1,800 Visitors tour B'burg C-I-L plant

To mark its centennial, which it celebrates this year, Canadian Industries Limited last week invited its employees, with a limited number of their relatives or friends, and a few guests, to tour certain departments of the Brownsburg Works. The Brownsburg plant has had the distinction of celebrating its 75th anniversary and the Company's centennial in the course of two consecutive years.

In fact, it was during the month of October, 1886, that the production of ammunition was started at the Brownsburg plant. However, the origin of the Company dates back to the construction of the Hamilton Powder Company, in 1862. The Explosives Division and the Ammunition Division were amalgamated on February 1, 1962, the Company's 100th anniversary year. Mr. Ken W. MacGibbon is presently the Brownsburg Works Manager.

Nearly 1,800 persons viewed the various operations during the tour with some coming from New Brunswick, Montreal, Shawinigan, Terrebonne and Hawkesbury, in addition to the immediate area.

The visitors expressed amazement at the extent of the preparations for this tour, and were impressed by the courtesy of the employees and also the guides located along the route.

Refreshments were served in the Company canteen; souvenirs were handed out, and interesting literature was available to the visitors as they left.

The various areas visited included the Metallic Shop, Match Line, Lead Casting and Extrusion, Bullet, Loading, Packing, Ballistics Laboratory, Tool Shop, Shipping Warehouse, Empty Shot Shell, Machine Shop, Wire Covering and the Plant Hospital.

All in all, this proved an interesting, instructive and pleasant visit.

Discussing ammunition operations at tour of Brownsburg Works with Union representatives of Local 50, United Mine Workers of America, are — A. W. Lapp, Assistant Works Manager (left), and J. W. Humphries, Personnel Superintendent. Beside Mr. Lapp is P. Deschamps, Field Representative. Next to Mr. Humphries (front row left to right) are Georges Boisvert, Regional Director, Reg Bell, Local President, and Gérard Côté, Field Representative. Back row, R. Vallée and L. Sirard, Field Representatives.

Miss Laura Noble, Metallic Shop employee with 18 years' service, conducts her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Reeves, Grenville, through the Empty Shot Shell head expanding operation.

Smoke and fire damage estimmated from $13,000 to $14,000 occurred late Monday afternoon in the apartment block owned by Martin Niederkorn, at 107 Hugh Street.

The fire, believed to have started in electrical wiring, was confined mainly to the basement of the building, where intense heat and thick, pungent smoke prevented firemen from immediately gaining entry.

The two pumper trucks were pressed into operation and following some ventilation, the basement was entered and the flames extinguished.

Firemen were on the scene for more than an hour. The loss is believed to have been insured.

Home-School bursary gains value, meetings start Oct. 10

Pictured here is Miss Carol Anne Scott, 174 Brownsburg Road, who is this year's winner of the annual scholarship award from the Lachute and District Home and School Association. The fund amounted to $350, and the Association takes this opportunity to congratulate Miss Scott on her hard work, and excellent results in her Grade XI exams, and extends very best wishes for her future success. Miss Scott is using the award, in conjunction with a McConnell Scholarship award which she also won, to assist her in her first year at McGill, where she is enrolled as a Science student.

This is the fourth year that the Home and School Association has awarded a scholarship, and each year the amount of the award has increased, as the Association continues to grow in size and activity.

The various committees of this organization have planned for an active and interesting year, and the Association hopes that all parents will give their support. The Membership committee is now in the midst of a house-to-house campaign for new members, and President Harry Booth extends an invitation to all parents to attend the first meeting of the year. This will be held Wednesday, October 10, in the Music Room of Lachute High School, at 8.15 p.m., and the speaker will be Dr. Jane Catterson, who will be remembered as an ex-teacher of Lachute High School, and who is now Reading consultant for the Macdonald Central School Board.

$16,000 haul in armed robbery

Tony Colford, proprietor of Colfor Lodge, St. Canut, was the victim of an armed robbery early Monday morning, when thieves made away with $16,000 in cash and municipal bonds.

Around 4.20 o'clock Monday morning he was awakened by a noise outside his living room. He hurriedly pulled on some clothing, and raised the Venetian blind to see what was happening. He was confronted by an automatic, pointed at his face by a masked bandit. He jumped back into the darkness and got outside, then running three-quarters of a mile to summon the provincial police by telephone.

Meanwhile, one of three bandits in the robbery kept a woman employee silenced while the other two ransacked the establishment for cash. They rifled the safe, the cigarette and vending machines, spending about half-an-hour on the premises.

According to Mr. Colford, the culprits were young men in their twenties. Police were notified at St. Eustache, St. Jerome and Lachute, and provincial police officers arrived on the scene to investigate.

Prevalence of hepatitis

Infectious hepatitis (jaundice) is prevalent in this County — according to cases reported to the Argenteuil Health Officer, Dr. L. Turcotte. Known cases in Lachute, Brownsburg and Chatham district were 20 occurring in this past week. Since last January there have been 1,500 cases in the province and 9,000 across Canada — besides numerous instances which have not come to attention of the authorities.

This disease is contagious, spread in a manner similar to typhoid, and the Health Officer recommends every precaution in cleanliness of the hands, especially before eating or handling of food; also avoiding of unpasteurized milk, or food and drink that may be a possible source of infection.

Most of the known cases here are persons 15 years or over. One of the symptoms is stomach upset, and any experiencing this distress are urged to take plenty of rest as a precaution.

Chairman and organizers grateful —

Successful effort at recent blood clinic, 20 lucky donors win airplane flight

The 1962 Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic held at Lachute on September 24-25 was a tremendous success The objective of 600 donors was exceeded, the total being 608.

Ken Riley, chairman, states that this success was only possible because of the untiring assistance he was given by the co-chairman, Paul Deslauriers, and by other members of the various committees, who all did a superb job. Mr. Riley takes this opportunity of thanking all those who took part at the Auditorium, the civic authorities, the clergy, the press and radio, the local industries and service clubs, the women's organizations, the doctors and nurses, soft drink distributors, and all those volunteers who worked behind the scenes, telephoning and organizing, and serving refreshments to the donors.

Special thanks are extended to Ayers Limited for making available their aircraft, which will take two groups of 10 persons on a Courtesy Flight. The names of the lucky donors who won this privilege, are as follows:

Mme Robert Dinel, Jean-Marie Beauregard, Jacques Brodeur, Henri-Georges Dupuis, Mlle Isabelle d'Auteuil.

Mrs. Gordon McOuat, president of Lachute Branch of the Candian Red Cross, added her thanks to those of Mr. Riley and Mr. Deslauriers, to all who assisted so willingly in the Blood Donor effort. The Canadian Red Cross recognizes the tremendous importance of the Blood Transfusion Service as a life-giving service to our communities; this effort depends on the volunteer donors who come forward so faithfully to give their blood for the health of others. These volunteers deserve immeasurable thanks.

Mrs. F. A. Hungerbuhler also expressed her appreciation to all those from St. Andrews East who participated in the clinic.

Scout collection of paper, bottles

A waste paper and bottle drive is announced by the Lachute Boy Scouts for Saturday, October 20. All donations of paper and glass will be appreciated. . . With the approach of Fire Prevention Week, this is an added incentive to clean up the premises and discard these saleable materials.

Residents closing their summer cottages may kindly bring papers and bottles and leave them, any time, at 578 Bedard Blvd., where the Boy Scouts will see to their disposal.

Sunday parade, 'open house' for Fire Prevention Week

This Sunday, October 7, marks the commencement of Fire Prevention Week and the Lachute Volunteer Fire Department has scheduled its annual parade for 2.30 p.m., instead of the usual Monday evening.

Fire Chief Don MacCulloch and members of the department will be in attendance at the fire station following the parade, when the equipment will be on view for public inspection and information will gladly be given.

Also on exhibit will be a display of home fire extinguishers, and information will be available as to their operation, approximate price and, more important, the type of extinguisher needed in the various homes and for various types of heating systems.

Fire Prevention Week pamphlets will be available, and the general public are invited to attend this "open house", to question the firemen in attendance, and learn how to assist the fire department by preventing fires.

Man's body recovered from North River

The body of Toussaint Boucher, 69-year-old resident of Sydney Street, was recovered from the North River around noon last Friday.

Discovery of the body was made by a five-year-old youngster, Gerard Besson, from the riverbank at the foot of Bellingham Street. Police were informed, and Chief J. L. Hebert and Cst. Descoeurs, of the town force, also Cpl. Maurice Dinelle and Agent Fauchon, from provincial headquarters, arrived at the scene. The body was taken to the local morgue and Dr. R. Lavigne certified the death.

The fatality was believed an accident, since the victim had been seen around 1 o'clock the previous afternoon in usual circumstances. On his body were found two watches; one had stopped at 12.15 and the other at 12.22, presumably after midnight. The victim made a habit of salvaging wood from the river's edge, and possibly fell in the water while engaged in this pursuit last Thursday night.

Fatally injured in paper machine

A lifelong resident of Lachute and employee of the J. C. Wilson Co. for 42 years, Jean Baptiste "Buck" Robertson, passed away Sunday evening following the first fatal accident in the history of this company. He was 62 years of age.

The accident occurred at 12.15 a.m. Sunday when Mr. Robertson, a plant foreman, attempted to assist Réal Séguin in clearing a broken roll of paper from a section of the dryer. As he reached up, his arm became caught in the rollers and severed it at the shoulder.

Mr. Séguin, who was standing close to the victim, immediately rendered first aid and had the police emergency vehicle summoned, along with the company physician, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie. The injured man was rushed to the Providence Hospital, where a team of physicians — Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, Dr. Lyall Middleton, Dr. Marc Papineau and Dr. Roger Lavigne — worked on the victim for several hours in an attempt to save his life. He succumbed to his injuries around 10 p.m.

An inquest into the death will be held next week, according to Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, officer-in-charge of the local Provincial Police department, who investigated the fatality.

The victim, predeceased by his first wife (Germaine Belanger) is mourned by his widow, the former Aurore Lajeunesse, and a family of seven — his sons, Gaetan, of Hearst, Ont., Réal, of Valleyfield, Raymond, of Ville St. Pierre; and daughters, Mme J. P. Rozon (Rhéa) and Mme Roger Gagné (Claudette) of Lachute, Mme Chas. Lagenière (Nicole), of Ville St. Pierre, and Mme R. L'Héreault (Françoise), of Ville St. Michel.

Funeral rites were held Wednesday morning at Ste. Anastasie parish church.

Criminal trials at fall assizes

Two murder cases in this immediate area will headline the Terrebonne District criminal assizes which opened at St. Jerome on Tuesday under Justice Claude Prévost.

The first of these charges, following the verdict of a coroner's jury, concerns the rifle killing of 17-year-old André Prévost early this year in Lachute. The accused is a local youth, Jean-Guy Périard, 19, who was held criminally responsible.

Facing a similar charge is Malcolm Arnold McGregor, former Airforce man, concerned in the rifle-shot death of William Gunn, Lachute, while working in the bush near Dalesville last November. The victim, 41, was found with a small sum of money missing from his pocket. McGregor, 30-year-old resident of Chomedey, was subsequently arrested at Bala, Ontario, and brought to Lachute, where a coroner's jury held him criminally responsible.

Another case on the docket for the fall assizes is an appeal on behalf of Dr. J. Robertson, of Morin Heights, previously convicted and sentenced to eight years in prison, in the death of a girl following an illegal operation.

A case of another kind involves a charge of defamatory libel against two Ayersville councillors, Gaston Plamondon and Raymond Champagne, in which Mayor Gaetan Paquette is the plaintiff. The charge arises from the reading of an affidavit naming the mayor in illicit dealings with asphalt-paving contractors for the municipality.

Liberal choice of candidate Oct. 13

The convention of Liberal delegates for choice of a party candidate, arranged for October 6, has now been postponed until Saturday, October 13. The secretary of the County organization, Notary Richard Valois, was notified of the change by telegram Saturday evening — the communication bearing the signature of Gérard Brady, chief of the Liberal Federation bureau.

Nominations for six Council seats October 26

Nominations for council seats in Lachute will be held October 26, from noon until 2 p.m., with elections Friday, November 2, if necessary.

Six vacancies occurring are as follows — Ald. Linton Armstrong, completing his term in Seat No. 3, East Ward; Dr. J. P. Dorion, Seat 2, Centre Ward; Ald. Laurêat Laurin, Seat 3, Centre Ward; Ald. Stanley Church, Seat 2, West Ward; Ald. Nelson Lepage, Seat 3, West Ward. Mayor Fernand Legault, Q.C., also retires.

A delegation of Chamber of Commerce members and others approached Dr. J. P. Dorion, retiring alderman, to accept a nomination for the mayoralty. It is understood that Dr. Dorion declined the offer.

Week's Epigram

Somewhere along the line we seem to have lost track of human values. No longer are such things as thrift, hard work, personal responsibility, self-reliance and integrity regarded as virtues.

Departure of Airwomen from Lac St. Denis base

Recent organizational changes within Air Defence Command have necessitated the rotation of some personnel. Directly affected by these changes were the entire airwomen staff at RCAF Station, Lac St. Denis. To mark their departure, a parade was held and the airwomen presented the station with a new gate structure at the main entrance to the unit. The unit's Commanding Officer, Wing Commander L. P. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE NOT PSYCHOSOMATICS

The notion that Christian Science uses will power or "positive thinking" in healing the sick, was refuted by Jules Cern of New York City in a lecture prepared for the Christian Science Society of Pointe Claire. "Christian Science healing is not a process of willing sick matter into becoming well matter. It is the lifting of thought to the allness and perfection of God and God's perfect expression, man." Mr. Cern explained that prayer in Christian Science does not request God to improve upon sick matter, but it is a joyful and grateful recognition of the present and eternal perfection of God's spiritual creation.

A lesson on subsidies and farm economics

Fort Erie Letter-Review

Canadian farmers might profitably give some thought to what is happening in one segment of the U.S. agricultural scene, where soy bean farmers have begun to realize the economic facts of life. Their representative body, the American Soybean Association, is now asking for a reduction in government price supports for their product, instead of demanding more of the taxpayer's funds.

The reason for this novel development is that the growers are afraid of surpluses traceable to the federal price-support policy. Price supports have already been responsible for unwieldy surpluses in wheat, corn and other crops, and are beginning to be a danger to the soy bean industry.

Soy beans are a profitable crop, with a great number of uses, for plastics, margarine, cattle feeds and other products. Since 1924 the U.S. product has grown from about five million bushels to an estimated yield this year of 670 million. Last year there was a record production of 693 million. There was a carryover of about 55 million bushels from last year's crop and the present prospect is that there will be a carryover of 70 million bushels when this year's crop is harvested and sold.

Farmers now are afraid that these surpluses will lead to acreage controls by the government, and they do not like federal intervention, having seen it at work in relation to other products. Another worry is the possible loss of their markets abroad. The high support price in the U.S. has stimulated planting of other oilseed crops abroad, and if the foreign farmers find this profitable they may take over a large share of the U. S. grower's market.

Three car thefts in the town within two days! First, Harvey Wilson missed his 1960 Meteor on Sunday morning, but took possession again Monday evening when the car was found near the home of Harold Hewitt. According to Mr. Wilson his car has been scratched along one side, and the motor is now in poor condition. . . A second theft, Monday night, involved the auto owned by Dr. Maurice Lamoureux, but was of short duration, as the car was found Tuesday morning (out of gas) on Park Avenue near Oak Street. . . The third in the series concerned Hilaire Binette, whose 1959 Oldsmobile was taken Monday night and found later near Campbell's camp at Dalesville. . . Police are investigating.

— The power failure which interrupted the football game on TV last Thursday evening, was caused by a limb falling from a tree on Terrace Hill. Power was restored after some 4½ hours. There are still a number of diseased trees which Council or individual citizens will have to have removed from the roadsides before a falling limb causes injuries to passers-by.

— The Brownsburg High School opening on September 28 was worthwhile for a number of reasons, aside from the obvious. It introduced the easy-going, friendly approach of the new principal, Mr. Leggett, and helped the Home and School Association to get its membership drive underway for the current year.

Paper drive in B'burg, Oct. 13

The Brownsburg Boy Scouts' paper drive is set for Saturday, October 13 (weather permitting), and residents are asked to cooperate in this effort.

The reason behind the customary request to tie up bundles of newspapers securely, is that each bundle requires something like six handlings before it reaches its destination. In the last two years, the Brownsburg Scouts have earned some $300 by collecting paper.

Barn burned at Shawbridge Boys' Farm

Flames last Wednesday night swept a major section of a giant barn at the Boys' Farm and Training School in Shawbridge. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Some 150 boys live on the farm, just to the west of the main Laurentian highway. They battled the flames, aided by the Shawbridge Fire Department.

W. F. Shepherd, executive director of the farm, said later, "It is incredible how the boys pitched in to help. They even refused to come in for coffee until they were sure everything was out."

He said the farm's prize herd of 80 Jersey and Ayrshire cattle, were in the fields at the time of the outbreak. "In another two weeks, when the weather is colder, this could have been a real disaster. We've won all sorts of prizes with that herd."

The young stock was carried from the barn before the fire spread, and the section of the building housing the horses was untouched by flames.

Hart House Orchestra and noted soprano in concert here Oct. 15

The Boyd Neel "Hart House" Orchestra plays here Monday, October 15, in the season's first Community Concert, at Lachute High School. Accompanying this distinguished group of musicians will be a noted soprano singer, Ilona Kombrink.

Dr. Louis Boyd Neel, C.B.E., B.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., was born in England and educated at the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, and at Cambridge. After practising medicine for some years, he turned to music, and in 1933 founded the Boyd Neel Orchestra. Now internationally famous, the orchestra has played all over the world, and made hundreds of broadcasts and records.

Dean Neel has been heard regularly conducting the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, the CBC Symphony and numerous other CBC events. As head of the Royal Conservatory of Music, his impact on musical education in Canada has been considerable. His efforts to obtain a new building have been successful, and the music department in the University is moving into magnificent new premises this year.

In August 1958, on invitation of the Canada Council, the Hart House Orchestra appeared at the Brussels World Fair on Canada Day, August 25, with Glenn Gould and Marguerite LaVergne.

In September 1959, the Orchestra made an extensive tour of Newfoundland and the Eastern Provinces of Canada, and in the fall of 1960, they toured Western Canada and Northwest Territories for five weeks. Both these tours were highly acclaimed.

Ilona Kombrink

Ilona Kombrink is one of the most outstanding sopranos on the North American Continent today. She was born in St. Louis, where she gave her first public recital at the age of 17. . .

In Canada Miss Kombrink sang the world radio premiere of Norman dello Joio's "The Ruby" and made her operatic debut in "Tocsa" in 1957 at the Opera Festival in Toronto. Her performance was unanimously hailed by the critics and since that time she has been the leading soprano of the Canadian Opera Company. In 1958, Miss Kombrink was the winner of the Metropolitan Opera's Auditions of the Air and made her New York City Centre Opera debut in the leading role in Menotti's "Maria Golovin".

Ilona Kombrink has appeared in many Canadian Broadcasting Corporation television productions. Last year her first major recording was released by Columbia Records.

The Red Shield

CONCERNING the Salvation Army, whose annual Red Shield Appeal was publicized in these pages and by personal letters sent out last week — our columnist Ambrose Hills ("Of Many Things") reveals an aspect of the Army's work which should commend itself to those who decry indiscriminate giving.

I have seen a good deal of the social welfare work done by the Salvation Army — writes Mr. Hills. They are generous with understanding, inspiration, compassion; they are, at the same time, scrupulously careful not to waste the money donated to them. Recipients soon know that their material needs will not be looked after in perpetuity, unless a great effort is made to obtain work and to work on themselves at the same time.

This philosophy has won great respect for the Salvation Army. It could do the same for the very valuable and high-minded social workers of Canada. A soft heart need not mean a soft head; the two seldom go together. It is no favor to a man to leave him unchallenged.

— Chairman of the Red Shield Appeal in this district is a local businessman, Harold Deacon, who will welcome the support and response of fellow citizens.

Fire prevention in rural areas

WITH THE APPROACH of cold weather, thoughts must be directed to the safe operation of furnaces, space heaters, fire-places and other heating apparatus. These may not have been used for some time and, when suddenly put into use without being properly cleaned and adjusted, they present fire hazards.

Poor housekeeping is high on the list of potential causes of fire hazards. Rubbish and waste materials should not be allowed to accumulate, and other materials should be stored neatly in safe places.

People living in rural areas without nearby firefighting facilities, must be extra careful to prevent fires. The National Safety League of Canada recommends :

The house should be located at least from 100 to 150 feet from hay barns.

An emergency water supply of more than 3,000 gallons should be available at all times.

Use non-flammable materials such as tile, asbestos or slate for roofing.

Before additional electric installations are made, careful analysis must be made of the capacity of the existing wiring.

If furnaces or stoves cannot be placed far enough away from a wooden wall, metal or asbestos should be used to cover the wall. When installing the foregoing, leave a passage for air between the wall and the covering.

In order to lessen the danger of farm buildings catching fire, cut the brush and grass around them closely or plow a broad strip around the buildings.

Large storage tanks of flammable liquids should be at least 75 feet from any building.

Lightning rods on houses and barns of approved type should be grounded to a depth of from 8 to 10 feet.

Lightning rod installation should be inspected for corrosion at least once a year especially where it enters the ground.

Prevent fire by identifying the hazards, and plan a campaign to make others aware of the safety rules and fire prevention.

Women face problems

THE MOST optimistic delegates at the recent four-day conference in Toronto on the role of women in present-day society can hardly have expected the discussions to provide answers to all the questions brought up for consideration. On the other hand it is unlikely they foresaw they would take home more questions than ever.

The biggest unknown factor, as always, was the future. As Dr. Henry David, president of the New York School for Social Research said in the concluding session of the CBC-sponsored talks: "Without knowing what the future will be like, we do have to make decisions now for the world of tomorrow." The present as well seemed to defy analysis, for throughout the whole conference there was uncertainty about what modern woman's problems really are.

A quick conclusion from the discussions points to the individual woman being her own problem. Repeatedly speakers came back to her lack of imagination in home, business and community life. Other angles of the discussions underlined her tie-up with the group, whether in the family or outside the home.

Facing up squarely to its topic, the Real World of Women, the conference was almost unanimous that what the individual does is basically his own business. At the same time a woman's own concern is a satisfying realization of her potentialities through activities. This goal often makes greater positive demands on women than they are willing to take on.

Self-knowledge and self-responsibility can be keys for solving the problems of today's women, which have risen chiefly from the greatly increased freedom of choice now facing them. Growth and change in technology, extension of urbanization, new patterns of marriage and fertility and changes in traditional patterns of living, all typical of this transitional century, have created personal and social areas of conflict. This is partly because the values and attitudes by which woman is assessed are from the past. In the second half of the 20th century her role and performance must be gauged in relation to actual contemporary situations and social institutions.

It is in the working out of such new adjustments and methods of evaluation that the real impact of the conference will be felt.

The changing North

THE IMPACT of "civilization" has effected great changes in the Eskimo's economic and social life. Government workers, teachers and missionary clergy are tackling a big sociological problem in an effort to smooth his transition from what was virtually a stone-age environment to a more orderly way of life in settlements throughout the Arctic.

Some observers believe the change is being made too rapidly. Certainly Eskimos, in many of the less remote regions, have become acquainted with most of the trappings of modern life. In the newer settlements the primus stove has been replaced by electricity, the igloo by the modern house, and the dog sled by the motor car.

Wise Eskimo leaders say the citizens of the North cannot be made over in a few years and they frequently have solved their own problems when they understood what was involved. Eskimos have much to offer in the new age if their resourcefulness and courage are not lost.

"We must train Eskimo leaders who in turn will train others," Rt. Rev. Donald B. Marsh, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, said recently.

"If sociological problems are to be solved, it will be through the people themselves and not through an imposed code that it not understood. Material changes are easily made and followed, but it is another thing for the Eskimo to understand the intellectual, spiritual and moral ideas that lie behind the white man's thinking."

For the first time in the history of the Anglican Church, Eskimos were among the delegates to the 21st General Synod being held at Kingston, Ont.

Of the nine delegates representing the 2,750,000-square-mile Diocese of the Arctic, one was an Eskimo priest and three others Eskimo lay catechists. They played an important part in discussions on the church's role in the North.

Campaign for Fire Prevention

Firebugs can be as common as flies around the place. They breed in trash and oily rags and the like and, far too frequently, in the hides of careless souls who fan fierce flames in stoves, or use coins as electrical fuse connections, or smoke thoughtlessly, or leave matches around for children to play with. Swat the troublesome breed of "firebugs" hard, the fire-fighter urges.

Drive carefully — think of your children when approaching other youngsters.

CAMPAIGNER

Halifax (CP) — Douglas Partridge, chairman of the Halifax Junior Chamber of Commerce membership committee, has vowed he will not cut his beard until the organization gets 100 new members. The 100th member will have the honor of shearing him.

STONES AND BULLETS

Transmission and distribution lines suffer damage needlessly — insulators are broken and wires snapped — by the stones thrown by children, and sometimes by adults, and bullets of hunters.

Such damage means an interruption of electrical service to hospitals, schools, homes, farms and industry.

You will be helping yourself and your neighbors, if you assist in discouraging the practice of using the Company's poles, wires and insulators as targets.

"See the autumn colors!"

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"See the pretty leaves, Mummy! Why are they so red?"

There is no end to a child's questioning! It is small wonder that the miracle of the trees changing their green foliage to red and yellow fills them with amazement. By the time they start to school they want to find out how Nature withdraws the nourishment from the leaves and stores it in the roots for use in the Winter months. But to the little boy or girl the feel of the frosty air, and the golden sunshine and the gay colors is joy enough.

One of the characters in "Chez Nous" says regretfully: "Ah! Why have I lost the eyes of childhood!"

Parents who take their child for a walk in the woods can almost re-capture a child's delight in the color of the out-of-doors. Their ramble must be a leisurely, happy occasion. No one, child or adult, can drink in beauty in a hurry. W. H. Davies knew this when he wrote:

"What is life if full of care
We have no time to stand and stare!"

Anyone who watches one hillside will see the gradual transformation of the trees each day. After a sharp night's frost, suddenly great bright splashes of red appear on the rich leafy mosaic. The different hues of the maple — scarlet, crimson, red, gold and amber — make it perhaps the most dramatic of all the trees. Anyone gazing at a maple will agree that no mistake was made when its leaf was chosen as our national emblem. No wonder Bliss Carman exclaimed:

"And one, in gown of scarlet,
The first beloved of all,
Still tells me tales of glory
When Autumn days befall."

A Canadian met a friend in London, England, and said, "It always does something to me to see a maple leaf! — I remember all the bright red and yellow maple leaves I collected as a kid in a little village in Ontario. I pressed and waxed them. I never could keep them quite as bright a color as when they first fell on the ground — but it was fun trying!"

We Canadians have a wonderful variety of maples throughout our land and the other trees have their own peculiar charm. The yellow of the elms and the birches, the bronze of the beeches, the flaming red of the sumac bushes on the rocky edges, all catch the eye and fill the heart with wonder. How the dark green of the evergreens stands out in sharp contrast to the bright shades of the deciduous trees! The graceful shapes of the different trees are accentuated by the variation in color.

The pasture land is often green right until the snow covers it, but the other fields, shorn of harvest, have strange and lovely hues. A traveller in the Autumn on a Trans-Canada train, said, "The Prairie fields are like giant sheets, and those in eastern Canada by comparison, are like pocket handkerchiefs. But east or west, they are all dyed with colors which make one long for a paint brush!" Perhaps it is this very wealth of color which lures so many amateur artists out of doors.

The autumn sky at dawn and sunset is something to be watched with delight. Across this vast dome, the birds are starting their long journey to the south. No one can help but pause and gaze with amazement at the swift, orderly flight of the feathered folk. Listen for the soft whirr of many wings and the low "Honk!" "Honk!" of the Canada geese or the quack of the ducks.

Our Thanksgiving comes the middle of October, and surely we Canadians should be especially thankful for the wonderful variety of scenery throughout our land and for our brilliant beautiful autumn foliage. A certain Canadian from Holland said: "I have asked for one holiday week in October so that I can take a trip and see the colored leaves. I arrived too late last year to see them and I know I missed a lot."

We cannot all go on holiday for a week's trip, but all of us can make at least one expedition to the country. So many of us take the Autumn colors so for granted that we hardly see them. We might as well be blind for all the dint they made on us!

Helen Keller, in her essay on "Three Days to See" mentioned one of the experiences which she covets is a walk in the woods. If we had "Three Days Without Sight" we would have a new appreciation of the different shades, dark and light, all around us, particularly out of doors.

If we have no real Thanksgiving in our heart for Autumn's colors, perhaps we should try the experiment of bandaging our eyes for even three hours. No country has a monopoly on beauty in any season, and we Canadians can appreciate this translation from a Japanese poet who wrote thus of "Autumn Magic":

"Valley and hill, where'er I glance, the same
Glory of color! Surely Autumn weaves
A spell to set the very wind aflame

Open door to fire prevention

Close your door to fire, but keep it open to prevention. This neatly describes the philosophy of Canada's campaign for greater fire safety in the home, on the job and everywhere.

Close your door to fire. In plants, office buildings, stairwells, fire doors must be kept closed. Why? To shut off live air (oxygen) from fueling a fire. In the home, try to sleep with bedroom door closed. To open it in panic, fans the flames.

Open your door to fire prevention. Don't "slam it" in the fire fighter's face if he shows up suggesting a look-around for possible hazards. Shame (over an untidy house), fear (of consequences), ignorance (of what it's all about) —forget these things, if you have an ounce of common sense.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Back to school days mean back to school lunches for many Canadian mothers. And the question is: "Will my child's lunch adequately meet his requirements?"

The noon meal should supply approximately one-third of a child's daily calorie and nutrition requirements, say the home economists in the Ontario agriculture department.

Basic requirements of a school lunch are milk, either purchased at school or carried in a thermos, hot soup, sandwiches containing meat, egg, cheese, or fish for protein value, raw fruit and vegetable.

As with anything that is repeated every day, the packed lunch can become monotonous and flat tasting. Mothers should introduce new items frequently, and avoid several-day runs on certain food or certain sandwich fillings.

Lunches require planning, and may even be planned a week or two ahead.

Sandwiches can be made in advance, individually wrapped, and then placed in the home freezer. But care should be taken to seal the sandwiches, excluding air to avoid dehydration. Aluminum foil and waxed sandwich bags are good wrappers, and can be used again and again.

Home preserved fruits, carrot sticks, pickles, tarts, raisins or dates all help to make packed lunches more tempting and nutritious.

Apple Harvest

From now until the end of October is tops for apples, and home-makers may be confused by the many new varieties that will be appearing on the market.

The foods department at the Macdonald Institute in Guelph, Ont., says no two people can be expected to agree completely on any strict division between eating and cooking apples.

Baxters are good for baking, and Close apples make delicious sauce. The Margaret Pratt apple, cooked properly, also produces good sauce.

The Dolgo Crab is a juicy apple and jells well, giving a rich red jelly, and the Hislop Crab will also make good jelly.

Apples classed as dual purpose for cooking and eating are Baldwin, Spy, McIntosh, Gravenstein, Weathy and Cortland.

Yawns Spread

Often, when a person sees a roomful of people yawning one after the other, it is assumed that this habit is contagious.

Yawning is not contagious, says Dr. Arthur Grollman of Dallas, Texas.

"Psychologically, yawning implies sleepiness, fatigue and boredom, and since members of a group are usually in a similar state of mind, when one member yawns, it is likely that others will tend to do the same."

"It is suggestion rather than contagion which causes yawning to spread through a whole group."

It doesn't take brains to have an accident — think!

Fog patches

Fog patches are quite frequent on the highways during fall. Here are a few practical hints on the subject:

Should you be caught in dense fog, and should visibility be nil, do not try to go farther. Instead, try to discover the right side of the road to park your car on the shoulder, and wait for dispersion of the fog. If it is at night, dim your lights, but do not switch them off. In daytime, show lights on "dim".

Best-ever rate of interest, new Canada bonds

"This year Canada Savings Bonds provide the best rate of return ever offered by a Canada Savings Bond since they were first offered in 1946", Gérard Gingras, Payroll Savings Director for the Province of Quebec, said, on the launching of the new 1962 Canada Payroll Savings Bonds Campaign.

"As in former years", Mr. Gingras added, "the new Bonds retain all the best features of past series, such as full value at all times and instant cashability. But what makes them more attractive is that they provide interest at the rate of 4½% for the first 3 years, 5% for the next 3 years and 5½% for the remaining 8 years — an average yield of 5.11% per annum if held to maturity in 14 years".

Each $100 Bond Will Be Worth $172.50

To illustrate the record rate of interest, a $100 Savings Bond will attain a value, with interest, of $134 in 7 years, and of $172.50 in 14 years.

As in past years, Canada Savings Bonds are again being made available to employees through the Payroll Savings Plan. "The Payroll Savings Plan offers a convenient and systematic way to save," Mr. Gingras said, "and in a surprisingly short time it generates a substantial sum of interest-money".

Bonds can also be bought for cash or by instalments through banks, investment dealers, trust companies and Caisses Populaires.

District couple pledge vows in recent ceremony

Lavis — MacTavish

The marriage of Bonnie Isabel Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert MacTavish, of Brownsburg, to Mr. John Norman Lavis, son of Mrs. Norman Lavis and the late Norman Lavis, of Lachute, took place on Saturday, September 22, in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, the Rev. James Armour officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the wedding music and the soloist, Mrs. L. Armstrong, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love". The bride and her attendants entered the church to the music of the bagpipes played by bride's cousin, Mr. Lorne MacTavish.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of white peau-de-soie fashioned with long sleeves ending in points over the hands, having hand set applique around the neckline and a full skirt. Mrs. Kenneth Underhill was matron of honor and Mrs. Kenneth MacTavish was bridesmaid. They wore identical frocks of shocking pink peau-de-soie, with round necklines, full skirts and matching headdresses, and carried bouquets of white carnations. Miss Lynn MacTavish, sister of the bride, as flower girl, wore a frock of shocking pink peau-de-soie, with short sleeves, full skirt, a matching headband, and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

World Food program being blueprinted by Canadians

A first report on the operations and activities of the World Food Program will be given to the 20-member Interdepartmental Committee meeting in Rome October 29 to 31.

At a pledging conference in New York earlier this month, the World Food Program will be by Canada, was given the "tools" to begin operating on a global scale. The session was sponsored jointly by the United Nations and the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, who spearheaded Canada's leading role in establishing the program, committed his country to a contribution of $5 million over the next three years, one-third in cash and the balance in food products.

The Minister said Canada's support of the program would not be at the expense of its other assistance activities. The program was another step forward in helping to raise the levels of living in the developing countries; it was a multi-lateral effort and contained safeguards against interference with bilateral operations or commercial trade.

He emphasized that Canada did not regard the World Food Program as a surplus disposal agency and he hoped that the Executive Director and all those involved with the program would "think in terms of food use and food assistance."

The United States pledged $50 million; West Germany, $8 million, Britain, $5 million; and 23 other countries the remaining $18 million of the total $86 million pledged.

The scene shifts now to Rome, where the 20-man Intergovernmental Committee appointed by FAO-UN will go over details of projects proposed to be undertaken.

Following the pledging conference, Dr. A. H. Boerma, executive director of the World Food Program, planned to take immediate steps to meet any emergency food needs. He and his staff have outlined the projects to be studied by the Inter-governmental Committee for economic aid and social development and for pre-school and school feeding.

Canada is represented on the committee and its members will attend the meeting.

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY
COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

We now continue the story of our flag. In last week's edition we found from whence came the three crosses of the Union Jack — the Cross of St. George, St. Andrew's Cross and the Cross of St. Patrick.

From the Lives of the Saints we learn that St. George was born in Cappadocia, in Asia Minor. During the persecutions of the Christians by Emperor Diocletian he was tortured, put to death and buried at Lydda. St. George was famous not only in western and eastern Christendom, but in Mahommedan countries as well. St. George's day is April 23.

St. Andrew, we all know, was a brother of St. Peter and one of the Twelve Apostles. He was born at Bethsaida, on the shores of the Sea of Galilee. Tradition says that after the Crucifixion of Christ, Andrew preached in Asia Minor, along the shores of the Black Sea. He is said to have been crucified at Patras on an X-shaped cross, now known as St. Andrew's Cross. The Saint's bones were taken to Scotland in the eighth century and buried at Muckros. St. Andrew's Day is November 30.

St. Patrick is a popular Saint. What is known of him is a mixture of history and legend, and many wonderful deeds are attributed to him. He drove the snakes out of Ireland, he brought darkness upon his enemies, he overcame Druid sorceries by miracles. After he died there was no night for twelve days. St. Patrick's day, as everyone knows, is March 17.

Let us now look at the Union Jack itself. First you will note that there is a narrow white border around the edge of the Cross of St. George. This border means that the white field or background of the original battle-flag of England had been kept. It also means that the color scheme of the Union Jack obeys the rules of heraldry, which are used to govern the designing of flags. These rules forbid one color touching another. They must be kept in their own fields.

It was not easy to combine the three crosses of England, Ireland and Scotland so that each one should be distinct and at the same time keep its original field. If the red X-shaped Cross of St. Patrick had simply been placed directly on top of that of St. Andrew, the white St. Andrew's Cross would have been lost — appearing only as the border of St. Patrick's Cross. To prevent this, in the Union Jack the white stripe was made broader on one side of the red X-shaped cross than on the other. The white Scottish saltire on its blue ground was then placed uppermost in the inner half of the flag, and the red, Irish cross on the outer. Thus, the two halves of the Union Jack are different. When it is flown correctly, the broad, white stripe of the Cross of St. Andrew will be uppermost in the half of the flag nearest the mast.

Because the Union Jack may be used by all Commonwealth countries, it is the Red Ensign with the Canadian Coat-of-Arms on the fly that is the "Canadian Flag".

After the British conquest of Canada, the Union Jack was for a long time the only official flag in Canada. After Confederation, suffering from growing pains, Canada felt she should have a distinctive flag of her own. Consequently, in 1890, Sir John A. Macdonald had the Red Ensign with the Canadian Coat-of-Arms authorized for use on all Canadian merchant ships.

In 1924, by Order in Council, it was authorized to display this flag on Canadian government buildings outside of Canada. In 1945, another Order-in-Council authorized its use as a distinctive flag within and outside the Dominion, until such time as parliament were to adopt a new flag.

Since the use of our Coat-of-Arms makes the Red Ensign the Canadian Ensign, we should know what its design is. The shield is in five parts each with its own emblem. Across the top, from left to right, are England's three lions, "passant gardant", and Scotland's lion "rampant". Below these are the harp of Ireland and the fleur-de-lis of France. On the lower third of the shield are three red maple leaves on a silver shield. This shield of the Coat-of-Arms was authorized by His Majesty the King, in 1921.

Most people have seemed quite satisfied with the Red Ensign as the Canadian Flag. But, there are others who do not think it is distinctive enough, since the same ensign is used by other Commonwealth nations with their own emblems on the fly.

(To be concluded next week)

Speed research on frost injury

Researchers have come up with a new way of determining winter-hardiness of plants and speeding selection of varieties.

Freezing chambers—which eliminate dependence on severe winters for testing—have proved effective in selecting hardy lines of alfalfa at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, reports Dr. H. P. Therrien.

At Ottawa, strains of alfalfa, birdsfoot trefoil, orchard and other grasses are being selected for winter hardiness. Plants are in the field and allowed to harden under natural conditions in the fall. In late November they are dug up, placed in a cold room where the temperature is maintained at 32 degrees.

New Calculations

Hardiness tests are carried out during the winter and for these, the Canada Department of Agriculture researcher explains, the plants are placed in a freezing cabinet and the temperature is lowered gradually.

Usual methods of determining the degree of frost injury are slow and include estimating the number of live and dead cells by microscopic examination and by determining the difference in respiration rate.

The new method, based on the determination of amino acids and allied substances released from frost-injured cells, is much faster and permits the handling of a larger number of plants.

Duty of parents

When school finishes each day, the safety of the child becomes the entire responsibility of the parents, says Guy Lefebvre, president of the Provincial Highway Safety Committee (Prudentia). If we really want to prevent accidents among children, he says, parents must closely supervise their leisure hours. Children are often victims of automobile accidents because parents are lax in their supervision.

Modern magic

Vancouver (CP) — It seems even magicians must follow changing trends or become unfasionable.

"Magic suffers from being a little behind the times," says Dick Zimmerman, 24, who worked his way through Stanford University as a magician.

"The old style, the classical, grand style with heavy, curtained boxes and making a big production out of presenting standard tricks is all right, but it's not keeping up with the times," says the civil engineer.

"I'm an example of the new type of magician. I wear a Brooks Brothers suit and my personality, not a cape. I use a few small props and I never use the old-time hard carnival sell."

Zimmerman performed for campus clubs, service clubs and fraternity parties at university, and for all ranks during a stint with the United States Navy reserve.

He supplements his income by selling some of the tools of the trade, including interlocking hula hoops and a "portable hole".

Potatoes bred for starch

New varieties of potatoes are being developed by federal agricultural scientists to help the potato starch industry that is gaining ground in New Brunswick.

The varieties are high in starch content, says Dr. D. A. Young, of Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Fredericton where the potatoes are being developed.

Potato starch is used widely in the paper, textile and food industries, but so far most of Canada's supply is imported from Europe. Up to three years ago what little was made in Canada came from cull potatoes which were often poor in quality and short in supply.

In 1959, three manufacturers, in co-operation with the New Brunswick and federal agriculture departments, mapped a plan to put the Canadian industry in a firm competitive position.

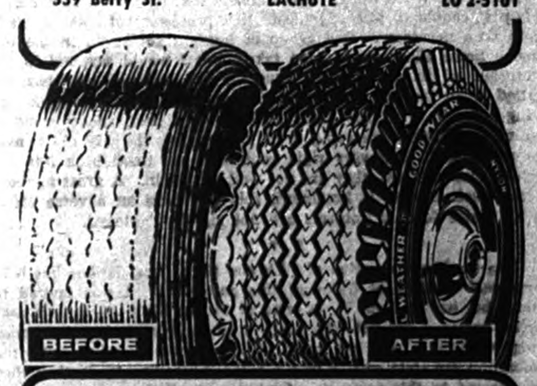

Last year 600 acres of the best commercial varieties available were planted by growers under contract to the starch manufacturers. The results were so encouraging that 900 acres are being grown under contract this year. The Fredericton research station has undertaken to breed potato varieties expressly for industrial uses.

Several varieties with good yields and a higher starch content are now being tested, Dr. Young reports.

Sush varieties could be a factor in helping the industry supply most of the nation's demand for potato starch, he points out.

'63 MONTEREY is the biggest Mercury

The '63 Monterey is a big new approach to motoring—an imaginative car! Its name and money saving habits are borrowed from last year. But its roofline is new. Its power is new. Its very nature is new. You can equip your choice of fourteen new models as lavishly as any car in North America. Or you can buy one for little more than a compact. The price is your choice. The quality is ours. We choose to make Monterey say quality—and mean it! This is probably the best Mercury ever built—Monterey. Until you see your Mercury dealer, here are some of Monterey's fine features for '63.

Exciting new "Breezeway" roofline. Raked-back rear window keeps rear vision clear in all weather. New cantilever design increases rear seat headroom. Rear window can be lowered for straight through ventilation.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

One type of water bird that seems to be on the increase in this district is the Wood Duck. The numbers that have been shot during this past couple of weeks, indicate that protection of these birds is more than necessary. One group of hunters got seven in the one shoot. Some Blacks have been taken, but I would say, not in the profusion of former years. However, the weather still has not settled down for the ducks, and this may be the cause of so few being around. Very few Mallards have been shot, and this makes one wonder if they are going to be cleaned out, the way the Canvas Backs were. It took very rigid control to get these back into the picture, and even yet, they are not well settled in. A great increase in the duck hunters is imminent; this will have an adverse effect on all water fowl, if controls are not rigidly tightened.

The Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations has held a regional meeting at Gatineau this past week. I was invited to attend, but having been in on some of these "What We Have Done" parties before, I did not take part. I am not suggesting that something worthwhile will not come of these meetings; but until the Federation can state what it wants, without pleading for it, then they are doomed in this province. Government officials are great ones for the double-talk system, so that nothing appreciable comes of these requests. Brighter days may be ahead, though; let's hope.

Most fishermen will have put their outfits away for another year, even though good fishing still remains in areas not confined to trout. . . For the trout man, however, that is it — and it wouldn't do any harm to look over this past season. In all classes of trout, the catches have been better than average this year, I believe better than for the past few seasons. Starting out not too promising, it picked up considerably by the end of May. Slowing down a little during the warm weather, it picked up again the last couple of weeks in August. I know from my own experience, the creek and river fishing was terrific; during September, it left nothing to be desired. Lets hope this will be in store for us next year.

River fishing is tops right now, with big perch and the odd good Northern being taken. The bass seem to have deserted us, probably due to the rapid cooling-off of the waters. However, there will still be good fishing right up to the freeze-up

Now the deer season is almost upon us, and some thought should be given to your equipment before using it. I am not going to give you the do's and dont's of firearms; you read this in The Wachman's editorial last week. Paste it up, and look at it every time you think of hunting! In this way safety will become a habit with you, and it may save your life. Getting out into the bush is another thing though, and a certain amount of precaution should be taken, and a number of requisites are essential. So I would suggest you look this over carefully, too. . .

