Spectacular and costly blaze, East Ward

A Saturday morning fire at the Gatineau Power Company log storage yard on Paquin Avenue, resulted in damage estimated at between twelve to fifteen thousand dollars — according to Rod Carreau, district manager. A total of 281 creosote-treated poles were damaged beyond repair. Some 50 feet in length and valued in excess of $100 each, these were of red pine and western cedar; 10 regular poles were also consumed by the flames. The fire, which was burning for some time before the fire department was notified, was believed to have been started by children playing in the area. Several Bell Telephone cables, including the Cablevision hook-up, were damaged, and full service was not restored until late Saturday evening.

Over 2,000 visitors view new hospital

In a two-day "open house" inspection of the new Argenteuil Hospital building, last Friday and Saturday, over 2,200 persons visited the institution and were conducted through its various departments — from board-room and administrative offices, to laundry-room, kitchen and maintenance quarters.

The visitors were welcomed by the general director, Mr. Guy Allard, and members of the staff thus far in attendance, also by wives of the hospital executives. These ladies acted as guides on the conducted tours, which encompassed all sections of the hospital — wards, obstetrical and surgical rooms, nurseries, dispensary, diet kitchens, nurses' offices and residential quarters, etc.

Impressions of the visiting public indicated both surprise and pleasure, for the decor and appointments of this hospital are the most modern and efficient throughout.

The institution will be ready for opening on transfer of the furniture and equipment from the Providence Hospital — this being a temporary expedient, pending its replacement by new furnishings. Further details of the hospital will be published as the opening date draws near. . .

In the meantime, this preview to the public has given a highly gratifying impression — as partial compensation for the frustration and delay which has long obstructed the efforts of its original planners.

Appointment

Jacques Poitras, secretary-treasurer of Ayersville for over four years, will leave this position on Saturday, to fill an appointment as accountant at the new hospital.

Dr. Roger Lavigne medical director

Roger Lagarde, president of the administrative board, announced yesterday the appointment of Dr. Roger Lavigne, Lachute physician, as medical director — the appointment being on recommendation of the hospital's medical board. The necessary contract will be signed and Dr. Lavigne will assume his duties with the opening of the hospital.

Administration Board of new Argenteuil Hospital

Since their appointment to this role of community service, the board of the new Argenteuil Hospital have met regularly each week to tackle all the details in preparation for the hospital opening. Above are the members of the administrative body — left to right (front row) Bernard Gosselin, Donald M. Hay, treasurer, Dr. A. R. Côté, Roger Lagarde, QC, president, Ken W. McGibbon, vice-president, Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Notary Simon Valois, secretary. Standing — Guy Allard, general director of the hospital, Herb Graves, Armand Desrosiers, Ian K. First drowning this season, at St. Adolphe

Open water, recently freed of ice, claimed its first victim of the season last Monday afternoon in the person of Paul-Roch Racette, 21, of Lac Chantal, near St. Adolphe d'Howard.

According to investigating officers of the Q.P.P., the young man was on the lake in a rowboat, which was found empty around 2.45 p.m. The body was discovered a short time later, in some eight feet of water.

An inquest, presided over by Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, joint district coroner, indicated the death was accidental.

Rotary contacts with far-off lands produce Window-on-the-World display

The following description of a novel and interesting venture by Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club is written by Georges Desfossés, chairman of the local effort. The story complements a picture of the window display published in last week's Watchman.

I thought you might find it interesting to hear what is behind a "Window on the World". Believe me, it is most enlightening and I am proud to have taken a part in it.

The idea was born at the beginning of the Rotary year, as a challenge from our International President, Natish Lahary, to unite the world. Our directors accepted the idea and our first work was to try to obtain the silver dollars to send to the 50 clubs which were to be chosen. You may wonder, why the silver dollars? The idea was not to beg for a present, but to purchase from the chosen clubs an article, representative of their country, for the value of $2 which we were sending them. These articles are to be sold by auction at our annual dance, this year to be called an "International Dance", to be held at Lachute Golf Club this Saturday, May 4. The profits which we hope to make from this sale, will be used to further our community work.

Choosing the clubs in the 50 different countries was the work of a full evening as we tried to pick clubs with approximately the same membership as our own, namely 50 members.

On December 28 we dispatched over 50 letters to different parts of the world. Just to give you an idea of the distance covered, one of these letters did not reach its destination until March 5.

The first letter we received accepting our idea was from the Rotary Club of Houston, Texas, and the first parcel received was from the Rotary Club of Liège, Belgium, which was a magnificent piece of needlework from Bruges. We have received a total of 39 articles, and more are on the way.

Following are notes of interest on a few of the articles received:

At the Club of Taipai, Taiwan, China, our two Canadian dollars were sold by auction and brought that club 160 new Taiwan dollars, with which they purchased two small Chinese curios. One of these is the goddess of "Kwan Yin", goddess of Mercy, who despised the vanity of palace life and sought after the everlasting truth for the purpose of saving all human beings from torment. For this she became a revered idol of all Buddhists. The other curio is the god of "Nih Té Fo", known as an optimist. His good deeds were respected by the Chinese people.

From the Club of Chuquicamata, Chile, and the Club of Santa Ana, El Salvador, we received an answer in Spanish and had to have the letter translated! The same thing happened to a German letter from the club of Baden-Baden.

The exquisite copper plate sent from the Chuquicamata Club was brought from Chile to Panama by a Rotarian travelling to Europe. There it was given to another Rotarian going to the United States, who in turn mailed the parcel to us from neighboring New York State.

From the Club of Stoke-on-Trent, England, came five lovely items chosen by Rotarian Tittensor, director of the Washington Pottery, namely — one tray of Royal Crown Derby china, one tray of Aynsley bone china, one tray of Royal Worcester, one tray and cigarette holder, and one small Doulton character jug called "The Blacksmith".

We were unfortunate in receiving the parcel from the Club of Hanyang, Seoul, Korea, as a very beautiful bowl with cover had been sent, but the bowl was found broken on arrival. The cover has been saved and made into a wall plaque, which would look lovely in either a kitchen or dining-room.

From the Club of Cardiff, Wales, came a beautiful doll in typical Welsh dress and a Red Dragon, the emblem of Wales. These two articles were made at the Cae'r Castill County Secondary Modern School, Cardiff. The red flannel used in making part of the doll's dress is known to be at least 100 years old.

We received a model car from the Club of Geneva, New York. This parcel, which was insured for $10, caused some trouble at the customs office. We hope someone will give us a bid that will at least cover the insurance!

All the other articles (which are on display in the window of Cliff Cunningham's store) are just as interesting as the ones mentioned above. Make sure you see them, and we hope to see you at our International dance on May 4, when we will be auctioning "Our Window on the World."

International Committee

Richelieu pool season tickets

An innovation by the Richelieu Club this year will be a door-to-door call for the distribution of season's swimming-pool passes. Mr. Fernando Lamarche has undertaken this personal sale, and will commence on May 15. . . Any resident or family not called upon, however, may procure season tickets from members of the club or by telephoning Mr. Lamarche.

License tests

The provincial driver tests will be held here, for issuance of new licenses, on Thursday, May 30. The mobile bureau and staff will be stationed all day at the Court House, Grace Street, on that date.

Collision at town intersection

An accident last Friday evening resulted in the arrest of a local man, René Tessier, of 216 Main Street, on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired. The charge was laid by Lachute Cst. J. M. Beauregard following a crash at the intersection of Sydney and Elizabeth Streets, when Mr. Tessier reportedly failed to halt at the stop-sign, smashing into a 1963-model car owned and driven by Chas. L. Duncan, a Bedard Blvd. resident.

Mr. Duncan's car was forced over the sidewalk into the corner of a house, where it caught fire close to several propane gas cylinders. Residents of the area pushed the burning vehicle away from the house to avert igniting of the gas tanks.

Neither party was seriously injured in the mishap, which resulted in both vehicles being a total loss.

Mayor answers Home-School petition on crossing safety

In their continuing effort to promote the safety and welfare of our children, the Traffic Safety Committee of Lachute and District Home and School Association sent a letter to the Mayor and Council of Lachute regarding conditions for safety of school children at the dangerous crossing at Barron's Bridge.

The Safety Committee (which includes J. F. Gorman, chairman, H. Booth, and P. B. Aitken) asked in their letter if the Lachute Council would consider controlled lights at this spot. Also, since the increased speed of cars and trucks down Main Street is quite evident, it was hoped that the local police would enforce stricter control.

In his reply to the recommendations contained in the letter, Mayor Campbell stated that it is not feasible to have traffic lights at Barron's Bridge, but did recommend that parents and teachers stress to their children the importance of crossing Main Street, not at Barron's Bridge, but at the Harriett and Main Street intersection. There has been police protection at this crossing at noon in the past, and Mayor Campbell said there should be a policeman there for the noon-hour each day, so that protection can be given at this crossing.

Motorist fined, driving in path of fire truck

Patrick Renaud, a Filion Street resident, recently appeared before J. Henri St-Onge, Justice of the Peace, and was sentenced to a fine of $20 plus costs, when found guilty of hampering efforts of emergency vehicles while on the way to a fire.

According to Police Chief J. L. Hebert, the accused was closely following one of the fire trucks, then passed the truck on a corner, cutting in between the two fire vehicles and causing one of them to swerve onto the sidewalk to avoid an accident.

Commenting on this incident, Chief Hebert pointed out the by-law states definitely that vehicles must remain 300 feet behind any emergency vehicle. Recent incidents had called for strict enforcement of this regulation, according to the Chief.

The general co-operation of the public is requested by both the police and fire departments, so that further incidents may be avoided.

Afternoon hours for hospital visit next Sunday

At the request of a number of residents — notably merchants and business people who could not take advantage of the visiting hours last week — the doors of the Argenteuil Hospital will be open to guests next Sunday, May 5, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The director and board extend an invitation to all interested in viewing the hospital before its official opening. (Children under 12 will not be admitted on this occasion.)

Jersey breeder wins high award

Dr. G. R. McCall, of North River Farm, has been awarded the Constructive Breeder Award for high average production and type classification in his herd, also for having maintained a high status of herd health during the qualifying period.

In qualifying for this coveted honor the 18 tested cows in Dr. McCall's herd have an average of 9,907 lbs. of milk, 5.47%, and 542 lbs. of fat; 24 cows classified in the herd average 86.46%.

The two Jersey sires that contributed to the winning of this honor, are "North River Standard Beacon", qualified as a Senior Superior Silver Medal sire, and "Brampton Echo Acme", a Superior sire. The former, ranking Excellent, has the rating on 12 daughters of 9,437 lbs. of milk, 5.63%, 531 lbs. of fat, with 13 classified daughters that average 85.96%.

Pair questioned in robbery case

Two district men were questioned by Cpl. Maurice Dinelle and Q.P.P. officers, and later released, following investigation into the recent robbery at the Cottingham home. The incident and suspects are still under investigation.

Early canvass for paper salvage

A waste paper collection will be held by Lachute Boy Scouts within the next two weeks. Owing to accommodation available to the purchasers in Montreal, it is not possible to definitely announce the date at this time. However, this will be published next week, and householders and business firms are asked to watch for the announcement.

"The Scene" IN BROWNSBURG

(Our District Correspondent)

— The cats are coming close to home. Chief Tom Williams was called to end the life of a lynx with his service revolver last Friday night, after the animal was hit and injured by a car, on the road near the home of K. C. Ball. The big cat, a female, stood nearly two feet high. Parents in the area are now wary of allowing their children to play near the bush.

— Whether one set his clock ahead or not on Saturday evening, made little difference in Brownsburg. The power was off again in the community, for some two hours. The failure was caused by the breaking of a high-voltage line on Main Street just east of the bridge. One portion of the town was blacked out while the line, lying across some shrubbery in front of the home of W. G. Richardson, continued to arc and start numerous miniature fires in the grass. The Gatineau trouble crew arrived and shut down the power to the entire town, in order to make repairs to the broken line.

— The surface of the road on Wobdbine South is in such poor condition that a member of the Town Council was heard to complain about it. Apparently the complaint did not reach the ears of those responsible for ordering improvements. On the other hand, maybe it did.

— Local elections. Two seats will be up for grabs when the municipal election is held on May 13. Nominations will take place from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday, May 8. G. V. Vowles has stated that he will seek re-election, while long-time councillor Ernest Legault has decided to call it quits.

Modernized B of M premises visited by public, friends

The Bank of Montreal played host to well over 600 visitors last Saturday afternoon, when customers and friends were invited by Donald M. Hay, manager, to inspect the enlarged and modernized premises, and the new, ultra-modern installations.

Officers of the bank from Montreal were present for the occasion. Mr. Hay, his wife and members of the bank staff, graciously welcomed the guests. The decor of the interior, the long drapes and floral decorations in harmony, presented a bright and attractive scene, and the visitors expressed favorable comments. A number of oil paintings, by courtesy of Don Titman, decorated the walls. Refreshments were served downstairs in the staff quarters, with the ladies of the Presbyterian Church as caterers.

Ayersv'l Squadron marks Air Cadet Week

Air Cadet Squadron 648 (Ayersville) held a father-and-son banquet to observe Air Cadet Week. Gaetan Desrosiers, chairman of the civilian committee, welcomed the boys and guests, and F/O P.-E. Barbeau spoke on the aims and objects of the Air Cadet movement.

The Ayersville squadron, stated Mr. Barbeau, is sponsored by the St. Jean Baptiste Society Lachute-Ayersville branch. Qualities of good citizenship and discipline are instilled in the young members. The prime object is not to produce a number of airmen — if they take up a flying career, so much the better, for the occupation offers great opportunities — but the first objective is to develop youths with a sense of honor and dependability, discipline, and respect for duties undertaken.

Mr. Barbeau stressed also that the civilian committee works voluntarily for the welfare of the squadron. He thanked them for their interest, also the instructors, both military and civilian.

A church parade for Sunday morning mass at the Immaculate Conception church in Ayersville was another observance for Air Cadet Week. There will also be the annual review of the squadron, May 15 at the Clement School, to which all parents and friends are invited.

By BOB ATCHISON

A few hardy souls braved the weather and cold on the opening of the trout season. But with the high water levels, the fish were not very co-operative. Nothing very startling happened for a couple of days, then the stories started coming in. With the big Grey taken last week (this one I saw) it has sparked the boys to enthusiasm, and right now the fishing is terrific — Reds and Greys being taken by almost everyone trying their hand at it. I saw one catch of Reds, 11 in all, and another catch of five. The Greys are also being taken easily. Most of you know the lakes have just started to break up (April 25) yet these fish are being caught right close to shore, and in all cases except one, they were caught with spinning-lures. The exception was worms; believe this or not but a 2 pounder was shown to me that had gobbled up a mess of Garden Hackles. One spot mentioned often is Silver Lake, but Half Moon seems to be holding its own too. Get going, boys! There has been some trolling on the North River; with what luck I do not know. However, a couple of boats ventured into Lake Filion, and the catch of perch was very rewarding. . . Altogether, with the fishing starting out so well, this early, it could be that we will have a good season. I think we deserve it, too.

Ducks can be seen all over; the river has become a regular St. Catherine Street for them. In a field with a small pond in it, ducks may be seen floating around. Sights like this gladden the sportsman's heart. The only regret is that, when the water and moisture drains away, so do the ducks. A few bitterns are around too, so it won't be too long before the herons show up. A lesson in patience may be learned from these birds, believe me. They seem to disappear without any movement whatever; you strain your eyes to see where they have gone, only to find they have never moved. They have been endowed by Nature with a camouflage beyond compare, blending so well into the countryside. — They seem to know you are watching them, so they put on a real disappearing act.

Large flocks of starlings can be seen free-wheeling across the sky at night, searching for a roost. The redwings are as noisy as ever, and every little bit of twig, string, etc., must be gathered in for the nesting that is going on. It won't be too long before we can admire their handiwork.

More geese can be seen passing over, but not in the quantities of last year. Some of the reports from the wintering grounds down south do not paint a very bright picture. Flocks are much smaller than in previous years. It looks as though our national bird may eventually be shot out of the air. Just like the passenger pigeon of generations ago.

Last spring we had a couple of otters around. This year a ground hog has taken over the last home of these otters, and it seems to be doing well. I watched one of the farmers walking over towards this little home. We often wonder how animals let each other know when danger threatens; this man was heading over towards the ground hog, and there were two birds flying along with him. I suspect they were spying, and when they figured he was close enough a couple of calls floated on the air, and away went Mr. or Mrs. Hog! Never have I seen such co-operation as this.

No skunks have been seen; this is surprising, as during the winter I thought we would be overrun with them. Possibly the rabies has taken care of the weak ones. With the lack of the skunks there is also a lack of voles, moles, field mice, etc. There seems no reason for their disappearance. They say Nature has a way of getting rid of them periodically, but we do not stop to consider just how this occurs.

The shooting team representing Canada at Sao Paulo, Brazil, for the Pan American Games, is really tops. A 12-man group, only two of whom lack any previous international competition. All these men are experts in their respective classes, and they should make a good showing. I know not too many people know of these shooters — purely through lack of publicity. It always seems to me that we Canadians underrate ourselves. If this group had been in the States, there would have been so much publicity we would ALL know about them. I do know the U.S. team were classed as the best in the world by various news media; this has to be proved, but nevertheless they are classed that way.

I am very pleased at the number of fishermen who have come down for fly lessons. Most of them seem to have been apprehensive about the cost. People seem to think this sport requires a lot of money. The only reason this impression has flourished is because the self-styled elite of the fraternity want to keep it a closed club. Fly fishing is as reasonable as you may wish to make it, also as expensive; so it is up to you just what you want. This "class club" may have been true many years ago, but not any more. The old idea of having a "gillie" carry your outfits, is gone — thank goodness.

A cow moose has been reported on the Lakefield road, just north of Lake Sir John. My informant believed the animal was about to become a mother. This is good news, believe me. They have been seen in Laurel, Lake Louisa and Dunany, so it sounds as though they have wintered well. May they continue to thrive in this County.

I also had a transport driver stop in to tell me of an animal he had seen on the Route 8 near Canadian Refractories. He could not positively identify it, but he did see a very long tail; as it was turning dusk he wasn't too sure of the color either. . . This may have been one of the elusive panthers we had not heard of for so many months; they are the only species on this continent with such a long tail.

Most sportsmen know that the use of high-powered rifles is long past with the closing of the hunting seasons. However, rifle reports can be heard often. Even on Sunday as I was returning from Dunany, I saw two men on the road with rifles, and they were not .22s. I imagine they were headed into the Blueberry Marsh — difficult of access but unfrequented by Wardens. The sale of wild game is prohibited in stores and hotels, but truly, this law is so laughable that it only helps the money-hunters in their business. What can be bought and eaten in these establishments has never really been of interest to the government. The laws are on the books, but are not enforced.

One last word. Some members of both our fishing clubs are interested in meeting owners and lessees of posted lands. In most cases they have agreed there is too much poaching and illegal fishing, also undue damage to properties. . . This move is all to the good; when people can agree on a few cardinal facts, then it is not too hard to reach an agreement between other parties. This is an idea that should be carried much further.

How to remove clover from lawns

The subject of clover in lawns can spark mixed reactions.

Some homeowners like it because the foliage holds its color during dry, warm weather.

But others, like researcher R. M. Adamson, of the federal experimental farm at Saanichton, B.C., think clover has no place in really fine lawns.

For those sharing his opinion, Mr. Adamson suggests using either 2-MCPP (Mecoprop) or silvex to eliminate white clover. Both proved superior to the previously recommended 2,4,5-T in lawn and greenhouse tests at Saanichton.

The superiority of the two herbicides was demonstrated impressively in the greenhouse tests. About 14 weeks after spraying with either one, the weight of clover foliage was only one-fourteenth that of clover sprayed with 2,4,5-T. Equivalent rates were used in all applications.

Mr. Adamson adds that lawn tests confirmed the effectiveness of the two herbicides.

Both 2-MCPP and silvex are readily available as sprays under a variety of trade names. Spraying should be carried out in the spring when growth is active and at a rate of two-fifths of an ounce of active ingredient per 1,000 square feet or one pound per acre, Mr. Adamson explains.

As with other hormone-type herbicides, care must be taken to prevent spray drifting onto plants.

For those who don't mind clover but have an aversion to dandelions, plantains and similar lawn weeds, the researcher recommends using either 2,4-D or MCPA.

Curling club at Ste. Agathe next fall

Curling in the Laurentian area will receive an important boost next fall with the opening of four sheets at the Ste. Agathe Curling Club.

Now in advanced organizational stages, the club expects to commence construction shortly on a site adjoining the Manor House. Ice will be installed in ample time for next season's play, starting about mid-October.

Although plans have not been finalized, the club is seeking experienced instructors to work with the new curlers who will be playing in the "roarin' game" for the first time.

The Ste. Agathe Curling Club will apply for membership in the Canadian Branch, Royal Caledonia Curling Club, making its members eligible to compete in the recognized bonspiels sponsored by the Branch.

If you can lift a finger you can start the new Lawn-Boy

Exclusive Finger-Tip Start Reduces Starting Effort 94%

The 1963 Lawn-Boy is as easy to start as drawing a window blind. Lawn-Boy engineers have designed a new ignition system and geared starter that reduces starting effort an incredible 94%. Finger-Tip start is just one of many ways the new Lawn-Boy gives you your money's worth—here are some others:

Lightweight. Lawn-Boy is easier to push than conventional steel power mowers because Lawn-Boy is made of magnesium, a metal lighter than steel. It is unusually tough and is rust-proof.

Unique Grasscatcher. Lawn-Boy's Chute & Bag Grasscatcher vacuum cleans your lawn as you cut, eliminates raking. It's clog-proof; holds a bushelful; detaches and empties in seconds.

2-speed Mowing. Lawn-Boy has 2-speed throttle control. High speed for tough cutting, low speed for quieter, more economical normal cutting.

New "D" Engine. Lawn-Boy's new engine has 3 horsepower (working horsepower, not bench-rated horsepower). It will even cut through wet grass without stalling.

2-Year Warranty. 24 months against defective parts and workmanship.

Let your Lawn-Boy Dealer show you the new Lawn-Boy soon, see for yourself why it's Canada's best-selling power mower. 5 models to choose from.

World's longest trials – passed through Lachute

Juliette Legare of Montreal (right) and Jean Steagall of Merchantville, N.J., stop to change the tire of their Lark in the Shell "4000" Car Rally. They were members of six Studebaker Larkettes who were driving in the world's longest car rally. They passed through Lachute last Friday on their last lap, Mont Laurier to Montreal, where the six-day Vancouver to Montreal event ended that evening. Clinton McGill's Shell Service Station on Main Street was the checking point for Lachute.

Variety fare in recent topics at Rotary Club

During the past three weeks, the three guest speakers at Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club give a fair appreciation of the great variety of topics and speakers heard throughout the year at the regular meetings of this club, and of the 11,452 Rotary Clubs throughout the world in 129 lands.

At the April 11 meeting, for instance, the guest speaker was the Rev. Wesley Ball of Morin Heights, whose topic, "Christianity, Revival or Decline," was based mainly on an article which appeared in Maclean's Magazine on a very interesting and controversial subject. Stewart Jones introduced the Rev. Mr. Ball, and Dr. Reg Rigby expressed thanks on behalf of the club.

At the April 18 meeting Don Hart, employed by the C.R.L. at Kilmar as Mine Superintendent, gave the club an informative talk on mine safety and rescue operations carried out in the event of a disaster. Don had with him Bill Carriere, who is captain of the mine safety rescue team. The latter demonstrated some of the safety equipment used in most mines throughout the country. The speakers were introduced by Wes Freeland and thanked by Ron Barnett.

At last week's meeting, Rotarian Vic Barre introduced Jim Hayman, assistant comptroller at Dominion Ayers Ltd., who spoke about stocks and bonds. The speaker had with him copies of a financial page, which was passed around to those present, and he explained how to decipher the figures and abbreviations which appear on a financial paper. Gord Miner expressed thanks of the club for this interesting topic.

MAKE ODD FRIENDS

Guelph, Ont. (CP) — An unusual friendship has developed between a Hereford heifer and a Virginia white-tail doe, at the Ontario Agricultural College here. But it has a strictly clinical interest for college researchers, trying to determine what diseases wildlife have in common with domestic animals. Meantime the nine-month-old animals live happily together.

Centre d'Art young actors appeared on TV

A dozen young dramatics pupils at the Centre d'Art appeared successfully on television Channel 2 recently in their performance of three fairy tales, "La Boîte à Surprises".

The idea for this program originated with Mme Armande Lebrun-Laforest, directress of the Centre, and it was produced by Mme Françoise Nicot, who prepared the scenario and staged the three acts.

Two of the playlets were seen here, presented by the same cast, in a Centre d'Art program last spring. The other fable was "The Hare and the Tortoise", an old favorite, which the children perfected and added to their repertoire.

The coaching and rehearsing for this 10-minute program took no less than 50 hours, and the result was a credit both to the Centre d'Art and the young actors, in a very well co-ordinated and finished performance.

Those taking part were — Pierre Lafrance, Michel Scarborough, Marie Papineau, Louise Dumais, Nicole Massicotte, Micheline Scarborough, Catherine Trickey, Johanne Desrosiers, Nicole Dupré, Marie Laframboise, Claudine Nadon and Guylaine Vachon.

Catholic Scouts to be inaugurated here Saturday

A Catholic Scout Troop will be inaugurated here this week-end. The initial procedure will be the swearing-in of five boys Saturday evening at the St. Julien Church. The five key members have learned the elements of Scouting under guidance of two Lachute youths active in the movement at Rigaud College — Bob Cousineau and Alain Nadon. They have completed the troop organization under Léon Cauchon as Scoutmaster, and with the sponsorship of a civil committee, "Les Amis des Scouts".

This latter group, under chairmanship of Dr. Bernard Massicotte, and parents of the boys, will witness the initiation ceremonies Saturday evening, in which the new members will take the Scout pledge. The St. Julien Church basement will be their headquarters. There are presently around 12 members, and a similar enrolment will be held in the summer for new enlistments.

Mental Health Week stresses community aspect of problem

National Mental Health Week is being observed from coast to coast from April 28 to May 4. Its purpose is to focus public attention on Mental Health and by the same token on Mental Illness.

In our province it is sponsored by the Quebec Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association, and its basic theme is Community Action for Mental Health.

Action by the community is the lifeblood of progress, and provides the ammunition for the solving of problems. Mental Health and the fight against mental illness is not only a medical situation but is very definitely a community matter.

The first Quebec Conference on Action for Mental Health was held recently in Montreal; about 800 delegates from over 80 cities in Quebec met and discussed the problems involved.

The conference made clear that any effective action depends on collaboration and co-operation at all levels. Mgr. Irénée Lussier, rector of the University of Montreal, pointed out that mental illness is spawned by the community in which we live and by the way of life we have developed. "It is not," he said, "the product of a germ or an infection, but is a result of our current struggle for life". The individual and the community are directly involved in the "cause and effect" of mental illness and must work with the medical profession and government in overcoming the problem.

"Today to separate the mental patient and the community as two different entities has no longer any meaning" said Mr. Paul-Marcel Gélinas, General Director of the Quebec Division of the C.M.H.A. "Psychiatric facilities must be near the patient's home.

The patient must never feel isolated from his environment, and this is the community's responsibility. Loss of contact by the patient with his community can seriously hamper his recovery and rehabilitation".

Community action and community acceptance is thus a very real necessity.

Quebec has made important strides in this direction but should this trend stop, the province will find, years from now, that it will have this wasted time to recapture in order to be on the same level as the other provinces of Canada.

Mental Health Week is one form of reminding everyone that the community must continue to expand Action for Mental Health.

Cancer crusade — a correction

Attention is drawn to an error in publicity given last week to the Cancer Crusade — notably to the district canvass and chairmen in charge. . . The name of Mrs. L. T. Porter was given as chairman for St. Andrews East; this should have been Mrs. G. Pat Porter, who had kindly assumed charge of the collection in St. Andrews district.

It is stated by the joint-chairman, Jim Campbell, that returns are coming in favorably from the outlying districts, and it is hoped to have an overall tabulation of the results within a short time.

Animal Care

WATCHING KITTENS GROW UP

Many mothers learn they are going to have a cat in the family when one of the small fry comes in through the door clutching a miaowing kitten. Once inside the house, the kitten makes himself quite at home!

A kitten is a charming playmate for children of any age. When he grows up he becomes more sedate, often attaching himself to one member of the family.

Kittens should not be taken from their mothers until they are at least six weeks old. If they become motherless before this age, consult a veterinary surgeon about feeding and routine.

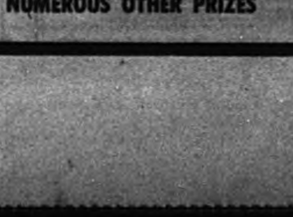

For a kitten or a cat, always keep a clean bowl of water around. Contrary to general belief, many cats do not like milk and may never drink it.

At six weeks the kitten should be fed frequently — as often as six times a day. The main diet is minced raw beef and a mixture of milk and eggs. Serve the food at room temperature. If the kitten tries to eat it as soon as it comes out of the refrigerator he will be sick.

When your kitten reaches three months, reduce the number of meals to four a day but increase the quantities.

A tribute to the springtime, especially to the month of May, will be attractively depicted in a Maypole and the Queen of May.

The Rev. L. Price, of Belleville

Guest speaker for Pentecostal anniversary

The Rev. L. Price, pastor of Calvary Temple, Belleville, Ont., will be special speaker at the anniversary services of the Brownsburg Pentecostal Church this week-end.

The Rev. Dr. Price and his co-worker went to Belleville a few years ago and commenced services in a home. Today, a modern beautiful sanctuary with seating capacity of over 900, bears tribute to God's blessing upon their efforts.

As a very young man, the Rev. Price was involved in a motor accident which left him crippled and forced him to wear steel braces on his legs. But in answer to believing prayer, God miraculously healed him.

The Rev. Dr. Price is a dynamic preacher of the Full Gospel message, and has spoken in many churches and camp-meetings across the United States and Canada.

The pastor and congregation of Brownsburg Pentecostal Church welcome this speaker to their pulpit, for their anniversary services this week-end. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Witnesses held district assembly last week-end

The French-speaking Jehovah's Witnesses of Montreal North and surroundings, with those of Hull, Buckingham and St. Jerome, joined with Lachute for one of the biggest assemblies held in this vicinity. According to Mr. Blair Shearer, local spokesman for the Witnesses at Lachute, who headed the local delegates to their semi-annual circuit assembly at Fabreville this past week-end, this was "a most upbuilding gathering."

"The assembly theme was 'The Right Kind of Ministers'," said Mr. Shearer, "and many practical demonstrations were given showing how everyone, young and old, can apply Bible principles in their daily lives. Following Bible principles was shown to be an important factor in the lives of the right kind of ministers.

"However, the highlight of the convention," said Mr. Shearer, "was the public meeting on Sunday. Mr. Saumur, district supervisor for the 76 congregations in Quebec, delivered the timely address, 'Who will Win the Struggle for World Supremacy'. Mr. Saumur said, 'A new world that is dominated by a righteous government will be the lot and the prospects awaiting the survivors of the struggle for world supremacy."

"With reassurance, Mr. Saumur added, 'A righteous world is at hand; the Great Supreme one of the universe has promised it. Everlasting life then, and that in a paradise earth, is the prospect awaiting all the survivors of this great struggle'."

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Do you hope in a Resurrection?

Jesus said: "All those in the memorial tombs will . . . come out."

When will those in the memorial tombs come forth? And where will they come? Why, when God has provided for a resurrection, does he allow men to die at all? If God made men to die, why is death called the "wages sin pays"? Why was Adam created, and why did God plant the garden of Eden and tell Adam: "Be fruitful and become many and fill the earth and subdue it"? Will this divine commission ever be fully completed? For the authoritative answers to these and many other questions read:

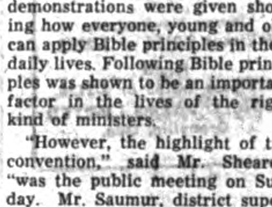

"FROM PARADISE LOST TO PARADISE REGAINED"

Price 75 cents. (Bible Study booklet included during May.)

This beautifully illustrated book is hard bound in a gold-titled embossed cover of coral color. Its 256 pages are as easy to read as its message is to understand. It is written for young and old alike and cites God's Word, the Bible, as sole authority for the hope it holds out to all persons of good will.

Tribute to a loyal friend, from Argenteuil Women's Institutes

(Contributed by Ethel M. McGibbon)

A name, John S. Giles, that long had top priority on our County Women's Institutes guest-of-honor list at our annual meeting, this year will be sadly missed due to his death; but his memory shall linger long with the many who knew him.

Maybe it was through his wife, who was a charter member of Lachute W.I. Branch and one of the key figures in starting their library, that got him interested in our work, but I know that he realized that the name "Women's Institute" was synonymous with progress. He always found space in his paper to keep us posted on Provincial, County and local matters pertaining to our organization.

A few of the pleasant memories of the late Mr. Giles that come to my mind are:

His singing at different churches "No Night There".

Organizing Sunday School picnics.

His speech of approval when our County W.I. decided to start a fund for a Home for Senior Citizens; and his was the first donation towards this project.

His changing an unsightly bog on (then) Foundry Street, into a beautiful rose garden.

I think it could be truly said of his life that he always "plucked a thistle and planted a flower" where he thought a flower would grow.

Some years ago Mr. Giles presented me with a book of his, "Leaves of Gold", and said that I could make better use of it than he. As I read the verse and prose, I noticed two marked with an "X". I'm sure all our County W.I. members will feel, as I do, that these selections mirror his life:

Inexhaustible

Someone describes packing his bag for a journey. Just before closing it, he observes a small corner not yet filled.

He says, "Into this little corner I put a guide-book, a lamp, a mirror, a microscope, a telescope, a volume of choice poems, several well written biographies, a package of old letters, a book of songs, a sharp sword and a small library of more than sixty volumes; yet, strange enough to say, all these did not occupy a space of more than three inches long by two inches wide."

"But how could you do it?"

"Well, it was all in the packing; I put in my Bible."

Building

An old man travelling a lone highway,
Came at the evening cold and grey,
To a chasm vast and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
For the sullen stream held no fear for him,
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You're wasting your time in building here,
Your journey will end with the closing day;
You never again will pass this way.
You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at eventide?"

The builder lifted his old grey head:
"Good friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way;
This stream which has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may pitfall be.
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I am building that bridge for him."

The Bible Today

We would like to think that $87,000 worth of Bibles would make quite a good-sized load. Piled on top of each other they might reach to quite a height.

This amount of money represents the increase in contributions during 1962, sent by the Canadian Bible Society to The British and Foreign Bible Society, in London, England, for the world-wide task of translating, publishing and distributing the Scriptures. There are now 1,200 languages into which at least one whole book of the Bible is published.

When distributing in most of the world the cost of the Scriptures is largely borne by the Society. On an average it works out that the Society bears almost two-thirds of the total cost. In many languages the whole Bible can be produced for about $3.00. This means it costs the Society about $2.00 for each Bible distributed.

$87,000 worth of Bibles would reach a height of about 240 feet, with the books piled on top of each other. This same amount would only cover an area of about 1,000 square feet, or a lot approximately 50' x 20'.

FACT

Canadians spent an estimated $610 million on foreign travel in 1962, while visitors spent $560 million in Canada.

Choral group judged best in Mont'l festival

Last week the choir of Westmount Park United Church, under leadership of Mr. Wayne Riddell, were adjudicated as the best choir in the recent Montreal Musical Festival.

Incidentally, this is the choir which will be giving a recital in Lachute United Church on May 26.

Westmount Park United Church won the following awards in the recent competitions:

(1) Open Class Choir (trophy) competition (defeating Erskine American choir and also St. Matthias choir).

(2) Bach Choir Trophy awarded to best adult choir in the Festival.

(3) $150 Prize money, also qualifying to enter finalist gala Festival Concert this Saturday, May 4.

The highest grade received in any category in this year's festival was 95, given by adjudicator Sydney Bryans to the Tudor Singers for their performance of Elizabethan madrigals. — This group is also directed by Wayne Riddell.

The festival will come to an official close next Saturday evening when the scholarship and trophy winners will present a grand concert in the auditorium of Westmount High School, beginning at 8.30.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

The eggheads and the heroes

NO DOUBT some wishful thinking can be expected at a school trustees' convention, as anywhere else. At least, it seemed like that when the call went out to de-emphasize school sports heroes and boost the earnest student into the limelight.

Largest of the spring educational conventions was at Toronto, where one section — the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association — heard a plea that sports heroes be downgraded, and "eggheads" be promoted into their place as part of a program to improve scholarship.

The Rev. J. M. Kelly, president of St. Michael's College, said the attitude of parents and young students towards education must be changed, because survival in the modern world depends on it. Father Kelly said bright students should not have to hide their light under a bushel to be accepted. "There should be insistence that Aristotle, Einstein, Shakespeare and Dante are the great men of history — not Jackie Parker, Yogi Berra and the Pocket Rocket."

Athletics and scholarship are not necessarily incompatible. Many a fine student is a good athlete, and vice versa. But there are also cases where a high school boy becomes so prominent for his football or hockey prowess that his school marks are forgotten — by himself and others.

A boy in fact might be lured by cash offers into attending a professional football or hockey training camp before he's obtained his matriculation — and thereafter the matriculation might be out of reach until his athletic ability wanes and he's up against the problem of making a living in a tough world.

For every youngster who makes a success in professional sport there must be dozens who have fallen between the two stools — education and a sports career.

The way things are, secondary school students are more prone to follow the doings of their sports heroes than of their academic superiors. . . After all, their parents are perhaps more interested in the Stanley Cup or the baseball season than in the progress of the arts or the struggles in the cold war!

It's a long, long way from Dante to Gordie Howe.

Spoiling the waters

THE HOUSEWIFE who plunges her dishes into a mountain of detergent suds may not realize it but she's contributing to a growing problem — that is, she may not realize unless she is a reader of Bob Atchison's "Argenteuil Outdoors" column.

The problem is water pollution, and it starts when the wash-water goes down the drain. For, unlike ordinary soap, the suds from synthetic detergents don't disappear in water. The result is that many rivers and even some lakes around Canadian cities are becoming clogged with this detergent foam.

Since Canada has more than half of all the world's fresh water within its borders, it's not likely we'll run out of pure drinking water.

But in the United States and in other countries where there isn't as much fresh water to begin with, the problem is regarded as increasingly serious.

For example, President Kennedy has warned that serious water shortages may face large areas of his country unless something is done about detergent pollution.

Any suggestion that detergents be banned, is obviously impractical. They have become tremendously popular and the demand arises because of their efficiency as cleaners.

A lot of money is being spent in the search for a quick and inexpensive way to disperse the suds that accumulate in waste water. Until recently the search had been in vain, but now a South African professor may have the answer.

Prof. Felix Sebba explains that when he tackled the problem he paid special attention to the fact that each particle of detergent foam carries an electrical charge, usually negative. If you add foam with the same charge, you just wind up with more foam. But if you use foam with the opposite electrical charge, the whole sudsy mass breaks down immediately, he says. The professor calls his process "contrafoam" and says it doesn't cost much. — We hope it works, because we prefer our water clear.

Election tours — protracted gallivanting

LET'S HOPE the politicians get around to ending forever these dreadful and debauching things called election campaign tours — comments The Financial Post in an editorial. Our electioneering processes are solidly based in Canadian history but they are totally irrelevant to current realities. The "speaking tour" made sense a century ago when a lot of the population couldn't read. But then came universal literacy, the saturation of the country with newspapers, then with radio and now with television.

What does the "tour" now accomplish? Nothing good and considerable bad. It places a savage physical strain on the party leaders. Human beings should not be subjected to such torturing schedules. The incessant demand for speeches seldom helps clarify issues. It usually helps obfuscate issues; to create issues where there were no issues. It invites promises for purely local handouts when the task of national leaders should be rather to serve the national interest. Just as some people enjoy dogfights and bar-room brawls, so some people doubtless enjoy the political rally in the hope that the hecklers will be well paid or nutty and therefore vociferous, or that their vocal chords have been much lubricated with alcohol.

But why should our governors, who are entrusted with the survival and vitality of democracy, be asked to pander to such tastes? As with any other thing in Canada, the "election tour" needs thorough review. We would be better off without it. These protracted gallivantings are totally out of date.

Wildlife and the Canadian economy

FISH AND GAME officials from the federal government and all provinces met recently to discuss migratory bird regulations and water pollution. They considered introducing duck hunting licenses.

