Descendants of pioneer paper maker visited site of earliest mill, in St. Andrews East

(Special to Lachute Watchman)

St. Andrews — Modern-day descendants of James Brown, who operated the first Canadian paper mill that was established in St. Andrews in 1803, paid tribute to his memory on July 27, when they laid a wreath at the commemorative cairn that was erected in 1932 by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

Interestingly enough, the two descendants who paid tribute to their ancestor are today leaders in the same graphic arts that James Brown was a leader of in his day. They are Kenneth James Brown, president, and Arthur W. Brown, vice-president (both from Toronto), of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America, which represents 40,000 skilled printing craftsmen throughout the United States and Canada.

While in St. Andrews, the two A.L.A. leaders visited with the Mayor of St. Andrews, Henri Labreche, who drew on his lifetime of local history to acquaint his guests with various facets of the career of one of the town's most noted pioneers.

The A.L.A. leaders were in the area making final preparations for their organization's convention, which this year will be held in Canada, at the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, from September 9 to 13. Since this is the 160th anniversary year since the founding of the first Canadian paper mill, they thought it appropriate to pay tribute to the memory of James Brown at this time.

Two modern-day descendants of the founder of the first Canadian paper mill, established in St. Andrews in 1803, are seen above after laying a wreath on the historical cairn. They are Kenneth James Brown (left), president, and Arthur W. Brown, vice-president, of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America, active leaders in the graphic arts industry.

Old incendiary bomb discovered by skin-divers

Sunday afternoon, July 28, was a time of some anxiety for many residents of Black Lake, Dunany, following the discovery of what was later identified as an active RCAF incendiary bomb, of a type used by the Air Force during and since World War II.

The bomb was discovered by two amateur skin-divers, Grahame Neill, 21, of Montreal, and Edward Nicholl, 18, of Lachute (who describe themselves as "underwater garbage collectors"). It was embedded in sand in some 20 feet of water. The boys brought the bomb to the surface and placed it in their boat, towing the boat to within 150 feet of the Neill wharf, where they left it anchored until the arrival of Officer Sam Kille, of the Lachute Q.P.P. detachment.

Following an examination of the device, the 34th Field Ordnance Depot, Ste. Therese, was notified, and Capt. Roy Sing was sent out to assume charge of the bomb. It was he who identified the type of missile, stating his opinion that it had been in the water at least eight to ten years. The bomb was 18 inches long, weighing from 12 to 14 pounds. The detonating device was a part of the tail, which was comprised of four fins joined by a circle.

Capt Sing, who stated he would attempt to trace the origin of the bomb from serial numbers, packed the device in sand and headed for Ste. Therese, where he planned to detonate it if the device could not be de-activated.

In covering the bomb while in the boat, one of the boys accidentally poked a hole in the tail section. He stated, however, that while the outside was corroded, the inside was in excellent condition. Evidence of other corroded metal on the lake bottom was also reported by the skin-divers.

June examination results for High Schools in this County

The Quebec Department of Education on Monday released high school results for Grade XI, and following are the high schools in this County, along with Lachute High School results for Grade X (delayed a week due to the Subject Promotion method.)

Lachute High School Principal F. H. J. Royal expressed extreme satisfaction with Subject Promotion and its first year of operation here. This year, Grades VIII and X were involved; however, in the coming year, Grades IX and XI will also be included. In commenting on the results, Mr. Royal stated he felt Subject Promotion would keep more students in high school, as they are able to progress with their best subjects. "We will have more graduates from Grade XI, as the students have a wider choice of subject credits, and their matriculation exams can be written over a two year period."

In interpreting the standing of the student, the numbers 1, 2, and 3 are used to indicate the overall percentage. Class 1 signifies 80 per cent and better, Class 2 means 65 per cent to 79.9 per cent, and Class 3 indicates 50 per cent to 64.9 per cent.

Receives C-I-L 10-year service pin in London, Eng.

Receiving a 10-year service pin is always a significant occasion for C-I-L employees, but for Gordon C. Jamison, now in England, it had a special meaning.

Gordon, formerly of Lachute and the C-I-L works at Brownsburg, was posted from his position in Accounting at head-office, Montreal, to Imperial Chemical Industries Limited. After he had been transferred to London, he became eligible to receive his 10-year-pin.

Rouge watershed under study by both governments

Forty-eight Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA) projects have now been approved for the Province of Quebec. Most of these are already under way.

Seven new joint federal-provincial projects involving more than $1 million have been approved in the last two months. Cost of the seven will be shared equally by Ottawa and Quebec.

Four of the new projects are soil and water conservation measures; three are in the field of rural development research, which are the first of their kind to be initiated jointly in Quebec by the two governments, and include projects in the Brome region of the Eastern Townships and the Rouge Valley watershed in the Laurentian - Ottawa Valley area.

First stage of the Brome project is under way. It will classify and evaluate the main resources of the region with the view of increasing income and employment opportunities.

Similar to the Brome study, the Rouge Valley project will cover parts of Labelle, Terrebonne, Papineau and Argenteuil Counties.

Rotary Club is host to District Governor

Outline of plans from Lake Placid International meet

The Lachute-Brownsburg Rotary Club were honored to receive District Governor C. M. "Hodge" Hodgdon as their guest at the last meeting. The evening started with an informal gathering at the Lachute Masonic Temple and later moved to its usual quarters at the Legion Hall in Brownsburg for dinner.

In Governor Hodgdon's brief but inspiring talk after dinner, he outlined the highlights of the Rotary International meeting held at Lake Placid, New York, and told of their plans for the year. These plans include Local Districts to participate in the exchange of ideas, books, records, etc., with similar Rotary Districts abroad. He also suggested that much local help can be given inexpensively by guiding children from broken homes, reading to the blind, and other such efforts.

Saturday night at 10.30, the seventh annual pilgrimage of young Catholic workers will set out from St. Jerome marching to the Notre Dame de Lourdes shrine on the Brownsburg Road, where mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Several youth organizations of the diocese will take part in this 25-mile trek, being joined by feminine groups at the eastern outskirts of Lachute.

The advertising representative for L'Argenteuil and The Watchman, Ray Church, has another interesting contest up his sleeve to stimulate retail shopping in the late-summer doldrums. Commencing at the end of this month, the contest will last four weeks, with six awards and a grand prize for the closing week. Merchants and readers, take note.

'Two Provinces' radio would be bilingual

The "Voice of The Two Provinces" has announced a decision that its proposed radio station will be programmed in both French and English, rather than in French only. . . Plans for this station hinge on the granting of a permit by the Board of Broadcast Governors at Ottawa.

"The Voice", a group of businessmen planning to erect a radio station for the Lachute-Hawkesbury district, formerly proposed a French-language station.

Spokesman for the group, Donald H. Attfield, said in making the announcement, that people are demanding a two-language station.

"We have talked with many people, including some of the leading businessmen of the area and the members of Parliament. Almost everyone says that the station should have programs in both languages."

Mr. Attfield added that the decision was also influenced by a survey of Prescott and Argenteuil Counties made by the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement. It shows that people now listen to English-language stations equally as much as they do to French-language stations.

Mr. Attfield also announced these further decisions:

That a studio site has been selected, mid-way between Lachute and Hawkesbury, on Highway 8.

That a site for the transmitter and towers has been selected, near St. Eugene.

The Town of Vankleek Hill has joined other principal municipalities of Argenteuil and Prescott Counties in endorsing the application of The Voice of the Two Provinces for a radio broadcasting license.

A letter from the Vankleek Hill town council, stating that it favors approval by the Federal Government of the application by this organization, was also announced.

The letter said that the council feels this area is in need of local radio service.

It also said: "A radio broadcasting station proposing to serve the Lachute area only would not be as desirable as a station proposing to serve Prescott County as well."

This was a reference to the application by Jean Lalonde of St. Jerome, to establish a satellite of his St. Jerome station, CKJL, in Lachute.

The proposal by The Voice of the Two Provinces also has been endorsed by the town councils of Lachute and Hawkesbury and by the Chambers of Commerce in these towns.

Road worker killed in mishap near Montfort

William Ballahey, 20, of Montreal, died in the St. Jerome hospital early Monday evening following injuries received while standing on a drag behind a truck on a Flamingo Lake Development road, situated between Lac Gemont and Montfort.

The victim was standing as ballast on the drag, when it struck a large rock and turned over, a section of the drag landing on his head. The accident occurred at 2.35 p.m.

The body was brought to the local morgue, where Dr. Roger Lavigne, joint-coroner, ruled the death accidental. The victim was unmarried.

Site for new chain stores

Stark in its isolation is this stately brick residence, the Dr. FitzGerald home, on Main Street. Demolished next door on the corner of Main and Barron Avenue is the old Alex Bradford property, which is levelled to make way for a new Dominion Store supermarket. The vacant lot exposes to full view the building above, an old landmark, whose fate is in the balance for the construction of a new Farmer 5c-$1 Store.

The FitzGerald property was formerly occupied by Dr. J. M. Drew, physician, and before that, by Dr. McConnell, dentist — all now deceased. (The most important note of historical interest, according to our photographer, is the fact that he was born there !)

By BOB ATCHISON

Our little squirrel is still active, and seemingly doing well. The little foster-mother is still very scary of anyone getting too close, and I guess she will be like that for some time to come. I have often read of cats adopting other than their own species, but believe me, this is the first time I ever heard of a dog adopting a squirrel. Most of us will really watch out for this little creature, and if good wishes can be counted, then it has already "made it". If it survives the next couple of weeks, then everything should be fine.

I mentioned the detergents again last week, and of course, pollution. In conversation with a gentleman from Maine on this subject, I was very surprised to hear that this state has had an anti-pollution law in effect for a couple of years. Seemingly they were able to see the damage caused by detergents and other things, and put a stop to it as soon as they could. I don't think this will ever happen in Canada, or in any province, where they seem to be doing everything possible to ruin our water resources. There seems to be an impression that this country has unlimited water supplies, and we will never be in any danger of doing without!

New developments springing up all over the place, impose that much more burden on any water supply. With the refuse already being dumped in, it is a serious problem right now. Some property-holders seem to think the streams are for their own particular sewage-disposal benefit. Even on the North River this is happening, and I sure take exception to this. The Water Pollution Board of this province were supposed to be the answer to all such abuses — and, optimistically, I believed it!

Last summer this board had a group of students around checking all the outlets and other installations into this river. I think most everyone got a notice to have these things righted, under penalty of a $200 fine. As usual all the small home-owners were hit by this, yet the towns and factories were allowed to continue ejecting their junk into the same river. . . This board has since been dropped; true, another one has sprung up, but where it is and what it is doing, I have not heard.

Believe it or not, but the Department of Tourism and Wildlife has issued its new regulations for hunting. I believe this is the earliest yet; the fact that there will be some changes no doubt, should not detract from this monumental achievement. As you know, this has always been a pet peeve of mine. Why other provinces should be able to have regulations out in the summer for the benefit of hunters who wished to take vacations then, I never could figure out. It looks good, and this is a step in the right direction. . . But don't let it fool you; maybe the price of the permits is going up — something must be in the wind.

With the hunting season drawing closer, maybe this would be a good time for you to check your firearms. I'll bet you haven't touched them since last fall. It might be worth while taking a good look. Maybe your sights have been knocked loose, something jammed in the barrel, some of the screws loose, etc.. Have them fixed now, and don't wait. How about that stock you got all scratched up last year? Refinish it yourself. Scrape all the old varnish off, and do not use a coarse sandpaper to do it, either. If you do have to use sandpaper, use it very fine.

If you are going to do it right, then use a piece of glass. Be sure it is cut square and not just any old piece you have picked up; grooves are very hard to get out, to be careful. Now, when you have it all cleaned off, polish this with brown paper, the more you do this the better it will be. Don't use anything with the paper; keep it dry, then any of the old varnish you have missed will show up as a spot. Don't try finishing the stock off until this is all cleaned, otherwise you will have a messy job. The more you polish the bare wood, the smoother it will become — so smooth in fact it will feel like velvet.

The finishing of this woodwork should not be done if you are in a hurry. The first and only thing that goes onto the wood is lemon oil. Smooth this on with brown paper, then work it in by polishing. The more you polish this, the better it will be before you put on the next coat. The number of coats you should apply depends on the coloring you wish for. The more, the darker, and so on. You can grain this yourself by missing spots with the oil, thus making it lighter than the rest of the stock. It sure is a great pastime, and if you like guns at all this should help to pass the time away before you get a crack at that deer you missed last year.

Fishing is still exceptional. In the places I have checked, all are producing. Bass are of course being taken in every little body of water, and some very big ones have been heard of; 6 lbs. is the largest so far, but there are much larger ones around. All you doré men — the river is starting to pay off too; not extra big as yet; they are starting to run though. The average ones I have heard of would run around 1½ to 3 lbs. These are very good eating, so it's worth while taking them.

• • •

The rabbits are starting to come back; as you know, for some time they have been very scarce. The black squirrels have all disappeared from around. Just why or when they beat it, I don't know, it could have been the shortage of feed. Very few reds are with us, so maybe they were hungry too.

• • •

I don't know just which Game Wardens should investigate, but for what it is worth, Lake Macdonald should be checked. A net is supposed to have been put out around the northwestern end; someone is out for those stocked trout. The night-liners are also in action. It's pretty hard to spot these, but as most people are sports and law-abiding, they can help in this way. Any trees hanging over water can be looked over for ties to the lines. In some cases they will have lines running rown into the water with a half-dozen hooks; any fish caught on one of these rigs is a "gonner". . . It isn't the fact that they are catching fish in this way, but rather the fact that the "sports" putting these rigs out do not as a rule care to check them too well; so that if 20 fish have been caught, then about 10 of them will be unfit for eating. Wastage does not worry anyone of this type, but we all lose. I didn't think it would be too long before the poachers moved into these grounds. . . While on this too, the North River is being netted right below the Black's Bridge. Lake Hughes could also be investigated; I'm sure this would prove interesting to the Wardens.

• • •

There have been a number of enquiries about the .22 rifle being used on rabbits this fall. As far as I know, this gun is permissible on this type of game, but IS NOT to be used as a big game rifle. Most of us saw the terrible results of using .22's on deer last year; it certainly is one good thing the law has been changed.

Just what other changes will take place I do not know, and no one also at this time. One thing I would like to see is the stopping of the moose kill in the parks. To me this is useless slaughter, and one that could be dispensed with. It would be far better to use these animals for re-stocking than to slaughter them.

• • •

It appears that living game is not wanted in this province. I (hope most of you will agree that a wild animal is much nicer to see alive than dead. I agree that some must be killed for natural preservation, but the wanton killing in some cases explains why we are losing so much of our natural attractions in this area. They (do attract tourist trade and the good it does to any district, (big business, they call it), yet we are obliterating just the thing that attracts these tourists.

Audience-packed tent at CBC show

There was an enthusiastic audience here at four television programs recently filmed and recorded in the Radio-Canada tent set up in the Richelieu Park. The tent, measuring 90 feet by 166 feet, was capable of holding 1,000-odd persons, and was filled to capacity when the above photograph was taken during the filming of "Dans tous les Cantons" which featured folklore and local dancers.

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

Since we last wrote one of these articles, Summer has bloomed. Suddenly, the brief Spring became warm Summer. Gone are the tender, delicate colors of May and June. Now, the landscape is dotted with glowing pinky-mauve of the fireweed; purple loosestrife can be seen here and there; the lovely blue of the chickory mingles with the flaunting orange of the black-eyed susans along the roadside, with the brown spikes of the cat-tails, looking vaguely Egyptian, in the background. If the dust is mercifully deadened by rain, riding through the countryside is truly a delight.

We recently took such a ride over the hills to Lake Macdonald, where we were guests of some friends at a family hotel. It is really a family hotel, since, not only does it cater to mostly families, but is wholly run by one family, who have been thereabout for many generations. Since our family has for many years been having its dinner at just such an hotel, we began, during the excellent soup, to think of the significance of such places both to the public and the owners. For the public, these hostelries fill a great need — a place that does not mind having children about, is not too expensive, and is reasonably safe. Children can create a hazard in a bare room, but there are degrees of danger. It is desirable that the food be good, and prepared under sanitary conditions. All of these conditions, the two family hotels we know, fulfill. We thought our familiar one was perhaps a bit the better for children, since the terrain is more open, and there is the added attraction of ponies to ride. But both are delightful retreats, and we wish we were allowed to give you their names and location.

We also spent a happy hour with some friends in the Valley of the Rouge River, surely one of the most beautiful and astonishing spots in Quebec. The beauty is there for the looking; the astonishment is due to the impact of that smiling valley ringed with hills, that greets one as one comes over the last ridge from Harrington. Swish over the hills, and around curves, the road bordered by mean little houses. Zoom, and suddenly we look down on the valley, with its smooth fields, its elms, its cows posing on the tended hillsides, the substantial farm-houses well back from the road. The mail-boxes are reminiscent of Scotland — Bennett, MacTavish, Dobbie they read. As we whisked by John Dobbie's mail-box, I thought affectionately of the large, ruddy, kind boy, I used to teach. I bet he is now a large, ruddy, kind man, as he had the kind of face that endures. Husband and daughter moaned at my feeble suggestion that we stop. They know these meetings with long-lost pupils. Quite often the long-lost pupil embraces the ditto teacher! This used to embarrass the daughter, now I suspect it makes her furious. So, on we went over the Rouge River bridge and along to our friends who have so many attractions. So far as the daughter of the house was concerned, the albino porcupines were the greatest attraction, although the literary and articulate hostess, and the cats, came a close second. We mentioned these albino porcupines once before, and The Watchman had a picture of one some time ago. At first glance, one sees a white rabbit, pink eyes, and all. But closer inspection reveals that the fur is coarser and the ears small and close to the head. The owner has presently two of these creatures, one three years old, the other only one. They are perfectly tame, coming to their master as soon as he appears. As well they might, for they owe him their lives. Last winter, cat distemper was raging in the district; sixteen cats had died, and one white porcupine. Our friend determined to save the other two rare creatures. He did it with glycerine and honey on bread, fed individually and regularly night and day, the ailing animal sitting on the owner's knee. . . The medicinal value of glycerine is not clear to me, and there are no reference books at hand, but the daughter tells me it reduces the phlegm which eventually closes the bronchial tubes and causes death. Honey, of course, is an old remedy for many things; medical books as far back as Hypocrates mention its worth. Seems to me that some mention was also made of penicillin. The knowing will smirk. So much for your honey and glycerine! But people who work with animals will at once appreciate the difficulty and expense of repeated injections, and dosing by mouth is often impossible. I know. I have never tried to dose a porcupine, but I have given pills to various cats, and it is no job for the impatient or the timid. It is fascinating to watch a porcupine eat a slice of bread. They eat very delicately, sitting up, holding the bread in hand-like paws; there is an incipient thumb. The smaller one closed his eyes in ecstasy, as he munched. When not eating, the porcupine kept up a running conversation. The sound is a cross between the soft cooing of a pigeon, and the contemplative tuk-tuk that hens sometimes utter. Once or twice, the mother said something sharp and quick to its offspring, on a higher note.

When we finally tore ourselves away from the porcupine's quarters, we were shown a rock collection, that would make most hobbyists drool with envy. Many of the varieties of quartz were to be seen — jasper, chalcedony, chrysoprase, moss agate, rose quartz. I was reminded of the bit in Revelations, "And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald". (Rev.21: 19—). There were also the various species of magnesite, which emerge in commerce as furnace and stove lining. These are mined at nearby Kilmar. Amazingly, there was a piece of coral, picked up in a local gravepit. Our host also had an Indian arrow-head. So far as he is concerned, the Valley of the Rouge is one happy hunting-ground. If happiness consists of doing what one likes best, he must be a supremely happy man.

On that same day, we saw another happy man — but the space is gone, and that story will have to wait till next time.

New district jail to aid St. Vincent

Two penal institutions will be built at Ste. Anne des Plaines to replace in part the riot-scarred St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, Justice Minister Chevrier announced recently in Ottawa.

He said in a press statement that construction will start as soon as possible on a special detention unit for 160 "of the more recalcitrant type of inmate." The building will be completed by the summer of 1964.

Seaman appeals on ruling given by Union

Montreal (CP) — A member of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), appealing a penalty slapped on him by the union, said he didn't attend his "trial" a year ago because "you didn't stand a chance."

Stanley Bigelow of Hawkesbury, Ont., a marine fireman, told the SIU appeals board that he had "heard about them (the trials) before."

The appeals board, under Commodore O. S. C. Robertson, ruled the union was justified in fining Bigelow $111 for some long-distance phone calls he had made on a union phone, but had exceeded its authority in ordering him banned from further postings on ships until the fine was paid.

An SIU trial committee last summer found Bigelow guilty of making 10 phone calls to his wife in Hawkesbury and imposed the fine and penalty.

After the appeals board ruling, SIU President Hal Banks returned Bigelow's union card.

The appeals board was set up in May to handle cases of SIU members who feel they have not been treated fairly by the union. It has heard three other cases in which it ruled in favor of the seamen.

Jehovah's Witnesses

Awake to World Events

What does it mean to you when you read reports of war or disasters from earthquakes or storms? Do reports of emergency measures for famine relief carry any special significance to you? What about the news reports on juvenile delinquency, the high divorce rate and the emphasis on pleasure-seeking? What does it all mean?

Coming as they have all together in appalling intensity on this generation since the first world war, these events do have a vital meaning. They are the things of which the apostle Paul spoke when he said that "in the last days critical times hard to deal with will be here." (2 Tim. 3:1-5) They are the events that Jesus foretold in answer to the question: "What will be the sign of your presence and of the conclusion of the system of things?" (Matt. 24:3) Having described in detail these things that have distinguished our generation, Jesus added: "When you see these things occurring, know that the kingdom of God is near. Truly I say to you, This generation will by no means pass away until all things occur." — Luke 21:31, 32.

This is nothing to shrug off or ridicule. Rather it is a time to stay awake, to stay on the watch, to make sure of what the will of God is.

The magazine Awake! is designed to help you do just that. It keeps its readers informed on a wide field of knowledge, awake to the significance of world happenings, and alert to God's will for mankind. Published in many languages, it is available for $1 per year. Awake! will be mailed to your address twice a month.

Also THE WATCHTOWER, at the same price, comes to you every two weeks.

"The Watchtower" stands as a watchman atop a tower, alert to what is going on, awake to note signs of danger, faithful to point out the way of escape. It announces Jehovah's kingdom established by Christ's enthronement in heaven, feeds his kingdom joint-heirs with spiritual food, cheers men of good-will with glorious prospects of eternal life in a paradise earth, comforts us with the resurrection promise for the dead.

Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may know. They will be pleased to take your subscriptions for the above-mentioned magazines.

Marriage in New Brunswick of local interest

Findlay - Flemming

The marriage of Jane Irene, daughter of the late James A. Flemming and Mrs. Flemming, of MacKenzie Corner, N.B., to Mr. David Creswell Findlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Findlay, and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Creswell of Lachute, took place recently in St. John's United Church, MacKenzie Corner, the Rev. Wilfred Wilson officiating. Miss Natalie Belch played the wedding music, and standards of white gladioli and yellow pompoms arranged with greenery were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Carl Flemming, was in a gown of white silk organza over ice blue Swiss batiste, fashioned with a skirt falling into a slight train. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a circlet of lily-of-the-valley, and she carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies.

Mrs. Alton Bustard, as matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Carol Welsh, and Miss Gail Patrick, of Montreal, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of ice-blue batiste fashioned with bell-shaped skirts. They wore matching pillboxes with small veils and carried bouquets of Shasta daisies.

Mr. Robert Dendy acted as best man for Mr. Findlay, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Findlay, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Paul Flemming, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Flemming, the bride's mother, was in a sheath gown of blue linen with a jacket. She wore a hat of blue petals, and a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Findlay, mother of the bridegroom, wore a sheath gown of beige brocade, with a hat of pink straw trimmed with pink net, and a corsage bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

FOREST AND BUSH fires destroyed more than $60,000,000 of Canada's national resources during the past ten years. Across the country 8,000 fires of this type can be expected each year, according to the All Canada Insurance Federation.

Human carelessness causes most forest and bush fires. Unseasonally warm, dry weather this year could cause additional losses. The Federation, which represents more than 220 Canadian fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies, asks each Canadian to take these precautions to help prevent forest fires.

1. Never throw cigarettes or matches from car windows — 15 per cent of forest fires are caused by careless smokers.

2. Build campfires on rocks or bare earth. Be sure your fire is well away from dry timber.

3. Drown campfires or smother them with earth before you leave the campsite.

4. Break matches in half before discarding. This precaution insures that the flame is extinguished.

5. When hiking, stamp cigarettes out on rocks or bare earth; if possible, douse them with water.

6. If you live in the vicinity of a bush or forest, equip all chimneys on your house or cabin with spark screens.

7. Broken bottles should be buried. The sun's rays when magnified by glass can start fires.

8. If you spot a forest fire, however small, report it to police or forest officials immediately.

Electronic Cupid

A REPORT from California that an 81-year-old man met his bride-to-be through a computing machine in a marriage broker's office, makes one wonder where automation is leading us!

With the exception of the men who lost their jobs, it was generally accepted as progress and a move toward increased efficiency when computers began directing the operation of assembly lines in mass-production factories.

When these electronic brains began taking over traffic control in congested cities, freeing some policemen for other duties, there were few complaints.

And even when computers took over the job of checking our income tax returns it wasn't too hard to take. For while they perhaps caught more of the mistakes, they were also faster in getting our refund to us.

But aren't they going a bit too far when they use these impersonal electronic wonders to pick out a potential wife?

When George Conway, a retired clergyman, went to the marriage broker, the necessary information about him and his preferences was fed into the computer. There is was matched with other information on various available women.

What emerged was Mrs. Gladys Coover, a widow and for many years a grandmother.

One thing that makes the idea a little easier to take is that the couple dated for a while before deciding to get married. It meant there was still a little room for romance and emotion.

With all the divorce these days, it might be said that many are doing a mighty poor job of selecting mates with whom they are going to be compatible.

It might even be said that anything — even a computer — that somehow could cut down the margin for error would be welcome.

But for anyone who has experienced the wonder of that moment of discovery that there's only one possible true love for you and that, by sheer chance, he or she happens to be right here, it must be evident that there's really no room for an electronic match-maker.

"Signal" for your own good

MODERN AUTOMOBILES are equipped with devices by which a driver may signal his turns. But signals are useless unless they are properly operated. It does no good for a motorist to switch on his car's turn signal after he has started to turn, claims the Canadian Highway Safety Council. It gives the impression the driver believes the turn signal is there to help his car get around that corner, or that the last-minute signal covers the letter of the law. It is no help to traffic in front or behind. Failure to signal in time could easily create an accident. For example, an approaching motorist, seeing no turn signal ahead, would believe no other driver intended to turn, then make the turn himself to find another vehicle in front of him — too late.

Another peril occurs when the motorist fails to turn off the signal. A driver waiting for a gap in passing traffic to permit him to enter an intersection sees a car approaching from his left, signalling a right-hand turn. He is well within his rights to proceed, as long as no other obstacle is present. Then the signalling car fails to make the turn for which the driver is signalling and a serious accident results.