A compass, if hunting in unfamiliar country, is a MUST.
Water proof match box.
A hunting knife.
A minimum of 10 rounds of ammunition.
Boots that have been well broken-in before the trip.
A couple of chocolate bars.
Proper clothing.
A canteen of water is well worth the trouble of packing it.
A small First-Aid kit — and know how to use it. Remember a tourniquet has to be loosened about every 15 minutes.
Take along a map of the terrain you are going to hunt in, and familiarize yourself with the area.
If lost, stay put, especially at night. Build a fire and wait; you'll be picked up. Build a lean-to for your comfort during the night. . . If you can't do this, give up hunting.

During the heavy windstorms of last Friday we were able to watch some birds that had taken refuge in our cedar hedge. Buntings, Jays, a couple of Chickadees and one Starling. All these birds were banded together within a space of about 5 feet; and they stayed there; not one of them stepped out of line. They all seemed to respect one another . . . and you know it makes you stop and think of this world of ours. We preach the Brotherhood of Man, yet we do not respect it. How often does it work? Perhaps if we took our inspiration from Nature's wildlife, we could achieve something worthwhile.

There is a little story I have neglected to tell you — too good to pass up. A couple of weeks ago, I helped a buddy cut some cedars on an island for a wall alongside his home. Cutting them down was no job, but loading them into a rowboat was. It sank while being towed across, but not before hitting every shoal and rock in the lake. . . After getting stuck repeatedly, this hardy type doffed his pants and got into the water. Half an hour in the chilling lake didn't do him any good. His hide turned from a nice blotchy blue, to a deep purple, a rare sight to see. I have an idea that there will be no more towing logs this year.

A tip concerning leather boots. . . Before you head out into the bush it will be worth your while to use saddle soap on them. This softens them and makes them more manageable. Your boots, if leather, may be very hard, and if they are not loosened up before used, you will end up with some beautiful blisters. Gun slings, belts, etc., can be rubbed with the soap just as it is, out of the can. Boots have to be worked on for awhile, so it is best to start off with a sponge soaked in water first. Squeeze hard, so that it is only damp, then rub over the soap right in the tin. This cleans all the dirt off, and helps to soften them later. After you have cleaned them as best as you can, rub the soap on as is. You may have to do this a number of times, but it is the only way to get leather tops. The soap won't hurt the rubber. Dubbin is very good, but rather messy to put on. Good socks also are a great help — but you shouldn't have to be told this.

½ AWAKE NIGHTS ½ ASLEEP DAYS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you haven't that sprightly step of health in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

Ascorbic acid canning aid

A method of canning apple halves for dessert which safeguards flavor and appearance has been developed by federal researchers.

The procedure involves use of ascorbic acid which prevents the fruit from turning dark and which ensures an appearance equally attractive as that of sliced apples canned by the vacuum method, says G. W. Hope, of Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Kentville, N.S.

Peeled and cored fruit is halved, packed in cans and sprinkled with ascorbic acid at 300 mg. per pound of fruit. The contents are then covered with hot sugar syrup and the cans sealed immediately. Sealed containers are then sterilized by boiling (10 minutes for 20 oz. containers).

The ascorbic acid prevents oxidization and discoloration and changes in flavor. In addition it protects the container from corrosion and preserves the natural vitamin C in the fruit.

Similar chemicals—isoascorbic acid and sodium isoascorbate—also protect the flavor and color of the apples. However, says Researcher Hope, they do not have the vitamin activity of ascorbic acid and are of no food value.

Present regulations do not permit the use of ascorbic acid commercially for unfrozen apple products.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

A couple of weeks ago I wrote a letter to the Dept. of Agriculture in Ottawa asking information about maggots descending from trees in great numbers near my camp at Lost River. Later I received a prompt and courteous reply from Mr. R. M. Prentice, of the Dept. of Forestry, to whom my letter was forwarded. In case any readers are interested, here is the gist of his reply:

(Quote) — "From your description we assume that the insect is the birch leaf skeletonizer — Buccalatrix Canadenssisella.

"This species, which feeds mainly on white birch, has occurred in outbreak numbers in many regions of Ontario and Quebec for the past two years. Past survey records indicate that these periods of abundance last about two years and occur about every ten years.

"The material sticking to your car is probably the frass or droppings from the feeding larvae.

"Although this insect is a distinct nuisance in camp and cottage areas, it does not cause serious damage to trees, as most of the feeding occurs at the end of the growing season."

So there's the answer, for which I am most grateful to Mr. Prentice.

Be seein' ya!

The Earth Abideth Forever

You may survive Armageddon into God's New World — Eccl. 1 : 4

"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With these words Jesus foretold the greatest of trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armageddon. (Matt. 24: 21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33). The death toll will be so all-surpassing that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.

But will there then be nothing to survive for? No, indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. For that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation?

Says emergency program successful in restoring stability, confidence

Montreal — Following the success of Canada's emergency action to support the dollar, the way is now open for longer term measures, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for September.

Tracing the history of Canada's foreign exchange picture since 1926, the review says establishment of a par value of 92.5 U.S. cents was a return, after some 12 years, to a system similar to that of other major trading nations who are members of the International Monetary Fund.

Against a background of improved foreign exchange reserves and a Canadian dollar now well above parity, the B of M says, "it is evident that the emergency program . . . has been successful in restoring stability and confidence in the Canadian exchange market.

"The way is therefore clear to undertake longer-term measures designed to overcome the underlying balance-of-payments difficulties which became apparent when the Canadian dollar was overvalued in relation to other currencies."

The bank says that linked as Canada's economy is to that of an overwhelmingly large neighbor — "subject to ebbs and flows of capital in great volume" — the nation always faces major difficulties in choosing an appropriate exchange regime and rate.

However, the B of M points out that other countries have operated successfully under a fixed rate system for many years with only occasional changes in par value.

Thus, the review continues, "the special difficulties faced by Canada should not be insuperable, given appropriate domestic policies and having regard to the wide range of institutional mechanisms for international cooperation that are now available."

In any event, there can be no argument that it will benefit Canada and the rest of the world alike for foreign exchange dealings in his country to be conducted in "an environment of stability and confidence, free from major speculative influences," the bank says.

And, the B of M review concludes, "the maintenance over extended periods of time of a stable par value for the currency can certainly contribute to this end."

CURIOUS PATTERN

While only a seventh of Canada's annual fires are tagged "cause unknown", the dollar damage of these fires is more than half the total loss. This is the curious pattern of figures yearly assembled by the Dominion Fire Commissioner and published under the title, "Statistical Report of Fire Losses in Canada."

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

BRITAIN AND THE COMMON MARKET

Some Canadians seem intent on pushing Britain into the Common Market regardless of the terms of entry and the resulting short-term damage to Canadian agricultural interests.

Perhaps Britain should be a member. There are many good reasons for membership. However, it should be accomplished under the best possible terms, and this will not happen if it appears that Commonwealth members are pushing the British into it.

Europeans are tough, hard-headed bargainers. They want to protect their own agricultural and industrial communities to the hilt. If Canadians appear so eager for British entry that they will accept any restrictions willingly, then those restrictions will remain and Canada will suffer severely.

In many respects, such bargaining is like a poker game. Europeans play such a game with consummate skill. They have given every indication that they couldn't care less whether Britain comes in or not; but the fact is, they are keenly interested in having British membership. They are simply too smart to show it. Instead, they make the British leader work hard for membership.

They may be less demanding when it is made apparent to them that not everyone in Britain or in the Commonwealth is so eager for membership that old cherished arrangements will be scrapped without complaint.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is fully aware of Britain's strong desire to enter ECM, and he is not deliberately balking. He is, on the other hand strengthening the voice of the British Prime Minister when he bargains in Brussels for better membership terms. And he is attempting to salvage for Canadian farmers and industrial workers something of the markets that have been traditionally theirs.

He has done a good job. He has done so well that those who are less imbued with the welfare of the people have attacked him bitterly and unfairly. He knew that such abuse would be his lot if he stood fast for Canada's welfare. The fact that he was willing to accept such abuse at a time in his political career when he needs praise very badly, indicates his strength of character. He could have made a big fellow of himself in London quite easily — by sacrificing the interests of the Canadian people. He chose the hard way and, I think, the better way.

Dutch elm disease

This fatal disease continues to increase, and more and more of our elms are dying. The disease is spread from infected trees to healthy ones by the elm bark beetle. It is extremely contagious and spreads rapidly from one tree to another. If you see a dead or dying elm surrounded by healthy ones, you can expect the latter to be attacked and killed in a short time. The only known control at the present time is to remove and destroy every part of the infected trees. So if you have any elms on your property that you wish to keep, cut out and remove completely all infected or dead trees from as large a surrounding area as possible.

MADE GOOD

Saskatoon (CP) — Elton F. MacDonald, 61, who won a gold watch in 1912 as a newspaper carrier for the Saskatoon Star, returned to Saskatoon for a visit from Dayton, Ohio. There he heads a sales incentive firm.

Every year it gets harder to improve this car.

It isn't surprising.

After all, we started with a sound idea, and we've been improving it for eleven years. So far we've made nearly 3,000 changes to make the Volkswagen a better automobile.

How can we make so many improvements and still have a car that looks the same year after year?

Simple.

We never change the Volkswagen to make it different, only to make it work better and last longer.

And it's interesting, after eleven years, to see some other car makers starting to do things our way.

The reason?

Many people have decided that depreciation, caused by new models and style changes, is getting too expensive. And they've noticed (with envy) that a Volkswagen never goes out of fashion.

If you want to see the small, but important, changes we've made for '63, visit your Volkswagen dealer. (If you prefer something completely new and exciting, he also has the Volkswagen 1500.)

A penny for your life, lady?

A penny and electricity are pretty important. The lady knows that the penny will buy enough electricity to cook her lunch. But what she doesn't know is that if she puts the penny in the fuse box she stands to fry herself—permanently.

Only one thing should go in that box—a fuse. And the proper size for the ordinary circuit is a 15. Never use a 30.

If all the ladies of the land (and, for that matter, the gentlemen, too) realized the deadliness of "over-fusing" there would be less need of this advertisement for fire prevention in Canada.

Easy come, easy go?

A sorry story of needless fire waste in Canada is told by the figures. Both in life and property, the national yearly loss is approaching an all-time high. No European nation even remotely approaches us, per head of population, in our evident consuming desire to burn up ourselves and our possessions. Ours is indeed a shameful record and lacking in pride to enlightened citizenship.

What really hurts (but can prove our salvation in the long run) is that most of the fires are caused by human carelessness. Now that we are face to face with the matter, surely we can hope to do something about it. Legislation is certainly not the answer. Education in individual responsibility, as the fire services point out, offers real and tangible benefit.

Let's get rid of the notion implied by the figures that we're living an easy come, easy go way of life. This country didn't come to greatness on such apathetic thinking.

Let's throw out trash, from our attics and in our thinking and habits of fire.

Householders liable for neglect

For a compassionate community there can be no sadder news than the death of youngsters in the home.

For the stricken family, the shadow lasts a lifetime.

No child (and for that matter, no very old or dependent person) should ever be left alone. This is a vital message from Canada's fire services, not just for Fire Prevention Week but throughout the year.

There are various provincal penalties for callous neglect of children. And section 189 of the Criminal Code of Canada reads: "Everyone who unlawfully abandons or exposes a child who is under the age of 10 years, so that its life is or is likely to be endangered or its health is or is likely to be permanently injured, is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for two years."

Tragic Sameness

There is a tragic monotony to the files of the last year in which 212 children died: Parents out drinking, infant smothers in fire . . . 3-year-old knocks over oil lamp, kills self and two brothers . . . youngsters alone in barn playing with matches, die in flaming haystack . . . brother and sister unattended in nursery caught in blaze caused by electric heater . . . year-old baby killed in stove fire while mother outside . . . boy lighting waste papers in garage, smothered by gases . . . youth cooking on faulty stove kills self and five other brothers and sisters.

Parents who go out have a duty to their children, to the community and to themselves to see that the youngsters are properly looked after.

The heartening acceptance of this obligation in homes across the land is reflected by the fact that baby-sitting has become more than just a causual occupation for many people. It has even developed into a regular profession.

The Fire Chief has information on child protection. If you do a fair amount of baby sitting, call him. He'll be delighted to hear that you mean business and that, like him, you are deeply concerned with the welfare of your charges.

Householders — read this!

A reduction in the past spiralling losses of property and human life by fire! This is the goal of a new public education campaign, now in its fifth year, against fire carelessness in Canada. By 1957, Canada's losses in human life and property by fire were at an all-time high. Per capita, the property destruction was one of the worst of any nation. In 1958, under the sponsorship of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs, a Joint Committee was set up by official charter. Its primary objective: the country wide promotion of Fire Prevention Week in support of fire safety drives and inspection programs. Directors and officers serve without compensation. Progressively expanded, the campaign is financed by grants and subsidies from public and private sources. The effort is endorsed by all levels of government, and most generously assisted by editors, broadcasters and poster media.

The Association of Canadian Fire Marshals comprises the Fire Marshals and Fire Commissioners of the 10 provinces and the Northwest Territories, as well as the Dominion Fire Commissioner, and the Fire Marshal of each of the three armed services, Navy, Army and Airforce. The strength of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs is drawn from municipal and industrial Fire Chiefs from coast to coast.

Canada's disgrace — plain talk to every Canadian

The hand of human carelessness writes a ghastly message in the ledger of our nation's life. The facts are burned deep.

In the last 10 years more than 500,000 lives were lost in fires (many of them young children). More than 500,000 homes were destroyed or damaged. More than one BILLION dollars in property was consumed.

A tragic picture — a disgrace?

All of that, but more important a national tragedy that could have been averted by simple care.

How simple? By care in smoking. By intelligent use of heating and electricity.

By cleaning out trash. By keeping matches away from young hands.

On the job, by a greater devotion to the easy rules of safety.

Fire is an economic blight. The total loss of the last decade would dwarf that of any other peroid.

We can't afford fire at any time. In today's "tight-belt" living, we must do better.

Good rule: THINK about FIRE . . . wherever you are. Don't give fire a place to start!

Portable space heater is tricky

If you use a portable oil spaceheater in your home, remember that it represents a definite fire hazard. It should be set absolutely level and shouldn't be carried around from room to room while burning. Changes in draft are liable to cause explosion. Canada's fire services hope that just as soon as you can you will dispense with it in favor of a more permanent type of heating unit.

Baby-sittiing short course

Here for parents and for the sitter, are standard rules for the work:

1. The sitter should have a sense of responsibility and should like the children and preferably live in the neighborhood.

2. Instructions should be given in writing as well as orally—

Where you are going and telephone number, or the name and number of someone to call in an emergency.

Your telephone number and location of telephone.

Emergency telephone numbers for FIRE, POLICE, DOCTOR.

How to call the fire department.

How to control the furnace or stove.

3. Guide to the sitter in emergency:

Get the children safely out. Even if it's cold, don't wait to dress them. Wrap them in a blanket.

Even the smell of smoke or gas is enough warning to call the fire department, or summon help. Be sure to say exactly where you are. If you can, turn on the front lights, to attract attention.

Don't re-enter the house. Smoke or gas from a very small fire may be fatal. If you are trapped inside, remember that the air near the floor is usually better in a smoke-filled room.

Inside, don't turn on or off any electric switches. This may create a spark, ignite gas vapors, and cause explosion.

LISTEN, DAD

Fathers, take heed: the law holds you liable for damage or injury caused by your youngster's firecrackers.

TOTAL LOSS

Then came FIRE and burned it away.

No gloom in auto sales

There's no use crying the blues to the automobile industry, says Carlyle Dunbar in The Financial Post. It's catching its breath now after running the fastest sales race in history, a period when business generally has been less than ecstatic. And don't talk gloom for the next sales season, for the auto makers and their dealers aren't listening. They expect business is going to be equally good during the coming model year.

For a car-happy country, Canada has made the auto business the one really burgeoning branch on the slow-moving business tree. Booming car sales during the past (1962) model year have pushed the industry and its complex system of suppliers close to the billion-dollar class (taking car-makers' production at wholesale value). Any way you look at it, 1962 stands as a record year for the industry. Output of 1962-model cars tops the previous peak, 1961, by 20.6% — 394,998 units vs. 327,389. Even if sales of the 1963 models do not reach anticipations, the calender year 1962 is sure to set a record in car sales. Previous record year was 1961, with a $1,290 million total.

The car builders are backing their expectations with cash. Three firms are expanding or re-equipping their factories. All five manufacturers are adding new models to their 1963 product lines.

Men still die with their boots on, with one foot on the accelerator.

Good job, bad fire: people workless; plant closing is small town disaster

Measuring the cost of industrial fire losses

To measure the impact of industry fires on the Canadian economy, consider this:

Industry fires (manufacturing and commercial establishments) account for nearly half the yearly toll of fire waste. Official 1960 figures debit manufacturing properties with a loss of $22 millions, and $37 millions gone up in smoke in mercantile places.

That year, 49 of these fires were big ones ($250,000 and up), alone accounting for $32 millions, or a quarter of the national total. And fires doing damage of $50,000 and up (representing less than half of 1% of all fires of the year) claimed 45% of the overall destruction.

But boxcar figures of direct losses are misleading. They represent only a fraction of the indirect, economic loss to the community.

A documented analysis by the International Association of Fire Chiefs puts the indirect loss at five times the direct loss, and it may even be greater in particular circumstances. One Canadian authority has even placed the indirect loss of serious fires at ten times the actual destruction.

Small Town Jobs Gone Forever

One of the most tragic end results of a bad industry fire is that which permanently wipes out the principal employment in a small community. Every citizen, immediately and directly, suffers if the plant folds forever.

Consider, however, the case history of one plant fire in a community of 25,000 population. Workers thrown out numbered 350. A few (mostly women) were absorbed elsewhere, as the management pondered re-building, and decided to go ahead, though it would take at least a year. In that time, some men were re-located, even if it meant daily travel of 80 miles. For the rest, it was a painful experience, living on the avails of unemployment insurance, digging into savings, trying to learn new job skills and, always, the worry of home responsibility and a whole way of life uprooted. For a handful well into the prime the easy way out was to accept management's offer of early retirement pension and call it quits.

Not the Least of Life's Disasters

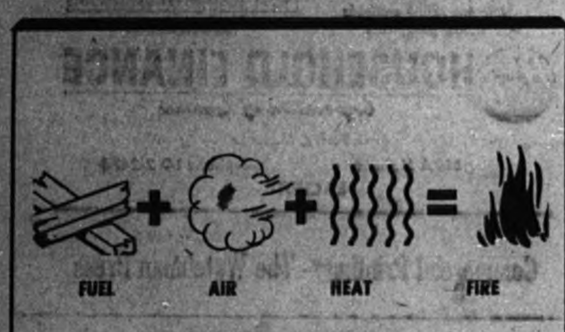

The morale factor of jobs suddenly lost by fire, says a leading labor authority, is not the least of life's disasters, perhaps because the situation seems so meaningless.

Yes, the plant we are talking about is now back in business. But with new machinery, increased production, the plant employs 100, not 350.

Arriving at a final balance sheet of that one fire and making proper discount, you might arrive at this shocking conclusion:

Its job toll: 200 steady pay checks.

The joint committee of Canada's fire services would welcome, might even assist, a young man or woman in preparing a master's degree paper on the subject of the indirect loss of an industry fire to a particular community.

ONLY YOU can eliminate all hazards by a thorough check.

'My pledge for Fire Safety'

I pledge to remove fire hazards from my home daily.

I will not kill by smoking in bed or being careless when I do smoke.

I will not clean clothes or start fires with gasoline or other flammable liquids.

I will not throw away matches without first being sure they are out.

I will check my heating appliances and chimneys at regular intervals.

I will not place hot ashes and coals in anything but a metal container and will not leave these containers sitting on a wooden floor.

I will protect all woodwork close to smoke pipes with asbestos and metal, leaying an air space of at least two inches between this protection and the pipe.

I will not do electrical repairs unless I am a qualified electrician.

I will not use pennies, hairpins, foil and such as electric fuses.

I pledge to make Fire Prevention a year-round obligation by participating actively in the fight to reduce Canada's annual waste of property and life by fire.

Ladies, please read

Still current and choice is the overheard remark by a dear old lady:

"I bought 20 ampere electrical fuses because they are twice as strong as the 15 size and because they cost just the same."

Another overheard remark by a lady:

"Fuses you buy today aren't as good as they used to be 10 years ago. They keep blowing out."

To the first lady, as the fire fighter points out, the answer is that the "weaker (15) size" is probably the only safe one.

To the second, the answer is that she is probably using many more appliances and connections than she did 10 years ago, on the same wiring.

Reddy Kilowatt says —

You Can Help Prevent Fire

Many tragic fires are reported as being due to "Defective wiring."

Electric wires in older premises were not intended for the heavy loads they require to carry today. They were installed almost wholly for lighting, and before most of our modern electric appliances had come into general use.

With age, the insulation on these older wires becomes brittle and drops off. The partly bare wires thus become a fire hazard.

With overloading such wires become a positive fire menace!

Consider the additional appliances you are now using, compared with the appliances you had when your wiring was first installed. If you have added appliances without regard to the maximum load the wiring was intended to carry — you are incurring a grave risk of fire, regardless of the condition of the wires.

Bringing your wiring up to date does not necessarily mean a complete re-wiring of your premises.

In your own interest — for the safety of your loved ones — we suggest you consult your local electrician, if you have any doubts as to the adequacy of your wiring for today's electrical living.

Nine out of ten homes could escape fire loss

Every week fire strikes at more than one thousand Canadian homes.

In terms of dollars that means a yearly loss of below $30,000,000, although the typical house fire averages under $500 in damage.

But the ghastly truth is that three-quarters of all our fire deaths occur in those homes. And not only deaths, for hundreds of Canadians are often permanently scarred in these fires.

Fires rarely just "happen"! Nine out of every ten fires are the result of sheer carelessness and thoughtless neglect of simple precautions.

Regardless of the cause, experienced fire fighters say, many of our human tragedies are needless. Not knowing what to do, victims are often trapped by their own ignorance. They might have gotten out IF they had known how.

They didn't know how. So they died. Or they survived, scarred and maimed.

Every Canadian in every home can profit by learning the simple lessons of fire prevention and fire safety.

Such is the basis of the fire services' appeal for the cold weather, hot-fire months ahead. It is an appeal for every man, woman and child. And it is a special appeal for the sake of the children, who make up nearly half of the victims.

THE COST OF FIRE DEFENCE

Estimates of the cost of fire protection to citizens of Canada:

Fire department annual operations — $70,000,000.

Capital equipment and buildings etc. — $250,000,000.

Citizens also paid (1961) $223.1 millions in earned fire insurance premiums.

This was a new record for fire insurance protection in Canada, comparing with $213.6 millions in 1960.

Against the 1961 premium total of $223.6 millions, the figure for loss claims (including adjusting expenses) was $116.5 millions, or a loss ratio of 52.21%, about 4.5% lower than the previous year.

MUSCLE and COURAGE and STEAM

A few words on behalf of good men of many a Canadian community

The days of the belching steamer and the gallant fire horses are no more (and to many an oldster 'tis a pity). But the fire fighter himself hasn't changed. He still needs muscle and courage.

In the great expanse of Canada, it's the volunteer brigade on which many a community depends for answer to the urgent call of FIRE.

To these men of muscle and courage (and much more), such a community owes grateful thanks.

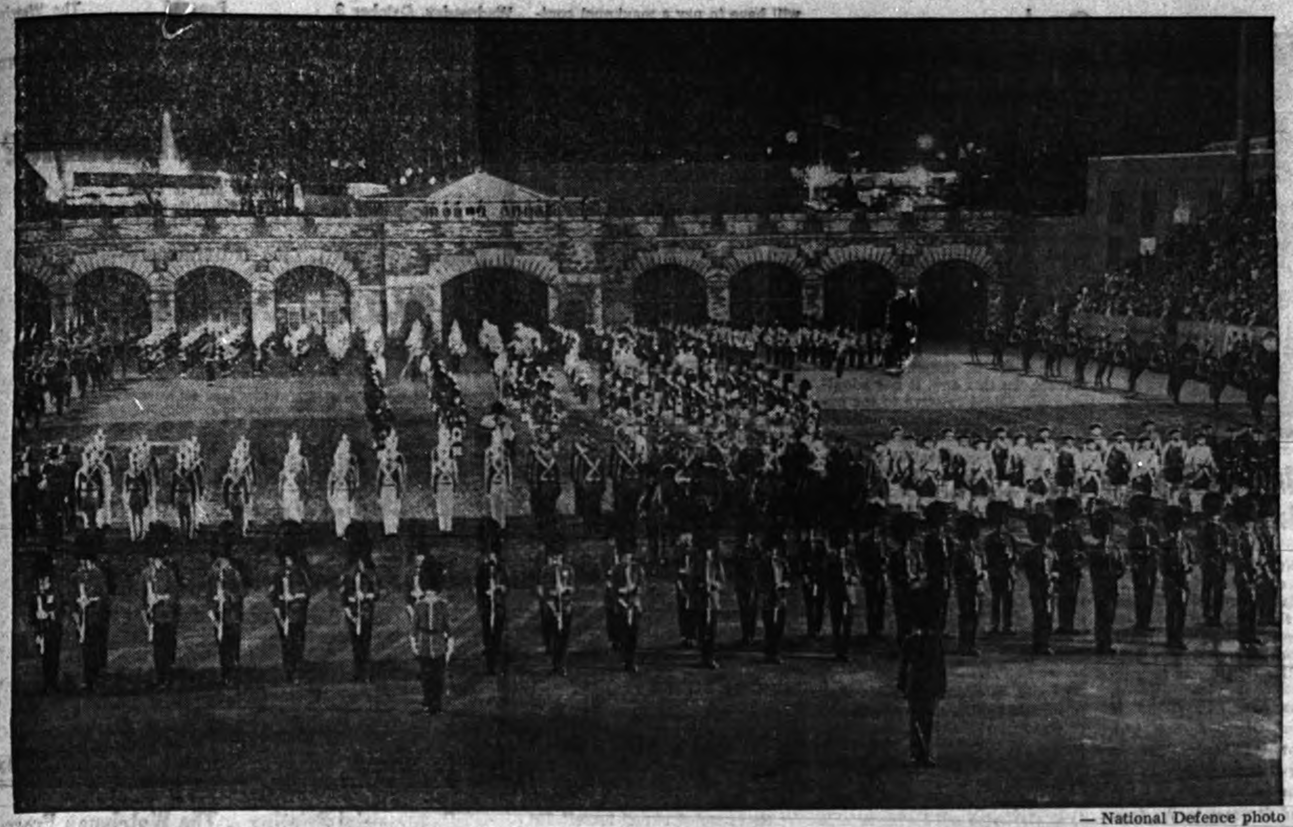

No better way to express it than by helping them to keep the dreaded summonses to a minimum.

Wherever you are, you can do your part by not giving fire a place to start.

Canadian Tattoo — spectacle at World's Fair

"A smash hit". . . This was the general opinion expressed by everyone who saw the Canadian Tattoo, highlight of Canada Week at the Seattle World's Fair.

"The Canadian Tattoo has become and will ever remain in history, the greatest and most thrilling spectacle of the Seattle World's Fair."

That was the sentiment expressed by Mr. Joe Gandy, president of the Fair, in a letter addressed to all officers and men of the 650-man Canadian Armed Forces contingent who staged the Tattoo.

The contingent representing the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army, the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police scored, through the medium of the Tattoo, an artistic triumph in its presentation of Canada's military heritage to those persons lucky enough to get seats.

Conceived and directed by Captain Ian Fraser of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, the colorful spectacle played to capacity crowds during each of the seven performances.

Neither inclement weather nor construction setbacks prior to the opening performances seemed to dampen the enthusiasm of the audiences or the participants.

When heavy rains turned the turf into a sea of mud following the dress rehearsal Sept. 9, 4,000 square feet of hard surface were immediately ordered spread, by the Fair officials.

Though high winds collapsed the Martello Tower of the facade, an overnight construction job by the 3rd Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, from Chilliwack, B. C., had the backdrop replaced before commencement of the following day's performance.

Veteran show people expressed their amazement at seeing the stands begin to fill up three to four hours before a performance.

Ewan Dingwell, vice president and general manager of the Fair, attributed the Fair's all-time daily attendance record, set September 15, to interest generated by the Canadian Tattoo.

On this record breaking day the grandstands of Memorial Stadium, opened at 4.00 p. m., were entirely filled by 5.10 p. m. for a performance scheduled to begin at 8.00 p. m.

An estimated 140,000 spectators jammed the Stadium seats to catch the Tattoo's seven performances.

From the curtain raiser when the 2nd Battalion, The Canadian Guards, mounted a guard of honor for the guest of the evening, until the grand finale when all personnel participating in the Tattoo formed up in review, the spectators sat entranced with the pageantry, only shattering the attentive silence with appreciative applause.

In gratitude to the Canadians for a job well done, World's Fair officials presented each officer and man with a cuff link and tie-clip set, embossed with the World's Fair crest.

Encompassing all three services and the RCMP, the Tattoo featured representatives from every province of Canada. Units involved were: 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Victoria, B.C.; 3rd Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, Camp Chilliwack, B.C.; 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, Winnepeg, Man.; 2nd Battalion, The Canadian Guards, Camp Petawawa, Ont.; 3rd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment, Camp Valcartier, Que.; and the Regimental Depot of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, Camp Gagetown, N.B.

Martial music was provided by the bands of HMCS Naden, Esquimalt, B.C.; Lord Strathcona's Horse (Royal Canadians), Calgary, Alta.; The Regiment of the Canadian Guards, Camp Petawawa and the Royal Canadian Air Force from Edmonton and Toronto.

Pipes and drums of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, The Regiment of Canadian Guards and RCAF Station, Rockcliffe, supplied the Scottish sounds so familiar to all.

Fanfare trumpeters of the Band of the Royal Canadian Signals, Barriefield, Ont., were in attendance throughout the performances.

Adding distinctive color and precision were the 32 scarlet coated members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police astride jet black horses who performed their world-renowned eye-catching "Musical Ride".

Honors to leading citizens

Ever since the Government of Canada stopped recommending its citizens for titles in 1935, national leaders, says The Financial Post, have experienced difficulty in expressing adequately their gratitude to men and women who have rendered outstanding services to the public. In consequence, the honorary degree granted at the spring and fall convocations of Canadian universities steadily has increased in social importance.

Although the conferring of honorary degrees receives little publicity in the daily press, the ceremony now compares in significance with the biannual publication in Britain of the Queen's Honors List. It is true that most recipients still are scholors. Even so there is a rising tendency on the part of universities to extend the field to many other individuals and to restrict the honor to the most eminently deserving. The Financial Post gives a list of men and women who have been honored this year by Canadian Universities.

Tourism and the Student Struggle

By Dorothy Barker — Diary of a Vagabond

Added together in one lump sum, the taxes from salaries earned by university students during the summer would not make a dent in the nation's deficit. But considered by each individual, remuneration for holiday services adds up to the difference between the need of a baby-sitting job for the winter and free evenings for study and dates. Very few who attend our universities have no financial problem. Those who have none would hate to admit it, for the struggle to put themselves through the course is almost as important to the standing of every student these days as are their marks.

For many years university students have manned the working staffs of summer resorts such as Jasper Park Lodge, Keltic Lodge and others from one coast to the other. Engineering students have spent their summers peering through survey instruments or in industrial empires. But for the most part, students seek jobs offered by hostelries where wealthy guests are most likely to be generous with their expressions of gratitude for services rendered. Tips are the golden lining in the students' pockets when they return to the halls of learning.

It has been my pleasure to meet many of these young people each summer. I have always found them courteous, conscientious hard workers. Seldom is there a shirker among them. One lad I remember particularly is now undoubtedly a pillar of society in a smaller community where he has established his law practice as he hoped to do. He was a porter on a CN transcontinental train. I first noticed him crouched over a book while holed up in a vacant roomette. He had finished his morning chores and was trying to concentrate on the book in hand while keeping an ear cocked for the sound of a passenger's bell that might summon him.

He told me he had flunked one exam and had taken the job of porter rather than a hotel position because he figured there would be moments like this when he could cram for his rewrite in the fall.

Everyone Asked for Tania

This summer I met Tania Milhailoff. Born in China of Russian parentage, Tania is majoring in Asian and Slavonic studies at the University of British Columbia. She was one of the first students to be chosen as hostess for Globe Trotter Tours, a new tourist innovation in Vancouver. She took her job seriously. That is why it soon got around that the smart thing to do when you bought your ticket for the coach tour of Vancouver was to ask to be put in the bus with Tania.

With a broad, open, friendly smile, Tania greeted her guests. In her smart green blazer, white blouse and skirt, with a huge bun of tawny brown hair piled on top of her head, Tania stood, microphone in hand, detailing every item of scenery and historical fact as we went along. It was obvious that Tania was not repeating a script learned by heart. She had studied local history from the days of Capt. Vancouver to the history making feat of the St. Roch we saw now moored at one one of the city's famous parks and bathing beaches.

There are hundreds such as Tania among the student population of this country, but I wonder how many of us stop just for a moment to assess their endeavor, Or, realize what a contribution to the education of our graduates firms are making who provide the jobs that help them obtain their sheepskins.

HORSE SKELETON

Coldwater, Ont. (CP) — Old dried bones found by a man excavating his cellar were identified as bones from a large horse. Former Reeve Ernie Miller, who used to work on the property, recalled the horse had died in 1927 and was buried there.

He was formerly first national vice-president. In business life, Mr. Oland is President of Oland & Son Ltd. and, except for his service in World War II as an officer in the Royal Canadian Artillery, he has spent his adult years in the family-controlled brewing industry.

Quebec growers out for market at home, abroad

Fruits have been a success beyond expectations this year, giving a first-rate crop, of excellent vintage. The apples are crispy, juicy and delicious, and smell like cider. And the rich coloring of the Quebec McIntosh apples has no equal.

The Quebec apple already enjoys an excellent reputation in Great Britain and other countries. But the Quebec Apple Growers' Board has decided to obtain a larger share of the international market. To this end, it has adopted a regulation relative to the export of Quebec apples outside and has appointed selling agents.

No person, cooperative or corporation can sell, or offer for sale, Quebec apples for export outside the continent except through one of the selling agents appointed for this purpose.

All apples thus exported must previously be classified by the Federal Department of Agriculture. The only apples that can be exported by selling agents are those classified as "fancy" and "extra-fancy".

Should an agent or agents wish to export apples, the variety, size or packing of which is not provided for in the present regulation, he must previously obtain the Board's authorization.

All apple growers bound by a joint plan, who sell apples outside the North American continent, will have to pay a maximum contribution of five cents per box of apples to the Apple Growers' Board to defray their administrative cost.

The Board has fixed the price which selling agents have to pay to apple growers, that is $3.60 per box, F. O. B. Montreal for the McIntosh variety, less the broker's fees.

In years to come it would be possible to export on these markets from 200,000 to 500,000 bushels of Quebec apples.

Tranquillizers affect motorists

"Prudentia" reminds automobile drivers that they must be prudent in using tranquillizers. In a paper delivered before the Académie de Médecine de France, Prof. Robert Mond, noted Paris surgeon, stresses the dangers of tranquillizers for automobile drivers. They impair the functions of vigilance and behavior. The scientist explains that such deterioration is aggravated when tranquillizers are taken along with stimulants, specially alcohol and amphetamines.

Civic election scene uncertain

Reports indicate at least two candidates for the November 2 election for mayor, but to date, a paper for Dave Campbell has been the only one in circulation.

It is indicated that Miss Louise Miller will contest the East Ward seat being vacated by Ald. Linton W. Armstrong, and other election developments, if any, remain obscure.

Child struck while leaving school bus

Seven-year-old Bonnie Marlene Gauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gauley, of St. Philippe, received minor injuries when she was struck by an Ontario car passing a school bus. The accident occurred at 4.15 p.m. on Friday, September 28.

According to Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinel, the school bus was stopped to permit the children to alight; the passing car struck the child, who was crossing in front of the bus. The driver of the car, Mrs. Shirley Lefhon, of Huntsville, Ont., stopped immediately, placed the child in her car, and rushed her to the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, where her injuries were described as of a minor nature.

No charge has been laid.

Rotarians pass Iron Curtain on verbal tour

At last week's meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, the guest speaker was a member of the Hawkesbury Rotary Club for the past 15 years, Cecil Brain.

Mr. Brain took the Club on a travelogue to Czechoslovakia, which he visited this past summer. One of the most notable features of the trip was the actual passing through the Iron Curtain, three rows thick of barbed wire about 10 to 12 feet high. This formality took no time at all, but about a quarter of a mile inside, the party had an hour and a half clearance check with armed guards stationed at the check point, before departing. He also said they were unable to exchange any currency before they were in the country, and any money they had when returning had to be re-exchanged before passing back through the Iron Curtain. Everyone gave a sigh of relief after passing back through the barrier, as they had a nerve-wracking experience with the bus they had, when it ran out of gas and they had to be across the border at a specified time. He also stated that during the time they were in the Communist sector they all had a very uneasy feeling as they were travelling, seeing the deserted towns and villages, the destroyed buildings, and the heavily armed guards everywhere.

Thanks of the club were extended by Cliff Armstrong for this very interesting talk.

Jack MacKimmie, president of the Club, kept the members in suspense throughout the meeting, by using the method of elimination to determine the winner of a free passage with the curlers to Scotland — which eventually went to none other than Alex Kerr, Lachute businessman.

New appointments school inspectors

Among new appointments announced by H. S. Billings, director of Protestant Education, at a meeting of the Protestant Committee in Montreal last week, were several persons associated with this County. Following are among the officials noted:

G. King Amos, appointed inspector of secondary schools; Lucien Rossaert, inspector of secondary schools in French; Mrs. Grace McCabe, inspector of secondary schools in English.

Safe robbery

The sum of $250 was reported stolen from a safe in the Buffet au Gai Temps restaurant here last week, and Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinel reports the arrest of a local citizen in connection with the theft. The suspect is scheduled to appear in St. Jerome court this week.

Local Brownies "graduate" to Girl Guides

Other girls promoted to the Guides, not appearing in this picture, were — Gloria Napp, Judy McElroy, Janice Noble, Ann Walsh, Sandra Prophet, Vickie Milnes, Joanne Lowe, Lyn Nixon and Catherine Bailey.

A number of parents witnessed this interesting ceremony. The gathering were entertained by Guides in campfire songs and exercises, and refreshments were enjoyed in conclusion. — Photo, Syd Drew

Provincial election campaign in offing — appointments, prospective candidates

Seeking support of delegates at the Liberal Convention here this coming Saturday is Lucien Giroux, Union organizer at Brownsburg, who will be in the ring with Rodrigue Durocher (and possibly others) for candidature honors. Mr. Giroux expresses himself as definitely in favor of the nationalization of electricity.

Others mentioned at this date as possible contenders are Gaetan Paquette, Mayor of Ayersville, and Maurice Pariseau, of Brownsburg. . . Representations of a number of friends and delegates have been made to Bernard Gosselin, who has still two days to decide whether he will seek the candidature at Saturday's convention.

W. M. Cottingham, meanwhile, is well organized, and plans to start his Union Nationale campaign around October 15. Committee headquarters will be situated at the Cottingham farm, Hill Head.

In addition to the appointment of Notary Jacques Beaudoin as Returning Officer, Norman Thorburn, of Upper Lachute, has been named Secretary of the election in this County.

Enumerators started on their house-to-house rounds this week, compiling the list of eligible electors. There are 102 enumerators engaged in the divisions of this County — two for each urban poll and one for each rural poll.

Office for revision of the urban lists in Lachute is situated at 119 Bethany. Dates for the rectifying of omissions or additions are October 21-27. For the rural divisions, any application for revisions must be made at the polling stations; dates, October 23-27.

Revisions in Lachute should be communicated to Gabriel Valois, at the address here given (LO 2-2303).

Inquest set

An inquest into the death of Jean Baptiste Robertson, 62, who was fatally injured in an industrial accident at the J. C. Wilson paper mill, has been scheduled for Thursday, October 18, at the Town Hall.

Lynx shot north of town

While driving to their cottage in the Lakefield-Shrewsbury district last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Brown spotted a Canada lynx at the roadside near the West Gore road. The animal took off into the brush, and Sydney Brown, loading his rifle, went in pursuit and dropped the "cat" in its tracks a short distance from the road.

The lynx, a young specimen weighing 20-25 lbs., measured 2 ft. 6 ins. from stem to stern, and its tracks in the ground showed leaps measuring a distance of 5 ft. It was first thought to be a bobcat, but was later identified with certainty as a Canada lynx by The Watchman's outdoorsman.

Farm Forum reopens Oct. 22; preview of topics

Farm Radio Forum, Canada's rural adult education program, will begin its 22nd year on October 22. The program will be presented on the new consolidated network at a new time — 9 to 9.30 p.m. Extension made possible by the new network will ensure the program reaching virtually every inhabited part of Canada.

The opening program will be a review of the accomplishments of Farm Forum, not only in Canada, but around the world. The first regular discussion, on October 29, will feature "Property Taxation". During November, Forum members will consider "Vertical Integration", "Farm Organization" and "Dairy Policy".

A discussion on the significance of the "Common Market" and how it affects Canadian farmers, will be featured in December. During the following months there will be a second topic on taxation, one on career opportunities, one on ARDA, two on co-operatives, one on the rural church, and an international topic on Canada's world obligations as women see them.

In addition to the regular forums, special interest groups will be organized on several occasions, through 4-H, Junior Farmers, W.I.'s, Federation of Agriculture and local co-operatives. In short, Farm Radio Forum will have something for every rural person, from the teen-ager to the retired farmer.

Canada's 'leading small orchestra', star soprano to perform Monday

A treat is in store for this season's Community Concert membership, when the Boyd Neel "Hart House" Orchestra presents the opening concert of the season, next Monday, October 15, at Lachute High School.

Membership cards and circular letters enumerating the season's attractions, have been mailed by the secretary, Jacques Bedard, to all paid subscribers during the past week.

Concerning the Hart House Orchestra and the soprano soloist, Ilona Kombrink, on tour with this group — the following plaudits give some indication of their popularity. . .

Hart House Orchestra

"An ensemble capable of playing superbly, music that has been long neglected." —Toronto Globe and Mail, 1954 (debut concert).

"This chamber orchestra is outstanding in every respect . . . clarity in its group playing . . . homogeneity combined with perfect rhythmic precision . . . a beautiful concert, with sustained artistry and unflagging enthusiasm," —La Dernière Heure (Brussels World Fair).

"Surpassingly good orchestra . . . . delightful concert." Third consecutive year). —Ottawa Citizen, 1958.

Ilona Kombrink, Soprano

Few major visiting orchestras come to Detroit with a package deal that includes a soloist as part of the concert. Fewer still come with a soloist of the calibre of Ilona Kombrink, the Canadian dramatic soprano, who sang with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Walter Susskind last night at Masonic Auditorium . . . Her performance only strengthened her stature here as a musician and as a singer whose warm, lush voice rang through the hall with polished phrasing."

— Detroit Times

"Miss Kombrink sang with emotional intensity and musicianship that would be difficult, if even possible, to match, by young artists today. In addition to her musical attributes, Miss Kombrink, a tall, statuesque brunette, also brings rare beauty and radiant personality to the concert platform." — Winnipeg Tribune.

"Miss Kombrink revealed herself the possessor of great power and depth of feeling; an artist who in due course, conceivably, will take her place on the world's major opera stages." — Victoria Daily Times.

Dynamite stolen from CRL mine

Two Grenville residents were arrested recently on a charge of stealing 37 cases of dynamite from the Canadian Refractories premises at Kilmar. The theft was reported to have been on two separate occasions.

Cpl. Maurice Dinel reports that the two men, along with two Fassett residents who have been charged with receiving, will appear in St. Jerome court shortly.

Lévesque denies 'general policy of nationalization'

Quebec (C) — Resources Minister René Lévesque said last week that the Liberal Quebec Government has no intention of putting a general policy of nationalization into effect if it is re-elected November 14.

The Liberals intended to buy 11 private hydro-electric companies, but would go no further, he said.

The statement was an angry reaction to a headline in a Montreal newspaper that interpreted a Lévesque remark in a Richelieu Club speech as meaning mining and pulp and paper industries would also be taken over.

"Only fanatics or amateurs are able in 1962 to declare themselves uniquely in favor of private enterprise or public enterprise," Mr. Lévesque said.

Drouin, Liberal M.P., in maiden speech asks for milk probe, speaks for Eastern farmers

Ottawa (C) — Vincent Drouin, Liberal representative for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes, called for a combines investigation into what he termed a "cartel" operated by big dairies in Montreal for the control of milk marketing, speaking last week in the House of Commons.

The new Member charged in his maiden speech that dairy farmers in the Montreal area are "at the mercy of a trust shamefully constituted to exploit them without restriction."

He said dairy farmers cannot sell their milk directly to Montreal food stores, but are forced to sign "one-way" contracts with a few major dairies.