The officials studied the threat to salt water fish from waste oil, and the threat to wildlife and fresh water fish from insect and weed sprays.

A significant point in this wildlife conference was a report on the first scientific attempt to put a money value on outdoor sports in Canada. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that fishermen and hunters spent about $275,000,000 in 1961. . . This is a fact to indisputably justify all earnest study, organization and research — yes, and rigorous law enforcement — for the conservation of Canada's wildlife.

Viewpoints and perspectives

MORE adults and children are involved in accidents at home than anywhere else. In fact, for children of one to 14 years of age, four out of every 10 fatal accidents happen right in their own homes.

Of Many Things

A TIME TO ACT BIG

The next few years will be a testing time for the Progressive Conservative Party. Many of them feel they were done wrong by in the last parliament, that the Liberals played politics and did everything possible to obstruct the business of the nation. Now that the Liberals hold power with a minority group, it may be tempting to "give them some of their own medicine" as one person put it.

That would be the biggest mistake ever made. The people of Canada are sick of politics. They want to see parliament settle down to the business at hand. The vast majority of voters are not partisan in the sense of loyalty to this party or that one, regardless of how they act. Most of us have varied our voting according to the issues of the day. We aren't seeking revenge or revelling in triumph. All we expect of government is that it govern in a commonsense manner.

If the Progressive Conservatives are wise, they will co-operate with the Liberal government with the utmost goodwill. Mr. Diefenbaker, after the votes were counted, said he hoped there would be no recriminations or bitterness on either side. That's the way the people want it to be. It is quite possible that this country can survive no matter what policies the government sets, and regardless of which party is in power. We are a pretty hardy people. We cannot, however, afford the luxury or the boredom of one election after another.

For all parties, but particularly the Conservatives with the second largest group of members, it is a time to act big. If they do, they will win the respect of everyone, and have a good chance to regain power in due course.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

EDISON WAS CLEVER TOO!

I am an inventor. Three times since the 1920's I have invented something. The first article had already been invented 12 years previously, but I didn't know that. . . The second one I thought out theoretically, but didn't even get around to making up a model. About a year later it came on the market. Somebody beat me to it. . . The third article was something really good. I even consulted a patent attorney, who agreed that I had something there, but the "search" would cost me $125 in Canada and a similar amount in U.S.A. This was during the depression, when I couldn't have made a down-payment on a two-cent stamp. So I did nothing about it. Today it is on the market — made by one of America's most well-known companies!

This year my so-called brain started working on a sectional plywood boat to carry on top of a car. I made up a cardboard model in January, then bought the lumber, marine glue and brass screws, and started to build it. Later I bought a copy of Mechanix Illustrated and there, in black and white, was the very boat that I was building! Mine is nearing completion now. I will be passing through Lachute some time in May, and will be glad to show it to anybody. Anybody can build it for less than $50. I hope it floats.

Anyway, when it comes to inventing things, this is one time I didn't miss the boat!

Be seein' ya!

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, April 27, 1888 —

Mr. John Campbell of Dalesville has purchased the Lachute Saw Mills from Mayor Fish, for $8,000. Mr. Fish recently sold his Flour Mills to Mr. Peter Campbell, for $20,000.

Mr. Egan has opened a tailoring shop in the room over Creswell's Flour Store.

On May 1, Mr. Cooke will open his cheese factories in Carillon, River Rouge and La Baie.

The sugar house of Mr. John Hay, Brownsburg, was burned to the ground. With about 200 gallons of syrup, besides all the utensils, the loss is estimated about $400.

Any person wanting pasturage for cows, or to buy lots on Mr. Ireland's Estate, will please apply to F. Hamelin, Lachute Woollen Mills. (Advt.)

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 2, 1913 —

Brownsburg — The moving picture show re-opened, with a large and appreciative audience. The success of the show is entirely due to the generosity of Mr. Brainerd and Mr. Johnson, the superintendent of D. C. Co., in providing the proprietors with power from the electrical plant at the factory. Good pictures are promised; nothing vulgar or displeasing will be shown.

In order to facilitate attendance to his extensive practice, Dr. Alexander has invested in a Ford Motor Car.

Mr. J. A. McKay, of St. Andrews, has just purchased a beautiful stallion, at a high price, which he will be exhibiting at the annual horse show of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society this week.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 5, 1938 —

Frogs are now protected in this province, since it is recognized they constitute an aid to agriculture. They may be hunted only from July 15 to Sept. 1 of each year.

The semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards was held in Lachute High School.

Mr. Fred Roberts was taken to hospital in Montreal suffering from appendicitis, and underwent an operation the same day.

Gordon Brown, 27-year-old son of R. J. Brown, was accidentally drowned in rapids near Port Arthur, where he was employed in lumbering.

Lachute Golf and Tennis Club completed preliminaries for the 1938 season, with President R. C. Rogers occupying the chair. The ladies' club will hold a performance in the Rex Theatre, to wipe off last year's deficit.

Mr. A. Assaly, Main Street, is installing complete new show-windows and store front.

Burglar Club membership declines

Burglars just can't make a decent living in Lachute any more — not since local residents and businessmen started putting away their cash safely at nights and week-ends.

Much less money is being stowed away in "secret" hiding places — left around the house or in a till overnight. Instead, it goes where it should — to the bank; it's deposited in the Bank of Montreal's dual-type "around-the-clock" depository unit.

There, the cash is safely inside a special vault, away from burglars' adhesive fingers.

The B of M's depository unit allows both private and business customers to make deposits at any hour of the day or night, seven days a week, whether the bank is open or not. As well as being specially convenient when the bank is closed, the unit can be used in banking hours, too, if you're in a hurry.

Why not drop in and ask Don Hay, the manager, or one of his staff about this new service. It will take only a few minutes, and you'll find the time spent worth the saving in peace of mind.

Intimate Glimpse at New Prime Minister

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

What is the attitude of your family to the new prime minister? Whatever your political leanings, surely it should be one of good wishes! This is a difficult and perplexing time for every modern nation and the leader of the House of Commons at Ottawa cannot be envied.

Democracy is based, in the opinion of Harry Emerson Fosdick, upon the conviction that there are extraordinary possibilities in ordinary people. The modern tendency to paint a leader either in shining white or clothe him in dark colors seems very childish.

As parents surely we can say to our children: "Every man has his strong and his weak points. His childhood and the circumstances of his life have to a great extent moulded him into the kind of personality he is today."

Early Days

Let us take a look at the early days of the man who holds the highest office in our federal parliament and also look at some of the ways he has made a positive contribution to today's world.

When we moved from the George Street United Church manse in Peterborough to Winnipeg, where my husband had been called to St. Stephen's-Broadway Church there, we left behind the house where Lester B. Pearson once said: "Some of the happiest days of my childhood were spent in that manse." Our present church is the one in which the marriage of the prime minister and his Winnipeg bride, Maryon Moody, took place; and so it is understandable that we have had a special interest in his early days and his career.

An enthusiasm for athletics came naturally for the three Pearson brothers, who shared the attic floor of the Peterborough manse. When he was a little fellow, "Mike" (as he is known to countless friends) used to go with his grandfather, the Rev. Marmaduke Pearson, to baseball games.

Play by Play

The old man's eyesight was failing and the boy used to recount to his grandfather the progress of the game, play by play.

In his youth Mike Pearson played baseball, hockey, lacrosse, rugby, and also coached these games as a young man. For a short time in Guelph he played on a semi-professional team. He must have recalled this period in his life, when a woman reporter at the San Francisco Conference asked him: "What have you got that other diplomats lack?"

A more egotistical man would have made a pompous reply, but instead Mike Pearson, with a laugh, answered: "Perhaps I am the only man here who has been paid for playing baseball."

Scholarly P.M.

What about the prime minister as a scholar? His own words explode the myth that he was so brilliant he didn't have to work. He once admitted frankly: "I plugged at my studies. Some things may have come to me quickly, but I did my share of homework, always. On the whole, I worked for everything I got."

What are the things in life which Lester B. Pearson has won, with the same combination of native ability and application with which he tackled his school subjects?

There is an excellent sketch of his life in a recent book, written by a number of men, on Nobel, The Man and His Prizes (ask for it at your public library). Mention is made of the prime minister's birth in 1897 in Toronto, his service in the First World War, when he volunteered for the University Medical Corps, and resumption of his study of history later with his B.A. degree in 1919.

Oxford Student

After furthur study at Oxford he won his M.A. in 1923 and then was appointed as assistant professor of history to his old alma mater.

It was there that we were privileged to be in his lecture classes and discussion groups for two years. The record attendances at his lectures showed that he never lapsed into dullness, and in the small group seminars he inspired his students to do their best.

Likely it was his desire to make history and not just talk about it, which led him in 1928 to enter the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa.

In his work there and later, in the office of the High Commissioner of Canada at London, as Canadian minister at Washington, as Secretary of State for external affairs in the Canadian government 1948-57, and then as leader of the Liberal opposition at Ottawa, Lester B. Pearson has served in the international and home field with distinction.

REPAIR A CRACKED VASE

If your favorite pottery vase has sprung a small hairline leak, repair it with paraffin wax. Melt a quarter block of wax in a double boiler and pour gently into the vase. Swish it around to cover the inside and allow to set. Always use cold water for flowers, to prevent softening of the wax.

Diagnosis by diet

Toronto — Members of the Canadian Dietetic Association and medical metabolic specialists are co-operating in a specialized technique of diagnosis, according to the Health League of Canada.

It is the technique of using special diets as a diagnostic measure. The medical specialists describe the process as "Short-Term Balance Study in Diagnosis and Investigation", and they outline it as follows:

In many hospitals, as with the long-term studies which are carried on for a period of six weeks to one year or more, the doctor, the nurse, the dietician, and the laboratory technician work together as a team. In all balance studies the absolute co-operation of the patient is essential.

A short-term balance study could be arbitrarily defined as a study which is carried on for a period of six days to two weeks. A complete day is 24 hours, usually from 8 a.m. to 8 a.m. Each day's caloric, protein and mineral intake is kept at a constant level. This is accomplished by the use of a strictly constant diet. Amounts of food to be eaten are calculated and weighed in grams. With these diets, accuracy is of the greatest importance. All weighing is done on highly sensitive balances.

All food given to the patient must be accounted for. Any food not eaten during the 24-hour period must be re-weighed and the caloric, protein and mineral content calculated or analyzed. These are then subtracted from the known intake to obtain the actual day's intake.

It should be stressed that the short-term balance studies are not considered therapeutic. They are aids in the diagnosis and investigation of disturbances in body metabolism. For reliable results there must be co-operation between the metabolic team and the patient with accuracy in details.

Don't bathe in goat's milk!

(Consumer Section)

In the time of Cleopatra, beautiful Queen of Egypt, women used to bathe in goat's milk. At that time they considered this bath a beauty treatment which was supposed to guarantee a beautiful complexion.

Science has brought us a long way since then. Nowadays we do not advise bathing in milk, but we recommend that modern Cleopatras drink lots of milk as one of the important factors to good health. And, of course, it's generally agreed that good health goes hand in hand with good looks.

Canadians do not drink enough milk. This assertion is based on the amount of milk consumed at the present time in relation to the amount recommended by the Canadian Council on Nutrition in Canada's Food Guide. Some families may use more milk than that recommended, but there are many who do not. Teenagers particularly should drink at least 4 cups of milk a day to keep pace with their growth and activity. For children under 12 years of age, at least 2½ cups per day is recommended. Expectant and nursing mothers should plan on drinking 4 cups of milk a day. Many adults cultivate the milk habit by having a "milk break" during the day when they can easily drink their 1½ cup quota. Older people, too, find milk a nourishing and satisfying food and easy to digest.

Milk is an important food nutritionally. Packed in the milk solids are proteins, B vitamins and more calcium than we find in most other foods. In fact milk and cheese are our main sources of calcium, which is so important for bones and teeth. It is impossible to provide adequate calcium in a diet of ordinary foods unless milk is included in some form.

If you don't drink all the milk you should during the day, you can eat it! Many nourishing soups, sauces and desserts can be made with milk to tempt many a tired appetite.

Pineapple custard

One twenty-ounce can crushed pineapple, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon butter, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Heat pineapple, lemon juice and butter in top of double boiler to boiling point. Meanwhile, beat eggs and sugar just until yolks and whites are blended but not frothy. Pour most of hot pineapple liquid into eggs, stirring constantly. Return mixture to remaining pineapple and combine well. Cover and set pan at once over very hot BUT NOT boiling water and cook slowly over very low heat for 30 to 40 minutes, or until custard is thick. Stir with wooden spoon at end of twenty minutes to scrape down sides and bottom of pan. Stir only enough to evenly mix custard. When cooked pour into serving bowl or into 6 individual dishes and garnish with bits of maraschino cherries. Serve plain or with pouring or whipped cream.

Note: Water in bottom of double boiler must not be allowed to boil or custard will curdle.

If preferred, custard may be baked like an ordinary custard in a moderate (350°F.) oven about 50 minutes or until a silver knife inserted in centre comes out clean. To ensure even cooking, set baking dish in pan of hot water.

This custard may be used for pie filling. Place in baked shell and top with whipped cream.

INFANT DEATHS

In 30 years the infant death rate has dropped by 60 per cent in Canada. In 1931 there were 42 deaths per 1,000 live births. In 1960 this mortality rate had dropped to 18.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Homemakers who want to surprise their families with a new and exciting dish might try a curry.

A secret recipe for a genuine Indian curry, supposed to "bring sweat to the forehead," was revealed recently by Fred Karat of New Delhi.

It's simple and can be whipped up in about an hour. First fry about two pounds of lamb in butter. If stewing lamb is used, it should be boiled about an hour first, says Fred.

In another pan, fry two large chopped onions in butter until they become brown. Then add two tablespoons of curry powder (be sure to use an authentic Indian curry, Fred says), "any other interesting herbs that happen to be around," and then stir with a wooden spoon for two minutes.

Mix the stock from the lamb with apple juice to make about a pint of liquid and then throw in two handfuls of raisins, a clove of garlic, about ½ teaspoon each of black pepper, ginger and cayenne, some chopped apple, salt and lemon juice, then cook for about 10 minutes.

Add the fried lamb and then cook slowly for about two hours and serve over cooked rice. "The trick is to keep the sauce liquid," says Fred.

He also thinks North Americans might find it desirable to have plenty of oranges and grapefruit as well as lots of cold water on hand when eating the curry. It takes a while to become accustomed to this powerful dish.

Learning No Waste

Dr. Jessie Macpherson said, as she reviewed her 29 years as dean of women of Victoria College at the University of Toronto, that she sees nothing wrong with girls looking for a husband while they are at college.

It is often thought a college education is wasted on girls who marry immediately after graduation or even before.

"Even in Canada, where women tend to accept the domestic role completely, this is not a loss," Dr. Macpherson said.

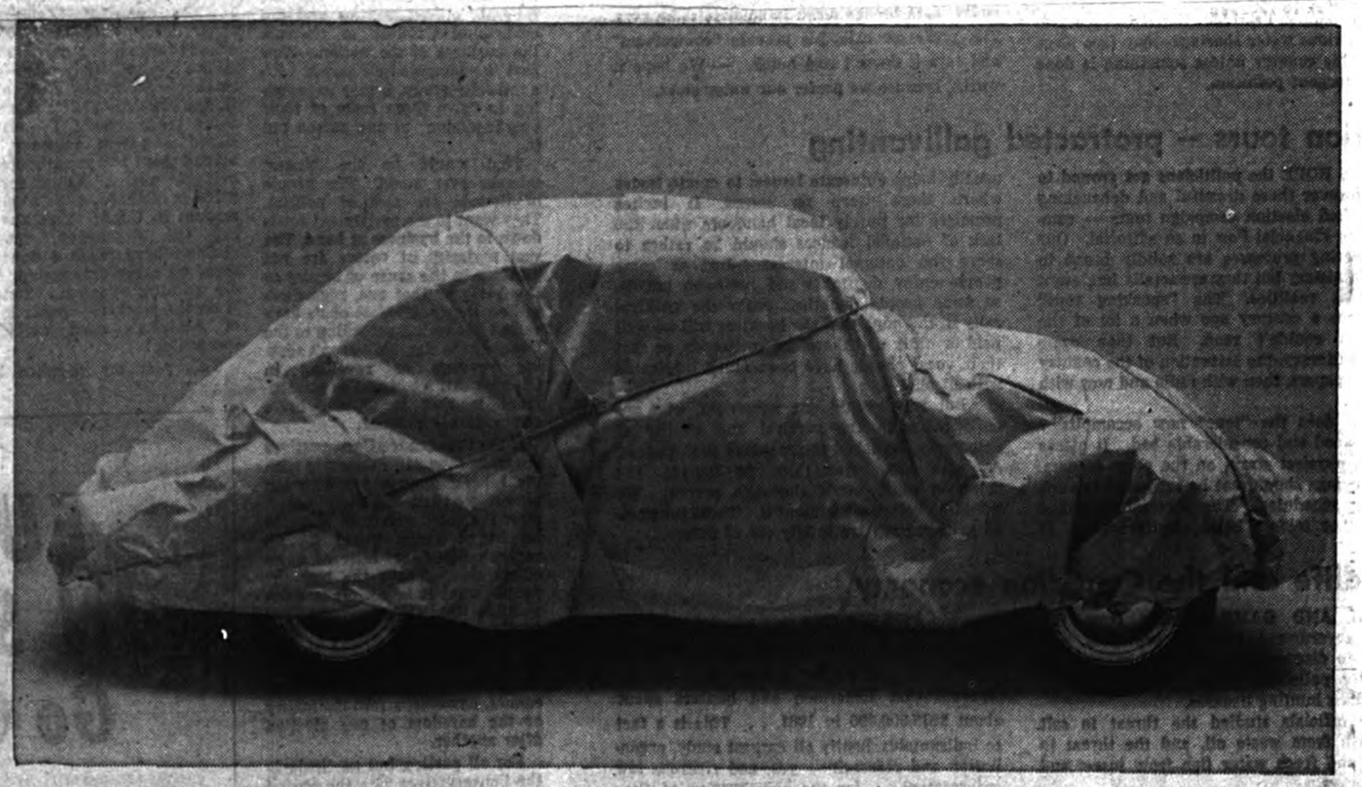

"The main contribution a university makes is to stimulate interests that are permanent. Through marriage these are passed on to the children and to the benefit of a community."

Miss Macpherson also disagrees with the general view that teenagers are a problem. Ideas such as this only lead to trouble, the retiring dean says. "I have made it a rule to deal with trouble only when it comes, not to go looking for it."

Dr. Macpherson is also opposed to discipline for discipline's sake. "A student should develop as a free spirit. I'm against regimentation. But this does not mean the student should cherish eccentrities that make him unacceptable in our society," she explained.

Although Dr. Macpherson finds life as a professor very rewarding and will continue to lecture in philosophy following her retirement, she sees very few women entering the field.

Hospital visit; relative merits of mushroom fanciers, bird watchers

WELL, it did come. Spring, I mean, a cold and reluctant one. The daffodils at the south of the house are not quite out, but we have had scilla for some time, also hortensia; the latter is a mauvey-pink, and one of our favorites.

Speaking of flowers, we must tell you of one of our minor adventures. Hearing that a friend from Lakefield was in hospital, we took the opportunity of a ride into the city, to visit her. After verifying at the desk that the lady was indeed in the building, we hurried down to the gift shop, and after some appraisal of books, ash trays, purses, and other trivia, settled on a jar containing a bouquet of carnations, pussy-willows and white chrysanthemums, with assorted greenery. We carried this confection up with us in the elevator, and were smiled upon by the other passengers, who sniffed the clovey carnations. We made a good entrance (or so we thought), but could discern no familiar face. "Oh, Mrs. K. went home just an hour ago," volunteered one of the occupants. So there I was with a bowlful of water and flowers. . . Until you try, you will never know how difficult it is to give away a bowlful of flowers in a hospital! The nurses at the desk, to whom I appealed, declared that nobody needed them, at least not on their floor. They were cute young things, one with flaming red hair, but were inclined to think the whole thing a riot. Enter the orderly. In a thrice, he had emptied out the water, put the flowers in their bowl into a large plastic bag, and made a hoop of sorts on top. "Now you can carry it home." I had on a purple walk-suit, with green accessories, and the thought of carrying this exotic bird-cage of flowers down Guy Street rather made me cringe, something I do not do easily. The head of the house was not available; we had agreed to meet at a parking-lot. So, I did carry that flamboyant parcel through the streets of our fair metropolis, and many were the glances we earned. Some McGill boys sunning themselves in the nude on a roof-top whistled, whether in admiration or surprise, I do not know. Some people are accident-prone; we are incident-prone, and have been all our life. There was the time we went to the front door in our nightgown to take in the milk of a Sunday morning, and it snapped to behind us (the door, not the bottle). When we ran to the back door, it was locked, too. It took some time to rouse husband and daughter, both sleeping soundly, well out of ear-shot. . . Yes, definitely, incident-prone.

To return to the matter of spring — we saw our first robin on March 30, atop a big maple, his breast shining cosily as he surveyed the heaped snow. We did not dare stop feeding the birds until April 5; and at Easter, the garden was still mostly covered with snow. But Easter worked its magic, and the garden is resurrecting like mad. The periwinkle is in bloom, but we fear that the trailing arbutus had just too much winter. The head of the house has already discovered and photographed the first fungus of the year. It's that scummy-looking grey stuff that forms on the edges of snowbanks. It is called snow-mould, or more correctly, typhula. So, the season has begun, and we can only hope it will be a dry one, with few fungi. "Mean old thing," murmurs someone. . . Just you try living in the same house with a fungus-hound! Someone going downstairs a few weeks ago, commented on the disgusting-looking thing on the work-bench. It was dried mushroom.

On the whole though, I think I prefer a mushroom fancier to a bird-watcher. Ever take a walk with a bird-watcher? Don't. Not if you want exercise. We have several friends who just love the little dears, and we have learned, through experience, to say when asked to go for a walk with one of them, "Sure, but no stopping to talk to birds." Not that we dislike the little twitchers; after all, we do save them from starvation all winter, but walking is walking, not edging off the path every ten feet, and calling in a falsetto — "Chickadee-dee-dee-dee", or what-have-you. The birds do it so much better, and anyway, maybe they do not relish being spied upon.

We cannot seem to get away from that winter. Bemoaning the kind of winter we had had to a friend lately returned from Japan, she said it had been almost as bad in the East. On the ship going over, they had experienced waves sixty feet high, and had spent some days in their bunks, with the furniture lashed in one end of the room. They were told they could get up at their own risk, whereupon, our friend's cabin-mate got up, and was promptly hurled across the room, sustaining bruises all down one side, and effectually convincing her that the captain's advice to stay in bed was not just polite convention. Coming back from the East, things had been almost as bad. Only in the Panama Canal had they experienced truly balmy weather. As our friend said, plaintively, "I was able to wear shorts only one morning." As the writer thinks that no one over forty should wear shorts in public, anyway, we could not feel this was any great deprivation to the world. As we have said before, the exposure of aging flesh is indecent, not on moral grounds, but aesthetic.

By this time the sugar-season must be over, and we missed the whole thing, not even getting to Morgan Arboretum for the sugaring-off party. The head of the house had influenza, and could not stand around in the moderate gale that this season seems to favor. We had a sniffle, but nothing else. We attribute our prompt relief to Vitamin C tablets. Since this is not a drug, we presume it is all right to mention the cure. About 300 units a day for two or three days, seems to do the trick. The head of the house scoffs at this. Since we had no other medication, Vitamin C or my own chemistry did the curing. Anyway, the stuff is harmless, and not a drug.

Finally, we were intrigued by the pronouncement by an eminent French professor that it was the Irish who first settled in Canada. He seemed both knowledgeable and convinced, and we are heartened to the point of quoting three verses of a poem currently circulating around Montreal:

Suppose we Irish in Montreal
Decide to have ourselves a Ball
And form a group of Separatists
And call ourselves "The Irish Mists".

We'd first demand that license plates
Have a shamrock underneath the dates,
And since it is within the law,
The words in print, "Erin Go Bragh".

The cops would all be Pat or Mike,
And this I must admit I'd like,
For Irish cops are lots of fun,
Plenty of guts; they need no gun.

This is only half of the epic.

House-trailers to damage claims, no monotony in Council affairs

A miscellany of items occupied the City Fathers at their regular May meeting, with Mayor Dave Campbell presiding — these interspersing the highlights of discussion, reported on this page.

Ald. Nelson Lepage was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three-month period.

A supply of 250 new chairs for the Auditorium was purchased from the J.-Roger Lamarche furniture store, whose bid of $4.15 apiece was the lowest tender received. Other quotations were received from A. L. Marchand, St. Philippe; Walker-Kingsbury Inc., J. W. Lefebvre Ltée and Papeterie Lachute, all local firms.

Ald. Dr. A. L. Middleton gave notice he would present for adoption a by-law for the installation of water meters in plants, business establishments, tenement houses, hotels and such large-volume consumers.

Interesting items emerged from recent correspondence: The Mayor reported he had been in contact with an industry of 400 employees desirous of changing location. People's Church requested, and was granted, free use of the Auditorium on May 20. Canadian Legion Branch 70 was authorized to display and sell tickets for a prize drawing, on local streets. The senior hockey league was granted free use of the Auditorium on May 29.

Council was advised of a $600 refund on repair work to water conduits over White's Bridge. A claim was received from L.-P. Dumais for damages to his property through construction of the dam at the filtration plant; this will be handed over to the contractors. Another claim was from Mrs. Annie Burke, for damage to her fence caused by a sidewalk tractor during snow-clearing.

Ald. Francois Charlebois gave notice of motion for an amendment to the by-law zoning house-trailers.

Accounts totalling $35,869.54 were passed for payment, and a sum of $75 was voted for the purchase of flowering plants for the memorial park.

Council grants in dollars, tax concession, furniture

At a special sitting of Town Council recently, the committee assigned to the study of gifts and subventions came up with their recommendations.

Formally adopted at the statutory meeting last week were the following donations, as suggested by the committee:

St. Jerome Diocese Social Service	$1,500
Carrefour du Livre Library, Lachute	1,000.
Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil	500.
Easter Seals	25.
Red Cross Society	25.
Cdn. Cancer Society	25.
Legion Branch 70	40.

A municipal tax concession of $103.50 was given to the CNIB (assessment on its premises on Drew Street), and chairs to the value of $300 were donated to the Argenteuil Agricultural Society.

It is recalled the Town Council approached the Department of Municipal Affairs and was given authorization to assign one percent of the year's budget to gifts, grants and donations. One percent of the current year's estimates amounts to $4,250.

Medical board of new hospital

A meeting of the Lachute Medical Board on Saturday last, reaffirmed the present executive would hold office for their full term, the year 1963.

The executive of the Board is as follows:

President, Dr. Marc Papineau; vice-president, Dr. John C. MacKimmie; with Dr. Gerald Daigle filling the position of secretary.

The credentials committee, whose duty it is to check the credentials and qualifications of doctors wishing to become affiliated with the new hospital, includes Dr. Marcel Sylvestre, chairman, Dr. André L'Allier and Dr. John C. MacKimmie. It is understood that several meetings have been held to date, and that further applications are being considered in the not too distant future.

Rev. K. Trickey appointed rector at Bedford, Que.

The Rt. Rev. R. Kenneth Maguire, Lord Bishop of Montreal, has announced the appointment of the Rev. Kenneth W. Trickey, B.A., B.D., L.Th., as rector of St. James Anglican Church, Bedford, Que., and priest-in-charge of St. Paul's Church, Phillipsburg, Que.

For the past five years Mr. Trickey has been associated with St. Phillip's Anglican Church in Montreal West, as curate and as priest-in-charge after the Rev. C. C. Campbell's resignation, until the appointment of the Rev. Wm. James White as rector.

The Rev. Mr. Trickey will assume his new duties early in June.

A graduate of Lachute High School, Mr. Trickey graduated in 'honors history' from McGill in 1955, and three years later received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the same university. He is presently completing his Master of Arts thesis. Mr. Trickey was active in many of the organizations at St. Phillip's Church. He is also vice-president of the Council of Christian Education for the Province of Quebec, and a member of the executive committee of the Older Persons Section of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies. He is vice-chairman of the Council of Social Service of the Diocese of Montreal.

Arrest fugitives from Boys' Farm

Two juvenile escapees from the Shawbridge Boys' Farm were arrested by Q.P.P. officers while in a summer cottage on Lake Anne, near Morin Heights, on Tuesday of last week. At the time of their arrest, they were in possession of a car reported stolen in Montreal, as well as a tape-recorder, the owner of which is unknown.

They were charged with theft of the car, as well as breaking and entering with theft, and are scheduled to appear in St. Jerome juvenile court.

Ladies injured in mishap on Barron's Bridge

Two Montreal ladies, Mrs. Francine Laroche and Miss Suzanne Pasto, were treated at the Providence Hospital for injuries received late Sunday evening in an accident on Barron's Bridge. They received 26 and 46 stitches, respectively, to repair their facial injuries.

According to Cst. J. M. Beauregard, who investigated the mishap, the car, driven by René Laroche, 24, swerved out of control on the bridge while avoiding another car which had just passed a third vehicle. The other drivers failed to stop. The accident, which resulted in damage estimated at $600, occurred at 11.10 p.m.

Paper canvass this Saturday

A waste paper collection this Saturday, May 11, will be welcomed by householders and storekeepers who have been saving their supplies to help this effort. The Lachute Boy Scouts will canvass all homes in Greater Lachute, and any with papers, magazines or cartons to contribute, are asked to have at least one bundle in view at the roadside, so that the trucks will stop where necessary.

Bundles should be securely tied, as they pass through numerous hands before reaching their destination in Montreal.

An innovation in this collection is a request for used but unbroken flower-pots. The Scouts have a market for this commodity. (Bottles not required in this collection.)

Any missed in the collection, or residents out of town who have paper to contribute, please call LO 2-2858.

Town action on arena depends on annexation, other factors

As chairman of the town's recreation committee assigned to study possibilities of a sports centre, Alderman Linton Armstrong relayed to his colleagues in Town Council the Lions Club's offer of its ice-making equipment and a cash pledge of $50,000 towards a covered arena.

It is apparent, however, that Council will be unable to construct an arena in time for next season, since it has no land available. For this purpose, representations will be made to Quebec Government towards annexation by Lachute of land in possession of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society. This land — the exhibition grounds and adjacent area — is situated presently in Ayersville. If this request materializes, it is probable the municipal arena would be located at that spot, since it would be feasible under such conditions to seek grants from the provincial government.

In the meantime, the Lions' Rink having taken on the importance of a civic utility in terms of youth recreation, Alderman Armstrong would approach the proprietors of the land to extend the privileges of occupancy for another season.

Regarding annexation in another direction — Mayor Dave Campbell states that preliminaries are well in hand, and surveyors engaged in connection with the St. Jerusalem territory have made good progress in their work.

3rd Annual show of students' work at Centre d'Art

Officiating for the opening of an art exhibition next Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Centre d'Art, Lachute, will be Fernand Legault, QC, chairman of the Catholic School Commission. His function in this role is appropriate, since this show is the third exhibit of pupils' handiwork, both juniors' and adults'.

In the children's department, plastic arts receive greater prominence. Under the tuition of Guy Racine, modelling and collage, drawing and painting, have inspired creative ideas and produced interesting results — while providing a constructive outlet for the youngsters' energy and ingenuity.

Indications from the past year's display point to a keen public interest in these works, not only by parents and friends, teachers and fellow students, but by the many who are intrigued by these local pursuits.

The works displayed by adult students of Guiseppe Fiore, will include examples by enthusiasts now completing their third winter in this study series. The advancement in techniques and media, and the development of talent, will prove interesting to those more keenly observant.

The exhibition will be open only on Thursdays and Fridays from 3 to 6, and Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5, continuing until June 16. The Centre d'Art premises are at 360 Main Street, Lachute.

3 Performances of Musical Ride for Lachute Fair

A major attraction in entertainment is confirmed by Ken Riley, secretary-manager for Lachute Spring Fair, who states the famed RCMP Musical Ride has been booked for two days. Dates of the Fair are Wednesday to Saturday, June 12-13-14-15, and the RCMP troop will give three performances before the grandstand, one on Friday night and the other two on Saturday night.

This engagement will be under auspices of Legion Branch 70. Other service club features will be the Rotary Club evening of all-round rural fun on Thursday, and the Richelieu Club's horse-racing card on Saturday afternoon.

These events, and the ever-increasing rivalry in livestock competitions, ensure a greater Fair than ever.

Positive date for the closing of livestock entries is May 10, according to Mr. Riley. Intending showmen and breeders should therefore act promptly to ensure their entries are received in time.

Much ado about potato-vending

When chip-potato wagons entered into deliberations of the Town Council once more at the regular May assembly, it was no surprise, for the matter has come up periodically over the years, despite enactments and amendments to effectively regulate this business.

The subject of discussion on this occasion was Y. Deschatelets' (im-)mobile vehicle, which is a familiar contraption right next door to City Hall. Besides this prominent site, it occupied 50 minutes of time in the Council session.

Richard Blais, building inspector, has consistently refused a building permit to Mr. Deschatelets because the applicant allegedly has never submitted plans acceptable for this type of business. However, at the meeting in question, Mr. Deschatelets presented a new plan — one which had not been referred to the inspector, and which he had not rejected, since he did not know it existed. . . It was this new plan which the applicant now asked Council to approve, and that a lapse of time be allowed for him to proceed with construction.

Mayor Dave Campbell stated that the corporation had been very tolerant with Mr. Deschatelets; they had been deluded by his promises to conform, but he had never co-operated either with the authorities or the inspector. Latterly also (said the Mayor) he had refused to heed an order of the police chief to close his potato wagon, and had circumvented the order.

The question now was this: Would the by-law be adhered to and Mr. Deschatelets forced to close; or should he be allowed another month to proceed with an establishment to conform with the building by-law?

Five councillors voted for the first alternative — Aldermen Dr. Middleton, Pariseau, Lepage, McFaul and Armstrong.

Four voted for the second solution — Aldermen Charlebois, Desjardins, Thibodeau and Marcil.

Dr. Middleton, speaking for the first group, argued that the building and zoning by-law must be observed, but Mr. Deschatelets had abused the Council's patience by making no serious effort to conform. . . For the other group, Ald. Charlebois expressed a feeling that he should be given another chance, with a month's grace to start on his proposed building.

The matter was decided by majority vote and Mr. Deschatelets must observe the by-law without concession or delay.

Lions Club girl entrant wins French speaking title

Celine Laurin, a senior student at the St. Alexandre School, came through with flying colors to win the final (French speaking girls' class) in the Lions Club public speaking contests, last Saturday at Buckingham, Que.

The "District" embraced in these annual contests includes Ontario and Quebec, and at the school level there were many thousands of young aspirants narrowed down to the home club competitions. Miss Celine Laurin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Laurin, Lachute, excelled among her competitors at Lachute Lions Club, then came first in regional eliminations at Montreal, and eliminations at Montreal, and was finally winner among three girls Saturday she won high honors; the first prize of $150; a $300 scholarship to be used within five years at some higher institution of learning; also the District trophy and a gift.

Celine Laurin has been invited to speak at the Lions' District Convention in Cornwall, the end of this month, before thousands of club representatives.

She was accompanied to Buckingham by her mother and by Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Valois — Mr. Valois being committeeman (French section) on the public speaking project of Lachute Lions Club.

Month's report from police and fire departments

The police department's report for last month indicated 264 service calls and 21 street accidents (two involving personal injury and 19 causing material damage). There were 11 arrests for traffic violations.

Robberies in April included the theft of two automobiles, one of which was recovered; 11 bicycles (eight recovered); and five robberies of under $50 — one of which was solved.

Revenues in this department were $919.40 — of which $886.95 was collected in fines for traffic offences.

The report was submitted to Council by Chief J.-L. Hébert.

The volunteer fire brigade reported 11 fire calls — four in Lachute, three in Ayersville and four in St. Jerusalem.

Since the beginning of the year out-of-town calls have brought $3,800 to the municipal exchequer, which at this point is almost 70 percent of the estimate for the entire year.

Chief Don MacCulloch was authorized by the Council to interview six candidates for the brigade and to engage them on a temporary basis. The personnel now numbers 16, and it is deemed advisable to increase this number, to ensure adequate manpower for fire protection.

It was decided also to establish a retirement age of 65, and to name those retiring as "honorary firefighters". There will be a ceremony in due course to present these members with a souvenir plaque, in recognition of valuable service to their town over the past years.

Curb on dogs

Police Chief J.-L. Hebert has indicated that, following a number of complaints concerning dogs running loose, By-law 244 will be strictly enforced. This by-law governs the license and fee for dogs, and also states that dogs may not run free unless in company with their owner.

The chief states that, to date, several dogs have been picked up and are being held at the owners' expense, in accordance with the by-law. A fine, upon conviction, may be levied for the sum of $40.

Inaugural of Catholic troop of Boy Scouts

Five youths, two assistants and a Scoutmaster took the oath last Saturday evening at the inauguration of the 1st Catholic Troop, Lachute (11th St. Jerome) Boy Scouts.

Scoutmaster is Léon Cauchon (who m.c.'d the proceedings following the religious formalities); Dr. Roger Toupin and Douglas Parker are the Assistant Scoutmasters; and the new members are Serge Proulx, Bernard Berthiaume, Simon Lefebvre, Gilles Meilleur and Michel Berthiaume. Headquarters of the troop are in St. Julien Church basement.

A delegation of St. Eustache Scouts assisted with the program. Roland Maisonneuve, diocesan commissioner, welcomed the group into the district organization, and Dr. Bernard Massicotte, chairman of the "Amis des Scouts" sponsoring committee, also spoke briefly. As a gesture of good will from the 1st Lachute Troop (Protestant), Scoutmaster George Gordon was on hand to present each boy with a friendly token, in the form of a new Scout knife.

Aim for increased membership in Community Concert campaign

Mrs. Fernand Legault, Community Concert Ass'n president

Preliminary meetings have been held these past few weeks by the few "old faithfuls" responsible for the continuance of Community Concerts, and once again, upon the success of their efforts in the year's membership campaign, will depend the outcome of the concert series and their enjoyment by district supporters.

The executive have dared to hope, this year, for a response justifying the addition of one more concert, making a series of four instead of three. The materialization of this aim, however, remains to be seen in the number of new and renewing adherents. The committee is sufficiently confident, nevertheless, to have signed a "hold" on one star attraction in the Bihari Hungarian Ballets, a vivacious troupe which has won high acclaim wherever it has made its stage appearance. The dancers will be on tour for the coming season only, and will be presented in Lachute around the middle of October.

Next Monday opens the Community Concerts campaign, with a reunion of workers at the Golf Club chalet. Headquarters will be situated again at the premises of Deslauriers & Marcil Inc., 598 Main Street, through kind hospitality of the proprietors.

Mrs. Fernand Legault was re-elected to continue this year as president of the organization. The membership campaign is jointly in charge of Mrs. A. R. Rigby and Miss Juliette Rodrigue, and organizers will be active as usual in St. Eustache, Hawkesbury, Brownsburg, St. Andrews East and Cushing.

Artists' fees and incidental expenses have been steadily increasing, and in order to maintain the customary high standard, it was decided this year to raise the membership from $6 to $7. Student memberships will remain unchanged at $3; and through the co-operation of certain social organizations, a number of these have already been renewed.

Duke of Edinburgh's Conf'ce topic at H & S annual meet

Year reviewed, officers appointed

The annual meeting of Lachute and District Home-School Association was held Tuesday, April 30, in the Music Room of Lachute High School. Judging from reports which were read by various committee chairmen, this was the culmination of an active and productive year. The big disappointment was that the total membership for the year was down from 212 members last year to 168 this year. It is felt that more parents could and would join if they realized that this organization serves a very useful purpose in the life of the school and of the community, and that its functions benefit the children both in school and at home.

There were five very interesting meetings this past year, with an average attendance of 39 members. Among the functions carried on were — finding billets for student teachers from Macdonald College both last fall and this spring; a very successful UNICEF drive last Hallowe'en; a sale of sports equipment in November, which handled 140 articles; the purchase of milk tickets for needy children in the school; the sponsorsip of a Grade 10 student to the U.N. seminar at Macdonald College next August; very active work on the part of the Traffic Safety Committee to help promote safety of our pupils going to and from school; and lastly the Scholarship Whist, held in April, at which enough money was raised to enable Home and School to again offer a $350 scholarship to help a member of this year's graduating class further his or her education in the fall.

