Accident verdict in dual death, local police constable victim

Seven witnesses gave their testimony at an inquest into the deaths of Cst. André-Jean Laurin of Lachute, and Miss Claire Denis, Hawkesbury, who were killed in a two-car collision April 29 on Route 8 near Chatboro. The witnesses were heard by a jury under Dr. A. R. Côté, joint coroner, but the evidence failed to reveal the cause of the collision. The driver of the car which crashed into Laurin, Marcel Denis, 18, of Hawkesbury, said he could recall no details of the accident.

Cst. Laurin was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gaetan Laurin, well-known residents here, and the girl victim, in the other car, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eucher Denis of Hawkesbury, and sister of the driver. The inquest was held Friday in Lachute Auditorium.

An important witness was Georges Cléroux, of Fabreville; he could give no explanation, however, why Marcel Denis left his side of the road to gradually cross the white line and head towards automobiles approaching eastward. Mr. Cléroux was driving ahead of Laurin, and had to swerve hard to the right to avoid the oncoming Denis.

According to Miss Twila Thompson, who was a passenger with Cst. Laurin, the latter tried similarly to avoid the Denis car, but could not escape the collision.

Marcel Denis, called to testify, said he held a temporary permit allowing him to drive in the company of a qualified person (in this case, his sister). In reply to numerous questions from the coroner, the crown attorney (Roger Lagarde) and the jurors, the youth stated he could remember nothing; he had regained consciousness after arrival at the hospital. He could offer no explanation for having deviated from his side of the road.

Evidence showed that the cars were travelling at 45-50 m.p.h., in rainy weather, on the afternoon of the accident; and Mr. Eucher Denis, father of the driver and of the girl victim, testified his car had undergone a general inspection at the Laniel Garage, Hawkesbury, a few weeks previously. Mr. Cléroux, the driver preceding Cst. Laurin, said that Denis was not attempting to pass another car or vehicle at the time.

Among the witnesses were Gaetan Laurin; Cpl. Maurice Dinel and Cst. Gilles Lavigne, of the Provincial Police; and Miss Twila Thompson.

A verdict of accidental death was given in the two fatalities.

Recover body of two-year-old drowning victim

The body of two-year-old Diane Legault, who was drowned in the North River at the foot of Bellingham Street on April 27, was found floating on the surface of the river last Thursday evening, about 1,500 feet downstream and near the opposite shore. The discovery was made by three Lachute men fishing in a boat, Jacques Chartrand, Jacques Racine and Wilfrid Lachance.

The town police were notified, and Chief J.-L. Hebert and Cst. Arcouette recovered the body, which was taken to the Menard parlors. After identification and the cornoner's release, the body was interred next morning.

The little girl was the daughter of Mme Berthe Legault, who had moved from Carillon to Bellingham Street, Lachute. On the day of their arrival the child, fascinated by the river, had toddled to the water's edge from the family's new dwelling-place 20 feet from the stream. When her disappearance became known, police and volunteers, even a frog-man, searched the river until the evening of the following day.

Dr. Roger Lavigne, joint district coroner, pronounced the death accidental, due to drowning.

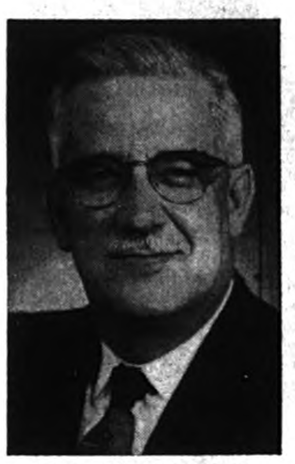

COULD HAPPEN TO YOU

Fragrance that's 'less than sweet'

There are householders in Lachute who, during this hot weather, are the victims of offending garbage left exposed on neighboring premises.

Uncovered garbage cans are an invitation to hungry dogs and cats, who pull at the contents and often upset the can in an untidy mess. Uncovered cans also emit unsavory odours in the summer's heat, wafted by the breeze into a neighbor's backyard or open window.

You, reader, may be an unwitting offender. It is recommended that all residents exercise neighborly consideration — critically inspect their garbage arrangements, and remedy any cause for offence.

Nominations and contradictory meeting; five candidates enter election contest

At precisely three o'clock on Monday at Lachute Auditorium, the District Returning Officer, Dr. J.-P. Dorion, announced the election candidates for Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes — five in number.

The D.R.O. then vacated the chair in favor of Fernand Legault, Q.C., Mayor of Lachute, who presided for the traditional "contradictory meeting" which followed the nomination proceedings.

Fair weather had brought a considerable crowd to attend the meeting and to hear the candidates express their views. A public address system carried the voices outside to a listening crowd and each candidate in turn received an ovation from party and personal supporters.

Only Mr. Kenneth Riley, Independent, and Gilbert Edgar Arnold, Confederationist, were without supporting orators. The other three candidates — J. O. Desjardins, Social Credit, Vincent Drouin, Liberal, and J. O. Latour, Prog. Conservative — brought outside speakers to re-emphasize the claims and merits of their respective parties.

Each candidate was allotted 25 minutes for himself and his supporting speakers. Notary J. O. Latour, the ex-M.P., took advantage of the privilege of a 10-minute rebuttal.

Vincent Drouin, Liberal, struck a unique note in enlisting the presence and support of an Oka Indian, the mayor of that reserve — James Gordon Gaspé, a war veteran, who was enthusiastically applauded. (Canada's Indian population has now been accorded the right to vote in federal elections.)

Mr. Latour, and his followers and admirers, sported blue buttons. Mr. Desjardins' organization had posted Social Credit portraits in the hall, depicting Messrs. Thompson, Caouette and J. Orphir Desjardins in person.

The police chief and his force were in evidence, posted in strategic places, but the meeting was amicable and well behaved, the chairman maintaining order without difficulty.

The five candidates, and their respective allegiances, are presented in photographs on this page.

Extracts from Speeches

Notary Latour, P.C. — "We are now entering the second phase of the election campaign, and I hope the population will be satisfied with the votes they cast June 18."

Mr. Latour attacked his Liberal adversary as a "young" contender, and referred to the Liberal convention in St. Eustache, the scandals which had been reported to him, and the fact that Mr. Drouin was "the choice of only one man, he had not been elected by a majority opinion" (claimed Mr. Latour).

Mr. Latour had lived in this County 30 years, is mayor of St. Benoit, was Warden of the County, and elected M.P. in 1958.

Messrs. Hogan and Leroux were also speakers on behalf of Notary Latour.

Vincent Drouin, Lib. — Mr. Drouin refuted a charge by Mr. Latour, that he had not qualified as a lawyer until the age of 32. "I am now only 30, and I received my degree at the age of 28. I regret I did not enter politics in 1958, then you would not have had Notary Latour as your representative."

"I come to you as a farmer's son," he said, addressing the crowd. "I was born at St. Benoit and I know the problems experienced by the farming community." He referred to the dollar devaluation, and higher farm-machinery costs, as "a gift from Mr. Latour's Progressive-Conservative government".

Mr. Latour, he claimed (on the authority of Hansard), had spoken only 80 words in the House, for a salary of $40,000; and referred also to his opponent's directorship in Sulphur Corporation.

Messrs. Triffon and Prud'homme also spoke in favor of Mr. Drouin.

J. O. Desjardins, S.C. — Mr. Desjardins readily declared that he had once been Liberal, then Conservative, but this time he had embraced the Social Credit cause.

"Social Credit is the credit of the people placed in the hands of the people. Governments are always good tax-collectors, but not good tax-distributors, and it is the first principle of Social Credit to create money so that the people can live."

Liberal and Conservative governments had plunged the country in debt. In Alberta and British Columbia, the Social Credit regimes were cited as a contrast. . . . Unemployment will be no problem under Social Credit policy, since the Government will create profitable pastimes for all. Funds of the Bank of Canada should normally be devoted to the living conditions of Canadian people.

"If you have not suffered enough, vote red or vote blue. . . . But I assure you, if I am elected, I will find necessary funds to complete the construction of your Argenteuil Hospital," concluded Mr. Desjardins.

Kenneth P. Riley, Ind. — "From one end of the country to the other, politicians have been making all sorts of promises, and making themselves ridiculous," declared Kenneth Riley. "An independent candidate has no affiliation with any party, and can look out for your interests without political allegiance."

Mr. Riley claimed he had refused the offer of supporting speakers because, as he stated, a candidate must be ready to speak on his own initiative when elected to the House of Commons.

He advocated that Ottawa should appoint two Ministers of Agriculture, one for the West and one for the East; also that retirement homes for aged couples should be established in greater number.

Moreover, he said, there is no reason why a country like ours should endure "unemployment", that political football so convenient for the traditional parties. Putting politics aside, the Government could apply itself to the job and create opportunities for work.

Finally Mr. Riley assured the voters that, if elected to parliament, he would represent them in a worthy and devoted manner.

Gilbt. E. Arnold, Confederation Party Candidate — presented a platform founded on public opinion, demanding a change at Ottawa. For years there had been the imminence of four separatist provinces gnawing at the root of Canadian Confederation.

A Unionist by the nature of his affiliation, Mr. Arnold fears the separatist movement as a serious threat to Confederation — a threat not only in Quebec but in other provinces which are dissatisfied with federal-provincial relations. "Nearly all the provinces, with a few exceptions, complain to the central government. . . . I want to see a Canada strong and united, from the Atlantic to the Pacific".

Mr. Arnold declared he had no electoral funds, and would gratefully accept the aid of any who would support him on election day. "I am not concerned with candidates, but with parties which dictate their line of conduct. . . . That is what the elector also should consider, on voting day," he concluded.

Ask official probe, five years administration at Ayersville

A royal inquiry into the municipal administration of Ayersville Village will be officially requested before a judge of the Superior Court. Town Council, in passing this decision, resolved to engage the services of a St. Jerome advocate, Ben Marchesseault.

The proposal was moved by Coun. Gaston Plamondon at the regular civic session last Monday, and was adopted by five votes to one.

In amendment to the motion Coun. Douglas Simon proposed that, before asking for an inquiry, the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Superior Court be consulted on the approximate cost of this procedure. The amendment was voted down.

Mayor Gaetan Paquette, presiding at the meeting, let it be known he himself had asked the Department for an investigation, 10 days previously. The councillors, however, disregarded this gesture by the mayor and passed a formal resolution to appeal to a judge, so as to clear up certain matters in the town's affairs.

Arundel boy awarded B.A. from military college

Officer Cadet R. D. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams, of Arundel, was awarded the Bachelor of Arts degree at convocation held June 1 at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

On matriculation from Chambly County High School at St. Lambert, Ron Williams enrolled under the Regular Officer Training Plan (R.O.T.P.) for a four-year course at a Canadian Services College. R.O.T.P. sponsors a program of university education and leadership training for selected numbers of young men who have the potential to become officers in one of the three armed services of Canada. The purpose of the plan is to provide the Canadian forces with highly qualified officers with university degrees and specialized training. On graduation, young officers are promoted to commissioned rank in the service of their choice.

Ron Williams will be commissioned as a Flying Officer in the R.C.A.F., and will be posted to the Advanced Flying School at R.C.A.F. Station, Gimli, Manitoba.

Big Operation. — Spring tree planting by C.I.P. Woods Division has now been completed. The 650,000 seedlings were supplied by Harrington Forest Farm nursery. Of this total, 500,000 seedlings were planted under the jurisdiction of the Rouge Valley Association. At the height of the planting a total of seven tree planters were in action and a large proportion of the seedlings were planted using these machines. . . It is expected that there will be about 500,000 red pine available for planting this fall.

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — An automobile accident on Main Street near Woodbine Avenue in Brownsburg, resulted in serious injury to three young men early Saturday morning, as their 1959 Plymouth car crashed into a power pole and came to rest in a ditch.

Hurt in the crash were Roy (18) and Douglas (20), sons of Leonard Carpenter, and Keith (21), son of Clarence Carpenter, all residents of Brownsburg.

Brownsburg police reported that the boys were proceeding into the Village and apparently tried to pass another car when Douglas, who was driving, lost control of his auto which careened into the pole, snapping it off and cutting off the power to the eastern section of the town at 12.50 a.m. All three occupants were thrown from the car into the ditch. Roy, who was able to move, made his way up to the road, where he was assisted by other motorists. Keith and Douglas remained in the ditch until examined by Dr. Gerald Daigle. The boys were rushed to Providence Hospital by ambulance and police car, and were then transferred to St. Jerome.

The full extent of their injuries was not known immediately but two of the injured suffered broken jaws and one a broken arm, in addition to multiple lacerations.

Gatineau Power Company employees worked through the night, to restore the power some 4½ hours after the accident.

Proceedings at area rally of 'United Church Women'

Almost 100 ladies registered at the Spring Rally of the Montreal Presbyterial United Church Women on May 28. This rally was for the United Church Women's organizations within the Ottawa Valley area. The meetings were held in historic St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, where women's groups have been active for almost 100 years. Ten of the area churches were represented — Arundel, Avoca, St. Andrews East, Brownsburg, Calumet, Cushing, Grenville, Kilmar, Lachute and Morin Heights. Ladies came also from Hawkesbury and Ottawa; 18 members of the Presbyterial executive were also present.

The regional vice-president of the area is Mrs. Wilson Bridge, who led the devotions and chaired the rally. Addresses were given by Mrs. Douglas Smith and Mrs. George Johnston, president and vice-president of the Montreal Presbyterial. Mrs. Smith said that the United Church Women's organization has became a reality, thanks to the amount of time and concern that women have given this nation-wide organization. One important factor for rallies or workshops is that throughout the large Presbyterial area groups should share the same problems and successes. Women across Canada are sharing the interest and responsibility towards the total mission of the Church. . .

Of the Montreal Presbyterial, Mrs. Smith stated they have now the names of 114 presidents of U.C.W.'s. More will be added as student fields become organized. To date $12,516 has been forwarded to the women's share of the total work of the Church

Fair attraction 4 and 6-horse team turnouts

Emphasized as one of the spectacles to be seen at Lachute Spring Fair next week, is the competition in four and six-horse teams. This is something to see and appreciate, featuring fine matched animals, some of them weighing close to a ton.

Entering in this class are at least four exhibitors — A. T. Cleland & Son, North River Farms (Dr. G. R. McCall), Laurence Wallace and Aubrey Toll.

This is only part of a really comprehensive Horse Show including ponies, saddle and harness horses, right up to heavy draft horses.

In the very promising livestock contests, Manager Kenneth Riley notes an uptrend in entries of Aberdeen Angus and beef cattle this year.

Altogether, both from agricultural and entertainment angles, the stage is set for a new peak and a record-breaking Lachute Spring Fair. The gates open next Wednesday, for a four-day program replete with interest and thrills for all. (Entertainment and midway attractions are pre-viewed elsewhere in these pages.)

Week's Epigram

It is not how much we have, but how much we enjoy what we have, that makes us happy.

Landscape show holds interest for art lovers

In a series of exhibitions featuring different schools and techniques, the current show at the Centre d'Art goes back to that conventional realism which preceded the "explosion era" and which, in some opinions, may survive, revive, and even supersede the contemporary rebellion.

The exhibition, which opened last Sunday to the public, is strictly a landscape show. The works are those of selected professionals or semi-professionals all associated with these parts. The painters, six in number, are Maurice Domingue, Vivian Kalker, Don Titman, Albert Laforest, Pere Bernard and Claude Charron. There are 32 pictures, mostly in oils, with a few watercolor and casein sketches. Many of the landscapes have a local flavor. Scenes of forest, lake and countryside are pleasingly interspersed with marines by Maurice Domingue, a stark gnarled cedar by Bern (Père Bernard, the Franciscan troubadour), the familiar Rouge River, the turbulent St. Lawrence at Cacouna, a sugar camp and snowy hillsides. . . . They might perhaps have been more advantageously spaced with a portrait or two, a floral or still life, or even an abstract; but this is essentially a landscape show.

At a preview on Saturday evening, the participants, a number of friends and the committee of the Centre d'Art, were welcomed by Jean Laforest, energetic promoter of the arts, who called upon Mr. Fernand Guérard, CBC program director, to officially open the exhibition. Mr. Guérard warmly commended the effort, and congratulated the artists.

Dr. Marc Papineau, as president of the Centre d'Art, also gave a parental send-off, while commending the work of the Centre and its promoters, Mr. Laforest and his wife, Mme Lebrun-Laforest.

Simultaneously, in the Rio Theatre lobby in the same building (348 Main Street), a display of work by junior pupils of Guy Racine is also on view.

Here, a collection of 20 drawings, puppets, masks and plasticine models, presents a very refreshing display and gives some suggestion of the creative pleasures enjoyed by these young pupils following a course outlined by l'Ecole des Beaux Arts.

The public are cordially invited to see these attractions, which will remain on exhibition from 3 to 5 p.m., and from 7 to 9 p.m. daily until Sunday, June 10.

154 Golfers in Legion Provincial tournament

Held this year at St. Andrews Country Club

Last Saturday, Legionnaires from across the province descended on St. Andrews East Golf and Country Club for the 1962 Provincial Legion Golf Tournament.

Under clear, bright skies, with weather a little on the cool side, 154 golfers teed off.

For the second year in a row Drummondville's Jim Innes won the Bunny Sabbath trophy. Tied with St. Anne's Bob Greenshield after the first nine holes, Innes stroking even par on the back nine, gradually pulled away, and finished three strokes ahead of Greenshields, who carded a 78.

Branch 70's James Duncan won the President's cup for the low net, with a 72. He won out by one stroke over Greenfield Park's Al Sparrow. Last year's winner, Bob Laing of Montreal, carded a 75.

Drummondville won the team low net and the Rupert Bartlett Memorial Cup, while the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Trophy went to Ste. Anne's Branch.

The handicap for this tournament was based on the Calloway system.

From the 19th hole the golfers proceeded to Lachute Memorial Hall, where the banquet was served and the prizes distributed. A full and enjoyable day was capped with a dance and social evening.

Congratulations are extended to the winners, and also to Cde. L. Bryson and his committee, for a job well done. Branch 70 also expresses appreciation to the management and staff of St. Andrews Golf and Country Club for their assistance and good will.

Molson Day at St. Placide enjoyed by 80 anglers

Around 80 members of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association enjoyed "Molson Day" and a fishing derby at Fernand Ouellette's site on the Ottawa River last Sunday. The scene of the event was St. Placide (La Baie), and no fewer than 400 specimens of fish were caught.

The occasion was sponsored by Leonard Bedard, district distributor for Molson's, and an attraction was the new mobile unit designed by Molson's especially for such occasions. (This Molson Fishing Club van will be on the exhibition grounds here during Fair Week.)

Winner of the fish derby was L. Laplante with a bag of 72 assorted fish. Raoul Beauregard had 27, and M. Leclair 25. P. Duquette claimed the prize for the biggest specimen, a 3 lb. 2 oz. doré.

Consolation awards for the biggest bag of undesirable fish went to L. Laplante and Mme Bernard Boyer.

Five entry prizes were won by Mme Hubert Provost, Charles Gagné, Léo Laplante, J.-G. Bernatchez and Mme Florida Desjardins. (Mr. Ouellette, proprietor of the property, donated a door prize of $5.)

A bean supper and souvenir gifts were provided by Leonard Bedard and his company — to whom the Association is grateful for sponsoring this pleasant outing.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Dogs are still running the bush, and the worst cases seem to be around Mille Iles. These dogs have run wild for months, and by now they must be dangerous even to humans. True, they do visit home once in awhile, but the fact that they are running free at any time is a poor lookout for fawns around the district. The owners know they are doing this, and until something drastic happens I suppose nothing will be done about them. There is even a possibility these animals might attack some youngster who happens to stroll in the bush.

A lady phoned some time ago about a dead cow that had floated down the river, ending up on her property. This matter has been reported to authorities in the two counties — with the same old buck-passing results. It seems the offending carcass was not in Argenteuil. So what; it should be taken care of. In cases like this, county boundaries should not matter. Of course, there are always the supposed channels through which to reach the appropriate authority, but it all takes time. A great system!

More and more people are being attracted to camping and what our country has to offer in the way of recreation. Some provinces have been a little slow in doing anything, notably Quebec, but there are hopes that this province will get going sometime. At any rate, for those who take a trip outside the province, there are camping sites all over the place, even picnic tables alongside the roads. Ontario has by far the best set-up in eastern Canada, and from the way they are working on some of the parks, it will have the finest campsites in the world. With the dollar being chopped up once more, it may be just the shot-in-the-arm that the camping fraternity need to really speak their piece about what should be done. Certainly no tourist bureau can do the job of publicizing, unless they have qualified personnel. — And this doesn't mean political appointments for cousins and relatives!

For anyone intending to visit some of the parks and sites — get all the information available on these spots. Don't just take the advice in the folders, either. Try and find someone who has been there. Then you will know what to expect in the way of services. Algonquin Park is still tops in eastern Canada though, followed by Bala on the Bruce Peninsula.

Most fishermen know that minnows are "out" in this County, but a good number around Louisa are still using them. It doesn't take much thought to see the damage that is being done by this practice; and when you consider how the lake has already deteriorated through this abuse, one would think a little more respect would be given to the minnow ban. Certainly there are some people who want to see this lake in its former prestige as a fish producer, but far too many don't care.

This County, I am sorry to say, has far too many "SPORTS" who care for nothing but themselves. Here is an example of what I mean. This did not happen in Louisa, but it serves as a point. An enthusiast went fishing not too far from this County. Staying just a couple of days, the catch was 83 trout. . . . Now I ask you, just what is going to happen to our wildlife if supposed sportsmen act like this.

I have not been able to get any information on the new hunting laws, if any. It does not appear as if anything will be done for deer protection this year in our County. This is a tragic state of affairs. Certainly we have a good number of deer in isolated spots, but taking the County as a whole, it is bad. No real attempt has been made even to check the deer herds, and one must presume none will be made until it is too late. Even bringing back the buck law would help; though it had many shortcomings, it still would help the herds in some small way.

I've often wondered just how these game laws are brought up. Certainly no thought is given to anything that may help our natural resources. There are still people who think that wildlife is expendable, and they act accordingly. There are those who ignore bag limits, licenses and everything else, and nothing is ever done about them.

To our Wardens — take a good look at Lake Hughes, for nightlines and other accoutrements of the poaching business. Lake Macdonald is also worth a look for these same offences.

Once more I have been asked, by a number of proprietors who have their property posted, to request all supposed sports who break fences and so forth while they are fishing, to TAKE IT EASY. In one case smoke was seen early in the morning, and on investigation it was found to be an unattended fire. No trace of the persons responsible could be found, only some lunch wrappings and a few empty beer cans. It's no wonder that landowners complain.

Some excellent catches are now being taken from the North River, fair-sized Northerns and some fine perch. I have seen numerous muskies, and this sure looks good for the river fishermen. It isn't too often these creatures can be spotted, but they seem to have increased greatly; they will provide good sport later on in the year. As for the perch, they are also on the increase. I have had great success with a small spinner, either with a fly or just the plain hook. The trout have been very spotty; some few good catches have been reported. I did hear of one case where four greys were caught in one evening, and not a thing for the rest of the week. Of course, this makes fishing; if fish were caught every time we went out, the pastime would lose its appeal. Doré are being caught in good numbers on the Ottawa River, and some of them not legally. I know of hoop nets being used right near the dam, and it's more than likely these fish are being caught for sale. This practice is increasing every day in the district and not much is being done about it. I do not blame our wardens for this situation; they are doing a grand job in other fields.

I received another call about a Big Bird. From what I can gather, this must be a wild swan. It may seem far-fetched, but it is possible. At any rate, if anyone sees a bird the size of a big goose, with a slender long neck, almost pure white — but with a shade blackish grey on the underside of the wings, will you please give me a call (LO 2-6374). I would appreciate this very much.

Weed seeds cost plenty

Farmers who do not pay much heed to weed control are losing money in several ways. These can be listed as —

1. The cost of cultivating growing crops.
2. Losses through competition with weeds in growing crops.
3. The cost of harvesting weeds in the crop.
4. The cost of hauling weeds.
5. Sixty percent of the cost of summer fallow.
6. Loss of grade in crops due to presence of weeds.
7. Miscellaneous losses including cattle poisoning and the cost of weed control machinery and chemicals.

In formulating a program to rid the farm of weeds these points should be considered. Weed control can be achieved by good tillage and cropping practices and the use of good seed. The use of chemical weed killers should not be overlooked. A farmer can have good practices but his neighbor may not.

'Farm Day' at Macdonald, 26th

Farmers this year will have the opportunity to see all aspects of Macdonald College. Besides tours and demonstrations of all departments, a special ladies' program will be put on. This includes demonstrations on propagation and care of house plants; cake decorating demonstrations; and films of topical interest.

There will be something of interest for all the family, so plan now to attend Better Farming Day — June 26.

Wolf Cub Field Day

Favorable weather contributed to the enjoyment, by about 125 Long Sault District Wolf Cubs, of a full program of educational and competitive events held recently at Harrington Forest Farm.

The 1st Grenville Pack accumulated the highest points aggregate on the day's activities, with 1st Lachute and 1st Thurso second and third.

Individual winners in the 8-year-old events were — Nelson Kennedy, Brownsburg Mowgli; Donald McFaul, 1st Lachute; Richard Pariseau, 1st Brownsburg; and Louis Bennett, Grenville.

In the 9-year-old class, the winners were — Gerald Bujold, Thurso; Ken Purcell, Grenville; Clarence Rainey, Grenville; Billy Ward, 1st Lachute.

The 10-year-old winners were — Don McTavish, Grenville; Don Barnett, Brownsburg Mowgli; John Robitaille, Brownsburg Mowgli; Don Noble, 2nd Lachute.

The 11-year-old events, were won by — John Heatley, 2nd Lachute; Jimmy Steward, Thurso; Bob Reynolds, Thurso; Bill Clement, Thurso.

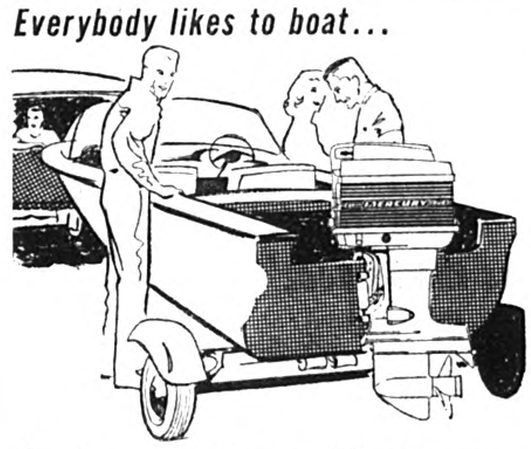

A highlight of the day was the closely contested tug-of-war elimination contest, where well-matched teams and well disciplined teamwork contributed some thrillingly sustained pulls. 1st Lachute and 1st Grenville emerged in that order as winners.

Attractive, burnt-lettered wooden plaques, made especially for the occasion, were presented to the winning Pack and to individual event winners by District Commissioner M. R. Wilson, who along with J. Salm, Noel Racine (on the public address system) and many of the attending parents, assisted District Special Events Chairman George Noble in the organization and conduct of the program.

Once again the Long Sault District would like to extend special thanks to the Canadian International Paper Company, and to Forest Farm Manager J. Salm in particular, for use of the site and assistance with the preparations. The interest of parents and others who attended is also much appreciated by the boys and their leaders.

Colorful event at Arundel School graduation dance

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — A gala event took place recently when the graduating class of 1962 held its dance. About 400 guests were present.

The hall was gaily festooned, and a white picket fence surrounded the space reserved for dancing, half of which was divided by an artificial stone wall. In the centre of this half was a circular fountain with a full-blooming dogwood tree, illuminated by tiny electric lights. All this was banked around with flowers and foliage. The stairs leading to the stage were also banked each side with flowers, and lighted with concealed lighting. . . . With the festooned decorations of the green and gold school colors, interspersed with Chinese lanterns, the effect was most attractive.

At 9 o'clock, piped in by Mr. A. Lawson, the "Graduation March" commenced. This was led by two majorettes, Helen Beauchamp and Betty Bates, followed by the graduates and their escorts, and by the Students' Council. After circling the enclosure, the march was brought to a close by the forming of an "A", a party of Cubs forming the crossbar.

Principal Melvin Graham spoke a word of welcome to the guests, and then presented the graduates, as follows — Miss Marlene Colquhoun, Miss Allana Diver, Miss Lorraine Swail, Miss Mary Thompson, Miss Donna Lyn Graham, and Wm. McMahon, who was the only boy to graduate.

Miss Allana Diver thanked Principal Graham on behalf of the graduates.

Mr. Mansiel Wilson, Director of Grenville Woods Division of C.I.P., presented the Students' Council with a scroll in recognition of their work at the Tree Farm. This was received by Miss Mary Thompson.

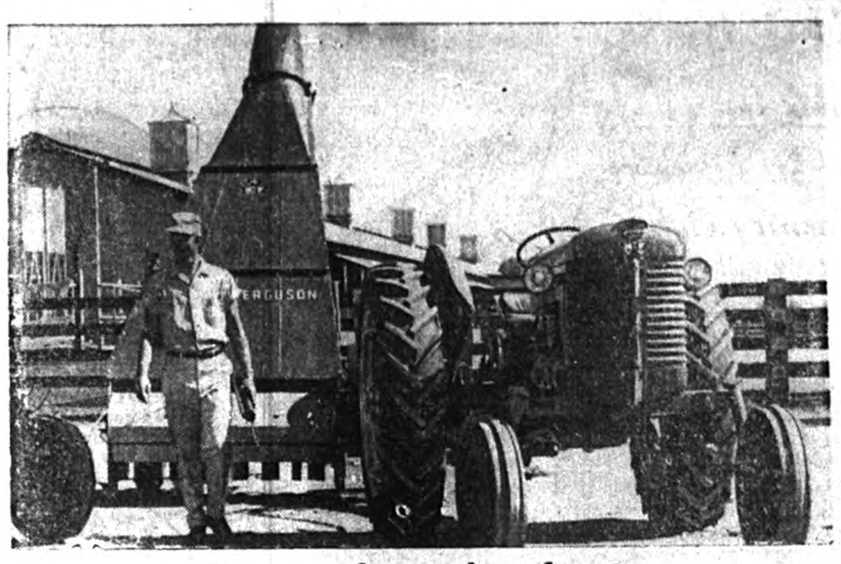

Mr. Leslie Cooke, on behalf of the School Board, addressed the guests and extended a few words of advice and encouragement to the graduates.

At 10 p.m. a program of Scottish dances under the leadership of Mrs. A. Lawson was then presented, consisting of a Highland Fling (Bonnie Lee Swail, Mary Belle Swail, and Dale Boyd), Sword Dance (Donna Lynn Graham, Rollande Drouin, Barbara Swail), and Broad Sword Dance (Lynne Cooke and Gloria Graham). All were in Highland costumes and the program was greatly enjoyed.

Supper was then served and the evening closed with dancing, to Gordon Anderson's orchestra.

Everybody connected with the planning of this enjoyable event is to be warmly congratulated.

Specially invited guests were Mayor and Mrs. Morrison, Arundel; Mayor and Mrs. J. Breckenridge, Weir; Mayor and Mrs. Dewar, Lost River; the Rev. and Mrs. F. Bussell; Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Salm, Mr. and Mrs. Pinard, all of C.I.P.; members of the School Board; parents of the graduates; members of Arundel Municipal Council; Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawson.

Pattern of Canadian farming

IT'S AGRIBUSINESS, the new pattern in Canadian farming. Agribusiness is the movement toward larger units of production, bigger capital investment and fewer workers. The cattle farmer above believes in agribusiness, and relies on his new hay packer and other equipment to cut, cure, package, load—and even feed out the hay to his cattle in winter.

Information for voters in Lachute school election

Many changes have taken place to sections of the Education Act which concern school elections.

The time of elections now falls in the month of June. This year the voting will take place on June 11. On the Lachute Protestant Board of School Commissioners, the terms of Messrs. John Douglas and Richard O. MacLean have concluded. Nominations were received on Monday of this week for four aspirants for these two vacancies — Messrs. Henry Beauchamp, G. Kilgour Hardie, Richard O. MacLean and Albert McDonald.

At the beginning of April this year, an Electoral List was prepared according to law, containing the names of those persons having the qualifications of an elector as outlined in Section 125, which states:

"125. To have a right to vote at any election of school commissioners or trustees, it shall be necessary:

1. To be of the age of majority and a Canadian citizen;

2. To be entered on the electoral list, and

3. To be the owner of real estate or of a building, be entered as such on the valuation roll, or to be the spouse of such owner and have been domiciled in the school municipality for the last six months, or

4. To be the father, mother or tutor of a child who was less than eighteen years old on the preceding thirtieth of June and have been domiciled in the municipality for the last six months."

Since this list was prepared, Bill 40 has been submitted to the Legislature; and its provisions are clearly stated in the public notice on page 8 of this issue. This attention of voters is directed to this notice.

As the Electoral List now stands, there are 1,720 names listed. This new Bill 40 will give approximately 700-800 more people the franchise. If everyone exercises his franchise, about 2,500 people should be voting in this election.

Section 154 of the Education Act states that if the electoral list contains more than 350 names, the returning officer shall divide it into as many parts as necessary in order that each poll shall contain not more than that number, and shall establish as many polling-stations.

In the Lachute Protestant school municipality, it has been necessary to establish eight polling stations. These are located as follows — three in Lachute High School; two in the Parish of St. Jerusalem Office; one in the Town Hall in St. Andrews East; one in the municipal hall of Chatham in St. Philippe d'Argenteuil; and one in the municipal hall in Lakefield. One of the polls in Lachute High School is to accommodate those voting under the provisions of Bill 40 here quoted.

99 Donors gave blood at recent B'burg clinic

(Contributed)

Brownsburg — The chairman of Brownsburg's blood clinic reports a somewhat less than successful outcome on May 24. Thanks are due though to the many who volunteered their services and worked so diligently to make the clinic a success. It's safe to say that if the red - blooded citizens of Brownsburg and district had matched the enthusiasm of the workers, it would indeed have been a successful venture.

Special thanks are due the Rotary Club of Browsburg and Lachute, for providing supper for the visitors; to the Women's Institute for running the coffee bar; and to Legion Branch 71 for providing the hall. The local bottling works were again very generous in furnishing "Coke" and "Seven-Up" for the donors. The local taxi drivers offered their services free, and Mr. King of the Legion put in a great deal of work.

Many others, who helped set up the clinic, volunteer nurses, registrars, etc., are deserving of thanks, and most of all, gratitude is due the 99 donors who answered the call. When all is said and done, the blood which is so necessary for life-saving is the real point to having a clinic. If these donors could see the faces of the people whose lives they have saved, the sincere thanks which are extended by the chairman would be trivial in comparison.

