few others who appeared to be in the St. Andrews-Ayersville-Brownsburg bloc.

As announced by Mr. Barbeau, Roger Lagarde, Lachute lawyer, had been unanimously elected president. . . . At this point Notary Richard Valois was proposed as secretary, and election then proceeded for the contested offices and positions.

Officers and Representatives Elected by Vote

Fernand Legault, Q.C., received a strong majority over Bernard Larivière for vice-presidency in the Lachute sector.

Yvon Foucault was given a majority against Charles Harding for vice-presidency of the sector comprising Brownsburg and other municipalities.

Lucien Ranger was voted vice-president against Stanley Rodgers for the St. Andrews sector.

Jacques Poitras defeated Gilles Franche and Fernand Poulin as representative of the Young Liberals.

Other appointments completed the executive to make up the following slate:

Roger Lagarde, president;
Vice-presidents as follows:
Zone 1, Fernand Legault, Q.C.;
Zone 2, Lucien Ranger;
Zone 3, Yvon Foucault;
Zone 4, Omer Thomas;
Zone 5, Sydney Swail;
Zone 6, Archie Hamilton;
Treasurer, Bernard Gosselin;
Liberal Women's representative, Mrs. Ethel McGibbon;
Young Liberals' representative, Jacques Poitras.

President ex-officio is Antoine Paré; and Rodrigue Durocher, former candidate, is also a member of the executive. The secretary will be named by the executive at their first meeting, as prescribed by the constitution.

Annual report of Mutual Fire Insurance Co'y

The 12th annual general meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of St. Jerusalem was held in the Legion Hall, Lachute on February 14. The meeting was chaired by the vice-president, Kenneth Nicoll, due to the unavoidable absence of the president, Paul St. Jacques.

The secretary-treasurer, G. Kilgour Hardie, reported on the activities of the company during the past year. He stated that it had been necessary to make an assessment of 45 cents per $100 of insurance coverage to pay for the fire claims during the year, which amounted to $3,193.06. This assessment was sufficiently large to leave the Company with $3,191.79 to cover future losses and expenses. Mr. Hardie also stated that 80 new members had joined the Company in the past five years and that the business in force had doubled. The total insurance presently in force is $1,380,250.

Mr. Nicoll stated that the company is presently insuring farms and rural dwellings which can be considered as isolated risks. The coverage is limited to $3,000 for each building and contents, not more than $2,500 of which may be allocated to the building. The total coverage is limited to $6,000 on each property, although a member may insure more than one property. Risks specifically excluded are vacant buildings and summer cottages. No consideration is being given to enlarging this classification of risks at the present time.

Watchman writer is luminary in world of magic

The Watchman's "Uncle Walt" (Walter Henry Jackson of Westmount and Lost River, Que.) was chosen Magician of the Month, and his picture appeared on the front cover of the Society of American Magicians magazine, which devoted its February issue to Maple Leaf Assembly No. 58, Montreal. The magazine has a trade circulation reaching 76 different cities in America where Assemblies of the Society are established.

Mr. Jackson now informs The Watchman that a new "magic factory" has sprung up in Montreal, to make mysterious aids and devices that were formerly imported, and he has a sub-contract to make certain of these items in his basement workshop.

Notable success in concert by school pupils at B'burg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Taking his final role as master of ceremonies for the Brownsburg High School concerts, Principal King Amos introduced a pleasurable evening for both students and parents on Friday last. In his opening remarks, concerning the reason for having such concerts, Mr. Amos voiced the opinion that students who have some acting or singing ability should be given the opportunity to gain experience and display their talents. . . .

Talent there was, not of a professional calibre perhaps, but quite capable of providing pleasant entertainment.

The first of two plays, a melodrama directed by Keith Smith, starred Susan Seary, Robin Chalmers, Clark Couture and Nancy Humphrys. The second play, directed by Miss L. Primmerman, provided better scope for showing that the students genuinely enjoyed playing their parts. Here, the players were able to convey the impression that they too appreciated the humor in the dialogue — a feature which often makes high school plays and operettas so enjoyable. Starring in "A Battle of Wits" were Douglas Connelly, Marlene Roberts, Carolyn Summers, Brian Richardson, John Ponech, George Atwell and Michael Humphries.

The Glee Club, directed by Principal King Amos, performed creditably in three numbers, with solo parts being taken by Sandra Steere and Myrna Crosby, and a duet by Bonnie and Betty Anderson. Carol Ann Amos and Heather Connelly provided the piano accompaniment.

One of the other highlights of the evening was a piano solo by Verda Sutton, the first student ever to take music as a subject in Grade XI at Brownsburg High School. In her presentation Verda's ability, combined with the drama contained in the "Warsaw Concerto", captivated her audience of children and adults alike. The only disappointment in the performance was the fact that time did not permit an encore by Miss Sutton.

Beneficiaries of Prévost fund deeply grateful

"L'Argenteuil" and the trustees of the Prévost Fund have received a letter of warm appreciation from the widowed Mme Prévost and her family, thanking the newspapers and all subscribers who have materially helped them in their trial. . . . Accompanying many remittances by mail to the editor of "L'Argenteuil" were a number of equally encouraging messages, showing heartfelt sympathy with this stricken family.

The fund, amounting to a total of $1,262, is now closing, and no further lists will be published after this edition. Following are donations received since last report received from the committee:

Bolodrome $10, Roland Duquette $5, Farmers' Supply Co. & Pioneer Chain Saw Inc. $20, Clément Tremblay $20, Anonymous $25, Desjardins Transport $10, IGA Foodliner $25, Harry's Snack Bar $2, René Cuillerier $5.

Brotherhood of Carpenters and Cabinet Makers (Local 3058) $25, Don Titman $3, Chevrier Lachute Ltée $10, Claude Séguin $5, 131st Battery, R.C.A.(M) $20, Dominion Ayers boiler-room employees $5, Ray Church $5, Mme M. Trickey $5.

Mlle Florence Ambeault $5, Mlle M.-Jeanne Church $5, Wilfrid Hébert $5, Brotherhood Carpenters and Cabinet Makers (Local 3047) $25, Irenée Cayer $5, Anonymous $2, Roland Grenier (Laval des Rapids) $2, O'Neil L'Heureux $5, Jean-Marc Belzile $5, V. and D. Tessier $5, Jean Lalonde $5, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons $20, Filles d'Isabelle $10.

Woodlea bull in 'All Canadian' Ayrshire listing

Ayrshire breeders from Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Alberta share honors in the All-Canadian winners for last year selected by the Ayrshire Breeders of Canada. The competition is based on prize winners at the major fairs and exhibitions during 1961. The judges at the leading fairs complete a ballot on these winners.

W. Erskine Rodger, Ayrshire breeder

The All-Canadian bull calf selected is Woodlea Royal Leader, exhibited by W. Erskine Rodger, Lachute. This bull won his class at both Lachute and the Royal Winter Fair. He is now owned by W. H. Green & Son, of Brantford, Ont.

Named Superior Breeder

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Wildlife education has been given the utmost in publicity — newspapers, radio, TV, all other forms of expression that have been possible. But this is certainly not paying off in any way. It may be hard to believe, but it is true. Trout, Quebec fish, freshly caught, are being peddled around the Lakeshore of Montreal. To be more specific, a car drives up to some service station and they are asked if they or any of their friends would like to buy fresh trout. They are doing this openly, with not too much regard to law enforcement. Now, this is only an isolated instance that I know of, but just how many of these jokers are in this business. After all, the Island of Montreal is a large area, so there must be others operating. I wonder just when people are going to realize something has to be done against these types.

To my way of thinking our Fish and Game laws are a farce. The fines or punishments handed out are almost a laughing matter, and until teeth are put in laws, they always will be. To give you some idea of just what the Game Wardens have to go through: Catching a hunter out of season with a duck in his possession along with the gun, and then having the case thrown out because of lack of evidence. Just what do our game protectors have to do to get a conviction? Could be they have to get the culprits actually hunting in the courts! (This might be a good idea too.)

I have heard of pike that were covered with worms. This seems strange with the present cold water; however, with so much pollution, the rivers offer a great breeding ground for diseases — not only for us humans, we don't count; but more important, for all water life. Our town has started the water filtration project and will have pure water in a short while. However, there is still the sewage disposal to be worried about. I think this is a more pressing problem than water filtration, really. After all, the water was being used with not too many ill effects, except to the odd minnow caught in the pipes, and could have been used for another while. Pollution is a bigger item than filtration. After all, what use is there in drinking safe water if we are going to catch diseases from the water flowing through town. Prevention is better than a cure at any time.

Our lynx have been showing themselves openly this past little while. Reports have been coming in from all over. This is a good sign: the more of these animals around, the better it will be for the rabbit population. At least the ones surviving will be healthy. As for the lynx killing deer — this applies to almost any predator; any that may be killed are not in first-rate condition, otherwise they would not be caught. Any weak animal will be caught first, thus allowing more feed for the healthier ones. Hard to understand? Sure it is, but a little thought will prove this point.

More crows are showing up, and they are a welcome sight to see — that is, for a while. There are a lot of the early migratory birds appearing, and these give our bird lovers a real thrill. I know I get a bang out of seeing last year's friends back. I had not seen our one-legged jay around, and thought it had been killed. However, it, or some other bird with the same affliction, is hopping around the feeders. And how this bird gets into the feed; strange as it may seem, the other birds respect it, either because of its one leg or otherwise. The starlings have just about all disappeared; this I think is due to a hawk hanging around. I think this is a sharp-shinned one but whatever it is, the magic of fear has worked. Whenever it is hovering near, none of the other birds stray too far from trees as shelter, but the starlings take off right out into the open — and blam! No more starling.

Fishing is not too far away for the summer anglers, and interest is building up in almost every lure. Some of the boys are starting to lay in their supplies of lines, lures, etc. The only worry right now is — are they going to be able to fish their own spots once more? With land being posted all over, it is a worry. As I've often said, posting is the only way a landowner has of keeping off undesirables but even this does not work always. That also brings up another point. Just when are lists going to be made available to fish and game associations, showing posted areas of big owners? Right now, with exception of the far north, just about all lands are restricted to everyone except the owners themselves. This should not be, and I seem to remember the Government saying posted lands were going to be "a thing of the past, except in rare cases." This also was said of the private club owners. There are more of these in Quebec now than ever before. The funny part is, more game is poached on these private estates than by the professional poacher himself. You may think this is a little out of line, but we all know of supposed sportsmen going into these clubs hunting who couldn't hit the side of a house with a cannon. Yet they come back with their game. Money works in strange ways.

Some time ago I wrote of aluminum snowshoes. A small number of these shoes are on the market for this year. Of course, they will be available to anyone who wants them next year. These shoes may be the shot-in-the-arm which snowshoe clubs need, to interest more members. I'm not knocking the skiing, by any means, but to be able to observe nature, snowshoes are the thing. Maybe I'm old fashioned, but to plow through the snow, taking your time and looking around, takes a lot of beating. Yep, I am a snowshoe man!

Carnival climaxed season of events at Community Rink in Brownsburg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The Brownsburg Community Rink wound up a successful winter carnival on Saturday evening with a new Queen, a total-points champion in the inter-school skating races, an inter-school hockey championship team, and a boys' speed skating relay championship team.

Miss Joanne Murdoch was selected to be Queen of the Carnival, and was presented with her robe of office by His Worship Mayor René Lafleur on Saturday afternoon. Runners-up to Miss Murdoch were Gisèle Brisbois, Carol Ladue and Sandra Steere.

The Brownsburg High School won the B.C.R. carnival trophy for amassing the highest number of points given for individual students placing in the speed skating and novelty races. These speedsters picked up a total of 214 points, with the students from l'Ecole Bouchard and St. Louis de France convent combining to gather 140.

Winners of the various events were:

Speed (Boys) 1 Ken Mosely, 2 Harry Mosely. (Girls) 1 Nancy Lee Cowley, 2 Kim Mosely.

Novelty (Boys) 1 Glen Tomalty, 2 Harry Mosely; (Girls) 1 Nancy Lee Cowley, 2 Edith Sugden.

Novelty (Boys) 1 Harold Ross, 2 Steve Millar; (Girls) 1 Sandra Murdoch, 2 Louise Freeland.

Speed (Boys) 1 Bobby Wilson; (Girls) 1 Joanne Murdoch, 2 Sandra Steere.

Novelty (Boys) 1 Bobby Wilson; (Girls) Sandra Steere and Joanne Murdoch, tied.

The boys from l'Ecole Bouchard, coached by Michel Richard, fought their way to a 3-1 victory in the inter-school hockey game and were awarded the B.C.R. trophy. Captain Maurice Mailhot was presented with the symbol of hockey supremacy by Queen Joanne Murdoch.

In the speed skating relay race, the team from l'Ecole Bouchard was presented with the B.C.R. trophy after the Brownsburg High School team, well out in front at the finish, was disqualified for crossing the baton passing limit. Racing for l'Ecole Bouchard were Michel Lafleur, Noel Robillard, Mario Lafleur and Maurice Malo; for B.H.S., George Chalmers, Marc Racine, Garry Taylor and Harold Ross.

Winners of the prizes for best costumes in the masquerade were as follows: Neil Summers, Francois Cyr, Rosemary Steere, Douglas Connelly and Carolyn Summers. . . . King Amos, Remi Raymond and Mrs. G. Hereux acted as costume judges.

Monique Diotte of Brownsburg, held the winning ticket in the carnival drawing, and won $100. Second and third prizes of $25 each went to Linda Laurin of Lachute and David Fletcher of Lachute.

In the Saturday afternoon hockey games, the Brownsburg Mosquito League team defeated Lachute 3-2, while Lachute rolled to an 8-1 victory over Brownsburg in the Pee-Wee League. In a Bantam game, Lachute recorded another win as they downed the Brownsburg crew by a 6-2 score.

In summing up the week-end activities, Harold Barber, chairman of the Brownsburg Community Rink Association, said he was pleased with the outcome of the carnival and wished to express the appreciation of the rink committee to those persons who, by donating their time and providing money and prizes, helped to ensure the success of the undertaking. Mentioned by Mr. Barber as being deserving of special thanks were Robert Bourgois, Bill Dimock, Jeff Desjardins, Maurice Lamarre, René Laurin, Larry Pressault and Canadian Industries Ltd.

Semi-finals in Intermediate Hockey League

The semi-final series of the Argenteuil-Two Mountains Intermediate Hockey League is now under way. After two games being played in both series, A & B, the teams are tied at one game each.

In series "A", Brownsburg lost the first game to St. Jerome 4-3, in a closely-fought game — St. Jerome having finished on top in the league standing. In the second game, Brownsburg came through with a 2-1 win to tie the series. This series resumes Thursday night, March 8, when St. Jerome will visit Brownsburg.

In Series "B", Lachute and Ste. Scholastique are all tied up with one win each. Ste. Scholastique having won the game 7-4 on the fine goal tending of the star goaler, Pratt, Lachute came back in the second game to hound Pratt and go on to win by a 10-4 count. . . . Ste. Scholastique met Lachute in the third game of Series "B" on March 6.

No games are scheduled for this week-end, March 11, as the Dow three-day broomball tournament is taking place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 9-10-11.

These series will resume on Tuesday, March 13, Lachute vs Ste. Scholastique. On Thursday, March 15, St. Jerome will visit Brownsburg. . . .

Come out and help support your team. Watch for further standings on the league play-offs.

Ski Trails

By Ross Cole, Director, Ayers Ski School

Ram Ski Club

As mentioned last week, the second race of the season will be held this Saturday at 11 a.m. All entries must be registered between 9.30 and 10.30. This is open for all junior members between the ages of 6 and 13, inclusive, whether or not they have raced before. A different slalom course will be set up for each ability in Junior A, B and C.

A carnival day, including fun races, is being arranged for April 7. This will be open to all members, including adults, and should prove to be a gala event. Any adults wishing to help out on this day are requested to contact Bill Jones at Lachute, LO 2-2426. More about this next week.

Equipment

I recommend to all skiers to use some form of release binding. These types of bindings, although not 100 per cent foolproof, can save you from a serious injury. When you fall the sudden jolt which your boot will exert against the binding will cause the binding to release the boot. Release bindings fall into three main categories — the cable-type, the bootlock (or non-cable), and the Laniard (or swivel heel).

The cable-type release has two safety factors — a front throw that will release when the pressure of tension becomes too great during a straight forward fall, and the toe-piece, which will release when lateral pressure becomes too great during a twisting fall.

The bootlock relies solely on pressure supplied by steel springs to hold the boot in place. The bootlock will release in much the same manner as the cable-type binding, but requires a finer adjustment.

The Laniard long thong, mostly used by racers or better skiers, consists of a toe release unit similar to that used in the above bindings, and a turntable to which the Laniard is attached. The advantage of this type of binding is to allow the boot to release in a twisting motion only and yet have the support that can only be derived from a long thong.

These three systems are effective only when the bindings are properly adjusted. A good ski shop will mount them for you and give the arbitrary setting for releasing under normal, average conditions. You, the skier, must make the final adjustments yourself when actually skiing.

A short leather strap, called a safety strap, is a must. It prevents your ski from racing down the slope out of control after it has released during a fall. A ski, when it picks up speed, can easily hit a bump and fly through the air like an arrow, and may do severe injury to anyone in its path. It could also save you a very unpleasant walk down the mountain!

Next week — Skis.

LHS teams in basketball and hockey tilts

By Sharon Comba

Basketball

On Saturday, the junior girls' and junior boys' basketball teams from Lachute High School travelled to Rosemere to play in the O.V.S.A.A. tournament. The teams entered were — Brownsburg, St. Eustache, Rosemere and Lachute.

The junior girls' games were played at McCaig Elementary School. The first game was against Rosemere. Lachute lost by a score of 15-7.

The second game was against St. Eustache. Lachute also lost in this game, 32-18.

The final game was played against Brownsburg, Lachute winning 22-20.

Ruthanna Barlow, Helen McGibbon, Wendy Graham and Susan Evans played well during the tournament. There was a foul shooting contest during the events of the day. The winner of this event was Susan Barlow, of Lachute. . . . The Lachute junior girls placed third in the tournament.

The junior boys played their games at the Rosemere High School. The first game was against Rosemere — Lachute losing by a score of 28-21.

The second game was against St. Eustache. Lachute lost again, 32-21.

The final game was played against Brownsburg — the latter winning to the tune of 34-16.

Winner of the O.V.S.A.A. tournament for the junior boys' teams was Rosemere.

ARG'TL CHORAL SOCIETY MEETS NEXT SUNDAY

Practices for the pre-Easter program of the Argenteuil Choral Society will commence next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Lachute United Church.

All members are requested to attend, and an invitation is extended to any interested person to join this group.

Information may be had from Mrs. Mason Crosby, of Brownsburg (president), Bernard Hewitt, Lachute (sec-treas.), or from the director, Lowell B. Hopkins, Lachute.

TRADITION FIRM

The Bank of England has its billions in gold and currency protected by vast tamper-proof vaults, ingenious electronic devices and a corps of civilian watchmen, reports Reader's Digest. Yet tradition demands the appearance, each night, of 12 red-coated bearskin-topped Guardsmen, led by an officer, a sergeant, two corporals and a piper or drummer. A "picquet" of Guardsmen has protected the Bank ever since the Gordon riots of 1780 when two unsuccessful mob attacks were made on the Bank.

Local Pee-wees, Bantams head 3-team league

Lachute youngsters wound up at the top of the Inter-Provincial Minor Hockey League, comprising teams from Hawkesbury, Grenville, and Lachute.

Pee-wee and Bantam teams sponsored by Lowe's Dairy will meet Hawkesbury in a three-out-of-five final series. The games commence next Saturday, 2 p.m., at Hawkesbury, followed by the second engagement Sunday, 4 p.m., at the Lions' Rink in Lachute.

The sparkplugs behind these teams, Cliff Lowe and Fred Jeffrey, solicit the support of parents and adults in turning out to support the local boys. These two citizens deserve recognition for their time and effort, and the young players need the boost of public interest to spur them on to the championship! . . . Let's go.

Transition in the Front of Chatham

lifted off its foundations and was floating at an angle in the sea of water and broken ice. Its short brick chimney was still intact and looking rather ridiculous, canted in such a position. Various shacks and wood sheds which were still standing on the river bank, were well awash. Across the river, piles of pulpwood not yet removed, and sawlogs waiting to go to the mill, were submerged. Fingers of spreading water reaching in to lower areas behind the shoreline, were followed by great rushes to fill the low spots. Mice that had been flooded out of their nests, scampered across the snow. A buoy which had formerly marked the channel in Grenville Bay, and which had been discarded on the bank of the canal, stood up pertly on its bottom as the water approached and seemed to be perfectly at home in its new environment, as indeed it was.

The scene was quite spectacular in the narrow gorge of the river below Grece's Point. Here the "frazil" ice coming off the foot of the rapid builds up under the surface ice of the river and raises it into great humps and hillocks for a distance of more than half a mile. This winter the height of the biggest humps reached 30 feet. As the ice rises in the centre of the river, large cracks open at the top, tapering off towards water level at the shoreline. These cracks had opened to a width of 8 feet in some places before the flooding. There is a vivid description of this ice formation by the Chevalier de Troyes in his "Journal of an Expedition to Hudson Bay" in 1686. He passed up this part of the river on April 12th of that year, when the ice was melting, and had to build bridges over the cracks in order to get his small boats across. . . . We shall not see this ice formation again.

In this narrow gorge of the river, the rising level of the water creeping up the vertical limestone cliffs of the north shore was quite impressive. The great humps and hillocks of ice in the centre of the river were carried upwards on the surface of the water, but along the shore, strips of ice were broken off and a free channel was opened at the foot of the cliff. Here the water surged upwards from underneath, sometimes appearing to boil and churn its way to the surface, and tossing around the chunks of broken ice. Visibility, through the fog and drizzle, was not more than 200 yards, sometimes less, and there was none to witness the silent drama. The gorge of the river at this point is hidden behind deep woods, and those who would go down to the river here in wintertime must go down on skis or snowshoes. This morning it was as if the blanket of fog had moved in to give the river utmost privacy in its ordeal, for on this occasion it was hidden also from the view of anyone flying above. An aircraft did in fact pass overhead in the fog, but the pilot could have seen nothing. The solitude was complete. Only living creatures were the black ducks which ordinarily spend the winter on the shore of Ordinance Island, at the edge of the open water of the Chute à Blondeau. Flooded out of their resting place, they could be heard circling overhead. Then there was a splash and, barely discernible through the fog, they had landed in the open water of the Chute where, for the first time, the current was at rest and a small lake had formed.

When the final stage of the flooding is carried out late in the summer, we shall find ourselves on the shore of a new lake some 70 miles in length, extending all the way from Carillon to Ottawa. Between the locks at St. Anne's and the entrance to the Rideau Canal at Ottawa, yachtsmen will find only one lock where formerly there were seven. It is believed the Quebec Government is planning an historical park at Carillon, and that the Ontario Government is considering a parkway along the south shore between Pointe Fortune and Hawkesbury. Other developments are sure to follow. The "Front of Chatham", as it used to be known, is changing beyond recognition.

Scouting activities

— LONG SAULT DISTRICT —

The first District Winter Field Day was an outstanding success for those boys fortunate enough to get to the Harrington (C.I.P.) Forest Farm last Saturday. Favored with fine frosty weather, the boys found they had an action-packed day which included many novel events.

Grenville's ten-boy contingent under Scouter George Dolan demonstrated the value of teamwork on several occasions during the day as they accumulated the highest number of points to win the Troop Shield and a fine axe and sharpening stone for their troop.

Lachute was represented by nine boys, who were accompanied by Scouters Robt. MacAdam and George Armstrong. They placed second in the day's events, winning a Swede-type saw for their troop. Following by one point was Thurso's representation of twelve boys under the leadership of Scouter Bud Welsh. Also accompanying this unit were Scouters Bev. Salt and Bill Stewart; also Mr. Bill Taylor. A first-aid kit went to the Thurso Troop.

The various events were drawn up and run off by George Noble, Special Events Chairman of the Long Sault District Council, with District Scoutmaster B. A. Jenkins officiating as starter.

A log sawing contest which called for a team of two boys to run about forty feet, saw a slab off the end of a log and run back to starting point with the piece of wood, was well contested and appetites were whetted in the frosty air for the next events. These included lighting a camp fire from any of Nature's materials to be found at hand and burning through a string. Lunch was then prepared over these fires. An axemanship demonstration, including instructions on how to sharpen and maintain an axe, was ably presented by Bill Taylor of Thurso.

Events then moved to the hill just west of the summer campsite where uphill racing and downhill slalom events took place for ski, snowshoe and two-man toboggan competitors. The competition was close in these events and the boys had many thrills and spills as the surface was quite fast. One interesting event involved a downhill race for snowshoers, with the winner required to collect the most poles from the slalom course. The event went to Grenville, followed by Lachute and Thurso — and was an ingenious means of clearing the hill. After the cross country ski and snowshoe events, the finale came with a cross country mixed relay including skiers, snowshoers, then toboggans and finally a combination of all, including boys on foot.

The boys were complimented on their efforts and Troop representatives were presented with the prizes by District Commissioner M. R. Wilson.

The Long Sault District extends a sincere vote of thanks to Canadian International Paper Co., members of the Harrington Forest Farm staff, parents who provided transportation and to all who helped to make this first winter field day a success.

BROWN — In loving memory of our dear brother, Moses, who departed this life March 7, 1961. — Lovingly remembered by Bill and Mary.

"Memory is one gift of God
Which death cannot destroy."

BROWN — In loving memory of dear Moses, who passed away March 7, 1961. — Always remembered by his brother, Edmund, and Muriel.

"The rolling stream of life flows on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice and smile
Of one who once sat there."

PROVENCAL — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away March 1, 1950. — Always remembered by your loving son, Joseph E. Provencal, daughter-in-law, Catherine, and Jimmy.

"A wonderful mother, gone to rest,
For all of us she did her best,
Her life was true, her heart was kind
A better mother, none could find."

Morin Heights

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tousignant and family spent last Sunday here with Mrs. Tousignant's father, Mr. Jack McConnell, who is now recuperating after pneumonia.

Recent Fire

Miss Joyce Hadden, of Montreal, spent last week-end here at Campbell's Farm.

Cpl. Amedée Vaillancourt, of the R.C.M.P., stationed at Rockcliffe, Ont., spent several days last week here with his father and daughter.

Friends of Mrs. Nixon Carruthers will be pleased to hear that she is home from hospital; wishes are extended for her speedy recovery.

Church Enrolment

At the United Church last Sunday, five young people were accepted into the church on profession of faith; they were — Misses Dulce Wood, Shirley Wood, Linda Moss, and Messrs. Mr. Murray Staniforth, now residing in Mexico, is spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth.

Mrs. J. May left to spend two weeks in Montreal visiting relatives and friends.

88th Birthday

Warmest congratulations are extended to Mrs. Thomas Graham, who celebrates her 88th birthday this Thursday, March 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Staniforth were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth.

Hockey Banquet

A pleasant event took place Saturday evening in the school auditorium, when the Arundel A.A.A. played hosts to the Inter-Village Hockey League at a banquet.

The president, Mr. Morris Rathwell, welcomed the guests. During the course of the dinner, the league cup was presented by Mr. Douglas Williams — won by the St. Adolphe de Howard team. A second cup, presented by Mr. Fernand Guenette for the highest scoring, was also won by the St. Adolphe team.

Mayor Wm. Morrison spoke a few words of congratulation to the winners, and encouragement to the runners-up, the Arundel team.

The W.A. of Grace Church provided a splendid supper, and on the termination of the banquet a dance followed, bringing to a close a very enjoyable evening.

Kilmar

The Kilmar Anglican W.A. met recently at the home of Mrs. Austin Young.

Mr. Stanley Dodd is home again from hospital; friends here hope he will soon be fully recovered.

Sympathy of this community is extended to Miss Pearl Dawson and Mr. Edgar Dawson, of Grenville, in the loss of a father and brother, Mr. Ray Dawson, who passed away last Saturday.

Good wishes are extended to Mr. Roland MacCullough, who is a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

The United Church Women will meet on Tuesday, March 13, at the home of Mrs. H. Bennett; the afternoon will be spent in quilting.

Sick Parade

Ray Farland and Reg Ball are in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital. Tubby Lupien in the Montreal General, Noel Racine just home from the Royal Victoria, resting at home with a broken leg. Bill Mann at home with a sprained ankle, a victim of the "twist"!

Good news from Bill Steele at Ste. Anne's Military Hospital; he is now 130 lbs., up from 90 when admitted to the hospital last September. There is a rumor he is training for the Golden Gloves.

A card, a letter, a visit, or maybe just a little interest in their problems, could be a great help to recovery.

Entertainment

A cribbage tournament with Lachute at Brownsburg on Wednesday night.

A dance Saturday night (see advertisement in these pages).

Business

Members please make every effort for an important meeting March 13. There is a notice of motion regarding rentals. Support the new executive; make it a parade!

Weir

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gelston and daughter, Lyndadee, of Montreal, spent Sunday as guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Loudin.

Mrs. G. Cullen was here from Montreal to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams.

Women's Auxiliary

Miss Alice Purcell entertained the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary at their meeting on Thursday evening, with 11 members and the Rev. F. K. Bussell present. Mrs. Wm. Owen and Mrs. R. A. Craig reported highlights of the annual diocesan meeting which they had attended in Montreal early in February. The date was set for the annual lawn social, Saturday, July 21.

Former Resident Died

Word has been received here of the sudden death of Thomas Beaven, at his home in Vancouver on January 5. Mr. Beaven, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beaven, resided here until he was in his early twenties, when he moved to Vancouver. He was pre-deceased by his wife, the former Annie Pearl Smith, a few years ago. Burial took place in Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Craig entertained at a family re-union on Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Craig's sister, Mrs. A. H. Moore, of New Liskeard, Ont., who is presently visiting with them.

A QUOTATION FROM THE ILLINOIS MEDICAL JOURNAL

"The dangers of mail order prescriptions include delays encountered in obtaining the medication, the absence of the physician-pharmacist relationship, the difficulties of checking the prescription files for strength and dosage, and the possibilities that prescriptions will be filled by non-professional personnel. All physicians should co-operate by keeping their patients informed relative to the dangers of these schemes." (end of quote.)

March is "Red Cross Month"

"He says he didn't even feel it," reports Nursing-Aid Francine Benoit, and Laurent Meunier of Montreal smiles his assent. This was the millionth bottle of blood donated by volunteers since the Red Cross started its free blood transfusion service in Montreal in 1949. The new depot at Quebec City and the Montreal centre, together with their far-ranging mobile clinics, will acquire 250,000 bottles of blood from volunteer donors in 1962 to make free blood transfusions available to patients in 187 hospitals all over the Province of Quebec. You can help by giving your blood at local clinics, and by generous contributions to the Canadian Red Cross at the end of this month, to help pay costs of the blood transfusion service.

Legion Auxiliary March meeting

The March meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Legion Branch 70, was held on Monday evening, with Mrs. S. Bradshaw, president, in the chair.

Reports were read from the secretary and treasurer.

Plans were made to hold another military whist on March 28, also a rummage sale on April 27. The members will hold their annual anniversary dinner on April 14.

A new member was initiated into the branch. (Anyone wishing to join this branch is cordially invited to attend the meetings.)

Refreshments were served in conclusion, the hostesses being Mrs. B. Jenkins and Mrs. H. Ward.

Officers for 1962 are as follows:

President, Mrs. G. Bradshaw.
1st Vice-president, Mrs. K. Ogilvie.
2nd Vice-president and secretary, Mrs. E. Thorburn.
Treasurer, Mrs. B. MacDougall.
Sgt.-at-Arms, Mrs. P. Wilson.
Color Bearers, Mrs. D. Kettyle and Mrs. M. Lavis.
Sick Visiting Committee, Mrs. H. Whiteway and Mrs. M. Jenkins.
Social Welfare Committee, Mrs. G. Bradshaw, Mrs. M. Bradford, Mrs. B. MacDougall.
Refreshment Committee and Phoning, Mrs. D. Kettyle (convener), Mrs. J. Skinner, Mrs. M. Bradford, Mrs. M. Lavis, Mrs. K. Pillage.
Publicity, Mrs. K. Pillage.
Auditors, Mrs. L. Bradshaw and Mrs. K. Pillage.

Catholic Women's League meeting

The president, Mrs. Leonard Bedard, chaired the meeting of the Catholic Women's League of Lachute on March 5.

Each convener and the treasurer handed in written reports.

Mrs. C. Robinson gave a detailed report on social action, and thanked members who had volunteered in the work for the blind during the course of the past month.

The members were reminded of the Feast Mass at the Shrine on April 26; of the Stations of the Cross on Good Friday in Ste. Anastasie Church; and of the coming elections in April, with Miss Lowe convening.

Mrs. Hebert, convener of the supper on March 17, gave an outline of plans for this event.

A motion was passed to grant the English classes a fixed sum towards school prizes.

The conveners were asked to hand in all reports by April 1.

A study club is under way regarding the Ecumenical Council, which is to be officially opened on October 11, and at which Cardinals, Bishops and theologians will discuss matters pertaining to the welfare of the Church at the present time.

It was also noted that a closed retreat is to be held on May 25-26-27 at Domaine d'Esterel in Ste. Marguerite; that the provincial convention is to be held on June 15, and the Diocesan Convention in Brownsburg on May 12 or thereabouts.

The meeting closed with prayer, and refreshments were served by Mrs. D. Berniquer and her committee.

Lauzon-Côté

The marriage of Monique, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. Rene Côté, of Brownsburg, to Mr. Richard Lauzon, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lauzon, of Montreal, took place recently in St. Louis de France Church, Brownsburg. The Rev. Father Leo Clement officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Standards of pink and white gladioli, with pompons arranged with greenery, were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk organza with a heart-shaped neckline, short sleeves and a butterfly bow at the back. Re-embroidered peau-de-soie and seed pearls trimmed the fitted bodice and accented the chapel-trained skirt. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by an organza rose, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of cultured pearls.

Miss Andrée Quenneville, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, was in a frock of ice blue peau-de-soie, having a fitted bodice with short sleeves and a bouffant skirt. She wore a matching bow bandeau and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white mums.

Mrs. Côté, mother of the bride, was in a sheath gown of Dior blue Alençon lace, fashioned with a matching jacket. She wore a lace hat with a satin bow, in the same shade as the dress, with an autumn-haze mink stole and a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Lauzon, the groom's mother, was gowned in a robbin blue pure silk shantung. She wore a flower hat in shades of blue, and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. L. Lauzon attended his son.

Following a reception held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. A. Côté, Mr. and Mrs. Lauzon left for Lac Beauport, the bride travelling in a two-piece ensemble of beige wool with brown accessories, and wearing a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Lauzon will take up residence in Montreal.

NEED PRAYER

Advancement in the scientific world is staggering to mere amateurs, but unless we also master the medium and practice of prayer, such advances may prove destructive.
— Jarvis (Ont.) Record

Prove music can be fun!

Max Jaffa, who is appearing in a Community Concert here next Tuesday, March 13, with the Max Jaffa Trio, is an avid devotee of light music, even though his background has been primarily classical. The virtuoso violinist's popular programs have entertained television and concert audiences in his native England during the last 13 years, with several command performances in London.

Together with his fellow artists, cellist Reginald Kilbey and pianist Jack Byfield, Max Jaffa proves that music can be fun by presenting all varieties — from classical to popular — and seasoning the program with his own irrepressible brand of humor and storehouse of anecdotes.

EDUCATION WEEK — MARCH 4-10

The challenge of Education

OUR EDUCATORS today find themselves in a precarious position. Suddenly Canada, in a single decade, appears to be turning to its educational system for a solution to its great unemployment problem. In the same years our society has become increasingly complex and our need for superior methods, teachers, schools and universities is more and more apparent.

Not only is society demanding more from its educational facilities, but today we find our school system competing in international politics. In other lands, where the direction of government does not come from free elections, dictatorships are openly boasting that their educational progress is a weapon they intend to use in their drive to overcome our civilization and thus our democratic way of life.

Because unemployment is closest to home, it must become the immediate battle in which our people must engage. We cannot buy ourselves out of our unemployment problem — although our governments on almost every level have been trying to do just that with our money.

In Canada today the great majority of unemployed citizens have a bleak outlook. Many of them didn't get to high school and the majority of those who did had only a few years or months of secondary education. To top this off they did not acquire any trade or skill after their formal education. Thus it is the unskilled labor, many of whom do not possess enough education for proper technical training, who are the real problem we must overcome.

A study by the Canadian Conference on Education suggests that there are 2,000,000 Canadians that are "functionally illiterate".

The report goes on to explain that "bold and venturesome plans must be made for the socio-economic health of the Canadian community. . . . In many ways we cannot be satisfied with a patching up of customs and institutions that have served us satisfactorily in the past. New departures are necessary." In recent years Canada has enjoyed a new kind of recession — "one masked in general prosperity and cloaked in contradictions."

The study recommends more and better vocational courses in schools and apprenticeship programs, re-training for adults, and imparting of more knowledge of the "world of work" in schools.

But not only must we educate ourselves out of our unemployment problems, we must at the same time improve our methods of learning, our methods of teaching, and the facilities which serve the student and the educators. It seems obvious in this age of rapidly expanding horizons that our students today must not only learn more, but they must learn better.

To some extent our generation is finding that wars can be fought on different types of fronts. Today we must so equip our students that they will have the knowledge and ability to move into a world where many of the freedoms and responsibilities we have taken so much for granted are being challenged by individuals who are no longer illiterate, but well equipped and trained to speak for their own way of life.

Our big battle to improve our own educational system is just beginning. We can only reach for victory when the least among us realizes the important part he or she can play, by supporting the progressive programs in education seen on the Canadian horizon. Our educational system must adapt itself, with greater speed if possible, to the new demands which are being placed upon it. The very future of the nation depends upon our ability to finance and understand the need for a great national effort in this direction.

Migratory Canadians

YOUR NEIGHBOR, and your neighbor's neighbor, are perhaps wintering in Florida. A few years back this was news, but today southern vacations are commonplace, and the winter exodus is more or less expected.

That these neighborly migrations leave a considerable mark in the Canadian economy, is not immediately apparent, but actually the figures mount up to staggering proportions.

Canadian travellers on the average are now spending more money abroad than people from any other North Atlantic country, and this has resulted in a significant deficit in Canada's tourist account — according to the Bank of Montreal's current Business Review.

The deficit in 1960 amounted to over $200 million. By that year, Canadian tourist expenditures abroad had risen to an all-time high of $627 million, nearly three times as great as the total spent in 1950.

Receipts from foreign tourists to Canada in 1960 reached $420 million, which constituted a larger source of receipts than any commodity export, except newsprint.

The major part of the country's international tourist income arises from travel between the United States and Canada, but it also accounted for $87 million of the 1960 deficit, since Canadians spent $462 million in the U.S. and Americans spent only $375 million in Canada.

Visits to countries other than the United States have also been increasing, the B of M review observes. In this category, Canadians increased their spending from $33 million in 1950 to $165 million in 1960, and indications are even higher for the past year, 1961.

A grand or grotesque centenary?

WHEN CANADA marks its centenary in 1967, will the nation be holding monster street barbecues or building model cities? There's considerable indecision currently about what Canada should do, The Financial Post learned in a nation-wide survey. Many Canadians are apathetic and unimaginative about the centenary. Civic and government leaders in many communities and provinces are still groping for ideas and goals.

But a healthy minority of Canadians has originated a storm of ideas. Favorites include the construction of public monuments — one Maritimer wants all public buildings illuminated by floodlights in 1967 — and restoration of old buildings. A University of Ontario professor has proposed the federal government sponsor consultants to give free advice on restoring buildings. One man, looking at the divisive pressures in confederation, suggested an exchange of language teachers between French and English Canada. The object — to make bilingualism work.