The Scholarship Whist netted $262 for the Scholarship Fund and the Association wishes to thank those who generously donated door prizes, and those parents and members who worked for the success of this, the biggest fund-raising project of the Home and School.

Stolen automobile recovered at Chute à Blondeau

Relatively slight damage to his car, missing for 10 days, was reported by Jim Campbell, Lachute townsman, following its discovery in Chute à Blondeau early last week.

According to Q.P.P. officers, who received the car and report from the Ontario Provincial Police, a young man left the car with John Titley, a Chute à Blondeau district farmer, on Saturday, April 27, informing him he was having trouble with the car and would return for it the following day.

On Monday, Mr. Titley became suspicious and notified the police — which resulted in the return of the automobile to its rightful owner next day.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Young mischief-makers in Ontario detached life-saving rings and tossed them in the water — a thoughtless prank which might cost a life. About the same time, an equally ironical "joke" was perpetrated in Lachute, when youths dragged a heavy cement-based parking sign, after dark, from the centre of Main Street and left it right in the traffic lane.

At the town office, Germain Filion, finance advisor and supervisor for several years past, has asked for a protracted leave of absence to combat that "run-down feeling". In Ayersville, André Laurin of Lachute has been engaged as secretary-treasurer to replace Jacques Poitras, who left the position last week to serve as accountant at the new hospital.

A sign in the spacious windows of a store vacated by Jos. Malaket & Fils (ladies' wear) now indicates that Mr. André Cloutier, of Lachute Hardware Reg., is extending his premises from the smaller store next door.

The advertised "open house" at the new Argenteuil Hospital last Sunday afternoon drew an unexpectedly large crowd of visitors. The parking space was well occupied by cars, and about 1,000 visitors were conducted on tours of the new building. This is in addition to almost 2,500 who were received on the previous visiting days.

Don't forget the Boy Scouts' paper drive in Lachute this coming Saturday, May 11. Useable flower-pots will also be gladly received. (See announcement in this issue.)

By BOB ATCHISON

So far the trout have been very receptive to almost every kind of lure and bait. In a few cases the fish have been choosy, and this is one time of the year when you must try everything. Excellent catches have been showing up from Half Moon Lake, and a couple of good ones in Louisa. I know personally the creeks have really had to be worked, and with poor results; but listening to the water in turmoil, the birds and insects singing the peans of warmer weather, sure makes it worth while. As most of you fishermen know, it is just a shade too early for good trolling, so that almost everything is being taken either on worms, spinners or flies behind a spinner. Lake Emily has been on and off with the perch.

Drifting down the river last Sunday right near the Black Bridge, a large dorsal fin was seen sticking up out of the water. As this water was about 12 inches deep, we were able to drift right over this fish to see how big it was. Believe me, I have never seen a fish as big as this Northern Pike. With reflections of the water, it seemed to be at least 7 feet long; but if we discounted this by 2 feet, it would be more the real size. As for the weight, an estimate would be 75 lbs. as a minimum. Huge, believe me.

Going into the lake, pike were seen basking in the sun almost everywhere. I tried for a strike but no luck; they were not interested in anything except the sun. Not that I blame them for this. A couple of doré were taken near the bridge on the way back; these were released... Better things are in store though.

A chance remark led to a revealing story the other day. One of the Provincial Police in this area fishing a certain lake, boasted of catching 30 Rainbows. Full of spawn, none of these fish was returned to the water. I'll admit I do plenty of beefing about us fishermen disregarding the law, but this takes the cake. Maybe this type is one of the privileged or elite who can get away with this. However, these men are supposed to uphold the law, and not break it. It seems we are developing into a police state in this regard. It's O.K. for them but not for us. Needless to state to local fishermen the identity of this lake: Rainbow trout!

As most of you heard, a lynx was shot by the Chief of Police in Brownsburg. Just to clear up a few remarks, this was a humane killing. The lynx had been hit by a car and badly injured. Also, reading where families of children are a little afraid to have the children play near the bush — this may be a smart move. With most females bearing kits or already having them, they will be in no mood to be played with. Certainly it would be looking for trouble for anyone to try and tamper with any of the kits. Of course, without the brood to look after, there would be no danger, as with all animals; however, with young to protect, it is another matter.

While on this subject, a call the other day set me off in a hurry. A female with her young was out on the road going to Lakefield. Naturally they were not there when I arrived, they had moved on about 50 feet; but believe me, this sure was a spectacle to watch. You know what — no camera! Yep, that's me; a chance of a lifetime.

Geese have been in the spotlight for the past few days. Some large flocks have been passing over, and a good number of them have stopped around Lachute for rest and feed. With some of the farmers not getting all their grain in last year, it seems to have been a real feast for these birds. One experience like this will likely bring these birds back again for a number of years. I heard one flock that I thought were pretty high. However, it turned out they were flying right down the North River and not more than 15 feet above the water. As I mentioned, the geese have been having a tough time of it, and maybe this will be a break for them (if they don't get shot at). The rest and feed en route will help them immeasurably.

Very few ducks are in evidence; they have probably headed up north. Along with the geese, the ducks are facing extinction if they do not get some good protection by legislation pretty soon. The only ducks that seem to be thriving in this area are the Blacks, and with the heavier kills every year, these won't last too long.

I mentioned traps last week, and a call from a lady informed me that her property fronting on a water course is just covered with these. So much so that a pet of the family, a cat, had been caught in one of them and spent 12 days in the care of a vet. Also, some children saw one of these brave humans taking muskrats out of a trap; when he was reproached by them he threw the carcass at them and beat it. I do know that, right on the North River, there are a couple of these men. Seemingly they have permits to trap, so there is nothing that can be done about it. This may be a case for the provincial authorities, but when traps are spread around a town like Lachute, with consequent hazard to pets, it seems that something should be done to prevent it.

Netting and set traps are being used on the Ottawa for the catching of doré. It has turned out to be a big operation, too. It has occurred to me these fish must be sold somewhere along the line. Just where this might be I couldn't say, but surely the Game Wardens could find out. We all talk of the lack of fish, but in the long run we are to blame. The thought of "breaking and entering" would never occur to a normal person, yet these same people will break every law written for the protection of our wildlife. It is too bad that a little decency couldn't be driven into some of these offenders. I use the word "driven" because that is the only way it will ever penetrate into their thick heads.

Similarly, night lines or set lines are being used in Lake Louisa, and in this case it is not just talk. They are being used, and with minnows. Evidently the ice-fishing trouble wasn't enough for them. How about it, Wardens; going to take a look? Use a grapple and try the northwest end; you will be surprised at what you can find.

With all the interest being shown in the use of detergents and insecticides, it is possible that something will come of all this... I know I have covered the subject before, and I will keep harping. It all boils down to "good water". Sure, we in Canada are lucky in having so much of it, but how long will this last? The present rate of pollution is growing so rapidly that it is impossible to estimate just when we have reached the saturation point. Everyone is responsible in this matter, yet we continue to use these same products. As stated in an editorial in this paper last week, banning of these things would be pretty hard — but I wonder if it would or not. Surely people think enough of themselves and their children to want to do something about this. These detergents are much used, and as most ladies will tell me, with good reason; but are the goods worth all the bads? Stop and think. Maybe all these dire things I have portrayed will never happen in our lifetime, but what about your children? Indeed, it's worth thinking about.

The summer birds are steadily returning. We watched a couple of Robins the other day (while it was snowing); they didn't look very happy. As for the Cedar Waxwings, they were huddled together like little images. You will have probably forgotten all about feeding the birds, but a suet stick hung out in the yard might still be appreciated by them; with the weather so changeable it would do no harm.

Social meet opens lady golfers' season

The opening luncheon and meeting of the ladies' section of Lachute Golf Club was held in the new dining room at the clubhouse on May 4. Mrs. Howard Watson, president, welcomed the members and thanked Mrs. A. Desrosiers and her committee, who had convened the luncheon.

Miss E. MacDonald read the minutes of the last meeting, also the slate of officers for 1963, and Mrs. Desrosiers gave a special welcome to the 40 new members.

Mrs. R. M. Cairns, chairman of the Junior Section, reported that they expected a very active year. The first activity is a rally and luncheon for Juniors, to be held at the home of Mrs. Whitehead in Dorval on June 8. There will be a golf clinic, chipping contest, free lunch, swimming in a private pool, and transportation will be provided. Juniors who are interested should get in touch with Mrs. Cairns... Mr. L. de Breyne will be giving free lessons to the Juniors as soon as school is finished. The day will be decided later.

Miss Ann David, captain of the Match Committee, in her report congratulated the honorary president, Mrs. G. E. Ayers, on her appointment as assistant to Mrs. Kimbers, chairman of the Tournament Section of the Montreal City and District. On July 11, the C.L.G.U. are holding a field day here at the Club. This is for lady golfers with handicaps of 19 to 26. On July 5 there will be a member-and-guest day.

Winners of C.L.G.U. pins for 1962 were as follows:

Silver Division Ladies' Weekly, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham.

Bronze Division Ladies' Weekly, Mrs. R. Fraser.

Silver Division Business Girls, Miss B. Wilkins.

Bronze Division Business Girls, Mrs. J. P. Lupien.

Mrs. R. Stephens, who is looking after the C.L.G.U. tournaments, gave an informative talk on rules in general.

The first tournament of the season, which is a two-ball foursome, will be held on Saturday, May 11.

End inter-church bowling season

The inter-church bowling came to an end last week, when final games were played at Lachute United Church hall. The Anglicans (defending champions) were in contests against the Presbyterian and the United Church teams.

Two foursomes from each church played two games apiece. The Anglicans were represented by the teams of Walter Shearsmith and Jos. Sewell; the Rev. J. Armour and Donnie Maidens led the Presbyterians; while the host teams from the United Church were skipped by Ronnie Bain and Howard Dixon.

The contests were the closest staged in many years, and finally Lachute United Church won the silver cup with the narrowest of margins, 38 to the Presbyterians' 34 and the Anglicans' 32.

Vice-president Gladys Davis of the host church (who substituted for Mrs. Wilson Bridge) extended a welcome, and refreshments were served to over 100 spectators.

Sr. Hockey Club drawing held for trip to New York

Lachute Senior Hockey Club of the Quebec-Ontario League are pleased to announce the winner of their draw for a "trip to New York for two". Mr. Léo Girard, of 529 Bédard Blvd., employed in the box plant of J. C. Wilson Co., chose the money value instead of the trip. His ticket (No. 4455) was drawn by Mr. Donat Ouimet of Brownsburg, in the presence of customers and staff of the Canadian Tire Store, where the draw was held.

Bingo Planned

The players and executive wish to thank the sportsmen of Lachute who bought tickets and helped the team throughout the year, and invite the population of Lachute district to a monster bingo being held in the Auditorium on Wednesday, May 29, at 8 p.m. There will be prizes galore, and surprises! Those who attended the first bingo sponsored by the team will not want to miss this one, and new fans should make a point not to miss this event, May 29, at 8 p.m. sharp.

Dow Club plans first fish contest

Next Sunday, May 12, the first fishing contest of the Dow Fishing and Hunting Club will be held, at Silver Lake near Laurel.

This contest is open to all members and friends; it will be held from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be a limited number of boats for rent; but any member having a boat is requested to bring it along, if at all possible.

There will also be a drawing of a boat at night, at the Hotel Le Chasseur, followed by a bean supper. The drawing of the prizes will be made at the lake.

Entry fee for this contest will be $1 per person.

Messrs. Pierre-Paul Mantha and Noel St.-Jean are in charge of this event, and information is available from them.

The lake may be reached either via Lost River or St. Michel de Wentworth, and signs will be posted indicating the direction.

Minor hockey closing event next Sunday

The minor hockey league season will have a fitting conclusion next Sunday, at a grand re-union of players, trainers, referees and directors in l'Ecole Secondaire, commencing at 3.30 p.m.

Paul Deslauriers, who was Lions Club committeman and president of the league this past winter, states there will be a brief film program, a noted sports personality as guest, and the presentation of team and individual trophies. Refreshments in the school cafeteria will conclude the event.

60 Anglers in Sunday contest

Jean-Guy Gagnon, of St. Hermas, turned in a 1 lb. 9 oz. trout for the top catch in Sunday's fishing contest of the Argenteuil Hunting and Fishing Association — the first contest this season, open to any public lake in this County. Sixty fishermen participated.

Four other prizes were awarded, at a bean-supper reunion in the Flamingo Hotel, Brownsburg. Many door prizes were also given out.

Next contest by this club will be held May 19; particulars will be announced.

Lions of region raised $65,000 for service work

Region 12 of the Lions International held a rally in Montreal last week attended by some 250 members from 24 clubs.

Members of Region 12, from Montreal and area including Lachute, Valleyfield and Beloeil, were told by Deputy District Governor Stan Saunders that a net profit of $65,000 during the past year had been collected, with each club contributing an average of 10 major projects.

"These projects and our money are directed at aiding paraplegics, epileptics, crippled children, the blind, sick and underprivileged along with senior citizens and youth," he stated.

"We have done a good job this year and we have lived up to our motto — 'We Serve'," he added.

Farewell to missionary and family

On Friday, April 19, members and friends of the Lachute and Dalesville Baptist churches gathered in the Lachute church to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCordic and their three sons, Charles, Ross and John, who are going to the Chad Republic, Africa, under the auspices of the Sudan United Mission. Mrs. McCordic (formerly Miss Mary Townsend) is a graduate nurse of Ottawa Civic Hospital, Ottawa, and Mr. McCordic, who comes from Sarnia, Ont., is a graduate of Central Baptist Seminary, Toronto.

The honored guests were called to the platform and expressed appreciation to their friends for the many kindnesses that had been shown them. They testified, also, to the marvelous way in which the Lord had led them, and challenged the people afresh as to the increased need of prayer. Pastor Hisey led in the "Prayer of Commission", and in his remarks, mentioned the cause for rejoicing in this first missionary going forth from the Lachute Baptist Church.

The congregation were then invited to a social hour in the church hall. Mrs. G. Dixon, Mrs. A. Murdoch, Miss A. Gay and Miss M. MacGibbon presided over the tea and coffee services and the ladies of the two churches served delicious refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. McCordic were pleasantly surprised by a shower of both monetary gifts and wearing apparel for the whole family.

Arundel cleric named rector of Montreal church

Montreal — The Anglican Bishop of Montreal, Rt. Rev. R. Kenneth Maguire, has announced the appointment of the Rev. Paul F. W. Busing as rector of the Church of Saint John the Evangelist on Ontario Street, Montreal.

The Rev. Mr. Busing, who now is Diocesan Missioner for the Diocese of Montreal, will begin his new duties following his induction, which is to take place May 27.

The new rector was educated at the Universities of Berlin, Bonn and London, and after 15 years in the ministry of the Lutheran Church, was ordained deacon and priest in the Anglican Church.

He served as incumbent of the Parish of Arundel for about three years and served in a special ministry in Montreal for one year. He was appointed rector of Waterloo in 1954, and in 1959 became rector of St. Cuthbert's Parish in Montreal, which he relinquished in 1961 to become Diocesan Missioner, and assistant at the Parish of St. Columba.

The Rev. P. Busing is a member of the adult division of the General Board of Religious Education and was chairman of the Diocesan Board of Religious Education from 1958 to 1960. As Diocesan Missioner he has been responsible for development of the diocesan retreat and conference centre, Epiphany House, at Iberville.

A day for mothers

THE CELEBRATION of Mother's Day, observed this year on May 12, is a fitting tribute to the inspirational life of a little known Sunday school teacher who died in 1905.

Miss Anna M. Jarvis, founder of Mother's Day, grew up in Grafton, West Virginia, where her mother taught Sunday school at Saint Andrew's Methodist Church. It was Mrs. Jarvis' custom once a year to hold a special ceremony in honor of the mothers of her students. After her mother's death, Miss Jarvis resolved to carry on the tradition and dedicated her efforts to establishing the second Sunday in May each year as a day for honoring mothers everywhere.

In May 1907, she arranged the first memorial service for mothers. It was held at Saint Andrew's. The following year, Miss Jarvis persuaded Philadelphia officials to proclaim the first city-wide Mother's Day. At her urging, West Virginia made Mother's Day a state-wide observance in 1912, and Pennsylvania did the same the following year.

By 1914, less than ten years after her mother's death, Anna Jarvis had persuaded the Congress of the United States to pass a joint resolution which "authorized and requested" President Woodrow Wilson to sign a proclamation establishing the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day.

Miss Jarvis continued her crusade for more than 40 years. When she died in 1948 in Philadelphia at the age of 84, Mother's Day had grown to an international tradition. Besides Canada and the U.S., the custom is now observed in Latin America and countries in Europe and the Pacific.

Although our modern conception of Mother's Day is of relatively recent origin, similar observances may be found in past cultures, Greek, Roman and Mediaeval.

Mrs. Winifred Gutsell of Toronto, a 45-year-old mother who has cared for more than 25 physically and mentally retarded children, has been named Canadian Mother of 1963. Five prominent Canadians acted as judges for this unusual contest.

Report on Education

THE FIRST VOLUME of the Parent Royal Commission report on Education gives hope for a sounder relationship between politics and education in this province.

Its main recommendations were that a cabinet-level department of education be created and that the 66-member Council of Public Education that now governs Quebec's public schools be turned into a 16-member "Higher Council of Education." It would advise the new department and provide a non-political forum for expression of public opinion.

"To put education in the very forefront of political pre-occupations, is to give it the importance it deserves," the Royal Commission said. "Why should it seem dangerous, or inconvenient, to discuss education policy before the electorate and in the Legislative Assembly?"

Premier Lesage made it clear he could think of no valid reason, and said he intended to read the 121-page report without delay.

There was speculation that the recommendations might be put into effect during this session, expected to extend into June, or possibly in another session next fall, but Premier Lesage said it is unlikely that legislation will be introduced this session.

Woods are precious

PERHAPS the most significant trend in the tourist business in recent years has been the growth of camping. Each summer more and more families pack tents and make off for the woods and a holiday in the outdoors.

The result is that many people who have never spent more than a day at a time in the outdoors now are living there for a week or more. And it underlines the importance of everyone being familiar with safety measures designed to prevent forest fires.

Two years ago more than 7,000,000 acres of forest were destroyed by fire and the loss was a record $84,203,000, a virtual tragedy in a country that attaches so much economic importance to its trees.

Last year, the area destroyed fell to less than half a million acres and the loss was under $5,000,000.

The major reason for the sharp difference between 1961 and 1962 was that one year was dry and hot and the next was punctuated by widespread rain and lower temperatures.

But there is another reason. There is evidence that those who use the woods are being more careful.

People using the woods for recreation are estimated to cause about 10 per cent of forest fires. The proportion can be reduced if they follow these rules as listed by lands and forests officials:

— If you smoke while driving through wooded areas, use your car ash tray; never throw lighted smoking material or pipe ashes out the car window.

— If you want to smoke in the bush, sit down to do so. But don't smoke in lands where signs proclaim this "prohibited". — Roll your own cigarettes for bush use; they are safer. — Use a lighter instead of matches.

— Don't light lunch fires unless necessary, or where prohibited. Use a vacuum bottle and avoid the danger of setting the woods ablaze.

— Put your camp fire dead out when you're finished with it, and see that the other fellow does too.

Safer in the cities?

CANADA NOW has 43 cities each having a population greater than 40,000.

These cities represent a total population of 7,152,000 or more than 39% of Canada's total population. They are, however, responsible for only 15% of Canada's traffic deaths — states Highway Safety News.

These larger urban centres lead neither in traffic deaths nor traffic injuries, but they do record far more than their share of property damage accidents. This fact alone accounts for the rise in insurance premiums which has recently been experienced.

Canada is really a thinly populated country when reckoned against total area. There are only 12 cities with a population greater than 100,000. Their combined total population is 5,306,415 or 29% of the whole Canadian population and they are responsible for only 11.5% of the traffic deaths.

Say it another way. For every 100,000 of population these large cities killed 8.4 people in traffic in 1962. Canada as a whole kills 21.2 people for every 100,000 of population.

The two cities that came nearest to a no-traffic-fatality record were Sault Ste. Marie and Fort William.

Among cities with population over 100,000 Regina had by far the best record, followed by Edmonton, Toronto and Winnipeg in that order.

There are 318 cities and towns with population over 5,000 in Canada. Of these communities 111 completed 1962 without one fatal accident.

Of these 318 towns and cities, 13 failed to report to Ottawa their deaths, injuries and accident experience for 1962.

BETTER TEACHERS. — Canada's need for more and better teachers was never more urgent than it is today. . We need them because, to be long on palatial schools and short on good teachers is to confer no favor on our children or on ourselves.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 11, 1888 —

The people of Montreal are realizing the benefit of transplanting their families from the crowded streets to our sylvan scenes. . . Mr. Fred C. Small, well-known commercial traveller, has leased for the summer a part of Mr. F. W. Hill's stone residence at the east end.

A. P. Solandt, B.A., who formerly attended Lachute Academy, has finished the Theological course at Congregational College in Montreal, and will serve as pastor at Brigham, Que.

A six-weeks strike of the Canada Cotton Co's employees at Cornwall, Ont., was settled by arbitration.

About 4,000 immigrants have arrived in Winnipeg already this season.

Dr. W. G. Stewart, B.A., whose success at McGill we mentioned a short time ago, has been appointed one of the house surgeons at Montreal General Hospital.

We are requested to intimate that a Gospel Temperance Meeting will be held in the Victoria Hall on the next Sabbath afternoon, May 13th.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, May 9, 1913 —

Those who exhibited at the annual Spring Horse Show on the exhibition grounds were — J. F. Owens, J. A. McKay, J. E. Arnold, Geo. and Jas. Hay, And. Elliott, E. Rochon, F. Gates, and J. Carruthers.

J. Carruthers, of Shrewsbury, sold his fine stallion to Dougald McTavish, Harrington, for $1,00.

Young men, a chance for you! — Nice black mare, one concord buggy and harness for sale cheap. Complete $210. — W. A. Morrison, Lachute Mills. (Advt.)

Cushing — The caterpillar pest promises to be still worse than last season.

Dalesville — The Orangemen are erecting a new hall, to enlarge their order.

Brownsburg — There was a large attendance at the moving picture hall. The piano, with selections of the latest composition, was a great drawing card.

Brownsburg — The Rev. J. A. Lackey has arranged for a weekly Church of England service (week-night evenings) to be held here in the Presbyterian Church.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 12, 1938 —

In the United Church at Harrington, the Life Saving Certificate from the Royal Canadian Humane Society was presented to C. G. Gallanger of Bell Falls, for his heroism in saving the life of Mrs. David MacLean from drowning.

Messrs. W. M. Scott, Geo. Muir, E. Deslauriers and Jos. Gignac are busy constructing new residences in town.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, preached last Sunday in Calvary United Church, Montreal, using a Geneva Bible of 1599. This volume in Mr. Rosborough's possession is believed to be the oldest Bible in Canada; it was printed 12 years before the translation of the authorized version of King James I.

A week-end of religious festivities marked the 25th anniversary of the Rev. Father V. Bouchard as parish priest of Brownsburg.

Young Krikor Hekimian, the "human seal", recovered the body of 69-year-old Joseph Lemay, who was recently drowned in the North River.

Two of the Dominion's leading players, Bob Murray and Laird Watt (the Davis Cup team) will give an exhibition game here at the "Plaisez-vous" Tennis Club.

St. Andrews — George W. Huggett, director of Canadian Industries Limited, has rented Mrs. Shorey's house for the summer.

Miss Christina MacKenzie, of Fassett, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. MacKenzie, Lachute Road.

POPULARITY

It is axiomatic in the writing trade that you can't make a hero out of a business man and sell a million copies. You must make your hero an aspiring fellow who hasn't made the grade yet, because readers are more likely to identify with him and appreciate him. They may respect and admire a tycoon, but they aren't likely to feel much sympathy for him.

I made this same point some time ago in this column. I said it took considerable courage for a writer or a politician to call for a better break for the business community, because such statements would surely be unpopular.

Just as I expected, the column was attacked by some who seem to hate business with all their hearts. They pointed to high profits made by one or two business firms. They used a few glaring cases of exploitation to damn the whole notion of yielding an inch in favor of business. One critic used as a horrible example a firm that had made, he claimed, ten percent on the sales dollar.

Very few business firms make ten percent on the sales dollar these days, but I think it would be a darn sight better for Canada if they did. I don't know what profit a farmer makes on the sales dollar, but if he made a dime on every dollar of sales I shouldn't think it would be too much. These profits aren't squandered on riotous living. They are used, in large part, to reinvest in bigger plants or better farms or stores, or more modern equipment.

When you get right down to it, what these critics seem to want is a new system, where all business is run by the government. Russia has had such a system for 45 years, and her people still have a low standard of living. Our profit and loss system has done much better by the ordinary man, and I hope we hang onto it. I am afraid we won't if governments are continually urged to tax the steam out of business.

The Bird House

Our bird house swings faded —
while around it the tree,
Is clothed in new greenery, for all to see.
Tho' both offer haven for wren and swallow
Faded homes are most prized, because they're hollow.

So wren and swallow most truly vie
One 'gainst t'other, 'neath open sky —
For the faded house in the apple tree,
Whose greenness spells more to you and me.

By Walter Henry Jackson

YES! WE HAVE NO BANANAS

This was the title of a song very popular in 1923, which would be keeping with the times if revived today.

Prior to the first World War bananas were so cheap that they were always associated with an Italian laborer's lunch box. Ripe "slicing bananas" were 10c a dozen. Average ones were 15¢, and the big, super-duper ones were 20¢ — not per pound, but per dozen! On a Monday morning I have often dropped into a Greek fruit store and bought a dozen slightly tired bananas for 5¢. But today they are in the luxury class, along with canned corned beef [illegible] two for a quarter. We used to take along a couple of cans to camp just for survival — in case we ran out of beans. But today it is a gourmet's treat at 55¢ for one can... Which all leads up to another story about Pat and Mike, who were discussing the high cost of living!

"When I was six years old" said Mike, "Me ould grandfather used to do the marketing. He'd start out with a two-dollar bill and a basket on his arm, returning with it full and raising the devil about the terrible cost of food. An' that was 60 years ago! What would he think of today's prices?"

"Yes indade," replied Pat. "If yer ould grandfather was alive today, he'd turn over in his grave!"

Be seein' ya!

INADEQUATE WIRING ONE OF NATION'S TOP FIRE HAZARDS

"The fire was caused by faulty wiring." How often have you read this at the bottom of a newspaper account of some fire?

It's inevitable, perhaps, in this electrical age, that circuits in many older homes should become overloaded with the many appliances in use today. A good idea is to call in your electrician and get him to check over the wiring in your home. And now is the time to do it, before he gets tied up with outdoor construction.

Of course, there's always the chance that you haven't the ready cash to repair or replace your present wiring. That's where Don Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, might help you with a home improvement loan.

Home improvement loans are available at the B of M at the lowest rate — one half of one per cent interest per month — and can be used for all kinds of worthwhile repairs and improvements. If you have wiring worries on your mind, it will pay you to have a chat with Mr. Hay at the B of M today. (Advt.)

A Letter to Mother

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

How are you? How I wish I could come to see you this Mother's Day! But as this is impossible, here is a second best — a visit by letter. I'll be phoning long distance around noon, if my call can get through.

It is always such a comfort to hear your voice — but three minutes goes so quickly! I never quite get time to ask you all the things I want to know — and I usually realize after I have hung up, that in the excitement of talking to you, I had forgotten something I wanted to say.

As I struggle with the varied activities of three children, I often marvel at the patience you had with all the projects we four youngsters carried out! What fun we had with the neighborhood "gang" in our back yard! I remember one spring and Summer, following a visit of a circus to town, we had a series of circuses.

We collected pets from everyone in the block and put them into improvised wooden crates for cages as our "Wild Animals". They were wildly indignant at such strange treatment! Do you recall our tumbling acts, the mouth organ numbers, choruses and recitations on our Entertainment Program? Pauline Johnson's "Flint and Feather" was much used as suitable poetry for a circus!

Do you remember the hot Saturday afternoon when the borrowed tent collapsed on the indignant audience, each of whom had paid a 5c admission fee (including a weak luke-warm lemonade drink)? No one was hurt. But to pacify the spectators, you gave us a plate of fresh-baked cookies to pass around.

Another thing I'm always grateful to you as I remember my childhood is your allowing us to have pets. When our Inky seems to be tracking into the house more than her share of mud, I recall the very special place Togo had in our home. How his stubby black tail wriggled with joy whenever we paid him any attention! How eagerly he would bring a ball to us, drop it at our feet, and beg us to play with him!

You welcomed our friends and our pets, but most of all, Mother, you never were too occupied or too weary to welcome us when we came home from school. On blustery wintry days it was so good to come bursting in the door to the warm house and call, "Mother, are you there?"

When we went away to complete our education and to work, and later when we were all in homes of our own, you have always stood by us. It has been so comforting to turn to you in our anxiety or perplexity.

Then too, it has been a great source of strength to us to know that each morning when you waken you remember us, one by one, in your prayers. I am very sure they help us through each day. As we think of you too at that time, the miles between us seem to vanish.

The French have a saying, "A mother's love is ever in its Spring", and the Scottish folk "The Mother's breath is aye so sweet". In the springtime of the year, when the world out of doors is so full of loveliness, it is good to have this special day, Mother's Day. We are thankful through and through that in all the days in all the seasons, we can call eagerly with confidence of a quick response, "Mother, are you there?" just like we did when we were small. . . We hope you will be with us for a long, long time . . . and be just as swift to ask us for anything we can do for you. . .

With love,
from your "middle" child

License tests

The provincial driver tests will be held here, for issuance of new licenses, on Thursday, May 30. The mobile bureau and staff will be stationed all day at the Court House, Grace Street, on that date.

BRUSH-FIRE HAZARD

The country is drying out quickly and the fire hazard is rising. Grass fires are very dangerous at the present time and should not be started under any circumstances. The forest will soon be dry enough to burn and will be very susceptible to fire until the leaves come out. If you see a fire burning unattended, report it to the nearest Inspector of the Department of Lands and Forests. Do not forget that it is forbidden to burn brush even on your own property without a permit from the government inspector.

Business ladies attend seminar in Montreal

Brownsburg — On Saturday, April 27, Mrs. R. Goldthorpe, Mrs. A. Lefebvre, Mrs. Harry Millar, Mrs. Geo. Witham and Misses Doris White, Alix Bourassa and Florence Ambeault, attended a one-day seminar for secretaries and business women, given by the National Secretaries Association, Montreal Chapter, which was held in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal.

A well-balanced program was arranged, with presentations and discussions. The morning sessions, held in the Duluth Salon, included an informative lecture by Mr. Michael Solomon, Educational Development Laboratories. His topic, "Is Reading a Habit or a Skill?" (a scientific approach to reading) proved interesting and informative.

A delightful coffee break was enjoyed in the McKenzie Salon, after which the second lecture, "A 5-BX Plan for Your Job", was presented by Mr. B. H. Anderson, Systems and Procedures specialist of Canadian Industries Limited, Montreal.

Luncheon was served in the Salle Bonaventure, with the Rt. Rev. Kenneth Maguire, Bishop of Montreal, in attendance, also Assistant Dean Magnus Flynn of Sir George Williams University business school, who graciously received the N.S.A. Scholarship. A special kind of fashion show ("The Magic Suitcase") was presented by DuPont of Canada Ltd., with commentators, Mrs. Lissa Taylor and Mr. Alex Reaper.

The afternoon session was especially interesting and uplifting, when Dr. Margaret E. Nix presented her address, "Living in an Atmosphere" (adjusting to modern tensions). Dr. Nix is Associate Professor, Department of Health and Social Medicine, at McGill University, and is well known and respected in the Montreal district for her enlightening and inspiring talks which prove beneficial to all who are fortunate to know and hear her.

A very interesting and delightful day was enjoyed by all who attended.

Second pilgrimage visits war graves in Holland

Ottawa — Seventy-nine next-of-kin of Canadian war dead buried in Holland are presently visiting that country. The second of four pilgrimages left Dorval last Thursday evening.

(Members of the group from this County are Mrs. Jean Chisholm and Mrs. Ernest Brunelle, of Lost River.)

The pilgrims landed at Amsterdam, then proceeding to Holten to spend a week as guests of Dutch families. While there, they have visited the Military Cemetery where Canadian fathers, sons, brothers and husbands are buried and taken part in a special ceremony of Remembrance for the war dead of all nations — the ceremony being attended by the Queen of the Netherlands and distinguished representatives of other governments.

The pilgrimage is a joint undertaking of the Netherlands War Graves Committee and the Royal Canadian Legion. The Legion is acting as agent for the Netherlands group, which has provided accommodation and hospitality in Holland at no cost to the pilgrims.

Some of the Dutch families in whose homes the pilgrims are quartered have been providing extra care for 6,331 Canadian graves since the war. Each Dutch family has adopted a grave, and in many cases has been corresponding with Canadian next-of-kin. In many of these homes, a picture of the deceased Canadian ex-serviceman is prominently displayed.

A third pilgrimage, possibly to the Holten area, leaves Montreal on September 20. The fourth is planned for Bergen-op-Zoom in October.

Equipment can infect crop

All potato planting equipment that has had contact with diseased tubers should be thoroughly disinfected before use. If this isn't done, unfortunate results can follow.

For instance, in a test at the CDA research station at Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, Quebec, a planter contaminated with bacterial ring rot organisms passed the infection on to 80 percent of the crop seeded with the equipment.

Decontamination is, therefore, worthwhile.

Hose the equipment well with water under pressure. Then disinfect with one pint of Teramine in 35 gallons of water, or with one part of concentrated bleaching water in three parts of water. Boiling water or steam under pressure will also do the job.

MEASURING SUCCESS

A successful man is one who makes more money than his wife can spend. A successful woman is one who can find such a man.

Topic given at Home-School annual meet

year, and of his impressions as a member of the group of 50 who represented Canada. The Commonwealth Tour was a completely private enterprise, instigated by the Duke of Edinburgh, who raised the money used for the venture.

Mr. Regimbal emphasized that the theme of the Conference was orientation, investigation, and then discussion, and that no findings or offical reports came out of the Conference. It was general, personal impressions that were sought, and this was brought out by the Duke of Edinburgh himself in a film which Mr. Regimbal presented, when he said he hoped that the Conference would focus attention on the problems of people, and that free discussion would help individuals to better see their own country's problems.

In a second film which Mr. Regimbal presented, several of the members, each representing a different Commonwealth country, were interviewed. Most members seemed impressed by Canada's vast size and variations in living standards. Some of the members thought we were highly industrialized, but many thought we are not making full use of our potential. They thought that all people are generally friendly, courteous, and have similar general problems. They found that Canadians work hard, play hard. The most valuable thing learned seemed to be a need for education, since it seemed that Canada has no unemployed skilled workers.

Mr. Regimbal, describing his part in the tour, said that he and his group visited all phases of Canadian industry, mines, mills, farms, fishing, etc., across the Dominion. They investigated human consequences as involved in all these various industries, visiting husbands at work, wives at home, and life in general as it is in each town. Their idea was to see how changing patterns in industry have affected Canadians and Canada. One point that Mr. Regimbal noted was that Canadians as a whole are not mobile; we seem to have lost our zest for discovery and devolopment. As Mr. Regimbal said — and the members who were interviewed in the film generally seemed to agree — this is a wonderfully productive and promising country. We must never take it for granted.

Mr. Wes Younkie moved a very warm vote of thanks on behalf of the members present, and further discussion was carried on in the cafeteria over coffee.

Dollard fete Sunday, May 19

The annual Dollard des Ormeaux demonstration is being held next Sunday, May 19, at Carillon. The occasion is sponsored by the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Lachute-Ayersville, and Marcel Decary is the organizer.

Open-air mass will be celebrated by the Rev. J. St.-Martin, parish priest of Carillon, with an appropriate sermon. In the afternoon there will be an observance at the Dollard monument in the village, with speeches and the depositing of wreaths.

Present for the occasion will be Mr. Vincent Drouin, M.P.; Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.; C. A. Shaffer, honorary president of the Dollard committee; Maurice Dumas, diocesan president of the St. Jean Baptiste Society; the Rev. Dalma Brisebois of Ayersville, chaplain, and Fernand Berthiaume, president of the local branch of the Society.

Air Cadets of the Ayersville Squadron 648, and Catholic Scouts and Guides, are expected to take part in the program.

R'ly hobbyist inspired by 'Over the Years' presents train models to Carillon Museum

On behalf of the Argenteuil Historical Society, its president, Mr. Allen G. Talbot, took possession last week of an interesting exhibit which is now installed in the Carillon Museum. This is an authentic addition to the present display of pictures and models on Ottawa Valley transportation. The Museum has models of the Shepherd Navigation Co. vessels on the Montreal-Carillon and the Grenville-Ottawa routes. The new addition is an in-between link, in the form of replicas of the two trains of the old Carillon & Grenville Railway. (A picture of one of the models is reproduced with this article.) The miniatures were made by a railroad hobbyist, Mr. Jos. H. Laviolette, of the Scotch Road, Grenville, after much study, entailing visits to the Museum and measuring of the pictorial records.

It is gratifying to The Watchman to know that its columns were, in part, an inspiration for this work. The story is told in a letter from Mr. Laviolette himself, received some time ago with pictures of his models:

Model of the "Raftsman", which plied the riverfront on the Carillon & Grenville Railway from 1860 to 1905. The model above (and that of its confemporary, the "Ottawa") is to the scale of ½-inch to 1 foot, "O" gauge.

P.O. Box 116, Grenville, Que.

Dear Editor:

As my late father was a C.N.R. Railway conductor, I have always been extremely interested in trains.

Since my retirement from the Northern Electric, Montreal, in 1958, I knew I had to pursue a hobby during the winter months, so I chose to continue with railway models. Having read many of your items in "Over the Years", I found interesting references to the Carillon & Grenville Railway. So — having been taken on an excursion by boat to Carillon, then by the train to Grenville, in 1904-5 — my interest was spurred further to make enquiries among the older friends and neighbors of Grenville, to find some photos and information regarding that old train. My enquiries were very rewarding, so that over two years ago I felt satisfied to start making the two models of the "Ottawa" and the "Raftsman". These are now fully completed, so I thought you might be interested to know that it was your "Over the Years" column that was largely instrumental in producing the models that I intend to offer to the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, in Carillon.

I am enclosing snapshots of both models, which you are welcome to keep.

Yours respectfully,

Jos. H. Laviolette

Mayor addressed Lions Club on present annexation move

Mayor Dave Campbell and the town councillors (with one unavoidable exception) were the guests of the Lions Club at their dinner meeting last week, for another of those community programs so fittingly arranged by Horace Lamarche, program chairman. Secretary Keith Clarke occupied the chair in the absence of Royal Carrière, president, and the highlight of the meeting was a talk by Mayor Campbell on the project for annexing part of St. Jerusalem Parish, which he illustrated with a large map.

The aldermen present were introduced individually by Mr. Lamarche, and (ex-mayor, ex-president) Leopold Carrière ably introduced the speaker — whose career in business, and in amateur and professional sport, is a story in itself.

Mayor Campbell dispelled any thought of rich returns as an immediate product of annexation. At the outset it would cost Lachute some moderate expense; the urban part of St. Jerusalem will be better off, and the rural population will not suffer. But in a period of 10 years, the result would be of benefit to all the area around Lachute — farmers, manufacturers, citizens and businessmen. This was the long-term vision which impells the present move.

There had been six industries enquiring about establishment here, with no concrete probabilities so far. There are many factors involved; one of the most important of these is available land, another is the backing of an industrial loan fund, through which the town could offer financial assistance. (The idea of tax exemptions and concessions is no longer in vogue among municipalities.) . . Mayor Campbell here explained the workings of a loan fund, such as Lachute is now seeking authorization to establish with a $500,000 capital.

Pursuing the subject of annexation, the speaker elaborated on the legal procedure involved in such a step. The requirements are such that everything is aboveboard, publicized by various media, the taxpayers consulted in public meetings and (if necessary) by ultimate referendum. Every opportunity is given for objections to be heard.

It is logical to believe the operation of two municipalities jointly would be more economical than two municipalities separately. An instance will have to be faced in the not-too-distant future, when Lachute, Ayersville and urban St. Jerusalem will be compelled to set up sewage-treatment facilities. Here, it would be obviously less costly to combine in a single investment.

As far as St. Jerusalem is concerned, the Mayor could not cite exact figures at the moment since these involved the Parish. . . In regard to adjacent Ayersville, Lachute has no present proposal except a possibility of annexing the Agricultural Society's grounds and territory.

