ANNEXATION PASSED BY QUEBEC ORDER-IN-COUNCIL

Dotted line indicates new limits for Lachute Town municipality

An order-in-council was issued by the Lieutenant-Governor May 20 to authorize the annexation by Lachute of part of the Parish of St. Jerusalem. . . This was confirmed by a letter received here last Thursday by the town secretary, thereby substantiating a rumor in circulation for several days that the matter was finally settled.

Quebec, May 20, 1964

Mme Yvette Raymond, Sec-Treas., Town Hall, Lachute, Que.

Madam:

The Minister of Municipal Affairs, the Hon. Pierre Laporte, asks me to inform you that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council has seen fit to authorize, for the purposes and reasons therein stated in the by-law and in an Municipal Council of Lachute as set forth in resolutions December 10, 1963, and January 29, 1964, providing for annexation to the said town of a certain territory specified in the by-law and in an official specification of the Department of Lands and Forests dated February 17, 1964.

We are having this notice published in the Quebec Official Gazette as required by Article 43 of the Cities and Towns Act. Your by-law will become effective from the publication of the said notice.

Yours truly,

Jean-Louis Doucet, Q.C.,
Deputy Minister

(This notice appeared in the Quebec Official Gazette on Saturday, May 30, thus making the decree official.)

The territory to be annexed is an area shown in the original plans prepared by J.-Arthur Lafrance, Surveyor, which were the basis for a referendum to the voters last September. In that vote the St. Jerusalem taxpayers were in favor of the measure by a majority of 71. Subsequently, however, an opposing group made representations to the Department of Municipal Affairs to have the territory reduced in area.

The decision, just handed down, was delayed eight months — an interim which will necessitate adjustments between the two municipalities over tax collections for the current year.

The by-law prescribes the geographical boundaries of Lachute in relation to St. Jerusalem and Ayersville as outlined in the adjacent map, and points out the requirements of land and municipal services for industrial use. Land space is available in St. Jerusalem, never used for industrial occupation. The by-law preamble cites examples of similar municipalities which have developed rapidly in the past 15 years, due to having land to offer for potential industries.

There is a property valuation of $1,968,415 in the area under annexation, and a population of 1,557. For practical purposes, the part of the Parish affected is largely the urban section, adjoining Lachute town, as compared with the rural section comprised in the remainder. The wards, for representational purposes, will be appropriately divided.

Debts and loans on the St. Jerusalem books and affecting the annexation area, will be divided pro rata, Lachute assuming responsibility for payments in virtue of this division. With the general tax revenues, the Town will also assume lighting and garbage collection services in the urban section, without specific supplemental charges.

Sentiments and Sidelights

In the posting of new street signs around Lachute recently it was noted that, by anticipation or by mistake, the Henry Street sign at the corner of Bethany Road was displayed on the St. Jerusalem side of that thoroughfare, which was then outside the town limits. . . Annexation has since materialized, so this is no longer a mistake.

Golfing under the lights

Golfing under the lights was inaugurated at the local club this past month — Lachute being the only club in the province to have night golfing facilities over a brilliantly lighted nine-hole stretch. Club topic traces growth of Lachute and B'burg industries

A history of local mills and manufactures was outlined at the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary meeting last week, in a highly interesting address by Dr. G. R. Rigby.

After being introduced by Rotarian Wes Freeland, Dr. Rigby gave his talk illustrating the growth of industry in the Lachute and Brownsburg areas. . .

In 1803 there were some 30 families farming along each bank of the North River from the Falls to Upper Lachute. The farmers brought their grain to be ground, first at the mills at St. Andrews, but in 1804 a small grist mill was built at the Lachute Falls; this was rebuilt in 1812, then replaced by a substantial stone structure in 1832.

In 1818, George Brown built mills at Brownsburg where the West River crosses the Brownsburg-St. Philippe Road, and in 1830 Dan Dale built mills in Dalesville.

In 1838, Peter McOuat built a saw mill on the west side of the Brownsburg Road, and John Hutchins in 1840 built a carding mill on the opposite side of the road, both mills being powered by the creek which now forms the Rotary Club pool. The McOuat mill was eventually bought by the Morrisons and the Hutchins' mill became a saw mill, its successor now being operated by the Brownsburg Lumber Company.

With the advent of the railroad which came to Lachute in 1876, the three major industries, which still operate in Lachute, were founded.

Ayers Limited was started by T. H. Ayers and F. Hamelin, who purchased 20 acres of bush below the Falls in 1876. In 1880 they wove the first cloth, and when T. H. Ayers' wife, formerly Miss Olive Paquette, learned the secret of splicing the felts for the rapidly growing paper industry, the company began to manufacture paper felts. In 1914 the wooden buildings were all replaced by stone buildings, and today it is a fully integrated woollen mill, employing some 600 people.

The J. C. Wilson paper mill came to Lachute in 1880 when J. C. Wilson purchased 170,000 sq. ft. of land on the west side of the river opposite the old grist and saw mill. In 1883 Wilson was making a unique type of manilla paper, and in 1892, he transferred his paper bag business from Montreal to Lachute. Three more paper-making machines were added, in 1885, 1891 and 1900. Between 1948 and 1954 the mill was modernized, the interior being rebuilt, and in 1955 a box-making factory was added.

Dominion Ayers Wood Products began when Hamelin and Ayers built a mill for David Hambleton at the south end of Princess Street which was operated by a steam boiler. This company was the only one in Canada making

Prisoner held on assault charge commits suicide

A 33-year-old Huberdeau man, Richard Trudel, who was in jail at St. Jerome in connection with an assault upon a 61-year-old woman resident, was found hanged in his cell last Thursday morning.

The discovery was made by a guard, when bringing the man's breakfast to his cell. The prisoner had hung himself during the night, using his belt and a length of bed blanket.

Blame for negligence, in leaving the prisoner in possession of the leather belt, was laid against certain Court House jail attendants, and one of the guards was suspended from his job for an indefinite period.

At the time of the assault Trudel was accompanied by Murray Staniforth. On his arraignment last Friday, Staniforth denied his guilt. He will stand for preliminary hearing June 10 before Judge Camille de Martigny.

Trans-oceana at Richelieu

Speaker at the Richelieu Club last week was Pierre Adam, from the public relations department of the French Line, who gave a film version of life aboard the luxury liner, "France", on a trans-Atlantic crossing.

The speaker was introduced by Roland Rinfret and thanked by Lévis Clément. The meeting was chaired by President Gaëtan Leclair, and the "two-minute topic" was given by Roland Menard.

Four new members were initiated — Bernard Cadieux, Dr. Marcel Sylvestre, Serge Lacasse and Claude Lamarche.

THE SCENE Around Brownsburg

— On behalf of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 71, Reg Bell, chairman of the 1964 Polio campaign, extends a sincere "thank you" to all those who took part in the fund-raising drive, recently completed. In addition to the Brownsburg workers, appreciation is extended to those citizens of Grenville, Calumet, Kilmar and Pointe au Chene districts who toiled for the cause.

— Another Legion item: The annual high school field day, sponsored by Branch 71, will be held on Saturday, June 6. Legion officials request that parents encourage their children to take part in the events, and they extend a special invitation to all adults to attend the affair. Children are asked to be at their school grounds by 8.30 a.m. Saturday, to take part in the parade to the sports field. — A worthy project, and a worthy day on which to hold it. Twenty years ago (June 6, 1944) Legionnaires were busy with other things.

Clubs to sponsor grandstand shows again this year

The entertainment bill at Lachute Spring Fair is complete, and promises an interesting grandstand show, three evenings and Saturday afternoon, under sponsorship of the service clubs.

On Thursday evening immediately following the horse show, the Rotary Club will have a full program featuring the inimitable Ron Prophet (erstwhile of Calumet), star entertainer; also the annual tug-of-war contest, calf scramble and other fun-provoking features.

On Friday night the Lions Club will feature the Boys' and Girls' Club Purple and Gold Revue, under the direction of Miss Patricia McCormick. The revue includes 17 varied acts involving 37 children aged from five to 17.

The Richelieu Club will feature harness racing on Saturday afternoon immediately following what promises to be a big spectacle of the fair — the 6-horse team driving competition.

On Saturday night the children, mostly local riders, will thrill the crowds with their ponies, just before Lachute Legion Branch 70 presents the famous Black Watch Bands for a fantastic performance and tattoo. . .