The contracts set down the milk "quotas" to be delivered each day by the farmers, but gave the dairies the right to reject part of the shipments. The rejected milk was turned over to milk powder plants, which paid farmers only $2 per hundredweight.

Federal Investigation Demanded

Mr. Drouin, speaking in French during the continuing Throne Speech debate, said the Federal Government should investigate the matter and help dairy producers to "surmount the present crisis".

"That's a matter for the province," an unidentified Conservative Member shouted.

Mr. Drouin said the big Montreal dairies, which he did not name, buy their milk for about $5 a hundredweight and sell it to the consumer for more than $10.

He said Eastern Canada farmers need a representative in the Cabinet, and that most farm subsidies now go to Western farmers. A Liberal government would appoint two agriculture ministers, one from the West and one from the East.

He said per capita butter consumption dropped from 19.4 pounds annually in 1957 to 15.8 pounds last year. A "vast publicity program" was needed to stimulate sales of butter and milk. A program for free milk in schools should be instituted by the Federal Government.

It was reported on CBC News, the day following this speech in the House, that a spokesman for the big Montreal milk-buyers stated the idea was "preposterous", and that the industry was government-controlled insofar as prices are concerned, so that exploitation of milk suppliers would be impossible.

The spokesman for the Montreal buyers was Walter Lowe, secretary of the Montreal Dairy Association representing fifteen dairies.

Ayersv'l Council receives bids for snowclearing

Two tenders, with a wide variance between them, were received by Ayersville Council for the clearing of roads and sidewalks this coming winter.

Benoit Morrissette submitted a bid of $8,000 for clearing of thoroughfares and removal of snow, plus $2,000 a mile for clearing of sidewalks.

Rosaire Quenneville, the other bidder, asked $7,200 for road clearing and removal of the snow, plus $400 a mile for sidewalks. (There are approximately five miles of sidewalks in the village.) The tenders were held over for further consideration.

Councillor Laurent Brasseur was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

Bills for $6,975.86 were presented and approved for payment.

Council acknowledged a cheque of $3,118.46 from the Department of Municipal Affairs, being the third instalment of a grant towards extensions to the sewer and water system.

Mayor Gaetan Paquette presided. Councillor Doug Simon was absent from the meeting.

Between 60 and 65 Lions and their ladies were present for the club supper at the Legion Hall last week, at which the special guest was a lady speaker, the Rev. Sr. Marie Damien Bernard, Sister Superior of the St. Alexandre Convent on Grace Street, Lachute. It was virtually a parents' night, for the topic was close to the hearts of every parent, "Education vs. Society".

The "versus" in this theme applied, seemingly, to the qualities of character, confidence, poise, and personality with which education equips a child against the hard knocks of social living. Speaking with ease in both French and English, Sister Damien Bernard interspersed her remarks with appropriate anecdotes. The Lions Club, she said, could feel justly proud of the help and encouragement they had given to school students through the annual Public Speaking Contest. Through this means they are encouraged to get up on their feet and express themselves before an audience — which, in a young person's career, is a venture comparable to putting a satellite into orbit. In just such a manner, also, as we develop personality in a child, we never know to what heights it will soar, or when the development will stop. In connection with the speaking contests, Sister Damien Bernard mentioned that several of the St. Alexandre Convent girls who had taken part, had gone out to fill attractive positions since their graduation.

The speaker's knowledge of her pupils revealed a close personal contact and confidence. On the basis of such observation, she keenly deplored the fact that there was no suitable place for younger teen-agers to enjoy social diversion in their leisure time, especially during the week-end hours.

The guest was appropriately introduced by Lion (Mayor) Fernand Legault, Q.C., who is also chairman of the Catholic School Commission; and Lion Gordon McOuat expressed the cordial thanks of the audience.

Rev. Sr. Damien Bernard

President Royal Carrière chaired this successful meeting, which was arranged by Horace Lamarche as program chairman. A song session was led by Hal Joyce, Lion Tamer; and Clayton Robinson, committeeman for the Lions Rink this year, reported on immediate plans and preparations.

Lion Claude Landry provided a humorous sidelight by "gate-crashing" the assembly in the get-up of a tramp.

Ottawa Valley 3,000 - 5,000 years ago; archeologist to address Historical Soc'y

Campsites and a burial ground of nomadic Indians who roamed the Ottawa Valley some 3,000 to 5,000 years ago, will be described in an address by Clyde C. Kennedy to the annual meeting of the Historical Society, at Carillon Museum this Saturday afternoon, October 13.

Mr. Kennedy, who is archeologist and vice-president of the Ottawa Valley Historical Society, Pembroke, Ont., will speak on "Ancient Indian Campsites in the Ottawa Valley." He will describe the results of two field seasons spent digging on Morrison's Island, Quebec, about four miles down the Ottawa River from Pembroke. An archeological crew of 12 people, including archeologists, scientists and history teachers, unearthed 19 burials and over 2,000 artifacts at a campsite of early inhabitants of the Valley, known to archeologists as "Archaic Indians".

These Archaic Indians fashioned a variety of weapons and tools from copper. They understood the technology of annealing copper to make it more workable and they made from the metal such items as fishhooks, spear points, awls, beads, pendants, eyed needles and bracelets. The copper is believed to have come from the Lake Superior region, where Indians worked thousands of mining pits.

More than 200 finely-made copper artifacts were found at the site — the largest collection of copper items found at an archeological site in Canada.

Of special interest are the burial customs of the Archaic Indians. The dead were placed in shallow graves about two feet deep and were sprinkled with red hematite, an iron ore. With the dead were placed copper spear-points, copper axes, stone gouges and adzes, antler spear-points and, in one case, a turtle-shell rattle. The skeletons are being studied by Dr. Lawrence Oschinsky of the National Museum of Canada, and Dr. James Anderson, University of Toronto.

Mr. Kennedy will use color slides to show many other artifacts made by these early Indians.

Mr. Kennedy has made an extensive study of the archeology of the Middle Ottawa Valley during the past 10 years. He has worked with archeological parties of the National Museum of Canada, the University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario Museum. Financial support for his work on Morrison's Island was provided by the National Museum of Canada.

False cheques passed here

Over a dozen cheques, totalling around $700, were cashed by local merchants recently and later found to be false; all were drawn on the local Provincial Bank, and on a name similar to that of a local business concern.

Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinel reports the identity of the false cheque "artist" is known, and it is only a matter of time until he is arrested. Police in other parts of the province are also on the lookout for the same man.

Day changed for Art classes, set for Fridays

The art classes for adults offered by the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil, will be held on Friday evening instead of Monday, starting October 19 at 6.30 p.m. This is contrary to the announcement in this newspaper last week. Two classes will be held every Friday night, the second one being at 8.30 p.m. (The day of the week has been changed in order to suit a majority of participants.)

This popular and efficient art training is given by Mr. Giuseppe Fiore, successful artist and instructor. In addition to his classes at the Museum of Fine Arts, in Montreal, Mr. Fiore has recently been appointed as painting instructor, 2nd grade, at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal. This, incidentally, speaks well for the quality of art education being provided by the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil.

Anyone interested in joining these classes is requested to call on Mr. Jean Laforest, director of the fine arts section of the Centre d'Art (LOrraine 2-8218 or LE 7-3367).

Children's Class

The children's art class, under direction of Guy Racine, graduate from l'Ecole des Beaux Arts and art instructor with the French Catholic School Board in Montreal, will open this coming Saturday, October 13, at 10 a.m. Children between 5 and 15 are eligible. Those interested are requested to remember the Centre's new address, at 360 Main Street, Lachute.

Farm Forums held rally and turkey supper

On Saturday, October 6, members of the Argenteuil Farm Forums, and friends, enjoyed a turkey dinner held in the Legion Hall, Lachute, with some 100 persons attending. Ladies from Unit 9, Lachute United Church, supplied a most delicious dinner.

The president, Mr. Alvin Heatlie, acted as m.c., and Mr. Geo. McGibbon was guest speaker, proving himself "the life of the party", with whom the many guests enjoyed a hearty laugh.

The secretaries from each of the five Forums, and the vice-president, Mr. Gordon Smith, also addressed the gathering.

Mr. James Kirby, secretary-treasurer for the Argenteuil Forums, was presented with a leather brief-case.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

Our squirrels are really having a time. We have three young ones and the mother, and watching the antics of these moochers is really worthwhile, especially when it happens to concern our dog Goldie. . . I have not mentioned this before, but she has a playmate about the size of an overgrown flea. A dachshund. Seeing these bullies chase the squirrels is honestly a lesson in something or other. The dogs have all the patience in the world and will wait underneath a tree by the hour. The fact that the squirrel has slithered down the tree on the opposite side, does not matter too much. . . These squirrels seem to have a system down pat, too. Maybe one of them spots something worthwhile on the lawn; a few chatters from him and one of the others will attract the attention of the dogs away from the trees. Believe it or not, this never fails; the dogs get fooled every time.

I've wondered just what would happen if one of the squirrels turned around and chased the dogs; those canines would back up in a hurry!

The upland shooting has not been very good; poor supplies of partridge, and very few rabbits. At the time of writing, with the leaves still on the trees it is exceedingly hard to spot anything, so there may be more of these potential meals around than I have seen. I have seen a cock pheasant walking on the roads, but these will not be in great supply. There are a good number of doves, however, and this will enhance the shooting.

Ducks are few, and will continue to be so for a while yet; not that we can expect good flocks this year. Some of the scouting flights of Geese have been spotted and heard, so it looks as though winter is not too far away. Wood ducks are being taken, seemingly more than anything else. Very few Blacks have shown up, and it looks bad for that breed. With the poor showing of the Canvas Backs, Redheads, Pintails, etc., it won't be long before all types of duck shooting will be a dead loss. That is, unless something is done about it. I am not blaming any particular party for this, but rather the entire country and its wildlife associations. These are the boys who should know of these things and act accordingly. A broad outlook is needed — not confined to our own immediate areas.

I've heard through various sources that anyone "in the know" can, even now, get themselves a deer. I don't know just how true this is. However, knowing just how some of the Great Meat Hunters operate in this area, it wouldn't surprise me one bit. I do know that, already, trout can be bought. This is earlier than last year, but I imagine they found it was such a good thing that the offenders enlarged the operations. Might be worthwhile for the local Wardens to check.

As you know, the .22's are now allowed for deer, providing you have a big game permit. Not for rabbits or anything else in the bush. When this law is really examined, it sure makes little sense. For instance, a .22 has a lead point usually not running over 45 grains. The standard 30-30, one of the most popular deer guns, has roughly 170. The .22 at 100 yards has an energy of only 86 foot-pounds, the 30-30 has about 1350. Some difference. In certain parts of the States the smallest gun that can be used on deer is the .245 in 100-grain bullet. Yet our government will allow you to use the .22 for deer. As most shooters know, this gun is underpowered even for crows, at any distance; sure it will knock them down, but it will not kill clean. So what will it do to the deer? I foresee that by next year we'll have so many maimed deer around that it will be tragic. Deer are hardy animals to kill; indeed very few of them are killed with one shot from a high-powered gun. However, this does not seem to have been considered at all.

There are now a few Golden Crowned Kinglets in evidence, and let's hope they will stay around for the winter. These are pretty birds — very small and chunky, with stubby tails. They are easily spotted, as the male has an orange stripe running through a golden crown. A dull olive-grey color, with this orange stripe, makes them very distinctive. The Nuthatches will be along in a while, and with the Chicks, etc., all coming in to the feeders, some pleasant hours should be spent watching their antics.

I had the opportunity of inspecting a .303 British, bought in Montreal this past week. Supposedly to be used for deer, it was of the 17 model, and from the lack of rifling in the barrel, it must already have shot thousands of rounds. This gun was picked up in a surplus store; the gentleman who bought it, liked and used guns, but did not know too much about them. I would imagine the groupings of any fire test would run about 12 inches at a hundred yards. That is, if they hit the target at all! It seems strange that the government should sell these surplus rifles knowing they are not fit to be used. In my opinion these guns are a menace to anyone near them, whether hunter or bystander.

North River fishing is now in top shape. Northerns should be hitting very well, anytime now. In the next couple of weeks I shall be giving these fighters a going-over. From all the evidence there should be some dandies taken this next little while. I have hopes of landing a really good one — maybe a world-record fish! I'm sure it could happen in this river of ours.

Goodyear Rubber Company has on the market a rubber hunting boot made in Japan, that seems to be very good. Of course, these will be made under supervision of the Company experts; but I wonder just why these things can't be made in Canada. This applies to almost all types of sporting goods; even snowshoes are being made in Japan — a very creditable product, too.

• • •

One more safety tip for hunters. . . if you become lost, as usual, stay put. Build a fire on the nearest high ground, being sure to keep it under control (unless you want to be cooked as well as lost). Get the fire going good, then throw on some wet leaves, grass or wood, to create smoke. Keep doing this, and in no time at all you will either have a fire warden with you or some of your own gang! One last thing, don't leave the fire alone; in other words, don't go wandering off, thinking you know your way out after all. It's bad enough being lost without having to run from a fire.

Bible in Norway

Dr. Oge Holter of Oslo, Norway, visited London, Ont., recently on a YMCA visit. As translation secretary of the Norwegian Bible Society, he met with a group of interested Londoners for lunch.

Founded in 1816, the Norwegian Bible Society is an agent of the Norwegian Lutheran Church, Dr. Holter explained. The Society is the sole publisher of Norwegian Scriptures.

Following affiliation with the United Bible Societies in 1946, the Norwegian Society began to take an active interest in Bible affairs in other countries. It now contributes to translation work in Tanganyika, for the Santali Bible, in India for Indonesian Scriptures. Besides this, the Society has organized many Bible reading and study groups, Dr. Holter said.

Dr. Holter explained that all schools in Norway hold Bible reading sessions. A Youth Translation of the New Testament was completed in 1959, in order to make it better understood by those of the school ages. "The Society has organized many Bible reading and study groups," Dr. Holter said.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

ACROSS A PROVINCE IN MINUTES

It is not impossible to travel from one end of British Columbia to the other in the space of three and a half minutes. That is if you travel, as I did, aboard a gantry in the B.C. Building of the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver. It is there that the famous relief map of the province is on view every day of the year.

George Challanger took seven years to construct this spectacular map. It started as a hobby in his basement where he worked in sections building in accurate detail a visual history of Canada's third largest province with almost a million pieces of plywood. Challanger's map is not only a miniature of the terrain, rivers, roads and railways, mountains and lakes of B. C., it is an account of the exciting story of British Columbia and its people.

The B. C. Government bought this map and spent some 50 thousand dollars before finally completing its assembly in the building where it is now a popular tourist attraction. Ten thousand visited the building last April. This is only a small segment of the numbers who are welcomed annually by Mrs. Camilia Fleming, a person of considerable charm who came by her job through the more sedentary position as secretary to the General Manager of the Exhibition.

Mrs. Fleming is a splendid hostess. She welcomes not only individuals as though they were dignitaries of some high rank, but is tireless in her lectures to groups of school children and convention visitors.

The day we were there, she let young Ricky operate the push-button motor that activates the gantry while he traced the adventure of Simon Fraser through mountain gorges and down the treacherous river named after this intrepid explorer. His little boy enthusiasm and knowledge of Canadian history amazed both our hostess and the lad's teetering grandmother, as I tried to keep my balance during the fitful starts and stops inspired by young Ricky's enthusiastic operation of the gantry.

This map occupies 32,000 square feet of exhibition space and details vital forest, mining, agriculture, petroleum and natural gas, fishing, power and communication industries, all unfolding the diversified economy of this vast coastal province.

I think I was so impressed by this map and other outstanding exhibits depicting B. C.'s trade routes, electric power and oil refining, not to mention its collection of Indian artifacts and native crafts, because it is making use of a building that might otherwise lie idle from one exhibition to another. To me this is the epitome of public research.

Another aspect of admiration inspired by the afternoon's visit to the pavilion was the fact that Challanger sharted his task of building the map when he was 65 years old. He was assisted by his children, chiefly his son, Robert A. Challenger, who worked with him to accomplish the undertaking in the seven years I mentioned previously it took to complete the map.

This must have made quite an impression on young Ricky for his father tells me that he was working like a beaver after his return, shoulder to shoulder with him, building a dock at their summer home. Not exactly a history making feat, but if Ricky got only this much from his travels aboard the gantry across mountains and lakes of a province in miniature, he has gained a sense of accomplishment and its reward.

RAISING FUNDS FOR MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

Arthur Minden, Q.C., Toronto, president of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada, states as follows: "I would like to make it clear that vending machines now appearing in Canadian centres, with part of the proceeds directed to the organization known as MEND, are in no way connected with MDAC's work on behalf of Canada's victims of Muscular Dystrophy. MEND is the slogan used by an American organization. The Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada does not use the services of any paid solicitors, nor lend its name to organizations who raise funds on a percentage basis."

Mr. Minden pointed out that during the past eight years, MDAC has built up a medical research program in Canada embracing 50 projects in 20 universities and medical centres.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

With the days getting shorter, it's time to make sure the headlights of your car are in top working order. Although easy to maintain, headlights are among the most neglected of all safety aids. Follow these simple rules:

1. Turn on in low position and check to see that both are lit. Then flick on highway beams and check again.

2. With lights shining against garage wall, check to see if beams are "cock-eyed". If even slightly off-centre, they not only rob you of illumination but may glare in the eyes of approaching motorists. They should be adjusted by a mechanic.

3. Dirty lenses can diminish effectiveness of the lights by as much as one-third. A wipe with a damp cloth is usually enough to keep them clean.

4. If lights are erratic in any way, have your garage man check the entire wiring system.

And as added precaution, be sure to check your parking lights, tail lights and stop lights. It's smart, too, to carry extra fuses in your glove compartment and know how to replace a blown fuse in an emergency.

Every car should have a lifeguard — you.

Plans for 1963 Education Week

Plans to focus the nation's attention on Education during the first week in March next year were drawn up recently....

Representatives of Canadian Education Week committees in Canada's ten provinces met in Toronto to discuss ways and means to make the 1963 observance the most important in history.

Quebec's representative at the meetings was Mrs. W. H. Hudson, of Pointe Claire, Que. Mrs. Hudson presented the viewpoints of the Province of Quebec Education Week committee, its program of last year and an outline for this year's March observance.

Education Week last March coincided with the holding of the largest education meeting ever to take place in Canada, when two thousand delegates attended the Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal. Many of the responsibilities of the Conference have been taken over by the Canadian Education Week groups, who expect to represent the same 75 organizations with a membership of six million Canadians.

Inter-branch W.I. visit has colorful setting

Lachute Branch of the Women's Institute was entertained by the Dalesville Branch, in the church hall at Dalesville on Wednesday evening of last week. The visitors were graciously welcomed by the Dalesville president, Mrs. E. Morrow.

The hall was attractively decorated with sprays of autumn leaves — the vivid reds of the maples, the gold of the beeches and birches, and the deep maroon of the oaks, being most effective against plain white walls.

Contests in playing "Password" and solving old-fashioned riddles, were much enjoyed by the ladies of both branches.

Great interest was shown in a series of colored slides which portrayed, not the lure of far-away places, but familiar scenes of this immediate district — in Dalesville, along the Louisa Road, and in The Glen. Many of these showed the riot of autumn color at its best, while others were winter scenes of sparkling snow with long purple shadows of the trees upon it. Other slides showed farm animals in their familiar haunts, and some of their antics seemed to suggest that all clowns are not two-legged.

Supper partners were found by matching up "things which go together". Delicious refreshments were served, and under the influence of good food and happy chatter, the evening drew to a successful close.

Mrs. Angus Taylor, president of the Lachute Branch, thanked the Dalesville ladies for a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. Merchant, does this mean YOU?

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town:

● "No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns.

● "The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business men."

● "This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad, in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned.

● "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.

● "The man who does not advertise does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town.

Your bank advertises in The Watchman,

DO YOU?

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The message – this is it!

THE HAND of human carelessness writes a ghastly message in the ledger of our nation's life. The facts are burned deep . . . and the period of Fire Prevention Week is a good time to re-consider them — not as propaganda, not as statistics — but as facts which concern us personally, you and me.

In the last 10 years more than 5,000 lives were lost in fires (many of them, young children). More than 500,000 homes were destroyed or damaged. More than one BILLION dollars in property was consumed.

A tragic picture — a disgrace! — All of that, but more important, a national tragedy that could have been averted by simple care.

How simple? — By care in smoking. By intelligent use of heating and electricity. By cleaning out trash. By keeping matches away from young hands. On the job, by a greater devotion to the easy rules of safety. Fire is an economic blight. The total loss of the last decade dwarfs that of any other period. We can't afford fire at any time. In today's "tight-belt" living, we must do better.

Think about Fire — whever you are. Don't give a fire a place to start. —That in brief, is the message, whole and compact, of this continent-wide observance we call Fire Prevention Week.

Protection your car insurance buys

A NEW SIMPLIFIED and standard-type of policy for automobile insurance became effective in the Province of Quebec on October 1. This new policy form, which went into use in all other provinces during 1961, has been made mandatory and must now be used by all insurance companies in the Province of Quebec. Since many motorists appear uncertain on the coverage they pay for, here are the provisions of the new standard policy:

Under the new-type policy, if a motorist carries insurance against third party liability, he is protected — as well as any other person who drives his car with his consent — against liability for bodily injury or damage to the property of others.

If a motorist carries insurance against third party liability on his own car, he is protected for legal liability for bodily injury or damage to the property of others while he, or his wife are driving a rented car or station-wagon. He is also covered when driving any other private car or station-wagon with the consent of the owner.

If the insured carries third party liability, he is protected for legal liability when he rents or borrows a trailer of any type for use with the insured car. If he owns a trailer, he must advise his company or agent — unless it is a utility trailer such as a small luggage trailer, camping or boat trailer. (Trailers used as dwellings, sales offices or for demonstration purposes are not insured unless specifically mentioned on the policy).

If the motorist is driving a car belonging to someone else while his own insured vehicle is laid up for repairs, all insurance carried on his own car applies to the borrowed vehicle. However, this extension does not apply if the borrowed car belongs to someone residing in the insured's own home.

If the motorist carries medical payments insurance, he and his wife may now recover such medical and funeral expenses incurred through injuries sustained while riding in or driving another person's private car or station-wagon. This is in addition to similar insurance provided for the motorist, his wife and his family as well as other passengers, while riding in or driving his own car.

Certain coverages have been broadened for the motorist carrying insurance against damage to his own car. To achieve this at a minimum cost, deductible amounts have been introduced for collision, comprehensive and specified perils. These specified perils were formerly called fire, theft and miscellaneous. It is possible to have separate and different deductible amounts apply to each coverage. A new coverage entitled "All Perils" has been introduced. It is a consolidation of the present collision and comprehensive coverage, subject to a single deductible.

If a motorist is insured against theft and his car is stolen and not recovered within 72 hours after being reported to the police, his insurance company will reimburse him for the subsequent rental of another car or taxi-cab (subject to a limit per day, and a total limit as stipulated in the policy).

Security plus

UNDISMAYED by the record of Saskatchewan, the Ontario provincial New "Democratic" Party have included a medical care insurance plan in their draft platform, and a public automobile insurance plan.

The difference between the N.D.P.'s in Saskatchewan and Ontario (says the Fort Erie Letter Review) is that in the western province they are in power and in the east they have only a faint hope of ever being so. They can promise Ontario electors any amount of pie in the sky without the danger that they will be called upon to keep their promises.

The N.D.P. program for Ontario also includes more assistance for almshouses, or public housing as they are known in the modern idiom, and a government department of co-operatives, which for some reason receive a socialistic blessing in spite of the fact that they are profitable enterprises. This addition to bureaucracy would naturally be financed in part from the taxes paid by enterprises with which the co-operatives are in competition — says The Letter Review.

Viewpoints and perspectives

WAY TO STARVE. — Canada, it is generally believed, is self-sufficient in all kinds of food that can be grown in the north temperate zone. But if the food is put in a can, the chances are that the can must be opened by a device made in Japan or in the United States of America. . . . A recent bride who found that the buy-in-Canada policy was a religion with her husband almost starved before she remembered that her grandmother rarely, if ever, bought foodstuffs in tins!

— The Printed Word

IN TROUBLE. — Our country is in trouble today because it buys more from abroad than it sells, because it needs transfusions of foreign money to operate from day to day, because the government spends more than it collects, and yet taxes the public more than is good for the economy. All these troubles can be traced directly to the idea that we can live without working — that we can consume more than we produce — that we can buy and somebody else will pay.

CANADA FIRST. — In the months ahead the true statesmen will be recognized as those men who, regardless of party, place the national interest first.

YOUNGSTERS HELP — One of the most gratifying aspects of rural fairs is the interest taken by young people. They are the 4-H members . . . varied exhibits of the school fair and the large number of young riders in the horse show. Young hobbyists, too, are much in evidence. All in all, it would be a much poorer fair without the young people.

SHOULD GET VALUE. — Taxes seem to be increasing everywhere. In the federal field the increases are due to defence and social services. In the provincial field it is education and social services. At the municipal level the increases are due to education and public works. . . . People generally do not mind paying taxes if they know they are getting value for their money.

SPRAY-ON STOCKINGS ?

Canada's textile industry holds an international textile seminar each year to keep itself up to date, and exciting news is usually the result when these experts gather. Exciting to technologists and ladies, that is. Depressing, in this case, to me.

Thomas Edman, of the Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science, was the man who noted that, "there is no reason why a very sheer stocking could not be imitated with a spray of fabric-like solution applied directly on women's legs."

This thought has disturbed me ever since I read about it. I live in a household of females — five of them — and part of the homelike atmosphere I've grown used to is the familiar stocking, dangling from shower-curtain rods, drooping over the towel holders, or heaped in a gossamer pyramid on the dresser where I hunt for my cuff links or tie clips. I am going to miss this delightfully feminine disarray. It has become part of my life.

While I am glad to learn that the Canadian textile people are keeping themselves up to date, I must confess that in this instance I hope they drag their feet a bit. You see, whenever a silk stocking is abandoned by one of my daughters, I snitch it. There is no better car-wash aid than a couple of old silk stockings, dipped in detergent. Recently, I acquired a used pair and tucked them in the back pocket of my trousers, intending to put them in the glove compartment of the car. I forgot about them. Apparently, one of them drooped out of my pocket. At any rate, in the MOSS I GATHER column of the Winnipeg Tribune next day, I read: "I SAW a man walking down Portage Avenue with a woman's silk stocking hanging below his coat."

Some woman won $5 for sending in that Saw feature, and I was the butt of several family jokes about the matter for a couple of days. This sort of family fun will be wiped out with the spray-gun approach.

I suppose I am an old reactionary, but if progress means the end of sheer silk stockings I'm agin it. If the textile industry wants to monkey with tradition, let it come up with adhesive shirt cuffs and ties that need no clips.

SMALL VAN CHECKS ROARS OF AIRPORT

Montreal (CP) — Montrealers living near Dorval Airport now have grown accustomed to a pint-size van that has been around for 18 months, and they look on it with gratitude.

The van, manned by three technicians, Ross Williams, Andre Labelle and Dan Gyott, with their electronic equipment can record and analyse the intensity of the sound made by the jets and assign a nuisance factor to certain phases of landings and takeoffs.

The result? "Either the noise has been lowered or we're getting used to it," residents say.

wonder QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

I WONDER . . . Curiosity is a priceless gift. A youngster's daily questions indicate a bright, inquiring mind. They should be answered intelligently. In this column periodically the editors of this newspaper, in cooperation with The Book of Knowledge, will print those questions — and the answers — most frequently asked by children of their parents.

What Makes the Kettle Boil?

The question might be stated: What makes the bubbles form when water boils? If you hold a cold plate a few inches above a pan of boiling water, you will find drops of wet water form upon it, though you can see no water passing upward between the surface of the boiling water and the plate.

The truth is that we always think of water as something that is liquid and wet. Water happens to be usually fluid, but we all know that when it is cold it becomes a gas, like air. Indeed, the air contains a quantity of water gas, or water vapor, as it is usually called, and when we find the weather close and muggy, it is usually because there is more of this water vapor in the air than we like. When water boils, then, the bubbles are bubbles of water gas, or water vapor. They rise to the top of water and escape into the air if the pan is open. If this vapor strikes a cold surface, such as a cold plate, it becomes liquid again.

One of the things that decides whether anything shall be solid or liquid or a gas is heat; and so, of course, the simple answer to the question, What makes water boil? is heat. We apply heat to water and it begins to turn into gas, which makes the bubbles and then the steam.

If we go on boiling the water, of course, we boil it all away as gas until there is none left. Water ordinarily begins to boil when it is at a certain temperature, or hotness, and this is called the boiling point of water. It is not possible, except under very special circumstances, to have wet water any hotter than this point, no matter how much heat you apply to it.

However, under special circumstances, water can be made to boil without being nearly as hot as boiling water usually is. One of the things that decides the boiling point is the pressure of the air. If you take water up to the top of a high mountain, where the pressure of air is much less because there is not so much air above you and if you heat the water, it begins to boil when it is not nearly so hot as it needs to be made before it will boil at the bottom of the mountain. On the mountain there is less pressure of air squeezing the water and so it can more easily expand into bubbles of gas. So, if you put an egg in the water at the top of the mountain, you may boil and boil as long as you please, but you will never boil the egg hard, simply because you can never make the water hot enough to make the egg as hard as it can be made at sea level.

"Then they met in the Mountains"

Early in September, Levesque-Lesage and their twenty-seven associates met in the Laurentide Mountains, a short distance from Quebec City, where they held a series of meetings supposedly to arrive at a decision with regards to Nationalization and other important matters in the interest of the population of the Province of Quebec. Mr. Lesage's reported reason for holding these meetings in the Mountains was that it was quiet and no chance of interference. The seven cabins they occupied were under heavy guard night and day by the Provincial Police, with searchlights beaming down on them from dusk to daylight. Then all of a sudden the meetings broke up with great misunderstanding and serious division within the ranks of the Levesque and the Lesage groups. Then within a few days Mr. Lesage (due to the demand of Mr. Levesque) was obliged to call another meeting in Quebec's Parliament Buildings, which meeting ended very quickly, due to the Socialistic demands of Mr. Levesque, and Mr. Lesage was obligated to immediately dissolve Parliament and call an election, or lose Levesque and fourteen Liberal members close on to three years before the mandate given him by the people was due to expire.

Ever since the Levesque-Lesage government went into power there has been nothing but strife, higher taxes, threats by Levesque to break away and form his own party, and numerous other serious discords most detrimental to the progress and reputation of the Province to say nothing of mortgaging the Province to close on to half a billion dollars, with two hundred million dollars still needed to complete work on their 1962 agenda. And note, this vast accumulation of debt has all been incurred within the last two years, and now they want to Nationalize all Power Companies at the stroke of a pen, at the cost of a billion or more dollars. Don't forget a Liberal Government took over the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, with the result that thousands of small investors lost a great part of their life savings, and many employees were thrown out of work. The take over of all the Power Companies can only add to the present fantastic two-year accumulated debt of the Province and bring about much higher taxes to the wage earners, who are already burdened beyond their earning power due to the reckless spending of the Levesque-Lesage government. DON'T BE MISLED BY PROMISES. At Mr. Lesage's recent meeting in Montreal, he was surrounded by European French Socialists.

'BOUT CANIBALS

A white missionary in Africa learned of a remote tribe away back in the jungle, who still practised cannibalism. He decided to go and convert them. After several weeks of hardship he reached the spot and asked to see their Chief. Much to his surprise, he found that the Chief spoke perfect English, and was an Oxford graduate.

"Then the rumor that I heard about your tribe eating human beings must be entirely false," said the missionary.

"Not at all," replied the Chief. "They are all cannibals."

"But how about yourself?" said the missionary. "Surely you are not a cannibal!"

"Oh yes, I am." said the Chief. "But of course, since I have been civilized, I use a knife and fork."

A cannibal cook once summoned his chief cook to appear before him. The chef came forward in fear and trembling in case he had done something to displease the king. But his fears were unfounded.

"I want to congratulate you," said the king. "That last missionary you cooked was delicious."

"But he wasn't a missionary, Your Majesty, he was a cook like myself."

"How do you know he was a cook?"

"Because he carried a cook-book."

"How do you know it was a cook-book? You can't read."

"I can read a little, Your Majesty. And the title of the book was, 'How To Serve Your Fellow Man'."

* * *

A cannibal had a severe attack of indigestion and went to the Medicine Man for relief.

"What have you been eating recently?" said the witch-doctor.

"I ate a missionary yesterday," replied the victim.

"What kind of a missionary? Describe him."

"Well, he was middle-aged and wore a sort of a long brown cloak, a string of black beads with a cross at one end. Sandals on his feet, and the top of his head was shaven."

"And how did you cook him?"

"I broiled him."

"Ah, there was your mistake. You should not have broiled him. He was not a broiler, he was a Friar!"

Testimonial (unsolicited) from England

(TO THE EDITOR)

England.

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

I have recently returned to England after taking a month's holiday in Canada, most of the time being spent in and around Lachute. May I, through the medium of your paper, express to my hosts and their many friends my sincere appreciation of and deep gratitude for their many acts of kindness during my visit. In all fairness I must say that I am not unhappy to be home, but my most abiding memory of the Canadian way of life is of the wonderful generosity and friendliness of your people.

May I wish The Watchman every success in the future. I have been a keen reader of the occasional copies which have been sent to me.

HELPS DOG-CATCHER

A wire cage, a trap door and a juicy bone are credited with boosting the number of strays impounded this year to three times the number caught last year.

So far in 1962, 700 hungry dogs have fallen for the bait—they got the bone but finished in the dog pound. The device catches dogs while the poundkeeper sleeps.

Branch 70 Correspondent

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The inter-branch cribbage rivalry between Brownsburg and Lachute for the Molson Trophy literally got off with a bang last week, with the laurels for the first series resting with Branch 70.

By now, most members should have received a news letter regarding the special dedication and presentation on Saturday, 13th. As this should be one of the top entertainment nights of the year, come out, bring your friends and enjoy yourselves.

Don't forget the general meeting, Wednesday, 17th. Lots of business on the agenda, and you might as well add your views and ideas.

The Poppy Campaign and November 11 ceremonies will soon be upon us. More on this later.

We continue our study of the flag. During World War II the Canadian Army decided it should have a battle flag. This flag has a white field with three red maple leaves joined with one stem. In the upper left is the Union Jack, and in the upper fly at the right is a blue circle with three golden fleur-de-lis. This flag was first flown by the Canadian Army when it went overseas in 1939. The Royal Canadian Navy flew the White Ensign of the British Navy, and used the Maple Leaf emblem on its ships. The R.C.A.F. flew the Blue Ensign similar to that of the R.A.F., with a red maple leaf on the fly.

After the war, in 1945, the House of Commons passed a resolution that, "it is expedient that Canada possess a distinctive national flag and that a joint committee of Senate and Commons be appointed to consider and report upon a suitable design for such a flag." In all, 2,409 designs were submitted to the committee but no one design was entirely satisfactory to everyone. It was recommended that the RED ENSIGN should remaain the official flag of Canada.

It is coincident with writing the story of the flag that the recent Speech from the Throne informs us that legislation will be put forth to approve a new flag. We need legislation alright, not for a new flag, but to approve once and for all that the national flag of Canada be the Red Ensign. The Royal Canadian Legion, at its convention in Halifax in June, is on record as favoring the Red Ensign for Canada's official flag, and further recommends that it be proposed officially by legislation and approved.

The Red Ensign is too steeped in history, heritage and sentiment to discard. On it we see the emblems of our heritage . . . the Lily, the Thistle, the Shamrock and the Rose, entwined with our Maple Leaf to give us a flag blending the old with the new:

Our fair Dominion now extends,
From Cape Race to Nootka Sound;
May Peace forever be our lot
And plenteous stores abound,
And may those ties of love be ours
Which discord cannot sever,
And flourish green o'er Freedom's home,
The Maple Leaf forever.

Our flag, the Red Ensign, stands for Canada and is the spmbol of our nation. It stands for all who have gone before and all those yet to live in this land. It stands for the sons, fathers, brothers, friends and loved ones who fought and died across the seas. Above all, it is a flag that flies over a free nation where the will of the people is the law of the land. It is a proud flag, an honorable flag, a flag that has never known disgrace. How can we change such a flag for one of nonentity?

Our flag — honor and respect it. — It is your flag, and it is the visible evidence of our country's soul and the symbol of its pride.

Our flag is CANADA. . . .

Canada! Where pines and maples grow,
Great prairies spread anad lordly rivers flow,
How dear to us thy broad domain,
From east to western sea.
Thou land of hope for all who toil!
Thou true North, strong and free!
Ruler Supreme, who hearest humble prayer,
Hold our Dominion in Thy Loving Care.
Help us to find, O God, in Thee
A lasting rich reward,
As waiting for the better day
We ever stand on guard
O Canada! We stand on guard for thee.

School News

The teachers attended the Convention of the Protestant Teachers Association in Montreal last Thursday and Friday. The teachers were told that the Montreal School Board expects that very soon there will have to be 12 grades of schooling for all pupils who want to continue on to a university or teachers' training school, and that the only reason this is not so now, is because there are not sufficient teachers nor sufficient classrooms available. However, as soon as more teachers are available, this program will be implemented. Teachers were also told to advise parents that a pupil in Grade XI needs to put in three or four hours' homework per night if a pass in the grade is to be expected. Both Miss Patricia Maybury, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, and Miss Ruth Evans, the head of the English department at Macdonald High School, took part in the panel discussion on homework. Homework should begin in Grade II, it was said, in order to condition the child to a regular homework pattern in later school life.

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Help your child obey

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"It is almost bed-time, Helen and John. Better start putting away your toys," Mother calls to her small daughter and son.

"Mummy, do we have to go to bed now?" John questions.

"Do let us stay up a little longer! We are having such fun!" Helen pleads.

It is hard for a mother to close her ears to these pleas, but bed-time is bed-time and she has to get ready for the end of their day. What is she to do?

Most modern parents agree that in thinking of obedience they must keep in mind training a child to grow into a self-disciplined adult. The little child needs a good deal of definite direction from mother and father. But as the years pass, a boy or girl should become increasingly responsible for his or her actions.

The over-strict parent, who has been a dictator at home, demanding instant, unquestioning obedience, is not training a child to stand on his own feet and make his own decisions as a grown-up. On the other hand, the too-indulgent parent who lets the child do as he likes or gives an order and does not see that it is carried out, also fails his child in preparing him for a world where there are certain things he must do and certain obligations that he must carry out.

What are some practical suggestions to parents struggling with the problem of avoiding conflict and establishing the habit of obedience?

It is strange how often imperfect fathers and mothers expect perfect obedience all the time from their child! This is setting too high a standard for any healthy normal youngster with a will of his own. Of course he won't want to "mind" every time mother or daddy speaks to him!

Sometimes his failure to obey is partly his parent's fault because the directions given him were too complicated for a little child to follow. At another time he is absorbed in his play and mother does not make sure that he heard and understands her command. It is little wonder that he does not do what he is told!

There is always a reason, (although sometimes it is hard to find!) for contrariness. Disobedience may be a bid for attention from a child who longs for a little more loving or more interest in his small affairs on the part of the mother and dad.

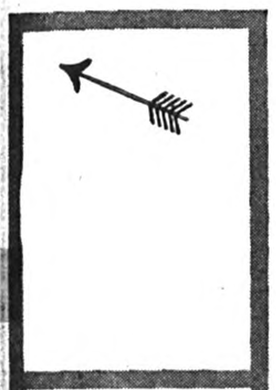

Every healthy pre-school child passes through a "negative" stage when he wants to say "No! No!" to almost every suggestion. There are several good rules for parents to follow in coping with disobedience at this or any other time when a boy or girl refuses to comply with a parent's request.

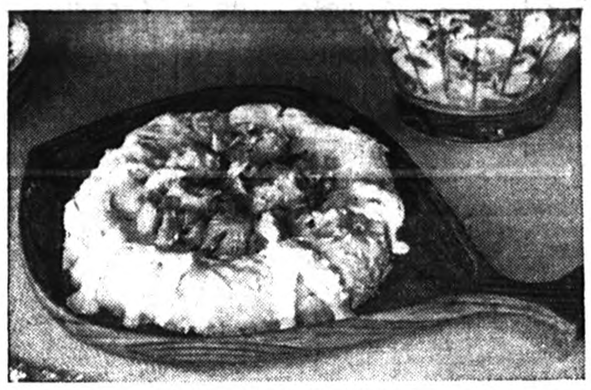

Never give a command unless you are in a position to see to it that your child carries it out. Give as few orders as possible, mean each command you give, and expect obedience from your child. Tact and courtesy are as important in dealing with a child as in any relationship.

Never shout or whine at a child in order to frighten him or arouse his sympathy to get obedience. Last but not least, put yourself in your child's place when you give an order. Is it a reasonable request?

Is this command consistent with the "rules" which he had to obey yesterday? A normal child will usually respond to sensible orders, which he knows he must carry out. Mother and father should see the habit of obedience as a necessary part of character training.

In helping a child to obey, parents should agree on the minimum essential things to which the child must conform in his daily routine. Never let Junior set one parent's word over against the other parent's wishes, in order to get his own way! Mother's request should never be disputed or questioned by father, or vice-versa. Division in parental authority is sure to encourage disobedience.

Salmon Noodle Soufflé Ring

New family supper item

So highly did the Romans and Greeks prize aromatic dill that they crowned their heroes with the leaves! We use its delicate yet slightly pungent taste as the crowning touch in an unusual main dish recipe, Salmon and Dill Filled Noodle Soufflé Ring — ideal for a new family supper item. The characteristic dill flavor appears in the form of finely chopped dill pickles used to complement the rich flavor of canned salmon featured in the sour cream "sauce-filling". Dry mustard and pimento are added seasoning touches. The novel noodle mold is oven poached and similar to a soufflé in its light, airy quality. It has, however, the added stability and texture interest the noodles provide. This recipe is a gem. Its two basic parts take readily to repetition with other table mates, since distinctive Salmon and Dill Swedish Sauce is a delectable topping for steamed rice or toast, while the noodle ring can be served with a variety of sauces.

Salmon and Dill Filled Noodle Soufflé Ring

Prepare Noodle Soufflé Ring according to the following recipe. Meanwhile, prepare Salmon and Dill Swedish Sauce. When Noodle Soufflé is cooked, immediately invert on warm serving platter and fill centre with hot Salmon and Dill Swedish Sauce. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Noodle Soufflé Ring — 1 cup fine noodles (¼ pound), 2 eggs (separated), ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ cup melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup heavy cream (whipped).

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Thoroughly grease a 7-inch ring mold. Cook noodles in four cups boiling salted water, about ten minutes, or until just tender. Rinse in cold water; drain thoroughly. (The cooked noodles should measure about 1¼ cups.) Beat together egg yolks, paprika and melted butter. Pour over and mix into noodles. Whip egg whites and salt until stiff. Beat cream until stiff. Lightly fold stiffly beaten egg yolks and cream into noodle mixture. Pour into well-greased ring mold, place mold in a pan of hot water. Bake in a preheated moderate oven until firm, about one hour.

Salmon and Dill Swedish Sauce. — 1 cup dairy sour cream, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups canned salmon and its liquid, ½ cup finely chopped dill pickle, 3 tablespoons finely chopped pimento.

Blend mustard and salt into sour cream. Break up salmon into chunks; add with salmon liquid and remaining ingredients to sour cream. Heat, slowly, over low heat, until piping hot. Do not allow to boil. Makes approximately 3½ cups.

Describes reception in Tokio en route to World Conference

Following is a report from Mrs. Jas. Haggerty, FWIC President, and leader of the Canadian delegation to the Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, held this month in Australia.

Hot humid weather prevailed for a reception given by the Canadian Ambassador, Mr. William Frederick Bull and Mrs. Bull, for the Canadian delegates to the ACWW Conference, during their visit to Toyko en route to Australia. The temperature was no warmer than the welcome extended to the Canadian women by the Ambassador, his wife and daughter Susan, and the more than 20 Japanese women who had been invited to meet us.

As we drove up to the entrance of the Embassy residence, across the top of the door, in large gold letters, was this message, "Welcome Home". It brought lumps to our throats and a glow to our hearts, that here, in a strange land, were friends and a spot that was Canada.

We might have been attending any social gathering in Canada, as we mingled with the Japanese women, a few in national dress, the others in western-style clothes, laughing and chatting in English or by motions and gestures. We were all amazed that so many Japanese people speak English, and for the few that did not, a smile in any language is the same, and we felt a kinship with them.

We were also greatly surprised to learn that women hold so many important positions in Government ministries. Ministers of various Government Departments, and members of Committees and groups of the Government, were there and a senator in her native costume was most gracious. One slight, charming woman excused herself early in the reception as she had to attend a meeting of the Ministry of Finance to (as she put it) "fight" for more money for welfare work.

As our bus drove away, some Japanese women rode with us as far as the main gate, a few went to the street, and some accompanied us right to the hotel. The whole event was a charming mixture of Canadian and Japanese hospitality at its best, and an "Adventure in Friendship" that was exciting and delightful.

Party tips for teen-agers

Having a party for teen-gers can be fun, and with a little planning much of this fun can be had by the teen-agers themselves. On most occasions, they enjoy getting ready for the party — and parents need not be too worried about handing over the kitchen.