A motorist who stubbornly declines to accommodate other drivers by telling them his intentions can place himself in great danger. Signalling every moment well in advance is a protection to the motorist. Without a signal, other drivers have no way of knowing his intentions, and failure to signal, or signalling too late, can be disastrous.

The Council has issued an urgent plea to every driver to make the most of his vehicle's signalling equipment — for his own good.

Inquiry on biculturalism

APPOINTMENT of a royal commission on biculturalism was not expected to arouse much political opposition, but Mr. Diefenbaker objected to it on the ground that the commission could act only as an educational body and might be able to postpone any effective action for several years. He pointed out that no action could be taken until there had been agreement between the Dominion and provincial governments on amendment to the constitution. He would have preferred to see a Dominion-provincial conference discussing the matter first.

Mr. Diefenbaker also deplored the fact that other ethnic groups than French and English were not sufficiently represented. He mentioned the 1,500,000 Canadians of German and Dutch origin, as well as native Indians.

All of the commissioners are bilingual. They are to be paid one hundred bilingual dollars a day while they are sitting, perhaps more than that for the co-chairmen, and they will also have the usual secretarial staff provided at public expense. Canadians of good will no doubt will hope they can accomplish something definite to end the friction that for some years has been evident between the two races; but scepticism about the value of royal commissions has been one lesson of experience that should have been well learned.

LOOKING AFTER YOUR FISH

If you are thinking of keeping fish, it is important to start off the right way and to remember that, although they don't make as much noise as other pets, fish still need attention.

The first thing is to purchase a tank that is big enough. The more water surface exposed to the air, the more oxygen there will be available to the aquarium. Best is a rectangular tank, that will hold about 15 gallons of water and that has sides that are no higher than its width.

In this tank you should try and create natural conditions for your pets. This can be done by using plants to produce a balanced aquarium.

When you first fill up the aquarium, remove the chlorine that is invariably in tap water by pouring it back and forth. Then let the water stand for a day to bring it up to room temperature.

In the bottom of the tank should be about two inches of coarse sand. In this you can anchor the plants, put stones and make small caves. The tank should be placed where it can obtain light.

Having done all this you can now introduce the fish. The fish give off carbon dioxide which is absorbed by the plants. In turn the plants, if they have light, give off oxygen. With the right number of plants and fish you have a balance which, although it needs periodic cleaning, rarely needs the water changing, if at all.

Keeping an aquarium is not a difficult task but there is one important point — the temperature of the water should be kept constant.

If you have only goldfish the temperature has to be around 65 degrees. A higher temperature reduces the amount of oxygen in the water and you will find all the fish swimming near the surface. At a lower temperature they become sluggish and can catch a disease or develop fungus.

Tropical fish need a higher temperature. Various kinds of tropical fish need different temperatures, but a good average is about 78 degrees. This can be maintained if you keep your room temperature at this point in both winter and summer. Otherwise you can buy a small tubular heater with a control on it. The heater is set to the desired temperature and left in the water. Never, under any circumstances, change the water temperature quickly. Pouring a lot of cold tap water into the tank, or switching fish from a warm tank to a cooler one can kill them.

Feeding fish is no problem — but don't overdo it. Surplus food is harmful and if they don't eat and it drops to the bottom it will contaminate the water. Commercial dried foods are adequate with, for tropical fish, the addition of small worms, sold by dealers, and shreds of meat or fish.

But remember — a little food goes a long way in your aquarium.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

IT'S NO USE!

If I were asked what I considered the two most useless things in the world, I would say that they are fringes on the ends of rugs and cuffs on men's trousers. Of what use are fringes? They serve no purpose, look untidy at all times, harbor dirt and jam up the roller of a vacuum cleaner. Think how much neater a rug would be without them.

Now, about trouser cuffs. Prior to the "Gay Nineties" 'they' did not exist. Trouser legs were not even pressed. They looked just like two lengths of stovepipe. But the upper classes did not like to get the bottoms wet or muddy on a rainy day, so they turned them up until the weather improved. Then the ordinary citizens tried to imitate the habits of the swanky class. They turned theirs up too. But they would not stay turned up until some smart guy got the idea of sewing them into a permanent position. The idea stuck, and now we are saddled with these useless pockets, four ply thick, collecting germs, dirt and bayseed.

During World War Two, tailors made suits without cuffs or pocket flaps as a conservation measure. I heaved a sigh of relief to be rid of cuffs. But after the war they came back and now we are stuck with them again and I sincerely hope that some smart fashion designer will consider them passé so we can again enjoy the freedom from these moisture-holding germ traps.

Or better still, why not Bermuda shorts from May till September?

Be seein' ya!

Uncle Walt

Color permanency

A colored object is simply an object which reflects to the eye certain waves of light. Its power of reflecting light depends mainly on the way its molecules are built up. Now, the sun has power to alter the chemical states of bodies, as we see when it turns silver nitrate to black; and some of these alternations so affect the structure of the material that its surface reflects less light than formerly . . . that is to say, it fades.

Many colors used in dyeing carpets pass through chemical and molecular changes when exposed to sunlight and so fade; whereas the colors of living plants are more strongly built and so are not readily faded by the sun. When plants are dead, however, they usually fade quickly when exposed to sunlight.

Of Many Things

THE JOY OF WORK

All of us have moments when we'd like to be beachcombers. A few bad days and a man dreams of getting away from it all. No deadlines, no drudgery, no appointments. Then something happens to give him a fairly free day, and what happens?

It is wonderful, for the first few hours. Lovely to roast in the sun. So good to go for an ambling walk, knowing that when you return to camp there'll have been no phone calls — because there is no phone! Then, towards the end of the lazy day, comes the urge to read and finally, by the next morning, a desire to get back to the so-called rat race.

Much as we hate to admit it, there is a joy in work. Once absorbed in work, little aches and pains of which you were conscious in idle moments, get lost. As the desk clears, or the field turns black, or the manuscript nears completion, there is the ineffable glow of satisfaction.

Unhappy workers are poor workers, with guilty consciences because things pile up on them, or they are anxious about the final outcome. These are the dependent neurotics who are unhappy until they see a satisfactory end result, and are praised for it. He who works for praise gets low pay, for praise is never forthcoming in quantities large enough to suit him. "But what have you done for me lately?" asks the customer, for whom you did such a good stroke of business only last week. Satisfaction must come from the work itself, from the tension of application.

Even the curse of unemployment should not keep a man from work. There are jobs to be done, even the business of making applications, scouting for opportunities, sharpening up abilities to be a better candidate. No man need ever be out of work, even if he is temporarily off a cash payroll. And he need not fear that he works for nothing — because it cannot be done. There is always, inevitably, the payoff. Nothing is lost.

It seems to me the best advice ever given to man was this: "Work all you can, gain all you can, give all you can." There's a tremendous amount of joy wrapped up in that prescription. Help yourself to it, free.

Old shop relic of gold rush to be restored

Barkerville, B.C. (CP) — James P. Taylor's Blue Flag Store has been closed longer than anyone can remember, but historians have found all they need to restore the relic of the Cariboo gold rush in the files of Barkerville's weekly newspaper.

The information didn't come from the news columns, but from Taylor's ads in the old Cariboo Sentinel.

In them he modestly declared he had "constantly at hand a choice selection of drugs and patent medicines, including new made and patent pills, trusses, syringes, cherry pectoral, sarsaparillas and Jaynes Alternative for purifying the blood."

Taylor ran the only drug store in this gold-rush capital of the 1860's, but he did have competition, from the office of Dr. John Chipp, M.D.

Dr. Chipp's ads in the Sentinel show he carried a similar stock, including gold foil with which patients could plug cavities in their teeth. If this didn't work, the good doctor promised to extract the tooth for only $5.

Next to Brewery

Taylor ended some of the ads with a postscript: "P.S. — As I ship up goods every spring and fall, parties requiring medicine may rely on obtaining it fresh and so ensure its having the desired effect. Next door to Cunio's Brewery."

Reviving the Blue Flag Store and another Barkerville landmark, the House Hotel, are the latest of nearly 30 projects in the restoration program — but enough records are available to permit accurate rebuilding.

L. J. Wallace, chairman of the Barkerville Restoration Advisory Committee, said furnishings and fitting out of the hotel rooms will be authentic to the period when Barkerville teemed with miners from every corner of the world.

Tourists visiting Barkerville this summer have more to do than visit the old buildings. An authentic stage coach is providing tours of the area, and a professional vaudeville troupe is performing again this year in the restored Theatre Royal.

AS YOU WERE

Sam Levenson has a story about a man who quarreled with his wife and moved out to a hotel. All day he brooded, but by dinnertime he was hungry and sorry, so he called her.

"Hello, Sarah. What are you making for dinner?"

"Poison, I'm making."

"So make only one portion. I'm not coming home."

For Parents Only ...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"The time Mother reads aloud to me at night, just before she turns out the light, is very special," a small girl told her grandmother.

Parents can give their children expensive toys, attractive clothes, extra spending money, but none of these is a substitute for the sharing of interest and love when two people spend time with each other.

This is a gift which cannot be bought with money, but in a crowded schedule it demands careful planning to fit it in.

In a family where there is a baby who takes an afternoon nap and a pre-school child, mother can often fit in some time all by himself for the pre-school child while baby is sleeping.

She herself took a short rest and Junior knew when the hands of the clock pointed to three, he could come into mother's room and she would read aloud to him or he could talk with her.

A public school age child attending school calls "Mother!" the moment he comes in the door after his school work is over.

Frequently he is glad to have a drink of milk or fruit juice and a cookie or fresh fruit to eat.

Mrs. Blackstone confided in her friend —

"This is the one time in the day when my daughter wants to confide in me — relax and tell me about the things which she is enjoying."

"Sometimes she mentions something which is worrying to her. Just talking about whether or not she will be invited to a birthday party, or chosen for a part in the school play, seems to lessen her anxiety."

Happiness is doubled and worries are halved when they are shared with an understanding friend, who can be one's own age, or a parent.

In a great many homes right after the evening meal, or at bedtime, is often chosen as a good time for a mother and a son or daughter to discuss a problem or share ideas.

Sometimes this takes place while the dishes are being done, but a child is more likely to want to confide in a parent at goodnight time.

A mother who regularly takes time with her child learns much of his hopes and fears and interests. Susannah Wessley, with her large family, made a practice, each week of having a chat alone with each son and daughter.

She was convinced this time together was vital in giving direction to a child's spiritual growth and character development.

During adolescence a child may seem to withdraw from a parent in his desire to stand on his own feet and become independent. His privacy is precious to him.

He may not want to discuss things with his mother or dad, but it is essential that a parent should be available.

If through the years Mother has taken time with her child, the channel of communication, especially in a time of crisis, is likely to be open and used.

Home should be a haven to which each member of the family turns for comfort and love and understanding.

All these enter into the rich sharing of ideas and ideals which can take place when two people spend time with each other.

The years when your child is at home pass so swiftly! Soon a tall son or daughter will be away from the "family umbrella" — completing schooling or earning a living, and the opportunities to have time together will be few and spaced weeks apart.

Now is the time, when your child is at home, for you to ask yourself —

"Am I spending enough time in enjoyable activity or in reading aloud or talking with my boy or girl?"

HAS NEW TECHNIQUE

Fort William, Ont. (CP) — The National Gallery is interested in a new color technique in painting devised by an alderman here. Hubert Limbrick calls his method "contra-color" which, basically, consists of applying the exact opposite to the natural colors of the subject.

Picnic dish with youngster appeal, Igloo turkey salad

An old-fashioned, yet ever popular, summer picnic or supper-in-the-garden combination is potato salad and turkey or chicken salad. The Poultry Products Institute offers a "cool" new version of this twosome which should appeal to the young fry in the family because of its appearance and to the other members because of its flavor combination.

Igloo Salad

3 Cups well-seasoned mashed potato salad, 3 cups well-seasoned turkey salad and 2 to 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Use a large, round-bottomed bowl (6-cup size). Spread mayonnaise as evenly as possible around inside of bowl. Carefully (and lightly) press all but one cup of potato salad in a layer about an inch thick around sides and cover bottom of bowl. Spoon turkey salad into the centre. Press down lightly. Smooth remaining potato salad lightly over top to seal in the turkey salad. Chill an hour or longer. To unmold, run a thin knife carefully around inside of bowl; place a serving plate face down on top of bowl and quickly invert plate and bowl in smooth motion with a slight bounce as the bowl is turned completely upside down.

Garnish serving plate with lettuce and radish roses or tomato wedges. Cut with a knife into wedges and lift with a wide flat pie server. Yields 6 servings.

For a buffet supper or teen-age party the illusion of an igloo may be carried farther by scoring the surface of the unmolded salad to represent blocks piled up as in making a real igloo. Use strips of green pepper or ripe olives to outline the door.

Turkey simmering

When the Poultry Products Institute suggests you simmer this summer they are referring to cooking turkey, not suffering from the heat waves, as 2½ to 3 hours will cook even a large turkey when simmered in water with a sliced carrot, a small onion, piece of bay leaf, a few celery leaves, salt and pepper.

To simmer turkey cut it up as you would stewing chicken. It will go into a much smaller kettle than if left whole. Remove the wings at the shoulder socket and the legs at the hip joint. Wings and legs may be disjointed or left whole. The rest of the bird may be cut up through the rib cage at the side from hip to shoulder dividing the back and front.

Place turkey parts in kettle with the carrot, onion, bay leaf, celery leaves, salt and pepper. Add cold water to come half way up the meat. Cover kettle, bring to boiling point, reduce heat and simmer 2½ to 3 hours or until fork tender. Add more water if necessary.

Chill meat and broth separately as quickly as possible by setting containers in cold water. Once cool, meat and broth may be placed together again and refrigerated, or remove meat from bones in large pieces, wrap in waxed paper, plastic film or aluminum foil and refrigerate. The broth may be stored in sealers. If meat is not to be used within two or three days wrap and freeze. Broth may be stored in refrigerator for a longer time if brought to boiling point and chilled every two or three days. However, it is best to use it while fresh, as jellied consomme or as the liquid in a casserole, or in cream sauce if turkey is served creamed.

New green peas add color, taste

What a treat it is to have new green peas on the market again! Nowadays only a small percentage of the crop is consumed in the fresh form since most is canned or frozen. Most of us still get a great deal of enjoyment out of buying fresh peas — yes, and even shelling them too. On some local markets, however, we may be denied this old-fashioned pastime as it is possible to buy peas already shelled. Incidentally, did you know that Ontario and Quebec are the largest producers of peas in Canada?

When you buy unshelled peas you want to be sure that they will be tender and of the very best flavor and color. The pods should be bright green, tender, fresh looking, well filled but not hard or bulging.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, tell us that to keep peas fresh and crisp, store them in a moisture-proof bag in the refrigerator. For best flavor and maximum food value, use them as quickly as possible after buying.

New green peas can be ruined with overcooking. Cook them in a covered saucepan in a small amount of water — ¼ cup water and ½ teaspoon salt for 3 cups shelled peas or 6 servings. (You'll need 3 pounds of peas for this amount.) Cook them until tender, 8 to 10 minutes.

Here are two recipes from the Consumer Section's test kitchens in Ottawa. The Green Pea and Carrot Salad is both eye and taste appealing. New Peas in Cream brings a touch of French cuisine to your table.

Green Pea and Carrot Salad

3 Cups fresh peas, cooked, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion, 2 tablespoons diced green pepper, 3 stuffed olives, chopped, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, ½ cup finely shredded raw carrots and head lettuce.

Add salad oil to hot cooked peas and toss well. Add onion, green pepper, olives, salt, pepper and lemon juice or vinegar and toss again. Chill thoroughly, stirring gently once or twice. Just before serving add carrots and toss. Spoon into lettuce cups and serve with mayonnaise if desired. 6 servings.

New Peas in Cream

3 Cups fresh peas, 1½ teaspoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 green onions with tops, sliced, ¼ cup boiling water, 3 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup sweet OR sour cream.

Combine peas, sugar, salt and onion in a saucepan and add boiling water. Cover tightly and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and cook until tender, 8 to 12 minutes, turning peas over at half time. Add butter and heat until melted. Add pepper and cream, return to heat and bring just to a boil. If using sour cream, do not return to heat but mix gently with hot peas and serve immediately. Serve in individual dishes. 6 servings.

Summer supper scheming

Main dish and side salads are now standard items all year in many homes. And they have taken on an increasingly popular summer role with cooks and eaters alike. Nevertheless, there are times when something hot is demanded as well, even when the temperature has soared. On such occasion, the cook turns to ideas that keep down cooking time, thus heating the kitchen as little as possible. And, ideas that also minimize preparation time and effort in hot weather are doubly blessed.

Fish Sticks 'n Chips make an excellent choice to round out the salad-for-supper scheme in summer. They're a hot, hearty contrast to crisp, chilled salads and add substance to the meal. The "chips" require just a little top-of-the-stove cooking; meanwhile the packaged frozen fish sticks can be heated briefly in the oven. If directions are followed, the fish sticks emerge piping hot, the crunchy golden-brown coating encasing tender, flaky fish. Dinner can be ready in a matter of minutes without taxing the energy of the cook or having any appreciable affect on the temperature of the kitchen.

Fish Sticks 'n Chips

6 Peeled, cooked, cooled potatoes, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, salt and pepper, and 1 package frozen fish sticks.

Slice potatoes. Add to skillet or heavy frying pan in which butter or margarine has been melted. Sauté, without stirring, until golden on underside; turn, brown other side. Sprinkle with salt and pepper just before serving. Meantime, heat frozen fish sticks according to package directions. Serve Fish Sticks and "Chips" with tossed salad. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Additions to Jane Parker line

Three new additions to the Jane Parker line of baked foods are being introduced in A & P Food Stores through Ontario and Quebec.

Leading the line-up of new baked foods is a bar-shaped white cake with vanilla-creme filling and icing topped with coconut. This three-layer white cake is now on sale.

This week also, A & P will bow with a gold bar featuring three layers with chocolate-creme filling and icing.

Another addition is a three-layer devil's food bar with vanilla-creme filling and icing. This will be available in stores on August 12.

FINES MIGHT HELP

A few fines for allowing a dog to run at large, or for failure to take out a license, might do wonders towards decreasing the nomadic dog population.

Take the monotony out of summer salad making by using your imagination with original centre pieces.

"Using the various greens, fruits and vegetables now available, it's easy to make an edible centre piece which closely resembles a floral arrangement," say home economists in the federal department of agriculture.

A hollowed-out cabbage head, for example, makes an ideal salad bowl. A large, leafy Savoy cabbage with crisp curly leaves is best suited. First loosen the leaves and spread them out petal fashion. Then hollow out the head to within one inch of its sides and bottom.

Use the cabbage from the centre of the head for your favorite salad. About five cups shredded cabbage or four cups coarse cabbage are needed for six servings.

Oriental Touch

Use a shallow wooden tray as a base and green onions, celery stalks, green pepper strips and carrot sticks for vegetation.

Cut radishes accordian style — crosswise in paper — thin slices three-quarters of the way through and chill in ice water until they open. Then stick them on colored toothpicks in vegetables and they will resemble Chinese lanterns in the garden.

Cucumber slices can be used to make the garden pathway, toasted sunflower seeds the pebbles and small whole tomatoes the rocks. To make a garden tree, top plastic branches with marinated cauliflowerets and mushroom caps.

Either oriental or cottage cheese dip can be served for the raw vegetable sticks.

For the oriental dip, combine a four-ounce package of cream cheese, ¼ cup salad dressing, two teaspoons soya sauce, two teaspoons ginger and one tablespoon chopped green onion.

Cottage cheese dip is made by combining one cup creamed cottage cheese which has been pressed through a sieve with two tablespoons of table cream, two or three teaspoons lemon juice, two tablespoons finely chopped chives or green onions and ¼ teaspoon each of salt and paprika.

Suitable Suits

Skimpy, bikini-type suits are "in" this season and will probably be in fashion again next summer.

But everyone cannot wear these figure-revealing suits to advantage. When shopping for a bathing suit, keep your figure type in mind. Some rules to help you make your choice:

1. Avoid cutting a short thick figure in half with a two-piece style.

2. A low-belted one-piece suit camouflages a thick waist.

3. A neat and perky skirted suit will help conceal heavy thighs.

4. Heavy hips can be concealed in a suit with just a hint of fullness.

5. Tall, slim girls can afford to wear a two-piece style if it is belted at the natural waist to reduce the "string bean" look.

6. If you have short legs, find a suit cut as high as possible to make thighs appear longer.

KITCHEN HINT

Here's an easy way of cutting particularly moist fresh bread or cake so it won't crumble. Heat a thin-bladed knife by dipping it in boiling water for a few minutes, then wipe the blade before cutting.

Annexation by-law given two readings; measure goes to Parish for due study

Lachute Municipality, in its procedure to annex a contiguous part of St. Jerusalem, is now at the stage of enacting the required by-law. The measure received two readings at the August session of Council, and was then submitted to the Parish of St. Jerusalem for study of the authorities in that municipality.

The by-law prescribes the geographical boundaries of Lachute in relation to St. Jerusalem and Ayersville, and points out the requirements of land and municipal services for industrial use. Land space is available in St. Jerusalem, never used for industrial occupation. The by-law preamble cites examples of Ste. Therese, St. Jerome and Ste. Agathe which have developed rapidly in the past 15 years, due to the fact that they have land to offer for potential industries.

A report prepared in connection with the project shows a valuation of $1,968,415 in the area suggested for annexation, and a population of 1,557. For practical purposes, the part of the Parish affected is largely the urban section, adjoining Lachute town, as compared with the rural section comprised in the remainder. The technical description of the area involved is detailed in the report of J. Arthur Lafrance, surveyor. The wards, for representational purposes, will be appropriately divided.

Debts and loans on the St. Jerusalem books and affecting the annexation area, would be divided pro rata, Lachute assuming responsibility for payments in virtue of this division. With the general tax revenues, the Town would also assume lighting and garbage collection services in the urban section, without specific supplemental charges.

The council of St. Jerusalem Parish gave initial study to this by-law at its meeting on Monday. The councillors decided to call a meeting of the taxpayers on September 23 next, at 10 a.m. If there is no opposition, the by-law will be adopted automatically. If five or more ratepayers register their disapproval, however, this will signify the calling of a referendum.

Offers resignation from Council — health reasons

Alderman Robt. (Bob) Marcil, representative for centre ward during the past several months, tendered his resignation from Council at the August session for reasons of health. The resignation was accompanied by a medical certificate and recommendation to slow down his activities.

Mr. Marcil occupied Seat No. 1 left vacant last March by the resignation of Ald. Réal Urbain. The mandate terminates in November.

The Cities and Towns Act decrees that a resignation shall not be effective until accepted by the Council. . . Mayor Campbell asked his colleagues not to accept the resignation forthwith. Since the alderman's term ends in November, it would be inadvisable to incur hundreds of dollars' expense on an election to fill the vacancy for so short a period. To be automatically disqualified, a councillor must miss three consecutive statutory meetings; and by this procedure there would remain only one month of the aldermanic term. . . "Moreover," said the Mayor, "Alderman Marcil may feel sufficiently improved in health to resume his seat."

Surpluses on recent years' operations

Annexation of a portion of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, to the Town of Lachute, has been under discussion for several years, and the present administration of Lachute had signified its intention of introducing a by-law to effect this end.

As the affected ratepayers of the Parish must soon be prepared to approve of or disapprove of annexation, the Council of the Parish has instructed the secretary-treasurer to place before the public some data for consideration. . . Following is the information submitted to The Watchman for publication:

The last ten years have been difficult ones for the Parish of St. Jerusalem. In 1953 the Parish undertook to pay the province $150,000 to take over the future maintenance costs of the roads in the Parish. Almost at once the Parish was faced with the necessity of installing water and sewer lines in the Urban part of the Parish, at a cost of $450,000. Growth in the Urban part was slower than anticipated, but it has increased, reducing the burden of taxes on the residents. The total valuation of the Parish has increased from $1,840,000 to $3,000,000 during this ten-year period.

The Parish has repaid $68,500 of the Roads debentures and will repay the balance over the next ten years. Of the Water and Sewer debentures $50,000 have been repaid, and the Parish is repaying about $9,000 each year. The average rate of interest on these debentures is about 4½%, so the Parish was fortunate in making these expenditures at a low rate of interest and at less cost than similar work would cost today.

Other favorable developments have been the receipt of a provincial grant of $41,580 towards the interest cost of the Water and Sewer debentures, and the imposition of a sales tax in the area, also increased winter roads grants.

This is the first year that the sales tax revenue has been received, and the tax rates for 1963 were levied before the revenue from this source could be estimated. Receipts from this source will be about $16,000 for 1963, with the result that there will be a substantial surplus for the year. Because of this, the Parish will likely end the year with a modest surplus and with no current bank loans.

In 1961 street lighting was installed in part of the Urban area; no tax was levied for this service in 1961; in 1962 and 1963 a tax of .30-c was levied on the area concerned, in accordance with the by-law. At the same time the Council started a garbage collection service at a rate of $8.00 per household per year. It is probably not generally understood that these taxes are imposed only on the area which benefits from the service.

The Council is trying to meet all reasonable requests for services and is anxious to see the municipality progress. To this end a by-law setting up an industrial loan fund is presently being considered.

It is not intended, by this means, to repudiate annexation, rather to place before the public generally, and particularly the ratepayers of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, the excellent financial standing of their municipality, so that they may be in a position to give a considered vote when the time comes to do so.

Lifetime subscription to first baby

The distinction of being the first infant born in the new Argenteuil Hospital also qualified little Julie Robertson for a lifetime subscription to her hometown journal, "L'Argenteuil" — the only "subscriber" thus designated on the newspaper's mailing list. When the editor went to inform the babe of her unique award, she was blissfully unconscious of the honor conferred. However, the certificate was presented in her name to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Toussaint Robertson (above), whose appreciation made up for the child's apparent unconcern.

Voluminous correspondence adds to routine Town Council sitting

In a Council sitting of over four hours' duration (8.15 p.m. to 12.30 a.m.), the City Fathers deliberated on several items of correspondence for good measure. This was the regular August session, with Mayor Dave Campbell at the helm and two aldermen absent, Messrs. L. Armstrong and Robt. Marcil.

The disused chlorination plant, with 50x50 ft. lot, was sold to the higher of two bidders, Harold Hutton, for $1,100. The only other offer was from J. W. (Bill) Davis, for $505.

Mayor Campbell read a letter from an industrial firm desirous of establishing in Lachute. The industry (whose name was not divulged) would occupy 80,000 sq. ft. of floorspace and employ 160 workers. All required information had been supplied by return mail.

There was a letter of appreciation from the St. Jean Baptiste Society for the Council's participation in the annual fete, June 22; also an appreciation from the Ayers Recreation Centre for the parade honoring the juvenile "mayor and mayoress" of this summer sport centre.

William (Bill) Deacon, a volunteer fireman retired after many years' service, expressed appreciation to the Council for their kindly guesture and wished his fellow firefighters continued success.

A request from Lachute Farm Equipment for paving of a 200 x 18 ft. strip between their property and the highway, was referred to Ald. François Charlebois and members of his committee.

A reply from the provincial Department of Transport, acknowledging the town's request for highway signs, was placed on file.

The Catholic School Commission asked for construction of a sidewalk on Hamelin Street near the St. Julien School. The matter was referred to Ald. Ed McFaul, committeeman.

