Road mishaps over holiday week-end

Provincial Police officers reported numerous accidents over the holiday week-end. One of the more serious involved the above-pictured cars, which sent five persons to hospital for treatment. Injured in the mishap were Mr. and Mrs. Ian McCaskill and son, David, 15, of Dunany, and Miss Anne Arundel-Evans, 16, of Lachute, all occupants of the sports car, which was rammed from behind by a car driven by Pierre Lapointe, 23, of R.R. 2, Lachute. No charges have been laid in the accident, which occurred on Route 41 near the Protestant Cemetery.

In two other mishaps, which occurred on Route 8 west of Lachute, Robert Cairndoff, 32, of Millway Street, and Bertrand Philippe Perreault, 27, of Sherbrooke, were both treated at the Argenteuil Hospital after having lost control of their respective vehicles.

Member scores hole-in-one at St. Andrews

Latest distinction of a hole-in-one was claimed by Leighton W. York of St. Andrews, playing last week on the local course. In a round of golf with his wife and Mr. L. E. Roberts, Mr. York made the shot with a 5-iron at the 15th hole (142 yards, par 3).

Arrested and charged in youth fatality

A 23-year-old resident of the Vankleek Hill district was arrested Friday evening by Grenville Police Chief Laurent Davidson, and was turned over to Q.P.P. officers. The latter laid charges of hit-and-run and impaired driving, in connection with the death of Gilles Aubrey, 14, of Grenville. Arrested was Jean Guy Dubois, who is scheduled to appear in court September 13 on the impaired driving charge. No date has been set for the inquest.

The accident occurred at 8.20 p.m. Friday, approximately 500 feet north of the Perley Bridge. The victim, Gilles Aubrey, and a companion, Richard Woodbury, 17, also of Grenville, were riding their bicycles when they were both struck from the rear. Young Woodbury was not seriously injured, but his companion died almost instantly.

Dubois was arrested a short time after the accident, not far from the scene of the fatality.

H.S. enrolment near 800; Grade XII is innovation

Lachute High School reopens today (Wednesday) after the summer vacations, with Principal Fred Royal in charge, a staff of 38 teachers, and an enrolment of almost 800 pupils.

An innovation this year is the opening of a Grade XII. It is 10 years since this grade was provided in High School education here; at that time it was discontinued through high costs and insufficient students to benefit.

The Grade XI entry of 60 pupils is the largest on record for this grade. These are divided into two classes. Only four of the 60 pupils are repeaters from last year.

The Subject Promotion system is continuing. This is the second year of a three-year experimental period in the Lachute school.

Another innovation is noted in the Grade I classes, where young pupils will start learning Arithmetic by the Cuisenaire method — described by Principal Royal as "visualizing numbers and number processes". Four members of the junior-grade teaching staff took a course in this subject at Lennoxville during July.

Among the 38 teachers there are four newcomers this year, all from the Maritime Provinces. These additions include:

Mr. Eugene Gates, B.A. (Mus.), a graduate in Music from Acadia University, who has been teaching at Cornerbrook, N'fld. He will replace Mrs. G. R. Rigby as music instructor.

Miss Martha DeWitt, B.A., who has latterly been engaged with the New Brunswick Board of Education. Miss DeWitt will be teaching some of the senior grades.

Mr. Leslie Waye, B.Sc., B.Ed., a graduate of Acadia, who has been teaching at Goose Bay, Labrador, and who was married just this past month. Mr. Waye will teach Chemistry.

Mr. Jerry Vokral, M.Sc., B.Ed., a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, who will teach Biology.

14 Pups by Caesarian birth

This German Shepherd female, owned by Richard Bell, of St. Michel de Wentworth, produced a litter of 15 pups by Caesarian birth, at Dr. Russell McMahon's veterinary clinic here last week. Seen above are the mother and 14 puppies (one was stillborn). The operation was performed by Dr. McMahon and the youngsters are being fed with an eyedropper by his assistant, Miss Ingrid Eicus. The large family is thriving. The mother and her owner are justly proud. — Photo, Syd Drew

Beagle Club trials attracted enthusiasts from wide area

Lachute Beagle Club Inc. held their fifth annual C.K.C. Licensed Field Trial for Beagles (Pack), at the newly-purchased running grounds at Cushing recently.

The rainy weather which prevailed during the month of August and was not greatly appreciated by the populace at large, made excellent running conditions and at this trial it was the fastest moving hounds who took the trophies. This was in sharp contrast to the previous year's trial, when the weather was so hot and dry that it took a hound with a sensitive nose to be able to pick up the scent and follow the game at all.

The entries were the largest to date, and the largest of any of the trials in the Quebec and Eastern Ontario Association during the past year.

To augment its funds, the Club raffled a two-months-old registered beagle pup, which was donated by a member, Mr. Gerry Guay, of St. Janvier, Que. The draw was made on the final day of the trial, the winner being Mr. George McLellan, of Rosemount, a security officer at T. Eaton Co. Ltd., and also a member of Lachute Beagle Club.

The Club was well repaid for the effort put forth by the members and all the hard work involved to hold a trial of this kind — since, from the proceeds, they were able to pay off all remaining debt on the clubhouse, which was built on the club property during the last spring.

Breakfast was served at the clubhouse each morning, and refreshments sold at the running grounds during the day.

The Field Trial chairman, Keith Boa, and club president, W. M. C. Steeves, along with all members, are grateful to those who assisted in any way in the success of this trial, and especially to Farmers' Supply Co. of Lachute, for their donation of dog food and for the loan of necessary equipment. Special mention is due to all those Cushing residents who gave permission to use their property for running grounds; without their kind co-operation the trial would not have been possible in that area, which is one of the best to be found anywhere.

Winners of Events

This year, for the first time, the Club held a Best of Show contest. Every hound entered was eligible to compete, one winner being chosen from each of the four classes. Trophies for this were donated by a club member, Mr. Bruno Seguin, of Ste. Marguerite, Que. Owners of hounds winning this hound beauty contest were André Allard, of St. Jean, Que., C. J. Durham, of Westmeath, Ont., Okiel Stuart, of St. Lambert, Que., and Clarence Barcomb, of Hardwick, Vt.

Field Trial trophy winners were Derrell Ovitt, of Fairfax, Vt.; Angelo Morgia, of Watertown, N.Y.; Art Warren, Cornwall, Ont.; and Orman Ovitt, of Fairfax, Vt. Keith and Betty Boa, of Lachute, won a fifth-place ribbon on their little 13" male, Concert Dob, entered for the first time in a licensed trial.

Among the total entry of 112 hounds were many American dogs which had already finished their championship and whose owners are now working for a Canadian championship on the same hound.

Two local breeders, Dr. George Coombes and Mr. Keith Boa, each own Canadian champions, as did Mr. George McGibbon; but unfortunately the latter's dog was killed.

The Club is always pleased to welcome enthusiasts who wish to join, or to attend and watch the running, in this type of sport called Beagling.

Two sentenced in White Acres armed hold-up

Two Cornwall residents who pleaded guilty to charges of attempted robbery at the White Acres Lodge tourist hotel near Calumet, which took place in early July, were last week sentenced to jail terms. Two others will be sent to trial at a later date.

Hilton Boisclair and Harold Francis Ingram were each sentenced to terms of five years for taking part in an armed hold-up in which Arthur White was shot. Boisclair received another two years, to be served concurrently, on a breaking and entering charge concerning the theft of several rifles from a store in Grenville about the same time.

Paul André, 19, is awaiting word on a medical and psychiatric examination before facing trial with Charles Allinnotte, 24, who also faces a charge of discharging a gun with intent to cause bodily harm. No date has been set for this trial.

Rotary talk on topic of investments

The speaker at the weekly meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was Mr. Peter Matthews, investment dealer with Wood-Gundy Co., of Montreal. His subject was the investment business, and covered mainly the stock and bond markets. He described the various types of bonds, methods used in handling them, their purposes, and the significance of the bond market as an indicator of the state of finance in our country.

On the other hand the stock market provides an opportunity for individuals and others, of sharing and participating in the ownership of various companies, and, through the voting powers included in the stocks, of actually managing those companies.

Mr. Matthews explained that stocks were mainly owned by individuals, rather than by companies, but that now the field has been entered by insurance companies, pension plans and trust companies, etc.

Investment brokers are interested in broadening the field of stock owners, having found that Canadians, as a whole, are very conservative in the handling of monies for investment purposes.

Bonds are a symbol of money loaned, while stocks represent actual ownership.

Present market indications, as well as indications for the future, show bond markets in a very healthy state, and, according to the speaker, a very good proposition for investment.

Mr. Matthews was introduced by Bill Steeves and thanked by Jim Campbell.

Scholarship to McGill Univ.

Sanford (Sandy) Welburn, 17, of Brownsburg, has received a J. W. McConnell Scholarship in Science. The scholarship, totalling $1,400 yearly for four years, is awarded to students entering the faculty of Arts and Science at McGill University. Graduating from Brownsburg High School in June, Sandy received first class honors in the High School Leaving examinations. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Welburn, of Brownsburg.

Richelieu Club held field day at Fair Grounds

After postponement on three previous dates due to bad weather and poor condition of the race track, the Richelieu Club's annual harness events were finally held at the exhibition grounds last Sunday afternoon. The sky was sunny but the weather cool, and only a moderate crowd attended.

There were eight trotting races on the program, which was climaxed by the club's drawing for a Chevy II automobile. All proceeds from these efforts are devoted to Richelieu welfare funds and maintenance of their park and swimming pool. The winner was decided by an elimination drawing. Ten tickets were taken from the drum and placed in another receptacle. These were again drawn out in turn, the last remaining ticket winning the prize. The lucky number was held by Paul-Emile Gagné of Ayersville; vendor of the ticket was Guy Lagarde.

The car was formally handed over to the new owner that evening on the grounds, by Notary Simon Valois, the club president, and Adrien Lacasse, the car dealer. (See picture on this page.)

'Concerts' membership up; artists and dates arranged

Bookings and dates of the 1963-64 Community Concert series in Lachute were confirmed by Columbia Artists Management last week, and the three programs meet the choice of the local directors on dates well selected as regards weather conditions and other factors in this area. The dates and particulars will be furnished to all members in circular letters accompanying the season tickets, in good time for the first attraction.

The result of the membership campaign, not hitherto announced due to incomplete returns from the subscribing districts, now shows a total of 475, which is an increase over previous years' enrolments. Notable increases were from St. Eustache and St. Andrews, with Lachute and Brownsburg showing sustained enthusiasm and Hawkesbury encouraging, though not yet finally closed as to enrolment.

With this outcome of the annual campaign, optimism for the coming season is entertained by the president, Mrs. Fernand Legault, and the directors.

Following are the three features and dates for which they have been engaged:

Monday, Oct. 14, 1963 —
Hungarian Ballets — Bihari

Tuesday, Feb. 11, 1964 —
Fou Ts'ong, pianist

Monday, April 27, 1963 —

Mother of five has triplets

Buckingham, Que. (CP) — When Mrs. Ronald Gauthier, 31-year-old farmwife from Glen Almond, left for hospital Monday of last week, her five daughters prayed for a boy.

The Gauthier family now has eight girls!

Mrs. Gauthier was delivered of triplets last Tuesday. They weighed 4 pounds, 3 pounds 6½ ounces, and 3 pounds 2 ounces. The babies were placed in incubators.

One of three triplet girls born prematurely was reported to be having some trouble breathing, and died only 34 hours after birth.

Mr. Gauthier, in town to make funeral arrangements, lost his wallet containing $1,000 in cash and two cheques totalling $444. The $1,000 had been borrowed to pay carpenters for building a new barn on the Gauthier farm.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

The hunting season is creeping up on us. Gun owners who will be giving their firearms the annual clean-up, should remember these little safeguards. When taking these weapons out of mothballs, there are certain things that should be checked. You know them as well as I do, but somehow or other you may have forgotten them.

Check the barrel for obstructions. Queer objects do get jammed into them, especially if there happen to be youngsters around the house. Just this one little safety check can save you, at the very least, a blown barrel. Check the action, bolt, lever, automatic, etc. At times they have become twisted and stuck. This should be looked after right now; don't try and use any gun with these faults.

The firing pin or striker pin may have become rusted into the slot, or it may have been left cocked (this happens often), making the spring almost useless. Another thing, if the pin has been spoiled by continued use, then replace it — and not with a nail, as seems to be the practice in this area.

The forearm or stock may have developed hair cracks, this can become a split, making the stock useless. I know it will mean a lot of hard work, but it's better to start with a new one; these can be made by anyone handy with a knife and sandpaper.

The barrel or action may have become gummy and rusty. Take the bolt or action out and pour hot water down the barrel; this will loosen up the rust and gum. Be sure to dry them thoroughly, too. The bolt, etc., can be steeped in a light oil for a short time, then wiped clean. Repeat this if all the goo does not come off.

"Leading" in the barrel must be cleaned off. Pour solvent down the barrel, allow to set for a few minutes, and swab out; you may have to do this a number of times before all the lead is removed. This job is certainly a "must", not only for your shooting, but for your own safety too. Even a very small particle of lead will cause erratic shooting, and in some cases jamming or split casings. If this is done, then you should have a reasonably accurate gun.

Naturally, all this will do you no good if the sights are inaccurate. The best way to sight in any gun, is on a rest; this can be either a bench or fixed rest, or a couple of sandbags placed in the proper position for you. You will be surprised at just how much your sights may have been thrown off during the summer. All it takes is a sharp tap, and you're out of business as far as deer shooting is concerned.

After all this, think of your handling of these firearms. You know you can either be a good gunner and use all the knowledge of safe handling, or you can be the stupid kind that ends up in disaster.

A recent tourist gave me some information on the parks he had visited while down on the Gaspé Coast. Tenting for the first time, they've "had it", as far as our parks are concerned. Every camp they called at, whether provincial or private — it was all the same. Filth lying all around, and toilet facilities you prefer to forget about. Having read so much on the wonderful parks we were going to have in Quebec, these people were naturally interested in trying this camping in their own province. As I was told, the whole attitude seemed to be, "To hell with the tourist; we don't want them anyway.". With all the guff given out by the Tourist Department on these wonderful attractions, luring the unsuspecting tourist into the province only to find neglect and filth — it appears we have slipped back into the old rut very fast.

A nice Northern pike was taken from the North River recently — 25½ pounds, it fell to a bunch of Garden Hackle (worms) with a float! The Montrealer who caught this one was fishing with his two youngsters up towards Cote St. Louis, just killing time with the kids, when he got this hit; and after a short but hard fight, he boached it. When I think of the numbers who fish this particular area with all the "right kinds of lures", and who catch nothing — maybe we should all go back to the worms! However, a few smaller ones have been taken this past week; nothing extra large, up to about 10 lbs. But this augurs well for September, when they SHOULD be ready to put on the feed bags. (I'm still after that log with fins I spotted early in the spring.)

Viewing some of the antics of the duck shooting fraternity in this district, makes you realize just how seriously they take this sport. Blinds finished, or in preparation, can be seen in yards around town. In some cases these properties appear to have sprouted a small cedar and bullrush grove. I got a kick the other night to see a rowboat come along, with two of the boys who were hacking away at all the rushes along the riverbank and piling them into the boat. They were on the way up the river when first spotted; they came back about an hour later, loaded with ferns, bullrushes, pits of moss, and everything else imaginable. The fellow rowing was perched at least 3 feet high sitting on this pile of camouflage. I don't know how he was able to row; at times the oars flailed at the air, and it looked as though they were in for a swim. How they got home I don't know, but I give them credit for doing it the hard way.

I have had inquiries from hunters on how to loosen up their hunting boots. As usual, these have been put away with nothing done to them since. First of all the boots should be cleaned, not with polish but with saddle soap. Get a sponge, pour water into a small dish, wet the sponge with the water, then smear on saddle soap. Then, brother, rub like h—. You'll have to do this a number of times to get all the dirt out of the leather, but the trouble is worth it. This done, then rub a small amount of the soap into the leather. Keep repeating this until the leather is pliable, leaving the boots overnight before repeating the operation. The more soap rubbed into the leather, the more pliable it will become. This can be done to all leather, even snowshoes, so don't worry about having some of the soap left over. I think most of you have admired a show horse with all its trappings gleaming; generally speaking, the harness is treated this way. . . When you have the leather soft, then fill the boots with paper; this will help them take their shape once again. Your hunting boots are a big factor in whether you enjoy your trip or spend it nursing blisters. It's up to you.

Reports from the Department of Northern Affairs on the duck and goose populations, give a gleam of hope that maybe our duck birds are going to make it, after all. Seemingly there have been increases all along the line. Some of the ducks that were in danger of being shot, have made a good comeback, and appear to be no longer in danger of extermination. Naturally, some of these birds are still on the restricted list, and that is as it should be. Geese in some cases have made great increases, much better than had been expected. All this good fortune may be attributed to the very wet spring we had all over the country. It made good nesting places for the young, with no drying up of the feeding grounds; all this helped to give them a new lease on life. So much water-logged countryside also helped to keep the predators down a lot. As you know, most dry killers do not care for water too much, so the fox and raccoons were not too destructive. It's great news anyway, no matter how you explain it.

TECHNICAL DESCRIPTION

The territory presently considered comprises the West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem, in the county of Argenteuil, bounded to the North by the Township of Gore, to the South and to the South-East by the parish of St. Andrews of Argenteuil, to the East by the Parish of St. Jerusalem and to the West by the Township of Chatham, the whole with reference to the designation shown on the plan of the official cadastre; to deduct nevertheless from the said West part of the parish of St. Jerusalem the territory covered by the municipality of the town of Lachute.

More particularly, the line which circles this portion of the parish of St. Jerusalem may be described as follows:

Beginning from a point located on a line which divides the parish of St. Jerusalem from the township of Chatham and "to a location where it reaches the foot of the mountain on lot 1962-C on the official plan of the said parish, at 858 feet, English measure, from the middle of the Chatham Road to the North it circumvenes firstly to the North, to the East and to the South the Municipality of the actual Town of Lachute (references: Erection, Deschamps p. 375, and Limits, Piché p. 224) in following a direction towards the East along the foot of the mountain (to the East of the farm house of Leggo) up to its intersection on the North River; from there, following in going up the middle of the North River to a point made by the intersection of the continuation towards the North, of the East line of lot 329-A- on the said plan by the middle of the river (Morrison's Bridge); from there going towards the South along the line hereinabove mentioned, up to the highway; from there up to a point on the South side of the main above mentioned highway where it is intersected by lines dividing lots 312 and 325 on the said plan; (at Lane): from there towards the South in following the prolongation of the line hereinabove mentioned up to a point formed by its intersection with the prolongation to the East of the central line of Henry Street on Plan "B" of the parish of St. Jerusalem; from there, in a westerly direction in following the line previously mentioned to a point formed by its intersection with the middle of Isabella Street on the said plan (Barron's grove); from there, in a Southerly Direction in following the line just previously mentioned up to a point strictly East from a corner South-West of lot 1419 on the official plan and book of reference of the Parish of St. Jerusalem; (Rope factory), this point being located on lot 1406; from there, in a straight West direction across lot 1406-1402 and 1412, passing by the South West on said lot 1419 up to its intersection with the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, this last point located straight West from the South West corner of lot 1419;

Then this line runs towards the South, coinciding with the South part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Township of Chatham, up to the South West corner of the said Parish; then it turns towards the East, then towards the North East in following the separation line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the Parish of St. Andrews, up to the extreme West of lot 112-A thence, it continues in the same direction towards the East, along the division line of lots 111 and 95 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, up to the South East corner of the said lot 111.

From there, it runs towards the East coinciding with the Western part of the line dividing the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Gore, up to the North West corner of the said parish; then, it runs finally towards the South, coinciding with the North part of the division line between the parish of St. Jerusalem and the township of Chatham, up to the starting point, which corresponds to the North West corner of the present limit of the town of Lachute.

At Weekly Editors' convention —

Provincial Secretary speaks on French-Canada viewpoint

Murray Bay, Que. — Charles H. Nolan, a weekly newspaper publisher for the past 26 years, was elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in convention here last Thursday.

Mr. Nolan appointed Yves Gagnon of the St. Jean (Que.) "Le Canada Francais" as liaison commissioner between the CWNA and the French weeklies.

Bona Arsenault Is Speaker

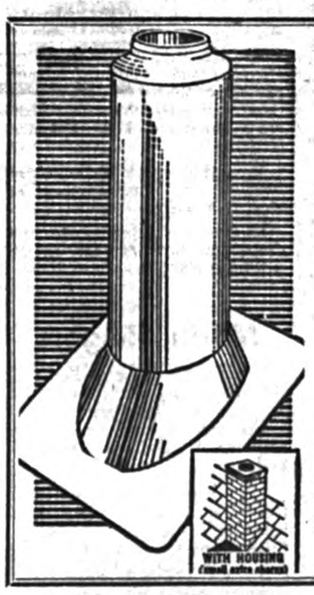

Quebec Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault told members of the Association that confederation could come apart within "the next couple of years" unless constitutional problems are solved. "We French Canadians are even more concerned over this possibility than are English Canadians," he said, "for we love this country, not from Gaspé to the Ottawa River, but from Newfoundland to British Columbia." He warned other Canadians that "those who feel that this latest surge of Quebec Nationalism will die away", will be sadly mistaken.

"If others in Canada think the people in Quebec will go back to sleep again they (the other Canadians) are only contributing to deterioration of the situation."

He said that extremists in Quebec are part of the situation but "most of the five million people in Quebec are highly civilized." Mr. Arsenault said that the Quebec Government now in power "ended a decade of personal dynasty and of dictatorship similar to those in the banana republics," and that many changes have been made but more are to come. He said that the government would be used as a lever to gain further control for French Canadians of the province's economy but maintained that the government was not opposed to private enterprise.

"Golden Age is Coming"

One of North America's leading authorities on weekly newspapers, Dr. Howard Long of Southern Illinois University, told the convention that weekly editors should no longer be concerned exclusively with "bond issues and street improvement." Dr. Long argued for a strong editorial page. He claimed that changes in population in North America are causing "new vacuums", particularly in suburban districts. He said that the weeklies were better equipped than the dailies to fill this vacuum. "The golden age of the weekly newspaper is coming," he said — and weeklies should rise to the occasion."

Contract given for restoration of 'Snye' island

Improvement work on Chenail Island at Hawkesbury will begin immediately, and is scheduled for completion within six weeks.

Harry Hustler, Ontario Hydro director of property, states that a contract for the project has been awarded to D. F. McPhee, of Vankleek Hill, whose tender of approximately $11,000 was the lowest of three received.

The project will include construction of three gravel parking areas, restoration of several existing roads, bush clearing, and fertilizing and seeding.

Chenail Island (or "the Snye" as it is popularly known) was the site of a lumber mill built in the early 1800s to supply timber to Britain during the Napoleonic Wars.

Higher water levels in the Ottawa River caused by the Carillon power development forced the removal of all dwellings from the island during Ontario Hydro's relocation program in Hawkesbury.

Animal Care

BACK INTO TOWN

During the summer many pet dogs and cats have been away with families enjoying the carefree life in the country. The time is here when everyone has to return to town and a more routine life.

Strange as it may seem, there are many instances each year of owners who forget their pets and leave them in the country after they have shut up the cottage.

Doing this can only result in tragedy. Domestic pets are so far removed from wild life conditions that they cannot live by themselves. They become emaciated, may be attacked by wild animals, and certainly die a painful death by starvation.

If your pet has been at the cottage all summer there is no reason why he should not be found very quickly. Pets rarely stray far away from their owners.

The other important point to remember when you come back into town is that many wild animals will be foraging around your cottage during the coming winter months.

Any garbage left around, particularly tins, can be quite dangerous to them. A wild animal will push its head into an opened tin to get at the scraps of food left in the bottom. Sometimes its head gets stuck and the result is a painful, lingering death.

Always crush tins flat and burn all other garbage. Finally, never break bottles. Animals, as well as human beings, can suffer from badly cut feet.

This is a weekly column from the Montreal CSPCA, a non-profit organization devoted to animal welfare.

A special message to all parents of boys and girls now in high school

You can guarantee your youngster's College Education in partnership with "MY BANK" TO 3 MILLION CANADIANS 8 of 10

BANK OF MONTREAL

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the first life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, guardians and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS

Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university, and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

VARIANTS OF THE PLAN

Several optional plans are available under the programme, and these vary as to the number of years in which the parent wishes to make monthly payments, as well as to the amount required annually for university expenses. Plans are based on objectives ranging from $1,000 to $8,000 payable to the parent in four annual instalments.

Here is an example of how one of the basic plans can be varied to suit your needs:

OBJECTIVE: $4,000
To be paid to the parent in four annual amounts of $1,000 each

OPTIONS	YOU PAY MONTHLY	PERIODS OF PAYMENT	YOUR PAYMENTS BEGIN
Plan A	$49.55	7 years	2 years before university
Plan B	42.78	8 years	3 years before university
Plan C	37.56	9 years	4 years before university

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University — or planning to register this year — talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

Geometry and history and 'staying alive'

Montreal — Fifteen qualified high school teachers and five instructors graduated from the 8th Training Course in Driver Education, a two-week course given at Sir George Williams University, August 19 to 30.

The aim of this course was to provide qualified teachers with the best means by which high school students might acquire correct attitudes, concepts, habits, and skills so essential to teenage drivers.

In closing the graduation meeting, Ralph E. Thomas, M.Ed., from the Pennsylvania State University, who conducted the course said: "What good is geometry or history to a youngster who gets killed at 19 on the highway? The answer to that question is sufficient justification for teaching our boys and girls to behave responsibly when sitting behind the wheel of an automobile." Mr. Thomas declared that 99 out of 100 of our teenagers would be driving a motor vehicle, and this is why driver education is not merely a preparation for life — it is a way to stay alive. The same could not be said of geometry or history.

Hope for Dead is in the Resurrection.

Revelations 21-4 says: God "shall wipe away all tears from their eyes: and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain — for the former things have passed away."

I was happy to note in the In Memoriam column of August 28 Watchman, a few lines at the bottom of a lovely little tribute which said something like this:

"Each time I see your picture
You seem to smile and say,
'Don't cry, I am only sleeping,
We will meet again some day'."

I believe what it says in Romans 15, 4 about the scriptures: "For whatsoever things were written, were written for our learning; that we, through patience and comfort of the scriptures, might have hope."

It also says (1 Corinthians 15: 20-22) "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Can you believe the time will come when men will never die? That is not an idle dream; it is a promise of God, moreover, our generation will live to see it.

Hunter trials September 8 at Ste. Scholastique

Entries from many parts of Ontario and Quebec are expected for the annual hunter trials, organized by the Montreal Hunt, this Sunday, September 8. The trials will be held at the Montreal Hunt Farm, Ste. Scholastique, starting at 9.30 a.m.

The trials include classes from novices to qualified hunting horses. Three major trophies are to be awarded: the MacDougall Trophy for a team of three hunters, the Hugh Paton Cup for handy working hunter, and the Viau Trophy for qualified hunter. The Viau Trophy is open only to horses that have hunted at least five times in one season with a recognized pack of hounds.

The trials will be held on a completely new course recently built at the Hunt Farm. The Montreal Hunt, which is the oldest hunt club in North America, believes that the new course is one of the most outstanding on the continent.

Judges will be Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rough, of Newmarket, Ont. Joint Masters of the Montreal Hunt are Mrs. G. R. McCall, MFH; Mrs. Ward C. Pitfield, MFH; and Rolland Desourdy, MFH; while D. W. Stewart is chairman of the executive committee.

The public are invited to attend the trials, and adequate parking facilities will be provided.

Fills Government Post Abroad

Former acquaintances will note that Mr. George Powell has left the presidency of the Chantecler Resort Hotel, Ste. Adele, to become European manager of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, a newly-created post. Mr. Powell has spent much time abroad, and will make his headquarters in London. He was 1961 president of the Canadian Tourist Association. . .

"George" is remembered by many as a former High School student here, when his home was at Ste. Agathe. He "cut his literary teeth" on a High School sports column in The Watchman, and in World War II was editor of The Maple Leaf, published for the Canadian expeditionary force in Italy.

take no notice whatever. The highest string of a violin has been scraped an inch away from bees engaged in pillaging flowers and the bees paid no attention. Other senses of insects, including flies, are so wonderful and in some respects so superior to our own, that it is immensely interesting to find that nearly all, including the highest insects, such as bees, ants and wasps, are deaf.

Can an insect hear?

There are a few insects that can hear, but the greater number, including flies, cannot hear at all. Every imaginable kind of sound has been tried and insects, with the exception of a very few kinds,

Mr. Laurier Saumur, supervisor of the Jehovah's Witness convention to be held September 28-29 at Three Rivers. The convention will draw more than 2,000 delegates from all over the province.

French-speaking Witnesses to meet at Trois-Rivières

The presiding minister of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. J. Blair Shearer, announces that the Witnesses will be holding their largest French-speaking convention to date, at the Trois-Rivières exhibition grounds September 28-29.

"All Witnesses of the region anticipate attending the convention," said Mr. Shearer. There are now more than one million Jehovah's Witnesses in the world preaching in 192 countries. In Canada 40,625 are ordained ministers, of whom 3,500 are in Quebec Province.

The coming convention will be the last of a series of world-wide assemblies that began earlier this summer in Milwaukee and included New York, London, Bankok, Seoul and Melbourne. Trois-Rivières will be the only Canadian city to have such a convention this year.

The four-day program theme, "Everlasting Good News", will emphasize the importance of Bible reading. Mr. Shearer stated, "The Bible provides the best counsel for the modern world and it applies particularly to the family in the prevention of growing juvenile delinquency." He added, "The solution to racial problems, crime and the general breakdown in morals is found in the Bible and it is the desire of the Witnesses that all persons in Quebec know this."

The climax of the convention will be a public talk, "When God is King Over All the Earth," Sunday, September 29, at 3 p.m. by Mr. Laurier Saumur, Quebec Supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Warns truckers on wood loads

C.I.P. "Woods Notes" has a comment on hazardous loading of pulpwood trucks, which is a source of some anxiety to motorists in passing some of these vehicles on the highway. Says the C.I.P. bulletin:

It has been noticed of late that a number of trucks bringing wood to our Hawkesbury woodyard have loosely piled loads and pulpwood sticks protruding dangerously from the load. This is definitely hazardous when travelling through the streets . . . and on the highway. We are aware that most truckers are careful, but it is always a good practice to check that the load is squared off, that it is backed by a strong tailgate rather than pickets, and that it is well bound with chains to avoid shifting of the load.

LACHUTE - ST. JERUSALEM ANNEXATION
What Advantages for the citizens of St. Jerusalem?

1. Equal representation with Lachute on the municipal council.
2. Removal of tax for Garbage Service.
3. Removal of tax for Street Lighting.
4. Saving of $75 initial charge for Fire Brigade service.
5. Police protection integrated with Lachute service.
6. Fire protection integrated with Lachute service.
7. Better road maintenance, especially snow clearing.
8. Higher property valuation.
9. Greater re-sale value of property.
10. Better-organized recreation facilities.
11. Increased prospects for new industries in this territory (with certainty of one new manufacture within a year).
12. Reduction of domestic electricity rate. (Presently, 2,500 kilowatts in Lachute costs $28.46; same consumption in St. Jerusalem costs $30.77.)

Attention, St. Jerusalem Taxpayers!

St. Jerusalem offers you a decrease in taxes — with the early expectation of costs for a sewage-treatment plant . . . That does not make sense!

St. Jerusalem does not mention the surcharge on water rate, which it will be obliged to pay Lachute Town since construction of the filtration plant.

Education bill and civil service are priority matters at Quebec

QUEBEC THIS WEEK
By John Yorston,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — What may become an annual pilgrimage for the Quebec cabinet was made last week as the government leaders gathered for an informal meeting at Lac à l'Epaule.

The meeting could have far-reaching effects on the Quebec political scene. It was just one of several events during the week which had a certain significance for political observers.

Just what transpired at the lake, where the government decided a year ago to call an election on the Power Expropriation issue, is anybody's guess.

Premier Lesage told reporters after the meeting that discussions were purely administrative. They touched on Hydro-Quebec and government departments. There was also discussion of the Education Bill question, he said.

And Patronage?

The mention of administrative questions led to speculation that it revolved around the question of some Union Nationale-appointed civil servants. Ever since 1960, a segment of the Quebec Liberal Federation has been demanding dismissal of political appointees named under the former administration. The demands are likely to be repeated at the Federation meeting this October.

Mr. Lesage has been devoting much of his time this summer to ways and means of overhauling the civil service, something that was promised in the 1960 campaign. The cabinet may be divided on the question of handling Union Nationale appointees. In the Legislature last session, Georges Lapalme, Cultural Affairs minister, charged some civil servants are "sabotaging" the government's work. Other ministers, it is felt, are against firing government employees merely to please the party.

The Education Bill

The question of "Bill 60" — the measure creating an Education Department — was also taken up, Mr. Lesage noted. Here again, no details have been made known, but it is believed the cabinet has decided once and for all to go ahead with establishing the department.

Near the end of the week, Mr. Lesage made a strong speech to the Corporation of Catholic Teachers, intimating there would be no further delay in adopting the bill and reiterating that the government doesn't intend to curtail the powers to be given the future Minister of Education. He spoke as the deadline — last Sunday — approached for suggested amendments to the bill.

There was no question, he said, of distributing authority in education but rather of "identifying it and clearly defining its responsibilities." . . . "Creation of a real Education Ministry constitutes a priority measure which we will apply without evasion."