Teen-agers would be well advised, though, to keep their party menu fairly simple. Rich, high-sounding dishes might seem exotic but they may also require a chef's hand to perfect. It's much better to decide upon a plain, wholesome meal. These are usually the favorites too. Especially when appetites call for food — and plenty of it.

This is important, particularly if you are inviting boys to the party. Allow two helpings for them, and one for the girls. Buy the food well in advance and, if things get hectic at the last moment, ask for a helping hand. Your guests won't mind at all.

Be sure to have plenty of chilled carbonated beverages on hand. The zesty flavor of these beverages pleases everyone, and incidentally, they make the usual run of party snacks taste better.

When things are ready, sound the dinner-gong promptly, even if this means interrupting a dance or party game. Nothing is worse than sitting down to a meal that is cold or over-cooked. Afterwards, appoint a capable clean-up squad. In this way things can be tidied up quickly, and more fun can be had by all.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

If women are confused about their role in present-day society, it's no wonder.

It seems that women now are responsible for maintaining world peace; for the efficient running of governments; for improving standards of education, and, while doing all this, fulfilling their traditional role as wives and mothers.

Here are a few examples of the demands made upon women in recent weeks:

American anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead, in an address to a women's group in Montreal, said the responsibility for peace falls on women. And she adds, peace-keeping is not essentially different from homemaking — both are filled with the kind of things mothers and grandmothers know how to do.

English author J. B. Priestly, in a message sent to the same women's group, appealed to women to "come to the rescue of the timid, conformist and self-deceiving male."

Get Into Politics

Mrs. Jean Mann, a 73-year-old grandmother of 12 and a former Labor MP in the British House of Commons, said in Toronto more women should be in politics as MPs helping to solve the country's problems.

And Mrs. Mann doesn't even blame men for the present problems of government — "Women have not been courageous or tenacious enough in dealing with government officials; they are too easily put off with courtesy, a cup of tea and a promise of utmost consideration."

Women must also get their hands on things that matter, Mrs. Mann said. And the things that she feels matter are consumers' rights, housing, neglected children, widows and orphans.

A recent conference at the University of Toronto decided that women must be educating themselves throughout their entire lives if they are going to be of any value to society.

At this same conference, Marion Royce, director of the women's bureau of the department of labor in Ottawa, said women must be prepared to become part of the labor force and to regard working outside the home as an integral part of their lives.

Have Special Gifts

Coupled with the responsibility to get out and work is the responsibility to see that day-care facilities are established to look after their children while they are out working, she said.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada, meeting in Montreal, said that women must apply themselves to stopping the rapid disappearance of family life.

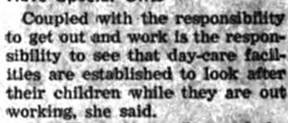

Mrs. Georges Vanier, wife of the governor-general, told this meeting that women are endowed with special gifts of love and understanding, never so much needed as in this "strange mechanical and scientific world."

The general council of the United Church of Canada which met in London, Ont., reiterated, however, that it feels the place of the wife and mother is in the home.

And in spite of all their new duties, women are still expected to be beautiful, fashionable, good cooks, immaculate housekeepers companions for their husbands.

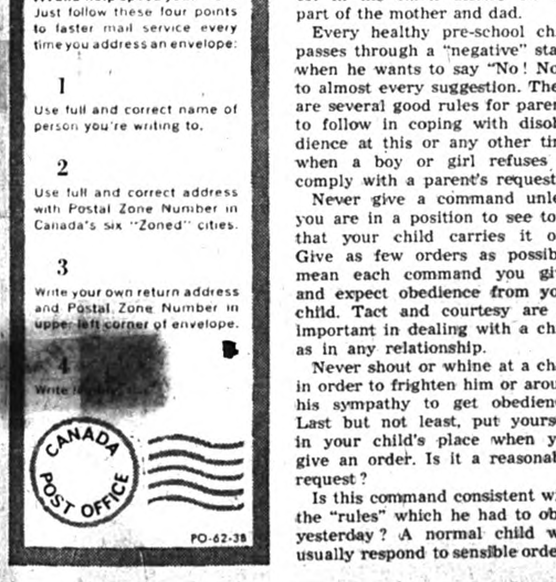

Women no longer must be just plain women or even individuals — they must be super geniuses.

Two hits, no errors.

Our first car (the 1200) has been on top for a decade.

And now it looks as if our new model (the 1500) will be the rookie of the year.

The immediate success of the Volkswagen 1500 wasn't much of a surprise. (Especially for the 200,000 Canadians who have proven the reliability of "old faithful".) Our reputation for quality, dependability and economy means that you can buy this brand new car with complete confidence.

And the 1500 is a completely new automobile.

For a start, it has two luggage trunks. One in the back (like a conventional car) and one in the front (like a Volkswagen). We managed this unique feature by designing a flat engine and putting it under the back trunk. It gives the 1500 amazing traction in snow and makes it even better at holding the road.

Take a look at the luxurious interior and you may start to worry about the price. Relax. Everything in sight is standard equipment. And that includes seven heater vents, five arm rests, three ash trays, two padded sun visors, one electric clock but no radiator. (We still think it's better to cool a car's engine with air instead of water.)

Visit your Volkswagen dealer soon. He'll let you drive our newest (and most unique) Volkswagen.

Since we have elected Rodrigue Durocher as our representative, the Liberal Party Organization in our County has known a revival of energy and strength. Local sections of the Liberal Association were founded in almost every town and village. The Liberal Women's Association was also founded and has a membership of over 150 members. All this has contributed to give to the Liberals of Argenteuil the necessary impetus to assure a great victory on November 14.

During the two years that he has been our spokesman, he has proven that he has the determination, the courage and the ability which are essential to a good representative of the people. His experience in the various fields of economy, business, agriculture, industry, politics and labour, makes him the ideal choice as standard-bearer of our great Party, and the one who will assure us the victory we all want.

Friends and delegates, let us all vote for Rodrigue Durocher on October 13. Thus we will prove that we are grateful for the excellent work he has accomplished, and this will be the first step towards victory.

With Durocher It's the Sure Way!

— The Liberal Organization Committee for Rodrigue Durocher

Legion honors C. G. Demerse; plaque inscribed to Branch past-presidents

Before a mixed gathering of members, guests and friends last Saturday evening, the Argenteuil Branch 70, Royal Canadian Legion, presented its highest award to one of its most deserving members, Cde. Carl Demerse.

Cde. Demerse (better known as "Mac") has been most active in Legion work since 1945. During that time he has served at all branch levels and in most executive offices. At all times he has given unstintingly of his time and efforts to ensure success in Legion endeavors.

The official citation, recounting Comrade Demerse's history and activities, was read by the District Commander, H. Steele. The Meritorious Service Medal was officially presented by the Quebec Command 1st vice-president, Al Fuller. Mrs. K. Ogilvie, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, presented flowers to Mrs. Demerse.

Prior to the medal presentation, Cde. Fuller dedicated and unveiled a Past Presidents' Plaque. This plaque commemorates and gives recognition of the services rendered to the branch by all its past-presidents. Cde. Chas. L. Duncan replied to the dedication on behalf of the 18 past-presidents attending. (See page 3.)

Members and guests concluded the event with a social evening.

Liberal nomination to R. Durocher

Rodrigue Durocher, Liberal standard bearer

W. M. Cottingham, Union Nationale candidate

Chairman of the meeting was L. P. Brousseau, former deputy for Sherbrooke constituency, acting as official delegate of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

Four candidates were nominated — Lucien Giroux, Bernard Gosselin, Gaetan Paquette and Rodrigue Durocher.

Two rounds of balloting were required to elect the winner. In the first round, Mr. Giroux was eliminated. At this point Mr. Gosselin, who remained in the running with Messrs. Paquette and Rodrigue, chose to withdraw, despite the fact that he had polled 42 votes.

Mr. Durocher had received 101 votes, against 77 in favor of Mr. Paquette, in the first ballot. In the second ballot, he emerged the victor with almost double the votes cast for Mr. Paquette.

In a similar convention in 1960, Rodrigue Durocher was chosen candidate despite a strong bid by the same contender, Gaetan Paquette.

Mr. Durocher will officially open his campaign with a meeting next Sunday at St. Andrews East. The meeting will be held in the school, at 2.30 p.m.

There has meanwhile been no uncertainty in the Union Nationale ranks, Mr. W. M. Cottingham standing again for re-election without question. Mr. Cottingham has organized his campaign to the extent of listing all meeting dates (those for October being advertized in this issue).

In support of his campaign Mr. Cottingham will welcome the U.N. leader, Daniel Johnson, M.L.A. for Bagot constituency, at his country residence, Hill Head, this Friday evening, where the visitor will meet and address the U.N. supporters of this district. Mr. Johnson is due to speak at a rally in St. Jerome the same evening.

Fernand Giroux, brother-in-law of the Hon. Jean-Jacques Bertrand, is presently working with the Hon. W. M. Cottingham as co-ordinator between this constituency and provincial headquarters.

In commenting on Mr. Giroux' presence here, Mr. Cottingham stated it goes to prove the unity in the party,' despite unfounded rumours. "It is common knowledge I supported our present leader, Daniel Johnson, for the party leadership, and now his main opponent, the Hon. Jean-Jacques Bertrand, has seen fit to assist me in my campaign by loaning me a trusted member of his organization." Mr. Giroux has been in Argenteuil for the past week.

$68,832 Court judgment against father of minor responsible in car crash

Montreal — A Superior Court judge in St. Jerome awarded damages of $68,832 to a 22-year-old paraplegic who was victim of a highway accident in 1959. The judgment also imposed a three-year license suspension on the driver of the car in which the plaintiff was a passenger.

Mr. Justice Claude Prevost held that James Boyd, of Calumet, was wholly to blame for the Ottawa-Montreal highway accident which made a lifetime cripple of Richard Rochon, also of Calumet.

Boyd was 19 years old at the time, and the Court applied the Motor Vehicles Act in holding his father equally responsible with him for the payment of the damages awarded.

The victim, who was within two months of graduating from the Hull Technical School as a machinist when the accident occurred, was awarded $50,000 by the judge for his total incapacity and loss of enjoyment of life. He had claimed $140,000 under these headings.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Prevost said that the evidence left no doubt that the driver of the car must be held legally to blame for the fact that it left the road and turned over several times at 4 a.m. on April 19, 1959.

"He was driving his father's car at high speed (he admitted it was travelling at about 80 miles per hour) in a thoughtless, illegal, and careless manner, at a curve, and he lost control of the vehicle," the judgment said.

It had been contended by counsel for the defendants that the victim could not legally establish his claim to damages because he had voluntarily agreed to become a passenger in the car when he knew that the driver had been drinking.

The youths had met in a tavern near Calumet and young Boyd, counsel claimed, was "seriously affected by the alcoholic liquor he had been consuming."

But the judge held that the evidence did not justify the court in concluding that the victim had observed such a state of affairs — if it did exist — at the time he agreed to get into the car and be driven by Boyd.

There was no evidence whatever of the outward bearing of the young driver after he had drunk the three rum drinks he acknowledged having consumed, and the judgment held that "it is impossible to conclude that in accepting the ride Rochon committed any fault which would incur his responsibility in whole or in part."

The judge pointed out that the personal responsibility of Wendell Boyd, the father of the driver and owner of the car, was clearly established by the Motor Vehicles Act provision to the following effect:

"A father who gives his consent to his minor child to drive a motor vehicle and to become the holder of a license to this effect, is jointly and severally responsible for all losses and all damages caused to others when this loss or damage is attributable to the holder of the permit and the license."

Included in the $68,832 total award was $10,000 for a permanent attendant required by the paralysed young man.

IN BROWNSBURG

(Our District Correspondent)

— The new police chief? Thos. Williams, on a temporary basis at least. Mr. Williams, a native of Brownsburg, takes over as replacement for Aurel Lemay, who has served as chief for some six weeks. With regard to a permanent chief, it could be that Council will adopt a "bird in the hand" attitude, particularly when the birds in the bush can be an unknown quantity. (Or perhaps it may be that they are a known quality.)

— Regardless of who the permanent chief turns out to be, the enforcement of traffic laws has suffered in the last two months. Passing on hills, exceeding 30 m.p.h. within town limits, parking in no-parking zones, parking the wrong way in parking areas, parking outside marked parking areas, crossing the double line when coming to a stop at the traffic light — all seem to be taken for granted. Let's hope Council does not wait for a permanent chief before cracking down on the regulations.

— Speeding is particularly hard to stop, when the police radar speed-control timer is defective. The unit was inoperative when Aurel Lemay took over, and is still away for repairs.

— While a town by-law prohibits the mounting of posters, etc., on telephone poles on town property, there is nothing to prevent the practice on private property. Consequently the smiling countenance of one of the candidates in the forthcoming election remains in a prominent and advantageous position on McMaster Avenue.

A director of Lumber Assocn.

Léopold Carrière, president of Lachute Lumber & Millwork Ltd., has been unanimously elected to the directorate of a trade organization, the National Hardwood Lumber Association (NHLA). Officers were elected at the recent 65th annual convention, held in Chicago.

Education matters of broad concern in speeches at L.H.S. opening ceremony

A large attendance at the Lachute High School prize distribution and opening ceremonies last Friday, was evidence of a healthy citizen-interest in the affairs of Protestant education.

Commissioner Lorne Duncan chaired the proceedings, and there were expressions of regret at the absence of Jas. W. McGibbon, chairman of the board, who has filled this ceremonial role for many years.

Besides chairman Lorne Duncan, the Hon. W. M. Cottingham was one speaker to express regret over Mr. McGibbon's absence, since he had shared with him a long, constructive interest in this school.

Mr. Duncan introduced the school commissioners and others on the platform, representing prize donors and organizations sponsoring scholarships, also the Rev. Jas. Armour, who gave the spiritual invocation.

Chairman's Remarks

The chairman briefly discussed school affairs, including — the feasibility of financing a school nurse without provincial grant; the need for Grade XII, to bring students to that maturity required for university instruction; the debatable benefits of setting 16 as a compulsory school age; and the need for a trade school in this vicinity.

Principal's Report

Principal Fred Royal also touched upon some of the needs, while underlining the facts and figures of the past year. Each year, he remarked, approximately half of the L.H.S. graduates move on to higher education. . . This year, two local students had won the McConnell Scholarship to McGill, out of only 40 awarded in Canada — a creditable showing. The 1962-63 Grade XI numbers 55 students, the largest on record, and there are 37 teachers on the staff. . . It is interesting to note that the pupil enrolment is down, from 779 to 762 — attributable to the removal of families due to near-completion of the Carillon Dam. . . Subject Promotion, an experiment this year in Grades VIII and X, is giving indication of proving a worthwhile venture.

Enlightening topic at Home-School opener

An interesting and lively meeting marked the beginning of the season for "Home and School" in Lachute. With President Harry Booth in the chair, the first meeting, held Wednesday of last week, gave promise for an active and productive year.

Mr. Booth opened the meeting by outlining a few basic reasons for having a Home and School Association. . . . First: to make parents more aware of their children's education, and to acquaint parents with teachers, teaching methods, and changes in curriculum. Second: to provide "two-way traffic" between parents and the School Board.

Mrs. G. Dobbie outlined what the Liaison Committee had learned at the previous evening's School Board meeting. The most important item pertained to the nurse who has been engaged by Lachute, Grenville and Arundel schools. The Association learned with dismay that there will be no grant coming from the province to pay for the nurse. It was the feeling of all people present, parents and teachers alike, that the nurse has provided an extremely valuable service to the school, and that a staff nurse is an essential in a school accommodating over 800 students. A resolution was passed to send letters telling of the feelings of the members, to the School Board and to the Provincial Department of Education.

The Association agreed to take on the annual UNICEF campaign again, and Mrs. W. Butterfield, who has undertaken this task capably in previous years, consented to do so again. Mrs. A. Whiteway and Mrs. G. McOuat volunteered their assistance.

Another popular service provided by this Association will be held again this year, namely the Skate, Ski and Ski-boot Sale. This will be held in the basement of the High School on the morning of Saturday, November 3. Those with equipment for sale are asked to have it at the school by Friday, November 2.

Reading Ability Is Basically Essential

Miss E. Stanton, English teacher in Lachute High School, introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Jane Catterson, who provided the members with a most enjoyable and interesting evening. Dr.

Detective work in Ottawa Valley, Historical Society annual meeting

To a capacity audience, Mr. Clyde Kennedy, vice-president of the Ottawa Valley Historical Society, Pembroke, Ont., gave a real meaning to the words "artifacts" and "archaeology".

When you have this as a hobby, and seek a new project, but don't know what to look for, or where to find it — you really start a Sherlock Holmes sequence by reading Champlain's Diary of 300 years ago. . . And you have started a real treasure hunt. . . .

From Champlain's very accurate words of his observations while ascending the Ottawa River through to Georgian Bay, Clyde Kennedy and his associates rediscovered an Indian burial ground of the "Archaic" period, 3,000 to 5,000 years ago. Morrison Island in the Ottawa River revealed not only the burial customs but the living activities of these Indians which ante-date the Hurons, Algonquins and Iroquois of our studies. The latter had developed the bow and arrow, but the Archaic Indians depended upon the lance or spear as a weapon of fighting or procuring food. Yet they had discovered hematite ore, which they used in their embalming, and the skeletons wore bracelets of beaten copper, which had been annealed but not smelted. These copper bracelets were in good condition because of the alkaline soil of Morrison Island.

Further detective work continued, till copper in its natural state, similar to the bracelets, was found in enormous chunks in several places on the shore of Lake Superior. This was indicative of the nomadic type of living these people followed.

Like many another hobby, when you first hold it by the tail, it doesn't seem very big; but as you pursue it, you finally end up holding the big head in your hands — and in this case they were Indian heads of long, long ago!

Annual Reports

The annual reports of the secretary, treasurer and curator were heard and well received at this the 28th annual meeting last Saturday at the Carillon Museum.

Under President Arthur F. Hanley during the past two years, a start has been made to redecorate the interior of the Museum. Additions have been made to various sections of the exhibits and a program of historical lectures was inaugurated during the past year. Five of these addresses have been given, on highly interesting topics.

Dr. G. R. Rigby gave a "notice of motion" to be considered at the next annual meeting, relative to the advance period required to have a motion considered at an annual meeting.

Mrs. N. Holland gave a report on the condition of the Edina Cemetery, as this Society is a trustee for the maintenance and endowment funds concerned.

Scene at fatal highway accident

Dieudonné Charlebois, a 32 year-old Brownsburg resident, was instantly killed at 6.45 p.m. Saturday, when the car he was driving collided with a small truck driven by Arthur Dubé, 36, of Vankleek Hill, Ont. Dubé was taken to hospital in Hawkesbury and later released, while his passenger, Adrien Brien, of Hawkesbury, escaped injury. The accident occurred on Route 8, near St. Philippe.

The one-man production wizard is dangerous. No matter whether the job he holds is that of a general foreman or chairman of a board. To depend on him is like running a power plant without a spare generator. When he stops, everything stops.

Scout collection of paper, bottles this Saturday

A wastepaper and bottle collection is being held by the Lachute Boy Scouts this coming Saturday, October 20. All donations of paper and salvageable glass will be accepted.

Any citizens with contributions overlooked in the collection, or out-of-town householders, may kindly telephone Ernie S. Gordon (LO 2-2858) for pick-up; or salvage may be left at his home, 578 Bedard Blvd.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Don't forget the Boy Scouts' waste paper and bottle collection this Saturday. There are numerous citizens and businessmen, all assisting in the effort. With these volunteers, the eager energy of the boys, and the helpful co-operation of the public — the canvass can be made financially worthwhile.

A mayoral nomination paper for Dave Campbell has been handed in to the town secretary-treasurer. To date there appears to be no other contender.

In East Ward seat No. 3, Alderman Linton Armstrong is seeking a renewed mandate. His papers are deposited for the nomination.

Other aldermen terminating office are Dr. J. P. Dorion, Lauréat Laurin, Stanley Church and Nelson Lepage. Up to Monday afternoon, there had been no papers received for their renomination. Word was received Tuesday that Lauréat Laurin was retiring from office, and that Notary Simon Valois is a definite contender for this seat (No. 3, Centre Ward).

Minor havoc in the East Ward last week. . . Lightning early Friday morning struck the house of Mr. Tom Milnes, demolishing a chimney, damaging the interior and slightly scorching furnishings inside. . . At the residence of Bernard Jenkins nearby on Charles Street, a partridge plowed through a window pane. The bird survived the crash and later, on recovering its equilibrium, was released outdoors.

Hart House Orchestra scores in first Community Concert

When Boyd Neel, Dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto, and conductor of the Hart House Orchestra, opened the Lachute Community Concerts season Monday evening at the High School — he and his ensemble were highly acclaimed in one of the finest performances heard in the long history of Community Concerts.

This completely stringed orchestra had a depth and finesse that compared with the best, and the accompanying guest vocalist, Miss Ilona Kombrink, soprano, was also warmly acclaimed by her audience.

The Italian composer Vivaldi was represented in the first item on the program, and his Concerto Grosso was an ideal piece for a good start, for its Maestoso, Largo and Allegro changes provided pleasing listening to the audience.

A composition by Mozart when he was 16 years of age, was one of the highlights of the evening, and this Divertimento was ideal for a stringed ensemble.

The American soprano, Miss Ilona Kombrink, chose three arias from Vivaldi's "Magnificat", and the blending of the human voice with the stringed instruments under the direction of Boyd Neel, was an inspiration to hear.

A modern composition by Ignor Stravinsky, Concerto in D, was one of mathematical exactness combined with close harmonics, that had to be really seen and heard, to be appreciated, for though there was no particular theme throughout its score, it was a fascination to see master musicians really at work.

A very familiar composition by Tchaikowsky followed the intermission, and two very beautiful French-Canadian airs, arranged by Sir Ernest MacMillan.

Ilona Kombrink selected Verdi's "Ave Maria" from Othella, for her next solo; this beautiful composition gave full scope for her wonderful voice and the charm of her personality. For an encore, she sang an old folk-song of America, "Go 'way from my window", and the ever lovely "Last Rose of Summer". This young singer has been a soloist with the finest orchestra in the world, but her audience appreciation could not have been more evident than on this occasion in Lachute.

"The Bullfighter's Prayer" by Turina followed, a composition of infinite grace and flowing melody; and the final number (composed by the double bass instrumentalist of the Hart House Orchestra, Mr. Adolf Lotter) Moto Perpetuo, was really one of perpetual motion, especially for the cello and double bass sections. Boyd Neel selected "A Jig" by Bach, as the final encore.

The president of the Lachute Community Concerts Association, Mrs. F. Legault, extended a warm welcome to the audience at the commencement of the program, and expressed the desire that the coming season would be one of the Society's best. During the performance, Boyd Neel publicly acknowledged the support of the Canada Arts Council for its financial assistance, and stated that the visit of the orchestra to Lachute would have been impossible without this government assistance.

UNICEF fund helps children everywhere

Children of this community will be sharing their fun at Hallowe'en with youngsters around the world through the United Nations Children's Fund. They will be collecting coins for UNICEF as well as treats for themselves; thus bringing the benefits of food and medicine to thousands of their less-fortunate counterparts.

Be generous when the UNICEF spooks and goblins call at your door. They will be wearing orange and black tags with the UNICEF emblem, symbolizing the concern of all nations for the welfare of children.

UNICEF coins go a long way. Canadian youngsters have raised more than one million dollars over the past seven years to assist UNICEF projects throughout the world. Two thirds of the world's children are still suffering from malnutrition and disease. Won't you help our youngsters to help children around the world through UNICEF coins on Hallowe'en night?

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

For driving in fog — the best advice is — don't. But if you must, here are a few good tips:

Use low-beam headlights which shine down under the fog and provide the best light. Avoid bright lights which fog reflects into your eyes. In daylight, keep lights on so others will see you.

Always be able to stop within the distance you can see ahead. Drive slowly. If you can't see ahead, get your car entirely off the road and stop and wait for the fog to lift.

Keep your windshield clean. If it becomes dirty, stop at any service station and the attendent will gladly clean it for you.

Use the right edge of the road to guide your car.

Avoid sudden stops. Signal first to drivers behind by pumping your brakes so your tail lights flash.

OLD STONES

Rousseau, Ont. (CP — A dozen smooth rocks found behind a store here are believed by scientists to be left from the ice age. It has been estimated the stones may be up to 750,000 years old.

October 12, 1962.

Dear Sir:

We have learned, through the press, of your intention to stand as a candidate in the coming Provincial elections.

In order to preserve the good appearance of the streets and roads and protect our linemen from injury, we sincerely request that you refrain from having campaign posters erected on the poles of the Company. This appeal is being made to all candidates.

Knowing that you take pride in the appearance of the municipalities and trusting that you will respect our wishes, we wish to thank you in advance for your cooperation.

— Yours very truly,

"PHARMACY 1962" AT ROTARY CLUB —

Drug prices and integrity of pharmaceutical industry

As this week (October 15 to 22) is National Pharmacy Week, Maurice Grondin, pharmacist in Brownsburg, was appropriately in charge of the regular Rotary meeting.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Ben Shara, who is also a retail druggist and a governor of the College of Pharmacists of the Province of Quebec. His talk was entitled "Pharmacy 1962", in which he gave a brief history of the profession of pharmacy, one of the oldest in history, the educational standards and qualifications required by a student if he wishes to enter the pharmaceutical manufacturing industry, or any other industry that requires the knowledge and technical skill of a chemist, a hospital pharmacist, a medical representative, or a retail pharmacist. He also related some of the other duties required of a druggist. He explained why the prices of drugs are what they are, taking into consideration the research, the investment in the average drug store, the work done by the druggist in education and business. Mr. Shara also spoke on the very high degree of responsibility, legal and moral, that rests on the shoulders of a druggist.

Maurice also had with him Mr. Herbie Bercovich, president of the Independent Retail Druggists Association of Montreal, to assist in answering some of the many questions brought forward by the members.

Dr. E. S. Giles

The occasion was favored with Dr. E. S. Giles, retired Director of Protestant Education in Quebec, as guest speaker. Dr. Giles, a graduate of the old Lachute Academy before World War I, found little resemblance between this present school and the one which he had attended. He had watched the growth of Lachute High School over the years with a personal interest, as it had been his duty to examine the reports of this school municipality, now one of the largest outside the Island of Montreal. The reports had been creditable; and L.H.S. graduates, he remarked, had always made a good name for themselves both in business and in the professions.

One of the most challenging problems in Canadian education, said Dr. Giles, was to provide adequate secondary instruction both for the bright and for the average student. A sub-committee of the Protestant Committee of Education has been working for the past two years on trade school training, including technical instruction for senior girls. Courses of academic study, he also observed, are under constant revision at elementary and secondary levels, in an endeavor to equip youth in the most efficient way for a full life.

Dr. E. S. Giles had a particular word for the pupils, and wished success to the senior students; he hoped that an increasing number of these would seriously consider entering the teaching profession. He urged young people to make friends with the great poets and writers — artists, sculptors, dramatists and philosophers — and warned against that disease which Dr. Wilder Penfield describes as "premature closing of the mind".

The speakers, without exception, commended Mrs. G. R. Rigby and her students' choir, which provided delightful interludes of singing in this program. Attired in white, the girls wearing blue sashes, this group presented a well co-ordinated performance of choruses and part songs. There were also three solo parts, rendered respectively by Richard Witham, Brenda Bates and Ian Jackson.

Distribution of Prizes

Principal Fred Royal read the list of prize donors, endowments and scholarships, and in presenting the many prizes, called upon representatives on the platform to make these awards. The scholarship sponsored by the Home and School Association was presented by the president, Mr. Harry Booth, the Legion Auxiliary scholarship by Mrs. Doug Ogilvie, and the Loyal Orange Lodge scholarship by Mr. Leslie Kerr.

Start soon on sewage plant at St. Eustache

Construction of a sewage treatment plant in St. Eustache is scheduled to get underway this month, according to a statement by town officials.

A loan of $413,866 for an interceptor sewer and treatment facilities in the community has been approved by the Federal Government.

Henri Hemond, acting town manager, said tenders for the plant would be opened October 16, while sewer work required for the project would begin immediately.

It is estimated the plant alone will cost about $466,000 and the entire project will exceed $800,000.

Construction will be carried out under the Winter Works Program and with benefits from both Federal and Provincial Governments, a saving of some $300,000 is expected to result.

St. Eustache has a population of 5,600.

W. I. Activity

The Brownsburg Women's Institute members had the pleasure of entertaining the "senior citizens" last Thursday afternoon, when about 50 of the Golden Age Group enjoyed a motor trip through the beautiful Laurentian hills via Dalesville, Louisa, Dunany, Hill Head and Lachute. Many expressed the pleasure they had enjoyed, not only in the outing but in the friendly atmosphere which prevailed throughout the afternoon. Special thanks are extended to all who helped in any way to make this event such a success, especially to those who so kindly gave the use of their cars.

A Bargain in Milk!

Know where you can get a quart of milk for 1c? Well, it can't be bought here; but that's the amount of milk (5 large glasses) supplied to undernourished children in a foreign country, if you give as little as 1c when the school children call at your door on Hallowe'en. The collecting chore, formerly carried out by the Boy Scouts organization, is being taken over by the school children, by courtesy of Principal John Leggitt.

Start long study on horse disease

Saskatoon (CP) — The University of Saskatchewan's virus laboratory has started a study that's expected to last five years.

The WEE study is the short title of western equine encephalomyelitis, a disease that appears each year in scattered areas of North America, affecting not only horses but other animals, birds and even humans.

The work is considered so important, says Dr. Robert Connell, director of the university's veterinary services, that the federal health department and also the defence research board are helping to finance it.

"We must discover what is the reservoir host in nature," he said, "as well as the insect carrier of the disease."

Mosquitoes are suspected as carriers. One species already has been proved guilty in Manitoba and another in California. Another United States mosquito transmits both eastern and western forms of the disease.

To try to determine which species of mosquito may be the WEE carrier in Saskatchewan, "sentinel flocks" of caged birds are to be set out in various parts of the province.

Carrier mosquitoes are attracted to their hosts by carbon dioxide given off in the host's breathing, Dr. Connell explains. At night, the birds' roosting places will be closed in except for a small ventilator. Mosquitoes attracted by carbon dioxide will be caught in a trap in the ventilator.

Once the carrier has been identified, Dr. Connell says, a program to control WEE will be possible.

BELL LINES

by JIM MENZIES

MACHINES NOW TALK OVER TELEPHONE WIRES

You may have thought of the telephone network as a vast medium where only human voices are heard exchanging human intelligence. Well to a large extent this is still the case. But nowadays other intelligence goes over the telephone wires — pictures, drawings, business forms, handwritten messages and high-speed data from punched tape. This is a rather far cry from the original concept of the telephone as an instrument for voice communication. Take PHONE-FAX for example — Bell's new electronic facsimile service — this new service for businessmen speeds handwritten or printed messages, charts, drawings or forms over regular telephone lines to nearby or distant points. Then there's our TELESCRIPT service. As the name implies, this service is used to send hand-written messages over telephone wires. Businessmen find this eliminates copying and typing orders, thereby reducing the likelihood of errors. It is used for immediate transmission of production data, written orders, credit information, etc. Very shortly we'll be introducing a new service known as DATA-SPEED for business customers who need to transmit high-speed data (information from business machines) over regular lines. . . So, you can see, you are sharing the phone with creatures who have a strange new language of their own.

This is the time of year when we talk about hunting. We like to remind our readers about a few safety rules that may have slipped the mind since last fall. Here are a few examples given by Bob Atchison (pictured here), a well known local outdoorsman: Remember to keep the shooting controlled by a hill or other back stop; identify your game before you shoot; allow only empty guns in cars, boats, camps, and homes; never leave a loaded gun unattended and carry your gun so you control the muzzle at all times, etc. These are just a few of the many important safety rules any hunter should be familiar with.

We also like to remind customers not to fire in the direction of wire and cable insulators or microwave towers. You will be helping to protect services that are vital to you and your friends. We'd also like to wish everyone happy, SAFE hunting.

In Our Day

Prophecy is one of the most fascinating elements of the Bible, particularly in our day, because so much of it is being fulfilled. If you enjoy reading the exciting experiences of such prophets as Elijah and Elisha, then you will truly enjoy the 384-page book "Let Your Name Be Sanctified," because it vividly recounts their outstanding miracles and understandingly portrays their trials and their triumphs, their failings and their outstanding faith. But, best of all, it convincingly reveals the prophetic nature of their very lives and how important it is to us today.

Send for the book —
"LET YOUR NAME BE SANCTIFIED"
It is only 50c.

Fall rally held by United Church Women

The first Fall Rally of the Montreal Presbyterial United Church Women was held on Wednesday, October 10, in the Erskine-American United Church, Montreal, and was well attended. The representation from this area included women from Brownsburg, Cushing, Lachute, St. Andrews East, and Shawbridge. Altogether there were 450 women present, representing 71 churches. To date the sectional rallies of this Charter Year have reached 90 U.C.W. groups.

Mrs. Kenneth Prior, wife of a former missionary in Angola, spoke on the changing status of women in many rural areas of Africa. She explained how superstition and ignorance can detract from hygienic ways of living and the care of the children. In an address which was informative and challenging, she expressed the pleasure she had whilst working with African folk.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. R. Douglas Smith, president of the Montreal Presbyterial of United Church Women, was moderator of a panel which discussed several items arising from the recent meeting of the General Council, held in London, Ont. These items included matters relating to the gainful employment of women, marriage and divorce, the world mission, and the Hong Kong problem of today, and the church's stand on international affairs.

At the evening meeting the speaker was Dr. Donald Mathers, author of "The Word and the Way". He told how the book came to be written at the request of the curriculum committee, and went on to point out that the stress in Christian education for the next two years would be on Adult Education. He reminded his hearers of the need of Christians to know and understand their own church doctrine, so as to be able to meet the challenge of atheistic and evil forces in today's world.

During the evening an informative film, "The Rim of Tomorrow", was shown, and dealt with some of the problems facing Christians in East Asia particularly in Hong Kong, Korea, Taiwan, and Okinawa.

Closing devotions were conducted by the Rev. Norman Slaughter, minister of the Erskine-American Church, and by general consent, it was agreed that this rally had been most successful.

'Hallowe'en for UNICEF' again organized here

Hallowe'en for UNICEF will be featured again by young celebrants around Lachute this coming All Saints' Eve, when kiddies will be carrying labelled "Shell Out" cans, to receive cash contributions for the United Nations fund for children throughout the underprivileged countries.

Behind the scenes to promote this effort, are Mrs. W. E. Butterfield to organize the English-speaking youngsters, and Mrs. Roger Gravel for the French-speaking children — working through the Home & School Association and school agencies.

It is hoped the public will generously support this effort, helping also to encourage a constructive spirit in the youngsters' Hallowe'en activity.

TIME AND CHANGE

Ten years ago the moon was an inspiration to lovers and poets; ten years from now it will be just another airport.

Topic heard at opening session of Home and School

As reading, and the ability to read, is such an essential part of education, Dr. Catterson's remarks were of vital interest to parents. As the speaker said, children who do not learn to read become educational problems. She gave several reasons for an inability to learn:

(1) Brain damage, from birth. This can be detected by an electro-encephelogram (E.E.G), and since little is known yet how to overcome it, the most a teacher or parent can do, is to work to increase the child's attention.

(2) Left-handedness in a right-handed world can slow a child's progress, since his tendency is to read from right to left.

(3) Problem-spellers — for no apparent reason; perhaps because of a difficulty in hearing different sounds.

(4) Extent of parental influence; for example, one parent having had a reading problem at one time.

Dr. Catterson emphasized that intelligence is not a major factor in learning to read, and she said that there are new ideas which are being put into practice to aid the process of learning, among which is teaching by self-correction. There will also be a wider variety of textbooks used, but no child should be pushed too much, nor too soon.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, November 20 (not to conflict with election night), and Mr. Fred Royal will explain "Subject Promotion".

APPRECIATION

I would like to thank all my friends for the lovely gifts, flowers, fruit and cards sent me during my stay in hospital; also special thanks to all who visited me there. — Mrs. Blossom Kennedy.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Exceeding slow . . .

"THOUGH the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small. . ."

There must be some more appropriate quotation, but we just can't pin it down. The thought relates to those choice items which we unearthed this week in the Valuators' report of 75 years ago, to wit :

(1) That the railway crossing at the Bethany Road and at the old Court House should be protected by gates, so as to prevent accidents; and (3) It is considered desirable that Chatham Road should be straightened so as to run from Barron's Bridge through Mrs. Clunie's property in as straight a direction as possible from Main Street to the West River Bridge.

The date was October 14, 1887. The old Court House, which burned down around 1890, was situated in those days where our Memorial Park now enhances the local scene. In this year of our Lord 1962, 75 years later, the C.P.R. warning signal at this spot has only recently been installed. (The signal at Bethany Street crossing has been in operation for some years past, but not before it was needed.)

The straightening of the Barron's Bridge approach and re-routing of the highway to join Chatham Street, as recommended (3) in 1887, is still on the agitation sheet, not even in blueprint, 75 years later. In fact, the replacing of our antiquated Barron's Bridge hinges upon this re-routing of the highway, and the one improvement is held up by the Department of Public Works through indecision regarding the other. The question was originally tied up with the locating of the Trans-Canada Highway, but this surely can be no longer an excuse.

"The mills of God . . . "

Bilingualism

THE FRENCH Conversation courses here — government paid but locally sponsored — have drawn enthusiastic attendance by the public. There were 90-odd "pupils" at the initial classes in Lachute, and over 40 in Brownsburg. This indicates a spontaneous desire on the part of English-speaking citizens to learn the French tongue and to share with the population majority a fuller understanding of their pursuits and ideals.

Although this may be the case in Argenteuil, and elsewhere in Quebec Province, unfortunately it is not true of the overall picture in Canada. The final results of the 1961 Census as to language make somewhat disconcerting reading.

The proportion of the population which can speak both English and French is here seen to be hardly more than 12 percent. Of the remainder, 67.4 percent speak English only and 19.1 percent French only, leaving 1.3 percent that can speak neither.

This last may not seem an unduly large percentage, but it nevertheless adds up to nearly one-quarter of a million persons — or about one person in every 75. One can only speculate as to how they manage to get by.

Of the breakdown as a whole it need only be said that it shows little improvement on that revealed in the 1951 Census. As a nation we may embrace two official languages, but a bi-lingual people we very definitely are not.

Ninety-five years after Confederation, with more than 80 percent of the population Canadian-born, the situation is not one from which we can derive much satisfaction.

Again – take care !

THE DEER hunting season opens next Saturday. Now in all earnestness we say, be careful with that gun. . . We say words to this effect nearly every year when the hunting season rolls around, still men get out with red hats on and take pot shots at each other.

Most people have laughed at cartoons of a weary hunter dragging his rifle by the end of the barrel. It is remarkable how many grown men will crawl through a wire fence and drag their rifle or shotgun through after them. If the gun happens to be cocked, or the hammer catches on a wire, this can be a shortcut to the Hereafter.

The most popular methods of reducing the number of hunters, and sparing the game, have always been shooting at something moving in the bushes and shooting at running game without checking to see what is between it and you. One can't help wondering sometimes if hunters wear red clothing to make better targets for their pals!

Of course, there are other methods commonly used, such as taking a loaded gun into the cabin or car, running through the brush with a cocked rifle, or firing a shotgun you have pushed into the mud or snow. Hunters are an ingenious crowd, too, they are devising new methods of shooting one another every year. With bows and arrows and muzzle loaders coming back into vogue, they can even go back and practise some of the methods used by their forefathers.

Seriously, if you are going to risk going into the woods, first know your weapon and how to use it. Avoid taking a new rifle on a hunting trip until you are thoroughly familiar with the mechanism. Do not load it until you have entered the woods, and be very sure it is empty before returning to the car or the camp.

Never fire at anything unless you can see it clearly. Even if it is not a man, it may be a farmer's cow or horse. Know where the rest of the gang is. You can spray the woods for miles around shooting at a running deer, and you might even miss one standing still.

If you want to be sure of getting through the hunting season without being shot or shooting someone else, we would give you the following advice. Put on the brightest clothing you can find, clean your rifle thoroughly, then take it down to the basement and stand it in the corner. When you have done this, then spend the rest of the hunting season building a boat to go fishing with next summer.

Automation

ANYONE WHO believes that automation has gone "just about as far as it can go" obviously has not heard about the experience of the psychiatrist who was proud of his newly-automated office.

As we hear it told, it was late in the afternoon and the psychiatrist yearned for a cup of coffee, so he said to his new patient: "Look, I've just recently automated my office, so that everything you say is being taken down by a tape recorder. I have to step out a minute, but you keep right on talking and the tape recorder will remember everything.

He hadn't been in the coffee shop for a minute when, to his embarrassment, the patient appeared and also ordered coffee.

The psychiatrist, however, immediately composed himself and in his best professional manner said calmly: "What are you doing here, don't you know this is costing you $20 and hour? Why aren't you upstairs talking to my tape recorder?"

"Oh," said the patient, "It's all right. You see, I've been to psychiatrists before so I brought my own tape recorder. And now my tape recorder is talking to your tape recorder."

Viewpoints and perspectives

BUY AT HOME. — Whether it is insurance, a cheaper brand of paint or a new labor-saving device, investigate thoroughly before you invest, if the salesman is a stranger. Your safest bet is to buy, or seek repairs, from someone you can contact tomorrow should the goods or services prove unsatisfactory.

— Gananoque (Ont.) Reporter

WITH CANADA'S centennial just five years away, maybe the time approaches when we can turn back the clock and have the old riverboats plying up and down the Fraser River again. If anybody organized trips like that, we couldn't hurry down to the landing quick enough.

Stamp to honor Canadian of Polish birth

Ottawa — A new postage stamp honoring one of Canada's most eminent citizens of Polish birth, Sir Casimir Stanislaus Gzowski, will go on sale at post offices throughout the country March 5, 1963, according to announcement by the Hon. Ellen L. Fairclough, Postmaster General.

The Gzowski issue is intended to honor not only Canadians of Polish extraction, but also those of many other races and origins who have contributed to the growth and development of the Canadian nation.

Sir Casimir Stanislaus Gzowski was born in Poland in 1813 and came to Canada as a young man. He was an intimate friend of many of the Fathers of Confederation. An engineer of great ability, he took part in the building of the Grand Trunk Railway. He also built the International Bridge across the Niagara Falls, and was first chairman of the Niagara Falls Park Commission. He was one of the founders and an early president of Wycliffe College. He served as a Senator on the board of the University of Toronto for approximately 20 years.

The stamp, which will mark the 150th anniversary of Sir Stanislaus' birth, will be of the five-cent denomination.

Business and public service

This week we begin a series of seven editorials on how and why a weekly newspaper such as The Lachute Watchman functions. The series appeared originally in the Surrey (B.C.) Leader.

The Watchman, like every other weekly newspaper, is a business organization providing a public service for a profit. This is an accepted definition of a weekly.

In the 19th century the publications of weekly newspapers were the happy hunting grounds of unsuccessful politicians, long-haired artists and earnest souls striving for the uplift of mankind. The editorial department was usually entrusted to tramp printers. These latter were marvellous craftsmen, when they were sober.

The infant mortality rate among weekly newspapers was tremendous.

In modern times the publishing of a weekly has become a business, many with a highly developed sense of public service. The printers are respectable members of society, with one of the strongest unions in America. Weeklies are now run on a business-like basis.

A paper must make a profit or it must be subsidized. And no subsidized paper is free. The only way to have a free press is to have independent journals which have to look neither to state nor to political party for financial assistance. Therefore, to be independent, a paper must be a business organization making a profit.

The weekly is dedicated to public service, in particular, service to the community it serves. In every community in Canada, all worthwhile community efforts receive columns of publicity and editorial support. A weekly editor is usually automatically appointed as a publicity committee member for every campaign, be it Savings Bonds, Red Cross, Federated Charities, Easter Seals, Christmas Seals or what-have-you.

Therefore a weekly newspaper is a business organization providing a public service for a profit.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

DO IT WELL

The young fellow worked on a Winnipeg daily, a beginner. I discovered him practising the old routine, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the Party." He was using the touch system taught in the business colleges.

"How come?" I asked him. "Haven't you noticed most of the old-time reporters bang out their stories with four stiffly-pointed fingers?"

"Sure," he grinned. "They sound fast, but they're not. If I'm going to be using a typewriter as one of the tools of my trade, I want to use it right. Even if I turn out to be a lousy reporter, I'll be a good typist.

My guess is that he'll turn out to be a darn good reporter . . . or darn fine at whatever he tackles.

Years ago, between high school years, I worked for a Master Farmer in Manitoba. One day, stooking, we saw the neighbor's hired hand at work in the next field. My boss groaned, "Give me half an hour with that man and I could teach him to stook right!" I could see that it pained him to think of a man going on and on, stook after stook, handling the sheaves improperly, doing less than a perfect job. If that hired man had had the gumption of my young newspaper friend, he'd have hopped the fence and asked for a lesson. Like so many of us, however, he was content to go doing things half right for the rest of his life.