A request from the Township of Chatham for benefit of the town's fire protection service, was held for study and report by Ald. Armstrong, police and fire commissioner.

Renewal of a lease from the Department of Defence for rental of the Auditorium basement, was held over for consideration.

Council was advised of a near-future hearing between representatives of Lachute, St. Jerusalem and Ayersville municipalities and the Public Utilities Commission, on the contentious subject of water tariffs.

An offer was submitted by a firm of consulting engineers for a complete study of the sewerage system and recommendations.

Only one complaint was received on property valuations, and the roll was homologated without discussion. The total valuation for 1964 is in the neighborhood of $10,634,100 — compared with $10,582,452 in 1963.

The month's accounts, totalling $18,730.15 were passed for payment.

Want Right-of-Way On Aqueduct

With one dissenting voice, Council moved last week to take legal proceedings in connection with a right-of-way for the conduit carrying water from the filtration plant through the Cottingham farm. There have been long drawn-out endeavors to secure this servitude, and the Mayor felt it was time to settle the matter and avoid possible difficulties.

Ald. François Charlebois voted against taking action. Mr. Cottingham, he said, had already offered the required strip and land for the filtration plant at a nominal transfer of $1. At the alderman's request Mayor Campbell produced a copy of the letter, dated February 1961 and addressed to the then-mayor, Fernand Legault.

The letter in question gave Mr. Cottingham's permission to take soundings on his property at a suggested distance of 66 feet south of Route 30 (in view of the fact that he planned to develop a road parallel to that highway); also to cede right-of-way and land for the plant "for $1 and the right to purchase water by meter at a rate to be approved by the Public Service Commission, or any other successive body following the same function", on lots owned by Mr. Cottingham or his wife in the Parish of St. Jerusalem or adjacent thereto.

Ald. Dr. L. Middleton moved, and Ald. Nelson Lepage seconded, a resolution that legal steps be taken to procure the servitude.

Sentiments and Sidelights

Crowds lined vantage spots in St. Andrews and Lachute last Friday, to cheer the 50-odd riders in the 1,050-mile bicycle race, the Tour du St. Laurent, biggest such event on the continent. This was the seventh lap of the race (from Montreal via St. Andrews to Joliette) which concluded in Quebec City on Sunday.

Watch out, good citizens of Brownsburg! The provincial roads department, given half a chance, will have that place-name changed completely. Bad enough to have conflicting speed limits to set motorists a-dither; but when the department drops an "s" in Brownsburg road-signs, the impression among passing tourists is not so bright.

Speaking of roads, the new paving east of Lachute (41) and south towards St. Andrews (29), though long overdue in both cases, is now a source of pleasure to all who use these highways.

At the Rotary Club meeting in Brownsburg last week, the members voted to hold their meetings in future at La Lorraine Motel on the Bethany Road, Lachute. Meetings hitherto have been held at the Legion Hall in Brownsburg. The membership is well divided between Brownsburg and Lachute businessmen. There is no change whatever in the name (Brownsburg - Lachute Rotary Club), time, or nature of the weekly meetings.

Ayersv'l Council not interested in annexation

By a deciding vote of the mayor, Ayersville councillors declined to meet the Lachute authorities to discuss annexation of the village to this town.

All members of the Council were present Monday at the statutory meeting when the matter was up for discussion.

Mayor Gaston Plamondon gave the gist of conversations between himself and Mayor Campbell of Lachute. Certain of the councillors had also discussed the matter with Mayor Campbell.

Despite apparent lack of enthusiasm, Councillor Lanthier made a motion for a conference between the two councils. Messrs. Laurent Brasseur and Raymond Champagne were in favor; while three councillors — Messrs. Richer, Cyr and Ernest Champagne — were opposed.

Employees Hired

The resignation of Foreman Georges Leroux was accepted, and two employees were engaged by Council at this meeting — G.E. Brisebois as works foreman, and Georges Miron, both at a wage of $1.25 an hour. There were three other applicants. The salary of another employee, Mr. Brisson, was increased also to $1.25 an hour.

Week's Epigram

Seek additional Council grant for tourist booth

The Chamber of Commerce, which meets the expense of maintaining the tourist information booth during the vacation season, appealed for a Council grant to cover the deficit between expenses and available funds for this project.

At the time the budget was being drawn up, the Chamber asked for a $300 grant, but the amount was reduced to $100. At last week's Council sitting, a request was made for the $200 difference, which the C. of C. sorely needs.

Gabriel Valois, treasurer, was on hand to substantiate the request. According to this spokesman, the Chamber has received $500 from the provincial government, $100 from the town, and anticipates about $150 from co-operative citizens and firms, making a $750 total. However, the service will cost around $1,300 this season, leaving a $550 deficit.

"If the Chamber receives $200 from Town Council, we hope to make up the balance. It should be realized that we are fulfilling a service which, in many instances, is performed by town councils on their own initiative, with the aid of the provincial department."

The Mayor pointed out that the corporation had already voted $100 and in addition was paying for electricity used at the tourist booth. "I do not think we could do more; however, your request will be considered by the donations committee, in relation to budget expenses."

By BOB ATCHISON

As some of you know by now, the game laws that were published some time ago are "all wet". In the book we were supposed to have a deer season in Zone G (that's us) from October 19 to November 24. This would have given us six week-ends for the sport. However, in the latest press release from the Department we have lost a week-end. The latest is from October 19 to November 17. This may seem like a trivial matter to be beefing about, but to the average hunter who has only the opportunity of week-ends for the sport, it is a serious matter. Some idea of just what is happening — as usual, the wealthy clubs, etc., have all gained an extra week-end. It sure is tough we can't all be millionaires.

Our Department of Tourism and Wildlife might be better named, Department of Stupidity and Confusion; it sure does suit them. To confirm this is some of the supposed legislation they have brought down, or are thinking of. . . I thought that, with the appointment of a new head to this august body some constructive action would be taken; and it sure looked bright for the public parks with this new set-up. However, to some tourists who have travelled in some of these parks, they seem to have been pepped up for the tourist in appearance only. The old systems are still flourishing, and I wonder how long these petty grafting policies will be allowed to continue. One gentleman I talked to described personnel in the park he visited as "arrogant, stupid and childish".

Everyone wants to have tourists visit their community, not only for the good of the area, but also to improve the understanding of all peoples toward each other. Believe me, this is not going to happen in our province unless the government takes some drastic steps to clean some of these places up. Visitors may come the first time, but they sure won't return if they are ill treated, rooked, and classed as inferior species. I agree, some of our visitors may not be perfect, but we as Quebecers sure have a lot to learn in the treatment of others.

A flock of geese were spotted flying west to east the other morning. Why these birds should be flying in flocks so soon, I wouldn't know. It just could be we are going to have one very tough winter; and not only the birds seem to point this out. Nearly all the furbearing animals have very heavy coats, even the squirrels. You may remember the squirrels last year had the same thing (and I wouldn't say we had a mild winter last year!) The martins and swallows are starting to sweep up, and this is supposed to be a sign of an early fall.

• • •

I received a report of netting in the Lake Macdonald area, and passed this information along. Just out of curiosity, I followed up, to see just what is happening. First of all, the highway near the spot was a mess; and right before the driveway to the resort centre, there was at least a ton of junk scattered along the roadside. Even down towards the lake, plenty of evidence could be seen of litter-bugs. . . It's strange that people living in this area for the summer should put up with this.

• • •

You may remember last winter the skunks travelling around. Early in the spring, they seemed to have disappeared, at least, not too many of them were in evidence. But now they are more than making up for any scarcity. I have been told of these animals trying to snap at tires on passing cars. I happen to know there are a good number of them making their home on the mountain north of town. With so many in evidence, and some of them acting very strangely, it would be well to take extra care. If you see any skunks abroad, get out of their way. It is possible they may be rabid. Spraying may be obnoxious, but a bite might be a more serious matter.

• • •

Silver Lake is just about the best for trout right now. You are not going to catch too many, but the ones you do get will be good. Lake Louisa has slowed down a lot; some fair Greys are still being taken, but you will have to work for them. Trolling is a must for this lake right now. . . I heard a strange one this past week, however — two small Greys being taken in Lake Sir John. Of course, this lake was very good years ago — a long time ago — but since my residence hereabouts, I have never heard of any of this variety being taken from this lake. The Greys were not too big — indicating that they were hatched somewhere in this area, for I cannot conceive of anyone in this district planting them for someone else to catch. With the number of perch and bass in the lake now, it seems highly improbable they should have hatched naturally.

• • •

I have often suggested to people living in this area, that they should get themselves a half-dozen big Northerns or Muskies, plant them, and watch the results. I believe this would be a good way to rid the lake of unwanted fish. . . So what do you do with the Northerns and Muskies after they have done their job? The same as they did in the States: put a special season on them for the anglers, and see how long they last! I'll bet that lake would be churned to a froth at the thought of catching one of those doozers.

A report on pollution research in England reveals that one group seems to have tied in a certain type of algae that is nourished on detergents. According to the report, this algae acts very fast and kills fish and all manner of water life within hours. It certainly looks as though all civilized countries are plagued with these problems. One acquaintance, well informed on the subject, assured me that the soap and detergent manufacturers could alleviate these killers in the products very cheaply and speedily if they wished. There may be some truth to this.

I've mentioned before, you hunters should take your guns out of moth balls and try them out. Do this before you check them to see if anything is jammed in the barrel. If you are an average family man, your youngsters may have jammed a pencil down the barrel; some fun for you. But seriously, look them over — YOUR LIFE DEPENDS ON IT. Anything that seems to be wrong, get it fixed, or do it yourself. Check those sights too. Think of the other guy on the other side of the lake.

• • •

Be sure and shoot across lakes, the bullets really skip and howl going across. The cottagers won't mind; they like the noise.

Practise snap shooting; anything you see moving in the bush just now, shoot it. This will give you a much keener aim for the opening of the season.

You can also start small fires now; this will give you some idea of just how scared animals behave, and you find out the best way to shoot them.

Use telephone and electric insulators for target practice; these are very good, and who cares about interrupted service. You could try shooting the wires down too; people using the lines won't mind, and the utility companies will be pleased with the extra work.

Stick up targets on the sides of the summer cottages, it's a lot of fun hearing glass break; you'll know you hit the side of the house, anyway.

If you will only stop and consider all the hell you can raise with your guns this early in the season, you'll have a lot of fun!

Police and fire report for July

There were six fire calls in July — four of which were in the limits of Ayersville and one in St. Jerusalem.

Chief Don MacCulloch, presenting the department's monthly report to Council, also noted there had been 14 applicants for advertised positions on the fire brigade. He recommended, for a trial three-months period, the engagement of six men — Florian Raymond, J.-Yves Bertrand, Roger Thibault, Frank Barron, Emile Simard and Eugene Farmer.

• • •

The police chief, J.-L. Hebert, reported 337 service calls and 33 accidents. There were 12 arrests during the month, and revenues of $1,029.70 collected.

DUTCH ELM DISEASE

Beautiful elm trees continue to be killed by this fatal disease. The destruction this year does not appear to be as extensive as it was in 1962, but this does not mean that the epidemic has ceased; it has just slowed down for the time being. Although many woodland research organizations are eagerly searching for a method of controlling the disease, so far no cure has been found. At the present time, the only way to reduce the spread of the infection is to completely destroy all parts of a tree which has been attacked by it. This means total destruction of trunk, limbs and branches. (Elm trees are used as hardwood pulpwood in the Hawkesbury mill of the C.I.P. Co.)

Quebec weavers use many ideas

Montreal (CP) — Almost anything can be a warp or weft to the Valley Weavers of Quebec.

A warp, according to the Oxford Dictionary, is a thread stretched lengthwise in a loom to be crossed by the warp.

It is also occasionally an old intravenous tube. One enterprising weaver used these to construct a room divider for a hospital.

The Valley Weavers, an 11-woman group of weaving enthusiasts from the Sherbrooke area, use grass to make wall hangings, and bullrushes for place mats.

"There's nothing that can't be used in weaving," says their president, Mrs. Ernest Johnson.

But they generally use conventional threads in making clothing, linen, and curtains.

The group was chartered in 1961, with seven members. Membership now has risen by four, with new members required to know how to weave before joining, and to have their own looms.

The only time they weave together is at annual workshops, where new methods and designs are taught by guest instructors. The Valley Weavers hold monthly meetings to show samples of their own work, discuss technical problems, and exchange ideas.

Former resident became prominent in education

The recent death of Ronald Raymond Brigden, principal of St. Lambert Elementary School, was a severe loss not only to members of his family but to all who knew him and appreciated his contribution to education.

Mr. Brigden, son of the late W. E. Brigden and his wife Elizabeth Lanthier, was born in Calumet on October 25, 1914. He graduated from Lachute High School, Macdonald College and Queen's University.

During the second world war he enlisted in the R.C.A.F., giving up his principalship at Grenville High School.

After the war he took up the position of principal at Longueuil High School and in 1950 moved to Lennoxville where he served for four years as assistant principal at the high school. While in Lennoxville he also found time to continue serving the R.C.A.F., with the rank of Flight Lieutenant, as Chief Administrator of the Radar Training Unit in Sherbrooke. In 1954 when St. Lambert required the servies of a principal for its newly established Elementary School, Mr. Brigden was chosen to fill this position. Due to his leadership, understanding and devotion, the staff, the students and the parents were provided with rich opportunities in the field of elementary education.

Despite his heavy responsibilities he assumed many functions in his professional field. The phenomenal rise of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers' Credit Union came about as a result of his faith and persistent drive and now benefits innumerable members of the teaching profession. His keen judgment and vision provided invaluable guidance in many of the councils of educational endeavors.

He was president of the Chambly County Protestant Teachers' Association, the South Shore Interscholastic Athletic Association, a director of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers and the Assistant Chairman of the P.A.P.T. Curriculum Committee. At the Provincial Teachers' Convention in 1962 a rare honor was bestowed upon him when he was awarded the Quebec Council of Education Order of Merit, Second Degree. This official recognition is enhanced by the high esteem and great respect with which he was regarded by his many friends and associates.

Mr. Brigden, whose death occurred on June 21, was the husband of the former Jeanette Cheban, and the father of Ronalda, Malcolm and Bonnie. Also surviving him are a brother and three sisters — Woodrow, of Buckingham, Mrs. Janet Racine, of Calumet, Mrs. Henri Lessard, of Grenville, Mrs. Melvin Matthew, of St. Philippe d'Argenteuil.

Mr. Brigden was pre-deceased by a brother, Harry, in 1956; Stephen and William M., in 1962, and a sister, Mildred, in February of this year.

AID MOTORISTS

Winnipeg (CP) — The Manitoba Motor League has put a red station-wagon on the road to give week-end assistance to motorists and others in difficulties on Manitoba highways during the summer. It is on patrol Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

For amendment of by-law against Sunday dancing

The town by-law which prohibits dancing in hotel grills on Sundays and holidays, instituted by former Mayor Dr. Jules Lafleur, seems due for revision. Notice of motion was given by Ald. J.-O. Desjardins at last council meeting to amend the by-law. If this is passed at a subsequent meeting, the ban will be lifted on Sunday hotel dancing.

According to Ald. Desjardins: "We must keep Lachute people in Lachute; and Lachute money in Lachute." The changed viewpoint was sparked by Jacques Theriault, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, who pointed out that the ruling exists only in this community, and that hotels must pay $200 for a town permit besides the fee for a provincial permit.

(Apparently, hotelkeepers have been evading this law for some time past, and it was on a recent tightening of its enforcement that they saw fit to apply for its withdrawal.)

Mayor Campbell asserted that there could be no leeway or exception; a municipal law must be observed. "Council can do nothing, unless an alderman gives motion to amend the law."

Ald. François Charlebois was of the opinion that the question should be referred to the provincial authorities.

SUPPLY RABBITS

Nicolet, Que. (CP) — A newly-organized rabbit breeders' co-operative here has a contract to supply 4,000 dressed animals a week to a group of city supermarkets.

Welfare Council solidly behind work of CNIB

The Welfare Council of the Federation of Charities, St. Jerome Diocese, which has voted $9,900 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, held a meeting in Lachute last Wednesday from which the following statement was issued:

An organization known as the "Canadian Federation of the Blind" is presently making a public appeal through the mail. A number have contributed to this appeal, believing this to be the CNIB with which everyone here is familiar.

In order to avoid confusion and duplication, also to channel assistance where it will do the most good in this vicinity, the Welfare Council draws attention of the public to these facts. "To our knowledge," says the statement, "the organization making this appeal is presently doing nothing for sightless people of this area. It groups fewer than 250 blind people, in Montreal, and offers social activities, trips and outings. It supplies deodorant products at modest price, for re-sale by the blind. This is the only Quebec group under the name of 'Canadian Federation of the Blind'; there are 15 similar groups in other provinces. Sums collected appear, to us, principally devoted to their official one-language English journal 'Vision'."

The needs of the blind in this area, however, are more imperative. There are 152 blind people in the diocese — 80 in Terrebonne, 26 in Deux Montagnes, 46 in Argenteuil. These sufferers, from school-age upwards, are beneficiaries of the extensive services afforded by the Canadian National Institute of the Blind in its active program through this area.

Problems of the local sightless will be on the agenda of the Social Council at St. Jerome on September 15. Among those attending will be Messrs. Arthur Lafrance and Anthony Zaplaski, of Lachute.

Hymns sung were "What A Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me", and the 23rd Psalm, read by the Rev. George B. Hicks — having been chosen by the deceased.

Many beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which she was held, and bore witness to the sympathy of many relatives and friends. Many gathered to pay their last respects.

Pall-bearers were — her stepson, Lawrence Carpenter; nephew, Alwin Stewart; Andrew Hardie, Manly Gardiner, Arthur Gagne and Gilbert Demerse. Interment took place in the Lachute Cemetery.

LACHUTE TOWN BY-LAW

Relating to – Annexation of Part of the Parish of St. Jerusalem

Canada
Province of Quebec
Town of Lachute

At a regular session of the municipal council held at its customary place, on the seventh day of August, 1963, at which were present — His Worship the Mayor, Mr. Dave Campbell, and Aldermen Messrs. L. A. Middleton, F. Charlebois, A. Thibodeau, P. E. Pariseau, N. Lepage, J. O. Desjardins and E. McFaul, forming a quorum —

WHEREAS the Corporation of the town of Lachute desire to annex a certain section of the municipality of the Parish of St. Jerusalem;

WHEREAS the town of Lachute is presently, geographically speaking, closed in on one side by the Parish of St. Jerusalem, on the other side by the village of Ayersville, and cannot extend elsewhere and has no free land available to supply lots suitable for industrial purposes;

WHEREAS the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem comprises certain sections adjacent to the town of Lachute which have interests distinct and different from those who reside in the remainder of the municipality and which are, for all practical purposes, more of an urban character than of a rural one;

WHEREAS, for a certain number of years, the project of annexation of a part of the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to the town of Lachute has been desired for the general welfare not only of Lachute proper, but also for all the surrounding municipalities which would benefit from an industrial expansion of the town of Lachute;

WHEREAS industries desire to settle into organized towns in order to obtain all the municipal services usually found in organized towns;

WHEREAS the land presently available and free to be used for industries and located in the Parish of St. Jerusalem was never used for an industrial development for those reasons;

WHEREAS towns in the vicinity, such as Ste. Thérèse, St. Jerome, and Ste. Agathe, have rapidly increased in the last fifteen years due to the fact that those towns could offer land available for industrial establishments;

WHEREAS the valuation of the section of the municipality of St. Jerusalem which will remain after the annexation is $1,055,750.

WHEREAS the population of the section to be annexed is of 1557 and the population that will remain after the annexation in the Parish of St. Jerusalem will be 592.

WHEREAS amongst the 1557 mentioned previously, the largest number is an urban one which will be adjacent to the town of Lachute and which for all practical ends is an urban agglomeration and not a rural one;

WHEREAS a plan and a technical description for this proposed annexation were prepared by Mr. Arthur Lafrance, Quebec Land Surveyor;

WHEREAS the municipal council of the town of Lachute has received requests for the establishment of new industries in the section to be annexed providing that this section forms part of the town of Lachute;

It is ordered and decreed as follows —

(1) THAT the portion of the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem as described on the plan and in the technical description prepared by Mr. Arthur Lafrance, Quebec Land Surveyor, attached to these presents, to form part thereof as if it was incorporated, be now detached from the municipality of St. Jerusalem to be annexed and to form part in the future of the territory of the town of Lachute.

(2) THAT the division of the debts and loans existing in the Parish of St. Jerusalem and affecting the section to be annexed be made on pro-rata basis and that the corporation of Lachute assumes the liability of the payment to be made in virtue of this distribution.

(3) THAT the town of Lachute is to assume out of the general tax for the section to be annexed, the service for light and garbage disposal presently existing in the urban sections of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, without supplementary costs therein to those receiving this service.

(4) THAT the section of the territory of the municipality to be annexed form part of the existing wards of the town of Lachute according to the plan and technical description of Arthur Lafrance hereto attached as if it was incorporated;

(5) THAT the said annexation be made in conformity with the requirements of the Cities and Towns Act and subject to the required approvals.

(Attached — para. 4)
TECHNICAL DESCRIPTION

The territory presently considered comprises the West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem, in the county of Argenteuil, bounded to the North by the Township of Gore, to the South and to the South-East by the parish of St. Andrews of Argenteuil, to the East by the Parish of St. Jerusalem and to the West by the Township of Chatham, the whole with reference to the designation shown on the plan of the official cadastre; to deduct nevertheless from the said West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem the territory covered by the municipality of the town of Lachute.

More particularly, the line which circles this portion of the parish of St. Jerusalem may be described as follows:

Beginning from a point located on a line which divides the parish of St. Jerusalem from the township of Chatham and "to a location where it reaches the foot of the mountain on lot 1962-C on the official plan of the said parish, at 858 feet, English measure, from the middle of the Chatham Road to the North it circumvenes firstly to the North, to the East and to the South the Municipality of the actual Town of Lachute (references: Erection, Deschamps p. 375, and Limits, Piché p. 224) in following a direction towards the East along the foot of the mountain (to the East of the farm house of Leggo) up to its intersection on the North River; from there, following in going up the middle of the North River to a point made by the intersection of the continuation towards the North, of the East line of lot 329-A, on the said plan by the middle of the river (Morrison's Bridge); from there going towards the South along the line hereinabove mentioned, up to the highway; from there up to a point on the South side of the main above mentioned highway where it is intersected by lines dividing lots 312 and 325 on the said plan; (at Lane): from there towards the South in following the prolongation of the line hereinabove mentioned up to a point formed by its intersection with the prolongation to the East of the central line of Henry Street on Plan "B" of the parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, in a westerly direction in following the line previously mentioned to a point formed by its intersection with the middle of Isabella Street on the said plan (Barron's grove); from there, in a Southerly Direction in following the line just previously mentioned up to a point strictly East from a corner South-West of lot 1419 on the official plan and book of reference of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; (Rope factory), this point being located on lot 1406; from there, in a straight West direction across lot 1406-1402 and 1412, passing by the South West on said lot 1419 up to its intersection with the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, this last point located straight West from the South West corner of lot 1419;

Then this line runs towards the South, coinciding with the South part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Chatham, up to the South West corner of the said Parish; then it turns towards the East, then towards the North East in following the separation line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Parish of St. Andrews, up to the extreme West of lot 112-A; thence, it continues in the same direction towards the East, along the division line of lots 111 and 95 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, up to the South East corner of the said lot 111.

From this last point, it runs generally towards the North, across the Parish of St. Jerusalem that is towards the North following the division line between lots 110 and 111 up to the North East corner of lot 111; then towards the East following the separation line of lots 110 and 149 up to the South East corner of lot 149 and 150 up to the North East corner of lot 149; then towards the East following the South line of the Vide Sac Road, up to a point of intersection determined by the latter and the prolongation towards the South of a separative line between lots 265 and 268; then towards the North coinciding with the said line separating 265 and 268 and being prolonged in straight line up to a point of its intersection with the central line of the North River; then towards the North East following the central line of the North River, up to its intersection with a South East prolongation of the division line of lot 1735 and 1737; then towards the North West, the North East and the North West successively coinciding with the line dividing lots 1735 and 1736 on the one part of said lot 1737 on the other part up to the North East corner of lot 1736, corner located along the East line of "Lane's Purchase"; then towards the North following the East line of "Lane's Purchase" up to its intersection level with lot 1930, with the South East side of the public road, Lakefield Road; (Route 30); then towards the North East following the South East side of the said public road, up to its intersection with the dividing line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Gore;

From there, it runs towards the East coinciding with the Western part of the line dividing the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Gore, up to the North West corner of the said parish; then, it runs finally towards the South coinciding with the North part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, up to the starting point, which corresponds to the North West corner of the present limit of the town of Lachute.

The area hereinabove described is shown lined by a shadowy line, on a plan prepared by the undersigned dated March 15th, 1963, made to be attached to the present description; this plan is an abstract of the official plan and book of reference of the parish of St. Jerusalem and bears the same file number as these presents, namely 353.

I have prepared these presents at Lachute, P.Q., under the number three hundred and fifty-three (353) of my file, on the twenty-ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-three (1963).

BELL LINES

BELL CHIME

Don't let an expected phone call keep you indoors this summer if you have the chance to be out on the patio or in the garden. The Bell Chime — a telephone bell you can set to call you in three different tones — has a loud ring you can easily hear from outdoors. (And indoors, too, when those rainy days turn cowboys and Indians loose in the home, or when you're vacuuming up after the varmints). Coming in an attractive ivory or gold housing, Bell Chime also has a soft melodic tone when you want peace and quiet, or when someone's resting; plus a regular telephone ring.

* * *

NEVER OUT OF TOUCH

Of course, hearing the telephone ring and then being able to get to it in time are sometimes two different things, especially if you have impatient friends. A portable extension with a weatherproof jack for use outdoors can mean a telephone right beside your cool lemonade. let you enjoy it and keep in touch at the same time without running back and forth. And the same phone can serve as a handy extension inside the home as well — you just bring it in and out as you please. But when calling your friends, remember that they may be out enjoying the summer weather too — without an extension or a Bell Chime. So it's a good idea to let the phone ring even longer than the normal ten times to give them a chance to hear and answer.

* * *

HOW OTHERS DO IT

As individuals, no one wants to be taken for granted. But as Bell people, we are proud when you take good telephone service for granted, because that means we are doing our job. Telephone service, however, just isn't the same all the world over, and to prove it, here's how customers in Indonesia are told to use the phone:

"The way to use the telephone differs from town to town. In most cases you will be able to ask somebody to connect you with the wanted number. If that is possible you better not fail to do so. In case you are forced to help yourself, and the telephone is not automatic, you should ask the operator to connect you. Call the operator NONA (Miss) when you can hear she is a girl. Don't call a male operator anything. The operators are very very busy; don't push on! In case you lose your temper, the operator will connect you with a nasty colleague."

Brass - Poley

The marriage of Miss Patricia Poley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Poley, of Pierrefonds, to Mr. James Brass, son of Mr. Wm. Brass and the late Mrs. Brass, of Lachute, took place on Saturday, July 27, in a double-ring ceremony at the Mary Queen of Peace Church, Roxboro.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a cocktail-length dress of Swiss embroidered silk organza fashioned with a jewel neckline, and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a lace crown. She carried pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss Joan Evans was maid of honor and Miss Donna Poley, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of blue organza over taffeta, with matching headdresses, and carried bouquets of blue carnations.