The King Reid Shows, bringing glamor and sparkle to the midway area, will feature 20 rides for children and the young of heart. There will be a ferris wheel and such rides as the "Scrambler" and the "Octopus".

The four-day show opens informally on Wednesday, when preliminaries of the judging will set the scene for one of the most interesting livestock arrays in the long history of this exhibition.

Power Squadron anticipates active season

On Saturday, the members of the St. Andrews Power Squadron held their fifth annual closing meeting, under the able direction of Squadron Commander Roger Legault.

This Squadron is a member of Canadian Power Squadrons, whose sole aim is to help the members develop skills in boat handling, and in this way to improve the safety of boating. Having successfully passed the Piloting course, Judge Omer Chartrand of Hawkesbury and Raymond Dand of St. Andrews were sworn in as new members by District Training Officer, Lt. Commander S. Daws-Knowles of Montreal.

Training Officer Lt.-Cmdr. Lucien Hamel presented the awards for advance grades to Mrs. Jean McIndoe, David Barnes and Daniel Trickey, in Seamanship, and to Dr. Charles Roy, in Advanced Piloting.

For helping in the successful training courses, merit awards were also presented to Sq. Cmdr. Roger Legault, Lt. Cmdr. J. McIndoe, Lt. Cmdr. Lucien Hamel, Sq. Cmdr. (retired) Norm Somers, Fred Barnes, Bertrand L'Heureux, Bob Davidson and George Deacon. Mrs. M. Trickey and Aimé Trudel were awarded Commander's Citations.

Following the meeting, the members and their guests had an enjoyable social evening.

The members of this group are looking forward to an active summer season. New training courses will start in September, and anyone interested may obtain further details from the members of the Squadron.

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Every once in a while you hear a story that just about tops everything; take this time: One of the locals from Rattlesnake Harbour, not feeling too well the other evening, went to bed early. Along about 3 a.m. he headed for the cottage in the cedars, without a flashlight to lighten his way. Crawling through a small pile of these cedars he had almost made it when he stepped right on top of a cow moose that had decided to retire for the night! It would be difficult to imagine the surprise of both parties; folks along that way say that the screams would have awakened everyone in Lachute, if the wind had been in this direction. Residents who live toward the highway swear they saw a nightshirt-clad figure leaping right over the treetops on the way down. Imagine all the stupid situations that could come of an adventure like this. Incidentally, it is not known what became of the moose. Too bad someone hadn't been around with a high-speed camera.

Lakes in the district have started to pay off, for those who don't mind the rain and cold. Silver Lake is the best at present. George Couvrette showed me three Greys he had taken one evening, all very good fish, the largest around 3½ lbs., nice and fat with fair color, even after being long out of the water. One good Brown was reported from Lake Louisa, with a fair number of Greys showing up. Even from Lake Hughes there was reported a good catch of trout, while Sir John has been tops for the perch and bass man. The bass have not been too big, and all of them caught were covered with blackspot; no perch were affected with this, though. It seems strange this lake should have so much of this infestation; the reason would be hard to find out, but I would guess the flow of water being slowed down at the outlet would have a lot to do with this. The lake is not being cleaned naturally, and this affects the fish.

One of the boys headed down into New York State last week for some Rainbow fishing and had remarkable results; these lakes are all stocked by the New York State Conservation Board, so the results are understandable. Most of the fishermen were fly type, and from what I was told, there were some very good catches. Our friends used the Ghost-type streamers, and they were well received. If it interests you, the largest Rainbow taken was a 6-pounder. Nice fishing.

You will remember a couple of weeks ago I told you of the registration of all motor boats over 10 horsepower. I stated they could be registered with the RCMP — but I'm afraid I pulled a boner on this. They must be registered with the nearest Collector of Customs, to comply with the small vessel regulations. Friend Sgt. Dick Muir wrote me this information, and passed along a copy of the Safety Afloat regulations issued by the Department of Transport. . . This sure leaves me with a very red face, seeing that I had registered a power boat last year through the Customs. Hope I'm forgiven — and my thanks to Sgt. Muir for his information.

I spotted a Scarlet Tanager the other morning, and really was happy about it. It looks as though summer will be with us, one of these months. We have a number of brown-headed cow-birds coming in for a free feed these mornings; and they seem to get along very well with all other birds except the starlings. This is only natural, I guess, as not too many other types seem to get along with them. Goldfinches are flitting around too; they sure like to scratch in the seed we throw out for them. All the birds seem to be paying less and less attention to Goldie the dog; now they almost ignore her, unless she actually steps on them. It won't be too long now before the young birds start hopping around, then she will get a beating every once in a while from the mothers of these youngsters. Being curious, and a Retriever, she likes to investigate and tries to collect these young hoppers — but she's due for some swift retaliation.

There are a couple of good stories in one of the American sporting magazines about parks and fishing in Quebec. They certainly paint a glowing picture for the fishing in this province. I wonder just whom you have to know, to get this type of fishing, and just how much it costs you. It is all very well giving publicity of this type, but not all fishermen can afford the price tag. It looks to me like a tourist build-up for the American public, who will read this article and certainly get the wrong impression on our fishing. They naturally do not mention those waters now barren of all game fish, through improper management and abuse. This is a problem that has to be dealt with now, unless we wish to be without inland fish resources. Of course, the present regime is not to blame for everything that has gone before, but they apparently are right in the swing — for example, the management of moose.

I heard of a pill that is being developed, to repel black flies. Just what it's all about I don't know, but it appears this pill, if taken, will keep the flies away for a period of 12 hours. This sounds good. . . Black flies and mosquitoes are one pest I personally am never bothered with; maybe something I have in my blood.

A couple of dogs are running loose in the bush, which appear to be fresh from the city — one a hound and the other a police dog. This type can do a lot of damage to the young game around at this season — so, a word to the owners, whoever they may be.

More on air rifles: I received a call the other day after I wrote about damage caused by youngsters, suggesting that the property-owners are trying to place the blame for anything like this on kids. I happen to know this is not so. Believe me, some of the lads in circulation with air rifles are a menace to everyone, not only to home-owners. I watched a couple shooting across the tracks near the station, with no thought whatever to anyone who might be coming along. You really can't expect much else — these same lads told me of shooting at each other with these rifles and not being hurt! They sure need some training from their dads.

Yes, the geese are still around the river. They must have nested in this area, otherwise they would have taken off with the other flights. I hope we are that lucky this year.

One last thing for the North River fishermen: As most of you know, the provincial biologists have been working on this water for some time, but they need our help. If anyone should catch a Musky, will they please measure it from tip of the tail to the tip of the lower jaw, then when they are cleaning it, be careful with the entrails — remove them as gently as possible, place them in a bottle and take them to A. Gagné, the game warden in Whissellitown. This might seem like a lot of work for nothing, but believe me, this is very important for all of us.

Newcomers and greater variety in '64 Rotary Night at Fair

Rotary night at the Fair this year — Thursday, June 18 — will feature Action, Strength, Music and Song.

The defending champions, the Canadian International Paper Co. tug-of-war team, will be out to try and carry home the bacon. However, a strong group of contending teams, including C-I-L (twice runners-up) will be there to prove that all the skill and strength doesn't belong to the pulp and paper stalwarts.

A new twist is being given to the program this year, to suit the desires of youth and the curiosity of adults for "Beetlemania" and the guitar strumming singers, in the person of Ronnie Prophet. Well known locally for many years, and now nationally known through his song, patter and guitar music on CBC Radio, TV, and records, Ronnie promises to demonstrate what gave him the title, "Wonder Boy" with his guitar. . . Prophet is flying down from the Brown Derby, in Toronto, where he is performing, to take part in the Rotary Night program.

The action of the past calf-catching contests is to be retained, with a group of young calves pitted against 12 husky local boys 14 to 16 years of age, the latter now being "rounded up" by Andrew Hardy.

The winning Canadian International Paper Co. team, last year was coached by Ernie MacRae and included anchorman Howard McLean, Roland Charron, Emil Laurin, Lucien Desjardins, Lucien Lalonde, William Campbell, Gerard Mazzey and Gaetan Leonard.

The runner-up, coached by Wes Wilson, was made up of well known local men — captain George Taylor, Clifton Berry, Paul Guimond, Arnold Berry, Arthur Keatley, Bill MacKiddie, George Pasco, Bill Cribb, Roy Cruise and Clem Leroux.