Poor performance is a sad thing to watch. There's a waitress in a café near my office who hasn't learned how to make change properly although she's been at it some years to my personal knowledge. Younger girls in the same café do it right, do it faster, because they learned the proper way.

Whether you bowl, play pool, stook, cook, combine, plow or type, learn how to do it right. Learn early, so correct movements become automatic. Don't be content to bumble along. Even the morning shave can be accomplished with more grace and speed if you look for tips from the experts — ask your barber about it! If each of us learns to perform his tasks well, we'll contribute that much more to the welfare of our country. Let's quit being sloppy Joes and start to do our jobs well !

LEGION NOTES

— by —

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY
COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

Our heartiest congratulations to Cde. C. G. Demerse on his being presented with the Legion Meritorious Service Medal. Cde. Demerse is the fourth Argenteuil Branch 70 member to receive this coveted medal. The other three are — Cdes. R. A. Giles, C. L. Duncan and (the late) E. M. Jones.

The addition of the Past-Presidents' plaque will further enhance the Memorial Hall, and is a start on an Honor Room that no doubt will be completed in the near future.

Coming events are the teenage dance on the 20th; a bingo on the 25th; and don't forget the Poppy Campaign coming up.

If you haven't done so already, drop into the Legion downstairs room and take a look at the improvements and new decorations. The committee have done a masterful job.

Where did we go astray on sports? How did we lose the thread of the idea that made it such a good thing in the days of classical Greece?

Their belief was that it was a man's duty to train his mind to be thoughtful, and his body to be strong and well-proportioned. Sports were considered exercise aimed at self-discipline and self-improvement. An athlete who was awkward or ungraceful was hissed, even though he won the game — because winning or losing was of little importance.

No one attempted to become a specialist; balance and moderation were the goals, and the young man most admired was the one who was skillful at a variety of games, and who gave as much attention to developing his mind as his physique.

Then crowds of spectators began to build up, and some place along the line it began to matter who the winner was. This soon meant specialists, and concentration on a single phase of sport — and before long, professionals. In team sport, it began to become important to get on the team. By the time of the Romans, the goal was no longer self-improvement, but pleasing the crowd and winning its acclaim.

Baseball, football, hockey . . . really wonderful fun. Golf, swimming, boating . . . wonderful relaxation . . . But we lost something, long ago.

Branch 70, through its youth program, is endeavoring to regain some of that aspect of sport we lost so long ago.

The Legion, in this area, sponsors the Boy Scouts and team sports (hockey). Through these two mediums, the Legion can and will work to instill in today's youth the spirit of self-reliance, discipline, patriotism, good health, happiness of mind and body, and true sportsmanship.

The Legion wants to do these things. However, their hopes and plans are somewhat dampened and held back by the lack of sufficient Scout and Cub leaders, and coaches for sports. We appeal to our members, 200 strong, for volunteers to act as Scout leaders, Cub leaders and men willing to spend a couple hours a week working with boys at hockey. The good work done with youth today assures a good citizen tomorrow. It has been truly said, "Never does a man stand so tall as when he stoops to help a boy." If any of our members would be willing to work in the Scout movement, please contact Cde. C. L. Duncan, and for sports, call Cde. E. Evans.

Mme L. P. SAUVE Supports THE UNION NATIONALE

We are presently engaged in an election contest which will reach its climax November 14 when the people of Quebec — with free voice by virtue of the democratic system which we enjoy — will choose their governing representatives for the next few years.

An election usually gives vent to an exchange of ideas, serious or otherwise, between the contending parties and the electors. It also stirs political rumors — unfounded figments of imagination — or, unfortunately, malicious gossip originating with an opposing political party. . . My purpose in writing this editorial, is to prevent the recurrence of malicious manoeuvres which were initiated in the last campaign (June, 1960) by certain adversaries of the Union Nationale.

In provincial politics I have never supported, nor will I support, any party other than the Union Nationale. My long association with the party — together with my husband, dating back to 1936 — has continued since 1960, and has been intensified since last autumn when the Union Nationale took on a revival in highest social, economic and political ideals for the province.

It should be noted that, at the Convention in Quebec last autumn, I publicly proclaimed my support to Me. J. J. Bertrand. I worked FOR A CANDIDATE — certainly NOT AGAINST any group or interest, and it was by free choice that I made my allegiance with the choice of the delegates.

I have not digressed from this policy, and the conditions under which I made that choice will not change; I shall give my voluntary support to "UNION NATIONALE."

A STEP AT A TIME IN SEX EDUCATION

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Learning and growth are both gradual and the rule, a step at a time, is a good one in sex education. This is the responsibility of the home. Who has a better right to tell a little boy or girl about the origin of babies and the difference between men and women than the two who gave the child the gift of life?

Long before a child starts to school he pursues his parents with questions on all kinds of subjects, including sex. He should be answered briefly and factually. Parents should be prepared to tell him what he wants to know, and not attempt at three and a half, four or five to add extra information.

There is no such thing as explaining to a child "once and for all". The child cannot understand a long explanation. His interest wanders to another topic. He will want, a few days later to ask another sex question, or perhaps the same question over again.

A normal child, if he feels that his parents are embarrassed by this subject or are avoiding giving him a direct answer, will seek information from his playmates. Parents must realize that he is going to find out about sex. Surely they would prefer their child to receive his facts from them, rather than the likely confused and conflicting descriptions from his chums.

It is not that sex education is just a matter of learning facts as a child memorizes the multiplication table. In a home a boy or girl gradually learns the role of a mother and of a father. He can quickly discern whether there is love and respect between the individuals in the family circle.

If a baby of the other sex arrives in the family, or in a close friend's home, a small boy or girl will watch the baby's diapers being changed with interest. It is only natural that he should want to know why the baby is made differently from the way he (or she) is. "Where did the baby come from?" is another first sex question.

The old fanciful stories about a stork or the doctor bringing the baby in a black bag are a joke to most modern children. It is simplest and best from the very first to tell them, in terms they understand, the truth.

Parents who never received home instruction when they were young may feel at a loss as to just what to say. The inexpensive book, "Up the Years from One to Six", produced by the National Health and Welfare Office, Ottawa, (Queen's Printer) has an excellent, helpful section on The Facts of Life. The Family Life bookshelf in most public libraries has material on this subject too.

If a child does not ask the expected questions about sex, parents should seek an opportunity to speak about it. A pet cat who has a family assists the bashful parent in talking about babies in general, as well as about kittens. Children love baby animals and there is no more pleasant excursion than one to a farm where lambs and calves and colts are out in the pasture and a child's questions arise naturally.

The observant child will notice when his mother or a close friend of his mother's is growing larger as her pregnancy advances. When he is older he will want to know not only that the baby grows in a special place inside a mother made for the baby, but also how the baby gets out and what part a father plays.

Not in one solemn long talk, but step by step, by answering their boy's or girl's questions, parents give their child the information he or she needs about the facts of life. At the same time they let the child know this is a private topic, not discussed in public, but a subject for families to talk about when they are alone.

Death travels swiftly, but most speeders can catch it.

(Consumer Section)

Football fever is at its pitch in Canada these days. When hubby or best beau starts explaining an unusual play, it's good feminine figuring for a woman to let on that there are a few things she doesn't know about football. . .

A cheese tray for a football party is good feminine figuring, too. It takes only minutes to prepare, and if various cheese varieties and an assortment of crackers are kept on hand, it can be prepared for a spur-of-the-moment football party. Cheese is at its full-flavored best when allowed to stand at room temperature for an hour of so before serving. Small plates, individual knives and paper napkins can be near the cheese tray, which should be placed so that all guests can help themselves whenever they feel inclined.

An attractive tray that allows room for several varieties of cheese and crackers is needed, as well as a bowl for fruit. A large Lazy Susan is excellent, or a kitchen cutting board on a serving tray will do nicely if a cheese board is not available. If the tray is large, the crackers and fresh fruit (pears, grapes and apples) can be arranged on the tray with the various types of cheese on the board.

What types of cheese are best? That's up to individual taste, of course; but the Consumer Section suggests the inclusion of some of the varieties of foreign origin now made in Canada. The quality of Canadian-made cheese is impressive, and the unusual varieties are well worth trying.

Canadian Gouda, with its slightly nut-like flavor, makes an attractive point of interest on a cheese tray. When purchased, the red wax coating on the flattened, round cheese should be firm and unbroken, with no mold or darkening showing through the wax. If the paper covering is broken, it is a good idea to check the wax coating to make sure it isn't damaged. The hostess can make the first few wedge-shaped cuts to reveal the creamy yellow interior.

Oka, Trappist and St. Paulin are usually found in transparently-wrapped wedges which have been cut from a large, round cheese. Both should appear freshly cut, with no drying around the edges of the cream-colored interior. Oka has a thin, light brown rind lightly covered with a clean, powdery white mold which should not be yellowed or darkened, nor extend down the cut side of the cheese. The texture of St. Paulin is firmer than Oka, and the rind is darker in color with no powdery, white covering. Trappist cheese is usually sold in rounds in a cardboard package. The powdery, white mold on the rind should appear fresh, not yellowed or browned to any great extent.

Emmentaler is the name of the sweet, nut-like cheese with the shiny holes fairly well dispersed throughout the cheese, but the transparent package is usually marked "Swiss" or "Natural Swiss".

Camembert, a creamy-colored cheese with a subtle, pungent flavor, is best for spreading on crackers and bread when soft as butter inside, so it's doubly important to condition it at room temperature for a short time before serving. It is sold in round cakes or pie-shaped portions and some is sold in cardboard containers which can be opened easily for inspection. When the cheese is past its prime, the rind becomes yellowed and hard. Some Camembert is foil-wrapped, in which case it is more difficult to check quality at the store; but most store managers appreciate being informed of any merchandise picked up in their dairy counter which is below top quality.

Blue-veined cheese has a sharp, tangy flavor that contrasts nicely with the milder flavor of some of the other varieties on the tray. It is easy to recognize quality in blue-veined cheese, as the Canadian varieties are called; the creamy-yellow part should be an even color with the blue vein fairly well distributed through it. Excessive and uneven yellowing of the creamy part indicates that the cheese will be excessively strong in flavor.

Cheddar, the long-tme Canadian favorite, is available in most supermarkets in wrapped wedges or blocks of various weights marked "Mild", or "Old" for convenience in choosing one that is just nippy enough to suit any taste. On a cheese tray it is a good idea to have a nippy one — Old (aged a year or more) and either a Mild or Medium. Cheddar should look freshly cut and not dried out, with no mold and no oiliness. It is available in its natural rich cream color or it may be colored yellow-orange by the addition of edible vegetable coloring.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" if you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, "tired-out" feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 84

Honey hints for homemaker

(Consumer Section

This is a good time to stock up on honey from the new crop. Here are some useful honey hints for the alert housekeeper:

— Use liquid honey on pancakes or waffles, as a topping for desserts, or ice creams, as a glaze for meats or in baking.

— Use "creamed honey" as a spread on toast or muffins.

— Use honey in breads, cakes and cookies. They will keep moist longer than when they're made with sugar. Measure the honey in the cup in which shortening has been measured. The fat forms a coating on the cup allowing the honey to pour out easily.

— Do not substitute honey indiscriminately for sugar in baking. As honey contains moisture, the liquid must be reduced. In general, one cup of sugar in a recipe can be replaced by one cup of honey if the liquid is reduced approximately by one-quarter. In cakes and cookies it is recommended that not more than half of the sugar be replaced with honey and the liquid reduced accordingly.

— Add honey to milk or fruit drinks for afternoon pick-me-ups.

— Use honey in puddings, custards and pie fillings.

— Use honey to sweeten baked apples, or use creamed honey with a dash of cinnamon as a filling for baked apples.

— Serve honey with fried chicken.

— Use creamed honey as a spread for open-face sandwiches for late evening snacks; or soften cream cheese with liquid honey and add chopped nuts for a delicious sandwich filling.

— To make a quick topping for plain cake, spread creamed honey lightly on it and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Judging by the colorful and formal opening of Canada's 25th Parliament recently, blue will be one of the most popular colors for ladies' formal and evening wear this season.

Shades of blue varying from turquoise to navy were chosen by four of the women at the opening — Mrs. Georges Vanier, wife of the governor-general; Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister; Mrs. Robert Thompson, wife of the Social Credit leader, and Mrs. H. W. Herridge, wife of the house leader of the New Democratic Party.

Mrs. Patrick Kerwin, wife of Canada's chief justice, added a note of color in her pale pink chiffon gown trimmed with crystals and pearls.

Classic Design

Mrs. Vanier's full-length gown of turquoise slipper satin was classically designed with a low rounded neckline, three-quarter-length sleeves and a full skirt.

The midnight blue velvet gown chosen by Mrs. Diefenbaker was fashioned with straight closely-cut lines, a square neckline and no sleeves. She accented her outfit with a white fox stole.

Mrs. Thompson's gown was of mid-blue taffeta, and that worn by Mrs. Herridge was of a blue brocade.

Business-like at all times, Canada's five women MPs — Postmaster-General Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Mrs. Jean Casselman, Mrs. Margaret Macdonald, Mrs. Isabel J. Hardie and Judie LaMarsh — all wore suits or two-piece dresses in dark conservative colors.

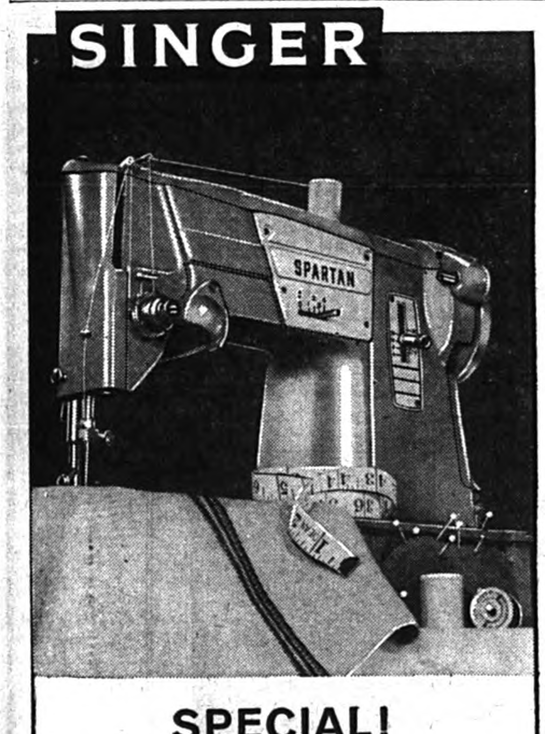

The tradition of wearing formal clothes to the opening of Parliament was revived in Ottawa when Queen Elizabeth opened Canada's 23rd parliament in October of 1957. Until that time, formal dress had not been worn since the beginning of the Second World War.

Two More Firsts

Mrs. Edra Ferguson, of Guelph, Ont., has been appointed Ontario's first woman division court judge, a position which involves relieving county judges of their heavy case loads in certain areas.

Mrs. Alene Holt, for nine years an alderman on Peterborough's city council, became that city's first woman mayor.

To All Social Crediters:

Following a declaration by René Lévesque on the television and in the newspapers, advising electors not to vote Social Credit — I feel we must vigorously oppose the Liberal Party. . . Moreover, Mme Noella Durocher having publicly stated that it is only political refugees who voted Social Credit, we must affirm that she and her cause are the refugees in Lachute. If Mme Durocher is to direct the Liberal Party in this County, we assure you that we, Social Crediters, also have a word to say.

At a special meeting of both men and women, last week, it was decided there will shortly be formed a Union Nationale women's organization. (Proposed by Mme Cagné, seconded by Mme Audette.)

I therefore appeal to voters in those polls which, at the last election, worked for and supported Social Credit — to vote now, and work for, Mr. Cottingham, the representative for the Union Nationale.

I believe the Liberal Party is on the way out. I have the assurance of Mr. Cottingham that, with the Union Nationale back in power, Lachute will be a town well organized in sports. I have faith in Mr. Cottingham; so have the young people. The older residents will also benefit in more diversions.

Price of milk in relation to domestic food budget

How does the price of milk relate to the weekly food basket cost and to the family incomes during the past 20 years or more? In 1939, personal, annual, disposable income was $339 — the weekly food basket for a family of four was $10, and a quart of milk, 11 cents; in 1960, annual income was $1,408, the food basket $25, and the quart of milk 23½ cents. This means that, in the past two decades, income has more than quadrupled, food cost has risen two and a half times, and the price of a quart of milk has a little more than doubled.

If the price of the quart of milk from 1939 to 1960 had followed the same trend as income, which has quadrupled, it would now be 44 cents a quart. If it had risen at the same rate as the weekly food basket, which is now two and a half times higher than in 1939, it would be 27½ cents a quart.

It is a common experience that any country showing increased income spends more on such commodities as meat. In Canada, since 1939, income has gone up and diet has changed considerably. Canadians are eating less cereals, potatoes and dairy products and more fruit, vegetables, eggs, poultry and meat. For instance, per capita consumption of beef had risen from 53 pounds in 1939 to 69 pounds in 1960.

It is interesting to compare the milk price situation in relation to the price of other food commodities, such as beef. In 1939, one hour's salary of the worker in a manufacturing industry could buy 4 quarts of milk and 2 pounds of beef. In the following years, one hour's salary could constantly supply more milk than beef.

In 1961, it could buy 8 quarts of milk and 2½ pounds of beef. In other words, beef price has proportionately increased more than that of milk.

We sometimes hear consumers complaining about the price of milk. Of course, for a big family with a low income, milk becomes an important item. It means buying three, four or even five quarts every day. Because it is a basic food in our country, the preparation of meals cannot be imagined without it. To the housewife conscious of the health of her family, its importance, especially for children and adolescents, cannot be overlooked.

Statistics show that from 1939 to 1960, personal, annual, disposable income has more than quadrupled ($339 - $1,408), while the cost of the food basket has only risen two and a half times ($10 - $25), and milk has gone from 11 cents to 23½ cents. This means that while income and prices have been going up, food commodity prices have risen less than consumer prices in general and milk, still less.

Back in 1914, sirloin steak was selling at 25 cents a pound and a quart of milk at 9 cents — a little more than one third. In 1939, a pound of round steak cost 23½ cents and a quart of milk, 11 cents. With the jump (that is the right word for it) in income, beef round steak prices increased from 23½ cents in 1939 to 78½ cents in 1950 and to 92 cents in 1961, which means it has nearly quadrupled from 1939 to 1961. If the price of milk had made the same jump, it would now be 44 cents a quart.

Glaring headlights hazard to drivers

High-beam lights should be used only on the highway, and they must be dimmed within 500 feet of an oncoming car or withiin 200 feet of a car being followed, except when passing. Failure to respect this article of the Highway code is the cause of numerous accidents. The reason is very simple: The glare-zone thus created can make an obstacle appear suddenly, without being expected, and often the driver himself is a victim of the one he blinds.

PLANES WILL LAND IN FOG BY 1970

Vancouver (CP) — A civil aviation authority says that by 1970 neither fog nor smog will delay commercial aircraft landings at airports.

"Within eight years we fully expect that instrument landing systems capable of bringing aircraft into a perfect landing in zero visibility, will have been perfected," says Walter Binaghi, president of the International Civil Aviation Organization. The systems will be used throughout the world, he adds.

Present landing systems can bring a plane successfully to within 100 feet of the ground in poor visibility, at which point the pilot takes over for a visual approach if possible. Otherwise, he is rerouted.

First you'll notice that it's the same shape as last year. But that's the secret of our success. And the reason a Volkswagen is worth more when you trade it in. We never change the basic design, we just keep improving it.

For example: The list price of our Custom model includes adjustable bucket seats. (Optional in most cars.)

And every VW has a built-in heater and defroster. (Extra cost on most cars.)

Standard equipment includes 2 padded sun visors, windshield washers and an automatic choke.

And then there's something we've always had. An air-cooled engine that can't boil over in summer and never needs antifreeze in winter. A rear mounted engine that gives you better traction on snow and ice. A dependable engine that gets an average of 38 miles to a gallon of gas.

If you think car prices are out of this world, take heart. The '63 Custom Volkswagen is still down to earth.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

The moose that has been roving on the south side of the North River has finally been killed. For a week or so it had been seen in the Cote St. Louis area, always seeming to travel south. Finally it was in the Ste. Scholastique district that it got shot. The Warden of St. Joseph du Lac informed me they had confiscated the carcass and were taking it to Montreal. I couldn't get the whole story, but it would appear it had been shot without a license. A couple of the stories I heard were to the effect that the moose was rabid, it wouldn't let the farmer take his cattle out of a field, and so on. Naturally no thought was given of the rutting season for moose, so everything would be "wild" to uninformed observers. One very funny story concerned the police, but I have no way of checking this, so will not repeat it. It's too bad this animal didn't stay around Argenteuil, then he would have been reasonably safe from hunters, but wandering into the County of Two Mountains, which is open for moose, it didn't have a chance.

I saw the Canada Lynx that had been shot and killed recently on the West Gore road near Shrewsbury. This certainly was a beautiful animal, well fed and with a wonderful coat. Blue-grey, it must have been a great sight in its natural habitat. The ear tufts were very distinct and well formed. The legs were very heavy, with big pads for travelling in the snow. As you know, we have few of these great cats in this area, not enough to warrant killing them because of damage they might do. So let's hope saner thoughts will prevent the killing of them. One very good thing they have been doing is, keeping the rabbits under control, and this is good, as the ones that are being shot right now are certainly very healthy.

The upland shooter is having a lot of fun just now. Hungarian partridge are around in great numbers. Anyone wanting to take a crack at them only has to travel around the tracks near St. Andrews; and a couple of sand pits I have been around have also shown evidence of them. Mourning doves are also in profusion, making excellent sport for the small-bore shotgun man. I was out after some of these the other day; my score was zero. Boy, can they move; the way they seem to rocket right up to you then swerve away, usually means a lot of buckshot is hitting the countryside. By the way, these birds make very good eating.

Once more the geese can be heard and seen on their way south. A couple of very big flights have been seen, making the shivers run up and down one's spine. Seeing these birds never fails to envision peaceful barrens with marsh just overloaded with them. One of the greatest memories I have of them is on Main Duck Island when they were getting ready to go. Noise that could not even be imagined; yet a call over all the noise from the leader, would quiet them down so that even a feather floating to earth sounded like the crack of doom. Watching the leaders drop back from the "V" formation, and others taking their place, seemingly without a command of any kind — this is co-ordination and co-operation almost uncanny.

Our wardens are having a tough time just now, with the influx of bird shooters to the County. Deer are being shot all over the place. Evidence is scattered about in various forms. It sure looks bad for what few animals we have left; they will be all cleaned out before the season really opens. After all, if a human can be shot mistakenly for a duck, then it shouldn't be hard to mistake a deer for a partridge. On the week-end all classes of shooters were around, and it's a safe bet the very smallest birds got shot at. I talked to a couple of shooters who knew absolutely nothing of the laws. As a matter of fact one of them could not even speak English or French. Maybe we will wake up to the fact that we are being shot out, before it is too late.

Crows congregate around the town dump at night, and a lot of fun can be had nailing them on the way to pick over the refuse. Naturally you have to be well hidden, but not as well as out in the bush. Here it seems they are only thinking of their stomachs, and they let down a little on the caution. Some exceptionally big ones have been shot.

Another thing that seems to have increased is the ground hogs. I saw a couple that had been shot and just left in the field. This is wasteful, as the meat on a ground hog is exceptionally good. Most wild animals are edible; they should not be left to rot because someone doesn't like the idea of eating them. I'm sure there are plenty of people around who would welcome them. At least most wildlife is vegetarian in its eating habits.

The duck situation is poor. This may be blamed to some extent on the weather, but not all of it. Even last year, which was dim from the duck hunter's point of view, was better than it is right now. A couple of ardent shooters stated they have never seen it so bad. There is no doubt the bad droughts in the prairie provinces did a terrific amount of damage to the nesting. It appears that only about one third of the hatchings managed to survive. Either we are going to have to cut out the duck shooting for a few years, or lose all chance of building up these flocks. Even if the limits were cut down drastically, it wouldn't do much good right now. Let us consider — if every duck hunter took just one over his limit for the season, this would run into staggering numbers. There must be millions of this type of hunter on the North American continent, so figure it out. . . However, let's try and apply our own conservation ideas in this district; take less than your limit, and hope others will do the same.

I have been told of a deer (doe) that had parts of its front legs blown off some time last hunting season. It is still alive, and as a matter of fact, gave birth to two fawns this spring. Fortunately it is on posted property, so it may be able to get through the season without further disaster. I have not seen this wonder yet, but I know where it is, and hope to get some pictures of this specimen soon. If this is possible, I will be a happy guy. It is in cases like this that you realize, in some small way, just how wonderful is Nature. By all the laws of survival, this doe had no chance, but for some unknown reason she survived, and bore young.

Last April I received a letter from the Quebec Farmers' Association, along with the brief they wished to present to the Government on controlled hunting. I have not heard anything on this for some time, so can only presume it was shelved by the powers-that-be, for some future date. Certainly the brief covered everything, as regards trespassing, etc.; and something should have come of it. These recommendations were excellent as far as I was concerned, for the hunters as well as the farmers, who have to bear the brunt of damage done to property. Let's hope this is not allowed to drop, as other pleas and petitions before it.

New banner for RCAF Association

Halifax — Highlight of the Twelfth RCAF Association Convention held in Halifax was the presentation to the Association of their new banner.

The banner consists of the RCAF Association badge on a light blue background with a design of gold maple leaves along the inner edge. The silken banner, completely bordered with a gold tasseled fringe, will be maintained at the Association's head office in Ottawa. Facsimiles of the banner across Canada will contain a narrow white swath below the badge, with the name and number of the particular Wing.

Many attractions at 1962 Ottawa Winter Fair

The Hon. Keiller Mackay, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, will preside at the official opening of the Ottawa Winter Fair on Saturday, October 22, with a formal military guard and the Coliseum decorated with a magnificent floral display.

The color and pomp of the occasion will reflect the fact that the Winter Fair, October 22 to 27, will be celebrating its diamond jubilee. And in special observance of this anniversary a diamond ring valued at $750 will be presented to some fortunate patron of the fair. Also, for good measure, some person attending the fair is going to pick up a brand new car.

The Winter Fair still retains its basic agricultural fundamentals with a fine horse show and outstanding cattle, horse and sheep departments.

Of particular interest to many, will be the auction of prize beef steers at 4.15 p.m. Friday, October 26.

For the ladies, there will be a variety of entertainment in the Coliseum, including afternoon tea and delectable food. Participating prominently in the ladies' activities will be the Women's Institutes.

Further impressions recounted en route to World Conference

Of special interest to the delegation of W.I.'s from Canada, en route to the Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World at Melbourne, was a visit to a primary school in Hong Kong. This school was built in 1958 for the education of children at St. Simon's Hostel, opened in 1954 and financed by the Hong Kong Diocesan Association in London. The school itself was subsidized by the Government and now has an enrolment of 540 children, 40 of whom live at the hostel. Of particular interest to the delegates was the use of Canadian food, supplied through "Save the Children Fund", which is issued regularly to the children. Not only is the food provided, but funds to sponsor at least 50 of the students come directly from Women's Institutes across Canada, through this same agency. Some of these children were brought to talk to the delegates. Funds are badly needed to provide additional accommodation for the children.

Several centres in Japan were visited prior to going on to Hong Kong. All delegates were impressed with the hospitality shown them, the beauty of the countryside, and the visit to the Home-Living Improvement Institute in Toyko, where under the Department of Agriculture and Forestry more than 30 young men and women are preparing themselves for work among rural families. Though established only three years, improvement in sanitation, clothing, food preparation and preservation, is showing remarkable results. Among the instructors several have taken their training abroad.

New store prop'r is well known businessman

The store was opened as part of Handy Andy Company's 1962 expansion program. Founded more than a quarter of a century ago, the company pioneered a new concept in automotive retailing.

Today it serves more than 100 associate dealers like Mr. Clermont, offering more than 10,000 items in automotive, hardware, sporting goods, household appliances and other lines.

"I am delighted to bring such a wide variety of goods to Lachute at discount prices," said Mr. Clement, "and to offer exclusive trade-marked products in this growing community."

"With the normal growth of Lachute and surrounding area, the steady increase in the number of car registrations, and more and more leisure time, a widening market for discounted merchandise is sure to develop."

Married and the father of seven children, Mr. Clermont has been with the Dominion Ayers company since 1937. For the last six years he has been sales manager of the Wood Products Division, and has acquired a business experience which will be beneficial to his new venture.

Active in community affairs, Mr. Clermont has served with the school commission for six years. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

CNIB campaigns near completion

The CNIB financial campaign for Morin Heights district has just terminated, the sum of $712 having been realized through efforts of the volunteer canvassers under leadership of Mrs. Herman Dudene.

All monies raised in this County go towards the work of the institute in helping the sightless to re-adjust themselves after the onset of blindness.

The advisory board for the County of Argenteuil, and staff, would deeply appreciate if any readers, when passing through Lost River, would stop for a moment at Chisholm's Store to purchase cigarettes or a soft drink, or to look around and see whether there are items that they require, either in the food line or in leathercraft made by John Brunelle, a sightless man. This would bring encouragement to the young man, and satisfaction to you, that your financial help is ameliorating conditions for people like Mr. Brunelle.

The campaigns for this County are now almost completed. Anyone who has not been contacted, and who would like to contribute, may please send contributions to the CNIB office, 145 Drew St., in Lachute.

TIPS

ON HOW TO PUT $80 EXTRA IN YOUR POCKET

It has been calculated that in just one year, a family of rats eats (or ruins) as much feed as a steer—about $80 worth. They also damage buildings, spread disease and cause electrical fires.

Purina Research has developed a new effective rat killer—Purina Rat-Kill. It's a "carry-home" bait. Rats haul it back to the nest and distribute it among the whole family. Painless death from internal bleeding is caused in about a week. Rats never become bait-shy of this cereal-base bait, which comes ready to use. In tests conducted by Purina Research, they found that rats and mice actually prefer Purina Rat-Kill to commercial feeds and grains.

Cold weather drives rats indoors where they do most damage. Don't wait until you see rats! Now is the time to set up a series of bait stations. They'll help you kill any rats which you might have and keep new rats from moving in.

Impassioned plea for peace by Pope John

By Harry Eccles,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Pope John has appealed to the nations of the world to do everything possible to meet the "anguished cries for peace."

He was addressing envoys of 85 governments attending the Roman Catholic Church's massive Ecumenical Council. The council had opened in a scene of solemn grandeur at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, with 2,700 church leaders and thousands of other guests and observers present.

He said the Council would help to prepare a new climate for peace and "remove the danger of war, that scourge of nations, which today would mean the destruction of humanity."

The Council, the first in 92 years, is expected to last until next fall. Its purpose is to reinvigorate the church to meet the modern challenges of atheism, materialism and apathy.

Pope John's appeal to the nations was made during an audience granted to statesmen in the Sistine Chapel of Vatican Palace. He appealed to them to help "save the world's peace."

Heads of state, said the Pope, speaking in French, should continue to meet each other for conciliatory talks aimed at "just and generous agreements." He said, "It is time something decisive is done to bring about the great peace that all men are waiting for, and for which they have suffered so much."

Last Saturday, addressing 1,000 journalists gathered in the Sistine Chapel, the Pope warned that "incalculable consequences" can come from the "distortion of truth" by news media. He declared: "You are at the service of truth and you come up to men's expectations insofar as you serve it faithfully."

Boost costs of construction

Montreal, Oct. 6 — Roland Boulanger, president of the Quebec Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, said that construction costs would definitely increase due to the minimum salary wage hike just announced by the provincial government.

This increase affects some 1,500 employers and 15,000 employees in the lumber industry, raises the minimum wage scale on the Island of Montreal from 70 cents to $1.10 for unskilled and $1.25 for skilled labor, and in other sections of the province from 64 cents to $1.00 and $1.15.

Mr. Boulanger said that the ordinance would affect lumber manufacturing costs, the operation of sash and door plants and other lumber affiliated industries, and lumber handling costs in retail yards throughout the province.

He said that the Quebec Retail Lumber Dealers' Association had not been consulted prior to the adoption of this new wage legislation.

ISRAELI ARTISTS HAVE NO TAXES

Montreal (CP) — If you're an artist — especially the poverty-stricken kind — then Safed, Israel, is the place for you.

High in the cool, dry mountains of Galilee, the artists live enviable lives as the city pays their taxes, rent and water costs — 10 cents a cubic metre.

Safed's colony of 50 artists and musicians earn their privileges through the thousands of tourists who pour into the ancient city yearly. "All the philosophers, poets and writers lived there and the first book in Hebrew was printed there," says Safed Mayor Abraham Hacohen.

Fishing-Hunting Association looks to deer opening

With the opening of the deer season this Saturday, all hunting members of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association are urged to register their names for participation in the end-of-season awards. The season ends November 18.

Florian Raymond, in charge of the hunting committee, reports several entries of duck and hare received to date.

In the fishing derby on the Ottawa River at Carillon last Sunday, no fewer than 40 enhusiasts took part. Mme Patrick Lalonde, of Lachute, won top prize with a 3-lb. pik.

Numerous other awards and entrance prizes were given, and the Molson booby prizes for the biggest catch of "scrub" fish, went to Gaston Gagnon and Mrs. E. MacAdam.

First in Quebec – self-contained substation built for Gatineau Power Company

Pictured above is a 6,666 Kw. mobile substation designed and manufactured for Gatineau Power Company, by Brown Boveri Company at St. Jean, Que., at a cost of almost $75,000.00.

This self-contained substation, which is the first of its kind in the Province of Quebec, will transform electricity from transmission lines carrying either 66,000 or 26,400 volts to either 4,160, 7,200, 8,300, 12,500 or 13,800 volts for local distribution.

It is intended primarily to supply electricity while maintenance work is being carried out on existing substations, thereby reducing the number or length of necessary interruptions.

Another important use will be in case of emergency due to the failure of a large substation transformer.

Existing substations will be modified and new substations designed to accommodate this equipment when it is required. It was placed in operation at Dorion for the first time while substation transformers were being changed.

U. N. rally meets party leader, Daniel Johnson; Liberal campaign opens at St. Andrews East

Friends of the Union Nationale and supporters of W. M. Cottingham gathered at the Cottingham Farm, Hill Head, last Friday afternoon to meet the party leader, Daniel Johnson, deputy for Bagot County.

Ladies noted in the gathering were Mrs. Johnson; Mme Lemay-Warren, advocate and the first woman candidate for the Union Nationale; and Mrs. Cottingham, who shared her husband's role as host.

Master of ceremonies was Guy Lafortune, who first called upon Mr. Cottingham to speak. Mr. Cottingham welcomed the guests and the gathering, establishing the function on an informal footing, then presented Mme Lemay-Warren. The latter, an ardent social worker in her busy life, impressed upon the women present that they represent 53% of the voters. Mme Lemay-Warren expressed keen concern in problems touching the family life, and legislation affecting the welfare of the home. . . Mrs. Johnson also spoke, simply and sincerely, and graciously accepted a token of flowers handed to her by Roxane Cyr, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cyr, Lachute.

Mr. Johnson, addressing the audience, remarked how everyone in the course of his campaign had welcomed the coming election. "Bill" he said, is well liked at Quebec. . . Two copies of "L'Argenteuil" were produced, and Mr. Johnson cited the news report of January 10, 1962, where Mr. Rodrigue Durocher, Liberal spokesman, requested Mr. Lesage, Liberal chieftain, to institute a royal inquiry on irregularities at the Carillon Dam, under the Hon. Rene Lévesque's department. . . On January 17, Mr. Durocher gave reasons justifying his request; but the inquiry was never held. . . Mr. Johnson held these instances as evidence of distrust and discord among the Liberal party.

In a question period, the Argenteuil Hospital was mentioned. . . . The government had taken over for $1, the $125,000 provided by the people of this district. These subscribers should have been consulted, or their money refunded. Mr. Johnson, if elected to power, offered to re-imburse the population.

Nationalization? . . The Liberals, he said, had misrepresented the figures on electric power. Mr. Johnson would state precise facts Tuesday, 23rd, on television. . . . "Election first, a referendum afterwards", he said. The Liberals are asking for a blank cheque to carry on their hydro projects.

Mr. Johnson welcomed the new blood which had come to strengthen the U.N. cause, in new candidates representing farmers and the working classes. New ideas and a clear-cut program would benefit these ranks and also the entire province.

Liberal Candidate's Endorsation

A letter, direct from Premier Lesage, has been received here to dispel rumors that Rodrigue Durocher lacks the official backing as Liberal candidate for the election. The letter, affirming Mr. Durocher's candidature, is reproduced hereunder. (The letter is pre-dated for Nomination Day.)

Cabinet of Prime Minister
Province of Quebec
October 31, 1962

To the Returning Officer,
Electoral District of Argenteuil

I, the undersigned Jean Lesage, in my capacity as premier of the Province of Quebec, hereby attest that Mr. Rodrigue Durocher, public relations officer, of 494 Bedard Blvd., Lachute, is my candidate for the election to be held November 14, 1962, for the choice of a deputy to represent this district in the Quebec Legislative Assembly.

(Signed) Jean Lesage,
Premier of the Province of Quebec.

(It is understood a similar letter is in the hands of the Returning Officer, affirming the official candidature of Mr. Cottingham for the U.N. party.)

The official Liberal candidate, Mr. Durocher, opened his campaign last Sunday in his native community, St. Andrews East. A crowd of several hundred people attended.

Before the meeting a ceremony was held to inaugurate a new thoroughfare, Legault Street. The Rev. H. Rivest, parish priest, was accompanied by Mr. Durocher for the traditional cutting of the ribbon.

The crowd listened attentively from 2 p.m. to 6.30 p.m. as speakers were heard in support of the Liberal contender. Other speakers besides Mr. Durocher were Mtre. Yves Pelletier, Mtre. Gerard Simpson and Lucien Giroux, who had stood for nomination at the Liberal convention; having lost the popular choice to Durocher, he is now supporting the latter in his campaign. Surprise guest speaker was Vincent Drouin, M.P. for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes. The master of ceremonies was Bernard Gosselin.

Bill Cottingham (right), standard bearer for the Union Nationale in Argenteuil and former Minister of Mines in the U.N. government, raises the hand of Daniel Johnson, party leader, who came here Friday to give impetus to Mr. Cottingham's campaign. With them is Mrs. Johnson, who accompanied her husband. The scene was taken at the Cottingham Farm, Hill Head, where a large gathering of supporters was present to welcome the U.N. leader.

Engineers and contractors explain filtration delays and added cost

Representatives of three firms engaged in the filtration plant project appeared at the Council meeting to answer some pertinent questions — Paul Laliberté, from the firm of consulting engineers; a representative of Francis Hankin, suppliers of the equipment; and a member of the firm filling the general contract.

According to Mr. Laliberté, the cost of the project compares favorably with other plants installed recently. For instance:

Lachute, capacity 2,000,000 imperial gallons per day — $365,000
Ste. Rose, 2,300,000 imperial gallons per day — $571,000
Laprairie, 2,100,000 imperial gallons per day — $465,000
Rosemere, 1,900,000 imperial gallons per day — $477,500

With regard to "extras" which amounted to some $20,000, these had been due to added excavation and supplementary cement pouring not indicated in the soundings; changes in steel; expense in the replacement of tile; installation of weather strip; additional piping; dynamiting, etc. — all amounting to about 5.5% of the overall cost, which is considered a fair average for a project of this size.

As for the delays in completing the work, reasons given were — additional excavating, of which the Council had been informed at the time; the laying of pipes; and completion of the painting and tile-laying delayed by late delivery of certain machinery.

Furthermore, according to a spokesman for Francis Hankin, it may be a year before the quality of the water is stabilized, due to weather changes, water level, the competence of those in charge of the plant, etc.

This meeting, the last before civic elections, was chaired by Mayor Fernand Legault. Aldermen Urbain, Thibodeau and Charlebois were absent.

Avoca hunter recovering from rifle bullet

Clark A. McNeil, 43 of Avoca, was treated at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, last Saturday following a huntng accident in which he was shot through the shoulders.

According to Q.P.P. Agent Sam Kille, who carried out the investigation, the victim was hunting on his own property, accompanied by Dougal Trineer, also of Avoca, and Belany Maxsom, of Ontario. He had placed his two companions on a deer runway and was walking in an open field along the base of a mountain, when he was shot, apparently by someone standing in a gravel pit some 200 yards away.

Mr. McNeil told police he shouted to the hunters that they had shot him and to come to his assistance, but although he heard their voices, they did not heed his plea for help, and he then heard their car leaving the scene. Mr. McNeil was wearing a red shirt and red cap at the time of the incident.

He reported he had lain in the field for some time and, when feeling he was strong enough, managed to get to his feet and walk over half a mile to his home; from there he was taken to the Smith Clinic by automobile.

The bullet, which was from a high-calibre rifle and badly smashed, entered his left shoulder, passed through his back and was removed from his right shoulder. He was reported to be in satisfactory condition, following the operation to remove the bullet.

Police report no evidence to lead them to the hunters responsible.

Stage set for Hallowe'en UNICEF effort

Hallowe'en for UNICEF will be featured again by young celebrants around Lachute this coming All Saints' Eve, when kiddies will be carrying UNICEF "Shell Out" boxes to receive cash contributions for the United Nations fund for children throughout the underprivileged countries.

Behind the scenes to promote this effort, are Mrs. W. E. Butterfield to organize the English-speaking youngsters, and Mrs. Roger Gravel for the French-speaking children — working through the Home & School Association and school agencies.

Similar collections have been organized in Brownsburg, St. Andrews and other communities, under direction of various agencies or conveners.

It is hoped the public will generously support this effort, helping also to encourage a constructive spirit in the youngsters' Hallowe'en activity.

E. Evans heads Legion Br. 70 poppy campaign

E. Evans has been named to head the poppy committee of Lachute Legion, Branch 70. In view of the excellent results and handling of the March of Dimes campaign held earlier, this is a suitable choice.

Comrade Evans informs us that the Lachute Legion undertakes two annual canvasses for funds. One, in the spring, is the March of Dimes. The monies collected in this drive is handed over in full to the Quebec Foundation for the Prevention of Poliomyelitis and treatment of polio victims. In the fall is the Poppy Campaign, to raise funds in aid of disabled veterans and assistance to dependents, orphans and widows of veterans.

The purpose of poppy and wreath sales is two-fold. All are purchased from Vetcraft — an organization of disabled veterans who manufacture these emblems of Remembrance, thereby affording employment to the handicapped. The proceeds from wreath and poppy sales, after payment to Vetcraft, are held in trust and can only be used for the help of needy veterans and dependents.

Cde. Evans was asked about the wreaths and poppies that are left after each November 11. He informed us that some wreaths are kept after the ceremonies for use at Legion funerals and for periodic Cenotaph decoration. The balance, he said, are burned and some of the residue ash is kept for the following November 11 and the "scattering of the ashes" ceremony.

"To keep using wreaths two or three times would be defeating our own purpose", stated Cde. Evans. "The disabled, handicapped veterans at Vetcraft depend on the purchase of these wreaths for the major portion of their livelihood.

"Most of us have some form of insurance against sickness and accident. For thousands of widows and war orphans there are no pensions. Where would your wife turn to for help if she were a widow or you were disabled? The Canadian Legion's Poppy Trust Fund is the answer for thousands of war widows, orphans and disabled veterans."

— Remember the dead, help the living! Wear a poppy!

Stole liquor from transport trailer

A truck driver who paid spot cash recently for going through a stop sign in Lachute, and told a policeman to "keep the change", was sent to trial on charges of stealing $46,000 worth of liquor in Hull last August.

Opening of new street at St.Andrews

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

At Council meeting last week, Mayor Fernand Legault bade adieu to the aldermen and civic employees, and wished good luck to his successor — claiming modestly that he had "always worked sincerely for the interests of the town". . . In complete agreement, we salute the outgoing mayor. His most cherished project, the filtration of Lachute's water supply and revitalizing of the water system, is at the point of completion. To this achievement he has devoted much time and energy since last autumn.

The financing of the filtration plant has provoked much criticism. But the situation was desperate and the job was imperative. The mayor remarked that his successors would have new sources of revenue at their disposal, which had not been available during his term.

An interesting sidelight in his address to the Lions Club last week indicated that retiring Mayor Fernand Legault and his father, the late L. L. Legault, have headed the Catholic School Commission in Lachute for 38 of its 62 years. Mayor Legault has served as chairman of the commission since 1947.

There is a possibility that this district may have a radio broadcast station, bilingual both in programming and advertising. The station, "The Voice of Two Provinces", would cover Argenteuil and Prescott counties. . . The Council gave its blessing and agreed to send its recommendation to the Board of Broadcast Governors. The promoter is a Mr. Hatfield.

Vincent Drouin, M.P. for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes, spoke briefly in a Commons debate last Tuesday on the Bankruptcy Act, relative to low-bracket wage earners.

Mr. Drouin said, in brief, that the principle of the bill was not within the purview of the Commons, since it is a matter of civil law and therefore under jurisdiction of the provinces — in virtue of the North America Act.

AT LIONS CLUB "FIRE PREVENTION" MEETING —

At the meeting most closely coinciding with Fire Prevention Week, the Lions of Lachute played hosts to the Lachute Volunteer Fire Brigade. There was an enthusiastic attendance at the supper, with some 15 firemen as guests.