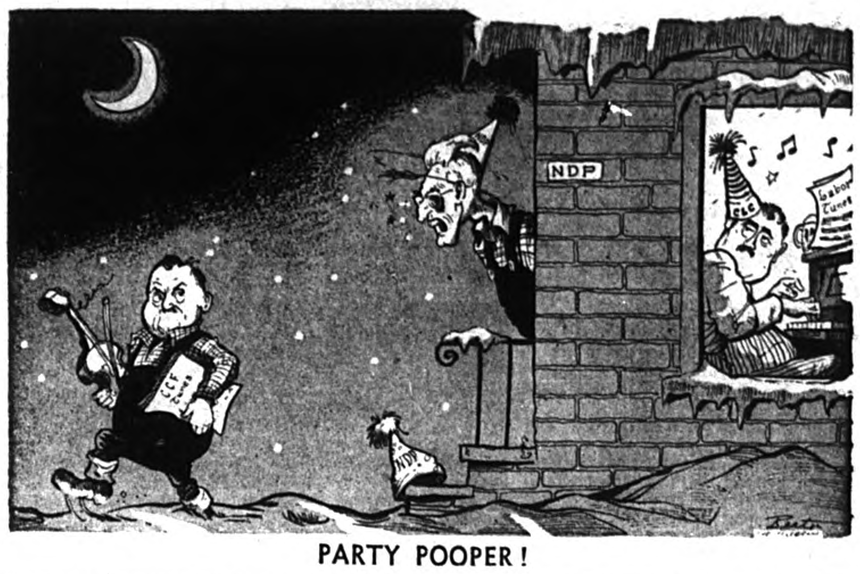

A Medicine Hat librarian, Phyllis Lapworth, has appealed for centennial money to finance bookmobiles for rural areas. Judging by the number of historians who have already signed contracts, she'll be able to stock them with Canadian histories to be published by 1967. There's a way to make the centenary successful, says Laurie J. Wallace, the man who directed B.C.'s 100th anniversary in 1958. Canadians must organize "strong local committees".

Viewpoints and perspectives

WEEKLY'S PROBLEM. — The citizens generally and the business people particularly expect the editor to publicize every activity . . . in the town, and they criticize the editor when he fails to do so. They also fail to encourage him by giving him the only kind of support that really means anything — their business.

EDUCATION. — Why is the visitor's gallery in the council chamber not filled to overflowing every meeting night? Probably the most important members of the community who should attend meetings are high school students who are preparing themselves as the voters of tomorrow, the future leaders in their community.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 11, 1937 —

A. G. Larue, who established the Cascades Bottling Works (now owned by the MacKimmie Brothers) died recently in Three Rivers.

The Hundred Club is nearing the conclusion of its first year in this community. Mr. Jack Spotz, to whose credit stands the invention of many engineering devices now in practical use, was guest speaker at last meeting in Desjardins Hotel.

Fire, caused by an oilburning incubator, destroyed several hundred chicks and damaged the building, at Marigold Farm hatchery, Upper Lachute.

Residents of St. Andrews are greatly pleased with the prospects of a new post-office. The sum of $12,500 is included in the Commons estimates for this purpose.

County Council — The Quebec Roads Department will be requested to complete the road on the north side of North River between White's and Copeland's bridges, also to complete the Grenville highway from Lowe's corner to the Perley Bridge.

Morin Heights — The Maple Leaf Bridge Club were entertained by Miss Vera McCullough; the Rustic Bridge Club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Watson.

The Canadian Government has issued over one million licenses during the past 10 years to owners of radio receiving sets.

Of Many Things
— By Ambrose Hills —

MR. GALBRAITH EXPLAINS

John Kenneth Galbraith is often a comfort to those who like to picture our free enterprise economy as a "mess" or worse. Whenever he criticizes some North American institution, the leftist press quotes him with delight. The other day Mr. Galbraith did some explaining which put the record straight.

He pointed out that the United States has the world's oldest system of universal primary education, and the world's most diverse and imaginative and in many respects the most highly developed system of secondary education. He said, "American colleges and universities were the first in the world to make higher education a democratic right, and until they did so university education had always been the privilege of a minute intellectual, aristocratic or financial elite."

He said he did not feel at home saying all these fine things. In his own lengthy writings he had not acknowledged them. His reason was that criticism is the engine of change. One had to knock to improve. "Nor was it considered entirely wise to admit that anything was right."

I admire Mr. Galbraith for making this explanation. Perhaps he will give a lead to many of us who, in an effort to get improvements in our system, have been inclined to knock it too hard and to praise it too seldom.

We are lucky that we have a free system, open to change, instead of a blue-printed plan imposed upon us from above. We are fortunate that we are free to criticize and thus to power the engines of change. What we ought to take into account, however, is that in neglecting to mention the many virtues of our free North American institutions, we may harm them irreparably. Our enemies are attacking them all the time, and if we join them in the attack, our institutions could crumble.

Let us then admit more often that there is a great deal that is right and good and even wonderful about our free system! Perhaps we ought to make that acknowledgment every time we have a brickbat to throw.

What's new?

Here are three new ideas for your profit and pleasure, from The Financial Post:

Concrete Yacht. — British firm has produced a yacht with a concrete hull. The material, which is less than 1-in. thick, is said to be suitable for small fishing and pleasure craft and is said to be both cheaper and more enduring than wood, steel or fibreglass.

Radiant Ceiling Panel. — This can be installed in bathrooms, kitchens, etc., and above large glass panels and sliding doors, in new or remodeled houses. Panel, 2 ft. x 5 ft., is rated at 700 watts, 240 v., 13/16 in. thick, can be surface or recessed-mounted on any ceiling, and painted to match room-colors.

Pop-up Traffic Lights. — Designed for streets with frequently changing traffic patterns, there's now a system of illuminated lane markers that pop out of the ground to shift traffic directions, and go back when no longer needed. When switched on (by radio, radar signal, timing device or push-button control), the markers are lifted from casings to a height of 13 inches above the street. They will withstand car impact up to 30 m.p.h., it's said.

Prove benefits of fluoridation

Seven-year-olds who have been drinking fluoridated water have an average of 50 per cent less tooth decay than children of the same age who have been drinking un-fluoridated water. This information is contained in a release from the Swedish-International Press Bureau, forwarded to the Health League of Canada.

Large scale experiments have been conducted for the past ten years in the central Swedish city of Norrkoping by Professors Sven Sellman and Arvid Syrrist, both of Malmo. During this period half of the city's population has had access to fluoridated drinking water while the other half has been drinking un - fluoridated water. The investigation has covered the dental service records of thousands of school children between seven and fourteen.

Since the difference in caries frequency is "only" 30 per cent in 14-year-old children, the effect of fluoridated water is greater the earlier a person starts using it, the two odontologists say. The release also states: "In the case of already grown-up persons, the introduction of fluoride in the drinking water cannot result in maximum protection but the dental caries can be reduced".

Building of church exciting story

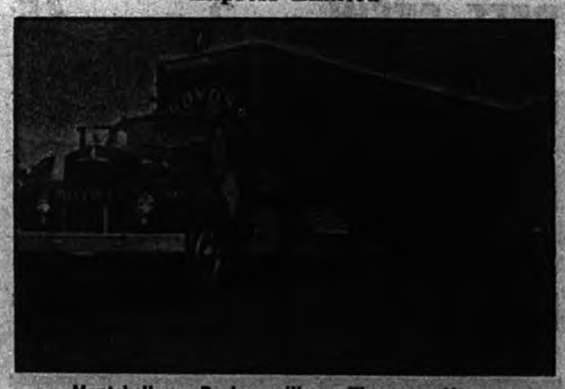

The Rev. H. Curwen-Smith, Bible Society secretary in Viet-Nam and Cambodia, recently received a photograph of a small church, newly built in a far-away village.

The history of the building of this church provides an exciting story. During an evangelistic campaign in 1957 gospel portions were sold and one was taken to this remote village. Though the original owner was not very interested, he loaned the Gospel to anyone who wished to read it. terested, he loaned the gospel message, made a trip to the nearest town, sought out the evangelist, and received from him an explanation of the Way of Salvation.

This man, together with his family, became Christianized. They desired to win others and to have a small church. These people had been dominated by a communist regime for nine years. They had nothing to start such a program. They did have a small piece of land and willing hearts and hands soon collected a few materials for the building. For three years their crops were destroyed by floods, rats, or locusts and they had to subsist on roots and sweet potatoes rather than rice. The way was hard. One or two Christians disposed of their bicycles, while others sold meager possessions to help to provide the materials.

After four years the tiny brick church was completed and ready for dedication. The pastor who related this story concluded with a message of thanks to the Bible Society, for providing the Scriptures without which there would be no Christians and no church in that village.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

The United States post office had a special stamp honoring John Glenn on sale minutes after the astronaut landed.

The stamps, printed well in advance, would have been junked if the flight had failed.

As far as I can make out, the stamps were on the street with news of Glenn's flight long before the newspapers were.

Wouldn't that be humiliating for an editor: Beaten to one of the biggest stories of the year — by a stamp?

Who said the post office was inefficient?

I wonder if they put out a stamp later in the day with the racing results and closing stock prices!

The Americans have long been notorious for issuing a special stamp every few days. Now, it appears, they are going to print noon editions, home editions and late night finals.

Touches of Sentiment

What will sentimental couples do for anniversary songs, in the year 2,000?

This question has been troubling my friend Jim.

"All right," Jim said. "The band leader calls out: 'We're feeling misty tonight for George and Gladys — it's their 50th wedding anniversary. And now, in honor of George and Gladys, we're going to play that sweet old melody, 'Rock Around the Clock'."

"You see what I mean?" Jim said. "Or maybe it will be Oliver Twist. How are they going to sound in 50 years?

"Right now it's easy," Jim went on. "There is any number of sickening old songs like "My Blue Heaven" and "The West, a Nest and You". No trouble at all, when the band is feeling misty for George and Gladys.

"But what kind of musical memories are we making? In the 1950's, if a man wanted to propose to a girl while a record was playing, he had to shout, "Hey! Will you marry me?"

"'What say?' she screams back, and he has to shout louder to get the message across. In the 60's it is just about as bad."

A dim outlook indeed for the nineteen-nineties, or the turn of the century.

Listing U.S. vets of World War I

Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. are engaged in a registration drive in connection with new legislation now pending in Congress for the benefit of World War I veterans.

In accordance with the most recent statistical information available, there are several thousand World War I veterans still living in Canada.

The Veterans of World War I is a national organization chartered by Congress to look after the interests of the veterans of 1917-1918. Laws pertaining to veterans' benefits are constantly changing, and it is to the interest of every World War I veteran to keep posted on laws for their benefit. All World War I veterans are requested to send their name, address and serial number to World War I veterans' information center, 40 G Street, N.E., Washington 2, D.C.

FAMILY FUN FOR EVERYONE

Most of us hanker after something or other to make life a little easier and more interesting for the family . . . a dishwasher, a Hi-Fi set, a piano, a new car, a winter vacation . . . things we think about but seldom have enough ready money to afford.

A problem? Well, it needn't be. The Bank of Montreal Family Finance Plan is providing the means for Canadians from all walks of life to enjoy a better standard of living. It can put a stop to the strain of endless calls on your income. With a low-cost, life-insured loan from the B of M, all the purchases for your home and family can be planned around one single monthly payment, tailored to suit your income. An FFP loan can also help meet the unexpected expenses that crop up in the best-run families.

Next time you're near the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, drop in and ask for details. You'll find a member of the staff ready to discuss your financial requirements — in complete confidence, of course.

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY
COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

Congratulations are in order to District Commander Cde. Hec Steele and his team, for winning the District curling playdowns. The team also placed second in the Provincial play-offs.

Starting this week, the downstairs portion of the Legion Hall has been open at 1 p.m. New canteen hours are also in effect.

Coming Events call for a bingo, March 8; a Euchre, March 14; and another teen-age "Cabaret Night", Saturday, March 24.

Anyone interested in Branch curling with Brownsburg, place your names on the list at the bulletin board.

Cde. P. A. Ross, Provincial Sports Chairman, informs us that the matter of the provincial golf tournament, for which Branch 70 is host on June 2, will be taken up immediately following the curling finals.

In a few weeks they will begin tapping the maple trees in parts of Quebec — as well as parts of Ontario and Vermont. A series of fine sunny days will start the sap working its way up the tree trunks, and this year's crop of maple syrup and maple sugar will be on its way.

We learned how to make maple sugar from the Indians, and until cane sugar became cheap and plentiful after the Civil War, it was the principal form of sugar in the northern States and southern Canada.

These days many of the farmers use power to tap the holes, collect the sap in plastic containers, and boil it in evaporators that require much less wood than an open kettle, but the process is virtually the same as it was 200 years ago, and the product probably tasted just as good then as it does now. You can quickly work up an argument between a Quebecer and an Ontarioan about the qualities of syrup from the two provinces — each claiming that the other's has some merit but is stringy and a mite off taste when compared with the real stuff. We think they are both good, and — providing they are all boiled down to a pleasing density — believe the Quebec syrup can give the others a fine-tasting run for their money. In Ontario and Quebec we use the Imperial gallon, too, that seems to make the price higher, but we can go right on sweetening pancakes from that size of jug when a puny gallon would be dismayingly empty.

There are reports almost every year that the total sugar bush area is dwindling, and that maple syrup may be going the way of the bed warmer and the home coffee grinder. We are civilizing ourselves right out of some great satisfactions, if you ask us.

During our lives we squander time without much concern — letting an evening slide past as we watch television; minds drifting aimlessly as we sit through a train or airplane ride; chattering about nothing all through lunch hour. But there come those occasions when we do put time to good use.

Early in the second World War, a ship named the Prusa was torpedoed. B. A. Baker, the third mate, was asleep in his bunk when the explosion rocked the ship. He woke up and tried to determine what was wrong. When he realized that the ship was going to go down, he went to the bridge and selected gear he would need in piloting a lifeboat — sextant, chronometer and navigational books. He carried them to the lifeboat he was regularly assigned to, and stowed them away. Then he helped other men swing out the davits and get the boat lowered into the sea — a clumsy and difficult job under any circumstance. Then he went back to the radio shack and tried to get the radio operator to leave the ship too. After that, he returned to his own room, realizing he might need extra clothing, and got a sweater, etc.

Having made these preparations he put on a life jacket and jumped overboard. His lifeboat had pulled about 200 feet away from the ship and he swam the distance. Just as he was pulled into the boat, the Prusa sank.

The amount of time elapsed since the torpedo struck — exactly nine minutes.

There is a verse from Ecclesiastes on "Time":

"To everything there is a season,
And a time to every purpose
under heaven:
A time to be born, and a time to die;
A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal;
A time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh,
A time to mourn, and a time to dance;
A time to cast away stones, a time to gather stones together;
A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose;
A time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew;
A time to keep silent, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
A time of war, and a time of peace."

In our nervous pursuit of progress, we too often tend to forget this philosophy. The hero of the hour now, is the person who can cook a three-minute egg in a minute-and-a-half — rather than one who senses what time is, and does each thing well, in its season.

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Cushing

A Correction — and Further Observations on the Riverfront

Last week we reported that the Gerald Cushing summer cottage had been burned by Hydro Quebec — having been told that it had been burned on the previous Friday. This was not so. The cottage, now the property of Mr. D. Leclair, was moved across the road leading to the river, and now overlooks the encroaching flood on Mr. Leclair's property. This is the third riverside cottage Mr. Leclair has acquired. The two previous cottages he had removed to the upper side of the road on his property. . . .

The only house burned that Friday night, was that of Mr. R. Coghill, leaving the stone foundation standing (as previously stated) until Monday of the past week, when Hydro Quebec sent a bulldozer to crush it down. The bulldozer was then run along the river's edge for several miles, levelling down any small obstruction that was in the way.

The former Marcoux cottage on the Bailey rivershore was burned by Hydro Quebec on Monday night previous to the flooding.

This flooding evidently caught the owner of the pulpwood and small elms, yet uncut on the Ontario side, napping, as men were noted working by the light of trucks Monday night in a race with the flood waters, rescuing the logs. Also, all day Tuesday they could be seen hauling it by horse to safety, also cutting the small elms, whose roots were already under water.

A tall sign has been erected here in lower Cushing on the roadside, to show the turn where the old road is diverted to the new one, west of the old Graham home (not east as stated in the write-up of last week).

Mrs. Jas. Coney and son, Raymond, of Brownsburg, accompanied by Miss Bonnie Gain, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss E. M. Graham was an overnight guest of her mother and brother, also of Mrs. H. Druce at Calumet, during last week-end.

Bereavement

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Miss Pearl Dawson and Mrs. C. F. Watson, also to the family and brothers of Mr. Raymond Dawson, in his sudden passing last Saturday morning in Smith's Hospital. Mr. Dawson has been a respected Stonefield resident all his life.

Mr. Bert Elliott attended a field day event, in company with his brother Scouts, in Harrington on Saturday.

Miss Marion Elliott, of Vankleek Hill, spent the week-end at home.

Frontier Branch of the W.I. catered for the chicken pie supper held in Brownsburg School on Thursday evening last. The occasion was the Brownsburg Women's Institute's annual meeting. Mrs. H. Bailey and Mrs. H. V. Elliott, from Cushing, were in attendance.

Mr. Arthur Bryerton and children, of Rosemere, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller on Sunday; they also visited his father, Mr. Wm. Bryerton, on the Brownsburg Road.

Mrs. Wallace Wilson, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was the guest of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, for several days last week.

INVENTS PLASTER

Calgary CP — Howard Bisson is testing a plaster he invented while building a basement fallout shelter. He says the plaster is non-cracking, can be used indoors or out, dries harder than existing types, and can be painted after six days.

Grenville

Mrs. Ronald Matthew was in Montreal last week with her little daughter, who was a patient in the Montreal Children's Hospital for a few days.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Villeneuve were — Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Robert and son, Billy, and Mr. Walter Dewar, of Brownsburg, and Mr. Dick Hampton, of Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Choen, of Montreal, were Saturday night guests of Mrs. Bessie Canning.

Bereaved

Sincere sympathy of this community is extended to the family and relatives of the late Mr. Ray Dawson, who passed away early Saturday morning.

Mr. Thomas Norton and son, Grenville, of Montreal, and Dr. R. Edmison, of Hudson, Que., were Sunday guests of Mr. S. C. Norton.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Welburn included Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McAndrew, of Mabel, Messrs. Dean and Kenneth Moncrieff, of Kilmar.

Brought for Burial

News of the sudden passing of Gertrude Cousins, of Montreal, was heard here with regret. The funeral service was held Wednesday in Montreal, and burial was at Calumet. The late Miss Cousins is mourned by a sister-in-law, nieces and nephews, and a brother-in-law.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. Reid returned last Wednesday from Quebec City, where she had been visiting her mother; the latter celebrated her 90th birthday while Mrs. Reid was there.

Miss Elizabeth Wales, of Montreal, spent the week-end with the Misses Wales and Mr. Harold Cairns.

Capt. and Mrs. Clattenburg spent a few days in Montreal last week.

Miss Janet Clattenburg, Messrs. Wendell Hyde and Roger Lapointe, were in Montreal on Saturday writing College Board examinations.

Mr. and Mrs. Comeau spent Sunday at the Clattenburg home.

Miss Agnes Rodger, R.N., of the Montreal General Hospital, is spending a few days at her home in River Rouge.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Buckingham and daughter, Susan, and Mrs. Day, of Montreal, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Calder on Sunday.

Avoca

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kelly and children, of Seven Islands, are on a short holiday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bates and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kelly.

Miss Judy Smith held a "money shower" for a newlywed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Reynold MacLean, of Ottawa, on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Delwin Young visited her sister, Mrs. George Nixon, on Friday last.

We are glad to report that Mr. Roy Cooke, who has been in hospital at St. Jerome for the past nine weeks, is progressing, though slowly, towards recovery.

Mrs. Ed C. Young, of Pte. au Chene, suffered a shoulder injury in a fall on the ice; her sister, Mrs. Samson Arthurs, is also in poor health.

Mrs. Lena Smythe, who has been very ill for some weeks, is recovering slowly. Her son, Lawrence, of Chicago, is visiting her, also her daughter, Mrs. McGuire, from Detroit.

VISIONARY

H. G. Wells, famed English novelist and historian, envisioned the tank, the airplane, the war in the air, long before they were facts — says Reader's Digest. Sixty years before it occurred, Wells gave a brilliant description of an H-bomb explosion, and he also wrote of space travellers at a time when most scientists thought such an idea ridiculous.

For Parents Only . . .

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Try Indirect Control

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

It is a wise parent who avoids "head-on collisions" with a child as often as possible. It is so much more pleasant living in a home where conflict over obedience to commands is not coloring the whole day. Whenever possible, a parent should try indirect control.

This is done by a parent arranging the child's social and physical environment so that it is easy for him to be good. A busy child is a happy child and likely to keep out of mischief.

Providing suitable play material is one way a parent indirectly controls his child's playtime, both indoors and outdoors. Good toys are never a waste of money, especially toys which keep a child interested and active. Paints, crayons, plasticine, blocks — there is a great deal of play material which a child can manipulate and enjoy.

A child must always be safeguarded from harm. A small boy or girl living in a third or fourth floor apartment should have bars on the windows to protect him from falling to the pavement below. No matter how often mother may give the command, "Never play on the window seat near the open window," and no matter how constant is her watchfulness, a day may come when he is suddenly in danger.

Mother is called to the phone. Son has been trying to 'fly' his light little glider plane. Unfortunately it flies out the window. He rushes to see if it has been smashed to pieces — and there is just a chance that he may lean over the sill too far. . . .

An adult can often guess what is likely to happen soon and deal with a situation before a crisis arises. Tom, John and Billy have been racing on their tricycles for some time. Billy is the youngest and he cannot quite keep up with his chums. He is getting too tired and is becoming cross.

Mother exerts indirect control by calling the trio into the kitchen for treats, giving them a drink of fruit juice which will not take away from their appetite for the next meal. Then mother gives the boys a rug to stretch out on and provides them with picture books to look at. Billy gets just the break in strenuous activity and the little rest which he needs.

There are sometimes very poor reasons why adults exert control over children. Two of the weak ones rise from parental pride and a desire to display their power. Indirect control can often prevent undesirable behaviour. It can also help the child to substitute desirable behaviour for unsuitable or unsound actions. Control of any kind should produce peaceful, social living and be a means of educating the child so that he can control himself.

Children are inconsistent in their behaviour. They want to be good and they also want to be bad. Doubtless they find it a little monotonous always behaving, in the approved way. They long to have the thrill of danger, to discover just what Mummy will do when they are naughty.

Boys and girls also vary greatly. Some are much easier to discipline than others. Boys are likely to be more "difficult" than girls, parents claim. However, with either sex, it is very worth-while to give indirect control a trial. Children prefer it to too many direct orders — and they are more likely to be co-operative.

Nursing services, loan cupboards — Red Cross aid to sick, convalescent

The man the Toronto overnight train brought into Montreal's Central Station was so paralyzed that swallowing was a new and wonderful accomplishment in an agonizing convalescence. The town of Leamington, Ont., was sending him home to his people in Truro, N.S.

A Red Cross Corps volunteer who accompanied him from Leamington was exhausted by the unremitting attention his care required, so a volunteer from the Nursing Services department of the Quebec provincial division of the Red Cross took over for the day-long wait at Montreal Central Station for departure of the Maritimes train, caring for the patient in a one-room clinic off the station waiting room.

Many of the demands on this Red Cross department are not always such immediate emergencies, but are nonetheless pressing, especially the sickroom loan cupboard, which is far from bottomless in the supply of such items as wheel chairs for loaning out to people who need them desperately. There are 632 wheel chairs in "circulation" throughout Quebec Red Cross branches, but there is a waiting list of 100. With a price tag of $100 and up, wheel chairs are only too rarely donated by individuals.

Such items, along with crutches, and hospital beds, are high on the "wanted list" that underlies the budget for $1,350,000 for Quebec Province in the annual Red Cross financial campaign.

Contributions will also help the cost of outpost nurses in the remote areas, and further the program of teaching home nursing. Last year there were 35 courses given in various provincial branches, and 600 individuals learned the basics of home care for the ill or injured

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Your life can depend on your car's tires. How much do you know about them? How do you check them for safety? What are they made of? What do the sizes mean?

Safety precautions: check tires for wear periodically. Excessive tread wear on either side means that the front end of the car needs realignment or the wheels need balancing. Abnormal wear on centre ribs of the tire means overinflation; if it's on the outer ribs, underinflation or overloading. Any break or unusual bulge should be investigated immediately. Check for nails and glass chips, too. In tubeless tires, they may not cause immediate leaks, but later can cause air loss at a dangerous time.

Materials in a tire include: (1) rubber, compounded with carbon black for toughness and long wear, sulphur for vulcanization, and other chemicals to make the compound resilient; (2) special cord fabric of nylon or rayon with high tensile strength to reinforce the tire body; (3) high-tensile steel wire for the "bead" which is the anchor holding the tire on the rim; (4) in tubeless tires, an airtight liner of a dense type of rubber. This is bonded to the inside of the tire body, taking the place of a tube.

Tire size: the first figure is the approximate measurement across a section of the tire at its widest point; the second figure stands for the diameter of the rim. For example, a 7.50-14 tire has a cross section width of 7.5 inches and an inside diameter of 14 inches.

The imminent battle for your garden dollar

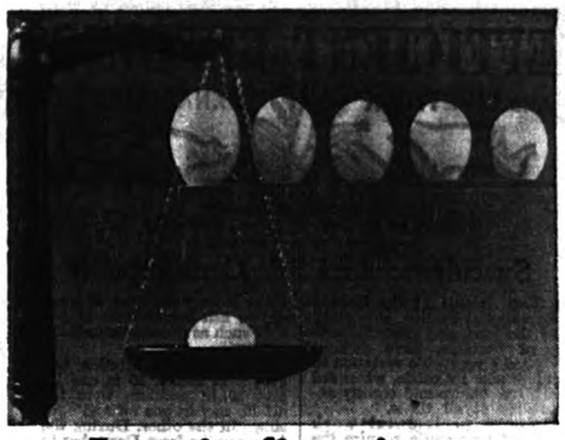

Although snow still covers most of Canada, it won't be long before the battle for your outdoor and garden dollar is in full swing, writes David Thompson in The Financial Post. While prices generally will be about the same as they were in 1961, the big spring hardware push is starting with a lot more fanfare this year. And homeowners will have more to choose from as Canadian and U.S. manufacturers wage a high-gear fight for the Canadian market.

Competition is so keen that modifications and advanced products are coming thick and fast. It's a good bet that even the best-informed handyman won't be entirely up-to-date on garden, lawn, patio and camping supplies now available. Check prices carefully before you buy. Cost of a lawnmower, for example, might vary by more than $100, depending on size and capabilities.

SMALL TALK By Syms

"Do I smell the aroma of freshly brewed coffee?" "You sure do . . . I spilled a cupful on your pillow . . ."

Eggs in five sizes

As shown here, "Canada Grade A" eggs are sold by five sizes, namely — Extra Large, Large, Medium, Small and Peewee. They range in weights from approximately 1¼ pounds per dozen for the largest size, down to approximately 1 pound per dozen for the smallest size. Large or small, at today's prices eggs are an excellent buy in high-quality protein.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Meals during the winter months tend to become a "meat and potatoes" routine, but they can be brightened considerably with salads.

Here are seven salads for seven days suggested by the Consumer Section of the federal agriculture department. The beet salad is good with beef, asparagus with poultry, minted pears with lamb, apple with pork, eggs with fish, cooked vegetables with supper, and macaroni and cheese with buffets.

Beet Salad: Toss together four cups cooked, diced beets; one cup grated raw carrots; 2 tsps. grated onion and 1 tbsp. each of prepared horseradish and chopped parsley with 6 tbsps. salad dressing. Chill. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs or parsley. Serves six.

Asparagus Salad: Drain and chill one can of asparagus tips. Arrange on lettuce. Add a dab of salad dressing to each serving and sprinkle with capers.

Minted Pears: Heat canned pear halves in their syrup. Add 10 drops of green food coloring and ½ tsp. peppermint flavoring for every six pear halves. Cook about three minutes. Chill.

Apple Salad: Combine equal amounts of chopped red apples and shredded cabbage and some raisins. Toss lightly with French dressing to which crumbled cheese has been added.

Eggs in Aspic: Use favorite recipe for tomato aspic and pour half into a ring mold. Chill until partially set. Arrange stuffed hard-cooked eggs in the jelly, yolk down. Chill until firm. Pour in remaining tomato aspic and chill until set. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with parsley.

Cooked Vegetable Salad: Combine equal parts of cooked diced beets, carrots and peas. Season with celery seed, salt, pepper and a little vinegar. Chill. Toss with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Macaroni and Cheese Salad: Combine two cups cooked macaroni with one cup each of grated cheddar cheese, chopped sweet pickle and diced celery; 3 chopped hard-cooked eggs and 1 tbsp. grated onion. Season with salt and pepper. Add enough salad dressing or mayonnaise to moisten. Garnish. Serves six.

Secretarial Training

It takes more than shorthand to make a perfect secretary, says Mrs. Thelma Greenlaw, the director of a Toronto finishing school which is associated with a group of business schools.

She says a secretary must have poise, personality and good grooming, as well as good commercial training.

Teen-agers who are used to wearing sloppy sweaters and bobby socks must learn to be mature, efficient business girls when they go into an office.

When interviewed for a job, make the interviewer feel you are composed and confident. Look him in the eye and don't fidget nervously, "even if you are".

Once the job is yours, keep your office wardrobe stylish but simple. The office wardrobe should not include bulky or fuzzy sweaters, dangling jewelry, low cut dresses, crinolines or short tight skirts.

COMPLICATIONS DUE

Winnipeg (CP) — Complications may set in when Winnipeg's application for registration of the city crest is considered by the federal registrar of trade marks. The Winnipeg crest, used since 1873, and that of the town of Morris, Man., incorporated in 1883, are similar. Both bear the words "Commerce, Prudence and Industry", and both include illustrations of three sheaves of wheat, a train and a buffalo.

Sun Life president gives views on traffic deaths and hospital insurance

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada chalked up another record year in 1961, selling more than one billion dollars of life insurance for the third year in a row. The largest Canadian life company's sales last year were $1,129 million, up 8.4 per cent over the previous record established in 1959. It brought total Sun Life insurance in force to $10,185 million, about 40 per cent of which is in Group Life insurance.

These records are announced by Marcel Roy, Sun Life manager here — following the company's 91st annual meeting, held recently in Montreal.

The St. Jerome branch also announced that dividend scales on Sun Life policies are being revised upwards for the 13th consecutive year. Sun Life dividends to be paid to policyholders in 1962 will be $45.2 million, $3.8 million more than in 1961.

Sun Life paid $194 million to its policyholders, beneficiaries and annuitants in 1961 — $766,000 per working day — bringing the total of these benefit payments since the company's organization to more than four billion dollars.

Assets increased during the year by $91 million to $2,480 million, invested mostly in government and municipal securities, corporate bonds, stocks and mortgages. Mortgage loans alone increased by nearly $40 million to a total of $648 million.

At the company's annual meeting, President George W. Bourke commented on government health insurance and criticized the belief that government can provide free hospitalization and medical care. He said government health insurance is not "free".

"Whenever the payment for a social service is removed from the individual to a government, it starts a chain reaction. Different levels of government have to meet the charges for the service and when, to these, are added their several overhead charges, the social service becomes a very expensive item indeed.

"It is one of the strange anomalies of our society that so many people seem to regard government as an entity that generates as well as distributes income. This view of government as a source of income arises in part from the blurred image of government as tax collector, a view fostered by the many forms of hidden taxes, deductions at the source, and so on, which have obscured the direct link between government revenues and private incomes."

He added that the important growth in private group accident and sickness plans, however, is an encouraging sign. It indicated a "growing awareness by management and labor of the importance of providing by their joint efforts certain hospital and medical services for themselves and their dependents as well as indemnity for loss of time from work due to disability."

Mr. Bourke expressed concern over the increasing number of deaths from automobile accidents, especially at ages under 25. Sun Life's latest mortality table "actually reaches a peak at age 21, with a mortality rate that is not reached again until age 39" on this account. He said the problem of automobile accidents involving young male drivers is one which requires serious consideration and recommended strict enforcement of proper traffic laws as a solution.

Plowing tests in clay soils

Ottawa — Experimental plowing at various depths has been carried out by the Canada Department of Agriculture to determine which gives best results in the heavy clay soils of northwestern Quebec and northeastern Ontario.

M. Levesque of the Kapuskasing, Ont., experimental farm staff, reports that plowing at eight to 12 inches resulted in better crop yields than plowing at six or 24 inches.

Deep plowing is sometimes employed as a drainage improvement measure, but at Kapuskasing it was found that subsoil brought to the surface quickly compacted. The subsoil was alkaline, which favored clover crops for the first two years, but Mr. Levesque said costly deep plowing should not be resorted to as a means of combating acidity. Getting rid of the top soil was not recommended and if it was acid, liming would be the most economical corrective.

Liming, applying manure as often as possible and plowing every four or five years, give the most economical returns from heavy clays. The crop residues and manure add humus to the soil, aid aeration and drainage, and prevent severe baking in dry seasons.

Egg yield and broiler industry

If the Canadian broiler industry has a weak link, it is in the low egg production of broiler strains.

A remedy is being sought at the Canada Department of Agriculture's Research Station at Fredericton, N.B., where use of better-laying strains in a cross-breeding program with suitable broiler strain sires is giving promising results, reports L. Griesbach.

Rate of egg production from the best broiler strains often averages less than 50 per cent over a 50-week period, whereas laying strains produce at a rate of over 70 per cent. Lightweight laying strains produce a dozen eggs from 4 to 4½ pounds of feed whereas broiler strains require almost 8 pounds.

Chicks from the best broiler strains make very rapid growth and use feed very efficiently. They reach market weight at 3½ pounds in nine weeks and require only 2¼ pounds of feed for each pound of gain.

Grow Bigger, Healthier, More Productive Heifers on FUL-O-PEP!

When you grow a heifer calf... You're really growing a cow!

Every day in the "growth life" of a calf is vitally important to you, because today's heifer calf is your milk producer of tomorrow. A calf never regains lost growth through improper feeding. So start your calves on a scientific feeding program like the Ful-O-Pep Plan. The extra care you take now, will pay you many times over. Grow bigger, sturdier calves. They'll grow into Larger Cows—with capacity for sustained milk production.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Succulence And Salt Consumption

Experiments at the Kansas Experiment Station, confirmed by the Iowa and other Experiment Stations, have demonstrated a very wide variation in salt intake by cattle, when fed salt free choice and readily accessible at all times.

The experimental work showed that cattle require the least salt when being fattened on heavy grain rations in dry lot. They eat more salt when the proportion of hay or other roughage is increased in their ration. Also the cattle eat a lot more salt when their rations include succulence by way of silage, especially corn or sorghum silage.

Dr. Bohstedt

The cattle consumed large amounts of salt when on early spring pasture which is the most succulent of all feeds, having up to 90 percent water in it.

In all cases the salt was fed free choice and made readily accessible at all times. This is a wise provision in view of the variation in salt requirements by cattle, depending largely on the nature of their feed as demonstrated by the experimental work.

Water or succulence may not be the only determining factor in this respect. Salt craving may depend partly on the chemical make-up of the ration, whether it is high in ash or whether there is an unbalance of some of the ash constituents in the feed such as potassium or magnesium.

At the Kansas Station two groups of steers, 20 in one lot and 19 in another, were fed alfalfa hay in one lot and corn silage in the other. During the four months from December to April, making allowance for weathering, the average consumption of free-choice loose salt was 15.59 pounds per steer fed alfalfa hay, but the steers fed the succulent corn silage averaged 46.63 pounds salt per steer during the tests.

Lacking complete information on the internal chemistry of the steers or cows, and not being in a position to prescribe the exact amount of salt necessary, it may be best to just "give the animal its head," and let it choose its own amount of salt according to its ration at the time.

Question: Rabbits and certain game birds in this area have been reported dying during winter weather. These deaths have been blamed on their consumption of rock salt that had been used for highway de-icing. Is this likely to happen?

Answer: This is dubious. Granted that salt when forcefed as a drench, or when mixed in large proportions in a feed and gulped by starving animals, it may poison them. It does not follow, however, that they will eat pellets of pure salt in amounts to be fatal. Straight crystalline salt with its harsh taste is its own inhibitor of overconsumption.

Insects must watch diet

In the insect world, a balanced diet is important to plant parasites, and cutworms, for instance, die when the protein constituents of their normal feed are fed to them in the wrong proportions.

Man is attempting to capitalize on this vulnerability to seek control of insect pests by changing their diet, even if it means changing the chemical nature of the plants on which they feed.

Dr. R. Kasting of the Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Lethbridge, says studies are in progress there on development of a plant deficient in some of the amino acids (protein constituents) essential to the insect. It has already been found that by plant breeding and cultural methods the balance of amino acids can be changed, but it is not yet known whether sufficient imbalance can be imparted to prevent insects from thriving.

The pale western cutworm must obtain about 10 amino acids from its feed. The researchers would like the insect to continue feeding on the deficient plant until it starves to death — if such a deficient plant can be developed without jeopardy to its commercial value.

WITH THIS MAN CAME SECURITY

This man was one of many responsible for more than one billion dollars of Sun Life insurance being sold last year and for Sun Life passing the ten billion dollar mark of life insurance in force. Through his diligence, funds that might not otherwise have been available were provided for widows' livelihoods, for retirement incomes, for advanced education and for emergencies.

Perhaps this man brought security to you and your family.

Concert group appearing March 13; Max of 'Jaffa Trio' has anecdotes

Combine a natural-born musician with a flair for presenting light, popular music, add a delightfully droll sense of humor, and you have Max Jaffa, one of England's busiest and most popular entertainers. The Max Jaffa Trio will be appearing in the last of this season's Community Concerts, at Lachute High School on March 13. The group are currently making their first tour of the United States and receiving the same kind of plaudits that have made them such a success in Britain on the BBC's major TV programs, and on Capital Records.

The Trio — comprising Max Jaffa, violin, Reginald Kilbey, cello, and Jack Byfield, piano — plays an enormous repertoire, ranging from the classics and opera to popular music and musical comedy. All of it, amazingly enough, is memorized by the players, and in a recent experiment they discovered that they could perform continuously for 12 hours without once repeating a single selection! Although these three expert instrumentalists had known each other for 30 years, it wasn't until 1949 that they decided to form a trio. Before that, their separate talents were devoted to playing in orchestras, broadcasting, and entertaining in London's most elegant clubs and hotels.

On of the world's outstanding interpreters of light music, Max Jaffa is always ready with a story or anecdote about his experiences. At one early stage of his career, he played the accompaniment for silent movies in a theatre at Walthamstow together with a pianist and a drummer. "Once," reminisced Max, "the manager drew aside the curtain that hid us from the audience and hissed. 'Why isn't the drummer playing?' I whispered back, 'It's a love scene!' 'I don't care,' the manager insisted, 'He's being paid, isn't he?' "

On another occasion, Jaffa was told by his agent to report to a film studio at nine o'clock the next morning. "I hadn't the faintest idea what I was to do; but it turned out that I had to play for the famous film vamp, Pola Negri. All I had to do was to stand by a few minutes before each scene and play, unaccompanied, a few bars of 'Ramona'! Yes, 'Ramona' : never anything else. The idea was that this put Pola 'in the mood'! To my amazement, I got three guineas a day for this — and it went on for ten days."

The onset of the Second World War caused Jaffa to put aside his beloved Guarnerius violin and to forego music for the Royal Air Force, in which he served with the Air Transport Command.

After the war, Max Jaffa joined the BBC's London Studio Players, where he chanced to meet his old friends, Reginald Kilbey and Jack Byfield. The three decided to form a trio. A multitude of television appearances followed, concerts were given throughout Great Britain, including several command performances for Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip, and the Queen Mother, and the reputation of the ensemble grew to an enviable peak.

Utilities hit by worst storm of winter season

"Winter may be reeling on the ropes, but it still has strength for a couple more punches. It will probably land one of them this afternoon in the form of a couple of inches of snow." . . .

This poetic forecast Monday by a city reporter proved a masterpiece of understatement! The afternoon brought the heaviest, and wettest, snowstorm of the season, landing from 15 to 20 inches in the Laurentian area, and not much less than that in lower Argenteuil County.

All district schools were closed on Tuesday, including Lachute and Brownsburg.

Gatineau and telephone linemen showed symptoms of deep fatigue, but continuing good humor, after a continuing battle with the elements.