Taxation Claims

Another speech which gained more than the usual amount of attention was made by Bona Arsenault, the Provincial Secretary, in a talk to the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

It was seen as another key statement of government policy regarding the province's economic development and its taxation claims on Ottawa. The government, he said, is involved in a gigantic task — remaking the education system, planning highways, seeking means to lead Quebecers into investing in the province. These steps required money, lots of it, and this was "one of the basic reasons for our 'hard' attitude towards Ottawa."

"This province wants a more satisfactory access to its own taxation resources and the ability to use them according to its own plans and not according to the plans dictated by other powers." Much depends on how the rest of Canada continues to react to "this province's reasonable and just demands on the federal government," Mr. Arsenault said.

Other provinces need money. To Quebec it is more than a question of money, it is a question of national survival."

Just how closely these two speeches are related to the meeting at Lac à l'Epaule, is anyone's guess. Mr. Lesage said he hopes to make it an annual affair, so that the cabinet ministers could spend several days together.

Body recovered from Ottawa R.

The body of a man weighing approximately 170 pounds and estimated to be in the neighborhood of 40 years of age, was found in the Ottawa River near Grenville late Tuesday afternoon, according to Q.P.P. Cpl. Maurice Dinelle, who is appealing to the general public for information concerning the possible identity.

The victim is 5'8" in height, white, has red hair, and was wearing a brown shirt, olive green pants and work boots.

Anyone having helpful information is requested to contact the local Q.P.P. office, LO 2-5234.

Change needed in pre-school classes

Victoria (CP) — Children aged three and four years "have very different experiences" than children of 30 or 40 years ago, says Catherine Landreth, a psychology professor at the University of California.

"They see airplanes, they watch television, they know something of outer space and they are familiar with electricity through the many appliances in their homes.

"They know more in their first years than yesterday's children, and therefore are ready to add to that knowledge."

But there has been "very little or no change in the nursery school curriculum — in Canada, Britain or the United States — since it was set up in the 1920's," said Miss Landreth, visiting here.

Today's child, she said, needs "a much more diversified diet for the brain" and one that must include "a variety of experiences not included in present nursery school programs."

The child of today is going to learn more in 20 years than the child of yesterday, and the things to be learned now are more complex and more abstract. The end result could be in more young people choosing the sciences of specialization.

"In this way the percentage of graduates in these fields would be substantially increased in the Western world," said Miss Landreth.

Bi-culturalism – opinions and facts

CANADA WOULD BE swallowed up by the United States if Quebec and the rest of Canada split apart and confederation was shattered. — This was the warning served on Canadians generally, and Quebec in particular, by Prime Minister Pearson at the recent conference of French-language weekly editors in Murray Bay.

It was a warning that was echoed a few days later in Ottawa by the co-chairman of the royal commission on biculturalism and bilingualism — André Laurendeau, editor of the Montreal Le Devoir, and Davidson Dunton, president of Ottawa's Carleton University.

This week in Ottawa, the royal commission launches a full-scale search for facts about Canada's racial, cultural and lingual background, as well as the prospects of harmony ahead.

To Alberta Premier Manning's criticism of the terms of reference of the commission as too vague and potentially emotional in character, Mr. Laurendeau commented: "I feel we should investigate the facts in depth and get away from vague talk. We have plenty of opinions in Canada on this problem, but few facts."

The full 10-member commission meets in Ottawa today (September 4) to chart its course.

One of the facets of the problem to be studied by the commission is the development of bilingualism in the federal civil service. The government, however, plans to go ahead with its own promotion program, which is expected to provide for a bilingual institute for civil servants, salary bonuses for bilingual personnel in key positions, and revised staff recruiting procedures to attract more French-speaking Canadians. . . Civil Service associations immediately served notice that they will act as watchdogs to see that English-speaking civil servants are not held back.

Busy days ahead

STRANGE HOW the summers seem to get shorter as you get older. The Labor Day week-end marked the end of the vacation season for most people and the return to towns and cities of those families that spent weeks at the summer cottage.

It's the back-to-school date that determines the return of the families with children, of course. And along with this goes the enrolment of young ones for their first school experience; the resumption of the parent-teacher meetings; all the host of seasonal activities that occupy the urban parent.

The new school year can be a time of tension for pupils in any grade, and their parents. Those entering college should have already learned proper work and study habits, and the toddlers starting for the first time should quickly adjust to the exciting experience.

Probably the most difficulty is that experienced by the early high school grades. It's a big jump from public to secondary school, and the principals and teachers will emphasize that starting off right is half the battle.

The new entrant to high school should realize at the start that there's a lot of work to be done, and the easiest way to progress and meet examinations successfully is to plunge in with a determination to work hard at it.

The first tests soon begin to divide the good students from those who are struggling to keep up, and those who simply will not put enough effort into their school work.

Then there are those who, as they get farther along in high schoool, are seriously diverted by sports activities. Many a good young football or hockey player is also a good student — but perhaps too many tend to let their studies slip as they concentrate on sports.

Now is the time, at the start of the school year, for students to determine that they are not going to fall behind. Keeping up with the curriculum actually is easier than trying late in the school year to catch up with a desperate spurt.

It's the steady pace that does it.

Pure air is best

THREE TIMES a week fresh milk samples are collected from 16 centres across Canada. They're tested for strontium-90 and tell us about the current levels of radioactivity in this country.

The latest report from the health department in Ottawa is that radioactive fallout reached record heights in June but remained well within acceptable limits for safety.

There was a prediction that reports for July and August would also show high levels of radioactivity but that by autumn they should begin to decline.

It seems that current fallout results from nuclear explosions last December, the reason being that long-lived radioactive isotopes do not begin to fall to earth until some months later.

Probably most of us are reassurred when scientists declare that levels of radioactivity are not so high that they constitute danger to our health.

It has been noted, for example, that even among persons exposed to the force of atomic blasts in Japan during the last weeks of the Second World War there has been no increase in the number of malformed babies.

But the question of safety levels isn't really the main point. There's a fairly widespread feeling that the air we breathe and the food we eat should not be polluted at all. We really prefer our milk without strontium-90.

While we have up to now submitted to a certain amount of radioactive pollution either in the interests of Western defence or because the Soviet Union was setting off nuclear blasts in its own interests, we could just as soon not have to put up with it at all.

The East-West agreement to prohibit all but underground nuclear tests is particularly welcome for this reason. We only hope nothing happens to upset this happy agreement.

Farm accidents

TRACTORS are involved in more farm accidents than other farm equipment, according to the National Safety League of Canada. This is obviously because they get more use than other machines.

A farmer is responsible for safety in his home as well as his industry. He may use as many as 35 different types of machinery during the year. The variety and complexity of this machinery may make his work faster and easier, but not necessarily safer.

Mechanical failure is rarely responsible for accidents involving modern farm equipment. Nearly every such accident results from the operator's mistake. Common sense, care and undivided attention must be exercised in the operation of mechanical equipment.

On the farm, falls are the predominant killer and produce more sustaining injuries than any one type of farm machinery. A farm worker must repeatedly climb on and off his equipment. He works in all kinds of weather. Frozen or wet ground makes slipping easy. Oil or grease on a tractor step, loose straw in the loft, a loose or cracked rung on a ladder, can lead to painful and expensive accidents if unnoticed or ignored.

By Walter Henry Jackson

Heard any new stories lately? Neither have I, so let's dig up a few that are not so new. New listeners, however, keep on growing up, so these will be new to them. . .

A little boy came into the house crying. His father asked him what was the matter. He said that the lady next door had hit him. The indignant father called at once on the offender and asked for an explanation. "Yes," said the lady, "I hit him because he insulted me. He called me a 'Big Fat Pig'!"

"Well," answered the father, "Hitting my boy will not improve the situation at all. Why don't you try dieting?"

A man entered a restaurant and ordered a sandwich. When the waiter brought it over, he said, "I've changed my mind. I'd like a piece of apple pie instead." The waiter took back the sandwich and brought the pie. The customer ate the pie, grabbed his hat and started for the door.

"Just a minute!" said the waiter. "You didn't pay me for the pie."

"No," said the customer, "I gave you a sandwich for it."

"But you didn't pay for the sandwich either," said the waiter.

"No," said the man. "Why should I? I didn't eat it!"

An Air Force instructor was lecturing a class of new recruits. They had only been in training for a short time.

"Tomorrow," said the instructor, "You will take your first jump from a plane, from a height of one thousand feet. Class dismissed. See you at six tomorrow at the parade ground."

The recruits all filed out silently, except one man. He waited until the others were all gone, then addressed the instructor.

"Excuse me, Sir," he started, "I didn't like to say this in front of the others, but I'm very nervous about tomorrow's program. Would it be possible for my first jump, to start from five hundred feet instead of a thousand?

"What?" shouted the officer, "You should know better than that! You should know that five hundred feet wouldn't give enough time for your parachute to open."

"Oh," said the rookie, with a sigh of relief. "So we're going to have parachutes, are we?"

New device for fruit orchards

"Thinking" mowers that eliminate the need for cross-cutting by mowing around trees are making their appearance in some orchards, particularly in Europe. The one hitch was that, although the machine worked well among older, larger trees, the feeler mechanism was not sensitive enough to avoid damage to young trees. Experts at the Canada Department of Agriculture's Summerland, B.C., research station have solved the problem by installing a modified, more sensitive "thinking" mechanism which enables the machine to be used safely among trees as small as one-half inch in diameter. It is particularly valuable for newer orchards of semi-dwarf trees which are planted too closely in a row to permit cross-mowing.

Farmers extend northern frontiers

Canadian farmers are still rolling back frontiers.

In the Peace River region of Alberta and British Columbia for instance, agricultural acreage is expected to double by 1980.

A. A. Guitard, superintendent of the Beaverlodge Experimental Farm, says the present trend indicates much more land will be devoted to forage crops. This will be caused by specialization within the forage seed industry and by increases in hay and pasture acreage to feed larger beef cattle populations.

Because of these trends, reports Mr. Guitard, research in the breeding and management of forage crops is being strengthened.

According to Canadian Wheat Board declaration of acreages, approximately five million acres in "The Peace" are owned or leased for agricultural use. Of this, 36 per cent is devoted primarily to wheat, oats, barley and flax. Forage crops for seed, hay and pasture are grown on 12 per cent and 14 per cent is summerfallow.

This brings the cultivated acreage to 62 per cent of the total. The rest is unbroken land, presumably being pastured or prepared for breaking.

Since 1957, agricultural acreage has been increasing by four per cent annually and this rate is now accelerating. So is the rate at which land is being brought under cultivation.

A tendency to move away from the production of cereal and oilseed crops and into forage crops, accounts for the 10 per cent annual increase in forage acreage, remarks Mr. Guitard.

Frozen vegetables should keep color

Good color in frozen green vegetables attracts the eye of the consumer and is also a good index to quality.

R. B. Hyde of the CDA's experimental farm at Morden, Man., says the flavor and nutrient value of frozen green peas and snap beans decreases with loss of color.

Color deterioration in turn is caused by chemical changes. These may be kept to a minimum by proper processing procedures: Blanching no longer than the recommended period for each vegetable, cooling thoroughly, and, after quick freezing, storing at 0°F or colder.

Take special care when freezing snap beans, which are very susceptible to color breakdown.

Also, advises Mr. Hyde, choose good-colored varieties for processing.

Less poultry feed and more profit

Poultrymen who are willing to take a little extra care rearing their pullets on range will find it profitable to restrict their feed.

Researchers at two Canada Department of Agriculture research stations found that restricting the feed to growing pullets resulted in increased profits, fewer small eggs, and a little less hen house mortality than those reared on full feed.

At Brandon, Manitoba, Dr. J. H. Strain found that pullets reared from 12 to 21 weeks on from 20 to 30 per cent less feed than the full-fed group were better able to resist disease. This, together with reduced feed costs, increased profits by 20 to 30 cents per bird over the full-fed group.

At Harrow, Ontario, W. F. Mountain found that restricted pullets produced 33 cents more revenue per bird during the last six years. Hen house mortality was 6.8 per cent, compared with 7.9 for the full-fed group.

Prov'l park planned for autoroute near St. Jerome

A 35-acre Provincial Park, featuring picnic and camping sites, restaurant and snack bar, car service area and swimming pool will be established in conjunction with the 17-mile extension of the Laurentian Autoroute between St. Jerome and Ste. Adele.

Announcement of the ambitious program was made by Guy Poliquin, chairman of the Quebec Autoroutes Authority, during a recent press tour of the 17-mile extension route. The four-lane expressway, though not completely paved, is due to be open for traffic by Christmas.

The park, for which land has been expropriated, will be along a one-mile-and-a-half stretch of the extension on the west bank of the North River, four miles north of the extension start.

Mr. Poliquin reported that construction of the throughway was going ahead "full blast," with some 1,000 men operating more than $100,000,000 worth of equipment over the $23,000,000 extension.

Also on hand for the tour were Quebec Roads Minister Bernard Pinard, Lionel Bertrand, provincial minister of tourism and QAA Chief Engineer Roger Trudeau.

It was pointed out that the autoroute extension, with a 70 m.p.h. speed limit, will have one toll station — 25 cents per car — at a point one mile south of Prevost village. The route will boast 10 entrances and 10 exits.

Mr. Trudeau told newspapermen that the route will be 25 feet wide along both the north and southbound sections. Road shoulders will be 10 feet wide on the outside and four feet on the inside. The centre mall will measure 50 feet in width.

QAA officers said the stretch from St. Jerome to St. Sauveur will be completely paved by December. The Adele-Mont Rolland section will be covered with a bituminous mixture and the stretch between Mont Rolland and St. Sauveur will be rolled hard to handle the early winter traffic.

It was explained that the course of the expressway has been laid out at a constant elevation in order to provide motorists with "the most scenic view of the Laurentians and at the same time reduce road monotony to a minimum."

The modern highway extension will feature a 245-foot long cantilever structure at Ste. Adele, the first of its kind in North America.

Christmas trees to Venezuela

Canadian Christmas trees generally have a good reputation in Venezuela. In fact, Christmas trees are assumed to be Canadian regardless of their source. This is reported by G. J. Fons, Commercial Assistant in Caracas, writing in "Foreign Trade" magazine.

Venezuelan dealers do not advertise just Christmas trees — they promote them as Canadian trees in posters, leaflets, circular letters and by word of mouth through the street vendors.

The regular importers of Christmas trees are supermarkets (IBEC of the Rockefeller group is the most important), florists, large toy dealers, sporting goods stores, etc.

Canadian exporters are advised that irrevocable letter of credit terms are essential in order to avoid financial losses in transactions with new and often small operators whose main line of business is in another field. Deviation from the letter of credit rule is advisable only when dealing with large, well-financed and reliable importers.

Transportation is another important point in this business. Precise timing to meet market demands seems to be late November or the first week in December.

Agriculture Minister visits prairie tree farm

Agriculture Minister Harry Hays discusses with Dr. W. H. Cram, Superintendent of the PFRA Prairie Tree Nursery Station at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, a variety of spruce currently being used in the Station's tree distribution program. Mr. Hays visited the Station briefly during his recent trip to Saskatchewan.

Weeds harass industry too

Farmers are by no means the only people bothered by weeds.

It's a major operation controlling the unwanted growth in the vicinity of oil refineries, aircraft runways, signal stations, storage tanks, power lines, parking lots, railway yards and such enterprises. Many industries seek advice on weed control from the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Over the years a number of materials, such as sodium chlorate, borates and used oil, have been used with some success. More recently urea products and triazine chemicals, which are much less bulky and awkward to handle, have been widely and quite successfully used. In the last year or two, newer and more promising chemicals have become available.

Dr. K. W. Hill, a Department researcher, who is also chairman of the National Weed Committee, says that total vegetation control, with chemicals, now seems quite feasible.

The Department is co-operating with the Department of Transport, universities, provincial departments of agriculture and two of the major suppliers of chemicals for a total vegetation control, in a series of experiments on airports from coast to coast.

Dr. Hill hopes farmers too will benefit from this program. A successful prescription would find many uses on the farm, such as keeping ditches, fence lines and roadsides clean of growth.

BARLEY BEEF IN BRITAIN

More British farmers are becoming interested in the production of barley or broiler beef. This type of beef production involves steers, usually Friesians or their crosses, which are kept in covered yards and full fed a diet consisting of 85% rolled barley with a protein, vitamin, and mineral supplement, with no roughages.

The ration is fed from the age of three months or less until the animal is about one year old, when it is then sold for slaughter. This particular system has been made popular largely as a result of experimental work carried out at the Rowett Research Institute in Aberdeen, Scotland.

For Parents Only ...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Child training blueprint

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"It was a lot easier when a parent's word was law, obeyed promptly, and children were 'seen but not heard'!" a young mother complained to her friend.

"But did children ever obey swiftly, without questions?"

"If they didn't, a spanking which really hurt, soon made them toe the line!"

In a democracy, in the mid twentieth century, how many Canadian parents want a home in which they are absolute dictators? How many of them demand unquestioning obedience from their children?

Even if they should impose their will completely, would their youngsters either be very rebellious or lose much of their personal initiative? These are difficult questions to answer.

Early in this century there was much criticism of the harshness of Victorian discipline — the kind of direction of children which Dickens pictured in his books.

Corporal punishment reached a degree of severity and callousness which is hard for moderns to believe.

Scientists began to explore the nature of many things including man, and psychiatrists and doctors studied the development and characteristics of children at different ages.

They tried to discover what influence environment had on a child and what in the child's nature was dependent on heredity. Records were kept of large numbers of children. Research workers attempted to draw graphs of what a parent could reasonably expect of a child at different age levels.

The modern "permissive" approach to child training received a bad name because it went too far in its "laissez-faire" theories.

In an effort to give a child complete freedom, there were no definite standards, no adequate provision for discipline.

This resulted in "little monsters", children who made themselves terrible nuisances. They ignored the rights of anyone else and sought only to gratify their own wishes.

By the fifties and sixties, leaders in child care have been stressing a democratic "middle of the road" policy. The ideal is a balance between individual freedom and the acceptance of restrictions and responsibility for actions.

Discipline to modern educators is not just punishment. It is a plan for the growth of the child under the parents' guidance.

A baby is completely dependent on adult care. The goal of child training is for a child to progressively learn self-control until he finally reaches independent maturity.

Fathers and mothers are eager that their child learn acceptable forms of behaviour. They want their boy or girl to fit happily into the family unit and learn how to get along with playmates and other people.

"The lovely now" as a little girl called it, or the present, is all important to a child. Parents want to influence their child's habits both today and also tomorrow.

It is their hope that by reasonable, consistent training, their child will become a mature, useful, poised adult. This is no small order.

Parents need less criticism and a great deal more support and encouragement from all the community who are concerned about children and the place they will take in tomorrow's world.

But in the end it is the father and the mother who must choose the blueprint they will follow in bringing up their son or daughter.

FISH ALICANTE

Fish with Spanish savor

In Spain, fish figures prominently on daily menus, from tables in the simplest homes of tiny villages to the most elegant of big city restaurants where patrons dine late and leisurely. Fish Alicante is but an example of the many outstanding dishes that originated in Spain and which feature fish to its best advantage. In this particular recipe, fillets bake on a bed of onion slices with a little olive oil and wine or lemon juice to bring out the natural flavor and moist texture of the fish. A sprinkling of nuts provides surface contrasts of texture and color.

Fish Alicante

1 Pound fish fillets (haddock, cod, etc.), 1 medium onion (sliced), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon tarragon, 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon white wine or lemon juice, ¼ cup chopped or slivered nuts (blanched almonds or walnuts).

If fish is frozen, let thaw on refrigerator shelf. Cut into serving pieces. Arrange onion slices on bottom of buttered casserole. Cover with fish. Season with salt, pepper and tarragon. Pour olive oil and wine over fish. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake at 375 deg. F. 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 3 servings.

Home no place for earwigs!

Ottawa — The house is no place for earwigs but unless rebuffed, they will certainly stroll in, probably from the kitchen garden, to explore for a new habitation.

Ray F. Morris, federal entomologist at St. John's West, N'fld, recommends spraying or dusting the insects' haunts with dieldrin, malathion or DDT. The European Earwig was brought into British Columbia and Newfoundland many years ago and is also known in Nova Scotia and Western Ontario. It is slowly expanding from these territories.

If a dust is used to control earwigs, it should contain five per cent of one of the chemicals recommended.

For a spray, use four ounces of 20 per cent emulsifiable concentrate of dieldrin in one gallon of water; or one pound of DDT or malathion wettable powder in 25 gallons of water (four tablespoonfuls to one gallon).

Apply these to areas where earwigs hide during the day — on the ground alongside buildings, fences and walks; around the trunks of trees and shrubs, and around steps and basement window sills where they may enter homes. Take care to avoid contaminating vegetables or fruit growing nearby.

A poison bait consisting of 12 pounds of bran, one pound of sodium fluosilicate and one quart of fish oil is also effective. It should be evenly spread over lawns, and should suffice to treat an area as large as the average city lot.

Traps, of which plans can be obtained from the St. John's West experimental farm, can also cut the earwig population down to size.

Empty the earwigs from the trap into a can containing oil.

LOOK OUTWARD

Winnipeg CP — The University of Manitoba's student union has established an external affairs committee to express the student viewpoint on important municipal, provincial and federal levels.

RISE AND SHINE

"Early ambulation" of women after childbirth, and of patients after surgery, was literally forced by the shortage of hospital beds during World War II. Because of the excellent results (reports Reader's Digest) the practice has now been extended to patients with poliomyelitis, rheumatic fever, strokes, and even to many heart victims.

Tender care for woollens

British Woollens News offers the following tips on the care of woollen garments:

Brush them . . . with a good, long-bristled brush. Try to do this after each wearing; dirt abrasion makes fabrics wear out sooner. Never use a harsh brush. Let mud dry before brushing.

Hang them properly . . . on a shaped wooden hanger that fits. Set shoulders squarely on hanger. Use a trouser press for trousers.

Give 'em air . . . at least overnight. Air helps wool spring back into shape. And try not to crush clothes in the closet.

Let 'em rest . . . even rugged British woollens need it! If possible rotate suits.

Pockets need pampering too . . . don't leave them loaded down when you're not wearing the suit.

Treat stains promptly . . . they may injure wool fabrics. Tell the cleaner what caused the stain, or if you tackle it yourself, use a cleaning agent that's made for the specific stain.

Call Of The Wild Goose

A stories-high Canada goose, its wings raised for flight, welcomes travellers to the nearly tamed wilds on the north shore of Lake Superior, the world's largest fresh water lake. The giant bird is at Wawa, Indian for goose, historic gateway to Ontario's new 540-square-mile Lake Superior Provincial Park, opened to the motorist by the Trans-Canada Highway.

This is a land of soft beaches and hard, craggy bays lined by cliffs 1,500 feet high; a land of smooth-surfaced lakes bubbled by jumping walleyes, trout and pike; a virgin land, yet well equipped with camping and picnic areas. It is one of the many wonderlands opened by the 5,000-mile Trans-Canada. Lunch box goes to school

Are you faced with an endless line of school lunches to pack for the next few months? Don't let it worry you. A little planning and the preparation can become routine, according to the home economist of the Poultry Products Institute.

The day there is cooked chicken for dinner — no matter whether it is fried, stewed, roasted, baked or barbecued — plan extra for the lunch boxes. If the meat can be ground or chopped, mix it "with salad dressing" (not mayonnaise) and any desired "character ingredients" such as chopped pickle, nuts, olives, canned pimento, crushed pineapple, etc. Spread between buttered bread or stuff weiner or hamburger rolls with mixture, wrap in moisture - vapor - proof freezer wrap or bags, label, date and freeze. Use within a week or two.

If the chicken can be sliced, place slices between rye, brown or white bread and wrap and freeze. When these are packed in the lunch box, be sure to include some jelly or sweet pickle to go with the sliced meat sandwich. The frozen sandwiches should be thawed and ready to eat by noon.

A wide mouth thermos makes it possible to have a change from sandwiches. Hot chicken stew can taste good on a cool day. Heat the stew while breakfast is being prepared. Pack tea biscuits (buttered and wrapped the night before), a wedge of fresh cabbage or celery, an apple, and cookies and milk for a satisfying lunch ready to go to school.

LOST TO U.S.

The highroad to success for many Canadians still heads south. It is a deficit this country never makes up. Ottawa should give some thought to the problem of how to encourage young Canadians to remain at home.

— Duncan (B.C.) Cowichan Leader

High-popularity sandwich filling

Which is the most important part of the sandwich — the filling or the bread? The answer is that for a really appetizing sandwich both are important.

A case in point is the Double-Deviled Sandwich, which combines two interesting fillings with either a delicious home-made rye bread or with burger buns.

As the name implies, these open-face sandwiches have a double filling. One layer is a seasoned deviled ham-butter spread, the other is an egg-salad mixture similar to a deviled egg filling.

Tasty and simple to make, these are excellent summer salad-type sandwiches. In fact, if served with fresh raw vegetables, such as tomatoes and carrot sticks, they are practically a light meal in themselves.

MEATLESS DAYS IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Because of meat shortages, the government of Czechoslovakia has introduced a meatless day for each week. Municipal national committees will designate the meatless day (excluding Saturdays and Sundays) for all public eating establishments in specified localities.

Exceptions are permitted in factories, snack bars, international hotels, dining cars, and shops selling semi-prepared foods to the public. All Czechoslovakians are being urged to raise meat animals on their property no matter how small it may be.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Families in a town in the lower St. Lawrence valley are often double in size during the summer months.

Trois-Pistoles, about 150 miles east of Quebec City, is the setting for the University of Western Ontario summer school where about 150 students — half English-speaking and half French-speaking — study to become bilingual. Students are billeted in private homes for the six-week course.

"I can remember once having 52 sitting down together at my dinner table," said Mme Louis Dionne, one of the first hostesses for the school when it began in 1933.

Mme Dionne had 11 children of her own, 15 students living in the house and several more students and professors in for meals one summer.

Traditional French-Canadian pea soup, home-baked beans and rich maple syrup desserts are the mealtime specialties of most of the town hostesses. And the aroma of homemade bread floats through most houses.

One student attending this summer's session felt certain the town women were having a competition "to see who could have the fattest students at the end of the summer."

French Pea Soup

One hostess disclosed her recipe for a delicious "light, clear" pea soup to her student boarder.

To make it, soak two cups of white peas overnight in six cups of cold water. In the morning, bring to a boil, add one-quarter teaspoon of baking soda and continue to boil until the skins or coats of the peas fall off.

Remove the skins from the peas, then rinse them and add six cups of water and one pound of cubed, fat bacon.

Fry two chopped onions in two tablespoons of vegetable oil until a golden brown. Then add to the peas and bacon, along with one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one teaspoon of savory, and salt and pepper to taste.

Cover the mixture and let it simmer about three hours.

Aid Studies

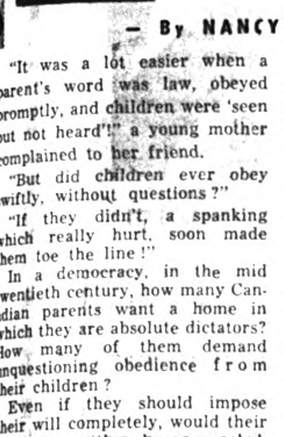

The French-Canadian homemakers do more than act as good hostesses for the students. They also guide and encourage conversation in the new language.

Two years ago, the school's top student attributed his success to conversations with his hostess Mme Gerard Legacé as she prepared meals.

Many women find that association with the English-speaking students is an enriching experience for themselves.

Mme Marc Martin, for example, said: "Becoming acquainted with someone with a different language, religion and customs is good for my children as well as interesting for my husband and myself."

The women are especially gratified when former student guests return to introduce their own families to their Trois-Pistoles host years after they have taken the course.

Four patrolmen supervise at school crossings

Lachute Police Chief J.-L. Hebert reports the inauguration of a School Patrol system, four retired men having been engaged to act as school crossing policemen. The patrols will be operated at the corner of Main and Harriett Streets; Main and Bellingham Streets; Mary and Grace Streets; and Mary Street and Bedard Blvd.

The four citizens who started training Monday morning, are Ross Brown, Donald Beers, Georges Brunelle and Albini Coté. All four crossings will be manned this week, following training of the men on Lachute's busy Main Street.

The co-operation of school students and motorists alike is requested, in an effort to ensure the success of the venture. The crossing guards will be equipped with white Sam Brown straps, raincoats and "stop" signs.

Clubmen told of system promoting child safety habits

Speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club was Mr. Jack Smith, a former member of the Child Safety Council of Canada who, while on his own holidays, is helping Mr. Eddy Dupuis, of that organization, in seeking financial assistance to sponsor a Child Safety Program in the areas of Brownsburg and Lachute.

These men were invited here by Police Chief J.-L. Hebert of Lachute, who is trying to get the program started in the local schools.

The Child Safety Council of Canada was founded in Windsor, Ont., in 1958, and has done its main work in that province, although some of the larger centres in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are now sponsoring its work. It is mainly through the efforts of Chief Hebert, who had previous favorable experience with the Council in Ontario, that they are now trying to introduce this system into the Province of Quebec — and this is the first area in the province to be approached.

The Safety Council has found, through past experience, that good safety habits of people are formed before the age of 10 years and, with this in mind, they have set up a system of supplying work books covering the various phases of accidents where children are involved, which are then followed up by movies and talks by local police in the schools. The books are designed to cover the four seasons, and it has been found that some of their good effects also rub off on the parents — since the books, upon completion, are sent home to the parents for their signature, in much the same way as a report card, and then returned to the school.

Mr. Smith said that the cost of accidents to children across Canada totals upwards of $3 million yearly, and that the cost of the program in Lachute area would be about $600 annually. He did not have figures for the cost of this program in the Brownsburg area, but it might be expected this would be somewhat lower.

Car hurtles from highway, two injured

Traffic Officers Gilles Lavigne and Lawrence Cruise are seen examining the remains of a demolished 1961-model car which swerved out of control on the Dunany road, a few miles from Lachute. Injured in the mishap were Normand St. Claire, 26, and Richard Fugère, 19, both of Montreal, who were treated at the Argenteuil Hospital, having been transported there by ambulance. The accident occurred at 6.45 p.m. Sunday and the car is reported to have rolled several times, once having rolled over the occupants. The latter were reported, however, to have been released from hospital on Tuesday. — Photo, Syd Drew

VOCIFEROUS TAXPAYER EJECTED —

Ayersville asks re-routing of Montreal - Hull highway

Councilmen and a number of Ayersville taxpayers met last week with the Deputy Minister of Roads at Quebec, to recommend the routing of No. 8 Highway south of the municipality — from Bethany Road cross-country to the present road beyond the exhibition grounds. Recommended is an exit onto Ayers Street, also an overpass at Simon's Crossing on the C.P.R.

This representation to the Department of Roads was an outcome of the September meeting of the village council, at which routine matters were highlighted by a protest of citizens against deplorable drainage in the streets and thoroughfares. . .

One taxpayer in particular, Ernest Massie, hurled abuse on Mayor Gaston Plamondon, Councillor Arthur Lanthier and Councillor Ernest Champagne — to the extent that, as his interruptions prevented orderly deliberations of the council, Mayor Plamondon ordered the complainant from the council chamber; he was escorted to the door by Police Chief Joly. Mr. Massie had complained about overflow from the street flooding his basement. At least two others also complained of the Council's laxity to remedy this situation.

The mayor then read a report of the engineers following a study of the town's sewerage system. The report shows the entire system, except certain streets on which the mains have recently been cleaned, is obstructed by sand deposits. In some places the flow of water is minimal, in others it slopes in reverse. The report recommends, for the time being, a cleaning of the drainage system throughout.

Councillor Lanthier reproached the mayor with not having informed the Council immediately so they could act on this report. Mr. Lanthier was aware of it, but the others had not been informed. Mayor Plamondon replied that he was awaiting the engineers' visit, to present an overall plan of procedure.

The secretary was notified to enquire rental and purchase prices of required equipment to clean the drains and sewers.

Police and fire report for August

Police Department revenues for the month of August were $1,189.20 — according to the monthly report of Chief J.-L. Hebert, presented at Council last week. Receipts were from fines, permits and other sources.

There were 23 accidents on the thoroughfares, two causing bodily injury. There were also 56 arrests, for dangerous driving, thefts of cars and bicycles, and shoplifting.

Reporting also for the Fire Department, Commissioner L. Armstrong recommended that the six applicants selected by Chief Don MacCulloch be engaged as firemen for a trial period of three months. Ald. Nelson Lepage was the only councillor in disagreement — contending that one of the applicants lived in Ayersville and it was up to Lachute to employ its own citizens first.

It was agreed that applicants be re-imbursed for expenses incurred in undergoing a medical examination.

Town litigates to procure servitude for water line

Differences between Lachute Town and Mr. W. M. Cottingham over transit of the water main from the filtration plant across his land, were aired again at the Council table. Authorization was given to the town's legal counsel, Fernand Legault, K.C., to use means at his disposal to procure a servitude from Mr. Cottingham. (At a previous meeting, Council had passed a resolution to provide for expropriation of the required land.)

The present litigations, according to Mayor Dave Campbell, arise from the fact there was no written contract between Mr. Cottingham and the town at the time the water conduit was laid. The town thus has no servitude or right-of-way across the property.

Mayor Campbell related again the various exchanges between Fernand Legault (the former mayor) and Mr. Cottingham endeavoring to clear up this difficulty. All negotiations had been stalemated, and the town had been unable to secure rights to the property used for this water line.

