BUSY WEEK-END FOR FIRE BRIGADE —

Rash of fires in sub-zero weather, loss of homes and families ousted

A fire Saturday morning gutted the Corbeil Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Laurent Renaud and their three children. The building, owned by Arthur Roy, was vacant at the time of the fire.

The call to the Village of Ayersville was received at 12.20 a.m. Saturday and Fire Chief Don McCulloch and a crew of men answered the alarm. Immediately upon arrival, a general alarm was sounded for all members of the fire department, and the men remained on the scene for more than two hours until the fire was extinguished.

Mr. Renaud is reported to have left the house sometime after supper, and was visiting relatives in Hawkesbury at the time of the outbreak. Their eldest child was in Ayersville at a nearby house. The fire was discovered by neighbors, who smelled smoke.

It is believed the blaze was caused by overheated stove pipes, which in turn ignited the wall. Flames spread throughout the small building, and caused extensive damage to all the contents.

Shortly after 9 a.m. on Saturday, firemen were summoned to the Lions Club skating rink, where the snowblower had ignited. The resulting fire in the shed which housed the machine, was quickly extinguished.

At 10.45 a.m. the same day, a fire at the home of Albert Monpetit, 295 Hamford Street, was confined to the chimney, no damage resulting.

A recently constructed 1½-storey house in East Settlement owned and occupied by Léon-Jean Plouffe, was razed shortly before noon on Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Plouffe escaping with the clothes on their backs.

The fire is believed to have started in the upper level of the clapboard-covered house and was discovered by Mrs. Plouffe, who ran some 75 yards to the barn to seek the assistance of her husband. On their return to the house they encountered dense smoke and intense heat from the flames, which by this time had swept through the upper storey of the home. They managed to pull several items of living room furniture from the dwelling before being forced to leave.

A crew of volunteer firemen under the direction of Chief Don McCulloch answered the alarm a few minutes after 11 a.m., but were unable to combat the flames due to complete lack of water. The reserve tank on the pumper truck was held for emergency after an initial attempt to extinguish the main fire, as several farm buildings were endangered by sparks and embers. The home had burned to the ground by 12.35 o'clock.

It is reported that only a small portion of the loss was covered by insurance.

The local branch of the Red Cross is responding to the needs of the family of six, and it is believed that all donations from persons in the area will be welcome, as no clothing was saved other than that which the occupants were wearing at the time.

At six o'clock on Monday, a call was received from Paul Henri Poirier, 251 Champlain Street, Ayersville. This fire was of a minor nature.

On executive of Macdonald Royal

Miss Beverley Hadley of Valois, Que., formerly of Lachute, has been elected 1st vice-president of the 16th Annual Macdonald College Royal, which will be held on February 22.

Her function on the Royal executive is to organize all Home Economics displays for the annual show.

Beverley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hadley, is a graduate of Lachute High School and is now completing her final year at Macdonald.

Crash and injury on Highway 8

A 1962-model Montreal taxi was demolished, the driver suffering serious injury, in an accident on Route 8 near St. Philippe, on Friday evening of last week.

According to Officer Gerard Jeanrie, Q.P.P., the taxi driven by Jean H. Sabourin, ran into the rear of a parked truck owned and operated by Emile St. Pierre, of Ste. Therese de Blainville.

The taxi driver was treated for injuries at the Providence Hospital, and was then transferred to hospital in St. Jerome.

Officers named by St. Andrews Ch. of Commerce

St. Andrews East — The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at the fire station on Tuesday, January 29. The president, Henri Labreche, was able to report a year of progress, and it was with mixed feelings that the members had to choose a new president, as the present one had been "promoted" to the mayoralty of the Village.

President, P. B. Aitken; vice-president, F. L. Payne; treasurer, M. A. Boulais; secretary, F. W. F. Whitehead.

Directors — Paul Labreche, S. W. Rodger, Thomas Fournier, F. A. Robertson, Dr. André L'Allier, Dr. Marcel Sylvestre, Tupper Porter and Arthur Paradis.

Legal advisor, Antoine Paré.

Teacher shortage a continuing factor in Education changes, Quebec Province

Education, past, present and future, was the topic of a most interesting talk given by Dr. E. S. Giles, at the January meeting of the Lachute and District Home and School Association. . . Dr. Giles, who has retired to his home town of Lachute, served 31 years in the Quebec Department of Protestant Education, and was for many years its Director — the highest position in the province, in the field of Protestant education.

Touching on education in the past, Dr. Giles noted that the greatest change has been in consolidation. There has been an almost complete disappearance of one-roomed school-houses, to the extent that there are only 26 left in the province. And nowhere in Canada has consolidation been more rapid than in the Province of Quebec. The process came about because of a shortage of teachers, poor roads, poor facilities, and insufficient funds to meet the needs of all these small schools adequately.

In the present, a shortage of teachers still faces us, largely because of the tremendous increase in the number of students. Enrolment had had a steady decline of 1,000 students a year in the 'thirties, until it reached a low of 65,000 pupils in 1945, with 2,700 teachers. There has been a steady climb to 120,000 pupils in 1962, with 5,000 teachers. This sudden influx of students is forcing some vital changes in the outlook on education. The necessity of a high school education, and more especially a Grade 12 standing, is becoming a recognized fact, and the ability to provide this standard for all, will be a prime concern of all levels of government.

Facing us in the future, therefore, is the financial problem, and a shortage of teachers still. The shortage of teachers will partially be met by importing teachers from other provinces and other countries (Quebec graduates only 60% of its teacher-needs each year) — and also by machines and other teaching aids. Dr. Giles feels also that parents should help, by encouraging their children to become teachers.

Because of the recognized need for education, the future will see some new innovations, and Dr. Giles listed some ideas that will possibly materialize:

1. There will be special classes, which will include challenging courses for gifted students.
2. Special courses for career opportunities such as merchandising, garage-station attendants, and other courses for students unable to master the regular high school subjects.
3. Possible "streaming" of pupils in groups rather than grades, with teachers progressing with their pupils.
4. Grade 12 will eventually become a requisite for most careers and positions.

Dr. Giles feels that parents and teachers alike must encourage high school pupils to be ambitious, to overcome frustrations and fear of failure, and to overlook easy-income jobs with no future.

Dr. Giles predicted also that control of education will remain local, but there will be more help coming from government and from industry.

Principal F. Royal introduced Dr. Giles to the 50 parents and teachers who attended, and Mrs. A. M. Vessie extended a very warm "thank you" in their behalf.

During the business meeting which preceded Dr. Giles' talk, President Harry Booth announced that letters pertaining to a motion about safety of school buses on the highways had been sent to the Attorney-General G. LaPalme, and to the Quebec Federation of Home and School, from the local Association.

It was noted with pride for the teaching staff, that at the conclusion of a four-day inspection of Lachute High School by Mr. J. Ferris, Inspector-General for this county, Mr. Ferris gave a very favorable report on the school, mentioning specifically good progress in the primary grades, and in Mrs. G. R. Rigby's music classes.

The next Home and School meeting will be on March 13, and will take the form of a panel discussion. Dr. G. R. Rigby will moderate the discussions, and the panel will include Miss E. Stanton, English teacher in the High School; Mrs. G. Dobbie, a parent of children attending the High School; Mr. W. Freeland, from Brownsburg Home and School; and the Rev. C. S. Woods, of Brownsburg United Church.

April 3 has been set as the date for the annual Scholarship Whist.

NEW PRESIDENT AND EXECUTIVE —

Ch. of Commerce to continue efforts towards annexation

Other officers are — Bertrand L'Heureux, 1st vice-pres.; Gaetan St.-Jacques, 2nd vice-pres.; André Cayer, secretary; Gabriel Valois, treasurer. Directors — Richard Pépin, Marcel Grondin, Gaetan Leclair, Claude Tessier, Damase Audet, André Lefebvre, Dr. Marc Papineau, Robt. Marcil, J.-Roger Lamarche and Antoine Malaket (ex-president).

The new president outlined the year's program; key projects include (1) pressure towards annexation of St. Jerusalem and Ayersville to the town of Lachute; (2) a Lachute tourist bureau; (3) industrial development; (4) industrial visits; (5) special dinner speakers; (6) golf tournament; (7) spring dance and soiree; (8) publication of a members' bulletin, and other social activities.

Various committees were formed, and it was decided to discontinue the monthly bond drawings.

Tony Malaket, retiring president, reviewed the activities of the Chamber during the past year. In its opposition to the Council's sales tax and business tax schedule (notably in the latter instance), he deplored a lack of support from the town merchants.

Revamping directors' board for new hospital

The remaining members of the Argenteuil Hospital Board met January 31, with a representative from the provincial government, to appoint four additional directors. The four standing directors are Notary Simon Valois, Herb Graves, Donald M. Hay and Armand Desrosiers; the latter, however, was absent by reason of ill health.

New directors whose nomination was formally accepted, are — K. W. McGibbon, works manager of C-I-L, Brownsburg; Roger Lagarde, Q.C., Lachute; Bernard Gosselin, Lachute, of the personnel department at C-I-L; and Lévis Clement, manufacturer, of Lachute.

Still four more directors remain to be appointed; these will be selected from a list of citizens whose names have been submitted to the Department of Health.

Gilbert Ayers, Roger Regimbal and Léopold Carrière, members of the original board, have resigned from office.

Break-in and robbery at Ayersv'l school

Entry to the Clément School, Ayersville, was gained by miscreants on the night of Tuesday to Wednesday, last week. The caretaker, Georges Clement, discovered the break-in at 7.15 a.m. Wednesday.

Q.P.P. Officer Emile Descoeurs investigated, and reported that a sum of approximately $800 had been taken from the office of the School Commission secretary-treasurer and the principal, $500 from a safe, and $300 from a cash box. Entry to the school was gained by means of a window, and an estimated $500 damage to property was reported.

An arrest is expected within several days, according to the investigating officer.

A Montreal daily reported that some 40 rifles belonging to the local Air Cadet squadron had been stolen from the school. However, this report is unfounded; there was nothing reported missing but the money.

Art exhibition features Quebec's young painters

A feature in the Montreal art program each year is the "Salon de la Jeune Peinture" — an under-30 artists' exhibition at the Galerie Denyse Delrue, which brings out the more promising talent and underlines the trend in young painters of the metropolis. The event is watched with interest by critics and enthusiasts.

This year, by arrangement of the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil, the exhibition will be brought to Lachute for the first time, immediately after its presentation in Montreal. This announcement is in keeping with the policy of the Centre d'Art to keep abreast with cultural trends and make them available to the local public.

The exhibition opens at the Centre d'Art quarters (380 Main Street) on Sunday, February 10, at 2 p.m. The 20-odd paintings on display will portray the craft of the modern generation of painters. The show is open for inspection daily from 2 to 6 p.m. (and from Sundays also from 7 to 9 p.m.) from February 10 to 24, inclusive. Admission is free, and a special invitation is extended to senior school students.

Cable television for Hawkesbury

A Hawkesbury business man, Nick Krasnechukow, received permission from the town council last week to erect a TV receiving tower, with a view to establishing a cable-vision system in the town. He aims to have the system in operation within a year, with assured reception on nine broadcast channels. The service will cost between $3.50 and $4.50 a month.

It is stated that another firm, Hawkesbury Lumber, is also experimenting on a similar installation.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

A replacement was required for Armand Desrosiers at the helm of the Red Cross campaign — Mr. Desrosiers now convalescing from illness at Miami, Florida. Co-chairmen are W. M. C. (Bill) Steeves and Bob Armstrong. Campaign dates are set for March 18 to 30.

The Department of Public Works at Ottawa has called for tenders for permanent lighting installation on the Perley Interprovincial Bridge at Grenville. Temporary lighting will be used in the meantime — the bridge having been in darkness since the raising of the structure necessitated by higher level of the Ottawa River.

A cold snap hit hard last Sunday and intensified overnight, knocking temperatures down to 44-below (Monday morning at Kilmar). Grenville High School had to close Monday morning, due to inadequate heat and stalled buses. . . Conditions in Lachute were less severe, with the thermometer in the 20-below bracket. Tow-trucks were much in demand.

Mishap claims only child of rural couple

Another wintertime tragedy claimed a young victim last week, when three-year-old Gilbert Pharand, being towed in a sleigh at Brown's Gore near St. Andrews, was hit and killed instantly by a truck.

The sled was being hauled by a 14-year-old boy, Rejean Dupéré, when it was hit from behind by a truck driven by Laurent Labelle, of St. Augustin, a dealer in hay and forage. Young Dupéré (it is understood) stopped pulling the sled as the truck approached, but the sleigh and child slid sideways into the path of the truck. The fatality occurred at 1.30 p.m. on Friday.

The young victim, three years and ten months of age, was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Gaëtan Pharand (the former Cecile Kingsbury). His grandparents reside in St. Hermas and St. Andrews.

Funeral rites were held in the St. Andrews parish church on Sunday afternoon.

Officer Gerard Jeanrie, of the Provincial Police, investigated the fatality. A coroner's inquest will be held, at a date not yet announced.

Gov.-General invited to open H'by Scout Hall

According to "Le Carillon", the Hawkesbury Town Council has voted $500 to the group committee of the 17th Hawkesbury Boy Scout Troop towards a banquet to mark the opening of its new hall, at which His Excellency the Governor-General, Georges P. Vanier, will be invited to officiate. There will be 200-250 guests at the banquet, to take place probably in mid-April.

The new hall, designed by a Hawkesbury architect, Marc Angers, with Atomik Construction as contractors will cost in the neighborhood of $48,000. It is expected the building will be completed by the end of March.

Lesage on Confederation — calls for confidence in French Canada

"THIS WEEK IN QUEBEC"
By John Yorston, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec — Premier Lesage announced — to prolonged, enthusiastic desk-thumping from Liberal members — that Hydro-Quebec had succeeded in raising $300,000,000 in the United States to be used to buy shares of private power companies slated for take-over this year.

The premier and his cabinet ministers were obviously pleased with the outcome of negotiations for the loan. Mr. Lesage appeared in a buoyant mood as he rose in the Quebec House to make the announcement.

He said the loan was the biggest ever contracted by Canadians in the United States. It was also the biggest made by a foreign country in the U.S. since the First World War.

Price of the issue was 98¼ for 25-year bonds at five per cent. Cost of the issue, said Mr. Lesage, was 5¼ per cent.

He said the bonds had been offered to more than 40 institutions in all parts of the United States, and that it had been oversubscribed.

"This is obviously evidence of confidence. It is proof of confidence in the future of the province, first of all, and of confidence in the administration which presides over the destinies of the province at the present time," he said.

Shortly afterwards, however, the premier announced a setback in attempts to start up another source of revenue, this time

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

The growing concern over supposed fish and game clubs that have no more respect for the game laws than the wildlife itself, is rapidly coming to a head. From information I have received about, some of these supposed sportsmen it is hard to identify these clubs with conservation. One of the cute little tricks is to buy a license for a non-hunter or non-fisherman in the family, then use this extra permit to try for better bags. I'm sorry to say this is done far too often. At present there is nothing that can be done to stop the practice. It would seem that the idea of saving any of our wildlife is out of date; the only thought is, that it is being killed off so fast, they better get in on it now!

This practice is not going to be easy to stamp out, but it could be done. For instance, the only persons authorized to sell these permits would be the Game Wardens. On receiving a permit, a picture of the permit-holder must be affixed. A permit to be sold only to the person it is intended for (not as it is at present). The person who has the license must report to the Wardens themselves, and not have someone else do it for them. These are a few ideas; and there are undoubtedly better ones that could be used, but at least these should start people thinking.

It is hard to understand why this County should be so flagrant with this sort of abuse.

A few juncoes are hovering around the feeders, and they are more than welcome. As usual, the jays outnumber all the others, and consume more feed. I saw a downy woodpecker the other day; these have not been very frequent. Hawks can also be seen, wheeling in the sky; liquid motion. It's really something to see these birds just drifting without any motion on their part to catch the air currents. We still have things to learn about flight.

By the way, bird food can be bought at Farmers' Supply store. Scratch, they call it, in 5-lb. and 10-lb. bags. The wild birds go for it in a big way.

At present nothing is being heard about pollution. These problems seem to be foremost in the summer, then forgotten for the winter. Most people, seeing ice on rivers, seem to have the impression this filth is beaten until summer comes around. This definitely is not so. Winter pollution is as bad, if not worse, than in summer; the only difference is that people cannot see it. It sure is a good job that most people now have electric refrigerators; otherwise, polluted ice would create much havoc.

Regarding the shooting of dogs last fall, with resultant publicity — I would appreciate any information I could get on the outcome. It looks as though this is just another affair to be hushed up.

While I'm beefing (as usual), just where are the supposed lists of law breakers, being sent out by the government? True, there have been a couple of cases, so far away from us they lose interest. However, there must be plenty of instances near at hand. I'm beginning to wonder if this is another promise that won't be kept. Of course political interference in any district is a strong point, one that has to be considered.

Some terrific catches of perch are being taken around the St. Placide area, nearly all of them on minnows. I have seen a couple of strings with some good sizes among them. All were in excellent condition, no black spot or blemish. A couple of weeks ago I was shown some of the Ottawa River perch that were covered with this fungus. How they got it, I do not know, but it would be worth while finding out. Pike are still minimal — both in size and number. Another eel was taken beside the dam; maybe this is going to be the spot to catch these wigglers. I know, not too many people like the sport of catching them, and there's good reason for it. However, they make good eating if they are prepared correctly — smoked over hardwood chips is one of the best ways, but not recommended unless you have a lot of patience.

I think there are going to be more campers in this County than at any time before. Judging by phone calls and enquiries about this sport, there should be double the number of last year. The calls all deal with types of tents and sleeping bags. Picking a tent is not a hit or miss affair; to be considered in the amount of cash available, size of family, and so on. It is a help to read about the different outfits — but not forgetting that everything is presented in glowing terms. However, first discount these claims, then start from what you want, how much do you want to pay, and so on. Don't pass up the weight for the extreme lightness. The heavier the average tent, the better it will be for your purpose. Too many people buy an ultra-light outfit and then find it is of no use to them. . . Any help I can give you in selecting one of these, I will be happy to do so.

Reports from various organizations on the duck population leave no doubt that these waterfowl are having a tough time. In all places where these birds hibernate, much smaller flocks are being reported. Even the Canada Goose is taking it on the chin. With untold amounts of money being spent to help these birds, maybe it is about time we really did something about it. I know we have no control over Nature, but we do have control over humans; and this would help in some small way. It also could be just what is needed to get something done by the governments concerned.

Before I forget: Those fly men who have forgotten all about the handling of their craft, should get out right now and give it a whirl. You'll be surprised at how much you have forgotten, and just how easy it is to cast on snow or ice. And by the time you are ready for spring fishing, you will be casting much farther than ever before. . . So the folks will say you're nuts; but after a while you don't pay any attention — and besides, you are a happy nut!

B'burg clinches top position in Que.-Ont. League

Only two teams saw action in last week's play in the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League. Brownsburg and St. Andrews played back-to-back games, with the Bombers coming out on top in both contests. In their first meeting St. Andrews held a three-goal lead going into the third period, only to see Brownsburg outscore them 5-1 in that period to take a close 6-5 decision. It was an exciting game from start to finish, and was evenly played throughout. The real star of the game was the St. Andrews' goalie, Marcel Paul, who repeatedly turned aside the determined attacks by the Brownsburg club. The game was not decided until the 17-minute mark of the third period, when Bill Robitaille scored from close in, on passes from André Ouellette and Jacques Racine.

The second game, played on Sunday afternoon, followed the same pattern as the first, with Brownsburg again coming on strong in the third period, to win 6-2. St. Andrews again battled on even terms with the Bombers for two periods, but in the third, Brownsburg fired four goals against one for the losers, to take the win.

Approximately one week remains to be played on the schedule before the play-offs get underway. Here are the games on tap for this week:

February 7 —
Hawkesbury vs St. Andrews

February 8 —
St. Andrews vs Hawkesbury

February 10 —
Lachute vs Brownsburg

Hawkesbury vs Lachute

Brownsburg have now clinched the league championship, but a close fight is still underway for the other three positions. Lachute, presently in third place, still have a chance to displace Hawkesbury as the runners-up. St. Andrews still occupy the cellar position but they are only four points behind Lachute, in third place, and a strong showing in their remaining games could easily change this picture.

The final game of the schedule is to be played next Tuesday. However, there are still some games to be played which were cancelled during the regular schedule. League president Bill Brown advises that a meeting of the league this week will decide whether these games will or will not be played.

It is expected that any cancelled games which could change the final standings will be played, while others which have no bearing on the final positions will not be contested. The meeting being held this week will also finalize plans and dates for the upcoming play-offs. A detailed schedule of these play-off games will appear in next week's issue of this paper as well as final statistics of the regular schedule.

L.H.S. Girls Defeat Rosemere

On Friday night at Lachute High School the senior girls won a hotly contested basketball game against Rosemere High School. The final score was 25-19 for the home squad. Top scorer of the game was Linda Welsh, of Rosemere, with 11 points. Scoring for Lachute were Linda McCaskill 9, Mary-Beth Painter and Nancy Hay with 8 points.

Rosemere boys completely dominated the play in the senior boys' game, by thumping Lachute 52-37. Scoring for Lachute were Herbie Underhill 19, Bob MacKay 8, Grant McGibbon 5, John Hay 4, and Dick Evans 1.

Lachute junior girls came out on the short end of a 36-32 score with the Rosemere juniors. Lachute led 17-16 at half-time. Scorers for Lachute were Kathleen Berry 13, Susan Evans 11, Susan Barlow 6, and Margaret McRae 2.

Rosemere soundly trounced the Lachute junior boys, 54-17. The local juniors, although smaller and less experienced than Rosemere, put up a terrific fight in the last half. Lucien Mercier scored the 17 points for the local juniors.

The senior girls lost to Rosemere, 41-35. It was a well-played game on both sides, with the guards playing exceptional defence. The top scorer of the game was Susan Jarard, of Rosemere, with 28 points. Scoring for Lachute were Linda McCaskill with 12, Gwen Matthews 10, Nancy Hay 7, and Mary-Beth Painter 6.

The most exciting game of the day was played between the senior boys. The local "garcons", after suffering a humiliating defeat the previous night, looked like a new team. The score seesawed back and forth in the first half with Rosemere ahead at the end of the half 26-25. In the third quarter Rosemere came on strong to grab a 20-point lead before Lachute began to get back in the game. At the final whistle the score-board read Rosemere 67, Lachute 56.

High scorer of the game was Herbie Underhill, who collected 25 points. Underhill's shooting average was 61%. Other scorers for Lachute were Bob MacKay with 12, Grant McGibbon 9, John Hay 6, and Dick Evans 4 points.

This Friday night, Lachute travels to Grenville for two senior contests.

Safety

This week I would like to look back on a little incident that occurred to me a week ago last Tuesday. I was skiing on a wide open slope here at Ayers Ski Center with one of my instructors. I looked up the slope before starting, to see only two other skiers on the hill, at the top, and thought it would be relatively safe to start skiing down. After only one turn I suddenly heard a scream, and before I could turn my head some "schuss boomer" had hit me square on. . . Fortunately for me, my safety binding released, saving me from a possible fracture.

The point of discussion here is, who would have been held liable if my leg had been broken in this accident? This person who hit me was as much at fault as a person who is driving his car at excessive speeds and out of control, the only difference being, the driver of a car can have his driver's license taken away.

In some European countries, a "Skiers' Code" has been set up, which is law, and the national ski patrols have the right to enforce it. I have read articles in which skiers who did bodily harm to others on the hill due to reckless skiing, have not only been charged with the medical bills but lso heavily fined through the courts.

As much as I would like to see this take place in this country, I doubt very much if our governments would act to that extent. I think, then, the ski patrols in conjunction with area operators could form some system of keeping these menaces off our slopes. One system I would like to propose, is to have the ski patrol warn the skier once and rip off a corner of his ticket; the second time he is caught violating the code, the whole ticket is removed.

Following is the code used by those countries that have an enforcement program:

Head-On Meeting —

1. Skiers approaching each other across the hill shall pass to the right, to avoid collision.

Passing —

Personal Liability —

3. The uphill skier shall be responsible for avoiding the skier below him on the hill.

4. Skiers emerging from the side of the trail shall stop before entering, then proceed without interrupting the passage of skiers already on the trail.

5. Skiers in motion shall be responsible for avoiding the prostrate skier, either in lift line or trail.

6. Moving skiers shall be responsible for avoiding the stationary skier, to prevent collision.

7. A striking skier shall be responsible for personal injury caused by his lack of care or control.

8. Willful and negligent conduct by a skier in use of skis or poles which cause personal injury to another, shall constitute assault.

Stopping —

9. Skiers must not stop in any location which will obstruct a trail or impede the normal passage of following skiers.

Speed Control —

I might add that No. 10 above is about the most common one of them all; only too often do you find skiers who can't even turn in a snowplow position, as the culprits of schussing a hill straight down the fall line.

Ski School

Every Sunday at 12.30, the proficiency tests for the Ayers Ski School Awards are being held. To date, 23 pins have been awarded to successful candidates. These tests, as outlined in The Watchman (Jan. 23 issue), are open to any skiers of any age who think they can meet the standard. This Sunday, the first, tryout for the Silver Award will be held, for those who have obtained their Bronze.

through Government-run lotteries. He tabled an exchange of letters with Justice Minister Donald Fleming in which Mr. Lesage asked for an amendment to the Criminal Code that would permit provinces to set up a lottery. Mr. Fleming replied that the government did not plan any legislation making any kind of changes in the code. Mr. Lesage said he was "really disappointed" and that he had hoped "a favorable decision could be taken."

The Premier flew to Charlottetown Saturday to speak on Confederation at a sod-turning ceremony on the site of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building.

He called on the rest of Canada to have confidence in Quebec and not to disappoint French-Canada. Without this, he said, it might be "unfortunate" for the country's future.

There is one old fact and one new factor to be considered in giving Confederation a "re-orientation." The old fact was Canada's bicultural status. The French-Canadians, Mr. Lesage said, "must be accepted and wanted" in Canada.

"Their eventual contribution to the Canadian scene must be appreciated, and certain prejudices based on phenomena seen from a distance and outside their context, must be done away with. The French-Canadians must be understood as they are now, and not as too many people used to think they were."

The new factor was today's Quebec which "wants to be itself in a positive way by making the rest of the country profit from the contributions which it considers valuable."

The province intended to put to work all its material and intellectual resources. "In this way, our participation in Canadian life will become richer," said Mr. Lesage. "But for this to happen, there is one absolutely indispensable condition — have confidence in us, not only in verbally recognizing our presence in Confederation, but by making concrete gestures that will support the positive will of the people of Quebec.

"And above all, yes above all, you must not disappoint the French-Canadian group through indifference or any negative acts at a time when many in this group are inclined to doubt the possible advantages of Confederation. This would be unfortunate for the future of our country."

Church Redecorated By Voluntary Effort

Trinity Church was the scene of much activity this past week, when the complete interior of the church was re-decorated.

The work was carried out under Mr. Wesley Morrow, well-known Morin Heights painting contractor, who organized the men of the congregation on a strictly voluntary basis to do this work. The color scheme, using various shades of blue and yellow, was planned by Mr. Bruce Stoecker and Mrs. Allan Buxton, together with Mr. Morrow. The men worked long into the evening hours to have the church ready for Sunday service.

Among the ladies working towards this project have been Mrs. Norman Woods, her daughter Evelyn, Mrs. H. Reiter, her daughter Jackie, Mrs. Allan Buxton and Mrs. I. Gibson.

Montreal (CP) — Bohemianism has nothing to do with art, says Astrup Rona, 54-year-old Norwegian portrait painter who has won several awards, one a gold medal from the French government in 1950.

"Anyone can be a Bohemian," says Rona, "but only hard work and some talent can make an artist."

"I like great classical and modern painting," said Rona in an interview while spending a holiday in Montreal, to visit a sister he had not seen for 30 years. "For me, the only distinction is between good and bad painting."

Friends mourn townslady and business woman

Late Miss Lily Hampton

A part of Main Street as integral as its stores and churches, was removed this week by the death of Miss Lily Hampton, who succumbed to a lengthy period of ill health last Sunday morning. Miss Hampton died at her home, which was also the site of her long established millinery business — having been confined to bed with a stroke for the past two weeks.

A daughter of the late Henry Hampton and his wife Sarah Rooney, an early Main Street couple, she was born in Thurso and educated here in Lachute. While conducting the business with her sister in the home premises, she also identified herself with the interests of her church, St. Simeon's, nearby. A faithful Anglican, she was an invaluable church worker, devoting much time and energy through the years to the choir, the women's organizations, in which she served in various offices, and the care of the altar and church appointments.