At Gatineau Power, manager Rod Carreau and his crew were up all night — 30 men, 10 trucks and additional cars battling the boggy snow to restore interrupted power service over highways south and west of Lachute. The town itself suffered only minor interruptions. Brownsburg, St. Andrews-Carillon and St. Benoit were hardest hit. (Sections of Lachute Road were without power almost 24 hours.) Trouble calls from St. Hermas, Ste. Scholastique and northeastern settlements punctuated the night.

A few poles and crossarms were broken, with the weight of cables coated with four inches of frozen snow, falling over the power lines. Each of these numerous trouble spots, many of them difficult of access, had to be remedied individually.

In some areas, power circuits were broken for a period of two hours; in others, much longer.

Bell Telephone plant authorities at Lachute told a similar tale of woe. Five crewmen and three trucks were out until 1.30 a.m. Monday night, and again, bright and early at 5 a.m. Tuesday, 12 men with 10 vehicles set out to tackle the damage. About eight poles were down. Trouble was concentrated between Lachute and St. Andrews, and particularly at St. Benoit, where wires were laid low for a half-mile stretch.

Long distance circuits to Hawkesbury and district points were affected. Phone service was also interrupted in sections around Lachute.

Plant officials, anticipating help from St. Jerome district office, anticipated at least two days of arduous repair work on the lines.

The blocked yards, driveways and public highways were too numerous to mention. Many workers were content to abandon their cars under a blanket of snow. The town crews have a big job clearing the streets.

Ottawa and Montreal buses of the Provincial Transport Company continued uninterrupted, although schedules were delayed. Trains were somewhat late Monday evening, but everything was on time at the C.P.R. depot Tuesday morning.

Groundwork for new Ch. of Com. in Brownsburg

At a meeting held in the Brownsburg Hotel last week, the nucleus of a new Chamber of Commerce was organized.

The meeting was chaired by Robert Matte, Brownsburg businessman. André Cornellier was present from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Yvon Sirois from the Quebec Provincial Chamber, and Clément Legault from the newly - formed Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes - Terrebonne group.

Messrs. Cornellier and Sirois emphasized the benefits to be derived from a Chamber of Commerce in the development of industry, tourism and community progress. It is required to have 30 business members to procure a charter for any one branch.

Mr. Clément, from Ste. Scholastique, mentioned improvements attributable to the nine groups affiliated in this region. Some of the member communities, he said, are smaller than Brownsburg, but gains have been achieved in road improvements and new industries. Mr. Clément felt that it was timely for Brownsburg businessmen to form a Chamber of Commerce.

A vote was taken, and 23 attending citizens signed a request for formation of the new group. A temporary executive was named — Robert Matte, Hilaire Binette and Alcide Morin — to recruit further members and publicize the venture. At the next meeting, March 26, a board will be elected.

Fire Chief recommends fire-resistant ceilings used in business premises

The police department, reporting to Council at its statutory meeting last week, listed 306 service calls by phone, 43 accidents (40 involving damage and 3 inflicting injury), and 15 arrests — the latter for traffic infractions, disturbing the peace, auto theft and failure to stop at the scene of an accident. . . .

In the course of the month, 182 traffic tickets were handed out, and two permits issued, for a revenue of $962.30 in the department.

The report, for the month of Frebruary, was given by Ald. L. Armstrong, police commissioner, as submitted by the Phillips Investigation Bureau and Police Chief Hebert.

Fire Department

The fire report from Chief Don MacCulloch listed three fire calls and one practice turn-out.

Major fire of the month was the blaze in the Omer Boudreau business block on Main Street, February 21, which caused a loss in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Incidental to this fire, the Chief recommended that in future the town inspector should specify fire-resistant ceiling material on store premises, especially insisting on this precaution where living quarters are situated above. Materials suggested are those capable of resisting fire for at least one hour. . . . "If the ceilings in this case had been made of such material, the fire could have been confined to the one store where it started," said the Chief's recommendation.

Dismissal of Carillon chief

Chief Germain Girard, in charge of Carillon police department since last July, was relieved of his duties on decision of the village council Monday evening. There was an evenly-divided vote on the resolution, three councillors in favor and three against. Mayor Jean Lemay cast a deciding vote for the chief's dismissal.

Felix Lallier, who was a constable on the force dismissed by the mayor last week, was re-engaged to fill the vacancy of Chief. He is to be assisted by Cst. Roland Moussin, a former councillor at Carillon.

C.R.L. employees affiliate with Steel Workers Union

On February 16 last, the Canadian Refractories Ltd. at Kilmar and Marelan voted on the question "Do you wish to transfer to an affiliate of Congress?" There were 408 votes cast; 330 in favor of transfer, 72 against, and 6 spoiled ballots. It was an 82.7% vote in favor of transfer.

On a vote taken through the plants on March 1, the workers voted in favor of the Steel Workers Union as opposed to the United Glass and Ceramic Workers, who were also running for election. The vote was 67.2% for "Steel"; 436 employees voted, 99% of the eligible voters — which showed great interest among the employees.

Pat Burke, provincial director for "Steel", thanked the workers for their confidence, and hoped all would be satisfied with the co-operation that the Steel Workers Union can bring to the local executive. He was congratulated by Jim Perna, director for the Glass and Ceramics Union.

A general meeting for the membership was called on Saturday, March 3. At this meeting the Steel representatives who will help to administrate the local group were present. These were — Pat Burke, provincial director, Emile Boudreau, director of education; Bob Bouchard, representative to the local; and Robert Levesque, organizer.

Work resumed after strike on Hydro-Quebec project

A short lived strike of Quebec Hydro employees that caused 1,600 construction workers to walk off the job Friday at the Carillon power project, ended with a tentative agreement Monday afternoon.

The Montreal headquarters of the Montreal Carpenters' Brotherhood issued a back-to-work order on Monday. No notification of the strike had been served on the company. Picketing was reported on the week-end.

The walk-out became general after a local of the Electrical Workers Brotherhood struck in support of demands for a pay increase. They were followed by the carpenters and members of five other unions that are currently awaiting certification before the Quebec Labor Relations Board. Apparently only two of the unions — the carpenters and electricians — had their certification as bargaining agents. The five others are awaiting certification.

Principal complaint of the workers was the disparity between Carillon wage rates and those of similar trades in the Montreal area. While carpenters in the metropolis were drawing $2.50 an hour, those at Carillon received $1.90. The comparison for electricians was $2.65 in Montreal, $2 at Carillon; for welders, $2.72 in Montreal, $1.95 at Carillon. There is also agitation for a shorter work week.

A negotiator for Hydro had suggested a 20-cent increase retroactive from November last, plus an additional 20 cents effective next July. It appears, according to Quebec Hydro, that this spokesman had no authority to suggest such an increase, and Hydro offered an over-all 10-cent increase on hourly rates of all trades employed. . . . This was the situation which reportedly sparked the walk-out.

The return to work on Tuesday morning was conditional upon an agreement that: (1) no discrimination would be exercised against any employee involved, and that all would be reinstated; (2) that Quebec Hydro would negotiate a wage agreement in good faith.

Work on the Carillon project started in 1959 and is due to be completed this coming summer. At the peak of activity the project has employed as many as 3,000 workers.

Mobile 'clinic' for driver's tests

The auto-license mobile unit, for the issuance of new driver's permits, will be stationed at the Court House on Grace Street, Lachute, this Friday, March 16, from 9 a.m.

$10,487 costs for snow removal; but all is not yet!

In the months of January, February and March (up to last Friday, 9th) snow removal costs amounted to $10,487 in Lachute.

The figure is exclusive of a major blizzard raging as this report goes to the typesetters, Monday — a storm which threatens to incur heavy costs and possible damage to utility services.

Last winter at this comparable date, the costs were only half as much, $5,950.88.

Included in the snowclearing bill are wages, operation of equipment, repairs, rental of trucks, etc. The budget estimate for this season was around $12,000.

CHAPUT SEEKS GRANT FOR SEPARATISTS ! —

Requests and behests in correspondence to Council

At the Council session last Thursday, a contract for purchase of fuel oil was given to the firm of L. J. Dumas Ltée. The decision was passed on a 6-2 vote, Aldermen Lepage, Armstrong, Urbain and Thibodeau supporting the resolution proposed by Ald. Dr. J.-P. Dorion and Ald. Dr. L. A. Middleton, seconder.

In amendment to this proposal, Aldermen Charlebois and Church moved that a fixed rate of 15c be paid to local suppliers whether members of the Fuel Oil Dealers Association or not, but with preference to Lachute taxpayers. The amendment was voted down.

Six tenders had been received by Council, from L. J. Dumais, Lachute Fuel Oils, Fernand Dion, British American Oil Co., J. A. Scarborough and Georges Belanger.

Before the tenders were opened, Mr. Jos. Dumais, president of the trade group, suggested that Council might award the contract to member dealers at a 2-cent discount from market price, without however excluding non-members. (The Association embraces 80 per cent of district fuel oil suppliers.)

Other purchases included four batteries, from Lachute Auto Parts, for $56.90. Another quotation had been submitted by Deacon Motor Sales.

Correspondence

Acceding to a written request from Le Carrefour du Livre, use of the Auditorium was granted for Library Week, April 7-8-9 next.

Grateful acknowledgment was received in a letter from the Richelieu Club, for the $2,000 grant voted by Council on behalf of the swimming pool and playground.

A communication from St. Jerusalem Parish presented a council resolution on uniform lighting on Henry Street, also voiced opposition to the levying of a 2 per cent sales tax inside the limits of St. Jerusalem.

Mayor F. Legault read a letter of appreciation from the firm of Jos. Malaket & Fils for police surveillance of their business establishments.

Request for a grant to "R.I.N.", the Quebec separatist group, signed personally by Marcel Chaput, was tabled by the Council.

Authorization was given for holding of the annual St. Patrick's parade, next Saturday, including use of the Auditorium and services of a police escort.

A letter from Gabriel Valois asked for use of the Auditorium stage by a choreographic group. It was proposed by Ald. Dr. Dorion, seconded by Ald. Réal Urbain, that the stage be rented for a nominal fee of $5.

Two accounts, off the regular beat of civic expenses, were passed for payment — one of $15.68 presented by Fire Chief Don MacCulloch, for hot drinks and refreshments provided for firefighters in the recent blaze at the Boudreau block; the other from Roland Menard, for the use of two ambulances carrying victims of police bullets, St. Hilaire and Rousseau, to hospital.

The session was adjourned to March 14 for study of tenders on the town's $520,000 debenture issue.

Ald. Lauréat Laurin was absent from the assembly.

Collapse of big garage building

The collapse of a cement-block garage building at Welden Motor Sales, Bethany Road, caused damage estimated around $20,000 on Monday evening.

The cause, while not definitely established, is suggested as an explosion of gasoline fumes or some other combustible, although there was no sign of fire or scorching among the ruins. The incident occurred at 7.15 p.m. and there was no one on the immediate premises to determine the cause.

The extensive cement-block structure, built last fall, adjoins Welden's display yard, and is used to house heavy equipment. Three of the walls collapsed outwards, and the roof caved in on the machinery underneath. Situated in the building were two snowplow trucks, a grader, a tractor and an air compressor, among other items.

LIONS CLUB INNOVATION —

Speaking contest in auditorium; better audience accommodation

Lachute Lions played hosts to about 15 visitors from the Roxboro club on Tuesday of last week, for the annual broomball scramble at the Lions' Rink. Winners of the contest seemed undecided, but inter-club fellowship, which is the keynote of this event, was sparked by wholesome fun and rivalry.

Back at the Legion Hall, the visitors were officially welcomed at supper by the president, Col. Ernest Emmett. President "Rusty" Milne of Roxboro was spokesman for his club, and thanked the Lachute branch for making this visit possible. A former Lachute man, Gordie Jamison, was among the visitors. Another sidelight was a recollection here that it was Lion Stanley Church who first introduced broomball into local sports, back in 1929.

Dr. Eric Mongeon, chairman for the annual Public Speaking contest, divulged that the next meeting (March 20) would take the form of a public gathering in Lachute Auditorium, commencing at 7.30, for the presentation of speeches and judging of young orators. (In previous years the contest has been an after-supper affair at the Legion Hall.) This event is seen as a gesture of encouragement and a testing ground for young speakers, and it is expected there will be talented entrants from all the Catholic schools, from Brownsburg High School, and it is hoped, from Lachute High School.

Lion Ian Gordon gave a send-off to ticket sales for the annual cash drawing. This will take place April 28 at the Golf Club's opening dance.

Has eye injured in hockey game

Hawkesbury — An 11-year-old Grenville boy, Geoffrey Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Arnold, was rushed to Montreal General Hospital last Friday night with a severe eye gash when he fell on a teammate's skate during a Cub Pack exhibition hockey game.

The boy was taken to the Smith Clinic and treated by Dr. R. C. Kirby before being taken to Montreal. He was not expected to lose the eye.

(Family or relatives could not be contacted at Grenville Wednesday morning to ascertain the boy's condition.)

Week's Epigram

Before passing judgment upon another, stop and think. "Have I any mental jaundice today ?"

St. Patrick's Day parade in Lachute this Saturday

The annual St. Patrick's Day parade will be held on Saturday March 17. This gala parade, with the main purpose of promoting good will, offers anyone who has "something a little different" an opportunity of showing it in a public parade.

The procession will assemble opposite the Richelieu Park, Paquin Avenue, and the proposed route will be Main Street-Bedard-Bethany and back down Main Street. Bands, horses, old and new cars, floats and other decorated vehicles will be joined by all sorts of patriotic, youth groups and organized turnouts.

10th Anniversary celebration and special issue

"L'Argenteuil" is planning a gala program at the Cinema Lachute next Thursday for its 10th anniversary. To mark the occasion a special edition is being published next week, to appear in the mails and on the news-stands on Thursday, the same day.

Specially booked for the entertainment are television and stage performers including two very popular French artists, Les Jerolas, and radio singer Mariette Vaillant (Ayersville) wife of Omer Dumas, head of the Minstrels heard regularly on the French-language radio. Also upholding the high quality of Lachute talent will be Claire Cousineau, soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaetan Cousineau, who has been studying voice for several years. Guy Lafortune will m.c. the show, in his usual breezy manner, and Léonard Lupien of Brownsburg will be the piano accompanist.

Mayor and Mrs. Fernand Legault will be patrons of this celebration, and during the program a drawing will be held for the five $100 cash prizes. This contest, concluding at noon next Saturday, March 17, has been in progress for some time with the co-operation of district merchants, who have issued 100,000 tickets among participating customers.

There are no advance reservations. Tickets of admission ($1) will be sold at the wicket on the night of this show, commencing at 8.30 p.m.

Gatineau trucks with aerial ladders

Gatineau Power has recently purchased four trucks equipped with aerial ladders to be used in the installation and maintenance of street lights, installation of service, and tree trimming. Furthermore, these vehicles are equipped with "hot line" tools permitting their crews to work on lines carrying up to 69,000 volts without having to interrupt service. These trucks will assist greatly in further improving the continuity of service.

These vehicles cost about $6,000 each, and are part of a fleet of 24 vehicles of all kinds that Gatineau Power Company has acquired since the beginning of last month. One of the units is in permanent service here at Lachute.

Health Week at Rotary Club

As a prelude to National Health Week, the guest speaker at the March 8 meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was Dr. John C. MacKimmie, of Lachute.

Dr. MacKimmie spoke about Heart Disease, the cause of two out of three deaths in Canada yearly. He outlined the phases of development of the heart in a baby, before and after birth, heart failure, and the most common heart diseases. He described briefly the causes of some of the diseases, and what actually occurs in the heart when such a disease strikes. He stated that strain or stress is one of the most important causes of coronary artery disease and that the main treatment is prevention — as you get older, keep on with sports but not too strenuously. To sit in the office all day and then to play ardently and forcefully any one sport — or to begin the golf day too strenuously in April after playing bridge all winter — is inviting trouble. Freedom from worry and other stress is still the best preventive medium, he asserted.

Three-man committee to plan Carillon park

Hydro Quebec and the Department of Natural Resources have jointly announced the appointment of a three-man committee to plan the establishment of a public park at Carillon. The three appointees are Jean-Paul Gignac, of the Quebec Hydro Commission; Eric Goudreau, of the Natural Resources Department; and Louis Lemieux, of the Department of Game and Fisheries.

The minister of this latter department, the Hon. Gérard Lévesque, visualizes a terrain providing fishing and duck hunting attractions. With modern management, the Ottawa River can be greatly improved from these aspects. A park with camping and picnic facilities, and with safe bathing beaches, would provide healthful outings and week-end camping expeditions for families of metropolitan Montreal.

J.-C. Lessard, chairman of Hydro Quebec, is in accord with these ideas, and approves the development of sites around new power projects — according to this news release from Mr. Lévesque's department.

Size of the park and its completion date were not disclosed.

Boyd's Express extends business

Further increasing its extensive coverage, the progressive Lachute firm of Boyd's Express Ltd. has recently taken over Binette Transport, a small-scale trucking business at Oka.

In consequence of this move, it is announced by Garth Boyd, vice-president of Boyd's Express Ltd., that the company's service will now include points on and adjacent to Route 29, to and from Montreal, namely — Oka, St. Joseph du Lac, Pointe Calumet, Pte. aux Anglais, Ste. Marthe sur le Lac, and Pine Beach.

EDUCATION WEEK FEATURE —

Two-district teachers' workshop proved rewarding venture here

The workshop held here by the Argenteuil Teachers' Association and the Laurentian Teachers' Association proved to be very successful.

A total of 350 teachers registered for the general assembly in the Auditorium. Following this, the four sections separated for their relative meetings and discussion groups. A wealth of information, both constructive and objective, was received by the members from the consultants, and through the exchange of ideas, materials, etc., in the discussion groups. . . . It is infortunate that the consultant for Section "D" was unable to attend, due to illness.

The dinner at the Masonic Hall was very well attended and enjoyed.

The public meeting held in the evening in Lachute High School auditorium, was very rewarding to those who attended. Dr. Beasley's speech, "A Scientist Looks at Education", was excellent and left everyone wishing that time had not passed so quickly.

The executive wish to thank the consultants, workshop conveners, section conveners and other workers for the co-operation and the tireless effort given to make this first workshop a great success.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Sightings of moose have now become almost commonplace. There must be a lot of them around. One I have been told of is a real whopper, from guesses, about 800 to 1,000 pounds. These animals seem to be making Argenteuil County their home now, and maybe more of them will come along. There should be a few young this spring, and that will help. Now we need to make sure they stay protected, from some of our malicious hunters.

Incidentally, moose very seldom give birth to twins, but even the one offspring will help. They also stay with the mother almost a year, until another youngster is whelped. Now is the time to close the hunting season for at least three years, then we will be sure to have these animals around for some time to come.

This past week has been severe on the deer population. It is hard enough for them during the winter, through extremes in temperatures and scanty feed, but then they have to contend with the so-called wolf (dogs). This has been more than proven within this past week, however. . . .

Roly Harding in the Brownsburg area told me of a call he received from an irate citizen about dogs. On investigating, tracks were followed of three animals running a deer. Back-tracking, he came upon a doe, heavy with young, that had been pulled down. Crippled through one of its hind legs being hamstrung, Harding had to dispose of it. Pictures were taken of this. Then, investigating further, the caller stated he had seen the dogs in question running another doe. They were two small mongrels and one beagle. This may surprise a lot of readers — a beagle running deer, but I noticed in one of the conservation magazines I get, that certain parts of New York State have barred these dogs just for this reason.

Through the bush these days, the awakening of the brooks and streams makes wonderful music. Even the birds are in better voice, with the winds at peace. Caterpillars can be seen all over the place. Maybe these are just a little ahead of themselves, but I am not forgetting the moths I saw with the temperature down in the low 30 or 40-below bracket. Even the little tree spiders can be seen busily setting up house for the coming "hunting" season.

Naturally there is still a lot of snow in the bush and it is very hard going, but it really is worth all the work just to see the earth coming out of its nightmares. To me this is one of the finest sights a person is privileged to see. Yet we all seem to take it as a matter of course. Just like a child, Nature is a never-ending curiosity to all mankind. I wonder just how many people have these thoughts. Humans, the greatest killers, fashioners of every device for this purpose — and yet the most important thing of all creation — the study of life from the lowest to the highest, and what makes Nature tick, is by-passed for unimportant things.

Since telling you of the trout that were being sold in and around the Lakeshore of Montreal, I had a call from a resident of this area. It seems that not only were trout being sold, but partridge, venison and everything else that makes up the wildlife population. It was also stated that this has been going on for a matter of weeks; phone calls to the proper authorities have seemed to do no good. Of course, they cannot be blamed entirely, as this is a big district, and a few citizens are always looking for a bargain in food. Then the lack of information would be an obstacle. Let's hope they manage to get these jokers soon.

A Redwing blackbird has been reported, down by the open water at St. Andrews. I have seen numerous crows, but not Redwings as yet. However, there is no open water here, not even the ditches; just as soon as they are, we will have them. This bird is a sure sign of spring, with his very welcome call of O-KEE-LEE — one of the greatest symphonies of the times. Huge flocks of Buntings have been around, never have I seen so many at this time of the year. Some sparrows have taken over the feeders right now, so the starlings have made themselves scarce. Man, these little sparrows seem to have no fear of anything. Size seems to mean nothing to them, the way they get rid of the starlings is a treat to watch. Of course, the sparrows can't be given all the credit; we now have two hawks in the area, and these have been well fed in the past few days. I watched them the other afternoon; one drifted away, the starlings got bold and darted out into the open knowing the other one was too far away. Did they get a surprise though, getting hit by dynamite when they least expected it! And these hawks seemed to change over in their stratagy once in awhile.

I was reading an article on the wolf bounty and how it should be increased — as one official says, "Doing this would wipe out the wolf menace in no time." . . . But I know many sportsmen who think the same way I do. The wolf is not, and never has been, a menace to our wildlife. Certainly it does kill, but have you ever stopped to think what would happen to the balance of wildlife if these predator animals were all killed off. We would be overrun with rabbits, deer maybe, rats, mice and all types of game. These creatures were put here for a purpose, one that maybe we cannot appreciate perhaps. As for the bounty; this, to me, is a criminal act. Imagine the killing of anything in wildlife, then getting paid for it. One thing I sure dislike — is poisoning of these animals. Anyone having seen the agony of poisoned animals, should remember that wolves are being killed this way.

A lot of the sporting stores in Montreal are all dressed up for opening of the trout season. This brings me to the question of when the Provincial Government will get around to issuing the license. Could be like the last few years — they don't give the fishermen a chance to get them beforehand.

The new baits and lures sure stretch the imagination of even the fisherman. Battery-operated lures — you heave them out and they come in by themselves. Another one, operated on the same principle, goes right to the hooks too: you don't even have to strike the fish, batteries do it for you. (I can just imagine how long these would last; just graze a stump, and wham, you are hooked.) One spinner that looks as though it will work, is a reversible tandem — the upper blade spins one way, and the lower the opposite.

All the lures seem to have new "unchipable" paint on them; this sure is a good thing. I do know some of the lacquer jobs were very poor. Even the friction of the water wore it off. Reels are not as flashy as previous models, at least the ones I saw; this is a good thing too. Certainly, the fewer the parts, the less chance of a breakdown. None of the reels seem to have shed the excess weight, however. Most fishermen want to fish all day, and with some of the heavyweights, this is almost an impossibility.

Last but not least — for the next couple of weeks how about putting out a little extra feed for the birds! With the new species coming into the district, and our winter birds still here, a lot of feed is needed. For the migrants — after all, if we travel a few thousand miles, on the go all the time, then food is badly needed.

Ladies' curling

Tuesday of last week was Gala Day for the Ladies' Curling Club. There were many products advertised in a variety of attractive and ingenious costumes — although it is a bit doubtful whether makers of the products would have been flattered by the representation of their wares!

Prize-winners for the costumes were — Mrs. A. M. Vessie, Mrs. A. G. Giles, Mrs. R. M. Cairns and Mrs. G. G. Mitchell. In the curling games Mrs. D. MacTavish (skip), Mrs. E. McFaul, Mrs. D. McFaul and Mrs. W. C. Brown were winners over Mrs. W. S. Gordon (skip), Mrs. S. H. Wilson, Mrs. D. Bradley and Mrs. A. E. Comba, by one-half point.

It was a most enjoyable day, thanks to the luncheon and tea committees, and Mrs. Geo. McGibbon and Mrs. F. A. Hungerbuhler who were m.c.'s.

On Wednesday the following players took part in Laurentian Trophy play at Rosemere — Mrs. E. O. Pollock (skip), Mrs. L. W. Armstrong, Mrs. W. W. Freeland and Mrs. M. McFaul. Lachute were the winners.

On Thursday the final games in the Senior and Junior bonspiel were played. In the Senior section the finalists were Mrs. F. J. Stein (skip), Mrs. R. M. Cairns, Mrs. S. H. Wilson, Mrs. W. White; and Mrs. J. Barbour (skip), Mrs. F. Wood, Mrs. A. G. Giles, Mrs. W. S. Jones. . . . Mrs. Stein's foursome were the winners.

The Junior finalists were Mrs. H. K. Rutherford (skip), Mrs. S. J. Patterson, Mrs. R. Bailly, Mrs. G. Hardie; and Mrs. D. Heggie (skip), Mrs. R. O. MacLean, Mrs. K. Boa, Mrs. W. E. Butterfield. . . . Mrs. Heggie's rink won this event.

The following players took part in a Friendly Day bonspiel at Vankleek Hill on Thursday — Mrs. E. O. Pollock (skip), Mrs. Mac E. Walker, Mrs. M. Wilson and Mrs. H. Booth.

As there are still a few free days for curling, a "Last Chance" bonspiel has been arranged — finals to be played on Monday, March 19.

All members please note, that the closing dinner and prize giving will take place on Tuesday, March 20; dinner at 6 p.m.

Ski Trails

By Ross Cole,
Director, Ayers Ski School

Ram Ski Club News

The second race of the season was held last Saturday, with a good turnout. This race was held for Junior A, B and C class racers. The next race will be held on March 24, for all skiers between the ages of 14 and 20, inclusive. The races this year are being held to classify the skiers into their proper categories, so that the racing committee can set up a schedule for next year's program. It is my hope that all the children in the club will become competition-conscious and make it a big success. Skiing is one of the few winter sports left that can be played outside in the fresh air with the whole family participating.

Following are the recing results of last Saturday, given in seconds:

Junior "A" Boys — Marc Racine 30.0, Billy Harden 30.8, David McCaffrey 32.0, Bobby Thompson 32.6, Glenn Siversky 34.0.

Junior "B" Boys — Peter Tessier 32.0, Steve Assaly 33.6, Kevin Kelly 36.2, Cecil Humphries 41.2, Andrew Kinnaird 42.0, Greg. Thomas 45.0, Michael Humphries 45.0, Michel Levert 50.6, David Siversky 51.6, Alex Seay 53.2, David Hart 1:3.6, Gaetane Valois 1:7.6, Jeffrey Thorpe 1:24.6.

Junior "B" Girls — Carolyn Summers 36.0, Debbie McCaffrey 39.6, Susan Sugden 40.2, Jennifer Hooker 50.0, Simon Kinnaird 1:5.2, Monique Beaudoin 1:6.2.

Disqualified — Louise Dumas, Susan Kinnaird.

Junior "C" Boys — Jimmy Wilson 38.8, David Johnson 44.8, Blair Barber 47.6, Paul Dubois 49.0, Michael McCaffrey 50.2, Reggie Harden 53.0, Peter Seay 55.0, Frank Kirby 55.8, John Armstrong 1:9.2, Richard Hannaford 1:12.2, Gordon Kirby 1:20.6.

Junior "C" Girls — Janice Humphries 41.4, Carol Hannaford 41.6, Wendy Johnson 56.2, Debby Savory 59.6, Marianne Rivington 1:4.0, Gail Hannaford 1:10.0, Nicole Levert 1:10.0, Lyn Siversky 2:46.0.

Equipment — Skis

Owning a good pair of skis will free you from having to rent skis every time you decide to head for the snow country, or skiing on boards so warped and scatched as to make every movement a chore.

There are so many excellent skis being made, from so many different materials, that selecting a good pair can often be a bewildering experience. The skis are all shiny, colorful and professional-looking.

Basically, skis are made of wood, or a combination of plastic, metal and wood. The wood ski, too, makes extensive use of plastic materials, such as a protective covering on the top and sides. The running surfaces on most better skis are made of a tough plastic designed to give speed, keep out moisture, and resist scratching and gouging due to wear. The plastic running surface does not eliminate the need for waxing though — it merely reduces it.

Most wood skis are of laminated construction, which means that strips of wood, usually hickory, or a mixture of ash and hickory, are bonded together and then shaped to the proper dimensions. A ski without metal edges would be difficult to control on steep terrain or under icy snow conditions. Therefore, steel edges are a must on all skis, including children's as soon as they reach the stage of lift riding and downhill skiing.

The metal-plastic ski has been in use for about 10 years and its popularity has grown tremendously. Metal skis are easy to maintain during the non-skiing months, but above all, they are easy to ski in. In fact, until recently, they have appealed more to the recreational skier than to the competitor.

Skis come in different sizes, cambers and flexibilities. Some are designed for competition, others for recreational skiers; there are slalom skis, giant slalom, downhill and combinations; some with hidden edges, some without. There are skis designed for every height, weight and requirement of skier, and too numerous to mention in this column. I can only suggest that, if you are in the market for skis, you find out what type of ski you require from your pro, before you do your shopping. It could save you some time and money as well as making this sport of skiing more enjoyable for you.

Next week — Poles.

L.H.S. Sr. Girls win Valley basketball title

By Carol-Ann Demerse

On Friday night, the senior girls' and senior boys' basketball teams from Lachute High School travelled to Rosemere, to play in one of two games each in the O.V.S.A.A. tournament.

The senior girls' game was played first. Lachute won against Rosemere, 26-19. The three local stars were Dee Miller, Nancy Hay and Linda McCaskill.

The senior boys' game was next. Rosemere won by a score of 46-39. The three local stars were Gary Cruise, Gordie MacKay and Grant McGibbon.

On Saturday afternoon the second games between Rosemere and Lachute were played, at the Lachute High School.

The first game was between the L.H.S. senior boys and the Rosemere boys; the latter were victorious by the score of 39-31. The three local stars were Gary Cruise, Grant McGibbon and Gordie MacKay.

The second game was played between the two senior girls' teams. L.H.S. were victorious, 22-20. The three local stars were Dee Miller, Gwen Matthews and Sheila Owens. The L.H.S. senior girls' team won the O.V.S.A.A. championship for the year 1962.

Lachute to Represent District

Boys from Lachute's Scout Troop and Cub Pack will represent the Long Sault District at the Second Annual Laurentian District Ski Meet, to be held next Saturday at Chalet Cochand. Entries from this district are limited to a total of six boys, and Lachute won this year's draw. Brownsburg boys enjoyed the same privilege last year.

Anyone who can arrange to be in the Ste. Marguerite vicinity on Saturday should certainly take advantage of this opportunity to see the Cubs and Scouts in action.

Brownsburg Scouts

Two Scoutmasters and 10 scouts from Brownsburg (as well as a contingent from Lachute) attended the Annual Patrol Leaders' Banquet in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel on February 24. There were about 1,350 present. Scoutmasters Ken Ball and Allan Dewar, and Patrol Leaders Wayne Seary, Andrew Izzard, Ralph Atkins, Jimmy Devine, Ron Gervais, John Aitkins, Gary Helmer, Douglas Connelly, Gerald Vowles and Sandy Welburn attended from Brownsburg.

The entertainment included music by the Montreal Brass Ensemble; a singsong with orchestra leader Denny Vaughan; "Jamboree Diary", the official film of the Third Canadian Jamboree, attended by several boys from this district last summer; and a stage show, "The Fossils Review".

On the week-end of March 3-4 members of the Brownsburg Boy Scout Troop were invited to Valley View Camp in Morin Heights. The camp is owned by the Cedar Park Heights Troop of Montreal. S.M. Ken Ball and Scouts Gary Helmer, Jimmy Devine, Dwight Ball, Billy Brady, Kenny Campbell, John Maitland, Earl Donaldson, Alan Vowles, David Welburn, Gerald Vowles and Sandy Welburn took advantage of this invitation.

The Brownsburg Boy Scout Troop would like to thank all those who helped to make the concert of March 9, presented by the Montreal Chapter of the "Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing of America", so great a success.

Township affairs in Chatham

At the Chatham Council meeting last week, with Mayor Romeo Foucault presiding, it was decided to call for a contractor's estimate on repairs to the town hall.

Up for consideration at next meeting will be a by-law regarding bulls in pasture land — aimed to restrict such animals to solidly-fenced enclosures. (Legal advice is being sought on powers of municipal authorities in this matter.)

A tender of $50 a month for care of the municipal dump, received from Wilfrid Aubin, was approved and accepted.

Coun. Adelard Gagné was appointed pro-mayor for a three-month period.

Named as valuators for the next two years were Messrs. Jas. Derouin, Howard Dixon and Roland Desforges. Alvin Heatlie was similarly appointed as municipal inspector.

Coun. Adelard Gagné was commissioned to enforce the business tax and dog tax.

Bills approved for payment amounted to $491.65.

New regional Ch. of Commerce group formed

At a meeting in Rosemere recently, an affiliation was formed between nine Chambers of Commerce in this region.

Chambers represented were Lachute, St. Andrews, St. Jerome, St. Janvier, Bois des Filion, Terrebonne, Ste. Therese, St. Eustache and Ste. Scholastique.

Jean-Paul Létourneau, director-general of the Province of Quebec Chamber of Commerce, chaired the meeting. The organization was named the Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes - Terrebonne Regional Chamber of Commerce, and the following officers were appointed:

President, Jean-Marc Fontaine (Terrebonne).

1st Vice-president, Clément Legault (Ste. Scholastique).

2nd Vice-president, Gaetan Leclair (Lachute).

Secretary-Treasurer, Luc Bertrand (Ste. Therese).

A committee was formed to concern itself with the improvement of Route 41 — Antoine Malaket (Lachute) chairman, Paul Labreche (St. Andrews), Paul Beauséjour (St. Jerome) and Clément Legault (Ste. Scholastique).

Prospects of forming a branch at Brownsburg (which has since taken inaugural shape) were also discussed.

Next meeting of the group was set for April 11, at Terrebonne.

Que. Red Cross must absorb over $1-million of "free blood" costs

"The League of Red Cross Societies," said its founder and first president, Henry P. Davison, "is a conception which involves not merely efforts to relieve human suffering, but proposes to prevent it; to relieve not the suffering of one people alone, but an attempt to arouse all peoples to a sense of their responsibility for the welfare of their fellow beings throughout the world."

The League, a parliament of the close to 100 member-countries of the Red Cross, has once more honored Canada with the re-election of a Canadian, John A. MacAulay, Q.C., LL.D., of Winnipeg, as chairman of the Board of Governors, the supreme body. Canadians have been quick to respond to such a signal recognition, at the highest possible level, of their efforts in Red Cross work.

In the Province of Quebec, as elsewhere across the country, people in all walks of life are contributing their services as Red Cross volunteers in the sewing rooms, in the blood clinics, in administration work, water safety campaigns, veterans' services, as drivers, and working in the international field, in nursing services.

Donations of blood to the free blood transfusion service, donations of good will and leisure hours in volunteer work relieve the Red Cross of many costs that would otherwise constitute a heavy burden. Unfortunately, there are other costs that are inescapable, such as equipment, motor transport costs, wool for knitting, cloth for garments, food and fuel for emergency distribution.

$7.06 Each Bottle of Blood

In the aggregate, heaviest costs, paradoxically, are in the free blood transfusion service, for such things as bottles, tests, laboratory, which run to $7.06 a bottle of blood, which in 1962 will total $1,750,000 for the 250,000 bottles of blood required for free transfusions in 187 hospitals across Quebec. The provincial government will pay a portion, but the residue left for the Red Cross to absorb will exceed $1,000,000.

Volunteer canvassers in the annual Red Cross financial campaign will thus be aiming at a provincial objective of $1,350,000 including the blood transfusion and other immutable costs. Local canvassers will form part of a network seeking contributions among 160 branches, 12 of them new since last year, and amongst residents in 63 campaign districts.

The Red Cross campaign dates for Lachute District are from March 24 to April 7, and local objective of the canvassers, under direction of Howard Morrison and Gaetan Leclair as co-chairmen, is $4,000.

Endorsation Given by the Prime Minister of Canada

The Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, has released the following message on this occasion, in support of the national campaign.

"The Red Cross is a symbol everywhere of hope, understanding and help for the needy and the afflicted.

"Thousands of our people in communities across this nation give unstintingly in voluntary service to the Canadian Red Cross as an organization which epitomizes the principles of brotherhood. To them I extend the thanks and appreciation of Canadians everywhere for what they are doing in supporting and advancing its many services and programs.

"The Red Cross needs financial resources to carry on its worthy works, and I'm sure that Canadians everywhere will support the current campaign."

W.I.'s represented at Conference on Education

A recent survey of the Provincial organizations which constitute the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada concerning their contribution to education has been carried on by the FWIC Convener of Citizenship and Education, Mrs. R. J. Penny, of Kingston, Ont.

"The survey revealed," says Mrs. Penney, "that funds invested for the provision of scholarships and bursaries amount to more than $100,000. The scholarships together with local projects, awards, prizes and equipment, account for an annual outlay for educational purposes of approximately $25,000."

Because of the primary object of Women's Institutes to promote the welfare of the home and to serve community life, the report continues, the majority of the schorlarships are in the field of Home Economics, with others for Teacher Training, Nursing, Social Work, Art, Music and Drama.

As a sponsoring organization of the Canadian Conference on Education, the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada had 14 delegates in attendance at the Conference held in Montreal last week.

Arg. Fishing and Hunting Assocn. receives charter

The Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association has attained status and stature with the granting of a Quebec charter of incorporation. This recent advancement follows the negotiations of the executive in office since last year. The group, inaugurated in 1960, will operate under the title "l'Association des Amateurs de Peche et Chasse d'Argenteuil, Inc." Rules and regulations accompany the charter to establish the organization on a sound footing; and the directors, in view of this authoritative basis, anticipate still more enthusiastic support from the sport-loving public.

A constructive and interesting program will be outlined at an early meeting, the date of which will be announced in this journal.

Brownsburg — G. H. Quinn, vice-president of the Brownsburg Branch, attended the 52nd annual meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Quebec Provincial Division, held in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on March 1. (President Larry Presseault was unable to attend, in view of the fact that Mrs. Presseault was hospitalized at the Smith Clinic in Hawkesbury.)

Lieut.-Col. J. W. Knox was elected president of the Provincial Division, replacing Mr. Aristide Cousineau, who will continue as a representative to the Central Council.

Services of this Division were expanded during the year to cover the entire Province and this added to the problems, financial and otherwise.

Many additional donors will be required to meet the demand for blood. Additional clinics may be necessary in centres where one or two have been held in the past.

A delegate from Lachute stated that the taxi operators in Lachute had transported blood donors without charge during visits of the mobile clinics. It was emphasized that persons who require blood transfusions may be very close to home; also that some folks may say they have no money to contribute to this worthy cause but cannot say they have no blood. Another point was that persons unable to contribute blood could help in other ways, by transporting donors or by serving refreshments. Several delegates mentioned service organizations which assumed the responsibility for catering and transportation, as a means of assisting blood clinics.

Although this Division has always been able to raise sufficient funds to meet expenses and contribute to the central fund in the past, some consternation was expressed regarding the possibility of doing so this year. The problem could be resolved by more generous contributions by subscribers during the campaign for funds.

The entire list of awards of the Badge of Service was read, and this included the name of Mrs. A. Talbot, of Brownsburg.

"This one has a private bath."

Important Message to the Liberals of Argenteuil

The undersigned are retiring executives of the Argenteuil Liberal Association and chief organizers of Rodrigue Durocher at the last Provincial election.

The difficulties between ourselves and Durocher and his friends were reported in the County newspapers. At that time we did not defend our position, in the interest of the party.

We are now obliged to break our silence because of recent events and of the attacks and slurs made against us in the newspapers of the County by Durocher and his friends.