Authorization for Mr. Legault to take action was now proposed by Ald. Dr. Middleton, commissioner for the filtration plant, seconded by Ald. P. E. Pariseau.

As an amendment Ald. L. W. Armstrong, seconded by Ald. F. Charlebois, proposed that an outside lawyer be consulted on the whole affair, to discover the exact validity of understandings between Mr. Cottingham and the town corporation.

The vote was in favor of the original motion — the amendment being defeated 5 to 3, and Dr. Middleton's motion being supported 6 to 2. (Ald. Pariseau first voted for the amendment, then again for the original motion.)

Brevities at the Council table

Arising from correspondence, current requests and protests, also from committee studies — following are some of the items which accounted for another long Council sitting last Wednesday. . .

Richard Bradford, appearing before Council to ask questions on the by-law prohibiting hotel dancing on Sundays, was short-stopped by the Mayor, reminding the complainant he was not a Lachute taxpayer.

Robert Church also appeared, to request an accounting of activities of the recreation committee during the year. Mr. Church was invited to meet members of the committee to discuss the matter.

Two businessmen, complaining of the new business tax, were asked to send their protests in writing. Another complaint in a letter from a taxpayer was filed for study.

Rental of the Auditorium basement to the Department of Defence, was extended for one year, at $100 a month.

Mayor Campbell was authorized by Council to vote on behalf of Lachute Town in the matter of St. Jerusalem annexation.

Ald. Nelson Lepage gave notice of motion to introduce a by-law at next meeting concerning a program of works for the coming winter.

It was proposed that electric wiring be re-vamped in the municipal garage. M. G. McCaskill had quoted $863, but it was suggested that bids be invited from other electrical contractors.

A $42 claim from Adelard Malette was accepted, on recommendation of Ald. P. E. Pariseau. . . The police committee was asked to make a study of street signs and report back to Council.

Aldermen E. McFaul and F. Charlebois proposed that Miss A. Fraser be authorized to pave between the roadway and sidewalk at her property, at her own expense and under supervision of the roads committee. Ald. Dr. L. A. Middleton opposed the motion, due to drainage difficulties at this spot.

Ald. Dr. Middleton recommended rejection of a request from the Chamber of Commerce for an additional grant. The tourist information bureau, he was informed, had been of little use to strangers since the police office had been called frequently to give information. . . Ald. Charlebois moved for a grant of $200, but the motion received no seconder.

Conrad Gagné, for a group of St. Jerusalem taxpayers, read a brief asking Lachute Town to take over certain municipal costs. The Mayor replied that the Annexation by-law had been accepted and passed by Town Council and could not be changed at this date.

The Rev. Sister Gabrielle, who had been made an honorary citizen on her departure as superior of the Providence Hospital, addressed a letter of appreciation to the town authorities.

The Chamber of Commerce expressed thanks to the town corporation for help given in removal of the hospital appurtenances to the new building.

Edict — no Sunday dancing in grills, City Fathers reject motion of repeal

The town by-law prohibiting orchestra music and dancing in hotels on Sundays and holidays, remains unchanged and unmodified — with a 6-2 vote rejecting an amendment to this measure proposed at Council meeting by Ald. J. O. Desjardins and seconded by Ald. F. Charlebois.

The statutory meeting was chaired by Mayor Dave Campbell, and Ald. Robt. Marcil was the only member absent.

A number of local groups — the K. of C., the Lions Club, the Lacordaire and St.-Jeanne d'Arc, the St. Patrick's Society and others — had sent letters requesting the continuance of this ban.

Views Expressed

Ald. Francois Charlebois, alluding to a plea launched by Monsignor Lacourse from the Catholic pulpit, declared that only one person had telephoned him (the alderman) to support the ban, while 25 others had expressed themselves in favor of Sunday dancing. "A municipal by-law will not stop this practice; if they do not dance in Lachute, they will go to places out of town", he asserted.

Ald. Nelson Lepage had also received phone calls. The callers were about equally divided — some for and some against.

Ald. Alphonse Thibodeau: "This by-law is on the statutes. Why not maintain it?"

Ald. J. O. Desjardins, sponsor of the proposed repeal, declared that the population had been misguided by the curé's sermon at Ste. Anastasie. "He (Mgr. Lacourse) mixed the issues, by referring to three or four aspects of the hotels having no relation to Sunday dancing. The discipline of hotels is not a religious matter, it is an affair of municipal concern."

Before calling for a vote, Mayor Dave Campbell summed up the situation. There was a municipal by-law to prohibit Sunday and holiday dancing in hotels — he could not undertake to judge its validity, but the evidence was there: one hotelman had attempted to defy it, and was twice condemned in Court.

Those voting for repeal of the by-law were sponsor and seconder of the amendment, Aldermen Desjardins and Charlebois. Those in favor of maintaining the by-law were Aldermen Dr. Middleton, Thibodeau, Pariseau, Lepage, Armstrong and McFaul.

Driver blamed in cyclist fatality; court arraignment

Jean-Guy Dubois, 23, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., was found criminally responsible for the death of Gilles Aubrey, 14, of Grenville, by a coroner's jury at an inquest held in Lachute last Saturday afternoon. Dr. Roger Lavigne, joint-district coroner, presided, and following the findings, Dubois was officially charged in St. Jerome with criminal negligence.

Eight witnesses gave testimony in the two-hour inquest into the accident, which occurred at 8.20 p.m. on August 30, approximately 500 feet north of the Perley Bridge. The victim and a companion, Richard Woodbury, 17, also of Grenville, were riding their bicycles when they were both struck from the rear. Woodbury was not seriously injured, but his companion died while on his way to hospital.

Dubois was arrested a short time following the accident and charged with hit-and-run and impaired driving. He is due to appear in St. Jerome court this Friday on the impaired driving charge, and the hit-and-run charge will be incorporated into the criminal negligence action.

Charged with disturbing peace

Jean Wojtowicz, 23, of 68 Water Street, was arrested early Tuesday morning of last week and charged with disturbing the peace by firing a rifle. He is scheduled to appear in St. Jerome court next week. The incident occurred at 12.20 a.m.; the complainant was an acquaintance of the accused, who stated he was shot at.

Cst. Real Arouette and Cst. Roland Cuerrier investigated and seized a .303 calibre rifle. The charge was laid by Chief J.-L. Hebert.

Lions Club concerned with service role in community

There was a good turnout for the opening meeting of Lachute Lions Club last Tuesday, with Keith Clarke in the chair as president, Jos. Santini as newly-appointed secretary, and Jacques Bourgoing as treasurer.

With October as "membership month", the president took occasion to extoll the motive of Lionism as an ideal of community service. A member does not join this organization for what he can get out of it, but for what he can contribute. The rewards are intangible, not material — in fellowship, and in the satisfaction of achievement; not in the promotion of personal business or prosperity, but in the interests of the community as a whole.

Horace Lamarche, past District Deputy Governor, had a word on plans for the celebration of this club's 30th anniversary next year.

Mozart Carriere reported on the Lions' successful participation in the annual Calcutta at the Golf Club, and expressed appreciation for the opportunity given the Lions by the Golf Club and its president, Gilbert E. Ayers, to benefit from this event.

Dr. Eric Mongeon, ex-Zone Chairman, and Lion Roger Regimbal, spoke at length on a big project of the district Lions Clubs, a mammoth TV auction to take place November 2. Proceeds of this operation will go towards a $50,000 dining hall for the St. Alphonse crippled children's camp, to be financed by the Lions Clubs. Dr. Mongeon, who had been present at the sod-turning ceremony for this structure, gave personal observation which stressed the urgency of this project. A number of attractive donations were received at this meeting, and the district public will be informed as the date of the auction approaches.

Lion Hal Joyce led a brief song session, and a renewal of friendships after the summer season added to the enthusiasm of this assembly.

The president reported the repayment of $300 loaned to a student for university studies, and the directors' approval to another such honor loan to a young citizen entering Macdonald College and in need of assistance.

President Clarke also reported that Town Council could not see its way clear to plan a community arena this year, and the Lions therefore (with assent of the McOuat brothers, owners of the property, and the co-operation of Lowe's Dairy) had no recourse but to carry on the outdoor skating rink for another season. Without the Lions' initiative, this void would otherwise be a serious loss to local youth in the coming winter.

District Governor A. Drapeau will pay his official visit to the club next Tuesday, September 17.

Town arithmetic applies funds to serviceable use

A transfer of funds to the amount of $38,740.20 was effected by Town Council at its regular meeting for September. This is a bookkeeping formality, to remove from mothballs the assets left over from two previous loans — $15,740.20 unused from loan by-law 202 (Henry Street sewers) and $23,000 unused from by-law 215.

The total amount, by enactment of Council, is now applied to — (a) Purchase and installation of water meters, and maintaining a service shop for the said meters; (b) Any unused balance to be assigned to cost of valves, joints, pipes, fittings, etc., of this nature.

The town's financial administrators also created an amortisation fund of $31,052.61 — this amount being the difference between anticipated grant from the government towards the filtration project, and the sum actually received.

When the debenture issue (By-law 226) was sold for construction of the filtration plant, the amount borrowed by authority of the Municipal Commission was $520,000. It was foreseen that the government grant would be $50,000; actually it was $81,052.61, making a surplus of $31,052.61.

This amount being assigned strictly to the filtration project, it was decided accordingly to place it in a sinking fund, purchasing its own bonds to bear 5 percent interest from this same debenture issue, to mature in 1972.

There will be a public meeting of taxpayers at the town hall next Monday, September 16, from 7 to 9 p.m., in order to make the measure (By-law 238) in accordance with legal procedure.

Farm lands in annexation; Mayor clarifies tax rating

(OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC)

In order to clarify tax rates on farm lands and buildings, and to correct many rumors about increased taxation, herewith is an extract from the Cities and Towns Act, paragraph 522:

"All land under cultivation or farmed or used as pasture for cattle as well as all cleared land or wood lots within the municipality, shall be taxed to an amount of not more than one per cent of the municipal valuation, including all taxes, both general and special.

"Such land cannot be valued at more than one hundred dollars per arpent if it has an area of fifteen arpents or more. Such valuation shall include the house used as a farmer's dwelling, the value whereof not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000), as well as the barns, stables and other buildings used in connection with the said land. If the value of such house exceeds ten thousand dollars ($10,000), it shall be included in the valuation only to the extent of the said sum and the excess, separately valued, shall be subject to the tax mentioned in the first paragraph of this section."

Note that all taxes — General and Special — are included in the one per cent.

Both municipalities concerned are in excellent financial position and the proposed annexation is more of a merger of two municipalities for the benefit of not only themselves but for the area as a whole.

More industries means more jobs for our labor force and more opportunity for our young people.

Property owners in the area of St. Jerusalem of which Lachute requests annexation, must give the answer but the future progress of the County of Argenteuil rests with your decision.

— (Signed) Dave Campbell,
Mayor of Lachute

Premises acquired new outlook for Retarded school

The Lachute Association for Retarded Children has made considerable progress in its aim to establish a French and English inter-denominational school, according to President W. B. Younkie — who has announced the acquisition of a private residence, at 249 Mary Street, for use as a school.

It is hoped the new school will be in operation within a week or so, and the committee is presently getting supplies and equipment into place and organizing for the school opening.

A letter of commendation has been received from Canon Paul Manseau, of the St. Jerome diocese, endorsing the project, which is fast becoming a bilingual operation. Applications for enrolment from both French and English-speaking parents of retarded children will be received by the Educational Chairman, Mrs. B. C. Fillingham, 610 Bedard Blvd. (telephone LO 2-6534).

It is hoped that sufficient French-speaking students will be enrolled to engage several French-language teachers in this venture.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

The vermint shooters have been having great fun this past couple of weeks. More and more local sports are taking this up. It is a good idea to start out on something like this and get your aim straight for the bigger game later on. Crows are being chased all over the County, and to tell the truth, I am not too sorry about this. Some of the boys have made themselves excellent blinds for this type of shooting; these must have entailed a lot of work. They have the right idea, too; for, as soon as a crow spots you, that's it. However, the shooter keeping himself well hidden, they will come back time after time.

• • •

Groundhogs are also good game for these hunters. With so many of them around just as present, they should be thinned out. Incidentally, if you do shoot any of these "sod poodles", be sure and eat them. They are one of the cleanest animals we have, feeding on roots, etc.; and there should be no complaints about their tastiness. Skinning them is a bit of a job; however, with a very sharp knife you should have no trouble. Forget about the front legs; these are heavily muscled and they get tough; this of course also depends on the age of the animal. Another thing, scrape all the fat off the meat. With their heavy feeding for the coming winter they are very fat right now — a kind of fat that is more like tallow and could spoil your meal. Soaking them in salt and water for a couple of hours will make the taste that much better... Be sure to try them... Incidentally, this is what we are having for Sunday dinner, roast woodchuck!

The idea of shooting just to kill is not my idea of conservation. Leaving good meat lying around to rot, is not too good either. Groundhogs are a prized dish in certain parts of the U.S. It appears that we are missing a lot in our choice of wild foods. Rabbits are also in this class. I'm surprised at the number of shooters who won't even bother to pick these animals up. Kill them and forget about them, seems to be the general idea. It's strange that we can afford to waste so much good food... The groundhog, by the way, is much better eating than the rabbit.

Now for the perch enthusiasts. The North River is starting to pay off with some good fish. Pounders are pretty common. Worms are the most favored baits, but they are hitting very small spinners and flies at the odd time. Last Sunday we caught seven of these, all good and fat. They are not too much trouble to clean. Cut the head off and put in the freezer. This may be of some use to you: storing fish for winter, don't skin them, as the flesh will lose a lot of its taste and will eventually dry out. They become just like sawdust when this happens. Filleting them as you need them, you are always sure of a nice juicy fish.

Two of the boys visited La Verendrye Park this past week-end. For two of the three days they got nothing, yet fish could be seen in good quantities. They tried spinning, bait casting, and worms, all to no avail. Finding some old flies in their tackle boxes, they gave them a try on the third day. Both got limits of trout with these flies. I suspect they were bass flies, but seeing they got results, why bother if they were bass or salmon lures. They intend going up once more before the season closes, and already they have been in to choose some fly lures... I'll bet this is one time spinning will pay off!

• • •

I wonder how many of you saw the large flock of geese going over the other day, Sunday? Impossible to estimate just how many were in the raft. They were flying very high; even the calls could not be heard until they were well over town. Even knowing that winter is not too far off, it's always a wonderful sight to see these truly Canadian birds. You know, seeing them I always have a lot of questions to ask myself (not that it does any good). For instance, how do they know just when to leave the nesting areas? What tells them, the cold weather or what? Do they have an instinctive built-in calendar? As for their destinations, they must also have a radar that tells them just where to go. How about the young, just born this year?... Seeing these birds flying thousands of miles with none of our supposed wonder-aids, kind of lets the air out of our sails, doesn't it?

• • •

A few tips for the duck hunters... Know your gun. With so many automatics on the market today seemingly leaving the other guns out in the cold, maybe a few tips on these would do some good.

Automatics have to be handled differently from other types. In the first place they must be kept very clean. Dirt will make a mess of any action, but especially with a gas-operated action.

Do not try to operate these guns too fast. The shell will not fire anyway, but it can play havoc with your ejectors. Take it easy until you have mastered the use of them.

Courtesy is a must with any good hunters, and this applies to the duck man as well as others. Don't set your blinds too close to others. After all they don't want to have their ducks decoyed out of range, and maybe get a few pellets for their pains.

Don't shoot at any flying bird until it is within range. Give the other guys a break too.

One more big point, just because you're allowed a bag limit does not say you have to take it. Leave one for the other fellow, and maybe he'll leave one for your youngsters. — Worth a thought, isn't it?

• • •

For the deer hunter too — a few words of caution. A compass is a must; even though you think you know the bush, YOU can get lost.

A waterproof match box is a handy thing to have. You can make one out of an empty shotgun shell. Fill this with matches, then soak in wax. You won't have to worry about falling in the water with these either.

A good knife is a must, not one of these drugstore knives, but one that will cut nails if necessary.

Enough ammunition, so that, if you get hurt or lost, you can signal three shots every hour.

Good boots, these are a must, too. Not new ones, either; they will cause blisters. Break them in before going into the bush with them.

A few extra chocolate bars; you may need these. Maybe a package of raisins too.

Proper clothing, warm but not too heavy. An extra pair of socks. This may seem like a lot of extra trouble, but they sure are worth it, if your feet get damp. Wear a cap or hat; at least you won't get shot for a bear if they spot you.

Know how to make a tourniquet with a belt; this will have to be loosened every 15 minutes or so, to allow the blood to circulate for a few seconds. This may prevent gangrene...

If you can't carry a few simple things like this in the bush, then stay out; you either don't care if you get hurt or lost, or you're not physically fit.

• • •

Going into strange country then try and get a map, and study it. Learn the layout of streams and know where they will take you if you should become separated from your guide.

Make sure of what you are shooting at. A deer or moose does not wear clothing. If you can't be sure if it's clothed or not, then don't shoot.

As I've often said a gun can't fire itself, it takes a man to do this.

Don't try to sight-in your gun when you are already at the hunting grounds. Do this beforehand.

I don't have to tell you about booze and firearms. Naturally, if you want to kill yourself, then drink all you can get your hands on; at least carry a couple of cases of beer with you.

Take it easy; being shot doesn't make you a hero, especially if you are dead. — And brother, if you think this is all so much eyewash — then make sure your insurance policy is paid up, then go ahead. No one will care too much.

Dual session at Brownsburg; street and property problems

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — With a full round of debate on a variety of subjects carrying the regular September session into the late hours last Tuesday evening, the Brownsburg Council was forced to reconvene on Thursday to complete its monthly task of satisfying taxpayers' requests.

Drainage, Pressure, Roads etc.

Sewerage, water and roads formed the basis for a good part of the discussions, with Bert Alerie and Charles Low leading off by complaining that the water pressure on Rosedale Avenue was completely inadequate. At one point Mr. Alerie stated that if he raised the nozzle of his garden hoze very high off the ground the water was reduced to a mere trickle. After some deliberation, Council decided that the town foreman would investigate the area for water leakage.

Four Woodbine Street N. citizens prodded the Council members until pacified with a promise of two streetlights, road improvements and a study of the drainage of surface water in the area. When first asked about the road conditions, Mayor Donaldson replied with the stock answer used so often (and effectively) in the past, "We don't own the street." William Mann, spokesman for the group, countered with a natural enough, "Why?" Some memory-jogging established the theory that, when first inspected for approval, the road was found to have a few undesirable surface stones here and there. Consequently Council turned thumbs down. The stones disappeared, but the town never did accept the road. A motion was made promptly to accept the road, and Council then passed a resolution to accept that part of St. Patrick Street below St. François. A further motion was also adopted to gravel and grade the surface on these two streets, and on McVicar. As a result of the talks on streetlights, Council voted to replace the present light at the corner of Woodbine S. and McVicar with a mercury-vapor type.

A heated discussion ensued when Council members considered the subject of culverts on St. Patrick Street. Apparently some home-owners had used odd-sized tile or old water tanks, and other non-standard items for the purpose, and this is contrary to a local by-law. However, the regulation came into effect after the installation of the culverts, so no action will be taken.

A Park Avenue citizen also confronted Council with a road problem, but the solution was not a simple one. In this case the town authorities apparently claimed non-ownership justifiably, because the road had never been put in satisfactory condition to be accepted. Council claimed that the owner, T. P. Hall, was responsible for conditioning the road, and that until he did, the town would have nothing more to do with the area... This particular type of problem has halted more progress in this town! Council seemed to recognize the difficulty — the procedure is obviously backwards — the land owner must put the road in good condition, then it is dug up again in order to put the sewerage in! When this is done, then more work must be done to resurface the road... Surely there is a better way!

Police Report

Police Chief Tom Williams reported that 10 tickets had been issued for speeding, 13 for illegal parking, two for dangerous driving, one for a stop-sign infraction, and five for traffic light offences. In addition, three drivers were pulled up for being under the influence of alcohol. Chief Williams asked that the town provide hand stop-signs for the safety patrol members to use at school crossings. The local school principals will be asked to aid in setting up the traffic safety system, which is an essential part of the school term. Observation of the Brownsburg High School area leaves no doubt as to the need for some type of trafic control under careful supervision of the police — and we need it quickly!

Sewage Disposal Project

On Tuesday, Council had opened tenders for the construction of the sewage disposal system, and discussed the necessity of passing by-law No. 115 which authorized the town to borrow a maximum of $595,130.88 at 6% in order to pay for the project. On Thursday a bid of $567,500.00 submitted by Milpont Construction Co. Ltd., was accepted, and the by-law was passed. A total of eight tenders were received, with costs ranging from $567,500 to $632,425.

Now, a public meeting must be held to determine whether the taxpayers want the project to go ahead. The open session has been set for September 17, between 7 and 10 p.m. If fewer than 10 municipal electors (property owners) show up to object to the plan, the by-law goes into effect and construction will begin. If 10 or more objectors attend, then a referendum must be held to establish the wishes of the remaining taxpayers... If the people vote "no", is the town to be forced into spending the money for the project? No one seemed to know.

Sidewalks

Adopted at the Thursday session also — a resolution to build sidewalks on both sides of Park Avenue from Cottage to Mountain. St. Antoine Street too is scheduled for sidewalks. In this case the town supplies specifications and the property owners are to do the constructing.

New ladies' quarters at Golf Club delight members

Last Saturday saw the completion of another step in the continuing expansion plans of Lachute Golf and Country Club. It was an occasion of particular moment for the feminine membership of the Club for, on that evening, in an atmoshepere of gaiety befitting the circumstances, the new extension to the ladies' locker room was officially opened.

While a locker room does not usually give its future occupants cause for rejoicing, this one is a most elegant exception. Like so many other of the Club's facilities which serve members and their guests, it surpasses the commonplace to such a degree that words are difficult to find which might adequately describe the luxurious decor of the setting.

Designed on a split-level, the spacious room radiates a feeling of warmth through a color scheme of lilac and white, pink and gold, which combine in an eye-catching manner. In the lower section, oval mirrors framed in scrolled wood faced by pink-cushioned low-backed chairs contrast perfectly with the white and gold panelling of the cedar-lined lockers and the lilac carpeting which extends throughout. Provincial wrought-iron furniture lends a touch of sturdiness to the setting and, in the far corner, an inlaid marble-topped table centring two gold-fawceted hand basins completes the elegant furnishing of the lower section.

Two gracefully curving stairways, lilac carpeted as is the floor, lead to the upper level, where additional locker space is provided. Here the whispy pink shades of the locker doors blend nicely with the soft hue of the carpet.

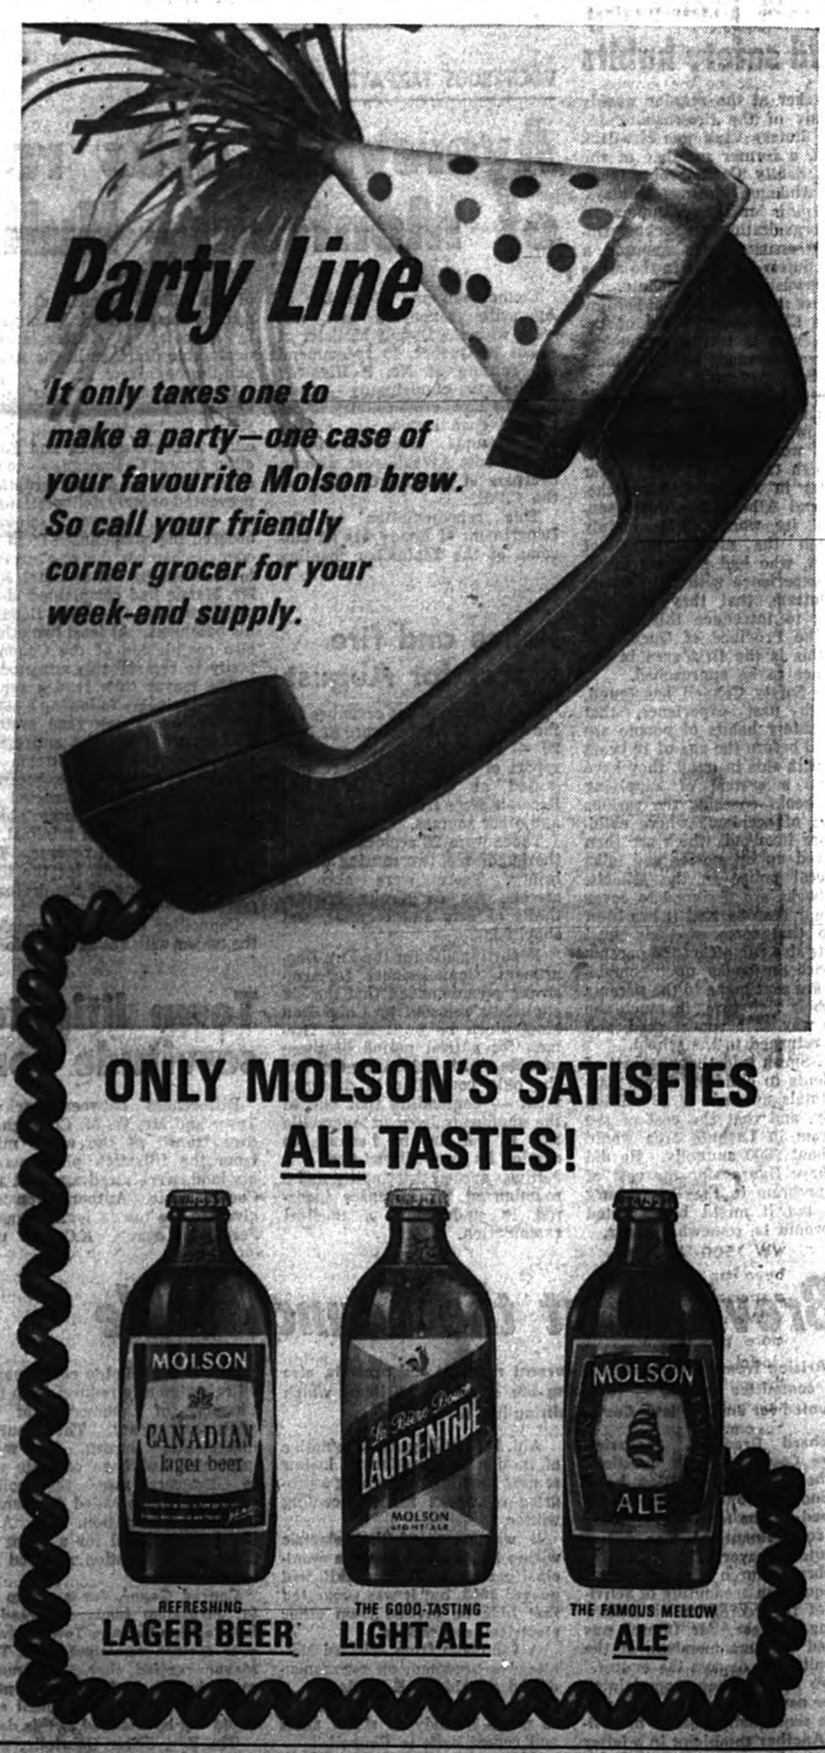

Large draped plate-glass windows dominate the front half of the room, which has been carefully planned to provide comfortable lounge facilities, affording, at the same time, a panoramic view of the first and tenth fairways of the tree-studded course No. 1. The lounge furniture, in boldly patterned fabric, suggests a subtle change of pace in the over-all styling of the room, a delightful setting for light conversation or a leisurely game of bridge.

All in all, these facilities are beyond compare, and they stand as a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers who planned and executed the arrangements.

And for the ladies who remain in the old quarters, let it now be told that this magnificent complement to their present accommodations is but a pre-view of future plans for their comfort and convenience.

NOTES FROM ABROAD

By R.A. Giles — Written specially for The Watchman

Ten years ago, in 1953, Mrs. Giles and I were privileged to take a trip overseas. Again in 1958 it was our good fortune to visit the Old Land, and now we are once more sailing the high seas and expecting soon to land at Liverpool after a wonderful crossing.

Our luxurious home for the past week has been the well-known Canadian Pacific "Empress of Canada", launched at Walker, Newcastle-on-Tyne, May 10, 1960. The vessel has a length of 650 feet, breadth 86 ft. 6 in., a service speed of 21 knots, is fitted with stabilizers to control rolling in heavy seas and is also fitted with a bulbous bow, which has the effect of reducing pitching movement. The "Empress of Canada" is manned by officers and ratings totalling 487 — 87 deck, 81 engine and 319 catering. To put it mildly the ship is huge and reminds one of a large hotel, with an endless number of people all hustling about and all enjoying themselves greatly, for including the crew there are approximately 1400 people on board.

Our annual newspaper convention was held this year at Murray Bay, to which a great number came by boat, arriving on Tuesday noon. This is a wonderful spot for vacationing, the Manoir Richelieu looking out over the mighty St. Lawrence where the many ships are seen daily passing to and fro. Following a very instructive but somewhat hectic session, seven of our overseas party left by taxi for Quebec City where we were taken out by tender to board our liner which was to be our home for the next week. It was most fascinating and a grand sight as we pulled alongside this huge ship and joined the rest of our group numbering over 60 persons.

It is impossible to describe in full the magnificence of it all. Luxury seems to be the keynote and everything possible is done to make your trip a pleasant one. Meals are most appetizing, with splendid service and a great variety of the best foods served to your liking. Sleeping accommodation is most comfortable, with air conditioning in all rooms.

I know many people who have never been aboard an ocean liner will find it hard to realize that there is a barber shop, shopping centre, bar service, baths for those rooms not so equipped, beauty salon, sports deck, swimming pool, cinema, laundrette, numerous elevators, libraries, writing rooms, and promenade decks where one can take his daily walking exercise. Dancing, horse racing, bingo, concerts with volunteer artists and community sing songs are all popular features of the crossing which takes approximately 7 days. Sunday morning church services for all denominations always draw a large attendance and the collection goes to disabled seamen and needy families. Officers on board tell us that this has been an exceptionally quiet sea. We have felt no pitching or tossing whatsoever and I have seen much larger waves on Lake Louisa. With the sea so calm we have made excellent time and are now cruising along very slowly towards Greenock where numerous passengers will disembark and the kilties will come aboard to pipe them a welcome home.

It is now 4 o'clock, on Wednesday — the pipers have played, farewells have been made to new formed friends and we are steaming up the Cylde to Liverpool where we expect to land early tomorrow morning. Breakfast will be on board and then by boat-train to London.

Scenery is very picturesque and in many spots reminds us of that along the St. Lawrence and up the Saguenay. It is all grand and beautiful. . . More later.

Salvation Army annual appeal

Succeeding his father, the late Geo. Y. Deacon — Mr. Harold Deacon is again chairman of the Salvation Army "Red Shield Appeal" in this district.

This is a direct-mail approach to regular contributors. It is conceivable there will be many, willing and happy to subscribe, who will be overlooked in the mailing of these letters. Residents in this category may take the initiative and send their donations either to Harold Deacon, at Deacon Motor Sales, or to Mr. D. M. Hay, at the Bank of Montreal, Lachute.

The Salvation Army program covers a wide range of social services — from Disaster Relief to Fresh Air Camps — from Maternity Homes to Seamen's Social Centres. All of the work reflects compassion for the distressed, and all deserves the generous support of those in more fortunate circumstances.

Early resident laid to rest at Morin Heights

Late Miss Mary Jackson

The death occurred on August 28 of Miss Mary Jackson, in the convalescent home of Mrs. Olive Morrison at Hill Head.

Miss Jackson was the eldest daughter of the late John Jackson and his wife Margaret MacDonald. Born at Morin Heights April 30, 1875, she was the last remaining of a family of eight. She spent a number of years in Morin before moving to Brownsburg. She had been a staunch member of the United Church in Morin Heights.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough held prayers and a brief service at the MacKimmie Funeral Home. The remains were then taken to Morin for service at 2.30 p.m. on Friday, and a number of friends and relatives gathered to pay their last tribute to an old friend. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. Ball. Interment was in Trinity Church cemetery.

Brownsburg girl married in Maple Avenue Church

Jenkins - Stephens

The marriage of Miss Madeleine Ethel Stephens, of London, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Stephens, of Brownsburg, to Mr. Ernest George Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jenkins, of Belmont, Ont., was solemnized on Saturday, September 7, at 3.30 o'clock in Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg. The Rev. R. L. McPhee officiated at the double-ring ceremony, and Mrs. T. Lawrence Giles played the wedding music. During the signing of the register, Miss Myrna Crosby sang "All Joy Be Thine". Standards of gladioli were used to decorate the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length white peau-de-faille with fitted bodice having a scooped neckline, and long sleeves of lily-point Venetian lace. The skirt featured a front panel of the same lace, while pleated folds in the back fell into a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a coronet of pearls, and she carried a white Bible sprayed with deep red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Kathryn Stephens, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Miss Nancy Freeland as bridesmaid, wore full-skirted street-length dresses of peau-de-soie, and matching boleros. Slippers and headpieces of tulle and mums were of toning shades — Miss Stephens in rust, and Miss Freeland in emerald green. Both attendants carried nosegays of bronze and yellow mums.