Keep up the good work, donors, and see if you can't imbue some of your neighbors with your fine humanitarian spirit! Surely ours is not such a bloodless town as the figures indicate.

Wedding and three anniversaries celebrated

Following their return from their recent wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. Jimmy Welden and his bride, the former Marjolaine Maisonneuve, were honored at a surprise party tendered by the Welden family. The reception, held Saturday evening in the Masonic Hall, was attended by about 200 friends and relatives, who expressed good wishes and presented numerous gifts to the young couple.

The date of this party, June 2, coincided with three other anniversaries — two among members of the family and the other by friends and neighbors. The four couples are seen above, (left to right) — Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hume (the former Rodeen Hadley) 19 years married; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Welden, in whose honor the celebration was held; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Dixon (the former Joan Welden) 11 years married; and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacKiddie (the former Joyce Welden) 6 years married.

Proceedings at rally of 'United Church Women'

(compared with $11,000 contributed during the same period last year). In addition, women are continuing to care for the needs of their local churches and communities as they have done ardently in the past. The results of the first few months of the United Church Women have been beyond expectations!

The other address was by Mrs. Johnston, giving her impressions of her recent visit to India, "a fascinating country, full of contrasts." She praised the work and faith of the missionaries there in the face of disappointment, lack of assistance and difficult communication and transportation. These women, she remarked, will continue to bring education, medical aid, hope and the word of God to these isolated areas. Of the 3rd Assembly of the World Council of Churches, Mrs. Johnston spoke of the unity of purpose of all attending. The theme was "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World". In India, she concluded, the Light is shining as never before.

News from the Board of Women was presented by Mrs. L. A. Van Duzer and Mrs. H. Meadows, members of that Board. The work of the following committees or portfolio secretaries was presented — Christian Citizenship, Co-operating in Christian and Missionary Education, Finance, Community Visiting and Friendship, Literature and Communications, Periodicals, Press and Publicity, Stewardship and Recruiting, Supply and Social Assistance.

Ladies from the Ottawa Valley churches who participated were registrars Mrs. H. Elliott of Brownsburg, Mrs. E. Pollock of Lachute; Mrs. Wm. Usher, who welcomed the ladies to St. Mungo's; Mrs. Wilson Bridge of Lachute, who also assisted in planning the rally with the Leadership Development Committee of Presbyterial; Mrs. L. Thomas, Kilmar, who thanked the ladies of Cushing for the lunch; Mrs. K. Kilpatrick, of Morin Heights, who said the courtesies; and the ladies of Cushing who served the delicious lunch and tea following the rally.

At the organ during the sessions was Miss A. Davidson. The president of the hostess group was Mrs. I. Fuller.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacGeorge were Mrs. Cecil G. Tomalty, of Vancouver, B.C., and Mr. Donald MacRae, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Noble-Pollock recent ceremony at United Church

The marriage of Bertha Grace, daughter of Mrs. William Pollock and the late Mr. Pollock, of Lachute, to Mr. Ronald Lemuel Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, of Lachute, took place Saturday, May 19, in the Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating.

Mr. L. B. Hopkins played the wedding music and Mrs. Leonard Armstrong sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer". The church was decorated with stands of pink and white carnations and snapdragons.

The bride, given away by her uncle, Mr. Sterling Pollock, was in a full-length gown of pure silk organza, with picture neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands, a fitted bodice, and full bouffant skirt, with appliqués of lace down the front of her gown. A tiara of seed pearls held her veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with stephanotis.

Mrs. Melvin Hammond (sister of the bride) as matron of honor, and Mrs. Leslie Harland (sister of the groom) as bridesmaid, wore short gowns in blue organza, with round necklines and three-quarter sleeves, full gathered skirts, with matching headdresses. They carried bouquets of pale pink carnations.

Mr. Louis Noble, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Mr. Hugh Pollock, brother of the bride, and Mr. Stanley Noble, brother of the groom, were ushers.

Mrs. Pollock, mother of the bride, wore a blue shantung sheath dress with hat to match and beige accessories, with a corsage of deep pink carnations. Mrs. Noble, mother of the groom, wore a beige nylon and arnel sheath dress with a Nile green hat and beige accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The couple left on a motor trip to the Maritimes. For travelling, the bride wore a honey beige sheath dress with matching duster, a rust-color hat and jewellery with beige accessories. Her corsage was of bronze mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Noble will reside in Lachute.

Quebec Women's Institutes present brief on Education

The Quebec Women's Institutes are presenting a brief to the Royal Commission on Education.

Although primarily an organization concerned with the education of rural women, the schools have come in for a great deal of attention in their fifty years of existence in the Province of Quebec.

To quote a recent article by Mrs. W. B. Holmes, "the success of Women's Institutes' work has depended largely on their ability to 'start where you are with what you have', and in 1911 when the QWI first came into being, what they had was a deep concern for the limited opportunities which were offered to their young people whose primary source of education lay in the one-room school."

Times have changed. The one room school has gone. The Institutes worked for consolidation of schools and for closer cooperation between the school and the home. They supplied simple equipment to the country schools for 'something hot' for the children carrying their lunches and the teacher cooperated by warming it up. When consolidation took place they supplied food and "helpers" to serve hot lunches. In the rural schools they had introduced medical inspection and later helped the Dept. of Health in setting up Health Units.

School libraries was another of their projects. School Fairs were organized and many are run entirely by the Institutes. Public speaking contests are sponsored. Education is encouraged in other ways. Over 40 scholarships and bursaries are given, besides prizes and loans. Retarded children have received a great deal of attention in the last few years, with some schools being sponsored and others aided.

In 1951 the QWI made a survey of rural schools and presented their recommendations for a revision of the curriculum before the Sub-Committee of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education.

In preparation for the present brief, a survey was taken in all the 22 counties covered by the Institutes and the opinions of the members on changes urgently needed in the present system of education have been embodied in the brief.

Bridge party for Association for Retarded Children

Brownsburg — A bridge party supper will be held on Saturday, June 9, at 7 p.m. at Brownsburg Legion Hall. Admission is $1.50 per person, and all are invited, either as pairs or as singles.

Supper will precede the card-playing, which will run from about 8 until 11 p.m. Since a large number of Argenteuil Bridge League members will probably be at the party, the season's prizes for that organization will be awarded, and an executive for next season will be elected.

It must be emphasized, however that ALL bridge players are welcome, whether or not they have played in the league. The proceeds will go to the Association for Retarded Children, so in enjoying a good supper and competitive bridge, you will be contributing to an excellent cause.

Dinner dance for employees of Gatineau Power

The employees of Gatineau Power Company (E.M.B.A.) have organized a dinner dance to take place at 6.30 p.m., June 9, at the Maurice Hotel, St. Jerome. The bowling playoff between the winners of the east and the west will take place in the afternoon.

Mr. Lawrence Cowan, district manager and president of the E.M.B.A., will preside at the presentation of the trophy and prizes at the dinner dance. It is expected that Mr. G. Gordon Gale, president of Gatineau Power Company, Mr. Alan Brown, commercial vice-president, and Mr. Lucien G. Rolland, director, will be in attendance for the occasion.

Outing to circus, treat provided for retarded children

Pupils of the Lachute School for Retarded Children, now under the able guidance of Mrs. Tom Ponech, were given a very special treat recently when they were invited by the Shriners, along with several other handicapped children, to attend the circus in Montreal. Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Dave Campbell, excellent seats were provided for them, and all arrangements taken care of.

Three ladies, Mrs. Wes Younkie, Mrs. Harry Booth and Mrs. Charles Stephens, kindly volunteered the use of their cars, and themselves transported the children to the city. Their patience and generosity to these children deserves warm appreciation.

The men and women who made this day possible for the youngsters will not soon be forgotten either by the pupils or their parents. Regular teaching is not the only requirement for handicapped children, but also sharing pleasures with other children. It is only in this dual manner that they can learn to take their place in the community.

Prot. Committee of Education met at Laval

A meeting of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education was held at Laval recently. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., and Dr. Elmer Giles, both of Lachute, were in attendance.

The chairman congratulated Mr. H. S. Billings on his appointment as Director of Protestant Education. A presentation was made to the retiring Director of Protestant Education, Dr. E. S. Giles.

The Director reported that nine new Protestant appointments had been made to the Department of Education and that during the year 1961-62 32 Protestant schools had been built or added to (making a total of 373 additional classrooms).

The changes authorized in the course of study included the extension of the high school course for French-speaking pupils to include Grade IX in 1962-63. A list of textbooks in French for the various subjects in this course was approved for Grades VIII and IX.

Fifteen awards of the Order of Scholastic Merit were announced (none of these is from Lachute district or Argenteuil County).

The members of the Protestant Committee were present at a meeting of the Council of Education held later in the day.

Argenteuil Divn. Girl Guide rally held recently

The Argenteuil Division Girl Guide annual rally was held May 12, at St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac "Olympia Park", with almost 100% attendance in the eight Companies participating.

Guests, introduced by Mr. Shadwell, who acted as master of ceremonies for the day, were — Mrs. W. S. D. Dart, Cartier Area Commissioner; Mrs. Symons, Cartier Area Secretary; Miss Ann Lowe, Ranger Captain of 1st St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac Company and Cartier Area Camp Advisor; Mrs. M. R. Wilson, Argenteuil Division Commissioner; Mr. R. Chalbers, who spoke on behalf of the Mayor of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac and welcomed the visitors, Guiders and Guides; and Mr. Pierre Gagnon, Scoutmaster of 1st St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac Rover Troop, who with the help of his Scouts laid a huge campfire.

Mrs. Dart inspected the Companies, and Miss Lowe inspected their tents and gateways. A picnic lunch was then enjoyed, with many Guides renewing old acquaintances.

The afternoon events consisted of a knot relay race; a tent-raising competition, which proved very popular, 7 minutes being the time the winners took to put their tents up properly; also a water boiling contest, which included setting the campfire; and lastly an obstacle race. All events were closely followed, and those taking part were cheered on by their fellow Guides.

Mrs. Wilson, with Miss Lowe on the platform, took the salute for the March Past. The Guides then formed a circle around the large campfire and sang songs of their choice.

Miss Lowe presented the prizes. Brownsburg Company took top honors for the day; they won the Guide Shield, having earned 415 points out of the possible 500. The 2nd Lachute placed second, with 340 points, and 2nd St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac Company earned 270 points to place third. Fine sportsmanship and keen interest was shown by all the girls, who returned home tired but happy.

Appreciation and special thanks are extended to the guests; to Mr. Shadwell, the m.c.; to the judges, who were kept very busy; to the First Aid attendants; to Mr. Gagnon and his Scouts — and to all others who helped make the day a successful one.

Rotary tug-of-war defending champions

These are the men to beat, the defending champions — winners of the 1961 tug-of-war on "Rotary Night" at Lachute Spring Fair.

The Canadian International Paper Company's team of "Manny" Wilson, coached by Ernie MacRae, are enthusiastic contenders for the third year. Can they repeat the performance of the past two years?

Thursday night, June 14, in front of the grandstand at the Fair, will tell the tale.

Besides the team from Canadian International Paper Company Ltd., there will be stiff competition from Canadian Refractories Ltd. (Marelan), the second prize-winner in 1961; The Farmers, second money winners in 1960, and always strong contenders; Canadian Industries Ltd., Canadian Safety Fuse Co., Dominion Ayers Ltd., and Boyd's Express Ltd.

Other attractions for Rotary Night at Lachute Fair

The Rotary tug-of-war event, outlined above, is the one field that has been left completely to the men. Not so with the cow milking contest and the musical stalls, where the ladies give a good account of themselves.

Embryo cowboys take over the rugged calf-catching event, where Jackie Hume, Donald Mode, Ian Lees and Donnie Hadley were so successful last year. . . . Those who still wish to enter, please telephone Andy Hardie at LE 3-6810 (boys over 16 only).

It is hoped to keep the program rolling this year with clowns and their monkey-shines, during the preparatory parts of the various events.

Machines have been invented to do many wonderful things these days — but none to transfer milk from can to coke-bottle directly. . . . In the cow milking contest, both men and women proved that they have not forgotten how to get milk "when the power goes off". John Rodgers, Doug MacKenzie and Lloyd Ayre won, although the ladies gave excellent competition and plan to win this time. Mrs. Fred (Jean) Stein, Mrs. Ken (Glenna) Wilson and Miss Carol Parker persuaded the cows to co-operate last year. . . . Further entries, please 'phone Don Wilson LO 2-2077. . . . Perhaps this year the "belles" will be best, bringing the bottle of bovine breakfast beverage to the judges?

The young ladies showed superior skill when it came to guiding their steeds in the musical stalls event. Senior riders and winners were Elizabeth Hay, Barbara Rose and Nancy Humphrys, while juniors Lois Billingham, Gwen Oswald and Careen Heggie won, and show fine promise. The challenege is up to the boys this year.

Proceeds to Community Work

These events, for your entertainment, serve a double purpose, since the proceeds are used for community service work in the area, and for the park - swimming hole in particular. Rotarians have been working personally several weeknights, painting, cutting grass, repairing buildings, fences, raft, swings and slides so that the park can be opened for supervised swimming picnics and play, as soon as school exams are over.

The co-operation of contestants, and the public, is much appreciated by the service clubs who are trying to help youth in the community.

Prize Drawing

The Rotary drawing for the portable TV, radio, stereo record-player combination, will take place Saturday night, June 16, in front of the grandstand, two days after the Rotary program night.

See you Thursday, June 14, at the grandstand — then any warm evening at the Park (at the rear of Brownsburg Lumber Co., Brownsburg Road).

Mobile 'mailman' tells of people in international travelling show

The world's most unusual mailman — he trots the longest mail route on the globe, from Manchester, Vermont, through the international tour of the King Reid Shows — comes to Lachute next week to provide, single-handed, a travelling post-office to the King Reid Shows at the Lachute Spring Fair.

William R. (Tommy) Austin, 52, handles about 1,000 pieces of mail a day to look after his community of 500 show people.

Getting ready for the 20-mile a day walk he does 15 weeks a year, Tommy told a story revealing what makes a travelling show of this size and standard tick. . . .

"Show people are like one big family — they stick together," Tommy said, "In fact, they raise their children to stay in the business. It is like in the old-type circus — once you are in the business, you are in it practically for life."

Show people generally have a much broader view of life than the ordinary citizen who stays in one place. Travelling about, show people see how things operate in various parts of the country. During summer holidays the children travel with their parents and get a special kind of education.

A typical example is the Reid family, which founded this show in which now three generations are working.

Reid Lefebvre, called "King of the Carnival," started it all, having built up his investment in this, the "World's Cleanest Midway", from 10 Indians, a Merry-Go-Round and a Candy Floss machine. His stepson, Arthur Pinsonault, learned the trade the hard way, from the bottom up — working as "roughneck", helping erect the stands and lending a hand in concession stands selling candy apples and floss. He was shown no consideration because he was Reid's stepson. But he is liked by the show people because he's always on hand to help others when they need him. Today he operates the King Reid Kiddieland and enjoys the cries of glee when the younger set whoop along as pilots in aeroplanes, captains of boats, engineers of electric trains, or when they make like Mounties in pursuit cars.

Many of King Reid's people have been with the team for the 25 years it has been operating on this international route. . . . The efficiently working show community looks forward every year to the Canadian leg of its tour, and the people enjoy particularly coming to Lachute Spring Fair.

Largest giant makes premiere at Lachute Fair

Lachute Spring Fair will see the first appearance of the world's largest man in Eastern Canada. He is being brought here by King Reid, and can be seen in Col. Tobin's "Celebrated Congress of Human Oddities," the new super-circus sideshow on the King Reid Shows midway.

Born in Iceland, the Viking giant Johann K. Petursson stands 8 foot 8 inches tall in his stocking feet, weighs 425 pounds, wears a size 34 shoe. His fingers are so large that a silver dollar can be passed through the centre of his rings.

The Viking Giant has thrilled thousands of people in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hit movie, "The Viking", and many millions with his appearances in top TV shows on the major networks.

Blue Sky Revue for Legion Night at Lachute Fair; multiple attractions

Branch 70 of the Royal Canadian Legion has chosen Canada's "Blue Sky Revue" to entertain at the Lachute Spring Fair grandstand on Saturday evening, June 16, with showtime being 8 p.m. sharp.

Here is a show that has everything to please all tastes — singers, dancers, musical acts, novelty acts, magic, ventriloquist and music galore. It is the show that has toured Canada many times, bringing the best talent available from the field of radio and television.

Some of the many acts that will be appearing are:

Carol and Sandy — Canada's youngest ventriloquist and star of her own show on CBMT's Channel 6, "Cartoon Corner".

The Blue Skyliners — with their rhythm 'n blues, rock 'n roll material, and that ever popular twist. Zircon recording stars, this group played at the recent Legion sponsored Teen-age Cabaret Night and provided excellent entertainment. They will be back again.

Mickie & Minnie Mouse — two of the famous Disneyland characters, who will be on hand for the kiddies.

The Charlstonettes — who bring back memories of the Charlston Era. Specialty with the Boop-Boop Be-Boop Girl.

Brian Youngward — recording artist from Burlington TV shows, with favorite western tunes.

The Haytoaders — popular hillbilly comedy foursome, who bring back the Mammy Yokum days in the mountains with their comical routines.

Canada's Mr. Pastry — from London, England; that fine old gentleman of television with his renditions of the Lancers and the "Passing-Out Ceremony".

The White Spot — fine impressions of Bill Kenny and his famous Ink Spots. A real show-stopper for the older folk.

Louise Gerouard — TV tap and acrobatic star.

The Great Barini — magic and fun for the kiddies. This is an act to watch closely. Yes, this lad proves that the hand is quicker than the eye.

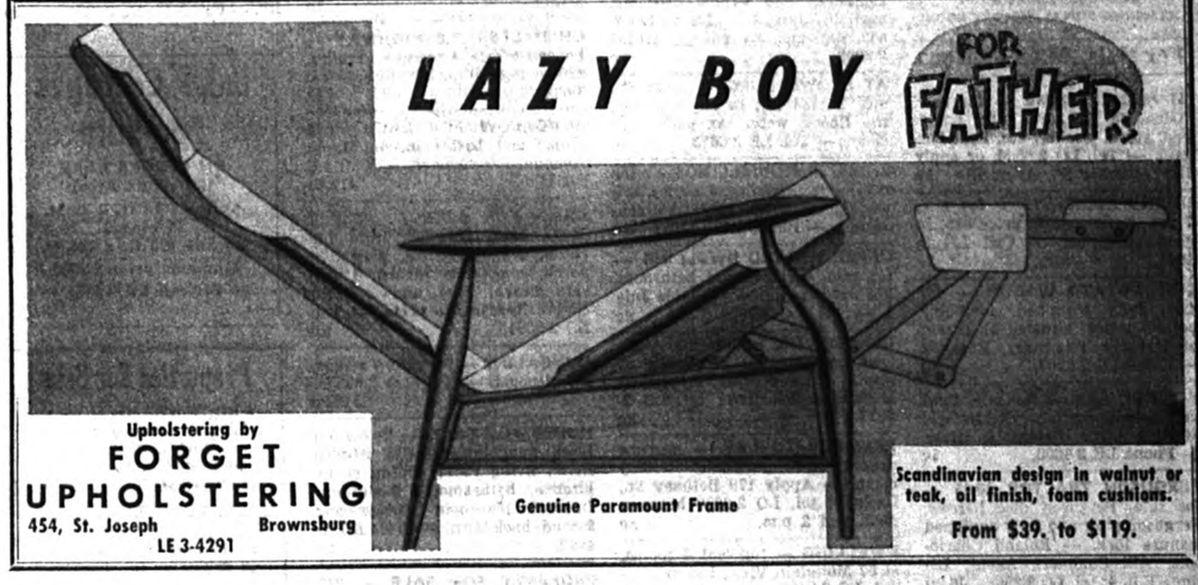

Louise Crete — Channel 12 songstress, winner of the Ted Mack television show in New York.

All of this backed by the Blue Sky Revue Orchestra will be brought to you by Branch 70 on Legion Night. Master of ceremonies will be Tom Blythe, producer-director of the Blue Sky Revue. . . . Here is the show for the entire family from 6 to 60 — Saturday evening at the grandstand.

Have You A Question

on
UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE OR EMPLOYMENT?

Q. — During 1960 I had 25 weeks of contributions, and drew seasonal benefit. In 1961 I had another eight weeks, making 33 weeks within the two years. Am I entitled to unemployment insurance benefit now?

A. — On the information provided you cannot qualify for benefit at this time. Even for seasonal benefit you would require at least 15 contributions since 26 March, 1961.

Q. — Last summer, I worked for 16 weeks as a dishwasher, paid my unemployment insurance contributions, and drew seasonal benefit of $30 every two weeks from December until February 7, when the local office offered me a job as a dishwasher for $50 a month. Last summer I earned $80 a month for the same work. I said I was available for work, but at a rate of $75 a month. I was disqualified for six weeks for having refused suitable employment, although it was not the work but the salary I was refusing. Has the local office the right to make me work for any salary they like? Have they the right to disqualify me under these circumstances?

A. — If a claimant refuses an offer of suitable employment without good cause, he or she is subject to disqualification for a period up to six weeks. Presumably the wages on the job offered to you were within the prevailing rate for this type of work in your area. If you were not satisfied with the insurance officer's decision, you had the right of appeal to the Board of Referees.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

The duty to vote

ONE THING all the parties now campaigning across the land can agree on is this: if you have a vote on June 18, be sure to use it.

The record in the last federal election in 1958 was the best yet, but it was still no higher than 80 per cent. With a total 9,131,200 listed voters in the 10 provinces and the Northwest Territories and Yukon, the actual number of votes cast was 7,357,139.

The voting percentage was 75 per cent in 1957, also a record to that time. In 1957, there were 8,902,125 on the voting lists, and 6,680,690 votes polled.

In the 1953 election, the polling percentage really was low, actually 67.1 per cent. That year, there were 8,401,691 on the lists, and 5,701,825 votes were cast.

It boils down to the fact that at the best of voting times, 20 out of every 100 voters do not cast their ballot.

Some of these of course have a valid excuse. Either sickness or urgent business can keep them from the polling booth on election day. But it has to be assumed that there is also a proportion who simply are not interested in recording their ballot, or just will not take the trouble to go around to the polling station.

And of those who do enter the polling booth, it is always amazing to discover how many have carelessly spoiled their ballot.

The ballot is marked with a black lead pencil, provided in the polling booth, by putting a simple X opposite the name of the candidate you wish to see elected. Using a pen, making any other mark than a straight X, spoils the ballot.

If a mistake is made naturally, and the voter realizes it at the time, the polling clerk will provide a new ballot slip on surrender of the old. But if the spoiled ballot gets into the ballot box, nothing can be done about it.

In the last dominion election there were 69,842 spoiled ballots. In 1957, the total was 74,710.

Keep in mind the slogan "Vote as You Like, But Vote." And follow the rules.

Remember the dictionary definition of a citizen — one who enjoys political rights and privileges and owes allegiance to his nation. The right to vote is also a duty.

Explanation called for

THE PAST week's news told of isolated attacks on truck vehicles operating in Ontario — doubtless an attempt to stress the truck drivers' demands with added violence. This is evidence of unruly tactics either by Union-controlled or uncontrolled members — tactics which become increasingly distasteful and draw public recrimination against organized labor.

It seems that our system of law and order should be able to check this deplorable trend — that deterrent forces should be brought in sufficient numbers, and in adequate time, to curb such demonstrations of violence. Seldom are these outbreaks unexpected — though admittedly the examples in Ontario were an exception.

Many Quebec residents however are asking the reason for a more shameful demonstration which took place recently on Cote de Liesse Road, Montreal, where two transport trucks were damaged, and their drivers imperilled, by flying rocks and fire bombs hurled by a mob of strikers. The evidence was there for millions of TV viewers, that strong-arm police were on the job, right among the crowd. Yet apparently there were no arrests, no charges. . . . What sort of "civilized society" is this? We may be wrong, we may have missed a point; but on the surface this would appear like a case of condoned violence. To us, it is a blot on the reputation of police protection and public safety in this province.

Violence by labor, whether organized or disorganized, will never be checked in this desultory manner. It can only thrive and flourish under such conditions.

Need of technical or vocational training

GREATLY INCREASED facilities are required for the teaching of technical and commercial subjects in our school system. These facilities should be supplemented by well qualified guidance counsellors, and financial assistance — according to Farm Forums, Women's Institutes and Home and School Associations who met recently to consider this topic.

All students should be encouraged to attain a minimum education of High School Leaving, at least. Parents should also encourage their children to acquire some sort of vocational training or university education. At the present time most technical schools (reports indicated that there are too few) have not the facilities to offer a sufficient choice of subjects to their students. Some do not provide sufficiently advanced courses.

Night classes and part-time day classes were suggested as desirable for students who might be required to work but who would wish to continue their training at the same time. More use of the apprenticeship system was also advocated. Publicity should be given to the facilities which are available. There were a few suggestions for larger regional high schools which might provide a more varied curriculum.

Most farmers who are leaving the land do so either because they already have a trade or because of age. Forums pointed out the difficulty of men over middle age finding work in industry. They suggested trade schools, night schools, short courses and apprenticing of older men, as a means of helping farmers and improving the unemployment problem.

Claims for discount stamps

DISCOUNT STAMP orders are encouraging new maufacturinng plants to establish in Canada, and are helping firms increase plant capacity to enter export trade — according to claims of the "Canadian Association of Stamp Companies". These companies buy 95% of their gift merchandise in Canada, giving Canadians work and assuring manufacturers steady orders for year-round operation. . . . Here are further claims:

Discount stamps gave Canadian suppliers $10,000,000 in orders last year, helping to distribute merchandise, and providing new outlets for Canadian productions.

This information is contained in a brochure, "What Discount Stamps Mean to the Canadian Economy," released just recently in Toronto.

The Association also reports that discount stamps have already placed more than 2,000,000 items of gift merchandise in Canadian households. In addition to supermarkets, discount stamps are being used by more than 10,000 independent (single store) retailers in Canada to increase the volume of their busines.ess

— This is not in editorial support of a debated principle. . . . We mention these claims only to concede that there is another side to the question — arguments considered substantial enough that the promoters have circulated them in booklet form.

Keep hammering!

IF THERE IS any effective way to improve TV commercials, insistent hammering and clamoring by editorial writers should at least exert some influence. We prevail upon fellow editors to do just that, in the interests of long-suffering humanity.

Advertising can be informative, responsible, reasonable, amusing and, above all, adult. The best (and most effective) product promotion is a blend of all of these. Conversely, it can be (and alas! all too often is) asinine, repetitive, infuriating and intolerable. The worst kind of advertising is usually all these and more.

"YOU GIRLS WERE SUPPOSED TO GIVE THE PM AN EARFUL . . ."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

The boy went down the courthouse steps, on his way to prison. I won't tell you whether it was a week ago, or a month ago, in case you guess the name.

But I'll tell you what passed through my mind, as I watched the boy walk down the stairs in company with the policeman.

I thought: His father and mother sent him there. Having a little knowledge of the life this boy had lived, I knew it was a fact.

The boy had a small, wry smile on his face as he disappeared from view.

You Can't Hurt Me

It was a kind of pitying smile as though the boy was saying: I know things you poor fools will never know. You can't hurt me.

The boy's mother had never wanted a child. When he was a baby and a little boy she gave him only the bare minimum of attention he needed to keep him alive.

Most of the time, she acted as if he wasn't there.

She parted from her husband and remarried. Mother and stepfather both regarded the boy as a nuisance, to be kept out of the way.

Deprived of human warmth and guidance at home, he made himself feel important by doing reckless things — stealing, smashing things, showing off.

And he grew a thick skin to protect himself from being hurt and rejected.

When police caught him stealing, he wasn't in the least distressed. He liked to be brought into court, made the central figure in a drama.

Girls Admired Him

Here was recognition at last. Some of the girls admired him for it, too. There was a certain glamor about a boy who had been up in court.

They treated him gently — gave him another chance. But he was long past the stage when he could be won over by kindness. What percentage was there in that?

Getting in trouble was the only real satisfaction of his life. Soon he was back in court again for stealing something bigger. And then he was on his way down the steps to prison. He will probably spend most of his life in there and cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars.

But his father and mother — who really sent him there — remain free. It seems a funny way to run a world.

REMOTE CONTROL BANKING AID TO MODERN LIVING

Getting to the bank to make a deposit or transact other financial business can sometimes present quite a problem — especially for older people and people who live some distance from the nearest bank. That's why, today, so many Bank of Montreal customers find it convenient and simple to conduct their banking by mail with their local branch.

Banking by mail is designed to give you prompt service in all kinds of transactions. As soon as the mail arrives, the staff at your B of M branch handle the deposits and other matters that have come in from out-of-town customers. You avoid waiting, avoid transportation costs and save time that can be profitably spent doing something else.

If you would like more information about this special B of M Banking-by-Mail service, write to Don Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal. He'll be glad to send you the B of M's Banking-by-Mail folder which tells you how the B of M and the post office can get together to help fill your special banking needs.

A FRUITLESS SEARCH

A stranger in a big city looked in vain for a fruit store in order to buy a basket of peaches to take home, but on the way to the station he passed one of those very select and expensive stores that specialize in cheeses and other delicacies. In the window was a fancy basket of peaches all done up in cellophane and pink ribbon. He went in and priced it.

"Twelve dollars," said the haughty saleslady.

"Haven't you anything less expensive?" asked the customer.

"No," answered the clerk and turned her back.

The stranger started for the door, but suddenly returned and handed the clerk a 50-cent piece.

"I always like to pay for any damage I do," he said.

"To what damage do you refer?" she asked.

"On my way out, I stepped on a grape!"

Be seein' ya!

wonder QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

I WONDER . . . Curiosity is a priceless gift. A youngster's daily questions indicate a bright, inquiring mind. They should be answered intelligently. In this column periodically the editors of this newspaper, in cooperation with The Book of Knowledge, will print those questions — and the answers — most frequently asked by children of their parents.

Is Our Skin Waterproof?

The skin is truly waterproof and will let nothing from outside get through it. But it is pierced almost everywhere by tiny tubes that run out through the waterproof layer to the surface, from the true skin that lies underneath it. These tubes carry the sweat made by the little glands in the true skin. Water could, perhaps, get into these tubes, so that the skin would not be waterproof, if it were not that the sweat, coming out of them, forces back anything that might enter. If anything did enter, it could not get far, for it would find itself in an exceedingly tiny blind alley . . . the inside of the sweat gland. If we rub into the skin very hard something such as cod-liver oil, which the sweat-glands are willing to take up into themselves and give to the blood, we can succeed in making it pass inward through the skin. Also, by means of electricity we can make liquid things pass in through the skin. But otherwise it is truly waterproof — in one direction. The skin cannot, therefore, be nourished by any substance rubbed on the surface. Nourishment must come from the blood.

Why Does a Match Go Out When We Blow It?

When we strike a match we cause friction against certain chemical compounds. The friction creates heat, not very much heat but enough to make the chemicals burst into flame. The hot flame then burns the match stick; that is, causes the substance of the match stick to combine with the oxygen of the air.

In other words, to have a fire we must have three things — oxygen, a substance that will combine with oxygen, and heat. Take away the oxygen (cover the fire so no air can reach it) and the fire goes out. Take away the heat and the fire goes out.

When you blow on a match gently, you make it burn more brightly than before because you are sending a brisker supply of air toward the match. Blow hard and you dilute the hot gases that make the flame and so starve the fire. At the same time the puff of air cools the match below the point where it will go on burning.

Another complaint from victimized motorist

Fort Coulonge, Que.
Editor, The Watchman

I have read several articles regarding fines charged by police in and around the Carillon district.

As you are aware, I resided in St. Andrews (1925-47) and knew the Carillon area very well. On November 26, 1961, I left St. Andrews about 1.30 p.m. for Fort Coulonge. I was accosted in Carillon by a constable and accused of exceeding the speed limit of a few miles an hour in a zone in that Village. I had just descended the Carillon hill, had stopped for gasoline at a station in front of the local hotel. I could not have been exceeding the speed limit at this point. I was ordered to report at the office across the street, and the officer in charge demanded $21. I objected, but he did not say much more than, "You come from Pontiac; pay the fine or leave your car in our charge." To save time and further argument, I paid the amount under protest.

This experience is most embarrassing, costly, and should be looked into by the proper authorities.

I am attaching a receipt received from the officer in charge, and would ask you to return it after it has served its purpose.

Editor's P.S.

It is notable from the enclosure in this letter that the receipt is made out on a non-official form, such as a standard receipt book procurable at any stationery store. There is no imprint of any municipality or regional authority.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

THE EASY WAY?

There is a so-called easy way of getting things done. This easy way has a strong attraction, particularly for politicians or stern disciplinarians. It is the way of compulsion.

There is a less simple but much more effective way of getting things done. This difficult way has a strong attraction for individual men and women, but it does not appeal to stern disciplinarians. It is the way of voluntary co-operation.

Our society, many years ago, elected to choose the less simple but more satisfying and effective way — the voluntary way. Here on the North American continent we built an open, voluntary society. The theory was that men and women, working voluntarily in their own best interests, would do better work and in the long run get more done.

Under that voluntary system there was room for many individual mistakes and individual successes. Failure was punished, impersonally; success was rewarded, impersonally. No big boss called all the shots or decided the reward or punishment. It appeared to be an awkward, complicated, loose, disorganized method of getting things done — but it did leave men free, and men have always wanted freedom. To the surprise of the pessimists, it created the highest living standards in the world — not just for the few, but for the many.

Periodically, of course, problems arose. To solve them, the easy way, compulsion was adopted. Governments, which in the beginning limited themselves almost entirely to the job of protecting the voluntary system, gradually began to use a bit of compulsion here and there to solve some immediate and pressing problem.

There is no denying that compulsion, by the government, backed by the army, works quickly. Like the addict who decides that if one drink makes him feel good he'd better have another half a dozen drinks, governments began imposing more and more compulsion as the answer to each pressing problem.

Today, our society is still mostly voluntary; but each year sees a few more schemes based on compulsion being proposed. It is the old easy way once again luring society into its grasp. I hope North Americans will awaken to the danger, and start now to solve their problems through voluntary co-operation instead of compulsion.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

In the past, on appropriate occasions, this column has been dedicated to Mothers and Mothers' Day, and drawn notice to the fact there should be a Grandfathers' Day. . . . Then 'tis only fitting that, in like manner, we honor the Father of the family.

Who Is the Average Father?

A father is a regular guy, and is the kind of man who does a thing because he knows it needs doing — and not because he will get his name in the paper.