She was a kindly neighbor, ever helpful in time of trouble, and she will be missed by many friends.

The remains, resting at the MacKimmie Funeral Home, were brought to her beloved church for funeral rites on Wednesday, service being conducted by the rector, the Rev. C. R. Lang, assisted by the Rev. W. C. LeCras. A large gathering of old friends and fellow residents attended. Interment was in the family plot at Lachute Cemetery. Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Geo. F. Calder, Stanley Holt, Thos. Iddon, Jim Campbell, R. A. Giles and Ross Muir.

One minute to go

In the Toronto studios of the CBC, a smiling Earl Cameron waits his cue to start another edition of the national television news. Cameron began reading the national news in 1944 — at that time, on radio. He was born in Moose Jaw, Sask., 47 years ago and worked briefly as a teacher before starting with his local station CHAB in 1939. His goal was to do national newscasts, and one month after joining the CBC in Toronto in 1944, he achieved it.

2 Arundel girls in CN travel film

New York — A short film showing two girls from Arundel, Que., taking a train trip in the Maritimes, is making a big hit with television viewers across the United States. The girls are the Misses Lois Godin and Margaret Graham.

Aim of the film, entitled "Memo to Milady", is to give advice to ladies on what clothes to take with them when travelling, and how to pack them correctly. It shows the girls selecting and packing their travel wardrobe at Montreal, boarding Canadian National's "Ocean Limited", and unpacking in a room at CN's Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax.

The film is being distributed throughout the U.S. by Joe Fountain, CN's public relations officer in New York. He says already 23 TV stations in the States have asked for it. They range from Phoenix, Arizona, to Wheeling, West Virginia; Jacksonville, Florida, to Worcester, Massachusetts. Such important centres as Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Detroit and Rochester are also included.

Says Mr. Fountain: "This film also brings home to the people of the U.S. the attractiveness of the Maritimes as a place for vacations, and shows the up-to-date travel and hotel facilities available."

Teltschik Bros. piano team coming Feb. 19

"T for Two" could well be the musical signature for the brothers, Alfred and Herbert Teltschik, who will be appearing here on Tuesday, February 19, in the second of this season's Community Concerts.

Alfred and Herbert Teltschik are possessors of a unique talent, masters in duo-piano precision.

"That certain touch of genius," a music critic has called it. Another music reviewer has put it more colorfully, describing their repartee as "a thing of joy, combining somehow the exhilaration and satisfaction of a fast game of tennis and first-class chamber music."

Community Concert subscribers will welcome the announcement of this coming recital, February 19 at Lachute High School, which will doubtless receive the warm acclaim given on previous occasions to duo-piano entertainments.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

A story of achievement

THIS IS THE 50th Anniversary year of the 4-H Club movement in Canada.

The story of the development of 4-H Clubs (known originally as boys and girls clubs) which now number 72,000 members, is in itself a unique drama of achievement.

The drama began in Manitoba in 1913 with the formation of eight boys and girls clubs, the first of which was organized at Roland. According to the Manitoba Department of Agriculture report for the year 1913, "Each club held a most successful fair, where chickens, potatoes and corn produced by the members were exhibited. At present, there are 472 very enthusiastic club members, and it is certain that they have gained much practical agricultural knowledge from their summer club work".

By 1916 Manitoba had 800 clubs with a membership of 13,000 boys and girls. A similar pattern of development took place in the rest of Canada's provinces between 1913 and 1922. Roland, Manitoba, will thus become the official site of the beginning of the 4-H movement in Canada. On May 12 next, an appropriate memento will be unveiled in the town to commemorate the founding of the first club in Canada.

Among other 50th Anniversary functions planned for the year are: An active part by Canadian 4-H members in the World Freedom From Hunger campaign; inter-provincial exchange — a new 4-H activity involving farm-to-farm visits in which each province will send one delegate to each of the other nine provinces; a special program for National 4-H Club Week in November; as well as numerous functions throughout the year.

As related by the Council's manager, James D. Moore, Ottawa, "the primary aim and basic reason for the rapid growth of the 4-H movement is to provide practical training for young people so that they may lead useful, satisfying lives and be better prepared to take their places as citizens of tomorrow". This aim is clearly defined in the symbolic four "H's" as they are embodied into the 4-H pledge and repeated wherever and whenever members meet in dutiful assembly. It reads:

I pledge: My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My hands to larger service,
My health to better living,
for my club, my community and my country.

Provincially, 4-H Club work is a responsibility of the Departments of Agriculture (Department of Education in Newfoundland, and the University Extension Department in Saskatchewan). 4-H Clubs hold an average of eight or more meetings per year, all conducted according to parliamentary procedure. The members elect their own officers and help to organize each year's program of activities. They also learn to express themselves in public and work together on club and community projects. Canada is one of more than 80 countries with organized 4-H Club activities.

To lessen (and avert) the evils of war

THE COMING Red Cross Campaign in this area, now in the process of planning, draws one's attention to the far-reaching influence of this organization, which was so effectively illustrated in the recent Cuban crisis. It is interesting to learn something of the constitution which equipped the Red Cross to play so important a role in that operation. . .

The International Committee of the Red Cross was asked by the United Nations during the crisis to exercise a control over vessels bound for Cuba. . . The International Committee of the Red Cross is made up of a group of 25 Swiss citizens with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. It is completely self-governing and autonomous. It is recognized by virtually every nation in the world as the neutral channel for negotiation between belligerents in the protection of victims of war, and as a means by which organized relief can cross battle lines or enter an area of conflict. While the task which the International Committee of the Red Cross was asked to do by the United Nations Organization clearly went beyond its traditional activity, it did not feel it could refuse the request. It explained its position as follows: "The Red Cross was created a hundred years ago to lessen the evils of war. Now, since Solferino, technical development has placed into the hands of combatants methods of destruction which have no longer anything in common with those which had then appalled Henri Dunant. The Red Cross is obliged to adapt itself to this development. Drawing conclusion from these observations, the International Committee of the Red Cross considered that it would remain within the framework of its humanitarian mission by helping to avert a conflict which could have unleashed an atomic war and provoked immense distress."

The automobile industry

WHETHER CANADA can afford to manufacture automobiles virtually tailor-made to individual taste is questioned by Carlyle Dunbar in The Financial Post. It's possible to order one standard four-door hardtop model in any one of 3,678,612,537,600 combinations of equipment, power plant, tires, trim and color. This kind of automobile jungle creates agonizing economic problems for Canada, which produces cars in great variety as the U.S. does, but has a market one-tenth the size of the U.S. Because of this, every Canadian car is to a large extent made of U.S. parts — essential parts like automatic transmissions and deep body stampings which have to be produced in great quantity to be cheap. The automobile industry is unable to export substantial quantities of cars to help offset this annual contribution to Canada's perennial trade deficit.

But Canadian motorists seem willing to pay the cost of a U.S.-style motor industry. Sales in 1962 were a record 500,000 cars, up 14% in the year, and buyers set their hearts on the jazzed up, top-of-the-line models. Sales of made-in-Europe cars have slumped drastically under the weight of the 10% tariff surcharge, but European motor firms in Canada say they are here to stay despite their troubles. Some expect their sales to begin to rally this year.

Viewpoints and perspectives

DETERRENTS TO INITIATIVE. — With unemployment in the land and danger of losing more of our foreign markets, the development of Quebec nationalism, and a minority position for the government in Parliament, Canada cannot hope for bold leadership but must rely on diplomacy and compromise else the country might just fall apart.

— Napanee (Ont.) Post-Express

WAS HE SERIOUS? — It has always been difficult to know just how seriously to take the social reformism of the late George Bernard Shaw. . . . The "Shavian alphabet" has now appeared in print. . . George Bernard Shaw must be very satisfied at the time and energy that has gone into heeding the last reform he urged mankind to adopt. But is he serious or is he laughing?

— Rouyn-Noranda (QUE.) Press

WORK FOR WELFARE. — The severe winter brings with it two inevitable money headaches for municipalities. Seasonal unemployment will increase welfare costs, and snow clearance will increase public works costs. . . . Why not put welfare recipients to work shovelling out the entrances to private driveways after the snowplows have blocked them?

— St. Vital (Man.) Lance

TIME FOR ACTION. — We don't blame any level of government for not solving the (Doukhobor) problem, but it's about time for provincial and federal governments to try to solve it instead of leaving it to any unfortunate municipality where the Freedomites happen to be.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

TICK-TOCK TALK

We have in our house five clocks that strike. When they are properly synchronized (which is not very often) you can imagine the racket at noon and midnight! Strangely, my wife and I both like to hear them. They seem like old friends, without which there would be something missing in our lives.

Two of these clocks are really old — like a big box with a weight on each side that you wind up with a crank. One was given to us by friends in U.S.A., and I had quite an argument with the Customs when bringing it to Canada. They said it was a valuable piece and I had no proof that it was a gift. However, they let it go through. It was made in New York by one Wm. S. Johnson, who was in business between 1841 and 1849. The other one was given me by a friend, now deceased, who said he got it from a deserted farmhouse near Lachute. Perhaps I am a receiver of stolen goods! It bears the name of Chauncey Goodrich of Bristol, Conn., whose dates are 1828-1857.

Another one that we are particularly fond of is a wooden-cased clock of very fancy design. Its label bears the inscription, "New Haven Clock Co., Berkley Cabinet, price $7.00 with Cathedral Chime." I paid 75¢ for it in a second-hand store, and another $3.00 to have it cleaned and oiled. It's the best timekeeper we have, with the exception of a mission clock distributed by The Montreal Gazette several years ago. That one adorns the wall in our front hall, and its stately tick-tock is a joy to hear.

Be seein' ya!

CANADA AND THE COMMON MARKET

One heard less criticism latterly of Mr. Diefenbaker's cautious attitude toward the Common Market. People were beginning to see that the affair was complicated, that Britain needed bargaining strength. The dangers to Canadian trade are better known.

For example, Germany, today, levies $1.84 per bushel on our wheat. German millers pay only $1.18 for their local wheat. What kind of a levy would Britain, as a member of the Market, be obliged to apply?

Nevertheless, there were legitimate reasons for wishing Britain success in her attempt to get in. Her influence within the Market would have been reassuring from a political power point of view. Perhaps, in the very long-term future, from a trade point of view as well.

If she does not enter now (and as I write this it seems unlikely), she may never enter. A socialist government might be elected in Britain, and the socialist party has been opposing the Common Market idea for some time. What, then, should Canada be doing about the future?

Certainly we must seek the best trade relationships possible. Personally, I have little faith in political trade alliances. They help, but they are not the vital key.

The vital thing is a superior product at a low price. Many factors within our control could make that possible:

(1) A good domestic market, so that manufacturing runs could be longer, and dependence on outside markets for agricultural surpluses less. Immigration policies in the past decade haven't helped. They should be revamped, and administered in a new spirit.

(2) Taxation contributes to our costs. We should reduce government spending. Let's get prices highly competitive before launching more welfare schemes. The welfare of all the people ultimately depends on our ability to compete.

(3) Labor-Management understanding and co-operation. This is coming. Few labor leaders make old-fashioned 'hate-the-boss' speeches these days. Management is willing to share generously the fruits of increased productivity. If productivity (units of manufacture per man hour) can be increased, everybody benefits.

These are factors over which we have control. If we do something about them, we need not be so concerned about trade alliances or the manoeuvring of great powers. The world will beat a path to our door.

NEWS LETTER ON AGRICULTURE

By J. L. PIGEON,
Parliamentary Secretary
to the Minister of Agriculture

In recent weeks, through this column I have attempted to draw to the attention of all Quebec farmers, the ways in which Canada's new agricultural redevelopment program — ARDA — can be useful to you in improving your farming operation, and thus raising farm income to levels where it will be more comparable to that of other workers in Quebec and throughout Canada.

At the present time, master agreements covering the overall implementation of ARDA are before all of Canada's provincial governments for signature and some agreements regarding specific projects have already passed through the discussion stage and are ready for final approval in each province.

While the actual implementation of all agricultural redevelopment projects under ARDA will be the responsibility of the Provincial and Federal governments, I would like to emphasize again that any projects to be considered or undertaken for your area will not be devised by these senior governments, but will originate at the local community level.

In short, it will be the responsibility of local people — you as progressive farmers supported by your urban neighbors — in business and in the clergy — to work together with the agricultural specialists of both senior governments to produce the plans and proposals for improving development in your area.

Once you have taken an accounting of your area's needs, and the ways in which you feel these needs can best be met, and the feasibility of such projects has been determined, it will be up to the local provincial and federal governments to provide the working capital and the technical skill to bring the approved projects into being.

ARDA has been described as the most comprehensive rural redevelopment program ever devised. The Federal Govenment has already pledged itself to provide a total national contribution of up to fifty million dollars in the first three years of the program, or up to twenty million dollars in any one fiscal year, and if these funds are matched by provincial and local governments, it will mean that a total of one hundred million dollars will be available for rural development during the three-year period.

The first steps have been taken. The scope of ARDA's future operations has been defined, and Federal money and other assistance committed to its support. Once your Provincial government has entered into a master agreement covering any projects to be undertaken in Quebec, the next step will be up to you.

I would like to urge you, as farmers of Quebec, to assess your needs in the improvement of your farms and farming operations under the scope of ARDA, and to present your suggestions for projects to your local and provincial governments for consideration. I can assure you that they will receive careful study and consideration by all of us who are concerned with the future of agriculture.

IMMIGRANT'S PLEA

Vancouver (CP) — Ivan Menjan, 33-year-old Yugoslav immigrant, told police court he was forced to break into a supermarket because he had not eaten for six days. He said welfare authorities refused to help him. "I plead guilty to this," he said, "but everyone here is to blame. No one would help me when I came to Vancouver."

FISCAL FUTURE ROSY FOR POPSICLE SET, SAYS B of M

"You can shorten the odds on future happiness for your youngsters by getting them off to a good start financially and teaching them how important it is to save," says Don Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal.

A dollar bill is all you need to start a child's savings account at the B of M, "but this is a good beginning and a fine way to help develop habits of perseverance and self-reliance which will be so valuable in the future," he adds.

Mr. Hay continues, "His own personal savings account will be a strong encouragement to put away part of his weekly pocket-money towards buying something he really wants, whether it's a pair of skates or a college education. The habit of planning and thinking ahead is mighty important in the development of any youngster today. In fact, it's a pretty solid foundation on which to build tomorrow's adult."

Any member of the Lachute B of M staff will be delighted to help your boy or girl to open a savings account. Bring your child in soon.

If your child really wants something special — and it can be anything from a bicycle to a college education — having a personal savings account will be a strong encouragement for him to put away part of his weekly pocket-money towards the objective. And it will help him to develop the invaluable habit of saving.

Drop in soon to see Mr. Hay, or consult Miss Lulu Miller at the Ayersville branch, and ask for a free copy of the B of M's folder entitled, "How to teach your youngster to save". Parents everywhere are finding it helpful.

School Children — and Colds

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I have an awful cold coming on," Mary complains as she sits down to her breakfast, blowing her nose and then sneezing. "I hate you to miss anything important, but should you go to school?" her mother asks, uncertainly.

"Oh, I'll get through the day, somehow, and we just might have a test sprung on us," Mary answers, "So I haven't got much choice!".

Mary feels virtuous going to school when she is feeling so miserable. But her attendance at school, just when her cold was at its most contagious state, was a disservice to four other pupils who apparently caught colds from her. One of them was a delicate girl who was quite ill with her cold and missed over a week of school.

Respiratory troubles, mostly different kinds of cold or flu, account for over 45 percent of non-attendance at school. In the junior grades, especially, cold symptoms are often the start of a communicable disease.

It is unfair to the other students for children to be sent to school with colds. A day or two of rest in bed with a light diet and whatever medication the doctor suggests on the phone will often check a cold at the start.

A child needs to be in good health to get the best out of his schooling. Mothers, by feeding their children nutritious meals, and by encouraging good habits of sleep and cleanliness and avoidance of accident situations, help to promote regular school attendance.

TV fills quite a few hours of most school children's days and many children have wide interests and belong to a number of youth groups as well. Sometimes their physical and nervous energy is over-taxed by too many extra-curricular activities.

Fatigue as a cause for school absenteeism can be reduced by limiting the time spent on TV and insisting on a choice between some of these activities. An earlier bedtime is a necessity for children who are at a low ebb from insufficient sleep.

Mothers as well as teachers can encourage a pride in faithful attendance. A child should not be kept home from school for trivial reasons or because it is more convenient for mother to have the child at home to perform some task or care for a baby.

A parent's respect for the child's teacher, the school, and the child's studies all help a boy or girl feel that his schooling is important. An interest in his work each day as well as in his report card is important. Scholars must take responsibility for their own work, but parents should know how they are getting along. Sometimes a child balks at going to school because he is falling behind in his work and has become discouraged. The teacher should be consulted and extra coaching arranged if necessary.

The teacher who is fair but firm in discipline, who knows his work and also understands his pupils is likely to have a good record of his pupils' attendance. Many an adolescent takes a chance and misses school (if he thinks he will not be caught) if he neither likes nor respects his teacher. Resentment against what a student considers unfair or too harsh punishment is the reason for some boys being absent from school.

Storage of canned foods

— Store canned foods in a cool, dry place and avoid sudden or extreme changes in the temperature of the air in the storage room. Dampness will cause rust on the outside of the cans, which, though not injuring the contents, may, in severe cases penetrate the can and cause leakage.

— Although canned foods will keep indefinitely it is a good idea to rotate old stocks and use them up while replacing them with new. If you have stock piled for emergency use, it is recommended that these stocks be replaced within a year.

— Freezing does not harm canned goods to any extent. The texture of fruit, and vegetables may be changed slightly but this does not affect the flavor and color. Repeated freezing and thawing, of course, would have a greater effect on texture than a single freezing. Freezing does not change either the nutritive value or the mineral content of canned foods.

WHY DON'T YOU SERVE LOWE'S ICE CREAM ON VALENTINE DAY!

Lowe Bros. Dairy Ltd.

LO 2-2446 LACHUTE

Yes, potatoes can be glamorous!

The word "glamor" is one that we do not usually associate with potatoes. In fact they are more often considered the "plain Janes" of the vegetable kingdom. Like any other food that we get used to seeing every day, we probably don't think of serving them in other than the usual ways, i.e., boiled, mashed, baked or fried.

Potatoes used to be considered only as companions of the poor, but today they are the mainstay of rich and poor alike. A point in their favor is that the calories they provide are not "empty calories" — they contain valuable vitamins and minerals as well.

When we eat out, we find that potatoes suddenly develop new glamor. Names such as Duchess or Lyonnaise are intriguing, but they are only dressed up versions of one of the ways we cook them at home, and in most cases could be prepared very easily. Many different names for potatoes may appear on formal menus, and different chefs may prepare them in different ways. Some of the more usual ways of serving them are here described, with suggestions as to how they may be prepared at home.

Noisette Potatoes — are similar to "parsley" potatoes. They are small, boiled potato balls sautéed in butter. To make them, cut small balls from raw potatoes with a melon baller or cut the potato in quarters and trim off the corners. Boil them until they are just tender, lightly sauté them in butter and garnish with chopped parsley.

Shoestring or Julienne Potatoes — are crisp, French-fried potatoes cut in thin, matchlike strips. It is best to fry only a small amount at a time.

Forestière Potatoes — are French-fried potatoes cut in cubes. Mix them with sautéed mushrooms and onions and serve them with steak. Frozen French fries may be used to make this specialty.

Franconia Potatoes — browned potatoes cut in lengthwise pieces. They are best parboiled about 45 minutes, and basted with fat.

Lyonnaise Potatoes — are similar to home-fried potatoes. Cut cooked potatoes in thin slices and fry them in butter until golden brown. Mix them with sautéed sliced onions and sprinkle with salt, pepper and chopped parsley.

O'Brien Potatoes — are cooked, diced potatoes fried with chopped onion and green pepper. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper. Press down firmly in fry pan and cook them uncovered over medium heat until crusty brown on both sides.

Baked Potatoes — may be easily glamorized with different toppings or fillings. In some hotels or restaurants sour cream is offered as a topping for baked potatoes and a tray of toppings such as chopped onion or green pepper, or chopped bacon pieces, is passed with them.

Stuffed baked potatoes may be served with a variety of fillings or toppings. They may appear on the menu for example as "pommes de terre au fromage" having grated cheese in the filling, and sprinkled with cheese and browned on top. They may also have fillings of chopped cooked mushrooms, crisp bacon pieces, diced cooked meat or vegetables, etc. To stuff baked potatoes, simply cut a slice from the top of each potato and scoop out the centre. Mash with a little hot milk, butter and salt and pepper. Add one of the above ingredients to the filling and garnish with more of the same. Reheat the filled shells in a hot oven (400°F.) for 15 minutes.

Duchess Potatoes — are really a dressed-up version of mashed potatoes. Beat mashed potatoes with milk and butter until smooth and fluffy and add slightly beaten egg yolks (3 egg yolks to 6 medium boiled potatoes). Shape this mixture on a lightly greased baking sheet into mounds. A pastry tube may be used for the more decorative rosettes used as garnish with steaks. Brush duchess potatoes with lightly beaten egg white and bake in a very hot, 425°F. oven until golden, about 20 minutes.

Croquette Potatoes — are made from the same mashed potato mixture as are "duchess" potatoes. Shape the mixture into "logs" or "cones", dip in beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs and fry in deep fat until golden brown.

Dauphine Potatoes — are similar to the "croquette" potatoes. They are usually formed into logs and fried in deep fat. In some restaurants, a paste similar to a cream puff mixture is mixed with the mashed potatoes. This results in a very light, puffy potato when it is fried.

Delmonico Potatoes — are like creamed potatoes and are made from diced, cooked potatoes. When making them, add sautéed onion slices and chopped green pepper. Add table cream (about ½ cup for 6 medium potatoes), 2 tablespoons of pimento and a dash of nutmeg. Heat the mixture thoroughly to combine the flavors and garnish with parsley.

To serve potatoes in interesting ways every day, is a challenge to all good cooks. The Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have a booklet with over 50 ways of serving potatoes. To obtain your free copy, write for the booklet "Potatoes" to — Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

POTATOES WITH "EYE-APPEAL"

Stuffed baked potatoes can be a real conversation piece at a meal. Simply cut a slice from the top of each baked potato and scoop out the centre. Mash potato with a little hot milk, butter and salt and pepper and add one of the following: fried, crisp bacon slices, chopped cooked mushrooms (1 cup for 6 potatoes), or grated nippy Cheddar cheese (½ cup for 6 medium potatoes). Fill the shells with the mixture and reheat in a hot oven (400°F.) for 15 minutes.

The Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have many other suggestions for serving potatoes in interesting ways. These are given in the "Potato" booklet, available from Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

If the leaves of your house plant have lost their color, if they are curling up and dropping off, they are unhealthy and liable to die.

Watering, chilling and inadequate lighting are the main causes of unhealthy house plants, say horticulturists with the Ontario agricultural department.

Lack of water produces lack of growth, dull foliage and shedding of leaves. Too much water results in a shortage of oxygen in the soil which causes roots and other plant parts at soil level to rot. Good aeration and drainage will help overcome these two moisture conditions.

A sudden drop in temperature will cause many house plants, especially tropical plants, to shed their leaves. Tropical plants should never be exposed to a draught.

Also many plants are susceptible to gas.

Need Sunny Spot

Although inadequate light rarely causes leaves to drop off, it produces thin, straggly growth and pale-colored leaves. Plants that thrive in a good light during the warm months of the year should be placed in the sunniest location during the winter time.

Azaleas, rapidly becoming one of the most popular house plants, will flower for several weeks if placed in an east window at a temperature between 50 and 60 degrees. And since azaleas are grown in an acid medium (peat), they should be watered well every day. "And once a week stand the plants in water for not longer than half an hour," horticulturists advise.

To keep cyclamen flowering as long as possible, place it in a cool location (55 to 60 degrees) where it will receive good light. To prevent its leaf and flower stems from rotting, cyclamen should be watered early in the day so the base of the stems will become dry before night.

Dry for Cacti

Because of the moisture stored in their tissues, cacti can well withstand the warm, dry air of modern homes, so horticulturists advise watering only when the soil appears bone dry.

Other hints for house plants:

1. Plants in plastic pots do not need to be watered as often as those in standard clay pots.
2. Insect pests such as red spider, thrips and scale thrive in a hot dry atmosphere which can be overcome by using a vaporizing pan on radiators or hot air registers.
3. Seriously infected house plants should be destroyed and the pots and soil should not be used again unless well sterilized.

Family Snack

For a quick family snack, combine one cup of minced ham, ¼ cup of finely-chopped celery, two tablespoons of mayonnaise and two tablespoons of crumbled blue cheese.

Place a heaping spoonful of this mixture on each bun half, top with a slice of processed cheese and broil until the cheese melts.

COLD AND COMMON

The man at the next desk, down with a heavy cold, inquires incredulously: "You mean I can feel this bad with a disease that doesn't even have a national foundation?"

White Cane Week —

Eyes are 'windows on the world' — need protection

Canadians concerned with good eyesight, have a share in White Cane Week now taking place across Canada. Usually devoted to the problems of blindness, the week this year is dedicated to good visual health, "People take more care of their car than of their one pair of eyes", said A. N. Magill, managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, co-sponsors with the Canadian Council of the Blind of this annual education period.

Each year more than 2,000 Canadians lose their sight. According to doctors 50% is needless blindness, due to failure on the part of the person to catch the disease in the early stages. This means that an appreciation of good visual health and better eye care could save sight for hundreds.

Mr. Magill made a few suggestions for preserving your good vision. "When reading, use 100-150 watt bulbs, and make sure the light falls over your shoulder to eliminate shadow or glare. Don't watch television in a completely dark room. Too much contrast between light from the screen and the rest of the room may cause eye fatigue. Make sure children with crossed eyes get proper medical treatment. They will not 'grow out of' their squint."

Preparation of a CNIB submission to the Royal Commission on Health Services, disclosed that many Canadians are indifferent about care of the eyes. "People will put up with mistiness, watery eyes and other conditions, and never go near an eye specialist," said Mr. McGill.

In 1963 the World Health Organization, a United Nations service, has dedicated its world-wide program to prevention of blindness. In 109 countries special research projects have been set in motion to combat eye diseases. Others are attempting to arouse in the public an awareness of the importance of good sight and the common-sense practice of care of the eyes.

"Your sight has a double role," Mr. Magill said. "It is your own window on the world, and the source of assistance to the blind when you lend aid where vision is essential."

Miracle of Birth animal surgery at Agricultural Salon

This year, the 11th Salon of Agriculture in Montreal will feature some unusual veterinary clinics on stage at the Show Mart. On the first Saturday, on Tuesday, and on Thursday, experts from the School of Veterinary Science at St. Hyacinthe will operate on such animals as pregnant ewes and dogs, bringing their offspring into the world, and performing other operations which have long been a mystery to most laymen.

With Dr. Jacques St. Georges as bi-lingual commentator, Drs. C. Trudeau and E. Jacques will perform a caesarian operation on a ewe, bringing her lambs into the world. In an alternate program Drs. J. Flipo and J. LeBel will operate on a dog.

Paralleling the advances in medical science which have been similarly demonstrated in TV programs, the National Salon of Agriculture (from February 8 to 17)) is offering these demonstrations to the public in the belief that laymen will benefit from seeing at first hand the modern techniques of caring for livestock, and especially giving people a close look at the "Miracle of Birth".

Visit to Olde Boston Towne

By Dorothy Barker ("Diary of A Vagabond")

With the same type of curiosity evidenced by the cat, who went to London to look at the Queen, I travelled to Boston to gaze at the steeple of old "North Church" that rises above the tenements of Little Italy atop Copp's Hill. For the steeple of historic old Christ Church was the signal spot that started the freedom ride of Paul Revere. This, our history books relate, set off the revolution which created the "Land of the free and the home of the brave".

My visit to Olde Boston Town was a timely one. It not only followed that week of horror when all the world waited in stunned fear and calculation for the bang-off launching of World War Three, but it was election week in the United States, remem[illegible], and George Cabot Lodge was the chief contender against Edward Kennedy for the Senatorship of Massachusetts.

The sightseeing bus was packed with Japanese, Africans, Europeans and native North American tourists. I was convinced from the walk I had taken across Boston Common, around Copley Square and up and down Beacon Street that "Bean Town" would prove to be as exciting as old Quebec City.

The tour got off to a splendid start. We were told the history of old Trinity Church and saw the statue of Philip Brooks who played such an important part in establishing the pattern of education for which the environs of Boston are justly famous. We learned that the Common had been purchased for $200 and today its 48½ acres are worth a million per acre but cannot be bought. We gazed on the famous Parker House, first established in 1669 and which gave its name to the most popular rolls in a baker's dozen. We saw the old South meeting house with its British Coat of Arms still intact, where history was made in the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The driver pointed out the bullet holes in the wall surrounding Bunker Hill where the British soldiers practised target shooting; we went aboard that romantic ship S. S. Constitution (Old Ironsides) moored in Charleston, but we never did see the oldest house in Boston, the home of Paul Revere.

