Referendum in two zones to amend building by-law

As a result of an impasse in applying the town building and zoning by-law, taxpayers of two particular zones are being called upon to vote, August 7-8, on certain amendments. The referendum is designed to authorize by-law amendment to permit the following construction :

(1) On the west side of Bellingham, from Main to Court Street, to a proximity of 1 foot from the street line.

(2) On the south side of Court Street, between Bellingham and Harriett, to a proximity of 2 feet from the street line.

This public vote, to circumvent differences between the Council and the Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church which arose due to misunderstanding, was decided upon at an adjourned Council session last Wednesday.

Mayor Fernand Legault presided. Before arrival at the above decision, Aldermen L. Armstrong and Dr. L. Middleton proposed a resolution (1) to permit the Presbyterian Church to continue their building according to plans deposited, while stipulating (2) that this Council ruling be not considered an exception or constitute a precedent. The resolution made note of the fact that, acting in good faith, but with misunderstanding on the part of both the church organization and the Council, the Presbyterians had already spent $13,000 on their building project.

Put to a vote, opinion was equally divided for and against this motion, and Mayor Legault cast a deciding vote to reject it.

Resolution for the holding of a referendum was proposed by Ald. Dr. J. P. Dorion and Ald. Stanley Church.

Ald. Lauréat Laurin was absent from the meeting.

Those Eligible to Vote

Those called upon to vote will be taxpayers in the following areas :

Zone D-1 — An area bounded on the west by a line 200 ft. west of Harriett Street; on the north by the North River; on the east by a line 100 feet west of Clyde Street; on the south by a line 100 feet north of Main Street — less those lots comprised in "the area lying between Clyde and Bellingham Streets and a line situated 100 feet north of Meikle".

Zone E-2 — A strip of land 100 feet deep on each side of Main Street, from Fraser Street to the North River.

Eligible taxpayers will vote on Tuesday and Wednesday next, August 7-8, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. D.S.T., to authorize or to refuse the privilege of the Council to amend the by-law as outlined in the opening paragraphs of this report.

New commander for Lac St. Denis Air Force base

A native of Ontario, W/C Dupuis received his formal education in that province and at the University of Ottawa. W/C Dupuis is a veteran of 23 years service with the RCAF, and was Commander of the famed "Alouette" heavy-bomber squadron during World War II.

He has held several staff positions during the post-war years and was Vice-Commandant of the College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, Que., from 1952 to 1954. Prior to his present post, W/C Dupuis served for four years with the Canadian Joint Staff at Washington, D.C.

W/C Dupuis is married and has taken up residence with his wife and seven children in the station married quarters.

Parishoners honor Rev. Canon C. Baugh, Lakefield cleric, on his 90th birthday

At the Louisa church hall last Sunday evening a gathering was held by parishioners in honor of the Rev. Canon Cyrus Baugh, who celebrated his 90th birthday on Thursday last, July 26.

Banquet at Louisa

A pleasant surprise was in store for Canon Baugh when he arrived at St. Aidan's Church Sunday evening, to find the united congregations of Shrewsbury, Dunany and Louisa in attendance.

After the service they were invited to attend a banquet in the church hall. A three-tiered birthday cake centred the head-table, at which Canon Baugh and Mrs. Baugh, Rural Dean C. R. Lang and Mrs. Lang, and the church wardens, were seated.

Following the supper, the Rev. Mr. Lang presented the Canon with a purse and a substantial sum of money. Little Miss Kathy Young, on behalf of the Sunday school, presented the Canon with a pen set, while Mrs. Lang presented Mrs. Baugh with a gold cross and chain.

Although completely taken by surprise the Canon thanked the people for their loyalty to him and to their church during his 27 years of service. Mrs. Baugh also expressed her thanks.

Wrote Harold Poitras, in a Montreal Star tribute last week:

Since Canon Cyrus W. P. Baugh was ordained 56 years ago, he has never taken a holiday and has missed preaching on only two Sundays — through illness. When asked: "Are you ever going to retire?" He replied, "Yes, when I get old enough."

Completes 28th year as incumbent of Louisa, Lakefield, Dunany and Shrewsbury

Canon C. W. P. Baugh

Some years ago, he was presented by his parishioners with a large, heavily cushioned armchair in recognition of his long service to the Church. He humorously suggested the chair should be put away until he "grew old".

Canon Baugh began his preaching career in London, Eng., came to Canada in 1905, and was ordained the following year with his brothers, the Rev. Horace G. L. Baugh and the Rev. William J. P. Baugh, who both went to serve in the Parish of Niagara.

One of his sons, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, is rector of Morin Heights. The Canon's great-grandfather retired from the pulpit at the age of 92, and Canon Baugh is now anxious to break the family record by remaining an active priest longer than any of his kinfolk.

Long Career

His career has included pastorates in Valleyfield, Park Extension, Arundel, Morin Heights and now he is completing his 28th year as pastor at Lakefield, Shrewsbury, Dunany and Louisa.

He attributes his long life to his devoted wife, who still plays the organ at his church services; also to his good health, daily naps and the many activities he has entered, especially in the field of education.

For many years he was known in the Laurentians as the "horse and buggy padre," because this was his only means of transportation. "Barney," his old horse, who ambled in good and bad weather from one parish to another with the regularity of a milk delivery horse, obviously knowing the route as well as his master, was retired two years ago.

Now, the Canon, who has a rare sense of humor, has an auto and a hired driver to get him around. "Sure it's faster, but how can a minister stop and chat with the parishioners like in the good old days, thinking always of how much it all costs," said the nonagenarian.

Times Have Changed

Recalling some of his past activities, he clearly remembers back in 1912 when he was primarily responsible for the building of the Church at Rockway Valley.

Canon Baugh said it cost $600 to build. "It would probably cost 10 times that amount to construct today," he added.

He said the land, a half-acre, was donated by one Richard Sinclair, a staunch Anglican; Montreal church authorities donated $200 and the parishioners provided $400.

With this money, he explained, he purchased 40 bags of cement for the foundations, paid a workman $4 to put in the foundation casings; used timber off the church property for construction purposes after it was milled, bought tongue-and-groove and clapboard for the inner and exterior walls and roof, and then organized a building "bee" to complete it with 11 stained glass windows. The pews, all straight backs, came from an Anglican church at Hudson Heights.

The pastor of St. George's Church at Rockway is now the Rev. Frank Bussell, a young clergyman who, like Canon Baugh in his younger days, has a number of charges in the Laurentians and who will officiate at the forthcoming 50th anniversary celebrations of the "little white-colored, clapboard church" in a region which over the years has dwindled from 50 to about a dozen families.

Church building committee urges importance of vote

The situation in regard to the Presbyterian Church building in Lachute, is here summarized by members of the Building Committee, who emphasize the importance of the public vote to be taken next Tuesday and Wednesday. Residents of two civic zones are affected, and the attention of these citizens is earnestly directed to the following review of events :

The Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church understood the Lachute Town Council had authorized the construction concerning which a referendum is to be held on August 7-8. Now the church is being saddled with delay and extra cost in completing its extension, which is to be used by several public service groups including the Girl Guides and the School for Retarded Children.

The proposed by-law amendment would permit completion of the extension in line with the present church building on Bellingham Street, and in line with other buildings now erected on Court Street opposite the High School.

Due to sub-soil conditions and the church's limited finances, neither a basement nor a second storey is feasible, so that maximum use must be made of the land area.

The following summary describes the steps taken by the church in seeking approval of the building plans :

Steps Summarized

In May 1961, Councillor Lauréat Laurin was shown plans of the proposed extension to the church. The walls of the extension were to be 9 inches from Bellingham and Court Streets property lines. He approved of what was proposed and, on the strength of this approval, an architect was employed to draw up plans and specifications.

Tenders were received from local and outside contractors. Mr. Blais, the Town Building Inspector, was approached regarding a request for a Building Permit. He advised that there was a by-law prohibiting building closer than 8 feet from the Bellingham property line and 12 feet from Court Street line.

Mayor F. Legault was contacted regarding a relaxation of the by-laws as an indebtedness of several thousand dollars had already been incurred. The Mayor stated that a referendum would have to be held in the ward in order to make a change in the by-laws. However, he advised waiting until the request could be looked into. As no word was received, a letter dated June 2, 1961, was sent to the Mayor asking for a relaxation from the by-laws. There was no reply to this letter, but Councillor Laurin asked our Building Committe to send in a completed Building Permit request, with plans and deposit. Accordingly, on July 28, 1961, the Building Permit request was delivered to the Secretary. On August 1, 7961, a letter was received from the Building Inspector turning down the request but stating that the request would be taken up at the next Council meeting, to be held August 2, 1961.

At the above Council meeting, Councillors Holt, Thibodeau and Laurin were appointed to meet the church Building Committee at the church, and it was the understanding of both parties at that meeting that they had been given authority to make a decision — as is evidenced by the fact that they subsequently signed their statement giving permission to build according to our church plans.

However, the church committee are now informed that the delegates of the Council had been instructed to report back to the Council. . . . The Council would appear to be remiss in not requesting the report of these delegates at any subsequent meetings; and when nothing was heard further, it was taken for granted that the matter was settled, particularly in view of the fact that the $15 deposit accompanying the

3 Argent'l cases of hog cholera

Quebec's hog cholera epidemic continues to show signs of abating and now "seems to be under control," Dr. Henri Troalen, federal district veterinarian, declared Monday.

Dr. Troalen said no new outbreaks of the disease have been reported since last Friday.

However, at least 11 premises in various sections of the province under quarantine still are suspected of harboring dieseased hogs.

Five of these are located in Vaudreuil and Soulanges Counties, three in Argenteuil, and three others in Nicolet and Arthabaska Counties.

One of the suspect premises in Vaudreuil contains upwards of 1,000 hogs and could swell the number of animals slaughtered considerably.

So far, 26 premises have been destroyed involving a total of 8,383 hogs.

In a similar epidemic last year, 408 premises were destroyed, containing 58,000 animals.

To make certain the epidemic doesn't reach last year's proportions, the sale of pigs for breeding purposes has been banned throughout the province.

Vice-chairman of fashion show

Mrs. Leonard Ayers, of Pine Hill, has been named vice-chairman of the "Fall Fashion Fantasy" and luncheon sponsored by the Canadian Cancer Society, to be held September 25 at 12.15 noon in the Salle Champlain of the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel. Fashions will be shown by the T. Eaton Co., of Montreal.

Order new trial for physician at Morin Heights

Quebec Court of Appeal judges on Monday ordered a new trial for Dr. Basil Duncan Robertson, a 61-year-old Morin Heights surgeon who was convicted and sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary for manslaughter last November.

A three-judge bench was unanimous in holding that the judge at St. Jerome may have improperly prejudiced the jury in his address at the close of the trial in connection with the death of a 33-year-old Montreal secretary in April, 1961.

It was the Crown's contention that the unmarried woman died in the doctor's office as a result of asphyxiation which occurred during an illegal operation.

Trial Judge Erred, Notes Declare

Mr. Justice George Montgomery, who wrote the notes to the court's judgment, found that the trial judge had erred principally in giving an impression to the jurymen that it was up to the accused to establish his version of the facts "beyond all reasonable doubt".

He said he was "struck by the efforts of the presiding judge to be perfectly fair, notwithstanding the fact that he had obviously made up his own mind that the appellant was guilty."

But he said there were "certain passages which, though doubtless not so intended, were likely improperly to influence the jury against the appellant."

Referring to the judge's unfortunate use of the phrase 'beyond all reasonable doubt' in a sense foreign to its legal implications, he said that "while many of these apparent errors in the charge are trivial, their cumulative effect is such that I cannot feel satisfied that they may not have had an improper influence on the jury."

For good traffic safety record

For a record of no fatal accidents on the Lachute thoroughfares in 1961, the Quebec Safety League and the Highway Safety Council awarded testimonial certificates to this town. 2-Hour parking effective on Main St. centre strip

New two-hour parking limits were imposed for the centre strip of Main Street last Monday morning, signs having been posted prominently to this effect.

Town Council solicits the cooperation of citizens and businessmen, so that enforcement of this ruling may not impose added duties upon the police force. For it is emphasized this measure is in the interests of better accommodation of the shopping public, to facilitate the congested condition of the street at peak hours, and generally for the benefit of all concerned.

As spokesman of the Police and Fire committee which deals with traffic matters, Commissioner L. Armstrong notes that there are 50 or 60 business proprietors or professional men who, intermittently or by habit, use this central strip for personal parking; it will be in their interests as much as any others, to co-operate in the new ruling — two-hour parking, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. The measure is a compromise with those who have agitated, for many years, to install parking meters. It is, in other words, a non-profit gesture which may react to the business advantage of many concerned.

Week's Epigram

Man's conscience does not prevent him sinning; it merely prevents him from enjoying his sin.

Filtration delayed — still pending

Date for the commencement of water filtration is still in abeyance. May, June and July have passed, and contrary to contract agreements and the contractors' reassurances, the plant is still not in operation.

Despite criticisms aimed at the Council and committeemen, the fact should be re-emphasized that they are in no way responsible for the delays.

An engineer of the firm of Francis Hankin expressed himself as optimistic that the plant would be in operation around this weekend.

The water is now practically up to full pressure — 86 lbs. per square inch measured at night during minimum consumption — and no trouble is anticipated from further leaks or breakages in the mains.

As a sidelight to this subject — Gaston Séguin, whose services were approved as operator of the new plant, at a salary of $62.50 a week, has declined the offer. Ald. François Charlebois informed the Council of this fact . . . It seems that Mr. Seguin had not applied for the job, anyway.

Art Association's 6th annual show members' works

The annual show of unjudged art works submitted by members of the Argenteuil Art Association, opened last Saturday and will continue until Sunday, August 5, from 2.30 to 5 p.m. daily, in the municipal hall at St. Andrews East.

This is the sixth annual members' exhibition, which provides interest both for amateur and professional contributors as well as for the art loving public, who find a revelation of unsuspected talent from local sources. . . In this respect the current show is no exception. There are over 40 pictures on display; the majority are landscape subjects, in oils, but others include life studies and abstracts, and various media such as gouache, pastels and charcoal. The pictures, generally of high quality, are submitted by artists from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews and Montreal.

The concluding exhibition of this season's series is set for August 25 to September 3. This will feature works by an accomplished local artist, Anne Harcourt (Mrs. C. Flemming Williams, of Cushing).

Fatal mishaps in district area

Napoleon Brunet, 53, of the St. Columban area, died recently when he was crushed by a tractor. Provincial Police reported Brunet was pulling rocks up a hill when the tractor overturned.

Lionel Menard, 38, of St. Andre Avellin, a carpenter, was killed on Tuesday of last week, when he fell from the roof of the Sacred Heart Seminary at Pointe-au-Chene.

Rockland, Ont. (CP) — Eric Adamson, 16, of Lachine, Que., was killed instantly in a traffic accident July 18 while hitch-hiking to Ottawa with a companion.

Police said the youth was struck by a car driven by Ignaz D'Ambrosio, 37, of Lachute, Que., while walking across Highway 17.

The boy's companion, Barry Thompson, 17, also of Lachine, was unhurt.

Carillon Park report expected in August

Quebec — The committee appointed to prepare plans for a public park at Carillon will report back to the provincial authorities this month. The committee, selected last March, includes Jean-Paul Gignac, a Hydro-Quebec commissioner; Eric Gaudreau, co-director on planning with the Department of Natural Resources; and Louis Lemieux, wildlife management officer of the Department of Game and Fisheries.

The committee enlisted the interest of various specialists on the project :

André Ouellet, of Montreal, has been consulted on the angle of public recreation, swimming, boating, and cultural activities.

Dr. Raymond Desrochers, also of Montreal, with a team of biologists, was asked to look into possibilities of a fishing haven and to provide facilities for this sport.

William Munro and members of the Canadian Wildlife Service were asked to exploit possibilities for fox-hunting in certain sections of the park.

Study by these experts was not limited strictly to Carillon and vicinity, but was designed to embrace a 75-mile stretch of territory along the Ottawa River from Carillon to Hull, Que. The centre of more immediate concern, however, is around Carillon and the Hydro-Quebec power development. Any project developing from the study would probably be entrusted to a commission.

Side-aspects of the Carillon park would be its attraction to Montrealers as a site for outings and picnics, with an eye to its family appeal; also as a commemoration of the Dollard epic, since there seems little possibility of reconstructing the palisade on any proven and authentic spot.

The park development is under initiative of the Hon. René Lévesque, minister of Natural Resources; the Hon. Gérard D. Levesque, minister of Game and Fisheries; and President J.-C. Lessard of Hydro-Quebec, who has pledged his collaboration.

'Belle Province' on '63 licenses

Quebec (CP) — Quebec license plates will be dressed up in 1963 with the inscription "La Belle Province" (the beautiful province), making them the first in North America with a motto in French, it was announced recently.

The new plates will be in green on a white background with the inscription on the bottom.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

Misrepresentation is supposed to be a serious offence, yet the Provincial Government carries on this practice openly. A couple of weeks ago, I had the opportunity of meeting a gentleman from the U.S. He and his family had started in Maine, fishing and camping all the way. Their intentions were to stay in the Quebec parks for a month. On hearing the story first, I had thought there might be a little hot air mixed in, but later, on hearing the evidence of a couple more cases, I decided something was definitely wrong.

* * *

Starting with all these cases, it was brought out very clearly that most of our supposed campsites and wonderful fishing areas for the camper were just so much camouflage. From Matane right to Percé, the conditions were terrible. The supposed camping areas were not marked, and on finding them, the people were treated as though they were dirt. In the case of Americans the premium WAS NOT paid on the American dollar and in some cases they were charged more than us Canadians. . . I will elaborate on this later in this column.

* * *

In the case of the Canadians, this is what happened. . . Wanting to fish the Matane River while camping, they asked for information on the subject. They were told it would cost them an additional $4 for this privilege and their fishing would be in public waters. Getting the permits, they headed for this supposed fishing water. They spent nearly all day looking for it, but never did find it. Closer looks at the Matane brought out the fact this river is just one big sewage and garbage disposal dump. Every farmhouse along the way had piles of junk thrown into the water — with tires, cans, bedsprings, etc., predominating.

In all the campsites they stopped at, this extra permit was necessary for any fishing. It states on the Parks Department permit that the permit gives the right to fish in the lakes and streams of the territory attached to their particular camp. In not one case was this allowed. At Port Daniel, for instance, it states that camping costs $1 dollar for a group. The speckled trout fishing is $3 per day, but (and this is the catch) a guide MUST be employed at $10 per day, plus his keep, etc. Also, in two cases, the use of their own boat was prohibited but rental boats were available.

* * *

Back to the Matane River: On the permit of the Matane Fishing Reserve it states a person is authorized to fish on the Matane River from Lot 6 on the range River Matane up to 300 yards below the Matane dam, also on Lots 1 and 2, Range 8, Matane Township. "Note: See posters along the river which show sections of the rivers that are not part of the Reserve". In all the travels of these groups, no such posters could be seen, and no information could be obtained on them, even from the wardens patrolling the river.

* * *

In Gaspesia Park the campers were not allowed to roam around, nor were they allowed to have pets. (More false information.) Pets are supposedly allowed, under control, but not allowed to run. That is only natural, but when pets are NOT allowed, then the persons involved take the necessary steps. One party crossed over and went into the Laurentide Park, thinking things wouldn't be so bad that far away from Gaspé. Poor thinking on their part — it was a racket right from the start. In the store that was open, even though there are not supposed to be stores in the parks, everything was doubled in price, and no premium on the American dollar. Of course, this was a common occurrence, as not even the stores along the way would pay the premium. The gas was jacked-up in price, and in one case the party stayed a little longer than they figured, they were able to see gas, marked at a high price, being marked down the next day for the local residents. . . .

To sum it all up, the parties involved swore they would never go back or come back to Quebec for their vacations. In the one case I have first-hand knowledge of, the visitors stated they were heading up into Ontario for Algonquin Park, where they had been going for a number of years.

* * *

My own feelings on all this are boiling. It would seem that no regulations are followed, except to make money for all concerned. Far too many petty rackets are being carried on, to the detriment of the tourist.

The parks and facilities are very poorly staffed, with very little training given to the custodians. Every hindrance is placed in the way of English-speaking persons presumably with the hope they will clear out of Quebec. . . The American tourist is no good, so take him for everything he has.

* * *

Comments on this state of affairs are superfluous — but I'll give them anyway. . . .

This all points to the fact that Quebec is the poorest-run province in Canada from the viewpoint of campers.

Patronage is STILL very rampant, even though we were told it would be a thing of the past.

Our wildlife resources are in danger of being squandered by all the lame-brains in governments today. If money can be made for the individual, then make it — who cares for the rest!

I think it is the duty of all citizens to know and think about it, then to ACT. A letter to a Member of Parliament should start the ball rolling, and if enough of them are received, then maybe something will be done to clear up the mess.

* * *

Some advice has been received from the Chamber of Commerce about the information bureau that was supposd to be opened in this district. This bureau is not going to be for our town but for another, yet there doesn't seem to be any action being taken to correct this. True, phone calls and personal visits have been made, with some airy promises put forth. You all know how well the information tent fulfilled its need last year. A grant was supposed to have been received from the Government for this, but to date, there has been nothing. The same applies to the literature for the bureau. Three not-too-creditable samples have been sent, with a promise of more to come. That promise was given goodness knows when. It would seem to me the Chamber of Commerce is very slow in matters like this. To my way of thinking not enough pressure has been brought to bear such as citizens' signatures on a brief, being sent to Quebec under registered mail should perhaps impress the authorities.

* * *

A few more cases of rabies have cropped up — or supposedly rabies. I was told of a squirrel that had all the earmarks of being rabid. However, it was killed, buried, but not checked; so its ailment could have been something else. I killed a groundhog the other day for the same reason. Not having anything with me to transport it, I could only bury the carcass.

* * *

A few good trout have been taken these past few weeks — in one case the bag was four Reds, the largest being just a shade over 3 lbs. Well colored and well fed, they were good fish. Bass are giving a lot of pleasure up in Louisa, with some excellent samples being taken. The odd grey is still showing up in that body of water, too. With the good rains of late, the creeks have all risen, and the fishing has improved accordingly. I have taken some excellent brookies. Perch in Lake Sir John have also been good; the few bass I have taken all seem to have been diseased, but that is quite general in the area. Whitefish have been giving good sport with the fly, and I hope this keeps up.

Parish of Arundel Special Service

A parish Communion will be held in the Church of St. George, Rockway Valley, on Sunday, August 5, at 11 a.m. The observance will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the building of this church; the celebrant will be the Rev. F. Bussell, with sermons by the Rev. Canon Baugh and the Rev. Des. Rowe of Shawville, Que. There will be a luncheon following, for members and associates of the parish.

Mrs. Findlay and family are spending the summer vacation in their cottage at Barkmere.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Barker and family, of Dollard Des Ormeaux, visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bulley over the week-end.

Mrs. Florence Graham and family are spending a vacation at Gaspé and New Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth spent last week-end visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Arthur Moore, in New Liskeard, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. David Forsyth, of Humber Summit, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Bennett.

Mrs. Kathleen Higginbotham is spending two weeks' vacation with Mr. and Mrs. E. Bulley.

The Grace Church Woman's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wenville Graham. Plans were completed for the food sale, and the remainder of the meeting was devoted to quilting.

Mr. Duncan Campbell, of Toronto, Mr. K. Kilpatrick and Mr. G. MacDonald, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Swail.

Mrs. G. Kilpatrick, Mille Isles, and Mrs. R. Copping, recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Swail.

Under auspices of the Grace Church Woman's Auxiliary, a successful food sale was held, proceeds being devoted to the work of the church. The committee wish to thank all who patronized the event, making it such a success.

Dance and Regatta

The Round Lake and Beaven Lake regatta committee held a successful dance in the school auditorium on Saturday evening, July 21. The following day they continued their activities with a successful regatta, held at Beaven Lake. The committee are to be congratulated on the splendid result of their efforts, which resulted in enjoyment to a large gathering which attended both events.

Brownie Picnic

On Saturday, July 28, a picnic was held for the Arundel Brownie Pack, at Morrison's Beach. There were 12 Brownies and one visitor present, with their leader, Brown Owl Mrs. Foster Ewart. Mrs. Greta Gordon was also supervising and Barbara Kille and Mrs. Lynn Lawrence supervised the swimming. Following the swimming, the girls cooked their own lunch over an open fire. A grand afternoon was spent by all.

Bride's brother officiates at Dalhousie, N.B.

MacCallum - MacKenzie

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. John's Presbyterian Church, Dalhousie, N.B., when Marion Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MacKenzie, became the bride of Grant Dwight, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. MacCallum, of Moncton. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. E. MacKenzie, B.A., B.D., assisted by the Rev. Robert D. Bhe, B.A. Baskets of white gladioli adorned the altar, and the guest pews were marked by wedding bells fastened with white bows. Mrs. Harry Hubert was organist, and Millard Mitchell was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown of nylon taffeta, the bodice fashioned of Chantilly lace. Still more lace was appliqued in finger-like panels on the billowing nylon organza overskirt. Her three-tiered veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white baby mums.

Mrs. Harold Barton was matron-of-honor, wearing a princess-style, street-length dress of romance blue nylon over taffeta, with matching accessories. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of lemon carnations. Mrs. Evelyn Bruun, the other attendant, wore a gown identical in style, in lemon with matching accessories, and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of romance blue carnations. The flower-girl, little Miss Heather MacKenzie, niece of the bride, wore white nylon over taffeta, with lace bodice, apron overskirt, and matching accessories, and carried a basket of white and yellow baby mums and lemon rosebuds.

The Rev. Russell Alcorn, B.A., B.D., of Antigonish, N.S., cousin of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Richard Burk, cousin of the bride, and Bruce Berry, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a hyacinth blue nylon lace sheath dress, white accessories, and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother wore a dress of amber gold peau-de-soi, cinnamon accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall. Mrs. H. W. MacKenzie, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. B. M. Berry, aunt of the groom, poured. The Rev. Robt. D. Bhe proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom appropriately responded. Later Mr. and Mrs. MacCallum left for a wedding trip to Great Britain and the Continent. For travelling the bride wore a figured aqua ensemble, white accessories and a white orchid corsage. On their return they will reside in Moncton, where the groom is on the staff of the High School.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Lachute, Que., Caribou, Maine, Lancaster, N.Y., Antigonish, N.S., Kansas City, Missouri, Duntroon, Ottawa, Kingston, Ont., Edmonton, Alta., and from Moncton, Campbellton, Fredericton, Saint John, St. Stephen, Edmundston and Chatham in New Brunswick.

Church committee urges importance of public vote

application for a permit was negociated but not refunded until 15 days ago.

The contract was awarded to Pollock & McGibbon Limited, who agreed to start work in June 1962.

A copy of the memorandum signed by the councillors was handed to the town secretary on June 8, advising that construction would start on June 11. Outside construction started June 19, and by July 4 the old building had been demolished, excavation made and reinforced footings completed.

On July 4, the Building Inspector asked for the Building Permit. He was told that construction was being carried on by authority from members of the Town Council. The next day he suggested that the contractor's foreman stop the work.

On July 12, 1962, the church was asked by letter from the Council to suspend work on the building until July 18, the day of the Council's adjourned meeting. Work has now been stopped since July 13, when fencing and other safety precautions were arranged.

Throughout the proceedings, the church has acted in good faith, and now finds its efforts to serve the community hampered by a confusion — which can only be resolved by an affirmative vote at the referendum on August 7-8.

Applications for scholarship close August 21

The Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada announced recently that applications are awaited for the Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship.

The scholarship is intended to promote interest in the science of chemistry among students in the secondary schools, and to assist a student of outstanding ability to continue his education at a university.

This year again, the Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship will have a value of $500, and has been made possible through contributions from:

Canadian Refractories Limited, Kilmar, Que., Canadian Safety Fuse Limited, Brownsburg, Que.; J. C. Wilson Limited, Lachute; Industrial Cellulose Research Limited, Hawkesbury, Ont.; and Norda Limited, Vankleek Hill, Ont.

Any student having completed Grade XI in Argenteuil County or Grade XII in Prescott County and intending to enter university this year is eligible for the scholarship.

Application forms can be obtained from the principals of the high schools in the two counties and from J. C. Witkamp, secretary of the Scholarship Committee, Box 1592, Hawkesbury, Ont. Completed forms must be returned before August 21, 1962. The winner of the scholarship will be announced early in September.

Bereaved

Sincere sympathy is expressed for the Rev. Father Peter Garland, of Hawkesbury, and his sister, Mrs. Edward Barron (Joan), in the loss of their father, the late Richard Garland of Grenville, formerly of Avoca.

District appeals for CNIB funds

The annual financial campaign for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is announced by Léopold Carrière, chairman for the Advisory Board for Argenteuil, for the following areas — Morin Heights and district (Mrs. Herman Dudene chairman); Arundel (Mrs. Harry Johnston); Grenville (Mr. John McGibbon); St. Andrews East (Mrs. R. R. Davidson); Wentworth South (Mr. Clarence Neill); Chatham (Tom Weir and Reginald Morrow).

Objective set for the campaign in Argenteuil is $6,000.

Mr. Carrière points out the need of assisting the Institute with funds is to primarily pay for services given to a number of sightless people in this County. At present, there are 50 sightless people in Argenteuil, an increase of three blind over last year. In addition, the cost in the field of Prevention is extremely high; the number of people who have benefitted from this service has increased and the results have been most encouraging. This has been made possible by your past support, and you are requested to assist the canvasser by giving information that may help the Institute, on any indigent cases who may need eye-care.

Please be generous when the canvasser calls!

Cushing

Mrs. Robert Underwood, of Scarborough, Ont., is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. John R. Graham, Monalea Road.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Croll, of Hudson, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller on Thursday. Saturday guests at the Fuller home were Mrs. R. Gywne and daughter, Sandra, of Cornwall, Ont., also Mrs. Roy Chambeers, of Hawkesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Thom returned from a pleasant visit with their son in Montreal.

Mrs. George Robinson and son, Douglas, of Montreal, were recent week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Canning. Mrs. Jas. Densmore and daughter, Mrs. E. Noble, visited the Canning home recently, also Mr. and Mrs. John Neville and daughter, Anne, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew.

Mrs. R. T. Holmes and daughter, Mrs. H. Bailey, and Miss Cama Bailey returned recently from a holiday at Trout Lake, Ont. Mr. Bailey was unfortunately detained because of an accident. His many friends in Cushing wish him a speedy recovery. Mr. and Mrs. R. Bailey, of Montreal West, were Saturday guests.

Recent guests at the Graham home were Mr. and Mrs. N. Blore, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. T. Kinchen and niece, Peggy and Mrs. Kinchen, Sr., of Russell, Ont.; Mrs. A. J. Scott and Miss Anna Pollock, of Lachute; and Mark Thompson, of Montreal. Local guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning.

Miss A. Niles, R.N., of St. Anne's Hospital, was a recent guest of Mrs. A. Taylor

Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Weir, of Baie d'Urfe, were at their summer home here on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Weir accompanied them back to Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Mrs. S. H. Beecher and Miss A. Eadie occupied "Lilac Lodge" for a long week-end.

Mrs. Geo. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. M. Burton, of Montreal, were here for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Buzzell, of Montreal, occupied their country home here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bryerton and children, of Rosemere, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller.

Mrs. Alan Hollingworth and children are spending the summer with Mrs. L. R. McGain at "Tynwald".

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks for the many well-wishes, cards, letters, gifts, flowers and visits received during my stay in hospital. All were greatly appreciated. — Foster Campbell. 1c

Summer school for United Church Women

Several ladies from this area are expected to enroll for the summer school for United Church Women, to be held at Macdonald College from August 14-17. There have been four previous summer schools for women of the United Church, but this will be the first undertaken by the new Montreal-Ottawa Conference United Church Women. Last year some 160 ladies lived at the College, while 75 others commuted from nearby areas. This year the ladies will be staying in Laird Hall, the new residence for women. The first joint summer school was held in 1958 at MacCauley Camp, and since that time there has been a steady increase in the numbers attending.

The theme this year will be "The Church, Its Task — Our Responsibility". The Dean of the summer school is Mrs. W. H. Spearman.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere thanks to friends for all the lovely cards, flowers and visits while I was a patient in hospital. I am also grateful for the many acts of kindness since my return home.

— Sincerely,
Mrs. Eleanor Whinfield.

Witnesses attend dist. convention in Quebec City

The biggest convention ever held in Quebec City by Jehovah's Witnesses, terminated with enthusiasm at Exhibition Park with an attendance of 2,103 persons. Mr. Laurier Saumur, convention manager, described it as their greatest success yet experienced in this province.

The Saturday morning session was marked by a discourse on the subject, "Baptism, a Courageous Step". This discourse was followed by the complete water immersion of 63 candidates, who varied in age from 12 to 83.

Highlighted at the assembly were special instructions regarding the extent to which a Christian must obey the laws of the land. Obviously, the audience paid close attention to such an important subject as submission to the "higher powers".

The assembly reached its climax with the public discourse Sunday afternoon on the subject: "Take Courage! God's Kingdom is at Hand!" delivered by Mr. Laurier Saumur. He recalled to mind the discouraging conditions that have existed since 1914. "We have been able to ascertain," he said, "that iniquity and violence have increased to the extent where they must surpass that existing in the time of Noah, when the flood brought an end to the world of that time." Mr. Saumur declared, "It is easy to say 'Take Courage'," but he added, "We live in a time when it is vital to be courageous — and the only way to arm oneself with courage is by a study of God's Word, the Bible."

The delegates commended the hospitality and kindness of the citizens of Quebec, the city officials, the police department, as well as the authorities and employees of the Exhibition Park. Speaking for Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. Saumur concluded, "I wish to express our warmest appreciation for this fine reception."

APPRECIATION

Mr. Stanley Hodge would like to thank all relatives and friends for their many visits, cards, flowers and gifts received during his lengthy stay in the Royal Victoria Hospital. 1p

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchin, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lees, Nancy, Susan and Patsy Lees, also Mr. Reg Beers, motored to Algonquin Park last week, also visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shubrick at Whitney, Ont.

Dr. Lyla Brown, Miss W. Stall and Mrs. Stall, of Montreal, were guests last Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jackson.

Mrs. Ruth Graham enjoyed a holiday in Greenwood, N.S. — accompanying her son, Lloyd and Mrs. Graham, who returned from their vacation tour to points in Ontario. Mrs. Graham, and Mrs. Lloyd Graham, returned by plane to Montreal last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. F. Giles and daughter, Sandra, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Morrison, of Harrington, motored to Halifax for a week's vacation, returning last Sunday.

Mrs. Lillian McFaul, of Ayers Cliff, spent a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Titman.

Gathering of Clan

On Sunday, July 15, a good number of the Hume Clan in Quebec motored to Marvelville, Ont., to join their Ontario cousins for their annual picnic get-together, which was attended by 80 guests.

This year a new branch of the Clan joined with the gathering, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Moore and granddaughter, little Miss Pamela Brown, of Baie d'Urfé — Mrs. Moore being a descendant of Margaret Hume and Daniel McIntyre, who lived at Hill Head many years ago.

Mrs. Ernest Laurin, accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Dion, Mrs. D. D. Mitchell and Miss Pat Mitchell, returned last week-end from a holiday on the Maine Coast.

Surprise Gathering on Silver Wedding Anniversary

About 20 relatives gathered for a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McOuat, Bethany Road, on Tuesday evening to greet them on their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple was presented with 25 silver dollars, and other gifts. Movies were shown of their wedding, and refreshments included a wedding cake baked by the same confectioner who had made the cake for their wedding day in Coaticook 25 years ago.

Well-wishers were present from St. Andrews, Lennoxville, Ayer's Cliff, Montreal, Pointe Claire and other parts. District friends join in extending their congratulations.

Christening

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kyle, of Lakefield, received the names James Austin in a christening ceremony recently in the Church of Saint Francis, St.-Sauveur. The rector, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, officiated, and godparents were June Young, Leonard Young and James Baker.

Mrs. Janet Hume is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Florence Kingsland and family, at Pointe Claire at present.

Mrs. A. Ogilvy is presently visiting her daughter, Jean, and her son, Jack, in New Brunswick.

Mrs. Laura Davis and Mrs. E. Robinson enjoyed a holiday at Old Orchard, Maine.

Miss Florence McGill, a prospective bride, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held by Mrs. Kenneth Tomalty of Brownsburg on July 17.

The Rev. Dr. Brown, of St. James United Church, Montreal, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jackson for the past two weeks, returning home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Richardson, and Miss Ruth Todd of Montreal, have been spending a vacation visiting the latter's brother, Mr. Ross Todd, in Kiosk, Ont. — Miss Ruth Todd intending to remain for a lengthier stay.

90th Birthday Party At Lakefield

The 90th birthday of the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh (subject of a story elsewhere in this newspaper) was celebrated with a family gathering at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Baugh in Lakefield last Saturday. Altogether 45 members of the family and grandchildren were present, coming from Sherbrooke, Sorel, Pte. Claire, Morin Heights and Lachute.

Entertained for Recent Bride

Those who entertained for Miss Annie Laurie Burk prior to her marriage were — Mrs. Verda Morrow, of Dalesville, at a miscellaneous shower; Miss Barbara Todd, of Lachute, at the presentation of an electric floor polisher and electric kettle; Miss Carol Tomalty and Miss Florence McGill, at a cup and saucer shower. The ladies of Lachute Baptist Church Mission Circle held a miscellaneous shower, and Mrs. Albert Dixon and Mrs. Ruby Kennedy entertained at a presentation of a chrome kitchen utility set.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McFaul, of Winter Park, Florida, were recently in Lachute and vicinity visiting relatives and renewing friendships, for a few days.

Mr. Geo. Brennian, of Cold Lake, Alta., has been visiting Mr. Wm. J. Deacon during the past week, and renewing old acquaintances around Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snow and son, Charlie, of Lennoxville, are spending their vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McOuat, Bethany Road.

Military Whist at Lakefield

Under auspices of Lakefield W.A., a military whist was held in Thompson's Hall last Wednesday evening. The winners were as follows:

First — Mr. and Mrs. M. Lees, Mr. Doug Thompson, Mr. I. Thomas.

Second — Mrs. R. Evans, Mr. F. Roberts, Mrs. L. Dawson, Mr. G. Ronald.

Consolation prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. W. Hamilton, Mrs. E. Strong and Miss E. Strong.

A novelty prize was won by Mrs. G. Gain, and numerous door prizes were also given out while refreshments were being served.

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh thanked all the players, also those who had helped with this event, special mention being given to Mr. Thompson for the use of the hall.

Mrs. Merlin Evans and daughter, Anne, are spending a few days visiting Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Duncan and family spent their vacation on a motor trip to the Pacific Coast, including Victoria. They also visited Calgary and viewed the Stampede, en route.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Tennant, of Howick, Que., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carole Bernice, to Mr. David W. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bates, of Lachute, Que. The marriage has been arranged to take place in Howick United Church on August 18.

To wed in mid-August

Miss Beverley R. Lester and Mr. Allan D. Johnston, whose engagement is announced. Miss Lester is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lester, of the Town of Mount Royal. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnston, of Brownsburg, Que. The wedding will take place on August 18, in Mount Royal United Church, Town of Mount Royal.

90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products —and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents.

Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.

ALWAYS LOOK TO IMPERIAL FOR THE BEST ESSO

Practically anywhere you look today you'll find things that are made from oil. Chemicals from petroleum are the building blocks for hundreds of things from plastic toys to automobile tires. Imperial Oil research chemists and technicians are working to develop more of these basic chemicals for Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons: but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all." — Edmund Burke

Never-ending inconsistency

"SEE CANADA for Variety" could be a popular slogan for this austerity vacation-time. And nowhere are tourists confronted with such variety as in the shopping hours in vogue from one community to another.

A Canadian Press survey of a dozen Ontario communities shows that the visitor would require several volumes of by-laws, and a lawyer to interpret them, in order to know whether he could buy razor blades or gasoline, eggs or an outboard motor when he reaches the next town.

In most places, he can count on finding almost all stores open between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Except that some shops in some places close about noon — if not all day — on Mondays or Wednesdays, and others are open later on Thursdays or Fridays or both. The Lord's Day Act in Ontario shuts almost all retail outlets on Sundays.

Store - closing hours have become major, often bitter, controversies with the revolution in retailing marked by the shopping centre and the discount department store.

Small merchants, alarmed by the competition posed by new shopping habits, resist trends to evening hours, which add to the small retailer's work week while giving an advantage to big competitors. The big merchants generally oppose early-closing days.

The Ontario Government last April changed the Municipal Act clauses referring to store-closing hours over the protests of several board of trade groups.

The new law gives municipal councils final control over store hours without being required to refer to the merchants involved. Previously, 75 per cent of a particular category of merchants could petition their council to establish uniform closing hours.

Small retailers far from finished

A REVOLUTION in shopping habits has been causing painful adjustments among small retail merchants and bitter controversy in many Canadian communities.

The spread of the shopping centre, with its chain retailers, department stores and discount houses, has disrupted traditional patterns of retail buying and selling.

The mass merchants depend largely on mobilized shoppers who pack a week's purchases into a one-shot excursion after the man of the family is home from work.

The small merchant, whose business depends on the more casual day-to-day shopping in the heart of the community, is alarmed by the invasion of the big retailers.

The friction caused by the competition often finds expression in disputes over store-closing times. The shopping centre merchant must keep his store open in the evening to make the most of excursion buying. Longer hours for the small merchant are likely to shorten his own life, or narrow his profit margin if he hires more staff. But the shopping centres have generally been successful in creating a trend toward a longer retailing week.

The small retailer can hardly be blamed for feeling overwhelmed by the competition of the shopping centre and the discount chain.

But while the mass-merchandising revolution is a fact, the little man and his small store are far from finished.

The big cities, where the shopping revolution was launched within the last decade, are showing signs of reaction against mass buying. The small merchant is cashing in on the change.

To the shopper jaded by the big, impersonal market place—with its emphasis on self-service, "impulse buying" and automation—the midtown specialty shop and the corner grocery store are beginning to seem as warm and satisfying as the country general store with sawdust on the floor and pot-belly stove in the corner.

It's that time of year

HAY FEVER, which is probably one of the most common of allergic diseases and the point of so many jokes, is the cause of a great deal of human suffering and economic loss. The office of the family physician, the out-patient department of the local hospital, to say nothing of sufferers who struggle bravely on at their office or who suffer in silence at home, are among the hundreds of thousands of Canadians plagued by hay fever.

However, the Health League points out that medical science is making great progress in the field of allergic complaints. As so happens in scientific research, the more the researchers learn about the mysterious processes by which the human body reacts to the presence of foreign substances, the broader is the field of investigation that opens up before them.

Thanks to research, doctors now know a lot more than they did only a few years ago about hay fever, or pollenosis. And they can do a lot for hay fever sufferers. They can in many cases offer excellent symptomatic relief —that is, they can prescribe drugs, mainly anti-histamines, which ease or cure entirely the sneezing, itching and "runny nose" that are the most annoying manifestations of hay fever. And, because of quite recent discoveries about how our defence mechanism against invading pollens works, or overworks, they can immunize many sufferers against their seasonal agony by a series of injections, which, in effect, put the mechanism into proper balance.