He is the type of fellow who doesn't need to be led on by rewards, prizes or citations and honors — the fellow who knows these things exist, but is too busy getting on with the job he has cut out for himself to worry about being named MAN of the YEAR.

He is the sort of man who made this a good country, and who constitutes its backbone today. The man who puts his family first, who just figures out for himself what is right and what is wrong, and who isn't forever reaching for the brass ring and hoping for the free extra ride.

He gets tired and worn down sometimes; and he usually keeps right on going, without looking around to see if anyone notices his determination. Sometimes he runs into a stone wall — and smiles at himself, and tries another way.

There are plenty of people talking about the world's problems, and grousing about the mediocre luck the world has handed them; but this fellow isn't one of the talky crowd. His troubles are as serious as anyone else's, but he isn't making a speech about them. He is off plowing his furrow.

We see him every day, in lots of places, and we sure like his looks and plain manner of going. We seldom make any sign to him, because, like most people, he is a little quiet and even a little shy. But — good fathers . . . keep going . . . you are the strength and the quality and the heart of this world, and we throw our hat into the air for you.

The ladies may not understand just why, as time goes on, we begin to look thin on top, and a bit potty in the middle — or why we are not decorated with silver and rhinestones and glitter like some fellows — or why our jaw is so often unglazed with fragrant lotion — or why there is a certain animal fragrance about us rather than a giddy garden scent. But ladies, we will do right by you, and will see that the terrors of the world are kept from your door; and can you say as much for the young birdies who come mincing around these days?

As the Mother is the Heart of the Family, so is the Father the Head. His duties and obligations start when one of the nicest combinations of words in any language is spoken: "Mother and child doing fine."

Father — to be worthy of the name, many are the attributes necessary. We need not dwell on them, they are well konwn.

Father — a most trusting name. A name that has reverberated through the ages and will continue to eternity. It is an echo of the name uttered by circling choirs of seraphim; by souls clinging to the cliffs of purgatory; by Adam and Eve weeping in this valley of tears; a name boiling at the volcano's heart; flashing in the lightning's coil, and roaring above the avalanche. A name terrible in wrath, fearsome in its commandments, but also and above all, a name of Love and breathing Forgiveness to those who humbly implore its mercy. A name to whom the first great prayer was dedicated — "OUR Father, Who art in heaven."

The duties and obligations fulfilled by the earthly Father are but the manifestations of the commandments of the heavenly Father.

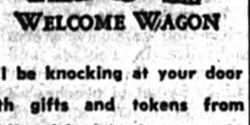

Thus . . .

Each of our lives is just a book,
As absolute as Holy Writ,
We humbly read, and may not look
Ahead, nor change one word of it.
And here are joys, and here are pain,
And here we fail, and here we thrive,
O Wondrous Volume! What remains
When we reach chapter — 60 — 70 — five.

The very best I dare to hope
Ere Fate writes Finis to the tome,
A wiser head, a wider scope,
And for the gypsy heart, a home,
A songful home, with loved ones near,
With joy and sunshine all alive.

The Bible Today

How many languages do men on this earth speak? It is variously estimated: somewhere between 2,500 and 3,000 languages or dialects.

The whole Bible is available in 226 of these languages, which represents some 90% of the world population. The New Testament has been translated into 281 additional languages and some books of the Bible into another 674 tongues. This means that at least some portion of the Bible is now available in 1181 languages.

One of the most recent publications is entitled "Mattiu" with a full color picture on the front cover of "Najarét". This Gospel of Matthew in the Sora tongue has been translated by the Rev. Perry V. Allaby of the Canadian Baptist Mission in Orissa Province, South India. Sora is spoken by 250,000 people of which about 1,500 are described as Christian, and of this only about 500 are literate.

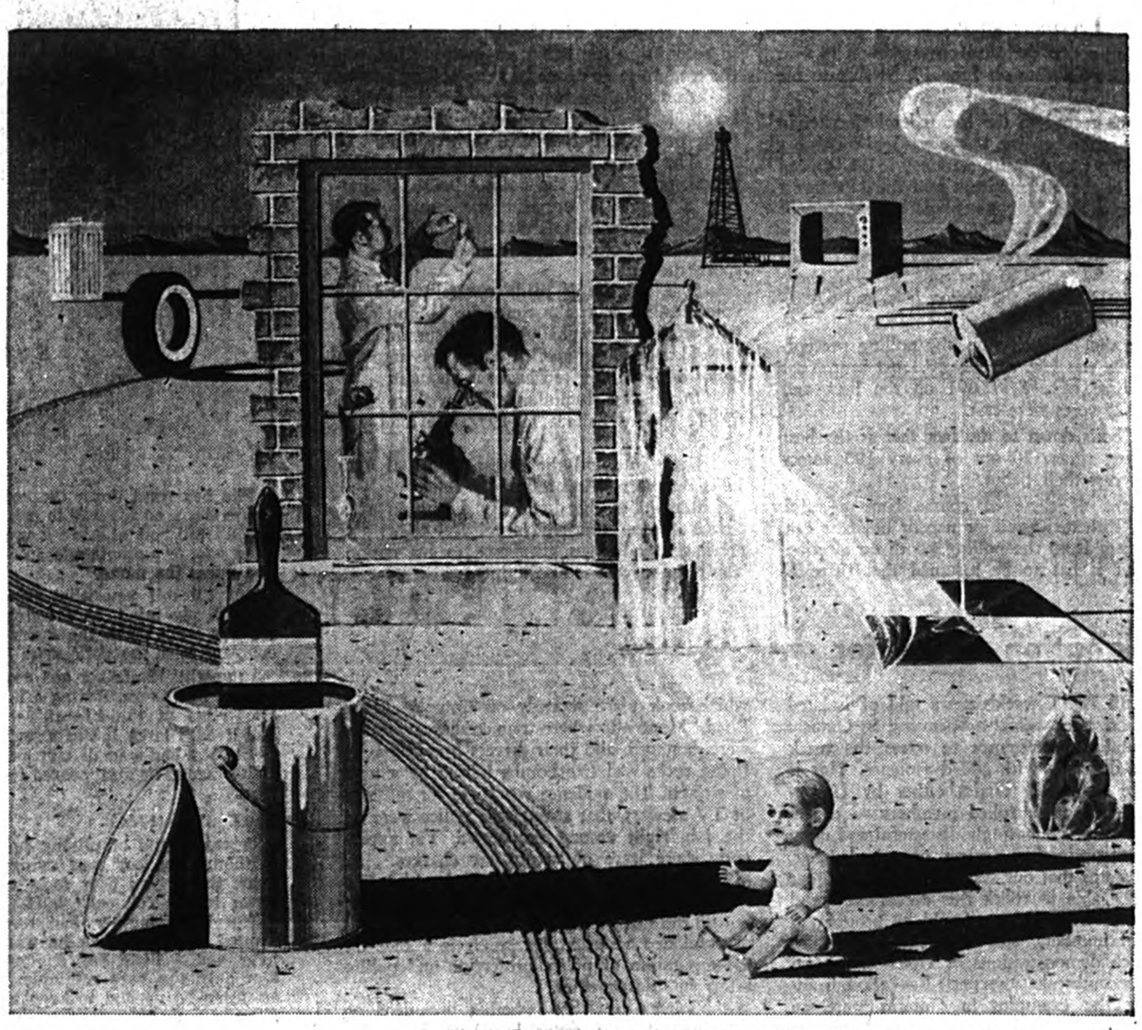

Mr. Allaby is a Canadian, being a graduate of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S. He is now on furlough in Canada after a term of service among the Sora people of Orissa, India.

90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products —and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents.

Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.

ALWAYS LOOK TO IMPERIAL FOR THE BEST Esso

Practically anywhere you look today you'll find things that are made from oil. Chemicals from petroleum are the building blocks for hundreds of things from plastic toys to automobile tires. Imperial Oil research chemists and technicians are working to develop more of these basic chemicals for Canada.

Their Excellencies Receive Canadian Mother of 1962

Madame Charles Edouard Desmeules, Chicoutimi-North, mother of 15 and grandmother of 18, was received by Their Excellencies Governor General and Madame Georges Vanier in Ottawa. Each year, Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association asks for nominations from across Canada for the mother worthy of the title FTD "Canadian Mother of the Year". This year, the panel of six judges chose Madame Desmeules, who won a trip to Ottawa; an award plaque; a flower-of-the-month bouquet to be delivered every month for a year, and other prizes.

Nominations were received from all ten provinces of Canada. The second place mother was Mrs. Margaret Hitchcock of Toronto, but a small boy probably mirrored the thoughts of all nominators. "Even if my mother doesn't win", he said, "to me she'll always be the Mother of the Year".

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

If you're a woman who uses her car for shopping, remember: take the ignition key with you when you park. Otherwise, you might come back with a bundle of groceries and find no car to put it in.

Common sense? Of course, but leaving the key in the car is the number one reason that an automobile is stolen.

So don't make it easy for car thieves. Here are some other tips to help you protect your car:

When you park, close the car windows and lock the doors.

Don't leave packages, luggage or other valuables in sight inside the car, even if it's locked. Put them in the trunk compartment.

If possible, park your car in a garage or in a parking lot with an attendant.

If you do park on the street, don't leave the car in the same spot for long periods. Try to keep in well-lighted areas.

Don't leave a duplicate set of keys "hidden" in the car. Smart thieves know where to look and there aren't many good hiding places anyway. Even the hub cap gambit is over-worked.

Finally, write down your car's engine serial number. Police find it invaluable in identifying stolen cars.

Safety plaques to Company staff

Dick Pepin, the Lachute branch manager, recently presented staff members of Industrial Acceptance Corpn. Ltd. (542 Main St.) with the Company's safety award plaque. The plaque signifies that personnel have driven company cars without an accident during the past year.

There were 85 Industrial Acceptance branches receiving safety awards, 14 of them for the sixth consecutive year. The personnel of these 85 branches drove company cars over four million miles without an accident during the year.

Industrial Acceptance Corpn. began presenting Safety Awards in 1956 as part of a program to promote good driving practices. At present the company has 142 branches across Canada. Over 800 drivers are using company cars, driving nearly seven million miles a year. Realizing the value of a safety program, I.A.C. plans to concentrate its efforts to make safety an every-minute habit among its drivers.

In this regard, the Company has just announced that, effective immediately, all company cars, including those of its subsidiary companies, Niagara Finance Company Limited and Merit Insurance Company, will have seat belts as standard equipment. The Company is also making seat belts available to its 3,000 employees across Canada for their personal cars, at a nominal cost.

Is Volkswagen changing?

Have we decided to replace our familiar beetle-shaped car?

No.

Are we going to stop making it? Definitely not.

In 131 countries around the world, Volkswagens are still being sold faster than we can make them. Once more our factories are being expanded so that production can be increased.

No, we are not discontinuing "old faithful". But we are changing our one-model policy. From now on you will have a choice of two models—our famous 1200 model and the new VW 1500.

IS THE VW 1500 REALLY A VOLKSWAGEN?

The VW 1500 is like its stable mate. It has an air-cooled engine in the rear, of course. It has a solid platform chassis. It has oversize wheels and tires. And it is independently sprung front and rear by torsion bars. In other words, the VW 1500 has all the features which have made the VW 1200 a world success.

THE VW 1500 IS A BIGGER, MORE POWERFUL CAR.

There is no doubt that our new car is a Volkswagen. But it is bigger, livelier, and offers more comfort. Once you have driven the VW 1500 (not just around the block, but over a longer distance) you will discover that it offers a whole new standard of driving performance. It has the responsiveness and road holding qualities of a sports car, and yet it has the comfort and convenience of a full-size family sedan.

The transmission, (synchronized in all four gears) is a pure delight to shift. Bucket seats (only recently rediscovered by so many automobile manufacturers and delivered as an option at extra cost) are standard equipment and can be adjusted to 49 different positions.

LUXURY APPOINTMENTS INCLUDED IN THE BASIC PRICE.

The VW 1500 is loaded with extras: heater, windshield washer, padded dashboard and sun-visors, armrests for all four seats plus a comfortable centre armrest in the rear, and many other items for which you would expect to pay extra. But they are all standard equipment. And you can trust us not to re-style the body each year to make your VW 1500 obsolete.

You can also expect to find the high standard of quality for which the VW 1200 is rightly known. After all, you don't build five million cars of one model without learning how to do it the best way. It is this constant improvement, rather than change for its own sake, that has made Volkswagen the third largest automobile producer in the world.

HOW VOLKSWAGEN HELPS CANADA'S EXPORT TRADE.

Volkswagens play a very important role in the trade relations between Canada and West Germany. Every Volkswagen sold in this country helps Canada to sell more goods to West Germany, and in this sense the additional Volkswagen model will make another contribution to the flourishing interchange between two good trading partners.

SEE THE VW 1500, AND DRIVE IT.

Our 346 Volkswagen dealers, already service trained and supplied with parts for this new model long before the arrival of the first vehicle, are eager to show you the new VW 1500. If you would like to meet a car which combines sensible design, excellent roadholding and low operating cost, test-drive the VW 1500 soon.

To the Electors of Argenteuil - Two Mountains

It has been several months now since we Canadians have been hearing about the coming Federal Election. Our two major parties the Liberals and Conservatives have been busy campaigning, and as usual they have been trying to excel one another with their long list of promises. Many of these promises and ideas are basically good and would be of great benefit to this country. But the question is how many of these will even be thought of, let alone followed up after the tumult and shouting of elections is over.

We have experienced both Liberal and Conservative Governments in Canada. We all know both of these Governments could have done a better job in many areas of endeavour. A sincere, alert, Independent Member of Parliament could do much to remind the next Government, be it Conservative or Liberal of their responsibility to the people of Canada. This constant insistance could be done without interference from Political Party Whips. It is for this reason that I have come forward as your Independent Candidate for Member of Parliament for Argenteuil - Two Mountains.

In the last few weeks, we have been hearing a great deal about Party Conventions. We are all aware that in our own Constituency the results of these Conventions have been disappointing to many of us.

As an Independant Candidate, I am confident that I can serve your interests well. My activities include the Rotary Club, Royal Canadian Legion, Municipal Council as well as the Agricultural Society. I am also a Past President of Lachute and District Home and School Association. As a Chartered Insurance Broker and a family man, I feel that our Government should balance its budget each year. This would mean that we would leave our children a heritage rather than a national debt.

With this short summary of my experience and outlook I solicit your support on June 18th.

Sincerely Yours,

— Ken Riley

The Gift of a Bouquet

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Recently I had a brief visit with my mother who is happily settled in a Nursing Home in Norwich, Ontario. I had flown East in a T.C.A. plane, which was a thrilling experience, but in my impatience to call on mother, I had not brought her a bouquet.

Mother was so glad to see me, but I could not remember ever arriving before without a little present of flowers or a plant. I resolved to give her a tardy gift. Early my first morning I looked for a florist, but could not find one. So I decided to search for some gardener in Norwich from whom I could buy a bouquet.

Quite near the Nursing Home I caught a glimpse of a row of iris clumps of many different shades. An older man had just finished cutting a bouquet and his wife got out of the car parked in his driveway, urging him to hurry.

I realized his cut flowers were for someone else, but perhaps he wouldn't mind me, a perfect stranger, asking him if I could come back later in the day to purchase some iris.

He listened to my request, and his prompt answer was, "We don't sell bouquets around here — we give 'em!"

Such generosity took my breath away. He and his wife suggested I call at seven o'clock that evening.

I felt a little shy about it, but accepted this invitation. When I arrived I received one of the most colorful bouquets I have ever seen — twenty different stems of iris, each one different.

There are a few purple dwarfs in our garden but I had forgotten the amazing variety in shades of iris, "the poor man's orchard" — The lovely dark blue wild iris, Quebec's provincial flower, is one of our most striking wild flowers. — But here were blue, light and dark, purple, yellow, brown, wine, peach and pure white blooms. What wealth of colour!

When I was leaving the gardener's wife showed me her special plants, beautiful Madonna lilies. At the corner of their lot an immense bleeding heart gently waved its branches in the breeze with feathery leaves and fairy-like blossoms. When I admired it the wife explained, "One of my neighbors gave me that plant — and it has done well!" Then she added, "We gardeners receive our gifts of sun and rain and the good earth — and so when a friend gives me some plants, I always say, 'Thank you! I'll put them in right away and take good care of them' ".

"I can't plant my lovely iris bouquet — but I can say a very sincere Thank you, you have been so kind to me, a stranger."

"It's almost as much fun to give flowers to a person who appreciates them as it is to grow them. There's nothing gives me more pleasure than to know a sick person is going to enjoy a gift from my flower bed," the old gardener said frankly.

"You must come around next time you come all the way from Winnipeg to visit your mother and we'll have another bouquet ready for you — and her," she added with a friendly smile.

"Thank God for generous gardeners!" I thought as I departed with my lovely gift bouquet.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

This summer, millions of Canadians are taking vacation trips to the country. If you're one of these fishermen, campers, hikers or picnickers, play safe with Mother Nature.

Here are some tips:

Be careful about drinking water. Even if it "looks good" or "tastes good" it may not be pure. This includes spring water. Drink only from a well or spring that has been marked as pure. You'll probably see a sign. Otherwise, boil the water for 20 minutes. Cool it and remove flat taste by pouring it from one container to another several times.

Take along a guide book so you can identify — and avoid — poison oak, poison ivy and poison sumac.

Carry an insect "bomb" and spray your camp area and tent thoroughly. Don't worry about most bugs and other creatures — no matter how horrible they look. Leave them alone, and they'll leave you alone. This includes spiders and snakes.

Don't trust bears — no matter how "tame" they seem. Store your food in the car's trunk compartment; never leave it in the tent or outside.

Finally, don't worry. You're safer outdoors than any place!

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Janet Kask, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian women are more courageous at tackling the overweight problem than the men, according to a recent survey.

Forty-two per cent of the women in the survey thought they were overweight, and said so, while only 22 per cent of the men admitted it. Half the women claim they had tried to reduce, while only one-third of the men had tried to lose weight.

Twenty - eight per cent of French-speaking males felt they were overweight, against 17 per cent of English-speaking males. On the other hand, 44 per cent of English-speaking females and 40 per cent of the French-speaking women felt their figures were far from perfect.

Slightly less than half of the people who tried to lose weight had cut down or eliminated certain foods from their diet; the others used dietary menus. In the second group, total meal replacement diets took the lead, followed by those using vitamin pills and doctor's prescriptions.

Smaller percentages used pills of other kinds, low calorie dairy products, appetite killers and skim milk.

Proper Tea-Making

North Americans may complain about the coffee they get in England, but can we make a "proper cup of tea" the way the English do?

An English expert claims that understanding tea is half the secret of making it properly. Tea contains two important substances — thein, a stimulant like the caffeine in coffee, and tannin, which has an astringent effect if there is too much in the brew. The idea is to get as much thein and as little tannin as possible in the pot of tea.

If boiling water is poured on the tea the thein is extracted fairly quickly, in five or six minutes. The tannin comes out more slowly, the total being removed in about an hour. The moral is clear: brew the tea no more than five or six minutes, then pour. Second cups will be more astringent with tannin.

In putting the tea into a warmed teapot, before the boiling water is added, allow one heaping teaspoon for every two cups. The water must be boiling — an old saying is: "Always take the pot to the kettle: never take the kettle to the pot."

For perfect tea, pour tea off the leaves into another heated pot. Don't add water to the teapot in hopes of getting second cups — the next pot will be all tannin and no thein.

Barbecued Salmon

For those who enjoy cooking and eating out of doors, barbecued Gaspé salmon is a delectable treat. First, allow an hour to heat the charcoal. Put 1½" thick salmon steak on a double thickness of aluminum foil, rub vegetable oil on the foil and squeeze lemon juice over both sides of the steak. Season with salt, pepper, marjoram, savory, dried or fresh parsley, accent and sliced green onions. Top each steak with a square of butter. Fold foil around the steak to make a sealed package.

When the coals are covered with grey ash, put on steaks and cook for 20 minutes on each side, turning the grate occasionally. Serve steaks in foil and garnish with parsley and lemon.

Minimize vocabulary in Quebec traffic signs

Quebec — Roads Minister Bernard Pinard announced that bold new symbols will replace bilingual instructions on Quebec's traffic signs — reported Robert MacKenzie in The Montreal Gazette.

He told a press conference the new signs are "in production" and it was hoped words would be almost completely banished from the province's signal system by 1967.

Quebec's bilingual signs have been criticized as confusing motorists and containing awkward and ungrammatical French expressions in a slavish attempt to duplicate the English text.

Under the new system, such familiar signals as "pas de virage à droite — no right turn," "ne doublez pas — do not pass," "glissant si humide — slippery when wet" and "fin de la voie divisée — divided highway ends" will disappear.

In their place will be striking colored symbols inspired largely by the international code used in continental Europe.

"Cahot — bump — 400 pds/ft" is replaced by a yellow sign with three large black bumps.

"Pente raide — hill" becomes a black car tilted downwards on a white background.

The "V.F. — R.R." sign at railroad crossings is replaced by a yellow cross and rails on a yellow background.

Most of the signs will retain their existing shape to make the changeover smoother.

Signs in the "do not" category have a standard symbol — an oblique line across a circle.

"Demi-tour interdit — no U-turn" is shown by a U with an arrow crossed by the oblique line.

"Ne doublez pas — do not pass" has a red car and a black car on either side of the line on a white background.

"Interdit aux bicyclettes" has the line crossing a black bicycle on a white background.

"Vitesse — speed 30 — en avant — ahead" will be indicated simply by a black arrow and figure 30 on a white background.

Joke of the Week

"Guess who was elected president of the Fencing Club this year?"

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

U.S. COLUMNIST BOOSTS CANADA

It always gives me a lift to see anything Canadian praised in United States newspapers. Hardly a week goes that I do not reap satisfaction from these news channels.

Recently the travel section of the Washington Daily News in its special column "Riding the Rails" extolled the beauties of travel through the Canadian Rockies by train. It praised plans for circle tours that will encompass the Seattle World's Fair, the Vancouver Festival and Disney Land. The article quoted passenger man Earl Kremer in Washington: "We're running away ahead of last year in our bookings. We are anticipating a complete sell-out this summer."

Package tours have become a blessing for families. Each region of the Canadian National has its own plans for tours but all have one objective, to make summer travel comfortable, safe, amusing and instructive.

It is nice to know my reservations are safely tucked away in my travel bag. I got out the scrapbook my grandson Ricky and I have been pasting together since his teacher made it possible for him to accompany me west.

Dominating the book is a picture of the 60-storey-high Space Needle at the World's Fair. We plan to lunch there — if our stomachs are in the right place after the zooming ride to its revolving restaurant.

Ricky can hardly contain himself at the prospect of a "rocket ride" in the Science Pavilion, a billion light years past the moon and Mars into remote galaxies of outer space. He dreams about the bubbleator in Coliseum Century 21. He has read it will lift visitors to a floating city where they will see work, play and travel in the year 2,000 A.D. Jules Verne could never have had a greater thrill in creating his science fiction novels than this young grandson of mine has had living his summer adventure over and over again. Anticipation is proving almost as exciting as reality for both of us.

One of the items in our scrapbook deals with Canada's participation in the Fair's Fine Arts Exhibit. It is claimed this will be one of the greatest art collections ever assembled. Masterpieces have been loaned by the National Art Gallery, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and Toronto's Art Gallery. The display's total value is said to be some $20,000,000.

One thing we are missing because of our early booking is the Vancouver Festival. But while we are in the oceanside city, I intend to take my young companion to see the Queen Elizabeth Theatre where the festival is held each year.

Luxury Afloat

Ricky has never been on a large ship. One of the stories I must repeat over and over again is about the day two summers ago when I was escorted from bow to stern, from top deck to lower lounge of the Prince George. This CN ship is making six sea-going tours from Vancouver to Seattle before beginning its summer cruises to Alaska. We hope to be aboard one one of its scheduled trips.

Ricky will be no stranger to the floating hotel. I think he knows every feature of this luxury cruise ship by heart after listening to me and reading the Alaska Tour brochure from which we cut the picture that adorns page three of his scrapbook.

Quebec farmers submit requests to Minister

A delegation of Quebec Farmers' Association met Hon. Alcide Courcy Wednesday, May 23, to present him with several requests and suggestions for action by his Department. The delegation included Cyril Dahms, president, of Huntingdon, Rudy Dallenbach, Knowlton, Mrs. Dan McKay, Dalhousie Station, and Leslie Young, secretary. The Hon. Courcey was accompanied by Mr. Glen Brown, parliamentary assistant, and Dr. Ernest Mercier, deputy minister.

The QFA asked for a provincial planning council for agriculture composed of government and farm leaders which would do long-range planning of agricultural development in Quebec. It also asked the government to designate Brome County as a rural development area, pointing out that competition for land use from the tourist and recreational industry is ruining the agriculture of the County and, unless it is developed rationally, will ruin the natural beauty of the County.

Compulsory vaccination of calves for brucellosis was also requested. The Association stated that there is a grave danger that in brucellosis-free areas cattle will lose their resistance to the disease, which would allow disease outbreak to spread very quickly. GRA also requested enforcement of potato grading regulations in response to complaints by the consumers. The problem of trespassing and vandalism was also brought to the Minister's attention, with a plea for joint action by this department with other government departments.

ROUGE RIVER CANOE FATALITY —

Dis. Scoutmaster B. Jenkins leads search in drowning

A party of eight members of Laval West canoe club, on a week-end trip along the Rouge River, became involved in a drowning accident last Saturday evening below the C.I.P. Harrington Forest Farm. Seemingly the party, in three canoes, got too near one of the rapids before those in the leading canoe realized the danger, and all were capsized. René Savageau, one of the leaders in the first canoe, is missing and presumed drowned. The others all got ashore with scratches, bruises and some shock.

By coincidence, a group of Scout Leaders were camped in the vicinity as part of a week-end instruction course in canoe handling, sponsored by the Boy Scouts of Canada. This group first became aware of the mishap when some of the survivors made their way back to the Scout campsite around 8.30 p.m.

Long Sault District Scoutmaster B. A. Jenkins, Field Commissioner J. A. Robson, and Chief Instructor Duncan Breeze, well-known canoeist and outdoorsman from Three Rivers, immediately organized search and rescue operations, which resulted in rounding up the remaining survivors, including one stretcher case, and bringing them back to camp.

Among the candidates on the course was a Montreal doctor, who is also a Scoutmaster; he examined the rescued party on the spot. After first aid and a change to dry clothing, provided by members of the Training Course, the survivors were driven to Lachute, where they were met by cars from Laval West. On the way home they were taken to Sacré Coeur Hospital in Cartierville, where they were re-examined and shortly discharged.

The riverbank search for the missing man was continued into the early hours of the morning; this is extremely rough and rugged terrain, and anyone familiar with this portion of the Rouge will appreciate the difficulties involved in an after-dark search of this sort. Early the next morning a number of canoe patrols were organized to continue the search, but only the broken remnants of canoes and bits of the lost gear were discovered.

This unfortunate incident dramatically demonstrates the necessity for sound water-safety training and extreme caution, particularly where there is risk of fast water. It is reported that, although all members of the party were swimmers, life preservers were not being used when the accident occurred.

Lach'te woodsman killed in truck, daughter injured

Firmin Robitaille, 40-year-old resident at 402 Catherine Street, Lachute, died at the wheel of his truck last Wednesday when he lost control of the vehicle on Highway 11 near St. Faustin.

The truck overturned and Robitaille sustained a fractured skull. One of his daughters, riding with him in the cab of the truck, was taken to hospital at St. Jovite in a serious condition.

The Robitaille family came here from Rivière des Prairies only last fall, the father being self-employed as a woodsman. He is survived by his wife and a family of six — three sons and three daughters.

Eric Gerald Beauchamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Beauchamp of Grenville, recently received his Master of Science degree from McGill University for study completed in the Agronomy Department of Macdonald College. Mr. Beauchamp is now studying towards a Ph. D. in Agronomy at Cornell University. He left recently, accompanied by his wife, Emmy, and small daughter Shelley.

Spring Fair opens — clear skies, good omens

There is no official "splash" to mark the opening of Lachute Spring Fair on Thursday. As a more practical substitute for the usual afternoon ceremony, President Syd Patterson and his directors, and Manager Ken Riley, are right on the job to ensure there are as few hitches as possible—that all participants have a fair show in convenience and accommodation — and that the public will get its money's worth with full entertainment and a smooth-running program.

On Wednesday, as the gates opened, fair weather prevailed and the barometer gave promising indications. No appreciable crowds were expected until later Thursday, climbing to a peak on Friday and Saturday with the hoped-for encouragement of dry, sunny weather.

Judging of handicrafts occupies considerable time on Wednesday for those appointed to this job. Exhibition stands and booths are being set up in the main building and the outdoor stands. The midway is well established: and this should draw a curious crowd, and quite a few customers, Wednesday evening.

Judging of the beef cattle breeds is on the livestock program for Thursday — also Jersey and Guernseys. Percheron and light and heavy draft horses are also being judged.

Friday is the big day for the more highly competitive dairy breeds, Ayrshires and Holsteins, while the horse judges will be passing on the merits of Belgians in the morning, and Clydesdales in the afternoon.

There is a fine horse show before the grandstand every evening; and commencing Thursday night, the service clubs start their co-operative entertainment programs. They have been well publicized, and will doubtless draw enthusiastic crowds to enjoy this popular brand of entertainment.

Programs are available at the office of the secretary-manager on the grounds, and a competent staff is on hand to iron out difficulties for exhibitors and all who need assistance.

Young rescuer son of former Lachute couple

An Edmonton news report tells how the quick thinking of five-year-old Brian Gauley was responsible for the rescue of a young playmate from a partially filled swimming pool. . . . Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gauley, former residents here, and grandson of the present Mrs. Cox, who has a summer home on R.R. 3, Lachute.

Young Brian and a smaller boy, named Wilson, were playing near an unused swimming pool, in the backyard of a vacant home in Edmonton. Young Wilson slipped into the pool and was apparently out of his depth, when Brian Gauley grabbed his hand and pulled him to safety.

The news-story is accompanied by a photograph of the two boys looking down into the abandoned pool.

Clifford Oswald to champ'ships with Quebec plow team

The Canadian Championship Plowing Match is being held on Thursday, June 21, at Portage la Prairie, Manitoba. This is much earlier than the plowing matches here in the East.

The Quebec team to compete in the Canadian match are René Renaud of St. Eustache and Herbert Winget of Sherbrooke. They were selected last fall at the Provincial Plowing Match at Melbourne, Que. The coach and manager of the Quebec team is Clifford Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique, who is also Director of the Canadian Plowing Council.

The Quebec delegation and their wives left by car last Monday, June 11, for Portage la Prairie.

The winners of this match will take part in the World Championship Plowing Match. . . . Best wishes are extended to the Quebec team for success in the competition.

Ch. of Commerce needles city fathers; Council provoked by filtration delay

Lachute Chamber of Commerce became vociferous at Town Council last Wednesday when the president, Antoine Malaket, expressed critical views on the new business tax schedule now being drawn up. The schedule still being uncompleted by those in charge of its revision, a number of questions necessarily remained unanswered.

Mr. Malaket reproached the Council for lack of effort to procure new industries, citing a news report that the City of Joliette had established a $60,000 fund for promotion of industry. He also criticized the Council for keeping the Chamber of Commerce in the dark on progress of the tax by-law. To this the Mayor replied that no representative of the C. of C. had been in attendance for the initial study, at a public meeting in the Council chamber.

Other merchants and businessmen voiced their views, and protested the effect of a tax hoist on their own particular lines of business, also making certain requests.

Somewhat provoked by the persistence of the Chamber president, Mayor Legault suggested that he should seek election to Council, if he felt he could do any better. He subsequently closed the discussion by saying that the by-law would be posted for inspection before being adopted. Mr. Malaket sought to prolong the argument, but the Mayor reminded him that the allotted time had been given to this subject. Whereupon the Chamber president exclaimed, "The gag!"

Delays in Filtration Plant

A letter from Lorrain, Tourigny et Al., engineers on construction of the filtration plant, stated that the general contract was only 70 percent completed at the end of May. This drew displeasure from the Council, which has not been backward in criticizing the delays on this job. Paul Laliberté, a partner in the engineering firm, was there to receive the protests, and was called upon to give explanations.

Ald. Dr. J.-P. Dorion deplored the slow progress of the work, while Aldermen François Charlebois and Lauréat Laurin lodged complaints on the quality of brick used on the exterior of the building.

Mr. Laliberté admitted that the work was progressing too slowly, although the firm of O'Connell could not be charged with deliberately holding up the construction. Pollock & McGibbon, contractors, and Francis Hankin, engineers, were both criticized by the Council for their delays. According to one councillor present, at the rate the work is proceeding, the plant which was to have been finished at the end of May will not be completed until the middle of August, which is far beyond the contract agreement. Nor is the water conduit anywhere near completed; this had been laid only about half the distance.

It was agreed to press the engineers and contractors for a marked speeding up of the job.

Lions Club aid to crippled in two district cases

At the Lions Club meeting last week, progress on two cases meriting assistance of the Easter Seals fund, was reported by Lion Horace Lamarche.

At the same meeting, President Col. Ernest Emmett was able to report near-final results of the recent Easter Seals campaign. These show approximately $2,000 subscribed — an encouraging increase over the $1,611 total sum turned in last year. A portion of this remains with the Lions Club for local assistance, such as the two current cases from this district. A greater portion goes to the Quebec Easter Seals Society for broader application in hospital treatments, therapy and orthopedic aids, children's camps, and rehabilitation programs.

Nominations were presented for next year's slate of officers. These will be finalized, and the officers installed, at next meeting of the club.

Secretary Keith Clarke reported on the recent district convention at Hamilton, which he had attended as one of Lachute's representation.

Lions Guy Besner and Gordon McOuat spoke on final plans for Lions' Night (Friday, June 15) for the grandstand entertainment at Lachute Spring Fair. A full and varied program is arranged.

Dr. Eric Mongeon was warmly commended on the success of his protegée, Mlle Denise Bélanger, at the Quebec - Ontario public speaking finals. Denise brought home the laurels as the top speaker in the French-language girls' division. Dr. Mongeon was committeeman on this effort, including the local and regional eleminations leading to the final contests at Noranda, Que.

The ladies' golf news this week records the first lady golfer to score a hole-in-one on the Lachute course. This celebrity is Mrs. Richard Lambert, who holed in one stroke at No. 10 on the second 18-hole course.

By strange co-incidence, we hear that Leopold Carrière last week scored a hole-in-one on the same stretch, No. 10 of the new course. Leopold had acquired a new iron at the pro-shop, and was so enthusiastic in trying it out that he made a hole-in-one!