At a point in his discussion, Mayor Campbell noted that, whereas 25 years ago St. Jerusalem numbered 265 operating farmers, that number today is amazingly reduced. He prescribed the area, now being surveyed, which Lachute hopes to annex — including "Lane's Purchase" plus a tract east of town and across to East Settlement — and in this area he estimated there are today fewer than 25 bona fide farmers.

The speaker was warmly thanked by Lion Fernand Legault, QC, who in his legal capacity has given much study to the promotion of this annexation.

Lions' affairs of interest to community

Various matters or community concern were discussed at the Lions Club meeting last week, chaired by Keith Clarke, vice-president and secretary.

Roger Regimbal, as Agriculture committeeman, explained to the club members the situation in regard to Lachute Fair this year — the Lions having given over their entertainment project to Legion Branch 70. This was due to the booking of the RCMP Musical Ride, under auspices of the Legion. It required a two-day presentation of this program in order to justify the expense of its engagement, and the Lions were therefore giving over their regular Fair night (Friday) in favor of the Legionnaires.

Gabriel Valois, chairman for the French-language entries in the annual public speaking contest, spoke with pride on the success of Miss Celine Laurin, who had won the Eastern Canada championship in the French-speaking girls' class. Gabriel exhibited the trophy, which had now come to Lachute for the fifth time. Miss Laurin also won a top cash prize of $150; a $300 scholarship; and an invitation to speak at the Lions' Canadian Convention later this month in Cornwall, Ont.

Col. Ernest Emmett reported $1,687 collected for Easter Seals ($127 short of last year's results), and personally thanked Mayor Campbell at this meeting for Lachute Town's contribution of $25.

On behalf of the Highland Cadet battalion, Lion Bob Haydon, their instructor, thanked the Lions for a gift of $50 towards musical instruments for the nucleus of a military band. Through war surplus disposal, he had purchased drums and bugles, and the Cadets had held their first practice. Mr. Haydon hoped the boys would be in trim to take part in parades with their band before too long.

Horace Lamarche drew the attention of his fellow clubmen to a publicity venture late this season. In July, the Lachute Fair Grounds will be the scene of four television productions, to be presented in the program "Dans Tous les Cantons" over the French CBC network.

Other committeemen spoke on matters of more immediate concern to the club, and Lion Hal Joyce led in a rousing song session. There were around 50 members and guests present, including Mayor D. Campbell and town councillors.

Mayor, council contests in three municipalities

Taxpayers of three adjacent municipalities voted last Monday — in two instances for mayors, and also for councillors. Gaston Plamondon was elected to the mayoralty in Ayersville and William Morrow in Chatham Township.

Ayersville Election

Gaston Plamondon polled a 102-vote majority against Douglas Simon for the mayoral seat in Ayersville. The vote was 399-297. Both candidates were previously councillors.

In Seat No. 1, Edgar Cyr was re-elected with a 302-vote majority over his opponent, Philippe Malette.

In Seat No. 4, Ernest Champagne defeated Jean-Jacques Dupré; his majority was 358.

In Seat No. 6, Albert Richer had a 239-vote majority against Marcel Therrien.

The personnel of Ayersville Council is now as follows: Mayor Gaston Plamondon, Councillors Edgar Cyr, Laurent Brasseur, Raymond Champagne, Ernest Champagne, Arthur Lanthier and Albert Richer. Secretary-treasurer is André Laurin, who recently succeeded Jacques Poitras. Mr. Poitras served as officer for the election.

In Brownsburg

In municipal elections at Brownsburg on Monday, one newcomer was elected to village council — Germain Doth defeating his opponent, Alcide Leduc, by 205 votes. The count of ballots was 472 to 267.

Brownsburg Council now comprises — Mayor Jas. Donaldson, Councillors Florent Fortin, Georges Therrien, Laughlin Baccardax, Gerald Vowles, Ernest Gagné and Germain Doth (replacing Ernest Legault). Secretary-treasurer is Vincent Charbonneau.

Chatham Township

In Chatham, ex-Councillor Wm. Morrow defeated two opponents — Grant Beatty and Bruce Bradford — for the mayoral office. Votes polled were 225, 179 and 122, respectively.

In Seat No. 1, Ernest Lacasse defeated Guy Guay, 365-150.

In Seat No. 2, Réal Demers was elected by acclamation to replace Jean-Paul Rochon.

In Seat No. 3, Reg Morrow was also elected by acclamation, replacing Wm. Morrow, the new mayor.

The Chatham Council (whose jurisdiction embraces St. Philippe, Cushing, Grece's Point Whisselltown, a part of Brownsburg, Dalesville and Pine Hill) includes Mayor Wm. Morrow, Councillors Ernest Lacasse, Réal Demers, Reg Morrow, Chas. Maisonneuve, Adam Meyer and Bazil Clark. The municipal secretary is Roland Cadieux.

Launch annual campaign for Community Concerts

At Lachute Golf and Country Club on Monday evening, a rally of 40-odd workers launched the 16th annual membership campaign of the Community Concerts Association. Lachute and district centres were well represented.

Mrs. Fernand Legault, the president, welcomed the gathering. She gave particular credit to Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Bedard for the immense amount of work involved in their secretarial duties for the Association. She thanked and introduced the campaign chairmen, Mlle Juliette Rodrigue and Mrs. A. R. Rigby, then called upon the visiting representative from Columbia Artists, New York, Mrs. Nan Cooke, who is here to assist in promoting the campaign.

Mrs. Cooke spoke highly of the Hungarian "Bihari" troupe of dancers and musicians, booked for a concert here October 14 next, as a highlight of the season's series. She described their performance as an extravaganza of colorful, exciting gypsy dancing to lively Hungarian music. This attraction, on its first American tour, is completely "sold out" — and this speaker's impressions confirmed the confidence with which the directors here had bespoken a visit from this group. . . Mrs. Cooke also spoke of the experiences of a representative attending the annual seminars and intermingling with the artists, those who bring to Community Concerts "the cream of this generation's music".

Other speakers were Mlle Rodrigue, Mrs. Bigby and the secretary, Jacques Bedard, who all gave encouragement to the canvassers, suggested ideas of approach, and discussed details of the campaign.

Ladies of the organization are in attendance each afternoon this week at campaign headquarters, in the offices of Deslauriers & Marcil Inc., Main Street (who have again graciously extended their hospitality). The phone number is LO 2-6550, and the workers were urged to report periodically on their progress, and to expedite the canvass so that an estimate of results may be known by the week's end.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed afterwards in the Terrace Room of the Golf Club chalet.

Widely varying topics at recent meetings of Rotary

"What am I bid?" . . "Going . . going . . . GONE!" . . . The rapid-fire jargon of the perspiring auctioneer can be heard, on Tuesday of every week, at the Lachute Auction Sales barns on No. 8 Highway, west of town. Each Tuesday, from the surrounding countryside, there gathers an assembly of people, mostly from the farms, who attend the weekly sales either to buy or to sell. Anything can be put up for sale — and almost anything can be sold. Livestock forms the largest portion of the business, but any item, from a new 3-piece suite to a chair with only two legs and no seat, can either be disposed of or obtained.

Douglas Simon, proprietor of Lachute Auction Sales, was guest speaker at the May 2nd meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, and an entertaining and interesting guest he proved to be. He explained that, over the years, the sale of livestock has altered to a considerable degree. This has been caused by the modernization of equipment for use on farms, and the new methods now used to process and produce dairy products.

Maple syrup, locally produced, is now marketed through the Lachute Auction Sales, and last year amounted to a worth of over a quarter of a million dollars. This represents a collection of about two million gallons of sap from the district.

Each sale completed at the auctions requires a tax report. Tax has to be paid on all sales excepting those of livestock, and all reports have to be forwarded to Ottawa.

George McGibbon introduced Mr. Simon to the assembly, and Bob Armstrong tendered thanks on behalf of the club for providing such an enjoyable evening.

At last week's meeting, Rotarian John Chalmers introduced Miss Betsy Burroughs as guest speaker for the evening. Miss Burroughs (a niece of Rotarian George McGibbon) graduated from Acadia University, where she received a bachelor's degree in Sociology and was awarded a Canada Council Scholarship to McGill. She has spent a year teaching Sociology in New York, and is this year assisting in Sociology at McGill and working for her Master of Arts degree.

Miss Burroughs talked on the role Sociology is taking in today's modern living, and described some interesting examples of how businesses benefit by adopting ideas they are taught by sociologists, hired to study and improve the firm's standards. She also touched upon Psychology, and the differences between this subject and Sociology. After the talk, the members were invited to ask questions, and judging by the enthusiasm in this period, it was evident that the topic had been much enjoyed. . . Wes Freeland extended thanks on behalf of the club, and good wishes to the speaker for success in her studies at McGill.

Junior Chamber Road-e-o May 22 for young drivers

Lachute's Junior Chamber of Commerce is organizing its second annual road safety Road-e-o, to take place May 22. The event is designed as an opportunity for young drivers to show their skill and to improve their driving.

All youths or young ladies who will not reach the age of 20 before July 10 next, and who possess a driving permit, are invited to take part. It is required that they know the traffic laws and safe-driving practices, rather than that they be expert drivers. Any who are sure of themselves on these qualifications, are eligible to compete.

Information may be obtained from Wm. Jones (LO 2-2362) or Yves Lamarche (LO 2-2426).

Prizes will be awarded on points ($50 cash and other awards) and the top performer will qualify to take part in the provincial Road-e-o trials.

The tests will be held on the parking ground at Lachute Shopping Centre, on Chatham Street, commencing at 6.30 p.m.

Week's Epigram

Experience is a wonderful thing. It enables you to recognize a mistake when you make it again.

Alert on water wastage!

LACHUTE, AS WE know and appreciate, has a new modern filtration plant designed to treat, clarify and purify an excellent quality of water. This plant was designed and engineered to supply a town double our size under normal usage. The capacity of the plant is to deliver 2 million gallons of water per day — whereas, under average conditions, we would be using only 1 million gallons a day.

Experience in other areas is that, on a per-person, per-day basis, 70 to 80 gallons is average consumption. On this same basis Lachute is using 200 gallons per person per day. For the past three weeks our plant has been running from just under-capacity to over-capacity. If we run over-capacity, our reserve of 30,000 gallons is being depleted.

The cause of our present difficulties is one of several — LEAKING MAINS, OVER USAGE, or WASTE.

These causes are being investigated, and the counsel of outside specialists is being sought. A solution, of course, must be found, for we are not yet in a season of high water demand as compared to summer, when hoses and sprinklers come into general use.

Until this situation can be rectified, citizens in the area can be most helpful, by using water reasonably, repairing leaking taps and toilets, and in reporting to the town authorities known or suspected leaks or wastage.

Growing pains in Brownsburg expansion; month's affairs at village council

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Something of a record was set at the May session of the Brownsburg Council, as the town's governing body O.K.'d payment of $4,182.95 in regular monthly vouchers then added an additional $13,875.54 worth of special vouchers in payment of legal fees, purchase of the new car, the snowplow and the tractor. Secretary Vincent Charbonneau was in a happy frame of mind as he noted that the large payments were made possible by the prompt settlement of taxes by local home-owners.

A good part of the session was devoted to discussion of roads and culverts in the Cedar Crest Homes area on Maple Avenue South. Once again, it became clear to all concerned that things were not clear when the project was started. Misunderstandings regarding road levels, types of culvert to be used under driveways, etc., led to Council producing an edict which might help, at least temporarily. When a new street is accepted by the town, in regard to location, entrance and exit, etc., the sewerage line will be put in (by whom?) and

(Comments on the Local Scene)

The administrative board of the Argenteuil Hospital regrets that the opening of this hospital will be delayed beyond the anticipated date, May 15. Reason given for the delay is a problem of water pressure. With the aim of ensuring the utmost safety and convenience of inmates, the board has no alternative but to press for the earliest correction of this defect.

Postscript to "Argenteuil Outdoors" column: A moose was sighted one day last week in the apple orchards near the Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine, only a mile out of town off the busy Brownsburg-Lachute highway.

For the record — this vicinity shared the snowstorm on Friday which was widespread in this section of Canada. A rare freak of weather on the 10th of May.

Notary Richard Valois has been appointed election officer for the electoral district of Argenteuil, replacing Notary Jacques Beaudoin, who resigned the position. The appointment is by order-in-council dated May 3.

Culture booms in the spring. This is the season for perennial revival of the arts — as evidence the exhibitions, annual meetings and membership campaigns. . . Now is the time to enroll (or re-enroll) for Community Concerts. All music lovers — do it now!

The St. Jean Baptiste Society has asked the Chamber of Commerce to urge all storekeepers to close on St. Jean Baptiste Day (June 24). They contend that, if stores close for Victoria Day, they should similarly observe a holiday on the fete of French-Canada's patron saint. They are hoping for unanimous action on this move.

By BOB ATCHISON

You may remember some of the fishermen were going to get together on this business of (supposedly) private lakes; this did materialize with some of them. I'm sorry to say that in two cases where the owners were approached these boys were treated with foul language and everything but courtesy. However, a couple of discourteous business men do not make the whole story, so they are going to take it from there.

Everyone seems to greet me with the same observation these days — namely, about the geese. Calls from all over the district made it evident that these great birds had landed in almost every place available. I know the North River was well populated with them for a couple of days. I did hear a queer one too; it seems some of these geese landed down at the Blair pheasant farm. This sets me thinking, how about a "Phesgoose"? This sure would startle the shooters. Seeing something like this plowing along would make anyone swear off the stimulants! Another story related how a couple of drivers coming from St. Jerome had to stop to get some of these fliers off the roads where they were picking gravel. This only proves that all wildlife will trust humans at the beginning; what happens after that is our fault. From experience, I know that if these birds are not startled, you can approach very close to them, providing you keep yourself in view all the way; they will not be too afraid. It is encouraging to know that so many of these birds stopped in the area; maybe this will be a regular occurrence from now on.

The groundhog across the river from us has got himself married; a mate is now on the scene. Where it came from, I don't know. I would imagine in about 40 days or so we will be seeing the young ones running around. I know these things are pests, but until they become too numerous they are just a "nice little animal".

Fishing has been spotty. I have seen some good catches, while in other cases there was nothing. I know of a couple of boys who stayed out all night, travelling some distance from Lachute; they had excellent luck — a great bag of two catfish was taken! And they nearly froze in the attempt. However, this is to be expected for awhile.

The creeks, while still high, have yielded a few good trout. From Silver Lake, practically nothing; while Louisa has started to produce — including a couple of very nice Greys, 2½ to 3 pounds. Lake Hughes has produced nothing but catfish and suckers; this is tragic, as this lake used to yield excellent trout, both Greys and Speckled.

As the water is still very cold in Lake Sir John, it is still scarce on bass, but with warmer weather it will be another story. This has always been a good spot for these fighters, enough to make it interesting. Perch in this lake are good right now. They will doubtless be infested with worms later in the season, but now they are in top condition.

I hadn't seen any ducks around our immediate area, however there were literally hundreds of them a little farther up the river. It was possible to get almost within arm's-length of them before they took off. By the looks of things, they are going to nest in this particular spot. That depends, of course, on the number of boats around; too many intruders and they will find some other place to bring up their broods. This will be a wonderful sight if they remain; imagine seeing all the youngsters flipping around!

All the summer birds are back with us — Orioles, Scarlet Tanangers, and a few Martens.

I have taken a beating since I wrote on the big fish I spotted in the North River a couple of weeks ago. The kidding I don't mind, and expect (even you, Editor). What I would like to say is that there just has to be a world record-breaker in this water. (Gotta film in my camera! — Ed.) Having tried for several years to convince some of you fishermen, it is now up to you to disprove me. And if you tie into one of these SCRAPPERS, you'll be convinced from then on. I know most of you are purist anglers (trout only); but to tell the truth, just how many of these are you getting? To me, fishing is a sport to be tried on every type and species, be it barbot to musky. All these fish will give you sport if caught in the right way, and this does not mean using hooks for shark, lead for anchors, etc. Try using the lightest tackle you can, and get the real thrill. Even your 1-lb. perch can give you a workout, if your line is 1-lb. test with tiny hooks, no sinkers, and even a small float for free drifting. Believe me, this is sport, and one in which the catch does not take too much importance in the scheme of things.

The Canadian shooting team did not do as well as expected, and in my opinion, this was no fault of theirs. It appears we Canadians are expected to go to a foreign country with little or no time to get used to new environments. Talking to a number of good shooters from this district, they all seem to think these chaps should have had a little more time to adapt to these conditions. I agree. We can be very proud of the showing they made, and try and do something for them in later years that will bring greater glory to this Canada of ours.

A conversation the other day on wildlife, revealed the prevalent misunderstanding on some of our animals. One gent had been told from his early childhood that lynx were vicious, cunning killers and should be shot at every opportunity. We know now that this is not so; very rarely do they attack any human, and then only in cases of extreme provocation. . . Wolves were even more maligned. I don't understand why everyone thinks these animals should be killed on sight. I am not going to look this up again, but it has been classed a notorious killer since time immemorial. I don't believe that one substantial story has ever come up of wolves attacking humans in this country. As for bears, well, this is laughable. Most people think these animals will attack by instinct. The odd one may do so, but in most cases they are so glad to get away from man, they present a funny spectacle in doing so. Don't get me wrong; I am not arguing that all animals are kindly and harmless. In some cases they do have to be killed; however, far too much killing is being done under the guise of ridding the country of marauders. Governments are starting to realize now, that useless killing by bounty hunters has to be curtailed. I most heartily agree with this, and so should everyone else. With our legal slaughtering in the guise of sport, we are in danger of one day wakening up to the fact there is nothing left to kill.

On the subject of hunting, just how much action has there been from the Provincial Government towards the control of stupid shooters? From all the briefs presented by different groups — Farm Forums, Hunting Clubs, etc. — one might have expected some action by this time. True, the .22 has once more come into its own as an outcome of these briefs; but why nothing else has been done is beyond me. It seems there is just not enough interest shown out of season to warrant any government action. After all, they can cope with all the beefing for a couple of months if they are sure it will be dropped once the season is over. It's too bad that some of the petitions presented are really for the benefit of a group, instead of for the whole; but even this could be overlooked, if some action were taken on the requests worth while.

Fitting 'finis' to Minor Hockey

Some of the season's boisterous enthusiasm re-echoed in l'Ecole Secondaire, as the minor hockey league teams and organizers gathered last Sunday afternoon in the assembly hall to officially close their activities.

Paul Deslauriers, president of this Lions-fostered league, presented team and individual trophies to coaches and players, and an exciting film of Gordie Howe in action thrilled the young spectators. Dr. Eric Mongeon m.c.'d the proceedings. Mr. Deslauriers congratulated the young hockeyists and their trainers, referees and sponsors, the School Commission, and all who had helped to support minor hockey during the past season. He encouraged all to renew their enthusiasm next season.

In addition to the team trophies, there were individual awards to best goalers and to the top-scorer in each of the three categories. There was a trophy awarded also to A. Maisonneuve as best supporter of the minor hockey league, while the young charges of the Lowe Bros. teams presented a token of gratitude to Cliff and Hugh Lowe, for their keen devotion to their interests throughout the season.

Supper was served to the gathering, in the school cafeteria.

Lawn-Boy's new Finger-Tip Start makes a best-seller even better

If you can lift a finger you can start the new 1963 Lawn-Boy. Lawn-Boy engineers have designed a new ignition system and geared starter that reduces starting effort an incredible 94%. Finger-Tip start is just one of many ways the new Lawn-Boy gives you your money's worth—here are some others:

Lightweight. Lawn-Boy is easier to push than conventional steel power mowers because Lawn-Boy is made of magnesium, a metal lighter than steel. It is unusually tough and is rust proof, too.

Unique Grasscatcher. Lawn-Boy's Chute & Bag Grasscatcher does your raking for you; vacuum cleans as you cut, doesn't clog; holds a bushelful; detaches and empties in seconds.

Spring Steel Blades. Lawn-Boy cuts best because the blades are made of case-hardened spring steel—the same as quality barber shears are made of. Each blade has Lawn-Boy's exclusive blade stiffener which keeps the blade level to cut level.

Quietness. Lawn-Boy's muffler is the largest on any mower . . . therefore it's the quietest mower on the market.

2-Year Warranty. 24 months against defective parts and workmanship.

Let your Lawn-Boy dealer show you the new Lawn-Boy soon, see for yourself why it's Canada's best-selling power mower. 5 models to choose from.

the road gravelled and graded. Persons wanting to build will then have to apply to the town for permission to put in a culvert for a driveway. The town will specify the size of the culvert and the level at which it shall be placed.

A revised traffic by-law was adopted after final reading and unanimous approval by Council members. The regulations present somewhat stiffer penalties for traffic infractions and spell out for automobile drivers just what is legal in regard to parking, stopping, speeding, etc. . . Now what Council must do is enforce the law. Whether it is enforced, remains to be seen.

Also passed — a motion to have an out-of-town firm make a free estimate of the cost of installing aluminum street signs in the village. When the total cost of the signs becomes known, it will probably bring a few more visitors to subsequent Council meetings.

Mayor James Donaldson reported that he had attended a meeting of the County Council, wherein it was proposed that opinions be obtained from village and town councils in the area regarding payment of councillors and mayors for time and for travelling. The councillors did not seem to be over-joyed at the prospect, although one commented that there was too much travelling around for nothing (free). Another councillor, in a rather acid comment, was heard to say, "Yes, there is a lot of travelling around for nothing!"

Word was received from Quebec authorities stating that the application for a loan by the town had been approved in the amount of $46,000. Council will borrow this sum temporarily in order to get the sewerage project underway while final arrangements are made for the sale of debentures. Although acceptance of the tender for the project must come from provincial authorities, it is a foregone conclusion that T. P. Hall will get the job, since his was the only tender submitted.

Some discussion took place regarding the operation of the chlorinator for the town water supply, after a report from the provincial health authority showed that the bacteria count was high in some of the drinking water samples tested in March. Council seemed to think that the high count was to be expected because of the run-off from the snow. However, the chlorinator has been giving trouble, so the unit will be checked out and necessary repairs effected immediately.

After reading the police report for the month, Councillor Georges Therrien turned a quizzical eye in an attempt to catch the reaction of this reporter when it was noted that 24 speeding tickets had been issued by Chief Tom Williams. The reaction — "So what else is new?" Twenty-four speeders is a lot of speeders, too many in our town; but there are a lot more who don't get caught because they aren't week-end passers-by. These offenders are people from this general area who make use of the roads during week days between the hours of 5 and 8 p.m.

In study group for senior women bankers

Miss Louise Miller, accountant in charge of the Bank of Montreal's Ayersville branch, has been chosen to attend the B of M's first staff study group for senior women bankers in Montreal, from May 21 to 31.

Miss Miller's appointment as accountant in charge of the Ayersville B of M in 1961 was the first of its kind to a woman anywhere in the history of the bank. She has been in charge of the Ayersville office since its establishment in 1957. Previously she served at the Lachute branch.

Miss Louise Miller

The banking course is the first of its kind organized by the B of M for its female staff. Miss Miller will be one of 14 senior women bankers from the bank's six divisions across Canada. The course is designed to recognize the growing role being played by women in the daily operation of the bank throughout this country.

Lectures, discussions and workshops are planned, to prepare the ladies for further responsibilities at their branches and to acquaint them with the bank's operations at more than 900 offices in Canada.

The course will be held in the B of M's staff training quarters in the 34-storey C-I-L House in the heart of downtown Montreal and will be under the direction of A. E. Clark, the senior instructor.

Tense moments at Carillon as erosion threat averted

Hydro-Quebec engineers experienced a few bad moments last year — moments when it looked as if their new $150,000,000 dam on Ottawa River might be in danger — wrote Peter Desbarats in last Saturday's Montreal Star.

For a few days, they suspected that a hidden flaw in the bed of the river might threaten the stability of the half-mile-long Carillon dam. The flaw appeared shortly after the spillway of the dam was opened for service in 1962. As water rushed over the spillway, it gouged a trench into the riverbed downstream from the dam.

It turned out to be a false alarm. But Hydro engineers took rapid action in any event to plug the trench and guarantee the stability of the dam.

Long before the project was started in 1959, geologists knew that Carillon wasn't a perfect site. Rock beneath the riverbed was riddled with tiny fissures and cavities. These had to be plugged with liquid concrete to provide a solid foundation for the dam which would straddle Quebec's second largest river.

Curtain of Rock

Preparing a stable footing for the dam was costly, but the site at Carillon was the best available. Today the dam and 14-turbine powerhouse sit on a 40-foot "blanket" of rock and concrete. The front of the dam is protected by a 150-foot vertical "curtain" of concrete-injected rock to make its foundations watertight.

The acid test came last spring, when water began to flow over the 12 spillway chutes at the south end of the dam. Within a short time workers noticed a suspicious quantity of rocks and dirt in the current, just below the spillway.

Initial soundings showed that water gushing from the spillway was carving a huge trench into the bed of the river. As the current ate into this hidden fault in the riverbed, the crevice grew deeper and deeper, closer and closer to the base of the dam. By the time it was discovered, it was about 50 feet deep and 250 feet long. The upper end of the fissure was 150 feet from the base of the spillway.

Solution Found

Engineers quickly closed the spillway at the threatened point. Conferences were called. Tests were run on models of the river to devise methods of plugging the crevice. These showed that it would be necessary to take boulders, each weighing from 3,000 to 5,000 pounds, haul them somehow to the danger spot, and dump them in the river.

A floating bridge was constructed. Last winter trucks carried 12,000 cubic yards of rock over the bridge. The huge boulders splashed into the Ottawa, sank from sight — and stayed put. Any possibility of danger was averted by the time the heavy spring current hit the dam last month.

Engineers breathed a sigh of relief. The multi-million-dollar project was protected at a relatively low additional cost of about $75,000. Careful regulation of spillway gates will elliminate any future trouble without affecting the operation of the dam.

Apart from the crisis last summer — one of those unpredictable developments that haunt dam builders — the Carillon project has progressed according to schedule.

Four of the 60,000-horsepower turbine-generator units are now in operation, providing electricity for power-hungry Montreal consumers. All 14 generators will be in service sometime next year.

New president for Gatineau Power

Jean-Claude Lessard, chairman of Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission, announced last week the appointment of J.J. Villeneuve, engineer, to the presidency of Gatineau Power Company. Officers of six other companies taken over by Quebec Hydro were also announced.

A native Montrealer, Mr. Villeneuve has an academic background in Science, and long practical experience in the electrical field, both technical and administrative. He has served continuously for many years in Quebec Hydro.

Mr. and Mrs. Brent Connelly and family, of Huntsville, Ont., were week-end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Connelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard MacAdam, of Toledo, Ohio, spent the past week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacAdam and other relatives in this town and community.

The Birds in Snowstorm

A freak snowfall of from five to six inches struck this part of the country Friday evening; even "old timers" do not remember anything like it. During the storm a mother robin was noticed "cuddling down" to keep her family from freezing, and it is presumed Father Robin was working overtime to supply enough food for the hungry babies. However, all was well Saturday morning and the "dawn chorus" of robins and other birds was just as cheerful as usual.

The Rev. and Mrs. Earl McNutt, of Peterborough, Ont., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Tomalty.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lamarche and little daughter, Susan, of Sherbrooke, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Bacon and other relatives here.

"In Them Thar Hills"

Mr. Chester Fletcher, here from Montreal last week-end, visited Lake Louisa, installed the wharf and water intake at his cottage — while, at the same time, his mother raked leaves from a snowbank on the property. This may be considered a very unusual and unseasonable occupation at the present time of year (May 12).

Appreciation from Girl Guides

The Brownsburg Girl Guides would like to thank the citizens of Brownsburg who helped to make their Cookie Day a great success. The Guides also wish to thank Brownsburg High School for the use of their building for weekly meetings, and the Canadian Legion Senior and Auxiliary Branches for the use of their hall and kitchen at various times throughout the year. Guiding would not be possible without this kind and generous support.

Old citizen of B'burg served in two wars

The late Wm. Witham

An old-time resident of Brownsburg, Mr. William Witham, passed away suddenly in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, Montreal, on Thursday, May 2, in his 80th year.

Mr. Witham, the only son to the late Joseph Witham and his wife Emma Gaynor, was born on May 13, 1883, in Rotherham, Yorkshire, England.

He entered the British Navy at the age of 16, where he was serving during the Boer War. Upon coming to Canada in 1903 he began to work for the Dominion Cartridge Company, and during World War I, served for four years, leaving Canada with the 148th Battalion.

Left to mourn his loss, besides his wife (the former Lily Hosgood) are three sons — Fred, of Cartierville, George, of Ogdensburg, and Ernie, of Lachine, Que.; four grandchildren — Malcolm, Richard, Laurie and Kenneth Witham; also one sister, Mrs. Chris Button, of Bournemouth, Hants, England. . . He was predeceased by two daughters, Emily and Annie, and one son, William.

Funeral service, conducted by the Rev. C. S. Woods, was held in the J. P. MacKimmie Funeral Chapel, with interment at the Brownsburg Cemetery in Lachute. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Bill and Harold Hewitt, Conrad Hosgood, Wyman and Jim Hazel, and Sid Stilwell.

The flowers were many and beautiful, in silent tribute.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks to all relatives, friends and neighbors who so kindly remembered me with cards, flowers and visits during by sojourn at the hospital.

50th Wedding anniversary of 'Glen' couple

(Our District Correspondent)

Glen of Harrington — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eason held "open house" on Saturday, May 4, to commemorate their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Eason were married May 6, 1913, at St. Martin's Church, Prince Arthur Street, Montreal, which has been replaced by one of the McGill College buildings. They were married by the late Canon Troop. The only member of the wedding party now living besides Mr. and Mrs. Eason is Mrs. Eason's sister, Mrs. Stanley Mugfort, of Verdun, Que. They have three sons and two daughters, all living in Montreal and suburbs, also 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The entire family was here to help make this a very special day for their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Eason were born in Long Pond, Newfoundland, and spent their early life there, Mrs. Eason coming to Montreal in 1910 and Mr. Eason in 1911. Retiring in 1955, they have since that time made their home in The Glen.

The gift to their parents from the family was a TV set. The many friends, gifts and calls received by Mr. and Mrs. Eason were a tribute to this fine couple.

The wedding cake, decorated in the golden theme, had a simulated golden loving-cup and two wedding rings in the background.

Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. Brinkworth, of Verdun, Que., and Mrs. K. Morrison, of N.D.G. Mr. and Mrs. Eason's daughters, Mrs. Marie McKenzie and Mrs. Douglas, served the delicious refreshments.

The Rev. Mr. Bussell proposed the toast to the bride and groom of 50 years ago. Mr. Eason, Sr., replied and thanked all for their kindness.

Friends hope they will enjoy many more wedding anniversaries.

Pupils' exhibit at Centre lauded by visiting artists

The annual showing of pupils' handiwork in the fine-arts lessons at the Centre d'Art is a colorful display presenting examples from both children's and adults' classes, which was opened to the public last Sunday afternoon.

Art work in gouache, wash, oils, also drawings and even sculptures, depict not only the developing of talent but a very obvious enjoyment in their creation. From exercises in color and its application, and in various media, the exhibits include more imaginative subjects, still life, landscapes and abstract forms.

About 20 of these examples are being presented at the Art Education congress in Montreal next summer. The show is a credit to Guy Racine, tutor of the younger pupils, and Giuseppe Fiore, who instructs the two senior groups.

The latter was accompanied here for the opening by a number of colleagues, fellow teachers at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montreal, and other authorities, who rated the exhibits very highly as evidence of sound instruction and effective progress.

Jean Laforest, co-director of the Centre, extended a welcome to the visitors, and Dr. Marc Papineau, president of the organization, warmly commended the efforts of all concerned. Mtre. Fernand Legault, as chairman of the Catholic School Board, had been invited to open this exhibition, but was unable to attend; he was represented by Dr. Roger Lavigne, who showed keen interest in the Centre's accomplishments.

June wedding planned

Gray, whose engagement is announced. The marriage has been arranged to take place on Saturday, June 15, in Plymouth United Church, Sherbrooke. Miss Covey and Mr. Gray are both graduates of Bishop's University. Mr. Gray is also a graduate of Queen's University post-graduate Business Administration.

Spring concert given at Lachute High School

The annual Spring Concert presented by pupils of Lachute High School last Friday, was a very successful affair. A large attendance enjoyed the colorful and interesting program which was under the direction of the school music teacher, Mrs. R. Rigby.

Though wintery weather chilled the outer atmosphere, the school auditorium was cheerfully decorated in brilliant hues, and the costumes of the children gave a pleasing effect.

A novelty of presenting a "May Queen" in the charming little Debbie Muir of Grade I, and having her crowned by Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., provided a fitting opening to the "Spring Concert". The various grades from I to V sang their appropriate songs for the season of spring, and the "Owl and the Critic", a choral-speaking presentation of Grade V-A, under the direction of Janice Noble, was one of the highlights of the evening.

Country dances and square dancing by Grades VI-A and VI-B introduced a change of pace, and the school choir concluded the first part of the program with "May-Dew", with a solo by Miss Heather Douglas, a duet by the Misses B. Bates and D. Graham entitled "Madrigal of Spring", and a chorus, "On Field and Stream".

The second half of the program featured the old familiar English song, "Come to the Fair", and a pleasing solo by Miss B. Bates, "Buy My Strawberries". Another duet sung by the Misses P. Taylor and L. Whiteway, "The Dream-Seller", was followed by a melodious theme by R. Witham, "The Happy Wanderer", accompanied by the guitar and piano-accordian.

Three young ladies joined in the trio, "The Wraggle-Taggle Gypsies", which was appropriately followed by a Gypsy Dance by the Misses G. and K. Napp, S. Prophet and R. Painter.

The school Glee Club concluded with "The Road to the Isles" and the resounding "Land of Hope and Glory". During the intermission, the principal of the school, Mr. Fred Royal, spoke of the hard work involved in producing such a program and acclaimed the school teacher, Mrs. Rigby, who was responsible for this successful event. A bouquet was presented to her by Janice Noble, on behalf of the Glee Club of Lachute High School.

LOOKING FOR A JOB?

I'd like to suggest that any young ladies who are looking for fulltime employment might consider a job with the telephone company. While we have no openings here in town, there are jobs available in our offices in some of the larger centres. At the moment, we're in need of girls who would like to work as telephone operators, service order writers and service representatives. If you have a high school education, are in good health, enjoy working with the public, and are interested in a challenging and rewarding career, we'd be happy to have you drop in and talk with us. Our St. Jerome office is at 336 Labelle Street. I'm sure you'll find the Bell a pleasant place to work, and we're sure you'd enjoy working with the other people on our staff.

A. G. BELL'S PROPHECY

"It's conceivable that cables of telephone wires could be laid underground or suspended overhead, communicating with private dwellings, counting houses, manufactories. . . Not only so, but I believe in the future, wires will unite different cities and a man in one part of the country may communicate by word with another in a distant place." Alexander Graham Bell made this statement in the year 1878. He understood, and in remarkably prophetic words foretold, how the usefulness of his invention might be extended throughout the world. With him began the unceasing scientific progress which has overcome the barriers of distance, one by one, so that today there are no earthly limits to human speech. All who give telephone service, and all who use it, are his inheritors.

TO SERVE THE COMMUNITY BETTER

The Telephone business has always been an enterprise of change, but never more so than at present. The scope of the Bell widens constantly as the Company provides more and more customers with new and advanced services. Representatives of all departments meet regularly in local committees to consider how they can best serve their respective communities, decide upon the activities that should be undertaken to attain these goals, and make every effort to keep employees fully informed of plans and policies, both local and Company-wide. Programs have been developed and foremen and other supervisors hold regular meetings with their people to discuss both Company activities and the continuing requirements of good service for customers and the community.

Once again — Community Concerts

MORE THAN EVER before, good music is a vital factor in the growth and self-esteem of our country. Concerts by world famous artists and musical attractions add prestige and distinction to the cultural and social life of any town or city — including Lachute.

However, concerts cannot be launched without financial trepidation on a basis of random ticket-buying. Their success depends upon the support of people who join a movement to establish a permanent concert series. The plan of our Community Concert Association provides this community with musical programs of high calibre on a basis which eliminates all financial risk. It has been proven a practical, co-operative and economical plan.

The Community Concert Association is organized on a membership basis. Each member pays dues of $7 this year, and membership entitles one to attend all concerts during the season.

Every citizen is invited to join this movement. The membership campaign opened this week; after it is closed, no one may join for another year.

Every membership dollar received in dues is used for artists and local expenses involved in these concerts.

Only members may attend the concerts. Single admissions are not available under this plan. A concert presented on the basis of single admission ticket sales always has, and always will, mean financial risk.

The success of the Community Concert Association is assured by the fact that a membership must be secured during the campaign period. The aggregate dues collected make possible a minimum of three major concerts in Lachute each season. . . . The fact that the more members secured means the more concerts made possible, makes it a co-operative organization. It behooves each member to become interested in increasing the adherence.

Artists are selected immediately after the campaign week. Selections are made by a responsible directorate, whose choices are guided by popular taste. One outstanding attraction has already been spoken for.

The Community Concert Association is a non-profit, self-supporting institution operating on an economically sound basis. It deserves the support of all music-loving or culturally-minded families and citizens.

That first spring holiday

THE SEASONS roll on unchanged year after year — no matter what changes time brings in living habits — so that the Victoria Day holiday remains one of the most popular on the calendar. It marks the start of the warm-weather holidays.

Old-timers still call it "the 24th of May." But if the holiday falls on May 24, it's purely coincidental. This year it comes on Monday, May 20. . . The change to the Monday immediately preceding May 25 was made by statute in 1957.

It's also, now, the official celebration of the birthday of two Queens — Victoria and Elizabeth. (Actual birth date of the present Queen was April 21, 1926.)

Because of the official link with the Queen, the day will see salutes fired by armed forces units at many centres, with military parades at some places. It's also a great day for community fireworks shows and for popular sports events.

But chiefly it's the first holiday opportunity for the city and town dweller to go out into the country to see how the cottage fared during the winter, or just to enjoy the new green of the countryside — even though there may be a few snow patches left.

The holiday has a long history — it was proclaimed in 1854 by the legislature of the united Canadas. It was in 1901 that the Canadian Parliament declared it a holiday in commemoration of Victoria.

One particular historic link among colorful traditions of the holiday is the annual distribution of bread and cheese at the Six Nations Indian reserve near Brantford, Ont. Such a gift, to all members of the Six Nations confederacy, was pledged by Queen Victoria early in her reign. Nowadays, hundreds of loaves of fresh bread and hundreds of pounds of cheese are cut up by the Indian councillors and their families, to be handed out to members of the reserve gathering to receive the gift.

The decline in morals

THE FOLLOWING editorial by Dr. Gordon Bates, Director of the Health League of Canada, is reprinted in its entirety from the current issue of Health Magazine:

"Reference was made in the last issue of Health to the remarkable article by Jenkin Lloyd Jones on the "Decline in American Morals". More letters have been received in approval of this article than any in the history of the magazine. — What does this mean? It means that the vast majority of our readers approve the opinion of Mr. Jones. More Canadians should stand behind the ancient belief of our forefathers in the eternal verities of truth, honesty and sincerity, as expressed in the ten commandments.

There are those who are fooled into a sense of false security by the pseudo-scientific balderdash of short-sighted humans who, in their ardent pursuit of what they think is science, are prepared to throw conscience out of the window.

It seems to us that the recently reported increase in venereal disease and illegitimacy are cold facts which cannot be disregarded. Neither of these results can be explained by the mere failure of physicians to report cases. Both have their basic source in a disregard of the rules of human conduct. They should be a matter of deep concern to society, to the church, as much as to the medical profession. It should also be a matter of concern that too few people are willing to do anything about it.

"Joan of Arc sacrificed her life for France nearly 600 years ago because she heard voices. There are still voices to be heard by those who will listen. But it seems that the lure of the market and the laboratory distract our attention from the task of saving the soul of man. But when misguided people write that there is no sin, it is easy for ordinary people to believe that there is no soul either."

NEED MORE MARKETS. — We have to get more of our people back to work, there must be less drain on the unemployment fund and more paid into it. What the solution is may take a long experiment, but we believe Canada needs more markets for her goods, and this means an aggressive sales organization that will go into all parts of the world.