However, it remains a fact that if you look in an up-to-date medical textbook and turn to the section on "Hay fever, treatment of", you'll find that the first treatment recommended is simply "avoidance of the causative pollen". . . . No pollen, no hay fever. It's as simple as that.

There are two ways of avoiding pollen. One is to go where there is none. The other is to destroy the source of the pollen in the place where you live.

Tasty Arctic treat

THE ESKIMO calls it "Ilkalupik", meaning "special fish", and that's just what it is: the Arctic char, a relative of trout.

The sea-run Arctic char, which enters rivers to spawn, may reach a weight of 16 pounds. Its succulent flavor has made it a favorite in fine restaurants in the large cities of Canada and the U.S.

Now the Arctic char bids to rival Eskimo carvings as a source of income for the dwellers in the far noth. The federal government has helped establish several Arctic char fisheries in the last few years.

The Eskimos have been encouraged to organize fishing co-ops, and officials have guided them in the acquisition of fishing gear, freezing apparatus and other equipment necessary for commercial fishing.

The fishing season is short — about six weeks to the end of September — so most Eskimo fishermen take the whole family along to the fishing grounds where there is plenty of work for everyone.

Most of the catch is taken by using gill nets in river mouths. The landed fish are first gutted by the fishermen, then taken to the fishing camp where the women clean them thoroughly before they are frozen for shipment.

This product then is forwarded to hotels and restaurants in such cities as Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto; New York, Boston and Detroit.

Because of the extreme low temperatures of Arctic waters the char reproduces at a relatively slow rate. The federal fisheries department's magazine, Trade News, notes that an intensive fishing could jeopardize the chances of future generations of Eskimos benefitting from the fishery.

Therefore, catch limits are set for the char, based on the results of scientific studies conducted by the Arctic unit of the federal fisheries research board.

So this tasty fish, for generations known to few outside the Arctic, becomes an item in modern commerce.

LET'S GO BACK HOME TO GET AWAY FROM IT ALL!

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

LET THE REST OF THE WORLD GO BY

There is an old song which attracts me. In it, one builds a sweet little nest somewhere in the West, and lets the rest of the world go by.

The difficulty is that the rest of the world is often inclined to do just that.

Canadians live in what the business experts refer to as an exposed economy. If the rest of the world decides to go by, we lose about one-fifth of our business. We could get along without the business if we were willing to live a less affluent life. We are not. We all want more and insist on getting it. We aren't prepared to take a lower standard of living, so that sweet little nest idea, while it sounds attractive, isn't practical. As a nation, we are in somewhat the same position as a family that has established a high standard of living, but would like to lead a quieter life. They cannot have both. Most of them, when the chips are down, retain the high living standard and do without the quiet life.

If we wanted to simplify things for Canada, we could isolate ourselves from the world, but we would have to take our economic bumps for doing it. In 1940, the Rowell-Sirois report listed us as one of the least self-sufficient countries in the world. We may have improved our position a bit, but we're still very much at the mercy of the world.

We have been trying to have it both ways. We have been forming a sort of welfare state. Nice, but expensive. The cost has been added onto our goods and services. The rest of the world is not interested in paying for all our social services.

Canada has been helping other countries financially, and has been contributing rather heavily toward the defence of the Western world. We've been acting as if there were an unending economic boom for us to enjoy.

The government we elect cannot correct this situation by passing a set of laws. It can help by tightening its own belt, but that is about the limit of its ability. We must get busy ourselves, as citizens, businessmen, laborers, and farmers, to make Canada successful.

What has happened to Quebec Province?

(TO THE EDITOR)

What has happened to the Province of Quebec and its loyal French-Canadian people?

For many years this Province and its people enjoyed the greatest esteem and respect from all over the world, then all of a sudden, or during the past couple of years, a sad catastrophe has clouded the Province and its people, so much so that unfavorable editorials are appearing in hundreds of newspapers in many parts of the world on the question of Nationalization — Separatism — and Government probes.

As a result large investors very much hesitate coming to the Province of Quebec. Even the tourist trade, which was once one of the main industries of the Province, is now at a very low level.

Recently an editorial appeared in the Montreal Star (July 16) by the Montreal La Presse, strongly recommending that the Government stop their Nationalization theme song and Inquiries, and get down to business. By this it meant but one thing, concentrate on bringing more industries into the Province and thus eliminate, or at least reduce, the thousands of our people who are presently unemployed, chiefly in the rural parts, thereby re-establishing the high reputation Quebec Province has enjoyed for so many years.

Even the presently existing large industrial corporations of the Province very much hesitate expanding, chiefly because of this Nationalization and Separation theme song that has been going on for more than a year, and the continuous increase in personal and all-round taxes.

Most Provinces in Canada today are enjoying at least some prosperity, but the Province of Quebec in the past two years has sadly gone down in almost every respect, and we must not forget that Quebec and its population a few years ago enjoyed the highest esteem all over the world. Also, we must not forget, that the debt increase of the Province during the past couple of years, amounting to the astounding figure of close on to five hundred million dollars, has caused great hesitation on the part of the large industrial investor as to the advisability of establishing in the Province.

The situation is so serious (and noticeably getting worse) that the population of Quebec should give immediate thought as to what is going on and not continue to believe in charm promises, and costly investigations, carried out purely for political gain without accomplishing anything but destroying the reputation of the Province not only in Canada but all over the world. The truth of the whole matter is that too much time and money has been spent on useless inquiries and too little on the welfare of the Province and its people. More public work-roads and less grandeur, will help this sad situation.

—Observer.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Government and private business walking arm-in-arm? There is no need to be surprised at the idea. The two are not sworn enemies.

British Columbia's provincial government recently played host to the square-rigged ship Bounty, built in Nova Scotia as a replica of the old ship of that name. The Bounty's visit was a high-level publicity stunt for a movie.

B.C. paid part of the bill for the visit, and smoothed the way for it. In return, the province reaped world-wide publicity.

Whatever you think of Social Credit premier W. A. C. Bennett's politics (and I don't like them) bringing the Bounty to Victoria and Vancouver was a shrewd action.

Not long ago the B.C. government was given a big collection of Indian tools and art-objects, and of sketches and other material belonging to the famous painter Emily Carr.

A department store approached the government. "You have probably run out of budget money for this collection," the department store spokesman said. "It's lying around in boxes, isn't it?" It was.

"Allow us to catalogue and tidy up the Emily Carr material — an expensive job," the department store asked. "In return, we would like to show it in our store for a time."

The bargain was made. The taxpayer saved money. The department store had a show that attracted thousands of extra customers, and increased the store's prestige.

What was wrong with that?

Sometimes, when the government walks arm-in-arm with business, it's rather like the walk that the walrus and the carpenter took with the oysters, in "Alice in Wonderland."

When Premier Bennett and his dear old friend, the B.C. Electric Company, took a stroll together the government ate the company up. It's a publicly-owned utility now.

But there may be a former B.C. Electric shareholder reading this. Let's not talk about unpleasant things.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, a government enterprise, sells some commercial air time. CBC commercials usually are the slow dignified ones, rather than the screamers that set your teeth on edge.

Those seem to be the two secrets of co-operation between the government and private business: Make sure the taxpayers save money, and keep it dignified.

Without these two rules, government - business partnership might get out of control. We might see soap commercials on car license plates, and supermarket grocery specials advertised on postage stamps.

FISCAL FUTURE ROSY FOR POPSICLE SET, SAYS B of M

"You can shorten the odds on future happiness for your youngsters by getting them off to a good start financially and teaching them how important it is to save," says Don Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal.

A dollar bill is all you need to start a child's savings account at the B of M, "but this is a good beginning and a fine way to help develop habits of perseverance and self-reliance which will be so valuable in the future," he adds.

Mr. Hay continues, "His own personal savings account will be a strong encouragement to put away part of his weekly pocket-money towards buying something he really wants, whether it's a pair of skates or a college education. The habit of planning and thinking ahead is mighty important in the development of any youngster today. In fact, it's a pretty solid foundation on which to build tomorrow's adult."

Any member of the Lachute B of M staff will be delighted to help your boy or girl to open a savings account. Bring your child in soon.

If your child really wants something special — and it can be anything from a bicycle to a college education — having a personal savings account will be a strong encouragement for him to put away part of his weekly pocket-money towards the objective. And it will help him to develop the invaluable habit of saving.

Drop in soon to see Mr. Hay, or consult Miss Lulu Miller at the Ayersville branch, and ask for a free copy of the B of M's folder entitled, "How to teach your youngster to save." Parents everywhere are finding it helpful.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Your Child and Money

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

How does your child get the money he wants? By asking you for every cent at the time? From an allowance? From gifts from relatives? By earning it? Another vital question which you, as parents, should consider is — How does your child think of money? His ideas are bound to be colored to a great extent by your own attitude to it.

In your home, do mother and father work together as partners in planning the family budget? Are you 'good managers'? Do you spend too freely? Are you on the miserly side? Do you act as if money is the most important thing in life, which can buy everything you want? Or do you look on money as a tool to be used wisely in building a good life?

Your Child Learns About Money

Parents keep coins out of a baby's reach so he won't put coppers in his mouth. The danger of choking is too great. Money fascinates a small child. He likes to handle it, put it into little piles, pretend to count it! It is fun to "play store" with real money. But, being a child, he is apt to hide it in a "safe" place and forget where he put it, or lose it altogether.

Children soon learn that grown-ups attach special importance to money. Little Margaret finds her Mother's purse on the bureau one day and take the compact out to play with it. Mother is amused at the powder on her chin. The next day Margaret is delighted to find coppers to play with loose in Mother's purse. The child is surprised when Mother is annoyed and scolds her for touching her money!

Mother and Dad should not leave purses or change lying around the house. A small child, with no real idea of "stealing", may be used by an older neighbour's child to take this money out to him. Then they both can go on a spending spree, with the younger child warned not to "tell". Children realize at an early age that money gives them the power to purchase candy or ice cream or other desirable treats.

Children learn to handle money through their own experience. That is why an allowance, begun about the time a child starts to school, is so important. Even if it must be a small amount, five or ten cents a week, Junior should receive a definite sum at a certain time on a set day. He can do as he likes with this money. His allowance is not taken away as a punishment. Nor is he forced to set aside part of his money as saving.

When children are given an allowance they do not have to whine or bargain for spare cash. Parents should not pay money as a reward for good behaviour or high marks. Neither should a child be paid for home chores. These are part of the child's contribution to the family welfare. But payments can be made for extra tasks quite apart from regular home duties.

It is unreasonable to ask a child to save for technical training or a college education. A child discovers that he must deny himself the pleasures of buying one thing if he wants to save and have the fun of purchasing a different object.

Impatience is a youthful characteristic, and saving has to be for a goal which can be reached before too long. The total amount of savings for a young child should be small. The lesson of discipline is lost if the child "borrows" the additional sum he needs from an indulgent parent. "Pay as you go" is a sound slogan.

Some parents put such emphasis on money that children do not realize there are priceless things such as friendship and a good name which money cannot buy. The amount of money an individual inherits or accumulates is not the measure of his worth as a person. What he does with his money for others as well as for himself is what ocunts.

10th Conference Country Women

Mrs. Jas. Haggerty, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, will be heading the delegation going to the 10th Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, to be held October 2-11 of this year in Melbourne, Australia.

The party will fly from Vancouver on September 12, as a pre-conference tour has been arranged that will take the group to Japan, Hong Kong and the Philippines, on the way to Australia. Arrangements are being made to contact women's groups in those areas, some of whom are already constituent societies of ACWW while others will be sending observers to the Conference.

Mrs. E. J. Roylance, FWIC honorary president, is the tour conductor. She reports a group of around 35 is expected, with representatives from all provinces.

What's behind a quart of milk from dairy to the kitchen table?

What is behind the quart of milk we have on our kitchen table? Are we aware of the scientific research and experimentation that contributed to its production?

The Canada Department of Agriculture employs many scientists whose mission is to find ways of increasing the quality, wholesomeness and quality of milk, at the lowest cost. The work of these experts is of great importance not only to the Dairy Industry but to all Canadians. Although the fields in which these scientists are working are graced with titles which may seem strange to lay people, their work does concern us, and it might not be so complicated after all. Let us peek into their laboratories and see what they are doing.

For good milk first get a good cow! With this in mind, let us head for the Genetics Laboratories of the Animal Research Institute. Genetics is a science dealing with the production or development of living beings — in this case, dairy cattle.

Cows were first imported into Canada from France as far back as the 1600's; later on in the 1800's, from England, Scotland, the Channel Islands and Holland.

Through breeding and selection, the scientists have been working to develop cows which will transform feed into the highest quality and quantity of milk at the lowest possible cost. Well-bred cows indeed! So good that Canadian cows are now in demand for export to foreign countries.

Naturally these cows must be properly fed. This leads us:

— Into Nutrition, where studies are undertaken on summer and winter feed as well as on antibiotics and their effects on production;

— Into Biochemistry, the science of the chemical process in our well-bred cow;

— Into Physiology, the study of the functioning of its body. In these highly specialized fields, experts probe the methods by which feed is assimilated and processed by the animal into milk.

This brings us to the question of quality in milk. The higher the proportion of milk solids (proteins and fat) compared with the amount of natural water content, the better the food value of the milk. And when we add to this freedom from harmful bacteria or other contaminants, we have milk of high quality.

But it is not enough to obtain from the cow high quality milk; we must also be sure that this quality is carried to our table. Here again, we find scientists of the department working on methods of maintaining the high quality of the milk produced.

During our tour we also meet some of those specialists working on the improvement of equipment such as the milking machine. For instance, the rubber parts which receive the milk may, if they are porous, retain some particles of milk solids and thus spoil the quality of milk. The problem then has been to find a way to prevent porosity in those parts of the milker.

Proper cooling of the milk is important if quality is to be maintained and this subject is under study. In other well-equipped labs, radioactive fallout and its effects on milk have to be determined in order to protect the health of the consumer.

This glimpse at the research carried on gives us some idea of the scientific work involved in producing our country's milk flow. Perhaps it will make us more conscious of what lies behind the quart of milk we have on our kitchen table.

PARENTS' DUTY

Planned reading of good literature should be developed and fostered in the home by parents themselves. Salacious books will continue to be written, but an immature mind can, early in life, be introduced to the world of adventure and exciteement through good books.

Standards set forconsumer foods by Agric. Dairy Products Division

If you are like the average shopper, the refrigerated cheese counter of the corner grocery store or neighborhood supermarket is a fascinating spot with its tantalizing array of varieties.

Whether your preference runs to Canada's renowned cheddar cheese or one of the many varieties formerly imported and now "Made in Canada"—such as Ermite, Mozzarella, Gouda and Gruyere—you are assured of a wholesome, quality product whatever your choice.

The high quality of cheese and other dairy products, is the result of grading and inspection services carried out under terms of the Canada Dairy Products Act. These services plus that of merchandising, are performed by the Dairy Products Division of Canada Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Branch.

Grade names and standards have been prescribed for cheddar cheese, creamery butter and dry skimmed milk and these products must be graded before entering interprovincial or international trade. Dairy products for which grade names have not been established, such as ice cream, evaporated milk and process cheese, must meet standards for composition, packing and marking before being exported, imported or moved from one province to another.

Four grades have been established for cheddar cheese and creamery butter. Grading is based on a point system, with a maximum score of 100. To qualify for Canada First Grade, the cheese or butter must have a minimum score of 92 and not less that 39 out of a maximum 45 points for flavor.

Canada's output of quality cheddar is impressive. Of the 106 million pounds graded last year, 89.2 per cent was classified as first grade. Canadian cheddar today rates among the finest in the world and commands a substantial premium over competing products in the export market.

Of the 277.7 million pounds of creamery butter graded last year, 95.2 per cent was first grade.

Although over-shadowed by the output of cheddar cheese, 12.4 million pounds of cheese of other types were produced in Canada and 14.7 million pounds were imported. In both cases the cheese was subject to federal standards for composition, packing and marking.

Grading of dry skimmed milk was introduced in 1947 in the wake of a rapid expansion in the industry sparked by the demand overseas for dairy products during World War II and the immediate post-war period.

With a rapid expansion in production from 25.3 million pounds in 1939 to 54.2 million pounds in 1947, a wide variation developed in the quality and grading was established to help the Canadian product compete successfully in overseas markets. Canada was the first country to adopt compulsory grading of this product.

Production of dry skimmed milk reached 213 milion pounds last year, with more than 132 million pounds being graded. Of the latter amount 119 million pounds were first grade. Two grades have been set for the product.

Typical of the other dairy products for which rigid standards have been set is that old favorite — ice cream.

Federal regulations stipulate that ice cream must contain at least 10 per cent by weight of milk fat; at least 36 per cent by weight of food solids; not less than one and eight-tenth pounds of food solids per gallon and of this amount one-half pound must be milk fat; there must not be more than one-half of one per cent by weight of stabilizer and finally, the ice cream must not contain any fat or oil other than that of milk.

Aside from its grading and inspection services carried out by a field staff of 80, the Dairy Products Division serves the industry through its merchandising section.

To this section goes the job of buying, storing and selling dairy products for the Agricultural Stabilization Board and its volume of business last year was in the neighborhood of $100 million.

The merchandising section provides the dairy industry with general information on domestic and export markets and, in conjunction with the Economics Division, prepares a weekly market report which is distributed across Canada, in the United States and in Europe.

Another facet of the operation of the Dairy Products Division is the administration of the Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act passed in 1939 to spur production of better quality cheese. The act provides a premium for top quality cheese and also provides federal assistance to factory owners wishing to improve their premises or to amalgamate with other cheese factories.

The Dairy Products Division traces its roots back to 1890 when the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch came into being. For a number of years the Branch included units that were to become separate divisions in the Production and Marketing Branch—Fruit and Vegetable, Livestock, and Poultry.

As the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, it organized and operated Canada's first dairy school in 1892 at St. Hyacinthe, Quebec; inaugurated the use of railway refrigerator cars for butter transport in 1895 and the same year helped to organize and operate creameries in the Northwest Territories. In 1897 the Branch promoted the installation of refrigerating equipment in trans-Atlantic vessels to facilitate exports of butter.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Interest in cooking chicken on the outdoor grill increases by leaps and bounds during the summer months. However, with added interest in barbecued chicken come questions from the homemakers and other "summertime chefs" of the household.

The Poultry Products Institute of Canada was asked by a perplexed cook-out enthusiast why her chicken always burned before being cooked when barbecued on a revolving spit on an outdoor grill.

After much questioning about the intensity of fire, distance of bird from the heat and other pertinent points, it was discovered the fire was built out to the front as well as the back of the barbecue and no pan was placed to catch the drippings. Consequently the fire kept flaming up and burning rather than cooking the chicken.

Build the fire from the middle toward the back of the grill and place a drip pan or piece of foil shaped into a long narrow pan toward the front of the grill, so that as the chicken rotates, the drippings will be caught and not fall into the fire.

The chicken should then be cooked to a beautiful brown without scorching.

Many homemakers are under the false impression that when chicken is cooked on a garden grill or rotisserie, cooking time is reduced from that of roasting in the oven.

Such is not the case, and the usual time allowed for oven roasting is necessary for outdoor cooking.

Losing Weight

Although the energy used by four people sitting around a table for an hour will produce enough heat to boil a gallon of water, just sitting pretty will not help you lose weight!

Standing uses more energy than sitting, and light activity while you stand can count as a weight watcher.

Only seven minutes more of standing each day while you work at some light task can result in a weight loss of a pound in a year. That's at least 10 pounds in 10 years.

To figure more attractively, you can lose 10 pounds or more in a year without cutting calories by walking a mile each day.

Walking to and from work might easily do the trick.

Restless Sleep

Researchers at the University of Illinois have come to the rescue of the restless sleeper. An easy to digest snack, they say, promotes restful sleep.

Such a snack could be: enriched or whole grain toast and tea, fruit, or cereal and milk.

But keep it light, researchers warn. Those who eat heavy snacks are more restless in sleep.

Eggs On Hand

A few eggs in the refrigerator are as good as gold when it comes to preparing a luncheon or supper dish in a hurry, and have great nutrition value.

Two eggs a day will supply 20 percent of the daily protein requirement of the average adult man or woman, yet contain only 150 calories.

COFFEE

About one-third of the world's total coffee consumption is used by the people of the United States.

Look. Look. See the funny car.

Why don't you ever see a Volkswagen boiling?

Simply because there's nothing to boil. The Volkswagen is cooled with air.

And air can't boil (or freeze) so there's no need for a radiator. Not having a radiator really helps you keep cool when you run into a jam.

On a hot day.

Miles from anywhere.

But it's nice to know you haven't got one at other times too.

You never have plumbing problems. Or water pump repairs. Or hoses to replace.

Apart from the troubles you don't have, there's the money you don't spend.

And this applies to tires that quite often go better than 40,000 miles the set. Gas that goes around 38 miles to the gallon. And oil that rarely needs topping up between changes.

Of birthdays and bachelorhood; commercialism in quiet resorts

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Summer at its height, or perhaps, more accurately, at its depth. People shake their heads and say, "Never a summer like this", forgetting that of 1955, when July was even as this one. But the ground is grateful, soaking up the reviving moisture, and expressing its gratitude with ever more and more growth. The meadow rue stands as high as I do, which, after all, is only five feet. But its frothy white top catches the eye; the leaf is a pretty one, also. We saw a second-growth clover field near St. Jerome, a mass of bloom. The mauve fire-weed stands in clumps near the back roads, and the ferns on the path to our own small lake look like something in those pictures of the tropics.

* * *

Speaking of pictures, we quite missed the ones from Europe bounced off Telstar. But we read all the comments, and thought one by a female writer of The Montreal Star the most perceptive. She pointed out that the American broadcast by Telecast could not resist a little preaching and a little politics, whereas the European one was content to show us the people of Europe going about their nighttime business and pleasure. She made the point that we, on this continent, have come to think that TV must preach or teach or harrow, whereas its primary purpose is surely communication; and now that it is communication between different parts of the world, let us be content with just that. People can draw their own conclusions. Perhaps when we communicate more, we shall learn how to tolerate. — My comment, not that of the "Star" writer.

* * *

Writing a relative lately, I said that life in our little community was quiet on the surface (as usual) and seething underneath (also as usual). We have had two domestic tragedies in the district lately, and what appears to be a community one at Lake Barron. After angling for some years, a local resort run by new Canadians has at last succeeded in buying frontage on Lake Barron. Some true-blue Canadian weakened. As a result, the people of the Lake Barron Association feel they may be subjected to much noise, and even bigger and better boats, with the attendant oil-slick.

We do not take sides in this, and are not even members of the local Association, but we do think that this situation proves yet again the wisdom of our late friend and neighbor, Amos. Years ago, he said to the writer that there would be trouble at that lake, due to the lack of planning. No roads were planned, they just grew as necessary; motor-boats of any horsepower were welcomed. Let this be a lesson to the municipal council, and a warning to would-be purchasers.

* * *

Having written this nasty comment, it is a pleasure to turn to something less controversial. Birthdays are seldom cause of argument, and there is none over the fact that our pastor, the Rev. Canon Cyrus Baugh, was 90 on July 26. When we went to tender our congratulations, the Canon already had a caller. Besides, he was annoyed at some of our comments, but we did glean the fact that he was born in England, not Ireland as is commonly supposed, that he came to Canada some 56 years ago. "The Blessed Communion" lists him as being made deacon in 1906 and priest the following year. That would be under Bishop Carmichael. It is now 1962. It is a long way to look back, although we doubt the Canon does much looking back. Anyway, for all these years he has devoted himself to the Church and has raised a large and satisfactory family, one of whom is also a priest of the Church. He has had the help and devotion of his wife through all. We hear that the family celebration was on the Saturday, and a social evening in the Canon's honor was held after the evening service on July 29 at the Louisa church hall. (Note they have a nice new hall!) Margaret Cook is happy to add her congratulations to that of friends and parishioners. We just hope we are around for the hundredth celebration!

* * *

We have had some provocative conversations lately. One ranged from conditions at Lake Barron, to Albert Schweitzer's philosophy, to Christian Science, thence to new Canadians, and ended up with the family cat. But we shall not bore you with that. Instead, we shall pass on some comments by a young bachelor friend. We know this is redundant in an Irish community, where bachelorhood is always popular, but this was perceptive, and fun, as well. Our bachelor is 29, suave, cultured, and one of the aforementioned Canadians. He said that never before in the history of the world had it been so easy and so comfortable to be a bachelor. Take the matter of clothing — he could now wash his own shirts and bypass the ironing; he could buy most of his food pre-cooked and frozen; he could get suitable accommodation, adequately furnished and heated. For companionship he has a dog. "She costs less to feed than a wife." He did not labor the obvious points that one can do as one likes with free time. It's a strong case, all right. Only thing is, at 59 will things look the same?. Also, I noticed that the chap had a very attractive lady friend, who, he said proudly, had a sewing machine. Our own daughter is beginning to talk thusly, "What have I to gain from marriage?" Her education and training provide all one needs of this world's comforts. In spite of these obvious facts, the marriages are more numerous and earlier. I do not know about boys, but I am convinced that many young girls get married because they want to get away from their parents, or because all the others are doing it. . . Now everybody write to the Editor in wrath!

As we write, we are uncomfortably aware that the plane that picked up our daughter last night in London is already six hours overdue. The airport says it had to return to London, and will be at least ten hours late. . . Well, let's think about jelly. . .

At Sunnyacres, we have made mint, raspberry and red currant, as well as strawberry jam and cherry jam. I bet our young bachelor finds it convenient to call, next winter. Or perhaps not, one can buy all those at the super-market! (Does anybody know where we can buy black currants? If so, please tell the Editor. I crave to make black currant jam.)

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

There are two items in the coming events of Branch activities that are of interest to all members. One, the Branch golf tournament scheduled for St. Andrews East, Sunday, August 12. . . Speaking of golf, an explorer was relating some of his experiences:

"We were surrounded by savages. They uttered fearful cries and beat the ground with their clubs."

Bored Listener: "Golfers, probably."

The second item is the annual branch picnic. This date and place will be announced shortly.

On Friday, July 20, a group of members and fellow employees from Wilson's met at the Memorial Hall to bid farewell to Cde. and Mrs. Sam Bradshaw. We extend to the Bradshaws our best wishes for continued health, happiness and contentment as they take up their new abode in sunny California. The Bradshaws will be sorely missed at Branch 70. Cde. Sam was always a willing worker and a strong, faithful Legionnaire, and Mrs. Bradshaw was the present President of the Auxiliary.

From Here and There

The world is so confused that you can't tell an old newspaper from a new one these days.

A friend tells the following story. He swears it's true:

He claims to have picked up a portion of the paper on his lawn one windy afternoon and was two-thirds through it before he discovered that it wasn't that day's paper.

It had the same things in it that are in the newspaper today, he states. Trouble all over the world, prices going up, income coming down, unemployment, government working on the give-away programs, new weapons for destruction being invented.

The world is so confused, he says, that it's hard anymore to tell a 1939 newspaper from the one today, without looking at the date.

They tell us kissing is just so much chemistry. History tells us that it has to do with a craving for salt. The cave man found that salt helped him cool off in the summer. He found, too, that he could get salt by licking his neighbor's cheek. Also that it was more interesting if the neighbor were of the opposite sex! . . Then everybody forgot about salt.

A friend of ours, a business executive, worried over sales and administrative problems in his company, found himself suffering from insomnia. He asked his doctor for some sleeping tablets. The doctor gave them to him, but the next morning he was back.

"They didn't help at all." he told the medico. "I want something stronger."

"But these are the strongest I have," countered the doctor.

"You gave my wife stronger pills when she was pregnant," argued the drowsy-eyed executive.

"Yes," said the physician, "but they were for labor."

"You see," said the businessman, "it's just what I always suspected. Everything for labor, nothing for management."

We just read a definition of the difference between the world's two largest and strongest economic ideologies, heard by a friend in Europe: "Under Communism man persecutes man. Under the capitalistic system, however, it is just the reverse."

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Brownsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Birch have returned home after visiting relatives in Sherbrooke, Montreal and Town of Mount Royal

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and their son, Vernon, spent part of their holidays in Niagara.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Elliott and family, of Moncton, N.B., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Armstrong.

Mr. Robert McGuire spent last week with relatives in Toronto.

Master Mark Brosseau returned to his home in Granby last week after spending some time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smillie, who, along with Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and their son Vernon, visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brosseau in Granby.

93rd Milestone

Congratulations to Mrs. W. J. Tomalty (the former Margaret Graham) who celebrated her 93rd birthday on Tuesday, July 31, when many of her relatives and friends called to extend good wishes. Mrs. Tomalty enjoys good health, is able to be around all the time, and at present is busy crocheting (without spectacles) a bedspread, as a pastime. She spends time enjoying a walk in her garden, as she is a great admirer of flowers and all things that are beautiful. She is bright and cheerful and enjoys a chat whenever friends drop in; and she can tell many interesting stories of "other days" and the great changes since then. Mrs. Tomalty is a friend to all; the world would be a better place if there were more people like her.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Creswell and children, Carol and Jamie, are spending their holidays with friends in Toronto, and also visiting in other parts of Ontario and the U.S.A.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tomalty and Mr. and Mrs. Dale MacAdam, who have returned from their wedding trips; these two couples were united in marriage July 21.

Mrs. Gaston Elcus and little daughter, Jacqueline, have returned from the Netherlands, where they were visiting relatives.

Mabel

Mr. Irvin Warwick, of Montreal, spent a couple of days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson and family, of Galt, visited Mrs. Wm. Jackson last week. Other members of the Jackson family gathered there with them on Sunday. Guests during the past week also included Mrs. Elmert Berry and Mrs. Robt. Patterson, of Lachute, Mr. Leslie Patterson and son, Stephen, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mott, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin McAndrew and family spent the week vacationing with friends in Toronto and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wheeler, of St. Laurent, spent the week-end at their cottage here. They had as their guest the latter's mother, Mrs. Gagnier.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark, Miss Jean Clark and Miss Janet Clark returned home after spending 10 days touring the Maritimes, during which time they attended the McCallum-MacKenzie wedding at Dalhousie, N.B.

You just can't put a price tag on good health. Next to religious faith, your health concerns your daily living most. Without it, life can be miserable.

Then, why gamble with your health when sickness attacks it. This is no time to try out dubious remedies or look for medicine bargains. Place yourself under the care of the physician in whom you have faith and get your medicines from the pharmacy you personally know.

Que. Provincial Government assumes control of Argenteuil Regional Hospital construction

The Quebec Provincial Government — through the Department of Health and the Hon. Dr. Alphonse Couturier, minister of that department — has taken over the embryo Argenteuil Hospital, for a nominal price of $1. . . The hospital, at this stage, is nothing but a building structure, started two years ago and suspended through lack of funds.

The formal contract between the Argenteuil Hospital Corporation and the Department of Health has been signed and transacted, the government having taken over the building from August 1.

A professional engineer, Louis-Philippe Langlois, is presently on the site, commissioned by Quebec Government to continue the construction job. His capacity is that of a supervisor and co-ordinator, who will confer with the general contractor and the architect for continuance of the construction plans.

In the hospital administration board, no changes are anticipated at this time. The role of this committee in future is seen as secondary or consultative.

The government's acquisition of this project was suggested to the Department of Health on December 20, 1961. The Department, through F. St. Pierre, judicial advisor, acknowledged the request on April 3 last. The transfer is therefore an outcome of negotiations between the Department and the hospital body.

It is learned, incidentally, that three members of Lachute Chambre de Commerce were in Quebec last week to discuss hospital matters with representatives of the Health Department.

Council decision at Ayersville approves sales tax agreement

At its regular meeting on Monday evening, Ayersville Council passed approval for the two percent sales tax, as requested by the Town of Lachute. Councillor Edgar Cyr chaired the meeting, in the absence of Mayor Gaetan Paquette.

For purpose of the sales tax, the Council rescinded a previous resolution and accepted Lachute's proposal, namely, to share the revenue of this tax in a "trading area" embracing four municipalities, Lachute, Brownsburg Ayersville and St. Jerusalem. Lachute, as prime instigator, will draw 60 percent of the said revenue, while the remaining 40 percent will be shared between the other three municipalities in proportion to their populations. Ayersville expects, on this basis, a share approximating $22,000 annually. (Approximate figures for the other participating corporations are — Lachute, estimated $98,000; Brownsburg $34,000; St.Jerusalem $10,000.)

Objection Raised

Approval of this measure was not unanimous, since Coun. Arthur Lanthier claimed the levy unfair. A sales tax, he contended, would hamper the progress of the municipality — discouraging the settlement of new families by curbing the growth of retail business. The councillor visualized this tax as a penalty on future householders and on newly-weds.

Coun. Lanthier furthered his objection with an amendment to the main resolution — rejecting the levy of this tax. There was no seconder to the amendment, which was therefore void.

Councillors Champagne and Plamondon expressed their opinion that Ayersville could not afford to refuse a supplementary revenue of $22,000 — especially since the municipality will have to pay Lachute a higher rate for water supply, on the probable approval of the Utilities Commission to such increase.

General sentiment among the public attending this meeting, appeared in favor of the tax.

* * *

Bills to the amount of $3,266.36 were passed for payment.

Building permits were granted to Henri Desrosiers, for a garage on Hamford St., and to Paul Aubin, for addition to his residence on Tessier St.

A letter from Gatineau Power offered to supply electricity and maintain two lights on the new West River bridge. The offer, quoting $42 yearly per lamp, was duly accepted.

A letter was also presented from Dominion Ayers (Woods Division) holding the municipality responsible for damage caused by washed-out roadway facing the offices of this company on Hamford Street. According to Mr. Smith, who signed the letter, the wash-out was caused by the drains. . . The Council, considering this complaint, disclaimed any liability, believing that drains were not the cause. This belief was backed by an experience two years ago, when a hole was dug and the subsoil was found to be completely dry. Certain councillors recalled that the company's engineer, Jacques Bedard, had confirmed this fact at the time.

Besides Mayor Paquette, Councillors Brasseur and Simon were absent from the meeting.

Dept. Education results include Gr. XI successes in district schools

Students of Lachute and district high schools who passed the Grade XI examinations for School Leaving or Junior Matriculation certificates, appeared in the provincial lists released last week by the Quebec Department of Education.

The results for various schools in this area are printed herewith. (The figures 1, 2 and 3 signify the following: Class 1 — 80 per cent or better; Class 2 — 65 per cent to 79.9 per cent and Class 3 — 50 per cent to 64.9 per cent.)

Richelieu Club harness racing this Saturday

Saturday, August 11 (weather permitting) will be the occasion of the annual Richelieu Club harness racing at Lachute Fair Grounds, providing the usual pleasant outing for hundreds of district families.

The racing program will commence at 2 p.m. sharp, and with entries expected from a wide area, there is promise of keen competition.

This is the eighth annual event of its kind to be staged by the local Richelieu Club, for charity work, and more notably this year, for the improvement and maintenance of the club's community park and swimming pool.

A feature of the event will be a prize drawing, for an automatic washer and dryer provided by courteous collaboration of Tessier Furniture Store, Ayersville.

Maurice Dumas is general chairman of this event on behalf of the Richelieu Club. Mr. Dumas and his committee are confident of generous support from the district public.

Applications for Prescott-Arg'tl 1962 scholarship

The Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada wishes to remind the candidates for the Prescott and Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship (1962) that applications must be filed before August 21.

Any student having completed Grade XI in Argenteuil County, or Grade XII in Prescott County, and who intends to enter University this year, is eligible for the scholarship.

For application forms or further information, contact: J. C. Wjtkamp, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, Box 1592, in Hawkesbury, Ont.

St. Lawrence cyclists' tour passes thru town

A sum of at least $8,000 in prizes will be distributed among top competitors in the St. Lawrence Cyclists Tour, which set out Sunday from Lévis on an eight-day, 16-lap trek of 1,015 miles.

On the 9th lap, from Laurentian Hotel, Montreal, to Hull, Que., the cyclists were due to pass through Lachute today (Wednesday) around 9.46 a.m. — according to advice communicated to Police Chief J. L. Hebert. The itinerary of this lap is via Ste. Rose, Ste. Therese, St. Janvier, St. Canut; westward from Lachute, it follows Route 8 to Hull, Que.

The entire route from Lévis has passed through Beauceville, Thetford Mines, Drummondville, Sorel, Granby and Montreal — proceeding (today) to Hull, and thence to Cornwall, back to Montreal and down the St. Lawrence to Trois Rivières and Quebec, for a total of 1,015 miles.

The Ontario circuit in the itinerary is a new addition this year. Following the course of the Rideau, the riders will rejoin the Ottawa River at Cornwall, where they will stop over for a few hours, before heading northeast to the Montreal suburb of Verdun.

The tour will terminate in the Ancient Capital Saturday night, where thousands of Quebecers will be waiting in the heart of the city to hail the grand champion and runners-up after this gruelling grind.

The winner of this ninth "Tour du St. Laurent" will receive $700. The second cyclist will get $600, and $500 will go to the third participant. The first 30 finalists will win cash prizes ranging from $400 to $50.

Cash register stolen from garage

A robbery, with a haul of over $1,000, was reported to Provincial Police on Tuesday morning by Don Boa, proprietor of Don Boa's Motor Sales Ltd., 85 Chatham Street, Ayersville, who reported the garage had been entered sometime during the night.

Less than $100 cash was taken, along with some $300 in credit cards, post-dated cheques and bank notes. The cash register was also stolen. Entry to the garage was made by means of the rear door, and the safe was forced open with heavy tools.

Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle investigated, and turned the case over to the hold-up squad in Montreal. The loss was not covered by insurance.

Fishing-Hunting Assocn. meeting Monday, Aug. 13

A general meeting of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association is arranged for Monday, August 13, at 8 p.m. in the Flamingo Hotel, Brownsburg. All members are cordially invited since questions of importance will be discussed.

Another fishing contest is planned for Sunday, August 19, sponsored by the Lascelles Sport Shop, Ayersville, under auspices of the Association.

The directors are also organizing a drawing, for the prize of a fishing or hunting outfit to the value of $150.

CPR approved in curtailed service, Mt. Laurier line

Ottawa — The Board of Transport Commissioners has ruled in favor of a reduction of passenger service by the CPR between Montreal and Mont Laurier.

The reduction in service was made October 29, 1961, and the board released a judgment last Saturday agreeing that it be maintained, after hearing evidence from the CPR and residents of the area.

The board found that the main objection to the new service was the elimination of the week-end trains. The company said that addition of a week-end train would only boost the line's losses, already totalling $123,700 annually. The area was also served by a bus company.

Former resident has prize horses

An item in the Kelowna (B.C.) News of recent date states that Percy B. Williamson's purebred Arabians took top honors in their class at Oliver's International Horse Show this spring. Besides taking first, second, third and fourth places one of the animals, Hallany's Talab, was also a chosen show champion.

Cows in pasture on local farms killed by lightning

Twelve heifers were killed by lightning on two farms a couple of miles apart, in a severe storm in the early hours of Tuesday morning, July 31.

Heaviest loss was on the farm of Donat Filion, Bethany Road, where nine Holstein heifers standing in a circle were instantly killed. The heifers were described as "well-bred, well-fed" animals; five of them were due to freshen this fall. They were standing near a solitary tree in the pasture. Some of the bark was stripped from the tree, but there was no other mark to indicate the ferocity of the electric charge. . . Mr. Filion had no insurance coverage for his loss.

On another highway, Lachute Road, about two miles across flat country, the lightning struck in a pasture belonging to P. A. St. Jacques, where three milking cows, also of the Holstein breed, were found dead next morning by the proprietor. One of the animals was a purebred. The loss, in this case, was covered to some extent by insurance.

Councillors face libel trial at autumn assizes

Gaston Plamondon and Raymond Champagne, two Ayersville councillors charged by Mayor Gaetan Paquette with defamatory libel, will stand for trial at the autumn assizes in St. Jerome.

Judge Camille De Martigny presided at preliminary hearing in this case, Monday of last week, at St. Jerome. Only two witnesses were heard, namely, Mayor Paquette pleading his own case, and Jacques Poitras, municipal secretary, who was called upon to present the minutes of certain council sittings and documents on file from Chomedey Asphalt Co.

Councillor Plamondon is charged with damaging the mayor's reputation, by the reading of affidavits accusing the mayor of accepting money from asphalt contractors to the town. Councillor Champagne is charged specifically with moving the adoption of these documents in the minutes of a Council meeting last April.

Plaintiff is represented in this action by Mtre Pelletier, of the law firm of Vien, Paré, Ferland, Barbeau & Pelletier, Montreal. Counsel for the defendants is Mtre Marchessault, of Marchessault & Rousseau, St. Jerome.

Similar lawsuits against the signatories of the affidavits, Messrs. Gaston Clermont, Gérard Bergeron and J.G. Clermont, were withdrawn by agreement between the contending parties.

Police problem again — Phillips Bureau terminating, under Cities-Towns Act

At the regular Council sitting for August, Ald Linton Armstrong presided in the absence of the mayor.

On motion of Alderman Urbain and Charlebois, the salary of the town foreman, Simard Larocque, was increased by $10 to $95 weekly.

Authorization was given to the Bank of Nova Scotia to wire its branch premises for direct communication to the police quarters, as a safeguard against robbery.

Police Resignation

At this meeting the Council heard a letter of resignation from the Phillips Investigation Bureau as police agency for the town. Mr. Phillips stated his regret in terminating the services of his organization, effective August 31. This step, following judicial advice, had been taken in order to comply with recent amendments to the Cities and Towns Act. He thanked the Council sincerely for the confidence entrusted in him, and offered his co-operation on a technical basis or as a consultant.

Aldermen Dr. J. P. Dorion and H. Lepage moved that the resignation be not accepted, and that the matter be held over pending a conference with Mr. Phillips and his associate, Mr. Beaupré.

Water meters will be installed on an experimental basis at the Chevrier Lachute Ltée and J. P. MacKimmie & Sons bottling works, in addition to those installed at Lowe's Dairy and at I.G.A. Supermarket.

It was voted to make payments for work to date on the filtration plant — $65,000 to H. J. O'Connell and Pollock & McGibbon, general contractors; and $75,000 to Francis Hankin, equipment suppliers.

Aldermen Thibodeau and Urbain proposed that tenders be called for inspection of the Auditorium roof, and for repairs or re-roofing as required.

Ald. Dr. Dorion, seconded by Ald. Thibodeau, moved that the offer of a position as filtration plant operator be made to Mr. Thompson, who presently manages the garbage disposal site. The motion, when put to a vote, was defeated.

Ald. Armstrong was re-appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three-month period.

Harrington band placed third in Maxville contests

(Our District Correspondent)

Harrington — Congratulations are extended to the Harrington-Kilmar Pipe Band, which placed 3rd in the Maxville band competition with a score of 94¾ points. It should also be noted that, of the 20 bands in competition, the above band had the youngest piper and drummer.