Mr. Graham Neil was best man, and the usher was Bill Poley, the bride's brother.

Mrs. Poley, the bride's mother, wore a dress of aqua silk and taffeta with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Brass wore a blue linen dress with a lace-over-silk jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Following the reception at Ste. Geneviève Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Poley entertained relatives and guests at their home in Pierrefonds. The bride and groom left by car for Cape Cod and other parts of the United States. They will reside at Montebello.

The Bible Today

Thanks to the kindness of the National Bible Society of Scotland, the Brazilian Bible Society has been able to fit out a boat to sail the solitary reaches of the Amazon and its tributaries with the precious cargo of God's Word.

Steaming jungles crowd the muddy river that is the life-line of the whole region. It is the river which gives access to the rubber and timber plantations that are so important in the economy of the country. This mighty Amazon river rises far away in the mountains of Peru and crosses the whole region of Brazil, to push its waters far out into the Atlantic Ocean so that a man at sea can let down a bucket and taste the Amazon.

Once before, the Bible Societies operated a small boat on the Amazon river but that was a long time ago. This new ship is being used in the great evangelizing campaign. It can carry 50 tons of cargo and proudly bears the appropriate name of "The Light on the Amazon."

The Rev. João Batista da Silva is in charge of the work. He is a native of the region and is intimately-acquainted with the mighty Amazon, its riverside villages and its remoter backwaters. He lives for the chance to bring his own people the light which streams from the pages of God's Holy Book.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Do You Pray with Meaning?

Have you prayed, "Our Father in the heavens, let your name be sanctified. Let your kingdom come. Let your will take place, as in heaven, also upon earth"? What do you expect in answer to that prayer? Have you ever seriously thought about it? If that prayer were suddenly to be answered, what would this world be like? What changes would have to be made to make it a reality? If you want an authoritative answer you must go to the Bible, God's Word. The answer is there and it is fully discussed in the two books "LET YOUR NAME BE SANCTIFIED" and "YOUR WILL BE DONE ON EARTH," and you will find new meaning and satisfaction in this model prayer Jesus gave us.

Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may meet, anywhere, for copies of these two revealing books (both for $1).

Mr. Merchant, does this mean YOU?

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town:

- "No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns.
- "The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business men."
- "This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad, in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned.
- "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.
- "The man who does not advertise does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town.

Affairs of the Home and School

THE REMARKS of a Winnipeg public relations official to the annual meeting of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, are discussed in an editorial by Red Deer Advocate. He had said, "Either you are hiding your light under a bushel, or the light is too small to see anyway." This comment was based on the amount of space in newspapers and on radio and TV. He wondered if the news was too drab and dull to be reported.

We hasten to note, that this remark had no application to The Watchman's sphere of readership. Both in Lachute and Brownsburg the district Home and School Associations hold activities brimful of interest, and the news publicity on their aims and achievements is consistently well presented.

The editorial feels these remarks are too harsh, because Home and School activity in Red Deer is also far from drab and dull. But the writer warns there is need to make sure that programs are varied and, at times, controversial. Education is taking more out of the taxpaying dollar than any other single item of the municipal government, and it is only right that parents should be taking a cold, hard look at these expenses. Far too often associations make no enquiry about the details of these outlays, although on the other hand this is not their only purpose.

The editorial concludes, "There is need for Home and School discussion groups on the subject of education, and the movement should not be allowed to die for lack of enthusiasm among its members. On the other hand, if parents feel they are in the movement only because they have children in school and not because they are interested generally in the improvement of education, then they are wasting their own time as well as the Federation's."

For broader understanding

PRIME MINISTER PEARSON, on the occasion of Canada's birthday, sounded a note that should be heard around the world, or at least from Newfoundland to British Columbia. "We, more than most people," he said, "must always make a special effort to recognize that a nation is more than its parts, that there is a Canada above its regions, that there is an unhyphenated Canadianism above what is English-Canadian or French-Canadian. . ."

While we are thinking of the great difference in language between areas where English is the predominant language and regions where French is the predominant language, it might be just as well to remember that hyphenism is a disease not peculiar to a language difference — says The Printed Word, commenting on this remark.

Sometimes a foreigner in a community is someone who was born and brought up as little as 40 miles away. The Rocky Mountains are a barrier as much mental as physical. And the stay-at-homes in every province sometimes look askance at people who have the stigma of being strangers and, it has been noted, "foreigners."

Yet it is possible for the person who stays at home to keep abreast of public events even in such a peculiar country as Canada. William Lyon Mackenzie King is an example of a person who rarely stirred from the area of the national capital. He had an uncanny knowledge of what went on everywhere. Probably the greatest of travellers among Canadian prime ministers was John Diefenbaker and it could be argued by some, that his peregrinations didn't do him much good.

The main thing for Canadians, and for those of any other country, is to come to the conclusion that the man they don't know may be a nice fellow, worthy of understanding and sympathy if he gets in trouble. A great deal of harm can come from a pre-conceived idea that the person in some other line of business is up to no good.

Recently, a portion of a letter from a clergyman intimated that he would sooner buy an automobile made in Europe than one made in Canada because, as he argued, all the profits on the Canadian car went to someone in the United States. At one and the same time this letter indicated a dislike of our nearest national neighbor, a dislike of the automobile industry, and an ignorance of the fact that wages in Windsor, Oshawa, Brampton, Oakville and other places help to maintain national prosperity.

"Doing a McNamara"

IN THE RAMBLING Elgin St. building in Ottawa which houses Canada's military chieftains, a searching reappraisal of our complex and costly defence establishment is under way. Its results could be crucially important to all Canadians, writes Clive Baxter on the economic scene. On orders from Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, the service chiefs are re-examining the country's whole defence structure — scrutinizing their commitments, going over the spending budgets, and measuring the true value of the entire program to the taxpayer and to Western defence.

The current expression for engaging in this tough analysis is "doing a McNamara". As U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has demonstrated in Washington, it can be a highly useful exercise. But it also can be a painful experience for the military establishment. It may even turn out to be impossible. The problem facing any Canadian minister of defence is more or less a scaled-down version of that facing his U.S. counterpart — with one important difference: because of the size of our economy, Canada cannot afford to spread its defence effort over a wide field. To use our means effectively, we must concentrate on a limited number of responsibilities and weapons systems.

Viewpoints and perspectives

DEATHS BY DROWNING — could be cut down to almost none, says the Health League of Canada, if swimmers would observe a few rules. These rules are: never swim alone; never swim at night except in well-lighted pools; never swim after eating; and never swim when overly tired.

LACKING RELIANCE. — No one will question the principle that governments "should do for us what we cannot do for ourselves," but it is not pointless criticism to add that, since governments do nothing efficiently or economically, we should make certain that governments undertake only those things we cannot do for ourselves.
— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

SMOKER'S DILEMMA — While Health Minister Judy LaMarsh was making loud anti-cigarette noises, not a word, significantly, came from Agriculture Minister Harry Hays or from Revenue Minister John Garland, notes The Financial Post. The fact is that the government, like the smoker, is hooked by the habit. Take the Revenue Minister. His excise tax pulls in nearly $200 million a year from cigarettes and his 11% sales tax pushes the total tax take from cigarettes up to almost 6% of budgetary revenues. Or look at the plight of the Agriculture Minister. His department provides research on tobacco growing and helps guarantee loans to growers when surpluses mount. His policies very directly affect the votes of the 7,600 farmers in this $100 million-a-year industry. . . Miss LaMarsh may be able to kick the habit, but can either of her cabinet colleagues afford to do so?

LIVING LONGER. — A five-year study of 5,000 older persons in the United States showed that most older people prefer to live independently. A study by Cornell University Centre for Housing and Environment said one of every three persons aged 60 or over has a parent or other relative over 80 and that by the year 2000 the proportion will increase to two out of every three.

THE LACHUTE WATCHMAN

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 10, 1888 —

On Sunday last, five boys were arrested for swimming in the river opposite Meikle's Store. Mr. Barron, J.P., warned them that no public bathing could be allowed on Sunday, and suggested that the Town Officer have notices posted to that effect.

St. Philippe — Messrs. McGibbon Bros. of Brownsburg are completely furnishing their grist mill with new machinery, which is arriving by freight from Montreal to St. Philippe.

The west ward — after long expectation bordering on despair — is at last enjoying a good sidewalk opposite the tinshop of Mr. Jno. McNeice.

Cushing — Miss Eliza Gaston has gone to the Great Western section for the benefit of her health. A S.S. class picnic was held by Miss Gaston prior to her departure.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 15, 1913 —

Cushing — The little son of Mr. E. O. Keatley had the misfortune to break his arm. Dr. Alexander, of Lachute, was on hand in less than half an hour, making record time in his automobile.

Robert W. Service, the Yukon poet, is to marry a Parisienne.

Dalesville — Those who failed to attend the concert given by the Kinder Garden (sic) of the Sunday School, missed a rare treat.

Thomas Dawson, 81, who served in the Fenian Raid of '66 and '67, died at Mille Isles where he was one of the first settlers.

Town Council passed a motion that the water main be extended up Bethany Street to the town limits as soon as funds will permit. . . The Road Committee was instructed to go ahead with the footings for abutments under Fish's Bridge.

Dalesville — The surveying party of the G.I.P. has been removed to another part of the County.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 11, 1938 —

Six members of the Argenteuil Historical Society attended the official opening of the Fort Henry Museum. A narrative of the proceedings is given by Miss A. L. Wales, of St. Andrews East, in the current Watchman.

Samuel Cooke, born in Grenville, died in Arundel where he had resided for over 73 years.

Wm. Painter retired after 39 years of service at the Wilson Paper Mill.

Tenders for the building of a new school at Mille Isles, are called for by the secretary, George McArthur, Morin Heights.

For a thinking town such as Lachute, the question is often asked, "Where is the town clock?"

The reconstruction of Berlin as "an eternal and worthy capital" was launched with great ceremony by Chancellor Hitler.

Miss Ethel Doig of Upper Lachute, and her friend, Miss Jean Pearton of Lennoxville, enjoyed a 9,000-mile trip to California for a $61 fare — in a Chevrolet car "well past its prime".

Wood wallboard industry planned for Mont Laurier

Mont Laurier — The General Investment Corporation, set up by the provincial government to co-operate with private industrial development, has decided to help establish Quebec's first flakeboard industry.

The industry, to be known as the General Forest Products Corporation, is to be established at Lac des Iles, near Mont Laurier.

Flakeboard is made from wood chips, which are heated, coated with a paste, then pressed.

The GIC investment in the plant, built in conjunction with the J. B. Dubé Limited, is expected to be about $2,000,000. The private firm owns a paper mill at Lac des Iles.

The initiative in the project was taken by the firm, which priced modern automated flakeboard machinery made in Kachtem, Belgium.

While the modern plant would employ 36 workers, it would produce 75 tons of flakeboard a day and use 25,000 cords of wood a year.

Quebec province absorbs about 60 per cent of the Canadian demand for flakeboard in its construction industry.

Animal Care

TAKING CARE OF BIRDS

Many more people are bringing caged birds into their homes. If you decide to have one as a pet, or you have been persuaded to buy one by the children, there are a few simple rules you should follow.

One of the most popular pets in Canada is the budgerigar. Once he gets settled in the house and learns to know you, he will be extremely friendly.

When you do get a bird, make sure that his cage is big enough. It should be at least 24 by 14 by 20 inches. Let your budgerigar get used to this for a while. Place it where it can be moved into the sunlight, for short periods, and out again.

Within a day of bringing the bird home you will find that he knows and recognizes you. The process of becoming friends will be quicker if you always speak quietly and move slowly when you go near the bird, giving him ample time to rest between visits.

It is quite normal to let your bird out of the cage, making sure that all the windows and doors are closed. He will soon fly onto your outstretched finger, or your shoulder and look around inquisitively.

You just need a little gentleness and patience, so that from the very beginning there is nothing to frighten the bird.

Packaged seed mixtures offer a good balanced diet. You should provide cuttlebone and hard, sharp grit. With birds it is most essential to have clean drinking water always available and to make sure the food dishes are always clean. Water, in a shallow dish for a bath, should be provided three times a week.

A new geological publication entitled "Preliminary Report on Manitou Lake Area, Terrebonne and Argenteuil Counties", has just been authorized for distribution by the Department of Natural Resources. The report was prepared by J. I. McGerrigle for the Mineral Deposits Branch of the Department.

The area, 25 square miles, is about three miles west of Ste. Agathe-des-Monts. All the underlying rock is of Precambrian age. The Ivry mine, situated in this area, periodically extracts titaniferous iron ore composed of magnetite-ilmenite and ilmenite-hematite, this being the only type of mineralization encountered.

A dramatic new shape, the free-falling poncho, calls for vivid colors and versatile fabrics such as this floral cotton cord lining with sweatshirt fabric (terry towelling also makes an excellent lining). The same print of the poncho is repeated in the trimly styled swimsuit with hip-hugger belted trunks of cotton gabardine. Both are Vogue pattern 5843.

Attitude to the Handicapped

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"A handicapped child doesn't want anyone's pity — nor do his parents," a mother of a boy with a severe speech impediment said emphatically.

There is a vast difference between pity and compassion. Sir Geoffrey Vickers, V.C., chairman of the research committee of the British Mental Health Research Fund, at the first Canadian Conference on Children pointed out that the care of the handicapped is not a frill, measuring the affluence of a society, but a touchstone of its humanity. It is his belief that the quality of a society should be measured by the extent to which every activity of every man, woman and child is lovely, pleasant, fitting, right in itself. This is the basic justification for the compassionate care of the handicapped.

His suggestions in this field are stimulating. He insists that the "care" given by one human being to another is not to be valued in the "result" achieved in the terms of the behavior of the other. It is to be valued for itself.

It is a mistake to saddle the handicapped with the values of the normal society.

Why should the retarded be expected to find satisfaction rather than anxiety in the kind of independence which our society prescribes as admirable for the normal?

The nation and the community have a two-fold responsibility in regard to handicapped children, in Sir Geoffrey Vickers' estimation. Everything possible must be done to enable them, despite their handicap, to take up their human heritage as fully as they can. Help must be given to those whom chance has chosen for the exacting but not unrewarding job of being their parents.

The eagerness of a handicapped girl to grow and fit into life with other children, is well portrayed in "Mine for Keeps". This Little-Brown thousand dollar Canadian juvenile award book, was written by a Guelph writer, Jean Little, daughter of United Church missionaries who worked in Japan. This is a book which deserves a place on any family book shelf with growing children in the home.

The contribution to the world of gifted men and women who worked hard in spite of a severe handicap can never be measured. Beethoven's Fifth Symphony was described by Edward Morgan Forster, as the most sublime noise that ever penetrated into the ear of men. . . It was a great pleasure for us to visit Bonn and see the house where Beethoven was born and the musical instruments he played. Since returning from our trip to Germany we have read a biography of Beethoven, who in spite of deafness which descended on him at an early age, continued to create music of such wonder and beauty.

A physical handicap or an accident causing health damage, may strike an individual at any time. Rehabilitation hospitals, clinics and research, continue to restore many afflicted people to normal life. But the handicapped child, (one in every twenty families on the average) looks to his parents for comfort and guidance.

"So Briefly My Son," by Joan Neville, the mother of Ian, afflicted with Muscular Dystrophy, is a warm and beautiful account of a family living with courage and purpose.

The attitude of the child to his handicap will be colored by that of his father and mother. It will mean much to him if they can themselves be realistic and accept his condition. They need to stress not what he cannot do but the things which he can accomplish.

"DARK RYE BREAD"

Bread with a bonus

Nothing works better magic for a sandwich than slices of home-made bread; and home-made rye bread turns a plain cheese sandwich into a gourmet's delight.

With yeast being such a stable product nowadays, plus the step-by-step instructions in today's recipe, bread is as easy to make as one's favorite cake.

This recipe specifies dark rye flour, although the light rye flour may be substituted for it. The rye flour and molasses give the bread its dark hue and special flavor.

While this rich dark bread is delicious when thinly sliced and spread with butter or margarine and jam, its full flavor really pairs well with savory sandwich fillings — such as Double Deviled Sandwiches. These are double-deckers using deviled ham for one layer and a deviled egg salad mixture for the second.

Dark Rye Bread

(Yield — 2 loaves)

½ Cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope fast-rising active dry yeast, 2 tablespoons lightly-packed brown sugar, ¼ cup molasses, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 tablespoon salt, 1½ cups boiling water, 3½ cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 2 cups once-sifted dark rye flour, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon water.

Measure lukewarm water. Stir in the 1 teaspoon granulated sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Meantime, place the brown sugar, molasses, shortening and salt in a large mixing bowl; stir in boiling water and cool to lukewarm. Add and stir in 1½ cups of the all-purpose flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Mix in dissolved yeast. Add the rye flour and mix well. Work in sufficient additional all-purpose flour to make a stiff dough — about 1½ cups more. Turn out dough onto floured board or canvas. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place dough in a greased bowl. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until almost doubled in bulk — about 1 hour. Punch down dough in bowl and again let rise until almost doubled in bulk — about ½ hour. Punch down dough. Turn out onto lightly-floured board or canvass and knead until smooth. Divide dough into two equal portions. Shape into balls. Cover and let rest 15 minutes. Knead and shape the dough into 2 loaves about 9 inches long. Place on greased baking sheet. Cover with a tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until almost doubled in bulk — about ½ hour. Combine egg yolk and the 1 tablespoon water. Brush on loaves. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Double-Deviled Sandwiches

(Makes 6 open-face sandwiches)

6 Hard-cooked eggs, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 green onions (chopped), salt and pepper, 1 4½-ounce tin deviled ham, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 6 tablespoons soft butter or margarine, 6 ¼-inch-thick slices dark rye bread (or 3 hamburger buns, split), crisp lettuce, dill pickles.

Coarsely chop hard-cooked eggs; blend in mayonnaise, chopped green onion and salt and pepper to taste.

Blend together deviled ham, mustard and butter or margarine. Spread thickly over rye bread slices or on cut surfaces of split hamburger buns. Cover each with a crisp lettuce leaf. Pile egg salad mixture on top of lettuce, dividing it evenly among the six ham-covered bread or bun sandwich bases. On each, arrange a trim of fanned-out slivers of dill pickle. Serve on plates with knives and forks. If desired, garnish with tomato wedges, carrot sticks and celery curls.

Of Many Things

SENSE OF VALUES

Lately I have been disturbed about the amount of money I am spending. It seems to pour out much faster than it is coming in. I suppose I am not alone in this lament. Anyone who isn't aware that we are in an age of inflation must be spending someone else's money.

Yet I know, when I look around me, that I am partly to blame. I grouse about prices, but I pay them. Pay them because I "just have to have" this or that new gadget, or service, or entertainment. Not that I am snared into these desires by smart advertising or huckstering; I am, like so many of my friends, a pushover for anything new and shiny, and always have been.

It is conceivable, however, that with a little bit of self-discipline and restraint, we could cut down by at least fifteen percent. We don't need cases of soft drinks for a week-end; we could mix up some lemonade. There are still good buys in various food staples that, while not fancy, are sustaining. Now that our province (Manitoba) has heaped another tax on smokers, we could cut down without harm to health. Our youngsters could have made last summer's bathing suits do if they'd had to. There are other corners we could cut.

The time will come when a number of us will resist higher prices for anything we can do without. And we can resist a good many of the luxuries that governments keep heaping on us at great expense. Taxes to pay for these things are, to a surprisingly large extent, responsible for high prices. Only when there is a great hue and cry such as that which arose over the 11% tax on building materials are we fully aware of it.

I cannot say that I am quite ready to be as frugal as I should be. But I serve notice now that I am just about ready to start saying no to a number of things; and I suspect there are many Canadians at about the same stage. If we all begin to assert ourselves at the same time, there'll be a good number of sales not made and a great pile of taxes not collected. For example, when I decide to build a home I will not want to be paying 11% for taxes to provide me with some unknown service. I'll want to know precisely what I am buying.

Governments all seem to have the notion that we will go on paying and paying forever, in the name of progress. Maybe we will. Maybe we have all lost our sense of values. I hope not.

Fresh peaches are on the market again — a welcome dessert, whether raw or cooked in pies and puddings, or frozen desserts.

"Canada No. 1" on the container is assurance that the peaches have been handpicked and sized and are sound, of uniform maturity and good color for the variety.

Fully-ripe peaches should be stored in the refrigerator. Those under-ripe should be kept at room temperature until ripe enough for use.

The home economists of the federal agriculture department have developed several new peach desserts which are nourishing and simple to make.

The most cool and refreshing is frozen peach fluff. To make it, chill one cup of evaporated milk in a refrigerator 20-25 minutes, until soft ice crystals form through the milk. Then pour the milk into a cold bowl, add one-half teaspoon lemon juice and beat until stiff.

Peel four or five peaches and press through a coarse strainer to make a puree. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and one-half cup sugar and fold into the whipped milk. Pour into a refrigerator tray and freeze to a mush. Then beat again with a fork and freeze until firm. Garnish with sliced peaches when serving.

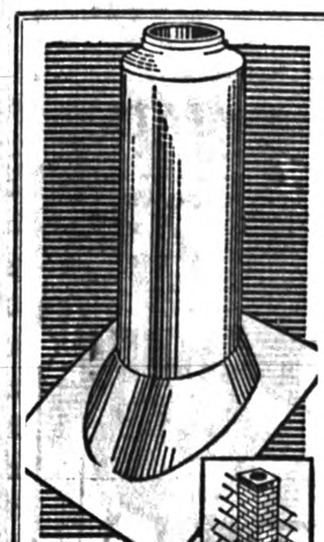

Creamy Custard

For a subtly-flavored peach custard, slice six large peaches and sprinkle with lemon juice. Then pour two tablespoons of sherry over the peaches, let them stand for half an hour and drain, saving the juice.

Beat three egg yolks and one-quarter cup sugar until creamy and pour 1½ cups scalded milk over the yolk mixture.

Combine 1½ tablespoons of cornstarch with one-quarter cup milk, stir it into the custard, then cook over simmering water in a double boiler until thickened. Cool slightly and add the juice from the peaches.

Finally, pour the custard in an oven dish and arrange the peaches over it. Pile a meringue — three egg whites, a dash of salt and six tablespoons sugar — on top and brown at 425 degrees Fahrenheit for about five minutes. Chill before serving.

New process for tenderizing beef

A new process has been developed for tenderizing and age-flavoring fresh beef cuts in a matter of hours, the National Provisioner reports. The "Custom-Ager" process tenders and flavors the beef within 48 hours to achieve characteristics normally obtained with 21 days of cooler aging.

The chilled beef is heated to an internal temperature of about 72°F. A solution carrying spores of thamnidium is sprayed on the meat. Thamnidium is a mold normally found on meat surfaces and is considered to impart the characteristic aged flavor. The thamnidium-induced flavor penetrates through and is retained by the meat.

Strange as it may seem, the inclement weather of St. Swithin did not affect attendance at the Argenteuil Historical Society's annual garden party. After a week of dreary rain which continued through Saturday, the day of this event, members and their friends seemingly found relief from being confined to their homes, and turned out in larger numbers than last year, when delightful weather prevailed.

Additional exhibits acquired at the Museum during the past year, displayed in added glass showcases, claimed the visitors' attention. The program of interior re-decoration which has been carried out by this year's building committee (Fraser Watson and Gilbert Arnold, Jr.) received favorable comment.

Mr. Mac E. Walker, vice-president of the Society, warmly welcomed the members and their guests and invited them to a lecture by Dr. G. R. Rigby, illustrated by colored slides projected by Mr. Leslie Davies.

As frequently mentioned, the Carillon Museum has been designated a "Historic Site" by the National Historic Monuments Board, and the installation of a bronze plaque on the building is anticipated, to commemorate the part which this building, and the people of this district, played in the early navigation of the Ottawa River with its portages, canals and its railway from Carillon to Grenville.

Dr. Rigby chose these important historical features as the subject matter of his address, "The Flooded Ottawa River". In a brief period of residence here, since he became ceramics chemist of the Canadian Refractories Limited, Dr. Rigby has been noted for his colorful photography on many subjects. On this occasion he selected slides which illustrated the changing story of the Ottawa River. First as a trade route, including portages and water travel for the huge canoes of the Northwest Company travelling from Montreal to Michilimacinac, their intermediate depot. Canoes propelled by the strong arms of lusty voyageurs, whose voices "kept chime as their paddles beat time" to their French Canadian boat songs, these great trading craft circumvented the Long Sault Rapids by use of an inner channel behind small islands, and a series of man-made connections long known as Treadwell's Trenches, after their surveyor-originator.

Dr. Rigby's series of pictures of this earliest navigation route, is the only pictorial record in existence, and at some later date should be acquired by the Dominion Archives.

The lecturer then passed to the second stage, when the first set of canals was built about 1825. Built by a regiment of Royal Engineers, many of whose names are perpetuated in this area, living quarters for the personnel were the first necessity. A barracks was built, which through a varied history as barracks, freight warehouse and hotel, finally became the Argenteuil County Museum, thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Hungerbuhler of St. Andrews. Viewers of the museum enjoy a visit to its depths, which include the cookery and the jail in which malefactors were incarcerated.

The third stage of his address illustrated and explained the new Canal system of 1875, with a lock width of 26'6" to accommodate the 26 ft. cribs into which the square timber rafts were split for navigation from the Upper Ottawa area to the ships of the British timber buyers at Quebec. These 26'6" locks were the same width as those of the Rideau locks, to provide uniform passage throughout the complete route. Some slides showed lockmasters' houses and other important buildings along the canals, such as those of Owen's Store, "Ship's Chandlers", of Greece's Point — a vocation of the past.

The final part of Dr. Rigby's lecture showed the most recent development of the Ottawa, the creation of a great power dam, ship lock, and huge reservoir of "Lac des Ormeaux". He closed with a series of beautiful sunset pictures reflected in the waters of this new, man-created lake.

A vote of thanks was proposed to Dr. Rigby by Mr. Peter Walker.

After an afternoon of sightseeing of the historical inanimate exhibits, and then through colored scenes which became almost animate by Dr. Rigby's descriptions — the guests were invited to the main floor to enjoy afternoon tea, served by a ladies' group from Cushing.

Had the weather been suitable for outdoor entertainment, the House Committee (Mrs. N. Holland, Miss F. M. Douglas and Miss A. Davidson), who had arranged this event, had planned to provide musical entertainment by members of the Glengarry Pipe Band under leadership of Dr. Gamble, of Vankleek Hill.

Motorists in the Laurentians, and north of Lachute, report the foliage already changing color — a too-early harbinger of autumn.

Designed and developed five years ago by two French-Canadian sportsmen, Roger and Theophile Goulet, of Rouyn, who convinced two local businessmen of its possibilities, the Hus-Ski snow traveller early last week went into production in a Pointe Claire plant. The vehicle, which was originally created for Canada's northland, so impressed Jim and Colin McOuat of Lachute, with its manoeuverability and safety factors compared to similar vehicles, that McOuat Investments took over from the Goulets, hired the necessary engineers and staff, who made modifications to the original machine, and after more than a year of development and testing under both summer and winter conditions, put the machine into production in Hespeler, Ontario. The first machine came off the assembly line in December of last year, only a few months after the final approval had been given.