The "Farmers", coached by Bill Brass; Ayers Limited, coached by A. J. Whiteway; Boyd's Lachute Express, coached by George Cox; and Lachute Golf & Country Club, coached by Tom Johnston, were the other contenders.

Four new teams join the enthusiastic ranks of the nine, to take part this year. A Windsor Hotel and a Bell Telephone team, both from Lachute, and a St. Philippe and a Thurso team; indicate the interest shown in this event.

Ronnie Prophet, an Argenteuil County boy, comes home to star as an entertainer.

Three golfers join 'hole-in-one' celebrities here

Three golfers joined the select hole-in-one fraternity at the local club last week. There were witnesses to authenticate these triumphs in each case.

H. Lackstein, of Montreal, scored on a 150-yard drive on the 17th hole of the second eighteen, on Saturday.

On Sunday, Ossie Carriere, of Lachute, marked his triumph at No. 2 hole of the first course, a distance of 140 yards; and Alf Shand, assistant pro of the club, scored a hole-in-one at No. 5 hole of the second eighteen, a distance of 175 yards.

Brownsburg wins inter-school track and field event

Standings in the A.T.A. track and field meet, held last Saturday at Lachute High School, were as follows:

Brownsburg High School	139 pts.
Grenville High School	135 pts.
Lachute High School	86 pts.
Morin Heights High School	40 pts.
Arundel Interm. School	5 pts.

Results (received too late for publication) will be listed in next issue, space permitting.

Fish-Hunt Assn. fishing contest

The season's first fish derby held exclusively for the members of Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association, is arranged for Sunday, June 7, at Lake Wentworth near Laurel.

Rules and regulations will follow the usual lines. A bean supper for participants will be held on the lakeshore, which will be headquarters for entries, registrations and checking-in.

To reach the spot, follow Route 31 to Pine Hill, then turn off where signs point to St. Michel. From this point, the Association will have direction markers.

Membership cards for those wishing to join the Association may be procured from Jacques Navion, Lachute. Entry fee for contestants in the fish derby is $1 additional.

Water Skiing with CLINT WARD

THE HANDLE AND THE GRIP

There are three types of water ski handles used today. The single bar, the double or split handles and the trick handle.

The single handle is usually 11 to 12 inches long and 1 inch in diameter.

Double handles are two small handles each 6 inches long. These handles are joined to the main tow-line by a 5 foot split bridle. The five foot split in the tow-line is to make it easier to take up slack during a slalom turn. This is done by splitting the hands in a horizontal direction out to the side. Slalom techniques have progressed since the days of the split slalom handles. Today most of the good skiers use a single handle for slalom and the double handles have become a rare sight.

A trick handle is a special handle used for trick skiing. The length could vary from 12 to 18 inches. A bridle for toe-hold turns is usually included. Many designs and variations exist from skier to skier.

The handles are made of wood. If you ski a lot and blisters are a problem you could try wearing light cotton gardening or working gloves. Recently handles have appeared that are made of aluminum covered by soft rubber. These are called Glad Handles and are the perfect answer for preventing blisters.

The handle can be grasped in three ways. The overhand grip, the underhand grip, and the combination grip.

The overhand grip is the most natural and therefore most skiers use it. The handle is simply grasped with both hands palm down. The hands should be as wide apart as the handle will allow.

The underhand grip has both palms facing up. It is an awkward grip for most skiers and seldom used.

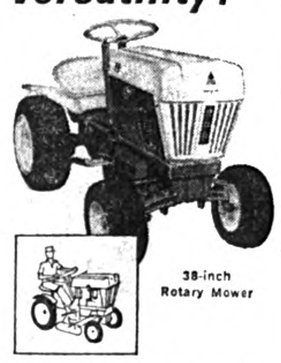

I prefer the combination grip. One hand grasps the handle palm down, the other palm up. The handle is held at an angle away from the horizontal position. With this grip greater power can be exerted as the handle can be pull ed in closer to the body.

Old and respected resident mourned by many friends

Following a lingering ailment borne with Christian endurance, Mrs. E. H. Wilson passed away at her home on the Brownsburg Road, Lachute, last Friday, May 29. She was in her 85th year.

Formerly Miss Mabel Frances Elliot, the deceased lady was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elliot, of Montreal, and became the wife of the late E. H. Wilson in 1905, when they took up residence in Lachute. Mr. Wilson predeceased her in 1943.

Two children were born of this union, E. Kilgour Wilson, who died in 1952, and James, presently residing in Montreal.

A devoted member and supporter of the United Church, the late Mrs. Wilson was an active worker in the Red Cross and other charitable organizations. She also was a good friend of the Royal Canadian Legion, and greatly enjoyed the sport of curling, in which she was an ardent player.

As a friend and townslady, Mrs. Wilson will be greatly missed by the many who knew her, for her kind and loving disposition.

Funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at Lachute United Church, conducted by the Rev. H. Thompson and the Rev. W. B. Rosborough; interment was in the Mount Royal Cemetery.

Immediate members of the family left to mourn her passing are her brother, Mr. Lindsay W. Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Wilson, of Montreal, and Mrs. E. K. Wilson, of Lachute. There are also five grandchildren surviving — Jocelyn (Mrs. W. M. C. Steeves, Lachute), Barbara (Mrs. F. A. Hungerbuhler, Morin Heights), Miss Elaine Kilgour Wilson, of Montreal, Sandra (Mrs. Robert S. McGowan, Leicester, Eng.) and Linda (Mrs. David E. Tremble, Toronto), and five great-grandchildren.

The late Mrs. E. H. Wilson

Honorary pall-bearers were Messrs. F. A. Brennian, C. E. Richardson, Dr. W. M. Hooper, Donald M. Hay, R. A. Giles and A. Taylor (in absentia).

bobbins and shuttles. In 1920, the company moved to a new site south of Chatham Street, where they began to make wood veneers, and during the war they made blades for Mosquito aircraft. In 1954, the company moved their plant making shuttles and telegraph cross-arms, to the old stone mill at St. Andrews, and concentrated on making wood veneers at Lachute. In 1957 a large extension was built, and the company became Dominion Ayers Wood Products.

C-I-L, Brownsburg

The explosives industry at Brownsburg began in 1875 when Dan Smith purchased the old Brown mills from Alexander McGibbon and began to make gunpowder, but in 1882 he sold the mill and it was closed down. Operations began again in 1885 when Gat Howard persuaded the Government that explosives should be made in Canada. In 1910, there was a merger of several companies to form Canadian Explosives Limited and the company then grew rapidly, particularly during the wars, when in 1943 they employed more than 4,000 hands.

Manufacture of Refractories

The lecturer finally gave a brief history of his own company, Canadian Refractories Limited, which began with the discovery of magnesite rock in the area now called Kilmar. In 1933, Canadian Refractories Limited was formed to mine the magnesite stone, which was converted by heat into magnesia. In 1951, the company merged with Harbison-Walker Refractories Company of Pittsburgh and the new Marelan plant for making brick was built on Highway 8 in 1953. Today, the company, employing some 450 people, has its modern brick-making plant at Marelan and its mine and dead burning plant at Kilmar.

As a souvenir of the occasion, small paper weights made of magnesia were distributed to the interested audience.

At this meeting 16 members of the St. Laurent-Town of Mount Royal Rotary Club were guests, to enjoy a free meal and visit the Brownsburg-Lachute Club. The free meal was won by the visitors in an attendance contest held earlier in the year between the two clubs, and each of the visitors was given gifts by the courtesy of local industries. In turn the visiting Rotarians presented the local club with a pair of men's shorts, two ladies' hats, and a cheese; these items were raffled off to local members.

Union authorized for workers of Coca-Cola, Que.

The Labor Relations Board of the Province of Quebec granted a certificate of recognition last week to Local 327 of the "International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink, and Distillery Workers of America" (F.T.Q., C.T.C.) to represent all Coca-Cola Limited employees, whether indoor or outdoor workers (except those excluded in the Act) at the Quebec plant, 2465 1st Avenue, Quebec City.

The decision was granted following a secret ballot held May 13 before the Labor Relations Board — at which 116 voters favored the Union, 24 were opposed, and 2 were neutral, out of 142 eligible to vote.

The Union will shortly submit to Coca-Cola Ltd. of Quebec a collective labor agreement on behalf of the new group.

Roland Goedike is the Union representative, and the secretary is A. Dagort, 1654 Mount Royal Ave. E., (Room 3), Montreal 34.