I.O.O.F.-planned Un. Nations tours pass thru Lachute

A group of 36 young people from the United States, under leadership of Chas Chandler, of Spokane, Wash., stopped off at Lachute and were greeted by members of the Odd Fellows Laurentian Lodge 14, who made arrangements for their lunch before the young people continued on their way.

The group, between 17 and 21 years of age, were members of "Tour 16" in the annual Youth Pilgrimage to the United Nations, sponsored by the Oddfellows Order. They were en route to spend a week in New York, visiting the United Nations Building and various organizations associated with the U.N. The scheme embraces about 500 young citizens each year, taking part in a number of tours during the month of July.

The party, with Mr. Reil of Spokane, their bus driver, were accompanied to Montreal by W. K. McArthur, and in the city were greeted by other Odd Fellows of the Youth Committee.

Another such tour (No. 18) passed through here last week, with Mr. Amery and two assistant leaders in charge, coming from points west — Alberta, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. Stopping at Brownsburg, the group were guests of Laurentian Lodge 14 for dinner, which was served by ladies of the United Church. This party had already visited New York, and two of the young guests gave constructive impressions of the United Nations gleaned from their experience.

Five students from Quebec Province took part in the I.O.O.F. plan this year, arriving back in Montreal from one of these enjoyable tours.

To treat burned children

TORONTO—A new philanthropic activity of the Shrine, the Shriners Institutes for Childrens Burns, gets wholehearted endorsement from Billy Roach, 8, Sullivan, Mo., who can walk today following treatment in a Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. He could not walk after his right leg was severely burned. He is shown reading the resolution calling for an expenditure of up to $10 million to set up the burn hospitals to Past Imperial Potentate Harvey A. Beffa, chairman of the committee which successfully presented the proposal to the fraternal group's 88th Imperial Council Session here. The planned institutes will care for and treat burned children, conduct research in burn treatment and train medical personnel in this field.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Following The Watchman's story on the unearthing of an ancient wood water pipe under Main Street, our friend Alex M. Vessie called to inform us there was a similar length of pipe on his "farm", Dunany Road. This pipe is still in Davis' Creek, which passes through his property and which was the original source of Lachute's water supply.

Kenda, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick MacLean, fell from a raft on Lake Louisa Saturday and suffered a jar of the spine which appeared serious. She was treated by Dr. A. L. Gordon, a lake resident; a possible fracture was suspected, and the child was sent by ambulance to the Smith Clinic at Hawkesbury. Here an X-ray reassured her anxious parents, and their daughter was taken back home wearing a supporting plastic collar.

"Dandy crop" of ragweed awaits hay-fever victims

(TO THE EDITOR)

Dunany, Que., Aug. 6.

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is an article on ragweed, taken from The Montreal Gazette. I do not know if Lachute and Brownsburg have any system of ragweed control, but there is a dandy stand of ragweed all around the Masonic Temple on the road between the two towns. After August 15, any hay fever sufferer had best keep his windows shut! Perhaps some sympathizer, with the proper equipment, will cut a wide swathe through this luscious crop, thus preventing an even bigger and better one next year.

Curling rink for Lancaster, Ont.

With the support of 130 paid-up shareholders and $14,500 in the bank, Lancaster curling enthusiasts have begun erection of a rink they hope to have in operation late this fall — reports the Eastern Ontario Review.

Excavation was started recently and the footings were being poured last week for a frame building with ranch-wall siding that will house two sheets of ice and club quarters.

Tenders have been called for an artificial ice plant and the ladies' group has already raised $145 toward purchase of two sets of curling stones.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Fishing has been excellent for the fly man. Nothing extra large, but enough rewards to make it very sporting. Creek fishing has picked up to a new high, as far as I am concerned. Small Brookies are naturally the fish to be expected, and this should interest a number of new fly men. I found in nearly all my jaunts that small crane flies with a pale yellow body and the brown wing, were the very best producers. Following closely is the crane with the orange body and badger wings. The odd fish was taken on the standard flies, Par Belle, McGinty, etc., but not often enough to warrant consistent use. To my way of thinking the cool nights and warm days have improved fly fishing to the point where it is as good, if not better, than at any time of the season.

Bass and perch have been giving a lot of fun also. The bass have been taking the bugs very well just at sundown, while the perch have been hitting all the time. Naturally the perch are best after worms, but they can be and are caught a lot on flies, if you happen to hit the right combination. The North River has been good with a Mickey Finn fly, the No. 10 and small sizes being the best. Alone or run behind a small spinner, they are very good. The bass will hit almost everything thrown at them, but for a lot of fun, the bass bugs are best. Even a hair fly will do the trick. When using the bug, don't be too anxious to retrieve them, but give them lots of action while they are on the water, especially around lily pads. Great sport, believe me.

I paid a visit to the old jump-off spot for Main Duck Island this past week, and it was pleasant to renew old acquaintances once more. All the information I could obtain on the Island's wildlife population makes me sick. No deer or pheasants at all. When you stop and think of the money spent by the late John Foster Dulles on feeding these animals, not to say anything of the love and care given them, it makes one wonder just what we are coming to. Certainly poachers must have had a great time when the Island was left alone.

Travelling up by car, we were able to see the great difference in the attitude of the people toward visitors to Ontario. You all know the wonderful accommodations for visitors around the Seaway, but this is apparent all along the highway right up to Kingston. Even the small towns have opened camp sites and so on. And crossing over the border at the Thousand Islands bridge, a great difference could be seen. Notable were the signs all over the place stating that the premium was being paid on the American dollar. It is very evident that the Province of Ontario is interested in the tourists and what they mean to the economy. Quebec sure could take a lesson from this.

Our Watchman had only been out a few hours when I started to get calls on my story about parks in the Province of Quebec. It seems I missed a lot of the information I received from these calls. However, a story will be forthcoming on some of these impressions in the very near future. In the meantime anyone having a beef about this situation and personal experiences, might please give me a call. Not that it will do any good, but the more adverse publicity given these parks, then the better the chance of improvement.

A warning is passed on by our Game Wardens. Far too many dogs are running loose in the bush just now, with tragic results — fawns being pulled down and killed. For all dog owners, the Wardens state that they can be held responsible for any damage caused by these animals. They are also liable for not having their dogs tied up. The dogs themselves can be shot, or poisoned, without a comeback from the owners — so take it from there. Numbers of dogs are running right now, and in two cases I have been awakened during the night by the baying of hounds in the vicinity nearby. The next time this happens, I hope to be on the way before too long. I know of a couple of cases not too far from this area where dogs are running and destroying deer.

* * *

Commercial interests are really tying up everything in this area. Numbers of new (supposed) clubs, hotels and establishments sprouting up. Naturally, all these clubs are WET, so I guess nothing much can be done about it. I stated before that the interests of our Natural Resources are being wiped out, and this is certainly so.

I don't know how many of you heard the GREAT announcement from our Ministter of Fish and Game, on the opening of the Laurentide Park for the moose season this year. I wonder just how many Canadians get the chance to hunt in the park for these animals. Not too many, I'll bet. This is one very definite case of our wildlife being exploited for the sake of money. I don't care what our Minister says about the abundance of these animals. As far as I am concerned, they are not too numerous right now to warrant this opening. True, in some districts they are common, but (and this is the point) other districts are cleared of them.

* * *

Numerous Cedar Waxwings are around. As most of us bird watchers know, birds of all kinds are with us, breeds that have never been in this area before. As an instance, a Red-Headed Woodpecker was seen right beside the town. As a rule this bird does not get this far north. However, numerous other birds of the southern type can be seen — Yellow-Billed Cuckoos, Blue Warblers — and from the descriptions given on this one, it was an Indigo Bunting. The Martins sure are having a lot of fun. Some of the barns are just about full of them. In fact, we have a coupe right in our attic. I don't know if they have any young, or will have, but they are nice to have around.

* * *

Thoughts of avid hunters turn once more to deer, ducks, etc. I wonder just how many of you have paid attention to the banning of the 22's for rabbit shooting. Nothing but shotguns are allowed now; so enthusiasts should get themselves a new game law book, just as soon as it is available. When that will be, is anyone's guess! One thing is sure, this is one law that was thought of by the GREATEST BRAIN of all time. As I have said before, these departmental jokers get someone who wouldn't know the difference between a rabbit and a deer to formulate these laws. WE pay their salaries, with the purchase of the various licenses, and we should have something to say about this. They appear more interested in revenues than anything else, as evidence the increased cost of licenses; the interests of conservation are secondary, and little understood.

Talking to an acquaintance today (Friday) on the game and fish situation — I have a bet that our fishing license will be raised this coming year. — After all, we (like the well) never run dry.

Find illicit still in operation near Alfred, Ont.

Lucien Gratton, owner of a farm four miles north of Alfred, and two Roxton (Que.) men, Jean-Paul Racitot and Marcel Gagné, on charges of possession and operating a still, were each fined $1,000 by Magistrate Archambault at L'Orignal, recently.

The three men were charged on two counts each of possession of a still and possession of illegal alcohol, following a raid on a large still in the Gratton barn near Alfred.

RCMP described the still operation as "a commercial one" that had a capacity to produce 150 gallons of alcohol a day.

Seized along with the still was a car containing 88 gallons of alcohol.

Police said the raid was made at 2 a.m. following surveillance of the barn. Ten RCMP officers from Ottawa and Montreal conducted the seizure.

They described the still as being of commercial size, and run professionally. It was a two-column continuous commercial still. Some 170 bags of sugar were also seized. It is believed the operation was a month old.

The program includes talks and panel discussions by experts on such aspects of the industry as merchandising, marketing and packing.

Representing Canada Department of Agriculture will be Paul W. Clement, chief of the General Services and Cold Storage Section, and Paul A. Cossmann, of the Fruit and Vegetable Division.

Deer hunting dates announced

The calendar of dates and zones for the 1962 deer and moose hunting season in Quebec was released last week by the Game and Fisheries Department.

It shows the province divided into seven hunting zones, one more than last year, with few changes in dates from the previous year. The closed season on caribou continues for another year.

Of interest to hunters favoring this section of the province, unrestricted deer hunting is permitted from October 20 to November 18 in Zone D, "generally the entire area north of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence areas".

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCabe, of Toronto, were week-end guests of Mrs. John McCabe.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Reed, of Toronto, were guests of the Misses Balmfirth.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dent and family, of Gatineau, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trineer, Sr., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Bates in Avoca last Thursday.

The heavy and frequent rains have made the water level of the Rouge River unusually high for this time of year.

Frost was noticed on several occasions during the month of July.

There will be no service next Sunday in the Rivington Baptist Church. Instead, a joint service will be held in Avoca, at 11 a.m.

WITH THE BLIND —

Braille watch first symbol of independence

When your watch is in for repair you're like a fish out of water. You look at your wrist a hundred times a day. You grumble, and get the time somewhere else . . . "But telling the time is real frustration for newly blind persons", observes Leopold Carrière, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

"He realizes he can't see whenever he wants to know the time." Instead of an asset, the habit of reading your own time is a reminder of helplessness and a source of bitterness. The CNIB is aware of this, and early in the re-adjustment of the newly blind, it is arranged for the client to get a Braille watch.

The watch resembles the regular timepiece and may be worn on the wrist in the usual way. The crystal of the watch springs open, permitting its owner to feel the hands in relation to raised dots that indicate the figures. The hands are extra strong and they take the delicate touch of enquiring fingers quite easily.

"Most blind persons become expert time-tellers", the chairman said. "They can tell the time right to the minute, and often go about showing off their skill."

Braille time-telling is introduced by the Home Teacher, a blind person herself, who is sent to the home of the new clients to teach the skills needed to overcome the handicap. She begins with a Braille alarm clock, because it is large and an easy way to introduce the dots and hands. The clock is particularly useful with women, since ladies' watches are very small. Older men like to use the Braille pocket watch.

"Once the ability to tell time is restored", the chairman said, "the blind person knows he's on the way to an independent life." He learns to walk with the white cane, and if he's capable of employment, is located on a job through the CNIB Employment Department."

Each year, over 2,000 Canadians become blind and begin the long climb back with the help of the CNIB. The services are provided through an annual financial drive conducted by volunteers. . . Your donation will serve the blind of this community.

Dalesville Baptist Church scene of nuptial ceremony

Tomalty — Burk

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Dalesville Baptist Church on Saturday, July 21, at 3:30 p.m. when Annie Laurie Burk was united in marriage to Mr. Nelson Graham Tomalty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tomalty, of Brownsburg, Que.

The Rev. L. Hisey officiated. Mrs. Keith Morrison was at the organ and the Rev. K. R. Miller, of Blairsville, Penn., sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because"; also the Rev. and Mrs. Miller sang "O Perfect Love" as a duet. The church was decorated with stands of yellow and white gladioli and fern.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Ernest Morrow, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., was in a full-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta and net, having a portrait neckline of embroidered roses, elbow-length sleeves and a bouffant skirt, enhanced with a large bow at the back. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a pearl-beaded diadem. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Better Times roses.

Miss Barbara Todd, as maid of honor, Miss Jackie Cutler and Miss Carol Tomalty, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of yellow silk organza over taffeta and net, styled after the bride's dress. They wore organza flowered hats with veils, and carried bouquets of Shasta daisies and English ivy. Miss Judy McElroy, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, wore a yellow silk organza frock with a tulle headdress, and also carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies and English ivy.

Mr. Kenneth Tomalty acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Carpenter, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Malcolm Witham, nephew of the bride. Assistant ushers were Arthur McElroy and Richard Witham, nephews of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the United Church hall at Brownsburg. During the supper, Mr. Harold Hewitt, of Brownsburg, entertained with organ music, and Mr. Jack Billington, of St. Lambert, sang "Count Your Blessings", "I'll Walk Beside You", and "Annie Laurie".

Mr. and Mrs. Tomalty left for a motor trip to Gaspé, Que., New Brunswick, and various parts in the United States. The bride travelled in a wheat-colored suit with cocoa organza picture hat and cocoa accessories. Her corsage was of bronze mums. Upon their return they will take up residence in Brownsburg.

A telegram extending the best of wishes was received from Mrs. Harold Silverson, who is at present visiting her family in Belfast, Ireland.

Late Stuart Todd was old citizen of community

A long-time resident of this community, William Stuart Todd, passed away peacefully after a long illness on August 4, aged 63, at the Hauteur Nursing Home.

He was born on Lachute Road, the son of the late William Todd and the late Isabella Watson, and followed his father's footsteps in farming, until stricken with rheumatoid arthritis 35 years ago.

Left to mourn are his two sisters, Mrs. A. W. Gatets (Alice), of St. Andrews East, and Mrs. R. Brown (Emma), of Lachute, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral service was held from St. Andrews East Presbyterian Church on Monday, conducted by Mr. W. Parks, assisted by the Rev. C. W. Sorley, of Lachute.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Owen Todd, Wilfred Morrison, Perry Rowe, Ross Hyde, Lorne Gates and George Gates.

Approaching Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stansfield wish to announce the approaching marriage of their eldest daughter, Patricia Anne, to Mr. Leslie Marshall Clemens, B.Th., B.R.Ed., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Clemens, of Ottawa. The wedding will take place September 1 in Lachute Baptist Church.

Patterson - Elder wedding at Christ Church, Mille Isles

The marriage of Joan Beatrice Lena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Elder, of Mille Isles, Que., to Mr. Lewis John Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Patterson, took place Saturday in Christ Church, Mille Isles, the Rev. H. G. Baugh officiating. Mr. Ian Grant played the wedding music.

Baskets of gladioli and greenery decorated the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a full-length gown of peau de soie, fitted bodice, with envelope skirt falling into a chapel train, with large centre appliqué of Bourdon lace, having a scoop neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her veil of bouffant tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress of white roses and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Joan Mark, as maid of honor, and Miss Virginia Noble, as junior bridesmaid, were in gowns of angel blue taffeta with large picture hats, and carried cascade bouquets of blue and white carnations. Little Misses Carolyn Cooney and Janet Patterson wore frocks of white silk organza over angel blue taffeta and carried white baskets of blue and white poms.

Mr. Gordon Patterson, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Clifford Wall and Mr. Ray Noble, cousins of the bride, and Mr. Emerson Patterson, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Edgar Elder, mother of the bride, was in a sheath gown of beige tulle crepe with lace jacket and matching accessories, and wore a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. Mrs. Patterson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of light blue silk with accessories to match and wore a corsage of red roses.

Following a reception held at the Bellevue Hotel in Morin Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left on a wedding trip to the Maritimes. The bride travelled in a café-au-lait colored three-piece suit with multi-colored petal hat, with shaded shoes and bag, and wore a corsage of orange roses.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks to friends and relatives for cards, visits and gifts received during my stay in hospital, also special thanks to the staff of the Smith Clinic for their kindness.

— Mrs. Wesley McAndrew

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

In praise of tenacity

QUEBEC'S Premier Lesage, speaking recently at a conference of Canadian textile executives held at Murray Bay, made some shrewd and penetrating observations about the textile industry.

For some years now, the Premier observed, Canada has been running up against increasingly strong world competition. This is particularly true in the case of the textile industry, he said, where the revival of certain countries in Europe and Asia, — and the appearance on the market of synthetic products — has resulted in the loss of markets that formerly were "sure ones."

The Premier also expressed confidence that, despite these obstacles, the textile industry would continue to move forward and that it would continue to play an active part in the economy.

The reason for the Premier's confidence, stated simply, is the textile industry's "tenacity." The industry, he said, did not take the loss of markets "lying down"; rather, it adapted itself to the new conditions.

Premier Lesage went on to add that the textile industry's tenacity — its unwillingness to "let go" — gives all those who study evolution "evidence of vigor and determination."

And vigor and determination, most people will agree, are prime prerequisites in today's increasingly competitive world.

All-Canada route to Maritimes

IT IS NOW POSSIBLE to travel the width of Canada via the Trans-Canada Highway, although there remain long stretches of old highway still in use while the new highway construction is being completed.

Having recently travelled to Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island, we obtained travel maps indicating the most direct and scenic routes from one of Canada's leading gasoline distributors. Both routes were outlined as being through the United States. Our trip eastward was via the U.S.A. over average roads with some sections of good highway. We returned via Canada on the Trans-Canada Highway and while the distance is 45 miles greater, the time element is considerably less due to better roads, less traffic and not having to drive through the numerous mountains.

Picnic, tenting, trailer camping areas and motels are numerous on the route with the exception of Quebec, which is just getting underway on her section of the highway.

Both Nova Scotia, particularly Cape Breton Island, and New Brunswick have made vast improvements in their highway link with the Trans-Canada route. The main work being done in Quebec is on Route 9, between Levis and Drummondville, where two new two-lane highways are running parallel with the old route.

We were also favorably impressed with Rita's Motel, in Edmundston, N.B. which was by far the most modern and best equipped we saw in our 2,650 mile trip. The 100 room unit, restaurant and drive-in movie, which can be viewed from your room, the sound coming in on a T.V. channel, is owned and operated by George and Rita Pelletier.

In summing up our trip, we decided that despite the advice given by all gasoline company map service departments, the Trans-Canada Highway route was by far the best and most scenic and our next trip east will be via Canada, both going and coming.

Learning the hard way

THE PEOPLE of Hull, Que., have been learning a grim lesson — but one from which the rest of the country can profit. . . Up to the end of July, one child has been killed and nine others paralysed in the Hull community; the killer and crippler is an old menace — poliomyelitis.

Pictures carried across the country by newspapers and television networks, showing lines of Hull residents standing in wait for their polio vaccine, may frighten other Canadians who have been "too busy" to go for their vaccine. Because the tragic fact of polio at Hull is that none of the victims had received either Salk shots or the oral Sabin vaccine.

Canada has come a long way since 1953, when 3,691 cases were reported. So far this year in Toronto, Canada's second largest city with more than 1,500,000 residents, not one case has been reported. There was only one case in Toronto in 1960; last year there were only five.

Authorities are hoping that through the combination of Salk dead-virus vaccine and the Sabin variety — administered through the mouth — polio will become a rare disease in all Canada within a few years.

Meanwhile, they stress that, since Salk vaccine provides only partial protection in some cases, it is recommended that it be reinforced with the Sabin type.

Total eradication of polio can become a reality if people remember that anybody may be stricken. It does not respect age. And a person with no sign of having the disease, may pass it on to others. Parents, therefore, should be as conscientious in protecting themselves as they are in immunizing their children.

The people of Hull have learned the lesson — the rest of the country should take heed.

The worker's heart

THE WORKINGMAN'S heart — whether he be executive or manual laborer — is attracting a good deal of industry's attention. And from now on, you can expect to hear more about industry's responsibility in rehabilitation and compensation of heart disease victims — reports Beatrice Riddell in The Financial Post.

Of those heart disease victims who return to work — and this is a majority — many take a year or more to recover. Some never recover completely. It means a considerable cost in rehabilitation. A job must be modified until the employee is physically capable of returning to his original work. For some, new jobs must be found.

But what is now causing just about as much concern is the growing public pressure to call heart attacks occupational hazards, and therefore compensable. At the moment, Canadian compensation awards for heart attacks are very few. But if they increase — and there are some who think they will — it could mean higher costs for industry, whether the claims are paid out of workmen's compensation boards' collective liability funds or by insurance companies.

It was just a rumor

LAST YEAR someone started a rumor. He claimed that the filter tip on a popular Canadian cigarette contained spun glass. Furthermore, he said, Montreal's largest hospital had warned its staff and patients not to smoke this brand.

Since the rumor was false the company which manufactured the cigarette published denials together with a complete description of the materials actually used in the filter. However, thousands of smokers remained unconvinced; sales of this brand continued to slide for several months as variations of the original story continued to make the rounds.

In this case it was almost certain that an unscrupulous competitor had deliberately circulated the rumor. But equally damaging ones are begun and circulated by people who don't intend any harm. And as tales pass from speaker to listener they seldom fail to grow with the telling.

Passing on rumors, large or small, is a common human frailty. But it is one which can wreck the well-earned reputation of a person or an institution.

Good intentions aren't enough. Injustices of this sort can be prevented if we pass on only information which has been thoroughly verified.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 15, 1887 —

Messrs. Angus McCallum and John Bates, of Avoca, have taken their diplomas at the Montreal Business College.

Mr. J. C. Wilson, M.P., has been elected to the Montreal Board of Trade.

We were agreeably surprised on Dominion Day by a call from Capt. E. A. Hodgson, requesting us to step outside, and upon doing so, being received with rousing cheers from his company, and being told by the Capt. that his company appreciated our efforts for the Argenteuil Rangers.

The post-office formerly at Eden Dale has been removed to the Calumet.

All of the outbuildings of Mr. D. McLean, Upper Lachute, were blown down last Saturday.

Mr. W. Catton, working for Chapman & Drysdale, had three fingers cut off by the knives of a buzz planer.

All teachers purposing to attend the Teachers' Institute July 26-29 at Aylmer, will please send in their names to Mr. G. F. Calder, Watchman Office.

Mr. John Ford, late manager of Lachute paper mills, reports after having visited the principal mills in Canada and the U.S. that he has not found one of them to turn out manilla paper to compare with that manufactured by Mr. Wilson here.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 19, 1912 —

Mr. Jas. P. MacKimmie has the contract to build new cattle sheds on the exhibition grounds, for the sum of $385. The annual fall exhibition will be held October 1-2-3.

The Recreation Club of St. Andrews are giving a grand concert in the town hall. Admission 25c, children 10c.

Mr. John Henry McFaul was injured by a flying emery wheel on which he was sharpening some saws. He is in the Homeopathic Hospital under care of Dr. Archibald.

Mr. Henry Sutton has the contract for delivery of the rural mail on the Vide Sac and East Settlement route.

Advertising of some large departmental houses in Toronto has again been offered to The Watchman, and we have steadfastly declined the same in protection of our local merchants.

Mr. Jas. W. Cottingham returned from a three-months trip out West, where he called on many of Lachute's former residents.

Bishop Farthing conducted a service in St. Simeon's Church and six candidates received the rite of confirmation.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 15, 1937

Dr. J. H. Mason has resigned as chairman of the Protestant School Commission, after 18 years' service. Elected to the vacancy was Mr. E. Kilgour Wilson, while Geo. Y. Deacon was appointed to succeed Dr. Mason as chairman.

H. T. Cowan, of Grenville, scored with his Percherons exhibited at the Seigniory Club horse show.

Three large bells for the new St. Julien Church arrived in Montreal last week from Orleans, France.

Farmers in the Montreal district, paying $15 to $25 a month plus board and lodging, are faced with a labor shortage, since government road projects are paying $2.80 for a seven-hour day.

Dr. D. T. R. McColl, of St. Andrews, has left to accept a hospital appointment at Queen Charlotte City, B.C.

Dr. and Mrs. John Hope landed at Hope's Island, Lake Louisa, coming by plane from Siscoe, Que., to spend a vacation.

Deaths — James Armstrong, 74, of Lachute Road, Joseph Robbins, 76, of Brownsburg.

The editor was one of a party accompanying Mr. Geo. H. Héon to a roadwork camp, to inspect progress on the new highway from Morin Heights to 16 Island Lake.

A seven-year-old child, Jacqueline Gauthier, died of burns. Finding a match while at play near the Wilson Mill coal yards, she lit it and her dress caught fire, causing fatal burns.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

SOCIAL WELFARE

The City of St. Boniface has been criticized because it is making a serious effort to get the single men on its welfare list to get out and get jobs. One official said, "They can't find jobs in beer parlors."

He is so right. And the city is right in using stern methods to try to get these men to work. If all Canadians were content to lean on neighbors or the public coffers, we'd go down hill fast.

What the public wants and is entitled to is assurance that public welfare money is going to those who really need it. The idea of draining off from society a lot of money to be spent by idle men in beer parlors, is galling to say the least.

Social welfare workers owe it to themselves to keep this thought before them at all times. If they ever let the public get the notion that they countenance the financing of loafers, faith in the entire structure of our public welfare work will be destroyed. Many excellent social workers do take a realistic attitude and place a real value on the money they handle. There are a few, however, who seem to feel that anyone who grouses about spending hard-earned dollars on out-and-out loafers is a callous miser.

The good social worker should be just as interested in the welfare of all men as he is in the welfare of the indigents. He should try to give full value for every dollar spent, and try to save money for those of us who are working and supporting our families. Men who have never been on the public welfare rolls often have serious financial problems they are trying to meet; and to rob them to support others in idleness without effort, is all wrong.

I have seen a good deal of the social welfare work done by the Salvation Army. They are generous with understanding, inspiration, compassion; they are at the same time scrupulously careful not to waste the money donated to them. Recipients soon know that their material needs will not be looked after in perpetuity unless a great effort is made to obtain work and to work on themselves at the same time.

This philosophy has won great respect for the Salvation Army. It could do the same for the very valuable and high-minded social workers of Canada. A soft heart need not mean a soft head; the two seldom go together. It is no favor to a man to leave him unchallenged.

PRE-NATAL BUDGETING CUTS FISCAL IMPACT OF BABY

It's a happy home when a new baby is on the way, and the parents-to-be are happier than ever when the extra costs involved are taken care of.

Mr. Don Hay, manager of the Lachute Branch of the Bank of Montreal, suggests that many Canadian couples about to have their first child often don't realize just how costly parenthood can be. Medical bills for Mom, the baby's layette, the furnishings for his room, and baby food, are all expense items.

That's why Mr. Hay suggests it's a sound idea to plan ahead financially for your Great Expectations. Why not plan a B of M Stork Savings Account? Simply work out an estimate of the costs involved, divide the amount you will need to save by the number of months remaining and deposit that amount in your B of M Stork Savings Account regularly each month.

Your local B of M has a useful folder on the subject called "Paying for your new baby". Why not drop in and pick up a copy, or, if you wish, phone Mr. Hay, who will be glad to mail you one on request. (advt.)

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A man who works at home on a typewriter (as I do some of the time) is a freak with special problems.

One problem is that there are so many excuses for not working, outside the window.

Over the top of the typewriter I can see a dead limb on a willow tree in the yard. It needs cutting off. But the only place from which it can be seen is my work table, across a blank sheet of paper. I never notice it until I am sitting down to write something.

Out another window I see marrow and pumpkin plants wilting from thirst. Shouldn't I go out and water them, before I start to work?

In the left foreground is a small retaining wall of cement and rocks, which a boy from next door is building for me. He has run out of rocks. Shouldn't I go and fetch some more?

These small tasks seem much more urgent than starting to work on the typewriter.

You may ask, if I did undertake these jobs, wouldn't I call them work? By my definition, no. "Work," to me, is an activity that brings in money. Anything else is pottering, or play.

I'll make a compromise — give the marrows a drink, but ignore the rock wall and the tree.

I understand that other people who do some writing at home — whether columns, articles or advertising brochures — suffer from the same reluctance to start work — the same tendency to think of all kinds of other things that need doing instead.

But the time comes at last when the work can't be put off any longer, and I actually begin to attack the keys. Then the phone rings. It is someone who talks to me for 45 minutes.

This raises a difficult problem. If I cut the talker off curtly, my wife says: "How rude you are." If I let the talker go on, I am conscious after a while of my wife standing beside me, making yakkity-yak motions with her fingers.

Sometimes I wish that the telephone could be converted, by a flick of a switch, into a one-way instrument. However — like the tree, and the marrows, and the wall — it makes a wonderful substitute for work.

VACATION DAYS

Vacation Days are here once more
Just as they were the year before,
When folks forsake the sizzling town
To seek some lake in which to drown;
And all the daily papers say
"Two hundred accidents to-day."

Still, after all, in lots of ways
I much prefer vacation days.
It's nice to travel and to roam
And write to those who stay at home
Who envy me my bulging purse
While they their secret grudges nurse.

They must endure the stuffy room
While I am happy, fat and brown.
I love to golf and swim and fish
And gratify each lazy wish,
Or saunter through the woods and shirk
While other people have to work.

And furthermore, I'm never loath
To pluck each doubtful fungoid growth
And test it in my frying-pan
To find if it is fit for man,
Or take a tent and pitch our camp
Down where it's nice and cool and damp;

Or by a lake with sheltered bays —
Oh, how we love vacation days!
They give my scientific wife
A chance to study Insect Life —
And make an opportunity
For Insect life to study ME!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Popular Bus Travel

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Not long ago we went from Winnipeg to the Canadian Authors' Convention at Edmonton by Greyhound bus. It was very interesting to see the large number of people using the bus for a vacation trip. This included several family groups going to visit grandparents and others on a sight-seeing tour to an area they had never visited before.

We went the northern route via Yorkton and came home the southern way. Passing through parts of only three provinces we were impressed by the great contrast in Canadian scenery and by the beauty of the flaming colors of the dawn across the vast expanse of prairie, the green loveliness of wood-clad hills in the northern area, and the thrilling outline of the mountains which can be seen along the horizon on the road from Edmonton to Calgary. We chatted with a mother and her daughter who had been to Vancouver and who described the Rockies, as seen from the bus window, "the most magnificent sight" they ever hoped to see.

Each summer an increasing number of men, women and children travel long or short distances for pleasure. A network of highways from East to West, including the Trans-Canada route via the north shore of Lake Superior, lures visitors to unfamiliar places. Bus travel is the choice not only of thousands of individuals but also of a large number of families.

It is true that with the tension and pressures of modern living, by vacation time some mothers and fathers have had almost too much of "togetherness" and a bus trip to a spot they have longed to visit, all by themselves, may be the very thing they need. They may agree heartily with William Hazlitt's verdict: "One of the pleasantest things in the world is going on a journey; but I like to go by myself".

Part of the fun of a holiday is the anticipation and planning for it before it begins. After a family decide how they are going to travel and where they want to go, let them delegate an older boy or girl to write away for tourist information from the areas and centres which will be visited.

Keep the attractive folders and literature which will be sent on request with one or two maps in a large, durable envelope. Plan to let the children purchase post cards of local scenes at the longer bus stops. A picture diary of publicity material plus colored post cards can be kept en route with a small plastic squeeze paste bottle, blunt scissors and a durable scrap book. After the trip is over, this record will recall happy memories of places visited, enjoyable experiences and new acquaintaances.

The safety of bus travel appeals to many people who are horrified by the number of road accidents involving private cars. Public transportation vehicles, such as those owned by Greyhound and other large bus companies, have a safety record of which they can be proud. On our trip we were impressed with the good judgment of the drivers in heavy traffic and with the stop they made at every railway crossing as well as opening and closing the door at this time.

Last summer a father who must do a lot of driving in connection with his job, chose to take his wife and son by bus to Vancouver. He remarked "I wanted to enjoy the scenery too, and really relax. How could I have done that with my eyes glued to the road on the twisting highways through the mountains?"

A highlight for children who must have a stay-at-home vacation is a guided tour with mother or dad, of their own or a near-by city. This will open their eyes to interesting places on their doorstep.

If the man of the house has a short holiday, a bus trip makes good use of every vacation day. The packaged tours are carefully planned, not only for economy, but to give the sightseer the maximum of interesting scenery, without being too exhausting.

Men are sometimes very critical of their wives driving. A mother, under her husband's eagle eye, may find her turn at the wheel in the car on a family motor trip far from a pleasure. A bus trip removes this sort of conflict. It also gives a commuting father a rest and change from the daily driving routine. Children, who have been coached by their parents ahead of time, are often very well behaved on a bus trip. They learn to amuse themselves and often practice the courtesy which, according to James Thomas Fields:

"Gives its owner passport round the globe".

Supper ideas for August

(Consumer Section)

It's a hot August day,, and all that breaks the stillness hereabouts is the drone of bees in the flowers. You would be blissfully happy in your hammock if you didn't have to think: "What am I going to have for supper?" Well just relax — for here's your answer to the main course plate — a beautiful red sun-baked field tomato stuffed with a satisfying and cool salad filling. And even the fillings have been pretested and tasted for you by the girls at the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Corn Salad Stuffed Tomatoes

6 Large ripe tomatoes, 1½ cups cooked corn (from cobs or canned or frozen), 2 tablespoons of pickle relish, 3 tablespoons sliced green onion, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3 teaspoons of chopped pimento, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups cooked cubed ham, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Wash tomatoes. Cut out core from each tomato, then cut off a thin slice and scoop out most of suft pulp from centre. Invert and chill in refrigerator. Drain pulp thoroughly. Just before serving, combine the corn salad ingredients, including the drained pulp, and toss lightly. Sprinkle the tomato with salt and fill with the salad mixture. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves 6.

Chicken Salad Stuffed Tomatoes

6 Large ripe tomatoes, 1½ cups cooked, diced chicken, ¼ cup of slivered almonds, ½ cup chopped cucumber, ½ cup chopped green onion, 2 tablespoons chopped ripe olive, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons French dressing, 1 teaspoon salt.

Wash tomatoes. Cut a thin slice off stem and core. Cut into 4, 6 or 8 sections, cutting only ¾ through tomato. Spread sections apart slightly. Sprinkle with salt and chill. Combine chicken with remaining ingredients. Fill the tomatoes with salad; chill. Serve on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise or olive slices. Serves 6.

* * *

Macaroni and Cheese Salad Stuffed Tomatoes

6 Large ripe tomatoes, 1½ cups cooked macaroni, ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, 4 hard cooked eggs, chopped, 6 tablespoons of chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped pimento, ¼ cup finely chopped green onions, ½ cup diced celery, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 7 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Wash and cut out core of each tomato. Cut into 8 or 12 sections, cutting only ¾ of the way through tomato. Chill in refrigerator. Combine macaroni with remaining ingredients and toss lightly. Spread wedges of tomato apart and sprinkle with salt. Fill centre and spaces between wedges with salad mixture. Serve on lettuce. Serves 6.

* * *

Egg Salad Stuffed Tomatoes

6 Large ripe tomatoes, 6 hard cooked eggs, chopped, ¼ cup of thinly sliced green onion, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons parsley.

Wash tomatoes and turn stem end down. Cut into 4 or 6 slices only ¾ of the way through the tomato. The tomato will spread in accordion-fashion. Chill. Combine salad ingredients with the mayonnaise. Fill between tomato slices with the salad mixture. Arrange on crisp greens and garnish with parsley. Serves 6.

MEMORIES!

Lennoxville, Que. (CP) — Records now show last winter was one of the snowiest in Quebec's Eastern Townships in half a century. The experimental farm here reported total snowfall of 115.3 inches, some 20 inches more than the average in 47 winters.

Treats pupils as individuals

Vancouver (CP)— It is called simply "The New School."

Its organizers say it is designed to enrich education, promote individuality and eliminate competition between pupils.

It will be ready to open in September, bringing true a two-year dream of a group of parents in the university area of Vancouver.

Two full-time teachers have been hired for the fall opening and the parents involved are surveying several buildings. They have obtained a $1,500 grant from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation here for purchase of equipment.

A spokesman said the school will start with about 36 children in ungraded classes corresponding to Grades 1 to 4. It will add at least one grade level a year until it includes those from kindergarten to Grade 13.

The parents who organized the school say it is designed for those not satisfied with the ordinary public schools, or for those who want fuller education for talented children. It will provide an informal atmosphere and the opportunity for individual instruction and will emphasize the arts and creative expression, providing opportunity for experimental methods.

Not Tied Down

"The purpose is to develop the capacities of each child as an individual and a human being," says Elliott Gose, a University of B.C. lecturer and one of the founding parents' group.

"The school will give adequate coverage of the B.C. curriculum but not be tied down to it," he says.

It will have small classes on the theory that this helps build self-discipline.

"The school believes that the use of competition among students as a teaching device, aside from demoralizing some and distorting relations among all, introduces irrelevant motives into children's work and confuses their values," says a preliminary prospectus.

"Examinations will be treated as part of a means of measurement rather than as goals and report cards will be replaced by scheduled conferences between parents and teachers."

The school will be financed entirely by the parents of children attending it, with fees set on a sliding scale according to income of the parents.

Memories are made of this!

Steaks sizzling on the grill, coffee perking on the stove, apples and cinnamon being mixed for a pie — each produces pleasant aromas and an anticipatory gleam in the eye. But topping the list in most homes would be the smell of bread or buns baking in the oven.

What marvellous memories are evoked when one thinks of the rising dough peeking out from the towel covering the bowl; the eager anticipation with which one greeted the announcement "I think they're done, we can take them out of the oven now." For the warm odor of yeast engulfs the kitchen, engages the nostrils and stimulates the appetite with hunger pangs that can only be assuaged by the eating of the bread itself.

Bran Twin Buns are made from a simple, basic yeast dough recipe, given a new twist by the novel use of bran flakes. The bran is used both in the dough, to give it added richness, and as a crisp and delicious crust. The buns are coated by first dipping the little balls of dough in melted butter or margarine, then in bran flakes.

The baked buns are light and tender when served hot; more substantial in texture when served cold.

Bran Twin Buns

(Yield — 3 dozen rolls)

1½ Cups milk, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 cup shortening, 3 cups bran flakes (divided), ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes fast-rising active dry yeast, 2 well-beaten eggs, 6 cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup butter or margarine (melted).

Scald milk; add salt, the ¼ cup sugar and shortening. Stir until blended; mix in 1 cup of the bran flakes. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, meausure lukewarm water into a large bowl; stir in the 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, well-beaten eggs and 3 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 3 cups more. Turn out dough onto a floured board or canvas and knead until smoothly elastic. Place in greased bowl. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk —about 1½ hours. Punch down dough. Turn out onto a lightly-floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 3 equal portions. Cover with a tea towel, and let rest 10 minutes. Shape each portion of dough into a 12-inch roll. Cut each roll into 12 one-inch pieces. Cut pieces in half. Roll the small pieces of dough into balls; dip in melted butter or margarine and roll in the remaining 2 cups bran flakes; drop 2 balls into each of the 36 greased muffin cups, custard cups or aluminum foil pans. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about forty-five minutes. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

Teatime Topics

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Producing a tempting luncheon or supper buffet in the summertime is nothing less than a work of art.

After a quick trip to the market, it takes an artist's eye for color and arrangement, a cook's careful attention to the easy but meticulous details of salad making, and a hostess' thoughtful sense of appropriate accompaniments.

All good salads, from the simplest to the most elaborate, begin with greens that are fresh, crisp, and dry.

Lettuce, either the rounded-head or long-leaf type, should be washed leaf by leaf, smartly shaken to remove excess water drops, placed in an absorbent towel, and then refrigerated for a few hours before the salad is prepared.

This advance preparation is important as nothing will dampen the spirit of subtle dressing as quickly as wet greens.

For color harmony, several different kinds of greens can be chosen for background. A choice might be light green, petal-shaped Bibb lettuce, curly chicory, cream-toned Belgium endive, water-cress and familiar head lettuce.

* * *

Gay Assortment

If fresh fruits are chosen as the body of the salad, make the assortment as gay and varied as possible — melon balls, white grapes, bright red plums, black cherries, wedges of watermelon, and slivers of avocado.

If vegetables are the choice, bright wedges of tomato, thin slices of cucumber, young onions, baby carrots (pre-cooked just to tenderness) and flowerets of uncooked cauliflower are a delightful combination.

Avocado slices go as well with vegetables as with fruit, and lend exotic taste as well as color to the salad bowl.

Cottage cheese with its high protein value adds nutrition to the main salad dish as well as a light and flattering flavor. Salad dressings made with cottage cheese also are excellent.

Lemonade as an accompanying beverage is cool both to the eye and tongue in summertime.

Crisp, hot French bread or tiny bread and butter sandwiches go along with the buffet luncheon or supper meal, and for dessert, ice cream with varied colorful sauces helps to complete a "pretty as a picture" summer meal.

* * *

Cooking Beets

To preserve the vitamin B content in beets, they should be baked, say food experts from the Macdonald Institute at Guelph, Ont.

To serve four people, slice thinly, dice, or coarsely grate two pounds of raw peeled beets, place in a casserole dish with one-quarter cup of water, season with salt and pepper and dot generously with butter. Bake for 90 minutes in a preheated oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. At the end of the cooking period, the water should be just used up.

If you prefer to boil the beets, scrub with a vegetable brush, but do not peel. Plunge them into salted boiling water, and cook when pricked.

Leaving the skin on and the root and part of the stem intact ensures that no excess bleeding of the red color will occur. A little acid in the form of vinegar or lemon juice will also preserve the color.

DISTRICT NEWS

Cushing

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Hughes and son, of Montreal, visited a number of friends in Cushing on Friday — including Mrs. R. T. Holmes and family, Mrs. Archie Graham and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning, and Mrs. L. M. Gaston. Mr. Hughes, in days long past, was a humorous entertainer for concerts held in St. Mungo's Church, and during his visits on those occasions, stayed at the home of the late Archie Graham.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. Case and family, of Three Rivers, called on a number of old friends on Tuesday.

Guests from Montreal of Miss Elsie Graham last Tuesday were Mrs. J. Carson, Mrs. J. C. Dougall and Miss Elizabeth Kerr, of Montreal.

The Misses Florence Holmes and Elaine Rhind, also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bailey, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bailey. Guests on Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Schnedemann, of Montreal, also Mr. Jas. Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Barnes, of L'Orignal, Ont., were guests of Mrs. Archie Graham and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew, of Verdun, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning.