— Huntingdon (Que.) Gleaner

JOHN DIEFENBAKER will lead the toughest, loudest Opposition in parliamentary history — Peter C. Newman, Ottawa editor of Maclean's, predicts in the current issue of the magazine. Newman says that Diefenbaker can't afford to behave as an obstructionist, so the Conservatives will vote for most of the measures brought in by the Liberals — but only after "the most pugnacious kind of verbal crossfire."

THEY NEED EDUCATION. — When the very considerable volume of objection to the cost of education in Canada today has been waded through, the hard fact remains that the youngster who has not graduated from secondary school entering the labor market will have a tough time getting started and will have to have an extraordinary amount of luck to make much of a success in life.

STORY OF ESAU WOOD

I have no idea who wrote this crazy piece of nonsense, but I read it somewhere in the dim and distant past and memorized it so well that I can and do recite it at entertainments even today. And it always gets a laugh, from any type of audience, so I am passing it on to you. It goes like this:

Esau Wood sawed wood. Esau Wood would saw wood. All the wood that Esau Wood saw, Esau would saw. In other words, all the wood that Esau saw to saw, Esau sought to saw.

Now, Esau Wood sawed wood with a woodsaw, but one day Wood's woodsaw would saw no wood and so the wood that Wood sawed was not the wood Wood would have sawed had Wood's woodsaw sawed wood. So Esau sought a saw that would saw wood, and one day Esau saw a saw that would saw wood like no other woodsaw would saw wood. In other words, of all the woodsaws that Esau Wood ever saw, Esau never saw a woodsaw that would saw wood like that woodsaw would saw wood. So Esau bought the saw that he saw when he saw that it would saw wood.

Esau Wood had a friend named Esau Buck; this Buck sawed wood with a bucksaw, and when Esau Buck saw Esau Wood saw wood with a woodsaw, Esau Buck said to Esau Wood, "I bet I can saw more wood with a bucksaw than you can saw with a woodsaw." So Esau Wood said to Esau Buck, "No, I bet I can saw more wood with a woodsaw than you can saw with a bucksaw". So Esau Wood and Esau Buck took the bucksaw and the sawbuck over by the seesaw and began to saw. But the bucksaw bucked and bucked. Esau Buck over the bucksaw and over the sawbuck and onto the seesaw — and that's the last that we saw of Esau Buck.

Be seein' ya!

March dedicated to Boy Scouts

Ottawa — The Boy Scouts of Canada have a march of their own. Composed by RCAF Warrant Officer Con Furey, staff arranger with the Central Band of the RCAF at Ottawa, the march became Boy Scout property at the annual meeting of the National Council last Friday, May 10.

W/O Furey presented a hand-drawn conductor's score to National Council President R. C. Birkinshaw during the meeting, held at the Chateau Laurier. The score by the Irish-born musician bears the inscription: "Dedicated to the many RCAF officers, airmen and airwomen who have given so freely of their time and interest to the Boy Scout movement around the world."

W/O Furey is a native of Dublin, began his musical career at the age of 14 playing trumpet and piano, and joined the Central Band of the RCAF in 1956.

WHY THE SURPRISE?

Every year or so, in most of the free countries, there is an uproar over the fact that government defence secrets have leaked.

These disclosures always prove tremendously embarrassing to a government, and can defeat it at election time. Mr. MacMillan is now doing his best to overcome the results of such a leak in his country. A ban-the-bomb group known as Spies for Peace published information on the sites where regional British governments would be set up if the central government were disrupted by nuclear attack. This was supposed to have been a top secret!

Immediately there has been a hue and cry for a full government statement and debate on the affair.

Why all the surprise and indignation? Surely it is because Britishers, Canadians and Americans simply cannot bring themselves to believe that there really are Communist spies at work. In spite of historical fact, and Soviet declarations, many citizens of these countries still think that spies and saboteurs are not real — they are something out of mystery novels or fairy tales. When these spies do strike, everyone is surprised and horrified.

This same lack of realism creates tremendous problems for the security division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They know that communist spies are active here, and that a persistent effort is made to learn our defence secrets. But when they try to thwart the spies and saboteurs, they are set upon by the wooly-minded, and accused of interfering with freedom. Yet let the spies succeed, and these same citizens would be the first to shout, "What's the matter with our Mounties!" Sensational articles would appear, insisting that our security police were lacking in vigilance!

PIRATE GOLD IN OUR DOLLAR'S FAMILY TREE

No one knows for sure, but our modern dollar sign, $, is believed to have originated with the figure 8 stamped on "pieces of eight" which Long John Silver and others of his breed coveted as they scourged the seas in bygone days.

Whether this is a tall tale or a true one, we do know that the $ sign was in use in the United States before the introduction of federal currency and before our own decimal monetary system began in 1853.

But more interesting to most of us than the $ sign itself, are the figures that come after it, especially if those figures are in a savings account passbook from the Bank of Montreal. It's quite a thrill to watch them grow and grow as we save regularly. Interest payments of three per cent also help to swell the amount.

It makes sense to save regularly at the B of M and it makes for success in life, too.

To start your own "success fund", visit the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal soon. Miss Mary Preece, the accountant there, will show you how easy it is to open a B of M Savings Account. . . Or see Miss Louise Miller at the Ayersville branch.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

Bargain lovers and treasure hunters have a heyday at the annual rummage sale of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra Women's Committee.

This rummage sale — probably one of the largest of its kind in the world — is the main money-making project undertaken by the committee women who during the year have been cleaning attics and basements in search of merchandise.

Among the items unearthed by the female scavengers in the past were a string of lapis lazuli beads which a jeweller bought at the sale for $30 and later resold for $150, and a collector's book for which the purchaser gave $2 (five cents was asked) and which was actually worth $25.

Record collectors can go wild over the stacks of records at the sale, handy men get gleams in their eyes when they see the various lengths of old piping and other tools, and brides and cottage owners moon over the large selection of pots and pans.

This year's sale on May 1 was held at the coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition Park.

Diet Fads Waning

The liquid diet fad will soon be over, a Toronto doctor has predicted.

Dr. Howard Bloom said the popularity of liquid diet fads is diminishing because half the enjoyment of eating is in savoring the taste of food.

Local companies selling liquid dietary aids did not agree with Dr. Bloom. One company manager produced figures that showed a gain, not a wane, in interest.

Sales for the company showed a 35 per cent increase in 1962 over the previous year, although 1961 was the first complete year the product was on the market.

Big sales are registered between January and May, while sales drop in the summer, the companies said.

Dr. Barbara McLaren of the faculty of food sciences at the University of Toronto suggested other reasons why the liquid diet aid would remain popular.

Could Stockpile

A stockpile of these liquid foods in case of any community disaster is one of the things she suggested. Whenever there is an atomic war scare, these companies are deluged with calls for cases of the canned liquid, she said.

Doctors have found that canned liquids are excellent for persons with throat trouble or older persons who have difficulty eating.

Canned liquid foods can even be a source of extra calories for the person underweight, Dr. McLaren said.

"If that couple lost in the north recently had had several cans of powdered dietary food with them they would have been a lot better off. They could have just mixed it with snow."

The dietary aid companies are continually experimenting to provide more palatable products that are still limited in calories, perhaps a maximum of 900 calories a day.

Among first of Spring's delights

What a treat it is to have fresh, field-grown rhubarb again! That first fresh rhubarb pie heralds the beginning of the growing season, and is a foretaste of delicious fresh fruits to come. The Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, give their recipe for a simply-made rhubarb pie: 4 cups rhubarb cut in ½-inch pieces added to a mixture of 4 tablespoons flour and 1½ cups sugar. Stir and let stand 15 minutes. Turn into unbaked pie shell and dot rhubarb liberally with butter. Cover with pastry and bake in a very hot oven, 425°F., for 50 to 60 minutes. Makes 1 9-inch pie. — Department of Agriculture, Ottawa

Be ready for Rhubarb!

Question: When is a fruit not a fruit?

Answer: When it's a vegetable. This conundrum really does make sense when we're talking about rhubarb. Botanically it is classed as a perennial vegetable, but due to its high acidity, it is regarded as a fruit for cooking purposes.

These bright pink or rosy red stalks are the first touch of color to appear in the garden. The stalks average 12 to 18 inches in length and if not picked regularly, they grow to immense size. Freshly picked rhubarb stalks are firm, crisp and tender. Usually well colored stalks have the best flavor. Small or medium stalks are more tender than large ones. When you buy rhubarb, beware of wilted, flabby looking stalks. This rhubarb will be stale, stringy and a poor flavor when cooked.

It is best to use rhubarb as soon after purchase as possible when it is still crisp and fresh. Storing it in plastic bags or wrapping in wax paper in the refrigerator will help keep it fresh for a day or two if necessary.

Nothing is more welcome on the family table than the first luscious rhubarb pie of the season. There are many varsions of rhubarb pies, from the standard double crust type to the more elegant meringue and glazed pies. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have some new tested rhubarb pie recipes to pass on to you. They hope you will like them as much as the tasters did!

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

"A winning combination of meringue and tart, rosy fruit". — 1 Cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 5 cups cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces), 3 egg yolks, pastry for 9-inch single crust pie.

Meringue — 3 egg whites, few grains salt, 6 tablespoons sugar.

Combine sugar, flour and salt in a large bowl. Add rhubarb and mix well. Allow to stand 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg yolks, add to rhubarb and mix thoroughly.

Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry, flute edge but do not prick pastry. Turn rhubarb mixture into unbaked pie shell. Bake in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 20 minutes. Then turn heat to moderate (350°F.) and continue baking until filling at centre of pie has thickened, 30 to 40 minutes. Remove pie from oven, place on a rack and allow to cool.

Make a meringue of the egg whites, salt and sugar. Spread evenly over pie, sealing meringue to edge of crust. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) until lightly browned, about 5 minutes.

Glazed Rhubarb Pie

"An attractive, rosy pie, easy to make". — 1 Baked 9-inch, deep pie shell, 1½ cups sugar, few grains salt, ¼ cup water, 6 cups cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces), 2 tablespoons cornstarch, red food coloring.

Prepare and bake pie shell.

Combine sugar, salt and water in a large saucepan, then heat until sugar is dissolved. Add rhubarb, cover and simmer until tender, stirring gently once or twice before rhubarb starts to soften. Pour carefully into a colander, taking care not to break pieces. Allow to drain well, reserving syrup. Arrange rhubarb in baked pie shell. Measure 1¼ cups syrup, adding water if necessary to give required amount. Measure cornstarch into a saucepan, slowly add syrup, stirring well to blend. Return to heat, stirring constantly until glaze thickens and becomes clear. Add enough food coloring to give light red tint. Spoon glaze over the rhubarb. Chill before serving. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

Rhubarb Bavarian Pie

"A delicious party pie, simple and quick to make". — 1 Baked 9-inch, deep pie shell, 4 cups cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces), ¼ cup water, 1¼ cups sugar, few grains salt, 1½ envelopes gelatin (1½ tablespoons), ¼ cup cold water, red food coloring, ½ cup whipping cream.

Prepare and bake pie shell.

Combine rhubarb, the ¼ cup water, sugar and salt in a saucepan and cook over medium heat until rhubarb is tender, stirring occasionally. Soak gelatin in the ¼ cup water for 5 minutes. Add soaked gelatin to hot rhubarb mixture and stir until dissolved. Add enough red food coloring to give a pink tint. Chill mixture until partially set. Whip the cream and fold into rhubarb mixture. Turn into baked pie shell and chill until firm, about 3 hours. Garnish with whipped cream if desired.

KITCHEN HINT

To prevent a cake from sticking to the plate, sprinkle the plate with icing sugar before placing the cake on it.

Before the Storm

High, high the stars are sleeping
In a bed of rugged cloud —
Move softly, lest the sweeping of your skirts
Might prove too loud!

The moon half-veiled is bending
In an attitude of prayer
There's a mystic portent pending
Athwart the sultry air.

The nightbirds' plaintive voices
Are fraught with peeps of fear,
As through the gloomy darkness
The signs of storm appear.

The wind is threatfully whining
E'er it breaks into a roar
Its wilful wandering teasing
The violet-bordered shore.

Open wide the shuttered windows
That the fragrance of the rose
May reach each dim, dark corner
E'er its perfumed beauty goes.

In the drench of rain that threatens
To blot out the starry gleams,
As the storm king, capped by thunder,
Belches forth in lightning seams;

And trees are roughly shaken
By the boldness of the breeze —
Each shuddering branch keeps swaying
In the greatest of unease.

EPIDEMIC OF COIN COLLECTING

Coin collecting — as a hobby and as a business — is growing in Canada at what one collector calls an "epidemic" pace, reports Jack Schreiner in The Financial Post. A swelling number of Canadian and U.S. collectors is pushing up the selling price of Canadian coins. Latest developments in the coin business include one that will give U.S. collectors greater access to the Canadian market — two Montreal dealers have established teletype links with two U.S. coin exchanges and can deal in coins by wire with dealers from Detroit to Texas.

No place like home

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

A house and a home are not always the same thing. There are families living in houses, some of them fine houses, some of them poor houses, which are not real homes. Just what are the qualities necessary for a house to become a home?

A home is started when two persons care enough for each other to think in terms of "we" and "ours," instead of "I" and mine". It is built on mutual love and trust. A home is much more than a place to eat and sleep — it is a place where each member of the home finds happiness, security and a chance to grow.

In all good homes there is a sharing of work and of play between the husband and wife. The children have their part, too, in the tasks and the fun of the family group. The members of the family enjoy each other's company. Dad is more than the moneymaker; Mother is not just a housekeeper; the children are not just "boarders."

A mother of a large family was asked how she ever managed to keep up with her work and still have time and energy to enjoy some leisure with her boys and girls. She answered quickly: "Each child has his daily task. When the day's work is over their father and I try to do something with the children which they all enjoy."

This family lived on a farm and the problem of giving each child a chore was much easier than in a city home. Nevertheless, there are jobs in every household which boys and girls can do. The time to start children sharing in the work of a home is when they are young and eager.

One of the best things to be said about TV is that in many cases a common interest in TV programs has drawn members of the family together. Instead of the children going off in various directions, they are much more likely to stay home in the evening especially if their friends are made welcome. Homework should be completed first and this rule should be laid down early and rigidly adhered to.

Families need to play together as well as work together. Here again, the habit of doing things as a home group should be started early. It is too late for a father to wait until a boy is in his teens before taking him on his first fishing trip. What fun a little tad can have with his father, fishing on a Saturday afternoon! How much a dad is missing who does not give his son some of his play time!

Families can enjoy good times on walks in the woods, or by the lake, or along a country road. Just being together following the simplest of pursuits, builds a togetherness which is good and which is lasting.

The most important thing about a home is not the size of the house, the quality of the furnishings, or the convenient equipment. The most important thing is the family closeness. In a real home even a stranger can sense the bond which exists between members of a family. There are occasional conflicts which arise from the clash of personalities, but that is all a part of life in a group. But, because father and mother are united in their ideals about a home and their desires for their children, in spite of some friction between individuals, there should be an underlying affection and understanding in the family.

It seems rather sad that J. Howard Payne, who wrote "Home Sweet Home", was himself a wanderer, with no treasured memory of peaceful years under one roof. But he expressed a universal emotion when he wrote:

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble,
there's no place like home."

WEATHER

as a Weapon of War and an Instrument of Peace

When will control be brought about, and how?

(From the magazine, "Awake")

Weather control looms on the horizon as a greater threat to humankind than the hydrogen bomb. Leading climatologist Dr. Hans W. Ahlmann says for that reason he hopes "man never learns to control the climate of the world." There are far too many opinions and ideas about climate control, he says. "Look at the difference between the ideas of the tourists and the farmer on rain." In fact, already men are warned against "rain stealing." Some states in America have passed laws claiming ownership of the water in all clouds within their borders to protect themselves from rain thievery. Others warn of weather warfare.

The Weather Weapon Not New

Long before man thought of weather as a weapon, God the Creator used the elements to wipe out a world. Jehovah God "a manly person of war," declared to Noah: "In just seven days more I am making it rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights, and I will wipe every existing thing that I have made off the surface of the ground." This he did by exercising perfect control over the weather. — Ex. 15:3; Gen. 7:4, 17-24.

At the battle of Armageddon Jehovah will again call upon the elements with which to wage war. To his prophet Job Jehovah says: "Have you entered into the storehouses of the snow, or do you see even the storehouses of the hail which I have kept back for the time of distress, for the day of fight and war?" (Job 38:22, 23) That day of "fight and war" is Armageddon, in which Jehovah will annihilate all wicked opposers to his righteous incoming new world. At Ezekiel 13:13,14 Jehovah tells us in part how he will do that destroying work: "I will also cause a blast of windstorms to burst forth in my rage, and in my anger there will occur a flooding downpour, and in rage there will be hailstones for an extermination. And I will tear down the wall that you men have plastered with whitewash and bring it into contact with the earth, and its foundation must be exposed. And she will certainly fall, and you must come to an end in the midst of her; and you will have to know that I am Jehovah." Yes, antitypical Israel, that is, Christendom, and all the world will come to taste weather warfare when Jehovah vindicates his name at Armageddon, "the war of the great day of God the Almighty." — Rev. 16:14, 16.

Controlled Weather for Peaceful Uses

It is good also to know that Jehavah, who controls the weather in a perfect way, will use weather control to the blessing of mankind in the new world, even as he did in his typical theocracy Israel. Through his mouthpiece Moses, Jehovah told the Israelites: "If you continue walking in my statutes and keeping my commandments and you do carry them out, then I shall certainly give you showers of rain at their proper time and the land will indeed give its yield and the tree of the field will give its fruit. And your threshing will certainly reach to your grape gathering, and the grape gathering will reach to the sowing of seed, and you will indeed eat your bread to the full and dwell in security in your land." (Lev. 26:3-5). What a comfort these words must have been to the new nation of Israel! No crop failures. No droughts, no hailstorms, floods or insect plagues to ruin their crops — if they remained obedient to Jehovah their God. Obedience to God was a prime requisite to national security.

In the closing years of his life Moses was again used by God to emphasize this point, saying: "It must occur that if you will without fail obey my commandments that I am commanding you today so as to love Jehovah your God and to serve him with all your heart and all your soul, then I shall certainly give rain for your land at its appointed time, autumn rain and spring rain, and you will indeed gather your grain and your sweet wine and your oil. And I shall certainly give vegetation in your field for your domestic animals, and you will indeed eat and be satisfied." (Deut. 11:13-15) So weather control does not rest with man's knowledge of the elements, but with God's commands and happily obeying them. For Jehovah, who controls the weather, blesses or withholds his blessing accordingly.

For example, the psalmist called for the people to "make melody to our God on the harp, the One who is covering the heavens with clouds, the One preparing rain for the earth." Yes, the Israelites appreciated that rain was of God. The Prophet Zechariah told God's covenant people to "make your requests of Jehovah for rain in the time of the spring rain, even of Jehovah who is making the storm clouds, and who gives a downpour of rain to them, to each one vegetation in the field." When the nation became stubborn and rebellious at heart and turned aside from walking in Jehovah's way, the prophet Jeremiah tells us they did not say in their hearts: "Let us, now, fear Jehovah our God, the One who is giving the downpour and the autumn rain and the spring rain in its season, the One who guards even the prescribed weeks of the harvest for us." "Your own errors have turned these things away, and your own sins have held back what is good from you people," said Jeremiah to a people who had turned away from the true God Jehovah. — Ps. 147:7, 8; Zech. 10:1; Jer. 5:24,25.

Weather in a Modern World

Of course, that was under the typical kingdom of Israel, but what about today? We still live on the same earth, under like clouds, and the same God lives on! But how many nations have sought out his commands and live according to them? Remember, God-controlled weather was conditional — the condition was that the nation remain obedient to Jehovah's laws and commandments.

After Armageddon in Jehovah's new world, the God who controls the weather will in a literal way fulfill the promise: "I will cause the pouring rain to descend in its time. Pouring rains of blessing there will prove to be. And the tree of the field must give its fruitage, and the land itself will give its yield, and they will actually prove to be on their soil in security." (Ezek. 34:26, 27) Obedience to God will bring weather control, and weather control will bring security and prosperity.

So our earth is due for some drastic weather changes. Not only by weather scientists will these changes come, however, but by God, who in Armageddon will use it as a weapon of war to destroy the wicked and in the righteous new world as an instrument of peace for the blessing of humankind obedient to his will.

"I am a blind man's eyes"

Specially Contributed by A. Solway

I think I should start this short story with a condensed explanation of my past life.

I was raised on a farm, and due to the pressure of farm work, I was unable to take the exams in order to complete my first year of high school. I worked on the farm for a few years, then decided to go out West on the prairies to have a look at that part of our wonderful country. At that time I became very interested in motor mechanics; I followed this profession for about 30 years, and worked in a lumber camp in the winter months during the depression years. At the start of the last war I tried to enlist in the Air Force but was rejected due to medical reasons. At this particular time I had no conception of anyone else who might have troubles worse than mine! Shortly after my disappointment at not being able to join the Air Force, I received a job with one of the major oil companies here in Eastern Canada. I was in their employ for a period of over 20 years. Due to health reasons, I found I was unable to carry my load of work any longer, so the Company gave me my pension. We packed up and left the Big City for the quiet countryside. . .

About two months after going on pension I decided I would look around for something to do. I heard about a blind man needing a chauffeur and a car, so applied for this job, was successful with my interview and started at once.

This proved all very new to me, as I had no idea that a blind person could do work of any kind. Do not be fooled by this handicap, as they are very accomplished workers. After about a week or so, I more or less accustomed myself to some of the ways of how a blind person navigates. I commenced at this time to answer the many questions he would ask me, such as, "Is it cloudy today?" or "What do the trees look like?" Most of the questions asked are pertaining to the countryside and to weather conditions. It was at this time that I started to appreciate the beautiful country that we live in, and most of all — my eyesight.

We have had our ups and downs, just the same as if he had his eyesight. One thing I have also learned, is that if you do not agree with what he says, do not hesitate to tell him so. We often discuss our political standing here in Canada. Sometimes we see eye to eye on the various subjects of discussion, and sometimes we do not. This is when the fun starts, and these discussions are good for both of us, as we can then see the other fellow's point of view. When voting time comes along, I have to vote for him — having to be sworn in that I will vote as he directed me, and to be sure and not spoil his ballot.

I remember one particular election, he instructed me as to how he wanted to vote; so after polling his vote, I said "It's too bad I did not take your advice on how you wanted to vote!" . . "What did you do?" he asked, in feigned alarm. My reply was, "I voted for the other party!" He replied quickly, "I'm certain that you voted as I asked you!" . . I informed him that I did. This is one of the many points which makes it so good to have your eyesight, and to have someone place so much trust and confidence in you.

One beautiful day last summer he made the suggestion that he would like to go fishing, so we packed our gear and took off on a Saturday morning. As I had never been fishing with a blind person before, I was quite interested in how he would be able to bait his hook. We arrived at the lake; I took his arm and guided him to the boat. Once we were all seated in our proper places, we took off for a point on an island. Upon arriving at this point he was given the can of worms, and he baited his hook just as quickly as I did. He was also the only member of the fishing party to catch any fish! As we sat on the shore I was asked all kinds of questions, mostly pertaining to the scenery of the countryside; this I endeavored to explain through my eyesight, but I am sure that I missed quite a number of beautiful things put on this earth for our wellbeing.

I have to tell about a funny instance that happened in Montreal, not long after I started working for him. We ment to this particular restaurant for our lunch, and we were on our way out of the building. At the side of the building there was a post, and I being his guide, was supposed to see any obstructions in the way. Being new on the job I was instinctively looking out for myself, so you can imagine what happened; I guided him right into the post. I am sure that he left the imprint of his nose on that post! Of course, I was very sorry, and sincerely apologized; but believe me, this was the best lesson I have ever learned — that there are more people in this world than yourself. I have also learned to appreciate so many beautiful things which I had never noticed in my life before. Also I have achieved the wonderful art of THINKING and putting some of those thoughts into action. I have come to see beauty every day, whether it rains or shines.

Do not let anyone tell you that you cannot be taught by a blind person. I have had the experience, that it takes such a person to make us sighted people aware of so much that we have missed in our lives.

School News — Graduation Exercises

Graduation exercises for Grade VII, the completion of elementary school, and for Grade XI, the completion of high school, will be held at the Morin Heights School on Thursday, May 23, at 8 p.m. All parents and friends are most welcome to attend. The guest speaker will be Mr. Vincent Drouin, M.P. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

Attended Conference

The principal, Mr. R. Williams, accompanied by Mr. Paul Baumel, chairman of the Board, and Rev. H. Baugh, a member of the Board, attended the conference of school administrators and school boards held last week-end at Ste. Adele. The Director of Education, Mr. H. Billings, addressed the evening meeting, and the Director of the Institute of Education, Dr. D. Munroe, addressed the Saturday meeting.

The changes of our society are of course reflected in our education system, and these changes in the immediate years will be very great. The present Course of Study was formed in 1871 for the society of that day and for the foreseeable future. The curriculum has been added to since then, and changed somewhat, but the philosophy has remained the same. For instance, in the days before World War II the general public wanted a good elementary school education, with provision made for the fewer numbers who would attend high school and the even fewer going on to a university. Now, all parents want their children to pass through high school at least, and a large number hope their children will go on to further education. Our present system will have to be overhauled to meet these desires and demands of our society of today. . . The conference served to show the necessity of immediate changes, and these changes are taking place now.

General Motors Products of Canada Limited,
Oshawa, Ontario.

Gentlemen:

In 1947 I bought my first Chevrolet truck to use on my farm. Since then I have used only Chevrolet. My last one had over 70,000 miles when I traded and never required any major repairs.

I haul feed, fertilizer, grain, and livestock over fields and rough concession roads—and that's where I find the suspension on my 1963 pickup most valuable. Loaded or empty the ride is outstanding. There's lots of power for my heaviest loads and the handy Fleetside body has ample room for all kinds of cargo.

From my past experience I know I can depend on Chevrolet to give me the kind of reliable and economical service I want from a truck.

Yours truly,

John H. Hesp

By BOB ATCHISON

A recent letter to this newspaper from Proctor & Gamble, the soap manufacturers, about the article on detergents and the editorial dealing with the same, gives the impression that soaps are only in a very small way responsible for water pollution. They have reports from biologists trying to whitewash the effects of these chemicals. A couple of quotes from this letter before I answer may help to give an idea of just what water pollution boards have to deal with: "A major problem in this controversy is the lack of complete information available to those involved. Recent evidence of this was the Wentworth County resolution endorsed by about 300 Ontario municipalities calling for a ban on mineral-based detergents." A booklet published by detergent manufacturers is also sent along, with facts and figures on the problem. It is well worth reading, even though the blame is pushed off elsewhere.

Starting with the lack of information, it would seem to me that if 300 municipalities had taken the time and trouble to have such a resolution drawn up, they must have had ample reasons, and would have the same reliable help as that available to the manufacturers. Information is not readily available on this subject; seemingly it is a touchy one, to certain groups of citizens. However, the odd information passed on is well worth reading, and in some cases seeing; and I don't think this can be denied. Most of us have seen the havoc raised in rivers and streams due to foaming; the booklet blames other reasons for this foaming. In some cases this may be true, but in most cases, very questionable. In almost every instance of pollution in any given area there has been information on the destructive powers of these same cleaners. I'll admit that this is very big business, but when it concerns our wildlife, its effects must be faced.

A bulletin from the Federation of Fish and Game Clubs brings out some pertinent facts. They sent out a questionnaire to various clubs and organizations asking for help, by filling out some questions. Seven questions were chosen, and a total of 1,700 questionnaires sent out. It seems that almost every question asked was endorsed more or less unanimously. . . For example, "Should we stress [illegible] more controlled moose hunting in specific areas?" is one question. In view of what happened last fall in certain moose districts, this is a very good point. "Controlled hunting?" is another. "Should guides be licensed?" another. This list goes on and all are excellent examples of how Federation is trying to better this province in wildlife conservation.

Fishing has been "on again, off again". I managed to get out after trout, but with no results. One of the newer fly men, Stan Murdoch, was with me, and on his first excursion in fly fishing, got himself a Red. A nice fish, and one that I think has converted a certain gent to flies. Lake Louisa is starting to produce with the Greys, a couple I have seen were in the 4 lb. class. I have not heard of anything being taken from Silver Lake this week. Sir John produced a couple of bass, not too large, but more of these fighters will be coming out soon. Doré are being taken down at the Carillon Dam. Some of these have been large, believe me; one of 7 lbs. tops this group. Creeks are back to normal and the brookies are giving lots of fun; not too many, but just enough to make it interesting. Jerry Dunn hooked a Northern pike in the river the other day, but lost it as it went under the boat. A couple of trailers were also reported, so that things look very promising for this body of water. Perch are also starting to hit, along with the very small bass.

I was up around Wilson Lake near Kilmar the other day, and was very surprised at just what is happening to this lake. I had taken the odd trout from this body of water on previous occasions, but now I am sorry to say, all forms of life seem to have vanished. The lake was the color of watery milk, with deposits of white substance all around the shores. Sticks and rocks are covered with the same deposit. This seems to be a runoff from some pumping operations; where, I do not know. I have seen the same thing happen to other lakes in close proximity to mining operations. Whatever the cause, this is a dead lake from now on, unless something is done to correct this operation.

Trolling will start to pick up very soon. Right now the lakes are still very cold, and it is not necessary for the fish to head down into the depths. Greys are being taken close in to the shores with spinning gear. I think most of you have heard of the Jewel lures put on the market this year; these have been very effective for trout. Used with a worm, they are easy to cast and do not seem to tangle up too much. I have tried a couple of other new baits, and they are not very effective. In one case the bait will not wiggle; it just comes in like a log. The other has a bad habit of spinning right over, looping the line in a wonderful bird's nest!

I heard another report on wolves, but these turned out to be a couple of dogs running the bush. This is in the area of Mille Isles, and it would seem nothing has been done to correct this matter. I don't know if these are the same dogs that were running last winter, but it would appear likely; the descriptions fit. So I guess these dogs have been responsible for a good many killings in the district. With the Wardens concerned right now with fishing, I don't think much will be done about the dogs this summer.

I know this would appear to be repetitious, but where are the names of offenders of the fish and game laws? You may remember cases in St. Jerome that were going to be brought up. This was all according to Mr. Bourque. Enough time has elapsed for these matters to be disposed of, and certainly information should have been given out by now. I think now this was just a gimmick to cover up some things that were not too good.

I have noticed fishing rods in for repair that have had the tips broken off. As most of you know, a glass rod tip cannot be repaired if it has snapped or chipped. By appearances, the main cause of this trouble is car doors. No rod will take a door being slammed on it. Another way they are are being broken is through a heavy lure being wrapped around the end of the rod; when in motion this keeps swinging like the old barn door — an effective way of cutting off the tip. I have also seen rods broken at the butt of the shaft itself; this is caused by the old method of "hock and heave" to get the fish in. It sometimes works, but often you end up with a broken rod. I heard of one funny case this past week. It seems one of our locals after trout got himself a real strike close in to shore. Applying the heave-ho, he broke the rod; then promptly dropping this, he started the run-and-grab method with the line, scampering back into the bush about 20 feet, dragging the fish all the way. Only it wasn't a fish! You guessed it — an old coil-spring was the prize.

The minnow ban in this County seems to be a laugh. The law was brought in for our sport and protection, but it does not seem to be too well enforced right now; why, I don't know. Fishing in this County has rapidly gone downhill in the past few years, and I thought the purpose of the minnow ban was to curb the killing of our game fish by coarse fish. This was surely a step in the right direction, but everyone has to agree to this in order to make it work. In this County, no such agreement has ever been reached among our angling fraternity. It is a shortsighted disregard for the future.

Good design spells success

Deane H. Russell, owner of the Knife Shop in downtown Ottawa, tired of answering No to the oft-repeated question, "Don't you sell a Canadian-made knife for the sportsman?" set about designing an outdoor knife himself. After years of experimenting and consultation with professional outdoorsmen and Canadian sportsmen, he came up with the Russell Belt Knife, complete with a hand-moulded cowhide scabbard. Quickly accepted in Canada, it is now the basis of a tidy little export business, according to the Trade Department's magazine, "Foreign Trade".

Exhibiting at the National Sporting Goods Show in Chicago last year, Mr. Russell made contacts which are now selling for him in 22 states and 20 others will be added shortly. In London, the exclusive gun house of Cogswell and Harrison is stocking the knife. The maker now has two additional designs, a trout and bird knife and a boat knife. Good design and fine workmanship, he is convinced, will win him many more customers.

Big money in wrestling

By Jim Barstable

This is a busy season for wrestlers. And no matter how much you look at professional wrestling — if you look at all — there's big money in humans making pretzels out of each other.

"A million groans, a million dollars," says Fred Kohler, Chicago promoter. He figures $1,000,000 passes through his hands each year.

"Back in the depression years of the 1930's people who didn't commit suicide watched wrestling shows. And some wrestlers cleaned up. I remember Gus Sonenberg coming in off a tour with his suitcase stuffed with $85,000. He didn't believe in banks and wasn't afraid anybody would try to take it away from him."

Kohler figures a wrestler needs three things — ability, showmanship and personality.

"There are about 75 wrestlers in top demand today, but no one has all three of these assets like Buddy Rogers. Buddy makes better than $200,000 a year."

All wrapped up in April issue

This gentleman is wrapped up in his favorite newspaper, somewhat against his will. The newspaper is the April issue of C-I-L CONTACT, familiar to C-I-L employees here. The issue was printed on polythene film. An innovation in the printing field, this successful experiment opens up many new possibilities for the use of polythene film for such applications as covers for catalogues, directories, text books, and for posters, handbills, maps, specification sheets, etc.

Fishing contests

Next fishing contest of the Argenteuil Hunting and Fishing Association will be at Bark Lake on Sunday, May 26. There will be only a limited number of boats for hire. Information is available from Ernest Tassé (LE 3-4596) or Paul Desjardins (LO 2-2256).

Contest Last Sunday

There were 65 taking part in the contest last Sunday at Lake Wentworth. Philippe Bourgeois of Brownsburg took top prize with a grey trout weighing 1 lb. 15 ozs. Other prize winners were Gérard Gagné, Leonard Borris, Jacques Gagné and Mrs. Hartland Dewar.

Dow Club held fishing contest

Around 60 anglers took part in the Dow Fishing and Hunting Club's first contest this season, at Silver Lake on May 12. Winners were —

1st — E. Plouffe, of Mont Rolland (grey trout, over 3 lbs.)

2nd — Mr. Landry, Laval West (red trout)

3rd — Gérard Gagné, Lachute (carp)

DEFECTIVE

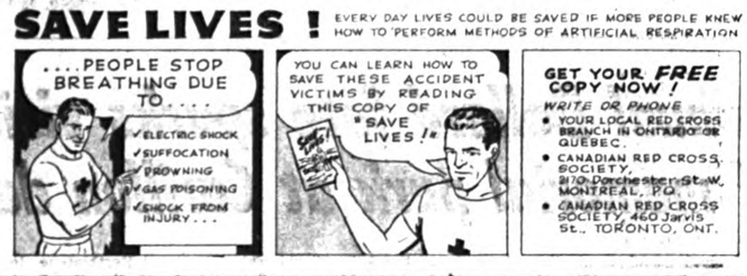

In one of his anthologies of anecdotes, Bennet Cerf writes that Emily Kimbrough, the popular lecturer, was waiting to be introduced to an audience when a workman appeared carrying a screw-driver and beckoning to the chairlady.

After a whispered conference between the two, the chairlady turned and spoke to the audience. "I am sorry," she said, "that there will be a slight delay. Word has just been given to me that there is a screw loose in our speaker."

Animal Care

FEEDING A GROWING CAT

When it is small a kitten eats frequently, but as it grows into a cat the number of meals can be reduced and the diet changed. From four to six months, the meat ration can be increased and from about six months onwards the number of meals should be restricted to two a day.

These meals should be varied. Tinned cat foods are excellent — but not all the time. Cats like raw meat such as beef and mutton and they often show a preference for such items as liver and kidney. In all cases see that the meat is cut into small pieces as an aid to digestion.

You may find your cat shows a preference for a particular dish. But don't let him decide the diet. Even though he may not touch a different dish for a few hours, and may meow somewhat pitifully, you have to be even more stubborn than he is.

Never give a cat rabbit or poultry bones, because they may splinter and cause trouble in both the mouth and the throat. Always remove the bones from fish.

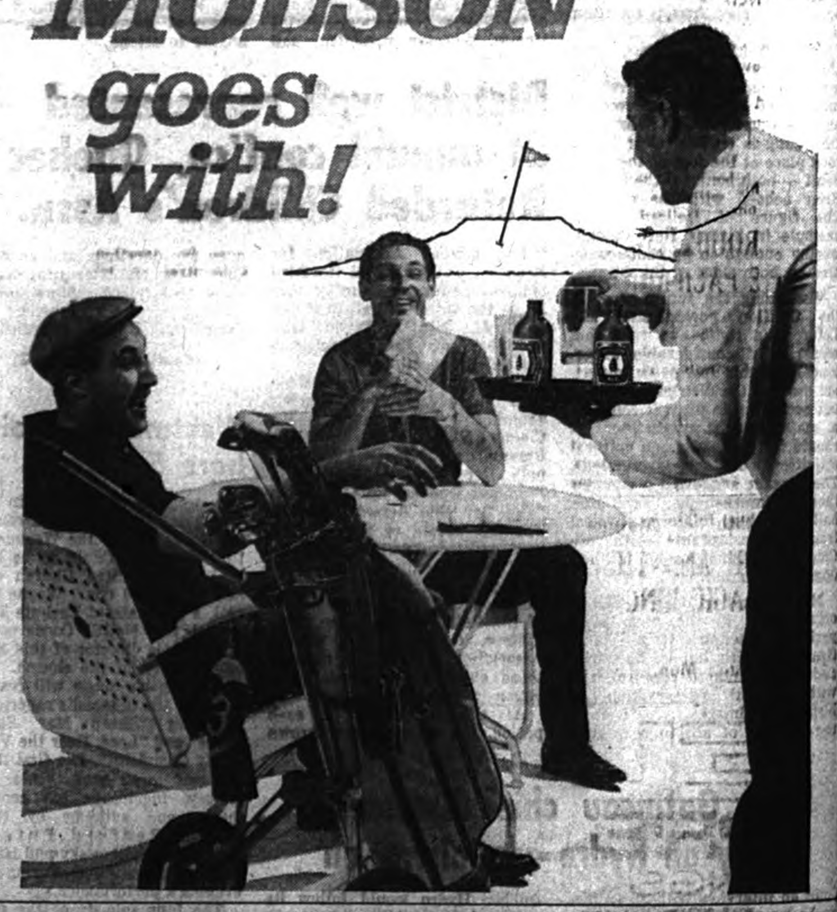

After your cat has finished eating remove the dish and cover it. Food left around will only pick up dust and dirt. If your cat likes milk give it to him at feeding time. Remember — always have a bowl of fresh water available.

Landmark goes travelling

This two-storey structure, the old Lepine home next to Brownsburg Lumber Company on the Brownsburg Road, confronted motorists in the middle of the highway on Monday and Tuesday of last week, in a big removal job. The spacious two-tenement dwelling was rolled on cribs out onto the asphalt, towed 500 feet uphill and across to the opposite side of the road, where it has since been turned around to face the highway. Contractors for the re-siting are Omer Laurin & Fils Ltée, Lachute, who subcontracted the actual removal to Goddard & Frères, of Ste. Therese. The house was skidded in progressive steps by means of rollers. Here, to the left, workmen may be seen readying a crib of ties for the next move, while Police Chief Tom Williams detours traffic around the site.

The house was built by the late Archie and Bill McFaul, lumbermen, about 60 years ago. It was acquired by Brownsburg Lumber Company with its purchase of the Lepine mill, and has now been removed to provide more yard space for the company's output. The house is presently owned by the plant supervisor, Laurence Ambeault, who purchased the lot for its new site from Ivan Boyd.

Robberies at summer cottages

A rash of robberies at summer cottages has been reported to Provincial Police authorities during the past several weeks, the total amount of the thefts running into thousands of dollars.

The Mille Isles area has been the hardest hit, with close to 30 robberies reported; a large number of robberies have also been reported in the Dunany and Louisa areas, as well as along the Ottawa River.

Household contents, including clothing, electrical appliances and furniture, are reported to have been stolen. All cases are under investigation by the local Q.P.P. detachment.

Direct water line to provide boost to pressure at regional hospital

A special meeting of the Lachute Town Council, called to settle the water problem for the Argenteuil Hospital among other matters, was held in the Council chamber on Wednesday evening, of last week, under chairmanship of Mayor Dave Campbell. Ald. Alphonse Thibodeau was absent from the meeting.