Durocher and his friends introduced into the County the most flagrant form of Duplessis-type patronage. The principles for which we had fought in 1960 were dishonored. This executive reported these cases of abuse to the Quebec Liberal Federation and requested its intervention.

Durocher and his supporters assumed complete control of the administration of the County and used the patronage to stifle the initiative of the Liberal Association. This executive was illegally destituted because they refused to associate themselves with the activities of Durocher and his friends.

Finally, the Quebec Liberal Federation intervened and appointed an "Honor Committee" to settle the situation, composed of Messrs. B. Gosselin, Durocher, Antoine Paré and Rolf Nelson with Mr. L. C. Giguere of the Federation as president. All agreed to co-operate.

After a series of meetings a firm agreement was reached — (a) to refrain from any campaign among the members of the Association in order to avoid discord; (b) to present at the general meeting a compromise slate which would represent and unite all the Liberals in the County. . . .
This agreement was sanctioned by the chairman, Mr. Giguere, and by the Federation.

Messrs. Gosselin and Durocher requested that Mr. Alphonse Barbeau, Vice-President of the Federation, be invited to preside.

The agreement to present a united slate was explained and confirmed by Messrs. Durocher and Gosselin to Mr. Barbeau at a luncheon prior to the General Meeting of March 3.

At the meeting Mr. Barbeau was constantly heckled by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Durocher and an organized group. He was unable to implement the decision of the "Honor Committee". Messrs. Gosselin and Durocher had evidently broken their word and had carried on a one-sided campaign of slurs and lies against the retiring executive. They, furthermore denied their word on the platform. This retiring executive, on the contrary, had kept their word, made no campaign, in the interest of the party, and had obtained the promised withdrawal of candidates, including Leon Tessier for president.

The meeting was declared out of order by Mr. Barbeau, who left. He was followed by the members of the retiring executive and their friends. The meeting was carried on in bad faith, without these members and in the presence of other Liberals who were unaware of the true situation.

A packed Legault-Durocher-Lagarde-Gosselin slate was elected without any control on the right to vote. Most of those elected did not work in the last election.

On Saturday, March 10, the Executive of the Quebec Liberal Federation met to consider the proceedings of this meeting and to hear the reports of Mr. Giguere and Mr. Barbeau. . . . The Federation did not recognize the meeting of March 3 in Lachute.

The Federation unanimously recommended the removal of Mr. Durocher as spokesman for the County in Quebec.

It is to be hoped that with the removal of Mr. Durocher, some unity can be restored to the Liberal party of the County.

DISTRICT NEWS

Brownsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mason of Madoc, Ont., were week-end guests of Mrs. Wesley Mason and other relatives in the community.

Bereaved

Sympathy is extended to relatives of the late Mr. Fred Townsend, who passed away last week. His funeral service took place Saturday at the chapel of the MacKimmie Funeral Home in Lachute; interment was in Ogdensburg Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Izzard left Tuesday for Florida, where they will spend the next few weeks.

The Maple Avenue Baptist Church Mission Circle meeting was held in the church Tuesday evening. Mrs. Barker gave the topic, and the hostesses were Mrs. M. E. Cowley and Mrs. N. E. Smillie.

W.I. Millinery Course

The Brownsburg W.I. sponsored a course in millinery last week, with Miss Janet McOuat, Q.W.I. technician, in charge. A large number of members and friends gathered each day, and when Friday evening came, over 30 hats were finished ready for the "Fashion Parade."

Miss McOuat was presented with a token of appreciation from the group by Mrs. Hector Mason, convener of Home Economics, Mrs. T. Zimmer, the president, presented Mrs. G. Elcus with a W.I. pin prior to her departure for Holland and other parts overseas, later this month.

Mr. and Mrs. P. MacAdam, Miss Frances Fletcher and Dr. Dale MacAdam spent Sunday with relatives in Pointe aux Trembles.

Day of Prayer

The World Day of Prayer, held in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church last Friday afternoon, was well attended; women from different denominations took part in the program. The choir sang "Fairest Lord Jesus". Mrs. C. E. Prosser gave an interesting address on the theme, "God's Love for the Whole World".

Appreciation

Miss Brenda Graham wishes to express sincere appreciation for gifts and cards received during her stay in hospital.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, In Memoriam, etc., $1.00; 5 cents per type line extra for verses with In Memoriam (estimate 8 words per type line).

BIRTH

McOUAT — To Mr. and Mrs. David Cameron McOuat (née Frederica Clayton) at the Memorial Hospital, Hollywood, Florida, on Feb. 20, 1962, a son, a brother to Maureen and Terri Lynn.

DEATHS

CRESWELL — In Montreal, March 9, 1962, Mary Amelia Crabb, in her 80th year, wife of the late George H. Creswell and beloved mother of Evelyn (Mrs. J. F. Findlay) of Montreal and Lloyd of Rosemere. Funeral held Monday, interment in Lachute.

RODGERS — Tuesday, March 13, at the Montreal Protestant Hospital, William F. Rodgers of Lachute, in his 71st year, beloved husband of Leona (Legault) Latreille. Funeral Friday, March 16, 2 p.m. from MacKimmie Funeral Home; interment at Lachute. (Remains resting at the MacKimmie parlors.)

IN MEMORIAM

CARRUTHERS — In loving memory of a dear father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. Carruthers, who passed away Dec. 18, 1950, and March 17, 1959, respectively. — Ever remembered by daughter, Mary, son-in-law, John, and grandchildren, Joan and Bobbie.

"Life is just like a day in June,
A beautiful dawn and promising noon,
It ripens to sunset's golden glow,
Then fades away as the sun rays go.
Each spans the gulf of a fleeing year,
A little laughter, a little tear —
It's only a pause by the magic pond
Till the grave marks the way to the Great Beyond."

LOGAN — In loving memory of dear Mother, who passed away March 18, 1953, and dear Dad, who passed away March 26, 1958. — Always remembered by their daughters, Jessie and Dorothy.

"Dear in our hearts the memory is kept,
Of the ones that we loved and will never forget."

LOGAN — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandma, who passed away March 18, 1953, and a dear dad and grandpa, who passed away March 26, 1958. — Always remembered by Grace, Fred and family.

"As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memory you are dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Every day throughout the year."

MOONEY — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and sister-in-law, Mrs. M. Mooney, who passed away March 17, 1956. — Always remembered by her husband, Michael, son, Jimmie, and sister-in-law, Agnes.

"Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death is a heartache no one can heal.
Some may forget you, now you are gone,
But we will remember, no matter how long."

MOONEY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Helen Mooney, who passed away March 17, 1956. — Remembered always by daughter, Eileen, son-in-law, Jim, and grandchildren, Sharon, Lynn and Gail.

"Just a memory, fond and true,
From those who thought the world of

IN MEMORIAM

NEILL — In loving memory of a wonderful dad, Henry, who passed away March 16, 1958. — Lovingly remembered by daughter, Joyce, and family.

"I do not need a special day
To bring you to my mind,
The day I do not think of you
Is impossible to find.
I learned with patient effort
To hide the tears that start,
But cannot help the longing
That lives within my heart.
If all the world were mine to give
I'd give it all and more,
To see your well-loved face once more
Come smiling through the door."

THOMAS — In loving memory of a dear brother, brother-in-law and uncle, Zotique, who passed away suddenly March 18, 1961. — Albert, Lila and family.

"You left us suddenly,
Your last thoughts unknown,
But you left us memories
We are proud to own,
We often think of happy days
When we were all together;
The family chain is broken now,
But memories live forever."

TOMALTY? BLAIR — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Robert Tomalty, who passed away March 3, 1956; and sister, Mrs. Norval W. Blair, who passed away March 13, 1960. — Loved and remembered, Alma, Gertrude and Edith.

"Our loved ones in the Homeland
Are awaiting us to come,
Where neither death nor sorrow
Invades their holy home;
Sweet music up in Heaven
Of rest and peace above —
Christ bring us all to the Homeland
Of Thy redeeming love!"

YOUNG — In loving memory of Edward C. Young, who passed away March 18, 1942. — Always remembered by Greta, John and family.

"Looking back in memory
Upon the path you trod,
We bless the years we had with you,
And leave the rest with God."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

CRESWELL — The family of the late Mrs. George H. Creswell wish to thank relatives and friends for flowers, cards and kindnesses extended during their recent bereavement.

Red Cross "work rooms"

The unselfish work of the Canadian Red Cross unites groups of women neighbors in local branches across the Province of Quebec, to make surgical dressings and clothes for disaster victims at home and abroad. The provincial financial campaign for the Red Cross will buy knitting wool and cloth for bandages and garments. Give generously so these women can continue their work for others!

Who Is Jehovah?

Since "there are many 'gods' and many 'lords'," the true God has a personal name to distinguish him from all other gods: "Thou alone, whose name is Jehovah, art the Most High over all the earth." And referring to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, God said to Moses: "But by my name Jehovah I was not known to them." Jesus made this name known to his followers: "I have made your name manifest to the men you gave me." Jehovah's witnesses today likewise make known Jehovah's name: "Ye are my witnesses, said Jehovah, and I am God." — Exodus 6:3; Psalm 83:18; Isaiah 43: 10-12; John 17:6; 1 Corinthians 8:5.

Jesus prayed, "Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name, may Thy kingdom come, and may Thy will be done on earth, just as it is done in heaven." . . . What was Jesus' Father's name? It was JEHOVAH.

Friends at funeral of former resident, late Mrs. Creswell

Following a comparatively short illness, a former well - known townslady, Mrs. George H. Creswell, passed away at a nursing home in Laurent, on Friday, March 9.

Born in Teeswater, Ont., the former Miss Mary Amelia Crabb came to Lachute as a young lady. She later married Mr. George Creswell, who predeceased her in 1955. Two children comprised their family — Evelyn (Mrs. J. F. Findlay), presently residing in Montreal, and Lloyd, of Rosemere. Also left in the immediate family to mourn her passing are two brothers, Stanley, of Cobourg, and George, of St. Catharines; five grandchildren; her son-in-law, Jack Findlay, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lloyd Creswell.

The funeral was held Monday from the MacKimmie Funeral Home, service being conducted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge of Lachute United Church, of which the late Mrs. Creswell was a member.

Pall-bearers were her three grandchildren, Ronald, David and Robert Findlay, and her son-in-law, Jack Findlay.

Dairy Queen re-opens store

Everyone can enjoy the "luck of the Irish", with a free sundae for Mom and Dad for each four leaf clover brought in to the Dairy Queen this week-end.

Yes, there's nothing quite so wonderful as the country-fresh taste of a Dairy Queen treat! I've missed 'em this winter. . . . But, Good News! Our Dairy Queen store on Brownsburg Road opens today! It'll be a real celebration! We'll be able to get all our favorites again — curly-top, creamy-smooth Dairy Queen cones — rich, thick Dairy Queen malts 'n shakes — and those big, delicious special Dairy Queen sundaes. And say, Albert Mady, the owner — you remember that friendly guy — he's so glad to reopen he's giving a free gift to every child that comes in with a grown-up; it's a surprise gift! I'm sure going to the Dairy Queen for this treat. How about you? Let's make it a big turnout. Show we're glad our Dairy Queen's open again. It'll be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. during March. Make it a date — see you today, at the D.Q.

Late Montreal Residents Associated Here

Mr. William Strachan, 76, a pioneer summer resident of Bevan Lake, Arundel, died last Friday in Montreal General Hospital. He had been active in Boy Scout and youth training work.

Another prominent Montrealer and leader in community ventures, Simon Greenspon, died this past week at the age of 58. He was a native of Hawkesbury and brother of Mr. Harry Greenspon, well known merchant of that town.

Miss Catherine Burwash, a former resident of Lachute, now of Whitby, Ont., was here Monday to attend the funeral of her aunt, the late Mrs. Geo. H. Creswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar O. Pollock and Miss Shirley Pollock left from Dorval Airport on Tuesday to spend a winter vacation in Fort Lauderdale. Florida-bound on the same flight were Mr. and and Mrs. Thos. Izzard, of Brownsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tomalty, Mr. and Mrs. Everett McGibbon and Mr. D. G. Simon motored to South Mountain, Ont., last Saturday to be present at the Armstrong Funeral Home there. Sympathy is extended to Mr. Oliver Keyes and family, also to Mr. Roy MacPhail, in the sudden passing of Mrs. Dinah Keyes, of South Mountain. The funeral took place on Sunday, and burial was at Brinston, Ont.

Canadian bi-culturism study for Commonwealth Conf'ce

Montreal — A distinguished scholar and businessman, Dr. Marcel Faribault of Montreal, will be principal speaker when the 300 members of the Duke of Edinburgh's Second Commonwealth Conference devote a half-day session in Montreal to a study of biculturalism in Canada.

Prince Philip, who is president of the Conference, will preside at the meeting at the University of Montreal on May 17. The members will examine aspects of Canadian biculturalism which relate to their basic theme, "the human consequences of the changing industrial environment". After Dr. Faribault has set the pattern the members will divide into special interest groups for discussions with French Canadians prominent in such fields as the law, the church, education, local and provincial government, management and labor, theatre, radio, television, and sociology. The meeting room will be equipped for simultaneous translation of French into English and English into French.

Marcel Faribault, B.A., LL.D., LL.L., D.C.L., is president of the General Trusts of Canada. He was Laureate of the Province of Quebec competition on moral and political sciences in 1936; authored a text, "Traité de la Fiducie dans la Province de Québec"; was fire commissioner of Montreal 1937-39; professor of notarial procedure, professor of financial legislation, and finally secretary general of the University of Montreal, and chairman of the Quebec insurance law revision in 1950.

The bicultural study will wind up the plenary session in Montreal, due to open on May 14. Twenty groups of members will leave Montreal May 17 for a week of intensive study of industrial communities throughout the Atlantic provinces, Quebec and Ontario.

Prize winning A&P customers

Card Table and Chairs — Mrs. R. Blais, 424 Foundry Street, Lachute.

Stutz Bearcat Car — Mrs. Hervé Pharand, Ayersville.

What's new?

Here are two new ideas for your profit and pleasure, from The Financial post:

Can-openers may soon be obsolete. A U.S. company has a machine that produces pull-off lids for cans — a gentle pull upward and outward on a metal tab takes the top off.

Bladeless Fan. — Revolving mesh cylinder replaces blades in multi-speed centrifugal fan being manufactured in Britain. When the cylinder revolves, air is thrown off radially by centrifugal force, then scooped out by the mesh strands which act as blades. It is said to be quieter than conventional fans and speed can be increased without increasing noise. Exit velocity is higher than fans with blades and "blow-back" is eliminated, says the manufacturer. Can be made to fit a square housing for walls or windows.

A HANDY EXTENSION SAVES WORRY AND HURRY!

Folks in Lachute are finding that an extension phone in the bedroom or kitchen saves many steps and adds convenience and security to the home.

Convenience in the kitchen . . .

When things are brewing in the kitchen . . . just keep stirring and reach for your nearby extension phone.

Convenience and privacy in the bedroom . . .

Those trips through the house to take calls are ended forever when a bedroom extension is a few steps away. And when calls are "personal" the bedroom is an ideal place to make them.

Added security . . .

It's comforting to know the telephone is an arm's length away at night . . . in case of sickness or other emergency.

Wall and table extensions are available in a wide range of colors to harmonize with the decor of your home. Why not call us today at ZEnith 60000? Ask us about extension telephones or speak to the man in our green truck.

STAND-BY POWER

Keeping your telephone ready to operate around the clock is one of our most important jobs. In our exchange building on Water Street, large stand-by batteries are kept fully charged ready for instant use. If disaster strikes at outside power sources, these batteries can provide electricity to keep your phone operating for several hours. In addition, we have stand-by generators that can provide electricity indefinitely, if necessary. This is just one of the ways telephone people here in Lachute plan ahead to keep your calls going through.

REFUGE IN A PHONE BOOTH

Many customers tell us how much they enjoy today's phone booths. Walk-up and drive-up phones make it convenient and pleasant for them to call. But a woman we heard about the other day is sure there's no substitute for the booth with "four walls". Walking down the street, two snarling dogs halted her progress. She leaped nimbly into a nearby booth, slammed the door and phoned the dog catcher to come around.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

The month of March

MARCH 17 is St. Patrick's Day and March 21 is, in theory if not in fact, the first day of spring. All this activity is to the accompaniment of weather that behaves alternately like a lion and a lamb. (This was the week for the lion!) Indeed, one anonymous wit remarked that the nicest thing about March was the fact it was followed by April.

Not everyone will agree with this observation. March is a buffer month, easing us gently from winter into spring. We can have our final fling at winter sports while rummaging around the basement for golf clubs and fishing tackle. Outside the ground may be covered with grey, limp-looking snow, but many an enjoyable evening can be spent poring over seed catalogues and travel folders.

It is not time to nag you yet about the debris around your premises. Time enough to "clean up, paint up" when the snow disappears to uncover the ungodly mess; and time to "plant up" when last year's ungarnered cabbages stand as mute testimony of your procrastination in the garden.

Right now we bid you just relax and ruminate, in the anticipations of spring's glories. . . . But watch for puddles when you're driving; don't splash pedestrians on the sidewalk.

Way back when —

YOU WOULD expect the very best equipment on a car at $3,000 — way back in 1908; acetylene headlamps, oil parking lights, rubber horn bulb, a door on the driving compartment, perhaps even a windshield. An Oldsmobile circular, printed around that era, lists some of the accessories which came with the two-cylinder, right-hand drive 1908 Model M. It was offered "with full lamp and tool equipment".

— Quite a contrast with the new models of the '60s, which come with 14 lights, a time-payment contract, and no tools worth mentioning.

It was on March 20, 1919, that radio telephony was established between Canada and Ireland. . . . In 42 years of progress, almost to the day, you can now hear and see the virtues of toilet soaps, razor blades, toothpastes, soft-drinks, cake mixes, deodorants, floor waxes, ball-points, cigarettes, dog foods, cat foods, breakfast foods (ad nauseam) extolled at any hour of the day or night.

It is even the privilege of many, at some time or other, to see Aunt Susie's first cousin appear in a dance act, an interview or a western drama. Such is progress.

NATIONAL HEALTH WEEK, MARCH 11-17 —

A new vision

NATIONAL HEALTH WEEK is being celebrated in Canada for the 18th consecutive year. It is probably the oldest annual publicity event in Canada; and it is the most widely supported Health Week in the world — which is to the credit of this country and the Health League of Canada.

There are those who find no fault with Annual Salad Week or an Annual Neck Tie Week, but who criticize Annual Health Week because they say we should consider health as an important objective not only during one week, but every week. True enough! But we don't. Most sick people shouldn't be sick; but they are. Most people who are overweight should be thin; but they're not. Most of the millions of people with defective and decayed teeth should have good teeth; but they haven't. A multitude of different ailments fill hospital beds and cut short the lives of people who should be, instead, contributing to the national economy because they are healthy.

It is logical that once a year people all over Canada, even in the most remote hamlet, should have the opportunity of learning that health is possible for everyone. And because all national agencies, church and school, radio, television, the press and service clubs cooperate — this is possible. It is possible because they all act at once in a concerted effort. During the rest of the year attention to health and its objective is casual and intermittent.

Perhaps thousands of citizens who learn something about health during National Health Week may become apostles of health themselves. So, the knowledge people gather about health in a single week will grow. And thus we may come closer to the day when the Canadian public will think of health insurance as the application of the principles of preventive medicine, to the end that they may be healthier and long-lived each year.

"The Canadian Medical Association commends the Health League of Canada for its sponsorship of National Health Week, and urges every citizen to pause and reflect on his part in the promotion of health," writes G. W. Halpenny, president of the Canadian Medical Association, in support of this campaign.

On the dance floors

THERE SEEMS to be nothing like a new dance craze to stir up a controversy and set the older folks wondering what the modern generation is coming to.

It happened years ago when the Black Bottom and the Charleston caught the public fancy and brought cries from some worried oldsters that these were contributing to immorality.

Later there were such dances as the Big Apple and the Lambeth Walk that confirmed some suspicions that the youth of any age may be a little nutty.

About the time of the Second World War along came jitterbugging and it was sharply criticized as a contributor to juvenile delinquency.

Today it's the twist, a dance that originated in an unkonwn little nightclub in New York called the Peppermint Lounge and which within a few months has spread around the world.

There are several things that distinguish the twist from some of its predecessors. For example, it is being danced by many wealthy and respected people as well as the youngsters.

One nightclub situated on The Main in Montreal, until recently a centre of vice, has cashed in on the twist and, in contrast to its formerly questionable clientele, is attracting members of some of the city's best families.

Another difference is that you really don't need a partner when you dance the twist. In fact, it's often difficult to pick out the partners when there are more than half a dozen persons twisting on an average-size dance floor.

There are the usual critics, however, including those who suggest the twist is just another sign of the decadence of the 1960's. Some medical authorities have warned middle-aged revellers to be wary lest they wrench their sacroiliac. And some schools have banned the dance because they regard it as of questionable taste.

But opponents of this latest craze might just as well save their energy. The twist will survive the criticism, just as almost every fad of the past, and will finally die a quiet death all by itself.

Of course, something else will come along to take its place and we'll be involved in the same old routine.

There's one consolation for the twist-fighters, however. It seems to have helped draw the curtain on rock 'n roll, and there are many who agree that this is some sort of blessing.

Wreck Canada and you wreck Quebec!

By Norman Thorburn — Specially Contributed

Not even in Quebec, where bilingualism has made more progress than in any other province, does everybody speak Canada's two official languages.

The French-Canadians are certainly more proficient in English than we are in French; yet I would say that not one French-Canadian in a hundred could pass for an English-Canadian. Yet, there are Canadian families where one brother speaks French better than English, and another brother speaks English better than French.

There are vast stretches in Quebec Province where hardly a word of English is spoken, outside the cities.

I met a man in Papineauville, once, whose name was Baker. He said he couldn't speak a word of English. Although he couldn't speak English he was born in England, and his mother lived there. He had been adopted by a French-Canadian family as a very young child. His foster-father wrote to his mother in England for him, translating into English what Mr. Baker had to say.

The French-Canadian radio stations blare out every day the American "Hit Parade" songs, in English, to thousands of eager French-Canadian listeners. Are these French-Canadians listening to these English songs for pleasure, or to learn English? I would say that 75% are listening merely for pleasure.

Some English-Canadian schools in Montreal are playing records of nursery songs in French, to the children of Grades 1 and 2. In listening to songs in another tongue, we learn the language, culture and spirit of that people.

The dual nature of Canada has been called "the cross" Canadians have to bear. By learning each other's language, we can indeed make that cross lighter to carry.

I have slept at French-Canadian firesides and dined at their tables a thousand times. I thought I knew and understood the French-Canadians.

But today, French-Canadian life is in turmoil; a great renaissance is going on among them — the old values are being contested — anti-clerical intellectuals are gaining a voice in public affairs. I must confess, I must orient my thinking once more.

Napoleon called the English "a nation of shopkeepers". Some French-Canadians regard Anglo-Saxon capitalists as cold-blooded pirates. No doubt, some of our financial tycoons could have shown Captain Kidd and Captain Henry Morgan a thing or two about parting a man from his doubloons and his pieces of eight.

But who has done more than the C.P.R., controlled by Anglo-Saxons, to preserve the French atmosphere in Canada? Who built the beautiful Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, and the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa?

A learned French-Canadian told me (and I agreed) that St. Louis Square, Lafontaine Park, a few old churches and street names, are about all that remind one of France in Montreal.

Some French-Canadians clamor for independence of Quebec. Why? They see independence given to Jamaica, British Guiana, and small countries in Africa. If the African negro can be independent, why not the French-Canadian?

It is a question, rather difficult to answer properly. What would Switzerland be like if it were divided into its German, French and Italian component parts; or Belgium, if it were divided into Flanders and Wallonia? . . . There are many bi-lingual, tri-lingual and multi-lingual nations in this world.

Certainly few English Canadians — and I think I can add, not many Americans — want to see the establishment of a unilingual French state in Quebec. . . . Why?

As long as France was powerful in America, the Americans huddled under the protecting wings of Mother England. Only after France was eliminated as a power in North America did the Americans clamor for independence.

Is Canada, herself, completely independent? I don't think so, with American bases on our soil; with Americans shouting at us when our foreign policy disturbs them! How then, can Canada grant complete independence to less than a third of her people?

The establishment of an independent French state in Quebec would divide Canada into three parts.

The resulting disunity, discord and "bouleversement", as they say in French, might easily provide the U.S.A. with an excuse to absorb Canada "in toto". How much better off would French-Canada be then? Look at the map. They would be locked in the jaws of the U.S.A.

Under the British flag, and in partnership with the English-Canadians, the French-Canadian population has increased 100-fold since 1760. In the U.S.A., by contrast, the French-language is dying out.

Nobody knows the French-Canadian better than the English-speaking Quebecer. When the French-Canadian is in a happy mood, he calls us "les anglais de par chez-nous" (the home-grown English).

The last words of the dying rebel, Louis Chénier, at St. Eustache, were not "Vive la république de Québec" or "Vive la république laurentienne." They were "Vive la nation canadienne." Chénier was a brave man, and he died fighting the superior forces of Sir John Colborne, the Waterloo veteran.

But when Dr. Wilfrid Nelson said to Louis - Joseph Papineau, just prior to the Battle of St. Denis, "Here is your sword, General," Papineau replied, "I am no soldier, Wilfrid, you must take charge. I didn't ask for fighting." Dr. Nelson, the renegade Englishman, replied, "The border is only 20 miles away."

Dr. Nelson prepared the defences of St. Denis well, and won for the French-Canadian "patriotes" their only victory. But several men whom Dr. Nelson had actually brought into the world, died there.

The French-Canadians have a saying, "la tête de Papineau" (the wisdom of Papineau). But when they speak of the brave Chénier they say "brave comme Chénier".

Even if Quebec does gain a quasi-independence, the English language will always be needed in Quebec, for trade with the rest of North America, and I venture to say that if every English-Canadian left Quebec, some French-Canadians here would keep on speaking English.

I want to disavow any partisanship in retelling this little anecdote about the late Wm. Lyon MacKenzie King, who had many enemies among his own people.

One happy faculty he possessed: For over a generation he held the affections of the French-Canadian people. They called him the "old grey fox".

Late in his life, we see him entering a Quebec hospital to visit his old friend and collaborator, Ernest Lapointe, who lies at the point of death. . . . MacKenzie King leans over the prostrate form of his dying lieutenant, hot tears streaming down his face, and kisses the fevered face of his friend, saying, "If it hadn't been for you, Ernest, I could never have done so much."

There has been a great deal of intermarriage among English and French - Canadians in Quebec. There is a road in Lotbinière County called the "rang des Ecossais". Almost all the names on the mail boxes are not French but Scotch, but not one of these people is English-speaking. A thousand descendants of Augustus Fraser, one of Wolfe's soldiers, assembled at the old homestead recently near Quebec. They are French-Canadians.

Love between the English and French elements here, is not understood by some people, but it been going on for over 200 years!

There are thousands of people with English, Scotch and Irish names among the French-Canadians. Names of almost all the Scottish clans, Robinson, Harvey, Hardy, an honorable British name, Lord, Blackburn, Murray, Warren, Collins, Kelly, O'Brien. O'Brien has sometimes been changed to Brien, Murray to Muré, and Collins to Collin. These are among the most common names from the British Isles one encounters among the French-Canadians.

In the year 1800 English-speaking people represented 25% of the Quebec population. Although our percentage of the population is not so great today, we still are an important segment of the people of Quebec. We deserve a few English place names in this province.

Love for all Canadians will preserve Canada for many, many years. Hatred will destroy our country.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"This man came to the door (she said) and announced that he had a gift for me.

"It was a little brass lamp. But he wasn't going to give me the lamp right away. First he had to arrange a demonstration. 'A demonstration of what?' I asked, but I never could get out of him what it was he was selling.

"He said it was so complicated that it took two people to understand it. A man and his wife both had to be present at the same time.

"He wanted to know when my husband would be coming home. I kept on trying to put him off, and learn just what it was he was selling. I understand it was some sort of thing for polishing floors, but I couldn't get him to say.

"He kept on trying to arrange an appointment for a time when both my husband and I were at home.

"When IS your husband home?" he asked, getting irritated.

"'As a matter of fact, I work nights and he works days,' I told him, 'so we never see one another.'

The salesman packed his case and went away shaking his head.

"I called to him out the window — "Hey, what about my gift?" Oh, he said, I was only supposed to get that if he gave a demonstration.

"'Look,' I told him, 'you have just wasted 15 minutes of my time, and I want something to show for it. The lamp, please.'

She conned him out of the lamp and sent him away without buying anything — a true Household Heroine.

LONG-RANGE BIRD

YOUR RED CROSS IS ALWAYS ON THE JOB

CHILDHOOD HABITS PERSIST THROUGH ONE'S LIFETIME

Instinct can sometimes be overrated, according to Don Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal's Lachute branch.

For instance, he says, many of the successful businessmen among his customers attribute their habit of regular saving to instinct, rather than to being taught the advantages of saving as children.

But it's much more likely, Mr. Hay believes, that their habit of regular saving was begun when very young, at the suggestion of far-sighted parents.

Either way, Mr. Hay says there's no doubt that the best time to learn the habit of regular saving is in childhood, and the younger the better. It's a simple lesson that gives youngsters a good start in life, and the knowledge that there's a savings account to fall back on in emergencies, is often a source of confidence to youngsters when they start out on their own.

A single dollar will start your child's savings account at the B of M. As Mr. Hay puts it: "It might be only a small beginning, but it's a fine way to help develop habits that will be mighty valuable in the future."

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY
COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The Sports and Entertainment Committee informs us that they have cancelled the Teen-Age "Cabaret Nite" scheduled for the 24th. This is temporary; the event will be re-scheduled at a later date.

Wednesday next, 21st, is the regular monthly meeting. Attendance drawing, won last month by Cde. H. Ward, starts again.

Bingo, Thursday, 22nd. These bingos have been well supported — by the townspeople. Let us see more Legionnaires out to the next one. Funds raised by these bingos are used solely for youth. At present it is the support of the four Legion-sponsored hockey teams.

Plans for branch curling are more or less finalized, and the date will be announced shortly.

This Saturday, its "hat's off to the Irish". Peculiar how often on this date the green adorns other than descendents from Erin's Emerald Isle! But the Irish do not mind — much. It is not race, color nor creed that counts, but the person himself and the contents of his heart. So it's a day of remembrance, a day of rejoicing and a day of partakement (especially Tullymora Dew).

We have had Valentine Day; St. Patrick's Day is upon us. Soon it will be Mother's Day and Father's Day, and Christmas has always been a special day for children. But this scheme of things leaves out grandparents, who are some of the most agreeable characters in the family of man.

It is a fine thing to see a wise old fellow explaining to a five-year-old why a kite flies, or how to fold a paper hat — or just to see the pair strolling down the sidewalk hand in hand. The companionship of someone with a lifetime of experience is a rich and happy asset to the world of a youngster.

Age brings a mellowness, a lack of hurry, that children find very comfortable. A little girl is often puzzled by the kind of life her parents lead. They rush from one thing to another and there is almost always something important to be done, so that the game, or the question, must wait until later. But a grandparent has learned, finally, that the day's affairs really aren't so urgent, and that trying to answer a child's riddle or help him untangle a piece of string, is, at least, as important and rewarding as rushing off to a meeting.

We aren't proposing a Grandparent's Day, there may even be such a day already — perhaps between National Asparagus Day and National Foot Health Day. . . . We just wish to pay them our respects and say they are nice people to have around.

Thought for the Day —

Over the past century the march of science has been insignificant compared with the strides we have made in foolishness.

If You're TIRED

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. 81

Funeral held for lifelong resident of Rockway Valley

The late George Williams

The death of George Washington Grant Williams, in his 78th year, occurred March 1 at the home of his niece, Mrs. Grace Keeble, in Ayer's Cliff, Que.

The late George Williams was the son of the late Thomas Williams and his wife Janet Calder. His home, all of his lifetime excepting the last two years, was on the family farm at Rockway Valley, Que. He was predeceased by his wife, Elizabeth, his brother, Thomas, and his sister, Margaret (Mrs. E. H. French).

Interment was in the family plot in the Anglican Cemetery at Rockway Valley, Que., on March 5.

Morin Heights United Church and the season of Lent

By the Rev. Wesley B. Ball

Morin Heights — During November last, the minister of this church began a series of lectures on vital Christian themes. The lectures were given to a class of young people preparing for Confirmation and Reception into the church. In Morin Heights, the class was held every second Sunday afternoon, and weekly in the Shawbridge United Church. The basis of the course was the Holy Bible, the Catechism and the Statement of Faith.

After being taught the subduty, a written examination on stance of Christian faith and the work was given consisting of 20 essay-type questions. Then on February 25 at the morning worship, the new members were accepted into the church. A number from this same class will be received at Easter.

Received into the church at Shawbridge were Peter Shaw, Herbert McFadden, Sheila Selby and Phylis Elder; and at Morin Heights, Dulcie Wood, Lynda Moss, Stephen Kilpatrick, Shirley Wood and Scott Campbell.

Commencing March 15, a Thursday, and continuing through Lent, the Morin Heights United Church will hold special mid-week Lenten services every Thursday evening at 7.30 p.m. The regular Bible Study meeting normally held on Thursday evenings will be resumed after Easter.

During the weeks to come the Christian Church enters with her Lord deeper and deeper into the shadows of human sin and sorrow. It is a time when many people talk of "giving something up for Lent," and these little self denials range from chewing gum to candy bars and the evenings spent at the theatre. We would urge you to "take something on" during these weeks. Put on the "whole armour of God." This is a time for penitence and a season for spiritual renewal. As we accompany the Man of Sorrows going to His Victory and Glory, let us ever remember that the Lord Jesus overcame sin and death for us and that we are invited to share His rich spiritual rewards. This is also a time when we remember that "Earth has no sorrows that Heaven cannot heal." At Calvary this Lenten season you have a decision to make: either to crown Him King and Lord of your Life or to shout with the hostile crowd "We have no King but Caesar." Upon the decision you make may depend your whole future. "I am He that liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore; and have the keys of hell and death." We may know that nothing in all creation, no, not even death, can separate us from that love of God which is demonstrated to the world in a special and unique way at this season.

I read a challenging story of two American tourists, a man and his wife, who were watching the Passion Play at Oberammergau when Anton Lang was playing the part of Christ. It is said they were moved deeply by the drama and the man wanted to have his picture taken holding the Cross of Christ. They went over to lift the Cross while his wife prepared to take the picture. But it was too heavy for him to lift and despite many attempts he was forced to give up. He said to the actor, "How do you ever lift the Cross? It is so heavy." Mr. Lang replied, "Unless I can feel the weight of the Cross I cannot play my part."

God forbid that we should forget in the midst of our earthly occupations and preoccupations, the anguish our Lord Jesus endured for our salvation. May we give ourselves to Him as freely as He gave to us.

The Cross, bold type of shame to homage turned,
Of an unfinished life that sways the world,
Shall tower as a sovereign emblem over all.
— James Russell Lowell

Morin Heights

Friends of Miss Heather McCullough, nurse-in-training at the Montreal General Hospital, were pleased to learn that she recently received her cap. Congratulations are extended and every good wish for the future.

Friends of Mrs. Ruby Campbell are sorry to note that she is a patient in hospital, having undergone surgery. Good wishes are expressed for her speedy recovery.

Ski Event

On Friday afternoon the annual Legion ski races were held at the Basler Ski Hill. This event was well attended, large numbers of the school children participating. The beautiful sunny weather was also a factor in helping to make the event a success.

Day of Prayer

On Friday afternoon the "World Day of Prayer" service was held in the Morin Heights United Church. Guest speaker was Mrs. Nino Gualtieri, of Ste. Adele, who gave a most interesting talk on missionary work. The service was conducted by the president of the United Church Women's Group, Mrs. Lyle Kilpatrick. Also assisting with the prayers were Mrs. Keith Seale, Mrs. Ralph Earle, Mrs. Wm. Doherty, Mrs. James Voce and Mrs. Gordon Conly.

Teachers' Conference

Last Wednesday afternoon the teaching staff of Morin Heights School attended the A.T.A. convention held in Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lacken left recently for a month's vacation in Florida and other United States points.

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Poetry is truth dwelling in beauty," wrote Gilfillan. Many persons consider the ability to create poetry or music or art a gift. Poets may be born, not made, but an appreciation of poetry can be encouraged by parents.

Does your child like poetry? Do you know his reaction to it? Is it just another lesson or is it something special, like beautiful music or a fine picture? Perhaps you have read a poem with your boy or girl so seldom that you don't know how your child regards this kind of literature.

Read it Aloud

John Masefield once said "Poetry was written to be said aloud." The summer holidays provide a wonderful opportunity to indulge in this pastime. On a hot afternoon, spread out a rug on the grass in the shade of a tree and adventure into the Land of Poetry. Or in the darkness around a campfire on the beach, or at bed time when it is too hot to sleep, why not read aloud a poem?

You likely have a number of books of poems in your home. There are many lovely illustrated collections of poetry selected especially for children. Ask your children's librarian to show you the poetry shelf. Find out some of the best-loved books of poetry for readers around your child's age. Perhaps you will want to buy one new book of poetry as a vacation book.

Don't forget the Bible, which is a library in itself of both stories and poems. Take time after breakfast Sunday morning to read one of the Psalms and rejoice like David did long ago in the handiwork of God in nature.

Read aloud lines which appeal to you or have your boy or girl choose a poem to read. Relax and enjoy the music of the words, the rhythm of the lines.

What is the poet trying to say? Do you agree with his emotions or his thoughts? What are some of the words he uses which are well-chosen, which seem to be just the right word in the right place?

Your child needs a love of poetry to help him grow into a fine person. So much of modern education is directed toward preparing boys and girls not to live, but to earn a living.

There is so little training of their minds and spirits to use their leisure time in a truly creative way.

A parent who loves beauty has a chance to kindle a love of poetry and of the other arts which add to the wonder of life.

This is a utilitarian age when the value of every vocation, even that of poets, is questioned. When T. S. Eliot, the British poet, was asked "What are poets good for?" he mentioned three ways in which they were useful; they can preserve beauty and integrity of the language, they can be entertaining and they can make readers aware, from time to time a little "more aware."

Our children may never become outstanding poets or leaders. But they will be happier, more mature adults if they have seen the unseen world through the eyes of the poet.

Creamy Salmon Curry is a simple main dish which can lend a touch of glamor to a meal. Served in true Indian style, it is accompanied by condiments. Some traditional ones are chutney, chopped pickle, chopped nuts, raisins and cocoanut.

A Lenten lure

An expertly seasoned sauce can enhance a food and often make it a gourmet's delight. This is especially true when the food is fish. Put together a smooth curry sauce and some fine Canadian canned salmon, serve over fluffy hot rice, and you have an unqualified mealtime success, in this country as well as in the Orient. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries have developed the following recipe for a delicious Creamy Salmon Curry. Though quick to make, the blend of flavours is superb.

Creamy Salmon Curry

1 Can (7½ ounces) salmon, 2 tablespoons butter or other fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon curry powder, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon ground ginger, 2 tablespoons minced onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup liquid (salmon liquid plus milk), ½ cup light cream, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 cups cooked rice.

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Break salmon into bite-size chunks. Heat butter; blend in flour, curry powder, sugar, ginger, minced onion, and salt. Slowly add mixed salmon liquid and milk, followed by cream. Cook and stir over low heat until sauce is smooth and thickened. Do not allow sauce to boil. Add salmon and lemon rind; heat. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 4 servings.

French Omelet, supper fit for a gourmet

An omelet, tossed green salad and crusty rolls provide a supper fit for a gourmet.

The Poultry Products Institute of Canada gives the following directions for preparing a French Omelet. This is not the so-called Fluffy or Puffy omelet which so often falls flat before it reaches the table. This is a quick professional method and three 2-egg omelets may be made in succession as quickly as one six-egg omelet.

For each omelet allow two large eggs and one tablespoon of water, fruit or tomato juice per egg. A good dash of salt, few grains of pepper, a generous dash of paprika and sufficient butter to grease the omelet pan thoroughly. You get best results making individual omelets rather than one large one. However, all the eggs and water may be beaten together at one time.