Miss Annie McDowell, of Montreal, occupied "Glenifer Cottage" over the week-end.

Master Bryan Wilson has accompanied his aunt, Miss Grace Wilson, to Grande Prairie, Alta., where they will visit Mr. Pender Smith and family.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller visited Mrs. Croll, of Hudson Heights, on Sunday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Morrow, of Monalea Road, were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Morrow, of Chatboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nowlan, of Richmond, are spending a few days with the former's aunt, Mrs. L. M. Gaston.

Miss Margaret Stephen, of Moose Jaw, Sask., who has been spending some time visiting with friends in Ottawa and St. Andrews East, spent a few days with Mrs. Archie Graham and family, and accompanied them to the Maxville Highland Games held in the Kenyon, Ont., fair grounds on Saturday. Friends of Master Dickie Pearson, of Grece's Point, were pleased to hear the announcement over the radio from Mr. Frank Ryan on Sunday that the Harrington Pipe Band, of which Dickie is a member, placed third in the parade (Section B) of the many bands during that afternoon. . . Argenteuil residents are proud of the Harrington Band and their performance.

Bereaved

Sincere sympathy of this community is extended to the families of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin and Kenneth Clark, of Upper Lachute, also to Miss Thelma Clark, in the loss of their mother, the late Mrs. Jas. Clark, who was the former Jean Thompson of the vicinity of Pointe Fortune, Que.

There has been a change in property ownership during the past week — Mr. Arthur Bryerton, of Rosemere, having purchased the summer home of Mrs. S. H. Beecher. We regret very much losing Mrs. Beecher and family, who have been for a number of years summer residents at "Lilac Lodge", but are happy to have Mr. Bryerton and family as the new owners.

Church Social

St. Mungo's Church held its annual summer social on Saturday night, with the same thunder and windstorm climax that it has experienced now for several years — cutting off the electric power, and the lady workers having to resort to candlelight. (Fortunately the art of candle-making is still in practice).

Mrs. Jas. Conway and son, Raymond, of Brownsburg, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wigley and children, of Scarborough, Ont., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Graham on Tuesday of last week.

Plastic film still suffocation threat to young children

The plastic bag that was a danger last year is still a danger this year, and will continue to be one for many years to come. No amount of safety education will change this fact — just as it can't take the poison out of furniture polish, or the scalding property out of boiling water.

The facts are simple and most of us know them by heart. Plastic film is air-tight. The very thin kind has the added ability to attract static electricity, making it cling to the face. These facts, put together, spell suffocation if the fabric is misused.

After all the warnings by safety groups in Canada over the years, it is difficult to understand how a parent could carelessly put a used dry-cleaning bag in a crib, carriage or playpen. It is easier to see the possibility of a child finding one in a garbage tin or a drawer, and trying it on. But, of the eight children who have died since the beginning of the year, six had plastic right in their cribs or carriages, used as mattress covers. Sheets which had covered the plastic were, in every case, pulled away to expose it.

The National Safety League of Canada warns parents again that thin plastic in the crib, in the carriage or playpen, or in the house at all, is a suffocation threat to their children. Find it now, and destroy it.

St. Andrews East

Mrs. A. Lemieux, accompanied by Louise and Terea, of Winnipeg, visited Mrs. Lemieux' mother, Mrs. B. H. Robertson. Miss Enid Robertson was also home for the week.

Sympathy is expressed to the family of the late Stuart Todd, who passed away on Saturday last.

Congratulations to the three St. Andrews students who passed their School Leaving examinations.

Mrs. E. C. Calder left by plane for Brantford on Saturday to be with her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Calder, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patrick, of Westmount, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jeffrey.

LEGION NOTES

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

As stated before, holiday time is accident time. This was never more apparent than the week-end of July 29, when 75 persons died in accidents in Canada, with 39 of them from the Province of Quebec.

The bulk of these accidents are highway fatalities. A traffic expert recently said that if all the cars in the world were placed end to end, some fool would pull out and try to pass them. It has always been known that grade crossings were meeting places for head-lights and light-heads.

We have sometimes felt that a high percentage of accidents and other highway traffic difficulties must come from poor driving — bad handling of a car, poor eyesight, careless maintenance of the car's brakes or steering, and taking chances that a truly good driver would never take.

Holland, the last we heard, had rather a strict law about people driving without a license. The operation of the law is simple. If a policeman arrests you and you have no license, he takes the car away from you. In 1957 — the latest year for which we can find figures — more than 140 Dutchmen lost automobiles this way. . . . A severe penalty, to be sure, but one in keeping with notions we have about a serious attitude towards traffic laws.

If the qualifications for a driver's license were as stiff as those for a pilot's license, so that everyone on the road were skillful at handling his machine, knew its limitations, and had been taught about the many subtle dangers and probabilities of motoring — there surely would be far fewer highway fatalities. There would be far fewer drivers, too, for awhile . . . until persons who really wanted to drive realized they would have to get at it and set themselves to the problem of learning how. Then there would probably be as many drivers on the road as there are now, except for a few driving now who really don't know how, and don't especially care about finding out.

Instead of considering a driver's license the normal right of every Canadian who can answer a few questions and drive around the block without hitting anything, why shouldn't it be a distinction reserved for those who have trained themselves to be expert?

One's desk seems to be the gathering place for rumors. The most recent one states that a new simplified income tax form for next year contains just four lines:

(1) What was your income last year?
(2) What were your expenses?
(3) How much have you left?
(4) Send it in.

Pretty wedding in St. Peter's Anglican Ch. at Upham, N.B.

MacAdam - Fletcher

A pretty summer wedding took place in St. Peter's Anglican Church at Upham, N.B., when the Rev. Geo. Akerley, of Saint John, assisted by Mr. Donald Sharp, lay reader in charge of the new Parish of Upham, united in marriage with the double-ring ceremony Frances Luella Fletcher, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fletcher, and David Dale MacAdam, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacAdam, of Brownsburg, Que.

The church was decorated with white baskets of pink peonies; the altar vases contained white chrysanthemums, and the guest pews were marked with white bows.

Keith Graham, of Brownsburg, was guest soloist, singing "The Lord's Prayer" prior to the entrance of the bridal couple and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Sterling Smith, of Saint John, was guest organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a white gown of pure silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a wide 'V' neckline re-embroidered with Alençon lace, elbow-length sleeves edged with lace, and a bouffant, slightly entrained skirt with appliqués of Alençon. Her short veil of tulle illusion was held by a pearl crown. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses, with white satin streamers entwined with red rose buds. Her jewelry was pearl earrings and necklace, a gift of the groom.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Lloyd McKinley, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Carl Baxter, sister of the bride, and Marilyn Nordstrom. Nancy Lee Cowley, niece of the groom, was junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore identically-fashioned gowns of taffeta, the matron of honor wearing Copen blue while the bridesmaids wore deeper shades of blue. Their headpieces were of white net and blue taffeta bows. The junior bridesmaid wore dot nylon over Copen blue taffeta, her headpiece being of matching blue net. They each carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

Mason MacAdam was his brother's groomsman. Keith Fletcher, brother of the bride, and Mervin Cowley, brother-in-law of the groom, were the ushers.

Mrs. Fletcher, mother of the bride, wore a sheath of navy lace over taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations. Mrs. MacAdam, mother of the groom, wore pale green silk organza over taffeta with lace appliqués and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for upwards of 100 guests. The bride's table was decorated with blue and white streamers, centred with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles in silver candlesticks and by vases of pansies.

Later Mr. and Mrs. MacAdam left on a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia. For travelling the bride wore a navy suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white feathered carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Simond's Regional High School in East Saint John and N.B. Teachers College in Fredericton, and is on the teaching staff of Brownsburg High School. The groom is employed by Long Sault Woodcraft Ltd. Guests were present from Toronto, Montreal, Brownsburg, Fredericton, Saint John, Riverview Heights, Havelock, Hampton, Corn Hill, Sussex, Petitcodiac, Rothesay and Oak Point, N.B.

The happy couple were tendered a variety shower reception and an old fashioned charivari, prior to their departure for Quebec Province. They have since taken up residence on Maple Avenue, Brownsburg.

Attended Special Observance

Many members of St. John the Divine congregation, The Glen, motored to Rockway Sunday last to attend the 50th anniversary service at St. George's Church. The service, social gathering and meeting with their former rector, Canon and Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, made this a very special day for those attending.

Successful Event

A successful tea and bake-sale was held on the grounds of Church of St. John the Divine, Saturday afternoon. The weather was ideal and the entertainment was provided by the Blue Skyliners of Montreal, and Misses Beverly and Patricia Eason, also of Montreal, who performed Scottish dances in costume. All the performers wore costumes to represent their songs.

Dance Held

The Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Church were sponsors of a successful dance in the school auditorium Saturday evening. A good crowd attended, and enjoyed dancing to the rock-and-roll rhythm of the "Sky-Liners" Another dance will be held August 26, when square dancing will be featured. All proceeds go to the work of Grace Church.

Honored on 55th Anniversary

A pleasant event took place on Sunday evening in the United Church hall, when the board and church members honored Mr. and Mrs. Bulley on the occasion of their 55th wedding anniversary. A sing-song was held, during which solos were rendered by Mrs. Gordon Cooke and Mrs. T. Sevigny, a recorder duet by Donna Lynn and Patricia Graham, and a duet by Mrs. S. Cooke and Mrs. Walter McMahon.

On arriving, Mrs. Bulley was presented with a corsage of sweet peas and baby's breath, and Mr. Bulley received a rose boutonnière.

During the evening Mr. Sydney presented the guests of honor with a record hassock and a sum of money, on behalf of the members and church board. Refreshments were served, during which a three-tiered wedding cake was cut.

Mr. A. Lawson was master of ceremonies, in his usual affable manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bulley take this occasion to sincerely thank the committee and friends who attended this event.

Shorthorn Field Day

The Quebec Shorthorn Association held a field day Saturday at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Stewart. A splendid crowd was present. Lunch was served by the Women's Institute Arundel Branch. Central Canada Exhibition, 1962

An exceptionally large entry for the Ottawa Exhibition is reported this year. Entries for the Horse Department and Horse Show, Cattle, Sheep and Swine, as well as Poultry and Handicrafts, are closed, and August 8 marks the deadline for Home-Baking, Honey, Vegetables, Horticulture, Highland Dancing and Dog Show.

There will be many new features at this year's Exhibition which will feature a star studded grandstand show headlining George Gobel, Jane Morgan, the Harmonicats, the June Taylor Dancers and other acts that will prove most pleasing to those attending this great outdoor show.

Ladies' Day, which proved so popular last year, will be held on Tuesday, August 21, and all ladies will be admitted to the Fair free until three o'clock in the afternoon and a free Fashion Show will be held in front of the grandstand at 2.30 p.m.

There will be more to see and do at this year's Fair than ever before.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

Kelowna, B.C. (CP) — "Career Week" was staged here, when 40 businessmen of the district talked shop with 500 male high school students concerning their business potential.

Hawkesb'y man dies of burns in Ottawa blaze

Abraham Schnapp, 78-year-old Hawkesbury storekeeper, who was taken to hospital Sunday night after being trapped in a burning downtown Ottawa store, died of his burns the following day.

Mr. Schnapp, his clothes blazing, was pulled from a fashion store, owned by his daughter, when two men saw him trying to open a glass door from the inside. Philip Bova and Stan Gibula threw a garbage can through the door to release him.

The fire, which started in the basement, caused extensive damage — mostly through smoke and water — to three stores. Mrs. Roselyn Thaw, the owner of the store in which her father was burned, estimated her loss at $50,000. A drugstore and shoe store estimated their combined losses at $35,000.

Calumet

Recent visitors at Mrs. John Hawkins' were Mr. Wesley Scott, of Red Deer, Alta., Mrs. Eddie Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Asa McNeely, of Ottawa, and the Rev. and Mrs. G. Case, of Three Rivers, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoare visited their father, Mr. Richard Hoare, for a few days, leaving Monday for Toronto.

Mrs. Samson Arthurs spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. Ed Goldsmith, at Pointe-au-Chene.

Wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Mr. Ed Trineer, who is a patient in St. Mary's Hospital, Montreal; also to Mr. Lou Martin, who is a patient in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury.

Lone marauder commits thefts around Thos'. Gore

Various reports have been heard from residents around Thomas' Gore and the Lakefield Road, concerning a lone vagrant seen around barns and premises, who has allegedly removed such assorted items as a transistor radio, flashlight, map, rifle, and items of food. These latter include a chicken from a farmer's property, and in one case the man was reported to have been seen milking a cow. It is also suspected the culprit was responsible for a theft of food from a snack-bar on nearby premises. In another case it is reported the stranger, when cornered around some farm buildings, backed away with the stolen rifle in his hands.

A youngish man of lean stature, the stranger is reported to have been seen on several occasions. He enters doors left unlocked, and windows unbarred; and indications suggest he is living on the land, for reasons best known to himself. Police have secured his fingerprints, but they tally with no law-breaker on the district records. A police dog was also brought from Montreal, in a fruitless effort to track the intruder.

It is recommended that anyone seeing a suspect in the area mentioned should phone the Provincial Police without delay, so that officers may have a better chance to catch up with him. (Provincial Police offices in Lachute are contacted through LO 2-5234, or the Divisional headquarters at St. Jerome, ZEnith 50,000.)

Wage increase for Wilson Co. paper employees

Negotiations have been concluded between J. C. Wilson Limited and Union representatives of the United Paper Makers and Paper Workers.

A one-year agreement, effective May 1, 1962, has been reached, and all employees of the Paper Division and Converting Department will receive a general increase in wages.

Representatives at the negotiations for the Company were R. M. Cairns, vice-president and general manager, K. I. Gordon, J. D. Somers and R. Tourangeau, and for the Union — W. C. Oliver, U.P.P., R. Gagné, president of Local 437, L. Labonté and E. Paquette.

Points clarified on subject of Museum administration

TO THE EDITOR

Lachute, Aug. 10, 1962

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

The correspondence in your columns concerning the future of the Carillon Museum is encouraging. There are several points of view to be reconciled and it is only by full and dispassionate discussion that a concensus can be obtained. You are to be complimented on making your space available — another community service.

From remarks to date it would appear that some of the factors basic to the situation may not be generally understood.

The first point to make clear, is that the Carillon Museum building is not the property of the Historical Society. It is owned by the Federal Government. The Historical Society is the occupant of the building in the status of a tenant.

When the building was so generously offered to the Society by Mr. Felix A. Hungerbuhler in 1937, the Society was at first unable to accept it on account of the substantial expenditures required to prepare it for museum purposes. The way out of this impasse was found by Dr. Maude Abbott, Dr. B. N. Wales and other founding members of the Society, in an approach to the Federal Government. It was agreed that the Society would, in the first instance, accept the donation of the building from Mr. Hungerbuhler. Then an agreement would be entered into between the Society and the Government whereby the Government would make available the funds required for renovation, estimated to be $16,000. On completion of the renovations, the building would be deeded to the Government and the Government would make it available for museum purposes, by preference in favor of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County so long as it continued to operate an acceptable museum. It might be noted the Government is not obliged to rent it to the Society.

These arrangements were duly carried out. The building became the property of the Federal Government and the Society became the tenant, and has continued to occupy the building on this basis since 1939. The only significant development has been that, in order to bring the relationship between the Government and the Society into alignment with the departmental policy, the building has been declared a National Historic Site, and is administered by the National Historic Sites Division, now located in the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

With an appreciation of these facts, we believe that all members of the Historical Society should ask themselves if they are content with the Museum as it is now. We believe that the founders, who were farsighted people filled with an intense love of local history, would be disappointed if they could see what little progress has been made during the last 20 years.

If it is the opinion of the majority of members of the Historical Society that the Museum is adequately fulfilling its role of inculcating an enthusiasm for local history in the school children of Argenteuil County, of vividly recalling the pioneering spirit of their forefathers, guarding the relics of the past and faithfully recording and enshrining the achievements of the present era for future generations, then indeed, we have no case to submit.

Brownsburg motion approves extensive sewerage work

Council plans to hold referendum

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — The August session of Brownsburg Council started on a happy note for residents of certain areas in the town, as Secretary Vincent Charbonneau read minutes of a special meeting at which a motion was passed to have an engineer draw up plans and specifications for a sewerage system on Park Ave. North, Woodbine South, McVicar Ave., and in the Jackman Construction area on Maple Ave. South. Council hopes to hold a referendum in the near future to obtain the taxpayers' "go ahead" on a plan to borrow money to proceed with the projects.

Top item on the agenda was the reading of a letter of resignation from Police Chief Roger Boutet, who has served as the town's chief constable for two years. Mr. Boutet plans to remain in Brownsburg for the time being to conduct private business.

Council voted to ask for applications for the vacancy, although at the time one or two of the Council members seemed to have preconceived ideas about the identity of the next chief!

The police report, presented by Sgt. Lepine in the absence of Chief Boutet, listed 30 speeding fines and 26 warnings. A St. Jerome resident was in attendance to complain about his assessment for speeding; his claim — the issuing officer made an error in the date. He paid the fine!

A resident of a dead-end street found, to his disappointment, that Council would not provide him with sidewalks on a street which did not belong to the town. The street does not belong to the municipality because the road has not met the necessary specifications — a common problem in this town, and one which prospective home-builders will do well to consider before purchasing a building lot.

Again referring to construction, the new building by-law passed by Council specified that a building permit be obtained by anyone undertaking the construction of, or an addition to, a building.

The father is holding a 15-pound match rifle and the son's is a 7-pound sporting type. Both are 22 calibre. This is the first year young John has competed in the national sporting rifle matches. He has shot both skeet and trap with a 12-gauge shotgun for the past two years.

Two bicycles offered in the same drawing were won by Lucien Larose and Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion, both of Lachute.

Grim incident at Brownsburg —

Cell-block inmate dies in fire

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — A tragic fire in Brownsburg took the life of Russel McLean, 44, last Saturday night, as Brownsburg's municipal office building was gutted by flames. Mr. McLean, who had been detained by police, was in jail at the time of the outbreak and was apparently overcome by smoke before firemen were able to reach him around midnight.

William Hamilton, of Brownsburg, turned in the alarm when he noticed smoke issuing from the roof of the town hall at approximaately 9.45 p.m. Mr. Hamilton then approached the building and attempted to establish the primary location of the fire, but the dense smoke prevented any close examination. Fire Chief Ferne Brisson was the first of the firefighters on the scene, and quickly drove the fire truck into the street while Mr. Hamilton operated the fire siren.

Police Sgt. Rolland Lepine and Cst. Albert Vary arrived shortly after and raised the cry that there was a man confined in the building. Fire Chief Brisson immediately donned respiration apparatus and attempted to make his way into the police office to establish extent of the fire in the area of the cell block; however, heat and smoke forced him to leave the building after opening the office door and examining the door leading to the cells.

Chief Brisson and fireman Harvey Wilson made a number of forays into the building as the fire progressed, but were unable to penetrate beyond the office area because of the heat, smoke and falling debris. Finally, when the worst of the fire had passed the cell area, these two with the aid of James Hazel, Sr., obtained the keys from the hook in the office and recovered McLean's body.

Municipal trucks and other heavy equipment had been removed by volunteers at an early stage in the fire, and though the smoke was not nearly as thick as it was elsewhere, it necessitated crawling into the garage section on hands and knees, in some cases.

Quebec Provincial Police Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, who is in charge of the investigation into the death, reported he had ordered an autopsy on the victim and that when this report, and the investigation, was completed, Joint District Coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie would hold an inquest. It is not believed, however, that the inquest will be held before the middle of next week.

Despite numerous rumours concerning the fire and tragic death, the Provincial Police report on the incident, based on their investigation to date, coincides with the report given here by our Brownsburg correspondent.

Secretary Vincent Charbonneau, aided by firemen, managed to rescue his tax records and some office equipment before the flames enveloped the interior of his office. Other official documents remained in the office safe and came through unscathed, except for water damage.

Firemen remained on duty at the scene until 3 a.m., while Mayor Jas. Donaldson and others were on hand until 5 o'clock in the morning. When questioned on Monday, Mayor Donaldson stated that an inquest would be held in Lachute in the near future.

Public Interference

Fire Chief Ferne Brisson, commenting on the fire, complained about verbal interference from spectators in the absence of the police, who had been called to investigate an auto accident during the fire. Mayor Donaldson suggested that all firemen be sworn in as deputies if necessary, so that offenders could be legally moved from the scene. Further discussion led to a decision to investigate the matter thoroughly.

The fire chief also commented, and this view is shared by many: "Certin Montreal 'newspapers' should get the facts before they print stories based on hearsay."

Successful artist in next A.A.A. one-man exhib'n

The third and final exhibition sponsored by the Argenteuil Art Association this season will be held from Saturday, August 25, to Monday, September 3, inclusive, at the St. Andrews municipal hall. Representatives of the Association will be in attendance from 2.30 to 5 p.m. each day.

Special exhibitor on this occasion will be a successful artist, Anne Harcourt, who has a residence at Cushing, Que. She is an artist with a notable background, being the daughter of the late George Harcourt, Royal Academician and one-time president of Royal Society of Portrait Painters.

Anne Harcourt is a member of the Society of Women Artists in London, and of the National Society of Painters, Sculptors and Engravers, London.

She has held one-man shows in many parts of the world, including London, Washington, D.C., and New York. Her works are mainly in oils, but she also exhibits in pastel and pen and wash.

Anne Harcourt is married to D. C. Fleming-Williams, president of Schweppes (Canada) Ltd.

In an exhibition in the London suburb of Hampstead, a news report referred to Anne Harcourt's entries as "the most attractive of the local contributions, including still-life studies, landscapes, and a nude". . . Portraits shown by this artist in New York included several notables and titled personages. The works received high commendation in the Herald Tribune and other newspapers . . . A display in the Sagittarius Gallery, Madison Ave., included "a sunny Mexican landscape, and charming paintings of England, Scotland, France, and New York".

Mrs. L. T. Porter, president of the A.A.A., and her exhibitions committee, feel confident this exhibition will exceed the expectations of all interested members and art lovers. The public are cordially invited to attend this show, in the municipal hall (above the fire station) at St. Andrews.

Lachute buyers at McLennan Ayrshire sale

Good prices were paid last week at the Sunny Dale Ayrshire dispersal sale of John McLennan, Martintown, Ont. The Sunny Dale herd was established 35 years ago and has won many prizes in the showring, including such awards as the Senior Get of Sire class at the 1960 Royal Winter Fair.

Well over 600 people witnessed the sale at the farm. Forty-five different breeders bought animals to introduce new bloodlines for their herds.

Several Ayrshiremen were present from this district. . .

J. P. Bradley & Son, Lachute, paid $500 for the 14-year-old "Sunny Dale White Alice", an excellent cow with several good records.

O. G. Dawson, Lachute, paid $490 for "Sunny Dale Wilma 2nd", a five-year-old cow.

A. D. Hammond, Lachute, paid $300 for "Sunny Dale Martha", also a five-year-old.

Voters give green light to building by-law amendment

Proprietors in two zones affected by the public referendum to amend the building by-law, voted by a large majority to permit Council to enact such amendment. The vote was taken last Tuesday and Wednesday. The two zones were in centre town, and the by-law amendment in those zones will permit the Presbyterian Church to proceed with construction of its hall, on foundations completed when the work was summarily halted.

There were 171 taxpayers on the roll, and 107 of these turned out to vote. The majority by number of voters was 76, and the majority by valuation, in the neighborhood of $986,550. Following are the exact results:

Taxpayers voting —

Yes	No	Rejected
91	15	1

Valuation Represented —

Yes	No	Rejected
$1,177,650	$191,100	$60,650

It is recalled, this appeal to the electors became necessary when Council and the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church came to an impasse over contravention of the by-law regarding distance of construction from the street line.

With public endorsement, the Council may now revise the by-law affecting the area in which the above church is situated, to allow: (1) building 1 foot from the street line on the west side of Bellingham, from Main Street to Court Street, and (2) building 2 feet from the street line on the south side of Court, between Bellingham Street and Harriett Street.

Passage of this amendment is now awaiting the deliberations of Town Council. First scheduled assembly of the city fathers is called for this evening (Wednesday).

Wet weather turns garden party to 'house party'

St. Andrews East — Owing to the cold, wet weather, the garden party scheduled to take place at the Carillon Museum last Saturday, turned out to be a house party. A gratifying number of guests assembled to enjoy a tour of the freshly decorated rooms, a delightful musical program, and finally a chat over the tea-cups.

The major part of the program was contributed by the Marquise de Ruzé d'Effiat. This gifted singer enchanted the audience with her rendering of Indian folk music from the Pacific Coast. Robed in a colorful blanket, with an Indian headdress, she sang charmingly to the accompaniment of a birch bark drum.

Capt. Johnson, of L'Orignal, a singer of Scottish songs, also assisted with the program.

The ladies of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, provided a delicious tea.

New Ayrshire representative

Arthur Dagg, of Shawville, Que., president of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Canada, has announced the appointment of Wm. D. Paul, of Ottawa, as Extension Representative. This is a new position created by the Association.

Mr. Paul is a native of Almonte, Ont. For the past seven years he has been employed as meat buyer for a large Ottawa food distributor. His duties in this position required travel in Central and Western Canada, also included assistance with the advertising department. During part of this period he also owned his own dairy farm near Ottawa.

Mr. Paul is making his headquarters at the Association's national office in Ottawa.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

The number of calls I have received on the parks situation is unbelievable, and the more that I am told of, the worse it gets. I cannot give you all the stories so have picked out the best, as far as I am concerned. . .

Three American visitors with one Canadian started out for a week's holiday in the Laurentide Park. The American car was used, as they thought maybe they would get a little better treatment; they sure did, but not in the way they expected! Very well equipped with camping gear, a good time was expected by all. On passing into the park, they were given a brass token with a number scratched on it. As the brochure given by the Dept. of Parks states that a service charge of one dollar for the campers is levied, they figured that was all. However, they were charged one dollar per person. The token had to be renewed each day and had to be turned in to the collectors BEFORE leaving the park.

• • •

On asking where the public waters were for fishing, they were told — none! Fishing was extra, and a guide had to be hired. The extra was $4 per day; and once more they were given a token, but this time it was a fibre affair. This also had to be turned in every night. One half-hearted store was in evidence, presumably with the blessing of the Government — dirty, high-priced and poorly managed; and last but not least, giving no premium on the American dollar. It was from this operation that guides were supposed to be hired.

• • •

Only one day's fishing was done by this party, as they stayed only two days, being fed up to the teeth with everything in general. On leaving the park they were asked if they wished any fish to take out (at a price, of course).

Believe me, only in Quebec would all this happen. A real worthwhile operation to destroy our Natural Resources!

• • •

A number of others, like myself, are begining to wonder how these parks are supposed to be checked. Surely the inspectors know these things are happening. It is remembered that our parks were supposed to be given a going-over, to bring them in line with those of other provinces. It appears the only way they have been souped-up is the Grafting Departments, as the treatment of visitors is 50 years behind any other province.

We have without question, one of the finest playgrounds in Canada for the visitor, and certainly for the outdoorsman, but just what has been done with it — except to drain it dry of every decent thing for the average man?

• • •

I suppose sometime soon a Commission will be formed to study these parks. The fact that no one on this committee knows anything about wildlife, really will not matter; a good job for some joker who hasn't got any brains to do anything else. . . Cheap talk is a worthwhile commodity in this province, believe me.

• • •

As I mentioned last week, trout fishing has been good, especially in the creeks. They are high, I know that, but this does not seem to have bothered the fish too much. Even the lakes have been giving up good greys, and this is not just the one lake. Louisa has been right up with the producers (nothing but Rock bass, according to one sport I know). I did hear of one being taken that weighed 7 lbs. A nice fish, and considering the numerous 2 and 3-pounders also, this is good fishing. All these fish have been taken trolling. All the creeks I have tried have been the same; flies, with not much else paying off. True, in some cases only a couple have been taken, while in others a good catch. . . If you new fly men do try the creeks — take your time, fish every unlikely spot. One of these creeks I fished the other day is a pip. Taking about two hours to fish 100 yards, it sure gave us excellent sport, as well as excellent fish — four nice fat brookies; and I have no doubt more could have been taken if flies had been tried the way they should have been.

• • •

One of these creeks that is just about ruined is the waterworks creek from Lake Sir John. No water of any volume coming down, so all the gravel bars are slowly being covered with silt, ruining these waters for breeding purposes. With the lack of trout now in this area, it is too bad that things like this are allowed to happen. Of course there are those who say this creek is not being killed, or that it ever had good fish in it. However, I know better.

• • •

I caught four big perch in the North River one evening during the rain. These fish really threw me. Built along the lines of a Rock bass, very deep and with the short tail, they looked queer. The coloring on them was bright, and very nice. These were the only fish taken, all from the one spot, so I didn't have much chance to compare them with other perch

• • •

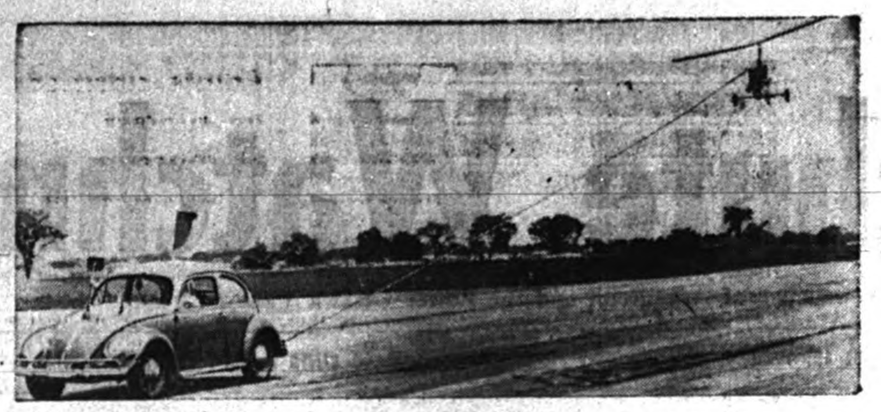

Ducks are starting to gather on the river now; they probably were with us all summer, and I haven't seen them. However, a flight of eight, then fours and twos, kept going over. Maybe some farmer along the river had been cutting grain. These birds sure know where to get the easiest feed — real scroungers.

• • •

Hunting equipment is starting to show up in the stores right now, and one color that is being pushed this year seems to be orange-and-yellow, with the reds and whites not far behind. Reading a report on a survey carried out by the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League convention on colors, proved very interesting. Topping the list is orange, then yellow, white and red. They state the usual dress while hunting is useless for the high-speed shooting in vogue today. When it is considered most hunters do not buy anything specific in the way of clothing, but use just what they have, greens, browns, etc., it is no wonder more and more killings occur. In test, some of these colors worn actually were an invitation to be shot! I was surprised at white being classed ahead of the reds, but on thinking it over, why not? Certainly white can be seen at great distances, much more than red. However, I don't suppose any color is safe with the bunch of trigger-happy amateurs getting into the bush these days.

• • •

It appears that the hunter of today will not take the time or trouble to stalk game and then make sure it is game, the WILD type. With the use of semi-automatic rifles, the throwing of lead has become a great pastime. I know the C-I-L likes this; but not the thought of human killing. I wonder if all the publicity given last fall on the hunting accidents will have made any difference; not too much as far as I can estimate . . I still think NO person should be allowed a gun until a test has been taken. Just like driving a car. The age limit would also apply. Another sore point with me and a few more sports, is the fact that New Canadians can be in this country for only a month, get themselves a gun, and knowing nothing of game laws, go out and shoot everything in sight — all under the guise of Sport. We sure are a generous country with our Wildlife!

Progress in rehabilitation and development

Research and improved farm technology are important to the Agriculture Rehabilitation and Development Act program, A. T. Davidson, ARDA director, recently told members of the Soil and Water Group at the Agriculture Institute of Canada convention.

Extensive study was needed to ensure that a proposed project represented the best use of economic resources and that it fitted in with long-range plans for regional development.

"Research takes time and money. But it is far less costly than poorly planned works that can waste a lot of money and result in long-term maladjustment," said the director.

Mr. Davidson foresaw a major ARDA role for engineers and scientists in improving farm technology.

Although present technology has raised production to a point where output sometimes surpasses demand, efforts must be made to increase production on the best farming lands as marginal and sub-marginal agricultural land is put to other uses for the benefit of the rural economy under the ARDA program.

"We certainly don't want to, and can't, stand still on increasing productivity," he said. "We will need increasing, efficient crop productivity. But it seems logical to concentrate our efforts on our best areas which will respond most efficiently to intensive applications of technology, labor and capital."

Peace Research Institute is now well established

The Canadian Peace Research Institute has now assured its existence at one of the major Canadian universities. Over one-quarter of a million dollars has been collected from individuals and groups across Canada, and professional staff to carry out the research projects is now being hired. The most urgent subjects for Peace Research were agreed upon at a conference held at McGill University last June.

Several Quebec citizens, prominent in business and the professions, are represented on the Institute's board of trustees. These include Jacques Brillant, Pierre Elliott-Trudeau, and Gerard Pelletier. A Montreal Campaign Committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. J. J. Brown, has been set up with headquarters at 1634 Dorchester Blvd. W. The committee plans to open its Quebec province campaign on October 22.

Miss Ann Leduc, of Westmount, Que., was the guest of Mrs. Blue-Bell Phillips recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty and family were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawson.

Reunion Held

On Saturday evening Mrs. Bluebell Phillips entertained at an "Old Gang Reunion" at her home. About 50 guests were present, all of whom were former young people during the pastorate of the Rev. Gordon Phillips in the year 1930. It proved to be a very pleasant and interesting event, as some of the guests had not seen each other for 30 years.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Barker and family were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bulley.

Mrs. Earl Gray entertained a group of young people on Saturday afternoon for the birthday of her daughter, Earlene. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Veit, of Rochester, N.Y., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cooke.

Conclusion of Church Vacation School

The conclusion of a two-week combined Anglican-United church school was marked by a lively closing in the Arundel United Church last Friday evening. Caravaners Norman Laverty, Parker Wilson, Isabel Isaac and Joanne Garner directed the event, in which approximately 44 children received certificates. Assistance, when needed, was given by the Rev. F. Bussell and Alex Lawson. The large number of parents and friends who came to hear songs, share in the worship, and see some of the many activities and handicrafts, were surely more impressed than by hearing half-a-dozen sermons with the meaning of true joy to a group of younger Christians.

The local vacation school was also extended to the La Macaza missile air base, about 42 miles from Arundel. From seven to 31 children were instructed at Macaza during the afternoons for the second week of the Caravaners' mission to Arundel.

While in the community, the Caravaners were billeted and fed by members of the Arundel and Weir churches.

All told, this group of four young Christians surely left their mark on both parents and children, and their work and devotion will not be forgotten.

Calumet

Visitors last Saturday and Sunday at the home of Mrs. Margaret Arthurs were Mrs. Jos. Arthurs and son, Joe, of Avoca, Mrs. Eddie Young, of Pte. au Chene, Mrs. Ed Goldsmith, also of Pte. au Chene, Mr. Teddy Goldsmith and daughter, Evelyn, of Quebec City, and Mr. and Mrs. John Arthurs, of Grenville.

Visitors at Mrs. Leonard Reeves' were Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Lajeunesse, Judy and Brian, of Masson, and Miss Rollande Menard, of Hawkesbury. Judy stayed to spend a week's holiday with her grandmother.

Northern Grenville

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Matthew visited Mrs. Ed Matthew and Walter on Sunday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harold Hindry, of Hespeler, are visiting in this vicinity, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McMicheal last Monday.

Mrs. Thos. Hoare, Jr., and her daughter, Eileen, spent a couple of days at Silver Lake last week.

Miss Bernice Hoare, of Ottawa, is spending a week's holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hoare. Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Thos. Hoare, Sr., were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bigelow and two sons, Mrs. Bob Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Crooks and children, all of Kilmar.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McRae, of Kilmar, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Young, with Carl and Arlene, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clark Wallace at Renfrew on Sunday afternoon, also called on Mrs. H. O. Metcalfe in Aylmer.

Recent visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Young's were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kelly and daughter, Peggy, also a girl friend, from Port Colborne, and Mrs. Nelson Young and daughter, Dianne, of Montebello.

Glen of Harrington

Mrs. M. Whittaker has returned from a two-weeks motor trip with her sister, Miss G. Beardmore, and Miss Hamilton of Outremont. Leaving Montreal on July 31, they motored to the Coast of Maine, visiting many points of interest on their trip. The weather was ideal.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blampied were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Butler, of N.D.G.

Miss Audree Blampied will spend a few days in Montreal, prior to leaving for a vacation in Brampton, Ont.

Mrs. Anthony Wilson, who is holidaying at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. A. Parker, is spending a few days in Montreal this week.

Following the afternoon service in St. John the Divine last Sunday, Miss Leishman of the vacation school, who played the organ for the service, presented the children in a program of duets and group singing, which was greatly enjoyed. This was followed by a singsong of old familiar hymns. Miss Leishman will hold classes for the children this week in The Glen church.

Guests at Mrs. Earl Tomalty's have been — Mrs. H. Stephen, of Crawford Park, Verdun, who has now returned home after a two-weeks holiday; Miss Ruth Tomalty, of Montreal, and Mr. André Peloquin, of Brownsburg, who were week-end guests of the former's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Graves and Michael, also Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson, all of Calumet, who were week-end callers.

Bruce Sutherland, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of his friend, Bruce Tomalty.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Carol Lane, well known women's travel consultant, suggests these seven keys to confidence on your vacation trip — simple carchecks that many motorists forget. Protect your pleasure by asking your service station dealer to check:

1. The crankcase breather. It must be clean so that gases can escape properly.
2. The gas filter. A dirty filter can hinder the flow of gasoline to the engine.
3. The oil filter. If it gets too clogged, a bypass valve opens, letting unfiltered oil reach the engine.
4. Spark plugs. Obvious, but when were yours last cleaned or replaced?
5. The distributor. Check for pitted or worn points. Even if they look all right, a good cleaning and a little lubricant is recommended.
6. The thermostat. This governs the flow of water through the cooling system. A severe winter, dirt, rust or corrosion can throw it off, leading to summer troubles.
7. The air filter. Only if it's kept free of dirt can it let the right supply of air reach the carburetor to provide the correct mixture of air and gas.

Follow the expert's advice. Your service station dealer will be glad to check these items

Points clarified on subject of Museum

If, however, it is the majority opinion that our local history could be more imaginatively presented, the exhibits displayed to better advantage and their quality and quantity augmented, then the members at an annual or special meeting of the Society should give a clear mandate to the officers and directors to explore ways and means how this can be accomplished by acquiring the necessary funds and the trained personnel that are the key to any revivification of the Museum.

One approach might be to organize an Argenteuil Museum Association along the lines adopted by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, another to petition the Federal Government or other public body to assume responsibility for the operation of the Museum on the basis of its importance as a National Historic Site.

We live in stirring times. The Quebec Government is about to undertake extensive park, recreation and tourist projects in the Carillon area, as reported in your issue of The Watchman for August 1st. The Carillon Barracks building stands at the entrance to this area. Is the Museum going to grow and develop with its environment, or is it going to become an anachronism?

After all, any Society is merely a group of people sharing a common interest, and "Where there is no vision the people perish". The fate of the Museum and of the Society itself rests in the members' hands.

Yours very truly,
Signed — H. Lambart,
G. R. Rigby,
Mac E. Walker.

A NOTABLE ON THE MARITIME SEABOARD

The Reader's Digest contained an article of particular interest to Maritimers. It is the story of Gleason Green who was born and raised in Grand Harbour, one of the seven fishing villages that line the east shore of beautiful Grand Manan Island in the Bay of Fundy.

Author Mary Coburn tells the story of the kindly boatbuilder and fisherman who, for her, became an unforgettable character. Combining business shrewdness with generosity and bigness of heart, Green is not only the top lobsterman on Grand Manan; for 30 years his fame as a boatbuilder has spread up and down the Atlantic seaboard, and almost 3000 of his craft have sailed the seas.

IN MEMORIAM

CARPENTER — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Margaret Leith Carpenter, who passed away Aug. 15, 1960. — Lovingly remembered by her husband, daughters, Elsie and Edna, son, Harry, and grandchildren.

"Tho' her smile is gone forever,
And her hand we cannot touch,
We have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Her memory is our keepsake
With which we'll never part,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, William Richard MacTavish, accidentally drowned Aug 17, 1958.—Sadly missed by his mother and brothers, Duncan and Carlyle.

"Too dearly loved to be forgotten",

MONCRIEFF — In loving memory of a dear father, mother and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moncrieff — Father, who passed away Aug. 19, 1946, and Mother, April 9, 1959.—Always remembered by their family.

"When twilight hours draw near
And sunset frames the sky,
We think of you, dear ones,
And the happy days gone by.
Thoughts of you come drifting back
Wishes our dreams to stay,
To know that you are resting
When twilight ends the day."

TOWNSEND—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Walter Townsend, who passed away Aug. 19, 1960.—Always remembered by his wife and family.

"There is always a lonely heartache
And often a silent tear,
Always precious memories
Of the days when you were here".

Lakefield lady mourned by many

Late Mrs. William Robinson

On July 31 after a long illness, one of the older residents of the Lakefield district passed away, in the person of Mrs. William Robinson, in her 80th year.

Born April 6, 1883, at Lakefield, she was a daughter of the late Thomas Dawson and his wife Sydney Morrow. She had lived almost all her life in the community, except for a few of her earlier years which she spent in Montreal. . . On March 16, 1915, she married William Robinson, of Lakefield.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her passing one daughter, Lena (Mrs. Keith Gordon), of Lachute; two sons, Leslie and Gordon, of Lakefield; three grandchildren, Florence, Brian and Elizabeth Gordon.

She was a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, and will be sadly missed by those who loved and respected her.

The funeral was held from the MacKimmie Funeral Home, with service at Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh officiating. Favorite hymns of the deceased were sung.

Interment was in the family plot in Lakefield Cemetery. The pall-bearers were — Messrs. Lawrence Hodge, Wilbert Sherritt, Roy Evans, Ross Evans, Douglas and Duncan Dawson.

Esteemed resident of Upper Lachute laid to rest

Mrs. James Clark

At Upper Lachute on August 4, Jennie Elizabeth Thompson, wife of the late James Clark, passed away at her home, where she had been in failing health for the past few months. She was in her 86th year.

After spending 44 years at Clark's Farm, the late Mrs. Clark had made many friends, and was loved and respected by all.

She is survived by an only daughter, Thelma, two sons, Irvin and Kenneth, seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, August 7, at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough; a large number of sympathizing friends paid their last respects.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. James Clark, Douglas Clark, Bazil Clark, Lester Thompson, Donald Wilson and Harold Hume.

Business man of Halifax was related here

Late Jacques Desrosiers

Funeral services for Jacques Desrosiers, general sales manager of Moirs Ltd., were held Monday in Halifax, with interment in that city.

Mr. Desrosiers suffered a heart attack in the Moirs plant. He was 42.