Water Pressure

Mayor Campbell reported that the water pressure at the new hospital was as low as from five to ten pounds, and this was the reason the long-needed institution had not opened according to schedule. It was pointed out that, as yet, no official request had been made from Ayersville for extension of the Brownsburg Road water line, but taking everything into consideration, and to avoid the necessity of calling another meeting, it was decided to extend the present town water main along Brownsburg Road to the Ayersville limits, a distance of approximately 40 feet, supplying the adjacent Municipality of Ayersville with a four-inch pipe; also, to grant Ayersville permission to extend this line in its municipality on condition that a four-inch water meter be installed at the boundary line at Ayersville's expense, and that the rate for 1,000 gallons of water be the same as previously agreed upon, but which is now under study by the Quebec Municipal Commission.

A short time after adoption of this resolution, Mayor-elect Gaston Plamondon, of Ayersville, appeared before the Council requesting permission to connect to this water main, so as to obtain more water pressure not only for the hospital but also for the adjacent area. He appeared to be somewhat disturbed when informed that, while the water would be available, the present eight-inch main was being reduced to a four-inch pipe prior to entering the Municipality of Ayersville. Commenting on this, Mayor Campbell suggested this additional line be a direct one to the hospital; he pointed out that, if everyone was permitted to tie onto the line, the water pressure at the hospital would not be improved.

Continuing on the subject of water mains, it was reported that the installation of the 14-inch pipe from White's Bridge to Route 41 had been completed and that sufficient funds from the winter works program remained to extend the pipe from the bridge to the old mill, a distance of approximately 496 feet. Authorization to purchase the necessary pipe was granted. This extension is to replace the eight-inch main which presently crosses the river and which will be lifted this autumn.

By-law to Install Meters

Ald. Dr. Lyall Middleton gave a report on the high water consumption, outlining a proposed by-law relative to installation of water meters for all commercial establishments using water for anything other than what could be considered domestic use.

Fire Department Needs

Ald. Linton W. Armstrong, Fire Commissioner, reported on a committee meeting held earlier in the week, and recommended the purchase of 500 feet of 2½-inch fire hose; steel bridges for the hose to protect it from traffic; also boots, coats, a hose washer and salvage cover, all of which totalled approximately $1,500. It was decided that a list of the items, along with the submitted tenders, be sent to the Provincial Fire Commissioner's office applying for a grant on the purchases.

Varied Business

Council approved a permit for Graves Auto Leasing Ltd., a new company affiliated with Pollock & Graves Limited.

It was decided to tender a reception for inauguration of a nursing service which is starting in this area, La Société des Infirmières Visiteuses, an organization similar to the V.O.N. The reception for the participants in this venture will be held at the Town Hall on Wednesday, May 29, from five to seven o'clock in the evening.

There being no further business on the agenda, the meeting was adjourned.

Air Cadets' annual inspection at Ayersville

Ayersville Air Cadet Sqdn. 648, under command of F/O Paul-Emile Barbeau, underwent their annual inspection last Wednesday evening in the presence of clergy, citizens from sponsoring organizations, and officers of the Air Force from Lac St. Denis and St. Hubert bases.

Lt. Col. Lionel Dupuis, from Lac St. Denis base, congratulated the cadets on their drill, despite their confined quarters.

André Dumas, representative of the Cival Committee, offered a perpetual trophy to the cadet showing the most progress through the year.

Three trophies were presented on this occasion — Flt. Sgt. Yves Joly of No. 1 Section receiving Officer Barbeau's award; Flt. Lt. Jean-J. Pharand receiving the trophy for smartest deportment and appearance; and Flt. Sgt. Bernard Berthiaume receiving the André Dumas trophy for greatest progress and promotion through the year.

The exercises were followed by a gymnastics display given by the boys.

Commissioner for Long Sault Scout District

The appointment of Wm. T. Bray of Calumet to succeed M. R. Wilson as Long Sault District Commissioner for Boy Scouts of Canada, was confirmed by Provincial Commissioner John W. Miner. Mr. Bray's participation in the Scouting program dates back to the late 1920's; recently he has been associated with the Grenville Group, where, as Committee chairman and part-time leader, he has displayed very active interest at the "boy" level.

The Long Sault District Council, headed by President G. H. Quinn, has expressed confidence that the effectiveness of the local Boy Scout program will benefit from the enthusiasm and keen interest which Mr. Bray brings to this important office.

Council affairs at Ayersville

At an adjourned meeting last week, Ayersville Council acted on a request of the Quebec Department of Health to ask Lachute for permission to connect an eight-inch water main across Providence Blvd. (Brownsburg Road) so as to provide the required pressure at the hospital. It was also requested that the firm of Lalonde, Girouard & Letendre be retained as engineers for the plans.

A delegation from the hospital administration attended the meeting.

Mayor Plamondon and Councillor Brasseur were commissioned to approach Gatineau Power Co'y for installation of streetlights on Richelieu Blvd.

Council was authorized to call upon the notarial services of Richard Valois, as needed.

To remedy certain situations affecting residential construction, Council will ask the Town Planning Service to prepare or procure a model zoning and building by-law.

Council agreed to grant $100 to the Prêt d'Honneur, on representations from Edouard Lajoie on behalf of this campaign, and the mayor or pro-mayor was assigned to represent the municipality at the diocesan supper on May 29.

A tender from Benoit Morrissette was accepted for the supplying and laying of asphalt on certain thoroughfares. Other bids were received from Ernest Massie and Rosaire Quenneville.

Ayersv'l woman is victim of highway fatality

A 54-year-old Ayersville resident, Mme Arthur Gravel, lost her life Saturday evening in a highway accident between Montebello and Papineauville. The victim (formerly Délia Labonté) was widowed by the very recent death of her husband, on May 8.

Provincial Police at Montebello reported that Mme Gravel was in a car with her daughter and son-in-law, Yvon Sabourin and his wife, also of Ayersville, and three children. It appears their car was hit by a truck driven by Joseph Duda, of Montreal, which was passing another vehicle.

M. Sabourin and occupants of his car were only slightly injured, with the exception of Mme Gravel. The truck driver, and two passengers accompanying him, escaped unhurt.

Annual Dollard fete sparks vision of memorial park at Carillon dam

As principal speaker at the Dollard Des Ormeaux fête at Carillon last Sunday, Jean Laforest tackled the thorny debate aroused by Thomas Lee's archeological discoveries on the Ross Farm between Pointe Fortune and Hawkesbury.

The question between the Ontario and Quebec sites is far from being settled, said the speaker. "But pending new evidence, what shall we do? Establish a park on both sides of the river in memory of Dollard Des Ormeaux and his warriors? . . . Why not! One thing is certain, their battle took place at the foot of the Long Sault — both banks of the Ottawa River echoed with the conflict. The figure of Dollard is an example in history fine enough, worthy enough to be commemorated on both sides of the Ottawa.

Visualizing the future park at the Carillon power site, Mr. Laforest (a radio and television scenarist of considerable experience) saw this spot as an important asset to the district. If carried out according to plan, it could be a major tourist attraction. It should foster artistic and cultural activities, outdoor recreations. The speaker suggested a summer theatre, workshops, exhibition halls, dancing, folklore, physical training; restaurants with all-Canadian cuisine, instead of "hot-dogs and hamburgers".

Mr. Laforest outlined details of organization in the form of a parkland extending from Oka to Grenville, with hotels, hostelries and restaurants to conform, and with careful preservation of historic landmarks. . . . "It is in the interest of all; to reap such benefits as the 1967 World Fair may offer, we should act now."

Mr. Laforest's address was a highlight of the afternoon program last Sunday celebrating the Dollard anniversary. In unfavorable weather, the observances were held in the parish church. Present were Vincent Drouin, M.P.; Chas. A. Shaffer, chairman of the Dollard committee; Maurice Dumas, diocesan president, and Fernand Berthiaume, local president, of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, sponsors of the ceremony — all of whom spoke briefly. Master of ceremonies was Conrad H. Legault. Members of the clergy, Bob St. Laurent and the Ayersville Air Cadets, and the Ayersville Guides, also took part. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., expressed regret that he was unable to attend.

At the conclusion of each period, the meeting was thrown open for questions and answers. Some lively and interesting discussions took place. Simultaneous translation was provided in French and English as transistor

Westmount choir here Sunday

A program of good organ and choral music has been arranged for the recital by the Westmount United Church Choir, to be held at Lachute United Church next Sunday at 7.30 p.m. Wayne Riddell, a graduate of Lachute High School and McGill Conservatory of Music, is director of this choir and organist of the church.

J. S. Bach's music will feature much of the organist's repertoire, including "Sheep May Safely Graze" and "Lord, Hear the Voice of My Complaint". The first three anthems are sung from the gallery, including 16th century music, and anthems by Byrd, Gibbons, Redford, Purcell, Brahms, Tschaikowsky and Haydn will be interpreted during the evening's performance.

The four soloists of the choir — Grace Sweet (soprano), Ann Golden (contralto), Robert Koffend (tenor), and Winston Purdy (baritone) — will sing compositions by Purcell, Dvorak, Handel and Greene.

The program will commence at 7.30 o'clock sharp, and it is requested that those attending will endeavor to be at the church before that time, as the processional hymn will follow immediately after the anthems from the gallery. . . . A collection will be taken, which will be jointly for the Lachute United Church and Westmount United Church choirs.

New Gatineau chief discusses policy on Hydro administration

In an interview with an Ottawa press reporter, Jean-Joseph Villeneuve, the new administrator of Gatineau Power Company, stated there was no thought at this time of increasing electricity rates to Gatineau consumers. Mr. Villeneuve anticipated no immediate change in name, staff or policy of the company. . . Mr. Villeneuve replaces Gordon Gale, former president of Gatineau Power.

"We must retain the corporate identity of Gatineau Power Company," he said. "That is, until shares acquired by Quebec Hydro are all paid for, the company will continue under the same name and charter, governed by existing sales and distribution contracts."

Bilingualism

According to this spokesman, Quebec Hydro would follow its policy of placing bilingual persons in the key positions, insofar as possible.

"We realize that Gatineau has men of ability and experience whom it would be difficult or impossible to replace. Hydro will proceed with fairness and understanding in this phase of its program, respecting the best interests of employees, customers, and the entire population of Quebec, which is actually owner of the enterprise. There will positively be no radical change. There will be no lay-off of employees who are not bilingual, but it is unlikely that those unable to speak the two official languages will be considered when it comes to filling positions of authority."

Mr. Villeneuve stated further that they would study possibilities of extending power service to new areas of the countryside, also to reduce the deposit required of new consumers.

"Quebec Hydro," he concluded, "considers it of prime importance to maintain service without interruption. We shall pay special attention to trouble spots most frequently affected by power breaks."

Mrs. Ossington also spoke to the gathering, and answered questions about life membership pins.

The annual convention at Macdonald College is to be held from June 25 to 28 and Madam Van Beekhoff of the Netherlands, president of A.C.W.W., is to speak on Wednesday, June 26. Mrs. Stephens gave her address as president. She said she had found it difficult to visit all the branches since so many had their meetings on the same afternoon or evening.

Mrs. Ossington conducted the installation of officers, with the new slate as follows:

County Officers

Past-pres., Mrs. Sharman Doig
President, Mrs. Chas. Stephens
1st Vice-pres., Mrs. Chas. Hall
2nd Vice-pres., Mrs. Helen Smith
Secretary, Mrs. Raymond Warwick
Treasurer, Mrs. Douglas Rodger

Mrs. J. Ossington, Provincial 1st vice-president, was guest speaker, and spoke briefly about her trip to Australia as delegate to the A.C.W.W. convention and of the many kindnesses shown her, and she thanked the members for sending her as representative to this conference. She hoped as many articles as possible would be sent to the handicraft show at Macdonald, also antiques and samplers. She mentioned a new course in Home Economics for young people. There are now 104 branches of the W.I. in this province and they are hoping to establish more. The leadership course is from May 27 to 31. She mentioned the C.A.C., and hoped the W.I's had a membership in it. Mrs. Ossington told of a very successful adult educational school held in Granby this past year, and would like to see more schools started. She reminded members of the "Pennies for Friendship" and the work it was doing; also that more care should be taken in packing Christmas stockings. Mrs. Ossington was thanked for her very interesting talk by Mrs. Chas. Hall.

A motion was made and passed that the individual groups continue to entertain another branch.

The following resolutions were read:

Whereas we have with us today Mrs. Ossington, Provincial 1st vice-president, be it resolved that we express our thanks to her and the Provincial Board for their co-operation in the work of our branches in this County.

Whereas the County of Argenteuil W.I. appreciates the use of the Lachute High School for their annual convention, be it resolved that we express our thanks to the Lachute High School Board.

Whereas the Jerusalem-Bethany branch has so ably convened our luncheon, be it resolved that we extend to them and their helpers our sincere thanks.

Whereas we are indebted to the Giles Publishing House for their kindness in giving free publicity to our W.I. work, and whereas we are indebted to Mr. W. M. Steeves for auditing the books for 1962 and 1963, be it resolved that we extend to them our sincere thanks and appreciation.

Whereas the washroom facilities for the public in towns and villages are very inadequate, therefore be it resolved that the proper authorities be contacted to provide proper public washroom facilities in towns and villages.

Whereas the dumping of garbage along the public highways is a continued practice by some careless people; and whereas this practice creates unsightly scenes along the said highways; and whereas there has been no action taken to curb this offence in this County — therefore be it resolved that a $50 fine be imposed on anyone caught dumping garbage or refuse along the sides of our public highways or roads.

After singing "O Canada", the meeting was adjourned.

Following a lengthy illness, Robert Kenneth Beers passed away in hospital at Sherbrooke on Tuesday, May 14.

Mr. Beers, born at Lachute in 1896, was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Beers. His early life was spent here, prior to his moving to Montreal and later to Sherbrooke, where for the past 30 years he has made his home.

He was married to Miss Stella Armstrong, who survives with two daughters, Joan, of Sherbrooke, and Debbie, of Montreal. Also left to mourn his passing are his sister, Edith (Mrs. Alvin Kyle), of Montreal, and two brothers, Norman, of Niagara Falls, and Donald, of Lachute.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon, with interment at Sherbrooke.

We will remember you."

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

BEAVEN (Arthur) — To the memory of our uncle:

A friendly and an honest man
Was he named Arthur Beaven,
And some day may we meet again
In that far-off place called Heaven.

He always had a kindly word
For those who seemed in trouble,
And if any needed a helping hand
He was ready on the double.

His home was always open house
To the many passing by,
Children were his special friends,
And no one need wonder why —

As many a tale did he unfold
Of the wonderful things to do,
Which were free and priceless to us all,
But accepted by only a very few;

And the flowers he tended with such loving care
Were many and varied and grew everywhere.

As children we were always going
With things we could not master
To Uncle Arthur for some help,
For he always knew the answer.

Now all that is left are our memories dear,
Of one uncle we loved and who will always seem near.

Graduation dance at Arundel School is colorful event

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — For the annual graduation dance the committee, as usual, transformed the school auditorium into a fairyland of beauty...

Ceilings and walls were festooned with the school colors, green and gold, and a decoration of outstanding notice was the wonderful mural which ran the length of the hall. It depicted a pastoral scene of fields filled with flowers and frolicking lambs — the flowers and lambs in a bas relief which stood out noticeably. The stage had a backdrop representing a large field which followed the theme of the mural.

At the back of the hall, a realistic log hunting camp had been erected, on the outside of which hung the usual items found at such a place — creels, lanterns, guns, etc.

In the centre of the hall was a pool banked with flowers, and the indirect lighting gave a beautiful effect. Banks of flowers were everywhere, with fir trees lighted by concealed bulbs, which gave the whole hall a striking effect.

The committee in charge are to be congratulated on having achieved this artistic triumph.

The graduates of 1963 were the Misses Dale Boyd, Eleanor Campbell, Lynne Cooke, Jill Courte, Rollande Drouin, Gloria Graham, Lise Jansen and Joyce Parkinson, who were all dressed in white with white accessories and wearing deep red corsages; Messrs. Wayne Madison, Larry Parkinson, Bob Staniforth and Wade Welden. This was the largest graduation class to date.

At nine o'clock, the Grand March was piped in by Mr. Alec Lawson. This was led by two majorettes, Nicolle Chené and Brenda Labrosse. They were followed by the graduates and Cubs. At the conclusion of the march, the Cubs formed a guard of honor and stood at attention while "O Canada" was played. The march was then brought to an end with the Graduation Waltz, followed by a general dance.

The presentation of the graduates then took place, Principal Graham presenting each in turn; they were congratulated by Mr. Leslie Cooke, chairman of the school board. Miss Rollande Drouin, as chairman, welcomed the guests and Miss Jill Courte gave the valedictory.

Dancing was led by music of the Skyliners and refreshments were then served, after which highland dances, under the leadership of Mrs. A. Lawson, were presented. General dancing brought to a close another successful and enjoyable graduation event.

The Arundel school graduates will be taken Saturday morning on helicopter and plane flights at the Tree Farm.

The Bible Today

"To present the whole Bible to the whole Church family is such an important task that neither the content nor the technique of communication can be taken for granted," states a recent release from the American Bible Society following a study on the place and use of the Bible.

Many books have recently come from several publishers advising people how to read the Bible, what to look for in a study of the Scriptures and pointing to the relevance of this Book to the life today. Many denominations of the Christian Church in Canada and other lands are now encouraging a study of the Scriptures in depth.

"Because the Bible is recognized as both witness to and instrument of God's revelation of Himself to man, the Church must take care to keep the Bible an open Book, continually putting herself in position to listen and to listen again to the story it tells," is the comment in a paper released recently by several denominations.

Guides and outlines for reading the Bible in a period of one, two and three years are gaining in popularity. One minister prepared a mimeographed outline for a Study of the Whole Bible in One Year. Circulation has been in the area of 1,500 copies and it is now being printed in a more permanent form by a book publisher.

"Does that include clothes, houses . . . and churches?"

PRECIOUS PROMISES
From God's Book, The Bible

Peace is as sure as tomorrow's sunrise, and just as independent of men.

The Earth abideth forever. (Eccl. 1: 4)

The evildoers shall be cut off, but the meek shall inherit the earth, and delight themselves in the abundance of Peace (Psalms 37: 9-11)

For unto us a son is born, unto us a son is given. And the government shall be upon his shoulder, and his name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end. (Isaiah 9: 6-7)

We, according to God's promise, look for a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. (2nd Peter, 3: 13)

The eyes of Jehovah run to and fro throughout the whole Earth, to show himself strong in behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him. (2nd Chron. 16: 9)

Desperation

A WOMAN'S PRAYER. A young Negro woman kneels in prayer on a sidewalk in Birmingham, Ala., begging for an end to segregation in the southern states of America. More than 2,000 Negroes staged daily peaceful mass demonstrations against segregation. At one point, police jailed as many as 1,500 Negroes, including many children.—TNS Photo

UN-INFORMED

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, busy Executive Director of the Unitarian Service Committee, never has a moment to keep up with the latest dance craze. When two little boys from the USC-sponsored Heimyung Home in Korea decided to surprise her with a sample of Western dancing, Dr. Lotta congratulated them on their "boxing match". The little boys were doing the Twist.

Sherbrooke, Que. (CP) — More than 100 police officers from towns and villages in Quebec's Eastern Townships were expected to attend a training course offered here by experts from the RCMP and the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Leather now man-made

Two Canadian shoe manufacturers have just turned out their first test pairs of men's shoes — using an entirely new man-made material in the uppers, reports W. L. Dack in The Financial Post. It's called Corfam and looks like leather, feels like leather, and "breathes" like leather. It's the first man-made material that will be able to compete with leather in its last big market stronghold: shoe uppers.

Competitive materials — plastics, synthetic rubber, coated fabrics, etc., — already have chewed big holes in all of leather's other markets and held the leather industry virtually "growless" since end of World War II. Until now the unique breathing quality of leather gave it a monopoly in the shoe-upper market — despite repeated threats from man-made materials. As a result there's been real growth in this part of the leather market: up 32% since the end of War II. But Corfam could change all that. Canadian and U.S. leather manufacturers who have had an advance peek at Corfam are waiting its commercial market debut with a strong sense of foreboding.

EARLY NAME

The explorer Simon Fraser originally called what is now the British Columbia mainland by the name of New Caledonia, a poetical term for Scotland, a land that Fraser had never seen but that he thought resembled our west coast.

— Quick Canadian Facts

OVERSEAS STUDENTS ON THE MOVE

Don't be too surprised to find a British student on your doorstep this summer looking for an employer — or perhaps a nursemaid, writes The Financial Post's Archer Mark from London. You can expect an invasion of some 400 university undergraduates (1,100 to the U.S.) under the auspices of the recently organized British Universities North American Club. Their aim: a summer job for 10 weeks or so, then three weeks to sight-see and make contacts that might pay off after graduation. Roots of the scheme date back to 1958 and an assortment of Canada Clubs at several British universities. Then, as now, the combination of consuming campus curiosity about North American conditions (egged on in part by some wild tales about summer salaries) and the possibility of cut-rate air charter fares, provided the incentive.

Why Does a Ball Bounce

No matter whether a ball is solid or hollow, its bounce is due to the fact that it is elastic. A thing is said to be elastic when it tends to return to its former size or shape after being pressed or stretched. Rubber is a very elastic substance, as you know. Press a rubber ball on the ground; it loses its perfect roundness, but the instant you take away the pressure of your hand, it springs back to shape. Throw it sharply on the ground, it loses shape against the ground but springs back so sharply that it bounces.

Now a great law of science is that nothing is ever lost and that everything has to be paid for. When we start a ball bouncing we give it a certain amount of energy of motion. When it stops, the energy is gone. Either we must show that the energy has gone somewhere and has not been destroyed, or according to the great law of persistence of power, the ball should bounce forever. And what happens to the energy when the ball stops?

To begin with, the bouncing ball is moving, both up and down, through the air and forcing millions of particles of air aside. All the motion it gives to the air it loses.

If a ball were bounced in a space as far as possible emptied of air, it would bounce far longer than it does in the atmosphere, just as a top would spin longer in the same circumstances. Suppose that, instead of bouncing the ball on something hard, we bounce it on a pillow or on loose sand. It will not bounce long in such a case. Its power has gone to move the pillow or sand as well as the air. The ball itself is not completely elastic, nor is the ground. If the ball and the ground were completely elastic, and there were no air to move and the ball never turned and rubbed the ground in falling, it would bounce forever.

In the case of the hollow rubber ball, it is not by any means the rubber only that explains why the ball is so elastic. The ball is filled with a mixture of several gases, which we call air. The air is elastic. It is pressed in upon itself when the ball hits the ground, but quickly tends to go back to its old space in the ball. We can see how much air bounces if we compare an ordinary soft rubber ball with another one that has a small hole in it.

The air is expelled from the hole when the ball is bounced and we find that the ball bounces very little because its elasticity is so poor. But the other ball bounces exceedingly well because, when it is bounced, the air in it is not squeezed out but only compressed for an instant.

Balls are made for special purposes — especially games — with these principles in mind. A tennis ball, for instance, must have a great deal of bounce. A golf ball bounces less; and a baseball has less bounce that either of the others.

Pierre, Sieur de Monts, governor of Acadia and first colonizer of Canada. He secured a monopoly of the Canadian fur trade in 1603, during the Frech regime. It was he who sent Champlain to build the fort of Quebec.

I WONDER . . . Curiosity is a priceless gift. A youngster's daily questions indicate a bright, inquiring mind. They should be answered intelligently. Tourists are important

THE MAN who runs the Canadian Government Travel Bureau says "Canadians are the world's greatest travellers."

What Alan Field means, is that in relation to the size of our population we do more travelling outside our borders than the people of any other country.

We also spend a lot of money abroad. Last year, for example, Canadian travellers spent $610,000,000 in other countries, and while visitors from abroad left a record $560,000,000 here, the result was still a tourist trade deficit of $50,000,000.

"If more Canadians would decide to visit other provinces and not other countries, we wouldn't have to worry about a deficit," says Mr. Field.

He's right, of course, but as long as such cities as Paris, London, Rome and New York have that aura of glamor and excitement that we associate with them, we're likely to continue to be "the world's greatest travellers."

Another solution would be to get more tourists from other countries to come here. The various governments, provincial and federal, and private tourist attractions are doing their best to entice visitors, with colorful brochures and advertisements. The government travel bureau at Ottawa has been transferred from Northern Affairs to the Trade Department and this means that trade commissioners throughout the world can help boost Canada as a tourist paradise.

But what is most important is that, once the tourist arrives, we make sure he isn't disappointed. . . The operator of a tourist centre can see to it that the food and accommodation are good; that the visitor is entertained. The variety of businesses dealing with tourists can make certain that visitors aren't overcharged or loaded down with poor-quality merchandise.

And even the person who has nothing to sell to the tourist, can help by being friendly and courteous.

The tourist trade is at present our third largest industry, and within a decade it may become the biggest. From the economic standpoint, it's worth our while to help promote tourist business, and the best way to do it is to make sure the visitor has enjoyed himself so much that he'll tell his friends about it and perhaps decide to come back again as well.

Road-e-o underlines driver education

A GREAT SOCIAL problem today is the accident-producing behavior of many drivers. No law forbids a future motorist from learning to drive from any friend or relative who holds a driver's license, even though he is not qualified to instruct. . . The Junior Chamber of Commerce Road-e-o this week serves to underline this thought.

The rapidly increasing number of vehicles on our streets and highways, and their better performance, make the problem even more acute. Thousands of deaths, disabling injuries and economic loss running into the hundreds of millions, may be traced to improper attitudes and lack of skill due to inadequate training. A recent survey shows that 6 out of 10 drivers obtain their permit without taking any course from a qualified person.

To acquire proper attitudes and avoid costly accidents, a training course including both theory and practice is essential, in the opinion of R. C. D'Alton, president of the Province of Quebec Safety League. Such a course can be offered only by a competent instructor, or a driving school with an established reputation. This (it is contended) should be a minimum requirement to meet the increasing responsibilities created by today's overcrowded streets and highways.

From one grim role to another

IF YOU EVER get down to the United States and take in some sandlot or semi-pro baseball games, the guy making the calls behind the plate just might be a reformed robber, swindler or thief! He won't be trying to pull a fast one either — just trying to make an honest buck.

About 200 umpires in sandlot and semi-pro baseball leagues operating across the U.S. learned the business in prison. For many, the umpire school behind bars became an important step toward returning to a constructive life in society.

More than 30 prisons or reformatories operate the umpire schools, sanctioned by the National Association of Umpires of the National Baseball Congress.

Credentials of those graduates — like 5,000 others issued annually — show only that the holder successfully completed an NBC-approved school. . . The school may have been in prison, but this isn't noted on the cards.

The prison idea was started in 1955 and is having great success. In the words of Ray Dumont, director of the NBC: "There aren't many things a prisoner can get interested in. But almost everyone is interested in sports. We try to give them some incentive. When they take the course, they hope to be an umpire somewhere sometime. . . Some of them never call a game except behind prison walls."

Love those commercials

JUST BEFORE the morning news on one radio station, listeners who have tuned in early are forced to listen to a short dramatic sketch, in which a wife gushes with surprise and happiness over her husband's gift of a new diamond ring, which he has bought to replace the engagement ring with a small stone that was all he could afford when they first decided on marriage. He explains that the credit jewellers from whom he bought it have a trade-in arrangement whereby any diamond ring they have sold will be credited at full purchase price when a ring with a larger stone is bought.

Apart from the fact that many wives' first reaction on being presented with a diamond at eight in the morning would be to wonder what their husband had on his conscience — the radio drama, even on the first hearing, does not seem true to life. The jewellers may be trusting enough to extend credit to a customer, but surely they would insist on having the old ring handed in before they parted with the new one. In that event how can one account for the wife's surprise, which she goes on simulating morning after morning? Perhaps she thought, when he borrowed the first ring from her, that he intended to pawn it!

There are other commercial dramas that are less dramatic than their talented authors and sponsors intended. One merely dislikes the radio guest who casts scorn on his host's choice of instant coffee, only to be quickly converted to it; but after exposure to the same scene for several evenings in succession, the viewer may develop an abiding hatred for the advertised product, or relieve his feelings by getting a bottle of beer from the refrigerator.

One television addict has for months been hopefully watching a scene staged in Grand Central Station, when a morning commuter is induced to shave with an electric shaver an hour or so after he has performed the same rite at home. The demonstrator then takes the device apart and shows the victim how much beard his own shaver failed to cut. The viewer has been hopefully waiting for a victim to say the shaver he used at home is the same brand as the one being demonstrated, but after long suspense has decided that this is not going to happen, or that if it does the film will be censored. — The Printed Word

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

THE SHOEMAKER

More than 40 years ago, my friend Fred and I found ourselves in the small town of Hussar, Alberta, filling in a slack week between stooking and threshing on one of those harvest excursions that are no more. He got a job helping install a pump, and I worked for a drayman unloading all sorts of merchandise from freight cars. Fred had a pair of shoes badly needing new soles, and asked one of the natives if there was a shoemaker in the town. "Yes," said his informant. "That red brick house across the tracks."..

So that evening, after work, we crossed the railroad and knocked at the door of the house. There was no response, but the door was not locked so we walked in. An old man sat in a rocking chair and looked at us curiously without saying a word. Fred showed him the shoes and explained what he wanted. The old man said, "Nein," which is the German word of "No". We stopped long enough to notice a picture of Kaiser Wilhelm in a frame on the wall, and the old man said, "Kaiser no good. Canada best." But not a word of explanation as to why he would not undertake to repair the shoes.

We returned to the other side of the tracks and made for our "bedroom", which was in the hayloft of a livery barn, when we suddenly bumped into the man who had directed us to the brick house. Fred explained that the old man did not seem anxious to repair his shoes. "No," said the man. "He's an old farmer. Too old to work. His son runs the farm. Their name is Schumacher!"

Be seein' ya!

Soul-Starred

As sunset fades, the evening star
Fulfills a promise from afar —
Souls you've loved — your Father too,
His stars become unwavering, true.

Why, there's Mother and Dad — sister as well!
Twinkling and smiling to river and dell.
Innocent infants, without any differ,
Gurgle quite sweetly in God's Little Dipper.

Freckle-faced boys, unique and so rare,
Can only be teasing His firmament's Bear.
14 Million light-years away, Virgo the Virgin guards the sway
Of littlest girls' pigtails while they play.

Souls by the million, n'er ever forgotten,
Stud God's great firmament, long begotten.
And lest one doubt, with angry toss,
His double star guides from the Northern Cross!

Seeks mementos of militia and service units

TO THE EDITOR

May 15, 1963

Dear Sir:

Although Canadians have rendered military service in both peace and war under more than a thousand varieties of unit badges, no comprehensive history of these insignia has ever been published.

The writer is now attempting to assemble material for a reference book on this aspect of Canadiana. Any assistance your readers could give would be appreciated.

Material sought includes helmet, cap, collar and shoulder badges; buttons; enamelled brooches and pins; unit commemorative medals and trophies; photos and pictures illustrating these devices; letterheads, envelopes, programs and Christmas cards with unit crests and markings; books and articles on unit histories; and information concerning designs, the reasons for selection, and nicknames and anecdotes associated with them. Of special interest would be information from jewellers and others who at one time engaged in local manufacture of these items.

Canadian Expeditionary Force and earlier Militia materials are required particularly.

Yours truly,
G. Hiseler,
Box 4055, Stn. E.,
Ottawa, Canada.

Burglar Club members discouraged

Burglars just can't make a decent living in Lachute any more — not since local residents and businessmen started putting away their cash safely at nights and week-ends.

Much less money is being stowed away in "secret" hiding places — left around the house or in a till overnight. Instead, it goes where it should — to the bank; it's deposited in the Bank of Montreal's dual-type "around-the-clock" depository unit.

There, the cash is safely inside a special vault, away from burglars' adhesive fingers.

The B of M's depository unit allows both private and business customers to make deposits at any hour of the day or night, seven days a week, whether the bank is open or not. As well as being specially convenient when the bank is closed, the unit can be used in banking hours, too, if you're in a hurry.

Why not drop in and ask Don Hay, the manager, or one of his staff about this new service. It will take only a few minutes, and you'll find the time spent worth the saving in peace of mind.

For Parents Only ...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Young collector

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"You should see the trash our Tom collects! He started his first collection when he was six and I declare he is always collecting something!" Mrs. White complained. "He is no different from most youngsters. I read recently that the average child has made seven or eight collections before he finishes school," her friend replied.

Collections are unpopular with mothers because they fill valuable space in a home, making quite a clutter. If a boy or girl shares a room with another youngster in the family, and they are both souvenir hunters, the mother is apt to be out of patience with this leisure time activity.

A hobby, such as stamp or coin collecting, may be begun any time and continued indefinitely. Parents, however, should not be alarmed if a child tires of gathering a certain object. Children's interest is often short-lived. A child may have to have a fling at several quite different collections before he discovers the one which is most satisfying for him. Do be patient with the small collector!

Gathering material is only part of the fun of collecting. A parent may have to quietly encourage a child to sort and discard specimens which are imperfect or poor quality. Some suggestions may be needed as to a place to store things where the souvenirs will not be harmed by dust, damp, or insects. Arranging the collection may need boxes or drawers or cardboard four mounting. Neat block printing should tell the observer at a glance just what each specimen is, where it is found, signed by the young collector.

A collecting hobby is a source of joy and a wonderful stimulus to self-education. No one ever pushes an individual into collecting souvenirs on a vacation. A child or an adult is attracted to articles, which are within his purchase range, or which he can acquire from relatives or friends. He takes pride in his collection, especially as it grows, or some rare or valuable pieces appear.

A great many boys and girls collect cards packed in a food package such as the three sets of nature cards on birds, animals and wild flowers in Red Rose and Blue Ribbon products. Some of the children, after gathering a complete set of wild-flower cards into an album have become interested in collecting the wild flowers themselves but only common wayside plants should be gathered.

Pressed leaves of ferns, and tree leaves can all be made at little cost. The young collector needs to search for as perfect a specimen as possible, press it between newspapers for a week or ten days, with a heavy weight, such as books on the top of the papers.

There is a wide range in objects collected by different children. Sometimes a girl may embark on a collection of toy cars, animals in miniature or buttons or spoons. Boys sometimes embark on a collection of toy cars or toy soldiers. A child's enthusiasm for his collection may wane after a time and the following year he may want to collect something quite different.

Collections do take space, and they may seem to make an untidy clutter. But they give the collector a great deal of satisfaction and they are worthwhile in stimulating his curiosity and desire to find out facts. Do be patient with the young collector!

Good recipe for pleasing husbands

It's a nice idea, when giving kitchen equipment as a wedding or shower gift, to tuck in a favorite recipe.

If you're giving a spice rack, you might choose your best recipe for herb stuffing. Or if you've chosen a blender for the prospective bride you might like to try out a recipe for Banana Bran Bread. The blender comes in handy for mashing up the bananas.

A good recipe for pleasing husbands who do not like sticky sweets, Banana Bran Bread is one of those easily baked breads leavened with baking powder. Moist and close-textured, it goes well with fresh fruit salads or ice cream, owes its nutty quality to the bran flakes, and its fresh fruit flavor to a tablespoon of grated orange peel as well as to the bananas.

BANANA BRAN BREAD

Banana Bran Bread

(Yield — 1 loaf)

1½ Cups once-sifted all-purpose flour (or 1¾ cups once-sifted pastry flour), 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup bran flakes, 1½ cups well-mashed ripe banana, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2 tablespoons water, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Grease a loaf pan (8½ x 4½ inches, top inside measure) and line with greased waxed paper or foil. Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Sift the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt together 3 times.

Cream shortening; gradually blend in sugar. Add egg and beat until fluffy; mix in bran flakes.

Combine mashed banana, orange rind, water and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with banana mixture; combine only enough to blend the ingredients. Turn into prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in preheated oven 1 to 1¼ hours. Stand loaf in its pan on cake rack for 15 minutes. Turn out onto rack, peel off paper and allow bread to cool thoroughly. Store for 24 hours in a closely covered tin or wrapped in foil, waxed paper or other kitchen wrap. Serve sliced and spread with butter or margarine.

Eye health survey shows care imperative; 40% wear glasses

According to the American Medical Association, slightly more than half of all people in the United States have something wrong with their eyes.

Some 40% of all Americans wear glasses. Eight million sets of contact lenses have been sold. Almost a million are blind.

The Health League of Canada reports that the major factor contributing to this situation is the fact that millions of people neglect their eye health. Many of us don't know what's good or bad for eyes. Others know but ignore it. And most of us have some ideas about eye care that just aren't true.

Most ophthalmologists (physicians specializing in eyes) now agree that there is no such thing as eye strain. There is eye fatigue, however, and this is what sometimes occurs when you spend long hours watching television. It isn't serious.

Nothing, including wearing glasses, eating carrots or eye exercises, can cure near-sightedness. Glasses will improve vision but they will not correct the defect that causes near-sightedness. Children aren't likely to "outgrow" crossed eyes if left alone, and some loss of sight might result if treatment is not provided.

Inflammation of the eye, often called "red eye", should be treated if it continues for more than a day or two. It might be caused by dust or an allergy, and is not serious. Or it might be an infection or a symptom of something more serious.

Glaucoma, a widespread condition causing sight impairment, cannot be cured, but it can be treated and arrested. The prevalence of glaucoma among people who don't know they have it, is alarming. For this reason regular eye examinations by a physician are important. Diagnosed early, glaucoma can be treated and prevented from developing into serious impairment of vision.

Contact lenses have been greatly improved in recent years, but there is still danger of corneal scratches and possible infection. Some people can see better with contact lenses than with conventional glasses. The wearer of contact lenses should be especially careful to have regular examinations to make certain that everything is all right.

Children should have their first medical eye examination at the age of three to four years, unless something happens to indicate an even earlier checkup. Often problems discovered at an early age can be corrected or alleviated before they become too severe.

Seat belts required in B.C.

Legislation was introduced in the British Columbia legislature under which all 1964 cars must be equipped with seat belts for the driver after October 1. The proposed legislation puts the onus of installing the belts on the auto dealers.

According to B.C. Attorney General Robert W. Bonner, "It is not possible to force people to use seat belts but only to make it obligatory to have seat belts installed on all new cars".

Q.W.I. courses in leadership, end of May

From May 27 to 30, delegates from Branches of Women's Institutes from all parts of Quebec will attend a leadership training course at Macdonald College.

The program has been planned in order that delegates may choose certain courses of special interest. Topics of general interest will be covered in group discussions.

The following courses will be offered:

1. French Conversation — for those who would like to improve their French.

2. Horticulture — classes on house plants, small fruits, etc.

3. Lamp Shades — demonstrations and instruction on remodelling and making new shades.

4. Film Projection — three lessons on how to operate a projector. This should be of interest to those branches who may borrow a projector from time to time but never can find anyone to operate it.

5. Slip-Covers — techniques used for making slip-covers.

6. Physical Fitness — an opportunity for participants to take part in exercises and to see demonstrations. These instructions will help one to relax, to aid good posture, and help you to look your best.

Mrs. J. Ossington, 1st vice-president, and Mrs. G. D. Harvey, past-president, will take charge of evening sessions on W.I. work, and will also give help in the art of introducing and thanking guest speakers.

Approximately 60 W.I. members are expected to attend. Further information is available from the Quebec Women's Institutes' office at Macdonald College.

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Women today spend more time shopping than cooking and sewing, and so should be taught to be good shoppers.

This is the feeling of the education department in Ontario which is revising courses in home economics to give greater emphasis to consumer education.

Anne Lawson, secondary school inspector for home economics in Ontario, said a knowledge of money management in particular is one of the necessary requirements for a home to be run satisfactorily.

Beginning next September, home economics courses in Ontario will recognize the fact that women today also use labor saving devices as well as easily-prepared foods.

Time allotted to food preparation and sewing has been reduced because compared to earlier years not so much time now is spent on these activities, she said.

In senior home economics courses, emphasis will be placed on child and family development and on the most efficient use of household equipment.

Women's Role Complex

Miss Lawson outlined the new plans for Ontario when commenting on the statement made recently by Dr. Edith Rowles, professor of home economics at the University of Saskatchewan, that high school courses failed to prepare girls for the dual role of homemaker and wage earner.

Dr. Rowles told the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Home Economics Association that the bearing of children is woman's primary function and in our culture this means marriage and the establishment of a home where children can live with their parents perhaps 20 or more years.