George Cabot Lodge, with a cavalcade of buses, cars, motorcycles and hoop-de-do was electioneering. Our driver tried to evade the parade but we were blocked in one narrow street after the other. Finally we got out and walked through Paul Revere Mall to old North Church. We heard a most interesting historical speech by the Vicar and as I came out I walked smack into the candidate.

I'm no baby, but for a second I thought he was going to kiss me! Instead I said, "I might as well shake your hand and wish YOU luck, for you've certainly gummed up my tour".

But Ted Kennedy won of course, and within 24 hours little boys on the streets of Massachusetts cities and towns were chanting a bastard version of an old jingle. . . .

"Now the Kennedys think they are God,
While all the Cabots eat scrod."

I ate scrod too (delicious!) and quarts of clam chowder, mouth watering tea biscuits and squash pie until I felt that the famous New England cooking would run out of my ears. While I masticated a boiled dinner, or Boston baked beans, I thought of things such as the Revolution that had severed the new colony's tie with Britain, of the two world wars that had brought the relationship closer again and of our own dependence on this great country to the south for defence in the crisis while two nations played political chess.

Agreement on police service, new patrol vehicle purchased

Concluding satisfactory negotiations with the local police force, the Town Corporation reached an agreement and entered into a contract with the staff, to continue their service on termination of the arrangement with Phillips Investigation Bureau. The agreement covers such details as salary scale, vacations, uniforms, etc.

Jean-Louis Hebert, in charge during the Phillips engagement over the past two years, remains as police chief, with a staff of one sergeant, five constables and two office attendants.

Informing the Council of these conditions, Mayor Dave Campbell noted the chief's insistence that there must be no interference from individual aldermen, and that all questions pertaining to the department be handled through the Council's police commissioner as intermediary (presently, Ald. L. W. Armstrong). However, the Council has full jurisdiction and must ratify any decisions taken by the chief and the commissioner.

New Patrol Car

Council then studied tenders submitted for a new patrol vehicle, also the alternative of renting one — which, however, a majority of the aldermen disfavored. A Pontiac station wagon from Desrosiers Automobiles was agreed upon, the vehicle having automatic transmission and accessories required for patrol and emergency purposes. Two tenders were from Lachute dealers and two from St. Jerusalem — the Council selecting the lower of the two town dealers. Offers were as follows:

Noble Motors Ltd. — Dodge 6-cylinder, $2,950; 8-cylinder, $3,100.

Lacasse Automoblies — Chevrolet 6-cylinder, $3,171.25; 8-cylinder, $3,296.

Desrosiers Automobiles — Pontiac 6-cylinder, $3,080.90; 8-cylinder, $3,214.90.

Welden Motors — Plymouth 6-cylinder, $2,995; 8-cylinder, $3,120.

Departmental Report

Reporting for the month of January, Chief Hebert listed 211 service calls by telephone, and 33 accidents, of which 29 involved property damage and four personal injuries.

The report, presented by Commissioner Armstrong, also showed revenue of $917.15 from 106 traffic tickets, and $35.80 for towing cars from the thoroughfares (expense paid by the car owners). Amusement tax netted $41.85; furnishing reports of accidents, $6 — for total receipts of $1,000.80.

During the month there was one theft of under $50 recorded; two automobile thefts; one case of break-in and theft.

Fire Chief's Report

Fire Chief Don MacCulloch reported eight fire calls in January — six in Lachute and two in Ayersville. One of the fires, on Chatham Street, had been battled in 28-below-zero weather and caused evacuation of 20 persons from their homes.

C. of C. drawings discontinued

The Lachute Chamber of Commerce extends thanks to the local public for their support to the monthly bond drawings, held over the past four years. At the last general meeting a decision was taken to discontinue these drawings, which over the recent months have proved unprofitable.

1% of budget formally voted for donations

The Council last week passed approval of its one-percent budget for grants — a subject of recent debate and contention. The resolution will include grants only to organizations specified. Alderman Réal Urbain voted against the resolution.

Social Service of the St. Jerome Diocese asked for a renewal of the $2,000 Lachute grant, supporting the request with facts and figures. It was also regretted that last year's grant had not yet been remitted. (According to the secretary, while it was included in the budget, no one had ordered or authorized the said payment.)

The Lions Club submitted a financial statement on the operations of its rink, as requested, and repeated its plea for a $2,000 subsidy from the town.

An adjourned meeting of the Council is set for February 14.

Slate completed, hospital directors and governors

Members of the executive council are as follows: Roger Lagarde, QC, of Lachute, chairman; K. W. MacGibbon, of Brownsburg, vice-president; Notary Simon Valois, Lachute, secretary; Donald M. Hay, Lachute, treasurer.

Directors: Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Lachute; Bernard Gosselin, Lachute; Dr. A. R. Coté, Brownsburg, representing the hospital medical board.

Recent fire at farm dwelling

A crew of volunteer firemen answered the call for help, but were unable to be of assistance due to the complete lack of water. Mr. Plouffe had recently completed construction of the building, and only a small portion of the loss was covered by insurance.

Interesting diversion at Lions Club —

Suntans back from Florida, and a novel program along TV lines, livened the regular meeting of Lachute Lions last week, with Vice-President Keith Clarke in charge replacing President Royal Carrière, absent with a cold.

Gabriel Valois, chairman for this year's public speaking contest, reported arrangements well in hand insofar as the French-language schools of Lachute and Brownsburg were concerned. Other club (and inter-club) matters were discussed.

Among the guests were Robert Rodger and his father, Douglas A. Rodger, of Lachute Road community — the former being present to receive, for the second consecutive year, the Lions' trophy for Junior Showmanship in the annual 4-H Calf Club competition. The engraved trophy was presented by Col. Ernest Emmett, together with a miniature to be held permanently by the winner. Young Rodger was warmly applauded by the 40-odd members in attendance.

Highlight of this meeting was a treat of entertainment provided by Lion Horace Lamarche as host of a "What's My Line?" program. Four mystery guests, appropriately disguised and masked, were quizzed each by a different panel of four clubmen. The guests were reasonably well known figures, representing different community organizations, and all defied identification within the prescribed two minutes allotted to the quiz team — who, incidentally, were unpractised in the alacrity required for this role. (That is — with one exception they remained unknown; the last guest was partially identified in the given time.)

In order of their appearance, the four guests were — Bud McGeorge, president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, who was garbed as a recalcitrant mule, with appropriate headpiece; Mme Paul Laliberté, representing the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil; Dr. Chas. Roy, past-president of the Richelieu Club, appearing as a shapely female; and Mike Lowe, high-scorer in the minor inter-provincial league and most valuable player on his hockey team. Mike appeared in a Canadiens outfit, and was the only mystery-guest to be partially identified.

As an interesting sequel, a brief talk was given by each of these visitors, speaking in both French and English on their respective organizations, with which the Lions Club has a related concern in each instance. As young Mike Lowe observed, the "accomplishments with which he had been credited were largely made possible by the Lions Club" — referring to facilities of the Lions Rink and organized minor hockey.

Lion Horace Lamarche, admittedly a novice at the job, proved himself a highly capable m.c. for this program. In warmly thanking the visitors for their co-operation, he relayed his appreciation (through Mme Laliberté) to the directress of the Centre d'Art, Mme Lebrun-Laforest, for providing the theatrical masks and technical advice with the program.

Exhibitions intrigue local art enthusiasts

At Hawkesbury

To the Trinity Guild at Hawkesbury, and to a noted Canadian painter, Paul Rodrik, art lovers from Lachute, St. Andrews, Grenville and Brownsburg owe the enjoyment of a pleasant evening, last Thursday at a lecture and exhibition in the new Trinity Hall. The display of Mr. Rodrik's works remained open for three days, and a number of Argenteuil visitors joined the many hundreds from Hawkesbury and district who viewed his pictures.

Paul Rodrik, the son of Franz Johnston, is a member of a family of artists. For professional purposes, however, he dropped the family surname to reach for success in his own right. This he has attained, in no small measure; he is known for his exhibitions throughout Ontario, and his name is as synonymous today with Canadian art as his noted father was identified with the immortal Group of Seven, who pioneered the individuality of our national art.

Although primarily a landscapist, in his 51 paintings here displayed Paul Rodrik revealed a versatile talent in various media, subjects and techniques. Through abstract and reality, still predominant were his landscapes, in oil color, depicting scenes belovedly Canadian. The artist and his family have latterly made their home at Como, Que., and among his scenes were one or two from this vicinity; notable was a view across the Ottawa River looking towards Oka.

His lecture, more in conversational than in formal style, showed Paul Rodrik as a man richly imbued with the joie de vivre, whose greatest thrill is in expressing and imparting his enthusiasm. It was a privilege to meet this visitor and his charming wife.

The artist was introduced by a long-time friend, Mrs. Robt. Sherman, and thanked by Paul Aird.

At the Centre d'Art

In a decidedly contrasting vein, a smaller exhibition is now on view at the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil, on Main Street, Lachute. Here a number of paintings from the Denyse Delrue gallery in Montreal are on loan as an example of the modern school, products judged best in the Salon de la Jeune Peinture show and representative of a definite if contentious trend among the avant-garde of Montreal and a few metropolitan centres.

Sunday afternoon, in the presence of a small gathering, this exhibition was introduced by Jean Laforest, director of the Centre d'Art. His remarks, like the introduction to a book in many cases, added comprehension to the viewing of the pictures. The Salon de la Jeune Peinture has been an annual event in Montreal since 1958; in past years it has brought to light talents which have happily developed, in such artists as Lise Gervais who has won acclaim both in Canada and abroad. The painters represented in the current show average around 25 years of age.

"We may agree or we may differ with the judges of this show, but the Centre d'Art in presenting this collection is fulfilling its obligation — though it may not wholly endorse the jury's choice.

"We have created supermarkets, super-aircraft, super-bombs. We have created Nagasaki and Hiroshima. . . Yes, we live in a crazy world.

"After all — should we be surprised when the artist today, especially the youthful artist, paints a non-conformist picture? . . ."

Speaking of one or two of the individual artists he discussed their subjects and speculated on their motives.

"In every one — must we not expect to see the essence of revolt, against a world created by man to annihilate man, a world where those grasping for the infinite are hemmed in by conformity? . . . Their protest gives a jolt, perhaps; their self-assertion may alarm us — but let us remember, it is sincere."

Alderman François Charlebois, on behalf of the town authorities, pronounced the exhibition officially open, and in the absence of Dr. Marc Papineau, president of the Centre, Raymond Beaulieu, the secretary, thanked Mr. Laforest and his Montreal collaborators, for placing the 20-odd pictures on public display.

The show remains open to the public each afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock (and on Sundays from 7 to 9 p.m.) until February 24.

Suspect arrested

Members of the local Q.P.P. detachment arrested a man in Ayersville Monday afternoon and, following questioning, transferred him to the care of Montreal police officers. It is reported he was selling articles of a valuable nature, reportedly stolen from a Montreal store.

Rolland Bonin, a familiar figure around the fruits and vegetables at the A & P supermarket, lost his wrist watch one day last week. It turned up in a customer's bag of groceries and was returned by the finder, Pierre Pariseau, a young Lachute townsman. It appears Mr. Bonin's watch slipped off his wrist into a plastic bag while he was weighing and pricing produce in his department. . . The owner is very grateful and wishes to express his thanks publicly to Pierre Pariseau.

Maurice Lussier, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with Mayor Dave Campbell, Aldermen F. Charlebois and J. O. Desjardins, also Yvon St. Denis, were in Montreal last week to meet an industrialist desirous of establishing in Lachute. The enterprise could employ 100 persons within a year after starting operations. Here's hoping.

...Incidentally, the Chamber of Commerce is planning an "industrial tour" for February 20, leaving here at 10 a.m. by autobus to visit the Montreal Stock Exchange. All members are invited. — Information form Maurice Lussier, president, or J. Roger Lamarche.

Firm commissioned to revise valuation roll

Town Council, in regular session last week under chairmanship of Mayor Dave Campbell, decided that revision of the property roll be entrusted again to the firm of Bégin, Charland & Valiquette. The work involves bringing the records up to date as regards property plans, dimensions, lot sizes and subdivisions, and other details required for evaluation purposes.

Mayor Dave Campbell observed that the last time the roll was revised in methodical manner, was in 1958.

It should be noted that actual evaluation of properties is not made by the firm itself, but by local personnel engaged as evaluators. As chairman of this body, Dr. Jean-Paul Dorion will supervise the work of the consultant firm. (Dr. Dorion, engaged in this capacity, has served both as alderman and evaluator.) The two other members of the evaluation board are Alcidas Laurin and Philippe Desjardins.

Boy Scout campaign, week of Feb. 17-23

During Boy Scout Week, February 17-23, the Group Committee of Lachute will be represented by local canvassers soliciting contributions to the Scout funds. It is hoped to collect $1,200 in Lachute, St. Andrews and the outlying districts. This amount will barely meet costs of upkeep for the Scout Hall, and the local quota of contributions to District and Provincial divisions.

On Sunday next, 10th, there will be joint parades of Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies from the local groups to morning services at the United and the Presbyterian Church.

Chairman of the Group Committee, which organizes the annual campaign and which sponsors year-round activity for the Boy Scouts, is Ernest Gordon, local business man.

Scout appeal in Brownsburg

Brownsburg is organized for its appeal also during campaign week, starting next Monday. Chairman of the canvass in this community is Dudley R. Boal, and the target figure is at least $600. The Scouts are an active movement in Brownsburg, with a sponsoring committee under presidency of Jess Humphries and a live group of citizens devoting time and thought to the welfare of the boys. It is anticipated the public will generously support the fund campaign to continue and promote this work.

As in the case of Lachute, church parades nave been arranged for Baden Powell Sunday, February 10, in which all groups of the movement, Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies, will take part at the various churches.

Armed 'customer' arrested after hold-up attempt

An attempted armed hold-up resulted in the arrest of a 19-year-old Cote de Sables resident on Monday morning of this week. Municipal police were called to the Bazar d'Argenteuil store on central Main Street shortly after 11 o'clock a.m.

According to Miss Rose Mansour, she was working in the store when the young man entered on the pretence of purchasing a pair of boots. She was facing towards the counter when he appeared behind her, shoving a gun in her back and severely twisting her arm behind her. He informed her it was a hold-up and he wanted money to get to Montreal to find work; but the intruder was told to leave, as her brother and a cousin were parked just outside the store. It was at this opportune time that the proprietor, Eddy Mansour, entered the store with his cousin. The would-be hold-up artist immediately rushed for the front door and escaped.

Following a quick investigation by municipal police, a description of the man was obtained, and 25 minutes later, Cst. J. M. Beauregard apprehended the man near the corner of Bethany and Lafleur Streets. It is reported he was holding a starting-pistol, capable of firing blanks, in his hand at the time of his arrest.

He was questioned by local and Provincial Police and later transferred to cells in St. Jerome, where a charge was laid yesterday.

In 'International' Mosquito Tournament this week-end

These boys, a Lachute team sponsored by Lowe Bros., were winners of a four-club minor hockey tournament at Brownsburg Arena. They defeated Thurso in the final showdown. Seen at the right is Clifford Lowe, their manager, a well-known enthusiast here in junior sports. At the left is his assistant, Bill Grimes (an employee at Lowe's). Other teams in the tournament were Rockland and Buckingham.

These boys will be taking part in the "International" Mosquito Hockey Tournament, February 15-17 at Rockland; the tournament includes Quebec, Ontario and Lake Placid (New York) teams. Brownsburg (Class B) Mosquitoes will also participate. . . Names of the Lachute players (two of the members are absent in this picture) are listed on page 3.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

I had never realized just what the average person thinks of wolves! After my article last week on these animals, the phone was kept busy for some time. Most people are under the impression that wolves are to be blamed for attacking humans and everything else. To start with, there has never been a substantiated story of wolves attacking humans on the North American Continent. This seemed to be the major complaint against these beasts; however, others despised them for their attacks on other animals. In a lot of cases these are true; but we must admit, even our dogs go out and kill. It would seem that the wolf is only useful when dead, and no one should ever be blamed for killing them! . . .

This may seem strange to some people, but when wolves become too numerous, then they are taken care of by Nature herself. We do not realize that these same animals have a purpose in being put here; nothing we can say or do is going to change that. Have any of you given any thought to mice, and the damage and disease they would inflict if they were not controlled by such predators as wolves. There are many instances and arguments. It is known, for instance, that deer will clean out any yard during the winter, and rather than move, they will die. This is not a pleasant sight, and I would much rather see them put out of their misery swiftly, without the long drawn-out battle for survival. . . However, the hue and cry is, "Kill the wolf."

The wolf is classed as a killer; yet can anyone tell me of a more wanton and ruthless killer than man? I don't think so. . . On the other side of the picture, the wolf is being accepted, not as the destroyer, but as a conservationist. Can you figure that out? One sickly deer will eat enough or spoil enough to keep another healthy one alive. Thus in weeding this animal out, the chances of one healthy survivor are just that much better. Instead of the two sickly animals with poor prospects of breeding, it will help the cycle of only the fit survive. It's tough, but who are we to protest?

How many of you have ever had the chance of listening to these wolves while in camp? After you have been out in the bush for weeks on end, it is actually a thrill to listen to them at night. It's fun trying to figure out the calls. The first call of a night, could be the gathering of the clans, the sort of plaintive whine that must be a mating call. The roar of a full symphony must be the chase. . . O.K., so I'm nuts. But it is only in these ways we can understand and appreciate them. By the way I'm a wolf lover. I contend he deserves much better treatment than he is getting. A free and unforgiving liver — one of nature's warriors.

The Federation of Fish and Game Clubs has presented a brief to the government asking for some changes. A few of them are worth watching. One I particularly like is the request for a test in proficiency before a hunting license is issued. This is worth while — but watch what happens to it! Another is that all guides must be licensed. This is a must, really; also that, when out with a client, they must not be permitted to hunt, or in other words, take part in killing anything. If this is ever passed I can see a lot of hunters going home empty-handed! In some other provinces this is law already, and it could be copied by Quebec very easily.

It could be that the Federation is going to get more results than expected. I hope so; certainly, the situation is slowly getting better than it was. Under the other regime, we know there was NO program at all, so that anything that happens now for the welfare of wildlife, is going to be a step forward. But don't let us get carried away by loud hurrahs from the government. They are very good at this form of propaganda. The only way to get anything is to beef, and keep on beefing. Certainly, one voice will get us nowhere, but if all the clubs not belonging to Federation would join up, then things would happen; that I'm sure of. You know, when an election comes along, someone who neither knows nor wants to know, starts talking about wildlife — hoping to get the sportsman's vote; and in a lot of cases he does. However, if only a little thought was ever given to the good things promised, he wouldn't get that vote. Think about that, and remember.

Fishing has slowed up a little. The perch are few and far between, and pike are not co-operating at all. I did hear of one that had a Lamprey eel attached to it; I did not see this specimen, but have no reason to doubt it. Indications suggested that the eel could not have been attached too long; very little fungus appeared on the scar. I hope this is just the stray that was picked up, for if there are many of them around, it won't take long for them to get into our trout lakes — not by themselves, but through misguided persons thinking they might make excellent bait for trout.

With the very cold weather and lack of snow in the bush snowshoeing has been taboo. On top of this, a hard crust on the snow played hobb with the webbing. If any of you have been unlucky enough to cut the webbing, you had better fix it before using them again. You can use horse-hide, soaked well so that it will stretch, then slit it about a half-inch from the end; do the same to the web in your shoe, then lace it through. This is only a temporary repair at any time, but it will at least allow you to use them for the balance of the winter.

There seems to be a little ill feeling between our fishing and game clubs in town. This is regrettable. There are enough sportsmen around to support two clubs if necessary; however, there must be some way these differences can be ironed out, so that both clubs will pull together instead of going it alone. I know with the sponsorship of these clubs there has to be some form of give-and-take, and this may take a little working out. It would be worth it, for the good of our county if for nothing else.

Reports are still circulating about ice-fishing on some of the lakes. It seems the fishing stopped in Lake Louisa for a time, but is once again in full bloom. It is possible a lot of lakes are being cleaned out right now. The same will apply to the deer yards; high-powered rifles are still being used in the bush, and I'm sure they are not being toted along for exercise. Rabbits are not the attraction either. Let's hope some sensible legislation comes up this year for hunters and types of firearms they may use. Maybe the deer will put a touch this year, in not having every joker with a .22 taking shots at them. I've wondered just how many of these animals died from the .22s — not from the actual shot but from subsequent lead poisoning. Consideration was given to this law that came up last year, and I, for one, am looking for some concrete action NOW.

Reading about a fox kit that had been brought up by a dog; it seems this kit was caught very soon after birth, and the dog adopted it. Almost a year old now, it has no inclination to stray away from home, when released, it comes back every night. No doubt the [illegible] of this fox has a lot to do with that. After all, as far as it knows, this mannerism is affecting of the dog. Queer things happen at times, don't they. The dog, incidentally, is a spaniel; they must prefer females pale nothing about the street!

L.H.S. in senior basketball games

Last Friday night in senior basketball, Grenville High School and Lachute High School divided the honors.

L.H.S. girls whitewashed Grenville to the tune of 40-15. The girls from Lachute started off fast and never let up until the final whistle. The fine passing and brilliant play-making of the L.H.S. team completely baffled the Grenville team.

Top scorer was Chooky Painter with 11 points. Other scorers for Lachute were Kitty Hay with 9, "Hot Shot" LeBlanc and Tricky Matthews with 6, and Babs Underhill with 4.

Grenville squeaked out a 61 to 57 victory in overtime with L.H.S. senior boys. (In a previous meeting between these two teams Lachute boys defeated Grenville 38-36 in overtime.) It was a close game throughout the regulation time, with each team taking the lead several times.

Top scorer of the game was Herbert Underhill with 24 points. Others scoring for Lachute were Grant McGibbon with 18, John Hay, and Bob MacKay 6, and Herbie Sioui 3.

Bright and early Saturday morning the Lachute senior teams travelled to Cowansville for an enjoyable day. The first game was played by the senior girls, in which the Lachute squad chalked up a bouncing score 24 to 8.

The Lachute boys, with two players unable to take part, put up a good fight but were defeated 58 to 32.

After a satisfying meal, the busload travelled to Knowlton for two more senior contests. The most exciting game of the day was played by the gals. A well-played defensive game on both parts brought Lachute success with a score of 35 to 32.

Against Knowlton the senior boys were defeated once more, by a score of 61 to 18.

Executive plans for Fish-Game 1963 season

At an executive meeting of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association Inc., it was decided the organization would link up with the Federation of Fish and Game Clubs again this year. The Quebec Federation, grouping some 60,000 members of individual clubs in the province, is headed by Manny Wilson of Grenville, as president for 1963.

The season's program is under study, and activities will be announced to the general membership at an opening soirée March 15 at La Lorraine Motel.

All right-thinking sportsmen are urged to join up with the Association. For new and continuing members, enrolment cards for 1963 are now available, from Florian Raymond (LO 2-6492) or any director of the Association. All members subscribing before February 26 will receive a Molson Fishing Club calendar for 1963.

Drawing

A drawing on behalf of the funds will be held in June. Prize will be a 12-ft. boat with a 3-h.p. outboard motor of total value around $250. Paul-Emile Gravel has charge of this effort.

Ice Fishing

Ice-fishing enthusiasts who are members of the Association should register any likely prize-winners with a director of the Association, with a witness. Any catches thus registered will be eligible for the year-end trophies, but it is imperative that any wishing to compete must be members of the Association.

Quebec-Ontario hockey schedule now completed

The Quebec-Ontario Hockey League will have finished its regular schedule by the time this report appears. At the time of writing, only one game remained to be played and this contest would decide who would occupy second and third place in the final standings. As a result of their 7-4 victory on Sunday over the Brownsburg Bombers, Lachute moved into a second place tie with Hawkesbury to force a final game to break the deadlock.

During the past week, two games were completed as Brownsburg split a pair of games with Lachute. The game on Sunday was won by Lachute 7-4 (as reported above) after Brownsburg had won an earlier encounter, 10-4. In the latter game, Gary Keatley and Jacques Racine were the big producers for the Bombers as each scored a total of six points.

A league meeting was held last Monday to finalize plans for the remainder of the season. It was decided at this meeting that all postponed games remaining to be played would not be contested. There were a total of seven games in this category and the team held responsible for any postponed game will lose the points to the team they were scheduled to play.

Since the league meeting was held on Monday night and since one game still remained to be played the following night to decide the final standings, it was not possible to specifically outline the games and dates for the upcoming play-offs. However, it was definitely decided that "Series A" would have the first place club playing the team finishing third. "Series B" would have the second and fourth place clubs battling it out for a spot in the finals against the winner of "Series A". All semi-final and final series would be a best out of seven affair. The league president, Bill Brown, also advised us that the semi-finals will start on Sunday afternoon, February 16, at the Brownsburg Arena.

During the play-offs, the games will be handled by one referee and two linesmen. These officials will be selected from those who worked the games throughout the season.

Macdonald Royal date February 22

The students of Macdonald College extend a cordial invitation to attend their 16th annual College Royal — "Macdonald In Focus".

This year's exhibition will feature shows, displays and demonstrations designed for all age groups and diverse interests. The show is planned to focus on the role of Agriculture, Home Economics and Teaching in today's modern world.

The livestock show will again headline this year's event. This colorful display of showmanship will be held in the spaceous Glenfinnan Rink, an innovation in the show.

The Physical Education display will share the limelight with the livestock show. The Physical Education students have two colorful, action-packed hours of gymnastics. This show will feature "Exercise For All". They will demonstrate how easy and inexpensive it is to be physically fit. As an added attraction the "Rapid Five", a crack gym team, will do some dynamic, hair-raising gymnastics.

Brownsburg paves way for $46,000 loan referendum

One of the most important pieces of legislation in Brownsburg's history was started on its way at the February session of the Town Council. Councillor Georges Therrien gave notice of motion that at the next meeting he would "move or cause to be moved" a resolution to adopt By-law 112. This is the regulation for the proposed borrowing of approximately $46,000 for town water and sewerage extension. With the ever-increasing need for these services, and a continuing shortage of waterworks funds, Council must find a way to raise the money for the large-scale projects. The specific areas involved are Woodbine Avenue North and South, Park Avenue, and the Jackman Construction project on Maple Avenue South.

The required motion was made, seconded and passed at a subsequent session, and no sooner than 20 days after that date the referendum will be held, with only those property-owners residing in Brownsburg eligible to cast their ballots. Voting dates — March 6 and 7, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the municipal office on McMaster Street.

Council wasted no time putting the new sidewalk-cleaner into action after approving the purchase of this $5,100 machine at the February meeting. With the miniature snowplow in town on a "look-see" trial basis, town foreman Ferne Brisson took over permanent possession for the municipality as soon as the motion was approved. This marks a worthwhile addition to the growing list of municipal equipment (and once more raises the status of the lowly pedestrian).

Council also approved the purchase of a $1,200 power-driven sewer cleaner. In the past the town was forced to rent equipment at something like $7 per hour, and the rental necessarily suited the convenience of the owners.

Police Chief Thos. Williams reported that he had issued 13 parking fines, also 20 speeding fines, and two for red-light infractions. Total miles patrolled during the month, 840.

The town is still without a site for a new dump! After much investigation, deliberation and "site-seeing", the use of the proposed area has been vetoed by the Township of Chatham, and Brownsburg's search must continue.

Following this, Council immediately turned to a study of the fire protection provided by Brownsburg in outside municipalities. During the discussion it was pointed out that the present arrangements are not entirely satisfactory to Brownsburg, and they may have to be revised.

Bathroom is dangerous spot

The bathroom is a dangerous place for children. Throw away what's left of no-longer-needed medicines. Get rid of used razor blades. To protect a child from cutting or poisoning himself, keep medicines and razors well out of the child's reach. Never leave a child alone in the bathtub — even for a few minutes. He can drown in the time it takes to answer the telephone or the doorbell.

A successful meeting was held Friday, February 1, at Arundel, for the purpose of forming a branch of the Royal Canadian Legion in this area. Representatives from Gray Valley, Lost River, Weir and Arundel were present.

Various committees were formed for the administration and naming of this branch.

Local organizers wish to thank Messrs. Carl Demerse, Ernest Evans and Lloyd Bryson, from Branch 70, Lachute, for the help given in the formation of this unit; also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hillrick, for the use of their home and the refreshments served after the meeting.