The ideal is to have a heavy small frying pan (6" or 7" in diameter) which is kept for omelets and scrambled eggs only. It is only rubbed out between uses with paper towelling and lots of salt. Once it has been thoroughly seasoned you should never have trouble with the eggs sticking. To season a frying pan, rub it generously with unsalted fat and heat for an hour or longer in a slow oven or leave it overnight on a warm radiator. If a heavy general-use frying pan is being used for cooking omelets, scour it out with salt only (use no water) before using it for cooking eggs.

Heat a generous dollop of butter in pan, sprinkle in salt, pepper and paprika. Be sure bottom and sides of pan are well buttered. Beat eggs and water until just mixed but not frothy. Test pan with a drop of water. If drop sizzles at once, the pan is hot enough. Pour in equivalent of two eggs mixed with the water. Holding handle of pan in left hand, shake back and forth over high heat and with a fork in the right hand (back of tines next to pan) stir the eggs constantly. When mixture is just set (this takes only a minute) but still slightly moist, spread mixture flat in pan. Hold pan still for a second to brown bottom of eggs, then shifting hand on the handle so that it lies on the palm of the left hand pointing to the left between thumb and first finger, tilt pan and with the aid of the fork, roll omelet toward the side of the pan opposite handle and turn out onto hot plate. If more than one omelet is being prepared, let stand in warm oven until all are ready to serve.

If filled omelets are desired, add filling just before rolling. Use grated cheese, chopped nuts, ground cooked ham, chicken livers or poultry meat and any desired seasonings. Jellies or jams may be used for a sweet omelet.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fish fillets and steaks involve little waste and are an excellent supply of proteins. Fish and shellfish also provide economy and variety for good family meals. Home economists with the federal fisheries department offer these hints on buying fish:

When buying fresh whole or dressed fish look for the fresh characteristic odor or no odor; bright clear eyes; bright red gills; bright characteristic sheen on scales; tightly adhering scales; firm or rigid body, firm elastic flesh that does not separate easily from the bones or retain imprint of fingers when handled.

Fresh fillets and steaks should have a fresh-cut appearance with no trace of browning or drying out of the flesh.

Look for solidly-frozen packages when purchasing frozen fish.

Other characteristics to watch for are wrapping materials that are moisture and vapor-proof; tightly-wrapped packages in good condition with little or no air space between fish and package; firm, glossy flesh with no evidence of drying out; no discoloration or fading of flesh; no parched white areas indicating freezer burn; absence of frost and ice crystals when package is opened; unwrapped fish covered with a glaze of ice to prevent dehydration.

When purchasing live lobsters and crabs look for liveliness and movement of the legs.

Live oysters and clams should have tightly-closed and regular-shaped shells.

Storage Important

Fish is extremely perishable and should be used as soon as possible.

After fish is purchased, it should be wiped with a clean, damp cloth, wrapped in waxed paper and stored in a cold place. Frozen fish should be kept solidly frozen. Don't keep fat fish longer than two months or lean fish longer than three months.

It is necessary to thaw fish for frying and stuffing and this is best done at refrigerator temperatures. Once thawed, it should be cooked as soon as possible and should not be refrozen.

Inspected fish is stamped with a maple leaf. Fresh fish is marked with the words "Processed under Government Supervision" and frozen fish is marked "Canada Inspected." The words are written within the maple leaf.

Foster-Family

When a small group of sorority members in Montreal voted to become foster-parents to a six-year-old orphan in Korea, they didn't dream they would become "sisters" to no fewer than 60 teen-agers!

With a membership of only 15, the Nu Phi Mu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi now finds itself outnumbered four to one by its protegées at the Soel City Girls' Home.

"It all started when we wrote to CARE in Ottawa asking to 'adopt' a Korean orphan, preferably a girl aged six," said Chapter president Diane Edgar. "We received a name and wrote the kind of letter people write to a six-year-old. It turned out our correspondent was a 60-year-old woman, director of a home for teen-aged girls from broken homes. Next thing we knew we had adopted 60 girls."

What's new?

Here are two new ideas for your profit and pleasure, from The Financial post:

Faster and cheaper laundry services are predicted with a new machine that washes, rinses, dries and irons flatwork pieces in one automatic operation. It does the complete job and delivers the finished clothes on a conveyor belt in a matter of seconds, says the manufacturer. Production rate is 10 to 15 times faster than standard laundry equipment and costs 30% less, it's claimed.

For Reading in the Rain. — High-grade printing paper now being produced in Switzerland won't become distorted or weakened when it's damp, says the manufacturer. Made from synthetic organic fibres, it is designed for production of maps and drawings that are used out of doors and may get wet. Can be folded without cracking, it's said.

A heart-to-heart talk in National Health Week

Toronto — There are more than 1,400,000 Canadians suffering from some sort of heart disease. More than 350,000 of these are seriously disabled. The Ontario Heart Foundation calculates the total annual economic loss due to heart disease in Canada at over $80 million.

Research to combat this disease gained important new knowledge towards understanding many of the factors that contribute to heart and blood vessel diseases in 1961.

With high-speed photography and a new technique for introducing X-ray-opaque dye directly into the coronary arteries that supply the heart muscle, scientists are now able to take split-second movies of the blood flow through the arteries. The films pinpoint disease areas, opening the way for more specific forms of treatment.

Blood vessel surgery using a microscope holds promise that one day the coronary arteries and their small branches may be successfully replaced or repaired.

Surgeons have developed new techniques for repairing or replacing weakened or obstructed arteries with patches and grafts made of dacron and other synthetics.

New drugs that dissolve clots within blood vessels are being tested in the hope of combating strokes, heart attacks and other disorders caused by abnormal clot formation.

Heart research has already provided the knowledge needed to reduce recurrences of heart attacks, prevent rheumatic fever, control most cases of high blood pressure, repair damaged heart valves, correct congenital defects through heart surgery, develop heart-lung machines and perfect drugs which retard blood clotting.

The current annual death toll from heart ailments in Canada is 69,878 — almost as many as all other diseases put together. National Health Week, March 11-17, is the time to remember the hundreds of Canadians working daily for the future health of all Canadians. It is also the time to reorganize your family's health program and resolve to take all the preventive measures to guard health all year round.

Net proceeds will be used to intensify this year's program of "Conservation through Education."

Roadside stand to multi-million industry

Is there a place for roadside stands to sell specialty packs of preserves to tourists in fruit and vegetable districts?

F. E. Atkinson of the Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Summerland, B.C., thinks that the Okanagan Valley is one such place.

Atkinson suggests a start can be made with special pickles and with jams and syrups from such small fruits as black currant, raspberries and strawberries. The syrups make tasty sauces for hotcakes, waffles and ice cream, and are also delicious for mixing with milk.

Quantity can be small at first and expanded if demand increases. Sale of loganberry pies, he observed, began at a roadside stand near Los Angeles and is now a multi-million dollar industry.

Agr. scientists seek source of flavors

There's a difference between the flavor of apple juice and that of the cider made from it, but research hasn't so far uncovered the source of this difference.

And it's not for want of trying. So far, 17 flavor components of cider have been identified and isolated at the Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Summerland, B.C.

Reports Summerland's Dr. J. S. Matthews: Many of the chemical reactions responsible for flavor are not known and a knowledge of them could be important to the beverage and food industries.

For instance, wines have been studied from this aspect and microbiologists consider that particular strains of yeast are responsible for the distinctive flavor of some wines.

At Summerland, research is aimed at untangling the part that yeasts have in producing the cider flavor. Yeast cells convert the sugars in the juice to alcohol but numerous other reactions are involved in converting the flavor components of the juice to cider flavors. How minute these components are can be gauged from Dr. Matthews' statement that the yield of one flavor component in 200 gallons of cider was less than one eighth of a drop.

Junior Red Cross extends helping hand in many ways

"The main problem faced in my school and community is 'How to get people interested in the Red Cross'!" reported Monique Julien on her return to Shawinigan after attending a Junior Red Cross Conference in Montreal.

"I think these people do not realize that by helping the Red Cross they are helping to save lives in their own and other countries, and who is so hard-hearted, so inhuman, that they can't be bothered to give a helping hand?" wrote the 'teen-age Shawinigan girl.

"I feel it is my duty to enlighten these people, for I'm sure that it they realize how the Red Cross needs their help, they would be willing to give it," she concluded.

There are about 111,000 members of the Junior Red Cross in Quebec Province, of which some 30,000 are high school students, who raised $12,018 from the sale of calendars, $587.43 from the sale of used stamps, and $33.90 in cereal box tops.

The Junior Red Cross largely sponsored the camp for diabetic children near Magog, with a grant of $3,000. They also granted $2,000 to the speech therapy clinic at the Montreal Children's Hospital, and helped with additional services during the seven weeks of camp for crippled children at Ayer's Cliff.

The Junior Red Cross in Quebec also adopted 32 elementary schools in Greece and shipped school and first-aid supplies to 27 schools in Crete.

"Volunteens" help out two afternoons a week at the Montreal Children's Hospital and similar institutions, as well as visiting handicapped children in their homes.

Quebec Juniors are also occupied with the "self help" gardening projects amongst the children of Sierra Leone and the Sudan to increase food production.

Springtime and parasitic diseases of livestock

Parasitoses are diseases or disorders caused by parasitic animals or plants. In addition to being a serious menace to the human population, they are the cause of heavy financial losses every year and therefore, from the standpoint of veterinary medicine, their importance is very great.

Except in the case of a few congenital infections, it is during their own lifetime that animals become infected, through the agency of contaminated water or feed, or through the air, or by contact with "carrier" animals or other "vector agents".

Although treatment of these maladies usually proves effective, losses attributable to them will be greatly reduced by preventive measures. Particularly as regards dairy cattle, springtime is one of the most favorable seasons to apply these preventive measures, which are largely based on the rules of hygiene.

The places where the animals are kept should be cleaned out and disinfected. Steps should be taken to protect livestock from the bites and stings of insects, for example, by draining marshy grasslands. The disinfection of pastures with copper sulphate or other treatments is usually a very effective preventive measure, as is also a well-planned system of pasture rotation.

Only in rare cases does vaccination or previous infection confer immunity to parasitic diseases. On the other hand, preventive medication sometimes enables the animal to withstand the invasion of certain parasites successfully.

As regards the treatment of parasitoses, writes Dr. Jean Pierard, of Quebec Department of Agriculture, great discretion should be observed with respect to the doses of medicines used for their cure, since most of these are poisonous to livestock.

Report higher Automobile sales

Oshawa — Sales of GM cars and trucks for the first five months of the 1962 model year are now 13 per cent ahead of last year and have established an all-time record for the period, General Motors of Canada reported.

In spite of unusually severe weather conditions in many parts of Canada last month, the company sold 19,457 cars and trucks in February — 1,500 more than in February 1961. GM's sales for the model year to date (October to February) are 96,176 compared to 85,127 in the same months a year ago.

Care of feet

The folowing rules for better foot health are listed by the American Podiatry Association:

1. Watch growing feet. Replace shoe with a larger size as soon as indicated.

2. Teach children to toe straight ahead when walking. Toeing out weakens ankles.

3. Discard short stockings that crowd growing feet.

4. Bathe feet daily in warm water, brushing the toe nails.

5. Cut toe-nails straight across, even with the end of the toes.

6. Never cut corns or calluses.

7. Keep the heels of shoes straight.

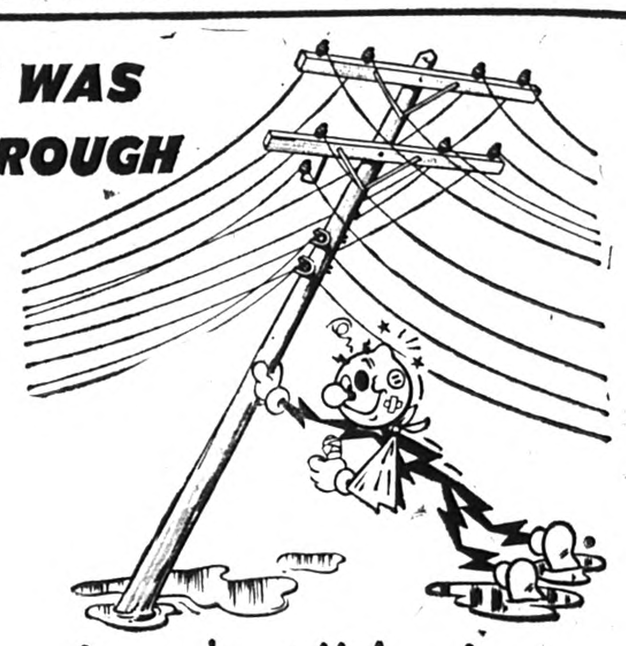

8. Provide a good nutritional diet. Feet need the right food to grow properly.

9. Practice daily hygiene to guard against athlete's foot. Once the disease is contracted, do not attempt treatment without professional advice; the dangers of infection are too great.

10. Seek professional care as early as possible for knock knees, bow legs or pigeon toes. These defects may be the results of faulty feet. Many such conditions can be corrected readily if proper care is given in the beginning stages.

11. Have children's feet, and your own, examined at regular intervals by a podiatrist-chiropodist (your foot doctor) or your family doctor.

Time to think of fertilizers

It's time to start thinking about farm fertilizer requirements for the coming season. At this time of the year fertilizer companies offer discounts to farmers who take advantage of early delivery. A farmer's fertilizer requirements can be delivered very fast at this time of the year as companies are not too busy. If orders are put off until the spring several things can delay delivery. The fertilizer company may not be able to make immediate deliveries because of the number of orders and half loads come into effect during the spring break-up. To get added savings concentrates should be bought, as it cuts down the cost of transportation.

Farmers are advised not to take the chance of being delayed on their spring work, because they failed to place their orders early.

The Quebec Department of Agriculture has announced that the subsidy on fertilizers will be maintained again this year.

Services of a school nurse urged at Home-School meet

Board member and physician heard as speaker on current health need

Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, in his dual role as school doctor for Lachute High School and member of the Protestant School Board, made a plea for a school nurse for this area — in a talk he gave to the March meeting of the Lachute and District Home and School Association. There were several members of the Brownsburg Home and School Association present, who also were interested in what Dr. MacKimmie had to say about a school nurse.

Dr. MacKimmie outlined the requirements for a school nurse, as follows:

(1) Must be an R.N. (2) Must be approved by the Board. (3) Protestant. (4) Be able to drive a car. (5) Less than 40 years of age, and be preferably single.

Dr. MacKimmie said that the Board has found the last two requirements the hardest to meet, but they are hoping to have many persons apply, as a school nurse would be of considerable help to the school.

The cost of a school nurse would be met by a government grant if there are 1,200 pupils to whom she gives service. The grant would cover the nurse's salary, car expenses, and medications. The nurse's duties would include recording vaccinations, heights and weights, checking eyes, ears and teeth, checking for infectious diseases, cleanliness in dress and person, carrying out first-aid and follow-ups, and teaching general health (not as a classroom instructor).

There has been a school nurse in this area, though not in the last five years, and Dr. MacKimmie remarked that there has been a noticeable downward trend in teeth care because there have been no periodic nurse's check-ups.

In the matter of the 1,200 pupils, it was suggested that the combined areas of Brownsburg, Grenville and Lachute would have nearly 1,200 Protestant pupils to make up the total, and these three schools would share the services of the nurse.

Dr. MacKimmie spoke also on school cleanliness, which comes under his jurisdiction as school doctor and as a school board member. The total cost of keeping the school scrubbed and clean amounts to about $12,000 annually, which amount, most parents will agree, is well spent, as the school now is exceedingly well kept and no parent would want it otherwise.

Dr. J. C. MacKimmie

Mr. A. G. McOuat, as chairman of the Nominating Committee, proposed a slate of members, which was voted on and accepted. These members are — Mrs. F. Jeffery, Mrs. J. Thorpe, Mrs. B. Jenkins, and Mr. E. Gow; they will propose a new executive for the 1962-63 session of the Home and School at the next meeting on April 11. In other years the Nominating Committee has had a difficult job filling out the various positions of the Executive, and it is discouraging that this situation should be. The Home and School Association has served a useful purpose in this area and is a worthwhile organization. To help the Association to help the school and its staff, any parent who is at all interested in his or her child's education and welfare at school, should feel it a duty to support the Association, either by accepting a position of responsibility or at least attending the meetings as a member.

The "scholarship whist" will be held May 16 in the High School auditorium, and tickets may be obtained from any member of the Executive.

Congratulations !

Congratulations this week to our contemporary, "L'Argenteuil", which celebrates its 10th anniversary with a special edition.

Founded by Giles Publishing House, aided by the Chambre de Commerce, cradled by Conrad Langlois as initial editor, and now piloted by Editor Fernand Berthiaume with a youthful zeal well balanced by good judgment — "L'Argenteuil" has well justified itself as a news medium and mouthpiece of our French-language citizens. Mr. Langlois has advanced to editorial work in a wider field, while the present editor continues to foster the prestige of "L'Argenteuil", building circulation here at home, and winning national awards among the French-language journals.

To our congratulations we add good wishes for continued progress.

This notable milestone coincides with the 65th anniversary of Mr. J. S. Giles' proprietorship of The Watchman Press, dating back to March, 1897.

Worker killed instantly in tree-clearing mishap

Antonin Claveau, a 23-year-old native of Rimouski, was instantly killed on Wednesday morning of last week when struck by a falling tree while clearing a section of the north shore of the Ottawa River near Calumet.

The victim was working with his brother, Roger, who cut the tree seconds earlier. A branch of the falling tree struck Antonin and killed him instantly. The brothers were employed by a sub-contractor for the Gatineau Power Company.

Dr. G. R. Bowes, of Grenville, was called to the scene and pronounced the victim dead. The accident occurred around 3 p.m.

Joint district coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie declared the death accidental and stated no inquest would be held — according to Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, officer in charge of the local Q.P.P. detachment, who investigated the fatality.

The victim, who had only commenced work at the project on the day of his death, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Claveau, of St. Francois Xavier de Rimouski, four brothers and five sisters.

10th Anniversary of 'L'Argenteuil'

FERNAND BERTHIAUME, editor and helmsman of "L'Argenteuil", French-language contemporary of this newspaper, who is sparkplug of a 10th birthday issue this week and a celebration at the Cinema Lachute on Thursday evening.

Trout season opens April 18

Opening of the trout season in Quebec Province is announced for April 18.

The minister of Game and Fisheries, the Hon. Gérard D. Lévesque, announces distribution of 325,000 booklets this year on 1962 Fishing Regulations, and recommends that all fishermen should familiarize themselves with changes and amendments to last year's regulations. The new editions will be available from all fish and game officers and from license issuers.

Ontario and Quebec authorities have agreed on the same dates and bag limits for the more prolific fish species in the Ottawa River.

Canal employees dismissed

The Federal Department of Transport has latterly given notice to nine of the Carillon-Grenville Canal employees, whose services are no longer needed since only one lock will be operating for navigation, in place of the previous series of canals. Seniority is the basis in retaining necessary staff. Those laid off are employees with 14 years service or under, regardless of marital status or dependants.

Red Cross 'blitz' on April 2; canvassers, organizers listed

Plans are well advanced for the Lachute district Red Cross appeal — aiming at a target of $4,000 in the Quebec Provincial objective of $1,350,000.

March is Red Cross Month. Newspaper publicity has emphasized the scope of activity, and the financial needs, of the Red Cross. Businessmen are sponsoring advertisements, locally, to alert citizens to their responsibility, and the Lachute co-chairmen, Howard Morrison and Gaetan Leclair, have announced Monday, April 2, as "blitz night" for the door-to-door canvass.

Committee Room

In connection with the approaching appeal, all district captains are asked to contact the Campaign Chairmen in the campaign committee room — Room No. 3, Saulnier Building (above Beaton's Drug Store). This office will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 21-22-23. At this time, the captains will receive all necessary material for the drive. Any captains finding it impossible to call at the committee room, are asked to contact Howard Morrison or Gaetan Leclair, co-chairmen, who will gladly deliver the forms, literature and material.

It is hoped all canvassers and captains will get in touch with the committee rooms to discuss plans for the "blitz", which will be held on the evening of April 2, commencing at 6.30.

Services Involved

Some of the many services for which funds are needed by the Red Cross, are — Free Blood Transfusions; Outpost Nursing Stations; Services to Veterans; Disaster Service; Instructional Services; National and International Work.

It is also stressed that, in order to maintain the Free Blood Transfusion service, during 1962 Quebec must collect 250,000 bottles of blood. This is a fact to remember when the blood donor clinics are held in Lachute, Brownsburg and district centres.

District Captains (Town) —

Operation on injured eye

Concerning young Jeffrey Arnold, Jr., of Grenville, whose eye was injured by a skate while playing hockey, the Hawkesbury Echo reported last week as follows:

Surgeons at the Royal Victoria Hospital declared that certain muscles of the eye had been damaged but that young Arnold would probably see again with his right eye inside of a year. However, he will have to do certain exercises that will help bring back his vision. . . . The operation on the boy's eye lasted two hours.

Young Jeffrey, 11, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Arnold of Grenville.

"Over Ninety" Birthday Club

Lady resident at 100th milestone

Mme Alphonse Gosselin, who resides with her daughter Mme Ernest Lavigne at 520 Grace Street, is 100 years old on Thursday, March 22. . . . She thus joins the highly exclusive centenarian ranks, of which Mme Alfred Deslauriers (102) is the only other celebrity in Lachute.

A special mass in honor of Mme Gosselin will be chanted by the parish priest, Canon C. W. Lacourse, Thursday at 10 a.m., at the home.

On the following Sunday five generations of her descendants will gather to greet the distinguished lady in a family reunion, and to offer gifts and good wishes.

Mme Gosselin (the former Emelie Séguin of Papineauville) is reported to be keener and more active than on her 99th birthday last year; at that time she was confined to bed. Now, however, she is walking around the house, reading, helping with the dishes and lighter household chores. She can read only a little — her sight and hearing are somewhat impaired.

Instrumental trio applauded at community concert

At the season's concluding event of the Community Concerts Association last week — despite snow-drifted highways there was a good audience present to hear the Max Jaffa Trio of instrumentalists at Lachute High School.

General approval was heard, on both the quality and the appeal of the program. Max Jaffa, leader of the trio, proved an apt raconteur, to set the group at ease with their listeners. The musicians had spent seven hours on the road from their last stop-over, no farther distant than Cornwall, Ont., and they were destined next day to perform at Riviere du Loup, travelling this time by plane.

Following the concert, an informal reception was held and refreshments were served by ladies of the Catholic Women's League. During this time many of the concert-goers enjoyed conversing with the visiting artists, an English group currently on their first American and Canadian tour.

A number of subscribers were re-enrolled for the coming year. The annual membership campaign for Community Concerts is scheduled for May 14-19.

Attends course in livestock

James Brass of R.R. 1, Montebello, Que., enrolled recently as a student in the Graham School for Cattlemen (Beef & Dairy), at Garnett, Kansas, for a week of intensive training in artificial insemination of cattle and in herd management.

James Brass, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brass, Hill Foot, returned from the course last week.

Contracts for clearing of land, Hawkesbury up-river to Ottawa

Contracts have been awarded for clearing the Ontario shore of the Ottawa River between Hawkesbury and Ottawa in preparation for flooding by the Carillon power development.

Ontario Hydro announced that the award was split between two companies — Bertrand & Frère Construction Co. Ltd., with Charles Castonguay, of L'Orignal; and Hugh M. Grant Ltd., of Ottawa.

Total cost of the job will exceed $200,000. The job involves tree cutting and the removal and disposal of existing fences and other materials on sections of the land.

Harry Hustler, Hydro's director of property, said the L'Orignal company will work on the sections nearest to Hawkesbury and the Ottawa firm will work upstream. The contract calls for the clearing to be completed by mid-July.

March meeting of Red Cross, Lachute Unit

The monthly meeting of the Canadian Red Cross, Lachute Branch, was held in the United Church hall on Wednesday, March 7. Mrs. Gordon McOuat, the president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. F. Legault, who along with Mrs. McOuat had attended the 52nd annual meeting of the Quebec Divisional Council of the Canadian Red Cross in Montreal, gave her report.

The delegates attended sessions on Blood Transfusion Service, Disaster Service, Campaign and Publicity, Blood Clinic, Women's Work Committee and Water Safety. They also attended the annual meeting and the official luncheon.

There is still an immense need in the province for blood, as all hospitals are now furnished with blood from the Red Cross. The Red Cross estimates that, from the time the donor walks into the Blood Donor Clinic until the bottle containing his blood is delivered to a hospital, the average cost for the Red Cross is between $6 and $7 per bottle.

Next to the Blood Transfusion Service, Disaster Services cost the Red Cross the most money.

The Women's Work Committee were again complimented on their good work. As well as clothing, knitted goods and quilts, this committee makes swabs and other blood donor supplies.

Mrs. F. C. Morrison, chairman of the Women's Work Committee in Lachute, reported another shipment sent to Red Cross Headquarters on February 21, as follows:

1540 Swabs (for Blood Transfusion Service), 161 diapers, 3 prs. children's socks, 1 pr. men's socks, 2 baby sweaters, 2 prs. baby bootees, 30 prs. shorts (6 yrs.), 4 quilts (2 crib; 2 large), 9 sweaters (children's), 20 pyjamas (8 yrs.), 10 combinations (4 yrs.), 30 knickers (8 yrs.).

The members were reminded of the annual Red Cross fund campaign, from March 24 to April 7 — the "blitz" day being April 2.

Albino porcupine makes rare pet

Rare in the animal world, an albino porcupine is believed to occur in the ratio of 1 to 50,000. Mr. Donald McCabe, of Rivington, County of Argenteuil, found this one last summer and has since made a pet of it.

Sixteen inches long and weighing seven pounds, it has white fur and pink eyes. The fur is similar to wiry wool. The quills are not visible except on the back and tail. When they come out, it is usually because they have caught on something with a pile. When annoyed or impatient, it will nip with its yellow-orange, chisel-like teeth. When frightened it will use its tail, run to a corner, or disappear into the nearest hiding place. The animal will be a year old this spring.

This porcupine likes to bed down in hay in a nail keg. When hungry it comes out and talks in a series of diesel-like grunts. Its diet is simple, consisting mostly of hemlock. It enjoys climbing up into the branches, cutting off a supply for lunch, and then climbing down and eating the twigs at leisure. It manipulates these expertly with its hand-like front paws, sitting up to eat. It is fond of green clover in summer, fancies lettuce and cabbage cores for green fodder in winter, and likes some salt. It requires very little water.

The porcupine is easily handled and seems to enjoy being taken up on Mr. McCabe's knee. Since it rarely has reason to worry about danger, it makes an interesting, if somewhat independent pet.

Street servicing and barking dogs Council problems at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — One of the strange things that comes to light when examining the administration of the Village of Brownsburg, is that a number of well-known and completely built-up streets are not owned by the town! Such a street is Park Avenue, from Oak Street to Mountain. Though this area has been inhabited for many years and is serviced by town sewerage and water, and has a paved road, which is plowed in winter and maintained in summer by the town, technically it remains the property of Mr. T. P. Hall.

Situations like this tend to halt the forward progress of the town. This was made evident at the March session of Brownsburg Council when a local contractor submitted a request to have the Park Avenue sewerage and water system extended to cover a new area in which he proposed to build six houses. Council could not comply with the request for two reasons — first of all, the sewerage system cannot be extended because the town does not own the street on which the present system is installed; secondly, there is no money available. To get money to extend the system, the town must take over the street, and this cannot be done unless the move is authorized by the provincial government. If the street does not meet minimum requirements it will not be accepted by the government. The solution — the contractor hopes to install the sewerage system himself. . . . Not too difficult for a contractor able to afford the cost; but what happens to the individual who wants to build a single home?

Another thorny problem confronting the councillors was that concerned with barking dogs. A justifiable complaint from a local resident could not be acted upon, though he reported that dogs in the area of his home often caused disturbances during the night. Regulations concerning conduct of dogs are either too loose or non-existent, and consequently citizens are at the mercy of the night howlers. Humans, who rule themselves, and who though they know better cause disturbances during the night, can be stopped by legal means. Dumb animals, supposedly ruled by humans, cannot be stopped. . . . It's a strange world!

Another citizen asked that Council get the radar speed-timer "out of mothballs" in order to stop the speeding on Main Street. Council agreed quickly enough, so it remains now for Chief Boutet to take action. However, the Chief's comments regarding an ageing car may serve to indicate that he does not have too much confidence in his ability to stop offending drivers if he has to use his car. With the range of the radar system used, it is difficult to see why a driver must be chased in order to make him stop. . . . Regardless, with the abundance of snow reducing or eliminating walking space for pedestrians on the sidewalks, it becomes all the more important for drivers to adhere to the speed limit.

Would make park of Hawkesbury's Chenail Island

Hawkesbury — Harry Hustler, director of properties for Ontario Hydro, told the Hawkesbury municipal council that the organization which he represents seems in favor of making a park on Chenail Island (The Snye).

Council wanted to know if Ontario Hydro would be disposed to give the land to the Town of Hawkesbury to make a municipal park. Mr. Hustler replied that Hawkesbury would have every advantage in working towards the establishment of a provincial park which would not cost a cent to the municipality. "When the time comes to undertake negotiations towards that," said Mr. Hustler, "we (Ontario Hydro) will back you up in your attempt."

The spokesman for Ontario Hydro said that the building that served as office for the companies that operated the Chenail mill in the past, will be preserved and restored so as to make an information or a tourist bureau, if ever the Chenail were made into a park.

St. Patrick's parade was bigger and better

The St. Patrick's Day parade, last Saturday in Lachute, was a bigger and better affair which attracted keen public interest. To the usual density of traffic on a Saturday afternoon were added the cars of numerous spectators who flocked to Main Street to enter into the spirit of the occasion.

Advance publicity was given by loudspeakers on a Molsons "special events" van, kindly brought here by Leonard Bedard, distributor. From this truck the favorite Irish airs had been broadcast all morning on the busy Main Street.

Starting in the neighborhood of Francis Street, and finally disbanding at the Auditorium, the parade, escorted by Police Chief J. L. Hebert, featured the following participants:

The mayor and aldermen; drum and bugle band from St. Patrick's College, Ottawa; 131st Battery R.C.A. led by Capt. Wm. Butterfield; Highland Cadet Unit, led by Lt. Robt. Haydon; mobile field gun unit; western ponies; a pony cart from Younkie Farm; girl riders on ponies from Wal-Ken Riding School and their mentor, "Pop" Billingham, in a pony sulky; Wolf Cubs; Lowe's Bantam and Pee-Wee hockey teams; the Molson truck; J. P. MacKimmie & Sons' Coca-Cola truck, suitably decorated; Vankleek Hill Collegiate drum and bugle band (boys and girls); Ayersville Air Cadets, in charge of Pilot Officer Gabriel Downing (representing Sq. Ldr. P. E. Barbeau); M. Wilson & Sons' Cities Service tank trucks, of very appropriate color; Deacon Motor Sales with a fine speedboat and

— By BOB ATCHISON —

It isn't too often you get real personal satisfaction from writing a sporting column, but believe me, this is one time. Our own local Game Warden caught six fishermen recently on the small lake of the West River, fishing through the ice with all the equipment needed for a big operation, and with trout in their possession. I can only hope an example is made of these fellows. Eight holes were in use, with another 10 bored ready for the lines. Minnows from Montreal were being used, along with a power borer, toboggan, sleighs, etc. — so these SPORTS were not fishing just for fun. With trout being sold openly in Montreal, it is possible that there are other groups around who are making a business of it. The fact that no fishing through the ice is allowed, doesn't seem to have mattered. It is also very possible these jokers have a net cached away some place. At any rate, very special thanks are due to our Wardens for the excellent work they have been doing. It is possible that in the future, Argenteuil County will become out-of-bounds to this type of meat hunter. Let's hope so.

A few wolves have been sighted around Lake Louisa. I sincerely hope that a little thought is given before these animals are all killed. Certainly wolves are in Argenteuil County, and all other counties for that matter, but let's face it — they are needed, as we know. Another deer has been found by Bernie Jenkins, or I should say, evidence of a deer, that had been pulled down, and early bears had finished the job of disposing of the carcass. The tracks that had followed the deer, and of the predator that attacked it, seemed to be those of wolves; but, on closer examination small prints were also found, and I have been wondering if this could possibly have been the dogs that were running deer in the Dalesville district.

There is one factor that receives little thought or attention — the mating of wolves and running dogs. This is more prevalent than can be imagined — hence the conflicting reports of wolves. When this does happen, then the cross-breed is much more dangerous than the pure animal. It usually ends up with progeny that has the stamina of a wolf plus the brains of a dog, with no respect whatever for anything at all. I can remember Leonard Seppela, the famous dog-sled racer who is still remembered for his exploits at The Pas in Manitoba, trying to cross-breed wolves and dogs for racing. It just didn't work too well; the dogs would not obey any command, and proved so treacherous they all finally had to be destroyed. Now, if this could not be brought about — then think of the animal to be produced when it runs wild. Not pretty, believe me. However, I still think the wolf is a much-abused animal; there are lots worse.

I was told of an area where camps are being built, and how the trees had been cut all over the place. I had a look at this, and it's truly hard to believe that people will do things like this under the guise of planning. It sure looks as though the dollar is the foremost consideration. If only people would look at some of these cut-over acres, and see the damage that has been done to the lands, streams and wildlife, MAYBE they would think twice before entering into a hit-or-miss project. Of course, this does not apply only to builders, but to everyone who cuts, be it for building or pulp. Certainly if this stupid practice continues, within a very few years our County will have no wonderful stands of timber as it has now. As I've said before, all possible help on reforestation is given by various companies, notably the C.I.P. in this area; yet from the very few tree farms around, not many are availing themselves of this assistance.

Some excellent catches of perch have been taken around Ste. Anne de Bellevue, also some pike. A few of these variety had the "black spot", along with the perch. With the water being covered with ice, it is not hard to see why. With all the pollution going down the river, and no air getting at it, it has been a prolific disease area. At least, we know that air will kill many germs during the summer; and thank goodness, the summer season is not far off.

Amazing sights are to be seen along some of our highways. With the snow melting along the roads, just take a look at the ditches and the refuse thrown into them. Certainly, this is a deplorable sight for visitors to see. If we want to live in filth, that's O.K.; but have a little thought for other people who don't!

I had the good luck to see an osprey, during the heavy snowstorm of last week. Up around the top of Hill Head — it was having tough going in the winds and snow. However, it has been sighted again, this time along the North River. Unless this bird ranges over to the Ottawa, it will have meagre "pickings", as the North River, at the time of writing, is frozen solid all the way up. . . . The hawks have cleaned out the starlings, for the time being. Of course, these pests will be back in a big way before long. But in the meantime, the other birds don't have to worry about them. As for the hawks — the chickadees, jays, etc., are pretty well protected, as they are not flying into the open. . . . Crows are coming in every day, but I have still to catch sight of the first Red Wing.

There is a lot of interest being shown in camping. There are enquiries on types of tents, sleeping bags, etc. What quipment is needed for the week-end or the long-time camper, is of special interest. As I have not the space to give a detailed list in this column — if anyone interested will give me a call, I will send them one.

Here today, how about tomorrow?

A U.S. study shows that, on an average, 15% of customers are lost to a retailer each year. In 10 years 81 out of every 100 customers will drift away.

Reasons why customers leave: 14% unadjusted complaints; 9% lower prices; 5% influenced by others; 3% move; 1% die: 69% lost thro' neglect, bad treatment, poor service, indifference.

Ski Trails

By Ross Cole,
Director, Ayers Ski School

Ram Ski Club News

This coming Saturday the Ski Club will be holding a race for all senior members. The race will be starting at 11 a.m. and registration will be held between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., for all members between the ages of 14 and 21 years, inclusive. The racing committee hopes there will be a large turnout to make this race a big success. Ross Cole will once again lay out an interesting course and forerun it. It will be held from the top of the Big Horn Trail and will consist of approximately 30 gates. Jess Humphries, of Brownsburg, will, once again, most ably act as course manager.

The Carnival Day to be held April 7 is now being organized by Bill Jones, of Lachute. He and his committee are making preparations to make this our big finale for the year. An obstacle course will be layed out by Ross Cole, in which a team of two skiers tied together by a 6 ft. string will have to pass. If the string is broken, the team will have to stop and tie it before they can proceed; it should prove to be a lot of fun, with prizes going to the best times. Prizes will also be awarded to the best and most original costumes of the day. The day's events will be rounded out with a weiner roast for the children in the afternoon, and a gala Swiss fondue in the evening, with orchestra and dancing, for the senior members. We hope you, the members, will join in to make this day a big, bang-up success.

Equipment

Ski poles should be selected with greater care than the average skier ordinarily gives them, since they are an integral part of equipment, and absolutely necessary to ski technique.

A pole consists of a shaft which is usually made of steel, aluminum alloys, fibreglass or tonkin (bamboo). Most skiers prefer aluminum or steel poles, as opposed to bamboo or split cane, since they are considerably more durable. Bamboo and cane poles are lighter and easier to handle, but they tend to break or shatter, except in the hands of an expert.

On the top of the shaft there should be a comfortable handle and wrist-strap designed to fit your hand. This strap should be wide enough so as not to cut, and long enough to permit solid grasping of the grip when you are wearing bulky gloves. About 3 inches from the bottom of the shaft, an aluminum, plastic, or rubber ring is attached by a cotter-pin, rubber stopper, or some other mechanical means. The ring should be large enough to prevent the pole from sinking into the snow when extensive weight is applied, but not too large, so as to make it unnecessarily heavy and cumbersome for today's advanced techniques.

The proper length of pole depends upon your own height. In determining the correct length, place the point on the floor; the top should reach almost to your armpits. The pole may seem a little long, but will not be that high when thrust down into the snow with the basket resting on the snow. The proper height of ski poles is extremely important in today's modern techniques, as well as the more basic movements.

Next week — Regular skis vs. short skis.

RECREATION TAX

Sherbrooke, Que. (CP) — City council imposed a $2 recreation tax on citizens as "the only means of providing adequate recreational facilities for the youth of this city". The tax will be collected in the same way as the garbage tax, at about 17 cents a month. It is expected to yield about $32,000 for 1962.

Kiddies' ski races held at Morin

Annual event scores success

(Intended for last issue)

Morin Heights — The Legion sports chairman, Com. Harry Lister and his committee, are to be complimented on the organizing that made this year's children's ski races such a tremendous success. The Basler Bros. were most helpful in allowing the Legion to use their facilities, and in running the tows free of charge.

Thanks are also due to the following, who gave kind assistance: Mrs. Dobie, Mrs. R. Earle, Miss M. Swail, Mrs. H. Lister, Mrs. D. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. G. Allen, Mrs. R. Gillingham, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraser, Geo. Smith, Ferguson Bros., Alpino Lodge, Bellevue Hotel, Commons Inn, St. John's Ambulance, Fr. Dupré, Rev. W. Ball, Legion members, and the merchants of Morin Heights.

Following were winners of the various events:

Age 4, Boys & Girls — Cindy Gillingham, John Basler.

Age 5, Boys & Girls — Stephen White, Dianne Basler, Linda Basler.

Age 6, Boys & Girls — Scott Gillingham, Susan Earle, Darlene McCambly.

Age 7 & 8, Boys — Ronnie Wood, Bruce White, Dwight Baumel.

Age 7 & 8, Girls — Marlene Baumel, Alana Kirkpatrick.

Age 9 & 10, Boys — Peter Basler, Gary Wilson, Gary Wood.

Age 9 & 10, Girls — Carolyn de Bassecourt, Marilyn Fraser.

Age 11 & 12, Boys — Dean Booth, Bobby Cameron, Kenny Conley.

Age 11 & 12, Girls — Christine Basler, Wendy Kneeland, Marilyn Earle.

Age 13 & 14, Boys — John Longley, Gary Baumel, Tommy Wilson.

Age 13 & 14, Girls — Penny Cameron, Judy Watchorn, Patsy Montgomery.

motor on a trailer; Welden Motors with several new-model cars — besides numerous other commercial and private vehicles. . . . Altogether an imposing parade.

The two bands came in chartered buses. The groups, and all participants in the parade, were entertained in the evening at Lachute Audiorium. Refreshments were served and a dance was enjoyed by courtesy of Lowe Bros. Dairy and their committee, who arranged the entire St. Patrick's Day event. . . . Much credit is due for this highly successful effort.