Promoted by local initiative and detailed on local drawing boards

The reason for the Ontario location was one of necessity due to the time element involved, according to the McOuat boys, who pointed out they had to locate where both facilities and the necessary heavy machinery could be rented. McOuat Investments was fortunate in leasing a portion of a large manufacturing concern, which at that time was not in full production. In addition to these requirements, a skilled and experienced labor force was needed from the beginning.

Last winter — the first season for Hus-Ski — saw the majority of machines sold in Quebec, and with the coming of spring, controlling interest in Hus-Ski Ltd. was sold to Johnson Wire Products Limited, a firm experienced in manufacturing and production of all kinds, who in addition have an international sales force.

Distributors for Hus-Ski snow travellers for Central and Eastern Ontario, Quebec and a major portion of the Maritimes, are Jim and Colin McOuat, through their Pioneer Chain Saws Inc. company. Local distribution is being handled by yet another McOuat concern, Farmers' Supply Company Ltd.

McOuat Investments were first attracted to the possibilities of the Hus-Ski with the thought it could be powered with a Pioneer Chain Saw motor. Original testing ruled this out, however, and continued experiments came up with a more powerful two-stroke engine, which this season will be available in either the 8 h.p. 200 series or the 9.5 h.p. 400 series. The tractor weighs 270 pounds the sled 52 pounds, and the overall length is 115 inches. The standard machine can attain a speed of 28 m.p.h., but faster speeds can be attained with modifications. The machine is capable, under good conditions, of driving 40 miles on one gallon of fuel (gasoline and oil). A number of accessories are also available for either of the models.

To aid evangelical work in the North

First of the new Hus-Ski "200"s to be produced on the new assembly line and bearing the serial number 20,000, was presented to the Rt. Rev. J. A. McDonagh, of Toronto, president of the Catholic Church Extension Society of Canada. It will be shipped to the Eskimo settlement of Povungnituk in northern Labrador to be used by the Rev. J. Meeus, O.M.I., to cover one of the longest, coldest missionary lines in the world.

The presentation was made by Hus-Ski Ltd. president O. R. Brumell, P.Eng., who expressed the hope that with his new snow traveller the northern missionary would be able to cover his vast territory more quickly and in more comfort than by dog team. While Hus-Ski snow travellers are manufactured mainly for recreational use, he said, their practical applications in the Canadian North are vividly demonstrated by the needs of Arctic missions.

Northern Quebec and Labrador, described by the Labrador Missions Office in Montreal as among the most destitute countries in the world, are also among the most difficult to serve. "We have called this mission the newest last 'frontier' in Canada," Monsignor McDonagh said. "No one could have foreseen the importance of this land and the immensity of its wealth which would reward the church or institution which would pioneer here, both in soul and material resources. We now have Schefferville, named after Bishop Scheffer, O.M.I., and it has a population of 3,178 inhabitants. Out of this place, hundreds of miles up a railway leading to the great ore country of Eastern Quebec and Labrador, spiritual lines are being thrown out which are intended to evangelize a half-million square miles. It was here that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip descended by airplane to make first contact with developing Canada. Here, great mining companies are setting up agencies to exploit the immense riches of the Burnt River and other discoveries which are perhaps almost untouched."

Monsignor McDonagh referred then to one of the many missionaries serving this area. "Rev. J. Meeus," he said, "travelled 350 miles by dog-team to replace his confrere at Povungnituk. Now, with a Hus-Ski snow traveller, he will no longer be so isolated." Monsignor McDonagh referred to the close co-operation between Catholic and Protestant missionaries, especially those of the Anglican Church, in evangelization of the North.

Two drownings in district during past week

On Monday evening of last week, Michelle Mapp, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mapp, of Kilmar, was drowned in a creek at Boileau, Papineau County, near Lac Commandant. It is believed the child struck her head on a rock as she slipped into the water. The victim was walking with her father on an uncle's farm, when the accident occurred.

She is survived by two brothers and four sisters. Funeral services were held Thursday at Kilmar, interment being made in the Grenville Cemetery.

Sixteen-year-old Robert Langlais, whose parents reside in Montreal, was drowned Sunday afternoon in a small artificial lake on Lachute Road, near St. Andrews East. The lake is situated on the property of Jean-Baptiste Raymond, and the youth was attending the Retarded Children's School at St. Andrews.

The mishap occurred shortly before four o'clock in the afternoon, when the victim plunged into the water. He came to the surface twice, the second time shouting to his friends, and then disappeared. The body was recovered after about two hours of searching, in six feet of water. The dam of the artificial lake had to be opened, due to difficulty of finding the body in the muddy water.

Q.P.P. Officer Sam Kille, who investigated the mishap, stated that joint district coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie had given a verdict of accidental death due to drowning.

Notables pose with local representatives

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson was guest speaker at the 31st annual meeting of the French-language Weekly Newspapers Association held at Murray Bay, August 15-16-17. The Rt. Hon. Mr. Pearson is here photographed with the Hon. Lionel Bertrand, Minister of Tourism, and with representatives of "L'Argenteuil" from Lachute, Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Berthiaume and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Church.

"APART WE WOULD LOSE OUR SEPARATE CULTURES" —

P.M. urges French publishers avoid dangers of extremism

Lachute delegates at annual meet of Fr.-language press

Prime Minister Lester Pearson warned French and English-speaking Canadians that they will lose their struggle against "the invasion of American culture and capital" if Confederation breaks up. In an address at Murray Bay last Saturday, he said both language groups face common threats to their cultural identities from the unavoidable "American encroachment."

He appealed to Canadians to reject "the dangerous counsel of extremism" — Quebec separatism, and an American annexation sentiment among some English-speaking groups. . . "Apart, we would lose our separate cultures," he said. French-Canadians and their English-speaking countrymen would safeguard their economic and political influence only by drawing closer together to build a true and equal partnership.

Speaking equally in both languages before 300 French-speaking weekly newspaper editors, Mr. Pearson went to unusual lengths to argue against Quebec independence.

He indicated he felt that a Quebec republic could not long resist annexation or complete domination by the United States, and that the same fate would befall the English-language provinces if a split occurred.

"Some Canadians are beginning to ask themselves, 'why should we worry about saving Canada from an American invasion if we don't believe in a Canada to be saved, a Canada which is greater than its parts?'

"I believe that there is such a Canada, of which we should all be proud to be citizens — whether we speak French or English."

The Prime Minister said Canadian unity is going through a difficult period. Both language groups were resisting outside pressure against their cultural and economic identities, and this eventually would unite them more firmly:

Quebec was a "motherland, a heartland" for nearly 1,000,000 French-Canadians living in the other nine provinces, while being the home of several hundred thousand English-speaking Canadians.

Only a strong central government could "revive" the Canadian economy and maintain the powerful influence of Canadians in world affairs.

Quebec's cultural and economic aspirations could only be developed in a healthy Confederation.

He pledged that his government will do its best to improve French-English relations.

H'ksby company, C.I.P. subsidiary, changes name

Hawkesbury, Ont. — Industrial Cellulose Research Limited, one of the world's leading pulp and paper research organizations, has changed its name to International Cellulose Research Limited — according to announcement this week by W. G. Dodge, president.

The new name is designed to identify I.C.R. more clearly with its parent company, Canadian International Paper Company.

Mr. Dodge stated that the change would not alter corporate organization, nor affect research methods, projects, personnel or services.

The research laboratories were established in 1923 when the need was recognized for research on a substantial scale to serve the viscose industry and to win large markets for wood cellulose. The objective was an organization of experts in pulp and viscose technology working closely with associates in fundamental and applied research. I.C.R. was incorporated as a company in 1948.

At Hawkesbury, in addition to research in the field of dissolving pulps, attention is directed to specialty pulps and allied products. Branch laboratories are at Gatineau and Pte.-aux-Trembles.

MEETING HELD IN ARUNDEL, QUE. —

Prot. Colonization Society adopts constitution, to apply for charter

Growing interest in the work of colonization and land settlement in the Laurentians, was shown by the increased attendance at a meeting of the Laurentian Protestant Colonization Society in Arundel last Saturday evening. In spite of the inclement weather, some 15 farmers and business men from the various sections of Argenteuil County turned out and took part in the discussions.

Principal business of the meeting was the preparation and adoption of a constitution for the Society, and assisting greatly in its preparation was Mr. Antoine Cimon, Q.C., legal advisor to the Department of Agriculture and Colonization of Quebec. With his help the constitution was drawn up in proper form, and application for a charter, with the needed signatures, was made.

In the absence of the provisional president, Mr. E. J. Boyd, of Arundel, vice-president Homer Cooke presided. After some discussion it was decided that regular monthly meetings would now be held on the second Tuesday of each month.

Among those who spoke briefly were Mr. Melvin Graham, of Arundel High School; T. G. Sevigny, president of the Federation of Quebec Protestant Colonization and Settlement Societies; and O. R. Evans, executive secretary of the Federation.

In the election of officers to succeed those provisionally appointed at last meeting, Mr. Homer Cook, of Arundel, became president. Mr. Keith McCaig, of R.R. 5, Lachute, representing the Two Mountains district, was elected vice-president, and H. Stuart Cooke will continue as secretary-treasurer.

Two Red Cross juniors attend course in N'fld

Two youths from this community are representing the Junior Red Cross school groups among 22 young members from Quebec Province at the leadership training seminar in St. John's, N'fld. The two students — Peter Rodger of Lachute High School (going into Grade X) and Brian Richardson of Brownsburg High School (to enter Grade XI next term) — left with the group from Dorval Airport Tuesday, 13th, for the 10-day conference, concluding August 23. They are in residence at Bowater House of the Memorial University, where the training centre is being held.

The Quebec group was accompanied by three Red Cross teacher-sponsors, one English-speaking and two French-speaking.

This is the ninth such Centre for teenagers from the eastern area, and the first time that Newfoundland's Red Cross has been able to offer them hospitality. Some 90 delegates, sponsored by their respective high schools, are attending from the four Atlantic provinces and Quebec. The American JRC sent six delegates to the Centre, two of the American guests joining the Quebec group in Montreal.

The purpose of the Red Cross Training Centre is to enable a group of high school students and teacher-sponsors to study all aspects of Red Cross work and, through group participation, to learn and practice leadership skills so as to lead active Red Cross Branches in their respective high schools. It will also enable all students to exchange ideas, make new friends and give opportunity to develop community-minded citizens.

The program includes lectures, discussions, and activity periods to give a better understanding of Red Cross. Special visits are made to historic sites, and a week-end of home hospitality with Newfoundland families. A garden party was held Tuesday of this week for senior citizens and crippled children.

Attending from the two local high schools, Peter Rodger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rodger, of Rivière-Rouge, and Brian Richardson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richardson, Brownsburg.

By BOB ATCHISON

At long last, notice is being paid to our pollution problems. I have been agreeably surprised at the number of stories carried by national newspapers and magazines this past little while. Now maybe the governments concerned will start to do something for our general good. I know some of the smaller towns are trying, and are doing, something about this, but the larger cities continue to dump sewage and refuse into our waters.

Pollution is not only detergents, either, so we don't have to get smug about this. Admittedly these chemicals do damage untold, but basically, human beings are responsible for most pollution and until they can get it into their heads that something has to be done, there will be no appreciable improvement. Certainly we want industry in our midst, but don't let's get big-hearted about everything. They must conform to health standards also. All over the country we have water boards, all acting independently of others, so that nothing much will ever come of their work. But get them all tied in together, then governments have to listen and ACT concertedly.

Coming down to our own provincial board, this has never had, and never will have, power to enact legislation on water pollution against local authorities. True, the small citizen does get nailed, as is often the case. However, people are starting to wake up to the fact that nothing substantial is being done by this board. Giving due credit, Dr. Prevost and Dr. Gosselin have tried to do a job, but little can be achieved in a political set-up of this kind.

Already there are reports of gunners out on the river, after the ducks which nested in this area. They're starting early this year! The North River is not the only place being shot over right now; the Ottawa is also being "worked", and all the lakes are being hit by these jokers too. If this keeps up, there will be no duck shooting for the legitimate hunters who pay the rap for these men. Killing out of season has always been a business in this province, and I suppose always will be, but isn't it about time the authorities smartened up to the fact that we will have nothing to shoot at within a very short time? One of these days we'll be hearing the harangue from Quebec, that poaching is going to be "a thing of the past". Some promise!

I was told that deer are already on the market, for a price. Our County seems to be well endowed with this scum. Why? Along with a lot of others, I sure would like to know the answer. Maybe there's some protective providence abroad.

Fishing is still exceptional, in this whole area. Silver Lake has given some good catches this past week. Lake Louisa is slow, and this will no doubt continue for some time. However, this lake should pay off for the fall anglers, that I am sure of. The streams have started to produce too; this pleases me, and a number of creek fishermen in the district. Very good doré are starting to hit in the North River; the largest I have heard of was 7 lbs. — taken on a June Bug spinner with worms trailing behind; a good fish.

An unexpected visitor: While on Main Duck Island we had the pleasure of meeting a Mr. Montgomery from Buffalo; last week we had a visit from this gentleman and his wife. You know, after four years or so, meeting up with a fellow sportsman again is a wonderful "reviver". Memories of Main Duck were our prime topic of interest.

Another report on our panthers — this, as far as I am concerned, very authentic. The female with one pup was seen very closely, so there was no doubt on its identification. Lynx are in goodly number, and I hope they continue that way. I have heard reports of them being shot; this, to me, is poor policy. This species are NOT dangerous to humans, and for that matter to domesticated animals. As long as they have rabbits for prey, they will not bother civilization. No wild animal will, in fact, and the lynx is no exception. Far too many people think that any wild animals will instinctively attack humans. This is far from true, they are so anxious to get away from man, the mighty killer, that they will do anything to achieve this end.

Conservation is a much overworked word, but just how often is it practised? Without hesitation we will spray our crops and gardens with poisonous insecticides, but never think what damage these are doing, not only to the bugs, but to birds and wildlife — there's no knowing where it stops. I guess some of you will have read the story of Tree Spraying — the spray being held in the air long enough to kill cattle and make humans very sick.

Hunter education is again making the headlines, in Ontario at least. We cannot, of course, expect this in Quebec; but it will be a great discovery when some authority decides that far too much killing has been "permitted" in this province and it must stop. You may recall, regulations that were going to be enforced last spring, was a hot topic along government row; but as you know now, this was just talk. (The latest in the hokum series is the appointment of a gun expert to be at the disposal of clubs and sporting groups.) .. "Accidental", that word much used for killings in the bush, is to me just an endorsement of the needless toll of life.

* * *

The Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations have sent a questionnaire to all member clubs. Looking it over, I see it has just about covered everything. In one paragraph they state (quote): "It is obvious that every citizen ought to do everything in his power, not only to preserve but also to assure that our present potential will be increased; and it is a possibility if all the interested parties bring their co-operation." (End of quote). That is, I'm sure, the hope of every member of these associations. The way it is now, however, should read something like this: "It is the hope that everyone will clean out everything for the benefit of us humans." You may joke about this, but the average citizen does not give a damn about breaking the game laws. A statement I hear continually is, "The fishing is not what it used to be." It sure doesn't take much brain-power to figure out why, either; Bigger and better poachers so-called sports who think it's great to catch 70 trout by whatever means are available, then throw them in the garbage because they're too lazy to clean them. (That is no joke, either.) In hunting or fishing, it's all the same. Too bad the animals couldn't shoot back!

Animal Care

In addition to budgerigars there are a variety of other birds that are kept as pets, with canaries and love birds being nearly as popular.

The larger birds in the parrot family often turn out to have the most interesting characters of their own. Macaws, about the largest birds you can keep at home, need very large cages, something about three feet square.

Parrots can be fed on sunflower seeds as a staple food but they will eat a variety of food. They need green leaves which should always be given to them dry, not wet as they come from cleaning under the tap. Apple, banana, crackers and similar items should be given as "treats" and not regularly.

The larger birds in the parrot-like family are susceptible to colds and draughts. It is an excellent idea to cover the cage each night with a cloth so that the bird can go to sleep at its natural time, sundown, and is protected from those draughts.

Birds get sick in the same way as any other animal. The first thing to do, if your bird seems listless, is to move the cage to a warmer spot (not directly in the sunlight which, if it is coming through a window, can be far too hot) and cover it with cloth, allowing the bird to rest. Make quite sure that the food dishes are clean and there is fresh water.

If the bird does not revive you should consult your veterinarian. He will be able to distinguish the illness and suggest the right treatment.

Gérin-Lajoie 'educates' public on Ministry of Education bill

QUEBEC THIS WEEK

By John Yorston,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — The political spotlight, which glared so brightly on René Levèsque last summer, has been switched to Paul Gérin-Lajoie as he campaigns for an Education Ministry in Quebec.

This time a year ago, the province was in a tizzy as the government groped towards a decision on the power take-over issue. The man in the middle was voluble, colorful René Levèsque, the energetic Natural Resources minister.

Now the man being watched is Mr. Gérin-Lajoie, the Youth minister, not voluble, not so colorful, but just as energetic.

He opened his campaign on behalf of the bill establishing an Education Ministry with an eight-day tour of the Lower St. Lawrence and Gaspé regions. He was in the Lake St. John district and Northern Quebec. Later he will visit parts of the Eastern Townships.

The tours were decided upon, apparently, to counteract the effect of noisy protests against an Education Ministry from some quarters. The theory behind the tours, his advisors say, is that offence is the best defence.

But the tours have also served to put Mr. Gérin-Lajoie in the public eye. At 43, the constitutional expert — and future Education Minister — is one of the main props of Premier Jean Lesage's cabinet. And he is often called "Le Dauphin" — the man most likely to succeed the premier.

Like Mr. Levèsque, he has a reputation as an excellent administrator and he too has surrounded himself with able young men who have worked out many of the new education policies being introduced in Quebec. He is also an able debater and good speaker, although not generally rated as an orator. In public he is calm, self-possessed, almost distant. His speeches appear more logical than oratorical.

During his tours, he opened question-and-answer periods after each of his talks, a method rarely seen in Quebec politics and which caused some concern among a few of his colleagues. But he has handled the question period with ease. One of his answers evoked an admiring "He's pretty good" from a woman who asked a tough question about the place of religious teaching under the new Education Ministry.

This is one of the aspects which Mr. Gérin-Lajoie emphasizes in his cross-province campaign, which he says he will continue "without respite." He says that religious teaching will be supervised by the Roman Catholic and Protestant Committee of the Superior Council of Education, an advisory body to be created when the department is established. The Council will have the power of decision in religious matters.

The minister will do the deciding on other aspects of courses and education. But the Council will be there to advise him, and he says he doesn't see how an Education minister could go against the Council's advice.

Mr. Gérin-Lajoie also emphasizes that the present educational system has grown up helter-skelter and basically unchanged in the last 100 years. There are too many separate authorities and no final authority in education. As a result the student is the one who suffers most.

The Ministry, he hammers home, will provide co-ordination at the tip of the educational pyramid. The minister himself will have the "final and unique" responsibility for education.

Establishment of the Ministry was recommended by the Parent Royal Commission. Its report was followed by a bill creating the department. But it was shelved until the coming legislature session to give interested groups a chance to go over it and suggest any changes. The government says modifications will be in details, not in principles.

Mr. Gérin-Lajoie, after his swing through the Gaspé, says he feels "the mass of the people" want the Ministry. "I am a little surprised that so many people are interested in it," he said.

The cabinet ministers visited the Commissioner General recently in his Place Ville Marie office to discuss plans for the 1967 World Exhibition. The Hon. J. P. Deschatelets was particularly interested in the exhibition facilities to be installed on St. Helen's Island and Notre Dame Island, while the Hon. Mr. Lévesque showed particular interest in the Exhibition's theme, "Man and his World", "Terre des Hommes". The visual expression of that theme, he felt, would help to make a definite distinction between the 1967 Montreal Exhibition and other World Fairs.

LACHUTE TOWN BY-LAW

Relating to – Annexation of Part of the Parish of St. Jerusalem

Canada
Town of Lachute

At a regular session of the municipal council held at its customary place, on the seventh day of August, 1963, at which were present — His Worship the Mayor, Mr. Dave Campbell, and Aldermen Messrs. L. A. Middleton, F. Charlebois, A. Thibodeau, P. E. Pariseau, N. Lepage, J. O. Desjardins and E. McFaul, forming a quorum —

WHEREAS the Corporation of the town of Lachute desire to annex a certain section of the municipality of the Parish of St. Jerusalem;

WHEREAS the town of Lachute is presently, geographically speaking, closed in on one side by the Parish of St. Jerusalem, on the other side by the village of Ayersville, and cannot extend elsewhere and has no free land available to supply lots suitable for industrial purposes;

WHEREAS, for a certain number of years, the project of annexation of a part of the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to the town of Lachute has been desired for the general welfare not only of Lachute proper, but also for all the surrounding municipalities which would benefit from an industrial expansion of the town of Lachute;

TECHNICAL DESCRIPTION

The territory presently considered comprises the West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem, in the county of Argenteuil, bounded to the North by the Township of Gore, to the South and to the South-East by the parish of St. Andrews of Argenteuil, to the East by the Parish of St. Jerusalem and to the West by the Township of Chatham, the whole with reference to the designation shown on the plan of the official cadastre; to deduct nevertheless from the said West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem the territory covered by the municipality of the town of Lachute.

More particularly, the line which circles this portion of the parish of St. Jerusalem may be described as follows:

Beginning from a point located on a line which divides the parish of St. Jerusalem from the township of Chatham and "to a location where it reaches the foot of the mountain on lot 1962-C on the official plan of the said parish, at 858 feet, English measure, from the middle of the Chatham Road to the North it circumvenes firstly to the North, to the East and to the South the Municipality of the actual Town of Lachute (references: Erection, Deschamps p. 375, and Limits, Piché p. 224) in following a direction towards the East along the foot of the mountain (to the East of the farm house of Leggo) up to its intersection on the North River; from there, following in going up the middle of the North River to a point made by the intersection of the continuation towards the North, of the East line of lot 329-A- on the said plan by the middle of the river (Morrison's Bridge); from there going towards the South along the line hereinabove mentioned, up to the highway; from there up to a point on the South side of the main above mentioned highway where it is intersected by lines dividing lots 312 and 325 on the said plan; (at Lane): from there towards the South in following the prolongation of the line hereinabove mentioned up to a point formed by its intersection with the prolongation to the East of the central line of Henry Street on Plan "B" of the parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, in a westerly direction in following the line previously mentioned to a point formed by its intersection with the middle of Isabella Street on the said plan (Barron's grove); from there, in a Southerly Direction in following the line just previously mentioned up to a point strictly East from a corner South-West of lot 1419 on the official plan and book of reference of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; (Rope factory), this point being located on lot 1406; from there, in a straight West direction across lot 1406-1402 and 1412, passing by the South West on said lot 1419 up to its intersection with the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, this last point located straight West from the South West corner of lot 1419;

Then this line runs towards the South, coinciding with the South part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Chatham, up to the South West corner of the said Parish; then it turns towards the East, then towards the North East in following the separation line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Parish of St. Andrews, up to the extreme West of lot 112-A- thence, it continues in the same direction towards the East, along the division line of lots 111 and 95 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, up to the South East corner of the said lot 111.

From this last point, it runs generally towards the North, across the Parish of St. Jerusalem that is towards the North following the division line between lots 110 and 111 up to the North East corner of lot 111; then towards the East following the separation line of lots 110 and 149 up to the South East corner of lot 149 and 150 up to the North East corner of lot 149; then towards the East following the South line of the Vide Sac Road, up to a point of intersection determined by the latter and the prolongation towards the South of a separative line between lots 265 and 268; then towards the North coinciding with the said line separating 265 and 268 and being prolonged in straight line up to a point of its intersection with the central line of the North River; then towards the North East following the central line of the North River, up to its intersection with a South East prolongation of the division line of lot 1735 and 1737; then towards the North West, the North East and the North West successively coinciding with the line dividing lots 1735 and 1736 on the one part of said lot 1737 on the other part up to the North East corner of lot 1736, corner located along the East line of "Lane's Purchase"; then towards the North following the East line of "Lane's Purchase" up to its intersection level with lot 1930, with the South East side of the public road, Lakefield Road; (Route 30); then towards the North East following the South East side of the said public road, up to its intersection with the dividing line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Gore;

From there, it runs towards the East coinciding with the Western part of the line dividing the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Gore, up to the North West corner of the said parish; then, it runs finally towards the South coinciding with the North part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, up to the starting point, which corresponds to the North West corner of the present limit of the town of Lachute.

The area hereinabove described is shown lined by a shadowy line, on a plan prepared by the undersigned dated March 15th, 1963, made to be attached to the present description; this plan is an abstract of the official plan and book of reference of the parish of St. Jerusalem and bears the same file number as these presents, namely 353.

I have prepared these presents at Lachute, P.Q., under the number three hundred and fifty-three (353) of my file, on the twenty-ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-three (1963).

The general East limit of the West Ward corresponds to the Eastern limit of the present West Ward, that is the central line of Mary Street and its prolongation towards the South following equally the central line of this portion of the present Mary Street as it exists in the limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to extend in a straight line of lot 694; from there, this line follows the North line of said lot 694 towards the West up to the North West corner of this road, then extends towards the South along the East line of lots 1406 and 1407 up to the Southern limit of Lane's Purchase, with which it coincides in a South West direction from the South West corner of lot 1407 up to the West limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, the Western limit of the said ward follows the West line of the Parish of St. Jerusalem in a Northerly direction up to the North West corner of the present West Ward location; this place is located in the center of the West River; as to the Northerly general limit, it corresponds to the Northerly general limit of the present West Ward, that is it coincides in a general Easterly direction with the central line of the West River and of the North River up to its intersection with the prolongation towards the North of the central line of Henry Street.

CENTER WARD:

The Center Ward comprises the present Center Ward, then extends towards the South up to the South limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem and towards the West, adjacent to the West Ward previously mentioned up to the West limit of the said Parish. On the East side, it is therefore bounded by the East boundary of the present Center Ward, that is, the Easterly line of lots 754, 755 and 765, this line being extended towards the North in a straight line of the North River; also the central line of the Bethany Road, this boundary being extended towards the South in following the said central line of the Bethany Road up to the central line of the road which bears the cadastral number 140 and continues up to the Bethany Road to service Coteau des Hêtres (Beech Ridge) up to the South boundary of the Parish of St. Jerusalem. At its extreme North, this Ward is bounded by the present North boundary of the Town and comprises this portion of the territory of Lachute located West of the North River and north of the central line of the West River.

EAST WARD:

The East Ward includes all that section of the territory enclosed in the annexation project (see technical description and plan prepared by the undersigned on the 28th and 15th of March, 1963, respectively) and none included in the West and Central Wards hereinabove described.

I have prepared these presents at Lachute, P.Q., under number three hundred and fifty-three "A" of my file, this fifth day (5th) of June, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-three (1963).

Diary of a Vagabond

BY DOROTHY BARKER

FLUORIDATION FOR LONDON

More than six million residents of Greater London may soon have the benefits of fluoridation. A recommendation that the metropolitan water supply be fluoridated has gone from London County Council's health committee to the metropolitan water board which administers the system.