It is felt certain that under the capable leadership of the chairman, Mr. W. R. Thompson of Arundel, a successful branch will be formed for this area.

Old resident mourned by many local friends

Late Mrs. Jas. Griffith

An old-time resident of Lachute, Mrs. Jas. Griffith, passed away in Ottawa on Sunday, February 10. She was in her early eighties.

Deceased lady was formerly Miss Charlotte (Dottie) Carr, and came from Edinburgh at an early age to reside with her sister, the late Mrs. John Hope. She later married Mr. Jas. Griffith and lived for a number of years in Arnprior. On his death she returned to Lachute, where she has since made her home, visiting occasionally with her niece, Mrs. T. Fisher, in Ottawa. A nephew, Dr. John Hope, of Timmins, Ont., also remains, with many friends, to mourn her passing.

In earlier years Mrs. Griffith, gifted as a singer, contributed much to local entertainment, before the days of radio and television, when church tea meetings and concerts were popular.

Mrs. Griffith was also a regular vacation visitor on Hope's Island at Lake Louisa, and will be missed by many friends.

The funeral took place Wednesday from the MacKimmie Funeral Home to the Presbyterian Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. Jas. Armour.

APPRECIATION

I take this opportunity to express sincere thanks to my relatives, friends and neighbors who so kindly remembered me with flowers, cards, visits and prayers while I was in hospital and since my return home.

What is best for non-academic student types?

C. M. Bedford of Saskatoon, president of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, writing in the federation's Newsletter, asks whether the educational needs of individual non-matriculant students are best met by the school alone, or should the business community enter into active partnership in the job-preparation of the "non-academic" student?

He continues, "For example, should two students share one job, say at clerking in a store, each clerking one-half day and going to school one-half day?

Would it be feasible to provide each student with a variety of job experiences? Would business, commerce, industry, the service trades, go along with this approach to education? What other methods are there whereby business and the schools could work together in the education of our youth?

A large proportion of the unemployed today are people with less than a high school education. They lack technical skills, and the flexibility to meet the demands of changing jobs. Many of them lack the will to continue their education to meet the demands of a rapidly changing society.

These people need more education in general. They need more specific job-technical skills, and above all, they must have the ability to adapt to a world in which the average person is required to learn at least three new jobs in a work-lifetime.

During the past few years hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent on vocational-technical school facilities. Perhaps a better approach would be to emphasize general school education that would produce good work habits and adaptability, combined with on-the-job training for specific skills.

Wipers, defrosters

Regular inspection of motor vehicles is more important in winter than any other time. "Prudentia" advises that, to get the most out of windshield wipers, the mechanical arm must exert one ounce of pressure per inch of length on the blade. Defrosters must be checked for leaks, and the air-holes must not be blocked. These two items, which contribute a great deal to better safety, are too often forgotten during the inspection of a motor vehicle.

— Prudentia

Over 300,000 people of all ages took part in Canadian Red Cross water safety services and projects last year.

Mansiel Wilson speaker at W.I. B'burg meeting

Mansiel Wilson, manager of the C.I.P. woods division at Grenville, was guest speaker at the February meeting of the Brownsburg W.I., held in the High School last Thursday evening.

Mr. Wilson gave a very interesting talk on Wild Life Conservation, and showed slides on this subject, also some beautiful Canadian scenes, which were enjoyed by all present.

The members of the Brownsburg Road Farm Forum and husbands of W.I. members were also guests at this meeting.

Mr. Davis MacVicar, a Farm Forum member, spoke briefly on the work of this organization, outlining the duties of the Quebec Radio Forum and also the National Farm Forum. Some of the projects promoted by the Farm Forum are school fairs, a co-op medical plan, a car insurance plan and a scholarship fund at Macdonald College.

During the business session, plans were made to attend a conducted tour at Simpson-Sears on February 19. Shut-ins are to be remembered with gifts on Valentine's Day, also a donation of dish towels to the value of $10 to be given to the school kitchen. Members were asked to help with the making of cancer dressings, at a date to be announced later, this being a community effort for a very worthy cause.

It was decided to cater to the A.T.A. supper meeting on February 28, and plans are being made to entertain the teaching staff of the High School in the near future. The United Church Women will cater for the annual banquet on March 7; following this, the annual meeting of the branch will be held, when officers for the coming year will be elected.

W.I. asks for continuance of French classes

The monthly meeting of Lachute branch of the Women's Institute was held in the High School on February 5, with a good attendance.

Among matters of business discussed, it was decided that a request be made to the Department of Education at Quebec, to continue next season the French-language classes sponsored by this group, which have proven to be so popular. The roll-call, "I have been told that —" caused much merriment and provided some surprising information, as well as some very good advice.

An Experiment in Drama

Convener for the day's entertainment was Mrs. Alex Clarke, who presented her version of the well-known play, "The Wandering Jew", which play she had deftly and beautifully condensed into four parts, each part depicting the sad role of the Jew, in different settings of time and place through the ages. These parts were read in turn by Mrs. Gordon Dobbie, Mrs. George McGibbon, Mrs. J. Barbour and Mrs. Gordon Davidson. A vote was taken on the best delivery of their allotted portions, the prize going to Mrs. Davidson.

In closing, Mrs. George Paul thanked Mrs. Clarke for this enjoyable program, and the other participants for the fine rendition of their parts.

New members are always welcome to this group.

Monthly meet of Red Cross Lachute unit

The monthly meeting of the Canadian Red Cross, Lachute Branch, was held in the workrooms in the United Church hall on February 6, with the president, Mrs. A. G. McOuat, in the chair.

Mrs. Fraser Morrison reported a shipment to headquarters of 4 pink baby sweaters with matching bootees, 15 pairs of boys' socks, 3 pairs of children's socks, 15 children's sweaters, 10 cotton infants' nightgowns, and a donation of wool.

Mrs. McOuat read the report of the nominating committee, chaired by Mrs. E. A. Hibbard, that Mr. Willard M. C. Steeves would be chairman of the Red Cross Campaign, with Mr. R. S. Armstrong co-chairman. Mr. Harold Joyce will act as treasurer of the campaign.

Sympathy was expressed to the family of the late Miss L. Hampton, on their bereavement. As one of the directors of the Lachute Branch, and an active worker for many years, Miss Hampton will be greatly missed by this Red Cross group.

CWL meeting for February

The Rev. Father Garland, priest of St. Jude's Parish, Hawkesbury, was guest speaker at the C.W.L. meeting held February 4 at l'Ecole Supérieure. There was a large number in attendance, including members of the C.W.L. at Brownsburg.

The speaker chose as his topic, "Mortification." On behalf of the members he was thanked by Mrs. J. Lafleur.

Plans were completed for the St. Patrick's supper, to be held March 16. Members assisted in the making of cancer dressings. A raffle of food took place during the meeting, and the proceeds will go towards the education of a young brother who is studying at present in Peru and about to join the priesthood.

Members and their husbands will hold a social evening on Monday, February 25, at the Lions Rink; the program will include broomball, dancing and refreshments.

In conclusion, refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Lowe and her group.

HOW FAST WOULD WE FIX YOUR PHONE?

If you're like most people, you probably can't recall the last time anything went wrong with your phone service. Today's phone equipment is built and maintained to provide fast, dependable service, 24 hours a day. However, should something happen to your phone service, you naturally want it back in working order as fast as humanly possible. We do, too. That's why our service people work with two clocks. One that tells the time a service call comes in, and the other, the approximate time a serviceman will be at your doorstep. The time varies depending upon the work load or disposition of the work force, but it is generally only a matter of a few hours. (Emergencies, of course, are taken care of at once.) While we constantly check to prevent trouble before it happens — once in a while something may go wrong. If it does, you can be sure we'll fix it fast — at no extra cost to you.

PHONE SAVES LADY IN DISTRESS

We read a news item recently about a housewife who was busily cleaning her kitchen and suddenly found herself trapped. She was trying to clean the space between the refrigerator and her kitchen counter. Without thinking she squirmed her way into the narrow slot . . . and managed to get thoroughly stuck. But right there on the wall over the counter was her handy kitchen extension phone. She called the police, who sirened out to the rescue . . . gave the refrigerator a few hearty heaves and released the lady. It's one reason for having a kitchen extension that hadn't occurred to us.

IS THERE SOMEONE ACROSS THE MILES?

Is there someone you'd like to talk to . . . someone across the miles you haven't seen for some time? It may be the folks back home, a son or daughter away at college, or an old friend you've missed over the years. There's nothing like hearing the warmth of their familiar voices again. . . the excitement of exchanging homey bits of news . . . the comfort of knowing they're all right. Why not pay them a personal visit by long distance telephone? It costs less than you think. And remember, long distance Area codes help to speed your calls. They're listed in the front pages of your phone book.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK, FEBRUARY 17-24 —

Sickened by bigotry, intolerance

MALLORY, the legendary climber of mountains, was once asked why he willingly faced hardships, injury, and even death in his determination to climb unscaled peaks, and particularly the most imposing of them all, Everest. "Because they are there," answered Mallory, and, with that seemingly off-hand reply, he summed up the feelings of all who are easily challenged by the seemingly impossible things of life.

While Mallory saw Everest as his greatest challenge, others have seen equally difficult ones elsewhere. Schweitzer gave up a life of luxury and easy fame to bring succor to African natives; Florence Nightingale went to the Crimea; and Columbus saw his dream's end across uncharted seas. To them, and to thousands throughout history like them, their goals did not appear impossible, nor did their hopes seem to be insane. Is it not weakness, indeed, to sit back and say "impossible" to goals that have withstood the challenges of others?

Nothing, we are told, is really impossible, and those who disagree may never have heard of John Glenn. But, to far too many, the living of one's own life is the only challenge, and many are not even inspired by it.

To some, there is a challenge that dwarfs all others, the challenge of conquering man's inhumanity to man. This challenge faces men on every side, wherever people of different color, race and religion are living out their lives together — it is unfinished business that haunts the strong and frightens the weak.

It is difficult for some to see this never-ending challenge — they segregate any thoughts of it from their minds, they see only what they wish to see. To others, however, "brotherhood" is a stirring challenge. They are sickened by the bigotry, intolerence, and intellectual lethargy that divides race from race, color from color, and religion from religion. To them, "brotherhood" is not a word torn from a tired cliché, but a way of life. It is not the catchword for one week out of every year, but a daily challenge. Like a great mountain, it is there for all eyes to see, and for all with courage to conquer.

Valentine's Day

VALENTINES, those sentimental or witty missives that brighten the mail at this time of year, are probably the oldest form of greeting cards. Their history dates back to the third century A.D.

Valentine's Day was named after a young Roman priest named Valentine, who was beheaded on February 14, 270 A.D., for refusing to renounce Christianity. While imprisoned, he had been befriended by his jailer's blind daughter, and he composed a farewell message for her, signing it "From your Valentine". History shows there were eight saints named Valentine and that two of them were actually martyred on February 14.

In 1496, Pope Gadkins tried dedicating February 14 to St. Valentine and making him the patron saint of all true lovers, but love lotteries, a sort of "blind date" of Roman origin, remained popular in many European countries throughout the middle ages. In England, it became customary for men to wear the name of the girl they drew on their sleeve or bosom, often encircled by a heart.

This led to the appearance of written Valentines, the earliest of which began to appear in the 1400's.

"The Young Man's Valentine Writer," a book of standard verses that could be copied, was published in 1797 and became highly popular immediately. Valentines grew in size and elegance, and finally, greeting card houses began publishing Valentines, ending the first do-it-yourself era of the greeting card industry.

This winter may jolt old customs

BRITISH AND CONTINENTAL Europeans have been struggling through the coldest, snowiest period in memory.

The individual Englishman, Welshman, Scotsman and Irishman — and the continental individuals — can withstand the cold as well as any Canadian or American or Russian. It has been proved over the long record of polar explorations.

The trouble is that their houses and public buildings, and their highway and transport systems, just aren't equipped to handle cold and snow the way it's done in Canada, for instance. In England, even among the new homes, very few are equipped with central heating. The fire in the living-room, even a number of fireplaces, just won't heat up a residence when the temperature drops below freezing.

A young real estate agent from Birmingham, visiting Canada on a year-end skiing holiday, was entertained at a Toronto friend's home. His main interest was in the heating system — an oil-burning furnace providing hot-water heating. He wondered whether the host was anxious about keeping the oil tank filled, and was told he rarely looked at it — the delivery truck came around regularly and kept it topped up. Even this is not necessary in the case of homes heated by gas.

At the end of January, following a brief respite, blizzards were again sweeping Britain and much of Western Europe — temperatures fell to seven-below in Berlin. An unofficial compilation showed deaths attributed to the cold weather in recent weeks were between 400 and 500.

There may be many more cold waves and deaths before any serious attempt is made in England, for instance, to popularize central heating. Apart from the cost, they are used to the old system. But they may yet become convinced that, in the long run, it's cheaper to be prepared.

Unobstructed view — other compensations

ANYBODY can have summer; even away up in the far north they have mosquitoes and other accompaniments of summer. But winter is the special property of the select — says that bright little publication, The Printed Word. Around the vast bulge of the earth, millions of people have never had a real taste of winter. It is difficult for these excluded people to imagine the delight that Canadians, for example, (all of them?) feel in a sparkling morning, the air calm, fresh snow all around, the breath rising slowly and spreading out like comic-strip balloons of conversation. Inside the opal of winter is a special place that must be experienced to be appreciated. It is a place for the young and the young in spirit.

Another great advantage that Canadians have in winter is they can see more. With all that clutter of leaves cleared away, a nosy person may observe the mansions of the rich, stark to view within their groves. Winter is a time for making candid appraisals of where other people live and some startling sights are seen indeed. These opportunities for the unobstructed view, unknown in winterless climes, may be one reason why Canadians are so well informed and wise.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

I did not originate these three yarns, but I got a laugh out of them, so am passing them on to you . . .

The scene was the waiting-room of a maternity hospital. A collection of six or seven expectant fathers occupied the room — some pretending to read, others pacing up and down and chain-smoking.

A nurse suddenly appeared saying, "Which of you gentlemen is Mr. Jones?" One of the group jumped up and said, "I'm Mr. Jones!"

"Well," said the nurse, "Let me be the first to congratulate you. Your wife has just presented you with a fine healthy son!"

One of the others jumped up and said, "Hey! I was here ahead of you!"

A lady telephoned the Natural Gas Co. complaining that there was a smell of escaping gas in her basement, and to send someone right away to investigate.

"But, Madam," replied the company man, "natural gas has no odor so it must be from some other cause."

"No, no," said the lady, "That's just what it smells like — odorless gas!"

The village halfwit picked up a big-city newspaper on a bus and began scanning the Help Wanted columns. He came to an ad that read, "Orchestra Leader wanted at once". He took note of the agent's address and called next day to apply for the job. The first question the agent asked him was, "Can you play a violin?" To which the applicant replied, "I guess so. I never tried!" . . .

That's all for now. Guess I'll go to bed early. Didn't sleep well last night because I snored and the noise kept me awake. It got so bad that finally I had to go into the next room and shut the door.

WINTER BEST TIME TO MAKE INDOOR HOME IMPROVEMENTS

"You can save yourself much time and trouble," says Donald M. Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, by having your indoor home improvements done in the winter when building tradesmen are not tied up on outdoor construction."

"And it's often more economical, too," continues Mr. Hay, "to have all those repairs or improvements done at once."

Of course, there's always the chance that you haven't the ready cash to make those repairs and improvements now. If that's your problem, drop in at the B of M and have a chat with Don Hay about a Home Improvement Loan. H.I.L.'s are available for all kinds of worthwhile purposes — from insulating the attic to wiring the basement playroom.

B of M Home Improvement Loans are inexpensive — only 6 per cent interest per annum — and they're repayable in easy monthly instalments. Why not drop in at the B of M tomorrow. Mr. Hay at Lachute, or Miss Lulu Miller at Ayersville branch, will be glad to give you full details about a B of M Home Improvement Loan.

NEWS LETTER ON AGRICULTURE

By J. L. PIGEON,
Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Agriculture

A serious problem for many of our Quebec farmers is the fact that farming operations may from time to time need to be expanded to keep them economically sound.

If you are engaged in the dairy industry, for example, you may find that gradual expansion of your herd has brought with it a need to acquire more land or to expand your service buildings to match your increasing production.

If, having noted that there are some problems of overproduction in the dairying field, you are attempting instead to diversify your operation, you will find that a substantial investment may be required to do so — for example, to establish a basic beef herd.

In many cases, you may have refrained from expanding or improving your farming operation because you have not had sufficient capital available, and have felt that financing such improvements would be too difficult.

I would like to point out to you that this is not the case. There is, in fact, an agency known as the Farm Credit Corporation, which was established by the Federal Government in 1959, and which is charged specifically with meeting the recognized need for farm credit.

The main requirement for you, as farmers, to be eligible for loans from this agency is that you provide information to show that any loan granted will actually assist you to increase your net income from your farming operation.

Loans may be granted for almost any activity related to the farm, as long as there is this assurance that your use of the money will make it possible for you to have a more economic farm. In short, their purpose is to provide credit to enable you to show greater profits than you would be able to do otherwise.

Adequate farm credit can help you to enlarge and reorganize your farms into economic family farm units. To fit this definition, farms must be capable of earning sufficient income to pay all operating and maintenance costs, provide an adequate livelihood for you and your family, and make it possible for you to repay the loan without undue strain.

Loans to individual farmers may range to as high as $27,500.00, depending on the type of loan and the purpose for which it is required, and interest rates and repayment periods have been made as convenient as possible, in order to make sure that essential credit is well within the reach of all farmers who may need it.

All loans granted under the Farm Credit Act, which is the Act under which the Farm Credit Corporation makes this farm credit available, bear an interest of five percent. However, this interest rate in Quebec is shared with you by your Provincial Government, so that the direct interest cost to you to make use of this available credit is only 2½ percent — a cost which I am sure you will agree is very reasonable in relation to the advantages it can provide.

In addition, repayment of loans obtained from the Farm Credit Corporation may be negotiated over a long period of time — up to 30 years.

Next week, I plan to outline for you some of the types of loans for which you may be eligible, and how you can use the facilities of the Farm Credit Corporation in determining what you need to do, and how much you may need to borrow.

Pauline Johnson, Poet Patriot

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Playing Indians", is a favorite game of small boys, and even little girls often beg their mothers to make them a colored headband with feathers. Boys and girls of school age will enjoy Pauline Johnson's poetry in "Flint and Feathers" read aloud. A good story appeals to young and old and this Indian writer's "Legends of Vancouver", (McLelland and Stewart) which can now be purchased in a paper back, should be on every Canadian home bookshelf. It has illustrations by Ben Limand and is in the New Canadian Library Series.

Her last years were spent in British Columbia and we have seen where her ashes were laid in beautiful Stanley Park, Vancouver. There the sound of the sea mingles with the whisper of the breeze in the great pines overhead. We have also visited Chiefwood, the commodious rough-cast home where the head of the six Nations, who married an English woman, Emily Howell, made a spacious home for his wife. Four children were born to them, two sons and two daughters. On March 10th a century ago, Emily Pauline the second daughter arrived.

In later life to show her identification with her own people, Pauline Johnson adopted her father's grandfather's name "Tekahionwake" meaning "double wampum" — wampum being a string of small carved shells, often used by Indians as money in their barter of goods.

When she was just a little girl, her mother, who was related to the American writer William Dean Howells, encouraged small Emily Pauline to write verses. While she was still quite young a number of her poems appeared in various United States publications such as Goldwin Smith's paper "The Week" and in Toronto magazines.

A large number of her poems reflect her love of the out of doors. Shadow River, Erie Waters, Brandon, Harvest Time, Low Tide at St. Andrews, The Train Dogs, Golden of the Selkirks, are all descriptive of authentic Canadian nature scenes. She was a great admirer of trees and in its section Miscellaneous Poems are ones on The Firs, The Maples, Aspens and the Giant Oak.

The Indians possess a wealth of stories which one generation has passed on to the next by word of mouth. Two of her finest poems relate legends, the first associated with the name of Qu'Appelle Valley and the second "The Pilot of the Plains".

It was from her father, with his Iroquois blood, that she inherited a feeling for dramatic scenes. She had a great deal of ability as an interpreter of her own poems and made her debut as an elocutionist in 1892, when the Young Men's Liberal Club of Toronto put on an evening with Canadian authors. She took her audience by storm, and the president, Frank Yeigh, who was a lecturer, sponsored her public recital two weeks later. For this she wrote a new poem, "The Song My Paddle Sings". With its musical lilt and colorful pictures it still speaks to campers today.

For almost 20 years Pauline Johnson recitals were very popular. Travelling from East to West both in Canada and the United States and also in England, she appeared before her audiences in her own native dress. She was a beautiful woman and a very striking one in her Indian costume, a scarlet cloak thrown over her shoulders, a necklace of bears' claws, brooches made by Mohawk silversmiths and a belt of wampum or small shells.

Ever proud of her ancestry, she also came to have a Canadian patriotism second to none. Once she said, "I wish one of my poems could set fire to the hearts of men, and thrill them with the glory of nationhood."

WRONG METHOD

Vancouver (CP) — When a Vancouver man tried to eradicate a wasp's nest with a gallon of gasoline and a match, the nest went up in flames, and so did his kitchen window and the porch floor. Many of the wasps were still around when the firemen left.

AMBROSIA SQUARES

Greeks had a word for it!

According to Greek mythology, ambrosia was a balsamic juice served to the pantheon of gods in order to preserve their immortality. The odd mortal allowed to drink ambrosia, received additional beauty, strength and swiftness. Now, the name ambrosia has become synonymous with something that is especially delicious; and it is often applied to a dish made of mixed fruits and grated coconut.

Today's recipe for Ambrosia Squares can be assembled from ingredients commonly found on most pantry shelves. But it makes up in flavor what it lacks in magic. The tender yeast batter with a hint of orange rind, is spread in a jelly-roll pan and topped first with pineapple marmalade and then with a chewy buttery-coconut mixture. After baking, the cake is cut into squares for serving. The squares are as good to eat cold as they are warm, and they require no buttering.

Ambrosia Squares

(Yield — 2 dozen 2½ inch squares)

¼ Cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope fast rising active dry yeast, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine (melted), 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 1¼ cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ⅔ cup finely-chopped shredded or flaked coconut, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup cream, 1 cup pineapple marmalade.

Measure lukewarm water; stir in the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Beat eggs in a mixing bowl until light; stir in the salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, melted butter or margarine, orange rind, dissolved yeast and 1 cup of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Stir in sufficient additional flour to make a thick batter — about ½ cup more. Cover bowl with a tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hours. Stir down batter and spread in a greased jelly-roll pan (10 x 15 inches). Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 40 minutes.

Meantime, cream the ¼ cup butter or margarine. Blend in the coconut, vanilla and cream. Spread the pineapple marmalade over risen batter and top with the coconut mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Stand cake in its pan on a wire rack until cold. When cold, cut into 4 strips, lengthwise, then cut each strip into 6 squares.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two designers showing their spring collections in New York recently complained that North American women go in too much for "togetherness" in their clothes.

Everybody looks alike — hair makeup and jewelry, Jimmy Galanos said. Norman Norell agreed, adding that the little nothing dress with a string of pearls and a pair of white gloves is almost a uniform.

The complaint of these two designers is not a new one. But it is surprising that such criticisms need to be made, especially at this time in fashion's history when almost anything goes.

The fashions shown in New York give women more scope for individuality than ever before. It seems you can wear anything from sharply tailored suits to frilly babydoll outfits and be in vogue.

Suit jackets are long or short, coats and jackets are fitted or flared and silhouettes can be figure-molding or free-flowing.

Co-ordinated Look

Even much of the work of accessorizing has disappeared with the popular costume or co-ordinated look — the look achieved with suits and matching overblouses, dresses with companion jackets or coats and suit linings repeating the color or pattern of an overblouse.

For the costume look this season, designers are using longer overblouses nautical fashion with sailor-sized collars, or in sweater fashion with zippers or buttons down the back.

The costume appears as frequently in after-five outfits as it does in daytime clothes and in many cases, the dressiest gowns are accompanied by tailored jackets or coats.

All-day fabrics being used for spring include jersey, knits, flannels, mohair, serge, cotton and lightweight wools.

In the accessory field, shoes are colorful with an opened-up look achieved through cut-outs, sling backs, shank openings and straps. Emphasis is on the square and crescent toe rather than the sharp point.

Furniture Fashions

Dior and Cassini not only influence women's fashions but also their furniture, John Build, president of the Society of Interior Designers, said at the Canadian Furniture Mart in Toronto. "There is a definite relationship between style and color used in women's apparel and the colors used in home furnishings. The maunfacturers of dresses and skirts have more to say than the maunfacturers of furniture."

Clothes are reflecting the romantic periods, hair styling is becoming more exotic and as a result, a Moorish and eastern motif has become evident in furniture. Also there is a trend back to traditional furniture — simplified traditional without too many frills.

The off-beat colors dictated by fashion leaders, once accepted can also be sold to the public in furniture, Mr. Guild said.

"Olive is a notable case. Three to five years ago, the amount of olive-colored materials used for covering furniture was practically nil. But today it is as common in furniture as in men's and women's clothing."

Toast Treat

To give the family a breakfast treat, try honey French toast. To make it, dip six slices of enriched white bread into a mixture of two beaten eggs, ½ cup milk, three tablespoons honey, ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of nutmeg. Brown slices on both sides in hot fat and then serve with a topping of fresh fruit, jelly or preserves.

Massey College, for men only

Massey College, to open on University of Toronto campus next fall, is a bold Canadian academic experiment, says The Financial Post. A college for outstanding graduate male students, it will be unique in Canada and quite different from similar institutions elsewhere. Its development will be watched carefully by other universities in Canada and abroad. Built and furnished at a cost of approximately $3.5 million by the Massey foundation, the college is the dream of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Governor-General of Canada. If the new college is successful it may well be widely copied in North American academic circles.

Members of the business and professional community will be represented on the college's "board of directors" as Senior Fellows. This is not just a breeding ground for university professors or even a reward for bright boys. It is designed to nurture a society of cultured men of achievement in many areas of Canadian life. "The college will have failed if after a time we don't turn out people heading toward something other than university work," says Robertson Davies, distinguished Canadian author and playwright and first Master (head) of the college.

Hog cholera

Recently the Province of Quebec has seen more outbreaks of Hog Cholera. The reason for this is the importation of American pork into Canada. Another possible reason is that, with the several outbreaks of the disease over the past couple of years, the virus has been "seeded down".

The United States control policy for Hog Cholera is one of vaccination. Unless all hogs are vaccinated many can carry the disease and eventually come into Canada with imported pork. This means that, unless farmers who feed garbage to pigs do not cook it first, the risk of their pigs being infected is that much greater.

In Canada as opposed to the United States there is a quarantine and slaughter policy to control the disease. Even though this may cost the Government a considerable amount of money to carry out the controls and compensation to the farmer for losses, it is still more economical than the United States policy of vaccination, where this disease is costing over 40 million dollars per year.

Spiders control insect pests

Spiders help to keep a balance in the insect and mite populations they prey on, thereby performing a service to agriculture.

Dr. A. L. Turnbull, a Canada Department of Agriculture entomologist stationed at Belleville, Ont., specializes in predatory spiders and has spent time counting and feeding them in the course of his research.

He observes:

"Nobody seems to love spiders. Yet far from causing any appreciable harm, spiders should be ranked near the top of any list of mankind's friends."

He admits, however, that only recently, as a result of studies on the amount of the spider's insect consumption have scientists themselves acknowledged it as a potential ally in the perpetual war against pests.

Spiders will eat virtually any insect, but when they find a kind that is easy to get, they tend to eat it in preference to all others. But if this particular insect becomes scarce, hunger will eventually induce the spider to eat some other kind which is more readily found. The spider acquires a taste for this new insect until it, in turn, becomes scarce.

There are more than 17,000 known species of spiders and probably as many more still undiscovered.

Some 12,000 spiders, representing many species, have been counted in one acre of rough meadow in Canada. Despite this formidable number (exceeded in many other parts of the world), the ratio of spiders to other insects in the same area is small — one to 180 for most of the summer, according to an estimate made in southern Ontario.

Some spiders can live months without food but a common average-sized spider eats the equivalent of nearly two fruit flies a day during its lifetime.

Dr. Turnbull concludes that spiders form a large army of predators strategically deployed throughout all land environments. They help to keep the insect population in balance.

Since "it is only by super-abundance that pest insects destroy crops . . . by fostering such organisms as spiders, natural balances can be maintained most of the time, and insect damage kept to a minimum."

Leaking chimneys

At this time of the year, chimneys may leak down the side, and may go so far as to stain wallpaper in the house and give off an odor.