Country Notebook

Haylage is the name given to low moisture grass silage. It is attracting a lot of attention these days as a way to beat the weather hazard in early haying. It has advantages over grass silage; it smells much better, it doesn't freeze into solid lumps, and, being lower in moisture, the cows take in more nutrients.

Here is a round-up of guide lines to making haylage from several sources; no one has all the answers yet.

1. Store only in tight, upright silos. A paste of linseed meal can be used to seal the doors. Losses are somewhat less in a gas-tight silo, but conventional silos are satisfactory. Don't use a trench silo or stack; it's too risky.

2. Use only immature forages — alfalfa in late bud or first bloom, timothy heads emerging from the boot. Crops high in legumes are safest for first-timers. Never try to use mature forage.

3. Condition within 20 minutes of cutting.

4. Wilt to 50% moisture. Ideal is 40% to 50%, but stay on the high side for the first time over. Crops cut at 80% moisture should be down to 50% in 5 or 6 hours, in good drying weather. If no moisture tester is available, check with "grab" test. Squeeze a double handful of chopped forage into a ball for one minute, then release. If ball falls apart readily, moisture is below 60%.

5. Chop as short as possible. This is very important. Set sharp knives close to the shear bar for a ¼" to ½" cut.

6. Fill the silo fast. Allow no delays longer than 12 to 18 hours before sealing. Don't leave the forage on a wagon overnight.

7. Use mechanical distributor in silo. Next best thing is to let a cone build up and level occasionally.

8. Cap silo with a plug (2 or 3 feet) of high moisture, direct cut material. Then seal with a plastic or rubber sheet. Weigh down with any wet, heavy material.

9. Unload the silo at 6 inches per day to prevent spoilage.

Haylage has been weighed in a 14' x 35' silo at 26 lbs. per cubic foot, containing 13.5 lbs. dry matter. The crop, then, takes up less room in the silo as haylage. On the basis of these figures, a cow full-fed on haylage for 200 days would need 1¼ feet of silo.

Some people feel that haylage is the long-sought break through for a satisfactory way to handle forages. One drawback is the amount of equipment it takes.

Wafering is another possibility that is still experimental. Machinery companies are investing a lot in research. So far, the conditions required for making satisfactory wafers are too exacting for practical use. And the machines cost a small fortune.

The International Harvester people have turned out an excellent brochure on haylage. Your dealer can probably get you one, or you can write directly to their headquarters at 180 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 1, Illinois. We have a few copies here at the Extension Department, Macdonald College.

If you are already making haylage, I would be very pleased to see how you do it.

I didn't realize that apple growing was such a large industry in the province. Twenty-five thousand producers gross annually close to 5 million dollars.

I was talking to a grower the other day who spent $3,200 last year on spray materials for his 70 acres of orchard; that works out at 14 cents a bushel for spray material alone. If someone could produce a scab-resistant, worm-resistant, blight-resistant eatable apple, his name would go down in history.

Stories about slatted floors for cattle have come in from two sources this week. "Scottish Agriculture" reports the results of a trial where they were used in connection with a free stall system for dairy cows, or as they call it, cubicles.

The central passageway only was slatted. The reinforced concrete slats were ten feet long. The top surface measures 5 inches across, the bottom surface 3 inches, and they have a depth of 6½ inches. The width between slats is 1½ inches.

The report from Illinois had surprising similarities. In this case, it was for feeder cattle, in free housing. The distance between the slats was 1¼".

In both cases, the slurry tanks underneath were emptied at 2 to 4 month intervals, and the manure hauled to fields with a liquid spreader.

Hotel raids bring charges against 56 proprietors

Thirty-odd members of the Quebec Provincial Police Liquor Squad made several raids upon County hotels over the week-end, surprising the owners of one establishment by raiding his premises twice during the same day.

Eighteen persons under age were found in one establishment alone, and three were found in the first raid on the other hotel. Investigations resulted in a total of 66 charges laid against 56 hotel proprietors in the County. The charges range from selling to minors, illegal sale of liquor on Sunday, being open after hours, and selling beer for home consumption without having a grocery license.

Barbershoppers receive license

Monday evening, May 25, was a somewhat special occasion for the local Barbershoppers. Approximately 25 members attended, and entertained their ladies, to give them an idea of just what happens every Monday evening — and their response was both encouraging and very gratifying.

Bud Finlayson (Lakeshore), vice-president of the Northeastern District, was on hand to present the local group with their license to sing. He spoke briefly on Barbershopping, and was greatly impressed with the progress of the local enthusiasts since his previous visit. He stated that 35 members are required to form a Chapter, and this is expected to be accomplished by the Lachute Branch before the autumn season. At this time they will be entering competition with their own chorus and quartets.

Clayton Robinson happily received the license on behalf of the members, and replied with fitting remarks.

Gerry Robinson, secretary of the Montreal Chapter, was also in attendance for this event.

Morin Hts. store robbed of $10,000 cash and goods

Members of the Provincial Police detachment here are investigating a $10,000 robbery from the store of Aimé Vaillancourt, Morin Heights, which took place on the night of Thursday to Friday last week. Entry to the building was gained by breaking in the rear door, and an estimated $5,000 in cash was stolen from the safe, which was broken into. Merchandise, consisting mainly of radios and electrical appliances estimated at an additional $5,000, was also reported missing.

The robbery is believed to have taken place around 2.30 a.m., and police are following leads at the present, although no arrests have been made.

Arundel

We are pleased to welcome to our community for the next three months Capt. and Mrs. Buckle, who will occupy the Jack Boyd home. Capt. Buckle will be in charge of the Grace Church services during the summer.

Week-end guests at Mrs. Alvin Graham's were Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller, of Ottawa.

Bishop of Montreal Held Confirmation

On Tuesday evening, May 26, a large congregation attended the confirmation ceremony at Grace Anglican Church. The Rt. Rev. Kenneth McGuire, Lord Bishop of Montreal, conferred the rite upon eight candidates, and at the close of the ceremony administered Holy Communion to the newly confirmed candidates and the general congregation. The Rev. W. C. LeCras and the Rev. C. R. Lang of Lachute assisted. Capt. Buckle, the incumbent minister for the next six months, also took part, and the United Church choir were invited to lead the hymns.

After the service Dr. and Mrs. Cyril Flanagan invited the congregation to their home, where tea was served.

Brownie Rally

A Brownie "revel" under the leadership of Brown Owl Mrs. Wm. Owen and Tawny Owl Mrs. Harold Gordon, was held at St. Eustache on Saturday, May 23. Ten Brownies from Arundel attended. The revel was held in the baseball field, and there were many Brownies from district packs in attendance. A successful and happy day was reported.

Scouts' and Guides' Service

The Sunday morning service in Arundel United Church was attended by local Girl Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs. A parade was formed in the school grounds, headed by Pipers Miller and Gilbert Young. Girl Guide Leaders Mrs. D. McCarty and Mrs. W. McMahon, Scout Leader D. McCarty, Cub Leaders Mrs. M. Graham, Mrs. E. Gray and Mrs. W. Swail, led their respective groups.

The service was conducted by Mr. McDonald, acting minister, who dedicated the new flag of the Girl Guides, and then presented it to the flag-bearer, Elizabeth Owen. The national anthem was then sung, after which the Guides rendered their "World Song" and "Law Song". A dedication prayer was said, and a hymn brought the service to a close.

The collection was taken by Guides Earline Gray and Bonnie Lee Swail.

Friends were pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Bennett and family occupying their cottage and to note Mr. Bennett is convalescing well after a painful accident which confined him to hospital for some time.

Glen of Harrington

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dewar and daughter, of Ottawa, spent the week-end at their cottage at Macdonald Lake, and had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kay also of Ottawa.

W.A. Meeting

The W.A. of St. John the Divine met at Mrs. E. Tomalty's on Thursday last for their May meeting. Quilting occupied the afternoon, with a break to hold a short business meeting. A delicious supper was served by the hostess, and thanks were extended to Mrs. Tomalty for her hospitality. The W.A. members are grateful to Miss M. Burns and Mrs. Tomalty, who have made it possible for the W.A. to have this lovely quilt.

Mrs. T. A. Parker has returned to The Glen after a pleasant winter spent with her daughters and their families at Vancouver North and San Diego, Calif. Travelling by jet plane, Mrs. Parker reports a very comfortable trip.