Mr. Harold Manning, of Belmont, Ont., acted as groomsman, while the ushers were Mr. Campbell Stephens, of Cornwall, Ont., brother of the bride, and Mr. Hugh Saunders of Ottawa.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stephens chose a sheath gown, with jacket, of Acadian blue brocade. Her velvet hat and matching bag were black, and she wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Jenkins, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a teal blue crepe ensemble of dress and matching jacket, completed with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

An interesting feature of this happy occasion was the fact that it coincided with the 53rd wedding anniversary of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell of Brownsburg, who were present, the latter dressed in a suit of frosted blue wool with black accessories, and wearing a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Floral arrangements were carried out in seasonal flowers.

Later, the happy couple left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a sheath dress of pink mohair worn with a small pink feathered hat and black accessories, the whole ensemble accented with a single white orchid.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Edmonton Alta.; London, Belmont, Ottawa and Cornwall, Ont.; and Montreal and Lacolle, Que.

Jennings-Mason wedding rites solemnized in Brownsb'g church

Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 31, when Miss Clara Eva Helen Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hector Mason, was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon James Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jennings, of Chateauguay, Que.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. R. Dewar. Mr. Linton R. Tomalty sang "The Lord's Prayer" during part of the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Standards of giant yellow mums, white gladioli and Shasta daisies were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a floor-length gown of peau-de-soie, with a scooped neckline, short sleeves edged with appliqué lace, fitted bodice, a bell-shaped skirt with back bow, falling in a train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a seed-pearl embroidered crown. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and Shasta daisies.

Mrs. Reg Mason, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Willow Dixon-Smith and Mrs. Ross Craik were the attendants. They were dressed alike in short sheath gowns of peau-de-soie with matching overskirts. The matron of honor was in gold and the attendants in turquoise. They wore matching circlets of peau-de-soie and carried baskets of bronze and orange mums.

Miss Nancy Lee Cowley, junior attendant, wore a frock of gold peau-de-soie with short sleeves and full skirt. She carried a basket of flowers similar to the other attendants.

Mr. Ross Craik was best man and the ushers were Mr. Reg Mason, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ralph Copeland.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise wool suit with black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The mother of the groom wore a yellow bouclé suit with brown accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Masonic Hall, where arrangements of bronze and golden mums were used for decoration.

Later the couple left for a wedding trip to the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a Caribbean blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of white baby mums. They will reside in Montreal.

Out-of-town guests included — Mr. and Mrs. J. Lambert, of St. Catharines, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Balmer, of Ingersoll, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Forrest and Mr. and Mrs. F. Mullin and Erin, of Montreal; Mrs. D. Wright, Mr. Albert Crosland, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Copeland, Miss Margaret McClellan, Miss Linda Murdoch, Mr. Brian Cassin, Miss Margaret Hamilton and Mr. J. Mowers, all of Toronto.

Give the 1964 Volkswagens a good going over.

VW 1500-TS. Our newest arrival has been improved so much we've given it a special name. Touring Sport.

We chose Sport because it has 25% more power than our regular 1500 model. (And larger brakes to handle the extra power.) With higher compression and twin carburetors, the 1500-TS has amazing performance. From a standing start it will hit 50 mph in twelve seconds. (You see. It really does have the performance of a sports car.)

And we added the name Touring because you can travel across country in complete comfort. (That goes for the station wagon too.) In front there are two deep, roomy bucket seats that adjust to 49 different positions.

Other new features for '64 include: an instant heater, whitewall tires, new colours, (two-tone finish optional) and a few discreet touches of chrome.

(NOTE: You can save a few dollars by buying a regular 1500 sedan or station wagon. They both have all the 1964 improvements except the TS engine.)

VW 1200. Alias the Beetle. Alias Old Faithful. Whatever you call it, it's the car that keeps giving you more for your money.

For example: take a good look at our 1964 Deluxe model.

Those whitewall tires aren't for show. They're for free.

And don't miss our handsome new steering wheel complete with horn lever. (Imagine a Volkswagen with instant beep.)

We've got instant heat, too. (Now it takes longer to warm up the radio than the passengers.)

If you've ever admired our sunroof model, we have more good news. This year the sliding roof is made of steel instead of cloth. In summer you can let in sunshine and a cool breeze. In winter, nothing gets in.

Visit your Volkswagen dealer this week and see his new collection of fancy beetles. (Your biggest problem will be deciding which of our seven colours is your favourite.)

VW STATION BUS. Men! Don't give up! Keep taking your wife to see the world's most sensible station wagon. (You know —the one she says looks like a bus.)

Don't be discouraged! Heaven knows we're doing our part. For example, we've just made the rear window wider so she can back up with more confidence. In fact we've made the whole rear door larger and put it on special hinges. (Now she can op. it with one hand.)

Never surrender! Keep reminding your bride that although this huge Volkswagen carries nine adults (or a million kids) it's four feet shorter than a conventional station wagon.

Other features include: a 1500 engine with extra power; a new heating system that provides instant heat; an air-cooled engine that can't boil over; 30 miles to a gallon of gas; fully synchronized gear shift; and whitewall tires.

Dr. W. L. Gordon won repute as plant pathologist

The death of Dr. W. L. (Larry) Gordon occurred September 2 in St. Boniface Hospital, at the age of 62. Funeral services were held last Thursday, the remains being taken to Kenora, Ont., for graveside service and interment in the Lake of the Woods Cemetery.

The late Dr. Gordon, beloved husband of Margaret Meriam, was born in Lachute. After attending school here he graduated from Macdonald College with the B.Sc., then attained his doctorate in Plant Pathology from Wisconsin University in 1932.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

The Earth Abideth Forever
— Eccl. 1 : 4

You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World.

"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With those words Jesus foretold the greatest time of trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armageddon. (Matt. 24: 21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33). The death toll will be so all-surpassing that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.

But will there then be nothing to survive for? No indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. For that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation? The 384-page book "You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World" answers. The book is sent on a 50c contribution.

Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may know; they will be glad to supply you with any literature you may need.

Recent marriage in St. Simeon's

Cleary - Wigney

The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated at the recent marriage of Betty Wigney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wigney, of Lachute, to Ross "Buddy" Cleary, son of Mr. Edward Cleary and the late Mrs. Cleary, of Louisa. The double-ring ceremony took place at 5 p.m. August 31 in the St. Simeon's Anglican Church.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. Dewar. During the service Mrs. Arnold Parker, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly". Mixed gladioli were chosen as decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a model of peau-de-soie embroidered with Alençon lace, fashioned with a sabrina neckline, fitted bodice and long, tight sleeves with points ending over the hands. Her dome skirt trimmed with lace appliqués and small bows formed a chapel train at the back. Her bouffant chapel veil of tulle illusion fell from a large rose of matching peau-de-soie. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Doreen Leishman, as maid of honor, Miss Sylvia Forbes and Miss Judy MacRae, as bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of dawn pink silk organza over taffeta fashioned with bell-shaped overskirts. They carried bouquets of pink and mauve carnations.

Best man for the bridegroom was his brother, Angus Cleary, with Mr. John Cleary and Mr. Jos. McCutcheon as ushers.

The bride's mother was gowned in a sheath model of coco-brown lace with gold accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Cleary chose a dress of navy blue brocade, with matching accessories; her corsage was of Sweetheart roses.

A reception was held at the Orange Hall. As the couple were leaving they were piped out by Mr. Henry Todd on the bagpipes. For travelling the bride chose an ensemble of chiffon over blue and white printed silk. After a motor trip to Niagara and the Eastern States, the couple are residing in Brownsburg.

Witnesses discuss marriage and child delinquency

"Marriage does not confront Jehovah's Witnesses with any irresolvable problems," said Mr. Blair Shearer, director of Jehovah's Witnesses in Lachute and also one of the organizers of a Witnesses assembly to be held in Trois-Rivières September 26-29.

"While matrimonial squabbles, conjugal unfaithfulness and social delinquency increase without end, Jehovah's Witnesses declare that marriages among themselves are not wrecked. Witness parents know how to protect their children from the ever-increasing danger of juvenile delinquency, always knowing where they are, what they are doing, and with whom they associate. The Witnesses wish, simply, that all those who listen to their house to house preaching share the secret of their success," continues Mr. Shearer.

According to the Witnesses, marriages fail mainly for two reasons: the first is that the husband fails to fulfill the duty assigned to him; and the second, the wife fails to obey the scriptural obligation to be in submission to her husband. Nevertheless, everyone observing Christian principles is assured of making a success of marriage.

"Jehovah's Witnesses instruct their children in the Bible from tenderest childhood. That is what protects them from juvenile delinquency and prepares them to assume the responsibility of marriage," claim the Witnesses.

All Jehovah's Witnesses are considered ministers, commissioned by Jesus to preach, as brought out in his words found in Matthew 24: 14: "This good news of the kingdom will be preached in all the inhabited earth for a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come."

These are some of the points to be discussed when Jehovah's Witnesses meet at Trois-Rivières, September 26-29, to hold their "Everlasting Good News Assembly". The public are cordially invited to hear the public address on Sunday, September 29, 3 p.m. when Mr. Laurier Saumur will present the theme, "When God is King Over All the Earth".

Rogers-Smith wedding held in St. Lambert, Que.

The marriage of Ann Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Smith, of St. Lambert, to Mr. Frederick Grant Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers, of Lachute, took place recently in St. Lambert United Church, Mr. Kenneth MacMillan officiating. Mr. Adams played the organ, and Mr. J. Billington sang during the signing of the register. White and yellow gladioli decorated the altar and the pews.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white organza over taffeta with appliqués, having a sabrina neckline, narrow skirt and short sleeves, and an overskirt falling into a train. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held by a circlet with appliqués and she carried a cascade of yellow roses. She wore a necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Karen Capen, of St. Lambert, as maid of honor, wore a frock of deep turquoise poult-de-soie having a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt, and a short-sleeve bolero.

Miss Jean Rogers of Lachute, sister of the groom, Miss Joy Smith of St. Lambert, sister of the bride, and Miss Irene Dunfield of St. Lambert, were the bridesmaids, in dresses similar to the maid of honor but in a lighter turquoise; they all wore a circlet in their hair, with a small veil, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and white carnations.

Mr. David Pollock, of Lachute, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Bruce Hay, Mr. George Rogers and Mr. Keith Rogers, brothers of the groom, all of Lachute.

Mrs. Smith, the bride's mother, was in a dress of accentuated green chiffon. She wore a matching hat and a gardenia corsage. Mrs. Rogers, mother of the bridegroom, was in a sheath of blue shantung with a lace bodice. She wore a matching hat and a gardenia corsage.

Following a reception at the St. Hubert Motel, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers left on their wedding trip; the bride travelled in a yellow wool suit.

On their return they will take up residence in Guelph, Ont., where Mr. Rogers is attending the Ontario Veterinary College.

Judgment

The other day I sat in church,
Everyone was there;
When suddenly our preacher said,
"Let's close our eyes in prayer."
But much to my amazement
Few eyelids dropped their shades,
And even more were opened
As on — and — on he prayed.
I labelled as a hyprcrite
Most everyone I knew,
And being done, I closed my eyes
— For they were opened too!

DEATH BY SUFFOCATION

According to a U.S. government test conducted on 201 youngsters aged 3 to 5½, abandoned refrigerators, freezers and ice boxes remain death traps even when equipped with safety devices. Induced into a refrigerator-like playhouse and told to come out as soon as the door was closed, two out of every five children MADE NO ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE, even though the door was provided with a release mechanism. Observed through an invisible viewer for up to ten minutes, some cooed and played happily; some lay down to go to sleep; some pounded on the door without attempting to push it open; others simply cried. . . PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE alert your little people to this danger and help make sure that all abandoned or temporarily idle refrigerators, etc., have had their doors removed, or else are so tightly bound that no child could ever get into them. This is especially true now that older and wiser brothers and sisters are back at school and tinier types must make most of their own fun.

FACTS FOR LIFE

The tragedy of a child locked in an abandoned freezer makes me wish a telephone had been in there with him. Impractical? Unfortunately, yes. But take another emergency where a youngster does have access to a phone. Would it be just another toy to him, or would he know how to use it for help? Few parents permit their children to play with the phone, since this can put it out of order. But I wonder how many explain how serious an instrument it is, and how to use it in case help is needed? From seeing adults use the phone, would a child know to wait for dial tone? Would he understand that if he pulls the dial back, instead of letting it return freely, he can get a different number from the one he wants? I doubt it. But if these things are carefully explained to him, he will hear the re-assuring voice of the operator if he ever needs help quickly.

• • •

NUMBER FACTS

Since we seem to be on children this column, here's a puzzle they probably don't know, though you may remember it. And believe me, it's good practice for any budding mathematicians in your family! Take your telephone number and double it. Add five; multiply by 50; then add your age. Now add the number of days in a year and then subtract 615. If all went well, your total should consist of your telephone number and your age, reading from left to right. . . But make sure you have lots of paper to start with!

Commemorating the "immortal few"

FRIENDS AND relatives of the "few" who fought so well during the Battle of Britain, will pause a moment next Sunday, September 15, to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in the cause of freedom.

They will be joined by the thousands of airmen from every part of Canada who participate annually in the commemoration of the RCAF's "baptism of fire" — the battle in which it first flew against an enemy, won its first victories, and suffered its first casualties.

This was the battle in which Hitler gave his Luftwaffe just eight days to soften British defences for invasion — but which stretched to a full three months. It was a battle which hammered English pride and tenacity into a defiant "we can take it" doggedness, and sent a handful of Spitfire and Hurricane fighters out to meet and cripple the invading hordes.

Flying continuously against the full force of the titanic German Luftwaffe, the courageous "few" of the Royal Air Force — composed in part of Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, Polish, Dutch, Belgian, South African, Norwegian and French airmen — destroyed 1,733 enemy aircraft; killed, wounded or captured more than 5,000 of the Luftwaffe's prime aircrew; and deterred the threat of invasion.

But not without cost! Four hundred and forty-nine RAF fighter pilots died, 400 were wounded, and 915 aircraft were lost in the embattled English skies. The Canadian loss totalled 47 airmen — men whose names are included on the honor roll in the memorial chapel of Westminster Abbey — men who served with honor and distinction!

History all around

WHEN CONSTRUCTION of the St. Lawrence Seaway caused some historic areas to be permanently flooded, arrangements had been made long in advance to preserve valuable reminders of the past.

Upper Canada Village on the new Seaway shore of the St. Lawrence, near Morrisburg, Ont., now stands as one of Canada's greatest tourist attractions. An award-winning radio program made by the CBC preserves on recordings the sounds of pioneer days that can be heard daily at Upper Canada Village — the hand-powered lathe, the blacksmith's bellows, the watercart and the oxcart, among others.

This great reconstruction of the pioneer past, with its remarkable authenticity, owes much to many experts who selected houses to be saved from the flood area, saw to realism of their furnishings and collected every-day tools and machines familiar in pioneer ways.

The point is that all over Canada there are historic sites, some well-preserved and identified, others vanishing because of neglect or lack of public awareness.

The Maritimes, old Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies and British Columbia are full of sites that can be made attractive to tourists who are always interested in the history of a region.

Many of these of course are already marked. But many others may be known only to residents of the immediate area. It takes a dedicated group to pin-point such sites and, possibly with government aid, make sure they are not left to vanish by time's neglect or the inroads of progress.

The memories of the oldest inhabitants, stories or letters in the old newspapers, long ago now gathering dust in the local library — all these may furnish clues to a spot with real appeal.

A huge project like Upper Canada Village can't be expected to arise just anywhere.

Most larger centres have groups who are well aware of the importance of preserving historic sites. But there must be many a smaller centre where there is a historic treasure spot in the district, known perhaps to very few, where a little community effort would produce valuable results.

— The proposed Carillon Park might be such a place right in this County.

Heap big citizen

THOSE INDIANS who sold Manhattan Island for $24 worth of trinkets in 1620, never dreamed of the progress Indian tribes have made since.

In Canada, the federal Indian Affairs branch has instituted programs for economic development of the Indians, including promotion of agriculture and livestock raising on reserves, encouragement of home industries and handicrafts, and management of fur, fish and wildlife resources.

Total Indian income from trapping in 1960-61 was about $6,750,000. The commercial fishing catch by inland Indians in 1960 was worth more than $1,000,000, and Canadian Indian coastal fisheries brought in about $4,000,000.

Latest development is the enterprise shown by the Cape Croker Indian band, whose reserve is on the Bruce Peninsula in Ontario, 40 miles north of Owen Sound.

This band is the first to take advantage of an amendment to Ontario's parks assistance act, and the Ontario Parks Integration Board has accepted the band's invitation to establish an "approved park" under the act.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts pointed out that some of the Indian bands control waterfronts with great park potential, and every encouragement will be given if they wish to make use of grants to provide public parks.

Parks developed in this way will provide additional income for the Indian bands and also give additional recreation areas for the ever-increasing numbers of campers and tourists.

The Ontario cabinet minister explained Indian park reserves would not be connected in any way with the provincial public parks system. But fees charged would not be less than those charged in provincial parks — 50 cents for each car, or $2 for a season's entry permit.

The Indian parks are purely a business venture on the part of Indian bands, providing public recreation areas with assistance of a provincial grant covering half the cost of acquisition and development to a maximum of $50,000.

Other bands in Ontario have shown interest in these grants and further applications are being processed. Indian reserves in Ontario cover 2,431 square miles. The total across Canada, including the Yukon and Northwest Territories, is about 5,900,000 acres, for an Indian population of 185,000.

The Cape Croker band's park will have about 410 acres with an excellent sand beach and mature forest. The entry fee makes available picnics, swimming, boating, hiking, nature study and fishing. Trails, washrooms, change houses, campsites, docks and launching ramps will be developed.

Visitors will certainly get their money's worth. — And don't forget, the land belonged to the Indians long before the white man came.

Viewpoints and perspectives

ADULTS LIVING alone are more likely to seek treatment in a psychiatric out-patient clinic than an adult living with a spouse, according to information received by the Health League of Canada. Those making most use of the clinics were persons separated from their husband or wife, followed in order by persons divorced, single, widowed and married. A study showed that twice as many boys as girls were treated.

GHOSTS ARE GOOD. — It is difficult to follow the reasoning of those people who roundly condemn the use of "ghost cars" by city police. Scarcely a day passes that one doesn't see some speed-crazed idiot of a driver hurtling his car like a juggernaut along a residential street. If "ghost cars" or any other methods can put a stop to this dangerous practice, it will be all to the good.

HIGH FLIGHT

Pilot Officer John G. Magee, Jr.

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds—and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of—wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.

Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, nor even eagle flew—
And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space
Put out my hand and touched the face of God.

Battle of Britain Sunday, September 15

The complete story of the Battle of Britain — bombed out ruins, enemy bombers, a handful of valiant fighters, and the spirit of a Spitfire pilot — captured in words written on the back of a letter by Pilot Officer John G. Magee, Jr., to his mother three months before he was killed in action.

Animal Care

SICKNESS IN DOGS

Dogs, like human beings, sometimes feel "off-color" and have to be treated accordingly. There are some symptoms which mean a quick trip to the veterinary surgeon, others where a little common sense first-aid is needed.

When a dog is behaving normally you can be quite sure he is heathy enough. So at the first signs of any lassitude, lack of appetite, irregular bowel movements or any other unusual events, take a close look at your pet.

Your dog should have been inoculated when a puppy against distemper and hepatitis and once this is done protection is almost absolute.

The symptoms of distemper are diarrhea, lack of appetite and a bad cough. The animal often wants to get away into a dark corner. Later there is a heavy mucous discharge from the eyes and nose and the dog will probably go into convulsions.

Occasional bouts of diarrhea may result from less serious causes, such as unsuitable food. Put more starch into the food, boil any milk given to the animal and try a commercial diarrhea remedy. But if it doesn't clear up in 36 hours, consult your veterinary surgeon.

Bronchitis in dogs causes a deep cough and fever. It should be treated promptly, otherwise it may develop into pneumonia. Cure is usually one of the antibiotics.

These are some of the major complaints a dog may catch. Next week this column will consider the less dangerous ones.

CITE OLD TREATY

Nanaimo, B.C. (CP) — The Indian Treaty is to be cited by two Nanaimo Indians in defence against a charge of shooting deer out of season. Clifford White and David Bob claim the treaty gives them the right to hunt and fish any time.

PLAY RECORDER

Saskatoon (CP) — Recorder playing is gaining in popularity among Saskatoon school children, who find it an easy instrument to play. The recorder dates from mediaeval Europe and was played by King Henry VIII, who composed music for the instrument.

Dental fees increase with business tax

(TO THE EDITOR)

The Editor, The Watchman.
Dear Sir:

Through "The Watchman" the Dental Surgeons of the region wish to notify the population of Greater Lachute and surroundings that, effective immediately, the fee for dental extractions is raised.

The constant increase in the cost of living in general, and a certain tax in particular, are the reasons for this state of things, which, in fact, establishes the dentists on an even level, for the first time, as far as minimum provincial fees for dental extractions are concerned.

We have always co-operated wholeheartedly with our municipal authorities, where the welfare of the people we serve is concerned. If ever this cordiality becomes normal again, the present situation will be reconsidered. This depends entirely on the attitude of the population.

Hoping this letter is clear enough, we wish to remain.

Yours truly,

The Dental Surgeons of Argenteuil County

Wedding of interest to Arundel district

Graham - Desaulniers

The marriage of Miss Mary Martha Desaulniers, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Desaulniers of Windsor, to Mr. Earl Howard Graham, of Montreal, son of the late Mr. Alvin Graham and Mrs. Graham, of Arundel, took place in St. Patrick's Church, Sherbrooke, Msgr. Rosario Moisan officiating. Mr. John Codere was the organist and the soloist was Miss Margaret Philip. White gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Eugene Daigneau, wore a floor-length gown of Calais lace over a Blue Boy taffeta, the fitted bodice being fashioned with a bateau neckline and three-quarter length sleeves, while the gathered skirt was designed with a blue cummerbund and long streamers at the back. Her shoulder veil was held in place by a matching halo. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, Shasta daisies and fern.

The Misses Susan Daigneau and Jo-Ann Hovey, nieces of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Susan was in a dress of white batiste cotton, with blue embroidery, with matching blue bolero, and Jo-Ann was dressed the same except in pink. They wore floral headbands and carried baskets of Shasta daisies.

Mr. Norman Graham acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. John Ridoch and Clark Graham.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Connaught Inn, North Hatley.

Later the couple left for a trip to Vancouver, Banff and Lake Louise, the bride wearing for travelling, a brown and white two-piece linen suit, with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow gardenias.

Out-of-town guests were from Arundel, Farnham, Ottawa, Montreal, Dolbeau, and Thetford Mines.

The couple are residing in Montreal.

"We needed it now, the bank said yes, so..."

Many a household purchase like this starts with a bank loan. People find that the simple, natural thing to do is to borrow where they save—at the local bank. In fact the chartered banks are the largest single source of consumer credit loans, both in number and value.

Through the years the chartered banks have made it increasingly easy for people to borrow, at reasonable rates, for almost any worthwhile purpose: the purchase of a car...a new home heating system...a son's or daughter's education...a family vacation...

Three out of four bank loans are to individuals for their personal credit needs. And the total amount of such loans has almost doubled in the past five years...further evidence of the way bank customers are relying more and more on their local branches for borrowing as well as for all other financial services.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

ON THE DERIVATION OF WORDS

Quite frequently one hears the expression, "Stranger than Fiction". But whoever created this expression had never read any of my fiction, which is even stranger than Truth! For example:

"Many years ago, in fact, even longer than that (and that's a conservative estimate) there lived in Sunny Italy a fruit grower named Egnaro Edalamram, who, with his two brothers Emil and Nomel operated a large citrus farm. In a good season they were just glutted with unsold fruit that rotted on the ground or on the trees, because at that time there was no way to preserve the oranges, lemons or limes. But brother Emil had imagination. He had watched his mother making jam from berries, so decided to experiment with citrus fruits, cutting them up and boiling them with sugar. After a few failures he succeeded in producing a tasty compound that would keep for several months. Nomel was a good salesman and succeeded in getting many orders from the local villages, and later from the big cities. One day he came in all excited, exclaiming, "Business is wonderful. I've just got a huge order from the A&P for 100 doz. 24 oz. jars and 40 doz. 5 lb. tins."

"Don't be crazy!" said Egnaro. "The A&P are not yet in existence, and glass jars and tin cans have not been invented yet."

"Gee, you're right!" said Nomel. "I never thought of that."

"I know where we can get small wooden kegs made in quantity," said Emil. "And we can get leather olves for the smaller sizes. What we need most is a name for our product."

"Let's do what that smart Englishman did," said Nomel. "He invented a kind of fluid beef and couldn't think of a name for it. So he took his own name and spelt it backwards, and that gave him the name for his product."

"And what was his name?" asked Emil. "Oxo," replied Nomel. "So he called his product 'OXO'."

"Swell idea," said Engaro. "Gimmie some paper and I'll dope it out. . . Lend me your ball-point pen!"

"Are you nuts?" shouted Nomel. "Ball-point pens won't be invented until 1946. I'll get you some papyrus and a stylus."

They all retired to the potting-shed for the materials, and there was born the first Directors' Meeting.

"Lemme see," said Edalamram. "My name spelt backwards is Marmalade. My first name spelt backward is Orange. How about Orange Marmalade?"

"Kinda phony," said Emil. "But it has a sound about it that will arouse public interst. The suckers who buy our stuff will wonder what it means. Now, my own name comes out Lime Marmalade. How about that?"

"And mine's Lemon Marmalade," said Nomel. "I have it!"

"Well, don't stand near me," said Emil. "I don't want to catch it."

"Listen, youse guys. We have three kinds of goo to sell. We have three names. What more do we want?"

"Glass jars and tins," said Egnaro. "Don't you know nothin' about merchandising display?"

"That can wait," said Emil. "We can get along as we are until Supermarkets are invented, and that won't be for hundreds of years yet."

And that, my friends is how Marmalade came into being.

How's that? Isn't that stranger than Truth?

When worse fiction is written, I will write it!

Be seein' ya!

The Canadian grocery bill

Food prices have more than doubled in the past 25 years. But so have incomes. In fact, incomes have quadrupled during this period, according to the Canada Department of Agriculture's revised publication "Our Food Costs".

The weekly food basket to feed a family of four cost about $25 in 1962. The same amount of food would have cost $10 in 1935-39, and $20 in 1948-50.

Disposable income per person in 1962 amounted to $1,512. This is about 4½ times as much as the $339 disposable income during 1935-39.

Canadians spent about one-quarter of their income on food in 1935, and they still do. But, this buys them about 1½ times as much food today as it would have 25 years ago. Per capita consumption of nearly all foods has increased, with the most notable exceptions being cereal products, potatoes, whole milk and butter.

The 'population explosion' in southwestern Quebec

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

The last of the swallows left our barns for Central America on August 27. Every year they leave at about this date. The first swallows heading north reach the Capistrano monastery in California about the middle of March. They arrive at our barns about April 27. An early spring will bring them here about the middle of April. They raise two broods of young.

The first batch of fledglings heads south about August 1. The second brood, and their parents, have all departed by the end of August.

Groundhogs and raccoons, have increased tremendously of late, and have kept the farmer and his dog busy hunting them, in these parts east of Lachute.

The raccoon is a very resourceful little beast. He is very closely related to the bear, and has many attributes of the ursine tribe. This summer, a coon almost killed a farmer's dog in East Settlement. They have teeth like needles, and sharp claws that can rip off loose boards or loose tin on a hen-house.

A coon that had entered our hen-house actually dove through a window pane to escape. They start to eat a hen, before they kill them. Not a very pleasant fellow to have around!

I managed to shoot one down from a hot tin roof, a few months ago, at about 3 a.m. in the night. The coon is a nocturnal marauder, and consequently, very hard to shoot.

Our collie dog is large enough to fight a raccoon, but although he chases them, he doesn't dare to get too close. He has been bitten by them, and respects their rapier-sharp teeth.

* * *

There is much talk, at present, of the Town of Lachute annexing most of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, including our farm. There is only one home within a half-mile radius of our house.

We like our connection with the Parish of St. Jerusalem, many of whose mayors and councillors have been understanding farmers.

I would much rather rusticate, in my entirely rural setting here. I have no desire to join the "maddening crowd's ignoble strife".

The crime rate of rural communities is only one-third that of towns and cities. It doesn't cost one-third as much, to the public purse, to keep a man in a rural setting, as it does in an urban one.

Our water here is pumped from a cleft in solid rock, 125 feet in the bowels of Mother Earth. This water is sweet and pure as crystal. We wouldn't exchange it for all the medicated water of Lachute.

In fact, the Campbells, the well drillers, at the time they drilled this well 44 years ago, said there was enough water and pressure to supply the Town of Lachute.

* * *

I know, that the population explosion has hit south-western Quebec. In Quebec, we are losing 30 acres of our finest agricultural land every day, to industrialization and urban developments.

In Mexico too, they have a grave population problem. They built a skyscraper apartment block in Mexico City recently, to house 67,000 people. They are smarter than we are. They believe in conserving the arable land for posterity. However, I pity the poor children raised in this human ant-hill.

The French-Canadian has largely been driven from the small farms; automation and mechanization, have made it extremely hard for the laboring class in Quebec.

French-Canada has to change the style, and vastly increase the education of the masses. Naturally, frustration has embittered the poorer class.

Industries should be built on our poorest lands, and not on our best; in the rocky Laurentians, and not in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys. It will soon be all city, between here and Montreal.

Quebec is extremely poor in agricultural resources. Its best lands lie in the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Valley. Quebecers would starve if they had to depend on their own agriculture.

Our bread is made from western wheat. Much of our meat comes from the West. Much of our milk comes from Ontario, and our farmers depend on western grain to increase their milk supply. We bring in fruit from Ontario and the U.S.A.

Way build cities and towns on our best lands, while our rocky and arid lands lie largely untenanted?

Seven years ago, Bruce Hutchison of the "Vancouver Sun", in his report on Quebec, had this to say: "So many French-Canadian farmers have left their lands recently, for life in the towns and cities, that there is bound to be a leftist movement in Quebec." His prophecy was true. I greatly admire Bruce Hutchison, and I quoted this prophecy of his in an article to The Watchman seven years ago, on the subject of farming.

For Parents Only...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

Your child shows off

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Do you ever urge your child to perform? It is the most natural thing in the world for parents to be proud of their offspring and want to display his ability to fond relatives or friends. There is a place for the tiny "performer", but there is also the possibility for a bad effect on "Junior".

Mother is more likely to show off her child too often than father, although sometimes, he, too, can't help urging his daughter to play the piano, or recite a poem or bring out her last report card (if it has been a particularly good one). Other people's praise of one's child is honey-sweet in a parent's ears. It strengthens the mother's or father's belief that in their child they have "something pretty special".

But what happens to Junior if being showed off is a fairly regular routine when company calls? Mother often cannot understand why he is so stubborn in his refusal to "do his stuff". It never seems to occur to her that repeating a Nursery Rhyme to his father in the relaxed, happy atmosphere of his after supper time with his dad, is rather different from being interrupted in his play to recite to his Aunt. It is even more trying for Mother to expect him to recite to a whole roomful of strange ladies whom she has invited to afternoon tea! All those unfamiliar eyes fixed on Junior may panic him.

The child who is asked by a parent to perform for an outsider either makes a failure or a success of it. If he is so unsure of himself that he refuses, or if, under pressure he makes a feeble attempt but cannot get through with his task, it destroys some of his self-confidence.

It is very important that a child should learn to be at ease with other people both his own age and grown-ups too. With some children the chance to show some skill is a help to them if they do it willingly and well. But if there is a feeling of strain for the sensitive child who is forced to be the centre of attraction this is not a good thing. Mothers should question carefully whether their own feeling of pride at their child being admired balances the child's own emotions during this performing time.

There is the possibility that the child may enjoy showing off, and look eagerly forward to other opportunities to show how clever he is. He may want to recite every Nursery Rhyme he knows. Mother may relish this but the visitor is apt to be a bit bored before the recital is completed. Adult exchange of ideas is out of the question while a child is bidding for the centre of the stage.

A child "actor" because he is a child, can be very sweet and charming. But what happens when the "show-off" child grows up? He is likely to continue to want to be "the whole show".

Many adolescents come to grief doing foolhardy athletic stunts in an effort to outshine their companions. Every year tragic accidents are reported in the press telling of some young person who took too great a risk in doing some intricate stunt.

Our grandparents had no doubt about the wisdom of the old saying, "Children should be seen and not heard." Perhaps there has been too great a swing in the other direction. Nevertheless, if a parent is not too insistent, a child can give real pleasure to others if he occasionally recites or plays a musical instrument or does something else to provide entertainment. If he is making a serious effort he should not be laughed at, or told that he is "cute"! What self respecting child wants to be "cute"?

But anyone enjoys well earned applause . . . and praise which is deserved never hurt anyone. The Music Festivals sponsored by Service Clubs in many centres have demonstrated this. If brothers and sisters take turns performing, or if the "neighborhood gang" put on a little concert, this is the type of "showing off" which has real character values. See that your child has an occasional opportunity to show off in the company of other youngsters!

A Case of Museumitis

By Dorothy Barker ("Diary of A Vagabond")

At Hopewell Cape, in Albert County, N.B., there is a tiny museum that is just about the finest example of community effort I have ever seen. Almost as ancient as its oldest artifact, this final resting place for many household treasures from the district used to be the county registry and tax office.

I paid two visits to this museum. The first with Borden Steeves, president of the Albert County Historical Society and advertising representative of the CN's Department of Public Relations at Moncton. On that occasion I signed the guest book, exclaimed sincerely about the outstanding displays, collected one of the museum's attractive brochures and departed in the sedate manner appropriate for museum visitors. . .