This, says Professor A. Banting, of the Macdonald College Agricultural engineering department, is due to the combustion of the wood so that gum tars condense in a cold chimney and run out. This liquid (creosote) cannot be prevented in some chimneys, due to their construction. Nevertheless the creosote can be cut down by burning dry wood, and by adjusting the draft so that the fire will not smolder.

Chimney fires are caused by too much creosote condensing; if the chimney gets overheated, the creosote will burn. This creosote can be burned out of a chimney by using a wire basket with rags. A torch is made in this way, using kerosene, and slowly lowered into the chimney to burn off the creosote. Caution should be exercised, and fire equipment kept handy.

Japanese study Cdn. agriculture

By studying agricultural methods in such diverse countries as Canada, Switzerland and Denmark, a new generation of young farmers in Japan is creating a virtual revolution in their nation's foodstuffs.

The basic problem was that about 37 percent of Japan's population was still employed in agriculture, although only about 17 percent of the mountainous little islands was arable, and many little farming villages depended solely on rice farming.

Today, Canadian wheat is increasingly supplanting rice as a staple; many other types of foodstuffs have also been introduced in a long-range diversification program; and young farmers are scattered all over the world, studying other nations' farming methods.

For example, they are studying the cultivation of hops and cherries in relatively cold climates such as Canada's, the use of mountain slopes for cattle-raising as in Switzerland, and the planting of trees on mountains as in Denmark.

Some of the results have already been spectacular. A poor village in the mountains of Karuizawa turned rich quickly when a young farmer showed them how to grow soft and delicious cabbages in the rich volcanic soil of their region. Last year, the little village of 3,000 people made a profit of $2.2-million.

Today, they say that every household in the village has a television set, electric washing machine, electric refrigerator, and electric vacuum cleaner. Every second family has a car.

Ingenuity has been the clue to most of the agricultural progress. One region profited by learning to cultivate mushrooms on the trunks of chestnut trees. Another village grew rich by cultivating tropical fruits and flowers in greenhouses which utilized the heat from a nearby hot spring spa.

Still another area learned to draw valuable by-products from seaweed. Other regions have imported black tea saplings and some have learned to produce red, green and yellow apples.

The government supplies research experts who analyze an area's soil and advise farmers as to possible uses.

RETRACTION

Bob Hope quipped on his TV show one night, "In this town, my hotel room is so small that the rats are stoop-shouldered." A few days later Bob learned that the hotel was going to sue for damages unless he retracted the "slur". So, on a subsequent show, he retracted. "I'm sorry I said that the rats in that hotel were stoop-shouldered," he announced. "They are not."

Annexation talk now crystallizes to action

"We have talked about annexation for ten, fifteen or twenty years. We believe the time has come to make a move and take steps with the necessary authorities towards integrating the Parish of St. Jerusalem and the Village of Ayersville with Lachute Town." . .

In these terms Mayor Dave Campbell introduced a long-discussed project, at an adjourned meeting of town council last Thursday.

With accord of the councillors present, Mayor Campbell stated that preliminary talks had been held with the two councils concerned, and then elaborated on the procedure in such cases. . . Lachute must first prepare a by-law, which shall specify the territory to be annexed, in detail as to boundaries and other information. Notices of this by-law must be published in the newspapers and posted in city hall, and after a delay prescribed by law, a public meeting must be called (within six weeks after publishing the notice). Taxpayers can there voice their views, and decision be arrived at, based on number and valuation of the property-holders.

Following the formalities and culmination, Mayor Campbell could see no immediate advantage to Greater Lachute in this fusion of the three municipalities; however, it was in the interests of the general population to look to the future.

By vote of the aldermen, the Council was accordingly authorized to take preliminary steps, and provision was made to meet the expenses incurred in such enquiries, such as legal and surveyors' fees, etc.

Safe robbery at local hotel

Lachute Police Chief J. L. Hebert reported the arrest of a 20-year-old Lachute resident following a robbery in the Windsor Hotel, Lachute, on Monday of last week. The arrest was made two days following the robbery.

According to the Chief, entry to the hotel was gained by breaking in a cellar door. The culprits then made their way to the safe, one of the men apparently knowing the combination, and made off with some $460. The arrested man was taken to St. Jerome, where he will appear on a charge of breaking and entering with theft. It is believed another arrest will be made within several days.

4-H Calf Club lays plans for '63

The Lachute 4-H Calf Club was re-organized for the year 1963 at a meeting held last Thursday in the Science lecture room of the Lachute High School. The prize money won during the past season was given out.

The new executive is the same as last year except for a few changes. Bobby Rodger was re-elected president; vice-president is Sheila Meyer (new from last year), and Richard Thompson is again secretary-treasurer. Ross Oswald is club leader, with Davis MacVicar and Ronald Bain as assistants.

Donald Robertson, federal livestock fieldman, gave a talk on the market situation and showed a film, "Meat on the Move", which proved very interesting to the members.

The meeting was adjourned until March — the date to be announced later.

Musical Ride to be feature at Maxville Fair

The famed musical ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be the leading attraction of Maxville's Spring Show, states the Glengarry News on announcement of Dr. D. M. Gamble at the annual dinner of Kenyon Agricultural Society, held recently.

The musical ride is scheduled for three performances during the June 20, 21 and 22 fair days. Thursday evening, Friday afternoon and Friday evening will feature this attraction, for which 38 horses and 40 men will be brought to Maxville. The Board is also planning to provide a brass band for accompaniment and will floodlight the infield for night performances.

Cost of the campaign administration is $7,000.

Budget adopted for 1963, no increase in tax rate

At an adjourned sitting of the Council, with Mayor Dave Campbell in charge, the municipal budget for 1963 was formally adopted.

Estimated revenues and expenditures balance each other with a sum allowed for deficit, at a figure around $422,907.50 — the property tax remaining unchanged at $1.50 per $100 valuation, plus water tax, also unchanged.

Property valuation, for purposes of municipal finance, is established at $10,577,050.

At the same meeting the Council approved and accepted the year's financial statement prepared by Armand Parent, public accountant, of St. Jerome. The report shows a surplus of $13,191.55 of revenues over estimated expenses. On the other hand, the town corporation bought and paid for the old arena building during the year, for the housing of municipal equipment; the cost of this was $14,500.

Farmer fatally attacked by bull near Buckingham

The Buckingham Post reports that the victim and his son, Grant, were working in the barn while their 80 head of livestock took some fresh air in the farm yard.

Mr. Ross was walking around the barn when, coming around a corner of the building, he came face to face with the bull. The man had never been afraid of the animal (which was hornless), and started to walk between it and the barn.

Provincial Police, investigating, think the bull was probably startled at Mr. Ross' sudden appearance. It charged, crushing the victim against the building, and then proceeded to maul him.

In the meantime Grant, wondering what was taking his father so long, went to investigate and found the animal still mauling his father. The bull was driven off and police and ambulance summoned, but it was too late.

Prospective fed'l candidates indicate three-party line-up

Liberal Representation

On behalf of the Liberal Party, Vincent Drouin, M.P., of St. Eustache, will again be standard-bearer. In the last Federal election, in June 1962, he defeated J.-O. Latour, Prog. Cons.; J.-O. Desjardins, Social Credit; Kenneth P. Riley, Ind.; and Gilbert Arnold, Confederation party, with a majority of 1,184 votes.

Progressive Conservatives

Election fever in Progressive Conservative circles has been running high for the past several weeks and it appears that some positive action will be taken this evening, Wednesday, at a meeting to be held in the St. Hermas Parish Hall. A gathering of party supporters are then expected to arrive at some decision for the official selection of a candidate.

The most prominently mentioned names are those of the Hon. W. M. Cottingham, Argenteuil Deputy and former Minister of Mines in the Provincial Cabinet; Roger Regimbal, Personnel Director at Dominion Ayers Limited; and Kenneth P. Riley, a local insurance agent and Independent candidate in last year's election.

It has been pointed out that this evening's meeting is to properly feel-out the party members as to the selection of an official candidate, and that following the meeting, the date for an official convention will be announced, at which the P.C. standard-bearer will be elected. Party representatives in all sections of the constituency have been notified of the assembly, and it is anticipated there will be a large turn-out.

Mr. Cottingham was contacted

Expect decision on nominee for Prog. Cons. party in connection with the frequent mention of his name in the Federal field, and he made the following statement: "I have been approached by several delegations requesting I resign my seat in the Provincial Parliament and contest the April 8 Federal election for the Progressive Conservatives. I will admit, I have seriously considered doing this, due to the number of delegations from all sections of the constituency. However, I feel I owe the residents of Argenteuil a sincere debt of thanks for the confidence they placed in me last November, and, taking everything into consideration, I have decided to remain in provincial politics and complete my mandate. I am, however, offering my full support to Mr. Regimbal, in the event he sees fit to accept the nomination."

Mr. Riley was contacted prior to press-time and gave the following statement: "It had been my intention to seek the official nomination at the Progressive Conservative convention; however, I feel Roger Regimbal is the man for the job and if he will accept the nomination, I will support him, as I feel he will fight for a united Canada." Mr. Riley made it clear, however, that in the event that Mr. Regimbal declined the nomination, he would allow his name to stand at the convention.

"In a telephone interview, Mr. Regimbal stated he had made no definite decision as yet; he had not had sufficient time to consider all the factors. "I will not make a snap decision as I intend to do the right thing and have no regrets afterward. I do feel that it is in the best interests of all concerned to have a decision in the shortest possible time, and I will definitely make this move within the next few days."

Social Credit

Among the Social Credit supporters, there was a convention held Sunday evening at Ayersville and, according to report, Maurice Gougeon, 33, a St. Eustache salesman, was elected to represent the party. Another contender was Maurice Dumas, of Ayersville. J. Orphir Desjardins, alderman of Lachute and Social Credit candidate in the 1962 election, did not seek re-nomination.

Nominations

Nomination proceedings will be held at 2 p.m. E.S.T. on Monday, March 25, at Lachute Auditorium.

As in the last Federal election, Dr. J. P. Dorion of Lachute is in the role of District Returning Officer for the Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes constituency.

Appointments in Argenteuil Liberal Assocn.

At the recent annual meeting of the Argenteuil Liberal Association the formation of an eighth zone, in Ayersville district, was approved. The vice-president for the new zone, Maurice Charron, was added to the County executive.

The president-elect, Fernand Legault, QC, chaired the meeting, and Notary Richard Valois was affirmed as secretary following formal ballot. Rodolphe Durocher had been also nominated for the position.

Jean Valenti, of St. Adolphe d'Howard, was also added to the executive in virtue of his office as president of the Argenteuil Young Liberals' Association.

The various zone vice-presidents and members of the parent executive are now as follows: André Lefebvre, Zone 1, Lachute; J. Raoul Ladouceur, Zone 2, St. Andrews; Mrs. Annie Goldup, Zone 3, Whisselltown; Omer Thomas, Zone 4, Kilmar; Cyprien Brosseau, Zone 5, Huberdeau; Maurice Pagé, Zone 6, St. Adolphe; Albert Gagné, Zone 7, Brownsburg; Maurice Charron, Zone 8, Ayersville.

Rotary topics — Mediterranean to Canadian North

At the St. Valentine's Day meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, Ross MacAdam introduced Rotarian Ross Cole to the assembly as guest speaker for the evening. . . .

Before employing his skiing techniques and abilities at Carling Lake, Ross was working as a project engineer in Northern Quebec on the Dew Line for about six years. He accompanied his very interesting talk with some colorful slides photographed while on the job at such places as Great Whale River, Fort Chimo and Gagnonville. The majority of the work consisted of land surveying and the construction of micro-wave relay tower locations, and townsites. He also related some of the interesting experiences they encountered while working among the Indians and Eskimos, and showed slides that dealt with their unusual ways of life — such as living in canvas tents the year round, when the temperatures go down as low as 50-60 below zero; the great extent to which they depend on the winters for survival, by trapping and hunting game for pelts, in order to build up credit with the Hudson's Bay Co. sufficient to carry them through the summer months with food and clothing. . . The audience thoroughly enjoyed this talk and illustrative slides, and special thanks were extended to Rotarian Ross for providing such an interesting evening.

There was a complete change of location and atmosphere for the January 31 club meeting, which was held at the La Lorraine Motel. Following the usual pre-dinner fellowship, the gathering moved upstairs to the dining room to enjoy a tasty supper. This was accompanied by a highly interesting talk by Col. Ernest Emmett. Rotarian George McGibbon introduced the speaker, who gave a brief history of the years he spent in the army in Arabia. Although he stated it was difficult to give a talk on experiences that took place over 50 years ago, he provided the club with a very enjoyable topic Rotarian John Chalmers thanked him on behalf of the club.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

"Quebec Auto Insurance Rates Show 50 pc Gain"... One of our local insurance agents was somewhat concerned over this misguided caption in a Montreal daily. The headline writer had slipped up! The article goes on to say that volume of car insurance has increased by 50 percent, not the rates. The big increase is attributable to the provincial government's Highway Victims Indemnity Act of 1961, according to a spokesman of the All-Canada Insurance Federation.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

This is a little story I just have to pass on. I was talking to one of our older citizens the other day, and stories were exchanged. This one I really liked. . . It seems a bear had been plagueing the district killing sheep, etc.; the farmers were up in arms, but not having much luck killing it. This gentleman really had his dander up when one of his ewes was killed and only partially eaten. Everything was tried — deadfalls, snares, etc., but without luck. By this time the sheep's carcass was really HIGH. Finally they thought of poison, and this is where the story comes in. . . Seeing some pills around they powdered them up and managed to hide it in the HIGH sheep. (This must have been some job). It was just about this time that Mr. Bruin returned and took along the carcass. Know what? It wasn't poison, but ASPIRIN. . . To make a happy ending though, the bear never did come back, but I'll bet he had a hangover.

Had a little gabfest with the Wardens the other day, and was told no evidence could be seen of anyone fishing Lake Louisa. This amazed me, as when I was around there was plenty of evidence — holes in the ice, etc. But these poachers are not dumb, and I would imagine they would cover the holes with snow, letting it freeze so that it couldn't be seen from shore.

A few lynx tracks were seen, but it was some time since it had passed. A couple of deer yards were also inspected; one of these was deserted, while the other only had a couple of animals around. No tracks could be found, but the new snow would have covered any human tracks. No wolves seem to be in the area, so I guess it would all tie in with the human wolf.

There have been phone calls informing me of dogs on the loose. Too bad; most of you realize that any dogs running the bush right now are a menace to anything that get in their way; also, if they are seen by the wardens, they will be killed.

It certainly looks as though people are beginning to wake up to the deplorable outlook for our wildlife. More and more they are asking questions. I know I have been asked dozens of times, just what is going to happen to our game resources when the Tourist Department takes over. That I cannot say, I'm just as anxious as most of you to find an answer. Any tourist bureau that the Government will dream up will not be interested in game laws, unless of course it is for the purpose of getting more revenue. Anyone appointed to look after the game laws, etc., will be a "yes" man to the tourist office. They could, of course, appoint a neutral official, but this I cannot see them doing. More time and money will be spent on useless things trying to attract the almighty dollar. Endeavoring to tie these two groups into one efficient organization looks like a superhuman job.

I asked my readers for some information on the shooting of the dogs last fall. Well, I received a reply — which I am sure will gratify all sportsmen in this district... A lady at Lake Sir John gave me assurance that this case is not going to be dropped. Every effort is going to be made, to get satisfaction not only for the owners, but also for most decent people who abhor this type of indiscriminate gunnery.

The rabbit season is over now, but at least we can look around for them. Only the odd track can be seen. I have been told of other areas being overrun with them. It may be a question of feed, which would also account for the scarcity of lynx in this district; of these I haven't seen many tracks either. Even the black squirrels seem to have taken off for greener pastures, or snowier ones. Only a few red squirrels are in evidence, and I haven't seen a chipmunk for a long time. I don't know just why everything seems to have flown the coop.

The only things that are around in plenty are the skunks; this is really a queer one. More skunks are on hand right now than I have seen in many a year. One of them, I was told, was taking bites at passing cars. Surely this must have been rabid, and maybe a lot more of them are similarly afflicted, making them just a little confused as to what season it is. At any rate, I would be careful if you see any of these animals.

The moose seem to be back; four of them were seen the other day going towards Louisa. I hope these will stay with us, and maybe have young this spring — which would help restore the species in these parts again. I had almost given up hope of hearing of them in group formation again!

Travelling is not too difficult on snowshoes these days. New snowfall has improved the bush for this type of travel. To be sure, there are spaces where the ground is not covered to any appreciable depth, but on the whole it is not too bad. A couple of other shoers were met on our travels, and one of them was having it really tough, having bought himself a pair of surplus shoes that seemingly had never been used. After being stored for years with no care taken of the webbing, a cord affair, it was snapping in many places. On top of this, the harness did not fit, so he was having plenty of trouble. It is cases like this that spoil the sport for the average man.

I've often wondered why things like this are bought through "surplus" houses. In most cases it is just useless junk, never intended to be used over and over again. They were made for a specific job; what happened to them afterwards was of no consequence. To my way of thinking, if you intend to purchase a pair of snowshoes, don't do it this way. You have to earn your good money; why throw it away?

I was reading a story of a club in the Southern States that has decided to make life more livable for waterfowl. They have been granted an area of wet land which they are going to oversee for all water birds. Nesting boxes will have netting placed around, to keep out the snapping turtles. This area of 200 acres is going to present a sizeable job, but being true sportsmen they will finish it. — Why true sportsmen? Only this type would undertake such a hard and thankless job. More power to them. Maybe some of our clubs could take a lesson. The birds are going to be fed every day, also a different group is going to patrol every day to prevent law-breaking. A splendid idea.

Met a gentleman in Montreal who has just embarked on the sport of varmint shooting. He has bought himself one of these super-accurate tack shooters in the 220 class. Mounted with a 10-power scope, this sure will be an accurate gun. He had read an article some time ago on these 1,000-yard shooters, and got so interested that this was it. He even travelled to the States to see some of these guns in action. Liking what he saw, he was a willing convert. Now all that remains for him to do is take a crack at his first woodchuck. Of course, this is not a sport for the average shooter, the cost is too high. Figure it out — the gun cost $400-plus, without the scope; then a spotting scope is needed, along with all the other equipment for hand loading. All that I can say is, mark me out of this class. But for thrills — it seems incredible that, at 1,000-yard range, shot can consistently be grouped around a half-dollar bullseye. Man, that is really tack-hammer shooting.

Back in toward the Blueberry Marsh this past week, I found this area still the same — darned hard to get into, but well worth the effort. All sorts of tracks can be seen in the snow; about the only thing lacking was the panthers. Anyone heard of them? I don't think they were shot, else we would have heard reports. I hope they are still with us.

Shuffle in playdown contenders leading to Quebec-Ontario finals

The secretary of the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League, J. P. Doré, has released the final statistics of the regular schedule completed last week. Here are the final standings:

	G.P.	W	L	T	F	A	P
Brownsburg	22	17	5	-	180	99	34
Lachute	21	9	12	-	122	139	18
Hawkesbury	17	8	9	-	110	116	16
St. Andrews	20	5	15	-	92	150	10

A member of the Brownsburg Club, Gary Keatley, won the league scoring honors. Keatley came on strong in the last few games of the schedule to take the top spot over Jean-Guy Prévost of Lachute. Keatley, a starry winger who played Junior hockey last year with Gooderich, Ont., also had the honor of scoring the most goals during the season. His record of 38 goals and 29 assists gave him a total of 67 points in 22 games. Prévost finished second, 11 points behind, with 27 goals and 29 assists for 56 points. Close behind him was his team-mate André Payer, with 54 points. Ken MacGibbon, who finished fourth, was the league's top play-maker as he gathered 36 assists over the schedule. The top ten scorers are as follows:

	G.	Asst.	Total
1 Keatley, Br.	38	29	67
2 Prévost, Lac.	27	29	56

8 Robitaille, Br.	8	32	40
9 Dumais, S.A.	13	23	36
10 Ouellette, Br.	12	21	33

"Buddy" Racine made it a clean sweep of the top three positions for the Brownsburg Club as he allowed the least number of goals over the regular schedule, to emerge as the league's top goaler. His average was a low 4.50 goals per game, while the combined team total for Lachute was 6.60, which gave them second spot. These are the final statistics in the goal tending department:

	G.P.	G.A.	Ave.
Racine, Br.	21	88	4.20
Guitard, Br.	1	11	11.00

The league was handed a setback early last week when the Hawkesbury team announced that they were no longer able to compete as a member of the four-team circuit, due to an inadequate number of players. It is unfortunate that this situation developed, especially since the play-offs are slated to commence this week. However, League President Bill Brown announced that a six game round-robin series would be held with the remaining three teams playing each other twice, to decide who would enter the final best-of-seven series. The following dates were agreed upon for the round-robin affair (all games being played at the Brownsburg Arena):

Feb. 17 — Lachute vs B'burg
Feb. 19 — Lachute vs St. And.
Feb. 21 — B'burg vs St. And.
Feb. 26 — B'burg vs Lachute
Feb. 28 — St. And. vs B'burg
March 3 — St. And. vs Lachute

At the time of writing, the first game in this series had been played. On Sunday afternoon Brownsburg took an early lead and then held on, to edge Lachute 7-6. Trailing 7-2 going into the final period, Lachute scored four unanswered goals before time ran out on them. It was probably the most exciting period of hockey all season, and if the teams continue to play that way throughout the play-offs, then the fans are certainly in for some exciting action. The scoring champion, Gary Keatley, led the Brownsburg attack with two goals, while MacAdam, Ouellette, Ball, Stewart and Gary Racine divided the remaining goals. M. Desrosiers scored two for Lachute with Rogers, Curry, Payer, and Prévost counting the others. Both goalers, Racine and Lafontaine, played outstanding games in the nets as the two teams played wide-open hockey from start to finish.

Tickets are on sale for the drawing of a row boat, and the results so far have been very good.

This club also has among its members, the only two qualified instructors in first-aid of the St. John Ambulance in the district. These instructors have agreed to give a short course in first-aid to all members in good standing, at the latest, May 1. As this knowledge is invaluable to fishermen and hunters, you are cordially invited to join the Club as soon as possible, as these courses can only be given by qualified instructors. The courses will be free.

The Club has also organized an ice fishing contest for Sunday, March 3. Members will be advised by mail of the necessary details. It is also understood that all fish caught that day, legal for this time of the year, may be registered and will count for the trophies.

Friday Games

Crestview school team went down to defeat on Friday night to the L.H.S. senior girl basketballers. The steady play-making of the local girls and the ability to score dominated the game from start to finish, with a final count of 41-13. High scorer of the game was Nancy Hay with 14 points, followed by Barbara Underhill, 9, Gwen Matthews 7 Mary Beth Painter 5, Janis LeBlanc 4, and Linda McCaskill 2.

In the second game of the bill, Lachute senior boys won their fifth game of the season by an overwhelming score of 45-33.

The game, played slowly, as compared to the usual fast-breaking Lachute team, provided the fans with many exciting moments. The most exciting play of the night came in the fourth quarter when "Big" John Black scored what proved to be the winning basket. From this point onward Lachute slowly pulled ahead and never looked behind.

Top scorer of this game was Grant McGibbon, who was fouled out in the third quarter with 20 points. Other scorers for Lachute were Dick Evans, 10, Herbie Underhill 9, John Hay 2, John Black 2, Herbie Sioui and Robert MacKay, 1

Saturday's Results

On the Junior scene on Saturday, L.H.S. was defeated on both sides of the bill. The girls fought hard and never gave up hope. In the second half, with Lachute leading by one point, the girls laxed, and Crestview, seeing the loophole, slowly pulled ahead. The Crestview team won by only a three-point margin, 18-15. Scoring for Lachute were Sue Evans, 5, Susie Barlow and Margaret McRae, 4, and Kathy Berry, 2.

The junior boys appeared to be going strong under their adopted coach, Miss Darbe, who replaced Coach MacKenzie for this game. Their scoring streak was short-lived, and again, as in the girls' contest, Crestview crept ahead, to win 30-14. Local scorers were Bill Silverson with 7, Lucien Mercier and Doug Jenkins, 3, and Bill MacKimmie, 1.

On Saturday morning Buckingham High School brought their two senior teams to play exhibition basketball. The boys, playing first, started off in an exciting manner. Fast scoring and rebounding on both parts, brought Lachute out short at the end of the game. The final score was 49-47. Scoring for Lachute were Herbert Underhill, 18, Dick Evans and Grant McGibbon, 11, Bob MacKay 4, John Hay 2 and Jamie Menzies 1.

After serving a satisfying meal to the Buckingham players, the girls played their game. Mr. MacKenzie, coaching the senior girls for the first quarter, inspired a 11-0 lead. Upon arrival at quarter time, Coach Darbe took her place on the bench and succeeded in keeping up the good work. Changing on the run, the local girls completely scared the opponents by a score of 38-11. The top scorer of the game was Nancy Hay, 14, followed by Mary Beth Painter, 10, Barbara Underhill and Janis LeBlanc, 4, and Linda McCaskill and Gwen Matthews, 3.

There will be no L.H.S. basketball this week-end.

— Specially Contributed —

The Village of Brownsburg owes its present economic existence to one person, the subject of this sketch, who selected it as the location of the Dominion Cartridge Co.

After the Riel Rebellion, 1885, A. L. Howard was the promoter of the Dominion Cartridge Co., first commercial manufacturer of ammunition in Canada.

Great as was his effect on this community, few today know much about him. Probably due to his outstanding personality and limited period of residence here, he exists more as a legend than as a human being. He came to Canada in 1885 as a Gatling Gun salesman for "Gardner and Gatling" and demonstrated his guns most effectively at the Battle of Batoche Ferry. He came to Brownsburg in 1886 as plant manager of the new ammunition company, on a six-year contract which was extended for six months.

In 1892 he left Brownsburg for Capelton, Quebec, where he established a fulminate of mercury plant with the assistance of his son. The son, George, continued to operate the plant after A. L. Howard returned to Brownsburg in 1897. A. L. Howard stayed at the staff house while he supervised the building of an elaborate home at the main corner of the village to which he apparently intended to retire. This house was later purchased by Joseph Rodger as a residence, and later by C-I-L to be used as a Social and Athletic Club for its employees. Today, 66 years later, it is still the centre of bowling, tennis and badminton activities in this community.

To build this house he hired a gang of lumberjacks to cut the logs, which were floated downstream to McArthur's Mill at Dalesville, to be cut into lumber. The house had been completed and the two main floors furnished before he moved in. Then the news of South Africa arrived, he decided to go, and notified his family and friends to join him for a "house warming" party to be held over New Year's. His sons, George and Horace, returned for the festivities.

On January 15th, Horace drove his father, for the last time, to Lachute and Howard shipped for South Africa in accordance with Canadian Militia Order No. 11 — dated 15th January, 1900, which stated in part:

"The following officers and nurses will embark on the S.S. Laurentian, under orders to proceed to South Africa on the 20th instant in addition to the forces already authorized:

"Lieut A. L. Howard — Unattached List (with 2 horses).

"The S.S. Laurentian sailed Halifax, Nova Scotia, on 21st January and arrived at Capetown 16th February, 1900. Disembarkation took place the following day."

What was the real story of Arthur Locheart Howard to whom Brownsburgers owe so much, and of whom they know so little? No memorial plaque bears his name. Ironically, on the front lawn of the house he built, Brownsburg erected a monument to all others who lost their lives in service of their Empire, except A. L. Howard. The only remembrances are the folklore stories, magnified to greater extremes as time passes.

Recently, considerable information on his earlier career has been gathered. These items help to explain the ability, experience and restlessness of this legendary soldier of fortune who organized the Dominion Cartridge Co. at Brownsburg, Quebec, erected buildings, imported equipment and trained operators and started production within a period of four months in 1886.

A. L. Howard — 1876 — a machinist at 42 Munsen St., New Haven, Conn.

1877-8-9 — Same address and description in New Haven City Directories. Shotshell Brands made — N.Y.C. (New York Club); Fowler, H.A. Co.; A. L. Howard, Standard, Keystone, U.C.C. Co. (The last two were made for Keystone Ammunition of Philadelphia and U.S. Cartridge Co. of Lowell, Mass.)

1880 — A. L. Howard & Co., Box 399, New Haven, Conn. (Directory)

"Lowell, Mass., 21st Nov., 1881. . . Arthur L. Howard of New Haven, Conn., formerly manufacturer of the Standard, Keystone, New York Club and A. L. H. shotshells having disposed of his machinery, goodwill, etc., to us, and assuming charge of our shotshell department, hereby notifies his old customers that he will receive their orders as usual, through the U.S. Cartridge Co. of Lowell, Mass."

After A. L. Howard joined the U.S. Cartridge Co., they patented the famous "Black Climax" which won the National Trap Shoot in 1884 and in 1917. At this time Howard was an officer in the "Connecticut National Guard."