Summer Services

At church service last Sunday it was announced by Capt. Buckle that there would be service each Sunday for the summer months — Sunday next at 7.30 p.m., and each alternate Sunday at 2.30 p.m. Mrs. Buckle will be organist at these services.

Men wanted — to 'bend a chord' in harmony style

"Wanted — Men of good character who like to sing, and spread harmony and good cheer in our community.".

Yes men, we meet every Monday night at La Lorraine Motel, Lachute, at 7.30 o'clock.

You will be welcomed there by the best bunch of fellows you can meet, any time you choose to come.

Remember, you don't have to be able to read music to join. We welcome all good citizens who simply like to bend a chord in Barbershop style. The Society has nothing to sell except fun and fellowship. "You get more fun out of life" as a Barbershopper.

Men of good character, one and all
Come see us, join us, have a ball!
We are waiting to see you in our hall

Report on May activities in W.I. County branches

Arundel Women's Institute reports a blind auction of miscellaneous items, a successful card party held, and plans made for a bazaar in July.

Brownsburg branch discussed plans to cater for the Brownsburg High School graduation, also a bus trip to Ottawa Horticultural Exhibition. A demonstration of flower arrangement and auction of slips and bulbs was held, and arrangements made for a coffee party and bake sale in aid of sick funds.

Frontier members went on a conducted tour of the Carillon dam and power house. They also held a hat making contest, and made arrangements for a casserole supper.

Jerusalem-Bethany branch visited an antique home, made a quilt for sale, and made plans to cater for a wedding.

Lakefield members exchanged plants, flower slips and bulbs. A report was given on the County Convention, and a house-cleaning contest held.

Mille Isles branch was visited by the County president. An article was read by the Agriculture convener on annual flowers; $10 was donated to Morin Heights High School for prizes.

Morin Heights entertained 22 grandmothers of the community. Slides were shown on "Life in the Far North" by a guest who had lived there for several years. At was arranged to make Christmas stockings for "Save the Children Fund".

Upper Lachute - East End ladies heard a report on the County Convention. A life-membership pin was presented to a charter member. The Home Economics convener passed pamphlets and discussed exhibits for the Lachute Fair. The members viewed a quilt which had just been completed.

Pioneer branch held a sale of plants, slips and bulbs. A film was shown, and tickets sold for a pieced quilt made by members. One new member was welcomed.

Arg. Duplicate Bridge Club — officers for '64-65

The Argenteuil Duplicate Bridge Club has now been functioning for three years, games being played weekly, on Monday evenings either in Brownsburg or Lachute. Through the courtesy of the two Legion branches, their halls have been made available for free use of the club. The membership is now 55, and the proceeds are in aid of the Retarded Children's Association.

The following is the slate of officers for the year 1964-65:

Directors, Mr. Gordon Davidson, Mr. Denis Seary
President, Mr. R. Gagné
Vice-president, Mr. S. Seary
Secretary, Mrs. B. Fillingham
Treasurer, Mrs. R. Rogers
Publicity, Mrs. J. F. Gorman
Membership, Mrs. G. H. Rigby, Mrs. H. Filfe, Mrs. L. T. Porter.

Winners for the evening of May 25 were as follows — North and South, Mrs. M. Scott, Mrs. D. Heggie; East and West, Mr. T. Gagné, Mr. L. Lamoureux.

At the Lachute Legion Hall on June 9, at 6.15 p.m., the club is being entertained for dinner and bridge by the Women's Auxiliary of the Retarded Children's Association. Tickets for this event may be had for $1.50, and anyone interested is most welcome to attend.

Jehovah's Witnesses

GOOD NEWS OF THE KINGDOM

This good news of God's kingdom shall be preached in all the inhabited earth for a witness to all the nations; and then the end will come. . .

During June, Jehovah's Witnesses will continue to share unitedly in the ministry, so co-operating together to maintain their spiritual maturity. As they do so they will be aiding others to acquire the Scriptural knowledge they need in order to serve God. This they will do by offering the modern-English NEW WORLD TRANSLATION OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, with a free Bible-study booklet, on a contribution of $1. To those who read Dutch, French, German, Italian, Portuguese or Spanish, they will offer this book for just 50c. Ask any one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may meet, anywhere.

Ballet students gave creditable performance

Around 50 ballet students, ranging in age from two and a half to 17 years, performed Saturday evening, May 23, at L'Ecole Supérieure. This marks the sixth recital in the seven years since the opening of the Argenteuil School of Ballet in 1957.

Those responsible for this event were the directress, Mrs. E. F. Gow, Miss Lucille DuBreuil; and the pianist, Mme L. Cauchon.

Theme of the first half of the program was "The Blue Birds", demonstrated to a delighted audience by 11 pre-schoolers. The good-humored discipline and coordination of these happy tots impressed the onlookers.

The intermediate class gave their attention to ballet technique performed "en pointe", in which many steps were improvised by the students themselves, with the aim of developing creative talent in the pupils.

"Toy Maker" was the theme of the next group, and interpretations of various dolls and toys showed great promise in all the students participating.

The senior class performed a fantasy portrait of an Art Gallery, with the dancers each in turn stepping out of the beautifully designed frames to become a living, dancing subject "en pointe". The two spectators visiting the gallery showed their skill in dance, mime and poise.

Mrs. E. F. Gow, Miss Lucille DuBreuil and Mrs. L. Cauchon deserve much credit for a very enjoyable evening.

Brownies become Girl Guides

New bell from England, gift to St. Paul's, Dunany

Dunany — St. Paul's Church has received the gift of a beautiful new church bell (note G-sharp) cast by John Taylor & Co. It arrived on the S.S. Para of the Cunard Line, from Loughborough, England, and was used for the first time on Sunday last.

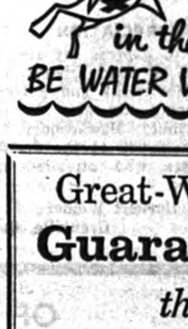

The bell was presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Straessle, of Boyd's Lake, Dunany. The rector and congregation are deeply grateful for this gift.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

Our constitutional set-up

A LOT OF Canadians must be embarrassed when they realize that, 97 years after Confederation, we must still look to London when whe want to make certain amendments to our constitution.

We cannot help but be reminded from time to time that we're not as politically independent as many of us would like to think. The latest evidence is the federal government's plan to ask the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the British North America Act so that our proposed contributory old age pension plan can be put into operation.

Specifically, the amendment will permit survivors of a pension-plan contributor to receive benefits after his death. Since this is a matter of inheritance and comes under the heading of "property and civil rights," it is reserved to the provinces under the BNA Act. And before the federal government can insert this provision into the federal pension legislation, it must obtain an amendment to the act.

It's true that the federal government can legislate in fields that are its exclusive preserve under the BNA Act, and provinces can do the same in areas that don't involve federal rights. But when one government wants to pass legislation in a field that is the constitutional responsibilty of another, it must have the BNA Act amended. And since the act is a statute of the British Parliament, that's where the amendment must be passed. . . As in previous instances, the British Parliament will probably pass the requested amendment without even debating it. For, having to deal with such legislation is apparently an embarrassment to British lawmakers as well as Canadians.

There have been efforts made from time to time to reach agreement on a formula for giving Canadians final responsibility for their constitution. The most recent attempt was in 1960 when negotiations broke down after Saskatchewan objected to what it described as an arrangement that would give Quebec virtual veto powers in some areas.

A new effort is likely to be made within the next couple of years. But perhaps the best way to ensure action is a proposal by Sir A. P. Herbert, author and playwright, who wrote in the Times of London several years ago: "On July 1, 1967, Canada will be celebrating her centennial year. We might well give notice now that on that day we propose to tear the act from our statute book."

A country big, wide, wonderful

WHEN IT'S A question of encouraging tourists to stay in (or come to) Canada, nothing, it seems, succeeds as well as a discounted dollar.

In 1963, the first full year since revaluation, Canada's receipts from tourism jumped seven percent, while expenditures by travelling Canadians abroad fell by three percent. Result: A credit balance for Canada on tourist account of $13 million, the first such credit since 1950.

U.S. tourists, predictably, spent more in Canada than ever before, an increase of seven percent to $549 million. Spending by Canadians who went south last year, on the other hand, totalled $392 million, down six percent.