Joe Fountain appeared to me when I first met him, as a man born 20 years too late to wear a pince-nez. He is a mixture of courtly manners and fireball enthusiasm for his job of promoting Canada in the United States. Joe is Public Relations Officer for the Canadian National Railways in New York City, and pops ideas at such frequent intervals that it keeps his well-trained staff in a constant state of concentration to keep up with the boss!

Besides keeping CN publicity in continual circulation among United States newspapers, radio and TV stations, plus the Virgin Islands and South America, he writes the script for a series of five-minute recorded broadcasts entitled, "This Is Canada", and aired on literally hundreds of the country's independent radio stations.

Within shouting distance of his retirement age, the only thing that would lead one to suspect it is his crisp, white hair that bounces in unruly curls above a pair of brown eyes with a humorous twinkle. But never let those curls fool you. In a city that has the drive and whir of a whizbomb, Joe Fountain is as relaxed as a possum, yet five minutes after I met him I realized his mind is in a constant state of flux, conditioned to pick up the slightest opportunity for publicizing his employer, Canada's nationally-owned railway.

There is a certain empathy between newspaper people which I intuitively felt when I walked into Joe Fountain's office in Rockerfeller Centre. However, it was not until I had returned home and was reading his account of the homestead inaugural of Calvin Coolidge, when he, as the only newspaperman to witness the administration of the presidential oath, scooped the world with the story he filed, that I learned he had edited the Springfield Reporter, a small-town newspaper.

He has fathered such successful promotions as CN Canadian Travel Photos, a monthly offset sheet of pictures and captions promoting travel in Canada, which may be ordered, without cost, by newspapers and magazines for reproduction purposes. These are sent to 600 potential outlets every month. And a mat service with story detail is circulated among 14,000 small dailies situated in the 50 states of the Union and the Canal Zone.

Like most successful men, Joe Fountain has the happy faculty of surrounding himself with an able staff. He called Bob Soulière, his right hand man; and from the detailed report of film and TV programs aired and method of promotion, which is Bob's particular domain, I would say he was rightly dubbed.

Keep 'Em Circulating

Films are never allowed to collect dust. As fast as they are returned by a TV station or educational outlet, they are sent out again. "We are constantly soliciting airing potential", said Bob Soulière. Proof of this is in the report that 1309 showings of CN films were aired in the United States in 1962, and that 40 educational stations frequently make requests for films.

While I was in New York, Joe Fountain was working on his latest script for a fascinating visual record of Canada's paper industry from tree to "tomorrow's newspaper", the film of which he had screened for my viewing. Not only is he enthusiastic about his subject, he knows what he is writing about. That accounts for the fact that, though he is an American citizen, he is imbued with his desire to promote Canada and the railway he serves.

Link with the Past

Visitors are always welcome to Lachute, and many drop in to say hello at the local newspaper office. Over the years, we have progressed with new and modern machinery and an up-to-date building, and are pleased to show our development.

Last week we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. A. R. Petrie and his family, from Stoney Creek, Ont., who had come to Lachute just to see the town where his father, the late Tom Petrie, had attended school during his early years. For a short time Mr. Petrie, Sr., worked in the J. C. Wilson plant, prior to moving to Ontario. . . While in our office we were able to find the name of Tom Petrie among those passing the June exams, mentioned in the July issue of The Watchman of 1900.

Mr. Petrie, Jr., is now teaching in Stoney Creek.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

A retrograde step

IT'S A FAR CRY from such reverence of the Sabbath as prompted this brief item in The Watchman 50 years ago (1913):

"Brownsburg, Que. — We very much regret that a baseball match was played in Brownsburg on Sunday last. Let us hope the Lord's Day will not be profaned in this manner again."

A change of attitude has come about. Without deploring the diversion of Sunday recreation — or of commercialized Sunday sports, with which we are not concerned in this particular editorial — we do oppose a measure which is due for early debate in the local Council, namely, a repeal of the by-law which prohibits dancing in the grills on Sunday. With all respect to Alderman J.-O. Desjardins (who has given notice of motion to this effect), we appreciate his concern for youth recreation in Lachute; but this, surely, cannot fill the bill in youthful needs.

The by-law to prohibit Sunday dancing in the hotels was initiated by the late Dr. Jules Lafleur in his term as mayor (1953) and passed with much controversy. There have been no serious complaints in the intervening decade; no young citizens have succumbed of ennui for lack of dancing in the grills. We doubt that the suggested repeal is prompted by their request; while it is, with no secrecy, sparked by the desires of certain hotelkeepers. Their point of argument, the high cost of provincial and municipal permits, cannot morally justify any legislation that is not in the broader public welfare.

This is a matter left to municipal discretion; the case is not prescribed by provincial liquor laws. It was considered in the interest of good morals and good taste to impose this ban — initiated by the late Dr. Jules Lafleur, a family man and one whose civic sincerity was beyond dispute. And we now recommend that our mayor and aldermen consider very earnestly before any retrogade action is taken in this matter.

Compromise can work

CANADIANS have sent four minority governments to Ottawa in the 14 federal elections since the First World War. None has managed to last more than a year.

This has led some people to suggest that, as a nation, we lack the instinct for compromise needed to carry on for long with a government lacking a majority.

These same people like to point to some European countries where a clear majority for one party is unheard of, but where through subtle negotiation minority governments are able to prolong their life for several years.

At the 56-day session recently ended in Ottawa, the House of Commons approved creation of a department of industry which will help manufacturers open new plants and improve their products.

It created a $400,000,000 fund to provide low-interest loans to municipalities, and set up a $100,000,000 fund for the Atlantic Development Board which will concentrate on stimulating economic growth in the four eastern provinces.

It set up a 28-member economic council to work as a sort of upper braintrust in plotting the course for future national economic development.

It also agreed to increase the salaries of MPs and Senators, and managed to find a way of turning over to the Senate full responsibility for the embarrassing matter of handling Quebec and Newfoundland divorces.

Possibly it is premature to draw any conclusions from this first session, and there is inevitable disagreement over how much it contributed to the solution of our problems.

But it seems reasonably clear that, whether we approve of the legislation, the Commons has shown that it can make the compromises necessary to continue the life of the government.

Of course, politicians are aware that many Canadians are tired of elections after two in 12 months and that anyone who forces a new vote now might be harshly dealt with by the voters.

But, even if some members of opposition parties are afraid of another election now, it still requires a degree of will to resist the temptation to go back to the people for another try.

Whatever the reason, there was compromise.

Industry the key

TWO QUOTATIONS from a current journal — both appearing in the same issue — have bearing on Canada's economic needs. We link the two, and readers may here discern an objective which grips most municipal authorities (including our own), and which should command the greatest consideration from the higher levels of government...

"The development of Canada in the past has been built largely on our farms and our great raw material producing industries. They are not going to shrink, even if the number of men required to operate them may shrink. Our soil, forests and mineral resources will continue, of course, to contribute very importantly to our development, but for the future expansion that we need if we are to take care of our work force we must now look especially to the manufacturing industries."
— Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, House of Commons, June 7, 1963.

"What Canada needs today perhaps above all else is a national awareness that the key to her future economic prosperity and independence lies in the promotion of industrial expansion. Establishment of a Department of Industry in Ottawa, signifying as it does official recognition of manufacturing's paramount importance, may well mark a decisive step in the right direction."
— From the current issue of "Industry".

No safety code for amusements

DRAFT OF a safety code for carnival rides has been offered provincial governments by the National Safety League of Canada. Surprisingly — in a League survey, it was found that no such legislation existed in Canada, municipally, provincially or federally. The survey also discovered that provincial governments were interested in considering a midway safety code.

The action was prompted by the 1962 death of a 10-year-old girl on a midway in Ottawa, added to reports of a number of accidents at carnivals. When it was learned that no regulations existed dealing directly with this matter, the League drafted a "safety code for amusement devices and temporary structures at amusement parks, fairs and carnivals". The draft was based on codes existing in the United States. "We hope", said Gary McLaren, manager of the Safety League, "that this may be instrumental in providing a safety standard across Canada for the protection of the public, particularly children, using such equipment."

Viewpoints and perspectives

CHOICE IS CLEAR. — Those of us who smoke might as well give up trying to persuade ourselves that there is no harm in the habit. The choice now seems clear: to quit, or to admit to being slack of will, morally unsound and short of wit.
— Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune

WARNING. — An American newspaperman has come out with the warning to young girls against youthful motorists who drive without any consideration for anyone else on the road. If a youth drives a car without any care for his neighbor, he is certain to become a husband without any consideration for his wife.

Throwing ashes and old tins on the street is a slovenly habit which prevails of late among our inhabitants.

A representative of Edison Electric Light Company paid our town a visit, with a view to introducing the electric system for lighting manufactures, stores streets and private houses. We were informed that one light of 16 candlepower would cost about 1¾ cents per night. This has been proved in Valleyfield. Two lamps would be sufficient to light any store in town, which would amount to $1.05 per month.

Of Many Things

TAKE IT EASY, UNCLE SAM!

We Canadians are the United States' biggest and best customer. In Uncle Sam's transactions with us, he is ahead by more than a billion dollars on last year's dealings alone.

Therefore I believe the U.S.A. has made a grievous error in extending the tax on foreign investment to purchases of Canadian securities. The effect of the tax will be the reverse of what is intended. Inasmuch as the balance of payments was so overwhelmingly favorable to the U.S.A., it should have been left undisturbed. Canada now has no alternative but to take measures which, over the long run, will be aimed at cutting down our deficit with the U.S.A.

This, of course, could mean further devaluation of the dollar, or other restrictions on imports of American goods and services. The Canadian consumer does not wish this to take place, but readily recognizes the need for it.

After representations from the Canadian government, the American authorities agreed to exempt new issues. It is too bad they did not go further, and exempt their best customer completely. Perhaps they will, eventually, see the wisdom of such a course.

Meanwhile, Canada ought to brace herself for trouble. We have been given a few examples, in recent years, of how badly we can be hurt by the actions of others. So far, we have come through these crises with a sound hide, perhaps better off because of them. We've become somewhat more aware of the need to protect our dollar.

Lately there has been a worrisome trend towards higher interest rates. Our stock market has been declining and in the foreign exchange market, our dollar is weakening.

To most prudent people, this would appear to constitute a warning of stormy economic weather ahead. Let us hope that our Canadian government sees these go-slow signs. They are new to office, and have shown a tendency to take some of their pet projects out of the oven too quickly. They must get over that habit soon. Canada has some rough going ahead in any event, and we can't afford too many unsound propositions at this time. It will require most of our resources to merely "hold the fort".

It would help a lot, however, if Uncle Sam would take it easy, too!

By Walter Henry Jackson

ARE YOU HUNGRY? — YES, SIAM!

I have a reputation of being a wonderful cook. Guests at my Lost River camp marvel at my dexterity in opening a can of beans, and they all say that my boiled eggs are delicious. But I never read a cook-book... However, here's a recipe that was probably never in a cook-book. I found it in a 1942 copy of an English magazine, and I quote part of it word for word:

"Two kinds of spiders are eaten greedily by the Laos of Siam, the giant orb-weaving Nephila Maculata and a blue hairy Melopoeus Albostriatus. You hold the living Nephila firmly by the legs and bite off the abdomen, or, for preference, toast lightly and dip in salt. The roasted abdomen was far from unpleasant and reminded me of raw potato mixed with lettuce. The method with Melopoeus is to place two or three of them on a thin skewer after removing the chelicerie, and roast or toast over a flame. This spider can then be eaten with salt or sliced up with chiles. The flavor reminded me of the marrow of chicken bones or perhaps of chicken essence. The Melopoeus is a giant with a body 2½ inches in length, and six of them weigh half a pound. An analysis of the toasted spiders gave a protein content of 63.4% and a fat content of 9.8%, so it is possible that they and other arthropods help a fill a dietary need of a people whose staple diet is rice."

Look at what we Canadians have been missing all these years! Meanwhile, would you please pass the Chocolate Coated Grasshoppers? These and other gastronomical treats are on sale in some specialty shops in Montreal; but for just now, I'll stick to beans and bacon.

Be seein' ya!
— Uncle Walt

Rigby of Lachute on the homes, canals etc., flooded and yet to be flooded by the Ottawa River — at the summer meeting of the Historical Society on Saturday afternoon. Those who attended from different parts of the County felt well rewarded. The regular annual meeting will soon be arranged for, and announced later. Rain prevented the outside picnic on the lawn, but a comfortable atmosphere prevailed inside, and ladies from Cushing catered for the refreshments. A write-up on the flooded parts of the district appears in the next copy of the Canadian Geographical Magazine.

Miss Joanne Taylor accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thomson on their visit to friends in Lunenburg, N.S.

TRI-COLOR SALMON BURGERS

Triple treat for teens

There's a triple treat in store when you offer piping hot Tri-Color Salmon Burgers to allay the hunger pangs of the teen crowd — or eager appetites of just about any age. The combination of rich-tasting salmon, mellow melted cheese and sautéed onions, accented with a little chili sauce and layered between heated hamburger buns, is an enticing idea for lunch or snacktime. And, it's a winner with the stag members of the family who go for a sandwich you can "get your teeth into". Admittedly, these are knife and fork fare but that's no deterrent to enjoying the good flavors they provide. Nutritional qualities are probably secondary considerations with many people, but they shouldn't be discounted; and Tri-Color Salmon Burgers provide plenty of important food elements, particularly in the protein category.

Tri-Color Salmon Burgers

1 Cup (1 can approx. ½ lb.) canned salmon, drained and flaked, 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper or celery, salt and pepper, mayonnaise, 2 cups sliced onion, 3 tablespoons cooking oil or shortening, 6 hamburger buns (split), 6 packaged process Canadian cheese slices, 6 tablespoons chili sauce.

Combine salmon and chopped green pepper. Season to taste with salt and pepper; blend in enough mayonnaise to make of spreading consistency. Sauté onion in oil or shortening, covered, over low heat, until soft.

Meantime, place hamburger buns split side up on baking sheet. Toast until golden in preheated hot oven (425 deg. F.) or under broiler.

Lay a cheese slice on toasted surface of each bottom bun half and bake or broil until cheese melts. Spread one tablespoon of chili sauce on each of the other six bun halves. Spread salmon mixture lightly on top of melted cheese-covered bun halves. Arrange sautéed onions over salmon; top with remaining bun halves, chili-side down. Serve immediately. Makes 6.

GLANCE WAS COSTLY

Vancouver (CP) — Roscoe E. Deal of Kamloops was assessed $4,400 damages for taking his eyes off the road long enough to watch a fight between schoolboys. Settlement followed a trial over who was to blame for an accident in which eight-year-old Bruce Charbonneau was injured while crossing a street.

For Parents Only ...

When Baby Starts to Walk

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Baby can walk now!" What piece of news can compete with this announcement for dramatic interest in the family circle?

It it a big moment for parents when baby takes his first steps — especially for young fathers and mothers who have been impatiently hovering over their first child.

Mothers are apt to be anxious if baby is slow to walk. They compare his age and progress with a neighbor's child, or other babies they have known.

Starting to walk reassures them that their child is making normal progress.

Never try to hurry a baby in walking — nor prevent him from walking once he gets started. Baby will walk by himself when he is ready.

This is usually around a year or a year and a half. Some lithe, very active children walk at an earlier age and some heavy, placid youngsters are "slow walkers".

But in walking, as in other skills, parents might as well accept their child's progress.

When he is concentrating on his new-found power of locomotion, his progress in learning to talk may be temporarily halted. One thing at a time, is baby's idea!

Sometimes a parent is fearful that a child will be bowlegged if allowed to walk too early. Certainly many small youngsters appear to have rather crooked little "underpinnings".

Baby does need proper shoes. They should be light, comfortable, with sufficient support. Mothers must be constantly on the alert that a child's shoes and socks are long enough.

Once in a while a baby is retarded in walking because he feels no need to go exploring. Everything he wants is brought to him, so why should he exert himself?

A parent's over-eagerness can make a child fearful of this new strange feat of walking. What he needs is self-confidence. Neither should mother be too anxious about baby's occasional tumble.

But mother does have to take a new look at the house and yard and her own work schedule once baby starts to walk. Now he needs a larger enclosed play area than a small play pen.

If he can have part of the kitchen or dining room as his own play space, where he cannot get into mischief, or harm, this is a great help.

Dad can co-operate by providing a fence for baby's outdoor play and some play equipment to keep him occupied.

The mother of a toddler has to be on the alert all his walking hours. He is so keen to get his hands on everything — to touch and go exploring.

Mother must see that little fingers are not poked into electric wall plugs or that the doors of the cleaning closet or First-Aid cupboard are not left open.

Cleaning fluids, medicines and any harmful substances must be locked up. Stairways must be barricaded with gates and windows protected by screens or bars.

Baby can walk now! Both mother and father need to cooperate in keeping an eye on the child who is leaving babyhood behind.

Painful feet

"My corns are killing me!" How many times have you heard someone voice this complaint? How many times have you voiced it yourself? asks the Health League of Canada in the current issue of "HEALTH" Magazine.

It may, or may not, be corns that are causing the discomfort. But, painful feet, from a wide variety of causes, rank close to the common cold as one of today's health problems.

Your feet take a lot of punishment in a lifetime of bearing your weight around every day, mostly on sidewalks, hard floors and pavements. In fact, it's a tribute to the anatomical structure of the foot and ankle that this part of the body doesn't cause even more trouble.

There are several points to remember in care of the feet:

(1) Be aware of your feet and that they need care and attention.

(2) Pay attention to minor aches and pains which can lead to more serious foot problems.

(3) Seek professional advice and assistance for foot disorders.

(4) Include a foot examination in your annual health checkup.

Some are birth problems, such as club foot or other malformations. There are circulatory problems such as inflammation and narrowing of the arteries of the legs, nutritional diseases such as rickets, metabolic problems such as diabetes or gout, and fungus infections, such as athlete's foot.

FLAVORFUL PIE

To make butterscotch peach pie, first sprinkle four cups of sliced peaches with lemon juice. Then combine three-quarter cup brown sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, one-quarter cup flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon. Add dry mixture to the peaches and mix thoroughly. Then arrange in a lined pie plate, dot with butter and cover with a lattice of pastry strips.

Bake the pie in a 450-degree oven 10-15 minutes then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until done (about 30-35 minutes).

Before and after

Wide variety in hams

Cured, smoked ham is one of the most popular meats today. Ham has been popular for so long, says the Meat Packers Council of Canada, that now you can find almost any kind of ham to suit your taste.

This is a problem for many shoppers because they are never sure of the differences between a ham, picnic, cottage roll, boneless, skinless, fully cooked, partially cooked, etc. It's small wonder that the average housewife today gets a little confused when she decides to buy just an "ordinary" ham for her family.

Strictly speaking, there is only one true ham. It comes from the hind leg of the pig and can be sold whole or in two sections — (1) shank, lower part of ham, and (2) butt, upper part.

Ham is processed in various ways. First, it is cured and smoked by the packer. Then it may be cooked and sold fully cooked ready-to-eat, or it may require further cooking before it is ready to be served. In all cases, it is important to read and follow the directions on the label.

There are two other pork cuts which are commonly referred to as hams by many people. These are the picnic and cottage roll, with both having characteristics similar to ham. In a general way, the picnic can be considered as a front-leg ham. The picnic is cured and smoked and sold in a number of ways like the regular ham.

The cottage roll comes from the shoulder and is usually sweet pickled (cured, but not smoked). It contains a little more fat than the picnic or the ham, but for that reason, it is very juicy and flavorful. Being boned and rolled, it is ideal for slicing. Sometimes the cottage roll is sold as a smoked shoulder butt, which is simply another form of the same cut.

The price of any of these cuts depends mainly on the amount of processing involved. A boneless, skinless, fully cooked ham costs more than a ham with the bone left in, some of the skin left on, and one which has received no previous cooking.

New technique used in TV animations

All under 35, they started the project less than two years ago with cash raised from musicians and other show-business people "who understood what we were trying to do."

Working with Lowry are Orm Collier, former CBC technician, Peter Hollidge, ex-CBC cameraman, and about a dozen others.

Last year their firm, Advertel Productions Ltd., did a business of $500,000. This year, with expanding U.S. sales, volume should rise by 10 to 20 per cent.

Tape is Key

Most animated cartoons are made with film, using the "stop-frame" method. The film is stopped, an image is recorded on a frame, then another image is recorded on the next frame.

They give recognition to Hans Mantel, 29-year-old technician with Ampex, for devising the tape "editor" that led to animation.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mrs. X eats celery for her nerves, blackstrap molasses and yoghurt for lasting youth and fitness, beets for cleansing her system and garlic for improving her memory.

When she has a cold, she eats cooked onions to "kill" it. When her fingernails become weak and crack or split, she takes gelatin to try to strengthen them. When she gains weight, she stops drinking water in hopes of losing a few pounds.

She has fallen prey to food faddism and like many Canadians she does not realize the nutritional road to health is straight and easy to follow.

The rules of Canada's Food Guide provide the normal person with all the vitamins, minerals and nutrients essential for health, says Corine Trerice, a Toronto nutritionist who has done a special study of food faddism.

The guide recommends: at least 1½ cups of milk a day; two servings of fruit or juice including a satisfactory source of Vitamin C such as oranges, tomatoes or vitaminized apple juice; one serving of potatoes; two servings of other vegetables, preferably yellow or green and often raw; bread with butter and one serving of whole grain cereal; one serving of meat, fish or poultry; eggs and cheese at least three times a week; liver occasionally.

Fads Dangerous

Although good health is not mysterious or complex, people have fears of illness. They also have hopes of preventing serious diseases such as cancer, arthritis, cerebral palsy.

"When human fears and hopes appear to be answered simply and easily by fantastic claims and miracle foods, it is no wonder that many people fall innocently into the food faddists' trap," says Miss Trerice.

And when people rely on certain foods to work miracles instead of seeking medical aid, food faddism becomes dangerous.

Some of the more common fads and fallacies which are prevalent and which can be harmful: garlic cures high blood pressure; beets help to build blood; blackstrap molasses is good for anemia and rheumatism; grapes will cure ulcers and cancer.

"Not one of these statements is entirely correct or true. But all are dangerous and misleading if allowed to become part of a person's daily pattern of eating."

Vitamin Craze

While many Canadians follow food fads as part of their campaign for good health, even greater numbers buy food supplements or vitamin preparations.

"If the use of vitamin supplements were any indication of the state of nutrition of a country, it would appear that Canada was one of the most poorly fed countries in the world," said Dr. J. E. Monagle, chief of the nutrition division of the federal health and welfare department.

The Hon. Harry Hays, who became federal minister of agriculture on April 22, 1963, is an international known breeder, exporter and auctioneer of purebred livestock. . . . Mr. Hays has served as mayor of Calgary since 1959.

farm on the outskirts of Calgary. His interest in the cattle export business began in 1932 when he became Alberta fieldman with the Holstein-Friesian Association of Alberta. A year later he became the first Canadian to ship purebred dairy cattle to Britain, and in following years, to several other countries. In 1945, as president of Hays Farms Limited in Ontario, he became the first cattle exporter to ship by air. The cattle were flown from Toronto to Cuba. Hays Farms Limited also was the first in North America to export cattle to Spain and Italy.

Prior to assuming office as mayor, Mr. Hays in an average year travelled some 35,000 miles, selling $2 million worth of livestock. By the time he relinquished his interests in the Ontario farm to a brother, the farm — with shipments to 23 countries — was the biggest exporter of purebred livestock in North America.

In 1943 he purchased the family farm business, of which he was president. A few years later, however, he sold most of the property, retaining the farmhouse which has been his home since 1924. He now owns a ranch with several hundred head of livestock.

Ottawa Exhib'n opens Friday

From the Central Canada Exhibition Association president, Howard Henry, and the Board of Directors comes the word that the Ottawa Exhibition — August 23 to 31 — is to be one of the greatest ever held.

The grandstand show with its stars, Andy Griffith and Ronny Howard and the Andy Griffith Show on television, and Anita Bryant, will be another glittering spectacle. The livestock shows will be the best ever, the big inter-city parade on Saturday is certain to be a great attraction. The horse show has shaped up as the best show in Exhibition history and the Ladies' Day program for Tuesday, 27th, is to be the best ever held.

One of the Scottish imports, Knockterra Fair Fern, 4th, was purchased by René Trepanier, of Oka. The latter also bought Cliffhill Perle (Oct. 1960), a heifer consigned to the sale by Clifford Oswald, of Ste. Scholastique.

W. Erskine Rodger sold a 1959 heifer, Woodlea Sonia Deltra, for a good price, $540.

Mr. Rodger purchased another animal for his herd, while O. G. Dawson, Lachute, bought two heifers — all three from Ontario breeders. Clifford Oswald purchased a 1961 heifer consigned by a Howick breeder.

At Burnside Sale

At the recent Burnside sale three head of cattle were purchased for another local herd, that of J. P. Bradley & Son. The three acquisitions were Burnside Narella 2nd ($650), Burnside Madonna and Pine Knoll Barbara 2nd — all 1960 heifers.

Largest buyer at this sale was the Quebec Department of Agriculture.

They still head for Gretna Green!

Scotland's Gretna Green has been the destination of countless eloping couples for more than 200 years — and it is still as busy as ever.

In 1962 more than 400 couples became man and wife after spending their necessary three-week stay in the little village. The numbers this year are already far in advance of last year's, though today the weddings that take place are no longer concerned so much with taking advantage of "easy" laws as with the romance of the name Gretna.

Gretna Green stands astride the main trunk road route between Glasgow and the south, and, most important, it is only a short distance inside the Border dividing Scotland from England.

It is perfectly situated for runaways who have no need to travel any farther into Scotland, although few of them realize that Gretna Green is not the only place to get married. They could go on much farther north to Wick or Thurso, as the legal requirements are no different in Gretna Green from any other part of Scotland.

It was in 1754, that its "runaway" marriage business began to make Gretna known the world over.

An Act of Parliament was passed in England which prohibited what were called "Fleet weddings" — so called after a ceremony which used to be performed in the old debtors' prison in London for about two shillings and sixpence.

After that it soon became known that a couple could simply declare themselves husband and wife in Scotland before two witnesses and, in the eyes of Scottish law, become legally married. This "Marriage by Declaration" started the flood of runaways.

Authority began to curb these marriages in 1856 when Lord Brougham persuaded Parliament to pass an Act requiring persons desirous of marrying in Scotland to stay for 21 days. However, a loophole was left in the Act. It only required one of the parties to complete this residence, so that elopements simply needed a little more planning!

All this time most of the couples marrying at Gretna were from England and they continued to make full use of Gretna Green until 1940 when the law was again changed. The prospective bride and groom nowadays must both complete a three-week stay, and only the registrar and minister can perform the ceremony.

The 1856 regulation allowed almost anyone in the village to marry the runaways. Indeed, in the old Gretna "smiddy" — or blacksmith's shop — hangs a document which gives examples of those who could carry out this sanctified job.

It reads: "At a little distance from the bridge at the little village of Gretna, the resort of all amorous couples, whose union the prudence of parents or guardians prohibits: here the young pair may be instantly united by the fisherman, the joiner, or the blacksmith, who may marry them from 2 guineas a job to a dram of whisky, but the price is generally adjusted by the information of the postillions from Carlisle, who are in the pay of one or other of the above worthies; but even the stranger in case of necessity has been known to undertake the sacerdotal vows."