He had resided in Halifax since 1957. From 1953 until that time, he served as branch manager with the company in Montreal. He served with the RCN in World War II, and retired with the rank of lieutenant.

A native of Montreal, he is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Gordon, of Canso; two daughters, Lise and Andrea; his mother, Mrs. Frank Rowe, and brother, Armand, in Lachute; one sister, Mrs. W. P. Hodge, Montreal and a brother Paul, in Montreal.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved members of the family by friends in this community.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks to friends and relatives for cards and visits during my stay in hospital.

People's Church ends successful vacation school

The People's Church has just concluded another successful Summer Bible School.

The question is sometimes asked, "Do the children really have a good time? Or do they go because they have to?" The fact that most of the children had perfect attendance, is sufficient evidence that they come because they enjoy it. "Some of them asked if we could have another two weeks of the school, while others wondered why we did not have it all summer. While this would be nice for the boys and girls, it would be very hard on the teachers, who were not so enthusiastic with the idea of all summer," reports the Rev C. W. Sorley.

To all the teachers, for a job well done, Pastor Sorley extends sincere thanks. Mrs. C. Sorley and Mrs. A. Stewart had charge of the Nursery Department. Mrs. E. Stephens and Mrs. Gerald Noble took care of the Beginners' Department. Miss Audrey Morrison, Mrs. E. Young and Miss Susan Medway conducted the Primary Department. The Rev. Sorley had charge of the school, and also taught the Intermediates. Mr. Wm. Prosser ably took care of secretarial duties.

The theme of the school this year was "Patriots for Christ". Every morning the children saluted the Canadian flag, the Christian flag, and the Bible. The total enrolment reached the 80 mark, including 12 workers, and the average attendance was 67. In the midst of the school, Pastor and Mrs. Sorley were called to Niagara Falls because of the death of Mrs. Sorley's aged father, but the workers carried on. Jimmy Noble very capably provided piano accompaniment.

There was a splendid turnout of the parents on Friday night, when the children presented their program. The very generous offering given, indicated the appreciation of the parents and their good-will. A word of thanks is in order to The Watchman, Walker & Kingsbury Inc., Ed McFaul, Desjardins', and Cousineau's, for their help and co-operation. Also to Mrs. Ernest Rogers for providing lunches for the smaller classes, and to Mr. Clarence Rogers for daily transportation.

Card Party at Louisa

A military whist was held in the hall of St. Aidan's Church, Louisa, last Wednesday evening under the auspices of the W.A.

First prizes went to Mr. C. Hamilton, Mrs. V. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. R. Harley.

Second prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. M. Lees, Mr. and Mrs. L. Kennedy.

Consolation prizes were awarded to Mr. Keith Boyd, Mr. R. Coulson, Mr. A. Hall and Mr. S. Elder.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of this enjoyable evening.

Mr. Thos. Iddon, of Lachute, conducted the card-playing routine.

50th Anniversary at St. George's, Rockway Valley

Arundel — A "dedication festival service", attended by the whole Parish of Arundel with many visitors present, was held Sunday, August 5, at St. George's Church, Rockway Valley, the celebrant being the Rev. Frank Bussell. Special preacher was the Rev. Desmond Rowe, of Shawville, who along with Canon C. W. P. Baugh spoke on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of this church.

Later a luncheon was served by members of the church Women's Auxiliary, on the grounds of Mrs. George Crone. A welcome was extended to some 75 guests by Billy Crome. Messages of regret at not being able to attend were read by the Rev. Bussell on behalf of Archbishop Dixon of Montreal, the Bishops of Ottawa and Quebec, as well as from a former priest at Arundel, the Rev. Cecil Royle, and finally from the secretary of the Deanery of St. Andrews, the Rev. H. Baugh.

A corsage of roses was presented to Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh by Mrs. F. Bussell. Then a lovely china tea set was presented to Canon and Mrs. Baugh on behalf of the congregation, by the rector's warden, Mr. W. Sinclair. A beautifully ornamented cake with the words "50th anniversary" inscribed, was extended to the Canon and his wife for cutting, by Mr. Douglas McArthur. Both Mrs. Baugh and her husband, who were present in Rockway back in 1912 when the original church was built, expressed thanks to everyone for their kindness.

The day was warm and sunny, and the occasion was enjoyed by all present.

Finally, within the week of the festival, on the Saturday following a very successful afternoon social was held on the church grounds. Entertainment was provided by two talented children, Patti and Beverley Eason. These young ladies dressed in colorful costume performed Irish and Scotch dances, to the delight of their audience.

An appeal to the public

During the month of August, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind seeks your financial help to carry on its work in the County of Argenteuil.

The Institute helps those with multiple handicaps, besides being blind; this affliction is bad enough, but with it, to lose your hearing is a real tragedy. During the past year this section of the Institute has provided hearing aids to several people. Others who are unable to benefit from hearing aids, receive assistance from the Institute, the cost of which is extremely high.

When the volunteer canvasser calls, please remember that your dollars are helping those who are sightless, those blind and deaf, and those threatened with blindness. Be as generous as you can. If you wish to send your donation direct to the district office, address your contribution to tthe Canadian National Institute for the Blind, 145 Drew St., Lachute.

Legion Plans Field Day For September 15

Brownsburg Legion is now completing arrangements for the schoolchildren's annual field day, to be held on Saturday, September 15, at the C-I-L picnic ground.

As in former years, the day's activities will start with the children from both schools parading to the grounds, escorted by Legionnaires, then all-day games with prizes for all winners. Ice cream, hot dogs and soft drinks will be available. All are cordially invited to encourage the children. (In event of rain the field day will be held on September 22.)

Brownsburg news also on page 10.

"As a matter of fact, Donald, there is someone else."

THANKS TO VOTERS

The members of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church wish to thank sincerely the many friends who voted in last week's referendum. The results were very gratifying, and will enable the church to go ahead with its project, with public support to encourage them in their efforts.

MAKE YOUR PHONE WORK FOR YOU

Every day folks in Lachute are finding more and more ways to make the telephone work for them. They call their favorite stores to track down bargains. Many even shop by phone . . . especially on rainy days or when they are kept at home because of small children. When they feel lonely or just feel like having a little chat, they call their friends or relatives. And we've heard of mothers who talk to teachers by phone concerning any problems they may be having with their youngsters, rather than attract unnecessary attention by visiting the school. The anxious mother with sickness in the home keeps in touch with her doctor by phone. When the need arises, just a few words over the phone can relieve anxiety or relay emergency instructions that will relieve the situation until the doctor arrives. These are a few of the many ways the telephone works for folks here. Remember, the telephone is there for your convenience. Use it often and enjoy easier living.

A CHARMING PHONE PERSONALITY

It seems that every girl wants to be popular — at least that's what we read recently in one of those frank discussions with teenagers you see from time to time. What caught our eye, though, was the youthful commentator's views on how to develop a charming telephone personality. "It pays to be polite and friendly on the phone," she said, "in that way boys will phone you more often. Be cheerful on the phone and when a boy calls always answer like you're glad to hear from him. After all, he may not be calling for a date . . . maybe he just wants to ask you a question about the local swimming meet. Or, he might just want to chat with you." Then she advised young readers to be careful how they accept or refuse dates over the phone. If you want to accept don't play coy and hard to get, give him a direct answer. "Why yes, I'd like that very much." If you have to turn him down, however, this requires more tact so that you don't hurt his feelings. You might say something like this, "Oh, thank you so much for the invitation, but I'm afraid I've already made plans for the evening." As a final word of advice she said, "Yakking for hours on the phone shows lack of consideration and does not help your popularity at home or with your friends outside."

ebec and the principles of education

THE FUTURE of our educational system for skilled guidance. Quebec is not wholly parable with other provinces in this re- . It faces a problem peculiar to its lation. With two predominant cultures religious faiths, and with minority groups e fairly considered, the problem is not asy one.

There is agitation in some quarters to it and to support neutral schools, but e bulk of Quebec's population, adhering o basic religious structures, this idea is nable. True, the teaching of religion in schools may be debatable from the edu- nists' viewpoint; it may well be argued in this day and age, academic demands no time for religious teaching, and that hurch and home can adequately fill this . However, the suggestion to remove the Catholic and Protestant tenets from our ls, cannot be entertained with equanimity is province. Religion is too deeply root- be removed from daily life and the up- ing of our children.

Even now, there are schools, to our know- , where the brief morning prayer and e are dispensed with, and where text- are censored because they conflict with cher's personal doctrines. Such cases are cient evidence of what might happen in utral school, where children of the Que- traditional beliefs would have no spirit- background to their teaching — an idea ceptable to the people of this province, hatever faith.

There has come to our attention the text resolution to be presented by Mr. Yves ost, M.P.P. for Montmorency, former pro- al secretary in the U.N. government. This ution, to be brought forward in the com- ession, seems to crystallize the opinions e recent conference on education, in which ees of both Protestant and Catholic in- tion in this province arrived at a joint usion.

The measure is an earnest effort to en- a well-founded policy for the future, and annot do otherwise than endorse the on of authorities who have given this r careful study.

Following is the text of the motion to resented in Quebec Parliament:

That the members of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec, in session assembled, being conscious of their responsibilities in the domain of education, affirm:

1. That the State of Quebec should draw its inspiration from those principles which, in all matters and notably in that of education, recognize the primacy of God;

2. That Article 93 of the Canadian Constitution recognizes religious belief as being the fundamental principle of our public education system and grants the necessary guarantees to minorities;

3. That religious belief must remain the fundamental principle of our system of public education;

4. That the denominational character of the public schools in the province does not only pose a problem of religious teaching but is in keeping with the fundamentally Christian concept of education possessed by the immense majority of the population of the province;

5. That the initiative to establish school municipalities, school corporations made up of commissoners or trustees and of public schools, should remain the responsibility of the parents;

6. That the constitutional guarantees respecting education, granted to minorities and applied in an exemplary manner by the State of Quebec, should remain intangible;

7. That the true freedom of teaching, within exact limits, should remain an essential principle of our school law;

8. That the non-denominational school, referred to as private, should be the normal means of ensuring freedom of teaching to minorities who do not share the Christian concept of education possessed by the great majority of the population of the Quebec nation;

9. That free teaching, referred to as private, cannot be subsidized as long as it does not satisfy the administrative and pedagogical requirements applied to all and subject to the laws enacted for this purpose by the Quebec Legislature;

10. That religious neutrality in public schools should be considered as being inadmissible, especially because it is incompatible with the fundamentally different concept of education which almost the entire population of Quebec cherishes and demands.

usewives in a huddle

HOUSEWIVES in a huddle over grocery s, are a sign of the times to reaffirm the tiveness of newspaper advertising. Here e proof of alert homemakers. And occas- ly the pastime provokes an exclamation — e a price has been misprinted at the hant's expense; or an outburst, over a en mark-up which readers think unreason-

— Which brings us to the rise in meat s and, for those most interested, an ex- tion.

Bacon, for instance . . . . Devaluation of Canadian dollar has had some effect on prices but this is not the major factor, ding to the Federal Department of Agri- re. This country is exporting and im- ng pork products to and from the United s, despite different values of the cur- .

The sharp rise in hog prices between h and July followed the seasonal pattern, features light marketings in this per- iod. However, the situation this year was influenced by the 1961 drought which reduced grain supplies and led to higher prices for livestock feeds and, ultimately, to lower production and fewer hogs coming to market — particularly from Western Canada.

Hog cholera slaughterings (15,000 in Eastern Canada in a month) will reduce marketings for a time by about 1,000 a week, less than one per cent of national marketings. The outbreak has had no significant effect on prices to date.

And beef. . . Dollar devaluation is also having little effect on fat cattle prices, because there is very little export and virtually no import of fat cattle and beef at the present time. The higher price of beef cattle compared with the previous spring can similarly be attributed to the chain of events begun in 1961 — drought, higher feed prices, fewer cattle going into feedlots and, therefore, fewer coming to market.

— It all sounds reasonable.

lidays in Canada

ONE EFFECT of devaluation of the Can- dollar, of course, has been to add to the of holidaying abroad for Canadians. So this summer many Canadians who pre- ly spent their holidays in the U.S. or s the seas have been discovering that here in Canada are some of the world's est holiday areas.

There are places like this from coast to , and one of the newest and finest is chain of parks in eastern Ontario that developed as a result of the St. Lawrence ay project.

These parks aperated by the Ontario-St. ence Development Commission altogether some 6,000 acres. They extend from the of Quinte 30 miles west of Kingston, east- to the Quebec border.

This 170-mile strip has historic and rec- onal sites to match any area in North rica. There are parks for camping by day or week, bathing beaches with safety rvisors, horses and ponies, nature trails; a waterfowl sanctuary with a compound for the great Canada Geese.

It is studded with history. A modern marina is situated just 1½ miles from Upper Canada Village in Crysler Farm Battle Park. The village is seven miles east of Morrisburg, and was created by the erection of some 40 buildings of the era between 1784 and 1887, transported intact from a pioneer area now flooded by the Seaway.

Besides the Crysler Farm Battle Park, another historic spot of the War of 1812 in jurisdiction of the park commission is Old Fort Henry at Kingston.

Open for five months up to Oct. 15, these parks last year had almost 1,000,000 visitors. Because of its expanding facilities, the spreading word of its attractiveness and, no doubt, the exchange rate, the area is expected to draw many more this summer.

And it is helping to convince more and more Canadians that, for a splendid vacation, it is not necessary to travel to other lands.

RELIABILITY

Just at this moment I am so pleased with a large Winnipeg Department store that I'd like to give them a plug in this column — but can't, because it would be free advertising.

The reason I am pleased with them is that I bought an expensive item a couple of weeks ago, discovered when I got it to my cottage that it was defective. I should have returned it immediately, but didn't, because it was a nuisance. I just now got around to phoning the department involved and telling them about it. The response was just what I expected. Bring it in at your convenience and we'll credit your account with the full amount.

"And will you bawl out the manufacturer?" I said.

The lady on the other end of the line said, "We sure will. They put you to a lot of inconvenience, and that doesn't make you feel good about our store."

I wish the bawling out could go right down the line to the man who did the poor spot welding job on the machine, and to the inspector who let it get by. They'll possibly never know the grief they caused me, the sale they lost for the department store, and the loss their Company will take when the machine comes back to them.

Last week we bought three items for our cottage, and every single one of them had something wrong. A sprayer leaked. A water cooler leaked. This insect catching gadget had faulty spot welding and tumbled from its perch. It was enough to disgust an otherwise amiable consumer.

All these items were Canadian-made, because my wife and I had looked for items of Canadian manufacture. Usually, Canadian items seem to me to be sturdier and better suited to our climate. In these three cases, however, some workman had let me down . . . and let his country down a bit too.

Arundel August

So long, so warm, so soft
These August days;
So deep, so still
These August nights,
The heart must rest
And grief and joy
Be things apart,
Caught in the mountain's shadows,
In the elephants of fog
That shade the far-off stars,
And in the fluffs of mist
That lambs-wool carpet
The sleep-filled, silent dawn.

With G. E. Mortimore

"Many school trustees take office in order to revenge themselves on the teachers for the rebuffs they suffered in their school days."

"Don't tell anyone I said so," urged my friend the teacher, who had delivered this startling opinion, "but it's true."

"I worked for a time in a school board office," the teacher said, "and I noticed that the staff looked on all teachers as enemies, whose main purpose was to loot the public treasury by demanding supplies that they didn't need, and by making other unreasonable requests.

"The clerical workers in the school board office were echoing the opinions and attitudes of the trustees, and some of the trustees, as I said, were taking revenge for the annoyances of school days — for examinations failed, and for spankings and scoldings.

"Probably this goes on subconsciously. They don't know it themselves. But there are many other school trustees who serve for quite different reasons — because they truly want to help the community, or because they look on a school trustee's job as part of a political apprenticeship, a stepping-stone on the path that leads to the provincial legislature or the House of Commons."

I told the teacher that his remarks made sense to me.

"I'd carry it further," I said. "I often think that some aldermen and councillors are out for revenge on the public. — Have you noticed the attitude some of them take toward town and country planning boards — where such things exist? In fact, the planners are there to make sure that the country remains fit to live in — that cities have enough green space, that the landscape is fairly pleasing to the eye, and that the towns don't gobble up farm land too greedily.

"But the members of local councils are inclined to treat the planners as fools, radicals and nuisances. Time and again, they brush the planners aside and authorize the building of eyesores and future slums, in the sacred names of 'Progress' and 'good business'."

"True enough," the teacher said, "but we elect them."

"I don't," I objected.

"But somebody does," the teacher said.

NO LICENSES

Canada's armada of small power-boat operators can face summer confident that nobody is going to try to license them. . . . The federal department of transport has been striving to interest the provinces in a license program — but to little avail.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

"MIXED DRINKS"

When anyone mentions a highball, one naturally thinks of a stimulating beverage of gin and vermouth or similar ingredients. But not many know what the name originally meant, with the possible exception of old-time railroaders.

In the early days of railroading, signals were given by a large wooden ball that slid up or down a pole. If the ball was not in view at the bottom of the pole the engineer knew it meant STOP. If it was half way up the pole it meant SLOW, and if it was at the very top it meant ALL CLEAR - GO AHEAD. So the fireman would yell "Highball" and the train would proceed without slowing down.

* * *

And speaking of highballs, here's a story of three friends sitting in a cocktail bar. One would hold up three fingers and call, "Hey, Waiter! Three highballs." Then it would be the next man's treat and he would repeat the order, "Hey Waiter, three highballs." Then the third man would hold up his three fingers and repeat the same order.

This went on for about an hour when the weakest of the trio passed out and slid under the table, lying on the floor dead to the world. One of the remaining two held up two fingers and called, "Hey, Waiter! Two highballs." The waiter brought the two drinks and for the first time noticed the legs of the third man projecting from under the table.

"What about your friend here?" he asked.

"No!" said one of the others. "Don't bring him any more. He has to drive us home!"

* * *

And by the way, do you want a good recipe? Here it is:

One cup of OXO.
One glass of gin.
Mix well. Do not drink it.
Inhale it.
It's called OXYGEN.
Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

If you have never seen the sun set over the west coast of Vancouver Island, you have missed the gift God gives citizens of this part of Canada every twenty-four hours. Even when this glory is obscured by cloud, you instinctively know it is there. It is nature's daily curtain call for the burst of color I shall always associate with the gardens of Victoria and the surrounding inhabited areas of this island settled like a rare gem in the Pacific Ocean.

I saw it through mist shrouded firs feathered against a mother of pearl sky on a dewy evening in May as the last finger of light beckoned Harry McKeever, Public Information Officer for the government of British Columbia, and me, his passenger, along a winding road leading to Sooke, a little village that marks the end of pavement on the west coast. This was an Indian trail and the B.C. government has followed the natural route our first citizens wore bare in the great forests of this island.

I am always fortunate in my journeying, for the nicest people go out of their way to shower me with information about their respective areas. Such a one is Harry McKeever. I could say he is typically "Victorian", an enthusiast in a tweed jacket, hand-knit, cable stitch pullover sweater and gray slacks, attire that is almost a uniform for the male of the species that inhabit the capital city of our Pacific Coast province. But there, any similarity to other members of his sex ends. Harry McKeever is an individualist whose deep set Irish eyes have the direct look of one who has seen a great deal of life. He has an Irishman's instinct for humor and hospitality, which is undoubtedly the reason he has been chosen for the position he holds. One needs a sense of humor to tolerate the curiosity of this touring vagabond and her voluble grandson.

We learned much about this aspiring city that has attracted so many homesick Old Country folk because it is so much "a little bit of England". Years ago, it was a city of retired people who gardened, read, walked and browsed the hours of their sunset years away. But today, though one of Canada's greatest tourist attractions because it is "quaint", Victoria is constantly expanding, reflecting the surge of development that is apparent in all parts of the country.

Jackpot of Events

Our one day in Victoria was propitious one. The causeway on the water front was a garland of color as the Legislative Buildings peeped through a filigree of rigging of 63 yachts moored overnight before the annual classic, the Swiftsure Race. We were among thousands who jammed the area to see this spectacular array of sea-going sailing yachts and witness a welcoming ceremony staged by the Royal Canadian Navy.

On the way to Sooke, we passed Royal Roads, Canadian Services College, where on that very afternoon Governor General George Vanier took the salute of the graduating class of 75 officer cadets and presented the Queen's colors and the College colors.

This is Victoria's Centennial year. Festivities are planned to welcome its native sons who have wandered abroad from its shores, and visitors who cannot help but be impressed by this flower decked tourist paradise.

CANADIAN actress Desiree Sumarra warns teen-age girls who dream of Hollywood careers not to start too young. Desiree left Edmonton at 14 to try to get into the movies — but now admits that was doing it the hard way. "Go to university and study dramatics—then look for professional work," she advises. TNS

Why not fish salads?

Fish, apart from a few canned varieties, are seldom associated with salads. Yet the combination of tender, freshly cooked fish, tangy dressing, and crisp salad vegetables is a delicious one. Escoffier, one of the world's great chefs, knew this and the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries say that their experimental cookery has convinced them of it. They offer the following helpful hints on preparing fish for use in salads:

Cook and chill the fish as shortly before serving time as is convenient.

Good ways to cook fish which you plan to serve cold are: baking in a covering of aluminum foil, steaming, and poaching.

Accent the delicate flavor of cooked, chilled fish by liberal use of salt, lemon juice, and fresh garden herbs.

The following easy recipe points up the effectiveness of these techniques:

Mint and Parsley Fish Salad

1 Pound fish fillets (cooked and flaked) ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, 2 tablespoons chopped mint, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, lettuce, ¼ cup mayonnaise, cucumber slices, tomato wedges.

Flake fish, season with salt and pepper, and sprinkle with lemon juice. Add herbs, reserving 2 teaspoons of mixed parsley and mint for use as a garnish. Combine fish and herbs. Chill well. Line four serving plates with crisp lettuce leaves. Mound equal portions of fish in the centre of each plate. Coat fish with mayonnaise and sprinkle with remaining chopped herbs. Around the edge of each plate arrange cucumber slices and tomato wedges. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and mint, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Ready for school

Cleverly designed school tunic has adjustable shoulder seams and fly-front closing to allow for child's growth. In 65 per cent "Terylene" and 35 per cent viscose, the tunic's box pleats will remain sharp despite countless washings. (Evee", by Edith Werner, Toronto.)

Peach pointers

Frosty Fruit

Frosty, flavorful Canadian canned freestone peaches make a presto dessert, ideal when temperatures soar. Simply open a can of freestone peach slices or halves and place them in a refrigerator tray when you start dinner, and let them freeze until dessert time. The ice-cold syrup and delicious flavor of the chilled peaches will prove an ideal warm weather dessert.

Shortcut to a Shortcake

A picture to look at and a pleasure to eat is a shortcake that combines the sunny gold of Canadian canned freestone peach slices and the midnight color of fresh blueberries. Sweeten the blueberries before combining with the peaches. The peaches will need no added sugar for this is already done when they are processed. Spoon over flaky biscuit shortcake and serve with whipped or plain cream.

Peach Cocoanut Cream

One 20-oz. can Canadian freestone peach halves, 1 4-oz. pkg. cream cheese, 1 tablespoon maraschino cherry syrup, 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice, ½ cup flaked cocoanut, ¼ cup halved maraschino cherries.

Drain peaches and reserve the juice. Cut each half in quarters. Arrange half the peaches, cut-side up, in a refrigerator tray. Whip cheese with syrup from peaches and cherries and add lemon juice. Fold in ½ the cocoanut. Spread over peaches and top with remaining peaches. Lastly, dot with cherry halves and sprinkle on the remaining cocoanut. Chill for 1 hour in the freezer or several hours in the refrigerator. — Makes eight servings.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

If you are driving in hot country this summer, take these tips on keeping cool from Carol Lane, Women's Travel Consultant:

Start early in the morning. You can cover a lot of ground from 5 to 10 a.m. Siesta during the hottest part of the day, and drive again when it gets cooler.

Woven straw back rests and seat pads let air circulate between you and the car seat. Some porous plastic seat covers do the same thing.

Use good sun glasses. You'll mind the heat less if you cut the glare.

Investigate mechanical coolers. You can buy an evaporative cooler that clamps under the right door window. Or you can spend much more money on a car air-conditioner. (If you rent a car, get one that's already air-conditioned.) A seat cooler (about $20) that looks like a conventional seat pad contains a small fan and motor. It works off the car's battery and forces 60 cubic feet of air per minute under and behind the driver.

Finally, don't lose your temper. Anger makes you hotter. Keep cool emotionally, and you'll be cooler physically. You'll be a safer driver, too.

TRIPLET SHEEP

Norwich, Ont. (CP) — One of the 17 ewes on the farm of Cam St. John of this community near Woodstock gave birth to triplets. Veteran sheep breeders said this was unusual, although twin births are fairly common.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The sandwich, originally "meat between slices of bread" as ordered by the fourth Earl of Sandwich at his gaming table in the 18th century, takes on new shapes, sizes and varieties every day.

One easy shortcut to sandwich variety is the sandwich spread.

Plain butter, margarine, or mayonnaise prevent filling from soaking into the bread or roll, and this is important. But new and tasty spreads can be made by starting with an easy spreading soft butter, margarine, cream cheese or mayonnaise, then adding seasonings, condiments, sauces and other unexpected ingredients.

Spices, herbs, zesty cheeses, fruit juices, seafood, and nippy sauces will give a new look and bright new flavor to plain creamed spreads.

Many of these spiced-up spreads can serve as sandwich fillings, especially for dainty bite-sized morsels. For heartier sandwich fare, use them to protect the bread and complement the filling.

Here are some varieties of sandwich spread, quick and easy to make:

To one-half cup butter add two teaspoons of orange juice and three-quarters teaspoon orange rind, and you have orange butter.

Tangy curry butter can be made by combining one teaspoon curry powder, one-half teaspoon salt and a few drops of onion juice to a half cup butter.

One-half cup finely chopped dates and one teaspoon lemon juice combined with half a cup of butter, makes date butter.

Do Not Freeze

Food experts at the Macdonald Institute, Guelph, say tomatoes should not be refrigerated.

When green, tomatoes should be held at temperatures not lower than 55 degrees Fahrenheit, and should be used on ripening.

If you buy or pick tomatoes when ripe, keep them at a temperature above 45 degrees. At lower temperatures, tissue breakdown occurs and the tomatoes become watery.

For salads, tomatoes can be chilled just before use.

Canada's Food Guide recommends that each person eat daily two servings of fruit or juice, including a satisfactory source of vitamin C such as tomatoes or apple juice.

Lawn Clippings

People who water their lawns regularly or run into a spell of wet weather often wonder whether to remove the lawn clippings or let them lie.

This really depends on the condition of the lawn at cutting time, say horticulturalists with the Ontario department of agriculture.

Leaving clippings on the lawn is fine if you follow a regular and frequent mowing schedule.

However, clippings should be removed if the grass is wet at cutting time. Wet clippings tend to gather in clumps and block the passage of both light and air, and may eventually cause the grass to smother and rot.

OLDTIME LAUNCHING

Yarmouth, N.S. (CP) — About 30 oxen were used in 1837 to prepare the schooner Black Hawk for launching. They pulled her down a hill and along a lane to the shore, where the vessel was left to be floated by the tide.

California Raisins Elegant In Creamy Summer Salad Mold

This spectacular buffet salad stars suntanned California raisins in dramatic contrast with frosty white molded gelatin. Combine this tangy little fruit with canned crushed pineapple, chopped apple, whipped cream and gelatin for a truly piquant, truly superb salad offering. It may be served as a lovely light dessert also.

Be sure to allow several hours' or overnight refrigeration for thorough chilling and firming. If time is short, the mixture may be chilled in 12 individual salad molds.

Creamy California Raisin Mold

2 envelopes plain gelatin
½ cup sugar
1½ cups water
2 (9-ounce) cans crushed pineapple
½ cup lemon juice
1½ cups California raisins
2 cups diced apple
1 cup whipping cream
Fresh mint sprigs

Mix gelatin and sugar thoroughly. Add ½ cup water. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and stir in remaining water, undrained pineapple and lemon juice. Chill mixture to unbeaten egg white consistency. Meanwhile, cover raisins with water and boil 10 minutes. Cool in cooking water. Drain well and add to chilled gelatin. Fold in apple and whipped cream. Turn into 6-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with fresh mint sprigs. Makes 10 to 12 servings. (Half of recipe fills 6 individual molds.)

Plan provincial plowing match

The third annual plowing match of the Soulanges County Plowmen's Association will be staged this year near St. Telesphore, in Western Quebec. Officials of the Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association are joining the St. Telesphore group in arranging to hold the 8th annual Quebec Provincial Championship Plowing Match at the same place and time.

The dates of these matches will be September 28-29. Duncan MacNaughton is president of the Soulanges County Plowmen. Because St. Telesphore is just a few miles from Glengarry County in Ontario, he is confident there will be plenty of contestants to fill out his first day's program. There will be both closed and open classes, and Ontario plowmen will be welcome.

On the second day, the Provincial Championship Plowing Matches will be held, and teams of the best plowmen from a dozen counties in Quebec, which now hold annual matches, will compete for the Esso Trophy, and the two top winners will represent Quebec in the next National Plowing Championship. Also on the second day, the 29th, the Provincial Junior Championship Match, for boys from 18 to 19 years, will take place, when the young plowmen will use the World Plowing Organization rule.

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

What should be said to the man — a good man normally — who has fallen into a rut of self-satisfaction, thinks he is not appreciated, and makes plain his company is about to suffer a great loss unless his treatment and salary improve? Should the boss say, "Quit and be d—d"? Obviously, not. But this corny poem might get good results:

Sometime, when you feel that your going
Would leave an unfillable hole,
Just follow this simple instruction
And see how it humbles your soul.
Take a bucket and fill it with water,
Put your hand into it up to your wrist,
Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining
Is the measure of how you'll be missed.
You may splash all you want as you enter,
You may stir up the water galore;
But stop, and you'll find in a minute
That it looks quite the same as before.
The moral of this quaint example,
Is, just do the best that you can,
Be proud of yourself, but remember,
There is no indispensable man.

That last gives us something to think about. This year, for the first time in our political history, almost as many women voted as men. Could be a step in the right direction. More qualified women in office might, in time, result in more qualified and dedicated men seeking office.

U.S. Air Force Band is feature of Ottawa 'Ex'

The United States Air Force Band, which will be featured daily at the Central Canada Exhibition, is no stranger to Canada or Canadian audiences. It has probably toured Canada more extensively than any major American musical organization.

Under the direction of Col. George S. Howard, this internationally acclaimed group made its first tour of Canada in 1944 in an exchange visit which sent the RCAF Central Band on a tour of American cities. Included in the itinerary were Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Halifax and Mont Joli.

Subsequently, the band has appeared at London, Kitchener, Peterborough, and the Montreal Music Festival. A great favorite with Exhibition audiences, the unit has the distinction of having been the featured musical attraction at every major Exhibition in Canada. It has performed at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto three different seasons and at Winnipeg's Red River Exhibition and Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition. Its forthcoming appearances at the Central Canada Exhibition will mark the fifth different season in which the band will have appeared.

AT ROTARY CLUB —

Travel agent tells of T.C.A. growth, to eighth largest commercial airline

At last week's meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, held in the Brownsburg Legion Hall, Rotarian Cliff Cunningham gave a classification talk on Air Travel in Canada. He outlined the growth of Trans-Canada Airlines from its beginning, in 1937, when its fleet of planes consisted of a single-engined Stearman biplane and two 10-passenger Lockheed 10-A Electras. It was on September 1, 1937, that T.C.A. inaugurated its first commercial flight on a route between Vancouver and Seattle, 122 miles to the south. Two Lockheeds were used for the twice-daily passenger flights, while the Stearman was used to carry mail and also to survey proposed air routes. At the time, the company had less than 100 personnel.

On September 1938, (continued Rotarian Cliff) air express flights began operating between Winnipeg and Vancouver. On October 1, regular air mail service was established between these two cities, and between Edmonton and Lethbridge, and on December 1, mail service was extended to Toronto and Montreal. At the end of that year T.C.A. had five Lockheed 10-As, nine larger Lockheed 144's and 332 men and women on the staff. On April 1, 1939, passenger service was inaugurated between Vancouver and Montreal. The 2,444-mile journey took just over 15 hours west to east, and almost 18 hours in the opposite direction, with six stops. Today T.C.A.'s DC-8 jetliners make the journey in less than six hours. Because the early aircraft were unpressurized, passengers and crew had to go on oxygen over the 12,000-foot Rocky Mountains.

On February 15, 1940, passenger service was extended to the Maritime Provinces, thus giving Canadian trans-continental air service for the first time. In later years, 21 passenger twin-engined Douglas DC-3s replaced the Lockheeds, followed by the Canadian-built North Stars, then the long-range Super Constellations, and in 1955 the turbine-powered Vickers Viscounts. On April 2, 1960, Trans-Canada Airline introduced the Douglas DC-8 jet liner, and on February 1, 1961, the 425-mile-per-hour 108-passenger Vickers Vanguard turbo-prop airliner.

Today, stated the speaker, T.C.A. has a staff of about 12,000, a fleet of 81 turbine aircraft, and is the world's eighth largest commercial airline.

At the previous week's meeting, a highlight was the introduction of Cy Bewick into the Club. The ceremony was handled in a capable manner by Rotarian John Chalmers.

Prize winner on Richelieu program

Brownsburg — J. C. St. André, proprietor of the Richelieu Market (Marché St. André) is happy to note that one of his customers, Mme Inès Benoit, was a winner in the Richelieu Market television show (Channel 10, 8.15 o'clock on Wednesday evenings), on August 8 . . . It is recommended that all customers, and all housewives, should watch and enjoy these programs, in which valuable awards are offered.

TIPS

ON HOW TO KEEP BACTERIA UNDER CONTROL IN YOUR MILKING OPERATION

PURINA Io-DAIRY was developed by Purina Research Scientists to be the ideal dairy sanitizing agent for milking machines, utensils, milk tanks, etc. Purina Io-Dairy is so effective that only ½ a tablespoon is needed in a 10-quart pail of water for a hard-working flank and udder wash and teat-cup rinse.

PURINA Io-DAIRY is effective in combating practically all forms of organisms; has a built-in color indicator that tells you when it is no longer effective. Io-Dairy prevents and removes milkstone and it is ideal for cold wall bulk tanks because it is active in cold water.

PURINA Io-DAIRY is just one of the many Purina Chows, Health Aids and Sanitation Products that I carry to help you have healthier stock and better farm profits

Sales tax procedure —

Quebec to give formal authority to merchants

An order-in-council authorizing the Municipality of Lachute to levy a two percent sales tax, was passed at Quebec on August 1. Storekeepers, however, have no authority yet to collect this tax. When the tax becomes collectable, merchants will be formally notified by the government authorities. This will probably be around the first of September.

As previously stated, the tax levy will be effective in the "trading area" comprising Lachute town, Ayersville, Brownsburg and St. Jerusalem. Proceeds of the tax must be remitted to Quebec, and the revenue department will then return to the respective municipalities their share pro rata of population.

Hypothetical estimates place the respective revenues approximately as follows — Lachute, $98,000 a year; Brownsburg, $34,000; Ayersville, $22,000; St. Jerusalem, $10,000. It is repeated, these forecasts are only approximate.

The sales tax, as well as the increased water tax, became necessary in order to finance the filtration plant and waterworks improvements. In preparation of this year's budget, it is recalled that the Council was called upon to raise supplementary revenues of around $81,000, of which $61,000 was for the filtration plant and $20,000 for varied other expenses. The business tax also had to be revised, to help meet this demand.

Property valuation in Lachute is in the vicinity of $10,322,900. Estimated revenue for the year is $354,000, and expenditure $351,000.

Accident on bridge victim's body found next day

The body of Yves Monette, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Monette, Brownsburg, was found some 200 feet from the Pine Hill Bridge on the West River last Sunday morning. The youth was the victim of a Saturday evening accident on the bridge; the fatality was not known at the time, however.

According to Provincial Police, who investigated the mishap, a car owned and operated by Gerard Denis, 22, of Brownsburg, went out of control on the bridge and crashed through the railing. Denis and Louis Clement, 22, also of Brownsburg, were pulled from the car in an unconscious condition, and were taken to the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury. Searchers found no indication of a third occupant of the car until early the following morning.

No date has been set for the inquest.

Youths arrested for vandalism

Two Ville St. Michel youths were arrested by local Provincial Police officers in connection with some 15 acts of vandalism in camps in the Mille Isles area, in which damage was estimated to be in excess of $2,000.

Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, officer in charge of the Q.P.P. detachment here, reports the youths were released in the custody of their parents, pending their appearance in Juvenile Court.

Tells evolution of skiing, to today's popular sport

At the last meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, held at the Brownsburg Legion Hall, Rotarian Ross Cole, director at Ayers Ski Centre, gave a classification talk on the history of skijng.

He outlined the origin of the sport, which was a means of transportation in Norway over 4,000 years ago. Historians have found crude forms of today's skis in the bogs of Norway dating back to the early 1600's.

The first official skiing competitions were held in Oslo a couple of thousand years later, in 1862, and competitive events spread quickly through Europe.

Berlin, New Hampshire, was the first of the U.S. ski clubs to be formed, in 1882. A note of interest is the fact that Britain, though with only a very limited snowfall in the highlands of Scotland, has the largest ski club in the world today, and members travel throughout the world to practise the sport which they started in 1903.

Skiing is the second largest family sport in the world today.

The first signs of skiing in Canada date back to 1840-50, when the Fins and the Norwegians moved here to farm, and found the winters suited to this means of travel.

Over the last few thousand years skiing has developed from a means of transportation and survival to one of today's most popular sports.

New schedule of increased business taxes adopted by Council to boost exchequer

The new business tax schedule, adopted by the Town Council on June 14, became official and effective on July 1. The by-law deals with fees imposed on business establishments, permits and licenses for all lines of commerce, and it is, in effect, a complete revision of By-laws 172, 180 and 190 and their various amendments.

It is estimated the schedule of fees will produce a minimum revenue of $35,000 to the corporation, as compared with $19,000 paid into the exchequer in the last fiscal year.

Article 9 of the present by-law specifies that all licenses issued up to July 1 are for a one-year period (no fractional rates). For issuance any time after July, the license, effective till the following January 1, shall be payable at half raate.

The by-law and schedule run to 15 foolscap pages. Published hereunder are the yearly license fees for the most common lines of business in this community:

Memorial service, Grande Fresnière, on Sunday, 26th

Next Sunday will be a big occasion for members and adherents of the Grande Fresnière Presbyterian Church, when they hold their annual Memorial Service — to which all friends and district residents are cordially invited. Service will be held at 2.30 p.m. on August 26, with Dr. Donald M. MacMillan, of Pte. Claire, as preacher.

Having its origin between 125 and 150 years ago, this is one of the oldest churches in the County of Two Mountains. The annual Memorial Service is a highlight among those most interested in the welfare of this church.

Contract given for landscaping dykes

Recent contracts given out by the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission include an order for landscaping the north and south dykes at Carillon, for the sum of $22,191.90. The job has been awarded to a Montreal company, Fontaine Paysagisme Ltée.

Other companies tendering for the contract were Three-Star-Paving Reg. and the Valley Paving Co. Ltd.

Midsummer dance successful affair

The midsummer dance, held at the Lachute Golf Club last Saturday in aid of the building fund for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, proved an enjoyable affair. This annual dance is organized by the Advisory Board of the C.N.I.B. of Argenteuil.

Mr. Leopold Carrière, chairman, expressed sincere thanks to all who had assisted in selling tickets. He also thanked the Women's Auxiliary for their help by raising additional funds.

The winner of a $50 bond was Mr. H. V. Elliot; the consolation prize went to Mrs. E. Hazel. Two door prizes, leather purses made by the blind of Lachute, went to Mrs. J. Brunelle and Mrs. Raymond Beaulieu.

Varied business for city fathers, Town Council adjourned meeting

Mayor Fernand Legault was back from vacation to chair an adjourned meeting of Council last Wednesday, when aldermen were given official returns fom the referendum to permit a building by-law amendment in two zones. In consequence of this result, a building permit was granted forthwith to the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church. (Work has since been resumed on this construction.)

It was decided by the councillors that, since the Bell Telephone has been disrupting sidewalks and roadsides in process of cable-laying, repair work would be executed by town crews but at the Company's expense.

Aldermen L. W. Armstrong and Dr. L. Middleton moved that payments of $15,000 and $20,274.05, respectively, be made to Francis Hankin (suppliers) and O'Connell and Pollock-McGibbon (contractors) — also $6,343.32 to Lorrain, Tourigny et al. (consulting engineers) — in connection with work at the filtration plant.

Ald. Urbain proposed that a detailed plan of homologation lines on the north and south sides of Main Street, from Lacasse Automobiles premises to Barron's Bridge, be drawn up in accordance with the expropriations by-law.

On motion of the fire commissioner, Ald. Armstrong, the fire department was authorized to spend $40 for an outside exhaust installation on the hose-dryer.

It was approved to lay sidewalks down the north side of Henry Street, between Mary Street and Barron Ave.

Two offers from Aldège Filion, of tracts of land to widen certain streets, were entrusted to the roads committee and the surveyor, Arthur Laframboise.

Lucien Deneault was engaged as superintendent for the filtration plant, at a salary of $75 a week.

Ald. Dr. J.-P. Dorion was absent from the meeting.

President's prize for safety record, Brownsburg C-I-L

Brownsburg — A safety record of 991,400 injury-free manhours was achieved last week by employees of the Brownsburg Works, Explosives and Ammunition Division, of Canadian Industries Limited — K. W. MacGibbon, works manager, announced on Monday.

The record, Mr. MacGibbon said, wins for the employees the President's Prize, one of four awards under C-I-L's no-accident record plan. The employees will be presented with individual prizes at a later date, in recognition of winning this award.

Swimmer killed by motor boat at Lake Dawson

Mrs. Edna Cunningham, a 37-year-old Verdun resident, was instantly killed at 7.05 p.m. on Wednesday of last week when struck by a motorboat while swimming in Lake Dawson, near Lakefield. The body was recovered the following morning.

The driver of the boat, 17-year-old Kenneth Munro, a resident of St. Lambert, was released in the custody of his parents pending the inquest, which was held last evening in Lachute. A jury hearing evidence under presidency of the district coroner, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, gave an "accidental" verdict with a rider recommending stricter legislation on boats and qualifications required to operate them.

St. Eustache girl in Sask. fatality

Kindersley, Sask. (CP) — Aileen Colvin, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lea Colvin, of St. Eustache, Que., was killed and four others injured in a two-car collision near Kindersley last Friday.

Injured were Mrs. Colvin, her daughter Virginia, 10, Anthony Leah of Kamloops, B.C., driver of the car in which they were passengers, and Douglas Wolfe of Burr, Sask., driver of the other car.

The four were brought eight miles to hospital here. Mrs. Colvin, later was flown to hospital in Saskatoon, 120 miles northeast. Condition of all four was reported as "serious".

Montreal boy, 14, detained by police after knife attack

A 14-year-old Montreal youth is presently being detained by Provincial Police on a grievous assault charge, following an incident Camp Chapleau, Montfort. He will appear in Juvenile Court.