Laurentian Ski Meet

The following boys from Lachute (as well as a contingent from Grenville) were enthusiastic participants in last Saturday's Boy Scout and Wolf Cub ski meet at Chalet Cochand — Richard Paulsen and Wynn Jones (1st Lachute Troop); Jan MacKimmie and Randy Scott (Iroquois Pack); Blair Barbour, Jeff Thorpe (1st Lachute Pack).

The program included both cross-country and slalom skiing, as well as toboggan racing. Scouters R. MacAdam and Terry Scott report that the boys made an excellent showing.

Thanks to the generosity of car drivers Jack Thorpe, Keith Clarke and Jack McIndoe, a number of additional boys were able to go along as spectators.

Leader Training Plans

Saturday, April 14, has now been confirmed as the date of Basic Training Courses for Scout and Cub leaders in this District. Course headquarters will be at Lachute High School.

Training of this sort is a minimum requirement for successful program planning and leadership. All new or prospective new leaders are urged to reserve the date and to take full advantage of the opportunity to gain useful practical knowledge. The courses will be presented by qualified Provincial Training Team members, who themselves have outstanding records as successful troop and pack leaders.

Meanwhile the Provincial Camping Promotion Committee is also making plans to repeat several of last year's most successful outdoor training events. The first of these will be a canoe-handling course, to be offered to leaders from all over the province and to be held in June, right here in the Long Sault District on the Rouge River. Those who participated last year are hopeful that canoe handling and canoe camping may be given greater importance in local planning for this summer's boy activities.

Lachute Cub Pack

Cubs from the 1st Lachute Pack held a parents' night earlier this month in the Legion Hall. Opening with the Grand Howl and the singing of "God Save the Queen," the program for the evening (Up the Cubbing Ladder) got under way. Each Cub took an active part, showing the parents Cubbing from Tenderpad to Second Star. A tug-of-war at intermission, run by two Assistant Leaders, Baloo and Seeonee, helped the boys let off steam. A Six relay, run by Bagheera, showed how the boys worked together as a team. An article, "The Definition of a Cub", was read by Akela.

Badge work, for Collector's, Toymaker's and Homecraft badges, was displayed by four Cubs.

A camp fire was held, with the boys taking part in skits and songs, and the evening came to a close with the Grand Howl and Cub Silence.

Refreshments were then served by ladies of the Senior Branch of the Legion.

FINE FLOATS

Sherbrooke, Que. (CP) — Sign painter Antonio Montour and his two adult sons worked full-time for a week to construct the 12 floats used in a civic parade to mark the 125th anniversary of the coming of industry to Sherbrooke.

Gives different explanation on recent Liberal meeting

(TO THE EDITOR)

On the 12th March, the Paré-Paquette clan (the latter, who completes the clan, omitted to sign, why . . . ?) gave for publication in the local newspapers a message which I answer in bringing forth the following point: the authors state that "On the 10th March, the Executive Committee of the Liberal Provincial Federation had to hold a meeting to study the reports submitted by Messrs. Giguère and Barbeau with reference to the general meeting held in Lachute on 3rd March; that the validity of the election was not recognized and that the Federation had unanimously decided that Mr. Durocher would not be the spokesman for the county in Quebec."

The fact is, that the undersigned had submitted a report to the Federation at the request of one of its representatives; on 15th March, Mr. Gérard Brady, General Secretary of the Liberal Provincial Federation, answered my letter and I include herewith a verbatim (translated) extract of this letter: "Your letter and the minutes regarding this meeting (3rd March) were given to the members of the Executive Committee of the Liberal Federation of Quebec assembled at a special meeting held on Saturday, 10th March. The items on the agenda of this special meeting were so numerous that it was not possible to study the problem of Argenteuil. Therefore the President of the Federation has authorized me to inform you that the question you have submitted is, for the time being, under study and that at its next meeting the Executive Committee will take a decision. (Signed) Gérard Brady."

This letter from the Secretary-General of the Federation is a formal denial of the message of the Paré-Paquette clan and any further comments as to the veracity of the remainder of their message would be superfluous. However, as the saying goes, "He who lives in a glass house should not throw stones."

(Signed)

— ROGER LAGARDE, President
Liberal Association of Argenteuil

APPRECIATION

Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Cooke wish to express sincere thanks to their many friends and relatives, for flowers, gifts, cards and telephone calls received during the former's stay in the hospital.

Ogdensburg and Lachute resident was widely related

Late Fred Townsend

The death of Mr. Frederick William (Fred) Townsend occurred Thursday, March 8, in Lachute, in his 84th year.

Born November 9, 1878, in the Ogdensburg district, Mr. Townsend was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Townsend. He and his wife, the former Mary Caroline Blair, and their family lived in Montreal for a time, then took up farming in Ogdensburg. His wife predeceased him in 1933. In later years Mr. Townsend retired from farming and moved to Lachute.

Left to mourn are three daughters — Mrs. Raymond Warwick (Elsie), of Brownsburg, R.R. 1, Mrs. Ray Derouin (Iris), of Lachute, and Mrs. Lorne Wert (Jean), of Normetal, Que.; and one son, Milton, of Port Credit, Ont. Mr. Townsend was predeceased by a daughter, Mrs. Calvert MacKenzie (Muriel), and two sons, Ross and Henderson. Also surviving are one brother, Gordon, of Ingleside, Ont., 26 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held March 10 at the MacKimmie Funeral Home. The Rev. R. L. McPhee officiated. Interment took place in the Ogdensburg Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Fred Barker, John Heatlie, Jr., Ronald Townsend, Kenneth Derouin, Garnet Townsend and Neil Van Buskirk.

Attending from a distance were friends and relatives from Ingleside, Ont., Montreal, Perth, Ont., Port Credit, Ont., and Thurso, Que.

Funeral held for old resident, Wm. F. Rodgers

Following a long illness, a well-known citizen, William F. Rodgers, passed away at the Montreal Protestant Hospital on Tuesday, March 13, in his 71st year.

Born in The Seigniory, he moved here to Lachute at an early age. He was a son of the late Wm. John Rodgers and his wife Sarah Martin. He was married to Mrs. Leona (Legault) Latreille in 1940.

The late Mr. Rodgers leaves to mourn his loss his loving wife, also four children, Jean-Paul, Jeannine (Mrs. L. Belanger), Lilianne, all of Lachute, and Denise (Mrs. R. Cadieux), of Roxton Pond, Que.

Also left in the immediate family to mourn his passing are three sisters, Edith (Mrs. Alex T. Sutton), of St. Amedée, Helena (Mrs. Russell Fonger), Mabel (Mrs. Wm. Geo. Tucker), both of Calgary, Alta., with three brothers, Howard, of Calgary, Ernest and Clarence, of Lachute.

The funeral was held on Friday, March 16, from the MacKimmie Funeral Home, service being conducted by the Rev. Wilson Bridge, of Lachute United Church.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Adelard Patry, Sylvio Legault, Hercule Legault, Melvin Scott, Murray Lyster and Neal Moore. Interment was at Lachute.

Retired teacher succumbed to lengthy illness

The late Kenneth C. Fraser

Many friends and sympathizers gathered Saturday afternoon at Lachute United Church, for the funeral of the late Kenneth Charles Fraser, whose death occurred Wednesday, March 14, in the Montreal General Hospital after a long period of ill health.

The late Mr. Fraser, 56, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fraser, of Leeds, Que. He followed the teaching profession, and was French specialist at Grenville High School when ill health necessitated his retirement, in 1954.

A resident of Grace Street, Lachute, for many years, he is mourned by his wife (the former Evelyn Eddington), on the staff of Lachute High School, and a son, Robin, attending Lower Canada College.

The Rev. Wilson Bridge officiated at the funeral service. Pall-bearers were Messrs. C. Stevens, Stuart Armstrong, Herb Graves, Edmund McFaul, Cliff Cunningham and Cliff Barrington. Interment was in Lachute Cemetery.

A number of friends and colleagues attended from distant points.

Lach. High School basketball series

By Sharon Combe

On Friday night the L.H.S. senior girls' basketball team travelled to the Lake of Two Mountains High School to play one of a home-and-home series. The winner of this series is to go to Lennoxville to take part in the Provincial play-offs. Lachute won by a score of 30-28. Those who played a stand-out game in this contest were Nancy Hay, Sheila Owens and Barbara Underhill.

The second game was played on Saturday afternoon at Lachute High School. The winner was St. Eustache, 24-14. The girls who played well during this game were Sheila Owens, Dee Millar and Gwen Matthews.

The winner of this total-points series was St. Eustache. This team will be going to Lennoxville for the playoffs.

Rotary outing at Brownsburg Curling Club

Last week's meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, by way of diversion, was held at the Brownsburg Curling Club. A small draw was made up of Rotarians who wished to curl, including some who had never participated before, and the games were played after the Curling Club members had completed their games.

Six teams curled six ends, and the winning rink was chosen by the margin, which they won on a percentage basis. It was rumored that Arne Petersen and his crew had a score of 8-2, the highest percentage.

It seemed that everyone was having a great time, especially those who, not having previously played this sport, now discovered that curling was not an "old man's game". Sore backs, aching muscles, and blistered hands were after - effects which spoke for themselves.

A light snack, which had been prepared by some of the wives, was enjoyed after the curling, as the members sat around playing cards or talking.

There was quite a good attendance, and thanks are due to the program committee for planning this outing.

Molière comedy highlights French stage program

On Sunday, April 1, on the stage of the Rio Theatre, the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil will present "Le Dépit Amoureux", a comedy classic by Molière, the great French writer of the seventeenth century, in a professional production staged by Georges Groulx with the actors of L'Atelier, featuring Yves Massicotte, Gaetan Labrèche and Margot Campbell, three young TV stars of the French network of the CBC.

A short farce by Léon Chancerel, a well known contemporary playwright, will complete the matinee performance presented especially at reduced price for high school students.

The evening presentation will include a third short play by Courteline, "La Paix Chez-Soi", which is another classic nineteenth-century boudoir comedy and a masterpiece of its kind. This one-act play will be performed by Georges Groulx, one of Montreal's leading French-speaking actors, assisted by Mirieille Lachance.

Information on tickets for the evening performance may be obtained at LO 2-8218 or LE 7-3367.

APPRECIATION

Mrs. Ross Brown wishes to express her sincere appreciation to friends, neighbors and relatives, for gifts, cards and good wishes extended to her during her recent sojourn in hospital. Special thanks to the Rev. W. Bridge for his visits and prayers.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Miles Copeland has returned home from a pleasant holiday in Mexico City and Acapulco. On her return flight she stopped over in New York City to visit Mr and Mrs. E. H. Copeland.

Hairdo's created here

Que. Temperance League

Psychologists tell us that the teen-ager has two main drives — one to be accepted by his peers; two, he wants his age and maturity recognized. How better can a youth show his manhood than by imitating the adult pattern? If the adult pattern is social drinking, then the teen-age pattern will be the same. Two out of four college students are drinkers. Is this nation threatened by moderate and social drinking?

Police matters again in spotlight

CBC INTERVIEWS WERE heard on the Montreal television news last week, relative to the policing of municipalities by private agencies. As one of the few municipalities, and the first, to operate under this system, Lachute came under inquiry, and the TV crewmen were here to record scenes and opinions.

The scenes showed spots around Lachute, with Chief J. L. Hebert, some of his police staff, the emergency patrol car, and the police offices. Mayor Fernand Legault was interviewed and appeared on one of the news broadcasts, expressing general satisfaction with the policing of this town by Phillips Investigation Bureau, which had been brought here under critical circumstances last July and were engaged on a year's contract last September. Opinions of teen-agers were also quoted, all reflecting favorably on Lachute's experience with this police protection agency.

The inquiry was sparked by an outburst from the Brotherhood of Police and Firemen, and the attitude of two French-language dailies against the hiring of outside police agencies — the town of Lafleche being the latest instance. The editorials had repercussions in Lachute council chamber; here Alderman Dr. J. P. Dorion took exception to the journal which criticized "irresponsible and ignorant councillors" for adopting this policy. The protests also reached Quebec, where (according to news reports) the Minister of Municipal Affairs intimated there would be preventive legislation. If this should be the case, there was no indication what happens in the municipalities already policed by this method, and satisfied with it. To enforce a change without fair hearing, sounds undemocratic, to say the least.

But let it be known that, despite "irresponsible and ignorant councillors" who engaged the Phillips Agency here, the system has worked out pretty well so far.

YOURS AND OURS — THE RED CROSS

A question of value

TOO OFTEN, these days, we're apt to measure our successes and accomplishments in terms of direct cash, monetary value or material benefit.

The structure of our society has caused us to evaluate our status and our worth in the community in this fashion, and we're apt to forget that we may have assets which are far more valuable than our material possessions — in fact, assets which cannot be measured in material standards, that could give us a position of very great importance within the community. To stand in a position of importance does not necessarily mean that one must be a leader of men, nor does it mean that one must occupy the house on the hill.

A position of importance can be occupied by the person with such seemingly unglamorous personal assets as charity, human understanding, kindness and gentleness, tolerance and consideration. These attributes have more value in the long run. And what's more, we ourselves control their destiny. A stock-market crash does not decide whether they continue to exist or not. An economic depression certainly does decide our standard of living and the extent and value of our material possessions.

The peacetime purpose of the Canadian Red Cross Society is "to carry on and assist in work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world", a purpose that is motivated by the kind of personal attributes aforementioned, and a purpose which cannot continue to exist without the practising of these attributes on the part of Canadian citizens.

WE are the Canadian Red Cross. We keep it going. Its success is dependent upon how much value each one of us places on our own personal attributes; how much we practise them. Its success or failure is a direct reflection on those values, and in turn a reflection on our community, and in the end on us.

A strong Red Cross means a strong community. This year — think of the many ways the Red Cross serves you and serves for you — then give generously to the campaign for funds to continue this work.

Second language

ONE RESULT of holding the big Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal was that it turned the spotlight more than ever before on the question of bilingualism.

About one-third of the 2,000 delegates to the five-day conference were French-speaking and the deliberations were carried on in two languages.

Transistor receivers were provided for anyone who wanted to hear simultaneous translations.

Several of the speakers, including Dr. Wilder Penfield, the eminent neuro-surgeon and honorary chairman of the conference, took up the problems of teaching a second language.

He said that if a child begins learning a new language at an early age, perhaps as young as four, he will pick it up rather quickly and will always retain at least basic knowledge.

There are indications as well that bilingualism is on the minds of many people outside the field of education.

Of hundreds of letters received at the conference from Canadians unburdening themselves on education problems, there were many from such widely separated areas as Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan urging that teaching of French be started as early as Grade I.

It's true, of course, that many children will never get much of an opportunity to make use of their second language.

At the same time, Canadians are travelling around their own country and going abroad in unprecedented numbers. A tourist in most parts of Europe can manage with only English. With French, however, it's just that much easier to enjoy travelling on the Continent and even in parts of the Middle East, Africa and Asia.

Even for those who prefer to disregard these considerations, it is a fact that French is being taught across Canada in schools. It's also true that a number of students are even able to use the language after studying it under present conditions. This being the case, there would seem to be good reason for putting effective French programs into operation. Otherwise, teaching a second language as it is being done is a waste of time and effort.

Viewpoints and perspectives

GUESSWORK IN THE COURTS. — "Evidence in motor car accident cases is notoriously unreliable," writes J. B. McGeachy in The Financial Post. "Deciding what really happened in a crash must usually be guesswork. Then there is more guessing to be done in distributing the blame and fixing the damages." Chief Justice McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court says that in handling such cases he feels he is not adiminstering justice but running an adjustment bureau. He would remove these cases from the judiciary and set up a public board, like the Workmen's Compensation Board, to compensate the injured by monthly payments from a fund.

This scheme, McGeachy writes, would have two practical merits. It would lift a heavy burden from the courts and it would relate payments more closely to the severity and duration of an injury than is possible now. Court awards, which are final, often prove to be too high if the victim makes an unexpected recovery, too low if he has a relapse and the damage turns out to be more serious than was supposed.

Canada At War

A 13-week filmed series reviving a significant decade in Canada's history, from 1936 to 1946, will be seen in Canada at War, each Tuesday on the CBC-TV network. The half-hour programs portray developments on the home front in addition to the role played by the armed forces in battle. Canada's distinguished record on the war fronts is recorded in films covering the Spitzbergen raid, Dieppe, Sicily, Italy, Normandy, Holland and Germany.

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, March 18, 1887 —

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher died recently at his home in New York.

Hon. J. C. Abbott was installed as Mayor of Montreal last week.

The British War Office has arranged for the transportation from Canada of 3,000 horses, to be used for artillery.

The oldest residents of Lachute cannot recall a winter when the streets were worse than under the present Town Incorporation Act, with $1,500 a year for running expenses.

Messrs. James Fish and F. C. Ireland of Lachute have dissolved partnership.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, March 22, 1912 —

Death — Dr. J. B. Menzies of Lachute, aged 56, died at Harrington March 16.

Death — Robert Woods, of East Settlement, 66 years of age.

Mr. A. P. Paquin has renovated the former tinsmith shop of Mr. W. S. McBride, and equipped same as an up-to-date shoe repair establishment for Mr. Gordon Desjardins.

Brownsburg — The Band of Hope holds its meetings every Thursday evening in McFaul's Hall.

Mr. Peter Demerse has purchased a half-section of land from Mr. W. J. Bradley, of Milestone, Sask., for $12,800.

Death — Wm. Rodger, one of the oldest residents of St. Jerusalem, died March 15.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 18, 1937 —

Snowstorms have taxed the manpower and equipment of Laurentian Roads Ltd., to keep highways passable between Grenville, Brownsburg and St. Jerome, this past week.

Germain Lacoste, taxi-operator, with three passengers, was struck by a freight on the Ayers spurline at Millway Street. Lacoste and one of the occupants (three Montreal auditors engaged at Dominion Shuttle Co.) received fractured collarbones.

Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon has outfitted his hardware store in the former premises of A. Habib at Brownsburg. His mother, Mrs. Deacon, continues in charge at the new premises.

Eucharist Lavigne, an old and respected businessman, former alderman, and mayor in 1917, died at age 73.

Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal celebrates its 20th anniversary. The first office was opened March 22, 1917, by the former Molson's Bank.

Mrs. William Todd, of Lachute Road, died in her 81st year.

The Leonard Store on Main Street was robbed in the early hours of Sunday morning. The proprietor, Mr. Leonard Bedard, recovered most of the goods in Dr. J. H. Mason's yard, where the robbers had been disturbed while sorting their loot.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

THE BIRDS WERE ALL IN

'Way back in 1917 the Woolworth Stores used to sell six-inch gramophone records for 15c each. The records held one verse and one chorus of the popular songs of the day.

These records contributed a lot to my musical education, as I never was able to read music, but picked it up by ear from records and by sitting in with dance orchestras. One tune I remember was a very popular but very sad ballad entitled, "Dear Old Girl". The words of the verse began:

" 'Twas a sunny day in June. The birds were all in tune, and the songs they sang all seemed to be of you — "

Of course, these records were not very durable, but what can you expect for 15c? So "Dear Old Girl" got sort of worn out after a while, and the needle got stuck in one groove and repeated instead of proceeding. The result was:

" 'Twas a sunny day in June and
the birds were all in —
The birds were all in —
The birds were all in —
The birds were all in — "

Judging by today's weather (March 13) the birds probably are "all in". But cheer up! Spring is just around the corner. And am I ever glad!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

Money can work hard for you if you give it a real chance

Did you know the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal is equipped to help you start a safe and successful investment program to make spare cash do a real job of work for your future?

It's true. Buying and selling of securities is one of the many helpful services offered by the B of M. When you want investment information, the manager will be glad to put his knowledge of the security markets at your disposal. Indeed, he will call on his head office securities department, if need be. Then, when you have made a decision, the Bank will attend to all the details in both the buying and selling of any securities.

The state of your current income and savings will best determine the scale of your investment program. But from time to time it's a good idea to take stock of your situation by reviewing your holdings. As a result of market changes, on which your bank manager can provide full information, it might be advisable and profitable for you to sell certain securities and buy others.

Either way, you can always be sure of getting helpful information and convenient service at the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal. And anything you discuss with Don Hay, the manager, any of his staff, or with Miss Lulu Miller at Ayersville branch, will be in absolute confidence, of course.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

You know that "food supplement" with the short, hyphenated, nourishing name?

I don't know whether this substance (let's call it Goody-Casho) really does build up the body in the way that the manufacturers claim, but I can give you a glimpse of the effect it has on the soul.

Buying G-C is much like getting bitten by a vampire. The vampire's victims turn into vampires themselves, and they go around biting other people, who also turn into vampires, and . . . well, you know the rest. Pretty soon Dracula and his band of volunteers have taken over the field once monopolized by the Red Cross blood donor service.

It's the same with G-C in a benevolent, healthful sort of way, of course. (My lawyer told me to say this.)

In brief, every G-C buyer becomes a G-C seller, and the dealerships multiply like chain letters, until every man, woman and child in the country, from Great-Grandma down to the newest born, are all frantically trying to sell G-C to each other.

It will be a shock to a new mama when her infant turns away his head and wails: "Na-aaw! Want Goody-Casho."

There still are people left who don't buy or sell G-C. But they are growing scarcer.

All this happened so rapidly, too. It was only yesterday, at a party, that I met my first G-C pusher — an attractive girl whom I had taken for a friend, until she dropped the Union Jack and hoisted the G-C house pennant.

"You turned out to be a pill," I muttered in disgust (12 hours later — I didn't think of it at the time).

Several of us baited the poor girl by making up a kind of song called "Goody-Casho.". I don't remember the verses, but I think they consisted mainly of the same two words coupled together and belted out to some syrupy Neopolital refrain.

The girl pretended to laugh it off. But I suspect that she cut out the guests one at a time from the herd and sold them you-know-what. The pill. All except me. I'm still getting by on nothing but food.

Is it too late to stop?

(The Echo, Athabasca, Alberta)

With the possibility of a federal election becoming stronger every day, the various political parties are once again vieing with each other to see which can promise the most in the way of handouts, which are politely called social security benefits.

We feel they are going in the wrong direction. Since the inception of the baby bonus, the country has become more and more a virtual welfare state.

Through legislation the government has made it possible for a person to contribute less than a dollar a week for less than a year. When this point has been reached, a number find that it is impossible to continue working and get laid off for various reasons. They are then eligible for Unemployment Insurance for a year. Many of them draw for almost that time before finding suitable employment.

For men with families, this is not enough to keep up payments on the car, payment on the house, to clothe and feed the children — so here the welfare comes in. The children can't be made to suffer, so poor John Taxpayer is taken for another gift, and the man out of work gets another handout.

We know there are a number of deserving welfare cases, and many people married and single who want to work who are out of work. We know there is a great need for Old Age Pension and Disability Pensions. We know there is a growing number of people on relief who are not in the "gimmie" class, but we feel sure there are a number not so much in need.

We know it is generally thought that for a political party to take a firm stand and declare all unnecessary welfare payments would cease, is generally thought to be political suicide, but we wonder.

The number supported by welfare is growing at an alarming rate and as that number increases the number who pay the shot is decreased in proportion. While the workers and the doers are still in the majority, it might be a good idea for someone to investigate what support would be forthcoming if welfare strings were tightened on all those families where there was an able-bodied man the nominal head of the house.

If unemployment insurance benefits were to be cut to not more than three months, if seasonal workers had to prove no other means of support before they could collect — the possibilities for reform are endless.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

A team skipped by Cde. R. O. MacLean, with Cdes. W. Black, James Duncan and R. St. Laurent, won the Branch curling March 17. Congratulations, gang! There were eight teams involved, and the results were as follows:

1st Round —
Phillips over Stein.
McLean over Jones.
Riley over Kirby.
Hay over Pring.

2nd Round —
McLean over Phillips.
Riley over Hay.

Final game was won by McLean's team, skipped by F. Stein, over Riley.

The Consolation round was won by Cde. Jones' foursome. The event was followed by a social evening, and a good time was had by all. Our thanks and appreciation to the Lachute Curling Club for making this event possible.

Bingo tonight at the Legion Hall. Jackpots and cash prizes.

Winners of last week's euchre were Doug McKenzie, Mrs. Rodgers and Mel Lees.

At Winnipeg last Saturday, nine track records were set at the Royal Canadian Legion's field meet. Five open indoor records and four native indoor ones were established. This is becoming a highly successful endeavor, and when one realizes this is done on a $15,000 budget, they are indeed well deserving of all the accolades afforded. It is certainly something for other Commands to shoot for.

According to Maclean's Magazine, a Japanese manufacturer will soon be on the market with a do-it-yourself lie detector costing under $50. Maclean's quotes the company's announcement to the effect that the device "heralds a new era in family relations."

It would break up the great Canadian Home, that's what it would do! Social conditions may be different in Japan, but at our house, straight, unadulterated truth-telling is the last thing we would pay $50 for. Part of the ground rules is saying, when the Missus has inadvertently burned the roast, "Oh, that's alright, it is nice to have it well done for a change." Or having her say, "My, you were the most distinguished-looking man at church this morning." Or having visitors say, as they eye the sea of crab grass between the house and the street, "Your lawn looks pretty good this year."

We admit the detector might be worthwhile in finding out how that dent got into the right front fender last week, but we are not about to sacrifice flattery, kindness and blarney for such a minor gain in information.

The Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Stote and three children, of Huntingdon, Que., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King, of Rosemount, were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mimee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harkness and granddaughter, of Lachine, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Villeneuve and Mr. and Mrs. Déas Dupuis.

Miss Robbie Allan, of Hawkesbury, and Mrs. Clarence Brazeau, returned from a week's holiday skiing at Stowe, Vt.

Quite a number of Grenville people attended the St. Patrick's whist party in Brownsburg last Saturday evening.

Funeral held for lifelong resident of Stonefield

The late C. Ray Dawson

The funeral of the late Mr. C. Ray Dawson, whose death occurred at the Hawkesbury Convalescent Home on March 3 after a short illness, was held at St. Matthew's Anglican Church from the Grenville Funeral Home on Tuesday, March 6. The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated, in the presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives of the deceased.

Mr. Dawson, who was in his 73rd year, the son of the late Mr. Edward Dawson and his wife Elizabeth Canning, was born in Stonefield and spent all of his years on the home farm.

He was predeceased by his wife, the former Euphemia Gray, of Grenville, in 1955, and leaves to mourn his passing three sons, Vernon, of Ottawa, Edgar, at home, and Garth, of Montreal, and four grandchildren; also two sisters, Miss Pearl Dawson, at home, Mrs. C. F. Watson (Ruby), of Cushing, and three brothers, Arthur, of Lachute, Clarence, of Rednersville, Ont., and Harris, of Hamilton, Ont.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Harris Dewar, Keith Canning, John Owens, Wesley Dodd, Allan Cameron and Alvin Healtie. Interment was in the family plot at Grenville.

Those from a distance who attended were — Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dawson, Mrs. Charles Dempsey and Mr. Summers Dawson, of Rednersville, Mr. Harris Dawson, of Hamilton, Mr. Leslie Dawson, of St. Lambert, and Mr. Bill Dawson, of Lacolle.

Bishop visits Lac St. Denis

Morin Heights — On Wednesday evening of last week the Most Rev. John Dixon, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., LL.D., Archbishop of Montreal, visited the R.C.A.F. Station at Lac St. Denis, where he was welcomed by W/C W. J. Smith, C/O of the Station, F/Lt. W. C. Hewitt, Protestant chaplain, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, and a group of high-ranking officers of the Station.

Dinner was served in the officers' mess, followed by the Confirmation service in the new chapel. The Archibishop officiated, Padre Hewitt presented the 20 candidates for confirmation, and the Rev. H. G. Baugh read the Scriptures.

A reception followed, with many friends from the Station and from Trinity Anglican Church, Morin Heights, attending. A magnificent marble-based desk-pen was presented to His Grace by Miss D. Rice, as a momento of his first visit.

A large class will also be presented for Confirmation in May, at the Church of Saint Francis.

Entertained for 50th anniversary of Avoca couple

(Our District Correspondent)

Avoca — On Saturday last, Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacLeod, of St. Philippe, entertained for the golden wedding anniversary of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. MacLeod of Avoca. A great number of relatives and friends called during the afternoon and evening to offer their best wishes. They received many gifts in money and other valuable tokens.

The members of their family present were — Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ball (Edna), Mr. and Mrs. Donna Currie, Mr. Fred MacLeod and Miss Dorothy MacLeod, and seven grandchildren. One son, Garnet and family, and one daughter, Jean and family, both of whom live in the Maritimes, were unable to be present.

A Family Council

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Mrs. Green has been mentioning the benefits of a Family Council to her husband from time to time. Suddenly she gets a reply.

"What's all this about a Family Council? I tell you we have all the talk in our home I can stand!"

A Family Council is talk to some purpose.

In a democratic home, as in a democratic state, it is essential that there be a free interchange of ideas and plans for any action which concerns everyone.

Some families prefer their Family Council at a set time every week run like a business meeting. Mother or Dad act as presiding officer, and the different children follow the rules for the correct way to make a motion or an amendment.

This is excellent training for public life. But other families get a lot more accomplished in an informal "Pow-Wow" after a meal whenever the occasion arises which seems to demand a discussion.

A Family Council does not mean that parents hand over their responsibility to their children and let them run their own lives. The final decision, especially for anything concerning the safety of a son or daughter, must rest with Mother or Dad. As long as children are minors the law holds parents accountable for their actions.

But it does mean that Mother and Dad are willing to listen to son's or daughter's "side of the question". Whenever possible the final decision is arrived at which is a satisfactory one for everyone.

Parents know the rules they followed in the homes in which they grew up are not necessarily the ones which fit their youngsters. Sometimes parents have to give in a bit when they know the accepted code of "the gang" who are their child's chums. But every orderly home must have some rules — which are agreed upon and observed by everyone most of the time.

When children are very young, Mother and Dad talk over home plans together. Theirs is always the final responsibility for the welfare of the family — as long as their children are immature.

But as soon as he can, how Junior loves to be included in Mother's and Dad's discussion! Then when he is a little older he appreciates having a chance to express his ideas, too. The Family Council is often begun as Mother and Dad include their son or daughter in their discussion of plans for a vacation or any other special family event.

When children approach adolescence, one of their jobs is to gradually free themselves from too much parental direction. They must learn to stand on their own feet, get along happily with their pals, make their own decisions. That is one reason why camping is such a valuable experience for tens of thousands of youngsters.

Taking a summer job away from home is another way a teenager grows in self-direction, as well as adding to his bank account for further education. Son or daughter will often appreciate recounting to the family some of the holiday experiences, the failures as well as successes, in living away from the family.

When there is understanding and affection between parents and children, it is much easier to keep open "the channels of communication". During the adolescent years this is a very real achievement.

The habit of a Family Council, established when a boy or girl is small, makes this mutual sharing easier. Then when son or daughter are grown and start homes of their own, they will likely want to talk things over with their marriage partner before making major decisions. In time, they too will likely include their own children in the Family Council.

As grandparents you will be on the side lines — and enjoying freedom from responsibility, we hope!

ANTIQUE STOVE STILL AT WORK

Pictou, N.S. (CP) — The Nichol family of nearby Three Brooks believes in putting antique household fixtures to good use.

John and Hugh Nichol still make daily use of a stove believed more than 100 years old. They can remember their mother telling them it was in its present location 85 years ago, when she came to the house as a young bride.

The stove, believed to have cost $25 when new, bears the maker's plate of W. H. Davies, who operated a foundry here late in the 19th century.

Elegant early-spring prints

Junior Vogue of Toronto uses a striking black and white print in the new Canadian surah fabric, to create an elegantly late-day sheath. High rise cumberbund previews the return of the fitted waist look. The fabric has the rich hand and glow of silk, yet resists crushing and spotting. It can be drycleaned, or washed by machine or hand, and requires only a light pressing.

Red Cross 'always on the job' for hospitalized war veterans

"The public is neither cold nor indifferent when the boys are fighting a war, for, after all, the blood they shed is the same that flows in the veins of the whole nation," wrote Henri Dunant 100 years ago. "Anyone who dons a uniform to defend or serve the country certainly merits all the solicitude of his countrymen," declared the Swiss businessman who founded the Red Cross.

A passerby just after the battle at Solferino in 1859, Dunant pitched in to help local residents care for 40,000 French, Sardinian and Austrian wounded, an experience that suggested the Red Cross idea to him.

Today, 10 years after Korea, 17 years after the Second World War, 44 years after the First World War, 61 years after the Boer War — thousands of ill or wounded in the veterans' hospitals watch the calendar push their days of popular acclaim farther and farther into the background. As a gentle reminder, once a year, on Poppy Day, the "Lest We Forget" slogan is briefly heard.

For the Red Cross, however, the slogan is "Always On the Job". Since the days of its founder, the wounded have been a special charge of the Red Cross, and in this selfless work more volunteers are urgently needed to visit the veterans, to help with entertainment, the distribution of books and magazines and small comforts, the serving of coffee and cakes.

When the Red Cross financial campaign canvasser calls, it should be remembered that funds are urgently needed, too, for the welfare service for veterans and their families, for the motion picture shows for veterans, the libraries, the arts and crafts training programs, and the Red Cross Lodge, which provides a clubroom for the veterans and room accommodation for their visiting friends and relatives.

Education Day 'open house' held at Arundel High School

(Intended for last issue)

Arundel — Education Day was observed in the Arundel School with an "open house" for parents and all persons interested in the progress of the school. From 2 to 3 p.m. visitors had stated intervals to visit the various classrooms and see the work in progress. Following this, pupils and visitors gathered in the auditorium, where Principal M. Graham welcomed the visitors.

Speaker for the afternoon was Mr. E. M. Greaves, System Supervisor of Employment Services, Canadian National Railways, who is responsible for technical standards maintained at all employment offices which serve the system. Mr. Greaves was introduced by Principal Graham, and took for his subject, "What industry expects of high school students". His address was not only inspiring to the students, to whom he principally addressed himself, but to the teachers and parents also. He emphasized the points that industry wants high school students with a good command of language, and with a foundation of science and mathematics as the next important thing. They also expect the school and family to co-operate to develop sound work habits, and a stable character. In conclusion, he advised parents to teach their children to have a sense of value, to set objectives that are practical in terms of their abilities and family finances. "Make sure that what they aim at as a career, has a future and a permanent calling. If you set the example of good living and work habits, you will not have much to concern yourselves about," he said.

Mr. Leslie Cooke thanked the speaker. The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments brought a very interesting afternoon to a close.

SCHOOL TOOLS FROM VENDING MACHINES

The little corner store selling school supplies is moving right into some of Ontario's high school corridors by means of dispensing machines, reports the St. Thomas correspondent of The Financial Post. Indications are that they may well find their way into schools right across Canada. Already 22,000 vending machines are being used by schools in the U.S. and recently several "feeler" machines were placed in the St. Thomas and London, Ont., area schools.

Dessert ideas for March

(Consumer Section)

What's for dessert in the month of March? We vote for a meringue dessert — because it will be light and airy, low in calories, low in cost, and will fit in with our lenten and coming-into-spring menus.

There are two kinds of meringues — hard and soft. Hard meringue contains more sugar in proportion to egg white than the soft type, and therefore must be beaten more to dissolve it. Hard meringues must be baked slowly at a very low temperature (250° F.) so that they are crisp on the outside and tender within. These meringues are often served alone, or they may be made into individual shells or pie shells and filled with ice cream, fruit, cream filling, a mixture of fruit and whipped cream or a mixture of fruit and cream filling. Hard meringues freeze well, so extras might be made now while eggs are plentiful. They also keep well for several weeks stored in a box with a tightly fitting cover.

On the other hand, the list of soft meringue desserts is, like the meringue itself, a mile high. For instance, there is Fruit Whip, light airy meringue with a folded-in flavor of fruit pulp from canned or frozen apricots, peaches, raspberries, strawberries, cherries, prunes or fresh apples.

There are puddings and pies with the meringue folded in, like Baked Lemon Pudding and Peach Chiffon Pie. There are desserts with meringue tops baked to light golden, such as Raspberry Cream Meringue Pie and Baked Alaska.

There are cakes and cookies with a meringue base — Angel Cake; Chiffon Cake; Maple Fruit Meringues; Cherry Macaroons. There are also cakes trimmed with meringue in the forms of fluffy and boiled icings.

To make meringue of a good volume, it is best to use egg whites at room temperature. The beaters and bowl should be absolutely free from any traces of fat. The bowl should be of a size in proportion to the amount of meringue — for example, a small bowl for a 1 to 3-egg meringue. Two level tablespoons of sugar per egg white should be added at the beginning of beating, so that it will be thoroughly dissolved by the time the meringue has reached peak volume and stands in soft glossy peaks when the beaters are lifted.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Easter egg customs have changed throughout the years, and still vary from one region to another.

In parts of England it was once the custom to go "pace-egging". Children dressed up somewhat after the Hallowe'en manner, and went from door to door collecting eggs.

In other areas of England colored eggs were used to send romatic messages. They were elaborately decorated, and highly prized. These were often saved from year to year, and in many cases became family heirlooms. Dates on such eggs have been admitted as evidence in courts of law, being considered as authentic as dates recorded in family Bibles.

In Italy it was an old custom to send large platters of colored eggs to the church to be blessed on the eve of Easter.

Slim and Trim

With modern emphasis on dieting, there are many new products on the market to aid weight-reducers. Among these are biscuits, said to satisfy the feeling of having actually eaten and of being well-fed.

Flavors have been developed to suit various national tastes. A Canadian taste-testing panel said vanilla and orange were the most agreeable flavors in this country. Coffee flavoring is used in Sweden, raspberry and lemon in Germany, and vanilla and cheese in Britain.

Also new on the market are boil-in-a-bag kippers. The fish is left in the container, dunked in water when cooking. One of the advantages is the absence of odor.

The consumer section of the federal fisheries department suggests the following British-style supper dish:

Cook the kippers as directed on the package, then drain well and cut to fit slices of hot buttered toast. Sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Place under broiler long enough to melt and brown the cheese. Serve piping hot, garnished with parsley and tomato wedges.

Garment Sizes

New to stores and spring catalogues are undergarments for children in CSS sizes. CSS stands for Canada Standard Sizes — the sizes established by body measurements rather than by the old system of a child's age.

The specifications board has figures ready for 19 garments and more are expected to be prepared later.

Twist Style

Two new apparel items on the market were inspired by the twist, the new dance craze.

Gaily-striped shoes — "twist shoes" — are available now in many cities. The long over-blouses with a ruffle around the lower edge are known as twist blouses.

Self Defence

In the Vancouver area, increasing numbers of young women are showing interest in judo, the sport of self-defence.

Five of the six community centres at Vancouver are conducting judo classes for women, most of them between 17 and 30.

Len Ryan, assistant supervisor of community centres, attributes most of the upswing to the exhilaration of judo, with self-protection as the secondary consideration.

Maybe a loose shingle started it. Or worn-out weather stripping. Or a gnawing band of termites. Whatever it was, plugging a leak properly can be expensive—and, of course, the longer it's left, the more costly a repair becomes. This goes for peeling paint, crumbling concrete, and missing mortar too.

Yes, keeping a house in shape sometimes costs a lot of money, and occasionally it may cost more than you have on hand. What then? The answer may be a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan... money you can borrow at low interest for repairs... or for extra bedrooms, a garage, a carport, modern heating, new and up-to-date plumbing—things that maintain or improve your home as an investment. Just call at your nearest branch of The Bank of Nova Scotia. See the manager. He will welcome the opportunity to discuss how a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan can help you.

Gatineau Power unit saves time and manpower

Gatineau Power Company is always looking for means of improving service to its customers. The Company has recently purchased a new truck, the only one of its kind in the area.

This vehicle can perform many tasks, such as digging holes, erecting and removing poles. It is equipped with an aerial mast and personnel bucket which can be used in the trimming of trees, construction and maintenance of lines.

This vehicle will dig a hole and erect a pole in less than 10 minutes. By conventional methods it would have taken two men an hour to dig the hole, and a crew of six men 20 minutes to erect the pole. Following last year's sleet storm in Vaudreuil division, a less recent model with a crew of four men was digging and erecting up to 35 poles a day. To obtain the same results the Company would have required a crew of 30 men.