1885 — Came to Canada as salesman-demonstrator for Gatling Guns and assisted in the victory at Battle of Batoche Ferry.

1886 — Lobbied the Dominion Government to make ammunition in Canada. Led in formation of the Dominion Cartridge Co. Built and equipped plant and was plant manager at Brownsburg.

1892-7 — Opened and operated a plant at Capelton, Quebec, to produce Fulminate of Mercury.

1899 — Residence furnished on two main floors and occupied by Gat Howard.

Although some information has always been available about parts of A. L. Howard's life, scarcely any has been available about his death. This has permitted inaccurate, sometimes even malicious rumors to be retold.

The following extracts have been obtained from the Department of National Defence (Army) records:

(1) South Africa 1899-1902 — Appointments of officers to units comprising the Second Canadian Contingent for Service in South Africa.

(2) Canadian General Order No. 12 — 17th January, 1900 — Lieut. A. L. Howard, U.L., is attached to the 2nd Battalion, the Canadian

Arthur L. Howard

Mounted Rifles, for duty with Machine Gun Detachment, and will report to the Officer Commanding upon the arrival of the Battalion at Capetown. . . (Disembarked February 17th, 1900).

(3) Howard's "Canadian Scouts", variously described as "Canadian Scouts" and "Howard's Scouts" was a British Unit, formed in South Africa from former personnel of units sent out from Canada.

Canadian Militia Orders on 4th March 1901 announced:

The following casualty in South Africa has been reported: Lieut. A. L. Howard, temporary major, killed.

Major Howard was killed on February 17th, while serving with General French's forces, and the report referred to him as "a most gallant Canadian officer".

(4) The headstone marking his grave in the cemetery at Rustplaats (9 miles northwest of Piet Retief) in the eastern Transvaal, near Swaziland, reads:

In Memory of — Major A. L. Howard
Killed in Action
17th February, 1901

(5) In the Public Archives at Ottawa is a memento, a miniature model of the weapon that gave to this adventurous officer the sobriquet of "Gatling Gun" Howard. Accompanying the exhibit in a glass case, is the statement: "Gold & silver miniature Gatling, and Badge, presented to Lieut. A. L. Howard by members of 2nd M.G. Platoon of the Connecticut National Guard. Donated to the Public Archives of Canada (1952) by Lieut. Howard's daughter, Mrs. F. J. Buller, 4657 Connaught Drive, Vancouver, B.C.

(6) Extracts from John Sterling, "The Colonials in South Africa 1899-1902" published London 1907 (pages 315-319):

"Canadian Scouts, February 17, Derby — Treked eight miles east — objective of all, to round up these Boers and wagons. Waited till 3 p.m. Still misty. Suddenly the Scouts moved forward at a trot and I followed on their heels. Heard rifle fire and Mausers, so pushed forward; found Canadians holding a rocky ridge immediately in front of a huge kopje, which was steep and covered with brush. In the valley were four Boer wagons; pushed on and joined them. I am sorry to say Major Howard and his orderly were found killed and a native Scout shot. Howard was hit in three places, arm, jaw and stomach — all expanding cartridges. His orderly had a horrible wound through the stomach and back. We burnt all the wagons, put the two dead men in sheets and sent for an ambulance. Howard was fifty-five yesterday, a splendid scout and soldier, his one and only fault being his daring, if it can be called a fault.

"On the 16th February the Scouts had Sergeant F. A. C. Douglas mortally wounded and Sergeant G. L. Abbott and Sergeant Cartier wounded, on the 17th Major Howard and Sergeant Northway killed.

"The fact is that the Canadian Scouts had undertaken extremely dangerous work, and had done it so thoroughly that their sacrifice saved all their comrades. Major Ross took command of the Scouts on Major Howard's death."

Constitution and government — topic at Richelieu

Fernand Berthiaume, editor of L'Argenteuil and a member of the Richelieu Club, was speaker at the regular meeting of the club last week, covering in a brief and concise manner Canada's system of government.

From its status as a British colony, then a Dominion, and finally (by virtue of the Statute of Westminster in 1931) a member of the Commonwealth, he referred to the vice-regal representatives, the governor-general and the lieutenant-governors, their functions and purposes. The parliamentary system — the federal cabinet, the Privy Council, and the Senate, the Commons and the parlimentary committees and commissions — and the provincial systems in most aspects similar to the federal, with exception of the senate (Quebec being the only province with a comparable body, the Legislative Council, or upper house).

Lower, but equally important in the scale, the county and municipal councils, with their mayors and representatives elected by the taxpayers; and the school commissions — these deal with administration at the local level. In education matters, Quebec is also distinctive, having a department formed of two separate committees, Catholic and Protestant, each with a Superintendent in the status of deputy minister.

The topic was a "refresher course" on basic knowledge of Canada's political system, and the audience expressed their appreciation of the subject.

Notary Simon Valois occupied the chair, and the customary two-minute business talk was given on this occasion by Mr. Roland Menard.

Organ recital at United Church

Next Sunday evening at Lachute United Church, commencing at 8 o'clock, there will be an organ recital given by Lowell B. Hopkins, organist of the church.

The program will include "The Water Music" by Handel, "Sleepers Awake" (Bach), "Angelus" (Francis Snow), "Trumpet Tune" (Purcel); "Prelude, Sonata in C Minor" by Guilmant, and "Toccata and Fuge in D Minor" by J. S. Bach.

The recital is under the auspices of the United Church Women, Unit 3 (Mrs. L. B. Hopkins), and will last approximately an hour. All are invited, and the proceeds will go the U.C.W. work.

Red Cross Intern'l Committee has unique role as neutral negotiator

What is the International Committee of the Red Cross? It is a group of 25 Swiss citizens with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. They are a completely autonomous and neutral body — non-political, non-sectarian. They are a self-perpetuated group, when one member dies or retires, his successor is elected by the remaining members of the Committee.

The funds for the ICRC come from an annual campaign which is limited to Switzerland, voluntary contributions from private citizens, national Red Cross societies and governments.

The ICRC is recognized by virtually every nation in the world as the neutral channel for negotiation between belligerents in the protection of victims of war, and as a means by which organized relief can cross battle lines or enter an area of conflict. There have been relatively few instances in which signatories of the Geneva Conventions have refused the offices of the ICRC or denied access to its representatives.

The historical beginning of the ICRC dates back to a five-member study commission formed in 1863 by the Swiss Society of Public Welfare to consider proposals by Henri Dunant, a Swiss businessman, for the organization that was to become the Red Cross.

Later that year, the study group became known as the Committee of the Red Cross, a name which lasted until 1880, when ICRC became its official designation.

In wars, civil strife or other internal conflicts, ICRC representatives visit places of detention — camps, prisons or hospitals — and inspect the condition of the prisoners and internees. They use their influence to ensure the proper treatment of prisoners in accordance with the Geneva Conventions.

The ICRC is the guardian of the Geneva Conventions, which spell out the principles of neutrality and protect from unnecessary suffering sick and wounded prisoners and civilian populations in occupied countries.

— At the request of the UN, an ICRC delegate visited New Guinea and helped arrange for the release and repatriation of Indonesians held by the Netherlands government.

— At the request of the Chinese Red Cross, an ICRC delegate found and located in Central Vietnam 20 Hainan fishermen whose ship had been wrecked in the Tonkin Gulf. The delegate then obtained a junk and turned it over to the shipwrecked sailors for their return home.

— An ICRC delegate visited penal institutions in Yugoslavia to talk with political prisoners and to ascertain the conditions of their imprisonment.

— In Hungary, three ICRC representatives investigated 108 new cases of victims of psuedo-medical experiments carried out by the Nazis in concentration camps during World War II.

Late Dr. Basil MacLean

The death of Dr. Basil C. MacLean, 67, in New York Hospital last week, touches earlier associations with these parts, for his wife is the former Caroline Davis, R.N., of Morin Heights and Montreal.

Dr. MacLean, born at Oshawa, was a graduate of McGill and later became superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital, being a specialist in hospital administration. He left Montreal in 1930 and filled various administrative posts in the U.S. He was appointed president of Blue Cross, 1957 to 1960, and since 1954 had been commissioner of hospitals in New York. For his notable contribution to hospital progress, he was made a Doctor of Laws at McGill spring convocation last year.

Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter and three grandchildren in Ohio, his mother in New York, and brother in Chicago.

The Federation of Charities Counts On You!

12 Member agencies, old and new, will benefit from your donations.

Let us open our door to the canvassers

Let's put our heart into this great charity campaign

From MARCH 1st to 18th

OBJECTIVE $130,000

Charity invites us to share with our less fortunate fellow-beings. Sickness, unemployment and high living-costs cause severe problems in many families of this diocese. Fathers and mothers of families are anxious for their children — often for themselves. They sorely need the help extended by others through the intermediary of the Federation.

ARE WE WILLING TO HELP THEM ?

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Democracy costs money

THE DOMINION general election April 8 is the fourth nation-wide ballot within six years.

This is the swiftest sequence since the first voting for the House of Commons in 1867. The only previous era that approached this was when three elections were called within the six-year period 1925 to 1930.

The cause then, of course, was the same that underlies the current run — a minority government.

In 1925 Prime Minister Mackenzie King's Liberals took 101 of the 245 seats, Arthur Meighen's Conservatives 116. But the Progressives, with 24 seats, held the balance of power. There were also two labor and two independent members.

After a Liberal defeat in the Commons Arthur Meighen was summoned by the governor-general, Lord Byng, to form a government, and was prime minister for three months up to Sept. 25, 1926. The elections that year, on Sept. 14, returned 116 Liberals, 91 Conservatives and 38 other members. The "others" included 13 Progressives, 11 United Farmers of Alberta, nine Liberal-Progressives, three Labor and two Independents.

Mackenzie King was back in power until tne Conservatives won 137 seats in the 1930 balloting. R. B. Bennett's term as prime minister then lasted until 1935, when the Liberals came back into office for a stretch of 22 years.

The current election sequence has led to some editorial suggestions that federal elections would be cheaper if there were a permanent voters' list.

An army of 69,000 men and women now are counting about 10,000,000 eligible voters for the April election. The urban and rural enumerators each get a basic fee of $32. In urban areas, they travel in pairs, but in rural ridings the enumerator goes alone. Besides the basic $32, urban enumerators are paid 10 cents for every name listed; rural ones, 11 cents.

This is just part of the routine for a general election that will cost the taxpayer upwards of $11,000,000. Then there's the campaign cost to candidates and party headquarters.

A boss behind the boss

A LEADING manufacturing concern offers its employees the following definition of a customer. It is one which might with advantage be read and digested by employees of many other establishments, retail stores included:

— A customer is a person who brings us his wants. Our job is to fill them profitably — to him and ourselves.

— A customer is never too far away to affect our jobs, no matter how remote from him our work may seem. One small slip or flaw in any department can lessen the value of our product or service in the customer's eyes.

— A customer's good opinion of our company is the most valuable asset in the world. Whatever we can do to build that good opinion will eventually be to our own advantage.

— A customer's good opinion cannot be bought or stolen. However, it can be freely given in response to our gift of value.

— A customer expects value in what he buys from us. If we do not give him value, he will go elsewhere to find it.

— A customer is the boss behind our boss. By serving him well, we serve ourselves well.

Fruitful field for women

AN EMPLOYEE RELATIONS officer with the National Employment Service entered a quiet protest about representation at the recent labor-management committee conference in Kitchener. The complaint (as cited in a Department of Labor publication) was that there should have been more women at the meeting, because thousands of them work in industry — particularly the clothing industry — in the Kitchener-Waterloo area.

The employee relations officer who entered the protest had every right to do so. She is a woman. Her name is Vivien Batke. She is a sociologist. And, at the Kitchener meeting, she was the one bright, feminine addition to what was otherwise a gathering of some one hundred variously ageing stags.

Mrs. Batke's viewpoint merits consideration by labor-management committees right across the country. Women in the past have made invaluable contributions to important causes in the field of social progress, and the promotion of teamwork in industry is one of the most vital social challenges we face today.

As a man is only half a man if the father's roar in him goes untinged with his mother's gentleness, so a society is only half-grown if woman's voice is absent. Male and female were intended to complement each other to the end that they will both be richer, completer human beings. The woman's touch may be all we need to surmount the last big obstacles to teamwork in industry.

Good shape, good health

The well-proportioned size 12 or 14 tripping gaily down the street not only looks good but, nine times out of 10, feels good too. A good figure is usually synonymous with physical fitness.

A healthy mental outlook usually accompanies a good figure as well. As Mrs. Bonnie Prudden, founder of the Institute for Physical Fitness in the United States, pointed out during her recent visit to Ottawa: "When a woman loses her figure she loses her pride."

And a good figure is also important for men. "A man that lets his figure go has no respect for himself and if he has no respect for himself then he has no respect for you."

Exercising 30 minutes a day — not even all at once, but in 10 minute periods — is plenty. Even in the depth of winter, there are many invigorating and relaxing sports which both men and women can enjoy and which will help keep them in shape. Skating, curling and skiing can be made into family sports rather than sports for the youngsters, and community volleyball, basketball and badminton tournaments are exciting as well as exercising.

Many centres have dancing school — classical ballet or modern — for married or career women who are tied down to a daily home or office routine. Even a brisk walk around the block each day is better than nothing.

Canada's Food Rules should be one's guide as far as diet is concerned. These rules state that the daily diet should include:

1. At least one pint of milk each day for children, one and a half pints for adolescents, and one-half pint for adults.

2. One serving of citrus fruit or tomatoes or their juices and one serving of other fruit.

3. At least one serving of potatoes and at least two servings of other vegetables, preferably leafy, green or yellow and frequently raw.

4. One serving of whole grain cereal and at least four slices of bread with butter.

5. One serving of meat, fish, poultry and meat alternatives such as dried beans, eggs and cheese.

6. Liver frequently, and eggs and cheese at least three times a week.

Such a system provides all the vitamins one requires (except for growing children or expectant mothers, who may require additional vitamin D). And some of each of these foods can be eaten every day and the diet still kept down to 1,000 calories.

QUEBEC AND THE POWER COMPANIES

Quebec did not decide to take over the power companies because Premier Lesage thought it made sense economically. They are taking over for other quite different reasons. They want to assuage the highly-emotional nationalistic feeling in that province these days. French-speaking Canadians feel more of them will get big jobs if their own government owns the power companies.

There is no doubt that Premier Lesage studied the situation in Ontario; and if he did, he knows that from an economic point of view public ownership of power is no assurance of low rates. Ontario Hydro, though perhaps the best managed of the government-owned power companies, has many shortcomings.

For example, it was so slow to make the switch from 25 to 60 cycle power that the change will finally cost over three hundred million dollars. Shawinigan, in Quebec, privately-owned, made the switch early in the game at a much lower cost.

Shawinigan also managed to handle rural electrification without subsidy, and still charged low rural rates. Government Hydro in Ontario required a heavy subsidy for the purpose.

Ontario Hydro, because it is government owned, pays only about 1.8% of its gross revenues in taxes; whereas Shawinigan, privately-owened, pays about 20.9% of its gross. For the government operation to pay equivalent taxes, it would have had to have an increase of about 25% in its rates. So Ontario residents are paying more for power than they realize.

There are many other comparisons which would convince most people that public ownership of power is certainly no economic blessing. Quebec may find it a very expensive way to satisfy the aspirations of the French-speaking Canadians for more responsible jobs in Canadian industry.

Certainly those aspirations are legitimate, and methods of furthering them must be found. Quebec province chose the costly method of buying out the power companies. In my opinion she will, in the years ahead, wish she had taken different steps to upgrade the job opportunities of her citizens.

By J. L. PIGEON,
Parliamentary Secretary
to the Minister of Agriculture

Last week, I drew to your attention the existence of the Farm Credit Corporation, whose basic objective is to provide you with adequate credit to enable you to carry on an economic farming operation.

You may wonder what form of security you will need in seeking such loans. In effect, there are two stipulations regarding security and they are covered in two parts of the Farm Credit Act of 1959, which provides the authority under which the Farm Credit Corporation operates.

Under Part II of the Act, a loan may be made on the security of your farm lands only. The amount of such a loan may not exceed 75 percent of the appraised value of the land, or $20,000 — whichever of these two figures is the lesser — for a single farming enterprise.

Under Part III of the Act, you may borrow on the security of lands and chattels. A Part III loan is of special importance to you if you are just starting out in a farming operation, and have limited capital, since it is designed to cover all the long-term and intermediate-term credit needs of capable and experienced young farmers (between the ages of 21 and 45 years) who may be in this position.

These Part III loans are available in an amount which is not to exceed the lesser of $27,500 or 75 percent of the value of the real estate, basic herd livestock and necessary farm equipment which you have available as security for the loan.

There are at least two particularly significant features of Part III loans. One is the provision by the Farm Credit Corporation of supervision of your farming operations —in other words, financial guidance — until your loan has been reduced to 65 percent of the appraised value of your farm land which has been offered as security.

Another is the fact that life insurance, available through the Corporation, is required on all Part III loans, sufficient to cover the normal outstanding amount of the loan.

Both of these are very desirable features as protection for you, for they are additional assurances that you and your family will have maximum protection and minimum risk in your expansion plans.

In assisting you to attain the objectives for which you are borrowing the money, the FCC shows that it is not its intention to simply leave you to sink or swim, but rather that it has a genuine interest in seeing that your plans succeed, and that you achieve the larger and more stabilized farm income you are seeking.

The life insurance coverage on your loan, of course, provides the assurance I am sure you would wish to have, that the full amount of the loan will be paid off even in the event of your death, so that your family will be fully protected under any circumstances.

Incidentally, this life insurance provision is also available to those of you who may borrow money through loans under Part I of the Act, although it is not mandatory in such cases. However, in my view you would be wise to consider this protection for any form of loan.

Since its inception in 1959, the Corporation has made loans available for such purposes as the acquisition of more land; the construction or modernization of farm buildings; the purchase of basic herd livestock and necessary farm equipment; the provision of lime, fertilizer and seed to establish permanent plantings; or even for consolidating or discharging various financial liabilities.

Within very recent weeks — in October of last year — the Farm Credit Act's provisions were amended to provide the Farm Credit Corporation with even broader scope in extending credit to more farmers. In my column next week, I will deal with these amendments, under which some of you who may not have been eligible for loans in the past may now find yourselves eligible.

For Parents Only ...

Difficulty in Reading

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Why does Junior have such a time with his reading? I never remember finding it so difficult!" a parent asks impatiently.

"There are so many other ways children learn today — TV and radio. Why worry too much about his reading?" an acquaintance may answer. But fathers and mothers do worry when a son or daughter finds reading a stumbling block. They know that to advance in school the higher he goes in grades the better reader he must be.

Reading is a complex skill and the children's readiness to read differs. Some children are slow, some fast. It has been found that almost one quarter of the scholars need extra help with reading. Four times as many boys as girls find reading hard to master. Between five and ten per cent slow readers with normal intelligence need remedial reading by special teachers.

Why do children have such trouble in reading? Some suffer because they start to school unable to speak clearly and without the habit of listening attentively when they are spoken to. The vocabulary of some children is very limited. Their parents have neglected to read aloud to them, to answer their questions, to take them on little trips in their neighborhood which would widen their horizons.

Poor hearing or a defect in talking may cause reading difficulty as well as trouble with eyesight. Good physical co-ordination contributes to a child's readiness. A healthy well-adjusted child is more apt to take to reading than one who is not strong or who is upset by a home situation. If parents are bickering constantly or if a bereavement or divorce shadows a family, a child's progress at school is affected adversely.

A child who is just starting to read will occasionally read words upside down or backward. He may see m for w, d for b, or no for on. Fortunately this is frequently a temporary stage.

It is a long time since mother or dad learned to read and likely they have forgotten their struggles. It takes imagination for a parent to realize that it is no easy feat for a child who knows what a cat or a picture of a cat looks like, to be able to identify the printed word C-A-T with this animal. There are many inconsistencies in English spelling, which to a child often seem illogical and confusing.

Ideas on the best way to read are constantly changing. Grandparents and some parents learned the alphabet thoroughly before they attempted to read a single word. Today emphasis is made on scholars learning to recognize words, phrases, whole sentences at a glance. Speed in reading for pleasure as well as slow reading for study are two different goals.

Educationalists in many lands are worried by the number of poor readers in school. Various experiments are constantly being tried. In one Canadian city, where there had been a veto on the use of phonics, and the word - recognition method had been used exclusively, the School Board decided that in a number of specially-selected schools, the partial use of sounding out words would be tried.

In seven British primary schools a thousand children are being taught a new forty-three letter phonetic alphabet, called the augmented Roman alphabet. This experiment is carried out for the first three years at school and then pupils are introduced to orthodox spelling. The research unit of London University's Institute of Education is sponsoring this novel plan.

A boy or girl having trouble with reading is likely to become even more discouraged if mother plunges in to teach Junior how to read "her" way. But an informal chat with his teacher might bring to light some practical suggestions about ways Junior can be assisted as well as reveal the degree of his reading difficulty.

The delight which small children feel when parents read aloud at bedtime and the practice of the family reading aloud for enjoyment, as the children get older, is bound to be helpful. The child looks on reading as a grown-up skill which is fun. When he can read, he should have his turn in reading aloud to an attentive audience.

Fish recipes are timely for Lent

Old King Cod which according to history attracted the earliest settlers from the Old World to the new, is still one of our most important food fish. Wherever fish are sold you are almost sure to find cod — low in price, but high in good flavor and food value.

Cod is caught in both the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Our annual catch of this fish is between 600 and 700 million pounds, with the bulk of the catch coming from the Atlantic fishing grounds.

At one time the greater part of the catch was split, salted and dried. However, with the growth of the frozen food industry, much cod is now marketed as fresh and quick-frozen fillets. Cod is a favorite entrée in many Maritime homes. And one of the finest recipes developed in the Maritimes is for Codfish Chowder.

Codfish Chowder

2 Pounds cod fillets, ¼ pound fat salt pork, 1 medium onion (chopped), 3 cups sliced potatoes, 2 cups water, 1 quart fresh milk, ½ cup (1 small can) evaporated milk, 8 soda crackers (crushed), 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 teaspoons salt, dash of pepper.

Cut fillets into one-inch cubes. Dice fat salt pork finely and fry until crisp and brown. Remove pork scraps from pan, drain, and reserve for a garnish. Fry onion in hot fat until tender but not brown. Combine onion, potatoes and water. Cook until potatoes are tender. Add fish. Simmer gently for 5 to 10 minutes, or until fish can be flaked easily when tested with a fork. In another saucepan combine milk, evaporated milk, crackers, butter, parsley, and seasonings. Heat but do not allow to boil. Combine with cooked fish and vegetables. Heat gently for a few minutes longer to blend flavors. Serve garnished with a sprinkling of crisp pork scraps. Makes 12 servings.

The flesh of the lake trout is rich and varies in different fish from white to deep salmon pink. It has a very delicate flavor. A favorite way of preparing it is to stuff and, bake a dressed whole fish or pair of fillets.

Baked and Stuffed Lake Trout Fillets

2 Lake trout fillets (about 1 lb. each), salt, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup chopped celery, ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon thyme, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup chopped cucumber (drained), 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Thaw fillets if frozen. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Cook onion and celery in butter for about 5 minutes, or until tender. Combine with seasonings, bread crumbs, and cucumber. Place one fillet in a well-greased baking dish. Cover with stuffing, and top with other fillet. Brush with melted butter. Measure thickness of fish and stuffing. Bake in a hot oven, 450°F., allowing 10 minutes cooking time per inch of thickness. Makes 6 servings.

Although fishermen sometimes travel great distances and work hard to land the tuna, it is no trouble for the cook to "land" a can of tuna on her pantry shelf. This solid, meaty fish can be counted on to make many a popular snack, such as these Tuna Burgers.

Tuna Burgers

2 Cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup tuna oil or other oil, ¼ cup tomato juice, 2 eggs (beaten), ¼ cup dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon powdered mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup dry bread crumbs, 6 toasted hamburger buns, ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle.

Drain tuna, reserving oil. Flake tuna. Cook onion in oil until tender. Add tomato juice, egg, ¼ cup crumbs, parsley, mustard, salt, and tuna; mix well. Chill mixture. Shape into 6 cakes and roll in ¼ cup of crumbs. Fry in hot fat until brown on one side; turn and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper. Combine mayonnaise, and chopped pickle. Place a fish cake on the bottom half of each bun. Top each cake with about 1 tablespoon of mayonnaise sauce and cover with top half of bun. Makes 6 burgers.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Scarcely a day goes by without another opinion being expressed about woman's role in society and how she is fulfilling it.

In a pamphlet prepared on the civic and political education of women, United Nations Secretary General U. Thant deplores the lack of women in public life.

In the latest issue of the Business and Professional Woman Magazine, Vancouver lawyer Mrs. Virginia Beirnes discusses the unfair treatment of capable women in government organization as shown in the Glassco Royal Commission report published last July.

And during a recent visit to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Ont., a British woman scientist said she was puzzled that more Canadian women did not enter the field of bee research.

The apathy of women to themselves is one of the biggest obstacles to their participation in public life, U. Thant wrote in the UN pamphlet which will be considered for publication by a March session of the UN commission on the status of women.

Old Drawbacks

Factors listed in the UN pamphlet as preventing women from taking part in public life include :

1. Customs and traditional community attitudes which induce in women a fear of social inferiority through entering public office.

2. Woman's general inaccessibility to the kind of education enjoyed by men.

3. The economic factor of insufficient time for women to fully develop themselves as individuals, wives, mothers and citizens.

The pamphlet suggests women could strengthen their influence on governments if more of them joined the rank and file of political parties.

In her discussion of the Glassco Commission report, Mrs. Beirnes wrote that in the government of Canada, the largest employer of women in this country, women are employed in large numbers in those fields traditionally known as "women's work," such as clerical fields.

In the professional and technical fields, women are employed in the areas of health, library work, social sciences and social services. However, there are only a few women in administrative positions and only a handful earn more than $10,000 a year.

Unequal Treatment

In both government and business, women are turned down on the basis of suitability, despite their capability, for positions involving supervision of men, foreign travel and outposts where accommodation is limited.

Dr. Eva Crane, director of the International Bee Research Association, says that bee research is very suitable work for women.

In Italy, almost all bee researchers are women, in Switzerland a large percentage are women and many women are employed in bee research institutes in Russia and Eastern Europe.

Dr. Crane has inspected millions of bees in many countries and possibly can boast more bee stings than any other person in the world.

Lay plans for Education Week

Plans are now being made so that Education Week in Quebec this year will be a memorable one. The dates are March 3-9.

Service groups still wishing to have a speaker during Education Week may obtain one by contacting Miss R. Rousseau in Montreal at CR 9-8431. Many school principals already have arranged to give talks on school affairs, even giving Sunday addresses in churches.

The Headmasters' Association representative on the Education Week Committee, Ernie Spiller, reports great activity in the schools in preparation for the Week. Most schools are having assemblies with guest speakers, or films on an educational theme.

For visitors, there are to be "Open House" days, gym displays, shows of handiwork, musical offerings and drama, public-speaking competitions, demonstration lessons. In some cases, senior pupils are planning trips afield during the week.

HALLEY'S COMET

Lots of people living today will be taking a look at Halley's Comet when it next becomes visible in 1985. As I don't expect to be around that year, I will describe my experience with this celestial body back in 1910. The comet comes into view from this earth every 75 years.

In 1910 there was an observation tower belonging, I believe, to McGill University, built of timbers and about the height of a three-storey building, on the top of the Westmount Mountain.

One night Frank Sibley and I decided that this would be an ideal spot from which to make our observations. We reached the tower before dark, and waited, watching the city lights come on gradually, an occasional star peeking out from a few drifting clouds, until at last it grew completely dark. For some time we waited in silence.

Then suddenly we saw it. Far off to the southwest, and much closer to the horizon than we expected it to be. We had heard from the headlines of the day that it had a fiery tail and was travelling at a tremendous rate across the skies. Instead, the fiery tail seemed to be nearly stationary, probably due to the enormous distance from earth, we supposed. Then it grew brighter. Actual bursts of flame were quite noticeable. These would die down, only to flare up again and again die down. We watched it for perhaps half an hour and then, as it was getting late, we climbed down and went to our respective homes.

Next day's report in the papers stated that, owing to overcast conditions, thousands were disappointed in not having seen the comet, and the forecast for that evening was not much better. So Frank and I congratulated ourselves that at least we had had a splendid view, doubtless due to our elevation and the clear air up there on the mountain top. . .

But our elation was short-lived. On page 3 was the account of a spectacular fire in a lumber-yard at Lachine, nine miles away, the flames being visible for twenty miles, according to the paper. . . That is what we had been watching from our lofty perch!