According to Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, two youths were involved in a misunderstanding, when the accused allegedly pulled a knife and plunged it into Jean Robert Baeher, 16, of Gouin Blvd. E., Montreal.

Realizing his actions and fearing the worst, the youth ran into the woods and Provincial Police, when notified, searched the area until 3 a.m. in an attempt to find him. Cpl. Dinelle requested use of the Q.P.P. search dogs for the following day, but the youth was found walking around Kelly Lake, about a mile from the camp, around 11.30 a.m., just 24 hours following the incident.

The victim was treated at the scene and rushed to hospital in St. Jerome, where he is reported to be in satisfactory condition.

W.I. ladies win handicraft prizes

Members of the Women's Institutes of Quebec were awarded prizes in the annual handicraft competitions sponsored by the Q.W.I. in co-operation with Salada Foods Ltd., the Canadian-owned packaged food company.

In a contest for Tablecloths; first prize was won by Mrs. Leslie A. Gibbons, R.R. 1, Arundel; and third by Mrs. Lawson Kennedy, Morin Heights.

In the Afghan or Ladies' Sweater class, Mrs. Lawson Kennedy, Morin Heights, took second prize.

Winners were announced during the recent annual convention at Macdonald College, and the cash prizes were presented by J. Roger Cousineau, for Salada Foods.

Tourists answer questionnaire on Quebec Province

Quebec (CP) — In Quebec City, Provincial Secretary Lionel Bertrand called a press conference to show the results of a survey taken among visitors from outside the province. A total of 1,906 tourists from 42 States and eight provinces answered a tourist questionnaire.

The great majority, said Mr. Bertrand, placed "the French face" of Quebec as its number one attraction. This aspect of the province was followed in order of preference by scenery, courtesy and hospitality, the city of Quebec, food and lodging, and churches and sanctuaries.

Only a few of the visitors expressed criticism over language difficulties.

The disclosure, it was thought, could give organizations like the St. Jean Baptiste Society an added spur in campaigns being held in some regions to give a French flair to communities, not to mention the Tourist Department's own quiet campaign along the same lines.

Mr. Bertrand had another disclosure to make about the tourist trade. His department had received a few complaints — he declined to say how many — from Negro tourists who had been refused rooms. . . . This will not be tolerated, he said, and each case brought to his department's attention is made the object of special inquiries. Government services had been in contact with the establishments concerned.

'Accidental' verdict returned by jury in fatal cell-block fire at Brownsburg

A verdict of accidental death was delivered by a jury following testimony of 13 witnesses, at an inquest held last evening in Lachute Auditorium under direction of Joint District Coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, enquiring into the death of Russell McLean, 44, of Brownsburg. Key witness was Sgt. Roland Lepine. Lepine was in charge of the Brownsburg police department in the absence of Chief Roger Boutet, who was on vacation at the time of the disastrous fire which destroyed the municipal offices and police station, in which McLean was confined in a cell.

In describing the incidents which preceded McLean's death, Sgt. Lepine stated he received a call from the Flamingo Grill around 9.50 p.m., after McLean had been ejected. "Arriving at the scene accompanied by Constable Albert Vary, we saw McLean on the street and took him to the police station. Before placing him in a cell, I took two books of matches from his pocket and placed them on the desk, while Cst. Vary telephoned the hotel to see if the proprietor was prepared to lay a charge against McLean." With an affirmative reply, the man was placed in the cell. The officer then stated they left the police station to get a guardian to stay with McLean; in doing so, they locked the office door, but not the main entrance or the door leading to the cell room. While en route to get the guardian, they spotted a speeding car and gave chase. And they were shortly notified by a motorist that the police station was on fire. They were absent about five minutes, according to the testimony.

"We immediately headed for the police station and, upon arriving, attempted to gain entry to the cell room to free the prisoner. Dense smoke, which appeared to be coming from the cell room, prevented our getting into this portion of the building." According to this witness, the officers remained on the scene for approximately an hour and a half, until the body was recovered, and they stated they were not in the habit of leaving a prisoner alone in the building.

Cst. Vary, when called upon to testify, stated that Chief Boutet had instructed him not to leave a prisoner unattended, and the Chief collaborated this statement. Cst. Vary added that in his several attempts to free the prisoner, he did not hear any sound from the cells, and he was sure the fire was located in the cell room.

"We did not feel the prisoner would cause any trouble as we both knew him, and therefore did not hesitate in leaving him alone while we went to pick up the guardian," he said in closing.

Dr. Jean-Paul Valcourt, Quebec Provincial Police medico-legal expert, stated he had performed an autopsy on the victim and declared the death due to carbon monoxide asphyxiation. He added that the corpse was slightly burned and carried no mark of violence. The victim was in a state of alcoholism at the time of his death, as the blood test revealed an alcohol content to indicate the consumption of four small bottles of beer or six ounces of whiskey. However, he pointed out, "There was nothing to say he was intoxicated and he definitely knew what he was doing."

Q.P.P. Officer Emile Descours stated he conducted an investigation into the fire-damaged building, and the most severely damaged portion of the building was in the cell room area, he said.

Ernest Moderie, co-proprietor of the Flamingo Hotel, stated he saw the victim in the hotel three times during the evening, despite the fact he had been banned from the establishment since November of last year. His partner, Roger Desjardins, stated he had known the victim for some two years and had seen him in the tavern where he had been moving around to various tables and also drinking outside the hotel. He added that he called the police to take McLean from the hotel, but he had left the building when the police arrived, and they apprehended him outside the hotel. In closing, Mr. Desjardins stated he was sure McLean "knew what he was doing."

Other witnesses called were Messrs. Fernand Brisson, Wm. Hamilton, Harvey Wilson and Henri Rabi.

H. Soloman, Q.C., representing the family of the deceased, obtained permission to call and question two witnesses who offered contradictory testimony to that of the police officers. These witnesses were Messrs. Theodore Zimmer and George MacDonald, both of Brownsburg. . . .

Mr. Zimmer stated he saw the police car and Sgt. Lepine stopped on Maple Avenue at 9.30 p.m., and again 20 minutes later when the police officer was apprehending a car. He added that, at 10 p.m., someone telephoned the drugstore to enquire as to the location of the fire, and at the same time, the police car went through the intersection with the flasher in operation.

Mr. MacDonald stated he received a call from Mr. Hamilton (who had testified earlier) while he was working at a restaurant on Main Street, enquiring as to the whereabouts of the policemen. He added he tried to locate the police, and that it was a good ten minutes from the time of the phone call before he saw the police vehicle heading towards the fire.

The coroner's jury, under the chairmanship of J. O. Portelance, debated six minutes before returning a verdict of "accidental death" with no criminal responsibility attached and no recommendations.

Premier spells Quebec sentiment at C.N.E. opening in Queen City

"QUEBEC THIS WEEK" — By John Yorston

Quebec (CP) — It's getting to be something of a habit for Quebec premiers to visit Toronto for one reason or another. Up until the winter of 1960 it was something that did not happen very often.

Antonio Barrette, the Union Nationale premier who held office for six months during 1960, broke the ice to become one of the first — if not the first — premiers of the province to speak in the Ontario legislature.

Now, Liberal premier Jean Lesage is treading the trail broken by Mr. Barrette. In fact, he's covered it twice this year, once to receive an honorary degree and the second time to open the Canadian National Exhibition, last Friday.

On both occasions, as he has done whenever he has spoken outside Quebec, Mr. Lesage outlined what he feels the people of the province want from Confederation. And on both occasions he has expressed the thought that Quebec's people have a place to fill within Confederation. "They intend to take the place they are entitled to, and not the one that someone else might think they should occupy."

When he opened the Canadian National Exhibition he added that Quebec's desire to play her role within Confederation was not a question of offending anyone, or of being unfair to any fellow-citizens. "Our people simply want to play a greater part in the framework of our Confederation; they wish to become, much more than in the past, an interested, wanted and active partner."

When he accepted an honorary degree from the University of Toronto in June, and again when he opened the "Ex", Premier Lesage said the honor was meant more for the people of Quebec than for himself personally.

"Canadians," he said, "are intrigued by the present evolution and progress of our province. The fact is that the people of Quebec are establishing a new way of life, and in so doing are preparing to play a role that is rightfully theirs under the constitution and that will be to the greater advantage of all concerned."

He expressed his "profound belief that the French-Canadian people, by their very presence, contribute a very great deal toward giving Canada as a whole a real identity, and enrich the cultural heritage of our nation."

Centre d'Art moves Sept. 1 to McArthur's Hall

McArthur's Hall, the scene of meetings, receptions and assorted functions over the past half-century, will be new headquarters of the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil, commencing September 1.

Sections will be partitioned off for the permanent activities of the Centre, namely, art and diction. The changes will be completed in time for the coming season's courses, which will be announced shortly.

McArthur's Hall was built in 1914 at the same time as the present R. McArthur & Son Ltd. establishment. It has served for regular meetings of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and has witnessed the celebrations of hundreds of wedding parties over the years, besides political rallies and meetings of many organizations.

Removal of the Centre d'Art from the nearby Rio Theatre building was made necessary by the acquisition of this edifice for a commercial establishment.

All students and friends of the Centre d'Art are requested to take note of this new location, at 360 Main Street, Lachute.

W. Institute fund for senior citizens' Home project

The "Home" committee of the Argenteuil County Women's Institutes met recently to discuss ways and means of raising money for the Institute Home for the Ageing.

This project was conceived some years ago and, when a bequest was received for such a home, the branches became active in raising funds.

Those who have attended whists, teas, concerts, or have given In Memoriam donations, can be assured that the project is still considered feasible. Several properties have been suggested, but up to the present, the accumulated bank balance has not been sufficient to buy one, although hopes are still high that it may be possible some day.

Local invention featured in U.S. science magazine

The new pull-open envelope made by Sesame Envelopes Ltd., Lachute, is featured in the September issue of Mechanix Illustrated magazine. The pull-open envelope won the national science publication's Bright Idea Award of the month. The award consists of a full-page editorial in the magazine and a $50 cheque.

Pull-open envelopes — most of them with a thread under the flap — are not new, but none have obtained approval from the United States Post Office. They say the rip-strip envelopes get fouled in the automatic cancelling machines.

However, a Lachute man, Rene G. Paulson, has derived an easy-to-open envelope with a narrow strip of polyethylene attached to the inside of the flap. The left-hand edge of the tape is a tab, that doesn't overhang the envelope and can't fool machinery. This is the new pull-open Sesame Ltd. envelope. U.S. manufacturers are hoping that the U.S. Post Office Department grants a seal of approval to these envelopes, says the magazine report.

By BOB ATCHISON

Good news for the river fishermen. The Northerns are starting to respond, in a big way. A couple of friends from Montreal were up for the day; they started fishing just below the Black Bridge, and ended up near Bourbonnière Camps. All kinds of fish were taken, by the spinning method. Not until they were on their way back, though, did they get a good one. Most of you river men know the creek that runs into the North below the Mill. This is the creek that supplies the town with water. Well, just about 200 yards above this spot the first Northern was taken, a fair-sized one of over 9 lbs.; then the second, right at the mouth of the creek, a 14-pounder.

Both these fish gave a very good account of themselves, and they should have been released, for after all they did give some terrific sport. However, these were the largest fish these visitors had ever caught, so it was natural they should want to keep them. Believe me, never have I seen two happier fishermen. Grins from ear to ear. And I have no hesitation in saying, if these men were asked where the best fishing was to be found, Lachute and district would rank up top. Bill Knox, who has done a lot of spinning, is now a confirmed Northern man. But, just to show how things go, Fred Pritchard, who has never fished seriously and was given the fundamentals on spinning before going out, was the hero of the occasion, catching the largest fish. I have an idea he will be back, with all the equipment he can lay his hands on!

Of course, true fishermen in this district don't consider anything but trout. So I'll give you the latest on this variety. . . . The creeks are still very good, and the lakes are improving with Greys all the time. Louise is still very high on the list of producers; nearly all the fish I have heard of seem to come from the western end of this lake. They are being taken on trolls, and seemingly not too deep.

However, in some of the lakes Speckled trout are being taken regularly with flies, and all the creeks are very good with this type of fishing. One of the creeks I fished was unproductive with any of the flies, until I used a Blue Dun cut down into a nymph. . . .

You know, if we had to work as persistently at our jobs as we do at fishing, we would probably go on strike!

There are numerous ducks to be seen around; possibly these have been with us all summer, and haven't been spotted. However, with the colder nights they start to get the urge to travel, and it won't be too long before they start to wise up to the imminence of shot and shell. There are a few Mallards, not too far from home; they can usually be seen early in the morning having a feed. Almost every nights small flocks can be seen heading up and down the river. However, it's the Blacks that are the most in evidence, with the odd one of another breed high-tailing it by.

From reports, more and more duck hunters are showing up every year. This may be due to the fact that a lot of serious shooters are scared to go into the bush; and I'm in accord with them on this too. I can see their point. But it won't be too long before the bush-jokers get in on this duck hunting; then anything closer than 200 yards will be shot at. (DC-3's are also fair game.) Most duck men are serious shooters and know their business, but the outlook is not too happy.

* * *

The black squirrels that have been seen in this part of the country for the summer, seem to have taken off, either for better living, or on account of the hawks, kids, dogs and cats that have become too hard for them to handle. I do know there are numbers of hawks around, and these birds sure could clean out the squirrels in a hurry. They cannot be saddled with all the blame, though. Cats — dozens of them — can be seen almost everywhere in the bush. It's nice of you folks to bring your pets up from town, but it isn't nice to let them run loose in the woods. Evidence of their killings can be seen scattered in fur and feathers, etc. It's funny some people have the idea this will teach their cats to become better mousers. All cats have the killer instinct in them, and they sure need no training in this field. Let's hope not too many of them remain at the end of the summer.

A couple of the local boys, B. Lemay and J. Provost, were in the Senneterre district fishing, this past week. From all accounts, and pictures they showed me, they had a good time. One thing they were very impressed with was the Chamber of Commerce hut in that town, which not only went out of its way to make them welcome, but gave them every cooperation in selecting a fishing site. A private camping area was decided on, that left nothing to be desired. The charge for camping, one dollar; this gave them a wooden floor for the tent, electricity, showers, etc. A small store was on the site that carried everything needed, and all at a fixed price. All was plainly marked, so that everyone got the same price; buyers were in no case bilked because they were visitors. Boats and motors could be rented, at a very nominal fee, and no attempt was made to saddle fishermen with unwanted guides. Good fishing was had (Northerns) and these boys will go back to this same spot. . . . Incidentally, the owner of this camping area is an American; maybe this explains the difference.

* * *

I have seen a number of partridge, also ring-neck pheasants. If these birds had any young this year, they are well scattered or well hidden. The partridge seem to be on the increase; on one of my fishing jaunts I ran across a covey of about 20 birds. It is not the first time this has happened, nor in the same district.

I had heard nothing about moose for some time, until last night, when a caller informed me of four of them being seen not too far from town. I'm sure glad of this; I had serious doubts they were still around. With the proud poachers we have in this district and lack of help to our game wardens, it seemed a probability they were non-existent.

With the tragic death of a lady swimmer, run down by a motor boat on Lake Dawson, maybe some form of legislation will materialize to regulate the use of boats near swimming areas. At this stage I know nothing of this case, the fault, or the cause. Also, too many people will feel it is none of their concern. But that is where they are wrong. The more of these so-called accidents we have, the tighter the legislation must become. No one wants this; but if this is the only way people can be made to realize their obligation to avoid tragedy, then let's have the LAWS — the tighter the better.

Knowledge helps in check of plant diseases

Viruses—living "particles" that can't live, move or multiply by themselves—depend on living organisms or hosts for their existence.

The immobile virus "travels" by being carried by one host body to another, says Dr. R. S. Willison, of the federal research laboratory at Vineland Station, Ontario.

Some viruses, particularly the mosaics of tobacco, tomato, potato and cucumber, are highly contagious. These can be transmitted from plant to plant merely by contact and are easily spread during transplanting and cultivation.

Less contagious viruses often are spread by humans when grafting plants or growing them from tubers, bulbs, roots and cuttings.

Insects are "carriers" of many diseases. Viruses affecting raspberries, strawberries, sugar beets, potatoes and other crops are spread by aphids; leafhoppers carry such crop perils as aster yellows, curly top of sugar beets, peach yellows and X-disease of stone fruits. Even microscopic mites spread wheat streak mosaic, fig mosaic, black currant reversion and peach mosaic.

Strangely enough, some of the most contagious viruses are rarely transmitted by insects other than grasshoppers and some beetles which regurgitate while feeding, Dr. Willison points out.

Other, though less common ways of spreading viruses include transmission by nematodes or through seed or pollen. Seed transmission is rare but does occur in beans, lettuce and cherry.

Many plant viruses can be spread in more than one manner. Because of this and the fact that they can occur in weeds as well as crop plants, control is difficult. But, says Dr. Willison, knowing how they are spread is important.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Smart mothers have discovered that motoring with youngsters can be a breeze instead of tornado. The trick is to keep the children — especially the very young — busy and happy.

Here are three of my travel-tested tips: the mystery box, the wiggle platform and the shoe-bag filing cabinet.

The mystery box is a hatbox or fruitcake tin. Before leaving home, secretly decorate it, and fill it with inexpensive toys, wrapped separately in festive paper. Then, on the trip, when the youngsters show signs of restlessness or boredom, produce the mystery box and let them choose one toy at a time. Note: select soft toys, wooden models, drawing books — things that won't hurt the child or distract the driver.

The wiggle platform is a rest or play area in the back of the car. To make one, stack luggage on the floor until it's level with the back seat. Over this, place a crib or air mattress, cover with a quilt. Take a pillow for each child.

The shoe bag is hung over the back of the front seat. Secure it with two bicycle clamps or metal headbands. Use some pockets for clean-up items: paper towelling, a plastic bottle of liquid cleanser, soap leaves, disposable washcloths. Other pockets make a filing cabinet for dark glasses, camera, toys, reading or drawing materials.

Things 'n Stuff

AMERICA — WHERE NOBODY WORKS!

I have often wondered what the reactions of a resident of one of the countries behind or controlled by the Iron Curtain would be, if any one of several American or Canadian magazines were to fall into his or her hands! I am referring only to the advertisements in those magazines. The vast majority of these pertain only to what we are all pleased to call "Gracious Living". Expensive cars, motor-boats, mink coats, liquor, cigarettes, cosmetics, trips to skiing resorts, or luxury cruises to the Caribbean.

Everything is idealized and put on a pedestal, as if it was the only thing that mattered. Take a liquor ad, for instance. It is a seven-color job on slick paper depicting a group of executive-type gentlemen sitting around in a luxurious club, with a bottle of So-&-So Dry Gin prominently displayed. (They never try to depict a Skid Row derelict lying unconscious in a dark alley.)

Or a cosmetic ad, with a lovely lady dressed in lace and lipstick luxuriating in the lap of luxury, with her mink thrown carelessly over the back of a chair.

A group of young people or a complete family unpacking a car-trunk of all sorts of camping equipment — portable barbecue, water-skis, tent and fishing tackle. Everybody smiling and all admiring the most gorgeous scenery.

A dozen different brands of cigarettes, all claiming to have the most efficient filter ever known, and each with an unsurpassed brand of tobacco, without which life would be intolerable.

Advertisements of Loan Companies, actually advising people to go into debt. Appliance dealers offering all kinds of labor-saving devices with the enticing advice, "Buy now, pay later."

We in Canada (and the U.S.A.) are accustomed to these ads. But how would the women of Moscow react to them? Women whose job is to sweep the streets, or load all kinds of heavy merchandise onto ships, or hoist hundred-pound bags of coal onto trucks? I guess that most of them would like to come over here and sample what we are pleased to call "Our Way of Life". But all of them, and most of the men too, would be sure, after scanning these advertisements in our slick magazines, to ask one question — "Doesn't anyone in America ever work?"

Americans glorify their movie stars, baseball and football players. Russians idolize their scientists, professors and technicians—types who are largely ignored in this country except in their own little circles. The average man on the street here could not tell you who was the discoverer of penicillin, but he knows the name of every hockey star or race horse!

But my guess is that very few of our magazines ever get into the hands of a would-be immigrant, or there would be a general rush to North America where everybody is on a year-round vacation — according to the advertisements.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

ANIMAL SENSES—

The new science of bionics reveals that many wild creatures have fantastic "special-purpose" mechanisms: a rattlesnake has an infra-red sense organ which can detect temperature changes of 1/1000th of a degree; a mosquito's hum can cut through any noise and convey a message to another mosquito 150 feet away. Bionics is trying to see how these skills could be copied by man — says Reader's Digest.

WITH THE BLIND —

'You have given me courage'

A young man working in a machine shop did not realize that, in a short time, his most precious gift from God — eyesight — would be taken away permanently. As he worked, his mind was not on the job, since it was a routine operation not requiring too much concentration. However, he had been advised that he should wear safety goggles, as there might be a possibility of an accident. Safety goggles never improved his appearance anyway.

One of those freak accidents occurred that no one can explain. Two steel slivers flew up, and entered both eyes. He was rushed to a hospital but, unfortunately, the doctors were unable to save his eyesight. If he had only worn those safety goggles, he would still have his eyesight and be earning a livelihood.

He was interviewed by a social worker for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Like all newly-blinded people, he felt that life was futile and that opportunities were permanently lost. But after many months of hard work, this young man was able to enter into business for himself, and he is successful in his community. . . .

This has been made posible by the money that you donate to the work in your community by the CNIB. Your dollars have given this young man real courage to go forward into life and prove, to himself and to the community, that people are kind and do want to help.

For example, the Field Secretary, A. C. Zaplaski, called on one citizen in this area who made a generous donation of $300. This was deeply appreciated, as the gift was not anticipated, and the money is being put to good use in restoring the confidence and hope of other sightless people in this County.

At present, financial campaigns are underway in the Arundel district, Morin Heights, Cushing and Grenville, Wentworth and St. Andrews East. These campaigns are conducted by volunteer workers, who receive no pay for their magnificent work. The money is spent for services given to some 50 blind people in the County of Argenteuil. The contributions have also made it possible for the Institute to have an office in the Laurentian District, with headquarters at 145 Drew Street, Lachute. If a volunteer worker is unable to call on you, and you would like to help the Institute with their work — please address your donations to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind at that address.

Legion honors paid at funeral of fire victim

Late Russell A. MacLean

Brownsburg — Former Trooper Russell Austin MacLean, whose untimely death occurred during a fire which partially destroyed the Brownsburg town hall on August 11, was buried with Legion honors at the Harrington Protestant Cemetery on Wednesday last — a delegation from the Brownsburg Legion Branch 71 being present for this purpose. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. C. S. Woods, who conducted the ceremony at the Harrington United Church, with the assistance of Mr. Brown.

Russell MacLean was born at Avoca, Que., on January 15, 1918, and enlisted in the Armed Forces in May, 1941. He served overseas in Britain, Italy, France and Germany, and received a severe head wound in Sicily in 1943. At the time of discharge he was serving with the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards.

He is survived by his widowed mother, Mrs. Ellen MacLean, and his sisters, Mrs. Elsie Warner, of Montreal, and Mrs. Rhoda Hammond, of Las Vegas, Nevada, U.S.A.

Numerous floral tributes testified to the sincere sympathy felt by the residents of Brownsburg and district.

Demerson-Kay

The marriage of Margaret Jean Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald A. Kay, of Shannon Park, N.S., to George Alexander Demerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Demerson of Saint John, N.B., was solemnized Saturday, July 28, with two ceremonies.

The Rev. John Argyros performed the first ceremony in Saint George's Greek Orthodox Church, Halifax, and the second took place in the Church of the Redeemer, Shannon Park, with Chaplain A. G. Faraday officiating, assisted by Chaplain J. Bingham.

Ross Kay, brother of the bride, was organist in both services.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white satin gown with a bell-shaped skirt. The fitted bodice was of white Austrian Guipure lace with elbow-length sleeves and a bateau neckline. Her chapel-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a single organza rose, and she carried a cascade of white roses and ivy.

Miss Betty Learmouth, of Halifax, and Miss Cairine MacLean, of Inverness, were the bridesmaids. They wore street-length dresses of periwinkle blue peau-de-soie with matching headpieces. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums sprayed yellow.

Miss Nancy MacBain, of Shannon Park, was flower girl and wore a dress of yellow nylon with a white flowered headpiece. She carried a basket of white chrysanemums sprayed blue.

Tasso Platis, of Montreal, was the best man and the ushers were Christopher Demerson, brother of the bridegroom, and Anthony Murray, of Dartmouth.

A reception was held in the Church of the Redeemer hall, Shannon Park.

For her wedding trip to Nassau, the bride wore a beige Butte knit sheath dress, with beige and yellow accessories and a corsage of a single yellow rose.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Demerson will reside here in Lachute, where the bridegroom is on the staff of Lachute High School. The bride is a graduate of Mount Allison University and the bridegroom graduated from McGill University and the University of New Brunswick.

Among the distant guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bailey, of Lachute (holidaying in Nova Scotia), and Mr. Bernard Fitch, formerly of Lachute and now of Dawson City, Yukon.

Father performs wedding ceremony in Dalesv'l Church

Dickerson-Hisey

The Rev. W. Lorne Hisey, assisted by the Rev. Clayton Wilhelm, officiated at the wedding of his daughter, Florence Priscilla Hisey, to William Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Dickerson, of Detroit, Mich., on Friday last at 5 p.m. in the old, historic Dalesville Baptist Church, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Newton McKenzie, and during the ceremony the groom sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her only brother, Gordon Richard, wore a Chantilly lace floor-length gown with full skirt made of tiers of lace forming a short train. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a pearl coronet, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Leard, of Peterborough, as bridesmaid, wore a frock of rose peau-de-soie with matching headdress, and carried a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums and rose carnations.

Mr. Melvin Dickerson, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Henry Wilson and Mr. Darrell LeBlanc.

Mrs. Hisey was gowned in pink lace with breath-of-spring mink stole, black accessories, and wore a corsage of white carnations and pink rosebuds. Mrs. Dickerson, mother of the groom, wore a gown of beige organza over a floral silk, with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums.

Following the reception at the manse, the couple left on a motor trip. The bride travelled in an autumn gold peau-de-soie frock with black accessories, and wore an orchid corsage.

On their return they will reside in Greenville, South Carolina; they will both be on the faculty of Bob Jones University, from which both have recently graduated.

Out-of-town guests included — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dickerson and son, Melvin, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. Gordon Hisey, of Moncton, N.B.; the Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Hisey, of Second Markham, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hisey, of Stouffville, Ont.; Miss Ella Jones, of Moncton, N.B.; Messrs. Darrell and Gary LeBlanc, of Moncton, N.B.; Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Herbert Smith, of Lindsay, Ont.; Mrs. Leard and daughter, Nancy, of Peterborough, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. George D'Eall, of Ottawa; the Rev. and Mrs. Clayton Wilhelm, of Chomedey; the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Hindry, of Hespeler, Ont.

Suburban church scene of wedding

Johnston-Lester

The marriage of Beverley Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander George Lester, Town of Mount Royal, to Mr. Allan Douglas Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Johnston, of Brownsburg, took place Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the Town of Mount Royal United Church.

The Rev. Arthur Organ officiated, assisted by the Rev. Harold G. Lester, uncle of the bride. Mr. M. Mathews played the wedding music, and Mr. Rudy Fournier sang during the signing of the register. Standards of white gladioli arranged with greenery were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a gown of white faille appliquéd with Alençon lace and fashioned on empire lines, the bodice having a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands, and the bouffant skirt falling into a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil was held by a matching rose, and she carried a cascade bouquet of cream colored gladioli and blue cornflowers.

Mrs. Roslyn Pytel, as matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Edith Jacobson, Mrs. Beverly Martin, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Claire Ryan, as attendants, were in frocks of silk organza over taffeta in shades of pale blue and horizon blue respectively, fashioned with fitted bodices having scoop necklines and short sleeves, and with bouffant overskirts. They wore bow-shaped bandeaux of blue organza, and carried bouquets of white pompoms.

Mr. Fergus Ryan, Jr., acted as best man for Mr. Johnston, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Smith, Jr., and Mr. Ray O'Collin.

Mrs. Lester, mother of the bride, was in a gown of Guipure lace and gentian blue draped chiffon. She wore a matching hat, and a corsage bouquet of tea roses. Mrs. Johnston, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of rose poult-de-soie appliquéd with beaded Alençon lace. She wore a matching petal hat, and a corsage bouquet of white carnations.

The reception was held in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left for Cape Cod, the bride travelling in a cherry red suit, and wearing a matching hat, and a corsage bouquet of white roses.

An apple in oil company research experiments? At Imperial—yes. Research into how petroleum can assist Canadian farmers and fruit growers is one of many projects carried out at Imperial's laboratories...the largest petroleum research laboratories in Canada.

90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products—and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents.

Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.

Global paradise now near!

Let's give praise to Jehovah God the great Creator and fountain of Life, and his son our King, Jesus Christ.

Does that sound odd at a time when atomic war threatens to sear all life from the earth? Not if you know it is God's time to turn earth into a paradise. When Jehovah planted paradise in Eden it was His purpose for it to spread till it clothed the entire earth. A crazed world cannot block His purpose. During this generation Jehovah will prepare the ground for the global garden by plowing under this present wilderness of evil. At Armageddon he will "bring to ruin those ruining the earth." (Rev. 11: 18). The righteous war will sweep wicked men and frightening weapons from the earth and will bring the power of Satan and his demons to nothing. In its wake no menaces, human or demonic, will remain to plague the global paradise, for only its advocates will survive the war that clears the way before it.

In that new world, the elements will not storm against it, and animals will be under man's loving domination. Disease will give way to health, life will supplant death, love will replace fear, and men will not even learn war any more. Past woes will be forgotten, "for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21:4). An idle dream? No, a divine promise sure of fulfillment.

"For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope."

Late Mrs. Ernest Parker

After a long illness, the death occurred August 14 at the General Hospital, Calgary, Alta., of Susan Barker, dearly beloved wife of Ernest Parker.

The late Mrs. Parker was the eldest daughter of the late Charles Barker and his wife, the former Jane Cruise, of Dalesville, Que.

She is also survived by one daughter, June, of Calgary; one son, Hubert; and two grandchildren, Linda and Susan Parker, of Lethbridge, Alta.; one brother, Robert Barker, of Sacramento, Calif.; and one sister, Emily Barker, of Montreal.

The funeral took place August 16, with interment at Calgary.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all my friends for their many acts of kindness during my recent illness.

Pretty wedding held recently in United Church

Gordon-McOuat

The marriage of Jean Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Kenneth Armstrong McOuat and the late Mrs. McOuat, of Lachute, to Mr. John Linden Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gordon, of St. Hermas, took place recently in the Lachute United Church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge officiating. Mr. Lowell B. Hopkins was organist and the soloist was Mrs. Kenneth Simons, who sang the Lord's Prayer and the Wedding Prayer.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a full-length gown of white silk organza, with a portrait neckline re-embroidered with Swiss lace, short sleeves, and a bouffant skirt with front lace appliqué and back fullness. Her short veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of matching Swiss lace. She carried a spray of white carnations, stephanotis, and ivy.

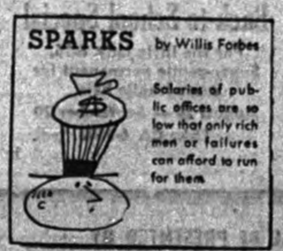

Mrs. Dean Prosser, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Grace Gordon, sister of the groom, Mrs. Stuart Thompson and Miss Rosemary Whinfield were attendants. They wore identical gowns of shell pink silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices, sabrina necklines, short sleeves, and bell-shaped skirts with bands of embroidery in deeper pink. Their headdresses were matching pillboxes with veils. They carried cascade bouquets of deep pink carnations and fern.

Mr. Donald Harrison was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Alston, Mr. Dean Prosser and Mr. Stuart Thompson.

Mrs. Alfred Winter, grandmother of the bride, wore a sheath gown of reseda green silk shantung with matching lace jacket and flower-petaled hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Mrs. Leslie Gordon, mother of the bridegroom, wore an ensemble of aqua embroidered organza over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Following the reception in the church hall, the couple left for a trip to the Maritimes. The bride travelled in a fern green linen costume with beige maribou hat and beige accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman gold roses. Upon their return they will take up residence in Granby, Que.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Presenting Quebec to Western Canada

OUT OF THE recent provincial premiers' conference, the third of its type, came two disclosures of particular interest to Quebec. Premier Lesage reported that one of the subjects discussed was collection of sales taxes on articles purchased in one province by residents of another. The problem was particularly sharp between Quebec and Ontario. To observers and sources in the Quebec Revenue Department, it seemed that Premier Robarts of Ontario and Mr. Lesage were moving toward an agreement whereby sales taxes would be collected by one province for the other.

The premiers also discussed provincial savings bond issues, and reporters in Victoria said Mr. Lesage indicated that Quebec may one day issue its own bonds. Saskatchewan and Manitoba already have provincial savings bonds.

In a number of speaking engagements during his trip through the West, Mr. Lesage gave his views of Quebec's hopes and aspirations, and its conception of Confederation. He said Confederation must be able to adapt itself to changing conditions. "Perpetual adaptation to reality will always be the 'raison d'être' of Canadian Confederation." He said that Quebec's people are putting forth an immense amount of energy to adapt to new social and economic conditions, and that his government is giving "top priority" to education and economics. "In Quebec eveything is stirring, everything is moving."

In another talk, Mr. Lesage said the discussion on Confederation taking place in Quebec is not new, just more widespread because the people are more developed. They wanted to play a bigger part in Confederation, on condition that they could "safeguard those values they believe essential." Confederation had the guarantees, if they were applied in the spirit in which they were conceived.

Season of electrical storms

WHAT CAUSES lightning? Is it really dangerous? What can you do about it? Oddly enough, as simple as the questions seem, few of us know the right answers. This is probably because the odds against being in the path of a lightning stroke are about a million to one.

We can best understand the danger of lightning by knowing its cause. Lightning is a discharge of static electricity, which gradually builds up within a cloud until it breaks through the resistance of the air, and jumps between either charged parts of the cloud, or the cloud and ground. Nine out of ten of these lightning discharges never reach the ground.

Lightning tends to strike high, isolated points in the landscape — solitary trees, towers, buildings, and, of course, people. A human can be electrocuted if even a very small portion of a lightning discharge passes through the body.

What can you do about lightning? . . . Your greatest danger is in open space, or on water, during an electrical storm. Tall buildings in built-up areas usually provide protection. When out in the open during a storm, never seek shelter under a solitary tree. Head for thick woods. You're reasonably safe in a car if it's stationary, or under a high tower if you don't touch its metal parts. Finally, if you're swimming when a storm breaks, head for shelter or land immediately.

Science's less-spectacular progress

NUCLEAR TESTS evidently are considered necessary for their national survival by the nuclear powers. Scientists are carrying out the directions of their governments; in the case of the Western powers, they are striving to perfect these fearsome devices at the request of leaders elected by the people.

At the same time, however, dedicated groups are using humbler but just as modern instruments in efforts to improve mankind's lot in many backward areas. Such projects never rate the headlines given to the atomic wrangles. Yet, they compel the imagination.

One such is finding water in the Syrian semi-desert, the vast plain that stretches south from the Taurus Mountains to the Persian Gulf. It includes the present Syria, Iran and Iraq.

Long ago, when these areas were the birthplace of civilization — the Sumarians, Assyrians, Persians — they must have been much more fertile than today. Water is desperately needed.

The water is there, but it is underground. The UN Food and Agriculture Organization reports that a team of Syrian government and FAO geologists, geophysicists, hydrologists and agronomists have been investigating these groundwater resources.

They have proved that the water is there, and an extra bonus was discovery of artesian water. Already enough water has been discovered to double or triple existing irrigation areas. It remains to be mapped out where boreholes can best be located, through a continued drilling program.

Buried layers of ancient settlements here and there have indicated human habitations 5,000 years old. Yet, the water resources of the depths now are being brought into daylight for the first time.

— This also is scientific progress.

Viewpoints and perspectives

ONCE MOBBED, beaten and arrested throughout Quebec, Jehovah's Witnesses recently finished a peaceful three-day convention in Quebec City — with the official approval of the mayor. . . . In Maclean's Magazine, Hal Tennant writes that Quebec's acceptance of the once-detested Witnesses is a phenomenon that is almost as remarkable as the paradise-on-earth which the Witnesses expect God to establish. . . . The writer attributes this change to several influences. Catholics, he says, have grown less intolerant of most minority groups. Witnesses themselves no longer speak or write of Quebec authorities with the invective they once used. And even before their chief enemy, Premier Duplessis, had died, the Witnesses had won a long series of legal battles to determine their civil rights and Quebec had gotten over its most severe antagonism toward them.

CANADIANS are the most insured people in the world per capita, owning about $50,000,000,000 worth of life insurance policies, according to a report by Tom Alderman in the current issue of Liberty magazine. . . . 'Most' people are pretty confused when it comes to buying insurance, and it's probably that much of the money spent on premiums is wasted because they don't understand the policy."

GOOD TURNOUT. — If there is one redeeming feature about the rather unsatisfactory result of the general election, it is the fact that so large a percentage of the voters went to the polls. This in itself is a good sign and indicates more interest in the administration of the nation's business that it is sometimes thought people have.

— Trenton (Ont.) Trentonian

THOSE WHO PASSED. — The Stayner Sun said that it was not apologizing for giving so much space to the names of all the children in the whole district who had passed into higher grades. It should be a legitimate boast. The publication of such names is a public service and it certainly sells papers not only around Stayner, but also there are copies sent to Aunt Maria in Southern California, to Uncle Dudley in the Klondike and the cousins in the NATO forces.

Such profitable public service is likely possible on this scale only to weekly newspapers. There isn't enough newsprint available for such a complete service by the big city papers. And the radio that can do so many things is unable to provide permanent records for proud parents and happy schoolchildren.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday August 5, 1887 —

Cheap groceries and ready-made clothing. — Jacob Bradford, Lachute (at the lime kilns). — Advt.

Fast driving is complained of in the west end. A dog was run over, and it is expected that children will have the same fate if the street is continued as a trotting course every evening.

Mr. M. Strong, wife and children, of Mille Isles, Mr. J. W. McOuat and Mr. G. F. Calder, are at Caledonia Springs.

While repairing the Wilson mill dam, a great curiosity was found by one of the men — a jelly fish 4 inches in diameter and 2½ inches thick.

Several residents are sojourning at Caledonia Springs for the benefit of their health.

There is quite a sensation over Quoits in the west end, where some nice playing is practiced three evenings a week.

Attention! — Any gentleman wanting to drive with the fastest horse in town, call at J. Newton's Livery Stable. (Advt.)

"Ratepayer" complains (in a letter to the editor) that "a great many people are trotting their horses across the different bridges in Lachute", and that the Council fails to fine any such person breaking the law. No person is allowed to drive over bridges any faster than a horse's walk.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, August 23, 1912 —

The city fathers have installed waterworks, with a promise of hydrants. Now they are placing cement crossings over the busiest corners and streets.

Messrs. F. A. Brennian and H. Banford returned from a five-weeks trip to the Old Country.

Messrs. O. B. Lafleur and Jos. Berniquer have the contract for construction of two abutments for the new steel bridge over North River, to replace Lane's Bridge.

Capt. Ettie Stewart, of the Salvation Army, is on vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Stewart.

San Francisco, Los Angeles and return — colonization excursion $115.50. J. S. Giles, Agent. (Advt.)

Capt. Geo. H. Fergusson of the 17th Hussars (Argenteuil Rangers) is to accompany the Duke of Connaught on his trip to the West. He will have charge of the wire connections and train service during this trip.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, August 5, 1937 —

Lightning caused a fire which completely destroyed the sawmill, engine house and drying kiln at George Dansereau & Fils, Grenville. Between 75 and 100 men will be thrown out of work. Lachute firemen under Chief Geo. Y. Deacon made the 17-mile run over rough roads in 25 minutes.

Jeffrey and Gibby Arnold, riding along the bank of the Grenville Canal on their bicycles, fell into deep water and were rescued by their chum, Donald Pridham, who extended a long branch from the tow path.

The St. Matthew's (Grenville) girls' branch of the W.A. are camping on the property of Mr. Fraser Watson, Cushing West.

Ottawa Citizen: How many readers have heard of the miracle performed by Omer Paquette, 'caterer extraordinary' of Lachute, Que., at a great political picnic at Calumet back in 1907? It had been estimated that 2,500 people would have to be fed; but fully 5,000 electors of Argenteuil, their wives and sweethearts, were at the monster gathering. . . The Lachute caterer was a resourceful man. Borrowing a lumber wagon, he went forth into the Village of Calumet, and commandeered almost every particle of food from the shelves of local merchants. . The multitude was well fed, and the miracle only lacked the gathering up of 12 baskets full of fragments!

Highway stamp issue Aug. 1

The Hon. Ellen L. Fairclough, Postmaster General, has announced that the postage stamp marking the opening of the Trans-Canada Highway will be released for sale August 31, and not on September 4 as previously announced. The date of release has been advanced because of the change of date for the official opening of the Highway to September 3. The opening, to take place at Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park, B.C., had originally been planned for the 4th and the stamp was to have been issued on that datae to coincide with the opening. Since post offices are closed on Labour Day, the day for the release for the stamp has been advanced to August 31.

In view of the short notice given for the change in release date, all "first day covers" received by the Postmaster, Ottawa, before September 4, will be processed.

THE CBC FOREVER?

A tremendous battle is shaping up in the world of broadcasting.

The struggle is not between the CBC and its privately-owned competitors. Rather, it is between the CBC and the overall broadcasting authority, the Board of Broadcast Governors.

The BBG did not wish such a battle. Time after time, it has leaned over backwards to oblige the CBC. Never has it used its powers (which the CBC once wielded) to keep the CBC in line. Yet it has been obvious for some while now that the CBC has been smarting over its loss of regulatory power. It fears, no doubt, that the independent type of judgment the BBG is able to make, will mean that CBC will be obliged, in the long run, to fashion itself to the public need rather than to the CBC ambitions.

A quarter of a century ago, it was thought that the CBC was needed. There was not much money available for broadcasting in those days. Canada's sparse population and vast size made it necessary for government money to be spent. In short, CBC was to fill the gaps which private broadcasters could not serve.

Many of us went along with this theory, believing that as the years passed and the population grew, the need for CBC would diminish. At the worst, the CBC champions then said, the cost of CBC would not be much more than a million dollars or so. Today it is costing more than a hundred million, and at the same time claims it is suffering a "revenue problem." It has shown no desire to have private broadcasters carry any share of the load; it never retrenches, it perpetually expands and it devotes itself to commercial competition while looking down its Corporate nose at commercialism.

Why has the CBC been able to go its merry, costly way?