Another member, George Noble of Brownsburg, qualified for the hole-in-one fraternity May 20 at the fifth hole on No. 2 course — making three such instances in as many weeks.

On television following Duke's conference tour

Roger Regimbal, personnel director for Dominion Ayers Limited — who was one of the discussion group chairmen on tour with the Duke of Edinburgh's Commonwealth Conference — was seen on television Sunday evening with representatives from four other countries, interviewed on their impressions by Gordon Hawkins.

The four overseas guests — "returning with fond memories of this visit" with 300 members from all corners of the globe — came from Australia, New Zealand Africa and Pakistan, respectively. In the television discussion they gave favorable impressions of this nation, and remarked on situations involving industry and community life comparable to conditions, present and future, in their own countries.

Elections held for school board vacancies

Reporting on Monday's election for two Protestant school commissioners in Lachute, the secretary, Mrs. M. H. Prophet, states there were a total of 643 voters. The eligible number of voters was approximately 2,500.

This turn-out compares with only 140 two years ago, and is believed a record. Changes in election clauses of the Education Act are seen largely responsible for the increase. Eight polls were established (also an innovation) in different parts of the school municipality.

Two vacancies occurred with terms expired of Commissioners Richard O. MacLean and John Douglas; there were four candidates — Mr. MacLean being re-elected, and Albert McDonald elected for the remaining seat. . . . The count was as follows:

R. O. MacLean	445
Albt. McDonald	292
G. Kilgour Hardie	266
Henry Beauchamp	208

In the Protestant School Municipality of Morin Heights, Mrs. Elizabeth Olive Dey, school teacher by profession, stood for re-election, opposed by Gordon James Allen. Mrs. Dey was re-elected with the following count:

Accident verdict, but jury urges inspection of cars before permit

Maurice Pleau, who was found dead beside the riverfront road between Carillon and Grenville, last April 29, was the victim of accidental circumstance, according to the findings of a coroner's jury — even though the man's body had been run over by a car driven by Gaston Desforges, of Grece's Point.

The inquest was held under chairmanship of Dr. R. Lavigne, joint district coroner, with Roger Lagarde as crown attorney.

Testimony by Mr. Desforges himself, and by Dr. Jean-Marie Rousell, medico-legal expert, who performed an autopsy at the local morgue, were most significant in the jury's verdict.

Gaston Desforges stated he was driving 35 m.p.h. with his wife and a young passenger, when he saw a dark form lying across the highway. He met an oncoming car just at this moment, and though he knew his car had struck some object, he could not tell what it was. He stopped his car a short distance farther, and on finding he had struck a man on the road, was so unnerved that he had failed to immediately notify the police.

Cpl. Maurice Dinel of the Provincial Police, questioning Desforges' behaviour in the matter, went to his home a few days later ordering his car to a garage for close inspection. Traces of blood were found on the tires, and human hair on the gasoline tank, and it was established these were blood and hair of the victim, Maurice Pleau.

According to Dr. Roussell, the victim was highly intoxicated at the time of his death. His body revealed multiple bruises, abrasions and fractures.

Another witness, Jean-Claude Lalonde, 18, who had been riding with the Desforges couple, said that, at a distance of about 10 feet, he had seen the man stretched out near the middle of the road. He seemed to be alive. The Desforges car had struck the man, and the driver had lost his nerve completely. He stopped the car, then wanted to drive on, but Lalonde persuaded him to stay at the spot; meanwhile he called the police and an ambulance.

Lucien Hamel, garageman in Lachute, testified he had examined Desforges' car. The brakes needed adjustment but were capable of functioning at low speed, that is, 35 or 40 m.p.h. There had been other minor defects also.

In returning a verdict of accidental death, the jury added their recommendation for government inspection of vehicles before issuing permits.

Week's Epigram

The housewife who used to complain about dishpan hands, now suffers from pushbutton fingers.

Mother, young child deaths ruled accident

The death of Mrs. George Young, 23, and her five-year-old son, Wayne, which occurred in a three-vehicle collision near Pte. au Chene on May 12, was pronounced accidental by a five-man jury. Dr. Roger Lavigne conducted the inquest, and Fernand Legault, Q.C., represented the crown.

There were no fewer than 17 witnesses, four of them Provincial Police patrolmen from Montebello and Lachute; drivers of the other two vehicles involved; persons who had spoken with George Young on the ill-fated day; and those who had been first to arrive at the accident scene.

Mr. Young told how he was returning home in his truck on the evening of May 12, accompanied by his wife and son, when an approaching automobile had hit the rear of his vehicle. He was driving around 25 m.p.h., he stated.

The police officers, Gaetan Bedard and George Thibodeau from Montebello, J.-C. Légaré and Laurence Cruise from Lachute, described the damage to Young's truck and the debris strewn on the highway. Cst. Cruise had spoken with Young; he found him incoherent with shock, while others, a bar-tender and acquaintances, testified they had been with him in a hotel that afternoon.

Bernard Racette, of Joliette, driving in company with Miss Henriette Fortin, had seen a car approaching them, and stated the truck had endeavored to pass the said car as he approached. It was in this manner that he, Racette, had hit the rear of Young's truck.

Henry Magnan, of Montebello, driving with his wife and three children, confirmed this same evidence.

George Young stated he had been driving a vehicle for the past six years.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

This is a story that is going to be very hard for many to believe, and I don't blame you for doubting it. One of the big buildings in Montreal has had an electric wire run around strategic spots to keep the pigeons from roosting. This wire will NOT kill anything, being installed only to shock the birds in the hope they would leave this building severely alone. Everything has been going well until a pigeon was seen to get this shock. Now there were two gentlemen who saw this, and will give their names for any doubters. On receiving the shock, this bird tried different ways of landing on a ledge, always being tickled just when everything was going well. This happened three times in succession. The bird was seen hovering over this one spot at different times of the day, until on the third day it landed, without any drastic results. On investigating, the watchers found where the pigeon had built up an insulater of cigarette butts, papers, matches, hair, string and everything else it could find. Forming a bridge over the wire, it was thus able to land on the ledge without any danger or discomfort.

This makes one wonder just how the bird knew that in building this bridge it would not get shocked. One question that puzzles me, is how did the bird place the objects so that they would not come in contact with the wires and convey a shock? We, of the supposed higher order, cannot understand things like this.

Some good grey trout have been taken this past week. Not too many of them but of a good size. Specimens weighing from 4 to 6 lbs. have been caught frequently, and this is a good sign for the area. Reds are also being caught in good numbers though these have not been too big. Creek fishing for the Brookies has been a waste of time; waters are very low, and almost as warm as late in the summer. The fish that are being caught will all be hungry, as lowering of the waters has killed off a great number of the insects they feed on. I saw one little part of a stream that had run dry, and found dozens of Caddis flies all dried up and dead. I am sure this will be a common sight in almost every stream.

I suppose most of you readers will tire of my writing about moose. This story is just one of many that I hear, so I will pass it along. Some youngsters were fishing at the east end of Lake Sir John and spotted a moose with her young. They were able to watch this animal for some time, and got a real kick out of it. They couldn't understand how anything could hold its head under the water so long while feeding. This is a sight to see too, only the antlers above the water, and then the head comes up dripping water and its mouth full of lily pads, roots and everything else that goes with it. One thing is sure, these lads are going to keep their eyes open just a little more when they are out in the bush, and maybe this way they will derive a lot more enjoyment from Nature.

I mentioned, some time ago, the new "natural" baits that had been put on the market. I tried them and found them pretty good under all types of fishing. However, the Grass Shrimp is by far the best, and from reports from other fishermen, they have been fish-getters. Believe me, they look good enough to eat, and I guess that is why they have marked on the package "Not for Human Consumption". . . . May be worth a try though; at least the fish like them!

I mentioned last week about a cow being found in the river, and the authorities not doing too much about it. I can tell you just what did happen when the right person was contacted. In desperation, the Mayor of St. Canut was notified, and within 10 minutes he was down, looked over the situation, and within another half hour had men down digging a pit. With a winch they hauled the carcass out of the river and buried it. A big thank-you, Mr. Mayor of St. Canut, for getting a job done without red tape, application forms and what have-you. Great work!

Good doré are being taken from the Ottawa River, more so than in former years. This is a good sign from the viewpoint of pollution. Of course, we all know it is not clean by any means, and it will be a number of years yet before it can be classed as such. All the talk on cleaning up our lakes and rivers last year, seems to have subsided this year. We know the good things that were going to be done to the North River, and truthfully, a start was made in that direction. What has happened? I hear there is still a little work being done, but far too little for my liking!

In and around the Town of Lachute, we have done our part in helping, in some small way, but as usual the lack of governmental effort is very noticeable.

Travelling around the district, more and more tents and campers are seen. Anyone going into this game would be well advised to stop and talk to some of them. Campers don't mind this a bit, as they are a very helpful fraternity. Anything you may want to know on gear, etc. — they are more than happy to oblige. In this way you will be able to have a thing tested by someone else before you buy, and this is a big help. Catalogues do tell you, everything in their contents is the very best and most needed for the camper. However, this is not the case; a good proportion of these products are not for the serious camper, and never will be. Check with some of the other boys, and get their impressions. Another thing, they will tell you just how the different areas are for your particular type of camping — the places to go to, others to stay away from. This is better than any information you may be able to obtain through folders and literature.

The boating fraternity are once more out in force and it might be well to repeat a few dos and don'ts. Do not overload OR overpower any boat. The dealers usually give you information on the boats they sell — their carrying capacity and power rating; so take their advice. They know better than you do. Carry life jackets in your boat, enough for the occupants. Be careful filling your tanks if in a boat. Carry a rag and wipe up any spilled gasoline. If travelling at night, lights are a must. Learn the meaning of them, too. Slow down when passing another boat. You might be a hot-rod artist on the roads, but show a little courtesy and care on water (if you can). There are numerous other good rules to follow on the water; learn and remember them.

Another thing that I would like to point out — most of you wouldn't let your youngsters drive your cars without supervision at all times; why let them drive a boat with up to 100 h.p. capable of killing just as quickly as a car? Think about this a little.

All motor boats over 10 h.p. must be registered, and have the registration number stamped in large letters on the boats. This applies to everyone, with no exceptions.

Don't be a show-off when water skiing, either. . . . Use your head, and live!

Presentation of charter to St. John Ambulance division

Formation of a local branch of the St. John Ambulance was finalized on Wednesday evening last at the Legion Hall, when the charter of Lachute Ambulance Division No. 404 was presented to its organizer, Mr. Art Whiteway. A good number of present members and citizens attended, and listened with interest to an address by Edouard M. Migneault, Provincial Commander of the organization. He stated that the Order of St. John had been specially concerned with the care of sick and wounded ever since it was first founded nearly 900 years ago. It lays claim to being the oldest continuing welfare organization in the world, and has played a great part in history. Through the centuries the Order has been influential in the development of hospitals, dispensaries and many public health reforms. The story of St. John is full of romance and color, and is of special interest to all nurses since it is so closely connected with the history of their own profession

Mr. Horace Lamarche, a volunteer member, explained that about two years ago classes were held here, and all the policemen and firemen had joined after successfully passing their exams. Following this an ambulance car was purchased by the town, along with other accessories, which have been of good service.

Through the courtesy of C-I-L, a film on the mouth-to-mouth method of resuscitation was shown, giving instructions on how with a little effort, a person who has stopped breathing may be brought back to normal respiration by simple knowledge of on-the-spot treatment.

Mr. Migneault was thanked for his inspiring address, and Mr. Whiteway expressed his appreciation in receiving the charter. Coworker with Mr. Whiteway was Roger Guimond.

First Aid is something which everyone should know, and the objects of the Brigade are, briefly:

1. To train and maintain a body of men and women thoroughly efficient in First Aid, Auxiliary Nursing and kindred subjects.

2. To afford opportunities for holders of approved First Aid certificates to meet together for training and practice, under qualified members of the Medical and Nursing professions, with the object of combining individual efforts in the service of the public.

3. To provide First Aid and Home Nursing for the injured and the sick.

4. To provide ancillary services both to the sick and injured and in and for hospitals of all kinds.

5. To provide Reserves for the Medical Services for Her Majesty's Armed Forces.

6. To prepare such permanent organizations during times of peace as may at once be available in time of emergency.

7. To provide opportunities for boys and girls to learn and practice First Aid, Home Nursing and other subjects conducive to the training of good citizens.

Membership in the Brigade entails the following:

a) First Aid certificate (Home Nursing also for women).

b) Attendance at at least 12 instructional meetings a year.

c) Annual re-examination in First Aid for men and in both First Aid and Home Nursing for women.

d) Attendance at annual inspection and satisfactory performance of duty.

Annexation

The Quebec Department of Municipal Affairs has acknowledged Lachute's request for annexation of Ayersville and part of St. Jerusalem. Before proceeding further, the Department has advised Town Council to wait for consultation with a Quebec official who will visit here to explain the necessary steps and to institute a survey of opinion.

Bert Mitchell BM messenger, for retirement

Mr. Albert E. Mitchell was honored by the Lachute staff of the Bank of Montreal upon his retirement, after having served some 21 years with the bank. "Bert" has been a well known figure in Lachute, where he could be seen daily talking to friends on his rounds for "My Bank". He will be missed by numerous businessmen in the community, and the staff of the Bank in particular. The Bank was fortunate in being able to obtain the services of Owen C. Todd to replace Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Todd is also very well known and well liked in this community, having resided here all his life. (See group picture on page 1.)

CNIB display at Lachute Fair

At Lachute Spring Fair the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will display handicraft work made by blind people. Sponsored by the Lachute Lions Club, the booth will be in charge of Mrs. Amy Ponech and Mrs. Rita Fillingham, with volunteer workers from the Women's Auxiliary of the CNIB and Miss Fernande Tremblay, supervisor of home teaching.

The public are invited to visit the CNIB - Lions Club booth; all interested visitors will be looked after by the volunteer workers, or any information on the work of the blind will be given by expert personnel of the CNIB.

The CNIB is deeply indebted to President Col. Ernest Emmett and the Lions Club for making it possible for the local office to promote the work of sightless people of this County.

District meeting of Jehovah Witnesses

The Jehovah's Witnesses of Lachute congregation returned from their convention held in Hull last week-end, stimulated for increased activity in the community, said Mr. Henry Purucker, presiding minister here.

"The entire program was designed to impress on us that there is an urgent need for more time spent in preaching the news of God's Kingdom as the only solution to mankind's snowballing difficulties. Further, that the practical way to meet this need is for Christian individuals and families to buy out time from these critical days, then to schedule it for preparing hope-giving Bible knowledge," reported Mr. Purucker.

"Just how urgent it is to step-up faithfully informing our neighbors was emphasized in the public discourse, 'Who Will Rule the World?' Mr. Saumur, district supervisor for the Witnesses in Quebec, gave the lecture and referred to the world's strife, confusion and divisions. He added, 'The very cream of human brains are unable to put into practice their clever ideas for easing world tension. People and nations fear the future. . . . But what mankind needs to know "is that world rulership has been determined by God. The one 'who has the legal right', who has received the authority to rule from God, is not a power-hungry atheistic dictator of the East, nor is he a democratically-elected ruler of the West. The one empowered by God is his own son, Jesus Christ.

"The prophet Daniel reveals that soon Jesus will demonstrate his authority as world ruler with crushing force against the competing nations and will give peace to men of good will, Mr. Saumur said in concluding his address."

A COURSE FOR FATHER'S DAY

The wind freshens . . . whitecaps form . . . the canvas fills and you are under way. You have charted the course, noted reefs and shoals, compensated for drift and current. The boy at the helm can steer a true course if you have chosen it well.

Any father must feel the magnitude of the task of guiding his son through life's uncertain waters.

What responsible man could feel any other way? This is Fatherhood . . . the realization that nothing is so important as guiding your own son along a course that has maturity of outlook and responsibility as its destination.

Such guidance requires a delicate touch, the mature understanding of a man who has sailed these waters before. And nowhere is this understanding more important than in the practice of Moderation in all things. It is this thought which The House of Seagram wishes to leave with you on Father's Day.

Teacher feted on retirement

A pleasant function was held in the cafeteria of Lachute High on Wednesday of last week, when the school commissioners tendered a banquet in honour of Mrs. Alma Walker on her approaching retirement from the teaching profession. Among the guests were the wives of the commissioners, the school staff and their partners, and members of Mrs. Walker's family.

The presentation of a suitably engraved silver tray was made to Mrs. Walker, along with a floral corsage. Meanwhile, good wishes were extended to Mr. Lucien Rossaert, who enters the service of Quebec Department of Education, and to Mr. Arne Peterson, who leaves Lachute for a broader teaching assignment next term.

NAMED PRESIDENT — Ralph E. Wagers of Boston and Chicago was named President of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, at the June 4 Annual Meeting.

Couple wed in St. Simeon's Angl. Church, Lachute

Walsh-Copeland

The marriage of Ann Brooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley Copeland, of Lachute, to Mr. George James Walsh, of Montreal, son of Mr. Ralph Walsh of Winnipeg and the late Mrs. Walsh, was solemnized Saturday, June 2, at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, the Rev. Cyrus Lang officiating. White lilac and pink gladioli were used to decorate. Mr. Mel Howard played the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of original design, having a fitted bodice with capped sleeves, fashioned in Guipure lace. The skirt of old ivory peau-de-soie was belled with an over-apron and a bustle effect which fell to a chapel train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a circlet of matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink Aristocrat roses with stephanotis and ivy.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Peter Clay, and bridesmaid, Miss Diane Patriquin, wore identical short dresses, with fitted bodices and capped sleeves, and full skirts of rose peau-de-soie. Their circlet headpieces were of matching peau-de-soie and veiling. They carried nosegays of white and pink carnations.

The flower girl, Miss Deborah Burchmore, cousin of the bride, wore a dress of similar style, in lighter tone pink, and carried a basket of white pompoms and baby pink roses. She was attended by the bride's brother, Master Richard Copeland.

The best man was Mr. Lawrence Hoirch, and the ushers were Mr. Ian Poole, cousin of the groom, Mr. Terrance Copeland, brother of the bride, and Mr. Peter Clay.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of beige embossed peau - de - soie with matching accessories. Her hat was of shrimp pink organza, and she wore a corsage of matching carnations.

Following the reception the couple left for Jamaica and Venezuela. The bride wore a Kelly-green sheath with overjacket of silk shantung, with black accessories. Her corsage was of yellow bud roses.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will take up residence in Beaconsfield.

Chamber of Commerce Monthly Drawing

Winners of the Chamber of Commerce bond drawing for the month of June are — Gerard Pépin, Ayersville ($250); Gilles Demontigny, Lachute ($100); Gilles Séguin, Ayersville ($50); Jeannot Leseize, Ayersville ($25); Gertrude Paquette ($10) and Cléophas Martin ($5), both of Lachute.

European travel retold by speaker at Lachute W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held in the Lachute High School on June 5, with Mrs. Angus Taylor, the president, in charge.

Mrs. Roy Fraser introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Grace Gardner, former principal of the Montreal High School for Girls. Miss Gardner has just returned from an extensive trip abroad, and spoke on her travels there.

Through her vivid descriptions the members saw the brilliant sunshine and flowers of the sunny South — Spain, Portugal and Italy; saw its royal palaces, its arenas, churches, picture galleries; heard the voices of its famous clerics and opera stars. . . . They shivered in cold, grey Copenhagen, but thrilled to the defiant gleam of candles in all the windows of its homes on Candle Day, May 3, to celebrate the withdrawal of the Germans from their land.

Truly it was a journey to remember, and all without suffering the weary feet of the actual traveller, or his nerves frayed from trying to cope with the difficulties of a foreign language and an unfamiliar money system.

Mrs. A. Clarke thanked the speaker.

Revisits family after absence of almost half a century

Leaving St. Philippe to "go west" at the age of 20, Mr. Ernest Lamarche returned this past winter to visit his relatives after an absence of 48 years. In this long period he had never seen his sister, Mme Joseph Grignon, or his brothers, Albert, Romuald, Ronaldo and Fernando — with whom he has spent a pleasant visit, met nephews and nieces whom he never knew, and found a warm reception in his wide circle of relationship. He came east with his son, Leonard, and returns next Monday with his sister Mme Grignon (above), who will spend a visit at his prairie home in Alberta.

Mr. Ernest Lamarche is now 68 years of age; a widower, he has five daughters, three sons and 23 grandchildren.

SOUP'S ON !

A Montreal paper recently carried an account of a Winnipeg professor who says that eating human flesh is perfectly natural for man, and that man would be healthier if he were a cannibal.

Now I know what's wrong with us. We don't eat the right food! The professor goes on to say, "The revulsion towards eating human flesh is something brought in by civilization and religion."

He further states that the cannibalistic animals are much healthier, and that the alimentary tract finds it much easier to assimilate food when it is of the same type of substance.

Perhaps this is the answer to the frightening population explosion that is now engulfing the world. We are now being threatened by a great food-shortage within the foreseeable future. So let's start eating each other. Let's write a book entitled, "Raising Children for Fun and Profit." . . . The question would definitely arise as to who should eat who. Who would be the eaters, and who would be the et?

Would we have any choice in the matter, or would everything be on a volunteer basis? I can't imagine anybody wanting to eat ME. It would only be possible if I were left in a pressure-cooker for at least two hours. Like a steak I had a few weeks ago. If that steak could have been made into a truck tire, it would have been good for thirty thousand miles.

And what would we do with the bones? Driveways could be marked out with rows of human skulls instead of whitewashed stones as at present.

But in the meantime, the local butchers and the supermarkets still sell some pretty good stuff, so if you don't eat me I'll promise not to eat you — at least not just now. I'm not that hungry!

Be seein' ya!

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

At the time of writing, not too much news has filtered out of the 19th Dominion Convention of the Royal Canadian Legion, now in session at Halifax. Two significant items have been released so far. One, the ratification of the new crest and badge. The convention decided that the old badges may still be worn. Considering the heavy criticism of earlier days, the passing of this is quite an achievement. Also, the delegates unanimously approved the decision to have Dominion Command organize a publicity campaign to have the Federal Government recognize the Red Ensign as the official Canadian flag.

Legionnaires join with all of Canada in welcoming the Queen Mother to this country. Last Saturday she presented new colors to the R.H.R. Regiment (Black Watch). At parade attendance, etc., was Branch 70's Cde. C. Demerse.

This week the big news is Lachute Spring Fair. Ticket sellers and helpers will be in great demand at the grounds, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. All you need is a beret, pencil and a legible hand. The committee has a fine, entertaining show lined up for presentation at the grandstand Saturday evening.

Thursday of last week was the anniversary of the D-Day landing in Normandy. Anyone who has been following the "Canada at War" series on the CBC and watched the film of this event, witnessed one of the few existing filmed coverages of this greatest achievement in the annals of military history. It is a pity that this series is shown at such a late hour of the day, that the younger generation do not have the opportunity to see history in the making. It is to be hoped that it will be either re-run at an earlier hour, or made available to organizations for future showing.

On Monday next, Canadians from all walks of life, will go to the polls to elect representatives for the next parliament of this great Dominion.

As the Royal Canadian Legion is a non-political and non-partisan organization, it CANNOT and WILL NOT tell you how or for whom to vote. What we do impress upon you and exhort you to do, is exercise your right to vote.

So many people down through the ages, have sacrificed so very much — some their very lives — to keep the democratic right of free vote open. Not to exercise that right, somehow tends to cheapen their sacrifices. Vote for the party and person of your choice — but VOTE.

A person in or entering politics is a LEADER. A leader of his community; a leader of his country; a leader of his people. Certain attributes are essential for a leader, such as:

The Beatitudes of a Leader

Blessed is the leader who has not sought the high places but who has been drafted into service because of his or her ability and willingness to serve.

Blessed is the leader who knows no discouragement, who presents no alibi.

Blessed is the leader who knows where he is going, why he is going, and knows how to get there.

Blessed is the leader who knows how to lead without being dictatorial. True leaders are humble.

Blessed is the leader who seeks for the good of the most concerned and not for personal gratification of his own ideas.

Blessed is the leader who develops leaders while leading.

Blessed is the leader who marches with the group and interprets correctly the signs on the pathway that leads to success.

Blessed is the leader who has his head in the clouds but his feet on the ground.

Blessed is the leader who considers leadership an opportunity for service.

Thought For The Day: Why is it that the man who has nothing to say, says it, while the man who does, doesn't?

Rules posted for smoking in bed

A printing trade bulletin includes the following gem, which was reportedly posted in a hotel lobby:

1. Inform the management where you wish your remains sent.

2. Be sure to let any guests in adjoining rooms know that you intend to endanger their lives (they might want to leave while they can).

3. Remember the location of the nearest door so that, if you are fortunate enough to reach it, you can panic and run the wrong way.

4. Have a bank account: we charge for damaged blankets, linens, mattresses, etc.

5. Now, sit down in the chair, the one with the ash tray handy, light up and think. Think about all the risks of smoking in bed.

Dairy Queen has 22nd birthday — special attractions

Birthday parties are always fun — and you're invited to attend the 22nd birthday celebration now going on at the Dairy Queen store, Brownsburg Road. Albert Mady promises plenty of surprises, with something special for every member of the family. . . .

For the grown-ups Dairy Queen has created a Birthday Special Sundae that's simply out of this world. You take two heaping mounds of Dairy Queen, top it off with your favorite flavors, garnish with nuts and cherries. The price is nice too — only 22c for this super-sundae.

For the children, there's a surprise gift waiting — a toy they'll enjoy almost as much as their favorite Dairy Queen treat.

The occasion marks the opening of the very first Dairy Queen store in Joliet, Illinois, just 22 years ago this month. In just one generation, Dairy Queen has expanded to more than 34 hundred stores in all parts of the world. Much of Dairy Queen's success can be attributed to public demand for its products, made from genuine milk and served at the very peak of flavor perfection.

Albert Mady extends a personal invitation to visit here and join the celebration, JUNE 14 and 15. Remember the address — Dairy Queen, Brownsburg Road.

Safety rules for insecticides

Many insecticides can be very dangerous to man and animals. Here are a few precautions to take in their use:

1. Always read and follow exactly directions on the label.
2. Keep materials labelled and stored under lock and key.
3. Destroy empty containers.
4. Wash hands and face after handling poisons.
5. Do not apply poisons that remain on plants or crops to be eaten shortly.

Remember to use CAUTION at all times.

LET YOUR TELEPHONE BE YOUR TRAVELLING COMPANION

Summer is here and with it comes vacation time. Like most folks in Lachute, you're probably planning to do some travelling this summer. Remember, the telephone can help make your vacation smoother, more enjoyable. Be sure to call ahead to make hotel or motel reservations. It will save driving around at the end of a long day in a strange town looking for a place to stay. If you are delayed, a long distance call to those expecting you takes the pressure off the driver. A call to relatives along the route can alert them to a visit — or, if a side-trip is impossible to take, can offer the opportunity of a visit by phone. Then, at the end of the journey, call the folks back home to reassure them that all is well. Yes, let the telephone be your travelling companion this summer and enjoy a happy, relaxed vacation.

HERE'S A REAL BOON TO HOME BUILDERS

Now that the building season is in full swing, it might be a good idea to remind you once again about our FREE Concealed Wiring Service for homes under construction. Our installers will place multi-wire cable between the walls throughout a new home provided this service is requested before the walls and partitions are closed in. Then, when the house is completed and the customer has chosen the location or locations, for telephone service, our installer will locate the hidden wire with an electronic instrument and connect the telephone, or telephones, with the wiring. A small attractive plastic faceplate will be affixed to the outlet from the wall and the only wire showing will be the lead to the nearby telephone. Most folks agree that this new FREE service is a real boon to the home builder and adds value to any new home. For full information, ask your builder to call our Business Office and ask for Concealed Wiring Service.

Why not have an outlet for a jack and plug on the patio where you can receive calls and save running to the house, where so often you are just too late? This is a real step saver, and you can enjoy your leisure.

WHY SO MANY BELL MEN WEAR GLASSES

The other day I saw a man working downtown chipping away at a large concrete block. Pieces were flying in all directions — pieces small enough to enter an eye and cause serious damage. I couldn't help but notice that the man was wearing protection for his eyes. Bell folks are continually being reminded about eye safety, and this makes us pretty conscious about eyesight — the reason so many of us wear safety-glasses. The glasses are intended to protect our eyes while we're on the job. And we have seen plenty of this protection over the years in the form of badly cracked safety-glasses. (Safety-glasses crack but do not shatter.) When anything strikes these glasses with enough force to crack them, just imagine what it would be to an eye.

TO THE ELECTORS OF Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes

Five years ago I asked the people of Canada for a mandate to put into effect a far-reaching program to develop our resources, increase our trade, expand Social Justice payments and create new jobs for Canadians. In spite of the recession that was under-way when we took office, the objectives we set at that time have been achieved in all essential respects.

That is a record of which every Canadian can be proud. Despite the partisan pessimism of those who have little faith in the future of our country, Canada is making great strides forward and is even now on the threshold of an upward surge of progress and prosperity. The proof is to be found in the record levels of productivity, personal income, new work opportunities and business investment that are reported almost daily in the press. It is a major objective of the Government to maintain and extend this forward movement of the Canadian economy.

We are approaching the 100th birthday of Canada. To celebrate that day I have redoubled my efforts in co-operation with my colleagues, to complete Confederation. This is a great task. It is therefore an honour to ask you to support your local Progressive Conservative Candidate so that we can together fulfill this great undertaking toward the building of a greater Canada.

The Rebels Against Authority

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

A pre-school youngster who was an expert in rebelling against authority was described in the press some time ago, when the superintendent in the Canadian orphanage in which he lived asked for a month's rest.

One day this lad slipped into the kitchen and scooped out the middle of a birthday cake. Another night he threw the 40 children's shoes out the front window into the mud below. He broke a toilet bowl when he hurled a heavy stone into it.

Poking holes in screens, breaking windows, and sending the Christmas tree lights crashing, have been among his activities. When he had the chance, he took a bicycle apart. Just to keep life interesting for the superintendent, he delighted in climbing out top-storey windows and balancing on the high roof. . . . No wonder she needed a change of scene!

Most parents have to deal with occasional flare-ups of rebellion against their authority. If Dr. Hilda Neatby, author of "So Little For the Mind", was struggling with the problems of raising a family she might not point such an accusing finger at parents who enforce rules "uneasily and with bad conscience."

What if Junior flatly disobeys a rule? If at all possible, he should suffer the natural consequences of his disobedience. If he hits his chum over the head with a shovel when playing in the sand pile, then he must play alone. If he is so slow in coming when father calls to him, intending to take him for a ride in the car, then he misses the ride.

It may inconvenience a parent at an awkward time to make sure that Junior discovers that a rule must be followed. But in the long run, this is something he must learn, and the younger he learns it the better for everyone.

When youngsters enter adolescence, they usually rebel against external authority. They still need a parent's guiding hand in some matters, but more and more they should be trusted to direct their own actions.

Teenagers are much more willing to conform to unpopular rules about the use of the telephone or the hour of coming in at night after a party, if they have discussed these with their parents. "What the gang does" is of great importance to an adolescent. Often parents must be content with a compromise between what they desire and what is the accepted procedure of their child's chums. Today's rules cannot just be a repetition of those followed by mother and dad when they were young.

All through childhood and youth, parents must look at their children as individuals. Each youngster is different and no one set of rules will fit each one of them. Parents must also be a bit flexible. Tom, at 10, may be safe enough going on a bike hike with his pals, while Margaret, at 10, might be in real danger of an accident if the traffic on the highway was heavy.

It is the spirit behind the making and observing of a rule which really matters. If there is real affection and understanding and imagination on the part of both adults and children in a family, the matter of rules will not be a perpetual battleground.

The golden rule which was golden 2,000 years ago is still golden in the twentieth century — "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." The tragic thing is that it is so seldom the guiding light in relations between individuals even in a family. As a modern observer has pointed out "This way of life has not been tried and found to be a failure — it just hasn't been tried!" What better place is there to try the golden rule than in your home?

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Janet Kask, Canadian Press Staff Writer

A remote-control kitchen in Vancouver can tell how a Chinese cook in Hong Kong is roasting a turkey, or how a baker in Lima, Peru, is making French pastries.

The flight kitchen of Canadian Pacific Airlines at Vancouver plans and standardizes meals served to more than 20 nationalities flying the routes linking five continents.

It supervises caterers in Montreal, Toronto, Mexico City, Sydney and Hong Kong, supplying them with manuals of detailed recipes and of all dishes, with photos showing just how the finished product should look.

Director of this global catering system is R. H. M. Sargeant, who is mastering the problem of varied national tastes in food by adopting the principles of European food with emphasis on French localities.

Oriental Dishes

A press conference at Montreal was given details on how CPA feeds its passengers.

On the North Pacific route to the Orient, special dishes are created for Chinese, Japanese and Moslem passengers. The airline employs a catering supervisor and two travelling catering representatives.

Carrying food for a possible 129 passengers is no simple matter. And food prepared for flights must have good holding qualities. It usually is put on board an hour before departure, and re-warmed in the plane galley, or kitchen.

Sea-Food Treats

For those lucky enough to get a taste of the sea this summer, here are some pointers of cooking live shellfish.

Lobster, crawfish and crab can live for some time out of water. If they are alive when you are ready to cook, pour mildly tepid water over them. Gradually bring the water to a boil and hold it at boiling point, allowing about 20 minutes for one pound, 25 minutes for 1½ pounds, 30 minutes for two pounds, 50 minutes for four pounds.

As a general rule, fish of any species are of highest food quality, and usually cheaper, when most abundant. It is at such times that fishermen make their catches in the shortest period, and ship them promptly.

Salad Touches

Certain everyday weeds become special delicacies when added to a meal, and late springtime is the time to gather many of them.

Milkweed shoots and sprouts of brake ferns picked early and cooked like asparagus make interesting salad ingredients.

Cowslip, wild chicory, carraway, watercress and dandelion leaves also give special flavor to salads.

Teaching Goodwill

Mrs. Rita Cadieux, social worker and consultant at this year's fifth annual Montreal Institute of "Rearing Children of Goodwill," practices what she preaches. Her two sons are being raised in a neighborhood where they will play with children of different religious backgrounds. In the home, French is spoken, but the boys are in an English-speaking school.

If You're TIRED

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. 'Slow down' – not 'crawl'

The summer safe-driving campaign of the Canadian Highway Safety Council, called "Slow Down and Live", is not designed to produce road crawlers, according to CHSC's executive director, W. Arch Bryce.