This handsome balance in our tourist transactions with the U.S. of $157 million in our favor was more than enough to cover a record $144 million debit balance incurred by Canadians visiting countries other than the United States.

With jet travel within the reach of a growing number of people, and bearing in mind the more than two million New Canadians who have come to Canada from Britain and Europe since 1945, a continuing increase in the number of Canadians returning to their former homelands for a visit is to be expected.

Europeans are not yet so well off that they can afford to return the compliment and vacation in Canada on the same scale, but the number of those who can is increasing and will probably continue to do so.

That there are literally millions who would love to, is beyond doubt. And why not? As one visiting Dutchman put it recently: "Your country is so big, so wide and so wonderful in its spaciousness and the range of its scenery, that I am sure I could come here for a holiday every year for the rest of my life and still not see everything worth seeing.".

That kind of enthusiasm could be contagious and cause a lot of Canadians to realize just what they are missing.

Springtime is beautiful, but —

ALTHOUGH most people are aware of the slogan, "Slow down and live", very few people pay much attention to the menace which is caused by the counterpart of the speeding driver, the "too slow driver". Everyone has observed, at some time, the line of cars following along behind the driver who is out sightseeing. As the length of the line increases, a driver who might otherwise be very careful, takes a chance in order to pass the dawdler. The next day's newspaper often records the tragedy which results.

If a highway is rated at 50 or 60 miles an hour, drive at that speed in safe, normal weather; a little under the maximum after dark, or under difficult conditions. If you want to enjoy the beauty of the Canadian landscape, use the secondary roads. More often than not you will find that the secondary road is more scenic than the main highway, and considerably safer.

So much for freer trade

BRITAIN HAS lowered the boom on cotton imports. In future, all imports of cotton textiles into Britain will have to be covered by specific licenses except in the case of shipments from countries with which the U.K. already has quota agreements.

Imposition of the new controls stems from the "vulnerability" of the British textile market as well as from the growing tendency for textile exports from countries with which England has no quota agreements to expand rapidly.

In effect, the new rules give the government absolute control of the cotton textile market in Britain, since the non-quota flow of cotton textiles into the market can now be controlled and regulated.

Britain, clearly, has come to the conclusion that the essential interests of her domestic cotton textile industry can no longer be allowed to be subjected to the vagaries of the ebb and flow of the international trade in textiles. And she has taken positive steps to bring some order out of the present market chaos, whether the non-quota textile exporters like it or not.

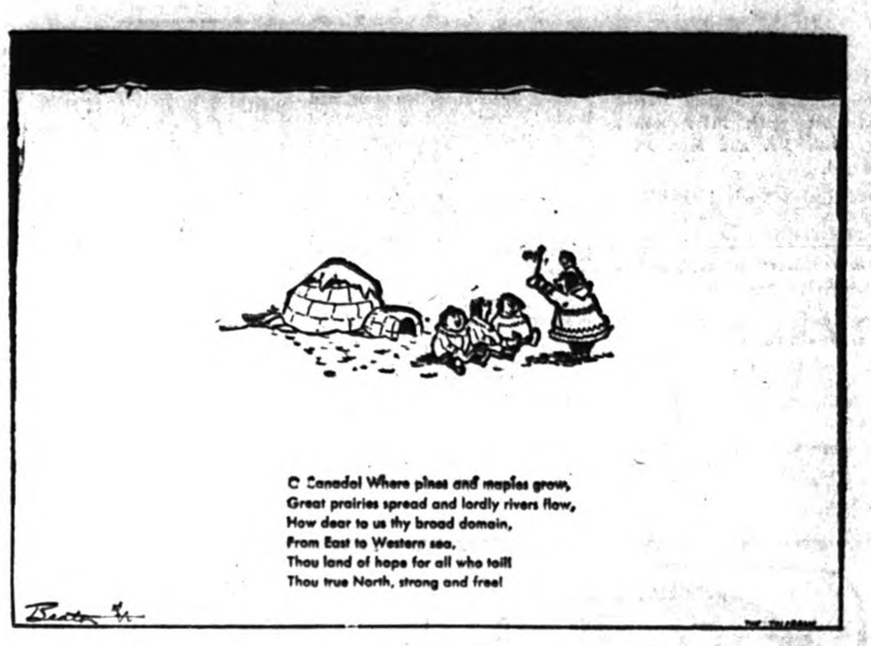

In light of these events, perhaps the Canadian government might be well advised to re-appraise its own market philosophy in respect to textiles. This market, too, is vulnerable, and it has been hard hit by increasing imports, both under quota agreements and outside of them. Similar measures designed to provide absolute control of the domestic textile market could bring much needed encouragement to the Canadian textile industry and with it, expanding domestic job opportunities.

New Canadians

IMMIGRATION Minister Rene Tremblay is a minister who apparently believes in immigration — says the Fort Erie Letter-Review. An immigration department that does not believe in immigration should be a department staffed solely by native Indians or Eskimos. These two races got here first. Mr. Tremblay noted that in the last 14 years new Canadians have established themselves as independent business men and have paid more than $144,000,000 for their various enterprises. Most of the capital they brought with them. These immigrant enterprises, explains Mr. Tremblay, have provided employment for about 52,000 persons. It also is noted that 5,900 doctors and 18,000 graduate nurses in Canada are people who were not born in Canada. There is a shortage of doctors and of nurses.

SUGAR AND SPICE

A Shovel For Symbol?

By BILL SMILEY

Bill Smiley

I don't know how you feel about it, but that "distinctive" Canadian flag with the three spindly maple leaves on it makes me want to throw up. I'd like to see somebody ask you to go out and fight and die for it.

No, I'm not a Red Ensign boy. The Red Ensign was a makeshift, at best. It is too confused with colonialism and the merchant marine and the Union Jack ever to be accepted. If we MUST have a Canadian flag, which I deny violently.

By the way, I think the Canadian Legion has had some pretty shoddy treatment from the daily press because of its espousal of the Ensign, and it's less-than-enthusiastic reception of the Prime Minister, at the Winnipeg convention.

What's wrong with an organization standing up for something it believes in? Everybody else does it, from hog producers to folk singers. But the Legion was suddenly made the butt of a vicious and slanted attack in certain dailies.

The men who did the dirty work in two wars were suddenly catalogued as a group of reactionaries, or as one daily put it, a "bunch of old soldiers," trying to tell the rest of Canada what flag it should have.

This canard was climaxed by a brutal cartoon by Duncan MacPherson in the Toronto Star, portraying the Legionnaire as a bleary-eyed, beery-nosed old blimp, clinging to the past. Even the Star was embarrassed by the cartoonist's lack of taste.

But this isn't a defense of the Legion. It can look after itself. It has a minority of old boozers. So does the yacht club and the curling club and the service club and the press club.

Before I finish this digression, let me ask a question. What's wrong with booing the Prime Minister? It may be impolite, but it's a heck of a lot better than assassinating him, and I know he'd rather be booed than defeated in office.

At the same time, let me express my admiration for Mr. Pearson's courage in attacking this flag fiasco, and doing it in front of a body opposed to his views. None of his three predecessors had the guts to do it.

But to get back to what I originally started to say, let's get everybody sore at me and get it over with. The whole business of flags is a medieval hangover, with juvenile overtones.

Men used to rally around flags, in the days of hand-to-hand combat because thy were trying to find somebody else who was on their side.

War evolved (or degenerated, if you like) until the stretcher-bearer became a lot more heroic than the standard-bearer.

If you want a bit of gay bunting, by all means go to it. Hang up a rosy apple for the Okanagan Valley, or a lobster for southeast Nova Scotia, or a rampant oil well for Calgary, and enjoy it. But a Canadian flag is an anachronism, in the first place. And in the second place, the maple leaf, to me and many another Canadian, is just a dang nuisance that clutters up my lawn in October.

The only possible symbol that would represent the whole of Canada is a snow shovel.

It's Money Well Spent

By RAY ARGYLE

R. Argyle

Thousands of mainland Canadians are discovering Prince Edward Island this year. The Island — as residents call it — is setting the stage for the 1967 Centennial by marking this year the 100th anniversary of the Confederation Conference of 1864. I flew there last week to see what was afoot.

It is a stirring emotional experience to stand in the room in which John A. Macdonald and other delegates from Canada presented to Maritime representative their proposal for a Confederation of all the British colonies of North America.