I think the answer is that CBC has produced a few very fine programs. Not many, mind you, considering the millions of dollars it spends. Yet on the strength of these, it has been able to get away with a scandalous amount of public tax money. It has become so powerful, politicians fear it and cater to it. Newspaper commentators, with ambitions to be seen on TV, are wary of challenging it. And now the BBG, it seems, goes into the ring reluctantly, and it, too, will very likely be brought to its knees.

It appears from here, to be a case of "The CBC Forever". So, Mr. Taxpayer, you'd better be prepared to fork over.

Tillsonburg, Ont. (CP) — Two men from this town near Brantford have purchased two Second World War bombers, to be used in crop spraying and also to drop water bombs in forest fire work.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Letting a man out of prison used to be a simple matter. The door swung open, and he was loose. Blinking in the sunlight, he shambled back into the world.

Often he had forgotten what the world was like. He hadn't been able to cope effectively with it, in the first place. Furthermore, it didn't want him.

Soon he would be back in prison again.

Now they have another idea. If they trust the inmate of a prison, they may turn him loose a little at a time, so that he can get used to the outside world, and freedom won't be too much of a shock.

They let him out for a few hours a week, then a few days. When they think he can stand it, they make him a full-time freeman.

This is an excellent, practical plan for saving the taxpayer money. But some money has to be spent on it in the first place, and governments often are reluctant to hire a sufficient number of trained people to work the plan. Trained people make politicians nervous — especially in the field of welfare.

I don't want to mock a good idea, but could the idea of gradual change be applied to the other end of a prison sentence as well? A prison term might start with an easy initiation — two or three Saturdays in jail before you began in earnest.

The pre-release and pre-sentence program could be applied in other fields of life. For example, the salaried employee's annual holiday. When they turn him loose, he is very much like the prisoner steppping outside the gate. He isn't used to freedom, and doesn't know what to do with it.

Often the poor fellow goes on working by force of habit, at some task that he sets for himself.

A pre-release program would ease the shock. There should also be a tapering-off program before he returns to work. The employee should be allowed three or four days in which he came to his desk or work bench in swimming trunks. This would give him a chance to re-string his nerves to working tightness, comb the sand out of his hair, and get his ulcer vibrating on the proper frequency!

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

"Can I have a pet?"

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Almost every child sooner or later wants a household pet, and should have one if at all possible," states Marianne Booser in her recent book "Growing Up With Science."

Parents, especially those in city homes, are often puzzled to know what to answer to their child's urgent request, "Can I have a pet?" Mothers think of all the nuisance of house-breaking a dog or cat and fathers hesitate about the added cost of a pet.

They realize that a small child is not old enough to be left with a puppy or a kitten. A youngster may squeeze an animal so hard in his efforts to hug him that he really hurts his pet. Then in self-protection, a cat often scratches or a dog growls and may bite his young master, and who can blame the pet?

Some mothers are busy with a new baby or other duties and they cannot constantly supervise a little child's play. If this is the case acquiring a pet might well be postponed until the child is of school age.

In choosing a pet, parents must think, not just of the initial cash outlay and the child's preference but also of the cost of upkeep. Approximately what will the pet's food amount to each month? A child's pet must be in a healthy condition, but if it falls ill, is there money enough to seek a veterinary's advice? During the holiday season, what satisfactory provision can be planned?

Dogs and cats are the most popular childs' pets. Many parents consider a cat less trouble than a dog in an apartment. Any animal needs exercise, and thus it is best not to choose a large dog for a city home.

As well as knowing the cost of the dog tax, prospective owners should find out what are the city or town regulations about a dog being tied up during the spring, summer and autumn months. No matter what pet is chosen, a clean warm bed, dishes for food and water, and a corner of his own, is his right.

Anyone who has loved a pet will not laugh at the phrase "new addition to the family," because that is just what a pet becomes. If it is going to be a continual source of irritation to a member of the household, especially to an older person, such as a grandparent, a mother hesitates to add to family friction. If one person in the family is subject to hay fever or known to possess allergies, do make certain, before purchasing a cat or dog, that the new pet will not be a health hazard.

In recent years among the pet animals in a cage, hampsters have been competing successfully with rabbits, white mice, and guinea pigs. Some children become interested in fish as a hobby and with very little assistance they assemble the necessary things for a balanced aquarium for gold or other kinds of tropical fish. A small turtle does not take up much space and if kept healthy can be a source of much interest.

Canaries, because of their sweet song, have long been very much sought after. But the small "budgie" birds, belonging to the parrot family, who can learn to talk, have had a tremendous sale during the last few years. Pigeons, especially carrier pigeons, are the choice of quite a number of boys living in rural areas.

There is not a toy or plaything which can ever mean as much to a child as a living, loving pet of his own. Boys and girls on a farm who own a number of pets, and who live where there is room for a dog to run around, and where a cat who is a good "mouser" in the barn is a real asset, have a distinct advantage over most city and town children.

Before purchasing a pet, a parent should discuss with the child where the pet is going to sleep and what division of responsibility there will be in training and caring for the new member of the family. This investment demands time and energy and patience. It can pay big dividends in happiness. Children learn a great deal about nature from observing and caring for pets. Pets and children go together and a home is incomplete without both of them.

Special treats in August

— By Consumer Section —

Gardens, fields and orchards are giving forth produce of somewhat mellower flavors, indicating the summer days are fast maturing into autumn. Here the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, talks about a few of August's flavor treats.

Corn-on-the-Cob: Choose ears that have tightly wrapped bright green husks. If some of the husks have been pulled back, look for bright, plump kernels which are free from discoloration. Corn should be used as soon as possible after purchase to ensure its sweet flavor. Very young ears cook in 3 to 4 minutes, more mature cobs in 5 to 7 minutes. Corn-on-the-cob is delicious served with chive butter; to make, blend a tablespoon of chopped chives into every ¼ cup of creamed butter.

Blueberries: Choose plump, dry, clean and fresh looking berries. Split, shrivelled or dull looking blueberries indicate they have passed their prime. A pint box of blueberries contains 2½ cups which is enough for an 8-inch pie or a fresh treat with cream and sugar to 4 people. These berries may be kept in the refrigerator for 2 or 3 days, but it is wise to sort the box if any spoiled ones are noticed in it. Always wash blueberries quickly and gently in very cold water just before using. Delicious cakes, muffins, waffles and pancakes result when blueberries are added to the batter.

Cantaloupes — that are vine-ripened, are usually the best for flavor, sweetness and fine texture. Ripe mellow and juicy cantaloupes have a course looking, grayish-colored netting or veining that stands out and covers the surface of the rind. The rind itself should have a grayish or yellowish tinge and the stem end should be slightly sunken with a calloused look which indicates the fruit came off the vine easily. Mature fruit has a distinctive cantaloupe aroma. Fully ripe cantaloupe should be stored in the refrigerator but if the fruit is quite firm it should be held at room temperature for a day or so to soften.

Watermelon: Nothing is more refreshing on a hot day than a wedge of crisp, juicy and sweet watermelon. Choose melons which are firm, symmetrical in shape and with a good characteristic color. Watermelons that are dull looking or show signs of shriveling or decay at either end should be passed up. It's difficult to tell if a watermelon is fully ripe without cutting into it but it's a generally accepted fact that the harvesters of the melons are good judges of ripeness.

Peaches of the freestone type are coming to market from British Columbia and Ontario and are sold in baskets of 2 to 8 quarts, in quart boxes or by the pound. Peaches are graded for quality when packed and the container is stamped with the grade mark. The grades are Canada No. 1 and Canada No. 2. To select ripe peaches for immediate eating, look at the complexion of the fruit — the background should be yellowish or whitish in color with an overlying "blush". Peaches that are a little underripe will mature at room temperature; ripe peaches may be stored in the refrigerator but as they are quite perishable it is better to use them up quickly.

Field Tomatoes. — Rich in Vitamin-C, meaty vine-ripened field tomatoes for stuffing, slicing, grilling or eating out of hand are another of August's flavor treats. Select ones that are plump with a smooth well-colored skin. Store ripe tomatoes in the refrigerator and hold the green ones at room temperature — out of the sun — to ripen. Tomatoes which have been blemished by growth cracks or scars may be used in salads or cooking as their flavor is not affected. Always wash tomatoes before using.

Do you know your Squash?

In the foreground are the pale yellow Vegetable Marrow and the dark green Zucchini which are known as summer squash. The hard shelled ones in the background are the fall and winter squash, which are at their best when fully matured. Left to right are — the Acorn or Pepper, the bell-shaped Butternut, and the turban-topped Buttercup Squash. The Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggests that summer squash be cut in pieces and cooked with skins on — boiled, steamed or fried. The winter squash can be baked in the shell and also steamed or boiled.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When summer holidays are over and life returns to normal, a woman's fancy once again turns to her home.

And the furniture she will see this fall as she goes shopping for her family's comfort was on display August 13-16 at the annual Fall Furniture Mart in London, Ont.

There is a trend this season towards more traditional stylings in upholstery, bedroom and dining room furniture, tables, lamps, and accessories.

The word "traditional" today takes in the Provincial family — Italian and French. In upholstery, it includes carved wood frames (sometimes in antique white), deep-tufted backs, and softly rolled backs and arms. A pleated skirt valance is often seen.

Fabrics have an elegant appearance with the silky look and pattern of damask or brocade.

"Traditional" also includes the livable comfort of Colonial with its high backs, wing arms, warm-toned wood, valances and cheery fabrics.

In wooden furniture, both the Provincial and Colonial families reflect the charm of the past — various carving treatments, surface design touches and such practical points as lots of storage space.

• • •

Slim, Modern

It is comforting to know that one aspect of the past has not been borrowed in today's stylings — massive bulk. Traditional furniture of today has been scaled for modern homes.

The contemporary line of furniture based on clean slim tailoring and absence of fuss continues to be the major style factor in Canadian trends, both in upholstered and wooden furniture.

Much of the bulky look, once so prevalent in this category, has been smoothed out for a refreshingly slim look that still provides the same comfort. A good example is the bed chesterfield, now so well styled you just can't tell that it hides a bed.

Accessory furniture items displayed at the mart included lamps, record and bar cabinets, telephone tables, metal wagon servers and stands, room dividers, hassocks, pictures and cedar chests.

Many lamps this fall have a Mediterranean flavor with filigreed bases, while others are California-inspired with low bases and deep tapered shades.

Interesting developments in the mattress were featured at the mart. For added health comfort, the posture-zone mattress is constructed so that the centre portion that bears the bulk of body weight is engineered for extra firm support.

Garden Pest

During August, a brownish bug with mottled red or yellow markings, the tarnished plant bug, sets to work on your vegetables, fruits and flowers.

You may have a little trouble finding one as it is only one-quarter inch long and makes a hasty retreat when disturbed.

Can you find something our inspectors missed?

There's one inspector in the Volkswagen factory who is in charge of door jambs. Another makes sure the upholstery is put together with the right number of stitches to the inch. We even have a man who listens to the sound of the horn.

This detailed inspection goes on along the whole production line. And to do it properly we employ 5,000 full time inspectors.

Why not drop in to your Volkswagen dealer's showroom and see if our inspectors are doing their job?

If you don't know what to look for, we'll give you a few hints.

First, look closely wherever two parts come together. For example, where the door on the glove compartment meets the dashboard.

Do the same with all the doors and trunk lids.

And whenever you open something, take a close look around the hinges. Is the whole area smooth and evenly painted? (Door jambs may not seem important, but they give you an idea of how the whole car is put together.)

Take an inside look at the fenders. The underneath is painted like the outside. Four coats. (Have you ever noticed that Volkswagens seldom rust?) Inspect the inside of the luggage compartment. Are there irregularities that have been patched with putty or paint?

When you're all through looking, you'll know why we've sold five million Volkswagens around the world.

Why not drop in to your Volkswagen dealer and become an inspector yourself.

The Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in the Baptist Church on Thursday at 8 p.m. An interesting colored film will be shown. The Rev. Dr. Johnston will be in charge. A very cordial invitation is extended to all.

Harrington

Callers at the home of Mr. V. McVicar last week-end were Mrs. Joan Dobbie, Mr. and Mrs. John Prophet, Mrs. Glenna White and Karen, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Trineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Carrière and son, Greg, of Hawkesbury, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bennett.

Mrs. Andy Formagie and daughter, Channie Lynn, of Montreal, have been spending some time with Mr. V. McVicar.

The community extends congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCullouch, who were married on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bennett visited relatives in Morin Heights on Sunday.

We are sorry to report that Ed Trineer is at present a patient in St. Mary's Hospital, Montreal. Friends in this community wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kennerly and three children, from Northboro, Mass., spent a week with Mrs. Kennerly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bennett. Miss Isobel Fraser, of Lachute, also spent a week's vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett. . . . Other recent visitors included Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McMahon, of Hull, Que., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ogilvie, Ronnie and Lynn, from Halifax, N.S., Mr. Leigh Coffin, of Ormstown, Que., Mrs. John McMahon, Mrs. Bert Meyer and children, of Lachute. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCabe and family, of Smiths Falls, Ont.

Messrs. George and Clarence Bennett, and Mrs. C. Duffield, motored to Bangor, Me., last week-end. Mrs. J. McMahon and Miss Iva McMahon returned home with them, after spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McDonald.

Art exhibition at St. Andrews opens Saturday

The third and final exhibition sponsored by the Argenteuil Art Association this season will be held from Saturday, August 25, to Monday, September 3, inclusive, at the St. Andrews municipal hall. Representatives of the Association will be in attendance from 2.30 to 5 p.m. each day.

Special exhibitor on this occasion will be a successful artist, Anne Harcourt, who has a residence at Cushing, Que. She is an artist with a notable background, being the daughter of the late George Harcourt, Royal Academician and one-time president of Royal Society of Portrait Painters.

Anne Harcourt is a member of the Society of Women Artists in London, and of the National Society of Painters, Sculptors and Engravers, London.

She has held one-man shows in many parts of the world, including London, Washington, D.C., and New York. Her works are mainly in oils, but she also exhibits in pastel and pen and wash.

Mrs. L. T. Porter, president of the A.A.A., and her exhibitions committee, feel confident this exhibition will exceed the expectations of all interested members and art lovers. The public are cordially invited to attend this show, in the municipal hall (above the fire station) at St. Andrews.

Rivington

Miss Betty Jean MacLean and Mr. Bruce Laing, both of Port Colborne, Ont., were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bates.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mr. Bert Smith, of Hawkesbury.

Mrs. Sarah MacRae and Master Lloyd Bates spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith, of Pakenham, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Collins, of Scarborough, Ont., are spending two weeks' vacation at the Balmfirth cottage.

Mr. Jonathan Wood, of Grenville, and Mr. Leslie Kerr, returned from a motor trip to Portland, Maine; Boston, Mass.; Provincetown, Cape Cod; and New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Poulter and family, of Kingston, Ont., spent the week-end at Lac Commandant.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCabe and sons, Ronnie and Dale, of Smiths Falls, Ont., visited in Rivington last week-end.

Trade policy blamed for costs of hog cholera

TO THE EDITOR

Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir :

I would like to draw to your attention some pertinent facts concerning Canada's hog cholera eradication policy.

It has been established that the chief cause of hog cholera outbreaks in Canada is American dressed pork.

Between the years 1952 and 1960 American dressed pork was not permitted into Canada. In this period only three very minor outbreaks of hog cholera occurred. However, in February 1960 Canada opened its borders to American dressed pork. In November of that same year Canada had a major hog cholera outbreak, which was not brought under control until August of 1961. The cost to the taxpayers in compensation money paid for hogs killed during this outbreak was $1,750,000. This amount does not include the salaries and expenses of the Government veterinarians working on the outbreak.

The present outbreak began in June 1962 and is still rampant.

Let us consider the plight of the hog producer who has had his hogs eradicated. If he is a feeder, his premises are closed to hogs for three months. If he then purchases new hogs it will be another four months before his hogs are ready for market. Thus it means that the feeder will not realize any income from hogs for seven months after the eradication date.

If the producer is a breeder, all the breeding stock, which may have taken many years to develop will have been eradicated. His premises will be closed to hogs for a three month period. If the breeder then buys new breeding stock — a difficult thing to do — it means an additional seven months at the earliest before he will have any income from his breeding stock. Thus the breeder will not realize any income from his breeding stock for a minimum of ten months from the eradication date.

This chain of expenses to the taxpayers and loss of income to the producer is directly attributable to Canada's trade policy in allowing American pork into Canada.

Yours sincerely,

Charlie McTeer

DISTRICT NEWS

Brownsburg

Mrs. Claude Hebert, Miss Gale Hebert, Master David Hebert and Mr. Earl Kilner, of St. Laurent, visited Mrs. T. Anderson this week.

Misses Robina and Mary Smillie spent part of last week in Granby with their niece, Mrs. Paul Brosseau, Mr. Brosseau and family.

Mission Circle

The Maple Avenue Baptist Church Mission Circle meeting was held at the summer home of Mrs. J. A. Campbell in Dalesville last week. Mrs. C. E. Prosser gave the topic, "Do You Remember?" mentioning many interesting facts about Baptist missionary work, including the responsibilities of the officers. Mrs. L. Berube led in the devotional period. During the business session it was decided to have the Rev. Robert Malcolm of Montreal as guest speaker for the Thank - offering meeting, which will be held in the church Thursday, September 13, when members of other churches will be guests.

Large Specimen

A mushroom or fungi was found by Mrs. N. E. Smillie last week which measured 33½ inches in circumference. According to some reference books this specimen is edible if gathered fresh and cut in slices while still white; it can be fried with egg and breadcrumbs, and will provide a breakfast for a whole family. However, the information states that none should be eaten that it cannot be identified with absolute certainty.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Kennedy with their sons, Ronald, Donald, Kenneth and Gordon, returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacRae and family in Niagara Falls.

Kilmar

Pre-Nuptial Shower

A bridal shower was held at the home of Miss Florence Moncrieff last Thursday, in honor of Miss Jean MacTavish. Joint hostesses were Eileen and Rita Ellis, and Beryl and Florence Moncrieff. The bride-to-be received a lovely variety of gifts, after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses. Miss MacTavish is to be married September 1 in Kilmar, and will live in Timmins, Ont., after her marriage.

Sympathy of this community is extended to the relatives and friends of the late Russell MacLean, of Brownsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Ellis, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Moncrieff, of Kilmar, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ellis, of Grenville, motored to Montreal on Saturday to attend the wedding of Mr. Robert MacCullough, of Harrington, to Miss Janet Murphy, of Montreal.

Mrs. Stanley Dodd is at present a patient in Montreal General Hospital; friends here wish her a speedy recovery.

St. Andrews East

Mr. and Mrs. Charles North, of Outremount, and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McMahon, were guests of Mrs. G. A. Steeves on Thursday last. . . . Mrs. Jas. Higgs and Miss Rita Higgs were also recent guests of Mrs. Steeves.

Dr. and Mrs. David Shugar, of Warsaw, and their daughter Barbara, are visiting Miss Elizabeth Wales and other friends.

Master Peter Gilpin, of Montreal, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gilpin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patrick, of Westmount, spent Thursday with Mrs. Patrick's father, Mr. W. R. Jeffrey and Mrs. Jeffrey.

Mr. Haldane Robertson, from California, is visiting his sister, Miss B. Robertson. Mr. Hugh Robertson, of Vancouver, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. B. H. Robertson. . . . Enid and Arthur were here for the week-end.

The Rev. Douglas Mouland was guest speaker in the United Church on Sunday morning. He will occupy the pulpit during the month of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Parker and children, of Beaconsfield, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Parker. . . . Miss Stewart, of Montreal, was also a guest of the Parkers.

"It's a lunch box to carry a submarine sandwich."

Grenville

Masters Wayne and Keven Bigelow, of Montreal, are spending their holidays with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Corl Gauley.

Miss Audrey Johnson, of Verdun, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Helen Welden.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pitblado, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carrière.

Mrs. John Shute, of Montreal, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dewar, also visited Mr. Garfield Moncrieff and Mr. and Mrs. Harris Dewar.

Mrs. Dillon, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of the Rev. and Mrs. John Cohen at the rectory.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray, Town of Mount Royal, spent the latter part of the week with Mr. R. B. White and Miss Eva White.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norton and son, Grenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammond, all of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. S. C. Norton.

Mrs. Stanley Dewar and Miss Gertrude Moncrieff, were guests of Mrs. John Clifford on Thursday of last week.

Flowers on the altar at St. Matthew's Anglican Church on Sunday were in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moncrieff.

LEGION NOTES

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

'Tis said a man is only as old as he feels, and today that makes us a gay 100. Must be, because we can't wait for tomorrow . . . that's when the long-awaited annual vacation commences.

If you aren't born rich, inherit or marry into money, the only honest way to get ahead is to keep your nose to the grindstone, your shoulder to the wheel, and your ear to the ground.

Presumably all these must be done at one time. Can you just imagine what kind of shape a man would be in if he had to stay in that position very long?

Coffee drinkers were drygulched several years ago with the introduction of the instant bean.

Many a person has since sworn off, and for good reason. The pungent early-morning smell of old has been reduced to a kettle of boiling water.

Now there appears on the horizon the final desecration of yet another brew.

Quaffers of beer will soon be able to purchase packaged courage in a tiny envelope!

A fellow will be able to carry an entire case of beer right in his shirt pocket. A little tap water puts him in business.

A bartender would be taking a terrible risk in just serving a glass of water to a minor. He might even demand some proof of age.

Beer manufacturers will probably soon be advertising thusly: "Crisp and light and easy to fix, get that good new lager mix."

Practical jokers would have all sorts of fun spiking fish bowls and the office water cooler. Next to come will be instant cocktail mixes, with a second envelope for instant cherries, olives or onions.

Now, if some bright soul comes up with an instant hangover cure, the late riser who views the world through rose-colored eyeballs will be forever grateful.

Inquest on drowning fatality –

Jury request on motor-boats in confined waters; also age and qualifications of drivers

A verdict of accidental death, with a strong recommendation to the Department of Transport at both Quebec and Ottawa to adopt more stringent regulations governing the size of motor boats allowed on lakes and rivers, the age and qualifications of drivers, including tests on "rules of the road" for navigation, and enforcement of same — was returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Edna Cunningham, 37, of Verdun.

The inquest was held on Tuesday evening of last week under the direction of joint district coroner Dr. John C. MacKimmie.

According to evidence given, the victim was swimming alone in Lake Dawson in the early evening of Wednesday, August 15. Kenneth Munroe, 17, of St. Lambert, accompanied by a neighbor and by 16-year-old Carol Hodgson, of Chambly, had been touring the lake (which is less than a mile long by ¾ mile wide) in a boat powered by a 40 h.p. outboard motor. The driver of the boat stated he had seen the woman swimming when he left the wharf, but had stopped to visit a friend for some time and saw no sign of her when he left his friend's wharf. He had gone an estimated 35 feet when he heard a thud and, looking behind the boat, saw the motionless woman floating in the water. He immediaately turned the boat and dove into the water fully clothed, in an attempt to rescue the woman, but she sank from view just as he was about to grab her.

Other witnesses collaborated the testimony of the youth, and gave details as to the search and eventual recovery of the body the following morning.

Liberal Association officially chartered

Brownsburg lady killed Sunday in highway crash

Mme Alfred Tassé, aged 46, of Brownsburg, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital, where she was transported by ambulance last Sunday after a highway collision at Rivière Gagnon, close to St. Colomban. Her husband was taken to the Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome suffering from multiple injuries. Their two children, Richard and Carole, and three occupants of the other car involved, suffered lighter injuries.

Mme Tassé, the former Blanche Brisebois, is mourned by her husband and family of three children, 16, 10 and 3 years of age; her sisters Mme André Roy and Mme Gaston Lacasse, in Brownsburg; also brothers and sisters residing elsewhere.

Funeral rites will be held on Thursday morning at the Brownsburg parish church, from Desforges Funeral Parlors where the remains are now resting.

Death removes member of old Lachute family

Late Finley S. McGibbon

The death of a well-known citizen, Finley Stuart McGibbon, occurred in the early hours of Monday at his home on Grace Street, following several years of indifferent health. A son of the late Peter Robt. McGibbon, M.P.P., and his wife Margaret MacArthur, the late Mr. McGibbon was in his 80th year.

Receiving his education at Lachute Academy, the late Finley McGibbon became apprenticed to the machinist trade with Taylor Bros. at Vankleek Hill. He later joined the William Hamilton Machine Shop at Peterborough; then the Zenith Carburetor Works at Detroit, as plant superintendent; and finally the Marvel Carburetor Co. at Flint, Mich., as production manager. On the death of his father in 1921, he returned to Lachute to supervise the P. & A. McGibbon lumber business — retiring in 1937.

Mr. McGibbon was a loyal member of the United Church choir for many years, and an active member of the Masonic Lodge.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, the former Caroline MacLaurin, a sister, Mrs. Laura McHugh, and brother, Russell McGibbon, both of Calgary, Alta., also his sister (Hazel) Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, of Lachute, besides numerous nieces and nephews.

Masonic rites were observed at his late residence Tuesday evening. The funeral service, also at his home, was held Wednesday in the presence of many sympathizing friends, relatives and fellow residents. The Rev. W. Bridge conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough. Interment was in Lachute Cemetery.

Honorary pall-bearers were — Messrs. Norman McGregor, Ewen Albright, Arthur A. McOuat, Angus Taylor, Geo. F. Calder and Dr. E. Christie.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Russell Elliott, Robin Fraser, Edmund McFaul (immediate neighbors), Keith Pollock, Norman Geick and John Arkell, both of Ottawa.

Juvenile arrested, charged in roadside shooting case

A 17-year-old youth who fired a rifle at passers-by and later shot it out with police, was arraigned in Juvenile Court at St. Jerome last Friday on a charge of attempted murder.

The youth, who fired an antique rifle while hiding behind a clump of bushes on his father's farm at Rivière Gagnon, three miles from St. Jerome in the direction of Mille Isles, started his shooting spree last week. Within a few hours several persons had complained to local authorities they had felt or heard bullets whizzing past them as they walked or drove near the farm.

Q.P.P. officers at St. Jerome were contacted and Sgt. Roland Aubuchon, heading a 10-man police squad, rushed to the area.

The officers were greeted by several shots "from what sounded like a cannon," one policeman reported. Shortly after their arrival, police rushed the youth and managed to disarm him after a brief exchange of shots.

The youth told arresting officers that "my hearing is pretty bad. I didn't know I was shooting."

Sightless citizen honored by friends

A number of male friends met in the Legion Hall last Thursday evening to honor a highly popular, sightless member of the community, Anthony Zaplaski, on his approaching marriage to Mme Lilia Moreno which takes place this Saturday. "Tony", greeted entirely by surprise, was presented with a sum of money, and expressions of good wishes from representatives of many organizations and clubs with which his work has associated him. Mr. Zaplaski is field secretary for the CNIB in Argenteuil County.

Chairman of the gathering was Doug Ogilvie.

Weekly Newspapers' motion aims at safeguarding community records

John Pinckney, publisher of the Rosetown (Sask.) Eagle, was elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the 43rd annual convention last week in Winnipeg.

Mr. Pinckney succeeds J. R. McLachlan of the Virden (Man.) Empire Advance. C. H. Nolan of the Stouffville (Ont.) Tribune was elected first vice-president and K. E. G. Patridge of the Camrose (Alta.) Canadian, second vice-president.

Representing The Watchman at these annual deliberations was Robt. A. Giles, general manager of Giles Publishing House Ltd.

Life Memberships

Honorary life memberships, the highest awards which can be made by the CWNA, were tendered to two veteran newspapermen and a public relations man.

The new life members are Alfred William Hanks, mayor of St. James, Manitoba, and longtime publisher of the St. James Leader; Hugh Templin, publisher of the Fergus (Ont.) News-Record for the past 60 years, and Toronto public relations man Ross Cameron.

Newspaper Files

The Association will ask the Canada Council for a grant to microfilm all the back files of all weekly newspapers in Canada.

A resolution called for an unspecified fund to be set up for use by provincial associations to do the microfilming and set up complete files in provincial archives.

Moved by Jeff. Hurley of the Burlington (Ont.) Gazette, the resolution reflects a worry on the part of many association members that invaluable files containing the history of Canada will be lost forever if not gathered for safekeeping in the near future. Already many papers have incomplete files due to fires, changes of ownership and natural deterioration.

Some weeklies have already been privately microfilmed, but the cost would be prohibitive to the average small weekly newspaper. A 100-year-old weekly would have nearly 6,000 issues for photographing. . . The Watchman, in its 84 years, has accumulated a voluminous stack of files.

John Pinckney, publisher of the Rosetown (Sask.) Eagle, elected new president.

Postmistress tells exciting incident at Banff Hotel

In the quiet of the evening
Just about seven,
Not a person was stirring
To give the alarm,
When out of the woods came
A bouncing brown bear.
He entered the laundry room,
His coat to repair,
And a nurse on the premises,
entering there,
Espied Mr. Grizzly perched on a chair . .

The nurse was Miss Helen Campbell, from Renfrew, Ont., and our informant is Mrs. Victor McVicar, of Harrington, postmistress at Banff Springs Hotel. Reverting to prose in her excitement, Mrs. McVicar continues the story . . .

Miss Campbell called loudly for help, and the policeman arrived on the scene. He closed the doors to keep the bear in bounds, and the warden was called, arriving just in time to see the bear break through the window screen. The officers fired three shots but missed the wary animal, which disappeared unharmed.

Mrs. McVicar, walking down the path next evening, was close enough to touch this bear, not knowing it was a grizzly . . . She remarks that, with 1,100 guests at the hotel and 800 on the staff, this does not deter wild animals from venturing into the resort.

Three swimmers in current rescued from Ottawa River

Three girls, 16 to 19 years of age, while swimming in the Ottawa River at Carillon last Sunday, got caught in deep water of the river, and were saved from drowning only by the quick and courageous action of Jean-Guy Laverdure, of St. Philippe, who was nearby with his motor-boat.

The girls — Desneiges Brisebois, 19, Pierrette Brisebois, 16, and Jacqueline Dinelle, 18, all from Grenville Bay — were taking a dip at a spot above the Carillon Dam where rising waters have submerged the old road. They were drawn into the fast-flowing water, and finding themselves in difficulties, cried out for help.

Laverdure was getting his boat ready for a run when he heard the girls' cries. Jumping into the craft, he was just in time to rescue the three. One of the young ladies, Desneiges Brisebois, had sunk beneath the surface three times, and her rescuer had to apply artificial respiration to revive her.

Butter buffalo at CWNA meet

J. R. McLachlan (right), outgoing president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, points out the well-sculptured horn of an impressive butter buffalo to Charles Nolan, new first vice-president, and Miss Janis Evans, daughter of Manitoba Queen's Printer, R. S. Evans. The butter buffalo was sent to the 43rd annual convention of the CWNA, recently concluded at Winnipeg, by the Manitoba Dairy Association.

Lachute Beagle Club held 2-day dog trials at Cushing

Lachute Beagle Club Inc. held its fourth annual licensed field trial for beagles running in pack under Canadian Kennel Club rules, with headquarters and running grounds at Cushing last Saturday and Sunday.

Running conditions were excellen, with an abundant supply of hare, so that the judges had little difficulty in selecting their top five hounds in each of the four classes.

Judging was capably handled by licensed judges, Messrs. John Matthews, Oshawa, Ont., Joseph Tiede, London, Ont., Karl Dennis, Cornwall, Ont., and Gerald Stone, Hudson Falls, N.Y.

There was a large entry of over 100 hounds, many coming from distant points as far west as Oshawa and across the border from the states of New York and Vermont.

Neighboring beagle club members from Ottawa, Cornwall, Huntingdon, Iberville and Beloeil, comprising the Quebec and Eastern Ontario Association of Beagle Clubs (of which Lachute is a member) gave good support by attending with many top-notch hounds, to make this the most successful trial to date.

The four beautiful trophies, donated by Dow Breweries and their local agent, J. René Laurin, were won by the top hound in each of the four classes. Happy owners of these first place hounds were —

Flt./Lt. David Pue, Ottawa, 13" dogs.

Walter Magoon, Dannemora, N.Y., 13" females.

Orman Ovitt, Fairfax, Vt., 15" dogs.

Hervé Lavoie, Iberville, Que., 15" females.

Two local breeders, Dr. George Coombes and Mr. Geo. McGibbon deserve mention as well. Dr. Coombes' 15" female, Plum Hollow Sweet Marie, placed 4th in a class of 14 starters; and a 15" male, Ranch Dynamo, which Mr. McGibbon raised and donated to Lachute Beagle Club as a pup for a raffle two years ago (and won by Ricky Longtin of Verdun, Que.) placed 5th in a large class of 31 entries.

Dog food for visiting hounds, and also for prizes, was kindly donated by Farmers' Supply Co.

Two large tents graciously loaned by a local company, one serving as an office and the other as a refreshment booth, were set up on the farm of Mr. H. V. Bailey at Cushing, and were used as headquarters.

Mrs. Geo. Coombes and Mrs. Keith Boa took charge of entries and trial results, and along with junior helpers, assisted with the canteen services.

Mr. Keith Boa, the field trial chairman, the club president, Mr. Wm. Steeves, and secretary, Dr. Geo. Coombes, were kept busy with the organization and management of the trial.

Club members feel most grateful to all the citizens of Cushing who did everything possible to cooperate with the smooth running of the packs, by allowing the use of their properties which made the most perfect running grounds to be found anywhere in Quebec or Ontario. Thanks are expressed to all who were involved in any way, either by the use of their property, by assistance given, or by kind co-operation. It may be added that the club would be glad to take into active membership any who feel they would be happy in this type of sport.

Art lovers enjoy pleasing display in current show

The exhibition by Anne Harcourt, currently showing at the municipal hall in St. Andrews, is a fitting conclusion to the series featured by the Argenteuil Art Association this season . . . Fitting, inasmuch as it is consistent with the tenor of art fostered by this group and favored by its members. Anne Harcourt's work is restful, eye-appealing, representational, non-controversial.

Her media are oils, pastels, pen-and-wash; her subjects, landscapes, still lifes and a few portraits. There are almost 30 pictures on display.

Among the landscapes are scenes from Montreal, New York, London, France and Mexico — her buildings and city blocks capturing light and shadow and dimension. The more rural settings include scenes closer to her summer abode at Cushing, and to the hearts of local residents — farms and buildings, locks and shorelines on the Ottawa River, caught before the rising water level obliterated many of the familiar spots, this past year. In the pen-and-wash sketches are sea-shore and harbour scenes in Scotland and in Devon — the landscapes indeed presenting a travelogue in which the painter is ever-observant, ever-conscious of promising and artistic vistas.

The still-lifes include flower arrangements, and the portraits include a striking likeness of the artist's husband, Mr. C. Fleming-Williams, in oils, and the head of Countess Cassini, in pastels.

Anne Harcourt has exhibited for metropolitan audiences of greater number, but for none of keener appreciation than those who have seen her exhibition this week. The show will remain on view until next Monday, with the artist, or friends of the A.A.A. in attendance daily from 2.30 to 5 p.m. The public are cordially invited.

Dazzled driver is grave danger

Every driver is required by law to dim the headlights at approximately 500 feet from a vehicle he is about to meet, or when following another vehicle at a distance of less than 200 feet (unless he is about to pass such vehicle). Many a thoughtless or selfish driver still ignores this rule. In such circumstances, the only way in which the dazzled driver can protect himself is by reducing speed or even stopping his vehicle, and watching attentively the right edge of the road, which indicates the line to follow.

"The Scene" IN BROWNSBURG

(Our District Correspondent)

Receipt of only four applications for the position of Chief of Police will necessitate some further thought and hedging on the part of the Town Council. The last time the job was open, 19 applications were received. Seems the Council is disappointed in the number of applications, and also in the fact that a certain expected applicant did not apply.

* * *

The drilling crew moving about town is obtaining sub-surface samples to establish the make-up of the ground, so as to prepare a cost estimate for possible installation of pipes for the new sewage filtration system.

* * *

The town office, housing Secretary Vincent Charbonneau and Police Chief Roger Boutet (who is still with us), has been moved to C-I-L company house on McMaster Street. Phone numbers remain the same.

* * *

A continuing problem for the town — property sold years ago and measured by pacing of the distance rather than by steel tape! According to recent surveys, five feet of roadway has simply disappeared from Bank Street North.

* * *

Even small country newspapers print readers' criticisms of the publication. Some large city ones do not. A local citizen wrote to the editor of a Montreal daily claiming that statements made regarding the Brownsburg fire were false. He added two short paragraphs criticizing the paper for printing the "eye witness" account of the fire without first checking on its validity . . . The two paragraphs were not printed when the letter appeared in the "Letters to the Editor" column!

Accident verdict in fatal fall at Pte. au Chene

A verdict of accidental death was returned following an inquest into the death of Lionel Menard, of St. André Avellin, victim of an accident while he was working on construction at the seminary in Pte. au Chene. The decision was handed down on Tuesday evening of last week at an inquest held by joint district coroner Dr. John C. MacKimmie.

According to Gilbert Leblanc, foreman of the construction job, and fellow worker Emile Guindon, the victim fell from the roof, a distance of 30 to 32 feet. The incline of the roof was four inches to the foot.

During his fall, Mr. Menard managed to grab a plank. Fellow workers rushed with a ladder to assist him, but as he reached for the ladder with one hand, the plank broke and he fell to his death.

Dr. Biron testified he was called to the scene and arrived a short time after the accident. He pronounced the man dead, and stated at the inquest that he had suffered a fractured skull.

The victim, 36 years of age, was the father of eight children.

Cigarettes seized– evasion of Quebec tobacco sales tax

The owner of an establishment in Grenville will face a court charge following recent investigation by an inspector of the tobacco tax service of Quebec Department of Revenue. Seized at his establishment was a large quantity of cigarettes not bearing the Quebec tax stamp. The seizure was made by a provincial police officer from local headquarters accompanying the government inspector.

It is understood that a similar confiscation was made on the same premises in 1960, when the owner was convicted and paid a fine with costs.

Ottawa River, intriguing topic in Museum talks

Those who attended the lecture at the Carillon Museum last Saturday afternoon were privileged to hear a most interesting review of the history of the "Grand River" — our majestic Ottawa.

The speaker, Mr. Grant Smart, of Montreal, introduced by Mr. Arthur F. Hanly, president of the Argenteuil County Historical Society, related in vivid narrative the colorful saga of the river, from the days of the powerful Red Indians until the close of the most active period of the great lumber industry. The lecturer enlivened his story with amusing anecdotes and incidents connected with families and individuals who played a part in the history of the early days of Ottawa River navigation.

At the close of the lecture Mr. Geo. McGibbon expressed the feeling of the meeting when he thanked Mr. Smart for what was, to all, an interesting and informative hour.

Honor accorded to Dr. A. Hunter, obstetrician

Dr. A. Hunter, Hawkesbury

Dr. A. Hunter, M.B.Ch.B., M.R.C.O.G., specialist in Obstetrics and Gynaecology at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, was recently admitted as a member of the Canadian Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists. This honor was received after presentation of a paper to the council of the Society, following his nomination by Dr. J. S. Henry, Montreal, and Dr. T. S. Nelson, F.R.C.O.G., Edmonton. His paper, entitled "An analysis of nine years obstetrical practice in Canada, with a plea for a return to sanity in Obstetrics", was accepted by the council.

Dr. Hunter has been on the staff of the Smith Clinic since his arrival from Scotland in October, 1952, where he had been specializing in Obstetrics under Prof. Sir Dugald Baird, F.R.S., F.R.C.O.G. He is also a member of the Montreal Obstetrical and Gynaecological Society.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Ducks are in abundant evidence now, the North River being one of the most frequented spots. Even some of the small ponds have numerous birds on them. In one that we stumbled across there were at least 50; Blacks mostly, but there were a few Mallards tagging along. A few Wood duck can also be seen around the West River, more than last year.

According to Ducks Unlimited, however, things are not too good with the flocks. Even in the U.S., steps are being taken to control their shooting. Severe restrictions have been placed on the season and the limits, in the hope that they may get over the droughts of the past couple of years out west. These have been particularly hard on all water fowl, but especially the duck. They have also carried on the closed season of last year on the Canvas Back and Red Head, through fear of their extermination. True, some of the fly-ways have loosened up on restrictions, but generally speaking, limits are lower, with less shooting time. This seems to be in the right vein, and we certainly could develop something of the sort to help out. Goodness knows, the ducks need all the help we can give them.

• • •

A few Mourning Doves can be seen; not as many as in previous years, and maybe they are being shot over too much. Partridge are non-existent in many spots, but there are the few odd coveys of 20 or 30 birds. Plover are in good number, and these should supply a number of good meals. I am not too hopeful for these birds, however, as a number of shooters have already been out. This will apply to the ducks also; it's too bad we always run into this beat-the-season type.

• • •

As most of you know by now, the moose hunting that is going to take place in Laurentide Park will be of the "lettery" type — you fill out a form asking permission, etc., then wait for the authorities to draw your name. I'll bet a good number of "relatives" are going to get in on this, and the minority of serious hunters will have the opportunity of visiting the park for this purpose.

The season was decided on after a three-year study by the Department of Fish and Game revealed that the park was too heavily populated with moose for its size and area. I've wondered just why these animals were not transplanted into some other parts of the Province, those that have been cleared of nearly all game. It is too bad these parks could not be kept as game sanctuaries for the benefit of all visitors. Without a doubt the game in these parks could be moved without much trouble.

• • •

As for lakes being opened up to all types of fishermen, this is a good thing too. However, I have found that this has been in effect for a number of years, supposedly without knowledge of the authorities. Certainly fly fishing should not be forced on everyone; with this I agree and most people will. However, let's look at it in the right proportion. A fly man does not want dozens of fish to take home. The satisfaction of catching, is what he wants; and releasing his catch is one way of enjoying the sport — not stringing them on a line, then throwing them away after he is proclaimed big shot of the party. All too often this happens.

• • •

The summer season is rapidly drawing to a close; and a word to some of the summer visitors. We like to have you in the district, but please leave it the way you found it — CLEAN. Also, we do not like to have to take care of your pets after you have left. These animals deserve your love and care. They should not be abandoned to run loose in the bush, ending up as wild, starved creatures. Think about it for awhile.

• • •

It is time to get ready for your deer expeditions, even though you still have some time to wait. The season has been shortened by one week, and this should help the professional hunters we have in our area. At least, the boys who go out in this later period will be true sportsmen, and not the drugstore type. It's too bad the season hadn't been put back a couple more weeks, then we would not have the shoot-and-kill boys with us for very long. As a matter of fact, the season in this County could be closed for a couple of years, and I don't think this would hurt. We all know there are not the numbers of deer there were. What with the rapid inroads of civilization, and the more numerous shooters coming in, they are slowly but surely being pushed out.

• • •

Thanks to all readers who have taken time and trouble to pass on information on the parks in this province. As I have intimated before, it is not my intention to cause a disturbance, but it's about time something besides hot air was wafted around in this situation.