Another characteristic which adds to its performance is the mobility of the mast, which can pivot 360°, permitting to place this vehicle by the roadside wherever there is a hole to dig, or a pole to erect at a short distance from the road, without hindering traffic.

This vehicle, which was purchased for $21,000, can lift a load of 8,000 lbs. and is operated entirely by a hydraulic system. It will be used throughout the area served by the Gatineau Power Company.

FLY CASTERS COMPETE FOR QUE. CHAMPIONSHIP

Montreal — The Quebec fly and bait casting and spinning championships will again be decided at the Montreal Sportsman's Show, at the Show Mart, on Saturday, March 24, at 9 a.m. Casting events are open only to members of clubs and associations which are members of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations. Each organization may have two representatives in each class — fly casting, bait casting and spinning, for individuals and teams.

MONTEREY THE BIG MERCURY

Mercury Monterey Custom 4-door sedan... one of Ford of Canada's fine cars, built in Canada.

Try not to think about how nice it looks! It won't be easy, but be practical. This new Mercury Monterey has all but done away with the inconvenience of monthly chassis lubrications, oil changes, brake adjustments and seasonal radiator changes. Monterey's a big car for the man who wants stretch out room and power to spare. On long trips miles turn to minutes, while a new Big Six engine whittles regular gas costs. (And for even greater performance, there are three V-8's as well: the 220 hp. that runs on regular gas, and the high powered 300 hp. and 405 hp. Marauder engines.) In Monterey's two series you can choose from hardtops, sedans, wagons and a sporty convertible. Sound good? It should for the new Mercury Monterey is good for you—if you want and need practical motoring at the lowest Mercury prices in years. Read the small print with the big story.

30,000 mile chassis lubrication • 30,000 mile anti-freeze engine coolant • 6,000 mile oil change cycle • double wrapped aluminized muffler • automatic self-adjusting brakes • super enamel finish • choice of Big Six or 3 V-8 engines • sedans, hardtops, wagons and convertible • Dealer warranted for 12,000 miles or one full year, whichever comes first

Hormone pellets aid beef cattle

Ottawa (CP) — Tiny, inexpensive pellets can add valuable pounds to fattening beef cattle, Saskatchewan experiments show.

Dr. S. E. Beacom, of the federal agriculture department, has reported that implants of hormones in beef steers can pack an average 45 pounds more on the animals, if pastures are good.

Dr. Beacom worked the past two years at the Melfort, Sask., experimental farm. Animals needed to gain only two pounds to pay for the hormone treatment.

Two pellets, each weighing 12 milligrams and contained a dose of diethylstilbestrol, were tucked into the ear tissues of 600-pound steer calves at the start of the grazing season. It cost about 25 cents per animal.

In 1960, over the grazing season, 16 treated steers outgrew their companions an average of 45 pounds, the differences ranging from three to 97 pounds. Average weight gain for the special steers was 301 pounds.

Last season, when drought impaired the quality of pastures, the gain over 45 days was reduced to an average 6½ pounds more for the treated steers than the others.

Pest control in house plants

House plants give a touch of luxury to the home. They can, however, give something else — a pest control problem.

While the problem may be solved in some cases by washing the plants, insecticides may be required in other instances.

Aphids (plant lice), and whiteflies are the most common of the house plant pests. Both may be controlled by spraying or dipping the plants in malathion emulsion, according to N. V. Tonks, of the Canada Department of Agriculture's experimental farm at Saanichton, B.C. Recommended dosage is one teaspoonful of malathion emulsion per gallon of water.

Spider Mites

Another trouble maker is the spider mite, which causes the foliage to become mottled and whitish in color. The mites can be controlled to some extent by washing the undersides of the leaves with a strong stream of water. For heavier infestations, the plants should be sprayed with malathion or kelthane. One teaspoonful of the latter to one gallon of water gives a spray highly effective against mites, though it does not control other pests.

Two pests difficult to control are mealybugs and scale insects. Mealybugs, common on plants such as rose, fuchsia, geranium and oleander, are oval-shaped and have a white waxy covering. Scale insects, usually brown and round, oval or oyster-shaped, attack fern, palm, croton, ivy, oleander, cactus and rubber plants. It is often necessary to spray the plants three to five times at weekly intervals to eliminate these stubborn insects. Malathion and diazinon are effective as sprays. Diazinon emulsion also is used at one teaspoonful per gallon of water.

Fungus Gnats

Sometimes house plants are surrounded by swarms of flies called fungus gnats. The maggots of these gnats live in the soil around the roots and, while seldom injuring the plants, may become a nuisance.

They may be controlled by soaking the soil thoroughly with malathion solution of one teaspoonful per gallon of water. A nicotine sulphate solution in the same proportions is also effective. Another method is to apply a strong solution of soap and water — prepared by dissolving a quarter of a pound of soap in a gallon of water. A six-inch pot requires about a cupful of the solution.

RED CROSS MONTH —

International Red Cross

"Yes, this is the Red Cross." The expressman put down his packages of knitting wool and pre-cut cloth. The hum of neighborly conversation resumed again. Women from all over town and some from the back concession roads laughed and chatted throughout the parish hall as their fingers kept busy making clothing, preparing layettes, making surgical dressings.

The Red Cross can also mean, in the same town, perhaps in that same parish hall, the white orderliness of a blood clinic for volunteer donors, an instant help alarm spread by telephone to gather clothing, food, shelter for families dispossessed by fire or flood. It can also mean the march of volunteer canvassers from door to door to ask for donations to the Red Cross financial campaign.

Some of the funds will take care of the handling costs and laboratory expenses of the blood donated for transfusions free to patients in area hospitals. Some will go to pay for the wool for knitting, for the cloth cut to patterns in Montreal and forwarded to the local Branches for the completed garments to be made.

Some of the funds, some of the clothing made in church halls or clubrooms, will help neighbors, perhaps close, perhaps distant, in disasters in Quebec, elsewhere in Canada, perhaps in the Congo, in distressed regions like the British Honduras, or Haiti, or wherever it is needed; for the Canadian Red Cross Society, made up of the provincial divisions, plays a full and active role in the League of Red Cross Societies at Geneva and of the International Red Cross Committee, which functions on the highest diplomatic and humanitarian levels.

"This is the Red Cross." The whole world-wide structure is built on the base of volunteer work and voluntary contributions of small groups of good neighbors in homes and halls throughout the free world.

wonder QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

I WONDER . . . Curiosity is a priceless gift. A youngster's daily questions indicate a bright, inquiring mind. They should be answered intelligently. In this column periodically the editors of this newspaper, in cooperation with The Book of Knowledge, will print those questions — and the answers — most frequently asked by children of their parents.

How does a Fly walk on the Ceiling?

When the foot of a fly is seen through the microscope, two membranes, or cushions, can be noticed. These are covered with tiny hairs, each with a disc at the end.

Some scientists believe that the discs act as suckers and that when a fly walks on the ceiling a vacuum is formed between the disc and ceiling, holding the fly up there by the pressure of the air. Against this theory, however, is the fact that when the air is drawn out of a vessel in which the fly is walking upside down, the insect does not fall off.

Other scientists who have carefully studied the fly believe that it is able to hold on by means of a sticky substance coming from the under side of the foot. Each hair would seem to be a tiny tube for conveying this liquid from the little pouch in which it is produced, pouring it out as required. But, however the fly performs the feat, it still seems to be defying gravity.

Can a Watch be used as a Compass?

Yes. When you are out for a walk in the country, it will be easy to find the south and from that any other direction, if (1) the sun is shining and (2) you have a watch!

Hold the watch face up, flat in the palm of your hand, or lay it upon a flat surface. Place some slender article, such as a match or the stalk of a flower, upright against the edge of the watch and at the point of the rim to which the hour hand is pointing. By turning about it is easy to get the watch in such a position that the shadow of the match falls exactly along the hour hand. The south will be exactly midway between that point and the figure 12 on the dial. Thus, if it is eight o'clock in the morning, a line drawn from the middle of the dial through the figure 10 will point to the south. If it is ten o'clock, the south will be indicated by a line drawn from the center of the dial through the figure 11.

Thus far we have spoken only of exact hours. Any other time would be just as easy to calculate, however. Halfway from the hour hand, no matter what position it is in, to 12 is the south.

J. A. POLLOCK'S TIPS ON A FAST, SAFE START FOR CALVES

Heifers on the Purina Farm calve 4 to 8 months ahead of average. That means they give around 3,000 lbs. of milk before most heifers have even started producing. Why don't you try it!

1. As soon as the calf is dropped, cut off the navel cord about 2 inches from the calf's body and soak the stub in iodine to prevent infection.

2. For the first three days leave the calf with the mother so it can get the first colostrum milk which helps regulate the digestive system. Milk to even pressure in all 4 quarters, but do not empty udder completely. Guard calf against draughts and dampness.

3. For the next ten days, keep calf in an individual pen. Pen should have clean bedding and be disinfected with Purina Disinfectant before calf is moved in.

4. On the fourth day start feeding Purina Nursing Chow in gruel form 1 lb. replaces 1 gal. milk. Continue for four weeks. Calf should have clean water and rock salt available free choice.

5. Self-feed Purina Calf Startena from 4 days to 4 months, adding bright leafy hay at 2 months.

6. After 4 months change to a Purina heifer growing program.

Why not give me a call, or drop in at my Store with the Checkerboard Sign and let me tell you how Purina feeding has been paying off for many of your neighbours.

Congratulating editor

Public joins in celebrating L'Argenteuil's 10th birthday

A gala evening last Thursday at the Cinema Lachute marked the 10th anniversary of "L'Argenteuil" — when newspapermen, Fernand Berthiaume (editor) and Ray Church (advertising representative), stepped out of character into "showbiz", and presented a highly entertaining evening to a full house of guests and paying customers.

The evening was ably m.c.'d by Guy Lafortune. Honored guests were Wm. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., and Mrs. Cottingham; Mayor Fernand Legault and the mayoress; Marc Fortin, editor of l'Echo du Nord, St. Jerome, and president of the Association of French-language Weeklies; and Mr. R. A. Giles, manager of Giles Publishing House, and Mrs. Giles. . . . In his introductory address Mr. Berthiaume paid high tribute to two other citizens, Horace Lamarche and Romeo Legault, who were present with their wives; these gentlemen had given valuable assistance in the inauguration of "L'Argenteuil" 10 years ago. Mr. Cottingham and Mayor Legault also addressed the large audience, paying tribute to the newspaper and its editor.

A highlight of the program was the drawing of five lucky prize-winners of $100 each, from a huge wire basket containing 145,000 tickets in a contest arranged with collaboration of district merchants. Tony Malaket, president of the Chambre de Commerce, joined the M.P.P., the Mayor, Mr. Fortin and Mr. Giles, to draw the winning tickets.

Winners of $100 cash awards were — Mme André Benoit, Suzanne Bradford, Henri Durand, Jeremie Chenier, J. Roméo Legault. . . . The tickets were from the following respective stores: Lingerie Marthe, Fernando Carrière, Helene Poirier Restaurant (two), and Lachute Stationery Reg'd.

A three-piece orchestra, with Guy Lafortune as vocalist and director, entertained with modern melodies. Miss Claire Cousineau, soprano, was warmly applauded for her fine rendition of songs. Her piano accompanist was Leonard Lupien, of Brownsburg. A lively sidelight of the entertainment was a twist contest, in which two young couples performed and were awarded cash prizes on the enthusiasm of public applause.

Pièce-de-resistance of this program was the appearance of a popular comedy team, the Jerolas. The lapse of time till their late arrival from Montreal, was occupied by the indefatigable playing of the Trio Pierre orchestra (Pierre Poirier, piano; Gaetan Forget, guitar; Claude Gagné, traps), whose efforts the audience heartily applauded. The Jerolas fully measured up to their reputation as TV and nightclub entertainers, and recording artists. There was never a dull moment in their range of native songs and rhythms, and their hilarious impersonations.

Following this public celebration of a notable date in the achievement of Lachute's French-language citizenry, a reception for friends and business associates of "L'Argenteuil" was held at the "Bon Prince" grill and restaurant.

Robert Matte heads new Brownsburg Ch. Commerce

The Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes - Terrebonne Region Chambers of Commerce have added to their strength and influence by the affiliation of a new Chamber formed last week at Brownsburg.

Robert Matte, merchant tailor, who was named provisional president for the formative stages, was officially elected as charter president.

Other members of the directorate are — Maurice Parizeau, 1st vice-president; Jean-Chs. St-André, 2nd vice-president; Alcide Morin, secretary-treasurer; Roger Martel, Kenneth McGibbon, Dr. Gérald Daigle, Dr. Maurice Lamoureux, Maurice Lamarre, Larry Pressault, Hilaire Binette and Lucien Denis, directors.

Present at the inaugural meeting were Jean-Paul Létourneau; general director of the Quebec Provincial Chamber of Commerce; Clément Legault, president of Ste. Scholastique and 1st vice-president of the regional group; Gaetan Leclair, ex-president of the Lachute C. of C. and 2nd vice-president of the region.

Messrs. J. P. Létourneau, Clément Legault and Robert Matte addressed the meeting, which was held at the Hotel 4 Chemins concluding with a buffet supper.

Argent'l schools' speaking contest

The Argenteuil Teachers' Association is planning to hold its annual public speaking contest for students from the schools of Argenteuil on Friday, April 6. This event will be held in Brownsburg High School at 8 p.m.

The judges for this year's contest will be — Mrs. Bessie McConnachie, of John Rennie High School, Pointe Claire; Mr. John R. Moore, Vice-Principal of Hillcrest School, St. Martin; and Mr. Dale Aiken, Principal of Martinvale School, St. Martin.

Victimized in apartment house daytime robbery

Two tenants in the Malacket apartment building, 565 Main Street, returned Thursday afternoon of last week to find their apartments had been effectively looted — according to Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, of the Q.P.P. Total loss was estimated in the vicinity of $1,200, according to Officer Legarré, who investigated the thefts along with the municipal police.

Victims of the theft were Mrs. Doris Robinson, Apt. 12, who reported a short fur jacket and radio missing, valued at a total of $350. The Misses Fauteux, who only a few weeks ago had their business establishment razed by fire, reported the theft of two mink stoles, valued at $500; a matching muff valued at $125; a hair dryer and a 12-place setting of silver cutlery, valued at several hundred dollars. They reside in Apt. 9.

The Provincial Police authorities report entry to the apartments was gained by means of the doors, neither of which appeared to be forced.

Any information readers may have that could assist the police in solving these thefts, would be appreciated by Cpl. Dinelle, who may be contacted by calling LO 2-5234.

BHS student won H'wksby Rotary district speaking

Preliminaries in the Rotary Club speaking contest were held for the Hawkesbury district on Tuesday of last week, at the regular meeting of that club, held in the King Edward Hotel.

This contest is sponsored by the Montreal Rotary Club, with several Rotary branches outside the city participating. One winner from each club then appears in the semi-finals, at a Rotary Club in the city area. The finals are then held, early in April, at the Montreal club, where four will be judged winners and awarded scholarships.

The boys competing at the Hawkesbury preliminary were Clark Couture, of Brownsburg High School, and Brian Mullin, of Hawkesbury. Young Couture won the laurels, and will appear in the semi-final contests.

Lachute 4-H girl Quebec winner in Holstein judging

An 11-year-old Lachute girl and a 10-year-old boy were top competitors from Quebec in the Junior Judging Contest sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Association in connection with the selection of the All-Canadian Holsteins for the current show season. The boy was Don Sproule, of the Ormstown 4-H Calf Club, while the girl is Rozlyn Wilson, a member of the Lachute Calf Club. Rozlyn was tied for first in Quebec last year in this same competition. She is a daughter of Harold Wilson, Lachute, who is a director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. Rozlyn and Don Sproule had scores of 130 out of a possible 140 points. Rozlyn was second with her junior calf at the Lachute 4-H Achievement Day.

Rozlyn Wilson

A total of 562 4-H members from coast to coast took part in the competition. The top score of 132 was made by D'Arcy McGhan, of Edmonton. Ten contestants had scores of 130 points. Douglas and Sharon Meyer, of Lachute, each scored 126.

Both Rozlyn and Don will receive a model of a true type Holstein cow from the Quebec Branch of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada in addition to the prizes won in the National Competition.

$4,000 grant to Rouge River school board

The Hon. Gérin-Lajoie, Minister of Youth, gave information last week that a special grant of $4,000 had been given to the Protestant School Board of Rouge River. The grant is to meet the board's accumulated deficit as at June 30, 1961. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Bennett, was advised by the Department to this efffect.

Lions Club annual speaking contest, public and student interest at peak

Eleven students from the higher grades of six schools (five Catholic and one Protestant) competed last week in the Lions Club annual speaking contest, before an audience of almost 400 people at Lachute Auditorium. The audience included parents, friends and school teachers, but the great majority were juveniles, displaying spontaneous interest in the efforts of their fellow students and competitors from other schools.

In the English group there were only three entrants, Sandy Welburn, Marlene Roberts and John Ponech, all from Brownsburg High School.

The French speakers numbered eight students — Ginette Allaire and Francine Grandmaison (Immaculate Conception School), Jacques Larocque and Serge Allaire (Clement School), Denise Belanger and Danielle Dumais (St. Alexandre Convent), Serge Miron and Marcel Leduc (l'Ecole Supérieure).

The procedure of the contest was announced by Dr. Eric Mongeon, capable committeeman for this Lions Club program. The young orators each gave a prepared speech of 5 to 7 minutes' duration on a subject of their own choice. They were then handed a list of 20 optional topics, and with 15 minutes' preparation, they gave an impromptu talk limited between 2 and 3 minutes on one selected subject. . . . This was perhaps the prime test of merit, for although the subjects embraced a wide range to meet the knowledge or imagination of almost any high-schooler, the challenge lay in the co-ordination of material, and effective, spontaneous delivery without rehearsal.

The impromptu topics included such titles as "My Future Profession", "I Live in Cape Canaveral", "The Twist", "Going Steady", and "My Favorite Sport". In this variety of fare the audience derived interest from the opinions and ideas expressed, quite apart from thir personal appraisal of the speakers' efforts.

The judges were seated among the audience — less intimidating to the contestants, perhaps, than the customary "panel". All were members of the Lions Club, as follows — (French language) Donat Saulnier, Horace Lamarche and Mozart Carriere; (English) Lorne Duncan, Donald M. Hay and George Locke.

On pooling and totalling the judges' reports, Chairman Dr. Mongeon announced the first-place winners as follows:

French — (boys) Marcel Leduc, of l'Ecole Supérieure; (girls) Denise Belanger, of St. Alexandre Convent.

English — (boys) Sandy Welburn, and (girls) Marlene Roberts, both of Brownsburg High School.

Stage set for Red Cross 'blitz' next Monday night

The Red Cross "blitz" drive will be held in the Town of Lachute, Ayersville and surrounding districts next Monday evening, April 2, starting at 6.30 p.m. All citizens are reminded that the canvassers will be calling between 6.30 and 9.30 p.m.

Campaign headquarters will be set up at the Lachute Auditorium on blitz night, and as each district is canvassed, the captains and canvassers, with other workers who care to join them, will report to the campaign chairmen and treasurer to check in their collections. The treasurer, Mr. C. E. Richardson, has arranged for a sufficient number of qualified helpers to make sure there will be no delay in clearing the captains with their reports and collections. The campaign chairmen are Mr. Howard Morrison and Mr. Gaetan Leclair. . . . Coffee and light refreshments will be served by members of the Lachute Red Cross Society, under direction of Mrs. Gordon McOuat, president of the local branch.

The Campaign Committee is optimistic that the assigned quota of $4,000 will be exceeded. The generous support of all citizens will assure the local branch of obtaining this objective.

All captains for the outlying rural districts are asked to make their returns, at least for the amounts they have collected to date, to the Auditorium next Monday night. This will be of help to the campaign committee, to show how the collections are progressing.

New manager for BNS branch at Grenville

The Bank of Nova Scotia has announced the appointment of Mr. F. W. Johnston as manager of its branch in Grenville, Que., succeeding Mr. L. C. Neville, who moves to Ottawa.

Mr. Wes Johnston is an Ottawa man by birth. His first Scotiabank experience was at Hull branch. After training there and at Fort Coulonge, Que., he was appointed accountant at Longueuil, and held the same post at St. Roch branch, in Quebec City and at Hull branch, where he was subsequently credit officer. His first managerial appointment was at Bronson and Holmwood branch, in Ottawa. Most recently he has been a member of the supervisor's department, in Montreal.

He is married, and has a son and a daughter of school age.

Merit award to Brownsburg C-I-L for safety record

The National Safety Council recently announced that the Brownsburg Works of Canadian Industries Limited has been presented the Council's Award of Merit for its excellent safety record. The award is presented only when an establishment's record satisfies rigid requirements laid down in the Council's "Award Plan for Recognizing Good Industrial Safety Record".

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, in a letter of congratulations to K. W. MacGibbon, Works Manager, explained that the plant qualified for the award because of its injury-free period of 2,371,402 manhours from September 15, 1960, to December 31, 1961.

Easter Seals annual campaign aids crippled and handicapped

The Lions Club president, Col. Ernest Emmett — taking charge of the Easter Seals campaign on the departure of Buster Higginson, committeeman — has matters well in hand, with seals and return envelopes ready for the mails, addressed to over 6,000 prospective subscribers in the district.

There is no door-to-door canvass in this annual appeal. It is strictly a direct-mail approach dependent on its worthiness, and on the sympathy of health-enjoying citizens whose hearts are touched by the handicaps of crippled children. The Lions Club, in keeping with its solicitude for less-fortunate fellow beings, is the sponsoring organization for this district.

The Quebec Easter Seals Society has its Montreal office in the Sun Life Building. Through this agency various organizations benefit from the proceeds of Easter Seals — such as the Mackay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children, with its summer camp at Ayers Cliff; the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal; the Occupational Therapy and Rehabilitation Centre; the Cripples' Aid Committee of the Rotary Club of Montreal; the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children and its camp at St. Alphonse de Joliette.

It is of special note, however, that a portion of the contributions in this district remains with the Lions Club, while still strictly earmarked for benefit of the physically handicapped. The assistance given locally, through this medium, has included many deserving cases over the years — such as wheelchairs, orthopedic braces, an artificial limb, and aid to retarded children.

Col. Emmett and the Lions Club solicit the support of all Watchman readers, to permit the continuance of this good work. . . . Return the pink envelope with your contribution, but please do not return the seals — this only incurs collect-payment for postage.

Guernsey breeder wins contest

Toronto (CP) — Louis Georges St. Jacques, of Lachute, a Guernsey cattle breeder for only five years, won the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Association all-Canadian judging competition.

Tied for second place were Ernest Eagles, agricultural representative of Sussex, N.B., and secretary of the New Brunswick Guernsey Club, and Rolland E. Parker, Newport, N.S., a past-president of the CGBA.

Competition was broken into three sections — men, women and 4-H clubs.

Week's Epigram

Captains for Red Cross drive in Brownsburg

The Brownsburg Red Cross campaign is now under way. Mr. J. D. Lepine, chairman of the drive, states that a quota of $1,600 is set, but feels sure that with a little effort this amount can be exceeded.

Mr. Hector Steele is co-chairman and Mr. N. E. Smillie is in charge of visiting the business establishments.

Gold Bond Stamps pay off

A boost of $772.33 to the Ayersville church building fund was forthcoming when Mme Pierre Breney cashed an accumulation of Gold Bond Stamps at the IGA Foodliner. Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

I have previously mentioned the poisoning of animals running loose in the bush. No matter what species these may be, wild dogs, wolves or what-have-you, this practice should be stopped. We also know there has to be some form of control — but very definitely not this. A call this past week more than points this out.

As most of you know, deer have been pulled down and killed in the Dalesville area. Now this was on private property; and to me, that means just that. However, acting under orders, our Wardens had strewn the area with poisoned meats, etc., with (I think) not too much regard for any pet that might be in the district with its owner. Of course, there is not too much chance of any pet picking this up, but one cannot be sure. As far as I know nothing of this poisonous nature can be placed on private property WITHOUT the express permission of the owners. Now this was not obtained at the time, so where does that leave the Wardens. UP A TREE.

This affair reminded me of something similar that occurred in Ontario, where wolves had been running loose on private property and poison had been spread around for them. However, a dog got a sniff of the meat and ate some of it, with the inevitable results. The owner of this animal had sued the wardens for loss of the dog, and the Judge hearing the case had rendered in his favor, saying that no one has the right to trespass on any property for these purposes at any time — and this included government employees.

At any rate this way of killing a predator should be stamped out and fast. True, there will be all kinds of criticism of any law like this, but it still should be done.

A mother bear and her cub have been seen around Mille Iles — so a word of warning for anyone seeing this little family. Leave them alone! Unless, of course, you want to go a couple of rounds with the mother. They won't harm anything just now, as they are more interested in food than anything else. But interfere with them, and they can be very ugly. Another thing, don't shoot them. After all, they are great to have around.

Birds of all kinds are with us once more, and I am happy to say I finally saw a Red-wing blackbird. Right alongside a ditch, these birds can be seen in numbers. At the first sign of open water they are in evidence. It is nice to watch them performing. There are also a couple more of the Osprey family too, and with the opening of the North River they will be much in evidence. Hawks of all kinds can be seen; they seem to be getting enough food too. I have also been told of an eagle seen right near town. (By the way, if this bird should like garbage, then it will be very well fed!)

I finally got the report on the moose kill for the province. Believe me, this does not make good reading. With the exception of a few counties, the destruction of these animals has doubled within the last five years. The report does not break down the numbers of U.S. hunters who came after moose, but it would be safe to say at least 75% of them were not from this province. Revenue is, of course, the major factor as far as the government is concerned, and it seems not too much is being done for the future of these animals.

With the fishing season opening in less than a month from this date, most of us can hardly wait. If none of your tackle has been looked at since the closing last year, then you have some trouble on your hands, especially if you cannot do the repairs yourself. You may be lucky, though.

The Sportsman's Show in Montreal does not seem to have been the success of former years. Why, I don't know. A thought occurs to me that it may be getting too commercial. Some of the exhibits certainly could do with some improvement. One remark I heard criticized the running-loose of children by the dozen. Too bad that things like this get out of control.

More information on the poachers has come to hand, and I believe something will come of it. As some of you may know, there is a small lake just northeast of Lake Hughes; it is very small, but trout do frequent this lake. I have been told the ice on its surface has just about as many holes as a pincushion. Lake Louisa is still being fished at night. Lake Louisa shows very definite signs of netting, and this does not bode well for the fish. I also heard of poaching going on openly in the Morin Heights district. Where are the wardens?

The Horton Game Reserve in the south section of the Rimouski County has been increased in size, from 20 square miles to 310. Originally opened for the locals in that area, it is now being visited more and more by outsiders. It is the only major reserve where hunting and fishing are carried on legally. It is supposed to produce three percent more deer than any other district north of Montreal — or so the Minister of Game and Fisheries says. How long this situation will last is anybody's guess; mine is that, by this time next year it will be just like the others. Opened about 10 years ago, nothing was done with this until recently. Naturally, what is being done makes very good political fodder, and it's a safe bet nothing more will be achieved until another election. If this park is run like some of the better-known ones in Quebec Province, then all I can say is, pity the poor sportsmen. Why we as taxpayers take all the guff handed out by some of the Lesser Lights, without doing something about it, is beyond me.

What happens to the human is of no concern to me, but what happens to our wildlife does concern me, very much. And one thing is apparent — whenever the politicians get a little favorable publicity for a job well done, then that's it; no more work for at least a year.

Ram Ski Club News

Please note, the Carnival will be held this coming Saturday, 31st of March. It has been brought forward one week to assure sufficient snow for the events. I am sure every member will make an extended effort to join in the events, and especially give some thought to an original costume for the day. Anyone wishing to donate a prize to the cause can do so by contacting Bill Jones, at LO 2-2426, Lachute.

This past Saturday a slalom race was held for all members between the ages of 14 and 100. The turnout was not as large as was expected. Most members had never raced before and thought it would be too difficult. Those who did join in, found it to be a lot of fun and I'm sure we will see larger turnouts next year.

Following is a list of the contestants and their average of two runs:

George Noble, 56.7 secs.; Ross Woodhouse, 57.9; Jean Pierre Beauchamp, 59.7; Marc Racine, 1:11.7; Phillip Ayers 1:18.0; Guy Leger 1:19.8; Kevin Kelly, 1:25.1; Bill Jones, 1:26.6; Joy Savory, 1:42.9; Tony Hungerbuhler 1:43.5.

The Ski Patrol at the area did well in taking the first two places in the race, with Tony bringing up the rear. He had to complete the race on one ski after his safety binding had released half-way through the course.

Equipment

This week I was to discuss the subject of long vs short skis. Since the skiing season is slowly drawing to a close, I thought a more appropriate subject would be the storing of equipment for the hot, damp summer season ahead, and leave the controversial subject of short skis to the beginning of next year's columns.

Boots — should be given a good coat of shoe polish or leather preservative designated especially for ski boots, laced, placed in a boot press, and stored in a damp-free location. If oil, grease or other leather softeners are used, the boots will become too soft and not give the proper support required when you are ready to use them next fall.

Skis — should also be stored in a dry location, but not too hot, as you would find for instance in an attic. Most skis sold today, such as wood skis with a good plastic covering, or metal skis, do not afford any additional storage problems. All-wood skis of more ancient vintage without these plastic protective coverings to keep the spring snows and dampness out, should be blocked at the tip and tail of the ski, and a tennis ball or other soft material placed at the centre to give about 2½" of camber between skis. The tennis ball will allow the skis to work independently without carrying any warp between them. This spring is also a good time to tighten your edge screws and refinish your base, if required. It will offer a very good curing period for the plastic to harden properly for next year.

Bindings — require very little maintenance except for a little grease or vaseline on the working parts. Any leather straps should be given a good soaking in linseed oil for the summer.

This just about covers any storage problems you might encounter this spring. I would be most happy to answer any additional problems which you might have; call LE 3-4413.

See you all at the Carnival — that is, if I can recognize you in your costume!

Liberal ladies form County organization

At an organizational meeting of a Liberal Women's Association for Argenteuil, Mme Noella Durocher was elected president, at the Legion Hall last Saturday.

Assisting with the inaugural proceedings were Rodrigue Durocher, ex-Liberal candidate, and Mme Durocher; Bernard Gosselin, also ex-candidate; Jean-Paul Moss and Mme J. Gauthier, from Jeanne Mance constituency, Montreal; Mme A. Pharand, from the Liberal Party external relations; Mme Regina Descelles and Mlle Monique Payette, from Montreal.

Several of the above spoke from the platform, and Mme Durocher as president thanked the gathering and urged all efforts to expand the membership.

Arctic Scouting

Good progress has been made recently in organizing Scout troops in the Eastern Arctic, and as a means of helping the Eskimo Scouts, arrangements are being made to "twin" troops in "Southern" Quebec with their northern fellow-Scouts. One such is Fort Chimo — which is twinned with a patrol over in Ste. Adele.

Now comes a call for parts of uniform for shipment — sometimes by "air-drop" — to the Eskimo Scouts. They need Scout hats, shirts and belts (no shorts), neckerchiefs and woggles. Parents and older boys who may have outgrown uniforms should first check with their own leaders to make sure that available parts are not required locally; anything that is available for the Eskimo boys may be forwarded to Boy Scouts Association, 2085 Bishop St., Montreal, with the parcels marked "Arctic Shipment".

Operation Survival

Boy Scouts and other outdoorsmen visiting the Sportsmen's Show in Montreal recently were impressed with the effective R.C.A.F. display of simple techniques and materials for keeping alive when lost or stranded in the bush. A pocket-size 20-page booklet entitled "Survival Hints for the Sportsmen", compiled by Air Transport Command and published by the Queen's Printer, Ottawa, should be prescribed reading and carried by anyone who has occasion to enter the woods.

Practical training of this type may again be available to Scout leaders in this district, later in the year; it is hoped that a repeat of the week-end survival exercise, conducted last fall with the co-operation of the R.C.A.F., may be arranged.

Rotary topic, Civil Defence

Guest speaker at the March 22 meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was Mr. René Groulx, Chief Instructor of the Emergencies Measures of the Civil Defence Organization for the United Counties of Prescott and Russell, in Ontario.

Mr. Groulx spoke about Civil Defence, and outlined the specifications required for adequate bomb shelters, for safeguard in the event of nuclear war. After his talk he answered some questions by some of the members, then showed a short movie on effects of the atomic bomb, which included scenes from Hiroshima and Nagasaki, in Japan.

After the meeting the members were given leaflets and booklets on bomb shelters and safety precautions one should take when the warning signals start. The talk proved both interesting and informative.

OGDENSBURG CITIZEN —

Was prominent in agricultural and community affairs

The late John Heatlie

The funeral of the late John Heatlie was held Saturday afternoon at the old homestead in Ogdensburg (now the home of his son, John William), attended by numerous friends and sympathizers. Mr. Heatlie died Thursday, March 22, at his home, in his 83rd year.

He was the son of the late John Heatlie and his wife Margaret Donaldson, born at Ogdensburg, December 6, 1879. He was married to Lucy Warwick on February 22, 1910.

The late Mr. Heatlie leaves to mourn his loss his loving wife, a daughter, Shirley, of Montreal, a son, John, at home, and four grandchildren, John, Heather, Robert and Donald. Also left of his immediate family is a sister, Mabel (Mrs. L. T. Veltum), of Billing, Montana, who was able to be present at the funeral.

The late Mr. Heatlie was active in community affairs. He was a charter member of the Grenville Baptist Church.

He was an interested member of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, taking great pleasure in showing horses, both at local fairs and at the Royal.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. R. L. McPhee, assisted by the Rev. W. L. Hisey.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. John Black, Irving Cleland, Archie McFaul, Carl Paige, Douglas Simon and Walter Wert. Interment in the Ogdensburg Cemetery.

IN APPRECIATION

I can scarcely express how grateful I am to kind friends and neighbors for the many cards and flowers sent to me during my stay in hospital. My warmest thanks to all.

Brownsburg — In a materialistic world filled with the tensions of wars and rumors of wars, some 20 million Baptists in 75,000 churches across North America will join in a simultaneous evangelistic crusade in the next few weeks.

As one of the member churches, the Maple Avenue Baptist Church in Brownsburg will hold a program of special evening services, beginning at 7.30 o'clock, during the week of April 8-15.

The Rev. J. K. Zeman, of Toronto, assistant superintendent of the Home Mission Board, will be guest speaker.

Prior to each service, on weekdays Monday through Friday, films from the series, "This Is The Life", will be shown in the church basement beginning at 7 p.m.

"Our hope is to publicize our church fellowship and our oneness in Christ, and to convince people of all races and traditions that our doors are open to their entrance freely. Moreover, we hope to make clear that it is our desire, and nothing else, that all people share the sense of fellowship with God which we enjoy."

A LOT WILL DEPEND ON YOUR CHOICE!

Since the beginning of January, when I announced my candidature for the County of Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes, Mrs. Lécuyer and myself have had the pleasure of entertaining the members of the Liberal Associations of most of the parishes and districts of the county. I have always kept abreast of the situation prevailing within the county. However, these direct contacts have proven very useful to me for we were able to discuss intimately the problems which our farmers and workers have to face in the various sections of the county.

TODAY MORE THAN EVER THE LIBERAL PARTY NEEDS, AMONG ITS MEMBERS AT OTTAWA, LABOR LEADERS, WHITE COLLAR WORKERS AND FARMERS.

The social welfare laws, as well as legislation affecting agriculture and industry which the next Liberal Government at Ottawa will have to adopt, will be of such importance to our people, be they farmers or laborers, that we must be represented by one of our own.

REAL G. LECUYER

The problems of the working class and the farmers of the County of Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes are known to me; I have lived them. The farmers of the County know from experience the firmness and ability with which I represented them before the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. I then demonstrated the capacity for adaptation and comprehension required for the task to be accomplished.

The farmers and working-class of the County, by granting me their support at the Convention, will feel assured that they can count on a man who has known and still knows how to defend their interests; a man who will be their deputy seven days a week the year round.

The Citizens' Committee supporting my candidature to the Liberal Convention for the County of Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes has prepared a manifesto elaborating my position concerning the problems facing our population today: The depressed situation of agriculture in the County. The Monopoly purchases of farm products by the Chain-Store interests. The Farmer and Vertical-Integration. Our worked out farms and their elderly owners. Health Insurance. Our Railways or rather our non-operating railroad workers who have been carrying on despite the lack of a labor agreement for more than one year. The tax load borne by our rate-payers, both at the municipal and school levels. 1967 — A centenary worthy of our history and our dual cultures.

You can obtain a free copy by writing to P.O. Box 124, St. Eustache, Que.

Women's Institute

Mrs. Sharman Doig, W.I. County president, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Brownsburg W.I., in the High School next Thursday, April 5, at 7.30 p.m. The roll-call will be — modelling the finished product of the recent millinery course held here. "How to conduct a W.I. meeting" will be an added feature of the program. . . . This should be an interesting meeting. An invitation is extended to visitors, who are always welcome.

Mr. Rodney Freeborn, of Pointe aux Trembles, was a recent guest of relatives here.

Bereaved

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. John Heatlie and family, and other relatives of the late John Heatlie, who passed away at his residence in Ogdensburg last Thursday, March 22. Many friends and relatives from this community attended the funeral, held on Saturday.

Mrs. Reg Bell, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harrison, spent Sunday with the former's husband, who is a patient at the Queen Mary Hospital, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Seary visited on Sunday with their son, Andrew, who is a student at McGill College.

Mrs. Gertrude Seary returned home this week after spending the winter months at Cold Lake, Northern Alberta, with her son, Robert and family, also spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. D. Hine, in Ajax, Ont.

Mrs. Wm. H. Tomalty spent the week-end with the Rev. and Mrs. Earl McNutt in Peterborough, Ont.

Miss Edith Brown is spending this week with friends in Montreal.

Rivington

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Trineer included Mr. and Mrs. Bud Urquhart, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Langevin and family, of Montreal, visited Mr. and Mrs. James Trineer on the week-end.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Hector MacCutcheon included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Young and family, of Marelan; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stewart, of Kilmar. Mr. Jos. MacCutcheon, of Lachute; and Mr. Ron Leishman, also of Lachute.

Mr. Irvine Pearson is to be congratulated for the excellent job he did in keeping the local roads open and safe for winter travelling.

Quite a few of the younger pupils of Harrington Intermediate School have been sick with mumps this month.

Mille Isles

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church met at the home of Mrs. Arnold Patterson last Tuesday evening, and plans were made for the summer sale to be held July 21. It was also arranged to hold a welcome for the summer assistant, at the hall on May 23.

The Late Mrs. Mabel Trent

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Mabel Blake Trent was held at the D. A. Collins Chapel in Montreal on Friday afternoon, with burial at New Glasgow, Que. The Rev. Horace G. Baugh officiated.

She is survived by one son, William, a staff writer for Weekend Magazine.

Northern Grenville

Miss Jean McMichael, of St. Thomas, Ont., is spending a week's holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McMichael.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Flood and children, of Buckingham, with Mrs. Thos. McMichael, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McGill on Sunday.

Sympathy

Sincere sympathy of friends is extended to the wife and family of the late Mr. John Heatlie, of Ogdensburg.

Friends of Mrs. B. McCart are sorry to know she is at present a patient in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury.

Mr. Willis Young, of Aylmer, with two friends from Ottawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Young on Sunday.

Arundel

Mrs. Gilker, of New Richmond, Gaspé, is spending two weeks' vacation with her daughter, Mrs. Florence Graham.

Mr. George Champagne, who recently underwent surgery in hospital, has now returned home and is convalescing nicely.

Mrs. Gordon Cooke is at present undergoing treatment in hospital. Friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Swail, of Lachute, visited with Mr. and Mrs. S. Swail on Sunday.

Miss Connie Neales, of Rosemere, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Wenville Graham.

The Rev. Mr. Sterling Graham, of Jasper, Ont., and Mr. Arthur Graham, of Ottawa, visited friends and relatives in Arundel over the week-end.