"What we want to do," said Mr. Bryce, "is stress the common sense and logic of driving at speeds safe under existing conditions. If the conditions — weather, traffic, vehicle and driver conditions — are safe, let the motorist keep up to the speed limit. That's no time for him to crawl along the road and delay others who want to move faster. He's a menace. But if there is heavy rain, fog or dense traffic, slower speeds must be maintained. If the car or the driver is in unsafe condition, neither should be on the road.

RICE WAFFLES

Hot off the griddle!

Waffles have a long and honorable history, having been popular as far back as the 12th century. In former times, they were a special treat for feast days. The sellers set up their stalls at the doors of churches and baked them for people to buy and eat immediately, piping hot. The waffle irons were smaller than they are today and were heated on top of a stove. Sometimes the designs on the iron included intricate coats of arms and religious symbols.

Today, the irons are electrified, and made attractive enough to come to the table so people can still have freshly baked hot waffles. The recipes have changed too, and now include any number of variations on the standard waffle. Here's a recipe for Rice Waffles with an intriguing new flavor and texture. Several interesting suggestions for serving the waffles are also given in the recipe.

Rice Waffles

(Yield — about 6 servings)

1 cup cooked rice, 1⅔ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour (or 2 cups once-sifted pastry flour), 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, 3 eggs, separated, 2 cups buttermilk, ¼ cup shortening, melted.

Prepare cooked rice (½ cup raw rice or ½ cup dehydrated pre-cooked rice should yield about 1 cup cooked rice).

Preheat waffle iron according to manufacturer's directions.

Measure into sifter the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and sugar. Beat egg yolks in a medium-sized bowl until thick and light; stir in buttermilk and melted shortening. Sift dry ingredients into liquids and stir until smooth; mix in cooked rice. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into batter. Bake in preheated waffle iron until golden.

Serve with butter or margarine, and syrup, or in any of the following ways:

1. Serve as a base for creamed eggs or other creamed mixtures. This is ideal for buffet service. Waffle iron can be placed right on the table and waffles baked as needed. The creamed mixture can be kept warm over a candle warmer or a chafing dish.

2. Add ¾ cup chopped nutmeats, chopped fresh fruit or well drained canned fruit or shredded Canadian cheddar cheese to the batter before baking. It's also fun to choose your own flavor. Just use a large cup for pouring batter and have cheese, fruit and chopped nuts in small dishes. Stir in a little of the desired ingredient into the batter in the cup and bake. That way each person can have his favorite waffle.

3. Spread waffles with honey butter and arrange fruits in an attractive design to give a fruit tart effect. This is a pretty attention-getter for a brunch or ladies' luncheon.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Woman's Travel Authority

When you take the youngsters on a motoring trip this summer, combine fun with learning. Whether it's a two-week vacation or a week-end jaunt, such a trip can be more rewarding than just "getting away from it all."

For parents planning trips with children here are some good hints.

If you plan to visit a museum, check the visiting hours and days. Some museums curtail their summer schedules.

Whatever the goal, agree on it before you start. Make sure the place to be visited will interest your children. A place which interests you may have little attraction for them.

Limit what you plan to see on one day — especially at big museums. Save something for a second or third trip.

Take a camera and make a picture story of your day's outing.

Keep a scrapbook of the literature you gather on your visits. Junior will want to take it to school next fall.

Read ahead of time about the historic significance of a place to be visited.

Plan your trip with a map. Let the children study the map with you; map skills are often learned this way.

Plan your trip to avoid hurry. Many sights are really "new" to children — give them time to satisfy their curiosity. This is the best of learning.

Strawberry tarts for the sweet

June is a month of weddings and graduations. It is also the month for all strawberry lovers, for this is the time when strawberries are at the peak of their perfection throughout most of Canada.

Luscious, red strawberries look so good that long before the first bite, one's taste buds start to tingle. Fortunately, the flavor lives up to the "packaging", as this recipe for Glazed Strawberry Cream Tarts demonstrates.

A pastry mix may be used to make the tart shells, while the creamy filling is based on an instant pudding mix. Now all that remains to be done is to top each tart with halved ripe berries and a shiny strawberry glaze. Their gala appearance should draw many compliments from both family and guests.

Glazed Strawberry Cream Tarts

(Yield — about 10 large tarts)

Pie paste, 2 cups cold milk, 1 package (approx. 3⅜ ounces) vanilla flavored instant pudding mix, 1 quart fresh strawberries, 1½ tablespoons corn starch, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup water, red food coloring.

Preheat oven to temperature called for in pie paste recipe.

Invert about 10 tart pans or aluminum foil pans (about 3½ inches top inside measure). Prepare pie paste made on a 2 cup flour basis or with sufficient pastry mix to make a 2 crust pie. Roll out paste thinly and cut into 4½ or 5 inch rounds, using a saucer or small bowl as a guide. Place a round of paste on each inverted pan and shape it to fit the pan. Prick with a fork. Bake in preheated oven until golden. Cool.

Measure milk into a mixing bowl. Add vanilla flavored instant pudding mix; beat 1 minute. Turn into cooled tart shells. Chill until set.

Wash and hull strawberries. Thoroughly mash sufficient berries to yield ½ cup. In a small saucepan combine corn starch, sugar, the ¼ cup crushed berries and water. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture comes to the boil; boil 1 minute. Halve the remaining strawberries and arrange them, cut sides down, over cream filling. Press the hot strawberry mixture through a fine sieve; tint rather deeply with red food coloring and spoon over berries. Chill.

Tomato plants from Georgia

A truckload of tomato plants in three-tier flats arrives at Windsor, Ont., from Georgia, U.S.A., for transplanting in Ontario's Essex County fields. About 50 million of the early-maturing plants arrived during May and were inspected by the Department of Agriculture's Plant Protection Division. Processors who placed the orders contract with local farmers to grow and harvest the crop.

Imports of eggs from Poland

Ottawa — Importation of Polish eggs to provide frozen and dried yolk for export to European outlets, has had no effect on Canadian egg prices, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton said.

The Minister said a normal seasonal price reduction has been accentuated by increasing Ontario marketings which totalled 77,081 cases for the week ending May 12.

He explained that the European orders call for a much darker yolk color than normally available from Canadian eggs, and that at least one order specified Polish eggs. He pointed out, too, that the processing of eggs for export means additional employment for Canadian workers.

To date a total of 32,501 cases of Polish eggs have been imported, processed and then exported, and Mr. Hamilton said this figure may yet reach 41,000.

Exports of Canadian eggs to date amount to 17,178 cases.

Imports represent only one per cent of the total Canadian marketings to date and two per cent of the Ontario marketings.

Mr. Hamilton also revealed that Canadian exports to Poland last year totalled $41.2 million — of which $35 million covered wheat purchases.

Raising calves on pasture

Ottawa — Raising dairy calves on pasture from a very young age may be the way to trim costs.

Calves raised on pasture from the age of 10 days at the federal experimental farm at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, did as well as those raised indoors — and they consumed less starter feed.

Used in the test were 32 Ayrshire calves, says researcher A. D. L. Gorrill. Up to weaning at 130 pounds, all calves were fed whole milk or a commercial milk replacer, each with a commercial starter feed.

Calves indoors were given timothy hay of good quality; those outdoors had pasture.

For the animals kept outdoors, an open shed served as a shelter and as a means of feeding them individually. To discourage the calves from sucking after feeding, they were given a starter ration.

Average weaning age for all calves was 60 days. The range was from 35 to 78 days, due chiefly to differences in weight at birth. Calves in both groups gained one pound daily from an age of one week to weaning at 130 pounds.

Calves on pasture consumed an average of 0.6 pounds of starter daily compared with 0.9 pounds for the others.

On the basis of $3.00 per 100 pounds of whole milk, the cost of raising calves indoors to weaning was $13.06 per calf; outdoors it was $11.39.

Ground covers for shady areas

Ottawa — Creeping plants are the solution to the problem of ground cover in shaded areas where it is difficult to grow or cut grass.

Of the creeper plants, broad-leafed evergreens are preferable to deciduous varieties, says A. R. Buckley, of the federal plant research institute at Ottawa.

Among the evergreens, periwinkle — also known as myrtle — rates high, especially in the Ottawa area. It hugs the ground, multiplies by rooting its branches in the soil, has a pleasant appearance and crowds out all other vegetation over which it can creep. The oval-shaped leaves are dark colored and according to the variety, the flowers are blue, white or purple.

Also popular, says Mr. Buckley, are varieties of common wintercreeper. These are stem-rooting creepers with narrow, veined leaves of deep green or purple. In the Ottawa area, the Emerald Isle variety has proved hardy.

Of the deciduous varieties, the dwarf lace plant provides an effective ground cover. Although it dies back in winter, this knotweed grows so rapidly that by the end of May it has covered its assigned area once more. It is also a good soil binder.

Leaves of dwarf lace are reddish and provide an attractive cover on a slope near a grey or white house.

Species of Ajuga — also known under the "aliases" of bugle, bugleweed or carpet bugle — provide effective ground cover. They develop solid, dark green mats of foliage and retain them until late autumn. They thrive in every kind of soil and in every degree of shade.

Hostas, or plantain lillies, are recommended when larger, more colorful plants are desired for shady areas.

The foliage of these plants may be silvery, dark green, variegated with either yellow or green, or purplish and light cream depending on the variety.

Main Street storekeeper expands parking area

Donat Saulnier, pharmacist, who was the first to promote free commercial parking to ease Main Street congestion, has enlarged his space at the rear of Beaton's Pharmacy to accommodate more cars. The increased area, surfaced with crushed stone, handles 35 cars with a 3-foot space between, to allow parking and easy access. Entry is by Berry Street, opposite the C.P.R. station yard. An architect designed the above entrance and lettering.

Mr. Saulnier, a leading light in the Chamber of Commerce, invites the public to use this space, also neighboring merchants, who could thus release parking spots for still more customers on Main Street. Other business men could no doubt follow suit and provide accommodation at the rear of their properties.

MESSAGE TO THE ELECTORS OF ARGENTEUIL — DEUX MONTAGNES

AN APPEAL from Gilbert Edgar ARNOLD

Candidate in the pending election advocating a program to strengthen CONFEDERATION by supporting policies under federal jurisdiction for National improvement and opposing interference in the fields of the Provincial Governments which could eventually bring about separation by several provinces.

This basic policy to make Canadian CONFEDERATION more secure, rather than allow it to break up, has guided my supporters and me, to choose the name CONFEDERATION for our Party.

I appeal for the personal help of each voter at this time as I do not have a party organization or fund, thus making all assistance entirely voluntary.

I hereby request members of party associations who have witnessed or heard of the irregular choice of their Candidates, to please lend me their support at this time, with the hope that in future they will be able to organize free conventions to elect Candidates with the confidence of a majority of their members.

In any case I believe that the time has come when all electors prefer to go to the polls with their husbands, wives or friends, in order to cast their ballot with a clear conscience, not to be guided by the efforts of people who are not well known to them.

I am 36 years old, a lifetime resident of this constituency, where my family have lived for over a century. I am married and have five young children. I am bilingual and of English-French ancestry.

I therefore hope that you will find that I have the necessary qualifications to represent you in the House of Commons at Ottawa, to support or oppose legislation in the best interest of this Constituency, and also to bring to the attention of the the federal government many matters of local importance which have been neglected in the past.

On this basis I ask for your help when you elect your representative on June 18.

Yours sincerely,

Gilbert Edgar Arnold

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

It's your vote – use it!

THERE'S ALWAYS some crank in every neighborhood who says voting is a waste of time. His theory goes something like this: "Why vote. Your single little vote can't possibily make any difference in the outcome of the election, and besides, all politicians are crooked."

The world is full of people with silly ideas. They fail to give our democratic process the understanding it deserves. But don't let yourself get trapped into such false thinking. This nation depends upon clear thinking individuals who see the strength in our system, full of imperfections though it may be.

Government in a democracy such as Canada is made possible because our forefathers worked and fought for an opportunity to have a decision in the government which controlled their way of life. The Monarchists believed that their right to government was handed to them by birth and divine providence. Today we believe that the right to govern is handed to a government by the will of the majority, and those voters who are Christian believe that such a system is the will of God.

Democracy has a way of humbling the mighty rulers of the world. Democracy does not usually produce headstrong government for it is not only government by the consent of the majority but it is government that must continually live in an atmosphere of criticism and thus must continually justify its actions to those who are governed.

Next Monday you will be a part of the jury which will decide whether John Diefenbaker and his Progressive Conservatives will be allowed another term of office. The sum total of citizens like you will decide the issue. You will in theory vote for or against the present government, even though more than two candidates may be courting your vote in your constituency.

On election day you have a responsibility as a citizen. That responsibility is a trust that has been handed down from one generation to another. Don't let your country or yourself down. Go to the polls on June 18 and let the politicians hear your ballot drop. No matter how faint the noise of your ballot may be on election day you are really one of Canada's rulers. Don't miss the opportunity of having your say.

Caution – vacation traffic

THE VACATION season is supposed to be a time for carefree fun. But during the next four months practically all of Canada's 5,750,000 cars, plus thousands from the United States, will crowd the highways. . . . What then?

If past performance is any guide, and unfortunately it is, there are likely to be about 60,000 accidents between now and the end of September. More than 900 persons will be killed and another 28,000 or so injured.

It's not a pleasing prospect for what should ordinarily be one of the most pleasant times of the year. The fact is however, that the great proportion of accidents are of a kind that could be avoided.

With all the publicity given to accidents and how to stay out of them, it makes one wonder whether there is much point repeating the old slogans.

Everyone must by this time be aware of the obvious dangers of driving too fast, passing on hills or curves and driving while fatigued or after drinking.

Perhaps, however, a few statistics will help remind us of the dangers.

For example, more than one-quarter of all fatal accidents during this time of the year occur between 4 and 8 p.m. If you're a careful driver at all times, perhaps that's the time to be just a bit more careful.

More than two-thirds of all highway deaths occur during week-ends when even the non-vacationer has a chance to get out in the country.

One accident in 20 occurs at a road intersection. What is more important is that by far the greatest number of fatal accidents come on paved highways in clear weather and do not involve intersections at all.

What this all adds up to is that there is really no such thing as a safe stretch where you can relax and let down your guard for even an instant.

Finally, almost one driver in every five involved in a fatal accident has been drinking or otherwise impaired. Some people will never learn not to get behind the wheel after they've been drinking, so it seems the only thing to do is to handle your car with the caution you would employ if you knew the oncoming driver were drunk.

The farm accident rate

FARMING HAS become one of the most dangerous occupations in Canada, and only a comprehensive program of education, understanding and legislation will check the harvest of death and injury to farm residents — says the June issue of Imperial Oil Review.

It is estimated that one in every four Canadian farm families will experience an accident this year. Farms are three times as dangerous as the average factory. In Ontario alone in 1960, there were more than 7,800 farm accidents, with medical bills totalling $701,000, property damage amounting to $5.2-million and a total of 112,493 working days lost.

Unlike industrial workers, few farmers are protected by sickness and accident insurance, The Review observes. Workmen's compensation is available to farmers, but the high farm accident rate has driven premiums beyond the reach of most.

One reason for this high accident frequency is that — unlike industry — there is no way of supervising farm safety practices. For instance, children are allowed to operate machinery designed for use of adults. Emotional upset, fatigue, and farmers' contempt for danger resulting from constant exposure to potentially dangerous animals and machinery, are other prime causes of accidents on the farm.

According to some safety experts interviewed, there are four needs in the fight for farm accident prevention:

1. Detailed national accident statistics to provide better understanding of the problem. For instance, noting from hospital statistics that 50 percent of all farm accidents happen in the barnyard, the Saskatchewan government instituted an annual spring farmyard cleanup campaign; recommended fenced-off play areas to keep children out of farmyards.

2. A national voluntary safety organization.

3. Support and leadership by the Canadian government, through Health and Agriculture Departments.

4. Provision of safety education materials, films, TV and radio programs about safety education.

Viewpoints and perspectives

URBAN SPRAWL. — From the long-term view, sprawl is disastrous for both farmer and urbanite. For the farmer it is a disease which can ultimately destroy the whole body of agricultural land. For the urbanite it is the most costly form of development in existence. — Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress

NECESSARY COST. — We are the last to say that possible increased costs in education should be ignored, but by the same token everyone should be broad enough to measure the possible advantages to the present and future generations of a high school education along with the costs. — Pembina Triangle Progress

GOOD QUESTION. — Which one of the candidates in the forthcoming election will stand up and pledge himself to do everything in his power to reduce government expenses and to lower taxes?

— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

MAIN OBJECTIVE. — The time has definitely come for management to recognize the fact that labor has grown up into responsible thinking compatriots, and for union leaders to realize that their responsibilities lie not just in raising individual pay cheques but in bettering the national economy as a whole.

The hunting problem - and Canada's 'big cat'

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

Canada is a land of great area with a sparse population. But the southwestern corner of Quebec, like southern Ontario, is greatly over-populated.

The population of Montreal Island is now almost 1,800,000, an increase of 250,000 people in the last six years.

The population of Ile Jésu has soared from 68,000 six years ago, to 130,000 today. It has almost doubled its population in six years.

The population explosion has hit southwestern Quebec. The area of Montreal Island and Ile Jésu is about 300 square miles.

Now, add an area of 35 miles by 20 miles, to make 700 square miles, west and slightly north of these islands, along the Ottawa for 35 miles and 20 miles north of the Ottawa to include Carillon, Lachute, Brownsburg, Louisa, Lakefield, Dunany, St. Jerome, etc. The population of these 1,000 square miles is over 2-million people — over 2,000 people to the square mile, on the average. This is twice the average population of Holland, the most heavily populated country in the world except possibly Japan. It is three times the average population per square mile in Great Britain.

It is a wonder that there is any game left in this district, and everyone admits, our wildlife is disappearing.

In these 1,000 square miles, every living creature is hunted — man included. Man is hunted with machine guns, revolvers, knives and the modern caveman's club, called a baseball bat. This weapon is often used at election time. The lower part of "The Main", in Montreal, is a favorite spot for man-hunting.

In this area, man may be killed quickly and silently with a bullet in the gullet, or a stiletto in the gorge, mafia-style.

No wonder the farmers, living within this district I have outlined, are concerned for the safety of their livestock!

A gate left open, a broken fence, may mean a serious loss for a farmer. What chance has a cow got on a highway today?

Last fall, hunters on our property left a gate open and I spent all Sunday morning chasing heifers. The hunters frightened a horse, so badly it was about to plunge into a fence. . . . I wonder if any of these hunters ever had to extricate a horse that was badly caught in wire. A horse will pull the wire until the flesh is torn and the bone exposed. It leaves a hideous scar, and necessitates veterinary aid. Besides, it is an exceedingly dangerous operation, getting a horse out of wire, because they thrash their feet so wildly. I know from experience.

I know very well that, after a man has been unnaturally confined all week to an office or factory, he is in heaven when he can commune with Nature by tramping over fields and through the bush, on the trail of a deer or even a rabbit.

But the sport is yearly becoming more dangerous for everybody in this over-populated area, and I think some way of remedying this situation should be found.

Why not more rifle ranges, skeet shooting, etc., special parks for hunters, or pheasant farms where pheasants are released in the fall for hunters to shoot at, as in southern Ontario.

I know a hunter who narrowly missed being killed a couple of years ago. He was out for his first hunt, and had just entered the bush, when someone mistook him for a deer. A bullet whizzed past his head. Although this man had hunted for many years, he went home, hung up his rifle and has never used it since. "Nobody is going to turn me into cold meat that way," he told me.

In spite of very adverse conditions, deer and even moose still survive in these 1,000 square miles. People even claim to have seen panthers here, and not "planted" panthers either.

I wrote a letter to the Department of Game and Fisheries at Quebec, in French, and received a very courteous letter in reply. Mr. Gustave Bédard, the Public Relations man, consulted a distinguished scientist in order to answer my questions. The scientist, Mr. Claude Minguy, bears an imposing title. His occupation (in French) is "mammalogiste du service d'Aménagement de la Faune". He is, I think, a biologist, specializing in mammals or mammalian biology, in the Wildlife Conservation Service.

Mr. Minguy is, in my opinion, a man of outstanding ability. There is no history of the panther or cougar in Quebec Province, he says. Panthers have been "seen" in Argenteuil, Papineau, Pontiac and Matapedia for generations and generations, but never has one been shot, or scientifically identified.

The identifications have never been scientifically controlled ("contrôlées scientifiquement") says Mr. Minguy. Mr. Minguy represents the new order in Quebec; he demands the proven truth! He says, away with false reports and old wives' tales, dark superstitions and ill-founded rumours; here only the truth prevails.

I asked Mr. Minguy, about the man-killing propensities of the panther or cougar. He tells us that the cougar ("le cougouar") only attacks man in extraordinary circumstances, if he is wounded, or if he is cornered. However, we cannot say he is not dangerous, says Mr. Minguy.

I have heard so many stories of cougars, out west, attacking young children, that I am sure, when driven by hunger, they will do this.

Recently a story appeared in the Montreal Star of a four-year-old boy who was attacked by a cougar in Alberta. The mother, tugging at the animal's ears, saved her child, just in the nick of time. A neighbor shot the cougar, in the foothills of the Rockies, not far from the scene of the attack.

My sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul Doig, who was raised in the Fraser River Valley, told me this story:

A branch of a big tree extended over an Indian teepee not far from her home. A cougar climbed up on this branch and spotted a wailing papoose in the teepee. The panther jumped down through the smoke-hole of the Indian dwelling, and, grabbing the baby in its jaws, carried it away to the bush.

One reason why the panther has almost been exterminated in Eastern Canada and the U.S.A., is because, like any cat, it is easily treed when hunted by dogs, and can easily be shot down. The last panther shot in New Brunswick was in 1938; there was one shot in 1931, also in New Brunswick.

A panther can consume a deer every week. It likes to eat colts, heifers, sheep, etc. — A beautiful, but not too pleasant animal to have around.

EITHER SIGNATURE VALID – MODERN MATES DECIDE

Time was when the "obey" part of the bride's marriage vows was a pretty literal undertaking. Now more generally a quaint morsel of tradition, most modern couples favor making mutual decisions instead.

One major convenience in operating today's family finances, which more and more people are discovering, is a Bank of Montreal joint account.

Besides representing a fine symbol of distaff progress, a joint account makes money management a lot easier. When her husband is away, the lady of the house can sign cheques and eliminate the problem of keeping cash at home. Both parties have all the convenience of the account, and both can make deposits as they choose.

Paul Boivin, accountant at Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, or Lulu Miller, manager at Ayersville Branch, will be glad to show you how easy it is to open a modern joint account, just one more item in the B of M's catalogue of helpful services for modern living. See Mr. Boivin or Miss Miller soon.

ENJOY YOUR HOLIDAY BE WATER WISE!

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

There's a new fad in the schools — chewing flavored toothpicks. They come in two flavors, "Hot" (cinnamon) and "Cool" (mint).

At least one child has been strapped for chewing a toothpick in class. There's no reason why it should interfere with learning, but there is something defiant about the act of chewing a toothpick.

The toothpick proclaims the chewer a man (or a child) who doesn't give a snap for anyone. This is a common attitude in the world, but it won't do in the classroom.

The tripe-dressers of England are in a rage because Prince Phillip used the word "tripe" to describe foolish talk.

He should not degrade a tasty and honorable dish (made from the lining of a cow's stomach) by using it as a term of abuse. So they said.

That's all very well. But everybody is so sensitive that there won't be any terms of abuse left, with any color in them.

Baloney? The butchers will complain. . . . Garbage? Sanitation technicians will be insulted. . . . Soon we will have nothing left but soft, grey, limp words, made to please soft grey people.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

MY OWN HEALTH SCHEME

At a business meeting the other day I was asked, casually, how I had spent my Sunday. I answered, deadpan, that, "I gathered wildflowers in the woods with Carmelita."

This poetic answer created a stunned silence, then some guffaws. Fact is, I actually had spent most of my Sunday exploring the woods with a couple of old friends. My friend's wife is usually called Carm, but I used her full name for poetic effect, and got the reaction I had expected from the businessmen assembled.

Whether you gather wildflowers or not, this business of hoofing it about through the woods is good for the soul and the body. I had enjoyed it so much that I decided to get out more and walk more while our summer lasts.

Over the holiday week-end, I took my twin girls for a hike. We did about five miles of country lanes and back roads. I slept that night like I have not slept for some while — a sound and dreamless sleep. I was a bit stiff in the morning, but felt good . . . really good. I've been increasing my mileage ever since, even though some of it has had to be on city pavement. I bought a good pair of walking shoes, which makes it all the more pleasant.

These days, when there is so much talk of health plans, I am astounded at the number of men and women who have no health plans of their own. Fresh air, good moderation or abstention in the matter of smoking and liquor, are, in my opinion, the basic requirements. Governments cannot breathe for you or guarantee your good health; you can do a great deal on your own to cut down the need for doctors or for drugs.

Now don't get the idea that I am a faddist or believe one can cure acute appendicitis by walking in the woods! What I do believe is that we are acting irrationally when we make such a fuss about providing full medical care for everyone, while doing so little about good health for ourselves. And I thought I had better say my say about it now, while I am on this project; rather than wait until I am back to my old sloppy habits again!

Diary of a Vagabond

FANS IN THE FLESH

I opened the front door the other day, answering the jingle of sleigh bells that serves to announce a visitor at our house, and looked into the bluest eyes I have ever seen outside the head of a china doll.

These were anything but glassy. They twinkled and seemed to dance behind rimmed glasses. When I learned their owner was seeking "the Vagabond" I invited the small middle-aged woman and her husband to "bide a wee". This is country talk for I instinctively knew they were closely akin to the land.

They had travelled, they said, more than two hundred miles to meet the author of this column. I must say I was a little overcome by this information and tried to contain my curiosity until tea was brewed and we were all comfortably settled before a snapping grate fire. The wind was still nippy and even though the sun was already baking the earth by its direct rays, it was too soon to forget that a fire, like a good wine, at this time of year stimulates the warmth of welcome.

My visitors informed me, as they buttered hot tea biscuits and dipped them in new maple syrup, that they have been unidentified readers of the column since its inception in their hometown paper.

"When our anniversary called for a special celebration ("it's our 25th, the quiet gentleman interjected), I told Fred I wanted a train trip just like you describe so often. We've never been on a train since we were married and we're not getting any younger I told him." My guest chuckled, blowing little crumbs of biscuit onto her gay silk blouse and flicking them off with a paper serviette decorated with the Shrine of Evangeline, souvenir of my last trip east.

Her bubbling conversation revealed they farm land close to Kingston, Ont., where, over the years, they have raised five children and a good many more cows, chickens and hogs. They have always travelled by car to and from the bigger cities "but Fred's not crazy about these new super-highways any more", I learned.

"It must have been a couple of years ago that you wrote about your eldest son taking his family by train to visit an aunt. I remembered they hired a car when they arrived and I said to Fred, that's for us. So we boarded a CN coach, found the car waiting for us at the station on arrival, and here we are." Fred smiled at his effervescent spouse while, at her request, he ticked off on his fingers the names and ages of their offspring and then the names of my four grandchildren.

The latter recital was a bit of a surprise for I found it hard to realize a reader, no matter how loyal, would remember such details. "Oh, we don't miss a tick in that column," the little lady said when I remarked on their memory.

Journalistic Idol

This is understandable to me because for years I felt I was a personal friend of Gladys Taber, who wrote "The Diary of Domesticity" in the Woman's Home Companion. I knew the names of her children too and those of her beloved cocker spaniels and Siamese cats, that romped in and out of her column each month. When this journal folded, I felt I had lost a near and dear relative until the day I discovered her again in a supermarket magazine.

Listening to these two nice people chatter on about escapades I have written about (over the past four years) gave me a rather detached feeling. The Vagabond didn't seem like me, but some other person they were discussing.

If my efforts had given them the pleasure they exclaimed about, I was indeed grateful, though a little incredulous. Imagine two people coming all that way to meet me, and on their second honeymoon!

Viking Giant entertains young-fry

The Viking Giant, claimed as the world's largest man, is appearing on the King Reid Shows midway at Lachute Spring Fair this week. See him in Col. Tobin's Celebrated Congress of Oddities. Measuring 8 ft. 8 ins. in height and weighing 425 lbs., the Viking Giant is seen here in the centre of admiring circle of diminutive Wolf Cubs.

Famous King Reid Shows return for '62 Spring Fair

The fabulous King Reid Shows opens today (Wednesday) at Lachute Spring Fair and plays through Saturday, June 16, midnight. The star-studded midway is chockful of 50 top attractions and thrilling rides.

Lachute Spring Fair is one of their ports-of-call in an international tour of large provincial exhibitions in Canada and major fairs in the United States.

Included in the many attractions on the "world's cleanest midway" are an unusual number of thrilling rides, many of them seldom seen on travelling shows — the world's largest portable Roller Coaster with 1,000 feet of exciting twists and turns rolls along at 60 miles an hour; a battery of Giant Ferris Wheels; a Giant Double Octopus, twice the size and capacity of the usual models; the famous Merry-Go-Round pictured on a Saturday Evening Post cover painted by Norman Rockwell; a mammoth Kiddieland with spectacular thrills for juvenile air force pilots, youthful astronauts and junior Mounties in pursuit cars.

Among the many tented attractions assembled here from the four corners of the continent are Col. Tobin's Celebrated Congress of Oddities featuring the Viking Giant, the world's largest man, 8 foot 8 inches in height, perfectly proportioned at 425 pounds; also Electra, whose body can withstand ten times the electricity of an ordinary man; Lion Nell, the Lion-Faced Girl, and many other features; Cash Miller's spectacular presentation of King Kogo, Chief of the Pigmy Tribe from the Belgian Congo; three of the world's largest Boa Constrictors from the deepest jungles of Africa, and five Calcutta Monsters that eat anything alive!

Other attractions are Coney Island's popular Fun House — Clown Alley — a must for mirth seekers; the rollicking revues in the "Hi-Hat", "Torchy Lee" and "Lila" shows, where a bevy of night club entertainers direct from Las Vegas display their charm and talent; Bullet Joe Boudreau and his Madcap Motorcycle Maniacs, who do their famous triple criss-cross on a perpendicular wall with three riders defying death at every turn of the wheel. La Verne, world's woman champion madcap motorcyclist, leads a pack of Motorcycle Maniacs in her famous Australian Pursuit Race.

World shortage of doctors

According to the latest figures received by the Health League of Canada, there are approximately one million and a half doctors for the world population of 3 billion people.

Ironically enough, one of the smallest countries of the world — Israel — with one doctor to every 420 inhabitants — is the best provided for medically, and is followed by the U.S.S.R. with 550 inhabitants per doctor. Czechoslovakia and Austria with a doctor to 590 and 620 persons respectively are next in line. The figures for the U.S.A., Scotland and France show a doctor per 790; 870 and 630 persons. In terrific contrast, India has only one doctor per 5,000 of its population and Afghanistan one doctor per 58,000. At the extreme end of the list stand Mali with 80,000 and Niger with 96,000 inhabitants per doctor.

FACT

Full-time university-grade enrolment in Canada was 128,894 at December 1, 1961, an increase of 13.1 per cent from the previous year.

MANDATE TO DROUIN, LIBERAL, IN ARGENT'L-DEUX MONTAGNES

Elected — Vincent Drouin, Liberal Candidate

Heavy vote represents 82 percent of electorate in two counties

A newcomer to the political arena — Vincent Drouin, lawyer, of St. Eustache — won the electoral honors as official candidate of the Liberal party, to represent Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes constituency in the next federal parliament.

Mr. Drouin reversed the 4,000-odd majority won by J. O. Latour, Progressive Conservative, in the 1958 contest. Mr. Drouin's majority was 989 in the election on Monday, winning out against four opponents.

The five contestants in this contest were — Gilbert Edgar Arnold (Confederation); J. O. Desjardins (Social Credit); Vincent Drouin (Liberal); J. Octave Latour (Prog. Cons.); Kenneth P. Riley (Independent). Following are the results, after initial count, as given by the District Returning Officer, Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion:

Arnold	635
Desjardins	4,210
Drouin	11,650
Latour	10,661
Riley	697

The stiffest fight was between the two candidates of the old-line parties, but observers in Argenteuil, like those across the country and especially in Quebec, were somewhat surprised at the advance of Social Credit — the local candidate having polled over 4,000 votes. It is notable that J. O. Desjardins secured majorities in every poll in the Village of Ayersville and in 11 of the 21 polls in Lachute. This gain was not so apparent outside the Greater Lachute district.

It was not until 10 p.m. that Mr. Drouin's supporters could count on a clear Liberal majority.

Ken Riley, Independent, and Gilbert Edgar Arnold, Confederation, accounted for 1,300 votes in the 181 polls of the constituency — more than a great number of forecasters estimated. Mr. Riley had 697 votes and Mr. Arnold 635.

Messrs. Desjardins, Arnold and Riley, forfeited their deposit.

There were 28,000 ballots cast — a high proportion (82 per cent) of the 34,232 eligible voters in Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes.

(See results in detail elsewhere in these pages.)

The Lachute Watchman

Echoes of Avoca, County Wicklow in Ireland

A subscriber, Mrs. John Tooke, of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, found unusual interest in an item from the retired postmaster of Avoca which appeared in last week's Watchman. The item made mention of Avoca in Ireland as the origin of all namesakes this side of the Atlantic, including the Avoca settlement in this County.

On a tour overseas two years ago, Mrs. Tooke apparently visited the Vale of Avoca and the village in Ireland, and with her letter to The Watchman she encloses a picture postcard of the peaceful community nestling beneath the Wicklow Hills. A little river meanders through the village — unlike the sometimes turbulent Rouge River near the Avoca of Argenteuil County.

EXHIBITION IN STORY AND PICTURES —

'One of the best years', reports president of Lachute Fair 1962

"Among the best years" for Lachute Spring Fair, was President Syd Patterson's appraisal after the four-day run which chalked another successful exhibition, the 137th on the records of the Agricultural Society. The president, and the secretary-manager, Ken Riley, claimed no peaks of attendance, no new heights in entries — but both were more than satisfied with the outcome.

In attendance, there was an increasing trend to evening crowds, due no doubt to the repute for good grandstand entertainment, now well established by the service clubs — plus the evening horse shows, which are tops with a large segment of spectators. . . . Anyway, Col. Ernest Emmett and his Imperial Frontiersmen on police and traffic duty, had a busy time directing the flow of cars and "stacking 'em in" all the available parking spaces.

In livestock, the display, according to President Syd Patterson, was "better than average". Notable were the new competitors from outside the County, who contributed to the quality and sparked the competitive aspect of the livestock classes.

Different aspects of the show impressed different people. . . . An impression with this reporter was the fine weather which prevailed through four consecutive days. This occurred also last year; but 1961 and '62 are the only occasions to have been so favored within our memory, in well over 30 years of reporting Lachute Spring Fair.