Near the fringe of the museum grounds is the home of Homer Betz. I never did discover what his official title is, though I learned he is chief discoverer of worthy items for the museum, keeper of the keys, carpenter, historian, curator and general factotum.

While I was hobnobbing with his roses, peonies, two black Persian cats and a dozen or so hungry mosquitos, his enthusiasm for the museum's latest acquisition, the nearby jail, could no longer be contained by social platitudes. Quickly he organized a raiding party, consisting of his wife Mabel, two neighbors, a teen-ager and this Vagabond. He headed the parade carrying a flashlight and oil lamps, while we marched behind him through knee-high timothy to the crumbling steps of the ancient building.

It could have been the dusk that was gently enveloping us, or the creak of the rusty hinges; it might even have been the clang of the heavy iron door as it closed behind me, that made it so easy for me to understand the exuberant enthusiasm of these museum buffs.

The tales Betz told in the musty dungeon of drunks chained to the floor until they sobered up from their moonshine binge more than a hundred years ago, were convincing. The old iron ring is still there, secure in the heavy planks of the floor, though I was told that now the sobriety of the county has done away with the need for a jail. Its main purpose from now on will be to afford a setting for pioneer furniture, a store room, and a record room for cataloguing the museum's contents.

Museums Not Alike

There are those who will claim that museums are alike the world over. Albert County Museum seemed different. Its situation could have had something to do with this assessment. Towering over the tiny records and tax office building is an architectural masterpiece. This is the County Court House reputed to have been designed by a New Englander and is the only one of its kind in the Maritimes.

Gradually this group of lovely old buildings will be surrounded by parklands. Nearby is a quaint little library, in front are two cannons presented to the community for its successful Victory Loan Campaign during World War I. There is also a huge anchor reclaimed from the banks of the river that flows by. All these remind visitors and inhabitants alike of the tragedy and glory that has been the heritage for so many years of the people in this historical part of Canada.

Honey Raisin Fantans

Fantans are an elegant version of a dinner roll made so that buttery layers of fluffy roll can be peeled off one by one. The latest version of this delicacy is a fruit and nut-laden roll, layered to break apart easily, with honey and butter spread between the strips to accent a delicate orange-flavored dough.

They taste best hot from the oven, so if you're planning to freeze some or set them aside for a day or so later, seal them in foil and reheat them in a 300-degree oven for about 15 minutes before serving.

Honey Raisin Fantans

(Makes 2 dozen)

1 Cup milk, ½ cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes fast-rising active dry yeast, 2 eggs (well-beaten), 1 teaspoon orange rind, 4½ cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 6 tablespoons liquid honey, ½ cup halved seedless raisins, ½ cup finely chopped walnuts, soft butter or margarine.

Scald milk; stir in the ½ cup sugar, the salt and butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure lukewarm water into a large bowl; stir in the 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Stir lukewarm milk mixture, well-beaten eggs and orange rind into dissolved yeast. Add 2½ cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 2 cups more.

Turn out dough onto a lightly floured board or canvas, and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, grease top with soft butter or margarine. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1½ hours.

Punch down dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board or canvas. Divide dough into 3 equal pieces. Roll each portion into a rectangle 12 x 8 inches. Brush generously with a mixture of the melted butter or margarine and honey. Sprinkle each rectangle with raisins and nuts. Cut each rectangle lengthwise into 4 strips, 2 inches wide. Pile strips one on top of the other, turning top strip over so honey mixture will be inside. Cut each of the three stacks into 8 equal pieces, 1½ inches wide. Place, a cut side up, in greased muffin pans. Grease tops with soft butter or margarine. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1 hour.

Bake in a preheated moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for 18-20 minutes. Remove immediately from pans to cooling racks.

Pears and plums can add color and variety to fresh salads.

Home economists in the federal department of agriculture find these fresh fruits especially tasty when stuffed with a tangy cheese mixture.

To make stuffed pears for salad, beat four ounces of cream cheese until smooth. Add ½ cup finely chopped celery, three tablespoons chopped ginger or sweet pickle and ½ cup chopped toasted almonds and mix thoroughly.

Peel three pears, cut in half and remove cores and sprinkle with 1½ tablespoons lemon juice. Stuff the pear centres with the cheese mixture, place each half on a lettuce leaf and garnish with watercress or mint. Add mayonnaise or salad dressing and a few grains of salt. Add one tablespoon of finely-chopped celery.

This recipe is sufficient for six large or nine medium fresh dessert plums, which when stuffed are an excellent garnish for cold meat plates.

* * *

Fruit Varieties

Though plum colors range from pale gold and green to deep red and dusky purple, meaty blue plums dominate the September market.

The Grand Duke is the largest of the blue plums and is followed closely by the Stanley and the Italian prune. The small, tart blue damson and the small greengage are best for canning and jam making.

The yellow-skinned dessert pears on the September market are the Bartlett, Flemish Beauty and Clapp's Favorite. The Bartlett, grown in Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia, is the favorite because it can be used both for desserts and canning.

For a fresh pear salad, toss three cups of diced pears with 1½ cups thinly-sliced celery, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice and 1½ teaspoons sugar. Cover and chill. Then, when ready to serve, drain off the excess liquid, add ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup toasted cocoanut and serve on lettuce.

* * *

Quick Relishes

Tomato and green pepper relish — Mix two cups of peeled, chopped tomatoes, one cup of diced green pepper, ½ cup finely chopped onion, ½ teaspoon celery seed (or ½ cup chopped celery) and drain off any excess liquid.

In a screw-top jar, mix ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ cup cider vinegar and ½ cup salad oil. Pour this dressing over the chopped vegetables and mix thoroughly. Refrigerate for several hours before serving.

Quick corn relish — Sauté two tablespoons finely-chopped onions in two tablespoons of butter about three minutes. Then add one tablespoon vinegar, 1½ cups corn (cut from three cobs) and ½ cup chili sauce. Simmer from five to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, and serve hot or cold.

Domitory duo

Pillow fights have given way to pillowcase creations — the newest teen fad. The study outfit at top was made from a cotton percale pillowcase in a rose design, while the obi robe was fashioned from two pillowcases in a striped motif.

WAY OF SALVATION

Years ago when the minister came to call at the farm, it was usual to kill a chicken and prepare a chicken dinner for him. . . Well, one day the minister called and the usual happened.

The big bronze rooster found his wife, Biddy, weeping copiously in the corner and asked, "What's wrong?".

"The minister has arrived and they have taken our son."

"Well," said the rooster, "I don't think that is so bad. Our son has entered the ministry — and I really don't think he would have made a very good layman anyway."

Target of 700 donations for blood clinic, Sept. 30, Oct. 1

The Red Cross blood donor clinic in Lachute is arranged for September 30 and October 1 — a two-day session at the civic auditorium. Chairman and vice-chairman for this year's campaign are Messrs. Paul Deslauriers and Bernard Jenkins, and the objective is 700 bottles of blood; the chairmen are confident this will be achieved.

Discussing this annual project, Mr. Deslauriers observes that, while the collection of blood donations and the servicing of hospitals is the responsibility of paid and highly specialized personnel of the Canadian Red Cross, the actual soliciting and recruiting of volunteer donors, an essential part of this great humanitarian work, depends on volunteer assistance at the local centres where clinics are organized.

The quota is set in relation to the population and to current hospital needs. It may vary from one clinic to the next, according to the demand upon supplies. In some localities there are two, or even three clinics yearly, and objectives are set in accordance with adult donors eligible to give blood to the bank.

As regards the new Argenteuil Hospital, we are informed this institution is not yet affiliated with the free Red Cross transfusion service. However, all required supplies of plasma are immediately available, and affiliation with the blood bank service should be effected very shortly.

As in previous clinics here, there will be lady volunteers for registration and refreshment, volunteer local nurses to assist the Red Cross mobile clinic staff, volunteer physicians to supervise, and others co-operating in the transportation of donors.

Hours of the clinic will be from 2 to 5.30, and from 7 to 9 p.m. on both days.

Death removes last member of Barron family

'Ralph Connor' was officiating minister at her marriage

Late Mrs. Alexander MacGregor

The funeral of the late Mrs. Alexander MacGregor was held Monday afternoon from the old Barron home on Main Street, her birthplace, where she had resided since returning to Lachute in 1958.

The former Grace Muriel Hope Barron, she was born here June 25, 1875, and was the last surviving child of the late Thomas Barron, whose name is synonymous with the early days of this town. Her death occurred last Friday, September 13.

The late Mrs. MacGregor prior to her marriage practised her profession as a registered nurse, being a member of one of the earliest classes at the Montreal General Hospital. In 1906 she was married in Winnipeg to the Rev. Alexander MacGregor, son of John MacGregor, of Cote du Midi. The officiating clergyman was the late Dr. Charles Gordon (Ralph Connor).

The Rev. and Mrs. MacGregor settled in Tuxford, Sask., in the same year. They later moved to Moose Jaw, then returning east, to Toronto, in 1925. Mrs. MacGregor was predeceased by her husband, and came to Lachute in 1958 to reside in the old family home. She was an active worker in the Presbyterian Church and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

She is survived by her five daughters and one son, also 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

All members of her family and three grandchildren were present for the funeral, which was attended by many friends, neighbors and sympathizers. The Rev. Jas. Armour conducted the service. Three of her grandsons served as pall-bearers — Messrs. Jas. Gillespie, Alexander and Geoffrey Waddell — and the remains were borne to their last resting place, in the MacGregor family plot at St. Andrews Protestant Cemetery.

Another $100 cash prize winner

The coupon was handed out with a purchase at the Laurent Tessier furniture store, Ayersville. Grenville seeks damages from Hydro Quebec

In view of costly problems occasioned by the flooding of the Ottawa River, the Village of Grenville has entered claims for over half a million dollars (certain rumors place the amount nearer to three-quarters of a million) from Quebec Hydro.

Jean Jacques Croteau, counsel retained by the municipality, was authorized to institute a claim on the engineer's reports, and to advise that proceedings would be taken failing a satisfactory reply within 10 days.

The engineer engaged by the municipality, Pierre Arsenault, of Montreal, has studied the situation since last spring occasioned by the Carillon power dam. This report was duly considered by the Council, and legal services were procured to claim for re-planning and changes in the town drainage, made necessary by the higher water level.

B.B.G. disfavors Lalonde request for radio license

The Board of Broadcast Governors, deliberating in Ottawa last week, recommended for denial an application from Jean Lalonde to establish a bilingual satellite station in Lachute.

The BBG said the proposed station, which would broadcast programs part-time from CKJL St. Jerome, would not provide significant additional radio service to the area.

"The Board is also concerned that the establishment of a re-broadcasting station as proposed would retard the provision of a more substantial local service to Lachute," the BBG's announcement said.

Meanwhile, Donald Attfield, sponsor of an application for a Lachute - Hawkesbury bilingual station to be known as the "Voice of the Two Provinces", states his revised brief is now in preparation and will be submitted to the B.B.G. in October or December.

Formal authority was given by the Board for formation of a radio network to Radio Laurentides Inc., licensee of CKJL St. Jerome, to carry race highlights from Blue Bonnets and Richelieu race tracks originating with CKAC Montreal.

Won bi-county industrial scholarship

The Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada announced that the Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship for 1963 has been awarded to Thomas Edward Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Patterson, of Mille Isles. Mr. Patterson will work for his B.Sc. (Agriculture) at Macdonald College.

The Prescott-Argenteuil Industrial Scholarship, which is administered by the Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada, amounts to $500 and is supported by the following industries located in the counties of Argenteuil and Prescott:

Canadian Refractories Limited, Kilmar; Canadian Safety Fuse Comany Limited, Brownsburg; J. C. Wilson Limited, Lachute; International Cellulose Research Limited, Hawkesbury, and Norda Limited, Vankleek Hill.

The award will be presented to T. E. Patterson, a graduate of Morin Heights Protestant School, at a meeting of the Hawkesbury Section of the Chemical Institute of Canada on September 24. Guest speaker will be Professor E. A. Moelwyn-Hughes of Cambridge University.

St. Jerusalem area in annexation project

The area embraced in the dotted line shows, in the above map, that portion of St. Jerusalem Parish designated for annexation to the Town of Lachute. A survey of this area shows a valuation of $1,968,415 and a population of 1,557. To all intents and purposes the population is principally urban, consisting of residents contiguous to Lachute.

Taxpayers' meeting Monday to approve or disapprove of annexation measure

A meeting of St. Jerusalem taxpayers from that part of the Parish concerned with annexation, will be held on Monday, September 23, at 10 a.m. at the Parish office on Elizabeth Street.

The only question to be determined at this meeting will be whether the majority of the qualified electors, being proprietors in the portion of the municipality, present at the meeting, do or do not approve of the by-law.

To quote from the Quebec Cities and Towns Act: "When the question has been put, the chairman of the meeting shall declare whether, in his opinion, the majority of the said electors approve or disapprove of the by-law.

"His decision, if not appealed within an hour, shall be final, and within eight days thereafter, shall be communicated to the council of the town desiring to effect annexation, by a certificate signed by the secretary of the meeting.

"Any five electors present at the meeting may appeal from the decision of the chairman, and may apply for a poll; and such poll shall be granted by the chairman of the meeting, and shall be immediately taken by him, the secretary-treasurer of the municipality acting as poll clerk.

"Each of the electors shall then present himself in turn to the chairman, and give his vote by 'yea' or 'nay', the word 'yea' meaning that he approves of the by-law and the word 'nay' that he disapproves. No person's vote shall be received unless he appears by the assessment rolls and electoral list to be an elector, duly qualified to vote as proprietor of immoveable property in the said part of the municipality.

"If, at five o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the meeting, the votes of all the electors present have not been registered, the chairman shall adjourn the voting to the following day at ten o'clock in the forenoon and the voting shall then continue as on the first day, and shall be closed at five o'clock in the afternoon of the second day.

"If, at any time, on the first or second days, an hour elapses without a vote being offered, the poll shall be closed.

"At the close of the poll, the chairman shall count the 'yeas' and 'nays' and ascertain whether the majority of the electors who have voted approve or disapprove of the by-law. He shall then make and sign a certificate stating the result of the voting, and said certificate shall be counter-signed and shall be kept with the poll-book and a duly authenticated copy of the said certificate and poll-book shall be sent to the clerk of the town desiring to effect annexation."

Engineers report on Ayersville sewerage; high costs intimated

The Municipality of Ayersville will be faced in the near future with considerable expense on sewers — that is, if action is taken on the report of the engineers, Girouard-Lalonde-Letendre, who state that the sum of $162,000 will be required for re-laying of the sewerage system.

The work is required on Ayers, Hamford, Chatham, de l'Eglise, Léo Clément, Hammond and Lavigueur Streets, in addition to some 50-odd septic tanks and the collector sewer running from Ayers Street to the North River.

Following is an estimate of the costs:

Collector	$ 23,380
Ayers Street	$ 26,250
Hammond	$ 49,350
Chatham	$ 11,680
de l'Eglise	$ 8,850
Clement	$ 5,020
Hammond	$ 2,155
Lavigueur	$ 2,060
(Entire new installations recommended on the above)
Septic Tanks	$ 10,200
Total	$138,945
Administration, loan and engineer's fees	$ 23,055
Grand Total	$162,000

According to Mayor Gaston Plamondon, the Municipality of the Town of Lachute will be approached to pay a portion of the cost of the Ayers and Hamford Street sewers, where the Lachute sewerage system runs into that of Ayersville. In addition, the work will be carried out under the winter works program, through which the municipality can count on the assistance of both the Federal and Provincial governments for labor involved.

The engineers' report, prepared at the request of the municipal council, pointed out the requirements of the sewerage system. With the exception of Bradford Street from the C.P.R. tracks to Hammond Street, which was only recently cleaned, all the sewer pipes were extremely dirty. At certain points, such as Gilbert, Gougeon, Alexandre, Champagne and Argenteuil, the lines were blocked full and it was difficult indeed to force water through the pipes. On Hamford Street north to St. Julien, the sewer was blocked by steel rods, and on Lavigueur between Durocher and Hammond, a 12-inch pipe was installed with the improper slope.

In general, on a large number of the sewers checked, the slope was not sufficient and packed deposits were blocking or partially blocking the sewers.

Concerning the septic tanks, there are different types in operation, but in general none of these were recommended. In addition, the tanks collect a considerable amount of sand and mud, and deposit this in the sewers; there is no clean-out valve for this mud and sand in the bottom of the tanks to permit clearing.

The recommendation of the engineers was that the municipality proceed immediately with the cleaning of the sewers.

Costly blaze in electrical warehouse

Last Friday afternoon, fire gutted the warehouse and workshop of H. Stanley Church, electrical contractor, situated at 139 Main Street West. The fire was discovered shortly after three o'clock, and firemen were on the scene for well over an hour.

Origin of the blaze is unknown, and the loss, estimated in excess of $10,000, was partially covered by insurance. Firemen were hampered by intense heat and smoke, exploding light bulbs and ammunition, which was stored in the shop.

Both pumper trucks were used to answer the alarm, and one line of hose was laid from a nearby hydrant, several other lines being connected directly with the pumper trucks.

A Sunday morning fire at 321 Sydney Street, the home of Walter Currie, resulted in only minor damage. The blaze was reported at 9.50 o'clock and was caused by a flooded oilburner.

Figures on urban taxes, before and after annexation

According to figures prepared this week, and appearing in an advertisment sponsored by a group of St. Jerusalem taxpayers, a reduction in taxes will follow annexation — both in the rural and urban sections of that portion of the parish under consideration for annexation... A comparison follows:

Example, Rural Property

Rural property, $4,000 @ $1.20 (present rate) means payment of $48 tax.

After annexation, the property valuation will be increased 30%, but the rate will be reduced to only .90, making a tax of $46.80.

Urban, Before Annexation

Valuation $4,000 @ $1.20	—	$ 48.
Capital sewer @ $1.00	—	60.
Water	—	33.
Streetlights	—	12.
Garbage	—	6.
Sewer, subsidiary	—	25.
Total tax	—	$184.

Urban, After Annexation

Valuation $4,000 plus 30%
$5,200 @ $1.50	—	$ 78.00
Capital sewer
$5,200 @ .30	—	15.60
Water	—	40.00
Streetlights	—	NIL
Garbage	—	NIL
Sewer, subsidiary	—	25.00
Total tax	—	$158.60

By BOB ATCHISON

Cruelty to animals seems to be taken for granted among some humans. Last week I read an article from Vancouver about a dog that had been left in a car for a couple of hours with all the windows closed. On being let out the dog naturally died. Police and S.P.C.A. officials had tried to release this poor animal, to no avail. The owner, I am happy to say, was given 14 days in the hoosegow. It's too bad that more judges don't give the toughest sentences they can, but even among the judiciary there seems to be a bit of callousness toward animals.

More people are concerned about the condition of our North River right now than ever before. For a good while the river has been very muddy and oily, trying to find out just where this is coming from is one tough job, however I have found at times it starts just above St. Jerome, other times right in the city itself. This could tie in with the new autoroute being built, as feeder cracks run down from the diggings and some of this mud must get into the river. With the steady rain we have had, naturally some of the creeks would overflow, and no doubt run all this into our river. It's too bad, but no controls seem to be in effect by the water boards.

It does seem strange that cleaning up our water problems in certain areas should be postponed just to suit the governments and contractors concerned. The total lack of any controls this past summer gives you the impression that what is good for the governments, etc., is not good for the private citizen. Listening to CFRA, the Ottawa radio station, and hearing of the cynamide poison being dumped into a creek through an industrial accident, and from here, flowing into other areas seems to be the whole story all over. There is one exception to this story though, the health and water boards of this area did do something about this incident.

In another story the fruit farmer is urged to use more pesticides in the growing of strawberries. This may be wonderful for the farmers, but just what effect will this have on our wildlife. The exponent of this does not state just what will happen except that it will increase the yield of fruits, it just could be that the loss of birds, etc., does not count.

A couple of bears have been seen close to the town. They seem to be last year's cubs, as they are small. None have been reported as trying to hitch a ride in any cars though. A moose has been seen around St. Andrews East during the past week. I haven't heard of any travelling down that way since I started to write this column. It does appear that we are being blessed with goodly numbers of these great animals though. Let's hope they stay in this county where they are supposed to be protected. Of course there is bound to be the story that one had to be shot because it was rabid.

* * *

I was talking to a couple of the boys the other day about the Pheasants that are around this area. They naturally don't agree with any reports on sightings of the birds. However, the Peasants have and will continue to be seen for a while at least. The reason for the doubt is this is not supposed to be natural habitat for any bird of this description. The "supposed" is a big factor. I don't know just how many of you will remember when the city of Montreal placed Ring-Necked Pheasants on Mount Royal. This is many years ago yet these birds can still be seen. Naturally they are not the originals, but the offspring. Certainly these birds would roam, cold weather or not and some would have died, but others do become acclimatized and would produce offspring. As another example of this; how about the Wild Turkeys that have been seen? Certainly you say, "well I haven't seen them", but others have and that is certain. We know more and different birds are visiting us every year and this is particularly true of the summer variety, but the same situation applies to the winter birds. If these birds can become accustomed to our climate then why can't Pheasants. A great deal more study is going to have to be made before anything concrete can be said of the habits of birds.

A large snapping turtle was hooked down in Lac Emily last Sunday, and from the accounts I have heard, it must have been a whopper. It took a gob of worms that were supposed to be for the catfish in this body of water. I did hear accounts of how much it must have weighed, but I'm leaving that alone. Maybe one of these days we will be having a snapping turtle stew.

Great interest is naturally being shown in the attempts of Lachute to annex a portion of the parish of St. Jerusalem, all this supposedly in the interest of Industry. This sure does sound good, but just what is going to happen if industries do come into this district. Are they going to be allowed to run all the refuse into the river as in other places. I'll admit some thought must have been given to this problem, but just how much. This is a question that should be answered, certainly before anything is done. I don't know of any plans made or even being thought of for the establishment of a sewage disposal plant, and even if there were it would take some time before anything worthwhile came of it. Maybe a clarification on this would help.

I heard that a certain foreign shot shell is being pushed on the market these days. Some of the cut-price shooters will no doubt buy them, but my point of view is this, Canadian shells have been good enough for us for many years. Not only are they the world's best but they are also reasonable. With all the guff shot us on "Buying Canadian," I wonder just how these things get into our stores. Supposedly our manufactureres are protected against unfair competition, but it does make you wonder. As far as I am concerned, "Made in Canada", is certainly good enough for me.

Trout are still being receptive to almost any bait thrown their way. The West River has been a gem this past couple of weeks with some excellent catches being reported and in a couple of cases, actually seen. One-pounders are common in this water right now. Where they have come from I haven't the faintest idea, but they are there. Greys are being taken at a fast clip in Louisa and Silver Lakes. These bodies of water should be real producers until the end of the season. Incidentally they are being taken on spinning tackle too. Doré have almost stopped near the Carillon dam, but down toward St. Placide some good catches have been taken. I also heard of one party fishing near the Perley Bridge that had excellent results. It is also reported that the Rouge River near the inlet of the Ottawa has been very good. Perch are also being taken in good quantities and most of them seem to be taking any bait, so how about some for the freezer. Until the winter fishing starts, you will have to do without them unless you hit them now.

* * *

A little information for the Wardens that might help. It seems there are night-liners hitting the spawning beds in Louisa just now. These beds are located down toward the western end. Take a look.

* * *

Some dope for the shooters. Mourning Doves have come back in a big way. Goodly numbers of them can be seen around some of the fields and they could be with us for a while too. I certainly hope so as to my way of thinking, these are tough birds to hit on the wing. I usually average 25 shots to one bird.

A friend of mine also averages this on partridge, so I can't be too rotten. A great sportsman this friend; he believes in helping any and all partridge on their way, even though they may be well out of range. He sure gets a kick, seeing these birds ignite their after-burners for more speed. You never fail to know if he has been around, just by the number of empty shells on the ground. Give the birds a chance is his motto and one that I thoroughly agree with, but can't afford.

"Diary of a Vagabond"

By Dorothy Barker

"THIS IS CANADA"

There is a man in New York City whose voice is as familiar to vast numbers of people as their premium loaded breakfast cereals.

He walked into the room where I was sitting wearing a tweed fedora and carrying a large black umbrella hooked over his left arm. These were the two accoutrements that marked Peter Roberts as a distinct individualist. Otherwise his Madison Avenue attire, gray flannel suit, well polished shoes and string tie of a subdued shade, put him in the class with every other successful New Yorker.

Peter Roberts lives an almost ideal life from the viewpoint of a freelancer. Up with the birds every morning to make his regular morning newscast over WOR, one of the best known radio stations in the United States, he has the rest of the day to develop other lucrative ideas including his five-minute tape, "This is Canada".

The idea for these recordings popped into his head about five years ago when he met Joe Fountain, CN's Public Relations representative in Rockefeller Centre. He submitted his first outline, which was accepted by Mr. Fountain as an excellent feature. Five minute discs are now pressed and later retaped for distribution among the privately owned stations throughout the U.S. They have proved as popular as his newscasts, not only because of the vocal scenic pictures of various parts of Canada he projects, but for the sound of his voice and pronunciation which are both a delight to listen to.

When I realized that this contribution of his toward familiarizing Americans with this country, is distributed throughout 41 States and aired by 400 stations including the Armed Forces and Puerto Rico, I was not surprised that the CN assess the listening audience at some 80 million.

Peter Roberts was born in Montreal and educated at Bishop's University, Lennoxville. Twenty years ago he travelled south of the border for health reasons and five years ago he became an American citizen.

There is more than one reason for Peter Roberts' success, but chief among them I would say, is his delightful sense of humor. During our interview and luncheon together in the Mayan Room, Rockefeller Centre, when he came to relating his experience in becoming an American citizen, his humor shone through the conversation like a beacon. "I think I got my citizenship easier than any alien has ever done. When the presiding judge in his routine questioning asked me why I wanted to become an American and I said I had been married in Williamsburg to an American girl, he dropped his line of official questioning and delved into the merits of marriage in that historic village. He presented me with my new national status and even escorted me to the elevator. The judge, you see, was going to be married in three weeks himself and the fact of saving time and money on license and blood tests by being married in Williamsburg rather than in New York, fascinated him so much he forgot all about getting tough with me, this applicant before him who wished to become a son of Uncle Sam's."

The Art of Salesmanship

Peter Roberts' oldest account is with the Bell Telephone Comany. He started spot announcements for this concern in 1943. He said one of the toughest assignments he ever had was during the war, when he pleaded with people not to use their telephone to excess and to stay on their party lines rather than apply for single service. Now his chief objective is promoting answering service for the company.

This flexibility of projection from pleading with people not to use their telephones to today's high pressure salesmanship for transmitting for which the Bell is noted, is indicative of Peter Roberts' genius. If we must lose such a citizen to the United States it is gratifying that he uses much of his ability in promoting his native land.

Final fish derby by Association

Fair weather attended the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association's fishing contest last Sunday at Bark Lake, where Kenneth Ronalds of Arundel won top honors with a grey trout of 5 lbs. 12 ozs. The occasion terminated with a bean supper at Hotel Gagnon in Huberdeau, where other awards and door prizes were given out.

Lake Louisa is the site of the final fishing derby, next Sunday, 22nd. The entry fee is $1 per person.

The Association encourages interest in duck, partridge and hare shooting. Ducks open on Saturday, 21st, and the season for partridge and hare on the 28th of this month. All members are urged to enter their game for competition; there is no entry fee required.

A committee is planning interesting things for the deer hunting season. More particulars will be given later.

Duncan - Dunn wedding at Franklin Centre

In a double-ring ceremony on August 24, at 2.30 o'clock in Franklin Centre United Church, Shirley Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Keith Dunn, was wed to Mr. Ronald John Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stuart Duncan, of Ormstown, Que.

The Rev. Irvine Johnston, of Shawville, officiated. Mrs. Cedric Wheeler, of Brownsburg, was organist and Mr. Frank Steere, also of Brownsburg, sang "The Lord's Prayer" after the bridal party assembled at the altar, and "All Joy Be Thine" during the signing of the register. Baskets of white gladioli arranged with greenery graced the front of the church, while lily of the valley and white bows decorated the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white organza and lace over peau-de-soie. The lace bodice was fashioned with long sleeves. Her bouffant skirt, having a scalloped lace hemline, formed a slight train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a flower, also of lace and organza, which matched smaller flowers on her dress; and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Merle Dunn, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor, wearing a street-length dress of forest green peau-de-soie with three-quarter length sleeves. Miss Mary Dunn and Miss Betty Lindsay, cousins of the bride, were also in street-length dresses, of gold peau-de-soie with short sleeves. Miss Shirley Duncan, niece of the groom, as flower girl, wore forest green peau-de-soie with bouffant skirt. All attendants wore matching hats, gloves and shoes. Their dresses were bell-skirted, fashioned with low scooped backs and portrait-shaped neckline in front. Their belts were fashioned with a double bow at the back. Gifts from the bride, which were worn by the attendants, were matching necklace and earring sets of aurora borealis. The bridal party carried semi-cascade bouquets of yellow Shasta daisies and green fern.

Mr. Everett Clausen, of Brownsburg, acted as best man for the groom. The ushers were Mr. Donald Dunn, brother of the bride, and the Rev. Gordon Duncan, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Dunn, mother of the bride, wore a sheath dress and jacket ensemble of moss green jacquard brocade with matching hat. Her accessories were brown, and her corsage was white and yellow carnations. Mrs. Duncan, mother of the groom, wore a two-piece afternoon dress of brown brocaded crepe accented with lace. She chose brown accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Huntingdon Chateau, where arrangements of summer garden flowers with greenery were used as decorations.

The bride and groom and guests then returned to the Dunn residence, from where the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in the Maritimes. The bride was travelling in a three-piece suit of brown and beige with matching accessories, and she wore a corsage of white and yellow carnations. On their return, they will take up residence in St. Hubert, Que.

Out-of-town guests were from Detroit, Pennsylvania, Saskatchewan, Brownsburg, Lachute, Shawville and St. Lambert.

W.I. branches held meeting at Manitou Lodge

The September meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held at Manitou Lodge, Dunany, with Mrs. Ralph McOuat acting as hostess. The beautiful surroundings added to the enjoyment of the afternoon. The meeting was a joint occasion, as members of the branches at Lakefield and Mille Isles also attended.

Business was first on the agenda. This included a very comprehensive report given by Dr. Suzanne MacKimmie on the annual convention.

A general knowledge quiz, compiled by Miss Katherine McGibbon, who unfortunately was unable to be present, was conducted by Mrs. George McGibbon. The prize, a book of very interesting photographs of Canada, was won by Dr. MacKimmie.

The high-point of the afternoon was a delightful tea, provided by members of the three branches.

The general opinion was that this sort of outing should be held more often.

Member of old County family laid to rest

Late Mrs. Theron Carpenter

Many sympathizing friends and relatives filled the Baptist Church at Dalesville, where the funeral of Mrs. Theron Carpenter (Eva McFaul), of Lachute, was held last Thursday. The late Mrs. Carpenter died September 10 in the Montreal General Hospital, following a long illness.

A daughter of the late James McFaul and his wife Janet McPhail, she was born in Brownsburg. She lived in this district until 1909, then residing in Winnipeg until 1954. She was married December 8, 1954, to Theron Carpenter, who remains to mourn her passing. Surviving members of her immediate family are two sisters, (Elizabeth) Mrs. E. Wilson, of Winnipeg, (Jessie) Mrs. L. Partridge, of Lachute, and one brother, Charles McFaul, also of Lachute.

The cortege proceeded from the MacKimmie Funeral Home to Dalesville Baptist Church, where the Rev. W. L. Hisey conducted the service. The remains were interred in Lachute Cemetery. There was a profusion of flowers, in silent tribute to her memory.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Milton, Donald and Edmund McFaul, Keith Pollock, Irvin Bain and Keith Carpenter.

Robert Lacelle, Guy Leroux, Ralph Laliberté and Gilles Lacroix, of the Hawkesbury Cub Pack, learn knot-tying from Chieftain Huneault.

Harrington Forest Farm benefits youth groups

Harrington Forest Farm is becoming a favorite site for organized youth activities, particularly since a disused farm area outside the Forest Farm has been made available by the Grenville Woods Division to Scout and Cub groups from the Long-Sault District, which covers both the Quebec and Ontario sides of the Ottawa River.

The agreement between the C.I.P. division and the Scout District provides for exclusive use of the farm and buildings as camping facilities for the youngsters. Scout troops and Cub packs from different areas within the district are scheduled to visit the site in turn, each for a week of camping.

Several other youth organizations have already been guests at Harrington. They include 4-H Clubs, le Cercle des Jeunes Naturalistes, Scout groups from all parts of Eastern Canada and a group of Scout canoe instructors, who make an annual trip called the "Rouge Radisson Roundup".

One of the main attractions is the Forest Farm itself, where these organizations, which are intensely interested in conservation, can learn elementary forestry techniques and gain an idea of reforestation, woodlot farming, tree nursery work and, in general, full land use.

No less attractive is the location. The background of mountains, the wooded areas and the picturesque Rouge Valley combine to make this one of the most scenic sites in Quebec. Facilities are ideal for camping, swimming and nature studies.

Summer camp is of great importance to the Cubs and Scouts, since it is an integral part of their annual program, and a successful performance is needed for promotion.

METAL SALT CLEARS DETERGENT RESIDUE

Regina (CP) — A former Regina man has come up with a method to solve a growing problem created by modern-day living, the pollution of water supplies by household detergents.