• • •

The fishing is still good, in creeks, lakes and rivers. The North is producing good perch and the odd Northern pike, and with the water cooling off, this latter species should respond still better. The creeks are very high, but despite this, fishing with nymphs has proved productive. The rain has washed all kinds of food down the streams, and this is the time to try something unexpected. A lot of the feed drifting down is not natural fare for the fish, and they seem to be willing to try anything. The same applies to the lakes. I heard of one case where a moth was used as a bait, with good results. Even crickets have been rewarding. Seriously, this is the time to try anything; you'll maybe get a surprise.

• • •

Heard of another skunk being killed that did not fire its guns when chased. I hope this animal was sent down to be tested for rabies. Any animal that acts unusually at any time should be suspected. It does not pay to take chances.

• • •

Hawks are numerous; most of you will have seen some of them floating over centre-town looking no doubt for a free feed. I like to watch these beautiful birds in action. I know they are killers, but so are many other types of birds, yet they are looked upon with favor. The shrikes are just as bad as any hawk, but we do welcome them on a very cold day in winter. . . . Getting back to the hawks, there seem to be all the usual varieties, right from the Sparrow hawks to the big and beautiful Osprey. These can be seen wheeling over Lake Emily every day, and they must be getting good feed from this little body of water.

• • •

A moose was reported near Lake Louise, or rather, on the road toward the lake, almost getting hit by a car. Take your time while driving at night! It's safer — and more considerate.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

THE MONEY GOES

Disneyland wasn't at all like I expected this fantastic enterprise would be. I knew a large amount of money could be spent on the grounds, but I thought the healthy admittance fee covered the hours that would be enjoyed roaming from Fantasyland to Tomorrowland, or the fun of getting lost in the maze of Adventureland.

Instead there is a charge for everything. A pocketful of 10¢ coins can disappear as fast as the line of waiting humans can be lowered into the hold of an imitation submarine, or filed into the capsule of a spaceflight contraption. And the funny part of it all is, you're happy to pay, to wait and be consumed with anticipation, for there is the assurance that the imagination that created Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse has something gay and wonderful in store for you.

Walt Disney has said that Disneyland will never be finished. I can well believe this. Even as Ricky sailed on a raft to an island where he lost himself for 45 minutes in the caves and caverns of Tom Sawyer's Hideaway, I watched men at work on a gigantic Swiss Family Robinson tree hut being constructed in the biggest tree in the grounds. Below them in the making I saw a huge pool where 20 elephants would soon be cavorting.

Around the island the old river boat puffs and chugs its way, tooting to the little old fashioned engine pulling its capacity load of laughing passengers, enthralled with the animated animals realistically grazing in the nearby wood that separates the mainland from the river.

One enters Disneyland on Main Street. This is a true reproduction of a Gay Nineties home town street scaled down, so that the imagination of a child can orient him at once with his surroundings. Sleeping Beauty's Castle, the Matterhorn, even the stockade in Frontierland, are all built on the same scale.

Potential Movie Stars?

Our guide, a pert miss in a fantastic costume which in itself set the theme of fantasy, said it would take 72 hours to see all of Disneyland and participate in every one of the games and rides. The average spent, if the grounds are not too crowded, ranges around the twenty dollar mark per person, she informed us. These guides meet every bus. They are personality types with rich tans, pearly white teeth, shiny hair and pretty legs. They wear culottes of red plaid barely covering their knees, huge red capes and of all things, black velvet riding caps.

We stood in line for everything from a ride at a whiz on the monorail to the purchase of a nickle popsicle. And all we did was sigh with pleasure. We were, in Ricky's estimation, really living it up!

This we could easily realize, was the land of make-believe brought to life. We didn't mind being bumped and jostled; we didn't fret at the long waits; we hardly noticed the droves of humanity, or assessed the artificiality of this papier-maché world. The mind that created all this has given the children of earth a dream that is real and wonderful, exciting and satisfying.

Poor Khrushchev! He wasn't allowed to enter this kingdom of fantasy when he visited California. What a pity! It might have given him a dream to hang onto, instead of a missile with which to threaten the world.

From Disneyland our bus whisked us over another thruway to Knott's Berry Farm. Unlike Disneyland, every attraction here is free. As a consequence, another cool million or so bodies panned for gold, applauded cowboy singers in the old covered wagon corral, wandered down the mouth of a goldmine shaft, and tickled the nose of the old prospector's donkey. It is done well and is making a million for the Knott family who turned their orange grove into this authentic reproduction of an old gold mining ghost town.

Where do they make their money if everything is free? They sell jams and jellies presumably made from Knott-grown berries, delicious chicken dinners and, you guessed it, souvenirs and gifts.

Sees 75 funerals after Labor Day

The Province of Quebec Safety League estimates there are going to be at least 75 funerals in Canada due to accidents around Labor Day. The names will be in the papers, and heading the list will be drivers mixing the bottle with the throttle.

"Labor Day", said President Nathan Steinberg of the Safety League "was never intended to be celebrated by killing and maiming humans and smashing cars on our highways. It was never intended to result in sorrow and grief for a mother or a father due to the drowning of one of their children.

"Labor Day was established to honor the dignity of work, and the contributions of labor to human progress."

The president of the Quebec Safety League urged each Canadian family to give thought to the purpose and spirit of Labor Day, and to make their plans for a safe and enjoyable holiday.

SPACE SCOREBOARD

TNS

130 TO 6—That's the score in the space race, with the Soviet Union having launched four astronauts for a total of 130 orbits compared to the six orbits of the two U.S. astronauts. Eighteen months after Yuri Gagarin made the first orbital flight, the Soviets sent up two astronauts one day apart and brought them down three and four days later, respectively. Next stepping stone to the moon is expected to be orbiting of a two-man capsule and a rendezvous in space between two capsules. President Kennedy admitted Soviets had scored a big gain but said U.S. was working hard "and will be heard from."

Soiree and prizes follow week-end fishing contest

About 80 enthusiasts took part in the fishing contest last week-end sponsored by Lascelles Sport Shop under auspices of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association.

The soiree concluding this event last Sunday at the Roger Lascelles establishment provided an enjoyable climax. A bean supper was served, followed by the prize distribution, drawing for door prizes, and a dance for members and guests.

Cash prizes of $10 given by Mr. Lascelles were won by — Georges Dallaire, Jean-Guy Gagnon, Patrick Lalonde, Florian Raymond and Raoul Beauregard.

Other awards were won by — Daniel Guibeault, Armand Guibault, Maurice Raymond, Philippe Lafontaine, Barnard Boyer, Ernest Villemaire, Claude Dulude, Gaston Gagnon and John Cleary.

Donors of prizes included — Leonard Bedard, Laurent Tessier, Bedard Ltée, Armand Rochon and Gaston Plamondon.

DRINKING AND DRIVING DO NOT MIX

Fine whisky is a luxury and should be treated as such. And, knowing when to say "no" plays a great part in the art of sensible living.

Neither whisky nor any other alcoholic beverage has any place at the wheel of an automobile. This conviction must be shared by every thinking person who drives a car, particularly this Labour Day week-end when many holidaying families will be travelling on Québec highways.

If you expect to be at the wheel of a car this week-end, we say to you: Think before you drink. Don't drink before you drive.

Tribute to former lady resident of St. Andrews East

The late Mrs. J. D. McLeod

Funeral service for Annie Hyde, widow of the late John D. McLeod, took place at 1.30 p.m. on Monday, August 25, at the United Church, St. Andrews East.

The Rev. Dr. Doxsee, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue United Church, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. W. Bridge, of Lachute United Church.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ian Naismith, Peter McLaughlin, Howard McOuat and Arthur Fournier.

The chief mourners were her daughter, Miss Phyllis McLeod, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue; her two brothers, Messrs. Ernest and Thomas Hyde, of St. Eugene, Que., her cousin, Mr. Charles Hyde, and daughter, Miss Gladys Hyde, of St. Andrews East.

The late Mrs. McLeod was a resident of St. Andrews East for many years, but for several years past, she and her daughter lived at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Relatives and friends from Chateauguay, Que., Dalkeith, Ottawa, St. Eugene, Ste. Anne de Bellevue and Lachute, were in attendance.

Burial was at St. Andrews East Protestant Cemetery. The committal service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Doxsee.

Beautiful floral tokens bore evidence of the esteem in which Mrs. McLeod and family were held.

APPRECIATION

James B. Donaldson, Mayor of Brownsburg, and his councillors, wish to thank all who helped in the recent fire, also special thanks to C-I-L for providing space and equipment for the municipal offices. 1c

Old resident of riverfront district dies at age 94

The late Wm. S. Bryerton

Cushing community has been saddened by the passing, on August 22, of Mr. William Sylvester Bryerton, at the age of 94. Mr. Bryerton had been with his sister, Mrs. W. Villeneuve, since the forced evacuation of many homes in the Carillon district through the Hydro development. He was greatly respected by all who had the privilege of knowing him.

The late Mr. Bryerton leaves to mourn his loss three daughters, Mrs. I. H. Fuller (Stella), the Misses Myrtle and Violet Bryerton, of Verdun, and three sons, Earl, of Brownsburg Road, Cecil, of Cornwall, and Arthur, of Rosemere and Cushing; also his sisters, Mrs. Annie Villeneuve, of the Brownsburg Road, (Maidie) Mrs. E. Poole, of St. Laurent, Mrs. L. O'Reilley, of Toronto, two brothers, Robert, of Watertown, N.Y., and George, residing in California, as well as 10 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Those noted from a distance attending the funeral were Mr. Robert Bryerton and Mr. Carlton Bryerton, of Watertown, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Poole, of Ville St. Laurent; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bryerton, of Verdun; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bryerton, Mr. Grant Bryerton, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gwynne, all of Cornwall, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Reilley, of Kitchener, Ont.; and Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Brochocki, of St. Eustache.

The funeral service was held in Carillon Church. Beautiful floral tributes expressed the esteem of his many friends.

The Bible Today

"What will they read?" is a question on many lips in the Western World as one thinks of the millions in Asia, Africa and elsewhere who are learning to read.

"These are days for giving out literature in shops and prisons," writes a missionary in the Congo. Ghana, Guinea, Chad, Camaroons as well as India, Thailand and Japan, have the same cry: "We want to read. We must read! We will read!"

The popularity of Bible Correspondence Courses in underprivileged areas indicates thirst for reading materials. There are 1,000 bookstores in Tokyo, all doing business.

The literacy explosion has led thousands to read the Bible for the first time. The fact that the Word of God appears in 1186 languages means it is not looked upon as a foreign Book. The Bible speaks today to every man's need. Man is hungry for the Written Word. One of the greatest challenges in the Christian Missionary enterprise is providing Christian reading material — books, pamphlets and magazines, but especially copies of the Word of God in the languages needed.

APPRECIATION

Mr. and Mrs. John Kettyle would like to express their sincere thanks to relatives and friends for all the lovely cards and visits, and are grateful for the many acts of kindness shown during their illness.

APPRECIATION

I would like to express my appreciation to all friends and relatives who were so kind and thoughtful during my recent stay in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, Montreal. Also my special thanks to Drs. Cook and Angel, and the staff of the hospital, who took care of me.

Mr. Merchant, does this mean YOU?

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town:

- "No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns.
- "The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business men."
- "This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad, in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned.
- "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.
- "The man who does not advertise does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far then all."
— Edmund Burke

School "drop-outs" — perennial problem

WITH SCHOOL OPENING in the coming week, this may be a last minute of momentous decision for some of our upper-grade school pupils.

It is a fact that one out of every three high school students drops out before finishing schooling and starts working. Some indication of the enormous cost of this annual waste of potential skills, is given in a recent survey conducted by the United States Department of Labor.

The report, "School and Early Employment Experience of Youth", is based on the records of some 26,000 students in seven different areas of the U.S. It shows why the proportion of "drop-outs" is so high and what happens to them as a result after they leave school, compared with those students who stay on and graduate with their high school diplomas.

The evidence is overwhelming that the "drop-outs" earn much less than do the graduates, invariably end up doing unskilled or — at best — semi-skilled jobs, are less liable to gain promotion and advancement, and more liable to suffer unemployment. If parents and teachers are looking for ammunition with which to deter premature school-leaving, they have a veritable arsenal here.

Nor is this all, by any means. The delayed penalties of dropping-out will become even stiffer, with increased automation making greater demands than ever for skilled and highly-trained workers. And as the post-war babies enter the labor force in rapidly growing numbers, it will be those best qualified who will secure the best jobs and the best rewards. Many "drop-outs", indeed, will be lucky to find any kind of regular employment.

Economic necessity is often given as an excuse for premature school-leaving. But this report confirms what many educators have long maintained — that this is far less true than is generally believed. It was seldom given as a reason by those students covered by the report.

Much more common were "dissatisfaction" and "boredom" with school or teacher, or both. (This may be taken by some as indicating a low I.Q., but while this was indeed often the case, the record shows that many of the early-leavers had I.Q.'s which were just as high as those who remained to continue their education.)

Probably the most potent of all factors influencing the would-be "drop-out" is the urge to start earning and spending his or her own money. Long-term advantages are sacrificed in the process and both they and the nation are vastly the poorer as a result.

Most parents, no doubt, would say that they would much prefer that their children should complete their education, but they are all too often overborne. But if the child is encouraged early enough to appreciate what is involved — if he or she is given a true sense of values and taught to love learning and revere knowledge — there will be acceptance from the very beginning of the need to remain at school until graduation.

Now is not too soon for parents with children of school age to apply themselves to this end.

The road builders

WITH FITTING ceremony, next Monday marks the opening of the new Trans-Canada highway. Appropriate to this great achievement is an editorial which appeared in the Toronto Telegram, which is here reproduced in part:

This set of words, strange to the common eye, is scrolled beneath the arms of Canada: "A mare usque ad mare." . . . It is a Latinized statement of geographical fact, a classical platitude: "From Sea to Sea".

But it is a great deal more than that. It states with dignity and sincerity an aspiration that is as old as Canada and the concept of nationhood, the aspiration to achieve something that has always been exasperatingly elusive.

It is a statement of claim that Canada is a nation, unified from the waves of the Pacific to the breakers of the Atlantic.

When the country was knit together with the iron ties and the thundering engines of the trans-continental railways, that was taken as the signal that Canada was one country, one people, speaking in various tongues and worshipping in various ways and dressing in varied habit — but, nevertheless, one people.

And now we have another cord binding the ten provinces together more intimately. It is a road 4,859 miles long, hewn out of the mud and clay and rock of the Canadian landscape at a cost of $750 millions.

This is new as a completed highway, as a transcontinental avenue tieing Amherst to Nanaimo, St. John's to Vancouver. It is a significant symbol, as symbols go. . . . But, travelling this road, one will be disappointed if he expects to find Canada.

Canada is a beautiful, sometimes awesome piece of scenery. Even the stark tundras of the northwest territories have a sort of raw grandeur. The Canadian Shield has a beauty that inspired the Group of Seven and raptured the eyes of hundreds of other artists. The hills of the Laurentians, too. One could go on indefinitely.

But this is not Canada in the deep sense. For nationhood and national personality is not landscape and it cannot be felt and understood in terms of quartz and swamp or majestic rivers and mountains. It is a frame of mind, a conviction of spirit.

Canada will never have individuality of character so long as symbols are considered a substitute for a common understanding of purpose and pride of heritage.

Perhaps pride of heritage is unfashionable today. Perhaps a good, clean even-graded highway from sea to sea is more important in the age of the automobile than a sense of belonging. It could be that preoccupation with heritage and pride of identity should be left to the Moscovites or the Teutons or the ruling class in Peking.

After all, we live in a sophisticated age.

But there are a great many Canadians who are confident of belonging to a great and dynamic nation, a nation rooted in rich cultures — no single culture, but a heterogeneous heritage — and who would rather build Canada to greatness than compose singing commercials to supplant our anthem and design trade-marks to replace our flag.

Canada has always had lots of these people, too many of them died in battling for the dignity they believed belonged to Canada.

As the new trans-Canada highway is opened with ribbon-cutting and speeches delivered on the new white cement surface, it is good and it is wise to remember the real road builders.

Viewpoints and perspectives

DESERVE REBUKE. — We read that a judge in Ontario has strongly criticized people who fail to vote in elections. Those who do not use their franchise, he warns, are likely to lose it eventually. His harsh words are deserved by those who just can't be bothered with the business of choosing a government.

SAFETY BELTS. — The more one sees of the advantage of the seat belt, the more you realize that they should be compulsory standard equipment in all vehicles.

— Rosetown (Sask.) Eagle

TALKS MUST GO ON. — If there is one thing which is abundantly clear, it is that talks and negotiations on all major international problems must continue. It may be difficult to see where the endless exchange of words is leading to real relaxation of tension. But one shudders to think what might happen if all such talks were broken off.

Caution to suspended drivers

A sentence of 30 days in prison and a heavy fine was imposed recently by a Montreal magistrate on a man found guilty of driving a vehicle while his license was suspended. Suspension was due to his inability to show evidence of financial responsibility after being involved in a traffic accident.

It has been proved time and again that such violations don't pay, and it is no use attempting to obtain a new license, as severe penalties are provided for such infractions.

However, any suspension by the Motor Vehicle Bureau may be appealed to the Highway Safety Board, by written notice sent to the Director of the Motor Vehicle Bureau, Quebec City, within 30 days of the decision. But the appeal does not suspend the execution of the decision.

MEDICARE DEBATE

It is possible that more good than harm can come from this province's confusion of the past two years. . . . We think it is safe to say that no government anywhere contemplating such a plan will attempt to introduce it without first getting the support of the medical profession — and it is equally safe to say that the doctors of other nations will now realize that some form of medical insurance for their patients is desirable and inevitable.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

WORK TOO HARD

Because I had been away from my desk for a couple of weeks, work piled up. Two or three deadlines were right up on top of me. I had faced this sort of situation before, so I didn't panic. I know how much can be done if a person forgets the clock. I launched an all-out attack.

The other morning, long after midnight, I went up to bed. Nora heard me drop a shoe, and muttered crossly that I was working altogether too hard.

I suppose I should have sighed and played martyr. But the fact was that I felt like whistling a merry tune. I had broken the back of the work load and had that gay, light feeling that comes to you when you are again on top of the situation instead of sagging beneath it.

There is a spring in my step again. When I am ahead of my work I feel good. It is when I get lazy and procrastinate and am threatened with onerous deadlines that I am half dead and suffering.

Perhaps there is such a thing as overwork. I don't know. But I will make a bet that it is only about half as destructive as under-work. It is when you get behind, when you are not dealing with the work as it comes at you, when you are loafing, that anxiety hits you beneath the breastbone.

But perhaps I do you, dear reader, an injustice. Maybe you work too hard . . . you fibber!

Christmas trees — market preview

New York Christmas-tree wholesalers will be more careful when buying Canadian trees this season, because the market there is becoming smaller — says F. Ian Wood, Canadian Trade Commissioner in New York.

Canadian shippers should select species carefully, Mr. Wood says. Most evergreens are used for Christmas trees but some command better prices than others. There is no one best type of tree, but preference in New York seems to run to Scotch pine, balsam fir, Douglas fir and white spruce.

The popular-sized trees last year were from six to eight feet tall. In New York City, however, quality trees in the four-to-five-foot size sold fairly well, especially for use in small apartments. More attention to the relationship between sizes and the market might mean more sales.

A concerted effort should be made to silence the complaint that a number of Canadian trees sold in New York are cut without much attention to quality, says Mr. Wood. A significant factor in marketing of balsam last year was the high percentage of waste trees per shipment.

Jet-plane passengers travel so fast that they leave their souls behind.

Some students of magic and mysteries believe this. In fact, jet travel does give you a spooky sensation. It telescopes the hours: noon in Vancouver, evening in Montreal, until you feel like Father Time.

One reason why jet travel makes your head buzz is a simple one: the speed robs you of sleep. When you arrive in the east, your stomach and brain are still running on Pacific time — and the other way round.

Some business firms have acted to relieve their traveling executives of jet nerves. They let their men travel by air — but specify that they must return by sea or by train, so that they have time to unwind, and write their reports on the way home.

Paper-Backs

Recently I met a used book merchant who sells pocket books wholesale to 400 outlets between Victoria and St. John's.

The farther you move east, he says, the greater is the demand for westerns.

"Everybody in Newfoundland wants to be a cowboy. In Newfoundland there are three things that go well — comic books, westerns and doctor-and-nurse books.

"The doctor and nurse books go well everywhere. We sell three times more of them than we do of all this stuff," he said, with a patronizing wave toward shelves and boxes piled high with Dostoevsky, E. M. Forster, Joyce Cary, Shakespeare, J. D. Salinger and other minority-appeal authors.

In case you hope to accumulate a nest egg by selling your surplus pocket books, here is bad news: —

The most this man pays for a good pocket book in mint condition is five cents. He buys less valuable ones at two cents.

Magazines: "Take them to the waste paper dealer," the book man suggests.

TV in Your Child's Life

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Johnny flatly refused to go to a birthday party after school one day last week because he did not want to miss his favorite TV program. It made me wonder whether watching TV was too important in Johnny's life. What do you do about your Helen and TV?" Mrs. Brown asked her friend.

"Before we bought our set, my husband and I agreed that we didn't want TV to crowd out Helen's other leisure time activities such as reading, her piano practice and walks with her Dad on weekend. But it hasn't been easy. Helen is so fond of TV — it's the thing she enjoys most!"

* * *

The biggest difference between the childhood of today's parents and that of their children is in many cases the dominant place which TV takes in a school child's life.

In the official handbook of present conditions and recent progress, CANADA 1962 (which should be on every family's bookshelf, Queen's Printer, Ottawa, $1) in the picture of the Canadian Family, it is mentioned that there are TV sets in eighty-four per cent of our homes. A good television signal reaches ninety per cent of Canadians and it is watched on an average of four hours and forty-five minutes a day.

Fathers and mothers have a great responsibility for the way their children spend their free time. Above the reading shelves in a Boys' and Girls' Library were these words, "What you do, when you do what you like, determines what you will be when you can't help it." There is no doubt about children liking TV. For many it is their favorite pastime, and for some it is their greatest interest in life.

A thoughtful, helpful book for parents and all who are concerned with the development of boys and girls is a recent publication "TV in the Lives of our Children" (U. of T. Press) by Schramm, Lyle and Parker. This is based on the study of six thousand American and Canadian children, encouraged by Stanford University. The curious child who asks about how the picture appears on the TV screen will find simple, accurate answers in "Television Works Like This" by Jeanne and Robert Bendick.

The authors of "TV in the Lives of Our Children" have a number of important things to say. TV dominates a child's play. One out of three children watch TV at age three, four out of five at age six, and nine out of ten by the time a child reaches first grade. In the early years a child may spend an average of two hours a day on TV. The viewing time increases to a peak of an average of three or four hours a day in grades six and seven and then declines a little during adolescence.

During his first 16 years, these writers claim, the average child spends as much time on TV as he spends in school. Do you think this is an excessive or inaccurate statement for Canadian children? Without saying anything, why not quietly keep track of the number of hours your child or individual children watch TV during the next two weeks? You will find it is the extra time on TV on the week-ends which bring up the total TV count.

Most youngsters progress from young children's special programs to Westerns, Adventure, Crime, Comedy, Popular Music, Variety Shows, and adult programs. TV meets a child's need for fantasy and reality experiences. On the credit side, TV sends a child to school with vocabularies a grade higher than those without it. Bedtime is apt to be a little later, but a bedtime schedule and precautions for protection of eyes (not sitting too near the screen, having a dim light on in the room) must be looked after by mother and dad.

TV should not be used as a "mother substitute". Neither should it take the place of reading and other creative activities. If a child chooses constant TV instead of playing with his chums his withdrawal is a symptom which needs attention and therapy. TV adds greatly to a child's store of information. It cannot be blamed as the main cause of delinquency. It is a tool for living and parents must guide their child in the place TV has in his life.

Old medicines

Some things grow more valuable with age, but not medicines. Many of these become more concentrated and dangerous, warns the department of national health and welfare.

As soon as drugs have served their prescribed purpose, they should be flushed away or burned. It is unsafe to throw them into waste containers from which children may salvage and swallow them.

Outdoor markets a joy to the eye in September

(Consumer Section)

Outdoor markets are a joy to behold in the early September days. There's no other time of year when there's such a variety of Canadian produce available. The outdoor market is the show window of the particular area in which it is located. It can tell you a great deal about that area too — what kind of growing season they've had — early or late, wet or dry — the fruits and vegetables that are in most plentiful supply, even something about the food habits of the people and the prosperity of the area. It may be a friendly, neighbourly place where people stop to visit or to bargain or, on the other hand, it may be a fiercely competitive place where growers vie with each other for your business, claiming their produce to be of superior quality at bargain prices.

There are outdoor markets in many large cities in Canada — some large, open six days a week — others small, open only one to two days a week — some covered markets are year-round businesses. Particularly in Ontario, there is a wide distribution of markets of all sizes in both cities and towns.

Markets may be inspected by Provincial Department of Agriculture inspectors, or they may be under municipal inspection. Bulk displays of fruits and vegetables do not have to be marked with a grade name but they must qualify for the minimum grade. Any fruit or vegetable that is sold in a container with a grade name must, of course, come up to that grade. If produce is shipped into that market from other provinces it must be grade checked by federal Department of Agriculture inspectors and will carry the word "Canada" in the grade name.

It's a real education to browse around a market place — there are many interesting foods to see — some of them may be entirely new to you. Next time you shop at the market see if you can identify the vegetables on display. You may find something new and different that you and your family will enjoy. For example — how many kinds of squash can you name and how many have you actually cooked?

When it comes to the established favorite vegetables such as snowy white cauliflower, you will want to buy so many of them while they are in season that the problem will be to find new ways of serving them. Have you ever thought of cooking a head of cauliflower whole, perhaps leaving a few of the tiny leaves on the head, and serving it with a generous sprinkling of grated cheese or pouring over it a smooth cheese sauce?

The profusion of reasonably priced, freshly picked, cabbages is another buyer's delight. They are so good for salads and so good when cooked to the just tender stage, drained, then finished off by adding butter to taste and covering for a moment or two.

When all these good vegetables are on the market, we should take advantage of their reasonable prices and plentiful supply. Serve vegetables often while they're in season. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest that you check the fruits and vegetables on the market and make your selection for freezing, pickling or jam making. You may get full directions from "Freezing Foods" (Publication 892) and "Jams, Jellies and Pickles" (publication 992). These booklets are available free of charge from Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Sandwich loaf for patio party

A specialty touch can be achieved with everyday sandwich fillings when they are teamed in a new variation such as individual sandwich loaves, frosted with softened cream cheese. Regular bread slices are used for these loaves, making them extra convenient to fix.

The sandwiches, easy to make in large or small quantities, may be prepared in advance, wrapped in clear plastic food wrap and refrigerated, ready for a patio party or picnic.

Sandwich Loaf

White bread (sliced), mayonnaise, tomatoes, ham salad, lettuce, 3 three-ounce packages of cream cheese, milk, parsley for garnish.

Ham Salad

½ Cup ground cooked ham, 2 sweet pickles (chopped), 1 tablespoon chopped chives, mayonnaise.

Using three slices of bread, remove crusts. Prepare as for three-decker sandwich, using ham for one layer, tomato slices and lettuce for second. Spread bread with mayonnaise on filling sides. Cut sandwich in half, straight or crosswise. Frost halves with cream cheese softened with milk, wrap in clear plastic food wrap and refrigerate. Garnish as desired before serving.

Fish Sticks in Toast Coats

Fish sticks under cover

The versatility of sandwich service is limited only by our imagination and creativity. They are a boon these late summer days. They can be elaborate or simple — to suit the occasion and the mood of the cook. With sandwiches as the basic menu item the light luncheon or supper menu can expand with the addition of soup, salad and other trimmings should the weather pull a fast switch and boost appetites of your hungry horde. Here's a new twist on the standard sandwich — Fish Sticks in Toast Coats, a good summer supper suggestion when a crisp tossed salad, assorted fruits and crunchy cookies complete the menu.

Fish Sticks in Toast Coats

1 Package frozen fish sticks, 10 slices white bread (trimmed), ¼ cup commercial sandwich spread, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, toothpicks.

Combine sandwich spread and horseradish. Spread on one side of each bread slice. Arrange one fish stick diagonally across spread surface of each bread slice. Bring two remaining opposite corners to centre over fish stick. Secure with toothpick. Place in hot oven preheated according to package directions for fish sticks. Heat until bread is golden and fish sticks are heated through. Serve immediately.

New and exciting foods, fashions and furniture from Australia can be examined by visitors to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, continuing to September 3.

At a food tasting bar in the Australian pavilion, traditional and new recipes featuring Australian dried vine fruits are demonstrated and can be tasted. Visitors also may sample raisins, sultanas and currants — all used by Australian housewives in porridge, soups, meat and vegetable dishes as well as pies, tarts, cakes, loaves and puddings.

Australians eat dried fruits straight from the package because of their nutritional value. Sultana raisins, for example, are rich in glucose and iron, and contain 1,600 calories per pound.

Knitted Woollens

Of special interest to Canadian women now beginning to think about shopping for fall and winter garments, is Australia's display of 18 men's and women's fully fashioned knitted woollen garments. This line won six gold medals in the 1961 Australian Wool Bureau Awards, and four more this year.

For women there are short and full-length coats, two-piece suits, skirts, jumpers and cardigans in a variety of fine and bulky knits.

Men's garments include fine or bulky knit cardigans, waistcoats and jackets.

Featured among the garments displayed is a finely-knitted woman's dress and matching full-length coat. The dress is fashioned with an oval neckline, square back, and a straight skirt with two sets of inverted pleats at the front.

The coat is buttonless, with a wide, high collar, square set sleeves and a two-color contrasting trim.

Fine Furniture

Decorating enthusiasts will be interested in an exhibit of original hand craft furniture with Scandinavian design trends, one of Australia's newest export products.

Lounge chairs and matching convertible divan beds, dining chairs, tables and buffets, coffee tables and footstools, all with frames of grained and colored Tasmanian teak, are shown.

Frames of this new furniture are all rubbed with oils, and constructed with special joining methods, one of which entails the use of an electronic wood welder and a glue surface only .005 inches thick.

Of special interest to men is a large exhibit of automotive parts and equipment, pumps, twist drills, light machine tools, woodworking machinery, hardwood flooring, cables and chains, plating equipment and industrial chemicals.

The ladies provided the refreshments, and these efforts were much appreciated by the members attending.

Returns to Pastoral Field

The Rev. Brian Smith, Baptist minister from St. Catharines, Ont., will hold service in the Avoca Baptist Church on Sunday, September 2, at 3 p.m.; and also take the morning service at Rivington. Mr. Smith was here as a student some years ago; his former friends will be pleased to meet him and his family.

Harrington

Mr. Gilbert Young is leaving for a tour of three weeks with the RCAF Band. They will give concerts at Edmonton and Calgary, Alta., and Victoria, B.C., also attending the World's Fair at Seattle, Wash.

Visitors at the home of Corral Young during last week-end were Flt./Sgt and Mrs. J. McKenzie and daughters, Marilyn and Janet.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Minor visited friends in this community over the week-end.

Mrs. Glenna Trineer and daughters, Bonnie and Lyanne, from Nashville, Tenn., are visiting at the home of Mrs. George Bennett.

Visitors at Mr. V. McVicar's were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Young, of Montebello, and Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison, of Montreal.

Kilmar

The Kilmar Birthday Club met at the home of Mrs. St. Onge to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. O. Thomas. There were ten ladies present, including a visitor, Mrs. Amby Rouleau. Mrs. Thomas was presented with a steam iron on behalf of the club, after which a pleasant afternoon was spent, concluding with a birthday cake and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McKenna, of Montreal, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Purcell. They also visited with several relatives in the area.

Miss Florence Moncrieff, who has spent the summer here with her parents, left Sunday for Schefferville, Que., where she will teach for the next year.

Miss Linda Rouleau is at present a patient in the Smith Clinic. Friends here wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Jim McKenna, of the program "Like Young", visited his grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Purcell, and other relatives in Kilmar last Sunday.

St. Andrews East

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Comeau spent the week-end with Mrs. Clattenburg.

Mrs. Hazel Burwash has returned from Covey Hill, Que., where she was visiting friends.

Mrs. Ronald Webster and two children, of Brampton, Ont., are visiting her mother, Mrs. O'Brien.

Dr. and Mrs. Rejall, of New York, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rejall.

Sir Bruce and Lady Ross, from Australia, are visiting here as guests of the former's cousin, Maj.-Gen. F. R. Phelan and Mrs. Phelan.

Bereaved

Much sympathy is expressed to Miss Phyllis McLeod in the passing of her mother. Mrs. McLeod had been in poor health for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patrick, of Westmount, spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jeffrey.

Mrs. Ross Hyde and Wayne spent a few days in Montreal last week. Mrs. Paul Cloutier and Linda returned with them to spend the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lalonde, of Montreal, spent Thursday with Mrs. Roth and Miss Eaton.

Mr. Donald Regan, nephew of Mrs. R. C. Eaton, accompanied by a friend, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Eaton.

Successful Dance At "Carpet Guild"

The Saturday night dance held at the "Carpet Guild", St. Andrews East, proved a success. Some 300 people enjoyed dancing to a Montreal orchestra.

Highlight of the evening was the drawing for a 9' x 12' all-wool three-tone carpet. The lucky winner was J. Jacques Haspeck, of St. Andrews East. The second prize, a square yard of carpet (value $50) was won by Jenny Rorke, of Ville Lemoyne, and the third prize, a half-yard of carpet (value $20) was won by Pierre Labelle, of St. Andrews East.

Similar dances and drawings will be held at later dates.

A deserving effort in community

As we go along with our daily work, it never enters our minds that there are many, right among us, who wish that they too could do the things we do. Today, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind urgently appeals to you to support this constructive work. The mounting costs are frightening, but the sightless need you and your charitable help.

As a community we should feel proud, for in the past we have given loyal support to the Institute; it is fervently hoped this will continue.

Local appeals in Arundel, Morin Heights, Cushing, Wentworth, St. Andrews East and Grenville are now in progress. The chairmen are anxious that you will again show your generosity by contributing to the current campaign. If the canvasser is unable to call, please make out your cheque to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and forward it to 145 Drew St., Lachute; you will receive official receipts.

Cushing

Guests at the home of Mrs. A. Graham and son, Allan, on Thursday were the Rev. H. G. Lester and Mrs. Lester, of Kingston, Ont., also Mrs. Lester's mother, Mrs. D. W. Candlish, and Mrs. J. C. Dougall, of Cote St. Luc.

Mr. A. T. Graham, accompanied by his sister, Miss E. M. Graham, and nephew, Graham Dougall, spent last Thursday attending the Ottawa Exhibition.

Guests at the Graham home on Sunday were Mr. and John Mahon, of Calumet. Other callers were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Leishman, of Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Weir and small son, Jeffry, of Burlington, Ont., occupied Mr. Kenneth Weir's summer home for several days during the past week.

Callers at Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Taylor's this past week have been Mr. and Mrs. Powrie and sons; Mr. John Weir and Miss K. Baker, Mr. K. D. Weir and E. Manel, all of Baie d'Urfé.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weir were at their Cushing home for several days during the week.

The Misses Myrtle and Violet Bryerton were guests of Mrs. I. H. Fuller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Thompson were callers at the Bailey home on Sunday, also Mr. and Mrs. S. Noble, of Lachute. Miss Kama Bailey, who had been their guest for several days, returned to her home with them.

Mrs. R. T. Holmes is visiting her daughter, Miss Florence Holmes, in Montreal this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baldwin, of Montreal, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Pettitt, of Newington, Ont., visited Mrs. Cooke and Miss A. Davidson on Wednesday, and took both ladies to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gauley, of Chatboro, where they were all supper guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drew were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Canning over the week-end.

Beagle Rally

The portion of Cushing bordering on the Ostrom Road, might easily have been named "Beagle-dom" over the week-end — a great number of beagles with their kennels having been situated just back of the railroad track along that road since Friday. Beagle trials have been carried on there, also higher up in Cushing, running the dogs from C. F. Watson's farm down to that road, Saturday and Sunday.

Women's Institute

Frontier W. I. will meet at the Dunany Golf Club on the afternoon of September 4. (Members, don't forget your roll-call.)

Hunting season ahead - post your lands, walk with circumspection!

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Summer wends its way inexorably to Labor Day — which to us still means a return to labor. Not that we are idle, or the days empty. It has been a good year for small fruit and the consequent jam and jelly, with choke-cherry and crab-apple still awaiting their fate. How smug we shall feel next winter, haughtily passing the jars, rank on rank, in the supermarket!

Then, there is always writing — these articles, and the annual letters. I have a half-dozen longtime friends, the nearest in Arvida, the farthest in Australia, to whom I write a long letter once a year. They write me at Christmas, I write them in August. It works fine, and serves to prevent the friendship lapsing. It is surprising what happens in a year to make a satisfactory letter.

* * *

We were tapping away on one of our usual wet, cold days recently, when we had occasion to go into the other room for more paper. To our amazement, a bewildered snake was wriggling across the glossy, apple-green floor. I called to the head of the house upstairs, "There's a snake on the floor." He replied, "You're drinking." Anyway, poor master snake was returned to the outdoors, where he must have come in on a load of wood for the fireplace. There are many snakes about this year, and not many mice — which just proves again how wise is nature, making its own balance, if allowed.

* * *

Which reminds us that soon the hunters will be out to redress the balance of deer, partridge, rabbit, small song-birds, cats, dogs, and the odd human with the rest of nature. After due deliberation, the local Council does not think fit to ban hunting, hire extra police protection, or any other form of defence against the yearly invasion of moronic hunters. They do urge us, however, to post our lands, and I pass on this advice. If all land is posted, and the police are vigilant, a few cases of trespassing may dampen the ardor for slaughter that seems to invade the breast of a certain type of person. The TV recently announced that the Ministry of Fish and Game had prosecuted some thousands of cases of trespassing this past year, with the result that $88,000 had been added to the exchequer. Not that that sum will help much with the enormuos debt the province is currently piling up. So, post your lands, lads and lassies, and walk with circumspection, beginning about the first of October. . . .

In the same connection, we were happy to see that the young male animal who has been firing at passing cars, has been apprehended, and that the charge is to be attempted murder. As the head of the house was one of those who was saved from death only by a bullet-proof windshield, there is much quiet satisfaction at Sunnyacres.

* * *

We have had a drowning accident at Lake Dawson, the mother of four children being the victim of a motor-boat. No one blames the unfortunate driver of the boat, who was dazzled by the sun. But it does serve to point up the fact that, to allow bathing and boating in the same area of a lake, particularly a small one, is to invite disaster. Nobody goes for a stroll on the auto-route. Roads are regulated, speeds are prescribed, lights are provided; but on these lakes, anything goes. This is nonsense, and I have no pleasure in saying, "I told you so".

* * *

To speak of pleasanter things, the daughter's trip, for instance. . . . She returned, but unwillingly, having left her heart in Ireland. I do not mean in the keeping of a young Irishman, for young Irishmen are allergic to girls, but in thrall to the land itself. Such colors, such beauty, she raves; and the kindness of the people. She was also in England, but can take it or leave it. Here are some of her impressions, valuable only because they are ones made on a young and presumably plastic mind. She thinks Labor in England is surly. Service, unless paid for in tips, is sulkily given. There is little effort to lure the tourist. I thought her encounter with a salesgirl in a well known department store was funny and illuminating.

Sales-girl to Betty: "Can I help you, Miss?"

Betty: "No thank you, I am just looking at present."

Sales-girl (out of the corner of her mouth): "Another bloody American!"

Betty, who has developed teacher-ears: "I am not a bloody American; I am a bloody Canadian."

The sales-girl is led off-stage by a companion, after having burst into loud sobs. . . . The other customers titter.

Perhaps part of Betty's impressions were due to her youth. She was the youngest, by far, of those taking the tour of Ireland, and as such, came in for a lot of attention. At one hotel, on Dingle Bay, a recording was made of an interview with her, which will be played in the bar of the pub to impress other tourists. The daughter did not know that a recording was being made, or even that she was being interviewed. Such questions, "And was Captain Cook, now, a relative of yours?" impressed her as being queer, but not sinister! The innocence of youth!

The cooking of Ireland impressed the daughter by its excellence; that of England, by its mediocrity. She found the over-cooked vegetables, in England, as repulsive as do we all. Only the tea and cakes won approval. It was difficult to get a good cup of tea, as the English were evidently of the firm idea that tourists drank only coffee. The coffee was dreadful. In Ireland, there was a concoction called Irish coffee. It consisted of Irish whiskey, coffee, and whipped cream! In that same fair country, the tourist was served a large breakfast, and two dinners, with mid-morning coffee and afternoon tea, as well.

* * *

Just to keep the balance, I am happy to report that Betty loved the old English castles and the cathedrals. She also was happy with some friends near Southampton, her only taste of English family-life. She reports that the children are worse than ours about sweets; that the English women are pretty, have lovely voices, but lack animation; that the English man is extremely well-groomed. One of her fondest memories is of a specimen of same, impeccably turned out, complete with bowler and rolled umbrella, solemnly threading his way through the traffic of London — on a scooter!

* * *

The space is almost gone. Just time to report that the project of the parochial hall for Trinity Church, Lakefield, progresses. Already a goodly sum has been raised, and it is hoped to begin building in the spring. When that is up, passers-by will be even more impressed by the beauty of the property. We hope you will lend a cordial ear to the person calling on you for a donation. Let us remember, the Lord loves a cheerful giver, with the accent on cheerful.

LEGION NOTES

— by —

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The last time we visited Memorial Hall it was getting an interior face-lifting job of the newest fashion. The committee in charge is to be congratulated.

* * *

Speaking of fashions, there's good news for gals (and guys, too, we guess), in the women's fashion world.

Normally considered a dull subject for the male species, this ought to perk up the ears, light up the eyes, and turn many a head. The new clothing styles are going to be more feminine, say the designers. From the looks of some of them out now, we'd say that's real nice!

The fashion-conscious world took great interest in the ten best-dressed women recently, and their garb frequently sets the pace for millions of women the world over.

What we want to know is which one started the latest craze. It's jewelry for the abbreviated costume lovers — an honest-to-goodness navel jewel. On the level — this anatomy decoration is described by fashion experts as having a small chain belt with a gold tassle in just the right place.

Maybe your wife won't care to be one of the leaders in this fashion, but if you happen to know a bubble dancer who has everything, here is a perfect gift.

We can hardly wait until some more new styles come out. See there, gentlemen, women's fashions aren't so dull, now, are they?

* * *

Of course, everyone has heard about the latest beauty treatment. The old mud-pack is as obsolete as last week's TV schedule, in this modern, fast-moving world. Now the gals have come up with a mayonnaise facial which is supposed to be out of this world. One thing you can say for it, if you get hungry at the beauty parlor, you don't have to go out for a sandwich.

HOW IMPORTANT IS THE PRICE?

Everybody loves a bargain, but some can be very annoying. What good does it do to get a prescription filled far from your pharmacy for a possible saving, if you can't get it refilled at night or on a holiday when you need more?

If you are a "smart" buyer you may get a few loss-leaders for less, but pharmacy purchases are not big money items, like a television or a stove. Is the few cents you might save worth the trouble?