Exhibition Building

The exhibition building was livened considerably this time by a popular display of the Argenteuil Carpet Co-operative. Mr. Albert Nagy, manager, and Mme Dulude were there to welcome guests and explain the weaving of oriental-type rugs, which was also practically demonstrated by operators working on two looms.

Also on the ground floor was an illuminated display by the Provincial Highway Safety Commission, government - sponsored, A "wishing well" and representatives for the Association for Retarded Children also occupied this floor.

On the second floor the customary craft, cookery and floral displays were featured with exhibits by school students, Women's Institutes and Le Cercle des Fermières.

The restaurant and dining room in this building were a busy spot, operated by Mrs. Strong and lady helpers.

Outdoor Booths

Nearby, the Legion van was a cheery centre where many handshakes and renewals of acquantance marked the crossroads of busy thoroughfares. Across the race track, the Rotary booth was attended by perspiring salesmen with tired feet, while the Farm Forum snack bar was doing a continuously busy trade.

In "grandstand alley" the Lions Club stand was missing, but the club was sponsor for a C.N.I.B. booth of handiwork made by the blind people of this County. The

CONTRACTORS, ENGINEERS EXPLAIN DELAYS —

Filtration of water supply by July 22 now assured

The engineering firm of Lorrain, Tourigny & Al — the contractors, Pollock - McGibbon Co. and H. J. O'Connell Ltd. — and the engineering suppliers, Francis Hankin — were all represented to give account of themselves at an adjourned Council meeting last week on the delays at the filtration plant project.

Mayor Fernand Legault presided, and the representatives were there on invitation of the Council, to explain why the contract was not fulfilled to complete the filtration job by the end of May.

Mr. Gordon McGibbon, of the company bearing his name, stated that it was the nature of the rock substrata which had originally set back the work four weeks. It was not true that there had been insufficient help on the job. . . . At this stage there remained some inside carpentry, the plumbing was practically completed, and the painting would be done as soon as the machinery was in place.

Regarding criticism of the quality of exterior brickwork, Mr. McGibbon reported that this was the brick which had been specified in the plans. This was also confirmed by the consulting engineers, who accepted responsibility for the type of brick used. (Mr. McGibbon further states, at this date, that the building is actually completed with the exception of items awaiting installation of the mechanical equipment.)

Speaking for Francis Hankin, suppliers of the said machinery and filtration equipment, a representative of that company admitted delays on their part but these were due to circumstances beyond the company's control. He promised however that the filtration plant will be in operation by July 21, and that consumers would have filtered water on the following day.

Mayor Legault, Aldermen Lauréat Laurin and François Charlebois were the chief critics plying questions to the visitors. Finally, the Council, satisfied on this score, approved bills of $114,638 from the contractors and $3,559 from the engineering firm.

Messrs. Laliberté and Lorrain provided some figures on water consumption which give food for thought. In Lachute and St. Jerusalem, the water consumption per day per capita is around 210 gallons. In Lachute, Ayersville and St. Jerusalem combined, it is 150 gallons daily. . . . Whether through leaks or other wastage, these figures are completely out of line; the average consumption should be only approximately 90 gallons, according to the two engineers.

New schedule for business tax in preparation

Town Council, at a meeting chaired by Mayor Fernand Legault and attended by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, decided on procedure of raising the business tax — upon which a previous decision had been agreed on in other details.

The Chamber delegation suggested that a basic tax be set for a merchant's principal line of goods, with an additional amount for other lines of business. The basic levy suggested was $50, and the secondary amounts $10 to $15 — according to financial needs of the municipality.

The groundwork of this study had been tackled previously, and the deliberations in this case were less lengthy. The St-Jerome business tax by-law formed the basis of amendments adopted, with, of course, adaptations to local business.

Spokesmen for the Chamber of Commerce were Antoine Malaket, president, André Lefebvre, Gabriel Valois, J. Arthur Lafrance and Paul Guénette.

The by-law will go into effect after legal requirements are fulfilled, namely, posting of the schedule at public places for inspection over a certain period.

Summer cottage razed by fire

Fire of unknown origin levelled a summer cottage owned by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elliott, of Upper Lachute, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Elliott reported the loss was partly covered by insurance. He stated that the cottage had not been occupied this spring, and that the power was shut off at the time of the fire.

Members of the Lachute Volunteer Fire Department answered the call, and, pumping water from the river, doused the surrounding area and burning embers.

The blaze was noticed by neighbors, and had made considerable progress throughout the frame building when firemen were summoned.

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Harvey Kerr's new "Colonial Restaurant", with a capacity of 50-odd diners, went into full operation just in time for Fair Week. A distinct asset to Main Street, and one more addition to wholesome eating establishments, which were lacking for so many years in Lachute. . . . The "Lily Garden" Chinese rstaurant is moving shortly from Bethany St. to more central premises vacated recently by Western Tire & Auto Supply.

Maybe The Watchman can take credit, or the reader who asked us to recommend a "Yield" sign. . . Anyway, the installation of a "Stop" at the Memorial Park where Route 29 merges into Route 8, is a distinct improvement which should protect drivers and cars from sideswiping collisions. Good work by the police-roads-traffic committees — who also deserve appreciation for efficient street-marking, and repairing the winter damage to our streets.

Some big machinery from the U.S.A., unloaded at the C.P.R. freight yard on Friday, was destined for a spot on the Lakefield Road near L. P. Dumais' gravel deposits. A Joliette firm, Lamon Ltée, is setting up an asphalt plant for paving work in the vicinity.

There are four honorary members in the Argenteuil Agricultural Society — Clément Tremblay, O.B.E.; Gilbert E. Arnold; J. S. Giles; Major G. G. Mitchell. All have been familiar figures at Lachute Spring Fair over the years; but this year, for reasons of age and health, respectively, the latter two were missing. . . . Some old friends were conscious of their absence.

Riding a vertical wall

One of the exciting sidelights picked up by our photographer in the King Reid Shows midway at Lachute Fair was this daring motorcycle rider, the "Great La Vonnie", performing in the Motorcycle Maniacs. Looking up from the bottom of a silo-like cylinder, the rider, seated side-saddle, is riding the motorcycle without hands. The wall is verticle and the motorcycle revolving here is absolutely horizontal. — Photo, Syd Drew

'One of best years,' says Fair president

Richelieu Club was also represented here, with ticket salesmen on a drawing later in the season. In this same section Molson's fishing unit was stationed, under the aegis of the Argenteuil Fish and Game Club (of which Leonard Bédard is prime sponsor).

A commercial display of Wilson Bulk Tank milk cooling and storage, arranged by the local agent Bruce Bradford, completed the highlights on the grandstand trail.

Other commercial displays in the outdoor concessions included Farmers' Supply Company with Pioneer chain saws, also feeds, fertilizers and pesticides; Lachute Farm Equipment; Don Boa Motor Sales with Volkswagen models; Lachute Auto Parts with boats and outboards; also numerous equipment displays by old standbys and newcomers with district dealerships.

Midway

In the entertainment aspects of this year's show, King Reid's midway was a popular spot which provided both thrills and oddities appealing to many serious-minded adults, while the children found fun and excitement galore to satisfy all appetites.

Grandstand Events

Highlights of the grandstand shows, and winners of the drawings, are featured elsewhere in these pages; but not to be lightly overlooked is the cattle and horse judging, and the superb horse events — saddle, harness, hunter, and draft classes, and imposing six-horse teams — which were a consistent bell-ringer with the grandstand spectators.

N. (Bud) McGeorge, vice-president of the Agricultural Society, did an outstanding job in his customary role as announcer. Possible lulls in the grandstand proceedings were to all appearances eliminated; his ready wit, and knowledge of the all events and participants, kept the program on a steady keel and the crowd in excellent humor.

Another highlight in entertainment was the sulky-racing program which drew a fine list of entries on Saturday afternoon. This was arranged, as usual, by the Richelieu Club.

Livestock

The rabbit, poultry and swine sheds, and the horse and cattle stables provided ample interest for the agricultural community to whom livestock is still the prime "raison d'être" of the rural fair. The bleachers overlooking the cattle judging, including the 4-H Calf Club contests, held many spectators, despite the blazing sun.

In conclusion, a word from President Syd Patterson extends warm thanks to the directors, to the public, and to all who helped in any way to ensure the success of the 1962 Lachute Spring Fair.

There were no major accidents, casualties or misdemeanors. One or two pickpocket cases were reported to the police. These are almost inevitable. Also, pamphlets were placed on a number of cars by R.I.N. fanatics, urging abstention from voting in Monday's federal election. In Argenteuil County these may be written off as ineffectual. (Monday's high-percentage vote proved this assumption correct!)

Times and places, Health Unit clinics for immunization

Clinics for inoculation against smallpox, whooping cough, tetanus and polio are being held throughout the County by the medical staff of the Argenteuil Health Unit. . . . Adults are susceptible to polio infection, and while these clinics are intended primarily for children, they will also include inoculation with first, second and booster "shots" for all adults wishing to take advantage of the service.

Clinics in the next week or two are listed as follows:

Thursday, June 21 —
Lachute, Health Clinic, 2-4 p.m.

Friday, June 22 —
Ayersville, School, 3 p.m.

Tuesday, June 26 —
Barkmere, C. Legault's, 11 a.m.

Arundel, School, 4 p.m.

Wednesday, June 27 —

3rd, Jean-Claude Seguin, Ayersville — $10.

Lion Gordon McOuat had charge of arrangements for this contest.

Winner of the fibreglass boat, outboard and trailer raffled by the Legion Branch 70 at Lachute Fair was Lucien Theoret, of Glen Norman, Ont. His ticket was No. 7347. . . . Mr. Theoret came to Lachute on Monday and accepted $500 cash in lieu of the prize.

The Rotary Club drawing for a combination television - radio - stereo was won by Jack MacKimmie, of Lachute.

Winning competitors in the Rotary Night grandstand events are reported on page 10.

Drill for oil near Alexandria

Drilling for oil is getting underway in Glengarry County, according to a news item in the Grenvarry News.

Jack Cameron, a diamond driller for the past 30 years, is in charge of the drill crew, and an Imperial Oil spokesman said his firm was awaiting the issuance of a permit from the Ontario Energy Board. No estimate of the oil potential of the area could be made, but land formations look promising, he said.

New Technique

"We are not really drilling an oil well," he explained. "We are using a new technique, diamond drilling of a narrow diameter hole. It is a simple, much less expensive way of assessing the geological formation of the area. If we do find oil, we would have to drill another, larger hole to get it out."

It would take probably two weeks to drill a test hole and another two or three weeks to examine the drill core, on site and at the firm's producing department laboratories in Chatham, Ont.

If oil has not been discovered in the test hole, a decision would then be made as to where other test holes would be drilled.

New officers for Junior Chamber

The Junior Chamber of Commerce elected new officers at a recent general meeting. The executive now includes:

A St. Jean Baptiste celebration will be held in Lachute this Saturday evening.

A parade, with local dignitaries and civic leaders in the vanguard, will set out from La Ruche parking ground in the west end, assembling there at 7 p.m. A St. Jerome school band will provide music and Ayersville Air Cadets will join the procession.

A program at the Richelieu Park, Paquin Avenue, will include brief speeches, folk dances by the Sarabande troupe from St. Jerome and popular songs. There will be a bonfire and, in conclusion, a fireworks display.

Oft-time champion earns retirement

Concluding the horse show and opening the Lions' Club grandstand performance last Friday night, Guy Besner, m.c., paid honor to a veteran show horse, Gilbert E. Arnold's "Nino". This 27-year-old French Coach stallion retires from show-biz with a record of more wins, ribbons and trophies than any horse exhibited at Lachute Fair over the past years. A garland of flowers was hung around his neck, and his owner, Mr. Arnold, received a token of recognition for this fine record.

Trick performer, and lighter entertainment

Laughter-provoking interludes were provided in the Rotary Club grandstand program by three clowns, Tom Johnson, Bob Armstrong and Bob Wyse, and by a performing horse "Topper" in charge of its owner and trainer, Rolland Lascelles. The feats of this educated steed are described in a story on the Rotary events (page 10). — Photo, Syd Drew

CNIB grateful to Lions and helpers at Fair booth

One of the attractions at Lachute Fair was the booth of handicrafts made by sightless people. This booth was sponsored by the Lachute Lions Club, and was in charge by the Women's Auxiliary to the Argenteuil CNIB.

Both the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the Lions Club are grateful for the tremendous interest shown by the public. Many leathercraft items, woollen goods, and reed baskets were ordered by those impressed by the articles and who, in addition, realized the need to help the sightless people of this County.

The authorities of the CNIB are deeply indebted to the following for their contributions and assistance — first and foremost, the Lions Club, for sponsoring the booth; to Boyd's Express for transporting heavy equipment; to Texaco, for supplying flags; to Legion 70, for publicizing the booth over their loudspeaker, and assisting the ladies with the dismantling of the booth; to the ladies who volunteered many hours on duty, from 10 a.m. daily until closing time; and to Giles Publishing House for publicizing the handicraft booth, both in English and French.

Mr. Tony Zaplaski, CNIB director here, is happy to acknowledge that the extra dollars realized by the sightless people are due entirely to the co-operation of these many kind collaborators.

An apple in oil company research experiments? At Imperial—yes. Research into how petroleum can assist Canadian farmers and fruit growers is one of many projects carried out at Imperial's laboratories...the largest petroleum research laboratories in Canada.

90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products—and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents.

Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.

Red Cross hears campaign report, $4,320 collected

The final meeting for the season of Lachute Branch, Canadian Red Cross, was held last Wednesday in the workrooms on Main Street, with Mrs. Gordon McOuat, president, in the chair.

Mrs. Fraser Morrison, in reporting further shipments to headquarters, thanked all Red Cross workers who had assisted the Women's Work Committee so ably during the winter and early spring, and announced the closing of these activities until fall.

Mrs McOuat read a report from Mrs. C. E. Richardson, treasurer of the Red Cross Campaign, announcing the final returns for 1962 as $4,320.08. The six municipal councils — Calumet, Grenville, Lachute, Ayersville St. Jerusalem and Argenteuil County — gave donations totalling $435.

On behalf of the Red Cross, Mrs. McOuat thanked the chairman, Mr. Howard Morrison, the co-chairman, Mr. Gaetan Leclair, and assistants Mr. Paul Boivin, Mrs. R. Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Richardson, and congratulated them on conducting such a successful campaign.

A report had been received from the Quebec Division of the Red Cross Water Safety Service, outlining the teaching of Swimming and Water Safety in order to (a) reduce the toll of deaths from drowning; (b) promote a healthful form of exercise and physical development.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is vitally interested in teaching Water Safety and Life Saving methods, and is willing and anxious to co-operate with all other organizations in this field.

Anyone interested in taking courses or receiving instructors for swimming pools or camps, may please contact: Water Safety Service, Quebec Division, Canadian Red Cross Society, 2170 Dorchester Street West, Montreal 25.

Dedication service for junior groups at Lachute United

An impressive ceremony of "Dedication to Mission" was held at Lachute United Church last Sunday morning, in the presence of a large congregation. The service, conducted by the minister, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, had been arranged by members of the Christian Education Committee, and replaced the affiliation ceremony in which the Explorer and C.G.I.T. groups formerly participated with the Woman's Missionary Society. Under the new organization of United Church Women, the younger groups of the church have been placed under the care of the Christian Education Committee.

Following is a list of the groups taking part in the service, along with their representatives, who presented gifts of money to Mr. Stuart Armstrong, chairman of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund:

Cradle Roll (Pamela Pollock); Baby Band (Joyce McGibbon and Steven Lyster); Messengers (Barbara McOuat and Patricia Deacon); Explorers (Joan Hardy and Jean Taylor); C.G.I.T. (Carol Demerse); Hi-C (Helen McGibbon).

The Scripture lesson was read by Diane Boa, a member of the Hi-C group.

Vacation school at St. Simeon's

The annual summer vacation school at St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, will be held from July 2-13, from 9 to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday.

An interesting program of worship, Bible study, singing, handwork, games and woodwork is in store for those who attend. The teaching materials and expression work books used, are the best obtainable.

Graded classes will be held for children from 4 to 14 years of age. Many children have already registered for this school. Youngsters are invited to come and bring their friends.

It would be appreciated if children who plan to attend will call LO 2-2917.

Brownsburg meet held by 'United Church Women'

The Brownsburg U.C.W. held their meeting Wednesday, June 13, in the church hall, which was tastefully decorated by Mrs. Steere and her committee. This brought their meetings to a close until September.

The budget for the first six months was reviewed, and showed a pleasing margin, and the group is looking forward to a successful year. A pleasant surprise was in store for the president, Mrs. Elliott, when Regional Vice-President Mrs. W. Bridge presented her with a pin and certificate, making her the first life member.

Miss E. Hanson was in charge of the program, and was ably assisted by Mrs. T. Pasco, Mrs. J. Izzard, Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. D. Clarke in a panel discussion. Mrs. J. Hazel led the devotions, and also introduced the guest soloist, Miss B. Gain, who sang "Danny Boy".

A minute's silence was observed in memory of Mrs. F. Kettyle, one of the members who had passed away since the previous meeting.

Reports were given by the different committees, and showed that many things had been done in the first six months' work. Mrs. Hazel, Supply convener, reported that several articles had been sent to needy missions, and some bedding had been sent to Pointe aux Trembles school.

A "pantry shower" is to be held for the new minister and his family, with articles to be left at the church on June 26. (The church will be open all day for anyone wishing to leave articles.)

There were a few visitors present, including Mrs. E. Pollock, president of the Lachute U.C.W., and Regional Vice-President Mrs. W. Bridge.

Lovely refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. MacAllister and her committee, and a social hour was spent.

Feted by Lachute and Dalesville Friends

The Baptist Mission Circles of Lachute and Dalesville held a gathering in the Baptist Church hall at Dalesville last Monday evening, to tender a presentation and good wishes to Miss Florence Hisey, of Greenville, S.C., on her approaching marriage to Mr. Larry Dickerson, of Detroit, Mich.

Miss Hisey, a graduate of the Bob Jones University, has spent the past year as teacher in the field of Music at that institution, and has latterly been home visiting her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Lorne Hisey, at Dalesville. Her fiancé is also a teacher at the same university in Greenville, S.C.

EXECUTIVE & PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT

The National Employment Service announces a new and improved service for employers and personnel in executive and professional categories.

Our St. Jerome office is now the nerve center of a vast placement network servicing Montreal as well as the following localities: Lachute, Ste. Therese, Ste. Agathe and Mont-Laurier.

We have staffed our St. Jerome office with highly trained and experienced placement specialists. They will be at the service of management for the purpose of finding, selecting and referring highly qualified executive, managerial, professional and technical personnel. They will also devote their full efforts to the employment needs of job-seekers with these qualifications.

Another advantage of our centralization is that it will make the NES "Clearance" service more effective. "Clearance" simply means that if we cannot find the right local man for an employer's vacancy, we can use any or all of the country-wide chain of 200 NES offices to locate a properly qualified applicant.

We feel that the introduction of this new centralized Executive and Professional Service will give faster and better results for area residents, both employer and worker. Technological advance has resulted in the executive and professional worker assuming a more and more important place in the labour force. We are initiating this new service to keep abreast of this change, and to provide employers and workers in the area with the best possible service.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Vive la "bonne entente"!

THERE WAS some justified criticism of the Quebec Government display in the exhibition building at Lachute Fair — a well planned, well illuminated layout by Prudentia, sponsored by the Provincial Highway Safety Commission of the Department of Communications and Transport.

The message and objective of this display was good, but it lost its impact with at least half of the Quebec visitors, and with many of the considerable number from Ontario — since there was not a word of English in the display or accompanying text. One of the two gentlemen in attendance apparently could not understand English, let alone give explanations.

Assuming that the policy at Quebec is to progressively remove all English-speaking elements from official circles, it seems scarcely discreet or diplomatic to impress that fact in a public place like a County Fair. And from a government which so consistently urges bilingualism, this would have seemed like a good place to start, in a public exhibition.

Virtually and to the point, Quebec says dictatorially, "Speak French or else" — but this is surely an ill-chosen place to say it.

From business angles also, this is a plain waste of public money. Prudentia has something to sell, a message — but no salesman would start out in this province equipped with only one language.

We consider this gesture an affront to the bonne entente for which Argenteuil County holds favorable repute.

Private enterprise measures up

AT A SOCIAL function held June 9 in St. Jerome for district employees of Gatineau Power Company, Mr. G. Gordon Gale, president of the Company, took occasion to repeat some of his remarks made at the shareholders' annual meeting recently in Hull, Que. These observations, on consumer-price and service, ably vindicate the efficiency of well-operated investor-owned utilities, and we are pleased to publish them editorially, as an argument against any arbitrary nationalization of Quebec's private companies. . . . Said Mr. Gale:

"As you know, the rates we charge are approved by the Electricity and Gas Board of the Province of Quebec, and the average revenue per kilowatt-hour from the annual domestic customer, a record low price, becomes more impressive than ever when you realize that the 107,000 customers we serve are spread over an area of about 5,000 square miles. Our attractive rates, plus a high standard of service, account to some extent for a very high average use per annual domestic customer during the year.

"Each year, several million dollars are required to provide additional transmission lines, more powerful transformer stations, and miles of distribution circuits. These current expenditures comprise only a small part of the huge investment which has been made in the past for development of the natural resources and construction of our widespread system, which extends over great distances in the western part of Quebec. . . . The financing of these works has been accomplished through the sale of bonds and by funds provided by our 12,970 shareholders, many of whom are Quebec residents.

"As a balance-wheel or yardstick, there are other very definite advantages to the province and its residents in the co-existence of Investor-owned and Public-owned Utilities.

"In the light of the foregoing, the records of this Investor-owned Utility offset all arguments of proponents of nationalization."

Speaking of employee recreation (bowling), Mr. Gale stated: "It is my opinion that activities such as these keep us in a state of mental and physical well-being. This has been fully demonstrated not only in the service furnished to our clients, but also by the maintenance of a truly remarkable record of freedom from accidents. Unfortunately, accidents do occur, and I am sure that you will join me in offering our sincere sympathy to members of the family of Réal Beauchamp for their great loss." (Mr. Beauchamp, a Lachute townsman, was a recent fatality victim while working at Pine Hill.)

Tips for summertime

ANYONE WHO reads the vacation posters and travel stories is likely to get the notion that summer in Canada is a time of undiluted perfection.

For folks who don't particularly enjoy shovelling snow and navigating their car over icy roads, it's a definite improvement over winter.

But there's no escaping the fact that summer has its hazards and annoyances and it takes a little foresight and knowledge to keep them from interfering with the pleasures generally associated with the warm weather.

For one thing, the hay fever season is coming and that means discomfort for sufferers unfortunate enough to live in regions where ragweed pollen becomes airborne in August and September.

A lot of hay fever victims endure the annual miseries because they're afraid of going to the doctor for antihistamine shots. A specialist in allergies says that's being silly. From 10 to 20 shots taken in May, June and July can offset much if not all of the unpleasantness of hay fever later in the season.

Another hazard, particularly for those venturing into unfamiliar territory, is poison ivy. Remember, there's no cure for poison ivy so the best thing to do is learn what the three-leaved climbing plant looks like and simply avoid it. If you do happen to be exposed, the Health League of Canada says you should wash thoroughly several times with plenty of soap and hot water. You may be able to get at least some of the poison ivy off before it irritates the skin.

Food poisoning can spoil a summer vacation. Bacteria can multiply rapidly in food left out when the air is warm. Perhaps the best advice is: If in doubt throw it out.

To a lot of people, getting a suntan is one of the most important objects of summer holidays. Too often, they wind up with a painful sunburn. Suntan oils are fine but more important is realizing that you should start out by spending only 15 minutes in the sun the first day and gradually increasing exposure until you're nicely browned.

There's one fairly happy note for vacationers, especially those who are afraid of snake bite. The Canadian Amphibian and Reptile Conservation Society would like it known that there is only one kind of poisonous snake in Canada. It's the rattlesnake, and in addition to the fact that it's kind enough to announce its presence, there just aren't many around anymore. In fact, Manitoba, Quebec and the Maritimes are free of rattlers and there aren't any snakes at all in Newfoundland.

Viewpoints and perspectives

ENDLESS PROBLEM. — If a (municipal) council cuts services, the public grumbles; if it raises taxes the taxpayer grumbles. The poor mayor and aldermen are always caught in the revolving door.
— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

BUY CANADIAN. — Canadian manufacturers who are not yet making use of the "Buy Canadian" symbol can help the consumer and themselves by doing so. Since misuse of the symbol on products not made in Canada would constitute misleading advertising and as such be illegal, the consumer is likely to feel much more confident about those which prominently feature the symbol than about those which do not. — Gananoque (Ont.) Reporter

SAFETY ON WATER. — On waters all over the country boats with big engines are driven by people who hardly know which end comes first. One of the main causes of tragedy has been crowding far more people or horsepower than a small boat will carry safely. The government (should) make limitations on the license-plate legally binding.

Of Many Things
— By Ambrose Hills —

COUNTRY FUNERAL

I am blushing. Recently I wrote an article stating that Western hospitality is a myth. I said the East is more friendly. I claimed we might once have been a hospitable part of the country, but we'd now become cold, unfriendly, rather hard types, all too quick to squeeze the other fellow out of a traffic lineup or honk at him instead of helping him. We've developed a hand grasp stronger than our handshake, I said.

I still think that in many respects the bally-hoo about Western hospitality is a myth, but I must confess it still exists in many of the smaller towns. Over the week-end, I attended a country funeral. I saw a whole town go out of its way to help two boys bury their mother, although the boys and the mother had been away from the town for many years.

The mother had expressed a wish to be brought back to her home town for burial. The sons complied; but since they had been gone so long, they had not expected many flowers or many folks present at the ceremony. The church was packed, the flowers were plentiful, and afterwards the ladies of the church served tea. "I can understand," said one of the sons, "why she wanted to be brought home. My God, these are wonderful warm - hearted people."

It may be true that in a small town, everybody knows your business, you have no secrets. Nevertheless, when trouble comes, everybody knows about that, too, and they aren't slow to help out. There is nothing phoney about this helpfulness; it obviously comes right from the heart.

Every once in a while a man gets fed up with society. There seems to be much self-seeking, much artificial behaviour, and a powerful lot of selfishness. The newspaper headlines give the impression that it's a wicked, materialistic society.

Don't believe it. There are still a great number of genuine, outgoing, warm-hearted people. I suspect that the vast majority of them live in our country towns.

B OF M "PERSONAL CHEQUING SERVICE" CUTS BANKING COSTS IN PAYING BILLS

Paying for goods and services by personal cheque is a safe, convenient and inexpensive method of handling household and personal expenses. And the easiest and most economical way to do this is with a B of M personal chequing account, which reduces the cost of each cheque to only ten cents.

Instead of writing cheques against your savings account, or business-type current account, you can operate your own personal chequing account at a lower rate. With this type of personalized account, you are charged a set rate of only ten cents per cheque cashed, thus eliminating extra bookkeeping, making it possible for the bank to pass on the saving to you.

The B of M also provides you with quarterly statements instead of a passbook and makes no charge for deposits as in the case of a current account, where ten cents is charged for each entry. Why not take advantage of this service by visiting the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal. Paul Boivin, the accountant (or Miss Lulu Miller at the Ayersville Branch), will be glad to explain all the details and to help you open your personal chequing account if you decide you want one. It's the modern way to pay your bills, and your cancelled cheques, which are held by the B of M for twenty years, are always instantly available as perfect receipts for your budget records.

ALL ABOARD
With G. E. Mortimore

Real Estate signs have broken out like pustules on hundreds of square miles of Canada's richest farm lands.

Every field and garden patch south of the Arctic Circle has its price — but the price isn't on the sign. To find that out you must drive into the city and haggle with a man in a business suit.

As the city spills across the countryside, the old fertile earth is encased in cement and trimmed with grass and flower beds.

Farmers aren't selling out to the subdividers because of greed or laziness. Not entirely, at least. They are being squeezed out by high taxes.

When Farmer A sells his land for houses, there is a demand for schools, police and fire protection, to serve the new people.

Farmer B next door has to pay higher and higher taxes to provide these things. After a while the taxes go so high that he can't afford to keep farming.

Soon the bulldozers and the men with hammers and saws arrive, and the city swallows some more land.

Who cares? You may not, but your children and grandchildren will care. Their food will be more costly and they will be cheated of the sight of trees and fields.

The answer: Build the houses on less fertile ground; plan to save farmland by purchasing some of it directly for the people; lower taxes so that farmers are encouraged to stay on the land; make laws against the waste of good soil.

Who is going to save our fields? No government in power — in Ottawa or the provinces — Conservative, Liberal or Social Credit — has shown the courage and imagination to do anything.

Ottawa (CP) — The Queen Mother looked fresh and rested when she ended her four-day Ottawa visit. The visit was less formal than most royal tours, and the Queen Mother appeared particularly pleased with the day she spent touring Upper Canada Village and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

It was a lovely day for the outing, June 13, and the Queen Mother was relaxed throughout the excursion. She was delighted with Upper Canada Village, where she visited the pioneer tavern and three of the houses. She ducked into a souvenir shop and found it "lovely," but the girl employees were surprised speechless.

The crowds were not too large, and people had close views as the Queen Mother walked from building to building. She stopped to examine a team of oxen and talk to its driver. News photographers and amateur camera enthusiasts vied for vantage spots, and the lady-in-waiting, Lady Rankin, was among those busy with a camera — taking pictures for the Queen Mother herself.

At 62, the Queen Mother is still a lovely woman. Her skin is pale and she wears little makeup, except for a touch of bright red lipstick. She was costumed in pastel colors or white, and always wore pearls.

For the state dinner and reception at Government House she wore a magnificent white ball gown. On one day when she had three short engagements, she wore the same outfit — a beautiful white lace dress and coat ensemble, with an ostrich-plumed hat.

Salad Days

Nice warm days and cool crisp salads make a combination that's hard to beat. To help in the making of salads, the consumer section of the agriculture department offers these suggestions:

Wash all fresh fruits and vegetables thoroughly. Cut foods into medium-sized pieces so that they keep their identity.

Drain all foods well before adding the dressing, and toss salads with two forks to mix.

A salad gives a cook a fine opportunity to use her imagination and she shouldn't stop at the main ingredients. Season the salad imaginatively too. For example, try mint with fruit, peas, beets and onion; basil and marjoram with tomatoes; rosemary with cauliflower; and anise with apple.

The dressing for green and fruit salads should be added just before serving but the dressing for meat, potato and mixed vegetables should be added an hour before serving to allow the blending of flavors. Use just enough dressing to moisten.

Serve the salad thoroughly chilled and use cold dishes.

Cheese is a fine accompaniment for salad. Slices of process cheese might be served with fruit salads; thin strips of cheddar cheese on top of a tossed green salad; or grated cheese sprinkled on top of cole slaw, asparagus salad or tossed greens.

Supper Surprise Packets such as this one containing cheese-flavored rice, a portion of fish fillet and a slice of tomato, deliciously baked in foil, are fun to open at the table.

Supper surprise packets

Supper is fun for everyone when the main course comes to the table wrapped in individual foil packages. The children enjoy the element of surprise, and mother can have the afternoon free from meal preparations. All she need do is arrange the foods in their wrappings (hours ahead if she likes) then stow the packages in the refrigerator until time to cook. The food is cooked and served right in the foil and may be brought to the table unopened.

Fish is one food which cooks quickly and deliciously in foil. Encased in foil it literally steams in its own juices and none of the fine flavor is lost. For an adventure in good eating, try the following foil package combination recommended by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries.

Fillets in Foil

1 Pound frozen fish fillets, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup packaged precooked rice, ½ cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, 1 tomato, cut into 4 slices.

Thaw frozen fillets sufficiently to allow the block to be cut into 4 portions. Sprinkle with ¼ teaspoon salt. Thoroughly combine rice, water, and ½ teaspoon salt. Add cheese and toss lightly to mix. Have ready four 12-inch squares of aluminum foil, greased on the inside. Place 3 tablespoons of rice-cheese mixture in centre of each square. Top with a fillet portion and then a slice of tomato. Lightly sprinkle tomato slices with salt. Bring two edges of foil together over food and double fold to make a tight seal. Also double fold outer edges. Place packages on a baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (500°F.). Allow about 30 minutes cooking time if fish is frozen and 15 minutes if completely thawed. Makes 4 servings.

Every Child Needs Comfort and Care

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I know you'll both take good care of him and comfort him when he cries," the nurse said when she handed the baby to the young mother who was going home. The woman and her husband exchanged a proud and happy look.

"We'll do the best we can," the mother promised.

An infant requires a great deal of attention. In the old days when household help was easy to obtain, there was a saying, "A baby is one woman's full-time job." Today women have many time-saving electric helpers, stoves, washing machines, vacuum cleaners. All the same it is not easy to fit in all the duties necessary for a baby's routine — feeding, diapering, clothing, washing, into a homemaker's day, filled with preparing meals, washing dishes, laundering and cleaning.

Doctors usually recommend that a new mother have help in her home for a week or two when she brings her baby from the hospital. It takes a while for her to get her strength back and to become accustomed to looking after a baby. Often her sleep is broken at night, and if she has another woman to assist her in the day, she can get some needed rest while her helper looks after the baby and the home.

"I have yet to meet a mother who did not want to give her baby good care," an outstanding social worker said not long ago at a public gathering. Breast feeding seems to be returning in popularity in many areas and Nature's provision for nourishment and way of feeding a baby cannot be excelled. The comfort an infant feels as he is held in his mother's arms and fed adds greatly to his happiness and growth.

Sometimes, babies must be brought up in large institutions, where their physical wants are attended to, but the nurses and assistants have not time to give much individual attention to each child. It has been observed that these babies do not thrive as well as a baby receiving the tender loving care of a mother.

Care for the body and comfort for the soul are two needs of every small child — in fact they are essential for happiness all through life. Much has been done to educate mothers in necessary health procedures and also in accident prevention.

If comfort, or emotional support, is lacking in a child's provironment this is likely to produce a disturbed youngster. He is apt to become a problem to himself, his parents and society if he feels deeply rejected.

Sometimes the rebellious, mixed-up child comes from a broken home, where either death or divorce have removed a much-needed father from the daily life of the home. Adults who insist on divorce because they claim that their marriage is a failure should face the devastating effects on most boys and girls of the separation of their parents. Bickering between father and mother can poison the atmosphere too — but a child needs the love of both father and mother. He should not have his loyalties pulling him apart in two directions, because his parents live apart.