Dr. Hugh R. Eisenhauer, a chemist with a large Canadian industrial firm, said the problem of detergents arose because their chemical components are not readily consumed or degraded by bacteria. The most common form of detergent residue is foam, which often appears in surface waters, sewage treatment plants and tap water.

Dr. Eisenhauer, who received his high school and university training at Regina, said his method of treating the residue is to use a simple metal salt as a catalyst.

If the method could be developed commercially it would be useful in such operations as laundries and car wash establishments, where large amounts of detergents are used. Additional work is needed, however, on equipment and process, he said.

MATTER OF FORM

A true story currently going the rounds tells of a government department clerk who in the course of his job receives dozens of papers every day which he is supposed to read and initial.

One day recently, it appears, a form from another department found its way into his pile. He read it, initialled it and placed it in his "out" basket.

Two days later the paper came back with this note attached: "This document was not designed for you to handle. Kindly erase your initials and initial the erasure." — Industry

Mr. Merchant, does this mean YOU?

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town:

- "No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns.
- "The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business men."
- "This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad, in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned.
- "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser.
- "The man who does not advertise does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town.

The Earth Abideth Forever
— Eccl. 1 : 4

You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World.

"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With those words Jesus foretold the greatest time of trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armageddon. (Matt. 24: 21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33). The death toll will be so all-surpassing that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.

But will there then be nothing to survive for? No indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. For that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation? The 384-page book "You May Survive Armageddon into God's New World" answers. The book is sent on a 50c contribution.

Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may know; they will be glad to supply you with any literature you may need.

Sixth year for Argenteuil School of Ballet

On September 27, the Argenteuil School of Ballet hopes to commence its sixth year of operation. In just five short years this school has become one of the best in the Montreal area, receiving accolades from far and wide.

According to the school's director, Mrs. E. F. Gow, of R.R. 3, Lachute, this year will be one of continued growth and excellence. Ance again Miss Lucille DuBreuil will be teaching mime, music, rhythm and classical ballet to children of all ages. Miss DuBreuil needs no introduction to the parents of Lachute and district, as she has been here for the past three years. This experience with the children, is backed by years of study in Montreal, in Toronto at the Canadian National Ballet School, and at the Bush and Davies Academy, England. Miss DuBreuil also holds the Imperial Teachers' diploma, which qualifies her to prepare children for the Royal Academy of Dancing examinations.

Classes in mime, music and rhythm are held for boys and girls aged 3 to 6 years. Older children will learn the art of classical ballet in accordance with the syllabus of the Royal Academy of Dancing.

Parents interested in giving their children an opportunity to learn one of the oldest arts, and to acquire poise and grace, at very reasonable rates, should write Mrs. E. F. Gow at the above address, or call LO 2-6102.

MacVicar - Tomalty

The marriage of Carol Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tomalty, to William John David MacVicar, son of John S. MacVicar, took place Saturday in the Dalesville Baptist Church.

The Rev. W. L. Hisey officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Keith Morrison played the wedding music, and Mr. Alex King sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". The church was prettily decorated with yellow gladioli and bronze mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length peau-de-faille gown, with scoop neckline. Her dress was appliqued with lace and pearls. The back, with soft pleats, fell into a cathedral train. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of pearls and drop crystals, and she carried a cascade of Talisman roses.

Miss Alida Van Geel, as maid of honor, Miss Linda Green, as bridesmaid, and Miss Brenda Moncrieff, as junior bridesmaid, wore matching dresses of gold faille trimmed with peau-de-soie in deeper gold. They wore matching slippers, and their circlet headdresses were of peau-de-soie and tulle of a deeper shade of gold. Each carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and bronze mums.

Mr. Donald Parker acted as best man and the ushers were Merle Tomalty and Mr. Harold Carpenter.

Mrs. Lawrence Tomalty, mother of the bride, was in a dress of green matelassé with black accessories and a corsage of yellow rose buds. Mrs. J. S. MacVicar, mother of the groom, wore a pale pink brocaded dress with hat of matching shade and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink tea roses.

Mr. Keith Graham sang "A Wedding Prayer", during the reception.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. MacVicar left for a wedding trip to the Eastern States and the Maritimes, the bride travelling in a gold woollen suit with accessories, and wearing a corsage of bronze mums.

On their return the couple will reside in Brownsburg.

Oh furtive man with harassed mien —
What makes you dash so, sight unseen;
Tense and worried, haunted too —
Hast ever thought this might be you?
The broken run, the panting heart,
Were destined for a worthier part.
You might, with plan, have been God's tutor —
'Stead of a 5.15 commuter!

Local sightless joined pilgrimage in Montreal

A group of members of the Argenteuil White Cane Club took part in the 9th annual pilgrimage for the blind of the Montreal diocese, organized jointly by the St. Lawrence Club of the Blind and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, at the Chapel of the Reparation on Sunday, September 8. Over 500 blind persons and guides were present at the mass said by Father Wilfrid Laurier, c.s.v., Superior of the Louis Braille Institute, and at the Way of the Cross, held in the afternoon. Groups of blind pilgrims also came from Quebec, St. Jerome, Magog and other centres in the province.

The Louis Braille Institute choir sang a few hymns during the mass, and a sightless priest, Father Rolland Campbell, c.s.v. officiated at the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Nazareth Institute choir performed.

During the luncheon served by the Daughters of Isabella, W. E. Milton, superintendent of the C.N.I.B. Quebec Division, said: "I sincerely hope that God will answer your prayers." After welcoming the pilgrims, Paul Johnson, president of the St. Lawrence Club of the Blind, invited all present to offer all their pennies to help in the work for the welfare of the overseas blind.

The transportation for this annual event was provided by members of the Knights of Columbus — Messrs. Richard Valois, Germain Joly and Roger Bessette, Lachute.

Dedication of new parish hall at Lakefield

Lakefield — The official opening and dedication of the new parish hall of Holy Trinity Church was held on Saturday, September 7, at 6 p.m. The Rt. Rev. Kenneth Maguire, Bishop of Montreal, performed the dedication ceremony. Archbishop Dixon, Archdeacon Morris, Rural Dean the Rev. C. R. Lang, and Canon C. W. P. Baugh were in attendance.

After the dedication, around 300 persons enjoyed a delicious supper provided by ladies of the congregation.

RECALL BATTLE

Ambition beats depression

By Dorothy Barker ("Diary of A Vagabond")

Nothing gives me greater satisfaction than to record a success story, especially when that success was gained by intestinal fortitude and determination. Two summers ago, when I was on one of my wonderful CN tours of the Maritimes, I met an interesting personality who I felt had a story to tell. I didn't hear that story until recently when I visited Ottawa and invited Sophia Preisman to lunch with me at the Chateau Laurier.

Sophia Preisman is a Jewish lady, and when I denote 'lady' I mean just that. She is a person of fine breeding and superior intelligence whose large brown eyes witnessed the misery of a camp for displaced persons in Europe and knew the heartbreak of losing her entire family of eight persons through the horrors of a concentration camp's eventuality for those of her faith and accident of birth.

Someone in the DP camp advised her that the quickest way she could hope to emigrate to Canada was to sign her application as a seamstress and forget about her University librarian's degree. She told me her knowledge of dressmaking was limited to sewing on buttons and glossed over the months she tried to compete with other immigrants in a Montreal factory where her livelihood depended on piece work.

"I was so poor and depressed I felt I couldn't wait to be accredited so I took my beautiful diploma to McGill University after I had spent one year in the garment factory." Her degree was considered of little more value than the equivalent of our senior matriculation and she was advised she would have to attend McGill to get a recognized librarian's diploma.

Sophia Preisman is easily depressed but not easily discouraged. Later she switched to a typist pool. There was a small library next door in the YMHA and in the mornings she worked in the pool and in the afternoons in the library. The director of the YMHA advised her to take a librarian's course and she went to the United States to try and raise the necessary funds. The source she hoped would advance her the money refused, and Sophia returned to Montreal downhearted, only to learn that the YMHA Board would pay for her tuition and also a low salary for part-time employment. Mornings from 9-12 she attended McGill and from 2-10 p.m. she worked in the YMHA library.

Earns Degree

At the end of two years she had her degree and far fields began to look greener. From 1952 to 1960 she was in charge of foreign language books in a circulation library in Hamilton. She became a public speaker and wrote book reviews for a Jewish Temple. Then other organizations, learning of her ability, requested lectures and reviews. Soon she was swamped and the terror of too much responsibility, which grips many displaced persons until they become adjusted to our ways, induced her to answer several ads and accept a position in Cornwall.

This was a well organized smaller library where there was less stress and provided an opportunity for her to organize a French section in the library. A sequence of TV appearances and reviews in French because of Cornwall's proximity to Montreal, led to her present position of even greater responsibility with the Canadian Library Association in Ottawa. This would be considered the top of the ladder for most librarians, but Sophia Preisman has set her sights pretty high. Where will she be when next I meet her? I do not know; I can only guess, but I am sure it will be in some position of prestige and responsibility.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

It's that time of year

THIS IS THAT COZY time of the year when we return to a richer community living. We relinquish our personal interests of the summer, and find ourselves caught up once more in responsibilities to the organizations of our town — the churches, the service clubs, the women's associations, the Home and School, even the bridge and recreation groups.

For the home-town newspaper this is a season of immensely increased demands upon its space. From the routine reporting of municipal affairs, accidents and family celebrations, The Watchman, like other weeklies of its class, must apportion its news columns between bowling clubs, youth groups, cultural associations, fund campaigns, charity ventures, etc., etc. These are all an integral part of "the way we live", and their activities make news which The Watchman is happy to publicize, in the interests of the community and the progress of its institutions.

However — many club secretaries and press conveners think their editor has nothing to do but sit back and wait — that the last minute before press time gives ample leeway for editors, typesetters, make-up men and pressmen, all down the line.

The fact is, however, that even in normal seasons, in any newspaper, the hours before press time are swamped with news, changes and revisions — by mail, telephone, and over the counter. Thus, due to lack of time and space, much good material must be held over for the following issue, when it is no longer news.

It is unfair that mid-week meetings should be reported to the newspaper the following Tuesday afternoon, just before lock-up time. It is unfair to readers and the club members interested. It is only reasonable to expect that all club reporters send in their reports immediately following their meetings; and The Watchman pleads with local organizations to appoint press officers alert to our needs and ready to co-operate in this respect. Only with such co-operation can we fulfill the expectations of our many community groups renewing their activities in the autumn season.

Be "outgoing"!

IF YOU WISH to derive more enjoyment and satisfaction from life, remember these ten commandments for friendlier living:

1. Speak to people. — There is nothing as nice as a cheerful word of greeting.
2. Smile at people. — It takes 72 muscles to frown, only 14 to smile.
3. Call people by name. — The sweetest music to anyone's ears is the sound of his own name.
4. Be friendly and helpful. — If you would have friends, be friendly.
5. Be cordial. — Speak and act as if everything you do were a genuine pleasure.
6. Be genuinely interested in people. — You can like everybody if you try.
7. Be generous with praise — cautious with criticism.
8. Be considerate of the feelings of others — it will be appreciated.
9. Be thoughtful of the opinions of others. — There are three sides to controversy: yours — the other fellow's — and the right one.
10. Be alert to give service. — What counts most in life is what we do for others.

Quality is important

IT'S EASY to get a distorted picture from the statistics on education in Canada.

For example, there are about 180,000 elementary and secondary school teachers for 4,500,000 pupils. That works out to one teacher for every 25 students and the inclination is to say it's a fairly satisfactory ratio.

But before anyone becomes complacent about the situation, he should realize it isn't enough simply to have a teacher in every classroom. There is evidence that, almost 20 years after the end of the war, and with the effects of the baby boom beginning to wear off, we still have far too many children being taught by under-qualified teachers.

In British Columbia, for example, some persons regarded as likely to make good tutors are being granted temporary teaching permits because of continuing shortages of fully qualified personnel.

In Ontario, high school principals are talking about bringing some teachers out of retirement to help ease shortages.

The problem is greatest in rural areas, particularly those remote from major cities. But even Montreal reports some difficulty. Roman Catholic schools have half-day classes for some first and third graders because there aren't enough teachers. And Winnipeg had to look to Britain for 15 teachers to help fill its needs.

There's no doubt that the over-all situation has improved considerably in recent years. And it's also true that some of the teachers working on temporary permits are quite able. But speaking generally, there is a direct relationship between the standards set for teachers and the calibre of teaching.

Whether it's still-higher salaries, or recognition that many teachers want their profession to have the respect and prestige of others, we're going to have to keep plugging away for a general rise in standards we regard as necessary for the proper education of our children.

Ubiquitous industry

THE HOUSEWIFE'S weekly purchases contribute towards a multi-million-dollar industry using many materials. And she helps support a new breed of specialists — industrial designers and artists — who spend their time making their packages attractive and useful. The materials range from age-old pottery and glass, paper and wood, tin and aluminum, to the newest synthetics in plastics and film. Modern machinery creates the packages and fills them automatically. And a large segment of the printing industry is busy producing the labels or printing the cartons.

Packaging is the silent salesman of merchandising. Beyond obvious package convenience and eye-catching labels, most consumers are not aware of its influence in their buying decisions, writes David Thompson in a feature report on Packaging in The Financial Post. Packaging is a psychology and technology. Design, the psychological sense, has been proved a big factor in product acceptance. Technological aspects are evident in the machinery, material and application changes that virtually occur overnight. Packaging is tightly wrapped up in all industry.

Viewpoints and perspectives

—ALL ARE CANADIANS. — Perhaps Canada is not yet old enough as a country to have a true culture as do the countries of Europe. Perhaps in a few hundred years we can forget where our ancestors came from and merely refer to ourselves as Canadians, whether we say it in French or English.
— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

NEEDS FULL TIME. — A student must regard attending school and home-work as his full-time job. He cannot become involved in too much extra-curricular activity. From the first he needs to budget his time, planning to devote most of his week to the main job of learning.

Salvation Army annual appeal

Mr. Harold Deacon is again chairman of the Salvation Army "Red Shield Appeal" in this district, with Donald M. Hay and Léopold Carrière also on the committee.

This is a direct-mail approach to regular contributors. It is conceivable there will be many, willing and happy to subscribe, who will be overlooked in the mailing of these letters. Residents in this category may take the initiative and send their donations either to Harold Deacon, at Deacon Motor Sales, or to Mr. D. M. Hay, at the Bank of Montreal, Lachute.

The Salvation Army program covers a wide range of social services — from Disaster Relief to Fresh Air Camps — from Maternity Homes to Seamen's Social Centres. All of the work reflects compassion for the distressed, and all deserves the generous support of those in more fortunate circumstances.

THAT'S LIFE

Vancouver — Peter Jantzen pedalled the equivalent of five miles a day on a stationary bicycle while undergoing therapy for a broken leg. Then he went out riding on a real bike, had a mishap and broke his leg again!

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

THAT SMUG LOOK

A friend with a big and powerful car was driving me home from the lake, because my own bus wasn't functioning. It was a crowded highway, so we followed another car that set a fair pace, and simply relaxed to enjoy the ride and the radio that was playing good old-fashioned music, nice to drive to. Suddenly, a young lad in a 1956 green Chev with fringes around the top and a dangling doll hanging from the rear-view mirror whizzed by us, cutting in just in time to avoid a head-on collision. We sighed when he made it.

Next to cut in was no teenage lad; he must have been in his late fifties. But he had the same look on his face. A couple of other drivers, doing the same stupid things, added hazard to the drive that afternoon, and they, too, had that same look — a nauseating smugness.

What amazed us was that the car we were in could have whizzed past any of them. No cause for pride on the part of the driver, for we are all agile and strong enough to push an accelerator to the floor. Any dunce can do that. So why the smug look?

I have been trying to figure it out. Spending a week-end in a country town recently, I watched the midnight tag-game that went on, with cars splattering gravel at every corner. It was such a display of ignorance, I was appalled. I asked a native about it and he said, "It goes on every Saturday night. And you ought to see the looks on the faces of the idots who indulge in it — a sort of blank smugness!"

Completely baffled by this behaviour, I asked a psychiatrist friend of mine if he could explain it. "It's like electricity," he said, "in that we don't know exactly what it is, but we can understand how it works. It is a sign of a complete lack of security — the boy or man who indulges in it is trying to bolster an ego. He is conscious of some lack of manhood in his makeup, and is attempting to prove that he is a bold fellow. The young fellow who drives carefully is usually the real man — he doesn't have to prove anything."

So next time you see cars whipping around small-town streets or busy highways, don't think you are seeing daredevils at large. What you are seeing, instead, are cowards or very little men who are trying to prove themselves that they are brave and bold. Pity them — and turn in their license numbers. You'll be doing them a favor.

HOW ABOUT A CHANGE?

Do you realize that this column has existed on and off since 1950? Sometimes when I run out of material (which is often) I have considered making a change in order to get the co-operation of readers.

The column would be called "Questions From Readers" similar to one in the Montreal Gazette on Saturdays. Any Watchman reader could send in any question, and I would try to answer it. It would go something like this:

Q. — How can I make a slow horse fast?

A. — There are two ways to accompish this. One is to deprive him of food. Give him water, and do not let him fast more than two weeks. Another way to make him fast is to tie him to a tree with a strong halter.

* * *

Q. — Why do all elephants have trunks?

A. — Because they have no glove compartments.

* * *

Q. — Why does rindless bacon cost more than the other kind?

A. — Because it costs the farmer more to raise rindless hogs.

* * *

Or I could become a self-appointed marriage counselor, or give advice to the lovelorn. Something like this:

Q. — My mother-in-law came for a week-end visit and has stayed now for six weeks. How can I get rid of her?

A. — Tell her that the white line down the centre of the road is for pedestrians.

* * *

Or for a change I could run a household hints column like the one that goes by the name of "Heloise". For instance:

Q. — My hair is falling out. Can you recommend anything to keep it in?

A. — How about a small cardboard box?

Any questions? Just tell me what you want to know. I know all the answers, even if most of them are wrong!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt

GET FEWER TICKETS

Montreal — Either local motorists are keeping a closer eye on parking meters or the police are becoming more lenient. City officials reported $833,340 revenue from 192,510 parking tickets issued in the first six months of 1963. This was a drop of almost 10 per cent from the $918,120 collected in the same period last year.

Quebec Jr. Chambre de Commerce threatens to leave national group

Cr — The Quebec Junior Chambre de Commerce resolved last week at St. Jerome to withdraw from the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce by the end of the year, unless the Quebec group can gain oficial recog-nition and is given an equal voice.

This was considerably watered down from a resolution adopted in committee at the assembly held in St. Jerome, which called for the immediate break between the Quebec Junior Chambre and the national group.

The proponents of the stronger resolutions argued that the national group's constitution would not give the Quebec wing the means to gain admittance as an equal partner and delegated representative of French-Canada.

However, this resolution was strongly opposed by other delegates although all speakers agreed that the Quebec Jeune Chambre, while having more members, is not given proportional representation by the national body.

The convention rejected a resolution calling for a referendum on Quebec separating from the rest of Canada, but agreed to study the motion.

The latter motion caused such an argument that several Quebec groups demonstrated against separatism at the convention's main banquet. The groups, carrying placards identifying their regions, marched past the officers of the Jeune Chambre.

If it is not given equality by the Canadian organization, the Jeune Chambre plans to apply directly to the International Junior Chamber of Commerce for affiliation as representative of French-Canada.

The executive said there is a precedent set by the Junior Chamber of Scotland, which does not belong to the British Junior Chamber.

Habit controls way of life

England's custom of driving on the left-hand side of the road originated in ancient times when sword and spear were the weapons of war. Carried in the right hand, the blades were more readily presented to antagonists if they rode past on the left. There was no reason to change this when the pistol replaced the blade. First firearms had short ranges and horsemen still found it strategic to pass on the left. Now an entire population is passing on the left (frequently with results just as fatal) and the nation's cities, streets and highways are designed to accommodate this custom.

When European settlers came to North America, one of the principal forms of transportation was the Conestoga wagon. Drivers of the multi-horse teams customarily rode the last horse on the left-hand side. So they drove to the right when they met other wagons to be able to make certain the wheels would clear on the narrow roadway. Now a continent drives to the right.

The American Automobile Association's "Travel Guide to Europe" lists England, Ireland and Sweden as the only countries with left-hand driving. Sweden is on the verge of spending millions of dollars over many years to make the change to right-hand driving.

Necessity forced these customs. They had their origin in habit.

The necessity today is keeping highways and streets safe in driving right — driving properly. If every motorist drove correctly all the time, it too, could become a national custom.

St. Jerusalem — To be or not to be?

Contributed by Norman Thorburn

Jerusalem, in the Holy Land, is a divided city — divided between Arab and Jew. Now it is probable that the saintly Parish of Jerusalem, in Quebec, will also suffer division. It is to be shorn of 14,000 arpents, in order to increase the size of Lachute 10-fold.

Many of us around these parts feel that the 150 or so voters left in the part of St. Jerusalem unaffected by annexation, should be allowed to vote in the referendum.

Will the 150 or so families left after annexation, in a truncated St. Jerusalem, be able to continue their abbreviated existence? This is very problematical. Many of these pople tell us they would like to vote. It is not fair to refuse them, "not quite cricket". Like myself, they don't want to become "townies".

The Jew, in this country, does not excel in farming. In fact, very few of them make successful farmers.

But in Israel, around the Holy City of Jerusalem, the farmer is treated with the greatest respect; and the Jew, in Israel, conducts his agriculture very well.

Those who are too poor to buy a farm can work for the kibbutzim, or state-owned village farms. Those who own farms but are too poor to buy machinery, can have the machinery supplied by the state. These farms are called moshavim. Those who are rich, can buy their own farms and machinery. The Jew has always been kindness itself, to his own people.

Would that we Canadians were only half as civilized as the Jew, in our treatment of the farmer. Half of our farmers have been forced off their farms in the past 25 years. Do you think that the Jews in Jerusalem would have stood for this? Not on your life.

If the citizens of Ayersville or that part of St. Jerusalem that is urban commonly called the Tessier development, want to join Lachute, let them do so, but why take in so much rural territory? Will we lose our school bus grant from the government?

Fifty-one years ago, I came to Lachute for the first time. I was seven years old, and was going to Doug Simon's home, where my great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Stewart, then resided. The sidewalks of Lachute were wooden planks. Main Street was a muddy mess, that spring.

The big industries of Lachute were Ayers' and Wilson's mills. They are still the two big industries today. After over 80 years of somnolence, are the big industries suddenly going to awaken to the potentialities of Lachute as a manufacturing site?

Lachute obviously wants to acquire municipal jurisdiction over the lands adjacent to its water-pipe line, and to the source of its water in Lake Sir John.

But, recently I learnt that Lachute's water does not come from one lake, but from four.

Long Lake flows into Lake Field, via a stream; Lake Field flows into William's Lake in the same way; and William's Lake is connected to Lake Sir John, also by means of a stream.

If a dam were made on the privately-owned lakes north of Lake Sir John, high enough to raise the water in these lakes 8 feet, I am told that the water coming into Lake Sir John could be diverted into another stream coming down to the North River via Thomas' Gore. Will Lachute's desire for municipal jurisdiction extend as far, in time, as Long Lake?

Animal Care

NURSING YOUR PET

Among the complaints that may affect your dog is one called canker of the ear, an infection that is particularly noticeable in long-eared pets. If you see your dog shaking his head regularly, he may have this complaint.

Prevention is better than cure, so check the ears regularly and see that they are free of parasites. Always be particularly careful to dry them after immersion in water.

You should always keep a close check on your pet's feet. Sharp stones and splinters can be picked up or the feet can become sore and the pads cracked. In cases like these the paws should be bathed in a lukewarm antiseptic solution, thoroughly dried and an antiseptic ointment applied. If the feet do not respond to simple hygiene, or they appear to have a painful swelling, take your pet to a veterinary surgeon for treatment.

When nursing a sick pet, take the same precautions you would in ordinary cases of sickness. Make sure the bed is warm and dry and away from draughts. Change the newspaper part of the bedding every day and burn the old one. Make sure the feeding utensils are clean and, when you handle the patient, wash your hands before and after.

Diet for a sick pet should be light and nutritious — if he is lying around he certainly won't need as much food as when he is getting plenty of exercise. Give him smaller meals than usual more frequently, and make them tasty and varied.

If you nurse your pet carefully, there is no reason why he should not be fit and well within a few days.

Wedding Ring Symbol

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Do you celebrate wedding anniversaries in your family? These red letter days, when you recall the time when father and mother started out on their marriage journey, have special value for a man and a woman. Anything which makes a family happier, has worth, too, for the children.

Often the occasion calls for a party, and the Couples Club to which we belong had a delightful surprise party for us the following week. But sometimes a wedding anniversary can be completely satisfying and memorable when the husband and wife get away for a short break from the routine of work and responsibilities.

Our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary was all we could have desired — good wishes from friends and from two daughters, busy with vacation jobs, a couple of hours on our son's sail boat on beautiful Lake of the Woods, and the quiet and restfulness of a small cabin in the woods with only Winnie, our pup, for company.

When I looked at the slim platinum band which is my wedding ring with its simple inscription inside, I remember that the large gold wedding rings of former generations had much more ambitious mottoes. "Love is heaven, and heaven is love" was a favorite. "When this you see, think of me," and "In thee, my choice, I do rejoice" were other ring "posies" or messages.

Our word ring, meaning a small circlet of precious metal, worn on the finger as an ornament or a token of betrothal, marriage or investiture, has been used for centuries. The Teutons called it "Hring", the Icelandic folk "hringur". But the Danish, the Netherland, the Norwegian and Swedish people it was our familiar word "ring".

The ancient workers in metal believed that gold represented the sun and silver the moon. A wedding ring was made of yellow gold mixed with an alloy to give it strength. Perhaps a small son or daughter may examine your ring and ask about the word carat. The standard of pure gold in Great Britain was twenty-four carats "Fine" or two parts alloy combined with twenty-two parts of gold.

Did you take it for granted that a wedding ring was always worn on the third finger of the left hand? The Egyptians long ago considered the fourth finger on the right hand was the correct place for it. Until the end of the sixteenth century, the wedding ring was worn on the third finger of the right hand.

A double ring exchange is not as modern as you may think. Long ago a Roman man and woman exchanged not wedding but betrothal rings as secular pledges of their intention to marry.

To a wife her wedding ring recalls the happy days of courtship, the dignity and beauty, the sacred promises of the marriage service with its words, "with this ring I thee wed."

After a quarter of a century of married life, we are thankful that we can echo Agnes Newton Kent's description of her marriage in her book Land Below the Wind:

"To journey together is happiness"

Difficult as life may often be for a man or a woman, they should always find in their home a little haven of peace where there is joy in each other's company. The wedding ring is the symbol of their love for each other, even as Shakespeare wrote in Richard III:

"Look, how my ring encompasseth they finger,
Even so thy heart encloseth my poor heart,
Wear both of them, for both of them are thine".

Columbus also discovered the pineapple

One of the lesser known results of Columbus' adventures was his discovery of pineapple. Although Columbus' party originally noted this tropical fruit in 1493 as growing on the island of Guadeloupe, it is Hawaii which today is known as "the pineapple paradise". The fruit is picked at its zenith, quickly canned and shipped to the mainland.

The recipe for Pineapple Nut Cupcakes takes full advantage of this unusual fruit. The egg whites are beaten and folded in, like an angel food cake, and the result is a pleasantly moist little cake, with an interesting contrast between the nuts and pineapple. Don't be surprised if the tops seem a little rough textured, as well as rounded — that's the way they're supposed to be.

These golden cupcakes can be served plain with fruit sherbet or ice cream, topped with whipped cream, or given a pineapple butter frosting. The latter is made by substituting the juice from the drained crushed pineapple for the milk or cream in your favorite butter frosting recipe.

Pineapple Nut Cupcakes

(Makes 18)

½ Cup soft butter or margarine, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs separated, 1½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour (or 1½ cups once-sifted pastry flour), ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup drained crushed pineapple, ½ cup coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Grease 18 medium-sized muffin cups (approximately 2½ inch top inside measure).

Cream butter or margarine and sugar together in large mixing bowl until fluffy. Beat in egg yolks one at a time; continue beating until light.

Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder. Combine milk and vanilla.

Add dry ingredients alternately with liquids, beginning and ending with dry ingredients; combine well after each addition.

Stir in crushed pineapple and nuts.

Beat the 2 egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold carefully into batter.

Using a tablespoon, fill prepared muffin cups ⅔ full of batter.

Bake in preheated oven 18 to 20 minutes. Remove from muffin cups and cool on cake racks. Serve plain or, if desired, with a pineapple butter icing.

Here's a "picture-pretty" vegetable plate combining some of the most colorful of our fall vegetables. It was prepared by the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. (L. to R.) Corn-on-the-cob, broccoli, buttered carrot fingers and cauliflower, sprinkled with paprika. The centre of interest is the rosy red, broiled tomato crisscrossed with strips of broiled bacon.

Fall vegetable plates

Vegetable plates are simple to prepare and easy on the budget too. They can be served as a main dish for either luncheon or dinner. If your family feels they are being cheated of the meat course, you can include protein foods in the form of cheese or egg sauce with a vegetable, a meat stuffing in tomatoes, or green peppers or slices of bacon for garnish.

The home economists of the Consumer Section have been trying various vegetable combinations and pass on some of these pointers to you:

Color combinations should be harmonious but there should also be variety in contrasting colors. White and yellow vegetables contrast nicely with red or green ones.

Flavors should be a pleasing blend for appetite appeal. Choose a vegetable from each of the flavor groups — sweet, strong, tart and bland. The sweet vegetable could be baked squash topped with brown sugar or it could be Harvard beets. The strong flavored vegetable could be onions, cabbage or cauliflower. The tart vegetable could be a broiled tomato. Milk flavored vegetables such as potatoes or carrots can be enhanced with added herbs.

Size and shape of the vegetables should be varied to add interest to the plate. For example, potatoes may be served whole, carrots in finger lengths, beets in cubes.

Texture can be varied by having crispness on the plate e.g. baked potatoes or vegetables rolled in bread crumbs, or a crunchy garnish such as slivered or chopped nuts with mashed squash.

Consider cooking time required and method of cooking. If time is at a premium use vegetables that require about the same cooking times and can be cooked side by side either on top of stove or in the oven.

Here are two suggestions for a fall vegetable plate:

No. 1 — * Tomato Bacon Broil, Parsley Potatoes, Broccoli with Cheese Sauce.

No. 2 — * Green Pepper with Tomato Ham Stuffing, * Braised Celery, Buttered Cauliflower with Paprika, Corn-on-the-Cob.

(* See recipe.)

Tomato Bacon Broil

1 Tablespoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, dash of salt, 6 medium tomatoes, 12 slices bacon (½ pound).

Combine brown sugar, mustard and salt. Make a vertical cut down the centre of tomatoes, about ¾ way through. Brush cut edges with mustard mixture. Crisscross 2 slices of bacon. Place tomato on bacon where slices cross; bring slices to top of tomato and secure with toothpicks. Broil tomato about 3 minutes, turn over and broil another 3 minutes. Then set oven to bake at 350°F. and bake until bacon is crisp, about 8 minutes. Garnish with parsley, 6 servings.

Green Pepper with Tomato Ham Stuffing

6 Green peppers, 1 to 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup minced onion, 1½ cups minced ham, ½ cup bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons tomato catsup, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Cut peppers in half lengthwise and remove seeds and membrane. Sauté onions in butter until transparent, add to remaining ingredients and mix well. Fill pepper halves with stuffing, place in a greased baking pan. Add a little water and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) until peppers are tender, about 30 minutes.

Braised Celery

Wash celery and trim off most of the leaves. Cut in 5 inch "fingers". Heat salad oil in frying pan and cook celery until lightly browned, about 7 minutes. Add 1 cup consommé or bouillon and cook until celery is just tender, about 15 minutes. 6 servings.

Kindergarten — the informal atmosphere in which youngsters become accustomed to the routine and discipline of school life — is regarded by many educational authorities as the most important year in a child's schooling.

Through games and creative work, the child learns to respect his classmates and his teacher and adopts positive attitudes to learning.

In Canada's Northwest Territories, where a year of pre-school education would be of greatest value, the government's budget does not provide for kindergarten.

But some conscientious teachers tried to conduct pre-school classes for Eskimo youngsters during August.

Mrs. Peggy Novak, for example, a former secondary school teacher in Victoria, has been holding classes for pre-schoolers at Frobisher Bay in the eastern Arctic.

Even one month of preparation makes regular teaching of children much easier, says Mrs. Novak.

The importance of regular school attendance is the most difficult thing to teach in the north. Truancy in pre-school runs rampant — of a class of 39, only nine come in August because the rest were out with their parents at summer hunting camps.

Classrooms Crowded

The era of the little red schoolhouse may be coming to a close in Canada. But it isn't in many other parts of the world, 31 members of the Ontario Teachers' Federation learned at an educational seminar in the West Indies this past summer.

Most of the elementary schools are not only one-room buildings but accommodate between 200-400 pupils, crowded four to a desk, said Marjorie South, a Toronto teacher who attended the seminar.

About eight or 10 teachers conduct classes in areas roughly divided off by portable blackboards — not the easiest conditions in which to learn.

"I was most impressed by how the young people down there have to work if they want an education," said Miss South. "It is not something they can take for granted, as our boys and girls can."

In many parts of the West Indies, there are not enough secondary schools to accommodate all those who want to attend, so registration is limited to those who have done the best in entrance exams.