"In this marriage partnership and home, the woman is cook, cleaning woman, laundress, household manager, her husband's valet, her children's nursemaid, hostess, chauffeur, perhaps even gardener — all this in addition to being wife and mother."

Young girls in school must be taught to run a home and handle a job at the same time, Dr. Rowles said.

"We must teach them efficient working habits so they can keep their home clean and tidy. We must teach them shortcuts in cookery so they can serve a meal in a hurry."

Dr. Barbara McLaren of the University of Toronto's new faculty of food science says what is needed is a well-educated consumer. Many families find it necessary to seek help from welfare agencies simply because they don't know how to handle their money, she said.

Child Convalescence

A 25-bed convalescent hospital for children — believed the first of its kind in Canada — has been established in Montreal.

The Children's Mountain Hospital is a dream come true for Maeda Primavesi, a former art teacher at the Montreal Children's Hospital.

Miss Primavesi, a baby nurse who taught painting at the latter hospital for nine years, said she felt "sorry some of the children had to be there such a long time."

So after Miss Primavesi's idea received support from doctors and private citizens, a huge 20-room former rooming house was transformed into a gay home-like recovery hospital.

Calling all Lorne Scots!

Ex-members of the Lorne Scots are invited to attend the presentation of the colors and festivities to be held at Caledon, Ont., in October, concurrently with the World Plowing Match. A representative of Her Majesty the Queen will officiate at the presentation.

Many members of the Peel, Dufferin and Halton Counties (Militia) Regiment served with other Canadian and Commonwealth units and are known to have dispersed across Canada and to other countries following the demobilization in 1945.

"If you are an ex-Lorne Scot yourself, or know the whereabouts of one, please drop us a line as soon as possible so that we may extend a formal invitation," states Lt. Col. E. F. Conover, Commanding Officer. Communications should be addressed to the General Chairman, Presentation Committee, Lorne Scots Regiment, The Armouries, 12 Chapel St., Brampton, Ont.

The regiment's new colors include battle honors won in the Second World War and are in addition to honors achieved in the First World War by predecessor units which were amalgamated to form the present regiment.

Oldest Christian cemetery in North America?

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

I have just received a letter from my scientist pen-pal, Dr. Löve. He is an authority on old Norse and its modern equivalent, Icelandic culture, as well as being a distinguished botanist.

I had written to him about the works of Thor Heyerdahl, the Norwegian author of Kon Tiki, etc.

I told him that Heyerdahl had stated in one of his books that Pizarro, the conquistador who subdued the Incas, had told of giant Incas who had red hair. In the museums of Peru, there are mummified remains of pre-Columbian Incas with red hair. The Vikings of ancient times had gone to South America. It is believed the Incas travelled to Easter Island in the South Pacific, just as Thor Heyerdahl did, on a balsa raft. . . His journey from South America to the South Sea Islands makes very interesting reading. On Easter Island, Heyerdahl says, there are legends of red-headed giants who came there also.

Most historians believe the Polynesians are of mixed Negro, White and Malay blood.

Dr. Löve has this to say about Thor Heyerdahl: "Thor Heyerdahl is regarded in Scandinavia as a very great geographer and his opinions on South America and the islands of the Southern Seas are held in great esteem. Though we have no reports of Norsemen sailing farther south, this does not mean much; many must have sailed far away and became lost. They mixed with the people in these distant lands. . .

"Anthropology is a fascinating subject, where we are still allowed to dream a lot. One of my colleagues at the University of Uppsala in Sweden, has written a lot about races, but unfortunately only in his own language."

In his researches on the Greenland Norsemen, Dr. Löve visited Southern Greenland, last summer.

He studied the ruins of Eystribygo (the eastern settlement), and the place where the bishops lived. He also visited Brattahlid, where Eirik the Red, and his son Leifur Eiriksson, lived. Dr. Löve was fortunate enough to see the archeologists digging up human bodies, in the oldest Christian graveyard in North America. Dr. Löve is right, I think, in regarding Greenland as part of North America. It is part of the hemispherical defence of North America right now, and is as much a part of North America as Cuba.

Dr. Löve was astonished to see the size of these ancient Viking remains. One man was 193 centimetres tall (about 6 ft. 3 inches) another was 184 centimetres (almost 6 ft.) and a woman of 180 centimetres.

It was apparent the people lived a good life in that cold country, almost 1,000 years ago. The tallest man was interred about 1025 A.D., they found out, by scientific tests. Leifur Eiriksson (Lief Eriksson) died 1027 A.D. Was this the body of the great explorer himself? He was known to have been a splendid specimen of manhood. The archeologists are indeed investigating this possibility.

Vestribygo actually means "the western settlement", but both Vestribygo and Eystribygo were on the west coast of Greenland. Actually, the eastern settlement was in the far southern part of the island. Dr. Löve says Vestribygo has been mistakenly called Vesterbygden by the Danes.

Dr. Löve recently paid a visit to the Cape Cod area in Massachusetts, which he thinks is where the Vinland of the sagas was. He is certain now the discovery in Northern Newfoundland is Streamfiord, the half-way stop for the Norsemen when they went to Vinland. The land around Cape Cod has been changed so much by buildings, and shifting sand caused by the ebb and flow of the sea, that there is little hope of finding Vinland.

He visited Williamsburg in the Southern States, and thought that rebuilt town was better than any restoration he had seen in Europe, with the exception of Skansen in Stockholm.

It is surprising to me that the farmers in Southern Sweden sow their wheat in late March. Even in Iceland, the spring sowing is done much earlier than here, although an Easter storm froze the leaves on the trees. This often happens there, he says. Some sailors were drowned. Dr. Löve's father was a sea captain and storms are times of anxiety in Iceland. There was no social security there before 1934. Hard on the families when the father drowned!

Q.W.I. course in Homemaking for Indian girls

The Quebec Women's Institutes are sponsoring, with the collaboration of the Dept. of Indian Affairs, a course in Homemaking for Indian girls and young women. This will be held June 10-14 at Macdonald College, where the girls will live in residence.

Mrs. C. Zarkadas and Miss C. Hollyer, of the staff of the School of Household Science, are generously offering their time to teach the course, which this year will concentrate on practical cooking and meal planning, canning and budgeting.

Six of the candidates are coming from the Reserves of Notre Dame du Nord and Winneway, where W.I. branches have been established for some time. The other six are from the Reserves of Oka, Caughnawaga and Odanak.

Two members of the Q.W.I. will live in residence with the students to assist in planning "after class" activities and to act generally as house mothers.

It is hoped that this venture will be such a success that it will become a permanent annual event.

CBC PROGRAMMING PRAISED

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was put under the microscope recently by the Glassco royal commission on government organization. In its report, the CBC is given considerable praise for the quality of its programming. "The quality and balance of network programs have been exceptional, and the large audiences catered to have enjoyed a full and edifying fare of cultural, informative and entertaining programs," said the Report.

The general truth of that statement would be widely accepted. Many might quarrel with it if applied to certain specific programs, which sometimes seem the opposite of edifying. On the whole, the CBC shines best in the field of cultural programming.

Much more of the huge CBC budget ought to go into programming, where the best work is done. Instead, a terrific fortune is wasted annually in operations that are off the mark. The Report noted that, "The most striking feature of the headquarters organization (in Ottawa) is that fewer than 20 people are directly concerned with programming, while over 800 are engaged in ancillary operations." This is a complaint often made in this column. Performers have made the same complaint. CBC puts far too much into the machine, into Press and Information Services, and not nearly enough into actual programming.

The primary business of CBC is to produce and broadcast radio and television programs. This job can be done remarkably well by talented Canadians. It is on them, and on their programs, that money ought to be spent.

For recovery of mental patient

Vancouver (C. — Mrs. Paula O'Laughlin has a cause — not a new one — but in her opinion one that is becoming increasingly important.

She is director of the Canadian Mental Health Association's White Cross here, and her crusade is for the rehabilitation of former mental patients.

"When one realizes that half the hospital beds in Canada are occupied by the mentally ill, one realizes the importance of information on this subject," Mrs. O'Laughlin says.

"After all, quick recognition and treatment of mental illness is as important as early treatment of cancer or heart disease. The trend today is to treat mental illness quickly and to get the patient back into the community."

Mrs. O'Laughlin says it is tragic that lack of knowledge prevents employers hiring those who have had a mental illness because she considers employment a major step in rehabilitation.

"Because people are ignorant, they hesitate to hire ex-mental patients" she says.

Mrs. O'Laughlin says there is a greater need for rehabilitation and that the CMHA concentrates most of its money and effort to achieve that goal.

In research, she says only five cents is being spent per Canadian, compared to 55 cents per American.

Weeds costlier than insect pests, plant diseases

How much do weeds cost?

It is estimated that weeds cost the farmer more than insect pests and plant diseases, states J. J. Sexsmith of the federal research station at Lethbridge, Alberta.

A Saskatchewan study showed that wild oats and wild mustard reduced yields 15 per cent in barley and 85 per cent in flax.

A Minnesota test showed that 27 wild mustard plants per square yard reduced the yield of canned peas by 85 per cent and 81 mustard plants caused an 88 per cent yield reduction.

A Manitoba researcher calculated that weeds cost the western grain farmer $255,000,000 a year — an average of $1,028 per farm. It has been estimated that weeds cost California farmers $800,000 a day.

"Here at Lethbridge," says Mr. Sexsmith, "we have found that reasonably heavy wild oat infestations have reduced pea yields by 75 per cent or more."

Obviously such yield reductions are costly and justify the expense of time and money on weed control.

Losses, caused by weeds, can be largely offset through the use of good and timely cultural practices as well as available weed killing chemicals.

Weeds affect the specialty-crop grower even more than the grain farmers.

Specialty crops usually are grown on more expensive land, suffer more from weeds, and have a greater potential net value than most grain crops. Higher expenditures for weed control are therefore justified.

"Weeds cost money," concludes Mr. Sexsmith. "Surely, more concerted effort for weed control is justified."

Garden damage caused by slugs

Ottawa — A federal researcher at Kentville, N.S., offers gardeners these observations:

— Slugs can cause as much damage to a garden as a couple of rabbits.

C. J. Fox, a Canada Department of Agriculture scientist, says slugs are active throughout the growing season, but are particularly busy in June and September. They feed mainly at night, and during the day hide under a variety of cover from old boards to rubbish piles. They lay eggs in these protected places and in the soil.

The retiring nature of slugs makes them difficult to control.

A gardener who has the time can trap them under old shingles and pieces of bark, and destroy them.

The chemical compound metaldehyde is both tasty and deadly to slugs. It can be purchased ready mixed in a bran bait under several trade names. It may be broadcast or put out in small piles two or three feet apart. The bait should be used two or three times about a week apart. It should be put out in the evening, but not if rain is expected, since the poison would be washed away.

Bordeaux mixture, or other copper compounds, will reduce the slug population. A dust containing one part dehydrated copper-sulphate and 10 parts hydrated lime is effective, harmless to plants, and cheaper than metaldehyde. Fresh hydrated lime used as a dust offers some control.

Slugs have many enemies, including toads, shrews, snakes, certain ground beetles, and birds. Poultry — especially ducks and geese — will eat large numbers of slugs. This offers one of the cheapest means of control.

Researcher Fox says there are six kinds of slugs in Nova Scotia. Only one of these is a native of the province and it does the least damage. The other five have immigrated from Europe and three of these species are especially numerous and destructive.

Expand plant at Gatineau

Montreal — The Masonite Company of Canada Ltd., an affiliate of Canadian International Paper Company, has announced capital expenditures of $300,000 at its Gatineau plant this summer to increase the volume of hardboard available annually to customers.

Besides providing jobs in the construction phase, the project will also have the effect of stabilizing employment at the plant through a more highly sustained operating rate, the company stated.

The company also said that the expenditure is planned to tie in with the eventual installation of a fourth hardboard press, which will increase total plant output by one-third and mark the third increase in plant capacity since it opened in 1940.

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

Sitting opposite me in Montreal, Dinko Vodanovic came up with an unusual answer to the first question I fired at him. I asked him how it felt to have won $1,000 for artistic achievement.

"I was glad I won the prize", he replied in his clear and precise English, "glad for my friends because they have such infinite faith in me." These very good friends, who have played an important part in his adjustment to our Canadian ways, are Miss Eleanor Stuart, who gave him lessons in diction, and Miss Marcelle Barthe, CBC's first woman announcer and the one to whom he gives credit for his acceptance in Canadian society. They urged him to enter the design competition for a Canadian commemorative coin.

This six-foot Yugoslav has been among us for the past 11 years, all of them spent in Montreal and for the most part as an employee of the CN, where he is an assistant architect. His award, though not directly connected with his profession, was inspired by one of his numerous hobbies.

Born with the creative instincts which seem to bless so many Europeans in the professional field, Vodanovic, a graduate of the University of Belgrade, confessed that his present position, though exacting and immensely interesting, requires little creative talent.

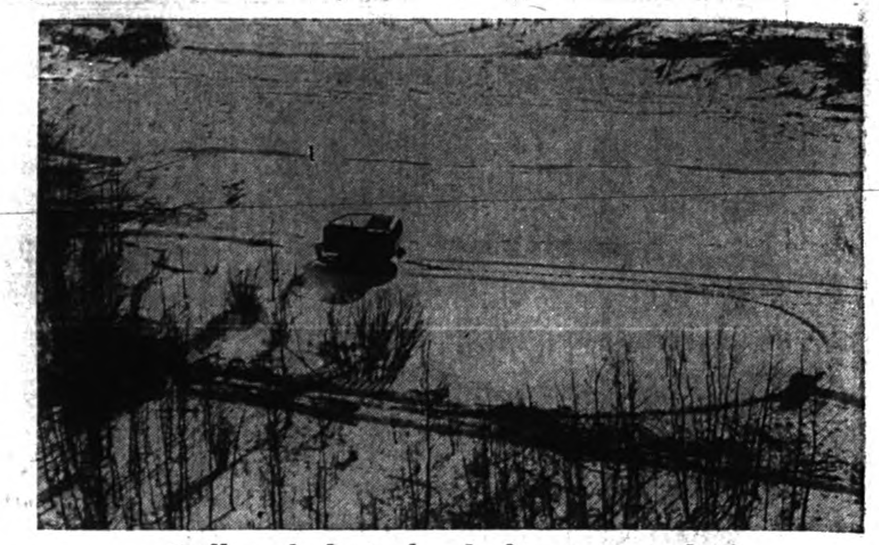

Single and with no kith or kin in this country, he employs his free time in many artistic mediums such as painting in both oil and water colors, carving leather and studying symbolism and heraldry.

It was this latter interest that led him to undertake what has become a lasting commemoration of the 1864 Charlottetown-Quebec conference.

The coin, to be released by the Mint in 1964, is a silver dollar. It is simple and clear cut in its symbolism including the French fleur-de-lis, the Irish shamrock, the Scotch thistle and the English rose enclosed in a circle. Vodanovic's design conveys the idea that the combined efforts of these four national groups, through those historic conferences, paved the way for Confederation.

Dinko Vodanovic was born on an island, Komiza, Dalmatia. When I asked a second stock question, as to why he had chosen Canada as his adopted country, he said he had two choices, Canada and the South American countries. Having been raised in a humid atmosphere, he felt a cooler country would be more conducive to inspirational work. "I have read a great deal of your English literature and believe your heritage has much respect for honor", was the fine tribute he paid us ~~in explaining~~ why he chose Canada.

His delightful sense of humor was evident when he said the first two years were the hardest period of adjustment. "You have many linguistic traps. I could have believed HOT DOGS were really dogs warmed up; and a friend of mine, another new Canadian as you call us, motoring through this lovely countryside remarked 'they must work very hard in this country; there are so many REST ROOMS'. The hardest task we newcomers have when we first arrive is to fight depression. But after this is overcome we realize what a wonderful country this is in which to live and be allowed to freely compete with you, not only in the business world, but the artistic field as well." Canadians should all be proud that we attract persons of Dinko Vodanovic's ability and charm to our shores.

Two tractors drawing a heavy chain linked to a two-ton steel ball are shown in position for clearing brush at Beaver Hills community pasture in northeastern Saskatchewan. CDA's Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration crews are successfully using this method for quick clearing of treed land, doing falling and windrowing in the one operation. Windrows (see top right) are burned without further piling. While the ball and chain doesn't do a clean job, it only costs $2.10 an acre, including repairs and movement of equipment, against $15 to $20 per acre for standard methods. Clearing costs can be a big item in a program like last winter's, when 7,000 acres were cleared on five northern pasture projects.

Colorful presentation by Arg. School of Ballet

Ballet scene from "Swan Lake"

Standing, left to right — Catherine Trickey, Judith Gow, Elizabeth Hodge, Gloria Napp, Sandra Prophet, Micheline Scarborough, Madeleine Desfossés, Brynn Carson, Linda Laurin. The annual demonstration and program of the Argenteuil School of Ballet was held Friday evening at Lachute Auditorium, and a large attendance appreciated the hard work of those responsible for this event, namely the directress, Mrs. E. F. Gow; the ballet mistress, Miss Lucille DuBreuil; and the pianist, Mrs. E. Callicott.

The first half of the program was devoted to ballet technique of the various stages, pre-ballet, intermediate and senior. The various exercises demonstrated to the audience what strict discipline is necessary even for beginners of ballet.

After the intermission, the pre-ballet class put on a colorful interpretation of the Four Seasons, with appropriate costumes and arrangements to the music.

Fairy Tales was the theme of the next group, with steps being improvised by the students themselves, with the aim of developing creative talent in the pupils. Again the costumes were delightfully appropriate and attractive.

The intermediate class had as their themes, "Continental Gaiety", "Romanesque", "Latin Dance" and "Oriental Dance", and the four varied interpretations gave promise in all the students participating.

The final and senior class of the Argenteuil School of Ballet gave a scene from "Swan Lake". The staging was nicely arranged at the backdrop, which gave an intriguing effect with the silhouettes of the dancers. The white dresses were most impressive, and the directress, Mrs. E. Gow, deserves distinct credit for all the thought given to this important phase of the production.

A total of 53 students, ranging in age from five to 17 years, took part in the recital.

After the performance, several presentations followed.

The School of Ballet came into existence in 1956. Since that time, of the 61 pupils who have completed their training here, five have won scholarships, one has attended the School of Ballet at Queen's University, and two are planning to join the Canadian National Ballet summer school in Toronto (a five-week course).

Good training is based on the syllabus of the Royal Academy of Dancing and Miss Lucille Dubreuil, who established her position here three years ago, has done much to raise the standards of ballet in the community.

Local residents and parents were slow to accept the cultural tastes of this school and much indifference and many obstacles had to be overcome before it reached its present status. Until its beginning, the opportunity and training available to local students was nil, and talented young people, especially dancers, had to seek audiences in either local grills or the corner drugstore. Parents, pupils and most of all, the community, have come to benefit from its growth. With the help of the few who have been interested, plus sheer determination, its perennial "deficit" has been hurdled, and the result, witnessed on Friday night by an audience of not less than 500, was a pleasing consequence of the time, energy and ability of all those concerned in making this event a success.

Affairs of interest in Rouge Valley area

Demonstrations and discussions on woods conservation were held recently at Arundel, organized by the Rouge Valley Association. This Association is concerned with the economic management of 2,000 square miles of territory, in collaboration with the Forestry Protective Association of the Lower Ottawa Valley, which maintains fire observation over 17,000 square miles of woodland.

The Rouge Valley is an experimental area which has been an influence in recent federal and provincial government decisions in the ARDA program.

The Rev. C. H. Deslauriers, parish priest at Mont Tremblant and president of the Rouge Valley Association, emphasized the need of re-forestation and prevention of water pollution throughout the area in the interests of tourism, and also announced a survey of tourist population.

Melvin Graham, school principal at Arundel and a director of the Association, spoke of a planned publicity drive aimed to encourage woodland conservation.

Demonstrations in firefighting were directed by Bud Irving, manager of the Forestry Protective Service of the Lower Ottawa. He claimed that 75 per cent of fires in Quebec Province are due to public ignorance. Thousands of tourists will visit this region in the course of the year and fire dangers will be greatly increased. The fire service covers a number of tourist camping areas, including Mont Tremblant Park, La Verendrye Park and the Gatineau hills.

John Ferris, of the Department of Education, attended the demonstrations.

Que. Orangemen and L.O.B.A. held two-day provincial meet

The annual sessions of Quebec Grand Lodge of the Orange Order brought an influx of delegates and members to Lachute last Friday and Saturday. Sessions were held at the Orange Hall on Gilbert Street, where 100 Orangemen of the L.O.L. registered and 110 ladies of the L.O.B.A. Business meetings were held by the two organizations on the main floor and in the upstairs hall of the new building. Presiding were the Grand Master for Quebec, Roderick Brown, of Ottawa, and the Grand Mistress, Mrs. Walter Atkins, of Bury, Que.

Fine weather prevailed during the two days, to favor this big occasion in the year's program of Quebec Orangemen.

Highlights of the two-day gathering were the Orange devotional service in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, and the banquet following in the church hall, on Friday evening. Ladies of the church catered for the large gathering. Also on the two-day program was the laying of a wreath at the cenotaph in the Memorial Park.

After the Friday evening banquet the gathering re-assembled at the Orange Hall, where the members of Argenteuil Juvenile Orange Lodges (Harrington, Kilmar and Lachute) under Mrs. Scott McLean, Provincial Director of Juveniles, and Mrs. Lemuel Watchorn, of Dalesville, Guardian of Lachute Juvenile Lodge, gave a demonstration of their ritual.

Two trophies were presented to the Juvenile lodges — one to Harrington, for proficiency, and the other to Lachute, for progress.

B.A. degree won by mother of two univ. graduates

Mrs. C. D. Fogerty, of Galt, Ont., received her Bachelor of Arts degree May 20 at the convocation of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. Fogerty, formerly Margaret Jones of Lachute, received her elementary and secondary education in this town, and obtained her Intermediate teaching diploma at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Mrs. Fogerty is the mother of Ruth Fogerty Bennett, who graduated from McMaster University in 1952, and of Douglass, who graduated in 1956. Mr. and Mrs. Fogerty have three grandchildren, Christopher and Margaret Bennett, and Charles Douglass Fogerty III.

Every provision for success of Lachute Fair '63

A talking point for entertainment attractions at Lachute Spring Fair is the famous RCMP Musical Ride, which will appear before the grandstand — once Friday evening and twice Saturday evening, June 14-15.

The Spring Fair opens for its four-day stand on Thursday, June 12. Livestock judging and horse shows will provide keen interest throughout the four days, and Manager Ken Riley is enthusiastic about his entry list, which promises keen competition in most breeds and classes.

President Norman McGeorge and his committees have arrangements well planned in all departments, and are optimistic for a bumper show this year.

The entertainment will be rounded out by the Rotary's "rural festival", a galaxy of fun and frolic, on Thursday evening, and the Richelieu Club's racing program on Saturday afternoon. King Reid Shows will again occupy the midway and provide lighter enjoyment for the crowd.

Lions' mammoth TV auction for crippled children's camp

Lachute Lions Club members, at their meeting last week, endorsed a project among district clubs to hold a mammoth TV auction on the coming November 1, over Channel 12. The objective is a $60,000 Lions' Pavilion proposed for the crippled children's camp at Joliette, where a central dining and administration building is a major need. It is hoped the project may raise a considerable contribution to this fund.

In endorsing this big effort, which was signified by a vote of the club, the Lachute members also pledge their assistance and support. Dr. Eric Mongeon has generously accepted the local chairmanship.

Here to outline the project were Lion Bob Stein, of Cote St. Luc club, and past-Zone Chairman Bob Leggett, of N.D.G. club, who were introduced by President Royal Carrière. The TV auction idea has been successfully worked in the United States. It consists of the auctioning of donated articles, with a telephone hook-up to receive bids from a wide area of listeners. The program would commence at 11 p.m. and continue into the early-morning hours if necessary. The television station has extended generous co-operation of staff and facilities in the Montreal effort, and collaboration would be forthcoming from various sources. It is a big effort with a big-hearted objective. Heading the organization to put the plan into motion is another big figure in Lionism, International Counsellor Ed MacLean, who is well known to the district clubs.

Club business, and the formal election of officers for 1963-64 (as listed in The Watchman last week), occupied the remainder of the meeting. The new officers will be installed at the last club assembly in June.

Safety belts subject of film and Rotary talk

At the May 23 meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, Bob Armstrong introduced to the members and guests Mr. Frank Pilon, the Fleet and Leasing merchandising manager for Ford Motor Company in Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

As guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Pilon spoke on Safety Belts and also commented on a film which Ford has made showing the positive live-saving advantages of safety belts in a car or truck. The film showed just what happens to people in a car when involved in different types of accidents, both with and without seat belts.

Having given the same program at many other club meetings throughout Montreal, Mr. Pilon came well prepared, and judging from the enthusiasm shown by the members, it was very evident that his subject was well received. Jim Campbell expressed thanks on behalf of the club.

During the months of March and April, the Brownsburg-Lachute and Hawkesbury Rotary Clubs competed in an attendance contest, the losing club having to entertain the other at a joint meeting and picking up the tab for the supper. It turned out that Brownsburg-Lachute club was victorious with an average attendance percentage of 91 over the two-month period.

Retarded children guests of Shriners

The Lachute School for Retarded Children attended the Circus on Tuesday, May 21. They were the guests of the Shriners, who each year sponsor a special day for handicapped children. A big "thank-you" goes to Mayor Dave Campbell and Mr. Donald Hay, who made it possible for the local children to attend this gala day.

The School also wishes to extend thanks to the drivers who provided cars and gave their time so generously to transport the children to and from the city. Ice cream and spun-sugar candy appeared like magic during the performance, and disappeared as fast. Mrs. C. Lowe, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Fillingham and Miss Hannah Smith, the drivers, have earned the gratitude of the children and their parents for their generosity.

The day was made complete for the children by the presence of their teacher, Mrs. Amy Ponech, whose untiring efforts have kept the school going.

Man's body found in Ottawa River, victim identified

The body of a man found last Thursday in the Ottawa River near Carillon Dam by Hydro-Quebec workmen, was on Saturday identified as that of Honoré Proulx, 55, of Hull.

Discovery of the body was made by workmen clearing the Quebec side of the river bank, in close proximity to the dam. Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, who headed the investigation, reported the body was in an advanced state of decomposition. An inquiry into the case was held by Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, joint district coroner, who declared the death accidental due to drowning. Pending identification of the body, it was held in the vault at the Catholic cemetery, but was released Saturday for burial.

The victim, who was identified by dentures and personal effects, was a guard at the University of Ottawa, and disappeared the night of December 31, 1962. He was unmarried.

Successes at McGill, Bishop's

In the McGill graduation list published last week, David C. Pollock, of Lachute, has successfully qualified for the Bachelor of (Civil) Engineering degree, and will receive his diploma at the University convocation this Friday. . . Ernest Hugh Morrison, of R.R. 6, Lachute, was another successful candidate, earning the Bachelor of Commerce degree from this University.

Two young ladies, both Lachute graduates, have also qualified for McGill degrees — Miss Lois Silverson with the Bachelor of Education, and Miss Beverley Hadley with the Bachelor of Science (Home Economics).

The pass list at Bishop's University, Lennoxville shows Miss Ann M. FitzGerald successful in 3rd year Science and J. Wayne Laurin successful in 2nd year Science, both with supplementals. Miss Margaret A. Dawson passed the 3rd year Bachelor of Arts exams.

President explains new home-visiting nurses' service

Since May 1, "La Société des Infirmières Visiteuses" of the Diocese of St. Jerome has been providing skilled nursing care to Lachute residents in their homes. The president of this new visiting nursing service in Lachute, Mrs. Richard Ayers, states that the home-care service will be gradually extended to all parts of the diocese as soon as qualified personnel and financial resources permit.

Mrs. Ayers explained at the inaugural meeting that the service is conducted and operated by graduate registered nurses under the direction of family physicians.

The registered nurse handles surgical dressings, compresses, or irrigations ordered by a physician; tends convalescents who are back home from hospital; helps to make more comfortable the chronically ill or the aged; and also provides help and instruction for maternity cases, both in pre-natal and post-natal stages.

The Visiting Nurse makes her calls daily, or less frequently, depending on the patients' needs or the physician's instructions. All calls are received at the main office located at 506 Main Street, Lachute (LO 2-6940). All phone messages are filed and the Head Nurse attends to them effectively.

"La Société des Infirmières Visiteuses" draws revenues from grants, fees from nurses' visits, and mostly from donations and subscriptions from the diocesan Federation of Charities. It is also affiliated with the Welfare Council of the diocese.

Further to the brochure from the soap manufacturers, which I have been reading in more detail — this information certainly endeavors to whitewash all detergent and synthetic materials of any wrong-doing. For instance, in one portion they state that other materials besides their own cause "sudsing". We know this to be true in a small way. Watching a small waterfall, this is apparent; but I do emphasize, this kind of sudsing is dissipated almost immediately, while the detergents are not. It does not take a scientist to see the damage being done to our fish by this material now in use. In fairness to the "soapers", it must be pointed out there is still a lot of information needed on these things. However, it does not take years to see what damage has already resulted; so why wait for further and irreparable damage to be done?

A few interesting experiments may be carried out right at home, that will open your eyes. Try adding a few drops of this cleaner to a minnow bucket with minnows in it. Be fair about it, with just sufficient minnows to avoid crowding. If you have no minnows then try crawfish; these will last a little longer but the same fatal results will be obtained. Or try it on an insect or a worm, and see what happens. This will surprise you.

Water pollution is a major problem, we know. But while it is mostly the manufacturers who are being blamed, we householders are more to blame for detergent poisoning than anyone. Imagine the millions of gallons of this killer that we dump into the water every day!

I asked this before and will most certainly do so again: What has happened to the minnow ban? It sure looks as though this is going to be another one of those GOOD laws that eventually die a natural death through lack of enforcement. I despair of seeing any enactment in this province that will be enforced as it should be. Being a natural-born beefer as regards wildlife, has its drawbacks, but more and more people are seeing these things for themselves. Every once in a while the Provincial Government comes up with a wonderful idea, then they really get going on publicity to show how well they are running the outdoors for us. Just as the information regarding lawbreakers was to be given out for publication. At that time I had high hopes, along with many others, that here was something worthwhile and effective, to curb poaching. A few pieces of information were passed out regarding lawbreakers, but I don't think you care what happens to a couple of jokers who were caught shooting a moose down in Gaspé. It's in our own area this information is needed. . . And if you're stupid enough to write for anything of this nature, you get the real run around.

The numbers of people heading out towards Labelle for the week-end fishing, must have made that part of the country congested like Lachute. Of course, this is excellent fishing water, and with the poor fishing that this County has on a general run, it is worthwhile going away. True this season so far has shown an increase in good fish being taken in our County, but how long is it going to last? What with private and closed waters cropping up all over the area, it is getting to be almost impossible to fish any public waters any more. Remember when you could go out for about 15 minutes and catch yourself a good trout? Of course, the extermination of these fish, and almost every other type, is due to our misconceived idea that we will never run short. Nothing of note has ever been done to try and increase our fishing properties, either by us or the governments. Before anything worthwhile can be attempted, we as ordinary people have to want it, and try in some way to protect our fishing. I know some good controls have been put forward, but never acted on; our depleted fishing waters are a result.

Reports have been heard this past week of fair catches by our anglers. With the weather so bad over the recent holiday week-end, most of the boys took advantage of the clear-up to get out after supper. Even staying out all night seemed to pay off. Excellent catches were taken in some cases. I saw one haul of 12 Speckled trout, taken from lakes; but in one case eight were taken from creeks, and these too were very good fish, nothing under 10 inches. I tried the river, but with no luck; a pike of medium size followed my lure, but did not strike. The water has been very muddy, and this may have had a lot to do with it. I'm still after one of those big ones though.

An unhappy story, but not from the participants. A new tent was bought for the long week-end. However, I had neglected to tell them to soak the tent and hang it up before using it. You know what happened. The tent had not shrunk enough during the time it was up; light rains did not harm the occupants too much, but just as soon as it started in earnest, they might as well have been outside! It's not too much fun trying to keep dry in a leaking tent.

I guesss most of you bird lovers have seen all the canaries that seem to have taken over. There has been a number of them around our cedars. The colors are wonderful; running from apple greens to rich yellows edged in black, they present a spectacle for tired eyes. Some of them are only the size of a humming bird, very tiny. Also on the scene a couple of scarlet tanagers. We seem to have all the summer birds with us now; it's a little early for them with this cold weather. . . One thing I have noticed in town — the numbers of cats on the hunt for birds. I know this is a natural instinct with them — but please give them a boost along when they are spotted preying on the birds.

This is not a story for anyone with a weak gastronomy. Drifting down the river in the boat, I spotted what I thought was a small carcass on the bank. I investigated and found a muskrat with a trap on its hind leg. Being nosey as to who might own the trap, I turned it over. And to my surprise, the poor creature was still alive — just breathing, that was all. Being caught high up on the leg, it had broken the leg trying to escape. The bone was bare of all flesh right to the shoulder, and the rat's two chopper teeth had been broken trying to chew its way through the trap. . . I cannot describe how I felt about this — I had only a sickening desire to have the person responsible held in a large trap right near my home! Incidentally, I put the rat out of its misery, but even when the trap was released, the little creature was too far gone to be scared.

Motorcycle events Sunday, June 2, at Grenville

By Terry Porter

Motorcycle races or "scrambling" returns once more to Grenville on June 2, with riders converging from Chicoutimi to Hamilton, providing keen competition in all capacities, both expert and junior.

The track, situated three miles east of the Perley Bridge on Route 29, is approximately 1 mile in length and includes spectacular leaps, stream crossings, and the normal "rough going" associated with scrambler, which puts both machine and rider through a severe test of physical and mechanical endurance.

Most prominent type of machine in the 500cc class this year is the BSA B34, better known as the "Gold Star". Though rather old-fashioned these models can still show their exhaust pipes to the few Triumphs and Matchless machines competing. The most prominent machine in the lightweight class is the Moto Cross Greeves, but a good battle should develop between these, the new Cotton, Star Maker, and the Dots, with square barrel, whilst a medley of Cubs and BSA's will add interest.

Boating and good sense

Youngsters who can't swim and don't know how to handle a boat are often all wet. This is the theme of two water safety films just released by Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in co-operation with the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The films, "Be Water Wise" and "Boating and Good Sense", are both in color and 14 minutes in length. They were produced by Crawley Films Limited, and will be shown by regional Red Cross branches, to schools, Y, and other community groups across Canada.

"Be Water Wise", which deals with the fundamentals of swimming and water rescue, says the secret of water safety is primarily a matter of care, training and common sense. It gives practical demonstrations on how to float and tread water, and how to proceed in water rescue.

"Boating and Good Sense" covers boating training and also demonstrates safe water skiing practices for both the skier and those handling the boat. The film points out common dangers in boating and stresses the importance of having the proper equipment, — life saving equipment, first aid kit, fire extinguisher, navigation lights, tool kit and flashlight. The film was produced because of the large increase in the popularity of power boating in recent years and the resulting increase in the dangers of boating.

Designed for all age groups the films are especially suitable for children. They were filmed at a summer camp in the Laurentians last summer. Prints are available in English and French.

Wins district bowling trophy

In a district elimination at St. Eustache for a provincial bowling tournament, the Dow district trophy was awarded to Julien Claing, of St. Eustache, who is seen above receiving the award from Raymond Laurin (left) of Lachute. His opponent for the regional title was Pierre Fournel, of Papineauville.

Fine weather favored the 50-odd anglers who enjoyed the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association's outing at Bark Lake last Sunday. There were five other awards, besides a number of entry prizes kindly provided by supporters and by Leonard Bedard, sponsor of the club.

B'burg man, 19, with Army unit in the Congo

Leopoldville, The Congo — Signalman Yves Langlois, 19, of Brownsburg, was in a group of Canadian soldiers who recently arrived in the Congo by RCAF aircraft to begin a tour of duty with 57 Canadian Signal Unit on United Nations Operations.

A member of the Royal Canadian Signals, Sig. Langlois will be a radio and telegraph operator with the signal unit. He was stationed with 6 Signal Squadron in Camp Valcartier before going to the Congo.

Sig. Langlois is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Langlois, of 311 Bank Street, Brownsburg.

The Canadian Signal unit has been providing military communications for the United Nations Force in the Congo since August 1960.

The normal length of service for Canadians in the Congo is six months, but staff operators employed at U.N. headquarters in Leopoldville stay for a year.

The tropical posting is popular with many soldiers, and about 25 percent apply for an extended tour of duty.

Quebec terrorism and policing; queries, answers in Legislature

QUEBEC THIS WEEK

By John Yorston,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — Attorney-General Georges Lapalme says the Provincial Police will help the police of rural communities combat terrorist activities, if the need arises. He was questioned in the Assembly last week by Armand Russell (UN — Shefford), Mayor of Waterloo, who said that in some cases provincial police refuse to help municipal forces on the grounds it is outside their jurisdiction. He asked if Provincial Police would help in any sabotage cases.

"You will see the police arrive if the terrorists show up," Mr. Lapalme assured the opposition member.

Terrorist activities have been centred mainly around Montreal and opposition members had some critical questions about the way in which federal buildings, the favorite targets of the terrorists, were being guarded.

Paul Dozois (UN — Montreal-St. Jacques) said it seemed "fantastic" that these buildings, particularly Army buildings, were not guarded 24 hours a day. He understood patrols toured the buildings every 30 minutes or so. But this was "a childish means of defence" and made it easy for bomb planters to do their work.

Mr. Lapalme said it was difficult for him to say anything. "I don't know whether it is harder for me to remain silent or to speak." He praised police work. "We cannot humanly ask the police to do more than they have done. When one goes into the details of the work accomplished, one is stupified. To paraphrase Churchill, never has so much been done by so few."

Municipalities had assurances of a different kind last week from Municipal Affairs Minister Laporte. He said the government intends to get tough with municipalities who ask for grants after a project has been completed.

Speaking recently to a delegation, he said that many communities are trying to charge half their labor costs to the provincial government under the Federal-Provincial Winter Works Program. He reminded the group that Quebec pays only 40 per cent of labor costs, Ottawa 50, and the municipalities must meet the remaining 10 per cent themselves.

He said additional inspectors will be hired by his department to keep an eye on winter works programs, and an information campaign will be started to show what may and may not be done under the law.

He said any communities charging more than 40 per cent would merely have the money deducted from other grants they receive, and therefore would be no farther ahead.

Mr. Laporte also asked municipalities to buy within their means, when getting new fire-fighting equipment. He said the province has some $2,000,000 available for grants for fire-fighting equipment, but has received requests for double that amount.

Speaking in La Tuque, he told the International Association of City Managers that projects are not eligible for grants unless approved by the government beforehand.

He also urged municipalities to buy their equipment in Quebec when possible.

It wasn't the first time Mr. Laporte has indicated a toughening line in regard to municipal grants.

PREACH, NOT PRACTISE

A bald-headed barber was trying to sell his customer a bottle of hair tonic.

"But how can you expect to sell it when you don't have any hair yourself ?" asked the customer.

The Bible Today

Government statistics from Hong Kong show 480,000 registered places in schools for primary children in that crowded colony. It is estimated that a child of 10 or 12 years has acquired enough characters to begin reading the Bible.

"We ought to be able to offer, through the Education Department, or the Mission Schools, a Bible priced as low as $2.00," states a Hong Kong official. This is $1 less than the prevailing cost price. Officials are seeking ways to meet the difference.

"We would have to make about 20,000 copies of the Bible available each year," continues this official, to meet the anticipated demand of a subsidized Bible.

The Christian Church in Hong Kong is the fastest growing church in Asia. Membership is doubling every five years. Hong Kong showed a 40% increase in Scripture sales in 1962 over the previous year. More than 25,000 Bibles were sold, and over 100,000 other Scripture portions.

Pretty wedding in Anglican church at Weir, Que.

Byrd-Williams

The Church of the Redeemer at Weir, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening, May 25, at 5 o'clock, when Miss Joan Evangeline Williams, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry Williams, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Douglas Byrd, son of Mr. George D. Byrd and Mrs. J. Paterson, of Montreal.