So that is all I ever saw of Halley's Comet; but if I stick around another 22 years maybe I'll have better luck. Perhaps by that time, lumber yards will be old-fashioned.

Sun Life reports over $10-billion insurance in force

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada sold more than one billion dollars of life assurance in 1962 for the fourth consecutive year and will increase policy dividends in 1963 for the 14th consecutive year, Mr. Marcel Roy, Sun Life manager in St. Jerome, announced following the company's 92nd annual meeting.

Forward strides by the Sun Life during the past year also included the mutualization of the company, which was commenced in 1958 and completed in December, 1962.

The St. Jerome Branch reported that Sun Life sales last year of $1,128,440,000 were larger than those of any other Canadian life company, and brought total insurance in force with the company to $10,840,722,000. Assets at Dec. 31, 1962 — $2,583,033,757.

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

Have you ever seen a fox hunting mice with over a foot of soft snow on the ground? Have you ever seen a fox lolling about in the deep snow, cocking his head to one side, and then to the other? Yes, he is listening for the movements of small rodents under the snow.

Suddenly, you may have seen the fox do a headstand in the snow. All that remains above the flying snow is the fox's bushy tail. The fox has found a mouse's nest, and comes up with young mice in his mouth. This habit of the fox has been seen on this farm.

I have never heard of weasels chasing mice under the snow, nor have I read of it, but long tunnels under the snow made by weasels and mink have been seen here. Weasels do nothing without a purpose. I wonder if they hunt rodents under the snow.

Many farmers and bush-workers have seen weasels chasing squirrels. My father-in-law, the late Alex Doig, was standing near a rail fence one day on this farm, when he saw a weasel chasing a squirrel. The weasel was gaining on the squirrel, which was running along the rail fence. The squirrel was almost completely exhausted. Death, in the guise of a ghost-like weasel, ran only a few feet behind it. . .

Just as the squirrel came abreast of Mr. Doig, it summoned up all its remaining strength and, with the energy of desperation, leaped through the air and landed on Mr. Doig's broad-brimmed hat!

Startled, but not wishing to frighten off the small animal that was gasping for breath on his head, while its tiny heart beat a steady tattoo, Mr. Doig remained motionless. The weasel, seeing the man-creature that barred his approach, stood for a moment glaring at the man and the squirrel. Then, his beady eyes glinting with hatred, the mysterious creature slunk away into the bush.

Many years ago, I saw a weasel in my hen-house. That night I set a rat-trap, and baited it with a chunk of raw beef. The next morning, it was in the trap. I still believe that weasel was hunting rats or mice and would not have touched the hens, unless he ran into one on the ground. They will certainly kill hens, but I believe they prefer rats and other rodents. Weasels will kill big kittens, rabbits, etc.

A big owl once picked up a large cat we had here. But that cat was the meanest and toughest feline we ever had; he let out an unearthly howl in the night, that woke us all up. I imagine he sank his teeth in the owl's leg. The cat's neck was badly torn, but he broke loose from the bird's cruel talons.

New-type gun splits logs

Professor J. Cooper, of the Agricultural Engineering Department at Macdonald College, has been experimenting with a new-type gun to split logs.

The design is a simple one of using gunpowder and a fuse in a metal container or gun. The gun can split a four-foot log full of knots in seconds, that would otherwise take many hours using wedges and sledge hammer. The old method is not only time consuming but costly.

Professor Cooper is working on several designs, so that the blast will result in several splits. He claims that this gun will have a good future, as many mills are using hardwoods.

The gun is not yet in commercial production, but when it does go on sale will probably cost $30 or $40.

The present administration of Ayersville is occupied with rectifying anomalies and entanglements which resulted from the Paquette regime in recent years.

Case to be Dismissed

Two councillors, Messrs. Plamondon and Champagne, with the secretary-treasurer, Jacques Poitras, appeared in court before Magistrate Archambault at St. Jerome on Monday in a legal suit for $30,000 taken by the well-drilling firm,. Puits du Quebec.

A St. Jerome lawyer, Mtre Rousseau, on behalf of the president of the company and his advocate (unable to appear, through illness) offered to drop the court action. Fernand Legault, QC, acting for the Municipality of Ayersville, asked for a written confirmation of this withdrawal.

The case (it is recalled) concerned a bill of $25,000 for the drilling of artesian wells, in the years 1959-60. Interests to date brought the amount to $30,000.

It was signified by the Judge that the matter should be settled and the case acquitted by February 28.

Agreement Out of Court

In the matter of a summons to meet a $9,400 note due to the engineering firm of Desjardins & Sauriol, of Chomedey, the Ayersville councillors reached an agreement to settle out of court — which will be both amicable and advantageous to the municipality in avoiding court costs. It was agreed with representatives of the firm to advance a cash payment of $2,943 and the balance in two years, without interest.

The indebtedness represents fees for consultation on sewerage for three thoroughfares, on the hospital construction, and on the drilling of wells, etc. — all projects undertaken in the Paquette administration.

Debt Reduced

The present Council — comprising Messrs. Simon, Plamondon, Lanthier, Champagne, Brasseur and Cyr — has within two years reduced the municipal debt by $40,000, or at the rate of $20,000 each year, without the help of Mayor Paquette.

Autopsy asked

An autopsy into the sudden death of 3½-year-old Denise Sarazin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Sarazin, of St. Adolphe d'Howard, was requested by the joint district coroner, Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, following discovery of the body by a 16-year-old girl serving as baby-sitter.

According to the investigating Q.P.P. officer, Sam Kille, the child was found dead in bed around 2.30 p.m. on Sunday. She had been left with the baby-sitter by her parents several hours earlier. Unable to obtain medical assistance, the sitter remained in the house with the body until the parents returned, shortly after four o'clock, at which time the police were notified.

It is believed the death was due to asphyxiation, as there was no previous medical record and the child was in apparent good health.

"The Scene" IN BROWNSBURG

(Our District Correspondent)

The snowclearing crews under town foreman Ferne Brisson have been doing a fine job this season, particularly since the purchase of the sidewalk snowplow. This machine hasn't been idle since the purchase order was signed. Although pedestrians don't have to be told, the sidewalks were in a sorry state before.

An old idea with a new twist — "What we need today is a 15¢ bag of french fries worth 15¢."

"No Parking" areas ? What are they ? . . A recent scene in Brownsburg — a driver parking his car in the "no parking" zone in front of the drugstore, then walking across the street to talk to the driver of another car. The occupant of the other car ? . . Who else ! The Chief of Police !

Apparently the by-law prohibiting the mounting of posters on telephone or power poles doesn't apply if the pole is close enough to the town offices. Or perhaps the town authorities have yet to see the poster, which has survived the elements in its prominent position since early January.

Three families ousted in West End blaze

Ice-covered firemen photographed inside a gutted two-storey frame building at Ayersville, which was destroyed by fire on Thursday morning of last week in below-freezing temperature. The fire call was received at 9.32 a.m., at which time the flames were raging throughout the building, on Alexandre Street, near the Exhibition Grounds. Left homeless were the families of W. R. Farrant, Gilles Perreault and Lucien Joly. At the right, firemen are seen fighting dense smoke during the height of the blaze. Strong winds and a lack of readily available water hampered their efforts. Chief Don MacCulloch is reported as saying he was "sure more hose was laid at this one fire than at all the fires during the past two years." Firemen were at the scene until 2.30 p.m.

Less than 30 minutes later, a call for assistance was received from Armand Laurin, an employee of the Lake Sir John Estates, who reported his house was on fire. Despite the efforts of a crew of Lachute firemen, the building burned to the ground, although the adjacent buildings were saved.

The properties in both cases were a total loss, and were only partially covered by insurance.

"I have always considered it a duty to render service to my fellow citizens, but I must confess that in the federal field it had never entered my mind to be of public service. Since I was introduced into the political scene, some ten days ago, by Mr. Cottingham, and have found such support in all corners of the County — I have had to make certain decisions. And I decided to place my franchise, my integrity and honesty at the disposal of the people, particularly in this County." — In these terms Mr. Regimbal accepted the honor and, while not embarking on a political speech, gave some of the reasons for his acceptance.

"I take this job with humility and a desire to promote the best interests of the country," he declared. "I enter the campaign with confidence, and hope to pursue it to a successful outcome. I shall emphasize harmony and peaceful living in this Canada of ours — rather than party colors and big political issues. We are blessed with the best of two great cultures, and we should inform the world of this fact."

Mr. Regimbal was accompanied by his wife; W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.; Raymond Johnston, deputy for Pontiac; Senator Gustave Monette; Rodrigue Bourdages, former M.P. for Laval and P.C. organizer for counties in the Montreal area; and René Trépanier, former deputy minister of Agriculture.

Master of ceremonies was Gaetan Leclair. Rodrigue Bourdages and Senator Monette spoke briefly, the latter stressing the importance of bilingualism Young Martine, the daughter of M. and Mme Antonio Letendre, presented a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Regimbal.

Relative to a remark by Senator Monette, Mr. Regimbal returned to the microphone to denounce a statement from Liberal Leader Lester Pearson last Sunday, when he declared Quebec was a "problem province". . . "We will show him that we can unite and present a personal problem to Mr. Pearson and his party. Mr. Diefenbaker must be returned to power, for the welfare and the prestige of Canada".

Liberal Rally This Saturday

Although not yet officially announced, Vincent Drouin's candidature for the Liberal ranks will be confirmed at a public meeting in Lachute Auditorium next Saturday. The meeting is called for 2 p.m. Mr. Drouin, advocate, of St. Eustache, was M.P. for the Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes constituency in the last session, where his participation in the debates showed a concern for the agricultural interests of this constituency and of Eastern Canada.

The meeting on Saturday will be representative of the two counties, to offer Mr. Drouin the candidature.

Candidate for Social Credit

A development in the week is the announcement of Maurice Gougeon, of St. Eustache, as official candidate for the Social Credit party. Thirty-four years of age, Mr. Gougeon is a salesman by vocation. A campaign meeting on his behalf is announced for the evening for March 6 at Lachute Auditorium with the Quebec party leader, Real Caouette, as speaker invited for the occasion.

Referendum on loan Mch. 6-7 at B'burg

Brownsburg — An opportunity for progress in Brownsburg. . . On March 6 and 7, all property owners will have the opportunity to help in the growth of their town. On that date citizens are asked to express their wishes by means of a referendum designed to authorize the Town Council to borrow money to carry out extensions to municipal services. The particular services involved are the proposed sewerage and waterworks on Woodbine Avenue North and South, Park Avenue, and in the Jackman Construction project area (Maple Avenue South).

Authorization necessitates two-thirds majority and, in addition, at least two-thirds of the eligible property owners must vote.

How will the cost of the project affect the individual taxpayer ? It won't ! Council estimates that the loan can be repaid over a period of 25 years without a direct tax increase. Increased municipal services mean increased building, which in turn means more taxpayers.

Voting will take place at the municipal offices (temporarily in a C-I-L house on McMaster) on March 6 and 7 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Ayrshire breeders deplore 'austerity' in Agric. Dept.

At the annual meeting of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Canada, held last Thursday in the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel, Clifford Oswald of Ste. Scholastique was elected a director. Other directors from Quebec are — Jack MacGeorge, St. Valentin; Archie Roy, Howick; J. P. Lizotte, Quebec City; Amedée Gagnon, Rivière Anelle; and E. Bernier, Bedford.

Guest speaker was the Hon. Adrien Levesque, New Brunswick Minister of Agriculture. His topic was the Dairy Surplus Problem. "The constant demand for good producers in any breed is a sound indication that dairy commerce will always have its place on our Canadian farms," he said.

Two resolutions passed by the meeting, referring to the Federal Department of Agriculture and its lack of personnel because of the austerity program, are to be sent to the Federal Government, asking that this austerity program be modified.

Dies in hospital after collision near St. Hermas

Jean Belanger, a 70-year-old accountant, was the victim of a fatal accident on Route 8 at St. Hermas, where a passenger car was in collision with a highway express transport last Thursday evening, opposite the Jules Kingsbury property.

Mr. Belanger was riding with Dr. Chas. Léonard, veterinarian, of St. Hermas, who was attending a Chamber of Commerce meeting at Ste. Scholastique. It appears the driver swerved to avoid a parked truck on the highway, and came into collision with the rear of the transport truck proceeding west to Lachute.

Mr. Belanger was taken to the St. Eustache hospital, where he died shortly afterwards. Dr. Léonard, meanwhile, is in hospital at Cartierville with back and leg injuries.

Deadline for car licenses

Motorists are reminded that Thursday, February 28, is final day for the renewal of car license plates. Provincial Police authorities state any car not bearing the new plates will be taken off the highways until such time as the 1963 plates are obtained.

Gaspard Laferrière, from central office in Montreal, became postmaster at Lachute effective February 18, succeeding Florian Guitard, who received a transfer to Hull, Que. Mr. Laferrière is unmarried. With six years in the Canadian Army, including more than four years overseas, he has since served 16 years in the federal postal department.

Labor contract with employees at bottling works

Latest establishment to sign a labor agreement with its employees is the firm of J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, bottlers of Coca-Cola, Lachute, whose workers are affiliated with Local 346 of the "International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America."

This first collective agreement in the local industry is retroactive to November 1, 1962. It provides for a progressive pay increase of $15 weekly within three years, for all employees — bottlers, truckers, etc., both in the factory and outdoors; and covers such conditions as work hours, statutory holidays, sick leave, holidays with pay, etc.

A representative of the Union, Roland Goedike, was here for the proceedings. Signatory for the company was Jos. A. MacKimmie, and representing Local 346 were Jacques Racine, chairman, and Albt. Decoste, secretary.

Organizers optimistic in Diocesan appeal

With final preparations for the campaign of the Federation of Charities, the organizers have been receiving an enthusiastic welcome in all parishes, pointing to an optimistic outcome on March 18 next. It is hoped to conclude the campaign on that evening, according to the general president, Lucien G. Rolland.

Mr. Rolland has stressed that the federation in a diocese is everybody's responsibility, and everyone should participate. The co-ordinator, Rolland Themens, has done everything possible to provide the seven district presidents, parochial chairmen and auxiliaries, with information that could help the donors. Campaign vice-chairman for this zone of the diocese is Dr. Chas. Roy, of Lachute.

This campaign will assure the maintenance of existing organizations and also the creation of new charity services. The present affiliated services are — St. Vincent de Paul Society, Clothing Workshop for the Needy, Recreational Service, Social Research Centre, Family Service, School for Retarded Children, Welfare Council, Psycho-Social Centre, Home Makers Service and Visiting Nurses Service, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Probation and Parole Service.

The diocesan welfare council encourages the diverse movements to join ranks with the Federation as a central appeal, in order to reduce considerably from one year to the next, an ever-growing number of campaigns.

Lachute to the fore in Macdonald College 'Royal'

In a prominent spread of news pictures on the Macdonald College Royal Winter Fair, appearing in last Saturday's "Star", the Lachute area was well represented. . .

One photograph depicting the Queen of the show and her four attendants, showed Miss Judy Evans as one of the princesses. Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Evans; she is a Lachute High School graduate and the Legion Auxiliary scholarship winner for the current year, now in her second year of the teachers' course.

Sentiments and Sidelights

A number of fellow Lions from Notre Dame de Grace and Roxboro visited the local club at their meeting here last week. The supper, held at La Lorraine Motel, was preceded by a round-robin of broomball at the Lions Rink. . . Altogether, a hilarious and genial session.

Our well-plowed streets offer temptation to property owners to shovel snow from their driveways out onto the broad, bare road. A public notice in this issue points out that this is a prohibited practice. Mayor Campbell asks the co-operation of all householders, in keeping their snow on their own property. The town has enough of its own to handle !

By BOB ATCHISON

At long last, some form of control is going to be imposed on the Private Clubs and Leaseholds, in cases of huge areas of forests and lakes. This legislation has certainly been long in coming, and it's not too soon. As some of us know, the extent of territory some of these clubs have rights to is astounding. These owners are virtual monarchs on their property, and they certainly operate it in this manner. The government has never been too anxious to really study this problem, as a matter of fact, it seemed to be a case of hands off.

What is now going to happen is this: A group controlling areas suitable for fish and game are to be charged a certain fixed price per square mile. In a number of cases this will really hit home, and I have no doubt a lot of territory is going to be turned back to the people. Thus, more and more lands will become available to the fishermen and hunters. At least the government will be able to collect some revenue for this land. After all, people going into these areas will know they have not been bled white by irresponsible people.

It has been the practice among certain groups to band together and form clubs for their own immediate use and with the idea of making money. It's pretty disheartening to know some of these clubs control thousands of square miles, without us ordinary people being able to even set foot on it, unless we have the price. Knowing that, eventually, paid hunting and fishing is going to be a must, it is gratifying to know the government has at least staved off this practice for a short while.

While the powers-that-be are in such a good mood of house-cleaning they should take an extra long, hard look at our parks. The situation here is deplorable, and it could be stopped if enough interest were taken in the parks. With the cry for tourists ringing loud and muddy in this province, then some thought should be given to the things that attract them to us. Tourists come as a rule to visit untamed wilderness, and they are more than willing to pay for it. However, they seem to balk just a little at being taken for every nickel they have. (In some cases they have almost lost their shirts, too.)

On one of my jaunts I spotted a number of boats that had been cleaned of snow and ice. A smart move by the owners, one that I am sure will bring them dividends. You know, with the weight of snow and ice on any hull it is bound to have a certain effect. Either the trestle of the boat warps and throws the hull out of line, or you end up with a boat that is covered with rust spots. I think too much attention is paid to advertising of these boats, "no painting, no warping" etc. No matter what you have it has to be treated right, if you expect to get good results. I mentioned last fall how boats stored under a metal object will pick up rust stains; it is a rotten job trying to erase these, and in most cases impossible. . . It doesn't take too long to look over your boats, so why not do it now?

I got all excited the other day — saw a couple of crows that I thought must be southern fliers. However, after getting a good look at them they turned out to be our own "flying flea bags". I guess maybe I was rushing things just a little. . . However, these past couple of days have been very productive for bird watchers. Juncoes, jay, chickadees, a couple of grosbeaks, a bunch of starlings that did not stay. I don't know why the sudden influx of these birds, maybe it is the shortage of feed around. At any rate, how about putting out just a little more feed for the next few weeks? It is at this time that our spadgers need all the help they can get. Even a few raisins would be more than welcome; maybe a little expensive to be feeding wild birds, but aren't they worth it? I hadn't taken a look at our cedar hedge for some time, and was surprised to find that a number of partridge have been roosting in it.

I wonder if any of you have ever watched these birds, trying to second-guess them. It's a rewarding preoccupation, and you'd be surprised at just how little we know of them. A couple of friends, seeing me so enthusiastic about these birds, have a classic saying, "Small things amuse small minds". Maybe, they are right; but I have a lot of fun.

The garbage hounds have deserted the countryside and are now doing their best to pretty up Lachute. Believe me, some of the streets are very bad. One of my major triumphs will be the day when a sentence is clapped on some of these scrap bugs. If they ever thought they might end up doing 30 days of refuse-picking, they would soon mend their ways. . . Reading some of the attempts by authorities in different parts of the country to combat this, gives you the idea that most people are just natural litter bugs, without even thinking about it. One of these schemes I liked. It seemed that a group were scavenging along a highway, looking for empties. In doing so, they scattered all manner of junk around; so when they had covered this certain area and collected plenty of empties, they were hauled in, the bottles were confiscated and they were made to retrace their steps over the whole distance cleaning every bit of refuse on the way. I think they learned a lesson!

I have been asked a number of times just what can be done to stop some of the pulp cutters blocking up small streams. This is a question I have often asked myself, and can find no answer. As long as the pulp man is on a piece-work basis, then what happens in the bush is of no interest to him. I do know, in certain parts of the country all choppings must be burned or cleared. The thought that this slash might be responsible for fires does not seem to concern the small operator. I know it is easy for me to say, they should do this or they should do that. However, no cutter or farmer ever made money from burned-over land.

I have heard some people are worried about snowmobiles being operated in the bush these days. Some of these are possibly being used for illegal purposes, killing deer, etc. Goodness knows, the poachers will capitalize on anything, and with these machines they sure could cover a lot of ground. . . A couple of this type were just imprisoned in the States. Using two machines, they separated, and while one covered the yard the other circled around; and when the deer took off, they were just run to death. It's strange how benefits for man can be turned against him. We all scream about the wolf, seemingly forgetting the human who is just as bad.

I have mentioned the interest being shown in camping equipment just now. I return to this subject, since a phone call has informed me of a store in Montreal that supposedly has wonderful tents for sale. They are nylon, and priced exceedingly low. However, if anyone runs into this type of tent, they would do better to leave it alone. It just is not suitable for camping. Sure, nylon is wonderful material, but for tents, just no good.

Maybe I can explain just why: In the first place, a tent must "breathe" — that is, have air circulating through its walls or roof. The thought is, under these circumstances, why doesn't it leak? As a rule if a tent is looked after, it will not. The other reason is that the weave on a tent is so small and perfect, with the special waterproofing on it, that it is almost an impossibility to leak. . Now for the nylon — I believe that nylon has no weave, therefore no air whatsoever can pass through it. The results are very uncomfortable, believe me. With anyone in the tent, it starts to "sweat", allowing the humidity to run down the insides. During winter camping, this freezes, and unless thawed out and wiped dry, the tent will be very hard to handle. Certainly it is not a tent for packing every day.

No doubt some of you read in the paper, of the youngster living in Montreal who was going to his first rifle shoot. While cleaning the new gun, he accidentally shot himself. "Accidentally", it said; and I wonder just how things like this can be classed as accidental. Surely it is the fault of the parents, in allowing this youngster to have a firearm without being taught the fundamentals of its use. The gun should be blamed; after all, it is only natural for anyone to want to put a shell into a gun. Grownups do it, so that age is no excuse. It seems so foolish to allow anyone a firearm without knowing if they can handle it or not. One cannot operate an automoblie without some proof of ability.

Maybe a few more "accidents" like this will impress the fact that something must be done to stop selling to unlicensed persons.

The road going towards Lakefield yielded a woodchuck — run over by a car. . . I must admit, with the cold and snow, I didn't think we would be seeing these animals for some time yet. But it could be like the skunks — possibly rabid. I also heard of a fox shot a couple of weeks ago, that sure seemed to be rabid.

From what I have heard of rabies, however, it does not seem likely that we are going to have another severe outbreak like the last one. I don't think anyone can really pinpoint these signs as evidence of the disease. Certainly the numbers of animals that have been around, that should be hibernating, makes you wonder just what is happening. It could be the winters are getting warmer (don't quote me!). But something has definitely upset the applecart in the wild-life calendar.

Boy Scouts of Canada

LONG SAULT DISTRICT

Cubs' Hockey Tournament

The annual Long Sault District Wolf Cub hockey tournament was held in Brownsburg Community Rink on Saturday, February 2.

The event took the form of a round-robin, giving each team a chance to pit their strength against all others. Thurso, Grenville, Lachute and Brownsburg packs were represented.

Scouts' Winter Field Day

This year's Long Sault District winter field day was held once again at C.I.P. forest farm, Harrington, on Saturday, February 23. Below-zero temperatures rose to a more comfortable "10 above" on Saturday, and, despite a cool breeze, most Scouts managed to keep warm for the whole day.

Those troops participating were Brownsburg, Grenville, Lachute, and Thurso, and the day's program was underway by 10 a.m. The first task of each troop was to build a windbreak capable of protecting the whole troop, for several hours, in sub-zero weather conditions. Although much enthusiasm made up for the lack of adequate tools, it is feared that one or two troops might have perished if the conditions had been real.

The Scouts were invited to view several logging operations in progress at the farm, and the opportunity to walk a mile or two did much to start circulation again. The Scouts were able to observe tree felling, trimming and cutting, performed by professionals.

Most troops were optimistic enough to bring lunch which required some cooking, and this was accomplished without mishap.

The afternoon events were competitive, with toboggan, snowshoe and ski races both up and down a winding trail. In each of the six events, two points were awarded for a win and one point for second place. From the looks on the boys' faces, a great amount of energy was expended, particularly in the uphill racing, and there were some very impressive performances in the downhill ski race. Overall winners were 1st Thurso Troop, with 1st Lachute as runners-up.

Quebec-Ontario hockey play-offs now in progress

The play-offs in the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League are well underway, with three teams battling it out in the semi-finals to decide who will meet in the final series for the championship. This semi-final series is in the form of a six-game round-robin affair, with the top two teams meeting in the finals. The three teams involved are — Lachute, St. Andrews and Brownsburg.

To date, three games have been played and all three were very close contests, with the outcome of each game not being decided until the final period. Brownsburg's first-game victory over Lachute was reported last week.

On Tuesday, Lachute met St. Andrews, the final score being 9-6 for Lachute. At the end of regulation play the score was deadlocked 6-6, and the teams played a 10-minute overtime session before the contest was decided. Lachute scored three goals in the extra period, to take the victory. The scoring for the winners was divided between four players; Prévost and Gionet each recorded hat tricks while Desrosiers tallied two, and the other goal was scored by Rhéaume. Mike O'Brien, who has moved up to a forward position from his former defence spot, led the St. Andrews attack, with two goals. The other four goals were divided evenly between Laberge, Tremblay, St. Hilaire and Belanger.

Brownsburg Bombers won their second game in the semi-finals on Thursday night, when they defeated St. Andrews 5-2. The final score was not a true indication of the play, as the St. Andrews club fought on even terms throughout the contest with the winners. As in their game against Lachute two evenings earlier, St. Andrews seemed to fade in the final minutes and that was all that was needed by the Bombers, as they scored three goals to take the victory.

The league scoring champion, Gary Keatley, was the star of the game, tallying the final three goals for the Brownsburg team. The other two went to Ball and "Rocket" Masson. Pilon and Spinard were the scorers for St. Andrews.

Once again both goalers, Paul and Racine, were standouts in the game, as both clubs played a fast, wide-open style of hockey.

At the time of writing all clubs had played two games each in the semi-finals. Brownsburg Bombers led with four points, followed by Lachute with two. St. Andrews have yet to post a victory. Here are the standings:

Brownsburg	2	2	0	-	4
Lachute	2	1	1	-	2
St. Andrews	2	0	2	-	0

The schedule for the remaining three games is as follows:

February 26 — Brownsburg vs Lachute

February 28 — St. Andrews vs Brownsburg

March 3 — St. Andrews vs Lachute

Father of the Red Cross

JEAN HENRI DUNANT, known as the father of the Red Cross, was born May 8, 1828, in Geneva, Switzerland. The atmosphere of Calvinist Geneva influenced his growth and he developed high moral principles. Engaged in charitable and religious activities, he sought to bring comfort and aid to the poor, sick and afflicted.

He learned the banking business in Geneva and in 1853 was general manager of a subsidiary enterprise in Algeria. In 1859, Dunant was a young businessman of 30 with one objective in view — to get the support of the Emperor of France for a business project in Algeria. The Emperor was then leading his army in Italy against the army of Austria. Dunant did not see the Emperor Napoleon III, but saw the casualties left by the Battle of Solferino — 40,000 dead and wounded on the battlefield. He joined in the work of relief, sent his coach to bring supplies, and tried to relieve the pain and suffering of the wounded.

This experience completely changed the course of his life. In 1862, he published "A Memory of Solferino" and proposed that Societies of trained volunteers be organized in all countries for the purpose of helping to care for the wounded warriors. The distribution of the book was the first step in arousing international interest. The first International Conference met in Geneva on October 26, 1863. At its final session, the Conference declared "that Mr. Henri Dunant . . . and the Geneva Public Welfare Society . . . have deserved well of humanity and earned universal thanks."

Henri Dunant, unfortunately, was not an organization man and before his dream became a reality, he gradually moved aside as more practical men began to take over. He was almost forgotten when in 1901 the Nobel Committee awarded him its first Peace Prize, shared jointly with the Frenchman, Frederic Passy. Since he was too feeble to leave his retreat at the hospital in Heiden, the prize and medal were sent to him. The International Committee of the Red Cross sent him this message:

"There is no man who more deserves this honor, for it was you, forty years ago, who set on foot the international organization for the relief of the wounded on the battlefield. Without you, the Red Cross, the supreme humanitarian achievement of the nineteenth century, would probably never have been undertaken."

Eskimos teaching themselves

ONE MARK of human nature is that a man often tends to show resentment when an outsider comes in to tell him how to run his affairs. The result is that he may refuse to co-operate, even though he realizes that he's receiving sound advice.

Britain's experience with her colonies has led some of her more enlightened administrators to realize that the best way to get things done is to provide a setting where the people themselves provide the necessary leadership.

It hasn't always worked, but where it has, the progress has been spectacular. The principle is obviously a good one.

Now it is being applied in Canada. And the beneficiaries are Indians, many of whom have been living on reservations where lack of sanitation has resulted in an unnecessarily high level of disease.