"Smiddy" Still Stands

The old blacksmith's "smiddy" is the best-known of Gretna Green's marriage halls. It stands today exactly as it was 100 years ago in its hey-day as a marriage hall.

Black, aged beams support a smoke-darkened roof and the rough floor is pitted and worn with the tread of countless sightseers — and the nervous feet of thousands of brides and grooms.

Quebec OK's town by-law for industrial loan fund

Word was received at the town secretary's office last Wednesday that By-law 235, providing for the creation of a $500,000 industrial loan fund, had passed approval of the Department of Municipal Affairs at Quebec.

The by-law was approved by Council in three successive readings at the regular June meeting. In accordance with requirements of the Cities and Towns Act, notice was given of a public meeting at which ratepayers might meet and raise protest, if they saw fit. At this meeting, called for June 17, no one appeared except the mayor and town secretary, who stayed the required lapse of time to fill legal requirements. The measure thus having passed public approval, it remained only to procure final sanction of the Department at Quebec.

With the establishment of this fund, the town corporation will be in a position to extend loans to industrial borrowers for the purpose of building or enlarging property, on much the same principle as a mortgage. A separate by-law is required for each loan made from the fund, and the total of loans outstanding must not exceed the capital fund.

Mayor Dave Campbell, who has been a leading promotor of the project, sees the measure as an incentive to the long-range economy of this town and district. If and when, annexation of a portion of St. Jerusalem vastly extends the building sites available in the town limits, the way will be paved to offer more attractive prospects for new industry. . . And industries, in the Mayor's viewpoint, are essential to ensure the stability of this community, which now hinges on the prosperity of two major manufactures. If markets should adversely affect these enterprises, or automation substantially cut their labor force, there is little else to take up the slack of surplus manpower. In this factor alone — besides the welfare and stability of agricultural producers, retail stores and services — industry is considered a paramount importance to the future of this town. Also in the matter of municipal and school taxes, the addition of new industries would help considerably with the burden. School taxes from corporate industry go into the neutral panel, and every such boost must ease the bill to the individual citizen.

Rental value is factor in business tax scale

Lachute Town has adopted a new method of business tax rating. The levy will now be based on the rental value of the premises — 6 per cent of the annual rent-value as inscribed on the current valuation roll, of the building or part of a building occupied by the business, trade or profession concerned.

Revenue estimated at the town office from this source will be in the neighborhood of $25,000 a year.

By-law 236 (replacing by-law 229) on this matter, prescribes that the minimum levy will be $35, and the maximum $300. In this latter class are "licenses or permits" issued chiefly to public service companies (telephone, electricity, railways and transport enterprises) not subject to business tax in such form, also banks and loan companies.

Professional men come also under designation for "licenses and permits"; these will pay $100 a year.

Any non-resident in business here, or any who may have resided for less than 12 months, will pay 50 per cent more than the regular tax, according to this by-law. And taxes or permits are payable the first of January, to be valid for one year. In the case of a business started after July 1, the rate will be half of the yearly levy. Any payment in excess of 50 per cent will be reimbursed, but in no case will the refund exceed $100, or exceed 10 per cent of the annual rental value.

No license will be issued to a person under 18 years of age, "except to the owner of a bicycle or to a person selling or delivering papers."

Section 21 of the by-law states that "no peddlar, hawker, vendor or canvasser shall make an outcry or stand on any street or public place for the purpose of offering goods for sale."

There is provision for a fine not exceeding $40 and costs, with alternative of imprisonment up to two months or until the fine is paid, for infraction of the by-law.

Hawkesbury takes over town library

Hawkesbury Town Council has passed a by-law for establishment of a municipal public library.

Representatives on the library board were appointed from the town citizenry, including two members from the public school board and three from the separate school board.

Main Street store changes and additions

Besides the more obvious preparations for two chain stores — the Farmer 5c - $1 and a Dominion Supermarket, at the Main and Barron Ave. corner — there are other changes and improvements afoot on the "lighted way" of Main Street.

It is understood the Elite Store (Yvonne Malacket) is due for major transformation, the contract having been given to Robert Legault for complete renovation of these premises.

In the Lachute Hardware store, just vacated (adjoining the former Bank of Nova Scotia building), a coffee shop will be opened shortly by Mr. Dauphinais.

The former Malaket Ladies' Wear next door will be opened as a general discount store.

The Bellingham property, near the Belanger Jewellery, will be occupied as a showroom and sample display by Forget Upholstering, Brownsburg.

Spectacular train spill at Grenville

Fortunately, there was no loss of life in this spectacular derailment which occurred early Monday morning on the Canadian National Railway at Grenville, terminus of the spur from Montreal since abandonment of the bridge to Hawkesbury. The train, which makes the morning and evening run between the city and Grenville (via St. Andrews) overshot the end of the track by some distance. Travelling at about 15 miles an hour, the diesel engine and first car of the train were derailed, and are seen here on the bank of the canal. The remaining seven cars remained on the track. The engine crew, Paul Dallaire and J. Brazier, suffered injuries and were taken to the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal. The mishap occurred at 5.40 a.m., and there were no passengers aboard the train.

Bridge cave-in near reservoir

Residents have been agitating for the rebuilding of this bridge for over a year, and with school re-opening next week and the renewed passing of school buses, parents were about to draw up a petition. . . But in the meantime it happened! The bridge, in Hill Head (St. Jerusalem) caved in last Thursday afternoon, just after a motorist had safely passed over.

The bridge (half of the right-of-way in cement still intact) was widened some years ago with the re-making of the road. The addition, constructed of timber, has rotted under the gravel, with the result seen above.

The structure is near the Dumais property, just overlooking the reservoir at the new filtration plant. Philippe Dumais himself was the first to notice the cave-in, and possible tragedy was averted by the placing of trestles.

B.B.G. resumes hearing for radio permits Attfield brief opposes Lalonde petition

Ottawa, Aug. 28 — There was strong opposition yesterday from several quarters when the owner of Radio Station CKJL in St. Jerome applied to the Board of Broadcast Governors for a license to operate a satellite radio station in Lachute.

The main opposition was from the Voice of the Two Provinces, a group which proposes to operate a full-time local radio station serving both Lachute and Hawkesbury. Three of the area's municipalities also objected.

In a letter to the BBG, the Town of Hawkesbury said that if establishment of a satellite radio station at Lachute "would in any way minimize the possibility of Hawkesbury obtaining adequate full-time local radio service, council opposes the establishment of the said satellite radio station."

The town of Vankleek Hill endorsed the proposal of the Voice of the Two Provinces, and said that a station "proposing to serve the Lachute area only would not be as desirable as a station proposing to serve Prescott County as well."

The municipal council of Chatham Township, which adjoins Lachute, wrote:

"That in the opinion of the council, there is a closer relationship between Prescott County and Argenteuil County than between Argenteuil and Terrebonne Counties, and be it resolved that the council wishes to express a preference for the proposition put forth by a group represented by Donald H. Attfield, over that put forth by Jean Lalonde of St. Jerome, since in the council's opinion the interests of Chatham Township and of the county would be served better by a full-time radio station owned and operated within this region than by a satellite station of CKJL St. Jerome."

The Hawkesbury Chamber of Commerce said in a letter to the Board that it has learned of the St. Jerome proposal with apprehension. It echoed the Hawkesbury Town Council's fear about losing local radio service for the town, and said that if this is the case, "the Chamber is strongly opposed to the establishment of this satellite station."

Mr. Attfield appeared before the board in opposition. He asked that the St. Jerome application be denied on the following grounds:

Text of Brief

"We submit that the Board of Broadcast Governors should recommend denial of this application on the grounds that:

"— It is not in the best interest of the Town of Lachute and the surrounding municipalities of Chatham, Brownsburg, Ayersville and St. Jerusalem to be limited to the services of a satellite radio station.

"— It is not in the best interest of the merchants of this community that their market be subjected to the advertising of St. Jerome merchants most of the day on their own Lachute radio station.

"— It is contrary to the policy of the board, as stated in its announcement of April 5, 1963, to recommend for approval an application which would result in the issue of two AM radio licenses to the one party to operate two stations in the same market.

"— The application under consideration is contrary to the interest of Prescott County and its principal municipalities of Hawkesbury, Vankleek Hill, L'Orignal and Alfred, and of the southwestern portion of Argenteuil County, including Grenville, Calumet and Pointe-au-Chene, in that by providing adequate service to only half of this Ottawa Valley community it reduces the possibility of the other half receiving adequate local radio service in the near future.

"— With 1,000 watts and radiation patterns which appear to be available, a radio station can serve this whole Lachute-Hawkesbury market, day and night, and better fill the local service void at the centre of the Lower Ottawa Valley.

Weekly editors 'in conference' at Murray Bay

News is important to Canadians.

Fifty years ago, the popularity of weekly newspapers was perhaps more understandable. The resident of a small town had infrequent access to magazines or metropolitan newspapers. There was no radio no television.

Nowadays, the resident of Salmon River, Wetaskiwin, Transcona, Trenton, Rimouski or Truro probably gets a daily newspaper from the nearest city and watches television and listens to radio. But he still supports the weekly newspapers; they are growing constantly in both numbers and circulation. And the only selling point of the weekly newspaper is that it carries lots of local news.

The editors and publishers of weekly newspapers, currently meeting at Murray Bay, Que., for the 44th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, are old hands at news gathering. They will devote their business sessions to a wide range of topics as befits modern-type businessmen. But in the end, their main objectives will be to supply the healthy craving that Canadians have for more and more news.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

Dogged by weather unfit for man or beast, the Richelieu horse racing, re-scheduled for last Saturday, was once again postponed. The club has set the event for the exhibition grounds this coming Saturday — failing which, on Sunday — failing which, on Labor Day (Monday). . . Surely the weather man will reward such grim determination.

"La Lainière Senior du Canada" (Senior Spinners of Canada Ltd.) is a new industry to establish shortly in St. Placide, with J. Salomon, Sr., as president. The company has offices in New York and in Nigeria. The plant, with $200,000 worth of machinery, will manufacture wool and orlon-type weave. The company will have advantage of $75,000 from the industrial loan fund, besides provincial aid in training of its personnel. European capital will provide other financial resources.

Lachute Town has instituted legal action against the Windsor Hotel, through counsel for the municipality, Fernand Legault, QC. Hotel Dieu at St. Jerome has received a $1,308,145 grant from Quebec Department of Health as the balance of debt incurred in building of the hospital. At that time, 1948, debentures were issued for $1,200,000; and in 1950 another loan was incurred, for $300,000. Revenues have not permitted either the payment of interest or amortization of the capital.

Quebec fire toll highest in world

Q — André Plante of Montreal, president of the Quebec Association of Firefighters, said last week that the fire toll in the province — property and human lives — is the highest in the world.

He said the Quebec government has taken measures to increase public safety in traffic and to protect citizens from criminals, but has neglected to take steps in the fire prevention field.

He was addressing a meeting of the organization in Pointe au Pic, Murray Bay.

Art exhibition continues till Labor Day

There are 42 pictures, and 24 artists represented, at the annual exhibition of unjudged works open to all members of the Argenteuil Art Association. The showing opened last Saturday at the municipal hall in St. Andrews East.

The various media — including charcoal, wash, even tapestry, but mostly oil color — show an interesting range of treatments. Some reflect the influence of favored masters; in others one may recognize trends of art instruction in this community. There are professional artists with individualistic style; and, throughout, the evidence of keen enjoyment in the execution of scenes, landscapes, human studies and abstracts.

Many 'assists' in CNIB dance for building fund

The annual CNIB dance was held at Lachute Golf Club, with proceeds devoted to the building fund for the CNIB. This dance is organized by the Advisory Board of the CNIB for Argenteuil County.

Those who expressed their sincere thanks to the volunteer workers for selling tickets, and to the Women's Auxiliary for their help in raising additional funds, were Mr. Leopold Carriere, chairman of the Building Fund, Mr. George McGibbon, chairman of the Argenteuil Advisory Board, and Tony Zaplaski, field secretary for the district.

Mr. Lauder Strachan, field secretary for the South Shore District, drew the winning ticket for a $50 bond. The winner was Miss E. McCabe, of Montreal, and the consolation prize was won by Mrs. J. Pinguey, of Outremont, Que.

By BOB ATCHISON

The Quebec Government has no intention of allowing sportsmen into the Ungava area to shoot caribou; so it is stated in the latest release. Just prior to this, a news item from the same source had stated that hunting for caribou would be allowed. The later statement should clear up the situation, but it does not — for they also say they may allow the killing of these animals for citizens living in the areas of Schefferville, Fort Chimo, etc. . . The situation is characteristic.

Just a couple of loopholes. Firstly, they do not say how long you will have to be a resident. Being so close to the Labrador border, and the total lack of bona fide wardens in this area, gives a lot of scope to the hunter. Anyone having the price of a plane ticket might go up into these districts for a couple of days, kill their caribou and bring it out, all under the guise of being residents of these places. Secondly, as for the border this is really a laugh; wardens in the area are about as scarce as hen's teeth.

Dr. Pierre Desmeules states that the count on these great animals had been of a conservative nature always, and there are more than actually counted. This could be true, as no accurate accounting has ever been undertaken. The herd is estimated at between 40,000 to 62,000, and from discrepancies in the figures I would think there has been some good juggling. I would not say this is a true count, either, knowing just how difficult it is to get anything accurate, and also the fact that counts are invariably exaggerated. It might appear that these animals are being threatened with depletion. It seems that opening a season for residents only, is looking for trouble, and certainly the government should know this. The increase in the population in these towns should be tremendous within a short time!

* * *

Some of the local shooters are hitting the ducks pretty hard these days. The fact that they are not in season as yet, doesn't seem to bother them at all. I have had calls from the North River as far as Colford's, and the Ottawa River near St. Andrews. Right now the wardens are having a tough time, so any help you can give them would be appreciated. A phone call will bring these officers in a hurry. . . Along the North River they are very bold, running their boats shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning; after all, no one goes fishing during heavy rain, at this time — with sun-up another 2½ or 3 hours away.

* * *

Every indication points to this being a good season for partridge. These birds have been lucky with the feed, and so much rain has helped them greatly. If the rain had come sooner in the season, the young might have died; but it turned out to be more of an advantage than a hindrance to them. People stayed out of the bush, even the domesticated animals were not too anxious to get wet — so, more partridge.

I had heard no word of the wild turkeys that were around during the winter. However, a Dalesville resident gave me this last week. A small creek runs through his property. Going down to it one morning he walked right in on four of these birds. He told me they just about scared him out of five years' growth; they went up so suddenly, he almost took off himself! I can well imagine this; the noise these things make when on the way up, is something to hear.

* * *

The numerous lynx in this district have kept the rabbits from getting out of hand. Rabbits now appear in very good condition; the ailing specimens have fallen prey to predators. A very popular game for most of us, we have not been too happy to see so many of them diseased the way they were. A few foxes have also taken up residence around the town, and these will no doubt give sport for the beagle men. I don't think there will be too many of them, though; lynx and fox just don't get along together.

* * *

Fishing is still very good; trout, bass, perch, and some good northern pike are now being taken. A few of the lakes have slowed down considerably, Silver Lake being one of these. Fish sure are funny creatures. This lake has never failed to produce all summer, yet this past week it has been a waste of time fishing it. Lake Louise has started to come back, along with Macdonald. I heard of a couple of big trout being taken from this spot; no doubt they are the ones planted a month or so ago. Seemingly, as far as fishing goes, Lake Hughes is just about finished, except for suckers and catfish. Sir John is giving up some good bass and perch, and not too much Black Spot is in evidence on these fish. I suppose this is due to the water never really getting too warm this season. . . I have been told of trout being caught in Half Moon this past week, so it looks as though there might be fall fishing in this lake. As for the Ottawa River, the doré taken from below the dam have been exceptional. "Real brutes" at times, these are very hard to fish, and there's more than a chance of losing your lure.

* * *

News on the dog-adopted squirrel: Still managing to live, this little waif would now appear to be O.K. It is still watched over by the maternal Corgi. I must have a queer sense of humor; I picture this freak with canine qualities, a future watchdog. Imagine coming home in a happy state and having this little thing BARK at you! . . Time to swear off, you say.

* * *

More geese have been seen winging their way south — just why, I wouldn't know; cold weather up north, maybe. It is queer, just when you think you know the habits of geese pretty well, they come along with a switch like this. As far as can be seen, the ducks were flocking up, but with the advent of the warmer weather, they dispersed again. This also applies to the song birds. True, the swallows and martins are line-sitting, but with these varieties, it is quite customary after July. . . As a weather prophet, it leaves one out on a limb.

* * *

I have written about the clubs in this district getting together with the Louisa Association. So far nothing has been done by the clubs, not even a contact. With this lake being public, it would appear the clubs and the Association have a common interest. Fish have been taken out of this lake in great numbers; this cannot continue indefinitely, without some help from the fishermen. I know a number of folks around Louisa who would like to see this water re-established as a producing lake; however, this will take co-operation and work all round. As it has been pointed out to me a number of times, why should just one group (the Louisa Association) do all the work, for the benefit of clubs which frequently use this lake. This is a very reasonable question; it can only be answered by co-operation. The cost of having this lake restocked every couple of years, or until the lake can produce its own, should not be too much for three organizations to handle jointly.

18¼-Inch trout takes Dow Club fishing derby

A group of approximately 50 members took advantage of the fine weather last week-end to practise their favorite sport in the two-day fishing derby organized by the Dow Fishing Club.

The champions were — Donald Malette with a lovely Rainbow trout of 18¼ inches, and Jean Renaud with a nice 12½-inch bass. Other winners were Mrs. Raymond Berniquer, Miss Majoleine Richer, J.-Paul Dion, Jacques Gauthier and R. Berniquer. There was also a drawing of door prizes.

The club takes this opportunity to thank the management of Hotel St. Onge for the pleasant reception given to all; also to the generous donors, the sponsors, Dow Brewery (through Raymond Laurin, agent), and Jacques Gauthier and P. Paul Mantha, who organized this derby.

Members will be advised of dates for other fishing contests.

WATER

Spent one of the most interesting evenings of my life this week, at the home of John David Wojewoda, 83 McAdam Avenue, in Winnipeg. I had read about him in the Tribune series of interesting occupations, written a year or so ago by Steve Melnyk. Wojewoda proved even more offbeat than I had anticipated.

He is one of those mysterious characters called Water Diviners. Instead of a willow fork, he uses a collection of instruments of his own designing which tell him where the underground streams run fast.

I wanted to know how a man discovers that he has the ability to find water.

"I hate to tell you," Wojewoda grinned. "I started out as a well driller, with very little money, using rented equipment. I drilled a record number of dry wells. It was getting to the point where my friends were about to name me dry-well John. I'm a proud guy, so I decided to get out of the business until I learned something about finding water.

"I knew that all over the world, even centuries ago, castles were built on mountain tops or hills, on rock, and in all these unlikely places they must have had water. I wanted to know how they found it.

"I haunted the libraries. The girls at the library desk helped me. . . I think they dug out every book that even mentioned water, and I drank them up. I found that water divining is an art that has been practiced for many centuries, and I learned some of my own. . . I think each diviner needs to develop methods suited to his own makeup."

I asked Wojewoda if there was much money in the water-divining business. His young son piped up, "No . . . Dad's so darn crazy about doing it, he doesn't charge enough." His family has a tremendous respect for the father's ability, and they think there is more to it than the instruments he uses. They believe that he has some sort of extra-sensory perception. When an article on that subject appeared in Reader's Digest, they read it and were convinced that their Dad is a living example of it.

Perhaps he is. I know that he did a few remarkable stunts for me, using a couple of his instruments. Either it was a strange coincidence, or he is a bit of a wizard.

What I admired about him was the fact that those first dry wells didn't discourage him. He accepted them as a challenge, and began in a systematic way to study the mysteries of water — and learned a good many other things in the process.

B.B.G. resumes hearings for radio permits

"— The company to be incorporated represented by Donald H. Attfield has in the preparation an application for a license to establish such a radio station, proposing to operate on the frequency of 1150 kilocycles and broadcasting full time from studios between Lachute and Hawkesbury.

"— This application by Donald H. Attfield shall be a modification of an earlier application, which represents a prior interest in this market. Since the denial by the Minister of Transport in May of the earlier application, we have been actively engaged in overcoming the problems pointed out by the Board. But time did not permit filing for this meeting."

GROOMING YOUR DOG

A dog that looks smart and tidy will give you, the owner, a lot of satisfaction. It is not a difficult job, but it is something that needs doing each day.

The best thing to do is to pick a regular time for grooming — and keep to it. You need only a few minutes, but you will find that it does make all the difference to your pet.

First, go over your dog with a steel comb, being careful to get all the tangles out of his coat if he is of the long haired variety. Then use a stiff brush, quite vigorously and end up by wiping him all over with a damp cloth to remove loose hairs.

If your dog is white, or partly white, you can occasionally use a chalk block on him. After the grooming, rub the block well into the coat and then let the dog shake himself. It is better to do this job in the basement, rather than on the living room carpet!

A hard, or wire-coated dog, will need "stripping" about once a year, usually in the spring. This has to be done because the coat gets too thick and the hair too long, and the dog begins to look "shaggy" and feel uncomfortable.

It is a job that should be done by experts, who pluck out the longer hairs and a number of the shorter ones. After stripping you will be pleased by the much smarter appearance of your pet.

This is a weekly column from the Montreal CSPCA, a non-profit organization devoted to animal welfare.

PUBLIC NOTICE

LACHUTE TOWN BY-LAW

Relating to — Annexation of Part of the Parish of St. Jerusalem

Canada
Town of Lachute

At a regular session of the municipal council held at its customary place, on the seventh day of August, 1963, at which were present — His Worship the Mayor, Mr. Dave Campbell, and Aldermen Messrs. L. A. Middleton, F. Charlebois, A. Thibodeau, P. E. Pariseau, N. Lepage, J. O. Desjardins and E. McFaul, forming a quorum —

WHEREAS the Corporation of the town of Lachute desire to annex a certain section of the municipality of the Parish of St. Jerusalem;

WHEREAS the town of Lachute is presently, geographically speaking, closed in on one side by the Parish of St. Jerusalem, on the other side by the village of Ayersville, and cannot extend elsewhere and has no free land available to supply lots suitable for industrial purposes;

WHEREAS the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem comprises certain sections adjacent to the town of Lachute which have interests distinct and different from those who reside in the remainder of the municipality and which are, for all practical purposes, more of an urban character than of a rural one;

WHEREAS, for a certain number of years, the project of annexation of a part of the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to the town of Lachute has been desired for the general welfare not only of Lachute proper, but also for all the surrounding municipalities which would benefit from an industrial expansion of the town of Lachute;

WHEREAS industries desire to settle into organized towns in order to obtain all the municipal services usually found in organized towns;

WHEREAS the land presently available and free to be used for industries and located in the Parish of St. Jerusalem was never used for an industrial development for those reasons;

WHEREAS towns in the vicinity, such as Ste. Thérèse, St. Jerome, and Ste. Agathe, have rapidly increased in the last fifteen years due to the fact that those towns could offer land available for industrial establishments;

WHEREAS the valuation of the section of the municipality of St. Jerusalem which will remain after the annexation is $1,055,750.

WHEREAS the population of the section to be annexed is of 1557 and the population that will remain after the annexation in the Parish of St. Jerusalem will be 592.

WHEREAS amongst the 1557 mentioned previously, the largest number is an urban one which will be adjacent to the town of Lachute and which for all practical ends is an urban agglomeration and not a rural one;

WHEREAS a plan and a technical description for this proposed annexation were prepared by Mr. Arthur Lafrance, Quebec Land Surveyor;

WHEREAS the municipal council of the town of Lachute has received requests for the establishment of new industries in the section to be annexed providing that this section forms part of the town of Lachute;

It is ordered and decreed as follows —

(1) THAT the portion of the territory of the Parish of St. Jerusalem as described on the plan and in the technical description prepared by Mr. Arthur Lafrance, Quebec Land Surveyor, attached to these presents, to form part thereof as if it was incorporated, be now detached from the municipality of St. Jerusalem to be annexed and to form part in the future of the territory of the town of Lachute.

(2) THAT the division of the debts and loans existing in the Parish of St. Jerusalem and affecting the section to be annexed be made on pro-rata basis and that the corporation of Lachute assumes the liability of the payment to be made in virtue of this distribution.

(3) THAT the town of Lachute is to assume out of the general tax for the section to be annexed, the service for light and garbage disposal presently existing in the urban sections of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, without supplementary costs therein to those receiving this service.

(4) THAT the section of the territory of the municipality to be annexed form part of the existing wards of the town of Lachute according to the plan and technical description of Arthur Lafrance hereto attached as if it was incorporated;

(5) THAT the said annexation be made in conformity with the requirements of the Cities and Towns Act and subject to the required approvals.

* * *

TECHNICAL DESCRIPTION

The territory presently considered comprises the West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem, in the county of Argenteuil, bounded to the North by the Township of Gore, to the South and to the South-East by the parish of St. Andrews of Argenteuil, to the East by the Parish of St. Jerusalem and to the West by the Township of Chatham, the whole with reference to the designation shown on the plan of the official cadastre; to deduct nevertheless from the said West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem the territory covered by the municipality of the town of Lachute.

More particutarly, the line which circles this portion of the parish of St. Jerusalem may be described as follows:

Beginning from a point located on a line which divides the parish of St. Jerusalem from the township of Chatham and "to a location where it reaches the foot of the mountain on lot 1962-C on the official plan of the said parish, at 858 feet, English measure, from the middle of the Chatham Road to the North it circumvenes firstly to the North, to the East and to the South the Municipality of the actual Town of Lachute (references: Erection, Deschamps p. 375, and Limits, Piché p. 224) in following a direction towards the East along the foot of the mountain (to the East of the farm house of Leggo) up to its intersection on the North River; from there, following in going up the middle of the North River to a point made by the intersection of the continuation towards the North, of the East line of lot 329-A on the said plan by the middle of the river (Morrison's Bridge); from there going towards the South along the line hereinabove mentioned, up to the highway; from there up to a point on the South side of the main above mentioned highway where it is intersected by lines dividing lots 312 and 325 on the said plan; (at Lane): from there towards the South in following the prolongation of the line hereinabove mentioned up to a point formed by its intersection with the prolongation to the East of the central line of Henry Street on Plan "B" of the parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, in a westerly direction in following the line previously mentioned to a point formed by its intersection with the middle of Isabella Street on the said plan (Barron's grove); from there, in a Southerly Direction in following the line just previously mentioned up to a point strictly East from a corner South-West of lot 1419 on the official plan and book of reference of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; (Rope factory), this point being located on lot 1406; from there, in a straight West direction across lot 1406-1402 and 1412, passing by the South West on said lot 1419 up to its intersection with the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, this last point located straight West from the South West corner of lot 1419;

Then this line runs towards the South, coinciding with the South part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Chatham, up to the South West corner of the said Parish; then it turns towards the East, then towards the North East in following the separation line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Parish of St. Andrews, up to the extreme West of lot 112-A thence, it continues in the same direction towards the East, along the division line of lots 111 and 95 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, up to the South East corner of the said lot 111.

From there, it runs towards the East coinciding with the Western part of the line dividing the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Gore, up to the North West corner of the said parish; then, it runs finally towards the South coinciding with the North part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, up to the starting point, which corresponds to the North West corner of the present limit of the town of Lachute.