Women's Institute

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Tuesday evening, April 3. The program will consist of a "blind auction" of home cooking. All members are requested to particularly note the date.

Woman's Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Anglican Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wenville Graham. Routine business was dealt with, and plans were made to hold a card party in the W.A. meeting room later in April.

Old Friend Dies Suddenly

The community was saddened and shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Lamothe, who passed away around two o'clock on Sunday morning. Apparently in good health, he retired on Saturday but was suddenly taken ill and died within a very short time. Residents will sadly miss him, as he was a friend to all. He had been station agent here for a long time, and his genial disposition and helpful ways had endeared him to all.

Sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

The burial took place this week at Les Ecureuils, Que., the body having remained for one day at St. Barthelemy, Que.

Weir

Mrs. A. H. Moore left to spend a few weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Booth and Mr. Booth, in Kingston, Ont., prior to returning to her home in New Liskeard. Mrs. E. J. Craig accompanied Mrs. Moore to Kingston, where she spent a few days with the Booths.

Mrs. J. D. Williams is spending some time in Verdun at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wenville MacMillan and Mr. MacMillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clifton, of Longueuil, spent the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Owen's. Mr. Bobby Owen was also home from Lachute for the week-end.

Miss Joan Williams, also Messrs. Hugh Williams and Douglas Boyd, were here from Montreal to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams.

Recent guests at Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morrison's included Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Morrison and family, of Montreal, also Mr. and Mrs. Doug. MacKimmie and son, Billy, of Lachute.

Mr. Roy Lane, of Ottawa, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Lionel Lane, of Dorval, visited with Mr. A. J. Kerr last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gray, of Gray Valley, also Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moncrieff, of Arundel, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Loudin.

Bereavements

Sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Lamothe, of Arundel, in the sudden passing of Mr. Lamothe on Sunday morning; also to Mrs. Arthur McGrandel and family, of Ste. Therese, in the sudden death of Mr. McGrandel last Monday morning.

Induction held for new rector

Morin Heights — On Friday evening the Rev. Murray Churchill Magor, B.A., B.C.L., B.D., the curate of Christ Church Cathedral, was inducted as rector of St. Christopher's Church, Ste. Marguerite. The Ven. Archdeacon J. F. Morris officiated, assisted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, Rural Dean of St. Andrews. The Rev. Horace G. Baugh read the archbishop's mandate, and Rev. A. Goodings was the guest preacher.

Trinity Church choir, of Morin Heights, augmented to 17 voices and led by Mr. Ian Grant, assisted ably in the service.

On Saturday the new rector was inducted at Trinity Church, Ste. Agathe des Monts, by the Archdeacon, with the Very Rev. R. K. Maguire, Dean of Montreal, preaching.

Women's League at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — The St. Louis de France parish council of the Catholic Women's League held their monthly meeting March 21 at the home of the president, Mrs. Noel Robillard.

Each convener prepared an annual report for the close of the year, April 30.

Mrs. John Molloy gave a report on the St. Patrick's military whist. First prize was won by Mrs. Lionel Giroux' table, second by Miss Margaret Seary's table; the consolation was won by Mrs. Fred Gervais' table, and two novelty prizes won by Mrs. T. P. Hall and Miss Jacqueline Thibaud. . . . The four door prizes were donated by Miss Muriel Jackson, I.G.A. Store and Red Rose Tea.

Thanks are extended to Mr. T. Iddon, the m.c., and everyone who contributed in any way to make this card party a success.

A "day of recollection" is planned for April 8, with the Way of the Cross in the church, at 2.30 p.m.

A rummage sale is planned for April 27 at the Social Club. Contributions would be appreciated. (Please contact the convener, Mrs. Donald Graham.)

The meeting closed with prayer, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Robillard, Mrs. Summers, Mrs. Hewitt and Mrs. T. Hall.

Nonagenarian was eldest descendant, O'Neills of Ireland

Late Mrs. David Racicot

Mrs. David Racicot, beloved wife of the late David Racicot, of Fassett, passed away at her home on March 16 at the age of 99. Born February, 10, 1863, in Montebello, she was the daughter of Denis O'Neil and his wife Marguerita Kemp. She was well known and respected as a lifelong resident.

Left to mourn are her two sons, David, of Montreal, Lucien, of Fassett, and three daughters, Sister Mary David, directress of the Grey Nuns of the Cross in Temiscaming, Mrs. Armand Pommier, of Cornwall, Ont., and Mrs. J. Dorius Lepine, of Brownsburg; also numerous nephews, nieces and grandchildren. There remain also two sisters, Mrs. M. Maynard, of Montreal, Mrs. J. Wontner Smith, of London, England, also a grandchild, Mrs. George Coulombe, in Paris, France.

Mrs. Racicot, born Mary O'Neill, was the eldest of the descendants of the O'Neills of Ireland, which name is attached to the legendary Red Hand. Her ancestors reigned for many centuries in that country.

The funeral took place in Fassett, in the presence of many relatives and friends.

The Rev. C. R. Lang (Rural Dean), with Mrs. Lang and Miss Muriel, the Rev. W. C. LeCras, and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hewitt were at Ste. Marguerite on Friday evening of last week for the induction of the new rector of St. Christopher's Church, the Rev. Murray C. Magor.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Derouin, of Lachute, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Mary Esther, to Mr. Garnet Woods, of Dunany. The wedding will take place May 5, at 3.30 p.m. in Lachute United Church.

Represented Lions Club

Messrs. Léopold Carrière and Horace Lamarche, both ex-presidents of Lachute Lions Club, were in Notre Dame de Grace last week to attend the funeral of the late Wilfred (Bill) Shields. Mr. Shields, an International Counsellor of the Lions organization, had many friends among members of the local club.

Miss Mona Bates, of Toronto, was the guest of her father, Mr. D. J. Bates, for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Miville Trickey are among those presently vacationing in Florida; they are also visiting Cuba.

Mrs. Sarah Sutton visited friends at Pointe au Chene last Saturday.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Bertha Grace, daughter of Mrs. William D. Pollock and the late Mr. Pollock, of Lachute, to Mr. Ronald Lemuel Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Noble, also of Lachute. The marriage will take place on May 19 in Lachute United Church.

Marriage Announced

Clarence Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bazinet, of Lachute, and Miss Muriel Inez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alcon Earl Upham, of Truro, N.S., were married at 6 p.m. Saturday, February 24, 1962, at Great Whale River, where they have now taken up residence.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clair, of Edmonton, Alta., spent part of last week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Derouin.

Christening

At the Sunday morning service at Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, the baptism of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Earle, of Montreal and Shrewsbury, was performed by Canon C. W. P. Baugh. The baby was given the names Karin Rosemarie. Sponsors were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earle, Sr., and Miss Judith Earle, aunt of the child.

Inter-Club Encounter

Col. Ernest Emmett (president) and nine members of the Lions Club, played in a broomball encounter last week at the Loyola arena, meeting stalwarts of the Roxboro and N.D.G. Clubs. The outcome was (as usual) in doubt, but the travelling trophy was ceded to N.D.G. The Lachute members afterwards attended the regular meeting of N.D.G. branch, at the Chalet Barbecue on Sherbrooke Street.

House wedding, recent ceremony at Upper Lachute

Clark-Ball

A fashionable double-ring ceremony took place recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark, when Miss Marlene Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ball, of Brownsburg, was united in marriage to Mr. Ronald Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark, Lachute. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated. Daffodils and roses were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a cocktail-length bridal gown of peau-de-soie. The gown was styled with scoop neckline with daisy appliqués, three-quarter length sleeves and full skirt, also with appliquéd daisies around the princess waistline. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was held to a high crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a bouquet of white mums and red Sweetheart roses, with white ribbon streamers entwined with the Sweetheart rosebuds.

Mrs. Joseph MacMaster was matron-of-honor. She wore a royal blue dress of lustre satin with matching pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of jasmin pompoms.

Mr. Richard Clark, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a dark wool sheath with rose-colored accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore an autumn-green sheath with green and beige accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the wedding, a reception was held also at the home of the groom's parents.

Out-of-town guests were — Mr. and Mrs. Grant Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Owens, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hunter and son Jeffery, Mr. Joseph MacMaster, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ball.

The couple will reside in Montreal.

LET'S GIVE PRAISE TO JEHOVAH GOD
THE GREAT CREATOR AND FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, AND HIS SON OUR KING, JESUS CHRIST.

Global paradise now near!

Does that sound odd at a time when atomic war threatens to sear all life from the earth? Not if you know it is God's time to turn earth into a paradise. When Jehovah planted paradise in Eden it was His purpose for it to spread till it clothed the entire earth. A crazed world cannot block his purpose. During this generation Jehovah will prepare the ground for the global garden by plowing under this wilderness of evil. At Armagaddon he will "bring to ruin those ruining the earth." (Rev. 11 :18). That righteous war will sweep wicked men and frightening weapons from the earth and will bring the power of Satan and his demons to nothing. In its wake no menaces, human or demonic, will remain to plague the global paradise, for only its advocates will survive the war that clears the way before it.

In that new world, the elements will not storm against it, and animals will be under man's loving domination. Disease will give way to health, life will supplant death, love will replace fear, and men will not even learn war any more. Past woes will be forgotten, "for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21:4). An idle dream? No, a divine promise sure of fulfillment. Convince yourself by reading the book "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained".

Events at B'burg United Church

Brownsburg — At the Sunday morning service in the United Church on March 18, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graeme Russell, of Verdun, Que., was christened by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, receiving the names Wendy Lynn.

After the service, the christening of the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walker, of Morrisburg, Ont., took place. Names given the child were Donald Randy.

The meeting of the United Church Women's Central group, consisting of three units, took place recently, at which a friendly and inspirational atmosphere prevailed. The work of the new organization is being carried on in a congenial way.

Unit "W" is now preparing for a spring tea, to take place early in April.

The Sunday School attendance has been good during the winter months.

The congregation are pleased to see that Mrs. C. Wheeler is now able to resume her role of organist, after her absence because of illness for some time past. Mr. S. Rose kindly filled in for her for several weeks.

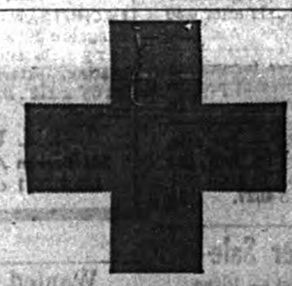

CWL convention date changed

The dates of the annual national convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, to be held in Halifax, N.S., have been changed to August 11-17. In view of this change, Mrs. Joseph Langley, provincial president, announces that the date for the 1962 Quebec provincial convention; to be held at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal, has been changed to June 15-16.

A rewarding venture

IT WAS A heartening experience recently to note a well-filled hall, and the bulk of the audience teen-agers, for the Lions Club annual public speaking contest at Lachute Auditorium. The event was held at the Auditorium this year in order to provide better accommodation for the public.

Those who "view with alarm" the frivolity and irresponsible attitudes of today's youth, enlarging on the factor of delinquency while soft-pedalling the finer qualities of Canada's junior citizens, are mottling the mirror of our times and doing an injustice to the younger generation. In the character and sincerity of our teen-agers, broadly speaking the communities of this County may fare better than the metropolitan average. But the evidence of this recent event in Lachute suggests there is a grave tendency to underestimate the potential of our young Canadians.

The Lions Club, the school teachers who coached their young charges, and the parents who encouraged them, all deserve great credit. But we pay special tribute here to the young supporters who turned out in such numbers, in their own leisure time, and displayed their enthusiasm in this constructive venture.

Survival sample

IN THESE DAYS, when conservationists are fighting an ever-harder struggle to preserve wild life and Nature generally against the inroads of modern progress, there's a note of pleasing significance in the long story of the whooping crane.

This great bird, a very large, white species with distinctive black wing tips, a dull red crown and a face-streak, has been comparatively scarce for thousands of years. Ornithologists believe it reached its greatest numbers in the Pleistocene age, a million years ago.

Early white arrivals in North America reported sighting the stately species, but not often. Samuel Hearne, the first European to visit the Great Slave Lake region of northwest Canada in 1769-72, reported: "They are generally seen in pairs, and that not very often."

Two centuries ago and more, the whooping crane's nesting grounds were on the prairie lands of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and eastern Dakota. As settlements spread, the birds retreated.

The only known nesting place of the whooping crane now is in an isolated part of Wood Buffalo National Park, which stretches across the boundary between Alberta and the Northwest Territories, only 400 miles from the Arctic Circle.

From their far northern summer home the cranes fly 2,500 miles each fall to spend the winter at the Aransas refuge in Texas, specially created in 1937 to protect the cranes in their wintering grounds. They return north in April.

Their numbers were believed at the lowest ebb in 1938, when only 14 were counted.

Now, an intensive conservation campaign is paying off. The National Geographic Society reports that this winter, 38 whooping cranes are living at Aransas. The previous record was 36, in 1961.

There are an additional seven whooping cranes in captivity, making a total of 45. It's a precariously small number, but the apparent steady increase encourages bird lovers.

The campaign to preserve these birds arouses more and more attention as the years pass. "Few birds, and for that matter few animals of any kind, can match their nobility and natural dignity," Robert Porter Allen wrote in the National Geographic magazine.

"Everything we learn about them adds to our respect and admiration. . . . The fight to save them has become an inspiration to millions."

RED CROSS 'BLITZ' — BE READY!

To the rescue — in Quebec and elsewhere

THE WINTER WIND that chilled the ashes of the Rosaire St-Onge home in Sherbrooke had already set teeth to chattering amongst the St-Onge family of father, mother, and six children, chased out into the snow in pyjamas. Volunteer workers of the local Branch of the Red Cross, however, quite dependably arrived in the wake of the firemen, and took charge of the homeless family. Clothing, food and shelter were provided by the Red Cross until the St-Onge family could make private arrangements for rehabilitation.

Throughout Quebec Province, the Red Cross came to the rescue of 634 other families in sudden distress, and saw to the needs of the 3,428 members of those families.

In addition to such disasters, there were mass emergencies such as forest fires and the catastrophic sleet storm that hit Montreal district a year ago and left thousands without light, heat or cooking facilities in mid-winter. Here again, the Red Cross help was immediate, the arrangements for emergency shelter in schools and other public uildings, the provision of blankets and hot foods.

The disaster relief service of the Quebec Division also fulfilled its share of national and international relief, including the distressed areas of British Honduras.

Despite the donations of clothing, food, medical supplies from both individuals and private enterprises to bolster government and community help, despite the services of the volunteer workers on relief assignments, disaster relief cost the Red Cross in Quebec some $53,000 in 1961.

These funds have to be replaced for future emergencies — so when the Red Cross canvasser calls in the Red Cross blitz appeal next Monday evening — please be generous!

A current malady

THE MISERIES of infectious hepatitis were shared by a record number of Canadians last year and there are indications the widespread incidence of the disease has carried over into the early months of 1962.

Federal records show that the long-lasting liver inflammation — with such symptoms as fever, loss of appetite, nausea and stomach pains, often followed by jaundice — attacked more than 12,000 in 1961.

The number was almost double the previous record of 6,476 in 1960. The actual total of cases was probably higher than 12,000 since many were probably never brought to the attention of doctors. That's because hepatitis, in milder form, may not bring on jaundice and is thus recognizable only by a liver infection test.

There is no reason for panic. Infectious hepatitis rarely kills. A person who otherwise is in good health may feel miserable for many weeks, but eventually recovers.

The fact is, however, that hepatitis is an extremely unpleasant disease. It is an acute virus for which there is no cure except time.

No one seems to be immune from it, although some authorities believe that once you have had it you are not likely ever to get it again.

Efforts are being made to grow the virus in a laboratory so that a start can be made on development of a vaccine. Until a vaccine is produced, however, the main hope of avoiding hepatitis is personal cleanliness.

Chief means of infection probably is person-to-person contact. Many people are carriers without being sick themselves.

Epidemics are known to have been caused by contaminated food, water and milk. On occasion it may be spread by the use of infected needles and syringes by doctors.

Your best chance of escaping hepatitis is to follow a program of good sanitation and good general and personal hygiene.

Dr. E. W. R. Best, chief of the federal health department's epidemiology division, has said there is reason for alarm at the number of cases. He notes that in rural areas and new suburban subdivisions septic tanks and poor sewage disposal systems may be a major factor in its spread. "The possible contamination of well water from sewage disposal in septic tanks is a matter of very great concern."

"WHO'S STEERING?"

A COMPLAINT FROM BROWNSBURG —

Why five outlets licensed, and a town of taverns?

(TO THE EDITOR)

Brownsburg, March 23, 1962

It is a sad day when a town becomes notorious for its taverns, yet this is exactly what has happened in our town. Brownsburg and booze are almost synonymous. It has been called the town of churches, also the centre of industry; but now a new title, "The Town of Taverns."

Why has this town been allowed to have five outlets for a population of 3,400 people, much better than an outlet per one thousand people? If it is a town of churches, then where is the voice of the church? Have the church people found, in our modern day, that drink and religion are compatible? Or, has the fear of our fellow man robbed us of the courageous convictions of our fathers? Methinks that this and many other questions need answering, at least by you and me as individuals.

Daniel Webster, that great American statesman, is quoted by John F. Kennedy, in his book "Profiles on Courage," as saying: "Necessity compels me to speak true rather than pleasing things. . . . I should indeed like to please you; but I prefer to save you, whatever your attitude toward me." OUR interest, too, must be more in saving our community from this plague than in pleasing the public. Pleasing the public or pampering the personal desires of a pleasure-loving crowd will never bring us to grips with this problem. Being compelled to speak true rather than pleasing things, we must state that there is no place for five outlets in our town. We deserve a better fate than that of the drinking crowd. Our youth deserve a better chance than to be exposed to so much corruption. What a curse to place on the next generation in this town! What a rotten heritage! What hope do we have, as parents or as preachers, of bettering the averages for our families growing up in this town?

If possible, a plebiscite could bring about the desired results. It is time to stage a revolt of some kind against this unholy invasion. Soon we'll find this smelly, sinful stuff washing away the character of our town, the morals of our youth, and the convictions of many Christians. When this much booze is available in any town of this size, it can bring nothing but trouble. Let us not be like the ostrich. Let us get our heads out of the sand of popular opinion long enough to take a good look around and see the havoc wrought by this stuff up until now. Let us not be among those who argue for the social drink, when it is known that more drunkards get their start here than anywhere else.

In 1958 the following statistics were made available:

250,000 alcoholics, more than double, in 1958.

North America industry had a loss, in dollars and cents, of $1,200,000,000 as a result of drink. Canada had a loss in industry of $110,000,000 also as a result of drink.

In considering our local liquor problem, keep in mind that industry, such as we have here, and churches, such as we have, are in no way compatible with the five outlets in our town.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 25, 1937 —

Ste. Therese has opposed a plan for a Laurentian highway bypassing the town.

At the Hundred Club anniversary meeting, George H. Héon was elected president (succeeding L. E. Dumais); Dr. J. M. Drew 1st vice-president; Roger Gravel 2nd vice-president; L. Armstrong secretary; and J. P. Roy treasurer.

Misses Louise and Helen Deacon are leaving to spend the Easter holidays with their aunt, Mrs. W. Hunt, in New York City.

William Law, a sergeant-major in War I expeditionary forces, died in Montreal, at the age of 63.

For your Easter chocolates and greeting cards, call at O. Paquette's, Main Street. (Advt.)

Mr. James Logan, of Beebe, Que., is spending the holidays in town.

John McMeekin, 90-year-old resident of Stonefield, died at his home.

An effective burglar alarm at the Q.L.C. store on Main Street frustrated would-be robbers during Sunday night. Cst. Alex Gervais investigated.

Rev. C.W.P. Baugh of Lakefield made a special trip to government offices in Montreal in connection with Old Age Pensions, and gives first-hand information for Watchman readers in this issue.

The estimated population of Canada in 1937 is 11,100,000.

Officers elected for the 1937-38 year of Lachute Curling Club are — president, Jos. Berniquer; vice-president, S. S. Campbell; treasurer, T. K. Haller; secretary, H. McFaul.

Jean Edouard Bertrand, 7-year old son of Hawkesbury's fire chief, had his left leg severed when run over by a C.N.R. freight train.

B OF M PERSONAL CHEQUING ACCOUNT SIMPLIFIES PAYING BILLS

Like most people, you probably have a number of recurring expenses which you find much more convenient to pay for by cheque. Rent, lighting, heating bills, and so on, can be paid for by simply filling out a cheque and dropping it in the mail — no bother, no fuss for you.

And the Bank of Montreal has the type of account specially designed for this purpose. It's the B of M personal chequing account, available at the Lachute branch.

Personal chequing accounts are economical to operate. You pay nothing in advance for your cheque-book; the service charge is only ten cents a cheque. And there's no charge for deposits to your account as there is with a current account in which there's a charge of ten cents for each entry.

With a B of M personal chequing account, you receive a quarterly statement instead of a passbook. And your cancelled cheques, which are held by the bank for 20 years, are readily available to provide the best possible receipt for the bills you've paid.

If you'd like to hear more about this convenient B of M service, Paul Boivin, accountant at the Lachute branch of the B of M, or Miss Lulu Miller, accountant-in-charge at Ayersville branch, will be happy to give you the details. Enquire soon!

An all-Canadian dictionary will be on sale soon. Advance copies of the new Canadian usage French - English dictionary were given to delegates at the Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal — a public relations gesture by the Royal Bank of Canada.

Scholars have been working for seven years to produce a dictionary that is Canadian, without being regional or parochial.

It's too late now, but the next edition might include some of the torrent of space jargon which was released by the John Glenn flight.

Some is old U.S. airforce lingo. Some is new space-patter — short, brisk words that are difficult to get mixed up.

Another trick of U.S. service jargon is just the opposite: using a long word where a short one would do.

"Yes" and "No" seem to be passing out of use. A friend swears he heard someone in front of a Victoria theatre say to a companion: "Shall we go to the show now?"

"Negative. We'll catch the next one."

The space-race may have important effects on the North American language. . . .

News of Carillon brings memories to former residents

The Watchman publishers are grateful for this expression of appreciation from an old Ottawa reader, received in the mail this week:

"I often wonder if you realize the great pleasure your paper gives to former residents of the community. As an old resident of Stonefield I have followed the Carillon Dam project with great interest and was fascinated to see our old home (the Bar-X Hotel) being hauled away. My father bought the then lovely residence from the late Senator Owens, and we spent many happy childhood days there. When my dad was appointed superintendent of the Canal, he then moved to Carillon, where he resided until his death.

"Please continue to keep us informed on the current developments."

'As Canadian as Maple Syrup'

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"How did the Indians discover maple syrup?" a child questioned.

"No one knows exactly, although they have two legends about it."

Long ago in the early spring, an Iroquois brave and his squaw, living near the great St. Lawrence River, fell to quarrelling. The angry brave hurled his tomahawk at his squaw, then turned, and stalked off into the forest. She dodged the missile, which lodged deeply in the bark of a big maple, and did not bother to remove it. The sap ran slowly out of the trunk where it was cut, down the tomahawk's handle which was pointing towards the ground at an angle into a cooking vessel on the ground.

Late in the afternoon, the squaw started preparations for dinner. Not bothering to empty out the sap, she threw into the pot, wild rice, bits of venison, and other scraps of food. When her hungry brave returned, she fed him at once. As soon as he started to eat, he exclaimed over the delicious sweet taste! This was better than any stew he had ever eaten!

When he asked what flavoring she had added, the squaw wondered if the maple sap could have made the difference? Next day they gathered more sap, boiled and boiled it until the thick amber syrup appeared, stirring constantly until the maple crystals formed. Thus was discovered the good gift of maple syrup and sugar!

Another legend explained why the sap had to be evaporated to produce syrup. Nakomis, the old grandmother of Manabush, accidentally cut the bark of a maple. Thick sweet syrup oozed from the cut. But when her grandson, Manabush, tasted it, he was sure that his valuable food store was ob-lined with too little effort. It would cause idleness among the women! So he took a vessel of water and threw it over the top of the trees — thus reducing the sap to its present consistency.

The main work of maple syrup and sugar making in the various Indian tribes undoubtedly fell to the women. The Department of Mines and Resources in Ottawa has a quaint engraving taken from Lafitau's "Moeurs des Sauvages Americains, (1724)" depicting a group of Indians making maple syrup. The chief is sitting on the ground in front of his teepee while the squaws carry the sap pails to the fire where the pots are boiling. One woman is chopping wood like an old hand!

A large number of Indians throughout the eastern half of Canada supplemented their meager food stores in the Spring with this product of the sugar or hard maple, and the red maple. The syrup they poured on their hominy and wild rice. Occasionally they added it to meat and even soup instead of salt flavoring.

Scientific modern analysis has shown that a tablespoon of maple syrup equals seventy-five calories and is rich in a variety of minerals including calcium, sulphur and iron. The Red Men had no theories about its energy releasing merits compared to other foods. They just knew it tasted good!

The Indians had no very satisfactory way of straining the syrup to remove small twigs and other impurities. They used clay moulds of animals and figures for their maple sugar. Bark was shaped into a funnel to spoon the hot sap and syrup into containers. Some Indians dropped red hot stones into an earthen pot to hasten the boiling of the sap. But when they were able to buy large brass and iron kettles from the French and English, their syrup "industry" became much more efficient. These European pots were larger than their native vessels and they could stand a hot fire directly beneath without cracking. When they had a surplus of sap sugar they sold it to the early settlers. Thus the phrase, "As Canadian as maple syrup"!

— Canada Dept. of Agriculture

In the springtime theme

This recipe for Daffodil Cake was tested by the Consumer Section. The cake is a light, fat-free, white and yellow sponge-type, easy to make and pretty as a picture. Beat 7 egg whites (1 cup) with 1 teaspoon cream of tartar and ½ teaspoon salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in ½ cup white sugar. Divide this meringue mixture into two equal parts. Into each part, gradually fold ½ cup sifted pastry flour and ¼ cup white sugar sifted together. Into one, fold 4 well beaten egg yolks and ½ teas. vanilla. To the other, add ½ teas. almond extract. Spoon batters into an ungreased 9" tube pan, alternating a spoonful of the white with a spoonful of the yellow. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325°F.) until surface springs back when pressed lightly — about 1 hour. Immediately turn cake upside-down and leave until cold. Remove from pan and cover with a lemon icing.

At receiving end of women's work for Red Cross

From under the blue-gray pall of forest fire smoke that lingered so long over the Gaspé last summer, the Red Cross received an unexpected letter.

"It was with great pleasure that I received the box of clothing that you sent to me," wrote Mrs. Gerard Vachon from Chandler. "In the name of my children, as well as my own, thank you from the bottom of my heart. My children were greatly in need of these clothes. Would you, if you please, thank your women fellow-workers who made these clothes, and assure them that my children and I will not forget them in our prayers."

Less articulate than Madame Vachon, thousands of other people will show their gratitude through contributions to the Red Cross financial campaign when the canvassers call, for money must be found to purchase the cloth and the knitting wool for the groups of neighborhood women who meet regularly to sew and knit for the Red Cross, or to make the million surgical dressings a year that are needed for free blood transfusion clinics under the Red Cross symbol.

In the last year, throughout Quebec province, the afternoons or evenings devoted by these unselfish women to Red Cross work produced more than 55,000 items of clothing for shipment to disaster areas abroad, as well as another 10,000 articles ready and waiting to go wherever in the world a Red Cross emergency situation may arise.

Smaller but no less poignant disasters to families in Quebec province required more than 3,000 articles of clothing, as well as smaller shipments to local sick-room loan cupboards, the Red Cross nursing outposts in remote areas, and the veterans' family welfare emergencies.

Maple time, annual thrill

(Consumer Section)

The total Canadian production of maple products (expressed in syrup) amounted to some 2,827,000 gallons in 1961 and had a gross farm value of over ten millions dollars. Over three quarters of the crop came from the maple stands in Quebec; the remainder came from Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia in order of yield. Although it is impossible to estimate this year's crop, indications are that it will be a good one.

Maple sap as it comes from the tree is almost as colorless as spring water and barely sweet. It takes some 30 or 40 gallons of this "maple water", as early settlers called it, to make one gallon of the amber colored, unique flavored maple syrup as we know it. Besides syrup, the sap is also made into soft and hard maple sugars, maple butter and maple taffy. All these products are available to the consumer, however a large part of the maple crop also goes to manufacturers of ice cream and tobacco for flavoring purposes, so there is never an over-supply by any means, of our native sweet.

The sale by grade of maple products is compulsory only in the province of Quebec. However, federal legislation forbids the use of the word "maple" in the description of syrup, sugar, sugar butter, sugar cream or taffy, if the product is not pure maple. Therefore, if you want a pure maple product buy only one that is labeled "Maple Syrup" or "Maple Sugar", and that includes the name and address of the packer. Products labeled "artificially maple flavored" are not pure maple products and are considerably less in cost.

Extracting sap from maple trees is one of the oldest agricultural activities of our nation. The practice was passed down to early settlers by the Indians who called the return of spring the time of the Maple Moon or the sugar month. Braves, who at other times of year disdained from helping their squaws with any chores related to the "home" or "wigwam", bent enough at maple time to lend their women a hand in the collection and boiling of the sap, indicating how well they loved this unique flavored sweet. It is loved no less today and the syrup and sugar are used in households to make delicious desserts, icings, sauces and candies. There are samples of all these treats to be found in the recipe section of an attractive government publication which is available free from Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The booklet is called "Maple Syrup, Sugar, Butter, Taffy" and includes information on the production, buying, storing and using of our maple products.

An April Fool

(Contributed)

When Uncle Jack perused his mail
That First of April morning . . .
(Now absent-minded people all,
Just read and take a warning) . . .

Among the business bills and slips,
Awards and invitations,
Among the notes he found at last
A queer communication.

It took but little time to read,
A moment but to con it, —
The two words "April Fool" were all
That could be found upon it.

Then Uncle Jack he laughed and said,
"I've heard of funny blunders
In superscriptions and address,
And many puzzling wonders;
This goes them all one better,
For here's a man that signed his name,
And forgot to write the letter!

Gimpy, part fox terrier and part Chihuahua, loves cats but is terrified of other dogs.

It's probably due to her upbringing. Since she was brought to the Ottawa home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fisher, she's been adopted by two Siamese cats.

The solicitude of the cats, named Ming and Foo, is somewhat of a mystery since both are male.

Gimpy, who has a defective front leg, was abandoned as a pup but was picked up by the Ottawa Humane Society and later joined the Fisher household.

If the dog's ears need washing, the two cats take turns holding her down while the other does the washing.

Foo was nine years old when the Fishers obtained him from the Humane Society nine years ago. Ming, a seven-year-old, is the aristocrat of the family. He's a registered purebred Siamese.

Lasso Lassie

Carmel Gowan is a little lassie who earns her living by lassoing laddies.

Carmel left school in her home-town, Swift Current, Sask., at the age of 15 and was a professional rope-twirler by the time she was 19.

"I just adored the local rodeo at home and decided I wanted to rope more than anything else in the world," she said. "So I taught myself and was a professional before I got any advice."

She was performing in Bangor, Me., when Gene Autry saw her perform and invited her to join his cowboy show.

"He gave me tips on showmanship," she said.

She spent 18 months in Europe before returning to Canada to appear at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto recently.

Carmel says she is often lonely on the road. "Sometimes I have friends for one day or a week, never longer than a month, then our shows go separate ways. In this business you meet lots of people but never get to know them."

She said it was fine to wear her pink cowpoke pants on the streets in the West but "eastern-ers think it looks funny."

Quick Casserole

Many shoppers by-pass shellfish because they don't know what to do with it. Here's a scallop casserole that is not only hearty to eat but is quick and easy too.

There are only three ingredients — one pound scallops; one can (10 ounces) cream of mushroom soup; and one-quarter cup buttered fine dry crumbs.

Separate scallops and cut into uniform size if necessary. Pour soup into greased 1½-quart casserole and stir until smooth. Mix in scallops and sprinkle bread crumbs on top. Bake in a 450-degree oven for 20 minutes. Makes five or six servings.

Variety can be added to casseroles by changing the topping. Instead of bread crumbs you might try cracker crumbs, potato chips, flaked cereal, grated cheese, chopped nuts, crumbled cooked bacon, baking powder biscuits or bread crumbs mixed with grated cheese.

MILK MAKES THEM STRONG!

Milk not only tastes good . . . it's good for them too. Milk gives kids the vim they need for school and play. So treat your family to plenty of milk.

Come in and kick it around.

Pay us a visit and go a few rounds with a Volkswagen. You can rock it, shake it, slam the doors and bounce on the bumper. (If you hear a squeak, see your cobbler.)

Or, if you prefer, you can have a quiet chat with one of our salesmen. Either way you'll get the same information: the VW is built to take a beating. No rattles, no loose parts, nothing but solid car. (To make sure every Volkswagen is perfect, our factory employs 5,000 inspectors.)

But don't take our word for it. Take the VW for a ride and be your own inspector.

Try shutting the door with the window closed. It won't be easy because the Volkswagen is practically airtight. Try it again with the window open. You'll hear the solid sound of a car that's built to last.

Look under the dashboard and inside the door jamb. You'll find the same amount of paint we put on the outside: 4 coats. (We have to be ready for anything. Volkswagens are sold around the world and driven in every climate.)

Be our guest. Come in and give the VW a good going over. You'll find you can kick it, but you can't knock it.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

At the monthly Executive meeting, last Monday, Cde. C. Tucker became chairman of the Executive Committee, replacing Cde. J. O. Martel, who has resigned.

The regular monthly meeting was held Wednesday, 21st, in the Memorial Hall, with Cde. President Geo. Kirby in the chair. The agenda was not too heavy and the main topics under discussion were Legion entertainment for the Spring Fair, and the purpose of sending a delegate from this branch to the Dominion Convention at Halifax this coming June. . . . Cde. Frank Pring's name was called on the attendance drawing. Cde. Pring not being there, next meeting this increases another $5.

Hockey is practically finished at this point — and all Legion-sponsored teams eliminated from competition, with the exception of Cde. E. Evans and his midget team. This team completed the regular schedule undefeated, and are in the midst of playoffs. Much of the credit for the success of this team can go to their coach and mentor, for instilling in these lads, not only sportsmanship and the will to win, but also the basic fundamentals of hockey. Who knows what calibre of professional hockey prospects is embodied in this team?

For years there has been a quiet running argument in this country over what the proper role of women should be. The trouble is that one side does almost all the talking.

There is no natural superiority of men, the people on this side argue. Most of the duties assigned to women in our society are dull, menial chores (they add). Women deserve to be treated as every bit the equal of men (they assert).

They have made a lot of headway with this line of talk; at least, they probably consider that it is headway. They have got the man into the kitchen, wearing an apron that says "His", helping with the menial chores. They've got women out of the house and into debating societies. They've passed laws saying that women should be entitled to everything that men are.

Now their line of argument is becoming a matter of patriotism: women are our greatest wasted reservoir of talent.

The trouble with arguing on the other side of all this chatter is that it has become almost a standing joke when anyone speaks "in favor of motherhood." But joke or not, that's the way we feel. Who started the idea that women's work — the babies, the cooking, the home, the gentle side of life — is degrading? It is a far more civilizing side of life than the politics, the current affairs, the sporting events and the commercial occupations men are so involved in. For many men, blessed with soft, feminine wives, the pleasant life at home is the principal justification for going through the daily routine.

Women a wasted natural resource? How ridiculous!

Hurrah for motherhood, we say, in all seriousness; and hurrah for the women who realize how graceful, becoming and delightful they are in their roles as mothers, wives, homemakers and ladies!

Surfeit of Elizabethan drama, music; Agriculture's answer to the hunter

"Exile from Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

The end of March, which turned out to be a beautiful month. The head of the house, abandoning his habitual pessimism, valiantly shovelled off the patio, and sat triumphantly out in the sun surrounded by snow — to the undoubted amusement of the neighbors. Peter, the cat, sits there, too, his whiskers vibrating gently as he sniffs the air for elusive smells that tell of spring. He is now an old cat, so that one often sees the unusual sight of a cat looking kindly at a cluster of sparrows and starlings busily pecking at the bread that Margaret Cook has put out for them. They seem to understand his lack of vicious intention, although they keep a wary eye on Peter who sits, saying in effect, "God bless you, you little twitchers."

In the living-room there is a huge basket of pussy-willows culled near the end of Lake Dawson on a bright, sunny day, St. Patrick's day, begorrah! The hills were beautiful that day, clothed in white, and bathed in sunlight. The shadows were navy blue, as is usual this time of year: If you do not believe me, go out and look. The head of the house walked from Route 30 into Sunnyacres, but we did not accompany him, choosing to spend the hour with a friend. Then we went over the hills via Morin Heights to Ste. Adele, and after a visit with the daughter, returned in the twilight to the city. The Laurentians at dusk, with points of light beginning to appear, are things of beauty. Just above St. Jerome, one could see the buildings lined in light, on the north side of Mount Royal. . . . Arriving at length in said city was a come-down (and no pun intended).

Except for that little excursion, life has been spent in suburbia, with its typical diversions. At the Community Concerts we have been subjected to a course in Elizabethan music, both composers and instruments. We had a harpsichord in February, and a spinet in March. They are interesting instruments, but tinny as to sound. As we sat listening to various compositions of the period, we at first amused ourselves with imagining the lords and ladies in their voluminous, but beautiful clothes, listening or performing. As the evening wore on, and our posterior became unduly aware of the hard chair, we encouraged ourselves by thinking that Elizabeth had suffered as much as we. But had she? She was undoubtedly better padded as to clothes! Of all the offerings, instrumental and vocal, no one was by either Purcell, whose songs we especially like. . . . On TV, we had another Elizabethan, John Webster's "Duchess of Malfi", and a gory thing it was. We noted that the critic in The Gazette commented that Webster could have made pots of money had he lived to write for TV. It had all the gore of a Western, allied to the beauty of setting of a European court. . . . All in all, we have had enough of Elizabethan art for a time.

In modern England, we have journeyed to Lancashire via the movie "Whistle Down the Wind", which we enjoyed immensely. Such lovely glimpses of farm life in Lancashire, such a realistic approach to the child mind. It was refreshing to find children portrayed as they really are, not as people imagine them. These children were curious, sneaky, credulous, and convinced that grown-ups were their natural enemy. The end of the show is busy with a birthday party, and the best line of the dialogue for me was the little girl's reply to the question, "Whom is this for?" (her second piece of cake, being served by the father.) Her answer: "It's for Jesus Christ." . . . Everything stopped. And so shall I; but if you have the opportunity, see this play. The fact that the play was written by the mother of the fifteen-year-old star adds to its interest, at least for me.

We were guests recently at the celebration of a fiftieth anniversary. This couple had been married in England, subsequently spent many years on a farm in Alberta, and then settled in our Lakeshore suburb. The years had treated them kindly, and all three children were on hand to salute the bride and groom. So was half the town. We met a farmer from Ormstown, and spent a pleasant half-hour discussing the problems of country life. Of course, we got around to the problem of invading hunters. . . . It seems that life is specially hazardous in that part of the country during the hunting season. This man insists that all hunters come in by his front gate, and apply for permission to hunt. They must be checked out the same way. The only catch in this, is how he insists. Our friend says he always replies when asked about his hunting, "I hunt nothing but hunters." After that, we thought it more politics not to inquire about his methods of insistence. He had recently joined the newly formed Association of Farmers, the agriculturists' answer to the hunter. According to my informant, the laws pertaining to fish and game are archaic, and have been knowingly ignored for generations. This native indifference is aggravated by the influx of new Canadians, who are totally unused to land that is not privately owned. In Europe, poaching on the big estates is a way of life. Here, argues the newcomer, there are few big estates, therefore, "Come on, boys, we can hunt anywhere." And hunting is not stalking, it is firing at anything that moves. "Gee, fellows, ain't we having fun. Hurrah for Canada!" Before we can have law and order again in the hunting season, we are going to be obliged to educate a whole generation. Meanwhile, each municipality — indeed, each landowner — will have to make its own laws, its own provision for its safety. Our friend, the farmer, has seemingly worked out a solution. Only thing was, he was not too precise about his methods.

What with separatists and hunters, life in the Gore, as elsewhere in Quebec, should not be dull for another generation at least. . . . Perhaps by that time, an atom bomb will have separated us all!