For many years federal government medical officers have been trying to teach Indians the importance of cleanliness. Often they were ignored. One reason was that they were outsiders and their advice was resented.

It fell to Ethel Martens, a federal health department instructor, to come up with an obvious solution. Why not let the Indians teach themselves?

Thirteen Indians, including four women and two chiefs, were given a six-months course, most of it at Norway House in Manitoba. Two were given additional training as dental assistants. They then were sent to 10 reservations in various parts of Manitoba. The reservations were picked because they were overcrowded and had poor sanitation and garbage disposal systems. In addition, many persons were drinking untreated water.

Within a few months the Indian residents had pitched in to clean up their reservations. Miss Martens was able to report that the local programs were a "tremendous success." The Indians began building privies, digging garbage disposal pits, and boiling or chlorinating their water.

Although the government austerity program has so far prevented spread of this training program to other parts of Canada for both Indians and Eskimos, authorities in Ottawa now are convinced they have found the right approach.

Need moral politicians, and moral voters

THERE HAS BEEN much recklessness with the truth. In the last two election campaigns time and again, lies and gross distortions and suppressions of the truth were used for party speeches. Falsehood in political speeches became epidemic. This is a moral failure. To those who say winning and holding political power is more important than any old-fashioned concept of morality, we declare our total disagreement.

We ask for moral conduct from our political leaders. But a strong sense of political morality is required just as much of Canadian voters. It is the standards they set for themselves in selecting the person they vote for, which really determine the moral climate of our government. Voting for the man who makes the most and the biggest promises, is an abdication of responsibility. Should we vote for the men who are the slickest performers on the platform and on television? That is folly. If that is to be the test of competence for wise governing, the logical move is to drop the would-be politicians and elect professional entertainers. Canadian voters know that this country is now in an extremely critical phase; that seldom before in our history have we needed skillful, courageous, intelligent and really dedicated governors.

Soviet shortcomings

THE BRIGHTER "comrades" are enjoying quite an orgy of self-criticism in Russia right now, and their comments concerning the deficiencies of the Soviet economic system make fascinating reading.

Typical is a recent article by one O.K. Antonov, a prominent aircraft designer and writer on economics, as published in the official newspaper Izvestia.

According to the New York Times, the writer observed that Soviet industry was "riddled with waste and inefficiency because it lacked what engineers term 'feedback,' a factor provided under capitalism by market forces and competition.

"The heart of the problem, Mr. Antonov declares, is that the figures of Soviet industrial gains do not reflect any really corresponding increase in economically useful goods. Much Soviet production is of poor quality and short durability . . . and much of it tends to be technologically obsolete.

"He writes of the production of tires and ball bearings that last only a short time, of production-line installations that are far slower and less productive than they might be, of textile factories producing cloth that no one wants to buy, and of paper mills producing cardboard and paper far thicker and heavier than required.

"Under capitalism . . . this does not happen because there is a feedback to the producer. The manufacturer of poor quality goods soon learns from the marketplace that his goods are not selling because they are inferior to those of his competitors.

"This, Mr. Antonov writes, forces the capitalists to make things better, sturdier and cheaper."

It does indeed. Considering that some 45 years have elapsed since the revolution, the Russians can hardly be said to be the fast learners where the economic facts of life are concerned.

But they are learning, and better late than never.

TIMELY TRAVEL TIP CAN SAVE WORRY — AND MONEY TOO

It can be mighty embarrassing when you run short of cash while travelling. Yet no one likes to carry around large sums of cash because there's always the danger of loss or theft.

What's the answer then, on your next vacation or business trip?

More and more people are finding the easiest and safest way to carry funds for travel purposes today is in the form of B of M travellers' cheques. Any bank in Canada and most hotels and stores will cash them readily — because you counter-sign each cheque only when you cash it.

Thus the person cashing it knows right away that you and only you are the rightful owner. This feature makes B of M travellers' cheques useless to anyone except their purchaser. What's more, if your B of M travellers' cheques are lost, destroyed, or stolen, the bank replaces them.

So before you set off on that next trip, stop at the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal and buy as many travellers' cheques as you think you'll need. The service charge is negligible and the peace of mind is wonderful.

Miss Mary Preece, the accountant, or Miss Lulu Miller at the Ayersville branch, will be glad to help you make any other arrangements for your travel financing. If your trip is an extra long one and you need a large sum, travellers' letters of credit are available from the B of M, and if you are going abroad, there are special travellers' cheques available at every branch.

ABOUT APPLES

Maybe Adam and Eve started it. I wouldn't know. But I do consider the apple to be the world's most popular fruit. We Canadians should be thankful that this fruit does not have to be imported. It grows almost on our doorstep. Twice during my checkered career I have been a professional apple-picker — once in the Okanagan Valley, B.C., and once at St. Elzear, Que. The work is pleasant and healthy, if not very remunerative. But there is something about an orchard, with trees laden to the ground with beautiful apples, that "gets you." Strawberries, peaches, pears, plums, oranges and grapefruit are all nice, but not one of these mentioned could be eaten every day without getting tired of it. But an apple is welcome any time. There is a lot of truth in the old proverb, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away". It also keeps the dentist away. People unable to brush their teeth after every meal can prevent a lot of tooth decay by eating an apple after a meal. I keep two doctors away by eating two apples a day, especially Cortland, which I consider the world's finest apple for flavor, texture and appearance. Some prefer MacIntosh, but that is a matter of personal choice.

The apple is a versatile fruit. It can be eaten raw, baked, stewed, in pies, or in the form of apple juice, and it is obtainable right through the winter and well into spring, and even after that, except that the choice narrows down to Newtons and Winesaps.

By J. L. PIGEON,
Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Agriculture

Since its establishment in 1959, the Farm Credit Corporation already has made sweeping advances in the provision of credit to those of you who, as farmers, find additional capital necessary to keep your farm in stride.

A striking illustration of this is the fact that, under the former Farm Loan Board, only approximately four million dollars was actually loaned to Canadian farmers in an average year, while today the Farm Credit Corporation lends farmers more than 70 million dollars every year. This does not mean that your financial needs are that much greater than they were. It means rather that today they are being more adequately considered and acted upon than ever before.

Although the terms under which you have been able to borrow capital from the Farm Credit Corporation have been quite broad and far-ranging even from the time the Corporation began operating about three years ago, they have recently been extended further to provide you with a greater opportunity to obtain farm credit.

The effect of recent major amendments to the Regulations of the Farm Credit Act, announced last month by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, will be to provide a much greater range of financial assistance to small farmers, and this will be particularly important in Quebec.

A change in the regulation governing the appraisal of farms will permit the Farm Credit Corporation to attach greater importance to the value of farm buildings where they are essential to specialized production. This will make it possible to lend to those of you who are poultrymen, greenhouse operators or in other specialized fields of production in which your operations require a relatively high investment in buildings even though your land may be small.

Another amendment will in future permit loans to those of you who, although basically farmers, may have to depend on secondary income from other sources to supplement your farm revenues. Previously, only income which stemmed from actual production of your farm land could be considered in assessing a loan application, but removal of this restriction will allow other secondary income to be taken into account, making more of you eligible for loans under the Act.

The type of additional income which can now be recognized includes returns from such specialized operations as those based on the use of purchased feeds, as for example in the case of poultry and hog production; as well as proceeds from any non-agricultural enterprise conducted on the farm — such as camping grounds, tourist cabins and other recreational projects. Off-farm income, including that from pensions, annuities and part-time employment can also be considered now in assessing eligibility for loan purposes.

The main purpose of these changes is to provide for greater flexibility in assisting through farm credit to raise the income levels — and hence the living standards — of those of you who may not derive your total income from farming, but for whom farming is nevertheless your principal occupation.

Today, as a result of these changes, the door to adequate farm credit is open to virtually every one of you whose basic livelihood stems from a farming operation, large or small.

Next week, I will tell you how you can go about arranging for a loan under the Farm Credit Act — how you can determine your credit requirements, who you should see for further information, and where you can make your application for this form of farm assistance, if more credit is necessary to place you on a proper economic footing.

Election jobs should go to unemployed

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Watchman

With another Federal Election coming up in April, and hundreds of people unemployed in this district — I wonder if you would publish the enclosed clipping (letter to the editor, Montreal Star, Feb. 18).

On some cases in this district employees are exempted from work with pay, so they can work in the polls along with their wives; and in cases also, their sons are driving voters to the polls.

— Unemployed (S.A.O.B.)

Enumeration Income Properly for Needy

Sir, — We hear so much talk of human rights that I think it would be a step in the right direction to make sure that some of the twelve million dollars of public funds to be spent on the election goes to unemployed persons and pensioners instead of men who have good jobs and their wives.

With the published pay increases, the jobs of enumerators, returning officers and clerks will be quickly filled by housewives, craving for the little extra for a down payment on something new, and their husband's answers to pay the instalment on their second car. Is this fair?

Child eye-testing in Terrebonne CNIB program

At a recent meeting of the Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind for the County of Terrebonne, Gerard Simard, chairman, stressed the preservation-of-sight program introduced at the St. Jean Baptist School. Through this means, it is hoped that eventually it will be possible to have every child's eyes tested and those needing immediate care will be given full attention. There are far too many who have had their vision impaired by the lack of eye care, and by ignorance, many have become blind.

Father Gince, who represents the Bishop in the Federation of Charities of the Diocese of St. Jerome, attended the inauguration of this new service.

Mr. A. C. Zaplaski, Field Secretary of the CNIB for the Diocese, stated there are at present 164 blind people receiving services from the Institute.

Funeral held for late Léo Lafond

Mr. Léo Lafond, a Lachute resident and father of Mrs. Thomas Ayers, died Sunday in Montreal at the age of 81 years.

He is mourned by his wife, the former Léona Paiement, and three daughters, Mrs. Léo Charette (Yvette), of Montreal, Mrs. Thos. Ayers (Lucille), of Lachute, and Mrs. F. St.-Maurice (Denise), of Laval-des-Rapides; also three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He leaves also a sister, Mrs. Théodore Ouellette, of St.-Vincent de Paul.

The funeral was held here in Lachute on Wednesday morning, from the Menard Funeral Parlors to St. Julien Church, and thence to the parish cemetery.

First annual meet held by United Church Women of Montreal presbyterial

Mrs. Wilson Bridge, of Lachute, was re-elected regional vice-president of the Montreal Presbyterial United Church Women, at their first annual meeting in Montreal West on February 20. Mrs. Howard Elliott, of Brownsburg, gave a brief talk to the meeting on one of their last year's activities, along with reports from other presidents. Delegates from the local churches and the many ladies of Lachute who attended as corresponding members, took part in the group discussions. Of interest to many local residents, particularly from the Cushing area, was the appointment of Mrs. Ralph Watson as the corresponding secretary.

Ladies from many of the local churches attended. In all, over eight UCW's were represented by 311 delegates and over 200 corresponding members. During the morning session there were presidents' "talks", with several local presidents telling of activities. At lunch, eight prominent church workers were introduced.

In the president's report, Mrs. R. Douglas Smith told how over the past year this great Montreal Presbyterial UCW had taken form; that membership reports from 128 UCW's gave a total of more than 8,200 members. "A glimpse of our potential is seen in the fact that, for all purposes, the women raised $322,292, of which $78,182 went to the allocation and Over-and-Above Fund!"

Mrs. F. L. Shonkwiler, president of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference UCW, presided at the elections, where 46 ladies became members of the executive. Mrs. E. D. Erry, former president of the WMS Presbyterial and now a student minister, challenged the gathering "not to be just members of a church, but rather be followers of Christ". Miss Ada Sandell, missionary to Korea, told of the great many difficulties facing the Christian women in Korea, and how these problems were being faced. She told of how they had brought together Christian women of many denominations to help prepare the World Day of Prayer service, which was written by Mrs. David Chung of Korea. Many Christian women there are widows with very little education but with a great faith and loyalty.

The panel discussion was, "The Christian Women in Action". The panelists told of many ways that women can play an active part in community and world affairs, but a basic question was posed by Mrs. George Johnston, who asked, "If you don't put your faith into action at home, how can you put your faith into action elsewhere?"

During dinner, several guests were introduced and spoke briefly. These included the Rev. C. G. Wadsworth, of the host church, and the Rev. N. Slaughter, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery. Mrs. D. Naismith, president of the Montreal Committee of the Women's Inter-Faith Council of Canada; and Miss Emilie Charest, president of the Montreal Diocesan C.W.L. Mrs. J. E. Kirby, president of the Anglican Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, was present early at the meeting.

The evening worship service was simple and beautiful, depicting the "Light of Jesus" in our everyday life. Miss Margaret Quigley, Girls' Work secretary for the Christian Education Council for Quebec, led in the earlier worship service.

The theme speaker, the Rev. George Morrison, spoke on "The Witnessing Church" and told of the work being done in Winnipeg area today, through people like Miss Verna Crooks working with the Indians and like Dr. Polkoli, working with the immigrants, one of whose problems is suicide; or Mr. Charles Forsythe, who has "house-churches" to help people out of the squalor of the slums towards a finer life of Jesus Christ.

Missions, Mr. Morrison concluded, are a movement of the fellowship of faith reaching out to people outside the church. A church must first be a missionary church in the world where it exists, before it can minister to the outside.

Art topic heard in Historical Soc. lecture series

The life and works of Leonardo da Vinci, illustrated by slides, provided an interesting topic to a small but appreciative audience, at Lachute High School last Saturday afternoon. The lecture was one in a series arranged by the Argenteuil Historical Society, the speaker being Mr. J. W. Rahr, who has lectured acceptably before the St. James Literary Society on the history of art and other absorbing subjects.

The slides, photographed by Mr. Rahr from reproductions or originals in the European art galleries, showed a number of da Vinci's greatest works in painting and sculpture — the Mona Lisa portrait, the fresco of The Last Supper, the Trivulzio monument in Milano, and other famous works.

From the controversial figure of Leonardo da Vinci, a question period led to the transition of art to today's controversial trend, abstractionism, and the speaker had some refreshing views on this development.

The visitor was introduced and warmly thanked by the president of the Society, Mr. A. G. Talbot.

Mr. Wes Younkie, president of the Association, thanked everyone who helped by attending this whist, and also those who had been kind enough to give donations of prizes, food, candy, etc., and the many who had worked hard to make this event so successful.

(Buckingham Post)

Earlier in the winter, Pierre Boucher and Hector Bourgeois stood on the bank of the Ottawa River and watched the ice envelop their ferry boat. This was the signal to fold up their business for another winter. Their ferry, the "Bon Voyage", was hauled up and beached, and people wishing to cross between Thurso, Que., and Clarence, Ont., had to take the long-long-long way around via the Interprovincial Bridge. Or chance walking or driving across the river, with possible tragic results.

The two partners set about to put themselves back in business with the construction of an "ice bridge". Working continually for 12 days with gasoline pumps, the partners flooded the natural ice of the river until they gradually built up layer upon layer of ice, achieving a uniform depth of 26 inches across the river.

On January 17 they were ready to go back into the winter "ferry business" — not with a boat but with what they call an "ice ferry" to Clarence. Visually it appears to be just a snow road across the white expanse. But the river flows merrily along underneath.

A toll gate was assembled, prices fixed at $1 per car, and a stock of wood cut to heat the Captain's cabin of the beached ferry boat.

There is a constant and continual check of the depth of the ice. Several times throughout the day Gaetan Boucher, son of the owner, picks random spots on the route to test. Armed with an ice auger and ruler, he drills through the entire depth of the ice and takes his measurements. Spots where the ice depth is less than the desired 26 inches are marked for attention and maintenance.

The route is plowed regularly, marked plainly with discarded Christmas trees and continual grading, additions of snow, and pumping onto the surface of more water in order to replenish the thickness of the ice.

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

There are a number of reasons why fathers desert their families but nagging has been named as the vice most likely to send a husband straying from the home fold. Whether or not he departs for a short or long time or endures it and stays at home, a nagging atmosphere has a very harmful effect on children.

Of all the ineffective methods of getting obedience, nagging rates among the lowest. A child develops a sort of deafness as a protection against his mother's constant flow of words.

Rebellion or Withdrawal

If he is an active vigorous boy, nagging will often increase his resistance to parental control. On the other hand, if a youngster is a quiet, introspective boy, he may retreat into his own dream world and thus remove himself from his mother's unpleasant remarks. She may wonder later why he seems so unsure of himself.

Nagging never yet helped a child think well of himself. One's own good opinion of one's self is essential to happy living. "Nagging is the worst vice of all in child training", an outstanding authority said recently. Do you agree with this?

It's Fairly Common

Nagging is a fairly common procedure in many homes. A guest of one family invited for supper, counted 68 different nagging remarks made to a nine-year-old between six o'clock and his eight o'clock bed time. Perhaps you occasionally resort to nagging yourself. If you never nag, you are an exceptional parent indeed!

It is not conducive to an atmosphere where learning is easy. Instead of an eagerness to improve, the undesirable emotions of hostility, opposition, or evasion are the product of nagging. If parents would only recall their own childhood days, they would be able to describe very few changes in behavior for the better or real accomplishments which came from their parents nagging them.

Frequent Pitfall

There is no parent who would want to be given the label "a nagger". Mothers especially who are with their young children all day long, find this a frequent pitfall. Why is this the case?

"Talk is cheap," is an old English proverb. A critical, fault-finding attitude, on a mother's part, creeps on her almost unawares when she is in poor health or toward the end of the day when she is weary. Sometimes a nagging mother is one who is too ambitious for her child, too eager that he should be a shining light.

The noise of children, the never ending household tasks, worries about the rising costs of food and other necessities, tend to "get mother down". Her own tension, or anxiety, or annoyance is often a much greater factor in her nagging, than her child's naughtiness. She feels unable to deal capably with her child's actions, but is convinced that she should do something — so she "talks at him".

Practical Course

If parents are convinced that nagging is useless as far as the child's behavior is concerned, and a mistake on their part, what should they do? They should agree on a consistent form of discipline and instead of much talking, discipline themselves so there is little talking. What procedure should they substitute? Here are some practical suggestions. . .

Do not make so many demands on a child so that he is always following directions. Cut down commands to a minimum, and make them brief and clear. Be sure you have your child's attention before giving him an order. Then and only then tell him what you want.

Expect obedience and insist that your child carries out your request. Don't repeat it. If he refuses to co-operate, isolate him until he is willing to comply with your wish. Last, but not least, fathers and mothers can help each other by remembering that no one ever regretted holding his tongue when tempted to nag. W. H. Howe once remarked "It has been said, 'Speech is silver and silence is golden'. I have known them both when they have been wooden." Away with nagging!

AUTOMATION

It took the industrial revolution 150 years to unfold but the new age of automation is bearing down on us with the speed of a rocket, says Reader's Digest. It is causing many human dislocations. Yet machines — given the golden gift of time — have created more jobs than they displace.

Tastes are shaped in childhood; immaturity a hazard to marriage

By Margaret Cook

The end of February, and a fine, snowy day for a change! That, dear readers, is sarcasm, something in which I seldom indulge. Sarcasm, think I, is for people with limited vocabularies. I have a good stock of words, and I like to sling them around.

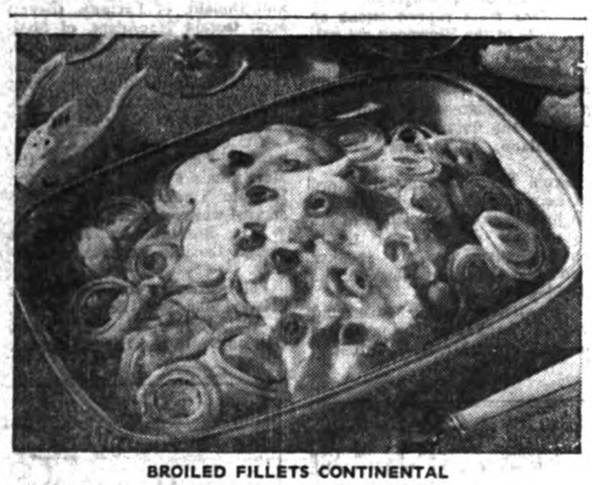

The whole month, that part which was not dedicated to slanging the winter weather, seems to have been spent in doing things, which turned out to be less entertaining than we anticipated. There was the Macdonald Royal, a kind of winter fair at Macdonald College. First of all, and disappointing, the head of the house refused to escort me to the barns to see the cattle, the only part of the Fair I really enjoy. Generally I meet a farmer or two whom I can press into being an escort. But no farmers — I suppose they were all up at the barns. So, we went to see the exhibits, which were ranged in booths under the dining-room. By this time we were really bored, so took it out on the young thing, female, that was guarding and explaining an exhibit, which depressingly showed articles to pack in case of evacuation. In the midst of the suggestions, I spied gum. Yes, gum, but no aspirin. After all, one is as prominent on television as the other, so why leave out aspirin? The sanitary articles realistically included a pail and a shovel, and a coil of toilet paper. The whole thing was supposed to weigh 8 lbs. and be sufficient to keep alive one person for two weeks. It wasn't fair of me to ask questions of the young thing, but I did; such as how far would one get in fifteen minutes, which is the time we should probably have as warning, on crowded roads? The gum, it seemed, was to allay nervousness. Why not aspirin? By the time we left the girl, she was as red as a peony, and her companion, who had entered into the spirit of the thing, was dissolved in giggles. So, I wandered on to talk to a handsome Black Minorca rooster and his wife. I had just got him replying nicely to my tck-tck in different tones, when three small children came up and spoiled it, with questions in a shrill voice, "Mummy, is that the father? Mummy, is that the mother?" The rooster, understandably disgusted, fell silent and turned his back. . . And so it went. Even the tea was cold and weak, and (I suspect) of the "instant" variety. Moreover, it was a sickly green; but that was probably because of the lighting.

Later in the same week, we went to the current Revue which always winds up the two weeks of carnival, Winter Fair and general merrymaking. This, too, was a disappointment. It consisted of four separate skits, all but one having political overtones. The exception was called "Dead Drunk", and that is what it was about. The comedy in human beings acting like pigs, always escapes me. As for the political sketches, there was the inevitable take-off of President Kennedy's accent, which I love, because they are the self-same tones used by a beloved aunt. The student who was supposed to be Diefenbaker, did it poorly. There was none of the demagogic rhetoric to which we have tried to become accustomed. Instead, our Prime Minister was shown as a bumbling old man. As to Krushchev, well, he was a little more realistic, but not much, and the whole scene took place in the Men's Room of the United Nations. In short, we thought the whole thing crude, and in some places, ill-produced.

Thinking it over, we are compelled to admit that our tastes were warped in childhood. Until the age of fifteen, we were not allowed to read any book not passed by Mother. There was no TV, and while movies were short, they made no significant contribution to our culture. I use culture in its correct sense. As a consequence of this deplorable censorship, I cannot read any of the modern love-novels with pleasure. What is more, half the play of words, I do not understand. I have given up trying. Thus, the whole world of trash is veiled from my eyes. We sound the complete prig, and perhaps we are. On the other hand we have, in our daughter, the living result of another idea in training. . . . We never forbade her to read anything, but we filled the house with readable classics, books on wonders of nature, books on theology, travel, books on great men and women. The result: she reads such books from choice. She may have read the odd erotic bit of romance, but not to our knowledge. She reads from choice such books as the current biography of Michaelangelo, and books on archaeology, especially Egyptian diggings.

So, the two systems turned out about the same. I am convinced that much of the tooted inability to read stems from a dearth of good things to read. Parents, again. A recent spate of articles on the subject of teen-age marriages mostly agree that the parents are to blame, especially the mother, who pushes her daughter into excursions in romance before the poor thing has the braces off her teeth. One would think braces would discourage romance, but no, they are accepted. They have even become a status symbol! Marriages of immature people could undermine the whole complex civilization which has so painfully been built up on this continent. People who do not find themselves, before marriage, in some kind of work — who do not give their tastes time to develop — are not apt to develop in marriage, at least not soon enough to avoid disaster.

Enough of serious things. Let us rather contemplate the head of the house, solemnly going down the carpeted stairs on his hands and knees. Understandably perplexed, we asked why. "To see if I can go down the way he does." — Meaning Peter, the cat. . . Try it. Only use the toes and hands, not knees. . . I wonder, but not enough to try!

BROILED FILLETS CONTINENTAL

Subtle seasoner for Lent

Wine cooking doesn't hold the mysteries many otherwise adventurous cooks believe. Nor need it be expensive. There are no complicated techniques involved and the small amount of wine normally used seldom makes any appreciable difference in the cost of a dish. Yet its subtleties of flavor and aroma so often spell the difference between something extra-special and "just another dish". Experts, particularly those on continental cuisine wherein wine plays an important role, maintain best results come from using cheaper wines, since the very delicate flavor and bouquet of really expensive wines often escape during cooking. Canadian vineyards produce quality wines that are excellent cooking adjuncts and at the same time inexpensive.

If you are a novice, there's no better way to begin your excursion into wine cookery than with fish. These two foods have a natural affinity for one another. Broiled Fillets Continental proves the point perfectly. Used as a basting liquid as well as the foundation for the sauce, white wine gives a pleasant piquancy to fish fillets and plays up their natural mild taste. Onion slices and stuffed olives have secondary seasoning roles.

Broiled Fillets Continental

1 Pound cod fillets, salt and pepper, juice of half a lemon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine (divided), 3 small onions (sliced thin), ⅓ cup dry white wine, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup sliced stuffed olives.

If frozen, let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf. Separate fillets; place on preheated buttered broiling pan. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice. Arrange onion slices over fish. Dot with 2 tablespoons of the butter. Place in broiler, about 3 inches from source of heat. Broil (basting frequently with wine) about 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Arrange fish and onion slices on a hot platter. Melt remaining tablespoon of butter in small saucepan. Blend in flour. Drain off liquid remaining in broiler pan; combine with milk and gradually blend into flour mixture. Cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Stir in olives. Pour sauce over fish. Serve immediately. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

A woman with black hair may use a black eyebrow pencil and eyeliner. But if she tinted her hair red, she would need a light brown makeup because the black would be too harsh.

One of the major makeup mistakes is the wrong application of eyebrow pencil, Mr. Hutchison said.

"The eyebrows are a continuation of the hair and so should blend with the hair." Therefore blondes, brunettes and red heads should use brown pencil, silver blondes and women with grey hair should use sable grey and black should be used by women with black hair.

Rouge Gives Youth

Rouges should always be blended upwards to give the impression of youth, Mr. Hutchison said. Also, mascara on the upper eyelashes gives an opened-eye look while mascara on the lower lashes tends to close the eye.

Gillis Paulin, a makeup artist from Montreal, says some people need two shades of eye shadow. Brown-eyed, brown-haired women, for example, should use both blue and grey.

Redhaired women should have a monopoly on green eye shadow, Mr. Paulin says.

Ollie Mark, fashion co-ordinator for Richard Hudnut in Toronto, says a woman's eyes are the most important feature of her makeup. "If the eyes are not made up, the whole face looks bland."

Miss Mark said, however, that the exaggerated and heavy eyes of two years ago are out of style.

Before the application of makeup, she recommends the use of a moisturizing lotion for smoother color blending. A makeup base should be chosen which is only slightly darker, in concentrated form, than the skin. When this is smoothed into the skin, it will blend and there should be no demarcation line between the face and neck.

10 Minutes or Less

Eyes should be made up in the following order — eyeshadow, eyeliner, mascara, eyebrow pencil. Lip tricks in warm parfait pastels help to achieve the natural look, says Miss Mark. "Older-looking, darker shades are out."

Lipstick should be applied with a brush to give the mouth a more definite line and shape. "And always shape the lips with a smile by extending the lipstick at the upper corners of the mouth."

All these directions suggest the job of applying makeup is time consuming. But Miss Mark says that with a little experience, a whole makeup job can be done in less than 10 minutes.

If you've been waiting for a bigger Volkswagen, it's here. The VW 1500 Station Wagon.

With all seats in position, it's a five passenger car.

Fold down the back seat and you get a cargo area of 42 cubic feet that will take 705 lbs. And there's more luggage space under the front hood. (Capacity: 125 lbs.)

One more convenience: this station wagon has no tailgate. The VW's rear door lifts up out of the way.

The engine is in the back to give better traction. And it's cooled with air instead of water to eliminate cooling system problems. The Volkswagen has no radiator to freeze in winter or boil in summer.

The cruising speed and the top speed of the VW 1500 are the same, 80 miles per hour, yet town and country gas consumption averages 33 miles per gallon.

Standard equipment on the VW 1500 Station Wagon includes bucket seats that adjust to 49 different positions; floor mounted gear shift; fully synchronized gear box; a clock; a side view mirror; windshield washers; padded dashboard and sun visors; three ash trays; four arm rests.