There are times of stress such as illness, when a child must have extra care and comfort. Every member of the family should do his part to help in these emergencies, when the extra demands on a mother's time and energy can be exhausting. She must be free to carry out the doctor's directions about the small patient. A mother will also want to plan for quiet entertainment and things which a convalescing child can do in bed.

On ordinary days small mishaps are apt to occur. A child falls off a tricycle and scrapes his knee, or trips on a toy, left on the stairs, and bumps his head. "We sometimes seem to go from crisis to crisis!" one mother of several children exclaimed, who was constantly kissing a small child's hurt to "make it well."

Mothers are given special resources of love and patience as they look after their children, reassure them, and send them out to play again. All our modern health techniques and new antibiotic drugs have not replaced the two things every child needs — Comfort and Care!

Chic reversible rain cape

This chic cotton ensemble illustrates several new fashion trends. The showerproof, reversible rain cape has plain blue poplin on one side, a gay chalky print on the other, and is lined with foam lamination for lightweight warmth. The plain colored sheath dress is trimmed with a printed sash to match.

Parents' full-time summer job

With schools closed for the summer, the safety of the child becomes the full-time responsibility of the parents, warns the National Safety League of Canada. Supervised and controlled recreation and play are urged during the vacation period, in the interest of accident prevention.

Boating and swimming are major accident situations. Swimming at areas neither guarded nor patrolled, ranks high among causes of child accidents and annually racks up a fearful death toll.

Water and traffic are major menaces during the summer.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN
when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance as protection for your family —as a good way to save money regularly —as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too. The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

Rotary evening replete with fun, winners of tug-of-war and events

The tug-of-war championship team from Canadian International Paper Co., won the title and cup for the third year in a row, last Thursday, Rotary Night, at the Lachute Fair. The large silver cup, to have the names of the team-members engraved, was presented by Rotary Club President Art Lapp.

Their final and third draw of the evening, against the second prize-winner, Canadian Industries team from Brownsburg, climaxed an evening of rugged sport, fun and entertainment, including clowns and a "trick" trained horse.

The wild cows for the milking contest seemed bent on proving they were wilder than the calves for the calf-catching contest, where some of the animals were almost impossible to tether.

These rough and tumble events were nicely balanced by the skill and dexterity of the young riders in the musical stalls and egg race.

With perfect summer weather the "show" commenced with C-I-L defeating the Cannon-Balls from Boyd's Lachute Express, in 1 minute 20 seconds.

Canadian International Paper Co. defeated Dominion Ayers Limited, and the "Farmers" team defeated Canadian Safety Fuse to conclude the first round of elimination draws. The C.S.F. "Spoutniks" put up such a good fight, 1 minute 26 seconds, that they earned a position for the second round.

In this, the Canadian Industries team from Brownsburg outpulled the "Farmers", and Canadian International Paper stalwarts won over the lighter Canadian Safety Fuse team.

Lady Riders

The young ladies of the district showed considerable skill in the Musical Stalls and Egg Race events. The first, an equestrian version of musical chairs, was won by Careen Heggie. The second, in which the mounted riders sped the length of the showring with an egg on a spoon, was won by Elizabeth Hay. These first-place winners receive a mounted statuette of a pony, with their names engraved. Marilyn McOuat was second in both events. She, and other contestants of lesser luck in gaining a stall, received cash awards, according to their position at elimination.

Midway in these events, "Bozo the Clown" and his two helpers drove into the ring with a puffing, simulated helicopter with large rotating, overhead propellor. After unravelling what seemed like miles of heavy rope, strong enough to tether a roaring bull, they brought forth a little piglet, tied to the end of the rope with a string. Bozo later tried his hand at the egg race — using an apparent nest egg, glued to the spoon.

The young ladies recieved a hearty round of applause. These included Lois Billingham, Sharon Lowe, Barbara Rose, Ann Gorman, Dawn McCaskill and Joan Campbell.

Clowns and Trained Horse

The Lachute area has always been proud of its fine horses — but few people have apparently been aware of the ability of at least one of these. "Topper", owned by Mr. Ernest Ayers and trained for many years by Rolland Lascelles, was kindly loaned to help the Rotary Club welfare cause, and was used by Bozo and his helpers to entertain the grandstand. "Topper" won the egg race easily, but was disqualified by Bozo's glued-on egg. He then tapped out the age of a six-year-old boy from the stands, and shook his head "No" to the questions of the incorrect colors suggested for his blue sweater. Only when "blue" was suggested did he wag his head in the affirmative. With large horse-spectacles and a fancy straw hat, other feats of intelligence displayed by this horse were — bowing to the crowd (on his knees), pushing a barrel, then a baby carriage with his nose, and finally skipping through a metal hoop held by his rider. The horse then lowered his posterior for a clown to take a running leap on his back. Meanwhile, oversize Bozo with his voluminous suit was having his troubles. Being helped on one side, he invariably kept on going, and fell off the other side. Topper meanwhile stood patiently waiting for the rider to mount.

The three clowns did the pail, water-tossing act, dousing each other, when the audience get the benefit of an ill-directed pailful and scream, only to find that their shower is confetti.

Later, during the milking contest, Bozo ran to the judges with a 5-gallon bottle filled with white liquid, claiming a volume-speed prize for milking.

Bozo and his helpers were Rotarians Tom Johnson, Bob Wyse and Bob Armstrong, who were shanghied for the job of filling the intervals between events by Stewart Jones, chairman for the evening show. The crowd seemed to appreciate their efforts.

Calf Catching Contest

For anyone who thinks that teenagers "ain't what they used to be", this event proved them completely wrong. The frisky young cattle supplied through the courtesy of North River Farms and the help of manager Bill Brass and his "boys", seemed like a very difficult way to "bring home the steak". (We didn't see Bozo or his helpers try this event.)

Logan Neilson won first prize and was presented with a gilded, walnut-mounted statuette of a calf, by Rotarian Andrew Hardie. All participants received cash awards, the amount proportioned to the time required to catch, bridle and lead their charges to the judges. Don Madden, Geo. Thorburn, Malcolm Witham, Willis Silverson and Jack Hume placed in that order. Other successful contestants were Ian and Jimmy Lees, Winston Dixon, Don McCaig, Howard Todd and Don Hadley.

Cow Milking Contest

These fine cattle from the same North River Farms showed plenty of action. The men, to prove they were gentlemen, gave the ladies (Mrs. Fred Stein, Miss Lulu Miller and Mrs. Ken Wilson) a head start, then to prove they were capable the men took top honors.

First in getting his "coke" bottle full of milk was Doug MacKenzie; then followed Lloyd Ayre, Carl Rodger, George Taylor, Cliff Berry, Guy Smith, John Rodger, Donald Barker and Don Bradley.

First Place Tug-of-War Team

The champions, enthusiastically encouraged by Manny Wilson and coached by Ernie MacRae, foreman of Harrington Forest Farm, weighed an average of 200.9 lbs. per man (including two reserves), and won their three pulls in 24 secs.; 20 secs.; and 1 minute 8 seconds, respectively.

What do they do to build their muscles? Howard MacLean, Jacques Huot, Maurice Clement, Gaetan Leonard, Carmel Lacoste and Raymond Emond are river drivers, the first at Harrington, the remainder at St. Jovite. Rolland Charron, mechanic, also of St. Jovite; Lucien Desjardins, lumber piler, and Lucien Lalonde, fireman, both at Calumet; Emile Laurin, bulldozer operator, Harrington.

Rotary Draw

The TV-radio-stereo combination was drawn for in front of the grandstand, by Mr. S. Patterson, president of the Agricultural Society. Jack MacKimmie, of Lachute, was the winner.

Blaze started in farm silo

Vankleek Hill — Fire completely destroyed the barn on the O'Reilly farm 4½ miles east of St. Eugene recently. The heavy loss is partly covered by insurance. The fire which started in the silo destroyed 40 tons of hay, 20 tons of feed grains. The modern stable and equipment built on modern specifications for dairy regulations was also completely destroyed. The residence built of brick was saved due to the efforts of the St. Eugene fire brigade under Chief Gabriel Lacelle.

The farm is owned by Rupert and Lorne O'Reilly and sister, Miss Isabelle O'Reilly.

Three armed thugs rob Arundel branch bank

Three masked men carrying revolvers entered the Arundel Branch of the Bank of Montreal around noon on Friday of last week, and, forcing manager D. P. Murray to open the safe, helped themselves to some $9,000.

The men left in a car, which on Sunday was recovered in the Lakeview area, near Arundel. The car had been stolen in Montreal.

Provincial police were notified, and road blocks were set up on all main roads leading away from Arundel, but to no avail.

Cpl. Maurice Dinel who headed the investigation, reported no shots were fired during the hold-up. The investigation is being continued by the Hold-Up Squad.

Libel suits taken by mayor of Ayersville

Mayor Gaetan Paquette of Ayersville took out warrants last week for the arrest of two village councillors, Messrs. Gaston Plamondon and Raymond Champagne. The two are presently free on bail of $500 each, and will appear in court of the Sessions of the Peace at St. Jerome, July 10 next.

The two citizens face a charge of defamatory libel against Mayor Paquette in connection with two affidavits produced, signed by Messrs. Clermont and Bergeron, in regard to Mayor Paquette's part in an asphalt paving contract at Ayersville last autumn.

Glimpses on civic affairs

At the corner of Hamford and Chatham Streets there is a 4-inch pipe from the Lachute watermains supplying water to a section of Ayersville. It was discovered last week that this feeder pipe had never been metered. At 15c per 1,000 gallons, Ayersville has saved a lot of money, if this is the case — and Lachute has lost accordingly.

Other tests made by the consulting engineers confirm their recent statement that water consumption in Greater Lachute is away above the average. To get a better idea of the quantity used by certain business establishments, it was decided to install meters in two such cases, Lowe Bros. Dairy and the I.G.A. Store.

The population census and property roll revision are going ahead in Lachute. One of the evaluators, J. Romeo Charron, having to quit the valuating team on doctor's orders, has been replaced by Philippe Desjardins. Others on the committee are Dave Campbell and Alcidas Laurin.

Three students have been appointed to take the census, Jean Chevrier, Denis Lefebvre and Ronald Ménard.

OFFICIAL COUNT OF ELECTION VOTES

An official count of ballots cast in the June 18 federal election was conducted Tuesday of this week at the headquarters of the District Returning Officer, Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion. The count is prescribed election procedure after preliminary counting at the polls and after return of the sealed boxes to the D.R.O. The result on Tuesday confirmed the election of Vincent Drouin, official Liberal candidate, as representative for the constituency. His majority was 1,184 votes over his nearest opponent. . . . Following is the official tabulation; the figures also include the military vote, by men of the armed services, and their wives, in bases beyond the Canadian boundaries:

Arnold (Confed.)	639
Desjardins (S.C.)	4,097
Drouin (Lib.)	11,761
Latour (Prog. Cons.)	10,577
Riley (Ind.)	695

There was a total of 390 rejected ballots, which indicates that 28,159 voters exercised their franchise, out of 34,232 eligible voters in the Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes riding.

The Returning Officer reports the military vote was divided in the following manner: Arnold 1, Desjardins 5, Drouin 119, Latour 27, Riley 1 (rejected 1).

Mr. Drouin, young lawyer and advocate of St. Eustache, was declared officially elected to the House of Commons — succeeding Notary J. O. Latour, Progressive Conservative, who was his most formidable adversary in the five-way election campaign.

R. Carrière installed Lions president for coming year, 1962-63

New officers and directors were installed at the Lions Club concluding meeting of the season — Royal Carrière taking over the reins of office from Col. Ernest Emmett as president for the 1962-63 club year.

Col. Emmett was warmly applauded for his energetic leadership during the past year, and another retiring officer, Keith W. Clarke, was given an ovation on his conclusion of seven years' service as secretary, a role to which he has devoted immeasurable time and effort. He will be succeeeded by Clifton Scott.

Other officers for the year are: 1st vice-pres., Keith W. Clarke, 2nd vice-pres., Roger Gravel, 3rd vice-pres., Clayton Robinson.

Treasurer, Gabriel Downing; Bulletin Editor, Raymond Church; Tail Twister, Ken Raymond; Lion Tamer, Harold Joyce.

Directors — O. Carrière, G. Valois, C. Lowe, P. Guenette, G. Besner, E. Mongeon, H. Lamarche, I. Gordon, J. Bourgoing.

Lion Guy Besner gave his report on Lions' operations at the Fair, which had proved financially worthwhile. He was complimented on the outcome of his efforts. It was felt that Lions' Night had been a credit to the club and to the annual fair.

Harold Joyce, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, was inducted into the club by Léopold Carrière.

President Ernest Emmett acknowledged a very acceptable gift from the County Council to complete and close the Easter Seals collection.

Lion Tony Zaplaski reported on affairs of the C.N.I.B., and thanked the club for sponsoring the Lachute Fair booth of handicrafts by sightless people.

Ian Gordon spoke with pride of Lion Roger Regimbal's participation in the Duke of Edinburgh's recent Commonwealth Conference, and of his appearance as host representative in a CBC television interview.

The Lions Club is again sponsoring the Calcutta sweepstakes at the Golf Club, on July 21-22, the proceeds being devoted to Lions' community funds.

Horace Lamarche, ex-president and former Deputy District Governor, then inducted the new officers — outlining their respective duties and enlisting the members' co-operation in each instance. President-elect Royal Carrière accepted the gavel from the retiring president, and pledged his efforts to a year of progress, and of financial stability comparable to the year just ended.

Arson indicated in farm fires at Harrington

Cpl. Maurice Dinel, officer in charge of the local Q.P.P. detachment, reports several suspects are being questioned in connection with two fires which occurred on the farm of Douglas MacTavish, Harrington.

The first fire occurred Saturday evening, June 16, and was discovered when Mr. MacTavish awoke to an explosion around 10.30 o'clock. In seeing his barn on fire, he wakened his family and all left the house and rushed to the nearby blaze. On returning to the house some time later, fire was discovered in the basement of the dwelling, but this was extinguished.

Mr. MacTavish reported he arose at six a.m. the following Monday, and a short time later discovered the house was on fire. He wakened his family and they managed to save some of the contents of the building, which burned to the ground.

Cpl. Dinel states there is no doubt both fires were the work of an arsonist. The loss was reported to be extensive.

Dollard heroes commemorated on Ross Farm

Hawkesbury — A symbolic cemetery was set up during the weekend for Adam Dollard des Ormeaux and his French and Indian comrades who died in the Battle of the Long Sault.

Members of the Ontario Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies set up 23 crosses inscribed with the names of those killed, and placed flowers around them.

The cemetery is on the Ross-Lavigne farm, believed (by some) to have been the site of the famous battle in which Dollard and his men fought a force of Iroquois for days before being slaughtered. No one knows the exact site of the last stand, but the ruins of an old fort were found on the farm in 1951 and some historians believe this was the battle place.

Edgar Tissot of Montreal, former vice-president of the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies said, "It is not without emotion that we honor today, the day of the feast of the patron saint of French-Canadians, the soil of a region that was the theatre of the epic combat of Dollard des Ormeaux, even if this is not the exact spot where the battle of the Long Sault was fought in 1660."

Visit to Argenteuil County by Quebec Museums Assocn.

Members of the Quebec Museums Association, composed of representatives of some 16 museums in the Montreal area, visited Argenteuil County last Saturday.

Mrs. George McGibbon, president of the Association, and her husband, entertained the visitors at noon at a delightful smorgasbord luncheon at their home, "Lazy River Ranch", at Dalesville. Their interesting home, originally built in 1840, is still surrounded by the original squared-log walls, which were covered outside only a few years ago with modern clapboard and attractively painted. Inside the logs are covered by attractive knotty pine panelling, in keeping with the pegged floor. The original huge fireplace, with its 1840 keystone, occupies a large part of one end. The sunny weather, the attractive view of the West River valley, the shining red and white of the farm buildings and home, against the fresh green of the countryside, were greatly enjoyed by the guests from the city.

After partaking of the delicious refreshments, the guests were entertained by La Marquise de Ruzé d'Effiat, who sang several Indian songs from those of the Queen Charlotte Islands, of the Haidas of British Columbia, and those of Caughnawaga in Quebec. La Marquise, aside from her beautiful vocal rendition of these examples of original Canadiana, is an enthusiastic researcher and recorder of the history of these various tribes, and has given television appearances on this subject.

On behalf of President A. F. Hanley of the Argenteuil Historical Society, an account was given of the history of the Argenteuil Museum building which was the second port of call on their tour. The barracks were originally built by the regiment of Royal Engineers for their accommodation while they were stationed at Carillon from 1819 to 1825, and were building the original series of locks between Carillon and Grenville to permit navigation past the Long Sault rapids of the Ottawa River. Later the larger freight boats of the Shepherd Line could not use the small locks, so freight was transferred to the Carillon and Grenville Railroad for rail transhipment to Grenville, and the old barracks then became the Carillon freight shed and railway depot.

In 1875 the construction of the newer and much larger set of locks permitted through-navigation from Montreal to Ottawa, which continued till about 1940, but eliminated the railway and the use of the old barracks as a freight shed.

Later the barracks were converted to use as a hostelry, operated as the Sovereign Hotel for a few years, then fell into disuse. Years later it was purchased by Mr. Felix Hungerbuhler of St. Andrews, and was presented by him to the Argenteuil Historical Society to serve as their museum building.

Before leaving the McGibbon home, on behalf of those present Mr. H. D. Farrabee, vice-president of the P.Q.M.A. and of the McGill University Museums, thanked Mr. and Mrs. McGibbon for their delightful hospitality and such attractive surroundings.

Man killed while loading logs

Réjean Molloy, a 20-year-old resident of St. Emile de Suffolk, Papineau County, was instantly killed on Friday afternoon of last week when he fell from a truck while loading logs at Green Lake, Lakeview (near Arundel).

The victim was identified by his brother, and pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Dr. Guerardeau, of Huberdeau.

Cpl. Maurice Dinel investigated the mishap and stated no inquest would be held.

Two Mountains provincial park open to public

A strip of bushland on the Lake of Two Mountains has been carved out by the Provincial Government as a public summer playground.

On the outskirts of the village of Oka, the picnic and camping area was opened Saturday by a delegation of officials led by Quebec Game and Fisheries Minister Gerard D. Levesque.

Called the Park of Two Mountains, it is the first sizeable strip of its kind to be opened in the Montreal area, and a crew of men has been working for the past month to be ready for the first of the summertime stream of nature-lovers.

Covering 825 acres, the parcel of land on Route 29 was bought for $400,000 last January from the Sulpician Fathers, who own large areas of land in the district and who are well-known for their cheese-making.

Carloads of people will be charged $1 per day for entry into the grounds and parking will be included in the charge.

So far the provincial workmen have carved seven 25-car parking lots out of the bush along the beach, but others will be made.

Picnic Tables

Twenty-five picnic tables have also been set up in the area, and others will be provided later.

When the picnic site is fully developed, says the Game and Fisheries Department, water fountains will be provided. Some rest rooms have already been set up.

At present a gravel road, running from Route 29, takes campers to the long stretch of sandy Lake of Two Mountains beach, and on either side are deep patches of natural bush — though wild underbrush has been cleared.

With Mr. Levesque at the opening were Oka Mayor Marcel Daoust; Noel Pominville, Mayor of Annonciation-Oka; and Vincent Drouin, newly-elected Liberal MP for Argenteuil-Tw. Mountains.

On exhibition all next week

From June 30 to July 8 (Sunday to Sunday, inclusive) the first exhibition of the Argenteuil Art Association will be held at the municipal hall in St. Andrews, open daily from 2.30 to 5 p.m.

Works featured will be studies in charcoal, gouache, pastel and wash, also collages, by adult pupils of Giuseppe Fiore; and plastic art and design by young pupils of Guy Racine, executed this past winter at the Centre d'Art.

The exhibition has been arranged by Jean Laforest, director of the Centre; the public are cordially invited.

Three killed in Hawkesb'y crash

Hawkesbury — Three persons were killed and one injured in a two-car crash Sunday on the Trans-Canada Highway, a few miles east of Hawkesbury.

Dead are Gilles Gloutnez, 33, of Rigaud, Fleurette Rozon, 15, of Chute à Blondeau and Marcel Sauvé, 20, of St. Eugene, Ont.

Rotary Park opened Saturday

The June 21 meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was highlighted by the induction of three new members. The ceremony was competently handled by Wes Freeland, and the hand of friendship was extended to Raymond Underhill, Walter Hlibchuk, and Bill Dimock.

Guest speaker for the evening was George Laing, general purchasing agent for Canadian Copper Refineries in Montreal. Mr. Laing's topic was Current Events, the most controversial at the moment being the recent Federal Election and Canada's Economy.

Jim Campbell expressed the vote of thanks on behalf of the club.

For the past three weeks, with the exception of Fair Week, the members have been busy at the Community Park in Brownsburg preparing it for the summer months ahead. The official opening was on Saturday, June 23. There is to be an attendant on duty daily from 1 to 6 p.m. Everyone is reminded to Play and Swim Safely, and parents are reminded that young children should be accompanied by adults.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Construction activity is apparent at two of the Protestant churches on Main Street. Work is well advanced on a long-planned hall adjoining the United Church, while the hall and Sunday School of the Presbyterian Church has been demolished for replacement by a bigger and better structure.

Corpus Christi parades were held in Ste. Anastasie and Immaculate Conception parishes last Thursday evening, the day of the religious feast, and in St. Julien parish on Sunday evening. In Lachute the destination of the parade was the home of Gaetan Cousineau on Lafleur Street, where impressive decorations had been arranged.

In "L'Argenteuil" this week is a plea for more kindly consideration to pedestrians. The wide expanse of Main Street, which otherwise is a great asset to the town, is nevertheless a challenge to pedestrians wishing to cross. White lines mark the footways at various intersections, but motorists could display more courtesy, by hesitating to allow time for folks to reach the sidewalk. . . . It might be your own grandmother; who knows?

A compliment this week to our City Fathers from the Legion columnist, who commends the neat attractiveness of the Memorial Park as a fitting scene for the monuments and mementos of the World Wars. . . . We may add a note concerning the rockery erected this spring, in which the word "Lachute" is spelled out in white letters. Too bad this is not closer to the highway and more easily visible to passers-by.

St. Jean Baptiste fete held at Richelieu Park

Several thousand townsfolk joined in the St. Jean Baptiste celebration held Saturday evening at the Richelieu Park on Paquin Avenue.

In a parade through the streets of town, commencing at La Ruche parking ground on Hamford St., the band of the Bishop Frenette School at St. Jerome provided lively music. Ayersville Air Cadet Squadron and other groups were in the procession, with many cars. Guests of honor were seated in open landaus up-front of the parade — Maurice Dumas, president of the diocesan and local groups of the St. Jean Baptiste Society; Mme Huguette Valois, local vice-president of the Society; Vincent Drouin, M.P.-elect, and Mme Drouin; W. M. Cottingham, and Mrs. Cottingham; Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C., and Mrs. Legault; Gaston Plamondon, pro-mayor of Ayersville, and Mme Plamondon.

At the Richelieu Park, Mr. Dumas and Mayor Legault were speakers. Folk-dancing was demonstrated by the Sarabande Troupe from St. Jerome, and Robert Marcil set light to a huge bonfire which was blessed by the Rev. Dalma Brisebois, parish priest of Ayersville. A fireworks display completed the celebrations.

Week's Epigram

It's a great thing to have a sense of humor. To go through life with no sense of the humorous and ridiculous is like riding a wagon without springs.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET HELD —

Two Guides of same Company received Gold Cords award

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — Guide Barbara Theedom and Guide Eileen Watchorn, daughters respectively of F/S and Mrs. L. H. R. Theedom, RCAF Station, Lac St. Denis, and of Mr. and Mrs. George Watchorn, Morin Heights, were presented with Gold Cord awards by the Cartier Area Commissioner, Mrs. W. S. D. Dart. The girls who won Guiding's highest award are members of the 1st Lac St. Denis Guide Company.

Mrs. Corrie Dobie, president of the Local Association, received the guests, and presented the two mothers with corsages. After Mrs. Dart, Cartier Area Commissioner, and Mrs. Mellish, Laurentian Division Commissioner, arrived, the Brownies went into their Fairy Ring and the Guides their Horseshoe, for the Gold Cord presentation. "One Gold Cord Guide is quite an achievement, but two in one company is indeed an honor," said Mrs. Dart, as she presented the cords. "Whether or not you continue in Guiding (as we hope you will), the skills and knowledge you have received as a Guide should always stand you in good stead and give you extra strength". And to the other members of the 1st Lac St. Denis Company, she cautioned, "Always be a Gold Cord Guide in your heart, even if you don't wear it on your sleeve."

Following this impressive ceremony a mother-and-daughter banquet was enjoyed. Two cakes decorated to mark the occasion were donated by Mrs. Watchorn and Mrs. Theedom, and served at the table. Decorations on the tables and in the lounge were in blue and yellow, the Guide colors. The head-table included guests from the Cartier Area and Laurentian Division, 13th Montreal Guide Company, Morin Heights, and the RCAF at Lac St. Denis; and the honored Guides with their parents. In a short talk Mrs. Dobie paid tribute to the Gold Cord Guides, Guides, Brownies, their leaders and especially the Local Association committee members, her liaison officers. Dinner was ably served by the fathers and members of the 1st Lac St. Denis Scout Troop.

After the banquet, the Brownies paid a tribute in song and verse to Barbara and Eileen. Following this, Guide Sheila Theedom, on behalf of the Guide Company, presented First Class pins on a golden circlet to be worn in or out of uniform by the holders of the Gold Cord. Mrs. Dobie presented two engraved plaques, as a gift from the Local Association.

To complete the evening five Brownies "flew-up" to Guides — Sylvia Olson, Nancy Larin, Sara Hovey, Micheline LeClair from RCAF Station, Lac St. Denis, and Carolyn DeBassecourt, of Morin Heights. The Guides then performed a candlelight service, followed by "Taps".

Both girls attend Morin Heights Intermediate School, Barbara in Grade 11, and Eileen in Grade 10. They have become good friends because of their interest in the Guide movement. Barbara plans to complete her education in Ontario for a teaching degree, while Eileen's plans include the nursing profession in Montreal. Barbara is active in the Student Council, editing the school's first yearbook, as well as making most of her own clothes. But, as Barbara points out, "being a Guide has been more wonderful to me, I think, than to most girls, because I move around so much. It is always difficult to make a new set of friends, but whenever I turned up at a new Guide company or camp, I found friendly smiles and a warm acceptance." Barbara began her Guide career in Ladysmith, B.C., in 1954, but it wasn't until 1958, when she had to take her guiding by correspondence, that she determined to go right to the top. She qualified for her All-Round Cord in November 1960 and her Gold Cord in May 1962, while with the 1st Lac St. Denis Company.

Eileen, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Watchorn, Morin Heights, was enrolled as a Brownie in the 1st Lac St. Denis Brownie Company in September 1954, the same year this group was formed and registered. Eileen won her Golden Hand and has the distinction of being the first Brownie to "fly-up" to the Girl Guides from the Lac St. Denis Brownie Pack. She was enrolled with the 1st Lac St. Denis Guide Company in November 1957 — and because she has such an outgoing and fun-loving nature, has camped with sister Guides from other Companies for all of her guiding summers. In 1960 she attended the Dominion Camp at Doe Lake, Ontario; both girls attended the Pioneer Camp at Pike River in August, 1961. Eileen received her All-Round Cord in June, 1960, which was presented by the now-retiring Laurentian Division Commissioner, Mrs. King, of Rosemere. She qualified for her Gold Cord also in May, 1962.

The name of Watchorn is known to all Guides who have ever camped at the Morin Heights Girl Guide Camp, for it is at Watchorn's Farm that most sister Guides take their hiking and cooking tests for the First Class Badge. It was only natural that Eileen should become interested in the Guide movement and do so well.

"Her sense of humor kills me!"

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

IT'S HERE AT LAST!

There are some smart people in this world. According to a recent Montreal paper, one W. H. Jarvis of Magdalen College, Oxford, says:

"Anyone who cares to construct a tunable oscillator covering long and short waves will find he has an effective device for jamming portable and other radios within earshot. The cost would not exceed two pounds and could be easily concealed. Only a few seconds of operation is needed to cause the offender's receiver to make a whistling noise and make the owner shut it off."

Although he claims that a device of this kind would probably be illegal, it would be less illegal than bopping the owner of a portable radio on the head, which is something that I have been longing to do for many months. Or gently brushing the offensive machine from his (or her) lap into the aisle of a bus and stamping on it. The reason that I am not in jail right now is because I have so far been able to control my natural instincts. So I'm going to find out how to make a pocket radio jammer.

It has always seemed incongruous to me that there is a law that prevents anyone from playing a musical instrument in a public place, or banging on an iron boiler with an iron rod. He would be arrested at once for disturbing the peace. But there has so far seemed to be nothing to prevent anyone from doing the same thing with one of these damnable devices called a transistor radio. I don't mind anyone who has the inclination to own one. But to tune it up in a public vehicle or at a bathing beach, is something else again. Let's agitate for a law to compel their owners to disturb their own households and not the long-suffering public of which I am a sensitive member.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

LOBSTER SEASON has opened in Nova Scotia, but fishermen at Schooner Pond are demanding the construction of a wharf. Visit of Quebec Museums Assocn.

The day's tour was concluded by a short trip to the observation tower of the Quebec Hydro Carillon dam construction project. It was a surprise to find that the construction is now so high that the upstream view is cut off. Possibly this platform, which has so well served the curious for the past couple of years, may be located, in the future, somewhere more or less in line with the dam, so that the outflow from the generators and the huge upper reservoir can both be seen.

Among those present were — Mr. and Mrs. George McGibbon; Mr. H. D. Farrabee, vice-pres. of the P.Q.M.A. and of the McGill Museums; Brothers F. Crète and J. P. Bernard, of Montreal; Mr. W. M. Celebration honors Weir couple, 50 years married

(Our District Correspondent)

Weir, Que. — The Arundel school auditorium was the scene of an interesting event on Saturday evening, June 16, when some 400 friends and relatives gathered to join in the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Loudin, of Weir, Que. — the celebration having been arranged by their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Loudin were married June 5, 1912, by the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh. They have two children, Arthur, of Suncook, N.H., and Gwyneth (Mrs. T. Gelston) and Claudette Loudin, Beryl and Carol Marrinzino; and five great-grandchildren, Joanne, Bruce and Brenda Sawers, and Lynda and Arlene Gelston.

An orchestra was in attendance for the evening, and square and modern dances were enjoyed by many. Delicious refreshments, including a tastefully decorated wedding cake, brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Attending from a distance were — Mrs. A. Larose, of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. U. Dion, of North Bay, Mr. and Mrs. H. Donig, of Swastika, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moncrieff, of Barrhead, Alta., and numerous others from Montreal, Brownsburg, Kilmar, Harrington and district.

EXECUTIVE & PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT

The National Employment Service announces a new and improved service for employers and personnel in executive and professional categories.

Our St. Jerome office is now the nerve center of a vast placement network servicing Montreal as well as the following localities: Lachute, Ste. Therese, Ste. Agathe and Mont-Laurier.

We have staffed our St. Jerome office with highly trained and experienced placement specialists. They will be at the service of management for the purpose of finding, selecting and referring highly qualified executive, managerial, professional and technical personnel. They will also devote their full efforts to the employment needs of job-seekers with these qualifications.

Another advantage of our centralization is that it will make the NES "Clearance" service more effective. "Clearance" simply means that if we cannot find the right local man for an employer's vacancy, we can use any or all of the country-wide chain of 200 NES offices to locate a properly qualified applicant.

We feel that the introduction of this new centralized Executive and Professional Service will give faster and better results for area residents, both employer and worker. Technological advance has resulted in the executive and professional worker assuming a more and more important place in the labour force. We are initiating this new service to keep abreast of this change, and to provide employers and workers in the area with the best possible service.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

A split personality?

THERE APPEARS to be a major difference of opinion within the Quebec cabinet, as to the road the province should take to attain still greater economic growth.

Some cabinet members, it seems, espouse a socialist philosophy of nationalization, and they would — if they could — subject significant positions of the province's economy to the control of government ownership.

Yet other cabinet ministers are equally intent on disowning any thought of state control, and are ardently promoting instead the philosophy of investor enterprise.

The Provincial Minister of Lands and Forests, Bona Arsenault, is one cabinet minister who falls into the latter category.

"The government has decided to avoid mixing politics into Quebec industry and to conform to the principle of free enterprise," he said in an address in Montreal recently. The minister went on to state that, at this stage in Quebec's development, foreign capital was indispensable to the province's economic growth and that it would be "imprudent, even unthinkable" to dispense with such an important contribution.

What Mr. Arsenault says makes good sense. One can only hope, therefore, that the Quebec cabinet will manage to overcome its split personality in regard to economic development. If it does not — and soon — Mr. Arsenault's worst fears may indeed be realized.

Making political capital of devaluated dollar

WITH THE EXCEPTION of some economists in and out of government service, some bankers and a few politicians, not many voters really understand the workings of foreign exchange and what is implied by the devaluation of the dollar—says the Fort Erie Letter-Review. As it came to pass during the election campaign, it naturally became something of an issue, but because most of the politicians did not understand it themselves, they were unable to explain it to the voters, and the voters for the most part were not greatly disturbed by the development. The effect that devaluation has had on the cost of living is minimal. Provincial sales taxes have probably raised the living costs of most people more than the dollar devaluation has done.

Example of faulty misunderstanding of the situation was furnished by Hon. Alvin Hamilton, minister of agriculture, when he told a Vancouver press conference that he favored a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar down to 90 cents, from the pegged rate of 92.5 cents. Finance Minister Donald Fleming almost immediately issued a statement to the effect that the 92.5-cent rate is definite and final. "We are determined to maintain the 92.5-cent rate against pressures of any sort," he said.

The present rate was established with the concurrence of the International Monetary Fund. The advantage of this is that the IMF is obligated to use its resources to maintain the exchange value of the Canadian dollar at approximately the figure decided upon in consultation with the Canadian government and the government will not have to take the responsibility of coping with vagaries of the exchange market.

About the only issue involved in the situation was whether the government had acted at the right time or might have acted sooner. A Liberal government would have been forced soon or late to take essentially the same action, given the same circumstances. What a socialist or Social Credit government might have done is a matter of unprofitable conjecture, as their economic theories are less understandable than exchange rates.

Honesty pays

THAT OLD TAUNT among children at play — "cheaters never prosper" — has an application for grownups, too.

It has a particular application for all those catering to tourists, when it's a question of giving the right premium to the visitor who is paying with U.S. dollars.