In the spirit of the occasion, red Fire Chief hats were handed around, by courtesy of Texaco. Hal Joyce, Lion Tamer, and Ken Raymond, Tail Twister, led a round of singing for the lighter side of the occasion. A drawing was held for two tickets to the Montreal Lions Club 40th anniversary celebration (won by Lion Fernand Legault), with proceeds going to the convention fund. As inter-club chairman, Gaetan Malacket bespoke the attendance of fellow Lions at this function, since Montreal Central Lions Club had taken the initiative in the formation and chartering of the Lachute Lions, 28 years ago.

President Royal Carrière welcomed the fireman as guests, and Chief Don MacCulloch extended sincere thanks on behalf of his fellow members of the Fire Brigade.

As guest speaker on this occasion, Lion Fernand Legault, Q.C., stepped out of character and as Mayor of Lachute filled a request of the program committee, in giving an account of his administration in the past 21 months. Mayor Legault was happily introduced by another ex-mayor, ex-president and fellow Lion, Léopold Carrière.

Guest Speaker Reviews Term of Civic Service

Mayor Legault opened his talk by stating his opinion that the present Council term was much too short. "I recommend at least a four-year term, or as a possible solution, the engaging of a town manager or engineer so as to assure a line of continuity from term to term."

While there are happier aspects to the office of mayor, the mayor is the scapegoat of both the Council and the town, as he hears all the trouble on both sides. Lachute was no longer in its infancy. "We used to be youngsters in short pants, but we have outgrown this period and need added revenue and new services".

Mayor Legault felt that the time of the "pick and shovel" was gone. He emphasized this point with the fact that during the summer, local residents were without water for seven hours because the town did not have the proper equipment to dig up and repair the pipes. "At the next meeting — if there are enough members of Council there to hold a meeting — I intend to suggest that this equipment be purchased."

Annexation of surrounding municipalities would do much to provide facilities for new industries, something most citizens feel is long overdue, said Mayor Legault.

Among the accomplishments of the present Council were the settlement of the dump problem;

Hawkesbury — For the second time in 14 years, Hawkesbury has turned thumbs down on alcohol.

Richelieu Club 10th anniversary banquet held

Around 150 persons attended a banquet Saturday evening celebrating the 10th anniversary of the Richelieu Club in Lachute. The function, under chairmanship of President Dr. J. P. Dorion, was held at the Golf Club chalet.

The door prize, a stereophonic set, was won by a former president of the club, Dr. Roger Lavigne. Cash prize winners in the grand drawing were as follows:

$1,000 — Léopold Deslandes, St-Augustin.

Mayor declares November 8-9-10 Poppy Days in Town of Lachute

Mayor F. Legault has issued a proclamation declaring November 8-9-10 as Poppy Days in Lachute. The announcement coincided with a statement by E. W. Evans, chairman of the Lachute Legion's Poppy Campaign, that these dates will be general poppy tag-days. The Mayor urged all citizens to observe these days by wearing memorial poppies in honor of those who gave their lives in Canada's wars. It read:

WHEREAS men of this town gave their lives in defence of Canada and the democratic world;

AND WHEREAS the memory of their service and sacrifice is a source of inspiration to all citizens as our nation faces new difficulties and dangers;

AND WHEREAS their memory is kept ever bright by the annual wearing of memorial poppies in their honor and the honor of all other Canadians who died in war service;

NOW THEREFORE I, F. Legault, Mayor of the Town of Lachute, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 8, 9 and 10, to be Poppy Days in the Town of Lachute, and do urge that all citizens observe these days by wearing the memorial poppy of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Unique Rally of Sports Car Enthusiasts

A sports car rally — which was unique inasmuch as all the participants were registered blind persons, who took the full responsibility for directing their drivers over the rather complicated course form the Rockland Centre to Arundel, after having first received their course directions printed in Braille — took place on Sunday, October 21.

The rally terminated at the Maplewood Inn, where the participants, with accompanying friends, many of whom also were blind, enjoyed a fine meal and friendly get-together.

In addition to the sports car owners who provided the cars and drivers, several other friends arranged transportation for blind persons not actually participating in the rally, but who attended the dinner. The group left in the late afternoon to go directly to the city.

NOBODY WANTS THEM

Members of municipal council had an unpleasant task to do . . . telling a delegation (of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors) bluntly and to their faces they were not wanted in Kent. It's hard to see what else the council could have done. . . . The blunt fact remains, no community or country wants the Freedomites temporarily or permanently.

Ceremony for graduation held at Morin school

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — An informal graduation ceremony for pupils from Grade VII of 1961 who earned promotion to Grade VIII of 1962, was held at the school last Friday. The parents of the graduates, the special guests, the principal and the graduates were addressed, at the pupils' request, by the Rev. Wesley B. Ball, who spoke on the value of education as a storehouse of both old and new knowledge, and the availability of a student to draw upon this storehouse as he makes his way through this world. There were no waste products in this storehouse, and it was the duty of pupils, parents, teachers, and the community to see that the storehouse was always full so that boys and girls could partake of the supplies which they will need badly in the life that lies ahead of them. Above all, the Rev. Mr. Ball pointed out, we must never forget, but continually renew, the teaching of the Greatest Teacher of us all, and draw our inspiration from Him.

After presentation of the certificates by the Rev. Mr. Ball and the principal, Mr. R. Williams, the graduates and parents were served a dinner in the cafeteria.

At this ceremony, prizes were awarded to the pupils of Grades X and XI. First prize in Grade X was won by Paul Hovey, second prize by Alan Winslow and third prize by Thomas Patterson. First prize in Grade XI went to Judy Kirkpatrick, second prize to Barbara Theedom, and third prize to Jacques Leclair.

Following is a list of the graduates: Joan Carruthers, Linda Carruthers, Carolyn Curran, Helen Dobie, Gail Dunkin, Wendy Kneeland, Donna Peterson, Donna Munro, Gerry Baumel, Dean Booth, Hartland Carruthers, David Faubert, Garry Jones, Grant Kilpatrick, Howard Noble, John Skeaff, Brian Torpe, James Carroll and Gordon Medford.

A dance was held for all pupils and friends by the Student Council, to round out the evening.

APPRECIATION

We wish to thank all kind friends and neighbors for their cards, gifts, visits and phone calls, following Bonnie's recent accident. Our special appreciation to John Villeneuve, Mr. and Mrs. A. Taylor, Barbie and Joanne.— Joyce and Elmer Gauley

GeoffreyArnold changes plea in meat shipment certificates

St. Jerome — Geoffrey Arnold, vice-president of Arnold Farms, Ltd., at Grenville, pleaded guilty Monday before Judge Camille de Martigny to 15 charges of forging a veterinarian's signature to certificates covering 560,000 pounds of meat exported to the U.S. as dog food.

He will be sentenced November 12 and until then will remain free on $950 bail. Arnold pleaded guilty to the 15 charges which dated from December, 1959, to the fall of 1961.

Even though the Crown entered a separate charge for each transaction, the offences were really a continuing action by the accused, defence lawyer Fred Kaufman explained to the judge in waiving the reading of the 15 charges.

Pleading for leniency for Mr. Arnold, Kaufman said the forgeries were a matter of expediency rather than necessity.

"The accused got the idea that the veterinary certificates were nothing more than a formality — a formality that delayed shipments," he said.

Mr. Kaufman stressed that Arnold had co-operated fully with the investigating RCMP by turning over all necessary documents and giving complete information regarding shipments to the U.S. Since then his client had co-operated fully with the Federal Department of Agriculture.

The defence lawyer drew the judge's attention to the fact that all shipments of meat to the U.S. were for dog food. "There is a tremendous difference from other cases in Ontario, where meat was sold for human consumption," he said.

(The Ontario meat scandal broke after 14 men linked with two rings were arrested in January for selling tainted meat for human consumption. At least three men were found guilty and fined.)

"The accused has no previous record and the fact that he pleaded guilty is in itself a great punishment," he said. He suggested that Arnold's sentence be limited to a day in jail and a "reasonable fine".

Louis Philippe Landry, of the Department of Justice, emphasized the seriousness of the offence. "Some of these shipments involved included the meat of animals that had died, and I submit that this is probably one of the reasons why Arnold signed the certificates," he said.

The U.S. did not want such meat and for this reason insisted on a certificate from a veterinarian. "The accused's actions," he declared, "damaged commercial relations with the U.S."

He agreed that the case was not as serious as those in Ontario.

Retiring mayor on ideals and satisfactions of office

and the police problem (which "settled itself" in the words of the mayor, who added he felt the force has worked well, and he felt a new formula would be found to keep the Phillips organization engaged in Lachute, despite the recently passed legislation.)

The settlement of the lawsuit with Ayersville over the payment of water bills had been another item concluded; a new valuation roll, with only seven complaints, and which cost only half of the estimate.

"I would like to point out here that, while I am not expressing myself in favor of any mayoralty candidate, the only man to offer his services to date is none other than the man who did such an amazing job as chairman of the valuators," (referring here to Mr. Dave Campbell).

We also revised the business tax, and despite the fact that we did our best, I feel it could again be revised in certain areas. Mayor Legault pointed out that an average was taken from five other municipalities in setting the business tax levies. "The establishment of the two percent sales tax in Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Jerusalem and Ayersville will bring in sufficient revenue to Lachute that I trust the next administration will be able to offer some reduction on the real estate tax. . . A tax hurts the mayor and aldermen as much as everyone, and that is why we attempted to implement a 1% tax. When this failed, the surrounding municipalities were approached to join Lachute in the tax levy, in this way we felt Lachute businessmen would be protected."

Also on the list of accomplishments were the light standards along the North River wall; rebuilding of the Memorial Park bandstand; the purchase of a new snowplow; solution of the parking problem on Main Street; and the changing of the election date from February 1 to November 1, so as to avoid below-zero weather on polling day.

"The main undertaking, however, was the water project, which long before my term of office had been discussed but upon which no decision had been made. The location was not settled, no plans had been drawn up, and no approval had been obtained from Quebec. Council held many meetings as I felt that, unless we moved fast, the project would once again be left a thing of the future. Francis, Hankin, suppliers to Lachute for many, many years, were entrusted with the equipment installation, while the building contract and general construction was awarded to the firms of Pollock - McGibbon Limited and H. J. O'Connell on a joint bid. We have a new system of filtration, in fact it is the first of its kind in the province and the latest thing in filtration plants. Our plant can filter up to three million gallons of water a day, while our present consumption is only 1,200,000 gallons. We have a 17-million-gallon reservoir and a 160-million-gallon reserve in the lake, only three miles from our plant. With all this, our plant cost only $365,000 as compared with $465,000 in Laprairie and $477,500 in Rosemere, for plants of comparable capacity.

During the 21 months of Mayor Legault's term, 55 council meetings were held, each of approximately three hours duration; 265 typewritten pages of minutes record the proceedings.

In spite of the accomplishments, he added, a $15,000 surplus is anticipated.

In closing, Mayor Legault stated that, having acted as legal advisor for the town for so many years, he felt he knew most of the problems — that was, until he was elected mayor. He also had a word of criticism for many of Lachute's citizens who do not try to co-operate with the Council; who do not want to run for public office; and have no desire to give anything of themselves for their town.

"Lachute is a good town, and we have had many sincere men as mayor and aldermen, but they need the help of the citizens. Lachute enjoys a good reputation on the financial market. We have some good, sincere employees; but we need criticism that is positive, not negative. "I am not looking for praise, but after the time we spent on the filtration project, just two citizens have taken the trouble to compliment me for the work achieved. During the summer, when heavy rain caused an unavoidable landslide, I lost count of the number of complaints."

"Council needs more willing people. It is your town, and if it goes in the hole, you the citizens and taxpayers are the ones who will have to fill that hole. In the past, the town was without money, but I feel we are now in a position to attract new industries.

"As for activity in municipal affairs — no one is perfect, but I can honestly say I did my best and did it sincerely."

Cordial thanks of the club were extended by Lion Harold Deacon.

Plaintiff defaults, defamatory libel case postponed

Mayor Gaetan Paquette of Ayersville, who had instituted an action for libel against two councillors, Gaston Plamondon and Raymond Champagne, failed to appear in court at St. Jerome last Friday; the case was consequently postponed until October 26, this Friday.

Mtre. Marchessault, lawyer for the defendants, said this was not the first time the hearing had been set back through non-appearance of the plaintiff. Justice Camille de Martigny, judge at the preliminary hearing, had threatened to dismiss the case on this account.

Counsel for the defendants now asked for dismissal on grounds of legal irregularities and the fact that the charge was entered in the name of the plaintiff instead of the Crown. Justice Omer Côté, presiding, asked Mr. Marchessault and André Pelletier, attorney for Mr. Paquette, to submit their cases in writing.

Recent events at Masonic Hall

On Monday, October 15, Argenteuil Masonic Lodge No. 67 was favored with a visit from District Deputy Grand Master (Ottawa District) Bro. R. E. Edy. He was received by Wor. Bro. The visiting dignitary, representing the Grand Master, commented most favorably on the efficiency of the officers, and also referred to the beauty of the new Masonic Temple.

There were numerous delegations from other lodges, and all enjoyed the evening.

Ladies' Night

The following Saturday was devoted to the ladies, in the form of a dinner followed by musical entertainment with the "Newlanders", a group of five young students attending McGill University, who delighted their audience with old and new melodies. Lowe's Orchestra provided excellent music for the dancing which followed.

"Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew
Some gentle act of love she'd do;
No thought of self, but of the other —
I know He said 'Well done', Mother."

Fashionable ceremony recently in St. Julien Parish

Carriere - Ayers

The marriage of Leda Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Ayers, of Lachute, to Mr. Jean Daniel Carriere, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Carriere, also of Lachute, took place at 11 o'clock October 13 in St. Julien Parish Church, the Rev. Father Martin Lorrain officiating. Mr. Raymond Daveluy played the wedding music, and Miss Therese Guerard and Mr. Yoland Guerard sang during the ceremony. White candles in candelabra banked by standards of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a La Costa model of Chantilly lace appliqued with minute iridescent and gold pearls, having a fitted bodice, fashioned with high neckline, and long sleeves, and a full skirt falling into a long train. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held by a headdress of Chantilly lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Jane Ayers, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Suzanne Ayers, sister of the bride, Miss Evelyne Ayers, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Jacques Ouellet, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Denyse Bourassa, as attendants, were in La Costa models of carmine red velvet fashioned with fitted bodices having long sleeves, and with sheath skirts having overpanels in the front, and falling into trains in the back. They wore pillboxes, and carried white mink puffs.

Master John Ayers, younger brother of the bride, acted as ring-bearer.

Mr. Mozart Carriere acted as best man for his nephew, and the ushers were Mr. Ernest Ayers, brother of the bride, Mr. Philippe Ayers, cousin of the bride, Mr. Jacques Ouellet, and Mr. Andre Cote.

Mrs. Ayers, the bride's mother, was in a sheath gown of pink champagne French silk, fashioned with a fitted bodice having panels falling from the shoulders. She wore a matching toque, and had a spray of cymbidium orchids pinned to her purse.

Mrs. Carriere, mother of the bridegroom, was in an ensemble of bronze wool lame fashioned with a sheath skirt falling into a slight train. She wore a matching feather hat, and a corsage bouquet of bronze orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club, where standards of white chrysanthemums and gladioli and arrangements of white and carmine red carnations were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Carriere left by air for New York, then sailing for South America. The bride travelled in an ensemble of framboise wool jersey with a matching coat, wearing a pillbox hat and an ascot of black mink.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Daniel Carriere, whose marriage took place on Saturday, October 13, in St. Julien Church, Lachute. Mrs. Carriere was formerly Miss Leda Alice Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Ayers, of Lachute, and Mr. Carriere is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Carriere, also of Lachute.

Retired minister recalls Canada's pioneer history

Victoria (CP) — Archdeacon Frank C. Cornish, retired Anglican minister, who celebrates his 100th birthday December 9, says his greatest regret is that he failed to record the incidents of pioneer Canada while he experienced them as an Indian agent and clergyman.

Archdeacon Cornish, who retired here from Edmonton in 1939, recalls the corruption and bitterness that riddled 19th century politics, as well as certain men he admired for standing out against the turbulent background.

One of his greatest heroes was Sir Oliver Mowat, premier of Ontario from 1872 to 1896. Sir Oliver was a man of too much integrity to make something of his one brief fling at federal politics, he says.

Archdeacon Cornish says that when he was an Indian agent in the Northwestern Ontario community of Fort Francis, Sir Oliver visited the settlement and the "rotten element" of his political party attempted to prevent his political opponents from meeting him.

But Sir Oliver thwarted the attempt by accompanying the opposition leader to a public meeting and then administering a severe tongue-lashing to the schemers.

Archdeacon Cornish also admired Chief Crowfoot, who he recalls did so much to keep an uneasy peace between the Blackfeet, as well as related tribes, and white men during the Riel Rebellion. During the rebellion, the archdeacon slept with a rifle by his side.

The Welsh-born archdeacon still assists in services at St. John's Anglican church here. He has been a member of the church, with the exception of a 16-month period, since he arrived from Edmonton.

He spent 12 years as an Indian agent after arriving in Canada from Britain in 1884, moving from his first posting in Regina to his last post at Fort Francis. He took up farming in 1897 and was ordained at Yorkton, Sask., in 1901.

After serving 20 years in the diocese of Qu'Appelle, Sask., he served short terms in Ontario and the diocese of Calgary before accepting a parish in the diocese of Edmonton.

President speaks of Bible Society

The Most Rev. F. O. Coggan, Archbishop of York and president of the United Bible Societies, when addressing the World Council of Churches at New Delhi on the subject of "The Bible and the Churches' Need", said "The challenge comes to us forcefully, to look to our priorities lest we go to our warfare either with weapons totally inadequate for the task, or with weapons so blunted by the passing of the years that they fail to do the job for which they were made."

Among the facts presented by Dr. Coggan was the statement that in all the countries of Asia, from Korea to Iran (excluding China and Japan), there were 133,000,000 children of school age in 1960. Primary schools exist for 67 millions.

Death summons pioneer resident of Arundel

Late John Henry Bates

After a short illness, Mr. John Henry Bates passed away at the Montreal General Hospital on Thursday, October 18.

Mr. Bates, who was in his 90th year, had spent his entire life in and around the vicinity of Arundel. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Annie Bates, around three years ago.

Left to mourn his passing, besides one sister (Lucy) Mrs. Albert Woods, of Lachute, are four daughters, (Alice) Mrs. Samuel Dubeau and (Ida) Mrs. Benjamin Dubeau, of Arundel, (Ellen) Mrs. Jos. Hennessey, of Montreal, and (Dolly) Mrs. Gilbert Beaven, of Pte. au Chene, also several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The funeral took place at Grace Church, Arundel, on Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. Francis K. Bussell officiating. Interment was in the Arundel cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Joe and Douglas Williams, Percy Dubeau, David Dobie, Robert Bates and Clyde Bennett.

The Bible Today

News comes from within the Arctic Circle in Norway that "for the first time Christians from the different denominations co-operated in Bible work, as they took part in the Scripture reading, in the choir and in the preaching".

The Rev. S. Smaadahl, a pastor in Babo, Norway, arranged a Bible Mission at which Bishop Wisloff was the preacher. This plan has spread to other towns in the far north of Norway, all within the Arctic Circle.

"It was a demonstration of the unity of Christian believers in the common task for the spread of Bibles to the mission fields," writes Pastor Smaadahl.

The response of the people was most encouraging both in their attendance and offerings received for Bible distribution.

APPRECIATION

Many thanks to all who visited, called, brought flowers and sent me "get well" cards during my stay in hospital.

Hallowe'en is for children

WHEN YOU spell out its full title, UNICEF makes a formidable mouthful — the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. It is now called, for convenience, the United Nations Children's Fund; but what this organization achieves cannot be condensed into terms as brief as its initials.

Here, as quickly as possible, we enumerate some of its undertakings. . .

UNICEF helps governments plan programs of permanent benefit to children, providing supplies and equipment needed from outside the country, and aiding schemes for training national staff to plan and operate these programs — mainly nutrition projects, health services, disease control, family and child welfare, and certain disaster aid. UNICEF is currently giving aid to over 100 countries in more than 400 projects, giving direct benefit to 57-million children and their mothers.

UNICEF operates no projects of its own. Administration of UNICEF-aided projects is the responsibility of the governments, which provide the money for buildings, staff, and locally available supplies. In practice, governments spend an average of two-and-a-half dollars in local currency for every one dollar spent by UNICEF.

In Canada there is a committee whose purpose is to stimulate interest in this great work, and to provide a channel for citizen participation. One of the main projects promoting these aims is Hallowe'en for UNICEF, sponsored by schools, churches and youth groups who wish to share the fun of their Hallowe'en activities by collecting coins for UNICEF.

Last year the sum of $365,000 was raised throughout Canada, $74,000 of which came from Quebec. . . In Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews, and wherever the plan is organized this year, let's swell the fund with generous contributions!

For rural dog-owners

IN "WILDLIFE REVIEW", issued by the Fish and Game Branch of British Columbia's Department of Recreation and Conservation (received through courtesy of a Watchman reader) we find an article which re-emphasizes the oft-repeated plea from Bob Atchison, our "Argenteuil Outdoorsman". The text is tellingly illustrated, and while we cannot reproduce the photographs, the message is repeated here, for the earnest attention of rural dog-owners. . .

Domestic Dogs that chase wildlife is one of the most serious problems known to the Fish and Game Branch. Although coyotes, cougars, bears, wolves and other predators are continually blamed for large-scale losses of deer and other animals, Conservation Officers throughout British Columbia state that domestic dogs cause them more trouble than all the wild animals combined.

Dogs that chase deer are the worst problem. Dog-owners are offended when it is suggested that their pets sometimes revert to the ways of the wild.

Dogs which are ordinarily docile often operate in packs and run down deer in woods and on the winter ice of lakes. At other times dogs chase deer into the water, then harry them from shore until they drown. Such dogs are responsible for an enormous annual toll of wild creatures.

Dog owners must face up to their responsibilities much more than they do at present. They should know that, in deer country, one maverick dog can lead many others on regular deer chases. They should be aware of the latent savagery in every domestic animal and should curb, confine or destroy dogs which they suspect may be guilty of chasing wild animals.

Out of this world

THE PLANETS, once among the deepest mysteries, may become space airports and vacationlands for earth dwellers. No longer is such a suggestion dismissed as fantastic. Even the man in the street tends to shrug off recent space explorations as just further steps towards a landing on the moon.

In February of 1961, when Yuri Gagarin orbited the earth and returned unharmed, men realized the space age had arrived at last. Immediately expectations for landing men on the moon and even Mars and Venus were aimed at in 1975.

One year later, when American astronaut John Glenn orbited the earth three times, the number of years for reaching the moon was reduced by five, the target date being set at 1970.

One New Yorker went so far as to suggest that since man is going to colonize the planets, women as well as men should be prepared for the trip. Why not women astronauts too?

From the reports of the experienced space travellers, it is hard to imagine any woman rejecting the suggestion. Just imagine the leisure and fun, floating in a space suit, having to operate a few manual controls at the most. And rather than meeting Mabel in a noisy and crowded downtown restaurant, imagine an exciting rendezvous in orbit.

The view is fantastic, the astronauts say. The stars are far brighter than when seen from the earth, storms build up and move over the earth in a mighty drama, and the whole east coast of North America can be seen at a glance.

The moon sounds like a sightseer's paradise — its surface has about 30,000 craters anywhere from one to 18 miles in diameter, many walled plains with diameters ranging from 60 to 150 miles, and 14 large, smooth dark areas called seas (although apparently there is no water on the moon).

Mars, the scientists say, should be particularly intriguing judging from its peculiar surface markings resembling canals and some sort of vegetation.

It's almost time for another shocker like the Russian Sputnik I which astounded the world and ushered in the space age in October of 1957. And the next logical step is a real man on the moon. So be prepared!

The financial facts of life

THE CHAIRMAN of the British Overseas Airways Corporation, Sir Matthew Slattery, having lost $40 million of taxpayers' money in the year ended last March 31 "through no fault of his own of course", is indignant that the corporation is obligated to pay interest on the losses (says a crisp comment in the Fort Erie Letter-Review); the Canadian taxpayer knows all about that because Canadian National Railways losses are in one way or another a permanent part of the debt of the Government of Canada.

A private corporation losing $40 million might go through the bankruptcy court, and the investors in the corporation lose their money, but a publicly-owned corporation always tries to get away from the financial facts of life.

Viewpoints and perspectives

TIME AFTER TIME we read accounts of young people damaging and defacing public property. . . . Despite individual successes to which the social workers point with pride, we take a jaundiced view of the attitude that anything less than severe punishment is the best way to deal with the culprits.

YOUNG SMOKERS — Smoking among school children is far too prevalent, considering the hazard to health. Kingston board of education is planning a program of education, and the Cancer Society and doctors will assist in the drive, which might well be copied in all schools. REMOVE METERS

Innisfail, Alta. (CP) — Council of this central Alberta town voted to remove parking meters from the business section. An alderman said he was completely "browned off" at the continual argument over them.

People are growing bigger

Today's youngsters are not only growing taller, they are growing up faster, says a leading physical anthropologist.

On the basis of records of thousands of children, Dr. Wilton M. Krogman says the average normal, healthy boy of today will end up an inch or more taller than his father, and the average girl will outgrow her mother by one or two inches. And they will mature sexually earlier than their parents.

In an article in Reader's Digest, Dr. Krogman says nature sets the limits on human growth, and no medicine or drug can spur growth beyond them. Youngsters of today end up about an inch taller than they did in 1900. Better environment has contributed to the speed-up.

Just why children grow as they do, Dr. Krogman candidly admits he doesn't know. Each of us has genes for height and shortness. If our mother is short and our father is tall, it is usually the genes of the taller one which predominate, but the results really can't be predicted with certainty.

Just how tall will the average men eventually grow? Evolution has taught that all species have size boundaries. There is no question that man's curve of tallness is increasing. But Dr. Krogman's belief is that his boundary is six feet and that gives him about two more inches to go.

ADVERTISING NEEDS REFORM

Advertising is an important part of a free country, for it is based on persuasion instead of compulsion; but the advertising profession for the past twenty years or so, has been slipping badly and has brought a valuable social tool into disrepute.

Intelligent persons, viewing and listening to television advertising these days, are often hard put to avoid regurgitation. Viewers are assaulted by such sham and exaggeration and nonsense they become sick to death and utterly disgusted with advertising. Fortunately, many leading advertising men are aware of the need for reform.

Recently, a copy supervisor in one of the larger advertising agencies, protested the depths to which advertising had sunk, and he urged his fellow copy writers to start treating the housewife with more respect instead of "telling her that she has tired blood, denture breath, lower-back pains, clogging sinuses, rough red hands, dull hair, large pores, dry skin and an itchy scalp."

The same copy man went on to say, "I truly believe people have taste and dignity, are full of common sense, know good from bad, value from sham and fake, and honest talk from double talk.

I agree with him, two hundred percent!

I believe in advertising, because I have seen it increase the use of good products, lead to further improvements, and eventually lower prices. I know it works. A merchant who fails to advertise often fails; or at best, merely continues on a small scale without expansion. But advertising that is larded with half-truths, while it may work for a while, does a great deal of harm to the advertiser who sticks to the truth. When wolf is cried so often, even the truth is doubted.

Leaders in the advertising agencies who are trying to raise advertising standards deserve every support. In my opinion, the best support the consumer can give is to simply refuse to buy any product which is adverused by methods that insult the intelligence. Instead, patronize the advertiser who appeals to your good taste, respects your dignity, and avoids double talk. This would soon put the hard-sell hacks out of business!

YOUR WEEKLY NEWSPAPER —

Must please readers, advertisers

A newspaper has two customers to please — the subscriber and the advertiser. Of these two, the subscriber is the most important.

This is true even though the advertiser provides most of the revenue of any paper. But the advertiser buys space for one reason: to get his message read by a large number of people. Therefore he is vitally interested in the circulation a paper has, the more advertising it can sell and the higher the rate it can command.

Over the years, therefore, the paper must cover the activities which interest its readers. Otherwise circulation will drop off and advertising revenues will shrink in consequence.

It is because of reader interest that such a large proportion of weekly newspaper space is devoted to District and personal news. Often this may seem of the "Mrs. Smith went down the road to visit Mrs. Brown" variety, but the little item has definite reader appeal to the Smith and Brown families, relatives and all their friends. In The Lachute Watchman we have had many examples of the great interest taken in personal and District news.

Reader interest builds circulation and upon that circulation a newspaper's revenue depends. Therefore to the publisher of any paper the subscriber is the most important person.

Don't be fooled

During the course of Mr. Lesage's speech at the famous $50 a plate dinner on Sunday, September 30, he made the following remarks: In the State of Quebec we don't want Europeans, those from the Continent, or even the Americans who come to our State to take advantage of our French-Canadian people. Further on in his speech he said, when we take over all the Power Companies we will have to negotiate loans on the European and American investment markets to pay for them. (See the Montreal Star, La Presse and Gazette of October 1.)

Will this attitude help Quebec get the World's Fair? And will it help our hundred and fifty million dollar a year tourist industry? Seventeen European and American newspapers have already published this speech of Mr. Lesage. All countries of the world depend upon foreign investment.

When Mr. Levesque's turn came to speak, he said, we will have to get all the Power Companies or there will be an explosion.

Mr. Lesage accuses Mr. Johnson of getting his campaign funds from the large corporations. Where does Mr. Lesage get his? Ask any stockholder of the former Montreal Light Heat & Power Company; he will tell you that he lost more than fifty percent of his investment and he had to go through the courts and wait close on to four years.

If Levesque-Lesage are elected, many large firms are going to move their plants to Toronto and many of the world's large investors will not take a chance putting their money into a socialistic state. Don't be fooled by Levesque - Lesage, they were forced to have an election due to the fact they had the Province on the verge of bankruptcy, and all in two years. If Levesque - Lesage borrow the money in the United States and Europe to pay for these power companies, then Quebecers will have no further say in these important companies but will have to pay the high taxes. This is a serious matter.

Don't be fooled.

OUST OBSCENITY

One of the few sensible things done in Newfoundland in recent years where we usually only read about the stupid antics and brayings of Joey Smallwood, was the stand taken in Corner Brook to rid the city of obscene literature. We would like to see similar action taken here too, where some of the most tawdry books imaginable are on display at numerous outlets.

Brownsburg - Louisa couple married at St. Aidan's

Dixon-Smith — Boyd

The marriage of Elaine Margaret Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Boyd, of Louisa, to Mr. Fredrick James Dixon-Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dixon-Smith, of Brownsburg, took place Saturday, October 13, at 3.30 p.m. in St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Louisa, the Rev. Canon C. W. P. Baugh officiating. Mrs. Baugh played the wedding music. The church was tastefully decorated with gladioli and mums.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of brocaded organza having a fitted bodice with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves with points over the hands, and a bell-shaped skirt. The shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle was held by a tiara of simulated pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white baby mums.

The bride was attended by her two cousins, Miss Eunice Boyd as bridesmaid and Miss Donna Boyd as junior bridesmaid. They were in green and yellow street-length dresses of rayon chiffon with full skirts and short sleeves. They wore matching rayon-nylon net over petal-shaped bandeau hats, and carried nosegays of bronze mums.

Mr. Stanley Brown acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Gordon Brown and Mr. Keith Boyd, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Boyd, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white tea rose buds. Mrs. Dixon-Smith, mother of the groom, wore a pale blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white tea rose buds.

A wedding supper was served in the church hall, where arrangements of gladioli, mums and white candles were used as decorations.

Following the supper Mr. and Mrs. Dixon-Smith left for their wedding trip to the Laurentians and points in Ontario. The bride travelled in a brocaded champagne beige sheath dress and jacket, with brown and white accessories.

The couple will reside in Brownsburg.

The meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held at the home of Mrs. Archie Graham on Wednesday, was of particular interest because of reports on the New York W.C.T.U. The Decoste family, who have made their home for some years in Grece's Point, are now living in Cushing, having taken up residence in the former Longmore cottage. This they purchased presumably from Hydro Quebec, and had it moved in the early spring to a new site on the Ostrem Road, a short distance from the Front Road. Dress up for October 31st!

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Dressing up" is lots of fun for youngsters. Big and little, they love to pretend they are someone else. Hallowe'en provides the Big Occasion of the year for masquerade costumes. The time spent getting ready to sally forth almost equals the excitement of the night itself!

Busy mothers may not be nearly so enthusiastic about these activities. But it is a pity not to set aside other jobs, and enjoy Hallowe'en with the boys and girls. The years pass so swiftly, and before very long there will be no small daughter in your home hunting for a broom for a witch, or a little boy looking for a pillow for a clown's tummy, or a blackened cork to paint his face.

A costume box or an old trunk where odds and ends are kept, which might come in handy for dressing up, is a great time saver. Scarves, gloves, shoes, artificial flowers, ribbons, feathers, which might otherwise be thrown out at housecleaning time, may well be collected in one place where they can be found quickly.

A costume box is a real Treasure for rainy Saturday afternoons when the children want to put on their own pantomime or play. It saves time and energy searching through the house for articles for them to wear. Dressing up is such fun it shouldn't be confined to October 31st!

Older age school boys and girls may want material of a special shade, as bright red for a gypsy costume. Why not look out for an old dress, rip it apart and let your boy or girl experiment with dyeing? The directions are on the package and dyeing is very simple and the cost is small. Knowing how to dye material is a useful bit of knowledge. Old shoes painted with enamel paint make a smart addition to a costume and this is a job which a boy or girl will enjoy too.

If your daughter wants to design and sew her own costume encourage her to go ahead. The results may not be quite as artistic as you could have achieved, but it will be her own production. If she is keen about following a "store pattern", here too is a way in which she can add to her skill.

A coating of cold cream before rouge or blackening is applied to the skin helps speed up its removal. Some parents will not allow their youngsters to color their faces. But Hallowe'en just comes once a year and the clean-up job doesn't need to be too trying.

Masks of all kinds and descriptions are sold at Hallowe'en time. The new popular over-all rubber masks which are pulled over the head are quite popular. Older boys or girls who have enjoyed a papier maché handcraft project may want to mould their own papier maché handicraft project time and patience, but the original product is often worth while. Newspaper and flour-and-water paste can quickly be assembled in any home and the pulp from these can be pressed into many grotesque shapes. When the moisture has thoroughly dried these masks can be painted bright colors.

Little folk will enjoy making a face on a large, clean paper bag which they can pull on too. Mother must help locate the places for the eyes, nose and mouth. (Be sure blunt scissors are used whenever small children are cutting out!) Make the holes plenty large enough to allow for lots of fresh air. Crayons and water colors are essential play material for pre-school children. Paper masks give them lots of scope to color hair, complexion, eyes and mouth whatever shades they like.

As parents watch their children getting ready for Hallowe'en, they are reminded of the satisfaction in making things with one's own hands as well as the importance of imagination. Far too soon most people lose the urge to "make believe." Amateur dramatics have a comparatively small following. The good times children help to create for themselves have far more character values than passive "spectator" recreation. So here's to Hallowe'en preparations!

BROWN SUGAR RAISIN CAKE

A treat for tricksters

Over 2,000 years ago a pagan festival called Samhain was celebrated on the last night of October. Since then, this festival has been Christianized as All Hallows' Eve or Hallowe'en; but it still contains elements of the ancient Druid rites.

The Druids believed that every Hallowe'en Saman, God of the Dead, called together all the wicked souls that had been condemned during the previous 12 months to inhabit the bodies of animals. Youngsters, wearing masks and sheets while they make the rounds of their neighbours, little dream that their costumes symbolize the pre-Christian Samhain spirits. And since Saman was Lord of the Dead, it was only natural that people also believed ghosts and witches walked abroad this "sacred" night. Even the custom of "trick or treat" stems from the practice of putting out food to protect one's home and placate evil spirits.

Fortunately, through the years, fear has given way to festivities on Hallowe'en. Youngsters, who love a party at any time, get a special bang from one on this particular night. The big delight is being able to dress up and complete the masquarade with a horrific, made-up face. And the games such as dunking for apples, are always lots of fun.

Brown-Sugar Raisin Cake

(Yield — one 8-inch square cake)

1 Cup raisins, ½ cup water, 1-¼ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, or 1-¾ cups once-sifted pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ½ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 2 eggs, ¼ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine rasins and water in a small sauce pan and bring to boil; cool. Grease an 8-inch square cake pan and line in the bottom with greased waxed paper. Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate).

Sift together the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream butter or margarine; gradually blend in brown sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating in well after each addition. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with raisins and raisin water, then with milk — combine lightly after each addition. Stir in vanilla. Turn batter into prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in preheated oven 40 to 45 minutes. Stand cake in its pan on wire rack for 10 minutes, then turn out onto rack and peel off paper. Allow cake to cool completely. Spread cold cake with the following Vanilla Butter-type Icing and sprinkle with chopped nutmeats, if desired.

Vanilla Butter-Type Icing

¼ Cup butter or margarine, few grains of salt, 2 cups sifted icing sugar, 2 tablespoons (about) hot cream, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter or margarine until soft. Work salt, then icing sugar into butter or margarine, alternately with hot cream — use just sufficient cream to make an icing of spreading consistency. Beat in vanilla.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

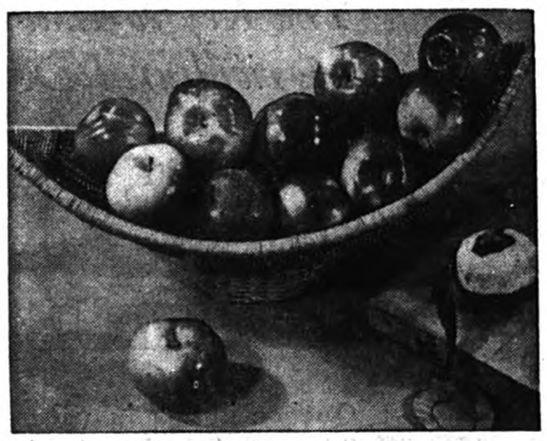

When gentlemen started chauffeuring their dates on busy highways, chivalry became a two-way street.

Right through the horse-and-buggy era, chivalry was a one-way proposition. Knights considered it a privilege to gouge each other in tournament for the lady fair. Sir Walter Raleigh was applauded for muddying his best cloak for his Queen. And a swain in the handle-bar moustache era had to think twice about dating a lady he couldn't lift bodily into his buggy.

Today, a lady's date won't even light her cigarette while he's driving; and he's absolutely right! Because safety is the first rule of etiquette for the driver. Attention to the comfort of his lady passenger comes next.

A lady, however, has the right to expect her driver escort to walk around the car in order to open the door for her. And she should take it for granted that the heater and windows will be adjusted for her comfort. That the car will be clean, and that the windshield wiper on her side will work so she too can enjoy the view — even if it rains. And that the speed at which they travel should be geared to her peace of mind.

On the other hand, conversation during the drive becomes primarily the lady's social obligation. Upon her rests the burden of entertaining without distracting him. And keeping quiet when he's obviously wrestling with some immediate traffic problem.

New 'fur-bearing' fabric, man-made for ladies' coatings

Fur-like fabrics, whose origins are closer to the automotive industry than a breeding ranch, are now capable both of imitating nature's product with surprising realism, and of exploring entirely new concepts in milady's coatings.

In the 10 years since an enterprising automotive mechanic helped produce the first entirely man-made fur coat, deep pile fleeces have become firmly established as a segment of winter outerwear. It was in 1952 that George W. Borg, the inventor of the automobile clutch, encountered such "fur-bearing" textile fibres as nylon and acrylic fibre. He immediately started experimenting with them at his textile mill in Wisconsin, where he produced woollen polishing cloths.

The latest of these test-tube furs is a close approximation of Alaskan Seal in both appearance and touch. Its pile is the most dense of all the man-made furs and therefore highly resistant to crushing. The unusually fine fibres are sheared short like plucked Alaska sealskin. Like pelts from the Aleutian Islands, they are subjected to a "fur ironing and polishing." The former is a hair raising process rather than a smoothing one. "Fur polishing" involves rubbing the ends of the furry pile between two cylinders which rotate at high speed in opposite directions. This gives the pile its soft lustre.

Finally, fur workers cut and sew the fur-pile fabrics. Incoming silhouettes in natural furs are usually followed, since these pile fleeces have more in common with pelts than fabrics. Like animal furs, this season's designs lean more toward the dressy than in previous years.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Furs were the talking point in Canadian fashion with couture showings in Toronto early in October.

Two of the showings featured casual styles for daytime and more intricacy and elegance of cut and line for evening, with, of course, the ever-popular classic designs for anytime.

Trends were to more back fullness from either the shoulders or the yoke and to the traditional set-in sleeve.

Sheared beaver in many shades was a favorite in the Schiaparelli showing and the coat receiving most applause was in white sheared beaver, softly yoked, with wide elbow-length sleeves and a collar of Canadian mink.

In Creed's collection, the most casual had flapped patch pockets and a number of sporty back belts. Russian broadtail was popular for most after-dark designs, although several fluffy foxes, in tones ranging from white to beige, were shown.

Shoe Styles

Although we often hear that North American women follow the fashions as dictated from Rome and Paris, this is not true in the case of shoes, according to Edward Rayne, shoemaker to the Queen.

In Toronto recently, Mr. Rayne said that if a shoe is in style in France, it's "in, in spades," which means that there is only one shoe silhouette, one heel height and rarely more than two or three colors for fashion-conscious women to choose from.

The opposite stand is taken by the Italians, he said. They ignore fashion dictates to make pretty shoes in all imaginable styles.

The approach taken by North American women is quite different from both. They want the "in" look but they are constantly searching for variations on the fashionable theme. As a result, the less a shoe conforms, the greater acceptance it will find.

Business Women

Career women from coast to coast have been observing business women's week, October 14-20, the theme of which is "more power with womanpower."

Elsie Gregory MacGill, president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said that in choosing this theme, the intention was "to underline the importance of women's work in boosting the economy and building Canada."

There are more than 850,000 women in industry, the professions, business and public life today whose work is essential to the economy, Miss MacGill said.

Spice Gently

The art of spicing food comes only after constant use and experimentation, say home economists at the Macdonald Institute in Guelph, Ont. Spices should enhance, not dominate the flavor.

Marjoram can be used in poultry stuffing and creamed chicken, while oregano is excellent in pork, meat loaf, broccoli and spaghetti sauce. Rosemary enhances the flavor of pea soup and scrambled eggs, and saffron adds spice to chicken and turkey soups and fish sauces.

NEWSPAPERS ARRIVE DAY LATE BY TRAIN

Francoeur, Que. (CP — It takes a whole day for Quebec City newspapers to reach this village although it's only 20 miles away from the provincial capital.

Municipal council is annoyed at this and recently passed a motion asking the post office department to deliver newspapers by truck if it doesn't have the power to regulate train schedules.

Municipal authorities blame late newspaper deliveries on the late departure of the CNR's Maritime Express which carries the mail, as well as on the 6 p.m. closing of their local post office.

The Great Horse Sale

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

Horses here, and horses there,
Horses tied up everywhere,
Ponies here and ponies yon,
Ponies fit to ride upon.
The uncrowned King of a vast domain
In agriculture, he does reign.
From far and near, all know his name,
If you travel along route number eight,
You're sure to pass right by his gate.

A great horse sale was held at Doug Simon's barns recently. A total of 228 horses were sold at this sale; over 100 were mares in foal, in great demand for hormone production purposes.

Consignors came with ponies from Barrie, Ont. A man came with seven saddle horses from Georgetown, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield came with 19 mares in foal, from Norwood, Ont. Top price, for a mare in foal, was $265.

Buyers came from Abitibi, Mont Laurier and Quebec City.

From Ontario came a former rancher from Alberta, in western attire. . . He gave a demonstration of horsemanship such as has been seldom seen in these parts. As lean as a whip, and as supple as a cat, he flipped a leg over the saddle on a splendid beast, as quick as a flash.

With the ability of a man who had spent many years on a horse's back herding cattle on the range, he put that animal through its paces, pirouetting around the ring on a dime.

The faces of the many expert horsemen around the auction ring sparkled with admiration, when the cowboy dismounted. That horse sold for $435, the top price at the sale.

Not the least of the horsemen present was our old friend Douglas Simon, himself, who has known and handled horses all his life.

I once saw a horse-dealer trying to load a horse onto a truck, at the sale. Standing at the back of the vehicle with a rope in his hands that was attached to the horse's neck — with the help of several men pushing the horse from behind, he was striving with might and main to get the animal up the ramp onto the truck. Each time they tried, the horse would jump over the side of the loading ramp or tail-gate.

Sweat was pouring from the strong man's brow, his face was the color of a rose in full bloom. Finally, exhausted and exasperated, he handed the rope to Doug.

Doug stroked the horse's nose, spoke soothing words to it; he seemed to be able to communicate with the horse's spirit. A telepathic message went from man to beast. Suddenly, the frantic fear left the animal and it marched docilely up the loading ramp, behind the local maestro of auctioneering.