The area hereinabove described is shown lined by a shadowy line, on a plan prepared by the undersigned dated March 15th, 1963, made to be attached to the present description; this plan is an abstract of the official plan and book of reference of the parish of St. Jerusalem and bears the same file number as these presents, namely 353.

DESCRIPTION of the Proposed Wards for the Town of Lachute

WEST WARD:

The general East limit of the West Ward corresponds to the Eastern limit of the present West Ward, that is the central line of Mary Street and its prolongation towards the South following equally the central line of this portion of the present Mary Street as it exists in the limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem to extend in a straight line of lot 694; from there, this line follows the North line of said lot 694 towards the West up to the North West corner of this road, then extends towards the South along the East line of lots 1406 and 1407 up to the Southern limit of Lane's Purchase, with which it coincides in a South West direction from the South West corner of lot 1407 up to the West limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, the Western limit of the said ward follows the West line of the Parish of St. Jerusalem in a Northerly direction up to the North West corner of the present West Ward location; this place is located in the center of the West River; as to the Northerly general limit, it corresponds to the Northerly general limit of the present West Ward, that is it coincides in a general Easterly direction with the central line of the West River and of the North River up to its intersection with the prolongation towards the North of the central line of Henry Street.

CENTER WARD:

The Center Ward comprises the present Center Ward, then extends towards the South up to the South limit of the Parish of St. Jerusalem and towards the West, adjacent to the West Ward previously mentioned up to the West limit of the said Parish. On the East side, it is therefore bounded by the East boundary of the present Center Ward, that is, the Easterly line of lots 754, 755 and 765, this line being extended towards the North in a straight line of the North River; also the central line of the Bethany Road, this boundary being extended towards the South in following the said central line of the Bethany Road up to the central line of the road which bears the cadastral number 140 and continues up to the Bethany Road to service Coteau des Hêtres (Beech Ridge) up to the South boundary of the Parish of St. Jerusalem. At its extreme North, this Ward is bounded by the present North boundary of the Town and comprises this portion of the territory of Lachute located West of the North River and north of the central line of the West River.

EAST WARD:

The East Ward includes all that section of the territory enclosed in the annexation project (see technical description and plan prepared by the undersigned on the 28th and 15th of March, 1963, respectively) and none included in the West and Central Wards hereinabove described.

I have prepared these presents at Lachute, P.Q., under number three hundred and fifty-three "A" of my file, this fifth day (5th) of June, one thousand nine hundred and sixty-three (1963).

Speaker corrects inaccuracies on canal data

TO THE EDITOR

August 26, 1963

Editor, The Watchman

Dear Sir:

May I, through the medium of your paper, point out certain errors in the report of my talk to the Argenteuil Historical Society on August 17, 1963.

I did not mention the history of the museum building since this was not affected by the new Carillon Dam project, and I do not think I mentioned the widths of the locks, which are inaccurately quoted in the report; but, for general information, the early locks on the first canal system built by the Royal Staff Corps, commencing 1819, were 108 ft. by 20 ft. to match those of the existing Lachine Canal, and the later locks were 134 ft. by 33 ft. to match those of the Rideau Canal. The second canal system in 1870 had all locks 200 ft. by 45 ft.

I hope you will be kind enough to print these corrections in case misconception should arise.

Yours truly,

— Dr. G. R. Rigby,
Director of Research,
Canadian Refractories Ltd.

Fear high toll in traffic mishaps, holiday week-end

Over the last six years, road traffic in Canada over the Labor Day week-end has taken an average of 54 human lives. The Canadian Highway Safety Council has expressed the fear that the 1963 Labor Day week-end toll will not be less.

The same holiday in 1962 saw 71 people killed in Canadian traffic during the 78 hours between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday. The Safety Council expected Ontario and Quebec each would account for at least 20 of the Labor Day week-end road fatalities.

"The real tragedy of this slaughter," said W. Arch Bryce, executive director of the Council, "is that it is needless." Deaths and injuries could be drastically reduced with the exercise of care and courtesy on the highways.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Vision worth striving for

LACHUTE'S $500,000 industrial loan fund, just approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs — and the hoped-for annexation of the urban area of St. Jerusalem — might together be a key and turning point in the economic progress of this district. For these measures will remedy two of the major obstacles to the establishment of new manufactures in our midst — first, the lack of building sites within reach of municipal services, and second, the need of local backing for construction.

It may be too early to count upon results, but vision and foresight are never out of season, and it is interesting to speculate on developments which might put Lachute in line with towns which have grown by leaps and bounds in the present generation. A comparison with a dozen such towns in the Montreal area leaves no doubt, that something has been lacking here.

There is another bright prospect for Lachute — its possibilities as a residential resort, which might develop surprisingly with the growth of industry and the improvement of amenities. An essential key to this prospect is the cleaning up of the North River, which will materialize sooner or later, despite progress which now seems discouragingly slow.

St. Jerome has plans afoot for the treatment of its sewage. Lachute will have to face this requirement of sanitation within a few short years. And in this matter the area of St. Jerusalem under proposed annexation, and doubtless the Municipality of Ayersville, will be involved, for sewage disposal is a major and costly undertaking. (It is believed the two major industries here would also be ready to co-operate; they too have problems of disposal.)

With the North River made attractive for recreation and riverside living, there is no telling what progress might take place. Mayor Dave Campbell of Lachute, whose foresight is in no way dulled by his practical outlook, evisages the development of residential sites east of Lachute along both sides of the river, besides those subdivisions already on the drawing board. Entailed in this growth will be the extension of water and sewer service on the north side of the river — while healthy growth continues on the eastern outskirts which now border St. Jerusalem.

All this — and the stabilizing factor of diversified industries, essential to economic balance — could paint a glowing picture of a town worth living in, worth working for.

Education in terms of "dough"

THIS BRIEF interim before school reopening may be a critical juncture in the lives of a few still pondering the continuance of their education. To these potential drop-outs the point of persuasion, in most cases, is the $ sign and the attraction of immediate earnings.

There can be only one way to combat this urge to leave school without thought of the future. Such argument we found most tellingly presented in a letter to The Montreal Star last week. The writer was Jack Goldner, of Montreal, whose calculations we take liberty to reprint: —

Without being labelled a "money-grubber," I would like to stress that it is sound economics to further one's education (says the letter to the editor). The individual and the nation stand to gain. It is estimated that every year of high school adds $16,000 to one's lifetime earnings: and each year of university adds an extra $25,000 to these earnings. The individual whose education terminates with elementary school will earn, during his working lifetime, an average of $178,000. The high school graduate can expect approximately $243,000 during his working life; and the university graduate will make, on an average, over $347,000.

There is a moral here as well, for the parent who may be reluctant to spend $1,000 or more each year to see his child through university. If university graduation can bring a $100,000 advantage in earning power over a lifetime, then the sacrifice is worth making. If young people cannot be convinced of the spiritual satisfactions resulting from higher education, then talk to them about "dough", for this is bound to keep them in school.

An autumn vacation

SOME CANADIANS are convinced that the fall can be the best time of the year for holidays in the country and lake districts.

Families with children of school age, of course, are tied down to a period in July or August. But couples whose children have grown up, and others who are able to pick almost any time for their annual holidays are realizing that the late weeks of September and October have many advantages for their annual break from routine.

People who rent a cottage find the rates are much lower after Labor Day. Hotels and motels are not crowded, and — perhaps best of all — the highways are back to normal traffic after the summer-long jams of motoring tourists.

Sure, the evenings may be chilly, and the lake may have turned too cold for swimming. But a good stock of wood for a blazing fireplace, and a heavy jacket for walks in the woods, are all that's needed to provide comfort.

And no matter what spot is chosen for the fall vacation, it can be a cozy headquarters for motor trips around the countryside. Choosing a different tour each day, the fall holidayer will see more communities in the area than he ever would in the height of summer.

The couple from the big city get a lot of enjoyment out of such trips through the small towns, with their friendly shops and restaurants, snack and coffee bars. The small places are back to their ordinary selves after the procession of fast-moving tourists all summer.

The trees in their autumn glory, the lakes quiet after the summer frenzy of outboards and water skiers, and country roads comparatively free of cars, are attractions in a fall vacation.

This is the really relaxing type of holiday — the kind that brings a man or woman back to the job with a new lease on life.

Viewpoints and perspectives

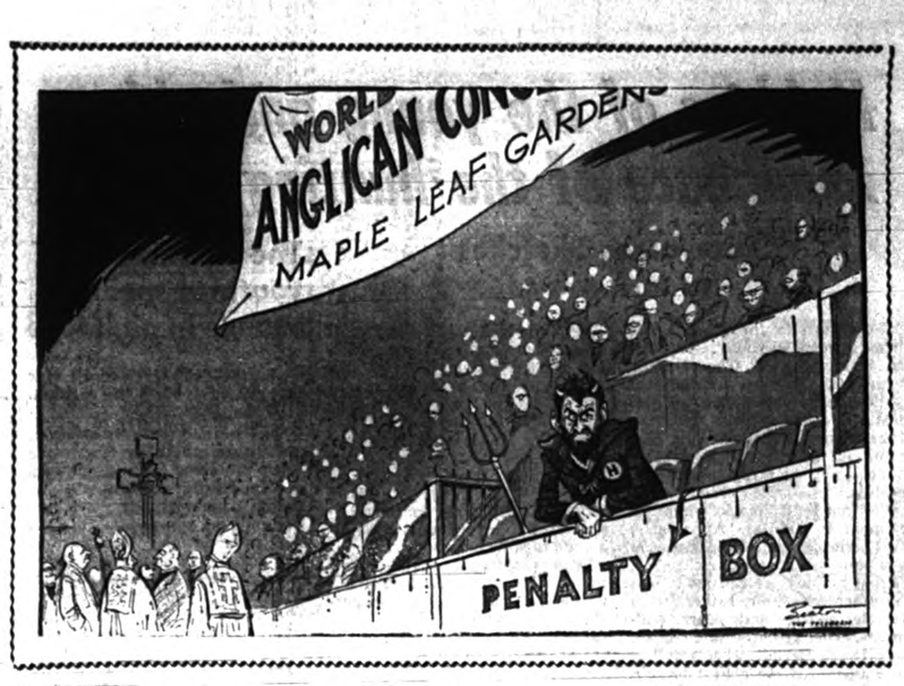

THE MOST RAPACIOUS predator on earth is the two-legged one, man. But man seldom serves nature's purposes. As a fisherman he kills indiscriminately. As a hunter he "takes off the top", usually slaying the prime animal. In contrast, says Reader's Digest, the natural predator takes off the bottom. The wolf takes the weakling, the stray. The killer whale does the same in the sea, leaving the best and strongest to survive and breed. — Powell River (B.C.) News

THE HEALTH of the community is not a group of special interests — says the Health League of Canada. It is essentially a single interest with different aspects. To exalt one of them, to get it out of focus, and to urge it at the expense of other essential factors, is unscientific, wasteful and misleading. Only as the essential unity of the task is recognized and as those who represent different phases work together in constant conference and in accordance with a comprehensive program, can the best results be secured.

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 24, 1888 —

It is rumored in England that the Hon. J. Abbott is about to be created a knight.

Brownsburg — Capt. Howard has erected a large storehouse 100x30 ft., and another building of the same size is fast nearing completion. He calculates to light the factory with electricity this coming winter.

Directors of Argenteuil Agricultural Society decided to locate the exhibition on the new permanent grounds purchased from Mr. Cruise, and to fence these grounds as soon as County Council sanctions the site.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 29, 1913 —

An editorial in The Watchman lauds the Borden Government for its record during its two years in office. The national program includes these projects:

— Important harbour improvements on both seaboards and the Great Lakes.

— National Transcontinental Railway leaks stopped.

— A parcel post system in operation by the end of the year.

"To this, but for the action of Laurier partisans in the Senate, would have been added provision for the construction of good roads in all provinces."

"Learn Nursing — Women's Hospital, Montreal; young women over 23 years wanted as probationers. Two years course. Apply Superintendent, 1002 St. Catherine St. West." (Advt.)

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Sept. 1, 1938 —

The Lake Louisa Fish and Game Club, with T. Forlong presiding, discussed possibilities of having a clubhouse in readiness for next season. . . . Ray Boyd was again appointed warden and guardian.

Dr. Finlay McMartin and Miss Marthe Larocque won the men's and ladies' titles for the 1938 tennis season.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

I have before me a copy of Munsey's Magazine dated July 1903. This was just about the beginning of an era that was to change the face of the world — the Automotive Era — that started out as a rich man's fad and eventually put just about everybody on wheels. Motoring in 1903 was not a means of transportation, but a new sport called Automobiling. It was in a class with yacht racing or golf. Only a few of the well-to-do went into it, and of course, it was just a fad "that couldn't last".

In this magazine just mentioned there is an advertisement which, if revived today, might cause a few raised eyebrows. The picture is of a foreign-looking car with four headlights, no bumper, no top, and a long wicker basket fastened to one side. It is occupied by three daring young men dressed like astronauts with goggles and long dusters. The title is "Automobiling," and the wording is as follows: "There is no more exhilarating sport or recreation than automobiling. The pleasure of a spin over country roads or through a city park is greatly enhanced if the basket is well stocked with Blank's Scotch Whiskey 'White Label'."

One of the three astronauts is leaning over the basket and extracting a bottle. . . Unfortunately there are still some folks around who insist on enhancing their recreation along similar lines!

Be seein' ya!

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Ready for school?

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Is your son or daughter ready for that first day of school? If there are several children in your family you hope that the first of September comes without too much apprehension in their hearts. Perhaps the vacation has been long enough, and, although they wouldn't admit it for anything, they are looking forward to the excitement and all the activity which school opening brings with it.

The long weeks of play in the outdoors has given your children the glow of health in their appearance. If you have a child beginning school, or if a youngster does not appear to be feeling very well, a check by the family doctor is a good investment. The visit to the dentist should come at regular half-yearly intervals, and if in doubt, do have your child's eyes or hearing examined, if necessary by a specialist.

The little child who is starting school for the first time has been getting ready for this experience for a long while. Mother has encouraged him to be happy playing alone with his toys while she has been in the next room or while he has been left in charge of a sitter. How unfortunate is the child who on his first day of school wants to cling to his mother, because she has been constantly with him! He needs to know he can be happy by himself and that there are other adults besides mother whom he can trust.

Nursery school is a wonderful experience for children in learning to play happily with other youngsters their own age without too much supervision. The child starting to school finds this much easier if he knows some other little child who is also beginning this big adventure.

Throughout his pre-school years his parents have been impressing on him that the road is never a safe place for play. He should have been drilled in "Look both Ways, Cross only at a Corner, and always Obey the Traffic Signals!"

Mother or an older sister or brother might walk with him to school a few days before school begins so that he will be familiar with the route and will know what his school looks like. Point out the room which will be his classroom. Talk about school as something to look forward to. Encourage him to expect his teacher will be a friendly person who likes youngsters.

Teachers of kindergarten and of first grade often complain that they cannot make out what a child is saying when asked for his name, age, birth date and address. Drill your child in giving these facts clearly. Be sure that he can go to the toilet by himself, see to his own clothes, and that he can put rubbers and goloshes off and on without calling for help. Remember that "teacher" usually has between 20 and 30 restless, hungry little boys and girls all struggling into rubbers at noon on the first rainy day in September!

A child is often not helped but hindered by parents attempting to teach him to read before his first day at school. Methods in teaching change and a child may be confused or bored if mother has been struggling to impart how-to-read information ahead of time!

But she can be of great assistance in reading aloud to him and in encouraging him to enjoy books. Visit the public library regularly with him. Buy books as gifts for birthdays and at Christmas and on special trips. Some of the best picture books recommended by the Canadian Library Association are Curious George, Angus and the Cat, Johnny Crow's Garden, The Story of Barbar, Millions of Cats, Little Toot, The Tale of Peter Rabbit, The Little Red Engine Gets a Name, and To Think that I Saw It on Mulberry Street.

There are other important things he can pick up at home — counting in nursery rhymes, telling time, the names of the days, and of the months. But when it comes to reading, let "teacher" embark on this instruction, herself, without an "assist" form you!

Hobbies of the young and old; imminence of the hunting season

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

To return to the other happy man, I promised you. . . This one is locally called The Hermit, which title has connotations of philosophical meditation. He is just, in fact, a plain Canadian squatter on government land. The cabin is the usual indescribable hodge-podge of things useful and useless. Into which category one would put the 15 clocks which we counted, is doubtful. Apparently, the Hermit is one of those people who can make any clock go, or, failing a clock, he can make one from scratch — or, rather, from bicycle spokes and other oddments. One gathered that a clock was, to the Hermit, what a doll is to a little girl, or a first bicycle to a boy (or a mushroom to the head of our house!)

The Hermit has a dog for a companion, and we noted with interest that this animal was in excellent condition. Spending the summer with their uncle were three boys of various ages, all looking reasonably healthy. Since the Hermit "toils not, neither does he spin", how the household manages to exist is one of the local mysteries. Rumor has it they live on buckwheat pancakes and berries. During the winter, the cabin must be nearly covered with snow and the owner is popularly supposed to hibernate, like his neighbors, the bears. All in all, it was an interesting visit, but we could not go along with the others who seemed to regard this man as a faintly-funny half-wit. There are things about this kind of existence that are revolting, but just the same, one envies a person who can dispense with most of the things we hold indispensable. . . By contrast, the writer and her friends, hoisting a pre-lunch drink which undoubtedly represented a month's living to the Hermit, looked a little unreal, like one of those paper-chain men our housekeeper used to make for us, as a child.

To each, his hobby. To the Hermit, clocks. To a fellow-diner at Amos' (female, aged about 12) it is the supernatural. This young lady professes to be a medium, and has held several séances this summer in the pig-house on the grounds of the hotel. We have it on good authority that two séances were necessary last week because of their popularity; I mean two "sittings" on the same night. One of our other youthful friends was a ghost. I believe that free candy was served. . . This is a young lady of parts; in a week distinguished by almost perpetual rain, and the groans of bored boarders, she found the days all too short. When not engrossed in organizing the forthcoming séance, she was very busy writing a history, and is now, we hear, at work on a play. Our faith in childhood is restored. We had begun to think that childhood, as we understood the term, had been abolished. To find one child who is not "organized", is refreshing. Do we discern a budding Charlotte Whitton? We hope so. Other peoples agree that we are the dullest and most moral nation on earth. I know nothing of the "morals of the youthful

So, life in these hills goes on, with never a dull moment so far as we are concerned. There was the usual flurry of jam and jelly-making, now happily having a lull until the apples have ripened. We achieved the black-currant jam for which we have yearned so long, thanks to a kind acquaintance who said, "Come and pick". The raspberry jelly glows like rubies on the shelf, and the fat jars of strawberry jam await their opening to waft about a smell of summer. Blueberries await their natural destiny in a winter pie, and the emerald of the mint jelly complements the various reds and purples. All very satisfactory. We even made about eight ounces of raspberry vinegar, a drink we remember with affection from our childhood. "Why bother?" queries the head of the house, then proceeds to slather jam on his toast, thus answering his own question. Financially, it pays. We figure the cost of an eight-ounce jar of jam is just about half of that of the same size in the chain-stores. We have, happily, now two neighbors who share with us the feeling of an itch, so to speak, at the sight of berries unpicked. We were beginning to think we were the sole survivor from another age!

* * *

After a bout with the preserving kettle, we are happy to take part in the social life of the community. One of these jaunts took us to the new church hall at Lakefield. It was a nice feeling to stand on a fine, new floor, to see the bright, modern kitchen, and admire the panelling of the walls, all where the former dilapidated building used to stand only a year ago. We all live in comfortable houses, and deny ourselves few of the comforts we desire; so it is only logical that houses dedicated to God should be trim and neat, a witness to our devotion.

* * *

Now, just to finish up, let me once more annoy the local councilmen by reminding them that the hunting season is just around the corner. What has been done to regulate the actions of those who call themselves hunters, but who are, really, just men with a gun? So far as we know, nothing. "It is a very complicated matter," says one. So it is, but not more so for the Council of The Gore than for that of Mille Isles, where we repeat, unless the signs are lying, there is to be NO HUNTING. Here, most of the lands are posted, but who is to enforce the No Trespassing? Of course, one could do as a Frenchman in our district recently did, as one of our friends was picking berries along his road. He shot (into the air, we hope), and yelled, "You get off my land." Were we to do such things, we would be accused of persecuting our French compatriots. But perhaps he has the right idea. Certain mentalities understand only force. But the force should not be left to individuals. Hunting hereabout opens October 19; after that, you walk about at your own risk. . . That is, unless our Council comes up with some leadership.

Strikes Medium

Mrs. Patricia McLaughlin says she'll go down in history as "the woman who emancipated British women from the penny turnstile in public washrooms."

She is MP for Belfast West, and she accompanied her husband Henry to the Anglican Congress in Toronto.

The pretty red-haired politician says she tries to strike a medium between a battle-axe and too feminine in her public career.

"The days of the militant suffragette are over but you still can't be too airy-fairy either and be successful."

The greatest difficulty for a woman in Britain wishing to launch a political career is to be selected a candidate by the local party committee.

But once elected, they stay in. Mrs. McLaughlin says she has held her riding — the largest industrial constituency in the country — longer than anyone else in history.

"They're marvellous people — my voters. They tell me when I'm lousy and they tell me when I'm good. They know I'm really interested in them."

After her first election, Mrs. McLaughlin set up an advice bureau for her voters. Every Saturday after her return from London, she talks over any problems her constituents wish to bring.

Image Attacked

Mrs. McLaughlin is one of about 400 women who accompanied their husbands to the Anglican Congress.

And when the women met to discuss their role in the church, they demanded ordination of women into the ministry. "We're all sick of the slick magazine's glorification of motherhood and the housewife," said Mrs. Graham Cotter of Toronto. She said the church failed to recognize woman's new dual role as wife and worker.

Mrs. Ruth Morrison of Garner, Iowa; Mrs. Allie Wilson of Cherokee, Iowa; Mrs. Mabel Macy of Windsor, Colo.; and Mrs. Mildred Taplin, of Toronto, enjoyed such reminiscences when they got together for the first time since their high school days more than 40 years ago.

"We had more fun in those days than young people do now because we had to make our own fun," said Mrs. Morrison.

In Cherokee High School the girls were charter members of the Jolly Hop Club. They organized dances, musical and dramatic evenings, skating and bobsled parties and taffy pulls.

The women — all widows now — will spend two weeks at Mrs. Taplin's Toronto home. They planned a trip to the Canadian National Exhibition to see Robert Goulet starring in the grandstand show.

Peeling onions without tears

Almost everyone who has invaded a kitchen has been reduced to tears, at one time or another, by a recipe that starts "Slice three large onions. . ."

Will-power doesn't help, for there is a good reason why onions make you cry. Covering the eye is a very sensitive membrane known as the conjunctiva. It lines the inner surface of the eyelids and gives the surface of the eyeball a transparent covering. This is what hurts when a small pebble or fleck of dirt irritates the eye.

In the case of the onion (according to researchers from the Murine Company) this vegetable contains an oily chemical which evaporates into the air and is highly irritating to the conjunctival membrane. To help the situation, the tear glands begin producing in an effort to wash the vapor away. Eye drops may also be used to relieve the irritation.

However, people who like fresh onions need not despair. Holding them under cold water while you peel, will be a helpful aid when you are preparing your favorite recipe.

AID SCHOOL MEALS

Winnipeg (CP) — The city school board has authorized subsidies of $13,000 a year on soup and $5,000 a year on milk sold to students in eight city high schools. This provides for a five-cent can of soup and a five-cent cup of milk.

For school wear

A diller, a dollar — today's ten o'clock scholar — starts back to school wearing clothes with neatness and ruggedness built-in. The trousers are continental styled with an adjustable waistband, in a grey/brown mixture of 65 per cent "Terylene" and 35 per cent cotton twill. The shirt is white "Terylene" and cotton batiste, with a convertible collar. Both are machine washable and require only the flick or an iron to restore their original fresh appearance.

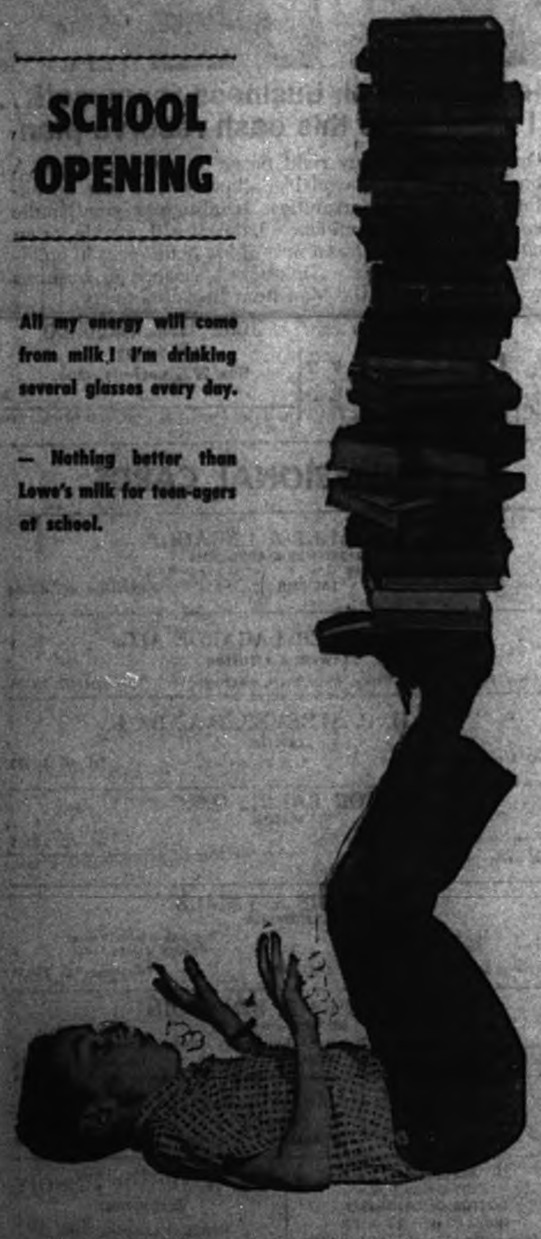

KITCHEN HINT

To ice a cupcake quickly — while it is still hot, top it with a piece of sweet or semi-sweet chocolate bar, spreading as the chocolate melts. Or dip the cooled cakes in rather thin icing and swirl them around.

Rabbit meat in retail stores

Rabbit meat is getting out of the woods and into retail meat and grocery stores, reports David Thompson in The Financial Post. It's an "excellent specialty item with excellent acceptance," according to one large chain. Processors are overcoming some of the problems involved in packing it commercially. One big problem in the less-than-one-year-old rabbit meat packing business seems to have been convincing people of its sincerity. A disconcerting factor, from a processing standpoint, has been getting enough rabbits to process. The business has a twofold problem: Many potential breeders lost confidence in the business last year after complaints that "certain contracts had not been honored", a packer says. And, prior to December, there was no provision under the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, for meat inspection of rabbit. As a result, stores were reluctant to handle it. Frozen and fresh rabbit on meat counters is now proof of the industry's existence. Two firms are processing rabbits under government supervision and have about 400 growers under contract between them.