The church was tastefully decorated with spring flowers, and the Rev. F. K. Bussell, of Arundel, performed the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a full-length dress with fitted lace bodice and full skirt of silk over taffeta, entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Wedding March played by the organist, Mrs. W. D. Morrison. Her bouffant veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses and yellow orchids. Her only jewelry was a single string of cultured pearls with matching earrings, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Floyd Short, sister of the groom, attended the bride as matron of honor, wearing a lilac taffeta gown with matching accessories, and carrying a bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Martin Byrd acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Philip Williams, brother of the bride, and Mr. Lloyd MacLean, brother-in-law of the groom.

Following the wedding supper and reception in the Arundel School auditorium, the happy couple left for their honeymoon on a motor trip through the Eastern States. For travelling, the bride wore a yellow suit and hat with off-brown accessories. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Relatives and friends attending from a distance were from Keeseville, N.Y., Brockville, Ont., and Montreal.

Recital of sacred music at Lachute United Church

A recital of sacred music presented by the choir of Westmount Park United Church last Sunday evening was heard by a large audience at Lachute United Church. The choir, under the direction of Wayne Riddell, B. Mus. (McGill), was a well-balanced ensemble of 27 voices.

A 16th century carol, "O Lord, the Maker of All Things" opened the recital; this was followed by "The Garden of Jesus" (Dutch Carol), and "Athens" by P. Cantiones, these compositions being sung unaccompanied from the church gallery. The choral effect was beautiful and impressive.

After the processional hymn, the Rev. C. Thompson, minister of the Westmount Park United Church, said the 150th Psalm as the call to worship.

A group of four anthems were then sung unaccompanied by the choir, and those present were able to appreciate the fine directing of the leader, as the quiet blending of the voices gave a deep richness of tone.

The minister of the local church, the Rev. Wilson Bridge, read an appropriate selection of scripture, this being followed by the four soloists of the Westmount choir.

"Evening Hymn", by Purcell, was interpreted by the tenor soloist, Mr. Robert Koffend, and this quiet musical devotion was feelingly sung. The contralto soloist, Miss Ann Golden, sang a dramatic composition of Dvorak, "By the Waters of Babylon", with a richness of tonal understanding. A composition of a marcato tempo by Handel, "Arm, Arm Ye Brave" was chosen by the bass soloist, Mr. Winston Purdy, and the accompanist and vocalist gave a very fine interpretation of this number. The last soloist, Grace Sweet, sang a lively soprano theme by Greene, "O Praise the Lord", in pleasing tone and expression.

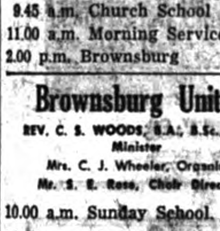

Two works by Bach for the organ were then played by Mr. Wayne Riddell, "Lord, Hear the Voice of My Complaint", and "Christ Lay In Death's Dark Prison", both pieces having a quiet, meditational effect upon those present.

The choir again sang several unaccompanied pieces, but "Thou Knowest, Lord" by Purcell, and "Lo, My Shepherd Is Divine" by Haydn, were notable for their richness of expression. By request, Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze" was played by Mr. Riddell during the offertory.

The final group of anthems included composers of the romantic period and contemporary. Tschaikowsky's "Come, O Blessed Lord" was beautifully sung, followed by Anderson's "Come I Pray Thee". A highlight of the evening's performance was the "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place", by Brahms, when voices and organ united in a poetic and majestic choral picture, a rendition that was enjoyed by the performers as well as the audience. The composers Wolfe and Rowley were also featured in this group, and the final number (written especially for this choir by the tenor soloist, Mr. Robert Koffend) "The Strife Is O'er", was of modernistic construction, with solos and choir passages in several parts blending in close harmonies; this difficult composition was well interpreted by the ensemble.

The Rev. Wilson Bridge voiced the appreciation of the audience and of the local church to the visiting choir, and paid special tribute to the leader, Wayne Riddell, who started his church-musical career in Lachute United a little over ten years ago.

The presentation was under auspices of the Lachute United Church choir, who were hosts to the Westmount visitors at a tasty lunch prior to the recital.

At Lions' Convention

Lachute Lions have been well represented this week with members and their wives at the District Convention, an annual affair, which this year has attracted a mammoth attendance at Cornwall, Ont., from all over Eastern Canada. There were six official delegates from Lachute, besides others who took part in the Sunday parade and attended various functions in connection with the gathering.

United Church Women held second Ottawa regional meet

A highlight of the second Ottawa regional meeting of the United Church Women was a presentation made to Mrs. Wilson Bridge by Mrs. Kenneth Thomson on behalf of the United Church Women in the region. Mrs. Thomson spoke of the inspiration and leadership given by Mrs. Bridge, who is regional vice-president, and of the esteem in which she is held by every member. Later in her remarks Mrs. R. Douglas Smith, president of the Montreal Presbyterial United Church Women, noted that Mrs. Bridge "has brought leadership, loyalty, warm understanding and knowledge to the Presbyterial U.C.W." and it was a privilege for all on that executive to treasure her as a friend. Mrs. Smith also spoke of the pleasure it was to gather together again in this region as a family of Christian women.

The main speaker, Mrs. Delbert Dupré, a member of the Board of Women Mission, addressed the ladies and told briefly of the work being done in overseas missions. "The United Church is at work in 14 countries," she said, trying to make the churches there self-sufficient and self-supporting". This year the budgeted sum of $2,850,000 will be used in overseas missions. At the annual meeting of the Board of World Mission, four missionaries retired and 15 persons were appointed to the field; nine are married, four are single women and two single men. The countries where the United Church is at work are Trinidad, Jamaica, Brazil, Hong Kong, Korea, Nepal, India, Angola, Japan, Northern Rhodesia, Kenya, Congo, Philippines, and Tiwain. The newly appointed missionaries are specialists in the medical, agricultural, educational, administrative and technical fields.

The Rev. Victor Moriarty led the Bible Study and gave three examples of how a group might undertake a study. "The Bible," he explained, "is not a science nor history text, but rather a book about God and ourselves."

The secretaries from Presbyterial U.C.W. presented a brief note on their committees — Mrs. Donald Scoates noted the varied topics available for programming, but added that the missions and mission study should not be overlooked. Mrs. K. G. MacMillan, Christian Citizenship and Social Action, warned that "all that is needed for the forces of evil to succeed in the world today is the apathy of good men and women in allowing those forces to exist." Mrs. T. M. Turner had a message of commendation to those present for their support of the Missionary and Maintenance allocation. The women across Canada would this year have a budget of $1,700,000. Mrs. Turner added, "If we knew what this amount can accomplish in terms of human life, we could start to realize what our funds can do in this field."

Miss Dorothy Flower spoke for the Supply and Social Assistance committee. Mrs. B. K. Wasson and Mrs. Dupré gave information of the "New Curriculum" being presented in the field of Christian Education. Mrs. H. A. Jackson told of the value of visiting, and the need to organize, co-operate with other organizations or committees in the area, and have well-informed persons doing this work.

Mrs. Paul Ruta presented an inspirational message on Stewardship.

Mrs. J. D. McOuat mentioned the value in not only announcing forthcoming events in the press but of having a report submitted following a meeting or activity where something newsworthy was done.

A questionnaire pointing out the responsibilities of a U.C.W. member, was distributed and discussed briefly.

Following the main speaker, Mrs. Bridge led the last hymn and the Rev. Mr. Woods of Brownsburg pronounced the benediction. Mrs. E. Elliott greeted the more than 90 guests from eight area churches early in the program, and Mrs. Lyle Kilpatrick of Morin Heights led the morning worship service. A delicious lunch and afternoon tea was given under the direction of the Brownsburg U.C.W. social convener, Mrs. Albert Fraser. Mrs. John Owens extended the courtesies. Mrs. E. O. Pollock was the registrar.

The United Church Women's organizations represented were from Arundel, Grenville, St. Andrews East, Morin Heights, Kilmar, Brownsburg, Cushing and Lachute. United Church Women's groups represented through the Presbyterial executives were Dominion-Douglas, Valois, Cedar Park, Dorval, Chalmers, St. Lambert, and Town of Mount Royal.

KITCHEN HINT

Freshly baked bread or rolls should be taken out of the pans as soon as possible. This keeps moisture from condensing and spoiling the crispness of the crust. Set loaves of bread on cooling rack or across the edges of the baking pans to cool, taking care not to have them in a draft. Cold air blowing over hot loaves makes the crust crack.

Head, heart, hands and health

A MILESTONE in the history of Canada was officially recorded in the tiny hamlet of Roland, Manitoba, on Sunday, May 12, as Miss Carol Preston and Mr. Ross Pritchard officially unveiled a cairn to mark the birthplace of the first 4-H Club in Canada 50 years ago. The inscription on the bronze plaque of the pilon-shaped cairn reads:

4-H CLUB OF CANADA

Commemorating those persons whose faith and interest in rural youth, led to the establishment of the first of Canada's boys and girls clubs, known since 1952 as the 4-H clubs. Fifty years after those first beginnings, members of Canadian clubs, together with 4-H club members throughout the world, continue to pledge Head, Heart, Hands and Health to the greater service of their clubs, communities and countries.

Historic Sites Advisory Board 1963

In his report to the 32nd annual meeting of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, held in Winnipeg, Mr. James D. Moore, Manager, listed the Provincial Departments of Agriculture (Department of Education in Newfoundland and University Extension Department in Saskatchewan), the Canada Department of Agriculture, 42 business firms and 12 national agricultural associations as members of the Council. The Council, referred to by Manager Moore as a "binding force" in 4-H, was set up in 1931 when 10 government departments and six business firms combined to form a unique government-business team to lay the foundations of an organization which today is in the forefront of one of the soundest youth training movements in Canada.

Looking into the future, Mr. J. R. Racine of Brampton, president of the national movement, stated that "Canada's young people are looking for guidance and direction. To keep in step with the changing times in a world that keeps moving at an ever-increasing pace, our Council must do its part to keep healthy, vigorous and ever alert to the need to adjust to the requirements of the day. Greater liaison with the departments of government, business members and agricultural associations, a sustained public relations program and the ever present need to develop financial support are important elements requiring our constant attention".

Time to think of water hazards

MAYBE YOU'RE AMONG the millions of Canadians who are dreaming of those golden summer afternoons, relaxing in the sun and having fun in the water. Or maybe you're lucky enough to have a power boat to go skimming across the water with the cool breeze and refreshing spray sprinkling your face.

Whatever your holiday pleasure, if it involves water recreation — please treat water with its due respect. Be water wise! Learn and recognize the dangers. Be able to save yourself when in difficulty. Learn how to help others play safe, too.

There's nothing worse than an enjoyable holiday interrupted by tragedy. When you take water safety with you on your vacation, you can afford to be carefree. You can afford to enjoy the sun and water without fear, because you have the confidence that you will always be one step ahead of the game.

June 2 to 8 will be observed as National Water Safety Week in Canada. Take this opportunity to ensure a happier, more carefree vacation. Complete your holiday plans with a check on your water safety knowledge. Contact the nearest branch of your Canadian Red Cross for information. For boat owners, write to the Marine Regulations Branch of the Department of Transport, Ottawa, for your free copy of the booklet "Safety Afloat"... Think ahead; after a tragedy it is too late.

Success means work

ANOTHER school year is coming to an end — the end approaching with ominous rapidity for those pupils threatened with failure to pass.

The universities have already held their final exams and some students have their results. The secondary schools are entering their finals, while the public school pupils have until June before writing their tests.

The transition from public to secondary school can be difficult, but more difficult is the change from secondary school to university.

An education expert at a recent conference on mental health, held at Kingston, Ont., emphasized this move from secondary school to university as a testing time for students.

"I have noted a special stress in that students are asked to learn in a totally different way at college, for which they are unprepared at high schools," said Dr. Graham Blaine Jr., psychiatrist to the university health services at Harvard University.

He said that originality and creativity are suddenly demanded of those entering university, instead of the regurgitation of memorized knowledge at high school.

This is only part of the stress on the newcomer to university. The tension factors include poor preparation of freshmen for university life, over-emphasis on examinations, conflict of early religious training with new ideas encountered in the university, and the anonymity thrust upon a freshman by the size of the university community.

Other speakers suggested better orientation of students should be undertaken on arrival at the university — or even in high school — and this should include explanations of the way to study at university level, as well as making them aware of the various services available to students such as health, counselling and academic help.

Since Dr. Blaine was talking to experts in the field, he did not mention the obvious: that the student who works hard and gets high grades can take the next level in his stride, whether it's going from grade to grade in public school, form to form in collegiate or year to year in university.

Parkinson's Law — what of the cost?

THERE IS a bit of grim humor in one item in the fourth volume of the Glassco Royal Commission's report — notes C. J. Harris in his editorial Clip-Sheet. The item concerns an extravagance committed by the health and welfare department, which now is second only to defence in the amount of the public's money it handles in a year.

"The immigration office in London," states the report, "has processed an average of 10,000 immigrants a year for the past three years. Medical examinations for this volume would require the services of two or possibly three doctors.

"Nevertheless, the Department of National Health and Welfare recently took over and equipped an entire floor of the Sir John A. Macdonald Building, staffed it with 15 doctors and 28 clerks and technicians and installed X-ray facilities capable of handling 1,000 persons a day."

Paging Professor Northcote Parkinson! According to his famed Parkinson's Law, work expands to fill the time available for its completion. Here is a government office that will surely put his law to the ultimate test.

RACIAL PREJUDICE

None of us is entitled to be smug about racial prejudice. To some degree, a little bit of it is somehow worked into us through our environment. This applies to the persecuted as well as the persecutors. The negro who feels totally unprejudiced toward whites is rare indeed, and the whites who have no tinge of prejudice against negroes come scarce. The same applies to the other races.

Deplore this situation as much as we may, it does exist.

I believe a white family worries if a son or daughter marries a negro, and it probably works in reverse. Facing facts, each family is aware that the couple's love would have to withstand a tremendous social pressure.

But as I understand it, the negroes are not asking to be loved or taken into white families. All they ask is their lawful rights to be served in public restaurants, or other public places of business, and the right to vote freely for candidates of their choice.

The fact that they must endure so much to gain these rights — as gain them they surely will — is a terrible indictment of our free system of government. I feel sorry for the whites who are so foolishly badgering and harassing the negroes. They are inviting countless years of bitterness and recrimination. They are eroding the very freedom that has made their own lives so pleasant and profitable.

I have been looking at pictures of the rioting. The most anguished faces are those of the whites — for they must know, in their hearts, that they are in the wrong. They are the ones caught in mass hysteria. They are the ones who are acting in a primitive manner, if the reports that reach us here are correct.

The United States is one of the greatest and most generous nations in the world. Part of its greatness stemmed from the fact that it offered sanctuary and opportunity to immigrants from all parts of the world. Surely now, it will be big enough to grant complete freedom to the negroes who have worked for it and fought bravely for it so many times. Not because negroes are all angels, not because all negroes have behaved well; but because the United States should know that the negro hasn't a decent chance to come into his own until he is free in a real and honest sense.

Canada, too, ought to take a new look at its immigration laws. Until we do, we have no right to be unduly critical of the United States on the score of racial prejudice!

FORM TRADE GROUP

Magog, Que. CP — Twenty-four of the 27 local grocers met to form an independent association and announced members will close all day Mondays rather than Wednesday afternoons.

Scrap-iron playground

Carlyle, Sask. CP — This farming town in the southeast corner of Saskatchewan has a scrap iron playground. It has 42 items, compared with four pieces three years ago.

The man mainly responsible is G. R. Humphries, a 72-year-old partly retired garage operator.

Three years ago the town had a poorly equipped playground and and a tight budget. The Carlyle Board of Trade decided to do something about it, and Mr. Humphries and two others were asked to do what they could.

Mr. Humphries gathered wheels from tractors, wagons, plows and combines; oil boiler flues, barrels and oil-well pipe. With the help of his two sons and other men on the committee he designed and built all the equipment. The whole thing cost less than $400.

Mr. Humphries built rocking horses, a "flying saucer," a Maypole, bucking horse and other attractions for the children. Now he acts as maintenance man. Repair work is no problem, because people are always ready to help, and there is always plenty of scrap.

Town residents have also donated some factory-producing equipment, including a rotating teeter-board and a lawn swing.

BANKING IS BRIGHT BOYS' BEST BET FOR THE FUTURE

"Bright, ambitious young men, looking for a career with a challenge, a satisfying salary and advancement opportunities, can find all of these things and many more in banking," Donald M. Hay, manager of the Lachute branch of the Bank of Montreal, said this week.

"Best evidence that anyone with intelligence and drive can really achieve distinction can be found in the rapid rise of today's top executives of the B of M," Mr. Hay continued.

The bank's policy of promoting from within its own ranks gives every young man who enters banking today the chance of rising to a senior executive appointment. Ability is the only consideration.

Right from the start, the B of M puts young men on a training program that forms, in effect, a series of stepping-stones to the growing responsibilities and rewards that constitute success.

Variety is the keynote of this training, with every young banker spending time in as many posts as possible in the branch. Above all, the young B of M banker is encouraged to develop his own abilities.

A chat with Don Hay could be the introduction to a rewarding career in one of the most solidly established and respected fields of business today. Why not see him soon and ask him for a free copy of the B of M's careers booklet? (Advt.)

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Planning A Party

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Living through your own child's party is like a nightmare!" a mother said with conviction. "I dread my son's birthday celebration for weeks beforehand, and I am a wreck when it's over."

Do you feel this way about your child's party? Why is it such a difficult experience? Is it your own youngster's state of feverish excitement? Perhaps the preparations for the party weary you? Or is it the noise and confusion of other people's children under your roof for even a short time for fun and food?

Careful planning for any party, but very especially for a child's party, can eliminate some of the headaches. Here is one venture which cannot be left to chance or to last-minute ideas. On the other hand, the mother in charge of a party must be flexible enough to alter her scheme of things on short notice. The important thing is that every child should have a happy time — not that a schedule of party events be carried out.

Parties for varying ages are very different. The fewer guests, the better in the early years! On his first birthday, a child is only confused by the presence of a number of other babies or tiny tots. Better make it a "Family Affair" with granny or aunty as special guests.

On the second or third birthday, invite one or two other good friends who have a young child too. Around the time a child is four, he graduates from enjoying parallel play beside another child, to co-operative play when he plays with his friend. He will appreciate having a dozen little chums at his home for his party. But even when he is five or six, keep the number of guests to a small group.

School age children like to have a bigger party but there again the mother should limit the number invited. Having the games out of doors is a grand idea, and does save on the wear and tear in the house. But what if it should rain? Mother must figure out how many she has room for in her home. She also must consider how many she can supervise at one time.

A parent should not attempt to "run" a party all by herself. She needs another person, preferably not a mother, to be "second-in-command". Dad is usually away at work, but sometimes he can get home in time to help with the refreshments and farewell time. However, an acquaintance who is fond of children can be a great help — and also get a real "bang" out of the proceedings. A girl in collegiate, who is a favorite evening baby sitter in your home, is a real find as a party assistant.

Sometimes an able, forceful mother forgets to give her child a vital part in planning the party. After all, it is his party, not mother's! The child will get a much bigger "kick" out of a party where he has shared both in the planning and the preparations.

Discuss with your child how many guests should be invited, and give him as free a hand as possible in selecting them. If he is old enough, let him write or phone the invitations. A written invitation has the advantage of being definite — and do let your guests (or guests' mothers) know when the party begins and how long it lasts!

Naturally, a child wants to ask his own particular friends, to come to his home on his special day. Perhaps he has a chum from the "other side of the tracks" or one of different social background, or race or religion. These things don't loom large in a child's eyes. Snobbish distinctions should have no place in a family which has ideals about training children for democratic living.

An exploit in culinary art

By Dorothy Barker — Diary of a Vagabond

The other day a woman stopped me and asked if I was "THE Dorothy Barker who writes Diary of a Vagabond". At first I was a little afraid to admit my identity for fear I would learn my weekly effort was about to be criticized. With considerable courage I said "yes" and then waited for her next comment.

I needn't have worried for this nice person said she was a native of Roblin, Manitoba, who receives her home town paper each week and recognized me from my picture. It was good to hear she enjoys my escapades, journeys, and especially meeting the people I write about through the column.

I thoroughly enjoy writing about the interesting persons I meet on my journeys, recording their achievements or relating their adventures. I consider it quite a privilege to have been given this medium of expression and the opportunity of travelling from coast to coast via CN, which has proven over the past four years to be, besides a constant adventure, a gold mine of material for this column.

Take, for instance, Louis Tavan. Louis is a small man with a huge walrus moustache, snappy brown eyes and an amusing sense of humor. He is a truck driver turned restaurateur and, amazingly enough, a man who gives his wife most of the credit for his success.

The life of Louis and Josette followed the pattern of many of us ordinary folk. He worked at odd jobs, a waiter, trucker, anything that would help him earn money. They lived in rooms in the home of a Madame Pauline Rochon in Ste. Adele, Quebec. One winter when Madame took off for Florida the Tavans asked her if they might serve pancakes in her home (the oldest in Ste. Adele) to skiers during the height of the season.

"It was my wife's idea," Louis admitted. "She learned how to make the crêpes as a child. Her grandmother taught her many secrets about fillings and method, in their home in Brittany."

After several successful seasons in Ste. Adele the Tavans, who have celebrated their 17th year of marriage, decided to plunge into debt and start a crêpes specialty eating place in Montreal. They found an ideal location and with imagination and considerable artistic ability transformed an old house from basement to second storey into a fascinating eating place.

On the main floor the crêpes are cooked at a huge open fireplace and served by rosy-cheeked maidens in native Brittany costume. The menu is interesting if confusing to a non-bilingual person with its pancake fare all written in Brittany girls' names. Not being too venturesome, I ran my finger down the left hand column and found later when served the familiar "Marie" that I had chosen ham and cheese!

The second floor is a reproduction of a French galleon of Louis the Fourteenth period. Female imitations of maillot sailors take your order as you sit at round, leather topped barrel tables on coils of rope.

This dining adventure of mine ended in the basement Bistro with its Gay Nineties atmosphere and bewhiskered waiters. Everything from the telephone to the murals is authentically French. When I asked Louis Tavan, "would a waiter get fired if he shaved off his moustache", he winked, punched the keys on an old cash register and drew out from the day's take a ratty looking object. Holding aloft between two fingers a theatrical moustache, he said humorously, "See, Louis is prepared for anything."

During my week-end in Montreal, I was asked where I would like to dine. I requested some place typical, with charm and a French atmosphere. Crêpe Bretonne is all of these and something more, for it bears the stamp of two people who took a chance and invested in a woman's intuition and her grandmother's recipes to make them their living.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

May is the time bright pink or rosy red stalks of rhubarb add the first touch of color to your garden. And nothing is more welcome at this time of year than the first luscious rhubarb pie of the season.

There are many versions of rhubarb pies, from the standard double crust type to the more elegant meringue and glazed pies.

The consumer section of the federal agriculture department recommends the following recipe for rhubarb meringue pie:

In a large bowl, combine one cup sugar, three tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt and five cups of cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces), then mix well and allow to stand for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat three egg yolks and mix thoroughly with the rhubarb mixture.

Turn the rhubarb mixture into a unbaked pie shell, bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes and then in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30-40 minutes until the filling at the centre of the pie has thickened. Then place on a rack for cooling.

Meringue Top

Make a meringue of the egg whites, salt and sugar and spread evenly over the pie surface, sealing it to the edge of the crust. Then bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about five minutes, until lightly browned.

For rhubarb Bavarian pie, combine four cups of cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces), ¼ cup water, 1½ cups sugar and a few grains of salt in a saucepan and cook over medium heat until the rhubarb is tender.

Soak 1½ tablespoons of gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for five minutes and add to the hot rhubarb mixture, and stir until dissolved. Also add some red food coloring to give a pink tint to the mixture.

After the mixture has chilled until partially set, fold in whipped cream (½ cup whipping cream), turn the mixture into a baked nine-inch pie shell and chill about three hours, until firm.

The pie may also be garnished with whipped cream when served.

Rhubarb Hints

Rhubarb stalks should be picked when they are about 12-18 inches in length. If they are not picked regularly, they grow quickly to immense size.

Usually, small or medium stalks are more tender than large ones and well-colored stalks generally have the best flavor.

"When you buy rhubarb, beware of wilted flabby-looking stalks. This rhubarb will be stale, stringy and have a poor flavor when cooked."

It is best to use rhubarb as soon as possible after it is picked, the home economists say. Storing in the refrigerator in plastic bags or waxed paper helps keep it fresh for a day or two.

Baking Tip

To prevent the edge of a pie from browning too much, home economists at the Macdonald Institute in Guelph suggest you place a 1½-inch strip of aluminum foil around the edge of the pastry.

ORIGIN

CELEBRATE SPRING WITH A LIGHT DESSERT

SUNSHINE SQUARES
(MAKES 49 PIECES)

3 envelopes unflavoured gelatine
½ cup cold water
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons honey
¾ cup lemon juice
½ cup ice water
½ cup instant pasteurized powdered skim milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Chocolate and colored decorettes and crystalline sugar

Add gelatine to ½ cup cold water in large mixing bowl. Stir together sugar, honey and ¾ cup lemon juice in 2-quart saucepan; stir constantly over medium heat until syrup reaches rolling boil. Boil for 5 minutes without stirring. Remove from heat. Stir into gelatine until smooth. Cool at room temperature to consistency of thick syrup (45 to 60 minutes). Stir occasionally.

Pour ½ cup ice water into mixing bowl. Add skim milk powder and whip until soft peaks form (3 to 4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and whip until very stiff (about 3 to 4 minutes). Beat into gelatine mixture; blend until smooth. Pour into buttered 9-inch square pan. Chill 1 hour. Cut into 49 pieces (7 cuts on each side). Roll in decorettes or crystalline sugar.

Custard for baby juniors, adults

One of the first solid foods an infant can have is custard. And the same evaporated milk that is so perfect for formulas is easily digestible, contains generous supplies of vitamin D, protein and minerals, and is never a problem to store. It adds rich flavor to a Baked Custard recipe, which can be served to the entire family.

Baby gets the custard plain, older children and adults welcome a glamorized version with fruit or your favorite warm sauce.

Baked Custard

(Makes 8 servings)

4 Eggs, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 1¼ cups (large can) undiluted evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine eggs, sugar and salt; beat well. Add water, evaporated milk and vanilla; beat until thoroughly blended. Pour into 8 custard cups (5-ounce size). Sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired. Place custard cups in pan of hot water. Bake in 350° (moderate) oven 50 minutes, or until knife inserted in centre comes out clean. Remove from pan of water. Cool. Turn out of custard cups.

Frontier Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. L. Plummer on Tuesday evening, June 3. (Bring an article to be exhibited at Lachute Fair and a verse about the Fair.)

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bryerton and family, of Rosemere, occupied their Cushing residence over the week-end.

The Ottawa River was almost as busy as the highway on Sunday last — so many motorboats of different types made their way up and down the waterway.

Mrs. A. Graham had the honor of having her poem, "Summer Homes", published in the latest issue of Canadian Poetry Magazine — this number being dedicated to the older members of the Poetry group, of which she is a member.

The moose, grotesque giant of a graceful clan. Adult bulls weigh up to 1800 pounds and their fighting antlers may span over six feet. The ungainly creature is a gourmet of the wilds, feeding on water-lily tubers and other aquatic plants in the summertime and on hardwood twigs and shoots of hazel and honeysuckle in the winter.

So modern 'you have to hear it'

Halifax (CP) — Eddie Melanson, 24-year-old native of Halifax who likes to belt out songs in a blues, country and western combination, says "persistence and a lot of time" is the key to success in this field.

The dark-haired entertainer, who at 18 was known as "the pied piper of rock 'n' roll" in Halifax, is now under contract with a recording company at Nashville, Tenn. This month "Eddie M.", as he's known professionally, will be turning out his own songs with an accompaniment of guitar, bass, piano, saxophones and drum.

"It's a whole new sound," Eddie says. "It's modern — you can't describe it. You have to hear it."

Started Early

He was bitten by the show business bug while in school here and started his own group. A talent scout signed the group for a Maritimes tour with Bill Haley. After this, says Melanson, "I took my whole band up to Montreal and we just about starved to death."

He soon had a new group, then at London, Ont., formed a third, "The Miracles," which soon clicked. He recently toured the eastern U.S.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

FIDDLEHEADS

Did you ever eat fiddleheads? There are many people in this province who have never heard of them, but in the Maritimes the name is a household word. It means a certain fern, which, in its early stages is edible and closely resembles asparagus in flavor.

The fern is the coarse bracken quite common in the Laurentian district. When mature it is a dark green color and grows to a height of three or four feet. This is the time of year when it is at its best to gather and eat. These young ferns are from 6 to 12 inches in height and are curled over at the top, resembling the neck of a violin. They can be boiled like asparagus for about 10 minutes with a little salt added and not too much water. These ferns are not found everywhere, but where they are they usually grow in a solid stand, and I have found them near and also quite far from water, in the sun and in the shade. So where you find them, that's where they are.

As far as I know, this is the only edible fern except the real asparagus which is really a type of fern.

Last week-end I picked some leaves of Marsh Marigold or Cowslip. I had heard that these make a nice salad-herb but on consulting an authority find that they are loaded with poisonous substances that can be removed by drying or cooking. They are said to be delicious if boiled, the first water thrown out and boiled again in fresh water.

So I am still around, not having made a salad.

Be seein' ya!

On family life, suburbia's noise and impending rash of rabbit-food

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

As you see, back at the old homestead. . . Our first entrance was on the day that featured a snowstorm in mid-May, and the second, the week-end that distinguished itself by raining almost continuously. Not a happy time, so far as weather is concerned, but nice just the same. The absence of near neighbors, but the firm assurance that the existing ones, a good half mile away, were real neighbors and would hasten to us were we in need — the absence of noise — the absence of the television, all contributed to the general relaxed attitude. We ate and slept content, which is more than we sometimes achieve in suburbia.

As witness last night, when the people across the street had a party, which broke up at 3.15, whereupon, they let the dog out for an airing, and she barked loudly. About 7 a.m. the heavy traffic began past my window. While this was only dimly perceived by the head of the house, whose room is at the back, he had to contend with the pile-driver sinking piles for the new bridge. This goes on nightly. My information is that 27 of the required 42 are in place. . . What price suburbia!

We have just been told an exhilarating piece of family news — a nephew of 17 is going to Turkey for a month, courtesy of the Cadet Training Division. He is one of 17 members chosen, and of two assigned to Turkey. We just hope this will not totally addle his brains, which he requires to pass his Grade XII next month. His mother says, naughtily, that to have one's shoes shine in the forces is more important than brains. We were never a family to dote on our children. This particular mother says her dearest wish is that her children will marry and move a good long distance away, sending home modest presents at Christmas. Of course, allowance must be made for a mother of three adolescents. I assured her that, as time goes on, she would probably have dividends on her investment, especially from the daughters. This is not a crack at male children, but the pattern is that the boy marries, and his wife sets the mode of life, which seldom includes close contact with mom.

Speaking of adolescents, we were at a supper-cum-lecture at the church on Ascension Day, and heard the Director of Diocesan Education speak on Family Life. I must admit that he was more practical than most of these people that lecture on such things. But he did decry the kind of father who says, on his return after work, in effect, "God is in His holy temple; let all keep silence." This, it seems, is most reprehensible; the tired father should listen with eagerness, real or simulated, to the annals of the playground and the classroom. This was only one facet of the well-thought-out address, but it caught my attention especially, because I am the product of such a home. Not only did my father think he was the god of the home; I knew it. I was also intensely aware that he gave food, spending-money, and education. It seemed just to me that I should give not only obedience, but admiration. It was all singularly restful, and I suffered hardly any of the well-touted troubles of adolescence. I have really tried hard to remember some natural rebellion, and can only come up with one about wearing, or not wearing, rubbers in the mud. And that was a dispute with my step-mother. Had my father so lowered himself as to be interested in my rubbers, I would have worn 'em. . . So, when the Rector asked me how I liked the lecture, I replied that it was very good, but I had concluded that I was retarded.

We have just had a good laugh about the modern mode of life. While I tap-tap on the typewriter, with a deadline breathing down my neck (as usual) the head of the house is vacuuming the floors! The beds are made up fresh, but the breakfast dishes await me, also some blankets, and other cast-offs of winter. Such peculiar order would have been scandalous in my mother's time, but dishes and blankets are only inert things, and having no life of their own, can afford to await our ministrations. The article cannot. Perhaps I magnify its importance, but every time I am tempted to let the thing go, I remember the pleasure some of you have expressed in these maunderings, and apply my seat firmly to the seat of the chair.

Returning to Sunnyacres, the head of the house is busily courting a thrombosis turning up a piece of land in which he has already planted some potatoes and beans. I see packets of squash, beets, and radishes about the house, so I fear the worst. One of two things will happen — either this, too, will pass along with the stone phase, the painting phase, the forestry phase, the bird phase, or we shall be inundated with vegetables; and, having no freezer, will be obliged to eat steadily of the various products of the soil. Inasmuch as a great part of my holiday consists in the pleasure I derive from not cooking dinners, I view this rash of rabbit-food with alarm. However, gardening is a decent kind of hobby. The stone one was bad. I thought we should all have ruptures from carrying heavy stones. We had this twice, once to make a crazy-path to the garage, once to provide stones for the fireplace at Sunnyacres.

The garden here in suburbia is looking very sweet; it is an English sunken garden, and the elevated part is foaming with white arabis, with tulips, forget-me-nots, primulas, hortensia coloring the sunken part. The "kitchen" part, behind some shrubbery, sports chives, parsley and onions. Through this miniature jungle prowl the cats of the neighborhood. A large marmalade cat visits Peter, and to our astonishment is tolerated, but Peter hates the others, especially one rejoicing in the name of Toulouse. Toulouse is long, skinny, sleek and black, with huge ears. When I pick him up, he threatens me with a low growl. He is an adolescent, and in a perpetual state of rebellion! Perfectly normal, in other words. . .

Before I get worse, I return to my housework.

ALIBI

John was out with the boys one evening, and before he realized it the morning of the next day dawned. He hesitated to call home, but finally hit upon an idea.

He rang his house. When his wife answered the phone he shouted: "Don't pay the ransom, honey, I escaped!"

Animal Care

HOW TO BRING UP CATS

Kittens are wonderful playthings for children — but don't let any child handle a small animal without keeping a close watch.

Kittens need a lot of sleep and generally should not be disturbed. Don't let children or anybody else pick up a kitten or cat by the scruff of its neck. A cat can do this with her kittens, but she knows instinctively what is right. When picking up a cat, put one hand under the front of the body and the other under the hind legs.

Cats are usually very healthy animals and if you have yours immunized by a veterinary surgeon against distemper, there should only be minor problems in the future.

One of these problems may be constipation or vomiting, caused by hair balls. These come from the cat's own coat, for a cat spends much time licking and cleaning itself. You can avoid this by regular daily brushing and combing. This will also help to keep hair off cushions and furniture.

Toilet training is no problem with a cat. A flat box with earth, paper, sand or a commercial litter will do fine. But remember to keep it clean and change it regularly.

Small kittens may have to be lifted onto the box several times, but they soon learn. Always keep the box in the same place.

This is a weekly column from the Montreal CSPCA, a non-profit organization devoted to animal welfare. If you have any questions on animal care, address them to CSPCA, 5125 Jean Talon W., Montreal.

Not by bread alone...

Little Yuen Fong, 10, has lived with her family all her life on this pitiful, crowded boat in the Hong Kong area. This is the fate of thousands, some of whom actually never set foot on dry land. Now there is a ray of hope that bright, intelligent Yuen Fong will get the education that will permit her to escape this life when she is grown, for she is one of 12 children in the Far East and Europe who have been financially "adopted" through Foster Parents' Plan, Montreal, by hundreds of citizens of Kingston, Ontario, who contribute to their support through the CKWS Happy Show Club. Recently it became known that Yuen Fong longed to play the organ in a crude chapel on a nearby boat and the Kingston people were quick to raise extra money needed to give her regular lessons. You too, as an individual or as a member of a group, can help to fulfill the physical and emotional needs of a child overseas, and correspond with them regularly. wonder QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY THE RESEARCH SERVICE OF THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

Why is a Tiger Striped?

The stripes on the tiger's coat are useful to him in a very special way. If tigers had not been so marked they would probably have died out long ago. As the beast glides through the jungle in search of smaller animals for food, its stripes blend with the grasses and stems of other plants, concealing it from its prey until it is ready to pounce. The protective coloring also hides the tiger from the eyes of its own enemies.

Of course, if an animal cannot obtain food or has no protection against its enemies it soon dies. So we have tigers today because nature gave them striped coats.

The leopard, hunting in forests dappled with sunlight, is protected in much the same way by its spotted coat. The arctic fox and the polar bear have white coats that can scarcely be seen against the snow. The stoat has a brown coat in summer, when the earth is brown, and white fur when the earth is snow-covered. The chameleon, a small lizard, is able to change its color to that of the article on which it rests.

Why Does a Cat Always Fall on its Feet?

A cat that falls or springs from heights, great or small, generally manages to fall on its feet. That we all know. We do not mean to say that every cat could fall from a height and always land safely on its feet; but in general a cat has this ability. This wonderful feat is made possible by the way the muscles of the cat are arranged and the quickness of the cat's instinct for bringing them into play. No matter how a cat is dropped, it is usually able to turn over in the air and so twist itself that its feet come in contact with the ground first.

The ability of the cat to alight feet first is aided by the healthy condition of its balancing sense. This sense is governed by the semi-circular canals — six little fluid-bearing canals, three in each ear — that enable cats (and humans) to keep in balance. However, if they played any special part in the wonderful feat of the cat we should expect to find these balancing canals very highly developed in cats; but they are not.

Scientists say that men also would be able to alight on their feet when falling if they could think quickly enough. Some do. Many of us have seen men dive head-foremost from a trapeze, turn somersaults in the air and land safely. Others vault over the backs of horses, whirling around in mid-air as they go, yet drop safely on their feet. All these skills are perfected by much practice so that they become almost instinctive.

Joke of the Week

Indian artifacts of wide interest

London, Ont. (CP) — In 30 years Robert Calvert has trudged many miles of fields and streams collecting Indian artifacts — from bone saws to a pestle and mortar with a combined weight of 500 pounds.

The collection on display at his home here is made up of more than 6,000 pieces, and Mr. Calvert, a construction worker, says: "I have given away more items than I have kept."

Two of the most unusual pieces in the one-time fur trapper's home are the pestle and mortar used by the Indians to grind corn.

He discovered the egg-shaped, 100-pound pestle 30 years ago in the Peterborough district. The mortar, weighing 400 pounds, he found in Middlesex county, some 200 miles from Peterborough.

Mr. Calvert won't say just where he found them. When locations of possible sites for hunting artifacts are revealed, the curious begin trampling farmers' fields and soon after "No Trespassing" signs begin to appear, he says.

Mr. Calvert believes some of the pieces in his collection are more than 1,000 years old, and that some may approach 2,000 years.

One item which he describes as "quite rare" is a bird stone used for ceremonial purposes.

One display shows 88 different pottery designs, cooking pots, needles, saws, awls, arrow heads, jewelry and beads, axes, scraping tools, pipes and farming implements.

Many of the items were found in pieces, and painstakingly put together again.

He is never satisfied the collection is complete, and spends almost every free week-end in the search for more. "I could walk a field or stream until I drop dead," he said.

Vancouver Island as source of apple supply

Victoria (CP) — A former staff member of the federal experimental farm at nearby Saanichton believes the Cowichan Valley may soon become a major producer of apples.

Dr. John H. Harris has converted a 100-acre poultry farm, which he took over about a year ago, with this purpose in mind.

Although he is not the first in the district to appreciate the possibilities of dwarf fruit trees, he is the instigator of a larger operation. He has cleared 60 acres for the purpose of growing the trees and eventually, he says, his farm will be studded with the hardy little trees whose ancestors were developed by European horticulturists at the beginning of the century.

Dr. Harris believes he will be able to find markets, since he feels a good product can be readily sold.

At present the apple market in B.C. is mainly controlled by the Okanagan Valley, but in time Dr. Harris envisions a similar organization on the Island which can tie in with the present B.C. Orchard Association in the interior of the province.

Dr. Harris says the United States is an example of what has happened. He says there was an indifference towards dwarf trees 30 years ago, but there now are many more of them, particularly in Washington state, Oregon and Michigan.

The Vancouver Island climate is good for growing fruit, he says, and before the orchards in the Okanagan were established several large apple growers existed in the Victoria and Saanich areas, around 1912.

Insects and diseases then posed a problem, and the summers were dry, but both shortcomings now are outdated with efficient pest control and modern irrigation systems, he said.