The Canadians hadn't been invited to the conference, as we all should remember from our history books. The Maritimers were meeting to talk about an Atlantic union, but it took little persuasion to bend the Charlottetown Conference in favor of a union from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes.

The delegates adjourned to meet a few weeks later in Quebec City when final resolutions were approved for the British North America Act which on its passage by the British parliament brought Canada into existence on July 1, 1867.

To commemorate the first conference, an imposing Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building has been erected in Charlottetown at a cost of five and one-half million dollars. It includes a modern 1,200-seat theatre, are gallery, archives and meeting halls. It sits next to the old Provincial Buildings, where the deeply-rutted concrete steps leading into the building and the original conference room bear testimony to the thousands of feet which have trod in the footsteps of the Fathers of Confederation in the past century.

The Memorial Building is basically a cultural centre and it was opened with the Dominion Drama Festival at which amateur play groups from all parts of the country performed.

Because Prince Edward Island has a population of only 105,000 with little industry other than farming and fishing, the cost was shared by all ten provincial governments and Ottawa. As a result, every Canadian has a 30 cent share in the structure.

It might be wondered why such an elaborate building should be erected in isolated Prince Edward Island. To me, it is a sign of Canada's coming of age — that we at last feel strongly enough about our heritage and our cultural values to sink hard cash into this kind of a project.

The Island draws thousands of tourists each year, and I predict it will draw many more in the future. For those who haven't been there, I can only say it's an emerald island, mainly pastoral, but with beautiful beaches, warm ocean water, rich red soil, striking green meadows and interesting towns. Charlottetown, the capital, has only 18,000 people and the other main town, Summerside, has less than 9,000.

Politically, the Island is worried about the tendency of the richer provinces to assert greater autonomy in fiscal affairs. Its Conservative premier, the vigorous 75-year-old Walter Shaw, is worried that the Island will lose out on federal assistance. This is a fear shared by many provincial premiers who are unsure of where the path of Ottawa's new "co-operative federalism" will lead Canada.

Winter Works program achieved a record success

Hon. Allan J. MacEachen, Minister of Labor, reports that he past winter's Municipal Winter Works Incentive Program was the most successful since the plan was introduced six years ago. The program covered only a six months period from November 1, 1963, to April 30, 1964, so as to ensure a maximum contribution to creative employment only in the winter months. As a result, more jobs were provided under the program than in previous years, when it was of longer duration.

Mr. MacEachen said the program provided on-site jobs for 163,563 men — 12.7 percent more than the previous year. These jobs created a total of 6,790,603 man-days of work. Last year's totals, which had been the highest to date, were 145,025 men and 6,164,298 man-days of work.

In addition to the jobs provided on-site, it is estimated that at least an equal number of jobs were created off site, in industries which manufacture, sell and transport the materials used on these projects.

Under this year's program 7,306 projects were approved by Provincial Governments and accepted by the Federal Government. The estimated expenditure on these projects during the period of the program was $227,579,000 of which $97,608,000 was direct payroll costs.

DISTRICT NEWS

— FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS —

Avoca

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Doherty have returned to their home here for the summer months, and have opened their store and restaurant for business. Friends welcome them back.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ball, Miss Maureen Ball, and Miss Nancy MacLeod, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie MacLeod — Mrs. MacLeod having celebrated a birthday on Friday.

A double "stag" party was held at the home of Mr. Tom Kelly on Saturday evening for Mr. Jerry Smith and Mr. Guy Kelly. These two young gentlemen are being married in the near future.

We are pleased to welcome home the Rev. H. Hill, who has been in hospital in Montreal for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Annie Bennett, who has been living in Grenville for the past few months, has been moved to the Hawkesbury Nursing Home.

Mrs. Willie Arthurs with her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Hand, entertained at a bridal shower at her home on Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Carol Ann Bates.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kelly. Miss Gloria Jackson, of Lachute, was also a guest.

In Car Mishap

Friends and relatives of Mr. Hugh Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, Hawkesbury, were sorry to learn of his unfortunate car accident Saturday evening. Taken to the Montreal Neurological Hospital, he underwent surery for a serious back injury. Best wishes are extended from all, for his speedy recovery.

Miss Carol Ann Bates, who has resigned her duties in the Royal Bank, Ottawa, is on a three-weeks vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bates, prior to her marriage on June 20.

Miss Judy Lynn Smith, having completed her first year in the Macdonald College teaching course, is at present doing supply teaching in Grenville Consolidated School.

Mrs. Bob Dobbie, Mrs. John Prophet and Mrs. Bunny Bates were among the many ladies who attended a bridal shower in honor of Miss Karen Thomas, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Ellis, Grenville, on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Elmer Andrews spent Thursday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dobbie in Harrington.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Provencal were Mr. and Mrs. David Simpson and Mr. Wendell Mountain, of Montreal, Miss Linda Young, of Brownsburg, Miss Maria Young, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacMahon and Iva, and little granddaughter Lynn Meyers, also Miss Nancy Vaillancourt.

A meeting of the Board of Stewards of Avoca United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Young on Thursday evening.

Get-well wishes from this community are extended to Llewellyn Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bates, who is in the Smith Clinic after having suffered painful injuries when kicked by a horse at his home on Tuesday evening; and to Mr. Reg Campbell, a patient in the Argenteuil Hospital, Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Andrews, from Ottawa, attended the cemetery meeting here Friday evening, and spent the week-end at their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dobbie visited Mrs. Gordon Dobbie and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Campbell in Lachute on Sunday.

Visitors during the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Andrews were — Mr. and Mrs. Noel Cormier and Mr. Claude Andrews, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. MacDonald and family, of Vankleek Hill, and Mr. B. Provencal, of Grenville.

Cushing

Mrs. George Drew, of Verdun, was an overnight guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning, last Friday.

Scapegoats are blamed

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

How often if there's a children's quarrel in your area do you look for a "scapegoat" and heap all the blame on him?

Individuals, and nations, too, have been doing this for a long time.

Hitler, when Germany was going through a difficult period, picked out the Jews. He accused them of being the reason for the nation's trials and his treatment of the Jewish race was horrible beyond description.

But quite ordinary folk who loath dictatorships are sometimes tempted to follow Hitler's example.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will feel more comfortable if they are assured that it is the child down the street and not their son who has broken the windows in the empty apartment house. They want to be able to point the finger of scorn at someone else. They say, "Let us get this trouble settled quickly so we can forget about it."

Some parents don't even pause to inquire "Who is to blame?" They either immediately jump to the conclusion that their youngster is completely innocent and begin building up a case against the other children involved in the incident, or they take the opposite line — at once pounce on their child as the guilty one.

Punishment is promptly administered and they feel that at least they are not "sparing the rod and spoiling the child".

But what about the reaction of the boy or girl? Children have a high regard for justice. If they know they are partly to blame, and mother keeps on insisting that it certainly was not their fault, they are apt to feel confused or guilty.

If they are punished severely (or even lightly) when they were in the right, their resentment is fierce.

"Mother didn't even give me a chance to tell my side of the story," they mutter to themselves. "Next time I'll do as I like, if I'm going to catch it from her, even when I'm not to blame."

The parent's role as judge will be easier if he gives his child a chance to explain briefly "what happened." The child who is crying should have a moment or two to calm down.

If there are two or three children in the family who are implicated, let each describe what happened in turn, without interruption.

"How did it happen?" forces children to look back on the incident and try to discover just how it came about. This is a good question, because, as they get older, they will recognize that usually no one person is to blame for a mishap. Likely, several people share the responsibility for initiating a wrong course.

"What can be done about it?" guides the child into thinking of ways to repair the damage he had a finger in. If his quarrel has been with another child, he chooses some way to repair the strained relationship.

Instead of searching for a scapegoat when there is trouble, encourage your child to recall what happened, ponder over the causes and make a wise decision about what can be done about the mistake.

The ability to look objectively at a situation and the willingness to accept the consequences of one's actions are vital in growing up. Do all you can to help your child to mature in these ways. Then, when he is grown, he won't be searching for a scapegoat to blame when there is trouble.

Fillets fit for spring mood

Spring brings an abundance of fresh fish to market, as well as a variety of table delicacies from local gardens. It would be an insensitive cook indeed who did not respond to the temptations of the season by creating meals that put spring on the table.

Spring Fillet Bake is a dish which does just that. It consists of tender fish fillets rolled about freshly cooked asparagus, baked, and served with lemony sauce. Developed by the Consumer Branch of the Department of Fisheries of Canada, it will do honor to the gayest feast, yet is not too difficult or expensive for a family meal.