Now that the Canadian dollar is distinctly lower than the U.S. dollar on the exchange market, officials and organizations concerned with the tourist trade are emphasizing that Canadian resort operators, hotel managements and all connected with the tourist trade should give the visitor the proper value for the U.S. dollar.

The official pegged value is 92.5 cents Canadian.

The Canadian Tourist Association is anxious that all businesses dealing with tourists should make sure the U.S. visitor receives the correct premium.

"Millions of Americans coming to Canada this summer will be aware that their dollar is worth more in terms of Canadian dollars," says the association. "It is poor hospitality and poor business to short-change them."

A lot of inconvenience can be saved if the visitors themselves change their money into Canadian currency at bank branches, where they will always get the official prevailing rate. They won't all do this, of course, but the Canadian Government Travel Bureau will supply anyone with posters that urge the visitors to change their money at the bank.

The situation now is vastly different from a few years ago. Until its recent pegging, the Canadian dollar was a floating currency for 10 years, and it enjoyed a premium of anywhere from one to five cents over the U.S. dollar.

Reminiscing over those different times isn't much use at this period. There are a great many factors in the foreign exchange problem. The thing for the average person to remember is that, as always, honesty is the best policy.

Healthy old age

EVERY SO OFTEN a news story appears telling about someone who has reached his 100th birthday, still spry and enjoying life.

Just as often a middle-aged person will react to the story by saying he would never like to live that long.

The reason is fairly obvious. The person who reaches the century mark still retaining his health, is something of a rarity.

When the average person thinks of really old age, he associates it with illness and senility. This is perhaps partly the result of the fact that much of the research on ageing deals with people who are ill or who do become senile.

It's understandable, since it is necessary to make careful studies of this sort of person in order to find out what made him that way. This could in turn lead to measures to prevent such things from happening.

The recent meeting in Toronto of the American Psychiatric Association heard, however, of one doctor who based his studies on healthy persons over 65. The results are rather encouraging. . . .

Dr. Robert N. Butler, research psychiatrist with the U.S. National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md., made two points: if we can overcome the artery disease known as atherosclerosis, and if we can bring ourselves to appreciate the problems of old age, we're going to have more healthy, happy old people.

Atherosclerosis, which causes a clogging of the arteries and deprives the brain of blood, thus causing senility, is common among most old people. Dr. Butler found, however, that the healthy men he examined had little or no sign of it.

They showed mental flexibility and alertness. They were resourceful and optimistic. Their intellectual performance was actually better than in a group of young people also tested — although the old men were a little slower.

Some doctors believe that atherosclerosis is caused by eating too many animal fats. They still have a long way to go, however, before they succeed in winning the fight against it.

There is another factor, though, that Canadians can do something about. It was found that most of the healthy old men studied were slightly above average in education and financial status, most were living with their families, and many had their wives living.

We can do more to improve educational opportunities for the young, and to improve pension schemes so that on retirement we will have more interests in life and less reason for worrying about money. And while it's not possible to assure that both husband and wife will remain alive, their children should recognize their responsibility to provide a pleasant home for the ageing parent.

WHO'S GOING TO KNOCK IT OFF...?

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Can it be that some merchants have a secret hatred for money, and really want to get rid of the stuff?

If they like money, why do they hand it over so willingly to strangers, in exchange for worthless cheques?

I often have trouble cashing good cheques, because I look guilty. "What if he thinks I'm a crook?" I say to myself, and the idea causes me to hunch my shoulders furtively, glance around and sidle out of the shop before the boss calls the police.

Real bad-cheque artists are calm and self-assured. Storekeepers hand money over to them without a murmur of suspicion. That's the injustice of the world.

But police say merchants would be wise to refrain from cashing cheques for any strangers, whether confident or shy, without ironclad credentials.

(The shy ones may only be using the soft sell. How do you KNOW I'm not a crook, anyway?)

Even the most authentic-looking credentials may be forged or stolen, for that matter. Many a rubber cheque has been cashed on the strength of a stolen driver's license.

What's the answer? Don't cash any cheque at all? This is the safest way, but it may alienate some customers.

Police recommend a simple device: An ink pad. All the merchant has to do is to take the customer's thumb print or forefinger print and record it in a book along with the amount and description of the cheque.

If he doesn't like messy ink he can get the invisible kind, which shows up beneath an ultraviolet light.

The loss of money to cheque artists has reached such staggering totals in some big stores of the United States, that the owners have called in photography to the rescue.

They have a machine that automatically takes a picture of the cheque and the cheque-casher at the same time, and records this information forever.

Such gadgets cost money. But some merchants can't be bothered taking even the simplest precautions against forgery. In fact they seem to like giving money away — except when I want to cash a cheque. Sometimes I wish I had an honest face and a larcenous heart.

Ald. J. Speight's abattoir at the rear of his residence on Grace Street was robbed of 15 to 20 beef and calf skins. Crown Attorney Georges Héon enlisted the services of Cst. Alex Gervais, who did some effective sleuthing; the skins and the thief were traced to Montreal.

Arg'tl Historical Society and future of the Museum

(TO THE EDITOR)

Lachute, Que., June 22, 1962

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

We would appreciate an opportunity through the columns of your newspaper to set forth our present thoughts with regard to the future of the Carillon Barracks Museum, since it has been erroneously reported that we are in favor of "handing over" the Historical Society's museum collection to the Federal Government.

We would like to state emphatically that there is no basis for this report. We are not in favor of "handing over" the Society's museum collection to the Federal Government. On the contrary, we feel that much of this material represents a part of the precious historical heritage of this County and it is most important that it should remain here.

What we do feel at the present time is that the Society's museum at Carillon is in need of substantial improvement, both in organization and operation. There is a tremendous upsurge of interest in historical matters all across Canada at the present time. Here in the Province of Quebec, one of the centres of interest is going to be the area in the immediate vicinity of the Carillon Barracks Museum, where the Provincial Government has announced it plans to undertake an extensive park development, probably with an historical background. If our Museum is going to occupy its rightful position in this new environment and present the history of this area in acceptable form, considerable improvement and up-dating is required.

By preference, we would like to see this development carried out by the Society itself; however, there is no doubt that quite a big operation is involved. All things considered, we believe it would probably be in the best interests of all concerned, if the Society surrendered its lease of the building to the Federal Government and invited the Government to assume responsibility for the operation of the Museum. It would then be up to the Society to consider what it wanted to do with its collection of material. It would be our guess that if the Society decided to enter into negotiations with the Federal Government in this matter, there would be little difficulty in arriving at an arrangement suitable to both parties, and if the Society decided to donate all or part of its collection towards the new museum operation, the Society could also specify the terms and conditions of its donation. These should certainly include a provision that material relating to the history of this area should remain here and not be removed elsewhere.

We hope this will clarify our position in the matter of the Historical Society's museum collection. We also hope that our fellow citizens and members of the Historical Society will give some serious thought to the question of the Carillon Barracks Museum. The march of events in the Carillon area might require a decision at an early date, and we should be prepared for this eventuality.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) —

LACHUTE BURGLAR CLUB MEMBERSHIP FALLING OFF

Burglars just can't make a decent living in Lachute any more — not since local residents and businessmen started putting away their cash safely at nights and week-ends.

Much less money is being stowed away in "secret" hiding places — left around the house or in a till overnight. Instead, it goes where it should — to the bank; it's deposited in the Bank of Montreal's dual-type "around-the-clock" depository unit.

There, the cash is safely inside a special vault, away from burglars' adhesive fingers.

The B of M's depository unit allows both private and business customers to make deposits at any hour of the day or night, seven days a week, whether the bank is open or not. As well as being 'specially convenient when the bank is closed, the unit can be used in banking hours, too, if you're in a hurry.

Why not drop in and ask Don Hay, the manager, or one of his staff about this new service. It will take only a few minutes and you'll find the time spent worth the saving in peace of mind.

Rhymes – A Child's Birthright

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Nursery rhymes are a great source of pleasure and learning for a small child. A mother finds a minor mishap like a tumble quickly forgotten with the magic of the words:

Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty Dumpty had a great fall.

— or —

Jack and Jill went up the hill.
To fetch a pail of water.

Every family has its own way of enjoying things. The Browns may shout a nursery rhyme in unison. Mrs. Smith may stop suddenly half way through a rhyme and Junior will finish it quickly. Some children love to sing a rhyme to a tune of their own making.

Mother remembers the nursery rhymes and little verses which were familiar to her when she was a child. But she may discover in a nursery book, with attractive illustrations, rhymes which she never learned or additional verses to old favorites.

Another Verse

Not long ago we came across a second and third verse to the moralistic tale:

"There was a little girl who had a little curl,
Right in the middle of her forehead.
And when she was good, she was very, very good.
But when she was bad, she was horrid."

The last two verses describe her as standing on her head, in her tumble bed, screaming and yelling until her mother rushed upstairs, thinking it was the boy playing in the attic and "spanked her most emphatic!"

The little child goes from the delightful nonsense of nursery rhymes to verses for children by Robert Louis Stevenson, A. A. Milne, Eugene Field, Walter de la Mare and others. The absorption of a small boy in the changing shapes of his shadow has been cleverly told in Robert Louis Stevenson's "My Shadow". What child has not repeated with enthusiasm this poet's

"How do you like to go up
In a swing,
Up in the air so blue?"

Exciting Voyage

There are many poems of exciting voyages and two which every child should have the chance to hear are Edward Lear's "The Owl and the Pussycat" and Eugene Field's "Wynken, Blynken and Nod". The soothing rhythm as well as the story of this second poem make it particularly suitable for bed-time reading aloud.

Write Your Own

Some children may want to draw their own pictures to illustrate poems such as:

"Good morning, merry sun-
How did you wake so soon?"

Other youngsters who have a special flair for words may want to make up their own poems. Your son or daughter may not write verses which endure but you will be glad, in later years, that you kept a record of these first attempts at original expression.

Nursery rhymes are every child's birthright, but many families have not stumbled on the pleasure which poetry can give to a group or to an individual. Both rhymes and poems add to a child's vocabulary. On a rainy day or when a child is convalescing, a new nursery rhyme or book of poems is a great help. Here are three books librarians recommend: Lavender's Blue by Kathleen Lines, Ring o' Roses by Leslie Brook and Ding Dong Bell by Percy M. Young.

Sanitone cleaning wins approval

The Sanitone drycleaning process has just been awarded the Chatelaine Magazine "Seal of Approval" in Canada. L'Heureux Cleaners in Lachute, licensees of the Sanitone process here, are proud to note this award.

Significance of the Chatelaine "Seal of Approval" is explained by Miss Carol Taylor, of Chatelaine Magazine. "When you see a product bearing the Chatelaine Seal of Approval, you know that Chatelaine has thoroughly tested this product and has found that it is of good quality and fulfills all claims made for it," Miss Taylor says. Sanitone consumers know that definite standard of quality had to be established before the award could be obtained. They know, too, that that standard will have to be maintained constantly and consistently if the Chatelaine award is to be retained in the future.

Be ready for raspberries

(Consumer Section)

The cultivated red raspberry is one of the choicest and most delicately flavored of our small fruits. The berries are so perishable when fully ripe that they deteriorate rapidly if held for more than a day. So, for the few weeks raspberries last, you will have to be up and out early to market if you wish your fair share of them for eating, canning, freezing or jam-making while they are at their peak.

You will be an appreciated shopper if you select raspberries by sight alone. Look for bright, plump, firm and clean berries with a good, even rich color. For your own satisfaction pass up berries that are dull and soft looking or show traces of mold. Also avoid ones which have the caps still attached as these are unripe — ripe berries come off the bush without caps.

If raspberries must be held over for a day before they are used, store them in the refrigerator, spread out on a tray, so that the cool dry air will circulate around them and help prevent loss of freshness and flavor. Just before serving or using, give them a quick cleansing dip in very cold water. Lift out of the water with fingers and place on absorbent paper or a clean towel to dry quickly.

Raspberries served as a breakfast fruit or for a dessert with sweet cream or commercial sour cream are refreshing fare. If an extra luscious dessert is more to your fancy here are a few taste-tested ideas:

Raspberry Cream Puffs

6 Large cream puffs, 1 pint raspberries, 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ pint whipping cream, 3 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Use bought or freshly baked cream puffs. Cut off top of each puff with a sharp knife and scoop out any pieces of soft dough. Reserve a few berries for garnishing. Sprinkle sugar on remaining berries and let stand 10 to 15 minutes. Replace tops, dust with icing sugar and garnish with whole raspberries. 6 servings.

Raspberry Party Pie

One 9-inch baked pie shell, 2 cups raspberries, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, few grains salt, ¼ cup sugar, red food coloring (optional), 1½ pints vanilla ice cream.

Note: Since this dessert is a type of "Alaska", the finishing touches must be done just before serving so that the ice cream will stay firm.

Refrigerate baked pie shell until well chilled. Chill raspberries thoroughly. Make a meringue with the egg whites, cream of tartar, salt and sugar. Tint a delicate pink if desired. Working quickly, pile ice cream as evenly, as possible in pie shell. Sprinkle raspberries over ice cream. Cover entire surface with meringue, spreading it to touch crust all around. Set pie on a wooden board and bake in a very hot oven (450°F.) until lightly browned.

Raspberry Sponge Roll

¾ Cup pastry flour, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar, 4 egg whites, ¼ cup sugar, ½ pint whipping cream, 3 tablespoons sugar, 3 cups fresh raspberries, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Line bottom and sides of a 10½" x 15½" x 1" jelly roll pan with greased waxed paper, bringing the paper ½" above edges of pan.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks until light, then gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar. Add vanilla. Beat egg yolks until stiff but not dry, then gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar and continue beating until glossy. Fold yolk mixture into meringue. Add dry ingredients, about ¼ at a time, and gently fold in after each addition. Turn batter into pan, spreading it evenly to edges. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) until surface springs back when pressed lightly — 12 to 15 minutes.

Meanwhile generously dust a clean dish towel with icing sugar. When cake is done, immediately invert on towel and peel paper from cake. Quickly cut crisp edges from cake with a sharp knife and gently roll up cake from narrow end, rolling towel up in it. Leave until completely cold. Carefully unroll cake on towel.

Filling: Have the whipping cream, bowl and beaters well chilled. Whip cream until it stands in peaks. Fold in the sugar. Spread over the surface of the cake. Top with the 3 cups of fresh raspberries. Carefully re-roll cake by lifting towel with one hand while guiding roll with the other. Dust top of cake with more icing sugar and chill for 1 hour. 10 servings.

Raspberry Whip

2 Egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, 2 cups raspberries.

Add salt and lemon juice to egg whites and beat with a rotary beater until soft peaks form. Add sugar, a tablespoon at a time and continue beating until meringue is stiff and glossy. Fold in raspberries. Pile lightly into sherbert glasses and chill. 6 servings.

Leisure so rare in month of June

— By Corinne Nemy —

"And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
When Heaven tries earth
if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays."

It has been said that if the calendar year were to be projected from a movie camera, winter and "mock" spring would come out slow-motion, while June would be viewed at double speed! Perhaps it's because we look forward to June with such anticipation; and then, before we've even had a chance to savor the delights noted by James Russell Lowell in his poem, we find that June has disappeared for another year.

Certainly, June is such a busy month that it doesn't give us much time for contemplation. The Bureau of Statistics states that June is only the third most popular month for marriages; but the number of showers, teas and weddings we are asked to attend would seem to belie the figures. And one must not forget such traditional June events as graduations and club wind-ups. Turning to the prosaic, there is the summer cottage to refurbish and the summer wardrobe to get into shape. Ideally, these chores were attended to in April and May, but in practice, they usually become last-minute rush jobs!

Chewy Raisin Graham Brownies

The caramely raisin graham brownies are the jiffy kind that today's homemakers love. Combine California seedless raisins, chopped walnuts and crushed graham crackers with eggs and sugar. Add a pinch of salt and a few drops of vanilla then bake. They come from the oven chewy and soft inside with a crispy macaroon like top crust. For a dessert of distinction, cut while warm in big squares and top with frosty ice cream. For picnics or snacking, cut in smaller squares or bars.

RAISIN GRAHAM BROWNIES

½ cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup sugar
¾ cup California raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs
½ cup chopped walnuts

Beat eggs and beat in sugars. Stir in raisins and remaining ingredients. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 35 minutes. Cut while slightly warm. Makes 16 cookie squares or 9 dessert squares.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Edna Blakely
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Your shopping can be a real chore, if it's a question of getting a week's supplies at the supermarket.

Here are some tips on grocery shopping from a booklet produced by the federal health department's nutrition department.

First of all, use a shopping list so you won't forget any items.

Second, buy by grades when possible. Canned fruits and vegetables, eggs and beef, are among many graded items.

Third, read the labels on canned or packaged foods to make sure what you are buying.

There are six other reminders in this list, as follows:

1. Make sure you need what you buy, but don't forget you need a fair supply of staples for emergencies.

2. Buy only in amounts that can be stored properly.

3. Shop when the stores are least crowded, saving time and energy.

4. Shop in person when possible.

5. Be conscious of costs; a meal of weiners may be as expensive as a serving of roast beef or pork.

6. Have at least a fair idea of the number of servings in household units of common foods.

Quality Count

This booklet suggests that if appetites are average, you can count on three to four servings from one pound of most fruits. A pound of prunes gives 10 to 12 servings, a pound of potatoes, or most other vegetables, gives three to four servings.

A 20-ounce can of fruit, vegetables or juice gives four to five servings. A 24-ounce loaf of bread has 22 to 24 slices.

One pound of boneless meat or filleted fish should make four to five servings. A 4½ or five pound chicken gives six servings.

And three to four servings could be obtained from a half-pound of cottage cheese; five to six servings from one pound dried beans; 50 eight-ounce cups from one pound of coffee and 200 eight-ounce cups from one pound of tea.

Japan Home Help

About 70 Japanese firms have adopted home help services to aid families in which the mother, or the person responsible for the housekeeping, is unable to carry on.

The service is carried on by an enterprise which pays the worker. The working hours and conditions of work for the home helper are regulated by the labor standards law, and her work is limited to tasks necessary to ensure the normal life of the household.

The home helpers are required to take a month's training and they receive diplomas from the women's and minors' bureau. About 250 women aged 30 to 50, have completed this home-help course.

Diary of a Vagabond

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT INFORMS WOMEN

According to the Alberta Government's official bulletin, that province has just issued a booklet containing a summary of the various laws in force in Alberta of particular interest to women. The new publication explains women's legal rights, privileges and points of law in such matters as the franchise, citizenship, property and civil rights, matters relating to marriage, welfare of children, labor welfare, and criminal offences.

Officials point out that the new booklet is intended only as a guide to the general effect of the various laws and statutes of the province.

I cast my first vote in this foothills province, and can well remember the support my mother gave a crusade for the franchise for women staged by Emily Murphy, a Mrs. Edwards whose initials escape me, Nellie McClung and Mrs. R. R. Jamieson. At the time my mother was a member of the editorial staff of the Calgary Herald and wielded her writing ability in support of a cause she recognized as a forward step in the emancipation of Canadian women. Fortunately her editor was of the same opinion, for adverse publicity at the time could have prolonged the undertaking to provide voting privileges for females who had reached their majority.

I often wonder if western women realize what such privileges mean to their existence in a democracy and what meaning the word "freedom" has in our way of life. This was brought home to me the other day, when a bit of reading gave me an opportunity to peep behind the bamboo curtain.

The understanding of freedom as we know it has apparently little or no similar meaning for women in Communist-dominated Asia. They were recently honored on the occasion of "International Working Women's Day". The celebration did not include any awards for culinary skill, an accolade for the best homemaker, nor the honor of making the list of the 10 best dressed women of the year.

My source of information stated there were no statistics regarding the number of women who drive their own cars or how many labor-saving devices they own. There were some statistics, however, monitored over Radio Peking that should provide us with something to think about.

For example, North Korean women were called "mainstays at all fronts in the Flying Horse production movement". There are more than 510,000 North Korean women engaged in industrial production and they account for 35 per cent of the nation's industrial labor force.

More and more women are taking part in agricultural activities. The radio report said 140 women are chairmen of management committees of the agricultural co-operatives. Forty North Korean women have been awarded the title "Heroine of the Republic" or the title "Labor Heroine" for their efforts in boosting industrial production goals.

We Know How Too

This is reminiscent of our wartime effort. There seems room for gratitude that our women, if they so choose, can stay within the home harbor these days. Canadian women, in those hectic war years, proved they had a natural aptitude for industry. Today the majority are proving they make excellent homebodies. We have some institutions such as beauty contests, bakeoffs, an addiction for bingos and bridge, that might look pretty ridiculous to laboring Asian women when they get a chance (if ever) to peek through their bamboo curtain. But at least we have a provincial government in Canada interested enough in women's civil rights to produce a guide for any female who asks for one.

Of Many Things

EDITORIALS CHANGING

I notice a change in the way newspaper editorials are being written. It is a good change, long overdue. Competition has forced editors to brighten up, and if they can continue the new pace it may be that readers will return to them.

I have before me as I write this the editorial page of the Winnipeg Tribune. The lead editorial is captioned, SEE YOU LATER, ALLIGATOR. It is followed by another in which the editor puns, REIGN IN SPAIN. The next one calls on the Board of Broadcast Governors to set "a 55% limit on shouting, preferably with a Canadian accent, thus bringing acting up to a 45% content as replacement for the present 10 percent." Indeed, the Tribune, once fairly stodgy, is bright as a button now, yet makes good sense at the same time.

This brightening of the editorial corner started earlier in the weekly press. I think the weeklies are written in folksier language, and are easier and more pleasant reading. If I were a politician, I would hope that I had the weekly editor on my side. For some years now, editors of daily papers have had about as much influence on elections as Mickey Mouse. Partly because they were writing and sounding like stuffed shirts.

The people appreciate a lighter touch. If you want a law reformed, don't write long harangues about it; smash it with a good bright gag. The other day a father told me that his son had come to him, looking very intent and dedicated. "Father," said the boy, "I have decided on my career. I am going to go into public service work. I shall promote everything good and beautiful and true — good theatre, the Arts, conservation of our wild life .... things like that." The father said, "Son, I'm so pleased you have heard this call. Now tell me — which brewery are you going to work for?"

I venture to say that man's gag will do more to change ridiculous laws about liquor advertising than any learned campaign could do. It points up the highly funny, but tragic position in which some provinces find themselves. . . . where the chief sponsors of the beautiful and true are the breweries, who do not seem to be slightly interested in advertising and selling their beer!

I am happy to see that editors, even in the dailies, are starting to remove their celluloid collars and write free and easy. People will soon start to read them again, and that will be good for Canada.

Exciting biography in book 'Frank Buchman's Secret'

By Peter Howard
(Heinemann — $2.50)

Here is a book that will keep you up half the night. It is biography, it is history in the making, it is hope that this old world of ours can be saved from disaster. You read of prime ministers and dock workers, people of every race. You get to know them and you realize the immense possibilities for effective leadership that live in all of us.

Frank Buckman was a 20th Century revolutionary with a message as old as human nature. He believed that moral re-armament for every man in every nation was the answer for the world. During the course of his lifetime he created a force which has healed hostilities, settled bitter disputes, and successfully challenged Communism on many fronts. His secret — the ability to enlist men of every class, race and nation in what he believed to be the supreme task of this century — is revealed on every page of this new book. More than half a million copies are already in print in a dozen languages.

Peter Howard, whose books have sold over 4,000,000 copies, was for eight years top political columnist on Lord Beaverbrook's "Express" newspapers. He was closely associated with Dr. Buckman for the last twenty years, and tells in a delightful and tremendously warm manner of his fight for the minds of men, great and small, on five continents. There was the chambermaid who cleaned his room in the final days of his life, the leader of an Asian nation who learned from him the secret of how to read the motives of the men around him, a labor leader who on his death bed told a United States senator that the change Buckman had brought into his life had saved American industry 500 million dollars.

"Frank Buckman's Secret" is recommended reading for anyone who is concerned about the fate of his nation and the state of the world today. Anyone who opens and reads the book seriously is bound to be set thinking as never before about the part every man can play in the destiny of nations. It is a fresh breath of hope for those who have lost hope — a book for men of all faiths and for men of no faith.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

With the Spring Fair in the background for another year, activities will now level off to an even keel for the ensuing summer months. Legion participation in the Fair was most successful and much credit can be given to the three chairmen, Cdes. Demerse, Ogilvie and Smith, and their committees.

Further to the Legion Convention held early in the month at Halifax — Cde. C. Tucker informs us that legislation is going ahead on the Remembrance Stamp. As you know, Branch 70 sponsored the resolution that the Post Office Department issue a stamp each November to commemorate the fallen of three wars.

The regular monthly meeting was held in Memorial Hall last Wednesday, with Cde. President George Kirby in the chair. Business was routine and one new member was initiated into Branch 70, namely Miss Alice Eileen Taylor, from St. Andrews East.

The town memorial park, with its monuments, will always have a symbolic and sentimental value to Legionnaires. Passing by each morning, we see a beautiful sight. Sun shiny-bright on the dew-filled grass, flowers just opening to the day's brightness, everything clean and neat. The town fathers and the horticulturists in their employ are to be congratulated on keeping the town park so nice, thereby adding a beauty spot to the community.

A fish story (For the boys who went fishing in Northern Ontario a few weeks ago.) . . .

A fish registered at a piscatorial hotel located on the bottom of a lake. From the first he was a headache. He changed his room many times, never finding one that suited him. He constantly criticized the cuisine. He disparaged the service. Scarcely a day passed when a complaint of his did not reach the manager.

"Now look here," the manager, an elderly trout, said to him one morning. "It isn't usual for me to speak my mind to a guest. You are without doubt the biggest fault-finder we have ever had at this hotel."

The griping fish sighed. "Very probably," he said, "but I can't help it. I've simply got to find fault. You see, I'm a CARP".

Rock 'n Roll, the man said, is nothing more than hill-billy music with shoes on. And with that, the younger set are off like a Russian Rocket — right to the moon.

Speaking of the Russians, the Red Radio has been bragging again. It is now boasting that the Russians have invented a combination potato peeler and cocktail mixer. It can peel ¾ of a pound of spuds in three or four minutes, make a container of cocktails in 80 seconds, they proudly claim.

Just what the connection is between peeling spuds and mixing home brew, is not made clear. Canadian women have had such a gadget around for years. . . .

First year of Pharmacy course at Ottawa Univ.

Toronto — Provision of the first year of a pharmacy course this fall at the University of Ottawa is welcomed by the Ontario College of Pharmacy as encouraging a greater supply of graduate pharmacists in future.

(The College of Pharmacy ceased as a teaching college in 1953 when the University of Toronto established the Faculty of Pharmacy. The College functions now as the licensing and disciplinary body for Ontario pharmacists and is interested in the staffing and supervision of retail pharmacies.)

"Opening of this first year course at the University of Ottawa will be a boon to aspiring students in the Ottawa area," said P. T. Moisley, Registrar of the College. "It will bring the important first year of study closer to them and will eliminate for many, particularly those who live in Ottawa, the cost of travel and board in Toronto for the first year."

On successfully completing the first year at Ottawa, students will be admitted to the second year at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Pharmacy.

Last year at the University of Toronto, there were 103 students in first year pharmacy, five from Ottawa area; in 1960 total registration was 120 with one from Ottawa; in 1959, the figures were 96 and one; 1958, 80 and one and in 1957, 75 with two from Ottawa.

RARE VISITOR

Wallaceburg, Ont. (CP) — Three local bird-watchers spotted a Hudsonian godwit at a nearby marsh. Thought to be almost extinct some years ago, the bird appears to be increasing in numbers.

World shortage of veterinarians

The number of livestock units per veterinarian in developed countries varies from about 2,600 in Denmark to 5,400 in Canada, Sir Thomas Dalling, FAO consultant, told a recent FAO/WHO panel discussing the shortage of this professional class.

Buffaloes, horses and mules are the unofficial unit of livestock measurement used by FAO, based on the average care necessary for each animal. Under this scale cattle amount to 0.8 of a unit, poultry 0.01, sheep and goats 0.1 and pigs 0.2. The only animal exceeding the unit is the camel — 1.1.

The panel stressed the great loss and dangers, particularly in animal production, public health and trade, arising from inadequate veterinary services. Underdeveloped countries are in great need of these services.

Canada Department of Agriculture, which employs about 450 veterinarians, could use more if they were available, officials have often said.

Good progress in brucellosis control

Brucellosis certified areas in Canada now stand at 373 in the program launched in 1957 to eradicate the disease, according to the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Testing is being carried out in another 174 areas. To date, some 7.5 million cattle have been or are being dealt with under the program, with nearly five million of them in areas already certified.

For an area to qualify for certification, it must contain no more than one per cent of infected cattle distributed over no more than five per cent of all herds.

The certified areas by provinces — Prince Edward Island 3; Nova Scotia 18; New Brunswick 15; Quebec 16; Ontario 37; Manitoba 83; Saskatchewan 184; Alberta 7; British Columbia 9; Yukon 1.

So far in the program, 107,000 diseased animals have been killed and compensation of more than $7.5 million paid to owners.

World food bank for needy nations, 3-year experiment

The proposed multilateral world food bank to help needy nations is only a step away from being an accomplished fact.

Procedure for the operation of the "bank" — officially called the World Food Program — was drafted in Rome by a 20-nation intergovernmental committee.

Canada helped initiate the plan and, as a member of the intergovernmental committee, played an important role in drafting the rules of procedure.

The final step in getting the program rolling for a three-year experimental period is a Pledging Conference, and this will be called soon by the UN secretary-general and the director-general of FAO.

An objective of $100-million in contributions of cash, commodities and services has been set to cover the initial three years.

Canada has announced that it is prepared to contribute up to $5-million — with at least one-third in cash — to the initial objective. Several other countries, including Sweden, Ireland and the Netherlands, have said they will contribute.

If pledges are considered sufficient, both in amount and multilateral participation, the World Food Program will start setting up its administrative machinery. Operational headquarters will be in Rome.

Netherlands-born A. H. Boerma, an assistant director-general of FAO, is expected to head the food bank as executive director.

Spider mites on roses in commercial greenhouses can be controlled with emulsions of polybutenes.

In tests over a six-month summer period, these pests were controlled with little or no damage to the plants, reports Dr. R. W. Fisher of the research laboratory at Vineland Station, Ontario.

Polybutenes are synthetic petroleum products and are available in different viscosities. They must be mixed with an emulsifier before they can be used as sprays.

Two rather sticky polybutenes, H-35 and H-100, are recommended for young, non-bearing rose bushes. The less viscous L-100 is best for plants being cropped, since it is not so apt to leave a sticky residue on leaves and flowers.

The sprays caused the leaves on some susceptible rose bushes to yellow and drop prematurely. However, this occurred after an excessive number of sprayings and at very high greenhouse temperatures. When spraying was limited to keeping the mites under control, little or no damage was done to the rose bushes.

In addition to killing mites, the L-100 spray controlled mildew satisfactorily in the greenhouse during the summer. Outdoors this spray also controls leaf mold of tomatoes and powdery mildews.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

One of my nephews while rooting along the river bank came up with the carcass of a fish, that set me thinking. After a lot of checking, we came to the conclusion it had been a Brown Trout. About 4 lbs., as near as could be judged. Talking to a couple of fishermen and showing them this skeleton, it appears they had caught specimens somewhat similar — one of them down past the Black Ridge near the opening of Lac Emily. It is possible that these fish are Browns, as we know that Brown trout were stocked in the North River, even though not in our immediate vicinity. We are sure to get some of them around. And rule out the polluted water, too, as no fish will or can live in this type of water, and fish are very definitely caught in our river.

It is more than possible that, with the greater numbers fishing this water, some official catches will be taken — and then we will know definitely.

There are a lot of black squirrels in the district, and for anyone wanting to have them around, a few tips may be helpful. Don't move too fast, and don't rush things. These animals are very timid, and should not be rushed into anything. Please don't cage them, as no wild creature should ever be caged. When this happens, the animal seems to lose interest in living; it soon becomes dirty, and vicious.

A number of turtles can be seen around the roads, and some of them do get dried out. I picked one up the other day; getting it home, I poured water over it, and the poor thing was just about boiling over. When the water hit the carpace or shell, a slight hissing was heard, and small bubbles could be seen. After about half an hour in a small basin of water it was soon back in shape. I set it out in the field, and it was soon on its way. I wonder how many of you have ever REALLY taken a good look at these critters? The wonderful workmanship and colors amaze me, even in this most "drab" of Nature's specimens. Shades and colorings no artist could paint (not even you, Mr. Ed.). And even the most talented craftsman could never hope to duplicate the workmanship.

The Black Spot infestation is very bad in this area; it seems to be out of control in all the northern lakes, and this seems strange. All the waters around the eastern areas are supposed to be polluted, yet fish are taken right around Lake St. Louis that are free from this parasite. I heard that the loons, gulls, etc., were to blame for this, and it certainly seems possible. Numerous loons can be seen around, more than in previous years, and this may account for it. I know fish with this insect in them are supposed to be fit for consumption IF the fish are WELL cooked. But it is not a very appetizing thought, just thinking of them. It may be Nature's way of checking the growth of all coarse fish — but in the meantime all fish are suffering.

Most of the lakes in the district are showing signs of diseases. Lake Sir John is one of these. Some good fishing comes from this lake, with a good assortment of species — bass, perch, whitewish and the (rare) trout. This may be due to the sudden warming of the waters, or it may even be due to the clearing of underwater growth for the shelter of fish. It may be a dozen things, but until time is taken to see what is causing this, I'm afraid it will be "out" as a source of edible fish for some time. I do know the east end of this lake has become a real breeding ground or swamp for insects — the nice kind, black flies, mosquitoes, etc.!

This is not an outdoors subject by any means, but it is timely, I think. I have noticed a number of dogs tied up in yards this past while. Some of them have been in pretty uncomfortable shape, due to the warm weather and lack of shade or drinking water. I hope this was just an oversight on the part of the owners, and that it will be remedied. After all, your dog is one of the family. He doesn't ask to become attached to you, so it's up to you to look after him. A little love and affection never went amiss. Try it sometime.

A tip for the fisherman. Doré, in particular, are taking leeches and crayfish. Catching leeches is not easy, and there never are enough of them around to fill the supply. However, if you go to your butcher and get him to cut you some thin strips of liver, you will be surprised at the realistic substitute. You can keep them in a bottle with a little vinegar. They will not dry out too much this way, and can be used over and over again. One more thing, your hooks must be very sharp; this includes the barbs too. With a very sharp outfit, the hole in the liver will not be too large, so you will not throw it off if you are spinning.

Another thing, sharpen all your hooks, and clean them of rust. More action is spoiled by this than anything I know of in spinning.