High school students have to pay fees. Literally "the cream of the crop" are the ones receiving higher education, said Miss South.

Music At Home

The musical education of a child can practically begin in the cradle, says a music expert from London, Ont.

Earle Terry, a music teacher and director of music for the London board of education, says when a baby "babbles in his crib or coos in the tub, he is exploring sounds."

Mothers should "join him in his experiments." Sing little songs to which the child will respond. Later teach rhythm by slapping hands and inventing actions for songs.

Woman lawyer scorns theory of equal rights

Montreal (CP) — Mrs. Ruth Coldwater had to beat the men at their own game to get started on a law career. When she placed first in the civil law examinations of the Quebec province bar association in 1962, she found doors opening to her.

Now, she is working for a Montreal law firm, where her chief task is civil, or property, law.

But Mrs. Coldwater is outspoken against exponents of women's rights, especially rights of married women, in Canada.

Born and brought up in Paris, where her family still lives, she says that in Canada, where the family unit is strong and motherhood is exalted, it is not realistic to try to build up the idea of equal rights. "Somebody must be the head of the family, and this has naturally been the man," she said. "You can't have a marriage with two people both pulling in their own direction."

Logical Theory

Asked if this was a peculiarly European attitude, she said: "It may be European, but it is also logical and valid, both for Europe and America."

Partly for this reason, she decided not to practise law with her husband, also a lawyer. "Business associations with your husband are not generally a success."

It seemed natural for Mrs. Coldwater, who is perfectly bilingual, to enter law school. "In French law courts it always seemed to me that for every male lawyer there was at least one woman lawyer. But here the proportion is much smaller, and women lawyers do have trouble finding jobs."

Mrs. Coldwater met her husband in France after the war, and came here with him when they were married.

STUDY TIME—DO'S AND DON'TS

The Perfect Picture of Study

Two Things Wrong Here

IN YOUR first days back to school, before you learn anything else, learn how to study. These words of wisdom are not only approved by educators, but they will be recognized immediately by all students as having the ring of good, common sense.

There are right and wrong ways to study, as Jeannie Beacham, Hollywood starlet demonstrates in these pictures.

The picture at the desk shows the proper way to study. The room should be well ventilated and there should be as few distractions as possible. The phonograph Jeannie has beside her is playing only when she takes a break between study subjects. If the phonograph would be otherwise distracting, it should be removed.

The student's position should not be too comfortable, but it should not be strained. But the lighting is very important according to research experiments, and should not shine directly into the eye or be seen from the corner of the eye. Neither should there be a glare on the page you are reading.

In the picture with the sofa Jeannie is violating two common-sense rules for studying. The light is very poor — in fact the book is in a shadow — and she is too comfortably ensconced in an easy chair.

Good study demands concentration and it is up to the student to discipline himself. Get the right amount of sleep, don't overeat, consider study as an adventure in learning. It also helps if the student uses the same desk or table in the same place in his home night after night as it will be easy to get set for studying and it will be easier to keep the mind from wandering.

Remember that good study is related closely to doing away with all distractions, and to making study a pleasant habit.

TWO-DAY TAXPAYER VOTE GIVES GREEN LIGHT TO ANNEXATION

Polls in the Parish of St. Jerusalem municipal office closed at five p.m. sharp on Tuesday, ending two days of voting, which got underway following a general meeting in the Parish office Monday morning.

Results

Approximately 65 per cent of the taxpayers involved in the annexation measure, turned out to exercise their franchise, polling a substantial majority of 71 in favor of annexation. A breakdown of the voting is as follows:

In favor	219
Against	148
Spoiled ballots	2
Total votes	369
Majority in favor	71
Eligible voters	562

There were approximately 75 persons in attendance at the meeting, which was chaired by Felix Touchette, mayor of the Parish. Several questions were asked, which Mayor Dave Campbell of Lachute did not feel were answered to the full extent; he consequently requested, and was immediately granted, permission to answer these questions.

Following the discussion, Mayor Touchette asked for a show of hands in favor or against the proposed annexation. He ruled that the majority present were against such a move, and five taxpayers of the parish, namely, Mme L. Derouin, Mme Y. Lapointe, Conrad Gagné, Real Sabourin and Real Perriard, protested the ruling. This gave grounds to an immediate verbal vote, given to the chairman of the election in the form of a "yes" or "no". Voting was heavy Monday morning, but slackened off considerably in the afternoon.

The ruling in the Municipal Code states that, if during the period of one hour, no elector presents himself to vote, the election will end; and according to Parish Secretary Doug Bradford, who also acted as poll clerk, there was no time during the two days of voting when this came close to happening.

Several electors appeared at the poll immediately prior to closing time on Monday, and thus held the poll open for another day's vote. The poll re-opened at 10 a.m. on Tuesday.

Following the result of the election, a true copy of the poll book and a certificate of the election results, signed by the chairman and counter-signed by the poll-clerk, must be sent to the Town of Lachute within eight days of the election.

Mayor Campbell of Lachute stated that, in the event this was received prior to the next Council meeting, third and final reading would be given to the Annexation by-law, and it would then be sent to the Quebec Municipal Commission for final approval.

Hospital affiliates with blood bank service

Dr. J. M. Fortin, representing Canadian Red Cross, was a guest at the hospital ceremonies last Sunday, and officially negotiated a contract by which the Red Cross will maintain a blood bank at the hospital, in its free blood transfusion service. Above, Roger Lagarde, Q.C., chairman of the hospital board; Dr. Fortin; Guy Allard, director general of the hospital, signing the document; and Paul Deslauriers, chairman of the blood donor clinic to be held here next Monday and Tuesday. — Photo, Syd Drew

Stage set for Blood Clinic; aim for quota, 700 donors

An air trip for 12 lucky blood donors, with the compliments of Dominion Ayers Limited — and free transportation to the clinic by courtesy of Leon Larocque's taxi service — are added incentives for local citizens to support the Blood Donor Clinic, to be held on Monday and Tuesday of next week, and to assure the hard-working committee of at least obtaining its 700-bottle quota. Volunteers will be in attendance to drive any persons home, after attending the clinic.

Scene of the clinic is the Lachute Auditorium, and the hours, from 2 to 5.30 and from 7 to 9 p.m. on both days. The "door prize" plane-ride attendance tickets will be drawn at intervals during the two-day event.

As in the past, a local physician will be on location at all times, and the Red Cross mobile unit staff will be supplemented by local nurses and the many familiar and new faces who are constantly offering their time, effort and services to this and various other good causes.

Heading the list of active personnel are Paul Deslauriers, chairman, and Bernard Jenkins, assistant chairman. Daniel Carriere is in charge of all industrial concerns; Léon Cauchon has assumed the responsibility for contacting all churches and institutions; and Ildéas Desjardins is in charge of contacting all business establishments.

President of the local Red Cross Branch is Mrs. Gordon McOuat, and vice-president, Mrs. Fernand Legault, both of whom are actively working towards the success of the clinic, along with all Red Cross members and friends. Heading the committeees are:

Reception — Mrs. Rod Carreau

Canteen — Mrs. Linton Armstrong

Nurses — Mrs. A. M. Vessie

St. Andrews East area, — Mrs. Felix Hungerbuhler

Registration — Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, Mrs. Roger Regimbal and Mrs. Richard Stephens.

Sentiments and Sidelights

With no patrolman directing, we actually saw students on their way to L.H.S. voluntarily using the marked crossings from south to the north of Main Street. We have watched disorderly diagonal jay-walking at this point for many years. . . If the new patrolmen have instilled this sense of discipline in the young pedestrians, we give them due credit — also Chief J. L. Hebert, who promoted the school patrol idea.

Indemnity $3,400 in jailhouse death at Brownsburg

Damages of $3,400 have been awarded to Mrs. Nellie McLean of Brownsburg, following a court action to claim $25,000 for the death of her son, Russell McLean, 44, who was the victim of a tragic jailhouse fire in Brownsburg on August 11 last year.

The McLean family entered suit against the Municipality of the Village of Brownsburg, but Justice Sylvestre reduced the indemnity to $3,400. Attorney for the municipal corporation was Fernand Legault, Q.C., of Lachute, and it is noted the municipality itself was not called upon to meet the liability, the sum actually being paid by the insurance company.

It is recalled that Russell McLean, the victim, died in the jail cell when the building was swept by flames. The outbreak occurred in a brief absence of the police officers. Attempts were made to reach the inmate, but intense heat and smoke prevented his rescue. McLean had been detained by police on a complaint of a local hotelman. . . The following week a jury empanelled by Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, joint district coroner, gave a verdict of accidental death.

Extensive damage by young vandals at Ayers 'Caisse'

Damage to the Caisse Populaire Ayers, situated on Hamford Street, Lachute, was estimated to be in the vicinity of $4,000 following an act of vandalism by two Ayersville youths, aged 17 and 19.

According to Police Chief J. L. Hebert, the two had been on a party, and decided they would "like to go to jail to learn a trade". They have been charged with vandalism, in smashing the plate glass windows in the front of the building and causing considerable damage inside. One of the culprits phoned the police to inform them of what was being done, and investigating officers walked in, catching the two young men in the act. They are scheduled to appear in Juvenile and Magistrate's Court on Friday.

Citizen dies of injuries in Sunday rail-crossing crash

A rail-crossing accident at 10.40 Sunday morning claimed the life of a well-known citizen, and caused shock in this community where he had many friends and acquaintances. J. Walker Scott, of Grace Street, and Mrs. Scott, were on their way to church when their 1963-model car was struck by the east-bound diesel dayliner at the Gilbert Street crossing, about half a mile from the station and close to the Scotts' home. The alarm sent police and ambulance sirens screaming through town, and news of the mishap caused grave concern to churchgoing crowds.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott were rushed to the Argenteuil Hospital, the former being later transferred to the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, where he succumbed around 5 p.m. to internal injuries; he had suffered fractures of the ribs and lung perforation. Mrs. Scott is still in the Argenteuil Hospital, suffering from a broken collarbone and shock. Their son, Gilbert, residing in Ogdensburg, N.Y., was notified immediately, but arrived at the Montreal hospital a short time after his father's death.

A truck driver for many years, in hazardous seasons and all conditions of roads, Mr. Scott, aged 70, retired only last June, after 33 years of accident-free service with Boyd's Express.

C.P.R. Engineer Réal Beaudoin, of Ville St. Michel, stated his train was going at approximately 15 miles an hour at the time of the mishap. He said he had seen the approaching car, which was going so slowly he was sure it was about to stop at the crossing. The car was hit broadside and was pushed 64 feet up the track, being badly battered; the train was also slightly damaged.

Police Chief J. L. Hebert, Sgt. R. Arcouette and Cst. R. Cuerrier, of the town police force, investigated the accident.

Funeral service for the victim was held Tuesday at the United Church, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating. There was a large attendance of fellow churchfolk, fellow-workers and sympathizing friends. Burial was at Lachute cemetery.

Fined for ignoring Unemployment Insurance clause

A Brownsburg storekeeper who had neglected to renew his employees' unemployment insurance books was found guilty and fined $75 plus costs by Judge Omer Côté, recently at St. Jerome.

The Unemployment Insurance Act requires that employers must, upon request of the Commission, return unemployment insurance books. The employer concerned had ignored repeated requests from the Commission to renew his books.

Judge Côté sentenced the storekeeper because the latter could not offer an acceptable excuse for not having complied with the regulations.

Bishop of St. Jerome, civic leaders and notables at official opening of new Argenteuil Hospital

His Excellency Bishop Emilien Frenette, of the St. Jerome Diocese, officiated at the blessing of the Argenteuil Hospital building last Sunday afternoon, when numerous representatives of religious, civil and political spheres, and members of the medical profession, witnessed the official opening of the new hospital.

The Bishop spoke briefly in French and English. The inauguration of this new hospital had been long awaited, he said. "I am now extremely gratified to attend its official opening and to witness this materialization of long-felt aspirations."

Continued His Excellency: "I am happy also to observe that this place is an institution in the human sense, where sick people will be human beings, not mere numbers. Hospitals, as a rule, are becoming more and more impersonal. It should never be that drugs should replace the physician, nor that disease should supersede the patient. . . This is a wonderful hospital, one which should provide many services for the people of this area," he concluded.

Roger Lagarde, Q.C., president of the administrative board, spoke in French, and Kenneth MacGibbon, vice-president, followed in English — recalling the establishment of the first hospital here and the arduous steps to planning and completion of the present Argenteuil Hospital.

Other notables who spoke briefly and extended good wishes were Vincent Drouin, M.P., on behalf of Miss Judy LaMarsh, federal Minister of Health, Frederic St.-Pierre, legal advisor to the Quebec Department of Health (representing Dr. Alphonse Couturier, minister), and W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P.

Refreshments served by the hospital ladies' committee concluded this auspicious and enjoyable occasion.

College student killed on highway east of town

Bruce D. MacDonald, a 22-year-old Sudbury, Ont., college student, died in the Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal, following a Wednesday evening accident on Route 8, about 1½ miles east of Lachute.

According to Q.P.P. Agent Maurice Landry, the victim was driving a small foreign-make car when he lost control on a curve and rolled several times. He was accompanied by Valentino Arena, 24, a fellow student of Laurentian University, Sudbury. The mishap occurred around 9.15 p.m. and the victim succumbed to injuries early the following morning.

No date for an inquest has been determined.

* * *

A touching angle of this incident is that the parents of the dead youth, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. MacDonald, on being notified, hastened from Sudbury to the hospital morgue, and being advised that the body had been returned here for inquest, came to Lachute late Thursday night to learn details of the fatality. They could not immediately reach the police officers or find the whereabouts of their son's companion. Directed to "a curve one mile east of town", they enquired at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hammond. This couple were able to assist the distressed parents, and direct them to sources of information. The mishap actually occurred at the curve near Andrew Cleland's.

THE SCENE Around Brownsburg

By M. E. Cowley

— The school safety patrols are operating once more and should serve to lessen the accident hazard on Main Street. However, the presence of the police is still needed on occasion to ensure that drivers don't take advantage of the youngsters.

— Rus Summers and Andy Forbes, members of the Boy Scout group committee, advise that the fall paper drive will take place on October 19. Householders are requested to save their newspapers and magazines to help the cause.

* * *

— Still in sight — the 20 m.p.h. speed limit sign at Brownsburg's northern limit on Maple Avenue.

* * *

— Latest word from the community rink committee is that the doors are scheduled to open for the week-end of October 11. After many years of service, Harold Barber and Ken Stewart are resigning from the committee — two pairs of shoes that will be hard to fill!

* * *

— Eleven people showed up to raise their voices against the sewage-plant by-law. The main complaint concerned the method of taxing. Originally ten or more objections meant that the matter would be put to the local property owners in the form of a referendum. Now, a legal problem has halted action temporarily.

* * *

— The town finally has a dog pound, where stray or wandering dogs may be housed. Costs have been set at $2 a day for boarding the animals. If not claimed after three days, the dogs will be disposed of. A complaint should produce action now — but at the moment it is doubtful if wandering animals will be picked up unless someone issues a complaint.

Clubmen on tour of Hydro-Quebec plant

Rotarians and numerous guests were treated to an eye-opening inspection of the Quebec Hydro dam and power plant at Carillon, last Thursday evening preceding their regular supper meeting at La Lorraine dining room, Bethany Road.

Around 50 members and fellow citizens were in the party; they were greeted at the site by Philippe Reid, chief resident engineer, who first explained the general plan of construction by means of maps.

The layman's viewpoint to date, from the outside looking in, was illuminated with interesting facts. The dikes upstream on both sides of the river are built of gravel over a solid clay core, produced from various pits and excavations nearby. Aggregate for the immense concrete works was brought by rail from Rivière Rouge to the mixing plant at the site. A crusher also produced all the required sand for cement.

In the power house, whose dimensions and huge installations later amazed the visitors, electricity was now being produced from eight 60,000 horsepower turbines. Another one is installed, and the total of 14 will be completed by August 1964.

The "civil" work (so termed by Engineer Philippe Reid) is about completed. Only landscaping of the grounds and dikes, and incidental work, remains to be done.

Average output of the plant is now 50 to 55 per cent of capacity. It was emphasized by Mr. Reid that this development was designed primarily to meet the peak demands of Montreal metropolis.

The visitors were delegated to the guidance of four other staff engineers, and made a complete tour of the plant. The size of the turbines and generators, and the immense 425-ton mobile crane to move and place this massive machinery, were impressive. The visitors also were absorbed by the various controls, for entrance of flow and regulation of speed in the turbines; and by the untold mileage of wires carried on steel shelves to the control room, the nerve centre of this great project, which has so far cost in the neighborhood of $200-million.

At their meeting in La Lorraine Motel, chaired by President Don Wilson, the Rotarians welcomed Philippe Reid and his staff members as their guests. Thanks were extended to them by John Cargill, who had arranged the tour. A song session was led by John Chalmers, and good fellowship was enjoyed by the members and their many appreciative guests.

Biggest cargoes in many years on Ottawa River

Commercial navigation on the Ottawa River may be a thing of the past. However, the biggest freight cargoes on this historic waterway for many years, are in transit these days — through the new lock at Carillon Dam with its 65-foot lift, and upstream through the newly formed lake as far as Hull.

The first 200-ton barge-load of bridge steel from the Lachine plant of Dominion Bridge Company passed up-river recently, inaugurating a new shuttle service between the plant and the new Macdonald-Cartier bridge linking Ottawa and Hull. The superstructure of the $8,490,000 bridge will contain some of the heaviest bridge steelwork ever erected in Canada and all of it will be hauled by water. The tugs "Newfie Queen" and "Ledo" take just 30 hours to navigate the waterway.

By BOB ATCHISON

The latest release from the Department of Tourism and Wildlife states that an open season for caribou is set for this year. This is going to be in the Ungava area, running west from the Labrador border. This should afford a real chance for those intent on finishing off our declining game population. The experts of the department state that, with between 40 and 60 thousand of these animals in the area, they should be killed off to some degree. These figures are all estimated, of course, by these same experts. But having seen the procedure of surveys conducted in Quebec, I have little faith in the accuracy of this one.

There is, of course, to be a special license for the hunting of these animals so maybe this is the reason; money is of great importance. Not knowing the true picture, as doubtless no one ever will, I may well be classed as an envious joker. But my envy is only this — that other provinces can, and do, take the time to give us a truer picture of their wildlife resources.

Municipal Affairs Minister Laporte hits out at municipalities on the matter of pollution. His remarks seem to indicate that he has just been awakened to this problem. It was stated that the situation could not be solved in a couple, or even five years. He certainly is optimistic. If the hon. minister could point out any definite progress the government has made on this, then maybe we could wholeheartedly support his criticism of the smaller places. Maybe the real truth is that this government is powerless to do anything on its own, so it must pass the buck. . . I know you may ask, just what can the governments do, themselves? Only one thing, but this itself could achieve more than all the others combined. Pass ANTI-POLLUTION LAWS THAT WILL STICK — take this away from the politician and the lesser light and make it a matter of legislation. The first big fine would do more good than all the preaching possible.

There are men on the water administration boards who always have been dedicated in their work. It must frustrate these men completely, to have a case either forgotten about or a puny warning given. Mr. Laporte stated this pollution had been going on for years, yet hopes it will be licked in a comparatively short time if everyone helps (or words to that effect). How about the government doing something?

Trout fishing is still very good. Silver Lake is the best, but Louisa is not too far behind. Bark Lake did not treat the Fishing Club too well the past week-end for their derby; however, it was good the following Tuesday. I saw nine nice Greys that a group of our boys had taken. Doré are also being caught in good numbers, the Ottawa River is the best of any spot, especially near the Perley Bridge. I have not fished this stretch of water, but from all accounts it might be worth investigating. The North River has not produced a decent fish for some time — due no doubt to the dirty water we have been having. Not too much time is left for trout fishing, so you enthusiasts should get out after them now. Also, with Nature on the color rampage these days, it is sure worthwhile; even if you don't get any fish, the sights will help on a long winter evening. We remark on the glory of these fall colors, but there's an intriguing process behind it all — well worth our study and contemplation.

• • •

Ducks are flitting all over the place. Blacks are predominant, but there are a few Mallards showing up. From all comments and observations, however, it does not seem we are going to have a very good season. A report from out West states that thousands of ducks have been poisoned due to a certain type of weed getting into some of the lakes, that is fatal to waterfowl. This weed gives off an alkali poison that is very deadly.

• • •

A conservation story that has to be told. It seems a gentleman of this district makes a habit of disposing of refuse from his summer home in an incinerator. Going up there one day last week, he was about to burn more refuse, but, on opening the door of the incinerator, a big raccoon was seen inside. It would not come out even when poked; only when the drum was overturned did it amble off across the lawn, with no sign of fear or undue concern. . . Having seen the damage these animals have done to the lawns around this particular area, I would have thought a stewed coon supper would have been the answer!

• • •

Hawks can be seen overhead — all types of them, swooping on the numerous field mice that we have around just now. Walking through a couple of fields the other day, I was very surprised at the numbers of these creatures in evidence. I hope more of these hawks make some impression on their number before the cold weather sets in. Squirrels have come back, blacks and reds. I had a call the other day about a black squirrel that had moved in with some chipmunks, for feeding purposes only. The lady informed me that this particular one had been around for some time, and they were hoping it would stay. These animals never seem to forget where they receive free handouts, and at times they become a real nuisance with their scrounging.

• • •

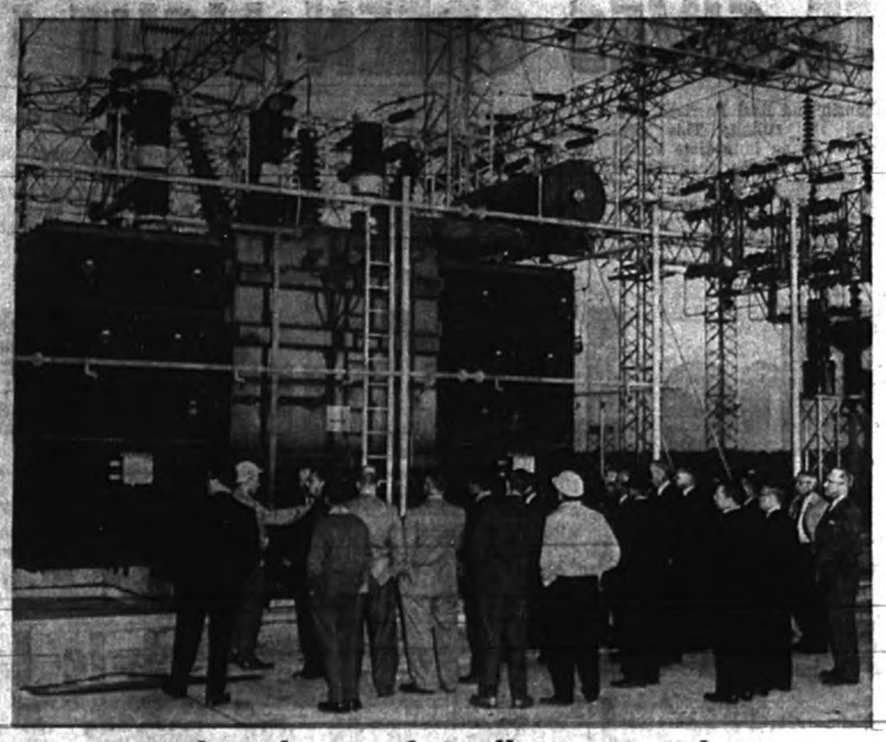

For some time during the latter part of the summer we have been entertained by a humming bird; dark green and red, it has been flitting around the cedars. We had some artificial roses in a vase at one window, and just recently this little creature has been hovering right at the window, trying to get at these flowers. We have put out a small saucer with sugar and water; seemingly this is just what it wants. It does not appear to be alarmed if one raises a finger toward the window — providing you do not move too fast.

• • •

This has nothing to do with wildlife and the outdoors, but — if Quebec is really interested in informing the public on the activities of its departments, why not a little publicity for English-speaking Quebecers? It seems that with rare exception, in all government press hand-outs, bilingualism is an ideal for preaching but not for practice.

• • •

A final word. We have had many calls on the cooking and eating of wild meat (ground hogs, etc.), but it is impossible to cover this subject in a few words. However, I hope to give some general recipes very soon for things like this, and trust you will try them and enjoy them as much as we do.

A high-producing Jersey cow

"North River Acme's Dream, 291917", a Jersey cow classified Good Plus, in the herd of Dr. G. R. McCall, Lachute, has just been issued a Ton of Gold certificate in the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club. In 1443 days she produced 2,059 lbs. of fat.

To qualify for this award a cow must produce at least 2,000 lbs. of fat in four consecutive years.

Last fish derby next Sunday

At the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association contest last Sunday at Lake Louisa, Georges Couvrette and Patrick Lalonde shared top honors, each of whom caught a 1 lb. 3 oz. grey trout. Winners for the biggest catches of "scrub" fish were Maurice Richer and Mme Ernest Tassé.

Final fish derby of the season takes place this coming Sunday at Trout Lake, near Huberdeau. Closing time is 5 p.m. for registration of catches, and headquarters will be at the Gagnon Hotel.

Trophies to be presented at the closing soiree of the season, to be duly announced by the Association, are now on view at Hotel Laurentien, Main Street, Lachute.

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

A LITTLE PROCRASTINATION, PLEASE!

The radio voice is always urging us to do it NOW! Politicians get elected by promising that they will get things done, start the economy moving again, make decisions, spin the wheels of commerce. It all has a lovely, positive swing to it. Yet I find myself praying, wistfully, for a little procrastination in high places. Please, don't try spinning wheels or moving the economy or bursting out with decisions! Hold still a month or two, can't you, and let us citizens make a few moves of our own?

Here in Canada, Mr. Gordon was going to re-make our world with his bold new budget. He was pretty proud of bringing it in so fast . . . no procrastinator, he! He got things moving, all right, but the movement was downward.

Then the young American president, bursting with do-goodism, proposed action. Cleverly, he'd slap a tax on trade in foreign securities. We're still reeling from that scare, up here in Canada, but we'll survive it.

What bothers us most is this: who's going to do good next? We've a lot of eager-beaver provincial governments, as well as the Ottawa crowd, and Washington, all dreaming up schemes to rescue the economy. These rescues can be frightening affairs!

I used to plump for Senate reform. It once burned me that those old Senators sat around in Ottawa drawing nice salaries for doing nothing. I don't complain any more. Next election I am going to support some old duffer who wants to go down to Ottawa and just get his feet up and rest a bit. He'll have to promise that he will make no effort to do things. Just sit and suck his thumb, that's all I'll ask.

Fortunately, our Federal parliament is not in session now, and most of the provincial governments are at rest. During the dog days, the economy will begin to perk up a bit. There will be less uncertainty. It will be possible to guess at what the price of a house, a drink, or a pack of smokes will be tomorrow. And the stock market will move sensibly for a while, based on earnings and prospects. Later, however, when the politicians get busy, no one will have the slightest notion what will happen next — except that something will happen that will upset things. Unless we have the good fortune to get a procrastinating Prime Minister and a few solid, lazy Members of Parliament.

You know, maybe I ought to be a candidate. It's a thought. And the pay these days is tremendous!

Counterfeit bill detected at local food market

Identification of a $20 counterfeit bill is credited to Mrs. Audrey Tite, an IGA cashier, who, noticing a different texture in the paper, checked a nearby list and notified police. Chief J. L. Hebert undertook the investigation, first questioning Mrs. Georges Gagnon, of St. Hermas, who had presented the bill, and tracing it back further, notified the RCMP, who presently have the case under investigation.

Mrs. Gagnon, who did not know the bill was false, is believed to have obtained it from a Montreal customer.

Last tribute to B'burg churchman and youth leader

The late Mr. John Connelly

The funeral of the late John Connelly was held September 16 at the Brownsburg Presbyterian Church. The Rev. James Armour officiated, assisted by the Rev. Geo. B. Hicks.

The late Mr. Connelly was born in Springburn, Glasgow, Scotland, in the year 1884 and came to Canada in 1907. He commenced working with the Dominion Cartridge Co., which later became the Ammunition Division of Canadian Industries Ltd. He retired on pension in 1949, with 42 years service.

Active in church and community work, he was Sunday School superintendent in the Presbyterian Church for over 50 years. He also served on the Board of Managers and was an elder of the Kirk Session for many years.

In 1908 he organized the Boys' Brigade in Brownsburg, of which he was leader for several years. He later became active in Boy Scout work, both in the local Association and as a Cub leader.

He was also a member of the Brownsburg Protestant School Board for a number of years.

An active member of the I.O.O.F., he was a Past Noble Grand of Laurentian Lodge 14. Burial rites were carried out by members of the Order, under the direction of C. R. Cunningham and the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

He is survived by his wife, Annie Martin; two sons, George and Alvin; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren — as well as his sister, Catherine, and brother, Lawrence, in England. He also leaves three nieces in the U.S.A., two nieces and a nephew in England.

Remedy at home

Nearly everywhere you drive, as you go through villages and small towns, you see store buildings boarded up. Once thriving communities are slowly becoming little ghost towns, with only the odd store or business place open to provide the commodities and services needed between trips to the city; and even those will soon vanish if the trend continues. . . The tragedy of all this is that the remedy is in the hands of the very people who are bringing it about.

I believe

In my fellow man, and
In his desire to live.
In his right to hope and Believe that I will be,
A help in his hour of need.
That I will be at his side
Giving the Miracle Fluid from
My veins, to speed his recovery
And then—may I go my way
Knowing that even though
He was a stranger—I had Helped him to live again
All this I believe—because I am a Blood Donor.

Recent wedding at Mille Isles

Hanson - Ward

The marriage of Linda Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ward, of Mille Isles, Que., to Mr. David Campbell Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hanson, of Montreal and Morin Heights, took place recently in Mille Isles Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Wesley B. Ball officiating. The wedding music was played by Mrs. George Watchorn and standards of gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a short gown of white silk organza with a Chantilly lace bodice and jewelled neckline. The lace sleeves ended in points at the wrists. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was held by a lace pillbox, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

The bride's only attendant, her sister, Miss Dianne Ward, wore a frock of jade green poult-de-soie having a matching pillbox and shoes. She carried a bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Jehovah's Witnesses

"Make Sure of All Things"

Men want to know the reason why things are as they are. Why is the world so full of confused ideas and shifting patterns? There are so many different beliefs, so many different religions, and all of them have their followers who advocate their particular faith with greater or less zeal. What should one believe in these days? Who is right?

Sound advice is, "Make sure of all things." That means, Go to the highest authority you can find. The highest authority is the Holy Bible, Jehovah's Word. God's only-begotten son said to him; "Your word is truth." (John 17:17) But Jehovah's advice goes even farther. This book of highest authority does not ask us to accept just one statement of truth, and that blindly; but rather God's prophet says: "Come now, and let us reason together, saith Jehovah." (Isaiah 1:18). That is it! Think the answer out, search for it in the Scriptures, as the early Christians did. "They received the word with the greatest readiness of mind, carefully examining the Scriptures daily as to whether these things were so." (Acts 17:11) If these early Christians were eager to check the Scriptures to find out why things were as they were, then certainly we should be just as diligent in our search for the truth.

You can enjoy lasting benefits and help others with the valuable pocket Bible manual "MAKE SURE OF ALL THINGS." It quotes without comment related Bible texts on 287 subjects and 70 major topics.

Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may happen to meet. They will be glad to supply you with the above book, price 75 cents.

Lachute girl is bride in United Church wedding

McGuire - Muir

The marriage of Carolyn Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Muir, of Lachute, to Mr. Robert Dean McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGuire, of Fredericton, N.B., took place Saturday in the Lachute United Church.

The Rev. Ralph Watson officiated. Mr. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music, and Miss Ann Golden, of Montreal, sang "The Lord's Prayer". Standards of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums, arranged with candelabra, were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white bouquet taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scooped neckline and long pointed sleeves, and the skirt with a straight front, giving a panel effect with fullness at the back. Appliqué of Alençon lace, re-embroidered with seed pearls, was used on the front bodice and cascading down to the hemline. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching circlet of lace, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with ivy leaves.

Mrs. Kenneth Hibbert, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Beverley Hadley, cousin of the bride, Miss Carol Parker, Miss Barbara Scott and Miss Shirley Pollock. They wore identical short frocks of Caribbean green velvet. The fitted bodice was designed with a scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A wide centre front pleat, trimmed with tiny satin bows, extended from the neckline to the hemline of the dome skirt. They wore matching satin headdresses and shoes, and carried yellow Shasta daisies and stephanotis.

Mr. Neil McGuire, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Mr. Carl McGuire, Mr. James Muir, Mr. Art Lobel and Mr. Mac Hall were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of taffy colored peau-de-soie, appliquéd with Alençon lace, and a matching hat. She carried a beige cymbidium orchid pinned to her purse.

Following the reception, held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. McGuire left on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a chocolate-brown suit and turquoise hat of French velvet, and brown accessories. Her corsage was a pale pink cymbidium orchid. On their return, they will take up residence in Brownsburg.

Guests attending from a distance were — Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGuire and Mr. and Mrs. Marlowe McGuire, of Fredericton, N.B.; Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Buckley, Mr. Richard McGuire and Mr. Neil McGuire, of Toronto; Mr. Carl McGuire, of Hamilton, Ont.; Mrs. George MacDonald, of Flint, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Eben MacDonald, of Detroit, Mich.; and many guests from Ottawa and Montreal.