EASY MULE, FOUR MONTHS OLD:

A long-eared little baby mule
Like a little child, first day in school,
Stood lonely in the crowd;
But still it wasn't cowed,
And its mouth began to drool.
It started to bray
(Some thought for hay)
To bray and bray out loud.
Newly weaned from its mother
The mule began to blubber,
"Woe's someone give me something to eat,
Give a tiny mule a treat?"
The auctioneer, with look severe,
Said, "Drat that mule, I cannot hear."
Someone said, "Give the mule an apple —
Apples are a delicacy
That mules do not disdain,
He found it very tasty,
And never did complain.
He chewed it up quite greedily,
It disappeared quite speedily,
And soon went down the drain.
That baby mule, he was no fool,
He brayed and brayed for more;
He ate the apple, stem and core,
And called, Encore! Encore!
He ate the apple, core and stem,
And asked for more of them.
He needed no instruction,
He didn't need a school,
No science or deduction,
That little, lonely mule.
Apple followed apple,
Down the open hatch,
Till not another apple
The mule he could dispatch.
And now at last, his hunger spent,
Stomach full and quite content,
He ceased to bray his sad lament.

With a swollen belly
Full of apple jelly,
They stood him in the ring,
To see what price he'd bring.
Fifty bucks was the price he brought —
Not too bad, for a tiny tot.

Crows are among man's oldest enemies mainly because they compete for man's food, notes The Reader's Digest. The crow will eat anything — in almost any amount. Million dollars a fancy price for athlete

SPORTS CAMERA
By Jim Bastable
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A lot of fancy price tags have been tacked on athletes over the years. But when the figure for one of them reaches $1,000,000, things seem a bit wacky.

The annals of sport have never recorded the sale of an athlete for a million bucks, even in these days when mazuma for some folks comes in truckloads. So, it was surprising when Chicago Black Hawks, bolstered by Jim Norris' handsome bankroll, said they were willing to pay $1,000,000 for the National Hockey League services of Frank Mahovlich, a left winger with Toronto Maple Leafs.

The offer came at a gay night party in a downtown Toronto hotel. And if it had gone no further, the whole thing could have been written off as a wild gesture made during a moment of celebration. Or else it was a publicity gag.

Staff Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens Limited, figured it for publicity, but then told Norris if he was serious to make the same offer the next day at Smythe's office.

Cheque Refused

Norris wasn't spoofing. At least, he indicated he wasn't. The next day he sent his lieutenants to the Leaf office with a cheque for $1,000,000. The Leafs didn't go for it and refused to accept the cheque.

The buzzing died down and appeared dead — for a couple of days. Then it was reported the Leafs would go for the deal. It all ended with the Leafs announcing they would keep their star forward.

"It was in the best interest of the fans, the team and ourselves that we turned down this fantastic offer," said Smythe. "So, the matter is now ended."

Norris, who claimed the Leafs had agreed to the deal by shaking hands on it in the hotel-room party, commented: "Evidently they value Mahovlich as highly as we do."

Mahovlich, 24-year-old native of Timmins, Ont., didn't do badly, either. He had been having trouble reaching agreement with the Leafs on a new contract but signed during the million-dollar fuss —for a reported $160,000 over four seasons.

The six-foot-one 194-pounder is in his sixth NHL season and is tabbed a future great. The big fellow scored 33 goals last season and 48 the year before.

Loyal Fans

There was all kinds of reaction to the proposed deal. Some hockey observers panned it as bad for the sport. Others were aghast at anybody offering $1,000,000 for a player. Female members of the Mahovlich fan club picketed Maple Leaf Gardens, urging the Leaf brass to keep burly Frank on the payroll.

It was the third $1,000,000 offer for a North American athlete. Two baseball players, outfielder Willie Mays and pitcher Herb Score, were the object of similar offers but both bids were turned down. Milan's International Soccer Club was reported to have offered $1,000,000 recently for Brazil's famous star, Edson (Pele) Nascimento. The deal was turned down.

The only million-dollar sports sale on record is the $1,251,000 paid for the race horse Nashua, sold in 1955 to a Kentucky syndicate.

When the Mahovlich story had finally simmered down, you could not help but label the affair a lot of hokum. If Norris was out for publicity, he sure got it. And it didn't cost him a cent.

Today's car inspection, is tomorrow's protection.

Wood Harvest of the Future

This young forest (left) will not be ready for the harvest until after the year 2000 A.D. Yet because it represents Canada's woodland wealth of tomorrow, the speed and manner of its development are important to all Canadians. Today through such methods as soil analysis (right), foresters are learning more than ever before about tree growth, and their studies are constantly bearing fruit.

To remind Canadians of their dependence on these woodlands, and of the efforts made to manage them effectively, National Forest Products Week is currently being held. From the forest comes, for example, the raw material of the pulp and paper industry, Canada's leading producer, wage payer, and exporter.

FORECAST

There is a crude rule of thumb you can use to forecast your child's height at the age of 18 or 19, says Reader's Digest. Simply take the child's measurement at the age of two and double it. You will be within an inch or so of its final height.

Study insecticides for livestock

Because there is no all-purpose insecticide for livestock and some chemicals are not suitable for use on meat or milk animals, great care must be taken in treating cattle against insects.

Dr. W. O. Haufe, of Lethbridge, advises stockmen to pay careful attention to the labels on containers before purchase and use.

The Canada Department of Agriculture researcher points out that some effective chemical controls are restricted because of residues in meat or milk or because they are injurious to the animals.

DDT is usually less toxic than the organophosphate chemicals, such as Col-Ral, for skin applications on healthy beef animals but it and related compounds accumulate in fatty tissues and persist longer. Hence a longer waiting period is required between application and slaughter.

Col-Ral and Ruelene are the most effective insecticides against cattle grubs and lice, requiring only one treatment. The mild toxity they cause slows down the rate of gain but the animals recover in a few weeks and there is usually no net loss in feed lot operations.

The toxicity is more important when these organophosphates are used frequently, as for horn fly control during the summer. The slow-down in gains is so marked that extra feed is required if good fall pasture is not available.

It was found at the Lethbridge research station that yearlings not treated with insecticide gained six pounds more per hundred pounds of body weight in July and August than those treated with Col-Ral at three-week intervals during these months. For summer treatment, DDT is the most economical unless the animals are to be slaughtered within 90 days of treatment.

The Key to Industrial and Agricultural Development is Electricity

QUEBEC MUST GO AHEAD

Quebec is rich in natural resources. The province lags behind her prosperous neighbour in industry and agriculture. Sound education and agricultural policies — many already initiated by the Liberal Government — are one remedy.

The key, however, is electricity. Half measures can no longer do the job. A single publicly owned electrical system is the answer. Publicly owned electrical systems are working to the advantage of the farmers and industrial workers in other provinces.

WHAT DOES THE LARGEST NEWSPAPER IN PROSPEROUS ONTARIO HAVE TO SAY ABOUT PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF ELECTRICITY?

"The arguments used by Mr. Lesage today are the same ones which led to the creation of Ontario Hydro half a century ago: that a publicly-owned utility can produce cheaper power and can bring electricity into remote and sparsely-settled areas which private firms are reluctant to serve for economic reasons. Those arguments appear to be as valid in Quebec today as they were in Ontario in 1906."

(The "TORONTO DAILY STAR", editorial, Thursday, September 20th, 1962)

"By its very nature, hydro is a monopoly; it is also a public necessity. These two features alone provide strong justification for placing it within the public sector of the economy. In our economy, there are some jobs which private enterprise can do better and others in which the public interest is better served by public ownership. As most provinces in Canada already have found, the field of electric power is one in which public ownership is more desirable."

WHAT PUBLIC OWNERSHIP WILL MEAN—

- Higher farm income through lower power rates
- More jobs through greater industrialization throughout the province
- A prosperous future for all quebecers

WHAT A LIBERAL GOVERNMENT WILL MEAN—
A Progressive QUEBEC • HONEST Administration

VOTE LIBERAL AND QUEBEC WILL GO AHEAD

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Ever go after woodcock? One of our better known sportsmen gave this a whirl last week, and from all information it must have been some show. Only one of these birds was raised, but it was what happened that makes the story. To begin with, the bird went up so fast the first time, that not a shot was fired. Watching where it landed, it was raised again, with the same results — only this time, it was so fast the Mighty White Hunter almost dropped his gun. . . . The third time went something like this: Stalking over to where he thought it had dropped down, the hunter was ready this time for a fast shot. But these birds are not so dumb, and on this occasion it rose behind him. No roast woodcock this time!

There was murder in his heart. Once again the stalk and the miss. The shotgun was being gripped so hard it has a permanent grip-mark in the barrel. However, to ease the situation a partridge got in the way, and was despatched. But still in the sportsman's mind was roast woodcock. You know how these things go; after missing a couple of times you forget everything else. Twice more the bird was raised and shots fanned the air — until our friend, who had figured on one lone shot for this lone bird, was now replenishing his ammunition.

I think I know just how he felt; it has happened to me often with this species of bird.

It is going to be very interesting to see the official figures on the moose kill this past season. Only in a few cases have I heard of unsatisfactory hunting. Of course, the legal kill is not the true figure by any means, but it does give some idea of just what has been done to deplete the moose population. It will be safe to say the haul will be doubled, taking everything into consideration. The poaching of moose must be big business; if it is anything like the deer, then this animal is doomed in the province.

Rabbits are not too plentiful, but I hope they will show up much better later on. They are extremely hard to spot among the leaves still remaining. The same applies to partridge, they are well fed but still not enough of them around to satisfy the upland shooter. Feeding conditions have been excellent for the past couple of years, but they are not as numerous as one might expect. A few Hungarians are in evidence, but nothing worth while. This is just a thought, but what about a pay-as-you shoot plan on this type of bird? The average working man cannot afford to pay for the King pheasant, but maybe something could be worked out for a cheaper type of shoot with these birds. I don't know just what an operation like this would involve, never having been in a pay-as-you-shoot deal; it may be far too expensive to get going. It would all take time, so that nothing could be expected for a couple of years anyway; but it's worth a thought.

On a jaunt into the bush, anyone who uses his eyes can learn a few things. For instance, right around this town we have beavers — not right now perhaps, but they certainly have been there, and not too long ago. I hope to visit this spot again, and I may be lucky enough to spot the animal. Chipped trees, along with a few actually felled, points to more than one of them at work.

We found an owl that had been shot just recently. Perhaps it had been mistaken for some savage man-eating eagle. Even a few squirrels had been shot and left. . . I don't suppose it will ever change; give a man a gun and he has to kill everything in sight.

A few tips for the hunter going after deer. . .

Walk as quietly as possible. . . Move slowly, stop frequently and use your ears, and eyes. . . Try and hunt up-wind. . . Try and "sink into" the area in which you are hunting, even if this means wearing branches of spruce, cedar, etc. . .

Finally, don't get excited on seeing your game. Remember, the animal itself does not know where you are either. So take your time.

Make sure of your target. No animal even remotely resembles a human in this country, so look over your quarry well.

A few more birds can be seen around. Juncoes and chicadees are making a splash of color. Jays are now squawking all over the place; they sound good. There are a few Shrikes too; none of the Northerns, which will not turn up until colder weather arrives. Woodpeckers can be seen, but little attention is paid to these birds, probably because they are with us all the time.

There are still campers on the wing, and this hardy breed I envy. True, the weather is cool, but it warms up during the day. No flies, no dust, dry underfoot — fall and winter camping can be a great experience. And there is no essential change in equipment, for early and late fall camping. More clothing and a good sleeping bag, are musts. Also, you have to take more precautions in anchoring your tent. You will need more substantial food too — and one thing is certain, you will enjoy it more. A good stew over an open fire, washed down with real hot tea, is an excellent way to get fat. I hope more sports will try this. Any help I can give you on winter camping, please let me know.

I haven't been out fishing, but have hopes for the coming weekend. It's much safer on the water than in the bush. I mentioned a couple of weeks ago, the fish rising early in the morning while the mist was on the water. We saw this same thing happening last week. It seems strange that this should stop just when the mist clears from the water. I still wonder — maybe someone can tell me the reason.

* * *

We had visitors this past week who used to call at Main Duck Island often. Their impression from the island this past summer paints a black picture. Nothing has been done with the Island since we left. Deer and pheasants are non-existent. Very few ducks could be seen, and all the breeding boxes had been destroyed. I would presume poachers have had a great time in the past couple of years. Shooting blinds were in plain view, and the winds and weather had played havoc with the buildings. A great shame, believe me. Strange how good intentions can be forgotten so soon. Remember all the talk of changing the name of Main Duck to "Dulles Island"?

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

The regular monthly meeting of Argenteuil Branch 70 was held in the Memorial Hall last Wednesday, with Cde. (2nd Vice President) E. W. Evans in the chair.

Two applications for membership were approved, namely, A. Elliott and O. Rheaume. They will be initiated at the November meeting.

Due to the fact that the nominating committee failed to submit a tentative slate of officers for the coming year, the election of officers has been set back one month.

Much discussion took place regarding Legion sports activities, especially hockey. With verbal promises of material and financial support from various sections of the membership, it was agreed to sponsor and maintain the same number of teams as last year, providing enough coaches and assistants are available.

Cde. Evans covered the approaching Poppy campaign. November 8-9-10 are designated as official Poppy Days. It goes without saying that much help from the membership will be needed, to make the 1962 campaign a success.

The schedule for the November 11 ceremonies will be published shortly.

There is a Hallowe'en dance scheduled for November 3. Bring your friends and guests for a night out.

It has always been against our nature to crab or criticize. However, the lack of members attending general meetings, is not only sad and discouraging, but downright deplorable. With a membership of 200-plus, why should it be so difficult to raise a quorum for a general meeting? The oath each Legionnaire takes as he is initiated reads, "I promise to be true to the Aims and Objects of the Canadian Legion and to ever strive by all proper means to promote the work of the organization."

To be a Legionnaire is more than paying dues. Stay not away because you don't like either the executive or the way they are operating the Branch. Remember, they are not the Legion! You, the general membership are the heart and soul of this and any other branch. Come out — attend meetings — the Branch needs and solicits your moral, physical, spiritual and vocal help and support. The Legion is still operated in a democratic way, where the voice of dissent commands just as much respect as the one of agreement.

Although it is heavily disputed at times, fact and fable bear many a resemblance. To wit :

The Fact

The Soviet newspaper, Pravda, and the Soviet foreign minister called upon the Western Powers to reduce their armed forces, to withdraw from Berlin and to liquidate their foreign military bases without waiting longer for an International agreement on disarmament. They said their proposed disarmament program should provide prompt renunciation and abolition of all atomic weapons. (At the same time atomic explosions were taking place in Siberia.) — U.P. and A.P. dispatches, 1961-62.

The Fable

"Why should there always be this internecine and implacable war between us?" said the wolves to the sheep. "Those evil-disposed dogs have much to answer for. They always bark whenever we approach you and attack us before we have done any harm. If you would only dismiss them from your heels there might be some treaties of reconciliation between us." The sheep, poor, silly creatures, were easily beguiled and dismissed the dogs. The wolves then destroyed the flock at their own pleasure. — Aesop (Circa 555 B.C.)

Crop-weather research boosted by electronic computer-forecaster

Agriculture is the latest to benefit from space-age electronics.

Electronic computers — which "think" with the speed of lightning — are being used in studies by Canada Department of Agriculture researchers on the effects of weather on crops.

Most experimental farms send weather data on punch cards to the federal meteorological service and the cards are made available for crop weather research, explains Dr. K. H. MacKay, of the Agrometeorological Section, Plant Research Institute, Ottawa.

Many questions arising from research projects require extremely complex computations which would take weeks or months with an ordinary calculating machine, says the researcher. The computers have slashed this time lag to a few hours.

In addition, computers have extended the range of crop-weather research because, without them, some questions would have gone unanswered owing to the overwhelming volume of manual work, Dr. MacKay points out.

The versatile machines—which can handle about 1,000 operations per second — have been used to establish the "normal" number of drying days during June at several farms in Eastern Canada, permitting a comparison of the lengths of haying seasons for different years at one farm and between several farms.

They can even give a speedy prediction on the chances of frost after a certain date — say, for example, May 24.

Crop-weather research is getting a further assist by these electronic "brains" in relating grasshopper outbreaks to temperature and rainfall data and in the study of the effects of weather on wheat yields. The latter project seeks to provide a more reliable basis for predicting yields.

A study conducted at several farms on the relationship between crop growth and temperatures, length of day and rainfall, has been speeded through thhe use of a computer, says Dr. MacKay.

Results show that wheat responds mainly to daytime temperatures and is relatively unaffected by those at night. In comparison, millet responds chiefly to the cooler night-time temperatures.

Enthuses Dr. MacKay: "Computers are a new and versatile tool for more advanced study of crop-weather relationships."

CNIB campaign results in Grenv'l

The results of the financial drive for Grenville and district indicates $765 collected for the CNIB. The campaign was under the chairmanship of Mr. John McGibbon.

The Institute is deeply grateful to the volunteer workers and to all who have contributed to this worthy cause.

Some of this money is set aside for library service to the blind. Also a number of sightless people are able to read Braille, and these avail themselves of the library service by borrowing Braille books without charge. From time to time it is necessary to replace old books and to purchase new ones; the payment for these books is made possible by the local drives.

It is difficult for people who have lost their sight late in life, to master "tactile" reading, so the Institute has made it easy for these people to be provided with talking-book records. These machines have been provided by service clubs — the Lachute Lions Club, Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, Knights of Columbus, and the Women's Auxiliary of the CNIB.

If there is anyone who would like to assist the Institute with their work in this County, and who has not been contacted during the campaign — please send a donation to the Laurentian Headquarters, 145 Drew St., Lachute. Official receipts will be sent by return mail.

JOLSON NOTES

By Irvin R. Warwick

AL JOLSON
May 26, 1886 - Oct. 23, 1950

On October 23, 1950 the world lost on of its greatest entertainers, in the person of Al Jolson. His passing brought a flood of tributes, from the holder of the highest office in the U.S.A., President Harry Truman, to the humblest worker. Members of our Royal Family attended a special church service in his memory. Walter Winchell devoted his entire column to a "Song for Al Jolson", which began: "They are eulogizing Al Jolson as a great entertainer. . . . As a titan of show business, he stood alone, but he was gifted with more than superb singing artistry — he was a great man. . . "

Today, some 12 years later, the greatest tribute is being paid by a public which refuses to forget Al Jolson as so many other stars have been forgotten. Decca Records have recognized this by recently issuing "The Best of Jolson," a beautifully packaged two-l.p. album containing Al's greatest songs. Other albums of previously unreleased material will follow. The members of the International Al Jolson Society, a non-profit organization, continued doing their part in keeping Al's memory green by sending out, during September and October, almost 600 tribute requests to newspapers, radios and TV stations throughout Canada, U.S.A. and Great Britain. And the CBC, through its local Channel 6, has been most encouraging by showing "The Jolson Story" and "Jolson Sings Again" on last New Year's Eve and New Year's Night — then "Go Into Your Dance" and "Rhapsody in Blue" on "Front Row Center" during the summer. They state that it is quite likely we will be seeing more of Mr. Jolson in their late movie period during the current season.

Why do women look that way?

Anything wacky can be sold to women in the name of fashion, says an article in the October Reader's Digest. The fantastic world of women's attire has grown into one of the greatest con games ever devised.

The average female today looks like a witch, says an article by a woman — Eve Merriam, writer and former editor of Glamor. She has heavy-rimmed eyes, striped hair puffed out like a toadstool, shoes with points like TV antennas, says Miss Merriam. And her shape is disguised as a lampshade, T square or triangle.

Mad make-up demands purple mouths, green eyelids looking as though they were growing fungus. Women even pay good money to look anemic — white lipsticks are selling like hot cakes.

Whatever is "in", says the Digest now is already on the way out. A few seasons ago volcanoes of purple erupted in the fashion magazines and department-store windows, soon to be replaced by clouds of pink.

Fashion has become a relentless campaign to encompass every female from cradle to the grave. Home permanents for tots of two are a fast-selling item; so are platinum hair rinses for Grandma. The old are made to look infantile, and the young are high-pressured before they're out of diapers.

Every man should be able to enjoy looking at a womanly woman, but today's fashions do not permit it, says Miss Eve Merriam. Women have been so bewitched, bewildered and brainwashed that they seem incapable of resisting the most arrant nonsense.

Men may be their only salvation. When they look good, men should tell them so. But when they don't they should be reminded of the fact in no uncertain terms. Otherwise, women will change their appearance more and more, and men will enjoy looking at them less and less.

Obey the signals, stay in line. The life you save, may be mine.

All provinces join 'ARDA'

Ottawa — All 10 provinces have now signed agreements to participate in the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act program, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced.

Latest to sign general agreements with the Federal government are Ontario, Manitoba and Newfoundland.

They join Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Brtish Columbia in the program to develop rural areas and resources.

The agreements clear the way for approval of a wide range of individual projects which would be carried out jointly by federal and provincial governments or by a province with federal assistance.

Nearly 40 types of projects are outlined in the general agreements. These embrace new uses for marginal or submarginal farm land, rural development, and soil and water conservation measures.

DAVE CAMPBELL,
elected mayor by acclamation. Mr. Campbell has chaired the town evaluation committee.

LINTON ARMSTRONG,
police and fire commissioner, who is elected for another term on Town Council.

NELSON LEPAGE, returned by acclamation for his fourth term as Council representative for west ward.

EDMUND McFAUL,

DAVE CAMPBELL NEW MAYOR —

Acclamations, withdrawals, contest for west ward seat

Newcomers on civic scene, with veterans re-elected or in contest

Four acclamations were given last Friday at the city hall for six Council vacancies (the mayoralty and five aldermanic seats).

One of the opponents having since withdrawn, and one of the unopposed candidates also withdrawn, there remain at this date (Wednesday) one contest and another vacancy to refill.

Dave Campbell was elected as mayor, to succeed Fernand Legault, Q.C., There were no other nominations.

For seat No. 3, east ward, Alderman Linton Armstrong was re-elected.

For seat No. 3, centre ward, Notary Simon Valois was elected to replace Alderman Lauréat Laurin. However, on Wednesday morning Mr. Valois tendered his withdrawal, "for personal reasons".

For seat No. 2, west ward, vacated by Stanley Church, two contestants are nominated, Wilfred Morrissette and J.-Orphir Desjardins.

For seat No. 3 in the same ward, Nelson Lepage, the retiring alderman, was opposed by Bernard Gosselin, but the latter has since withdrawn.

The contest will be held Friday of this week, November 2, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. E.S.T., for seat No. 2; opponents are Wilfrid Morrissette and J.-Orphir Desjardins.

As for the seat vacated by Notary Valois' resignation, it is likely the new mayor will call another election in the near future.

There are several newcomers in the Council line-up, notably Mayor Dave Campbell and Ald. Edmund McFaul. In the west-end nominees, there is a newcomer for civic honors, J.-Orphir Desjardins. His opponent, Wilfrid Morrissette, also Nelson Lepage, are old-timers in the Council service.

Nominations today for provincial candidates

From the District Returning Officer, Notary Jacques Beaudoin, at press time (Wednesday morning) the nomination of two candidates is confirmed, namely —

W. M. COTTINGHAM, M.P.P. for Argenteuil since 1948, and Minister of Mines in the former Union Nationale government.

RODRIGUE DUROCHER, official Liberal candidate, who was also a contender in the 1960 provincial election.

There is a possibility of a third candidate; but seen as the two major opponents are Mr. Cottingham and Mr. Durocher, who are campaigning against each other for the second time. In 1960 Mr. Cottingham won with a plurality of 2,951 votes over Mr. Durocher, his only opponent.

Nominations, however, do not close until 2 o'clock this afternoon (Wednesday). As in former instances, the local tradition of a "contradictory meeting" will follow immediately at the civic auditorium. A report of this meeting will be available for publication in next issue of this journal.

C. I. P. hosts to Rouge Valley field day on woods managem't

A field day on Forestry Information was held, Saturday, October 20, at the Harrington Forest Farm by the Rouge Valley Association, for the benefit of all its members who had planted trees during the last two years. Several members were accompanied by friends who wanted to find out more about this reforestation program. Mayors, parish priests, bank managers, honorary members and others were also present.

Among those attending were Vernon E. Johnson, chairman of the board for Canadian International Paper Company, Roland Bock, president of the finance committee for the Rouge Valley Association, and J. B. Campagna, chief of the Provincial Forest Service for the Montreal District.

Before lunch, two films were shown, one on the Rouge Valley and its problems and the other on woodlot management and wildlife.

After lunch, the guests were conducted on a complete tour of the forest farm, starting by the managed woodlot, then the 1954 plantation of Red Pine trees, and concluding with the nursery, where millions of seedlings are grown for future planting.

Tree farm certificates were presented to two members of the Association, Henri Francisco, of l'Annonciation, and Joseph Alarie, of Huberdeau.

Results and prizes were given for an interesting contest on identification of tree species held during the day.

The Rev. C. H. Deslauriers, president of the Rouge Valley Association, explained the purpose of the Association and praised all those present for their support and understanding.

This field day on Forestry Information was made possible with help and co-operation given by the Canadian International Paper Company, which acted as host for the day. Several company foresters were on hand to provide information.

Everyone returned home with a souvenir tree from the farm — all more than ever decided to continue with their tree planting and woodlot management.

3-Region study of Ch. of Commerce to urge Laurentians for World Fair

The Chambre de Commerce at St. Jerome has taken the initiative in offering suggestions for the site of the 1967 International Fair in the Laurentian area.

The group is calling an important meeting November 21 of representatives from the Chambers in Ile Jesus, the Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes - Terrebonne region, and the Laurentian region, to draw up a brief on the subject.

It will be required to study sites already proposed, north of Montreal, also other areas available. The committee formed for this purpose will then make an inventory of hotels, motels and all other accommodations. The brief will capitalize on traffic arteries making this spot readily accessible, such as the Autoroute, and Dorval Airport for accessibility by air. The attraction of the Laurentian Mountains will be stressed as an added feature for the thousands of visitors expected at this Fair.

The promoters of this idea look for an enthusiastic and constructive meeting on November 21.

Gatineau president speaks of co-existence investor-owned and public-owned utilities

"I know that you all read with interest, the articles which appear in the daily press from which you have learned of the possible, if not probable, changes which are being mooted," said Mr. Gale.

"With an election campaign under way in which the future of companies such as ours is an issue, I think it would be remiss of me if I did not recall to you something of the history and the achievements of this company, an investor-owned Public Utility, to which all of you have contributed with outstanding success.

"Following the organization of the Company in 1926 we sold electric service to some 15,000 customers in and about Hull, Lachute, St. Jerome and Rawdon.

"The rates we charge are all subject to approval by the Electricity and Gas Board, a provincially-appointed authority. As the number of customers increased the Company has from time to time reduced its charges for electric service but over the years there has never been a general increase in these rates.

"The present extremely low rates become more impressive than ever when it is realized that the 110,000 customers we now serve are spread over an area of 5,000 square miles. Attractive rates plus high standard of service account in no small measure for the record high average use per annual domestic customer of 5,137 kilowatt hours per annum.

"Each year, several million dollars are required to provide additional transmission lines, more powerful transformer stations and many miles of distribution circuits. These current expenditures comprise only a small part of the huge investment which has been made in the past for the development of the natural resources and construction of our present efficient, integrated and widespread distribution system which extends over the western part of the Province of Quebec.

"The financing of these works has been accomplished through the sale of bonds to institutions and the public and by funds provided by the 13,292 shareholders, many of whom are Quebec residents. After payment of interest on bonds, the balance of earnings is paid in part as interest on the investment of the shareholders and the remainder of these earnings is applied to further investment in extensions and improvement of our facilities.

"As a balance-wheel or yardstick there are other very definite advantages to the Province and its residents in the co-existence of Investor-owned and Public-owned Utilities.

"In the light of the foregoing, the records of this Investor-owned Utility offset most of the arguments of proponents of nationalization, and I am sure you will agree with me that we may all feel a certain pride in the manner and extent to which we have aided the community at large and the outstanding service we have provided for the ever-increasing number of our customers."

Warrants for his arrest were issued last Friday in Hull, on three counts of accepting bribes. The alleged payoffs were from a boatman in connection with liquor offences.

Morissette was "officer in charge" of the provincial force's Montebello detachment. He resigned August 15 last, remaining on duty for a 30-day notice period, in accordance with the QPP Act.

It was during this period, the warrants allege, that he committed three offences under Section 101 of the Canadian Criminal Code which deals with offers of protection from detection or punishment for any illegal offences."

Was relieved of postal job

Montreal — Mrs. Wilfrid Tassé, postmaster of Montfort, Que., was dismissed for political partisanship, Postmaster-General Fairclough told Vincent Drouin (Liberal M.P. for Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes). Mrs. Fairclough said she made an investigation and Mrs. Tassé admitted her guilt.

Dance enjoyed by Militia unit, officers attend

The local Militia battery, 131st Field Artillery, held its annual dance last Saturday at the Legion Hall. In attendance were Col. A. Malouf, senior Artillery Militia officer of 10 Militia Group, Montreal, and Lt. Col. T. A. McLean, Commanding Officer of the 37th Field Artillery Regiment — of which the local battery is a part. Also in attendance were Major C. Murphy, 2nd in command, and other officers, ranks and men from the regiment in Montreal.

Capt. W. E. Butterfield, officer commanding the local battery, Capt. R. W. Haydon, 2nd in command, and other ranks and men were in attendance from Lachute, and many local dignitaries were also present.

The dance arrangements were organized by WO-2 Carl Demerse, who was ably assisted by other N.C.O.'s and members of the local battery. E. Lowe and his orchestra supplied the music for the evening.

Lachute girl 'fashion queen'

Claudette Speight, of Lachute, was named "Queen of Montreal Fashion" at the opening reception Friday, October 26, of the Montreal Dress and Sportswear Manufacturers' Guild seventh annual convention at the Skyline Hotel, Montreal. She was chosen from 13 finalists representing communities as far apart as Victoria, B.C., and St. Jean Port Joli, Que. The 19-year-old student of fashion design will leave shortly for a whirlwind, all-expense-paid trip to Paris as ambassadress of Canadian design.

Claudette, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Speight, Grace Street, was a student at the St. Alexandre girls' school before entering the school of fashion design in Montreal.

Judge dismissed libel suit against two councillors

Citing jurisprudence on similar cases, Judge Omer Coté at St. Jerome last Friday dismissed the charge against two Ayersville councillors, Gaston Plamondon and Raymond Champagne, for defamatory libel. Reason for dismissal of the case was that it was instituted by the plaintiff, Mayor Gaetan Paquette, in criminal assizes, whereas it should have been taken by the Crown.

The charge (as previously reported) was that the two councillors had given public reading to, and had written into the Council minutes, three affidavits alleging that the mayor had accepted $800 in connection with an asphalt contract.

Addressing Mtre. Pelletier, attorney for the mayor, Judge Coté said, "Unless you have an express order from the Attorney General to argue this case as representative of the Crown, I am compelled to discharge the defendants, Mr. Plamondon and Mr. Champagne."

Counsel for the defendants Mtre. Ben Marchessault, concurred that criminal court cases must necessarily be instituted in the name of the Crown.

Young cyclist in hospital with thigh fracture

Matthew Booth, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Booth, of Sydney Street, was treated in the Providence Hospital for a fracture of the thigh on Saturday afternoon last, following an accident in which he was struck by a car while riding on his bicycle.

According to municipal police, the youth was headed in an easterly direction on Main Street near the Memorial Park, when he apparently swerved in front of a car driven by Gilles St. Onge, of St. Hermas. Immediate first-aid was rendered on the scene and he was transported to the Providence Hospital by the police emergency vehicle. At the hospital he was attended by Dr. L. Middleton, and was later transferred to the Montreal General Hospital.

Happy memories of 100th birthday

Mrs. James Arthurs of Avoca, who has happy recollections of the family reunion and many expressions of good wishes received on her 100th birthday, which she celebrated recently. Besides the large gathering of relatives and friends who came to greet her, Mrs. Arthurs received congratulations from the Queen, the Prime Minister, and the Hon. W. M. Cottingham.

Radio station gets Hawkb'y approval

More information is available concerning a radio transmission station proposed for this area by private interests.

From representations made by Messrs. Donald and Alex Hatfield at the Hawkesbury Council last week, it is intimated that the station, to be established in either of these centres — Hawkesbury, Lachute or area — will be operated bilingually in the daytime hours on a frequency of 1170 kilocycles, A.M., with a power of 1,000 watts.

The station will be directed by Messrs. Donald, Alec and Bruce Hatfield, and financed by the three brothers and other interests in Lachute and Hawkesbury.

The broadcast tower would be erected a few miles east of Hawkesbury, and studios will be in that town and in Lachute. Known as the "Voice of Two Provinces", the station would cover Argenteuil and Prescott, besides parts of the neighboring counties.

The venture awaits a BBG decision, next January, on the issuing of a license. It is understood the Hawkesbury Council unanimously approved a franchise, on which basis the promoters will now submit their application for a permit.

Two road deaths

Montreal — At 2 a.m. last Saturday Florian Ratelle, of St. Jerome, was killed when his car crashed into a guard rail at Lesage, two miles north of St. Jerome.

Alain Foisy, 12 was killed by a car last Friday while walking on Highway 11 near Ste. Adele.

The Lions' skating rink in the east ward opened Tuesday for a busy season, with Jacques Bourgoing again filling a capable role as manager. (Badges may be procured at the rink canteen.)

Seeking public support for this venture, which needs a substantial financial backing every year, letters are being mailed to residents of the community. Certain paragraphs of this letter bear repetition, and the Lions Club will appreciate every gesture of assistance in this big effort. The appeal states, in part:

"In order to provide a healthy outlet for youth activity in this town, the Lions Club is operating its artificial ice rink, now in its fifth consecutive season. . . Skating should continue without interruption to the end of March 1963.

"The annual operating and improvement costs make it necessary to solicit your support. Your past generosity has been invaluable, and we count on you once again for your co-operation.

"We are offering season tickets at $5 per household or individual, plus $1 for each child in the family under 16 or attending school, wishing to skate. However, the maximum charge for any family, regardless of number, will not exceed $10.

"For those who have no family but who wish to help us in this project for youth recreation, we would suggest, and appreciate, a 'supporting membership' of $5 or more. We receive many requests from less fortunate families, and it will be a pleasure to extend to them, in your name, the privileges of our rink.

"Since we have to raise $5,000 in order to operate this venture, you will readily understand our concern. We look forward to your contribution at an early date."

AT ROTARY CLUB —

Impressions and film on Duke's Study Conference

At the October 25 meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club there was a very good turnout of Rotarians, wives and guests, to hear Roger Regimbal, director of Personnel and Public Relations for Ayers Limited, who gave an excellent talk on the Duke of Edinburgh's Second Study Conference, 1962.

In this Conference Mr. Regimbal was one of the group captains of the 300 people who accompanied Prince Phillip on the study sessions. The Conference moved across Canada from Newfoundland to British Columbia, with groups of about 15 persons visiting certain pre-arranged sites. The members and participants were from all parts of the British Commonwealth, including Aden, Fiji Islands, Kenya, and New Zealand. For all the members it was a fascinating experience to be able to study a country, its people, and their way of life — for many, their first visit to Canada.

Following his talk, Mr. Regimbal showed a film which was taken en route, the greatest part of which consisted of impressions from half a dozen of the members in connection with this Conference.

Ray Underhill introduced Mr. Regimbal to the assembly, and Bob Wyse thanked him, on behalf of those present, for a very enjoyable evening.

By BOB ATCHISON

Once again, panthers have been seen in this district. Alan Gauley, who hauls lumber for A. D. McGibbon & Sons Ltd., was heading out from Rainbow Lake when the animal was spotted. About 24 inches high, about 3 feet long, with a tail almost as long as the body, a small head with sharp pointed ears — this animal stayed around just long enough for them to get a good look at it. The initial leap from the road measured about 10 feet. Alan stated it was a beautiful sight to see this animal leap; and that I can believe.

While in the bush a few weeks ago, I spotted what I thought were domestic turkeys which had strayed from their owners. I had been told of this type of bird being in the area, but the only ones I had seen were the pair mentioned. A couple of weeks ago they were spotted again, this time four of them. . . . Dr. H. Cook looked in last week to tell me of two parent birds along with three young. The different places these birds have been sighted, seemed to rule out they were the same ones roaming. Turkeys cover a lot of ground during their feeding runs, but certainly not enough to put them in two places within a space of hours. I don't think they are the jet type either. Dr. Cook told me that the C.I.P. had received some of these birds some time ago from the States, hoping to make better shooting for the upland hunter. I don't know just when the birds were released, but have been told it was a few years ago. It could be that the ones roaming the district now are the offspring of the originals. They are very wary birds; although seen on various occasions, it also could be that others may not have been reported.

If these turkeys manage to survive, it would be a shot in the arm for hunters. I don't know just how they would adapt to this climate; maybe a few of them managed, and we can hope more will follow suit.

The shooting season opened very well on Saturday, October 20. Humans, bear, deer. From some of the stories, it sure was a pippin. Hits and misses were about evenly divided. The score on the humans was very poor, but there are prospects of a real ACCIDENTAL affair. I thought last year was tops in this respect, but the opening this season looked more than promising. The noise of firing reminded me of the Battle of the Bush.

By all appearances the kill in this County was quite high. I saw nine deer being checked out, so it looked as though the animals were bombed right out of their homes. A couple of bears were also seen, on their way to make someone a rug.

Talking to the game wardens this past week-end, they told me not one case of jacklighting had been seen or reported. These boys deserve a lot of credit for this, believe me. I can only repeat, if people would give them the information they would make this County one of the best in Quebec for observance of the game laws. Actually, this is one of the most thankless of jobs, so let's wake up and give them our co-operation — else our only wildlife will be found in the zoo.

"Accidental". . . I wonder how many times we are going to read this when describing a shooting. I am sure this season will be no exception. Nothing concrete has been done towards curbing some of the jokers who get into the bush, endangering everything in sight. Ontario is the only province where tests are mandatory for the issuing of hunting licenses. There is no excuse for not having stricter gun laws. Our drivers must undergo a test before receiving a new driving permit; why not a gun handler? This province has the greatest number of novices each season; yet we allow them to purchase a license, knowing nothing of the laws, then set them free to do any damage they can.

A lot of people say no law can be enforced. I disagree very strongly. I have mentioned drivers' permits; this could be adopted for the shooter, very easily. The cost of the license is certainly high enough to give the serious hunter some form of protection. These offices could be open just as in the case of drivers' permits; take them to any rifle club, which I am sure would be more than happy to co-operate. If they pass the tests, then allow them to buy a license. If they do not qualify, make them come back for another test. It seems strange that nothing has been done in precautionary training except by private companies. Complete indifference about gun laws has been shown by the authorities, despite the toll of human life.

We know that the 30-30 has been the most serviceable gun, being classed No. 1 for years. But now this model has been replaced by the more popular 30-06. Even the old 303 has jumped from obscurity to 11th-place rating. Another very big gain was in the 12 ga. slug; this gun had soared right up in the top ten. It seems the average deer hunter is now going in for heavier and slower slugs, trying to find the unbeatable combination. Of course, only about 500 people were quizzed about the type of gun used in hunting, and I don't think any true picture can be drawn from this, but it does give some idea of what the present-day hunter is using.

Along with this survey, another interesting bit of information. — The Bible for all big game records (Boone & Crockett) states that Saskatchewan and Manitoba rated one and two in regard to the big-game trophy records. British Columbia was 7th. . . So you know where to go for your trophy deer.

A few rabbits are around. They make excellent eating right now; a nice sweet taste. They are worth going after, and easier than killing a deer too. There's only one thing wrong with the set-up right now; the use of shotguns leaves too many pellets in them. Not using dogs, the rabbits will not run too far, and in some cases they just won't be scared out. We banged at a couple more of those "birds that aren't there", woodcock — with the usual negative results. As far as I am concerned, these birds are just flying ghosts, with about as much chance of hitting them too.

The duck situation is poor, just the odd one being taken. A couple of the better shooters have told me they don't intend to go out after them any more this year. We are not the only ones suffering from this drought, however; all over the North American continent they are very scarce. With the flooding of the marshlands in different parts, the ducks have had to look for other fields. As a small example, the Carillon dam is one of these. However, the lack of rain in the prairie provinces has been the real culprit. Ducks Unlimited paints a grim picture for the future of wild fowl, unless something drastic is done. Even the geese seem to have been affected. With the poor season they have been having, it wouldn't surprise me to see them placed on a much stricter quota.

The winter birds are starting to come into the district, and it shouldn't be too long before we have the whole crew back. A lot of jays are with us, also the chicks and buntings. A couple of the Lesser Shrike have been seen, but they did not stay. I saw a Great Blue Heron too, the first I have seen for some time. It looked as though it had been hurt and was just getting back in shape for the long flight south. Maybe he'll reach there before it gets too cold.

Fishing-Hunting soiree to close year's activities

Up to Sunday evening, four members of the Argenteuil Hunting and Fishing Association had registered deer carcasses for the season's hunting contest. It is expected there will be many other entries before the season closes. (Hunters should register their game with Florian Raymond or Gaston Lepine.)

A soiree to conclude activities of this club will be held at Flamingo Hotel on Tuesday, November 20. Members will have the preference in the issuance of tickets, and it is requested that all members procure their tickets by this week-end. Hector Lepage, in charge of this event, has an interesting program planned.

Campaign salvos echo from election hustings

"This Week in Quebec" By Gerry McNeil

Quebec (CP — The Union Nationale released a comprehensive 64-point election program this past week.

The program dipped into everything from health to high finance. It promised creation of three new government departments — Tourism, Rural Establishment and Area Development — and a universal portable pension scheme.

Party Leader Daniel Johnson said the latter would achieve Quebec's "economic emancipation" by allowing employees to change jobs without dropping pension rights. Revenue saved through such a plan, he said, could finance a considerable part of provincial and municipal borrowing.

Other main points in the program have been repeated constantly since the November 14 provincial elections were announced. First on the list was a promise to raise provincial income tax exemptions to $2,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons.

The party promised immediate expropriation of the Lower St. Lawrence Power Company and the Northern Quebec Power Company, with a referendum no later than next June 30 on the expropriation of another nine private hydro-electric producers.

The program spoke of a "Crash Rural Roads Program," a Provincial Lottery, "Continuance of Rural Representation in the Quebec Legislature", and a provincial-municipal conference to solve financial and administrative problems.

Other major points included a $1 minimum hourly wage and creation of a crown corporation to buy at a minimum price pulpwood cut by farmers and homesteaders.

Mr. Johnson said the Union Nationale did not expect to be able to carry out the program in one legislative session, but would tackle the most pressing points first.

Premier Lesage, on the other hand, maintained a gruelling campaign schedule. He toured three or four small ridings by car during the day, stopping to shake hands and deliver five-minute speeches.

At night, he held political rallies in larger centres, giving a defence of the expropriation issue and condemning what he describes as the Union Nationale's record of corruption.

"We have tried to re-gild the blazon of our Quebec that was tarnished by the dirt of the Union Nationale," he told a rally in Hull.

The Premier sent a telegram to Mr. Johnson saying that he would hold a televised debate with him only on November 11.

Attorney-General Georges Lapalme told a rally at nearby Giffard, that inquiries during the last two years have indeed touched Mr. Johnson. He recalled the Salvas Royal Commission report that listed Mr. Johnson as having bought 50 shares of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation while Hydraulics Resources Minister, then selling them at $35 profit each.

"In Ontario, ministers like that would be driven out," Mr. Lapalme said. "In the province of Quebec, in the Union Nationale, they are made chiefs of the party."

The Union Nationale chief turned his guns fully on Premier Lesage at Chicoutimi, questioning Mr. Lesage's relations with the late C. D. Howe and with Peter Nesbitt Thompson, chairman of the Power Corporation of Canada.

He spoke of the "refusal of the Lesage gavernment to tax the Aluminum Company of Canada, of which Mr. Howe was vice-president", and said that Mr. Thompson "exclusively controlled" Northern Quebec Power Company.

Armand Maltais, minister without portfolio in the former Union Nationale government, opened his campaign for re-election in Quebec east by stating he is in favor of public ownership of all privately-owned power companies in Quebec, "because I am a nationalist." He felt the question should be decided through a referendum, however, because it was too important to be complicated by partisan politics.

Many awards to 4-H Calf Club at Winter Fair

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club won many prizes at the Ottawa Winter Fair 4-H Calf Club championship show last Friday October 26.

Twelve boys and girls travelled to Ottawa with their calves from the Lachute Club and competed with 570 entries from Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, the top 4-H calves being shown form each county.

The boys and girls took part in the parade at the Coliseum on Thursday evening, and were guests of the Ottawa Winter Fair at the Horse Show. They again paraded with their calves on Friday evening.

The winners in the Junior Holstein Heifer Calf class are Richard Hadley and Carol McCaig in Group A, and Rodger Lyster in Group B; they placed 3rd in the Group of Three Junior Holstein Calves.

In the Senior Holstein Heifer Calf class, Doug Meyer, Sharon Meyer and Donald Hadley all placed in Group A, and made first place in the Group of Three Senior Holstein Calves.

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club was first in the Senior Holstein Winning Clubs, and placed 3rd in the Champion Holstein Group of Three Calves.