Witnesses' views on juvenile delinquency

"Jehovah's Witnesses realize that any program for overcoming juvenile delinquency must start in the home," declared Mr. J. Blair Shearer, presiding minister of the Lachute congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, at the opening of the Witnesses' convention this week in Trois-Rivières.

"As all can see," added Mr. Shearer, "Jehovah's Witnesses have brought their children with them to Trois-Rivières, following the counsel prescribed in the Holy Scriptures. Understanding that they must protect their children, they make a rule of studying the Bible with them within the family circle, at least once a week, because they realize their responsibility as parents, of teaching them divine requirements."

"The Witnesses believe that the best way of overcoming juvenile delinquency is to prevent it. Consequently, the young Witnesses must attend five meetings of study and prayer each week, accompanying their parents regularly... Present world conditions leave youth today exposed to the sensations of physical attraction, and it is the responsibility of parents to protect them," he concluded. A big part of the four-day program will be devoted to discussing Christian conduct within the family circle.

Double-ring ceremony at St. Simeon's Anglican Church

Dorion - Burns

A pretty double-ring ceremony took place at 2 p.m. on Saturday, August 31, in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, solemnizing the marriage of Jean Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burns, of Lachute, to Mr. John Edward Dorion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenrick Dorion, of Upper Lachute.

The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated, with Capt. James Dorion, brother of the groom, assisting. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Rhian Dewar. Mrs. Charles Hall sang "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love." Arrangements of gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a floor-length gown of white organza with French lace appliqués, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands. A softly draped cummerbund and a gently flared skirt fell into a slight train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a circlet of seed pearls and crystals, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, her only ornament being a single strand of pearls.

Miss Lucinda Burns, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Sandra Dorion, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, were in frocks of pale pink chiffon over organza, fashioned with bolero jackets and bell-shaped skirts. They wore matching circlets in their hair, and carried cascade bouquets of white and pink carnations.

Mr. Fred Dorion acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Glen Burns and Mr. Ronald Boyd.

Mrs. Burns, mother of the bride, was in an ensemble of wheat-white linen and wore multi-color accessories, with a corsage of yellow and white mums. Mrs. Dorion, mother of the groom, was in a gown of blue crepe and wore a matching hat and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Brownsburg Legion Hall, where arrangements of garden flowers were used as decorations. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Dorion left on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a frock of blue linen, with matching jacket in looped mohair, and wearing blue accessories and hat, with a corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return they will take up residence in Fredericton, N.B.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Altruism – free of all commercial profit

THE VOLUNTARY DONOR is the basis of all the blood transfusion services, just as he is an indispensable complement to the system of blood banks. Last year 744,006 pints of blood were donated by volunteer donors in Canada, of which 194,883 were given by citizens of Quebec Province.

Almost every country in the world today recognizes that blood, as a therapeutic product of human origin, should remain free from all commercial profit. It forms the object of an act of altruism, and its gift should be free. One cannot stress too highly the personal character of blood donating and the essentially individual act which it constitutes. The blood donor, when he is voluntary and anonymous, is carrying out one of the noblest, most disinterested and most practical gestures which it is possible to conceive. The only motive which moves him is the ideal, and the appeal to this ideal constitutes the basis of the Red Cross blood transfusion program.

Volunteer donors of this community will have the opportunity of sharing their good health with sick and injured men, women and children of this province, when the Red Cross mobile unit sets up its blood clinic at Lachute — from 3 to 5.30 and from 7 to 9 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday.

Current food costs

BELIEVE IT or not — food doesn't cost as much as it used to; at least, not as much when put in terms of our buying power.

For instance, 12 to 15 years ago, it cost the average factory worker an hour's wages to buy one-and-a-half pounds of butter. In 1962, the hour's wages bought more than three pounds of butter. An hour's work bought 1.7 dozen eggs in the 1948-50 period while it purchased 3.5 dozen in 1962.

In 1935, Canadians spent about a quarter of their income on food. Today we are still spending almost this much but we are getting a more varied diet, higher quality food and fancier packaging.

Actual food prices have gone up about two-and-a-half times since the 1935-39 period but wages have quadrupled. Twenty-five years ago it cost $10 a week to feed a family of four; in 1962, it cost the same size family $25. In 1935-39, the disposable annual income was $339 per person. In 1962, it was $1,512.

Our national diet has changed too. We are eating more fruit and vegetables, more meat and poultry, but less grain products and fewer potatoes.

A new booklet called "Our Food Costs", containing data and diagrams on the cost of feeding ourselves, with comparisons for earlier periods, has been issued by the Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. It is available on request. (Publication 1167).

Arithmetic without tears

THE CUISENAIRE method of teaching arithmetic, as instructed this year to junior-graders in Lachute High School, was a source of amazement when first demonstrated to school principals in a workshop session at Macdonald College this past summer. The system is a far cry from the "rote and tote" of traditional methods.

The principals were led by a young demonstrator, using 241 colored wood rods, through the processes of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions and finally square roots — all to be tackled in a single school year.

Normally pupils would not be coping with some of these processes until Grade 4 or 5. The demonstrator learned the technique in one year of teaching a Grade 2 class.

It is claimed that the introduction of colored rods in Cuisenaire's method gives children "the thrill of personal discovery."

Cuisenaire was a Belgian schoolmaster who evolved the method for his own children. The children later received such high marks in mathematics in university entrance examinations, that a committee was sent to investigate the possibility of cheating! One of the investigators, Dr. C. Gattengo, was so intrigued he joined with Cuisenaire to develop the system for basic school instruction in mathematics.

The method has since spread to several areas of the world, and is now being applied in Lachute, and a number of Quebec schools. Teachers say it is too early here to assess the advantages of this change.

Helpful hemlines

THERE'S SOMETHING a bit suspicious about a report from Washington quoting the American Automobile Association as saying short skirts help protect women from being hit by cars.

Could it be that the man at the AAA is doing a little propagandizing for any reason other than traffic safety?

Is there a chance that he simply likes to look at women in short skirts and that his plea to Paris fashion designers to keep them short is rooted in the pleasures of girl-watching?

The AAA explains that most pedestrian accidents occur at night and notes that only 30 per cent of those hit are women.

It contends the reason so few women are involved is that, with the headlights of modern cars aimed downward, they can readily pick up the stockings or bare legs of the girls.

"Naturally," it says, "the more stocking or leg exposed, the easier it is for motorists to spot and thus prevent an accident."

Questioned a little more closely, the publicity director for the association, John de Lorenzi, admitted that the AAA hasn't any scientific evidence to show that short skirts really save lives.

And when asked whether it's possible that short skirts are perhaps a menace because they may take a driver's mind off the road, he replied:

"That is a driver's error. Sometimes no amount of driver education will control the emotions."

We would be less inclined to suspect Mr. de Lorenzi's motives if he had included a plea for men to begin wearing shorts and going with bare legs.

After all, with 70 per cent of fatalities involving pedestrians taking the lives of males, you would think the AAA would be equally concerned with their welfare.

Not that we really mind those short skirts, of course. We understand they make it easier for the ladies to get on and off buses and streetcars.

There aren't many folk nowadays who feel there's anything dishonorable about girl-watching. It's just that it doesn't seem quite honorable to campaign for short skirts on a questionable premise.

Viewpoints and perspectives

HOW IT WORKS. — It is possible to expect a lag in business for about five years after a parkway has circumvented a town. . . But the number of visitors usually picks up and not infrequently business goes far beyond the levels it held before the super-highway was built.

SHOULD LOOK AHEAD. — With one hand we are going to great lengths to dig up facts and the utensils of our past, while with the other we are destroying the objects that will be of historical value 100 years from now. Our historical societies need to look ahead as well as back.

INSURANCE

I was at the airport the other day and could not help noticing the number of passengers who took out travel insurance. They sealed it cheerfully and dropped it in the mail to the beneficiaries.

Some bought the limit, others a more moderate sum, but there must have been very few who did not bother with insurance at all.

It seemed to me that this illustrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that most people are altruistic to a considerable degree. None stood to benefit personally. The insurance cost them money, was a time-consuming nuisance to buy, but they did it and always with a surprising degree of cheerfulness.

It is a human desire to attempt to leave something behind for the comfort and care of one's family. And yet, to judge from our Succession Duties Act, the politicians think that this is a convenient place to reap some revenue. I believe that if those citizens who were purchasing travel insurance realized how much of it would be taken by the tax people in the event of a crash, they might not have been in such good humor.

The worst part of death duties is that so few people realize how much they will be. We do not like to contemplate the end, and most of us haven't a clue as to the size and complexity of the death tax grab. Newspapers and radio stations ought to give some prominence to these figures. If they were more generally known, voters would demand that governments be less inclined to pick the pockets of bereaved families.

Succession duties may be a necessity. Perhaps there is some merit in not allowing huge fortunes to pass on from generation to generation, although that contention is debatable. There is, however, no excuse whatever for the heavy burden of taxes now placed on widows or widowers of only modest means. If the general public would study the matter, reform would be prompt and drastic.

Rural antiques getting scarce

Montreal (CP) — Mrs. Harriet Hawkins of the town of Chambly, Que., started dealing in antiques several years ago when she sold a leaky watering can to a neighbor for $2.

Later she began collecting early Quebec furniture for her home and selling it from her own living room.

Today Mrs. Hawkins is assistant curator of the Jacques de Chambly Historical Village — a project begun by Antoine Prevost, curator of the Village.

But Mr. Prevost gives Mrs. Hawkins credit for the idea of the Village. "Her interest in antique furniture is responsible for the whole thing," he said.

Mrs. Hawkins inspired Mr. Prevost to start an antique shop in Chambly seven years ago and later she became buyer for the shop. Now she spends much of her time combing the province for early Canadiana.

She describes antiques buying as "having to track them down from door to door in the countryside."

"It's becoming more difficult each year to find them, as most available pieces have been picked up," she added.

WHY WORRY?

(From The Circus Review)

You are either successful or you are not successful. If you are successful, there's nothing to worry about.

If you are not successful there are only two things to worry about.

Your health is either good, or you're sick. If your health is good you have nothing to worry about.

If you are sick there's only two things to worry about. You are either going to recover or you are not.

If you are going to recover there's nothing to worry about.

If you are going to die there are only two things to worry about. You are either going to Heaven or you are not going to Heaven. If you are going to Heaven there is nothing to worry about.

If you are going to the other place you will be so busy shaking hands with old friends that you won't have time to worry.

SO WHY WORRY?

NOTES FROM ABROAD

By R.A. Giles — Written specially for The Watchman

Arriving in Liverpool on Thursday morning, after a very smooth trip we were hustled through Customs, without fuss and were soon on our way London bound. It was good to see the Old Land again, even though it was only five years since our last visit, and to glide along on the speedy English trains, viewing as we went, the small but well kept farms and fields where cattle were grazing contentedly and the harvest looked good. The weather has not been of the best up to now, but we Canadians seemed to have brought a change and the sun has been out every day since our arrival. An excellent dinner was served on board without any fuss and real quickly too, for there were 65 in our party alone.

We arrived in London during the afternoon and once in our coaches were not long in reaching our headquarters, the Mount Royal Hotel and were soon settled in a very nice double room.

As everyone knows, London is a city of entertainment and we were fortunate in getting seats to "Half a Sixpence", a musical comedy which we greatly enjoyed. Friday and Saturday were taken up in touring the great city of London where almost as many people are clustered together as would comprise the whole population of Canada. The old familiar spots of Marble Arch, The Strand, Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly, Big Ben, St. Paul's, Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and "Changing of the Guards", were places and scenes which one can never tire of. Sunday evening we went to church in Westminster Abbey and greatly enjoyed the service and the singing.

Monday morning we left London for Dover by coach. It was a grand day and following the usual Customs procedures boarded our ship transport and soon were headed for Ostend. The white chalk cliffs of Dover stood out most prominently as we sailed away, reminding us of their great importance in past wars. Our crossing took about 3½ hours. Fortunately it was quite smooth but it can be at times very rough. At Ostend, which is mainly a port centre we boarded our Motor Pullmans for the Continental part of our tour. Each coach, which is very comfortable, has a driver and a courrier, who points out all the highlights as we pass through various cities and towns.

Brussels was our first stop and here we saw the huge Cathedral and Sacred Heart Basilica started in 1948 and still under construction. A much used canal links this city to Ostend, and following the war it was a very popular place. Both Flemish and French are spoken, the people are very friendly and enjoy their food greatly. In the centre place the Square is surrounded by massive buildings each one bearing at its top, the emblem of the owner's trade or guild. The Palais de Justice also stands here and at certain times mass weddings are performed, for rich and poor alike. From Brussels we phoned to friends in Antwerp, and on the following day we had the pleasure of entertaining them to lunch with our party. It was 10 years since they had seen us on a previous trip and we spent an enjoyable hour together.

A visit to the Canadian Embassy was something we had looked forward to but Mr. Bull our representative in this capacity was at his private home, a beautiful spot in the country. The furnishings of his residence are exquisite and we enjoyed meeting and chatting with them. They had just recently returned from duties in Japan.

The Netherlands, called Holland after two of its larger provinces, is a little country, rich in history and tradition — a legendary land of windmills and wooden shoes. For centuries Holland has struggled to keep itself from being swallowed up by the sea; great dikes help to hold back the angry tides and endless miles of scenic canals weave a watery web through its countryside, isolating one village from another yet saving all from possible destruction. Although Holland escaped the ravages of World War I she was not so lucky in 1940 when German troops invaded the country. The five years of occupation proved disastrous to its economy. However, her people were plucky and she has made a successful recovery. Queen Juliana reigns and the Hague remains the seat of government, with Amsterdam as the capital. During our short stay here we visited Aalsmeer, a great floral centre where auctions of flowers brought in by canal barges and trucks, take place daily. Shipments are then made quickly by plane to all parts of the world. The wooden shoe factory was also interesting, seeing how the wooden shoes were cut from small blocks of wood. We saw Rembrant House, the home of the famous painter and viewed with interest many of his wonderful paintings. Bicycles are most popular in this city of over 871,000, to the extent that there are some 500,000 in use. Often a mother may be seen riding along with a small child sitting in front and another behind. A leading centre of the diamond cutting industry, our ladies were extremely interested in visiting the main factory and following through the expert operations of cutting and polishing. Thousands of dollars worth were on view, all with a real glitter. At night we enjoyed a trip along the many miles of canals amidst a galaxy of lights and passing under many of the 400 bridges which span these waterways.

Next morning, after a good night's rest at the Park Hotel, we visited the Arnhem Cemetery, where 1369 service men, mainly parachuters, lost their lives through one man's betrayal of the secret plan. Of these 32 were Canadians. It is like all other cemeteries neatly cared for.

Passing into Germany we stopped at Cologne and viewed with interest the great Cathedral, the largest Gothic edifice in the world. Its foundation dates from 1248. The architecture and beautiful stained glass windows are entrancing. It was completed in 1880.

Friday, Sept. 13, found us away early, arriving at Bopard where we embarked on a roomy boat for a cruise up the Rhine. This so far has been one of the highlights of our trip. As we travelled on we could see from both sides the never-ending grape vineyards, built on the steep banks of the Rhine, the numerous barges plying with their cargoes, up and down, with many old castles standing out prominently on the highest points. Quaint little villages with a castle on top reveal the fact that the village and the vineyards were once owned by one rich man who lived in the castle.

In Heidelberg, the oldest University town in Germany, we saw one of the old castles, where there were miles and miles of underground cellars, used in ancient times to store wine. A huge vat or barrel holding 550,000 gallons was on view. The courtyard of this 13th century landmark is used as a setting for the town's summer drama and musical festival. We spent a short time in the Red Ox, a famous inn, which students of this oldest university town in Germany frequented, and where almost every available spot in the place is taken up with carved or written initials, pictures of prominent persons, and individual distinguishing marks. Passing through Nuremburg we were reminded that it was in this city that many of the war criminals were tried and convicted.

It is just one week today (Monday) since we left London, and three weeks since I left Lachute for our Murray Bay Convention, but it seems such a long time — we have done so much meantime.

Today we were taken to the concentration camp at Dachau, where so many of Jewish origin and faith met their end. It was a sad occasion as we were shown through the various buildings and saw with horror and disgust the gas chambers where so many innocent people were put to death and their bodies thrown into big ovens for cremation. Most of us were glad to leave, feeling how lucky we were to have escaped such vile and wicked treatment. Later in the day we went up the road leading to Hitler's Hideout and where up very high in the mountains, he used to do his planning and thinking of "How to win the war."

Each country as we pass through has its peculiarities with regard to building and customs. Today while going through Bravario we noticed a narrow gallery about each home on the 1st floor and enclosed with beautiful colored flowers. Truly a fascinating sight, but hard to explain in print. Looking down from a height it is most wonderful to see these brightly colored homes with their pretty gardens. Streets and homes are very clean, and the people are most friendly.

While visiting one of the cemeteries we were surprised to meet a coach full of young ladies all in similar dress and each wearing a Maple Leaf pin. On talking to them we discovered they were the "Ulster Girls Choir," who last year had visited Canada and were seen by many at the Toronto Exhibition and on television. Lady Eaton had presented them with their pins. As we passed through Rothenburg, there was a gay celebration going on and we enjoyed seeing the famous shepherds' dance. In the middle ages the shepherds' guild of this town used to perform a guild dance in the market place. This brightly costumed affair is still very popular and these performers have won many prizes. During the Thirty Years' War this town was attacked on several occasions by bands of soldiers who under the direction of one leader named Tilly and his council of war demanded the town's destruction. The soldiers were turned free to plunder and the councillors were sentenced to death. The Burgomaster was ordered to fetch the executioner. This faithful servant, however, refused to perform the duties of his office and offered his own head. During the delay, the butler's daughter proffered to Fieldmarshal Tilly a cup of welcome. For this purpose the old imperial goblet was filled with the best wine. Tilly drank along with his generals. The enemies had humor and Tilly at last promised his pardon provided one of the aldermen was able to empty the 3½ qt. goblet at one draught. He did, and so the town and its inhabitants were saved. The messenger of the town hastened to inform the Burgomaster and the lane where he met him is called to this day "Lane of Joy". The building of this particular castle dates back to the 1st century.

Animal Care

FEEDING HABITS

Several readers have written asking for advice about feeding their dogs. One letter says: "We buy a lot of canned food for our dog and he seems to enjoy it. But how varied should his diet really be?"

Like all animals, including human beings, a dog enjoys variety in his food. In a wild state he would normally eat meat, preying on other animals. So make sure that he has meat, or the equivalent protein in some form. Canned foods usually carry a good percentage of meat but you can also buy low-grade meat and either give it to your pet raw or lightly cooked. Liver is a particularly valuable food.

A dog needs fat in his diet, so don't make the mistake of taking the fat off the meat and the bones. Give him cereal, usually in the form of dog biscuits. Vegetables are not a necessary part of his diet because his system manufactures most of its own requirements of Vitamin C. Potatoes have little nutritional value and are only fattening.

Feed a grown-up dog twice a day with the main meal either around mid-day or about six in the evening and a lighter meal at the other time. The main meal will consist of meat and the second meal of biscuits with milk or water. See that he always has plenty of drinking water.

The amount a dog eats will depend on his size and the exercise he gets. If your pet is getting fat and sluggish you must obviously reduce his diet and make him run around more.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Patricia Rusak, Canadian Press Staff Writer

A women's bureau was established by the Ontario department of labor September 11 — greeted with enthusiasm by organizations which have long been striving to better the conditions of employment for women.

The federal labor department has long had a women's bureau and officials of leading Ontario women's organizations hope the provincial bureau — the first in Canada — will operate as effectively.

"We needed something like this on the provincial level and it will give us the opportunity of working more closely in this area," said Nazla Dane, vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Miss Dane said the Ottawa bureau works as a "two-way street" through which information from the women's groups to the government and vice versa can pass.

Mrs. Ethel McLellan, a soft-spoken 36-year-old political science and economics graduate, will head the new bureau, the staff of which has yet to be set up.

Among the most urgent problems the new bureau director will study is the effect on women of equal and minimum pay legislation.

* * *

Study Pay Laws

Legislation passed in Ontario last June provides for a minimum wage of one dollar an hour for both men and women, in the Hamilton - Toronto - Oshawa area, (the golden triangle) by January of 1964.

Studies of the effects of this legislation on women, many of whom are without an organized voice, are yet to be completed by the labor department.

Many employers are shrewd in their evasion of the legislation. In the case of waitresses, for example, employers often raise their wages to meet minimum requirements but then charge employees more for meals.

Relocation of industries such as the canning industry in another province where the minimum wage is lower, is always a possibility, Ontario labor minister Leslie Rowntree said at a press conference introducing Mrs. McLellan.

* * *

Acceptance Slow

A recent cross-Canada survey by the Canadian Press showed the principle of equal pay for equal work, regardless of sex, is only slowly gaining acceptance across the country.

Provinces with equal pay legislation have machinery for investigating complaints but the few complaints that are made seldom reach the point where court action is taken.

Individuals affected by the laws or evasion of them must take the responsibility of seeing that the laws are put into effect. And the very fact that few cases of discrimination against women are reported, leads officials of women's groups to suspect there are instances where the law is being broken but that the employee is afraid of reporting them.

Individuals, and especially women, can easily be victimized or put under great pressure, said Margaret Ferguson of the Ontario Council of Women, which has long been campaigning to have the province's Fair Remuneration Act amended to permit an association to bring a complaint on behalf of an individual.

HALIBUT STEAKS WITH HERB BUTTER

"Speedy but special"

Halibut Steaks with Herb Butter are the perfect choice when the order of the day for dinner is something speedy but just a little special. Baking is one of the easiest methods of preparing the meaty fish. It's quick too. And because the time and temperature are easily controlled, it helps retain the naturally delicate fish flavor. The aromatic savor of thyme, parsley, mustard and other seasonings blends with the butter to bake deliciously through the tender flesh. The result — a fine platter of fish that has the appearance and appetite appeal to please the most sophisticated of palates.

Halibut Steaks with Herb Butter

1 to 1½ pounds halibut steaks, ¼ cup soft butter or margarine, ¼ cup minced parsley, 1 teaspoon finely minced onion, ¼ teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, few drops hot liquid pepper seasoning*, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

If frozen, let halibut steaks stand at room temperature about an hour — no longer. Preheat oven to 450 deg. F. (very hot). Arrange halibut on greased baking pan. Blend together butter and remaining ingredients. Spread on top of halibut steaks. Bake about 10 minutes per inch of fish, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste once or twice during baking. Serve immediately. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

*Tabasco Sauce.

Determination of blood group is safety rule

Car drivers who give of their blood to the Canadian Red Cross receive a gold and red sticker that they transfer to the windshield of their car. This sticker shows that they are blood donors. In case of accident, this blood donor sticker indicates that the driver carries a Red Cross blood donor card — and this card gives precious information on the driver's blood group.

Many times, this fast identification of the injured driver's blood group has contributed in saving his life. Upon his arrival at the nearest hospital, free blood supplies were ready because the blood group of the patient had been specified over the telephone to the hospital authorities by the police or by the ambulance attendant. The sticker on the windshield has therefore proved to be most valuable.

The Red Cross blood transfusion service, aware of the value of such identification, has an attractive gold and red sticker which is easily transferred to the windshield of a car without obstructing the view of the driver. Car owners are invited to have their blood typed by the Red Cross. The service is free, and the only condition is to give less than a pint of blood at one of the mobile clinics, or at the Permanent Centre, 2180 Dorchester Blvd. W., Montreal.

The Red Cross mobile clinic will visit Lachute next week. — Be a donor. — Come to the Auditorium, September 30 or October 1. Hours: 2 to 5.30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Simple fare, but delicacy

Bread pudding takes on company airs when it's made into a frothy confection called Peachy Lemon Meringue Pudding.

This dessert is specially apt at this time of year when many families start to take a "ho-hum" attitude toward plain uncooked fruit — a possibility that seemed unthinkable at the end of spring when everyone hungered for fresh fruit.

The main flavor in this pudding is that of peaches heightened with a tang of lemon. It has a nice creamy consistency, with an appetizing color combination of white meringue and yellow peaches. Altogether, it adds up to a glamorizing bread pudding that could lend distinction to any dinner party.

Peachy Lemon Meringue Pudding

2 Cups (about 4 to 6) peeled, cubed fresh peaches (or 1 28-ounce tin cubed canned peaches), 2 cups soft day-old bread crumbs, ¼ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, 1 cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 eggs, separated, 1½ cups hot milk, 1½ teaspoons finely grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar.

Preheat oven to 325 deg. F. (slow). Grease an 8-inch square baking dish or a shallow 8-cup casserole.

In a large mixing bowl, combine peaches and bread crumbs. Combine brown sugar with melted butter or margarine; add to bread mixture.

In top of double boiler, combine the 1 cup granulated sugar, the salt and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks until light; stir into cornstarch mixture. Slowly add hot milk and stir sauce over boiling water until smooth and thick. Blend in lemon rind and lemon juice. Continue cooking for about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove sauce from heat and blend into the bread crumb mixture.

Pour into prepared baking dish and bake for 20 minutes in preheated oven.

Meanwhile, beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the 3 tablespoons of sugar until meringue stands in peaks. Remove pudding from oven, spread meringue on top and return to oven to bake 15 minutes longer or until meringue is golden brown.

Let stand on wire rack to set, about 5 minutes. Cut in squares to serve. Remove to serving plates with spatula.

"We made it plain to Bob that we strongly disapproved of his taking a Saturday job without first consulting us!"

* * *

"Sam's teacher phoned me that he refused to take home his report card because he was afraid of our disapproval of his poor marks."

* * *

What about a parent's use of disapproval? In different situations — Mary's, Bob's, and Sam's mothers were very critical of their child's actions. They felt it was their duty to let their son or daughter feel the weight of their censorship.

Showing disapproval is usually sufficient to indicate to a child that in the parent's eyes a certain line of action is unacceptable. It is important at the same time that a mother or father should try to discover why the child acted as he did.

Has Mary some grounds for jealousy towards her younger sister? Perhaps Bob should have received praise instead of disapproval for helping out with the family finances by getting a Saturday job on his own initiative? Maybe Sam needs encouragement and practical help, not scolding in his school work?

In certain situations a parent feels he must express his disapproval but to underline it is a mistake. Children aren't stupid and most of them want to please their mother and dad.

A child should not be constantly glancing at his parents to find out their reaction. This makes the child too insecure and cuts the nerve of his own initiative. Gradually he should be discovering satisfaction in achievement. As he matures he should learn to handle the discouragement of failure, and start again himself to work toward success.

Disapproval takes many forms, most of which are verbal. Scolding a child is one of the most common and one of the least effective. Talking on and on, without any relation to helping a child make a new start and correct his mistake, produces an unpleasant, discouraged home atmosphere.

Why do mothers nag? In some cases they have two or three pre-school children and they become fatigued and exhausted nervously. They fall into this habit of scolding and constantly reminding a child, almost without realizing it.

Shaming and blaming a child for a mishap are also poor ways to show disapproval. The child is likely to be embarrassed. In his unhappiness he may withdraw into day dreaming, to a pleasanter world than the real one in which he lives. Or he may close his ears and harden his heart to his mother's reproaches.

What about disapproval expressed in terms of corporal punishment? Fear of physical pain is short-lived and is no real substitute for encouraging a child's sense of responsibility to choose between right and wrong. In time he must be prepared to direct his own conduct.

Some children would rather receive a spanking for wrong-doing than have privileges removed or isolated. If they know they will be spanked, then they can decide whether or not they prefer the pleasure of a forbidden act even if it is followed by physical pain.

Another mark against corporal punishment is that rarely is it consistent. To far too great an extent it depends on the mood of the adult administering it. It is so easy to overdo this expression of disapproval!

Do you agree with the following quotation for the Encyclopedia of Child Care and Guidance, published by the Parents' Institute? . . .

"Constant or severe slapping is in the long run not only a completely useless method for building good behaviour but an injurious one."

Autumn and the mountains' glory; man's attitude to man - and beast

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

To be strictly truthful, this should be headed differently, since actually we have taken up residence in suburbia, but we still feel tied to the farm, and hope for many week-ends yet before winter puts a cold finger on living. Right now, the fourth week-end of September, is the best time of the year in the Laurentians. We have seldom seen the mountains more beautiful, really beyond description, so we shall not bore you, but content ourselves with mentioning a tree that stands just behind our garage. For some reason best known to itself and its Creator, it has grown a perfect shape, and just now it is a rounded cone of color; bright crimson predominates, with touches of shocking pink, clear yellow and dull green. It is the perfect foil for the pewter-colored garage with its soft blue trimming. It is hard to keep my eyes off it and on the typewriter. This will probably be one of the manuscripts that makes the linotype man wipe his brow in frustration. . . (It is, Ed.)

I have just had a good idea. (No, please, not again.) — How about having a week-end devoted to seeing the Autumn colors? It is done with success in Vermont and New Hampshire, so why not here? It ought to be a money-maker for hotels and churches.

* * *

Speaking of churches, we were happy to be present at the dedication of the new church hall at Lakefield not long ago. The picture of our young and Irish bishop, in his crimson and white robes, supported by two faithful henchmen, one also in colorful robes, standing in front of the new building, with the background of lake and hill, will not soon be forgotten. And inside, the hall was a thing a beauty, with great baskets of flowers making accents on the long tables. We estimate there was a crowd of two hundred, and, knowing something of the necessary organization for feeding such a number, we marvel that the few ladies of the W.A. of Trinity Church accomplished everything so efficiently. It was heartening to see several young men and women helping with the work. One of the arguments against having a new hall was that the parish was "dying out". It is always risky to foretell the future. Let us leave that to the One to whom the hall is dedicated. Personally, we feel that there are possibilities in this parish, and that it has a future, if properly organized. Even Christ was not above organizing. "And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass." No haphazard picnic here. . . And again, the story of sending out His disciples to teach. The whole plan is well thought out, and definite in instruction. Those that read the Bible with attention will soon realize that the picture of the "meek and gentle Jesus" and "the man of sorrows" is a caricature of the real personality, which was joyous and vibrant. No man of sorrow ever attracted anybody.

* * *

Just as sorrow does not attract, neither does mediocrity. . . We have now switched to education. . The daughter of the house has been given a class which is supposed to be slightly retarded. She is beginning to suspect that the little dears are not retarded, but cunning. After all, if one cannot do some work, one has the perfect alibi for anything mental. I have no copy of Browning here at the farm, but he certainly said something about a man's reach should exceed his grasp; and that is true in education. I have a hunch that many of our drop-outs that are the subject of lengthy articles in glossy magazines, are due to sheer boredom. Lack of discipline is also a factor, for no teacher can teach an unruly class. Somebody has to be captain, or the ship founders. There is too much feeding of pap in our schools; I am not alone in this conviction. I have heard other parents express the same views, and, I am told that the pap is softer in Ontario. You know, we may live to thank the Russians for their example in education. There is no short-cut to learning; it reqiures perspiration, not inspiration.

We note that our fellow-columnist who writes of the local scene keeps mentioning cruelty to animals. Fortunately, we have seldom seen examples of this. The shooting of our cat (rather than our husband) was a horrible thing, inspired by anger and quite likely activated by liquor. Now we have heard of a family in Vermont whose pet Siamese was shot. The excuse was that it was mistaken for a lynx. Anger in one case, ignorance in another. My own theory is that ignorance is at the bottom of most of these revolting acts. That, and a lack of imagination. Ignorant people seem to think that all wild animals are dangerous to humans. The reverse, of course, is the truth.

In the case of domestic animals, there is the attitude of the farmer, that animals should produce young to add to his income. Then when the so-called useless animals such as dogs and cats reproduce, he is dismayed. Somehow, he feels, nature should declare a moratorium on reproduction. But nature knows nothing of this feeling. However, it is in the power of the owner to control the number of these unfortunate animals. Spaying of females and castrating of males is a simple and inexpensive operation. Then you have a decent pet who will long give you pleasure. Our own cat is neutred, and it does not seem to have affected his sporting instinct for mice. Since most dogs are kept as a warning device, they too, are equally useful, the ears not being involved in the operation. As for the revolting things done to wild creatures, the only solution is education of the public, and that takes a long time. . .

Before all the country subscribers withdraw their subscriptions to The Watchman, let me hasten to add that I think with loathing of city people who make a pet of a kitten or a dog all summer, then abandon it when they leave for the city. Lack of imagination. Animals feel cold and warmth, hunger and despair, as do humans. The proper thing would be to shut out the human involved, on a cold winter day or night. And a little starvation would not hurt many people.

* * *

And that leaves hunting. Just a month now, and it will be unsafe to walk about. Autumn, the time of beauty and the beast — and I do not mean the wild beast. I suppose we should be sorry for these men who cannot read signs, who bravely sit on my verandah and wait for deer to appear, so that they can have a few roasts of probably tough meat. . . Just be sure the owner is not around before you settle down!

Price support costs Canadians cent a day

The federal government's price support program for butter, cheese, skim milk, milk for manufacturing, beef, pork, lamb, wool, turkey, eggs, eastern grain, sugar beets, soybeans, sunflower seed, honey, and potatoes, cost Canadians just slightly more than one cent per capita per day during the year ended March 31, 1963.

The annual report of the Agricultural Stabilization Board (which administers the support program for these products) shows that the Board had net costs and payments of $71,856,049 in that period.

Major item was the butter subsidy, which accounted for $42,272,807.

The Board held $139,511,340 worth of farm produce in storage at March 1963, compared with $132,724,944 a year earlier.

During the fiscal year, the Board spent $119,304,906. Sales of produce returned $40,662,461 to the Board.