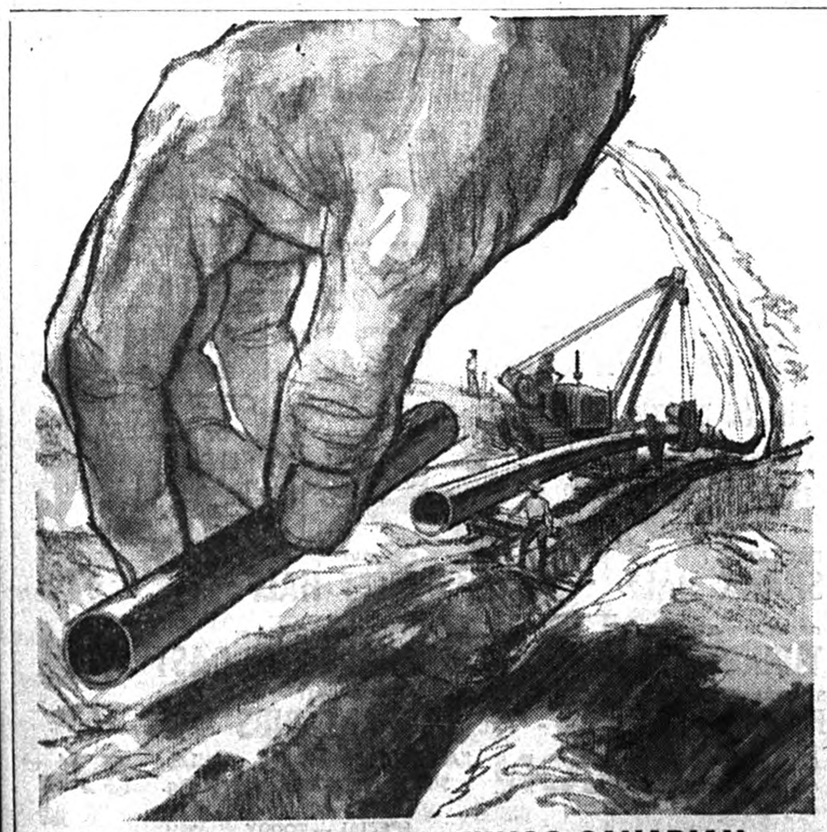

In the Junior Ayrshire Heifer Calf class, Athur McElroy placed in Group A, John Heatlie and Ronald Bain placed in Group C. In the Group of Three Junior Ayrshire Calves they placed fourth.

In the Senior Ayrshire class, Robert Rodger, Donna Bradley and Mary Thompson, all placed in Group B and won first prize in the Group of Three Senior Ayrshire Calves.

The boys and girls enjoyed the experience of associating with other boys and girls from all over Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. It was a trip they will long remember, and they extend a vote of thanks to Ross Oswald, the local Club leader, and Irénée Paré, local agronome, for helping to make the venture possible.

TIME TO REFLECT

A firm located on the eighth floor of a one-elevator building found a way to stop its girls rushing downstairs at five-o'clock. Accidents were numerous while warnings and disciplinary action were not effective, but mirrors placed on every landing slowed the girls down as they stopped on each floor to look at themselves.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN

when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance—as protection for your family—as a good way to save money regularly—as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency—as a retirement plan for you later on.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises—through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.

The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

AND WHEREAS the memory of their service and sacrifice is a source of inspiration to all citizens as our nation faces new difficulties and dangers:

AND WHEREAS their memory is kept ever bright by the annual wearing of Memorial Poppies in their honor and the honor of all other Canadians who died in war service:

NOW THEREFORE I, James B. Donaldson, Mayor of the Village of Brownsburg, do hereby proclaim the week commencing Monday, November 5, and ending Sunday, November 11, as REMEMBRANCE WEEK and do urge that all citizens observe these days by wearing the MEMORIAL POPPY of the ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION.

Extinguishers on autobuses

A recent circular sent by the Transportation and Communications Department states that chemical fire-extinguishers are compulsory in all autobuses. Carbon tetrachloride must not be used in the apparatus because of the dangers of asphyxiation.

"Prudentia" recalls the tragic accident which occurred recently when a bus taking 40 young girls to school caught fire after being hit from behind by a truck. Nine children and a teacher were burned to death; 12 others were taken to hospital and they will be perhaps disfigured for life. The bus and the truck were destroyed by flames.

Finding markets for Quebec apples overseas

Thanks to a new Quebec Apple Growers' Board responsible for the marketing of Quebec apples on overseas markets, there is every indication that the export campaign will reach its objective of 200,000 bushels this year already.

The quality of this year's crop is excellent. Apples are more crisp and juicy than ever. Canadian consumers can obtain them at all retail food stores. However, a large portion of the crop will be placed in cold storage. In Quebec alone, cold stores can hold 2,500,000 bushels of apples. Ontario cold stores are also used for storage of the crop. The sale of these stocks takes place during the Christmas holidays, through the winter season, and even after the following spring. Thanks to the scientific methods of conservation being used, consumers are always sure of fruit which is in perfect condition.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

More car radiators boil over in the winter than in the summer. Whenever I see this sorry sight, I'm willing to wager the car owner was penny-wise and pound foolish.

You can be sure your car's cooling system will be nice instead of neurotic during the coming months if:

1. You don't try to save pennies by having your radiator merely hosed out if it needs thorough flushing with a cooling system cleaner to loosen accumulated grease and scale deposits.

2. You don't try to get another year's use out of last winter's anti-freeze. (Last year's anti-freeze may eat away the cooling system this year.)

3. You don't scrimp on the amount of anti-freeze you order.

4. You choose a permanent instead of volatile anti-freeze. It's cheaper in the long run because it won't boil away during the first warm spell.

5. You heed your service station operator's warning to replace a weak rubber hose which has deteriorated on the inside. (If it bursts and your anti-freeze leaks out, you may have a major engine repair bill.)

6. You replace a slipping or worn fan belt immediately.

If you have been trying to "save" in any of these ways, be prepared to "boil over". Because your car's radiator no doubt will!

Greeted on their 25th anniversary

A pleasant evening was spent on Saturday, October 20, at the Orange Hall, Lachute, when relatives and friends gathered for a surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Neill in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mr. S. Holt gave the presentation speech, and the Misses Linda Bray and Connie Smith presented Mr. and Mrs. Neill with a gift of money.

Noted among the relatives present were — Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton, of Mackinaw Island, Mich., also Mr. Rob Sutton, of Dafter, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. James Lodge, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. James Lodge, Jr., of Manchester, N.H., Mr. and Mrs. J. Lay and family, of Ottawa; Mrs. Victor Barfoot, of Toronto; also several relatives and friends from Montreal.

After an evening of dancing, the wedding cake was cut and delicious refreshments were served.

Notice to U.N. Supporters

In order to comply with recent legislation to put an end to extragavant spending in political campaigns, I would appreciate the co-operation of the electors of the County of Argenteuil in offering their services on a voluntary basis during this important campaign, and also of those who are willing to furnish automobiles in order to transport people to the polls, in the interest of a democratic election.

Meeting held by for Retarded Association

A meeting of the Lachute Association for Retarded Children was held Monday evening in the Legion Hall. The meeting, although informal, was held in a businesslike manner and the agenda of 21 topics was efficiently dealt with.

The new president, Mr. Wes Younkie, chaired the meeting. He introduced the new secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. Carreau and Mrs. L. Hume. A resolution approving these new officers was passed with enthusiasm, and a vote of thanks was given to Mrs. R. Cairns, who throughout last year carried the brunt of the executive duties, due to the illness of the other officers.

The Board of Directors, on the proposal of the president, was voted to consist of the executive and the chairmen of the various committees. The chairmen already appointed are:

Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. G. Leggett.

Educational, Mrs. B. C. Fillingham.

Transportation, Clayton Robinson.

Building, R. McLean.

The remaining posts will be filled by the executive, and each chairman will select his own committee members.

Mrs. Amy Poneck has again accepted the position of teacher. She deserves much praise for the enthusiasm and hard work she put into the class last year. The excellent results achieved speak highly for her ability. Mrs. Poneck gave a brief report of the seminar that she attended in Montreal, sponsored by the Provincial Association for Retarded Children.

To date it is undecided as to where the school will be held; several points have yet to be discussed and decided upon. Mr. Younkie spoke of the misconception that many people have that these children are destructive and rowdy. This idea is false, as a visit to the class will easily prove.

The president emphasized that fact that there is no government sponsorship for these schools. He also told of the need to remain affiliated with the Provincial Association for Retarded Children, not only for the benefit of excellent advice and material received, but, most important, from the fact that it is only through the united efforts of all associations that government assistance can be procured.

The financial report was read by Mrs. R. Cairns and the Duplicate Bridge Club was thanked for their financial help last year ($698).

The Association wishes to thank all other donors whose generosity kept the school in existence. It is to be decided what amount each parent will be asked to contribute.

Twenty-nine people attended the meeting, many of whom took out a membership for the year. It is hoped that others will join in the near future. The fee is $2 and anyone interested should contact Mrs. L. Hume. Application forms are now available for new pupils, two of which were filled out after the meeting.

The meeting closed with a strong conviction that retarded children can be helped, and that the school should be made available to all who need it.

Returns from Lengthy Conference Tour

Mrs. Geo. McGibbon returned home last Thursday from an enjoyable tour of six weeks' duration to attend the 10th triennial ACWW conference in Melbourne, Australia. Her travels, on 13 different air flights, included Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand, and on the return trip, the Fiji Islands and Honolulu.

Mrs. McGibbon notes that the airline carrying her party was alerted in Auckland to speed up the flight by 12 hours, in order to avoid the nuclear test-blast in mid-Pacific. They flew 900 miles off-course to avoid danger of radiation, but still experienced a remarkably colorful view of the after-effects.

Altogether, despite this sidelight, Mrs. McGibbon reports a thoroughly enjoyable trip.

Quebec conf'ce on industrial expansion

Ottawa — The Hon. George Hees, Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced that a Regional Industrial Expansion Conference will be held in Montreal on November 8 and that senior representatives from 60-odd companies in the province are expected to attend. Representatives for organized labor are also being invited. The Conference is being sponsored by the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Quebec Department of Industry and Commerce.

The Quebec Conference is the first of a series of meetings planned as a result of the National Industrial Expansion Conference in Ottawa, which suggested that regional meetings should be organized in the main manuacturing centres of Canada so that businessmen could discuss ways and means of acheiving greater production on a competitive and efficient basis. A key factor in furthering the growth of the Canadian economy and in providing increased job opportunities, is the efficient expansion of activity in Canada's secondary industry.

Delegates will examine the experiences of middle-sized and larger firms in the field of production and procurement.

KEITH H. QUINN — LE 3-6369
NORTHERN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA
(P.O. BOX 184 — BROWNSBURG)

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Understanding of Truth

Jesus taught his followers to pray to their Father in heaven: "Let your kingdom come, let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth." What was Jesus' Father's name? Psalms 83, verse 18 says: "That men may know that Thou, whose name alone is Jehovah, art the most high in all the earth."

Jehovah's first creation was his Son: "the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation by God," "the firstborn of all creation." (Colossians 1:15; Revelation 3:14). Before coming to earth he was known as the Word, or Logos.

LIFE IN A NEW WORLD

Do you repeat the "Lord's Prayer" with its clause, "Let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth"? Then you should be vitally interested in Jehovah God's long-promised new world.

CHRIST'S RANSOM SACRIFICE

That His name might be vindicated, that His purpose regarding the earth might be realized, and that men who kept integrity might get life, Jehovah sent His Son into the world: "to give his soul a ransom in exchange for many," and to "bear witness to the truth." (Matthew 20:28; John 17:4; 18:37.)

"For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Worshipful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end upon the throne of David, and upon his Kingdom to establish it."

It is already the hour to awake from sleep, and likewise alert others.

Jehovah God's kingdom by Jesus Christ is destined to end man's every affliction and woe. Extension of its power to the earth inside this generation will be the greatest blessing in man's history. Already it is his most thrilling news. Learn this good news and be truly awake to the times!

Christ Jesus put God's kingdom first. He counseled his followers to do likewise and taught them to pray: "Let your kingdom come. Let your will come to pass, as in heaven, also upon earth." (Matthew 6:10, 33; 13: 44-46).

Did Jesus and his disciples continually dun the people for money, by passing collection plates, charging admission, holding bazaars and operating games of chance to defray expenses, etc.? Far from it! They warned against greed, counseled that we should store up treasures in heaven and reminded us that godly devotion with contentment is great gain. — Matthew 6:20; Luke 12:15; 1 Timothy 6:6.

RESULTS OF GOD'S KINGDOM

And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters over the sea." — Isaiah 11:6.

more take-home pay lower taxes

—a raise in the minimum wage to $1.00 an hour under Union Nationale Government

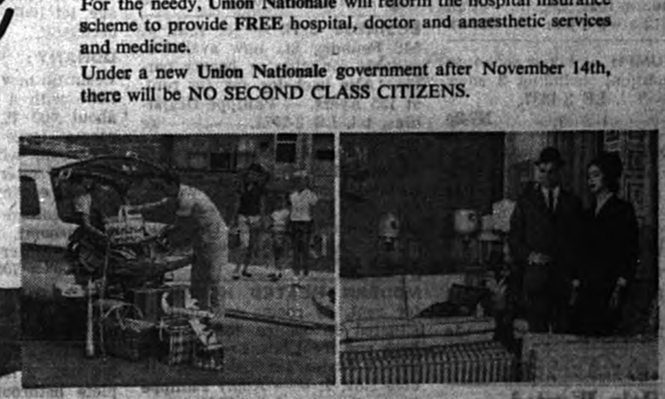

Thousands of Quebec men, women and children will benefit under this new legislation to be enacted after the election of a Union Nationale government.

The new minimum wage will mean an important increase in buying power for many people in the low income group. For many it means an immediate raise in pay to nearly double the present income. To many more, pay will go up one third!

Think what this extra take-home pay means in terms of higher standards of living, in home improvements and in the enjoyment of all kinds of better conveniences and comforts of home!

For the needy, Union Nationale will reform the hospital insurance scheme to provide FREE hospital, doctor and anaesthetic services and medicine.

Under a new Union Nationale government after November 14th, there will be NO SECOND CLASS CITIZENS.

double the basic income tax exemptions immediately for single and married persons under Union Nationale Government

The increased income taxes which Quebec wage-earners paid since the 1960 election have now proven to be only a "down payment" on the unkept promises of the present regime.

The staggering amounts of new money required to pay for further new promises can only lead to higher taxes again!

A vote for Union Nationale is a vote for the immediate increase of tax exemptions for Quebec taxpayers—from $1,000 to $2,000 for bachelors and from $2,000 to $4,000 for married persons.

There will be NO SECOND CLASS CITIZENS under Union Nationale. To make sure of this—mark your ballot for the Union Nationale candidate in your constituency.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Coming near that time

IN THE FIRST Remembrance celebrations, there were not enough poppies to go around. Then some of the men who were wounded, and couldn't work at other jobs, began to make poppies out of cloth. . . That is why today everybody wears a poppy which is not a real flower, but which reminds us of the flowers which grew over the graves of the men who died.

For many years after the first war, children stood with their parents on Remembrance Day. Everybody was silent, and everybody wore a poppy, and they all thought hard about the men who were killed.

By the time many of the children grew up, there was another war. The boys who were now young men, went to war. Many of them went to the same places as the men they used to remember. In the fighting in those places, a lot of the young men died.

When the second war was over, more people than ever wanted to wear a poppy: now there were more dead soldiers than ever to remember. There were also sailors and airmen. All of these people went to war to protect Canada. They went to war to protect the people who were in Canada then, and also the people who would be born in the future — people like yourselves.

They died so that you could enjoy all the good things in your life. They died so that your home would be safe, so that you would be given a chance of going to school, and going to the church of your choice. They also died so that you could make friends with whomever you please.

So perhaps you didn't know those men who died in war. But they knew you. They wanted you to live in peace.

Therefore, on Remembrance Day, when everybody wears a poppy and stands in silence, the gesture is a "thank you" to those who died for us.

Grannies at the wheel

"SHE DRIVES like my grandmother!" — That sounds like rude aspersion but it's not. . .

According to research by the public service division of the car manufacturers, British Motor Corporation, this is really a high compliment; investigators are convinced that granny, while perhaps a little fussy in her driving habits, is usually the safest driver on the road!

Perhaps the reason grandmother's driving habits have been so flagrantly maligned until now is because, in the growing maze of traffic accident statistics, they — and grandpappy too — simply do not exist.. There is no separate category for them. So a B.M.C. team delved into the matter for 10 days in order to partially vindicate the old dear.

To establish the case of granny, first look at the reported accidents caused by males vs females of all age groups. "Accident Facts for 1961 in Metropolitan Toronto", as prepared by the Metro Toronto police department's traffic branch, delivers a solid right hook to the male ego:

— Male drivers were involved in 36,670 accidents last year, or 88.8 percent of the 1961 total.

— Female drivers were involved in 3,873 tangles, only 9.4 percent of the total.

Of course, this leaves the argument there are more male drivers than female; the females appear to have a positive advantage right off the bat. However, when ages of drivers were studied, the grandmothers and grandfathers took a clear lead over the "children".

The authority in this case was "A Study of Accident Proneness Among Motor Drivers". This is an exhaustive study undertaken by the Industrial Health Research Board of London. The board's findings, after years of statistics, state flatly :

"Accident proneness is no longer theory but an established fact, and must be recognized as an important element in determining accident evidence.

"It is to some extent possible to detect persons most liable to sustain accidents.

"Certain groups of subjects had a wide age-range and sufficient numbers to make it possible to show the relation between accidents and age.

"Results show conclusively that the general tendency is for the accident rate to decrease with age!"

Statistical graphs showed further that there was a slight rise in the accident rate curve about the period of middle age, then followed by a sharp fall.

"A possible explanation of this," the scientists write, "is that advancing age may come almost imperceptibly upon people so that they continue to take the same risks as they did in earlier years. . . But "when they are definitely old, they realize that this cannot be done so they take fewer risks."

This last statement is a direct, positive point for driving grandmothers. But precisely how good granny is at driving will not be known until they are given a special statistical bracket in traffic accident reports. It is doubtful this will ever be done.

Investigation by the National Research Council shows the driving whoop-de-do set (aged 16 to 20) "have twice as many accidents per thousand as drivers of any other similar range but of greater age."

It should be noted here that, even though she's good, granny has to get over one slight problem. This has been brought to light by professors from Ohio State and Wayne universities in a study, "Psychology and the Motorist", which analyses such incidentals as "nagging wives, sex, weights and hats".

The professors point out, "Age, sex and urgent missions are frequently used by individuals to justify illegal parking. The aged especially feel they have the right to park anywhere." One grandmother in Columbus, Ohio, indignantly turned on a policeman who gently admonished her for improper parking. She spluttered, "Young man I've been parking at this corner of Broad and High since there were hitching posts." She got off with a warning!.

Austerity at U.S. border

NINE MONTHS' traffic figures for the Peace Bridge between Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ont., indicate that the austerity program of the Canadian government is having its effect — notes the "Letter Review", published at Fort Erie.

Revenue from passenger vehicles so far in the year has been reduced, all of which reduction has taken place since June. Import of commodities by motor vehicles has been reduced. Paradoxically, revenue from casual customs collections is increased, because what goods are coming across are in the main dutiable, whereas before there was the exemption of $100 every four months for persons who had spent at least 48 hours visiting in the U.S.A. The combinations of the reduced exemption from $100 to $25, the discount on the Canadian dollar in Buffalo, and the surcharge on certain customs duties, has brought a result that should be pleasing to the Canadian minister of finance, but has reduced the popularity of the Diefenbaker Government among Buffalo merchants.

To a greater or less degree the same conditions apply at other border points. Even if smuggling, a sumptuary crime, is increased, the discount on the Canadian dollar is a deterrent in itself.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Nov. 4, 1887 —

An effort is being made to form a snowshoe club here.

The "boys" were around on Hallowe'en for candies, apples and cigarettes. We noticed two ladies in the crowd, and they smoked too.

While two men were crossing the river at St. Canut in a flat-bottomed boat, the bottom gave way and both men were drowned.

A huge bear was killed near Lakefield by two guns set over the carcass of a sheep.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at Belfast, said Canada must be made to know that commercial union with the U.S. will mean the political separation of Canada from Great Britain.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, Oct. 25, 1912 —

Dr. Halsey, of Carillon, has left for the West, and Dr. Murphy, veterinary surgeon of Lachute, will be at St. Andrews every Wednesday.

Mrs. Robt. Hamilton returned from Howick after spending a few days with her mother, who is in ill health.

Mr. John Calder, of Three Rivers, spent Thanksgiving in town.

Others who spent Thanksgiving in Lachute were Misses M. Hewitt, A. Morrell, A. and I. Riddell, F. and G. McGillivray, B. McGibbon, Winnie Banford and L. Burke; Messrs. E. Christie, H. Creswell, L. McCoy, C. Spense, L. and D. Gall, H. McOuat, M. McGregor and H. Kearns.

At the town council meeting a largely signed petition was presented by Mr. Henry Barnes for his appointment as constable for this town.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Oct. 28, 1937 —

St. Andrews — At 3.30 Sunday morning two frame houses next to the Presbyterian Church, belonging to Thomas Webster and Allan Murray, were destroyed by fire. Lachute Fire Brigade were successful in keeping the flames from Commodore Horace Davis' home only 15 feet away.

Under the name of Lachute Lumber and Manufacturing Co. a new concern has bought the woodworking plant of Edmond Charlebois in Lachute Mills. The president and managing director is Marcel H. Gagné.

The death of Thos. Archibald MacAdam removes the last member of one of the first families in River Rouge settlement.

Alcidas Laurin is the contractor for a new Catholic girls' school between the Convent and the Calder property. Mr. Laurin completed the new Ste. Anastasie church earlier this year.

The Rev. George K. King, B.A., returned missionary from Honan, China, delighted a large congregation at Lachute United Church last Sunday. In view of the Sino-Japanese conflict, his talk was most timely.

Mrs. Norman Holland will be guest speaker at the W.I. study group, on the subject of "Present-Day Canadian Authors."

Considered the finest dance orchestra in Ottawa, Geo. Buffham and his musicians have been engaged for the "100 Club" Hallowe'en Masquerade.

Sir George and Lady Perley, of Ottawa, are spending several weeks at Virginia Hot Springs.

The Laurentian Highway is being widened at a point between Ste. Therese and St. Jerome, and motorists have been obliged to make a detour through Ste. Monique.

Common Market could kill small Cdn. industries

Britain's entry into the European Common Market will cost Canada, if she's lucky, about $200 million worth of existing export sales — Blair Fraser writes in Maclean's Magazine.

"It could be twice that much," Fraser writes. "Why then do the British refuse to recognize it as a vital or even important Canadian interest ?"

The answer, he thinks, is that the loss will be made up of reduced sales in a great variety of industries that don't really depend for their existence on sales to the United Kingdom. The total is large but the individual items are small: apples, $4 million; frozen cod, $1 million; fancy meats and edible offal, $1.5 million, and so on. Britain buys practically all the cheese Canada exports, but 85 percent of the cheese we make is sold at home.

"Canadians cannot honestly pretend that the loss of these sales will wreck any Canadian industry," Fraser says. "What they can argue . . . is that ruin is facing many a small enterprise which may be an important employer in a Canadian community. . . In dozens of small towns across the country, small companies are employing small staffs at work that depends on the Commonwealth preference (which would be wiped out if the U.K. joined the Common Market) in the British market."

YOUR WEEKLY NEWSPAPER —

Newspapers depend on advertisers

(This is the third in a series of editorials explaining how a weekly newspaper functions.)

The advertiser is the man who makes the modern newspaper possible. He provides the major part of the revenue, for without advertising the subscription price of any paper would be prohibitive.

The advertiser wants to sell his goods or services to a large number of clients and therefore must get his message to prospective customers. A much higher percentage of both news and advertising appearing in the hometown journals is actually read than that appearing in a metropolitan newspaper or a national magazine. This fact is the reason why the weekly is such a valuable advertising medium. The readers are customers — one half of all retail buying in Canada is done in small centres served by weeklies.

While on the subject, we would like to refute the old chestnut that advertisers dictate a paper's policy. The advertiser wants a message read, and that means a a large number of subscribers who have a fair amount of faith in the paper. Such a circulation is possible, over a period of years, only by a paper with an independent policy. It would not therefore be in the advertiser's own interest to try to dictate editorial policy.

Here at The Lachute Watchman we have had very few attempts made by advertisers to "dictate" to us. And those few attempts were rebuffed.

Summing up, the advertiser makes it possible to sell the paper for a few cents apiece. An independent, outspoken press provides better advertising than does a subservient one. No paper, therefore, need be dictated to by its advertisers, even though the advertiser does provide the major part of a paper's revenue.

Of Many Things

— By Ambrose Hills —

AUSTERITY HAS HELPED

Because it was absolutely necessary, the Canadian government reluctantly adopted austerity measures. Those measures have helped to increase employment. Our foreign exchange reserves are in better shape. Our economy has improved at a faster rate than that of the U.S.A.

Isn't there a moral to be drawn from this?

There is, of course. It has shown that what many economists have been saying is true: we needed to quit living beyond our means. Once willing to do so, our future strength is assured.

However, it is unlikely that politicians of any stripe will want to continue these necessary measures very long. They prefer to spend freely and tax heavily. Common sense is not the most popular quality, they feel.

They may be wrong. In my opinion, there are many voters who would back all moves to reduce expenditure and get our budget balanced. They know that only by self-discipline now can Canada build a solid and prosperous future. They have seen powerful nations such as Britain lose economic strength through over-spending, through attempting to provide for the citizens comforts that the citizens were not, as individuals, prepared to earn. Every Canadian with a touch of horse sense has known for a long time that our spending spree could not go on forever without a day of reckoning.

A pump that must always be primed is not good enough. There has been too much pump priming in Canada. We surely have learned our lesson. We have faced facts and reformed, to some extent, our tendency to over-spend. Have we the gumption to stick with it until we can afford the affluence we have been affecting.

ALARMING SIGHT

Meaford, Ont. (CP) — A small raccoon wandering into this Owen Sound district community caused a lot of excitement. A woman reported the animal was covered in blood. A policeman investigated and found an irate painter who said the raccoon had knocked over a can of red paint.

LEGION NOTES

"ACTIVE SERVICE YESTERDAY COMMUNITY SERVICE TODAY"

One of the most important of Canadian Legion undertakings, the annual Poppy Campaign, is upon us again. November 8-9-10 have been officially declared as poppy days in Lachute. . . The door to door canvassing gets underway Thursday evening and continues on to Friday evening, 9th. The area has been divided into sectors with a team of canvassers for each section. If any member has not already been contacted by a team captain — if he will present himself at the Legion hall at 7 p.m. on the days designated, his services will be put to good use.

The annual Remembrance Day dinner will take place Saturday, 10th. Church parade, the next morning, will be to Ste. Anastasie parish church and the Remembrance parade and cenotaph ceremonies that afternoon. Church parade and cenotaph parade are the same times for falling-in, etc., as other years.

Last week was United Nations Week. United Nations, formed out of the ashes and ravages of war, starting with the hopes and dreams of all mankind, has weathered continuous storms of world turbulence and international crisis. History, alone, will prove if it has been adequate, or whether it goes the way of the League of Nations.

Somehow we find our notes for this week's column cluttered with an unrelated hodge-podge of odds and ends of triviality. Among some of the items were:

Minority race and religious groups need not dispair. Things could always be worse. They could have been born American Indians. Actually, the Indian had a real good thing going for him, until the white man goofed things up.

Way back when, the women did all the work while the men sat around on their buckskins. And the white man thought he could improve upon a system like this. The Indian still thinks the white man a little foolish. They tell the story of the Indian watching water skiing for the first time, who asked: "Why boat go so fast?" The second Indian replied, "Man on string chase 'im."

Put on your costumes, bring your friends to the Legion Hallowe'en Dance Saturday November 3. Prizes for the best costumes will be distributed, along with music, dancing and a good time.

In that foggy occupation of "raisin' children" there is one thing about the house that becomes more and more necessary — an encyclopedia.

No, we are not in cahoots with any encyclopedia salesman; we just know what happens around our house when the kids are about.

Since parents are supposed to know all the answers, the kids do not hesitate to fire away on any or all subjects. . .

"What's the biggest fish in the ocean?"

"What's the biggest thing in the world?"

"How long is forever?"

"How many planets are there?"

"What was the longest war ever?"

These are just a few examples, and each brings a frantic search of the dim, dark reaches of memory, with (usually) dim, dark results.

And so, encyclopedias to the rescue. If you wish to hide your lack of answers, you can always tell the kids to look up the answers themselves. Good practice for them.

But the questions now, with the children nine and ten, aren't as rough as they used to be. We will never forget one hot afternoon when we were trying to mow the lawn (the hard way, with a push-mower no less) and one of our young sons, aged four, insisted on stopping us to ask a couple of questions.

"Daddy, how high up is God? . . . Daddy, does God have an airplane and what color is it?"

We sat down in the shade. Those answers took some thought.

Sometimes they come up with a philosophical answer themselves. The same four-year-old had been caught telling a fib. "How do you expect to get in heaven?" asked his mother, "after telling a lie." "Oh — I will keep running in and out and slamming the door, then, someone will holler at me. . . . EITHER COME IN OR STAY OUT. . . After a few minutes I will go in."

They say juvenile delinquency is the result of parents trying to train their children without starting at the bottom. One parent is trying without much success, as we overheard the other night. "Ah, there is the place Mother told us to stay away from; I thought I would never find it."

(Advt. published by the Election Committee for Mr. Durocher)

THE LIBERAL RECORD

Under the leadership of Premier Jean Lesage, Quebec has made great strides in catching up with the rest of Canada. The Liberal Government freed the Province from a political limbo — sixteen years of dictatorship, favouritism and corruption. Sound policies and honest administration propelled Quebec ahead. Here are some of the things that have been done.

HOSPITALIZATION

Established hospitalization program to relieve the financial burden of sickness for all residents of the Province. The cost in 1962 — 193 million dollars, of which 83 million was claimed from the Federal Government.

EDUCATION

Primary Education

Established free education to Grade 11; provided free text books and transportation. Paid 247 million dollars in statutory grants to school commissions. Paid 102 million dollars — approximately 80% of costs — for construction of 5,654 classrooms. Allocated 55 million dollars for three year construction program of crafts and technical schools. Established a family allowance of 10 dollars a month for children aged 16 and 17 still in school.

Higher Education

Made grants of 109 million dollars to universities. Made grants of 62 million dollars to classical colleges, normal schools and other institutions. Financed 55 thousand scholarships ranging from 5 hundred to 4 thousand dollars.

The Future

Appointed a Royal Commission (The Parent Commission) to investigate the educational system of the Province and to recommend to the Government a program for the future.

WELFARE BENEFITS

Increased old age, invalid and blind pensions, established new grants for widows and spinsters at age 60.

UNEMPLOYMENT

In two years, Quebec shared in the costs of 7,827 winter work projects — providing employment for 116,529. Established a technical training program for the unemployed — 60% of those enrolled found work at their new trades.

PUBLIC WORKS & HIGHWAYS

Contracts

Established the principle of Public Tenders for public works and highway contracts of over 2 thousand dollars*.

Roads & Bridges

Initiated an extensive construction and improvement program for county roads. Joined the Trans-Canada Highway program. Assumed the cost of the Metropolitan Boulevard. Authorized construction of major bridges in the Montreal, Three Rivers and Shawinigan areas and the construction of 82 other bridges throughout the Province. Spent 17 million dollars on winter highway maintenance. Developed roads-to-resources program.

Under the Quebec Autoroutes Authority

Approved extension of the Laurentian Autoroute to Ste-Adele and the start of construction of Montreal-Sherbrooke autoroute. Authorized a detailed study of Quebec City-Three Rivers-Montreal autoroute.

Public Buildings

Authorized construction of new Court Houses in Montreal. St-Hyacinthe, Baie Comeau, New Carlisle.

A study of 186 contracts has shown — On the unit price system of the former Government, the work would have cost 54 million dollars. The actual cost under the Public Tender System, 41 million dollars — a saving of 13 million dollars.*

AGRICULTURE

Increased farm credits by $5,000. Interest of 3% on 10,000 farm improvement loans paid by the Government. Increased aid to agricultural societies by 50%. Established the only two institutes of agricultural technology in Canada.

Through honest, progressive administration Quebec, in the last two years, has emerged from the political dark ages into a new era of modern progress under the dynamic leadership of Jean Lesage. The Liberal Government has earned your confidence.

WHAT TO DO FOR A CRYING BABY

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I just want to run away from the house as far as possible when our baby starts crying," a very new father of a first child admitted to his mother.

"We should have kept a recording of your crying — you would have won first prize," she answered. "Babies don't cry for fun or to be annoying. It is their way of telling their parents they need something."

"Something? That's the catch. I'll be glad when our baby is old enough to talk!"

Young fathers and young mothers, too, often are alarmed, annoyed and mystified when, shortly after the baby comes home from the hospital, he has crying spells.

"He can cry so hard that I'm scared there's something dreadful the matter with him," a mother said. "Then in a few minutes after he has stopped he is as peaceful and happy as a baby could be."

Babies are extremists. If they start to cry they usually seem to concentrate on really crying. In pioneer days there was usually an older womap in the big house where the young couple lived, a maiden aunt, or grandmother, who re-assured the parents that every baby cries hard part of the time and that usually all a baby needs is loving attention. Before long a baby grows out of this crying stage.

Many of today's young couples live in small homes by themselves, with no one to turn to about the baby's crying spells. If they are in an apartment they are terrified that the nearest neighbors will complain to the landlord about the baby disturbing their sleep. The mother dreads the expense of moving and rushes to pick up the baby at his first yell.

All healthy small babies do some crying. It is their way of expressing their needs, discomforts and emotions. Before long a mother recognizes the hungry cry of a baby protesting the cramp-like feelings of his empty stomach compared with the sharp cry of a baby in pain. The fretful wail of a tired out infant who for some reason is having difficulty going to sleep is very different from the yell of a baby frightened by a loud noise or falling.

A little crying doesn't harm a baby but it is unnatural for the baby and upsetting for the mother to let him cry on and on for a long period. No longer do most mothers follow a rigid schedule, and never feed their babies a little ahead of time, if they are crying for their next meal.

A hungry baby can work himself up into a highly emotional state. As his cries continue he gasps spasmodically and swallows air. Then he is in no condition to settle down quietly and enjoy, much less digest, his meal when he does get it.

The most common reason for a baby's crying is an empty stomach and if it is near his next meal time, a mother should pick him up and feed him. If he is half way in time between two meals, a little boiled water may satisfy him.

A change of diapers may be his other urgent need. Fresh diapers will certainly make him more comfortable. Perhaps a pin is sticking into him or he may have too many covers, and be too hot, or even too cold because he has kicked off his covering. His bed should be smooth ond comfortable.

Perhaps an air bubble is hurting him and he needs to be picked up, held against mother's shoulder and gently patted on the back and "burped". Just to be held reassures the crying baby. Once he stops yelling, he may relax and fall asleep in a few minutes.

The persistent, very sharp cry of pain, when nothing will comfort or distract a baby, should be reported by phone to the doctor. If the crying continues to be a major problem, the doctor is the person to consult, not relatives or friends or neighbors. Doctors are specialists in the ways of babies and they know best what parents should do about a particular baby's crying problem which is too much for them to handle.

Cheese tray for a television party

It's easy on the hostess and a favorite with guests — an assortment of crackers and cheese with fine fall fruit. Fine Canadian cheddar will never go amiss on a cheese tray. To accompany it, the Consumer Section suggests some Canadian-made varieties of foreign origin — a slice of Swiss (Emmentaler), with round "eyes"; a wedge of Oka, Trappist or St. Paulin; blue-veined cheese hiding behind the round waxed Gouda; pie-shaped Camembert with the familiar slices of nippy cheddar.

— Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

(Consumer Section)

Take time to thoroughly tour the meat counter next time you shop — the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, points out some of the thrifty meat buys you may have overlooked.

Beef Cuts

Shoulder Roasts — Cross rib, short rib and blade make excellent pot roasts. They should be cooked covered with very little water, either on top of the stove or in the oven. A pot roast is a complete meal-in-one when cooked with prepared vegetables around it. Allow ¼ to ½ pound of meat for each serving of cooked meat you require.

Rib Steaks — cut from the standing rib section, are popularly priced. Thin, well-trimmed steaks may not look as elegant as inch-thick ones but they are less expensive.

Round Steak — Buy a complete round steak and cut it into top and bottom round. Ask the butcher to show you the top round — it has one complete muscle and is tender enough to panfry or broil. The bottom round is less tender and should be cooked in liquid as "Swiss steak".

Flank Steak — is a flat, lean piece of meat with coarse fibres, usually scored or pounded to make it tender. A 1½ to 2 pound flank steak can be stuffed with well-seasoned bread stuffing and will give 6 servings. It should be browned and then braised in liquid until tender (about 1 hour).

Minced Beef — may be either hamburg, minced chuck, or minced round steak. The minced round is the most expensive but contains the most lean meat.

Stewing Beef — There's nothing like a good beef stew with lots of vegetables for a satisfying meal. Two pounds of stewing beef with vegetables will make 6 substantial servings. One pound of stewing beef and one pound of beef kidney makes a delicious beef and kidney pie which is also enough for 6 servings.

Lamb Cuts

Lamb-in-the-Basket — is usually the least expensive of the lamb cuts. Whole or part of the front is sold in this way. In a whole lamb front of 7 to 8 pounds, there would be a shoulder roast, several shoulder chops and stewing meat.

Stewing Lamb — 2 pounds boneless stewing lamb will make a tasty stew or curried lamb for 6 servings.

Stewing pieces such as shank, breast and neck are good cooked slowly in tomato juice or a spicy barbecue sauce.

Shoulder Chops — are meaty and flavorful and a few cents less than rib or loin chops. They may be panfried, broiled, or baked in the oven.

Lamb Hearts — Small lamb hearts weigh only 3 to 5 ounces each so you would need to buy 1 for a serving. They are usually stuffed with a well-seasoned bread stuffing and baked in the oven.

Pork Cuts

Smoked Picnic Shoulder — (bone in or boneless) usually sells for less than leg hams. It may be baked, boiled or pressure cooked.

Shoulder Pork Chops — usually sell for a few cents less per pound than rib or loin chops. They are less tender but can be panfried, baked or braised in liquid.

Pork or Beef Liver and Bacon — This makes a nourishing and economical meal. Panfry the liver in the fat left after frying the bacon. You will get three to four servings from 1 pound of liver.

Mixed Grill — Try sausages or sausage patties, and liver (or kidney) and bacon broiled together with tomatoes and mushroom caps for a tasty supper dish.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

As women continue the endless effort to invade those fronts in business and industry once occupied by men, progress reports — both good and bad — are continually appearing.

Women now have "truly invaded the banking field," in the magazine published by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Canada.

Five years ago there were only five female accountants in Canadian banks. Now there are 35. And another 50 women now are assistant accountants.

The year 1957 saw women appointed as assistants to managers and in 1962, the Bank of Nova Scotia appointed four women as bank managers.

There are now three women in Canadian banks with the title of credit officer, and two women have been appointed inspectors.

In the banking field in general women are employed as staff training instructors and supervisors of such departments as current accounts, safety deposit box, discount, foreign exchange, clearing, collections, securities and special bank loans.

Women also hold responsible positions in Canadian banks as economists, personnel officers, librarians, and editors of staff magazines.

"Women have earned recognition in all departments of the banks except, as yet, that of general manager," wrote Miss Stephens.

Losing Ground

But while making progress in the business field, women may be losing ground in some others, notably education.

Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, an anthropologist and professor of education at New York University, said recently that room at the top of the academic pyramid is reserved for men — and women who aspire to climb higher have less chance today than 10 years ago.

She said that from grade schools, women "simply do not count" in promotions, scholarly honors or top administrative posts.

In the leadership of any college, "the relative percentage of women is less than it was 20 or even 10 years ago. Four out of five of the full-time faculty in all institutions of higher learning are men, even though the number of women graduates has doubled in the last 30 years."

For the first time in 100 years, more men than women are on the high school teaching staffs, and men teachers have also increased in the elementary teaching staffs that were once the women's stronghold.

So it might be well for women to examine their losses as well as their gains.

Triumph for property owners and adventures in woods lore

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

We had a most interesting letter in the post this morning, from a formerly harassed friend who had, like us, bought a farm in order to have a quiet retreat for weekends and holidays — only to find that, in the most glorious of seasons, one must stay indoors because one's life, and domestic animals, were in constant danger from hunters. Note, we said, formerly. The good people of that portion of Brome County have solved their problem; moreover, they have done it on advice from the government. The enclosure, setting forth the by-laws and constitution of the newly formed Fish and Game Club, runs to four legal-sized pages, so we can only synopsize its contents. Briefly, residents may hunt; others may not. There are Class A and Class B residents, depending on the size of the holdings. My friend reports that on Sunday, October 21, she heard only one shot. I am sending this interesting document to the Council of the Gore, and trust they will give it their earnest consideration. Surely, the Irish of Argenteuil are as tough and resourceful as the quasi-Yankees of Brome.

Speaking of Yankees — at this time it appears ALL our problems may be solved by a bomb blast. Not that we disagree with Mr. Kennedy; the more one gives a bully, the more he takes. This should apply in political circles as well as in the domain of so-called sport. We may live in a dangerous age, but it is a mighty interesting one. What with threats by this nation and that, with something like a civil war raging in our own province, with the black races about to control half of the seats in the United Nations, life is not dull. Anyone who does not have interest in world affairs these days is either a clod or an ostrich!

But we really sat down to tell you of an interesting day we recently spent at Harrington, as guests of the Rouge River Valley Association, which was holding a meeting at the staff-house of the Canadian International Paper Co. The purpose of that meeting was to acquaint the farmers belonging to the Association with methods of raising, caring for and marketing trees. The International Paper Co. has several thousand acres of land in the Harrington district, and part of that acreage is given over to an experimental Tree Farm. What they learn on their farm, they pass on to the farmer, if he is interested. Driving about the country, you may have seen signs reading "Tree Farm". These are farms that are trying to care for existing woodlots, or to raise new ones under the guidance of the experts at the Experimental Farm at Harrington. On Saturday, October 20, we saw in one part of one field 1½ million red pine trees, three years of age and about 8" tall, awaiting distribution to interested farmers at 1¢ each. One must take at least 1,000 trees. In other parts of the plantation were many more millions, at various stages of growth. There were baby pines the size of a thimble, just completing their first summer. The largest we saw were about six feet tall, and had been planted in 1957.

Besides being shown all these wonders, we were entertained with nature films in the staff-house, films which were, we thought, quite the equal of the famous Disney nature films. We admired the excellency of the photography, and wondered anew at the viciousness of nature. All the carnivore spend a great part of their lives killing. It is not a pretty thing to watch; but, at least, they do it to eat, that is to live, whereas, man the greatest carnivore seems to delight in just plain killing. Disgusting. . . After the films, we had lunch, and then the tour of the farm.

Part of the pleasure of the day was in meeting the members and other guests. The membership appears to be about two-thirds French, and one-third English. It seemed to be a bi-lingual group, and the rapport between the two groups was good. There must have been ten Roman Catholic priests, most of them from even farther back in the hills. They would presumably take back what they heard to their flock. The head of the house renewed acquaintance with a certain Abbé who belonged to the same mycology club. This particular priest had always been most kind to the daughter of the house, and one of her fondest recollections is of the Abbé in his long, black soutane gallantly holding an umbrella over her head as they scurried for shelter from a storm. The fact that the umbrella was so full of holes that it acted as a sprinkler, merely added piquancy to the situation.

Margaret Cook herself was delighted to meet the head of Arundel High School, about whose constructive innovation in adding a Tree Farm to the holdings of his school, she has often heard. The Tree Farm has been made possible through the good-will of the Canadian International Paper Co. and we hear that on Friday, November 2, the Paper Co. will hand over the deed to the property at a suitable ceremony. We were invited, but it is a long way to travel for yet another school ceremony; however, our thoughts will be with them, especially with the Principal. Lo, a headmaster who develops, not just stuffs, the child! Think of the useful things the lucky children at Arundel High are learning, some tangible, some not so tangible. As we mentioned in our last article, we believe in work for young and old. We doubt that these pupils go home to break windows or otherwise commit mayhem.

So, we went home full of new thoughts, through the beautful hills of Argenteuil. One thought, that will cause snorts of contempt from some reader, was of the two albino pet porcupine, owned by a resident of Rivington. We did not have as much conversation with this person as we would have wished, but the head of the house reports that he is a real country-lover, filled with the lore of the outdoors. He and our fellow correspondent should get together. We wanted to say more of the beauty of the district around Harrington, but the space is gone. . . Take a drive, and see for yourself.

Clear way for ARDA projects

Ottawa — Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced that he has now been authorized to enter into contracts for research projects to be carried out by the federal government under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act.

The move clears the way for the hiring of consultants and for contracts covering research, studies, reports and analysis of data in connection with the ARDA program.

At the same time, the Minister announced that negotiations are expected to be completed shortly on a number of research projects to be carried out jointly by the federal government and the provinces.