Spring Fillet Bake

2 Pounds haddock, sole, or other fish fillets, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 pound fresh asparagus (cooked), ¼ cup melted butter or other fat, lemon-butter sauce, 2 tablespoons slivered, toasted almonds.

Sprinkle fillets on both sides with salt and pepper. If large, cut into strips 6 or 7 inches by 2 inches. Place several spears of asparagus on each fillet strip, then roll strip around them. Place rolls, seam side down, in a shallow, greased baking pan. Spoon melted butter over fish and asparagus. Bake in a hot oven, 450°F., for about 15 minutes, or until fillets have become milky white and will flake if tested with a fork. Remove to a heated platter. Top with Lemon-Butter Sauce and sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Lemon-Butter Sauce

¼ Cup (¼ pound) butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¾ cup hot water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Melt butter and blend in cornstarch. Stir in hot water, lemon juice, and salt. Bring to simmering temperature, stirring constantly. Cook until smoothly thickened and there is no taste of raw starch. Serve hot.

Carol Lane, car travel advisor, to speak at Brownsburg Women's Inst., Friday eve

Miss Carol Lane, well-known authority on automobile travel, will address Brownsburg Women's Institute at their meeting on June 5, at 8 p.m. in the Brownsburg High School. The public are invited.

Miss Lane, Women's Travel Director for Shell Canada Limited, will discuss her ideas on how to make car travel a relaxing, carefree and rewarding experience for the whole family.

What clothes to take on a vacation always poses a problem for any woman. But Miss Lane has a practical answer — a color co-ordinated wardrobe that gives a woman a broad selection of outfits yet requires a minimum of luggage. One of the highlights of her presentation is a demonstration of how to pack a carefully selected but complete two-week wardrobe and all the miscellaneous requirements in a 24-inch suitcase.

Along with her helpful hints on travel by car, Miss Lane will explain how women's groups can participate in the Women's Safety Awards program. The provincial winner of this project is eligible to compete for the national Carol Lane Safety Awards.

Information on pollen areas

Anyone suffering from one of the "hay fever" type of allergies should try to avoid the localities where there is much ragweed or other air-borne pollens. A vacation can be spoiled by attacks of this ailment. There are areas in Canada that are quite free or almost free of the ragweed, where the sufferer may look forward to relief from his trouble. Much research has been done by federal and provincial departments on ragweed incidence in various parts of Canada, and the information is available in a free service, upon request to the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa, Canada.

United Church minister (born here) and his wife, are 50 years married

The Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Cooke, of Seeley's Bay, Ont., are celebrating their 50th anniversary today, June 3 — according to The Gananoque Reporter. They were married by the late Rev. G. A. Christie, a cousin of Mrs. Cooke, in Ottawa on June 3, 1914.

Mr. Cooke is a son of the late Reuben Cooke and Mary Loynachan, and was born here in the County of Argenteuil. Mrs. Cooke was born in Stormont, Ontario.

Mr. Cooke was ordained to the ministry in 1908 at Ottawa, preaching in the Methodist and later the United Church. The Rev. and Mrs. Cooke served for 11 years in the Seeley's Bay and eight years in the Lansdowne charge, both in the Kingston presbytery; eight years in Beachburg, and Forester's Falls, in Renfrew presbytery; and three and one half years in Selby and Empey Hill, in Belleville presbytery. They retired from active work in 1953, and took up residence at Seeley's Bay.

Their three children are Mrs. Harold S. Bracken, of Seeley's Bay; Miss Velma L. Cooke, of Kingston; and Selwyn F. Cooke, of Toronto. There are six grandchildren.

During his active church ministry Mr. Cooke served on several committees of Presbytery and Conference; was secretary of the Pastoral Relations Committee of Kingston Presbytery for 12 years and served two terms on the Conference Settlement Committee. He was elected to the chair of Kingston Presbytery in 1936 and became Chairman of Renfrew Presbytery in 1949, and was a Commissioner to General Council in 1950.

A family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bracken recently, prior to Mr. and Mrs. Cooke leaving for a visit to Calgary, the Pacific Coast and Alberta, where Mr. Cooke has four brothers living.

Ormstown show has full program, opening June 10

The Ormstown exhibition, opening June 10, will attract breeders and stockmen to compete in one of the most important exhibitions of the year for agriculturalists. The 35-acre site on the outskirts of Ormstown is expected to be the scene of feverish activity as exhibitors and contestants vie for prizes.

A record number of entries has been recorded for the Horse Show. Over 230 entries are on the list for show and jumping competitions, while 81 draft horses and a number of light horses and ponies are also entered.

Thursday evening, June 11, features the "calf scramble", a local re-enactment of Seville's Festival of the Bulls, where boys aged 12 to 17 try to catch a calf weighing four to five hundred pounds, put a halter on it, then lead it out of the ring.

On Friday, there is a special exhibition of calves sponsored by the 4-H Clubs of Hemmingford, Howick, Huntingdon and Ormstown, while on Friday evening the famous cattle parade will be held at the arena.

Saturday, there will be harness racing, with a special pony show for children.

For those who enjoy a change of pace, the King Reid Shows feature 20 rides for children and the young at heart. Besides the midway attractions, there will be a ferris wheel and such rides as the "Scrambler" and the "Octopus".

The show and exhibition opens at 7 p.m. Wednesday, and at 9 a.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday; there is ample parking on the grounds.

The Girl Guides of Canada are going to celebrate Canada's centennial by holding camps which will give Guides a chance to see some of their country and to explore some of its historic sites for themselves.

This summer, on the 100th anniversary of the first meeting of the Fathers of Confederation, they will hold 12 provincial Heritage camps. For 1967 they have planned one large camp.

This year there will be a camp in each province, plus two French speaking camps, one at Lac Vert, near Three Rivers, Que., and one in Ontario.

There will be 26 girls in each camp, two chosen from each province, four from Guides Catholiques du Canada, and two Girl Scouts from the U.S. Two provinces will have a bonus of two more Guides.

Two Yukon Guides are going to the Alberta camp at the provincial campsite near Mulhurst, two from the Northwest Territories will be in Ontario at the Morrison Island camp in the St. Lawrence.

To Live History

The theme of each camp will be provincial history and geography. In Beach Grove, Conception Bay, Nfld., the girls will tour the paths taken by French explorers.

In Sackville, N.B., the camp theme will be Indian, French and English.

In Manitoba the camp will be held near historic Portage la Prairie.

The Morrison Island campers will have side trips to Upper Canada Village.

The P.E.I. camp will visit the Confederation site. The Alberta camp will have a few days at the Calgary Stampede. Another group will tour Ottawa.

Guide officials hope the camps will give the girls some insight into the history of their country.

Each camp will run from July 6 to 20, with all the Guides leaving to travel to their camps on exactly the same day.

Birthday Celebration

The 1967 National Centennial Camp will probably be attended by 2,000 girls from across Canada. It will be held on Nairne and Morrison Islands near Morrisburg, Ont., in July.

Because it will be Canada's birthday, most of the girls at that two-week camp will be Canadians.

There will be guests from other countries, though, as there usually are at large Guide camps. They will be from countries in the Guides' World Association which have contributed to Canada's culture because their people have come to live here.

Protect food for picnic meals

Canadians love picnics, and eating out is popular. But any foods for the outdoor meal should be protected from danger of food poisoning, by being carried under proper conditions. There are various forms of portable ice boxes that can be taken along in the car but the picnic food that is carried without such protection should not contain any sandwiches with moist fillings such as chicken or ham. Canned hams, meat pastes, mayonnaise can be taken along in unopened tins or jars and the sandwiches made up just before serving. Desserts with creamy fillings spoil in hot weather; fresh fruits make better and safer desserts.

"I jes' want enough for coffee and doughnuts."

It's the taste that counts

Kids don't care very much about vitamins, nutrition and the like . . . the only thing that counts for them is taste . . . and dairy foods have it! Refreshing milk, ice cream, chocolate milk, buttermilk and cream have the satisfying taste kids and adults love!

Lions vote green light to new covered rink project

Plan construction on tract adjoining exhibition ground

At the Lions Club meeting last week in La Lorraine Motel, the chair was prematurely taken over by the in-coming president (1964-65), Mozart Carriere, to discuss certain important business with which he had been entrusted, namely, plans for a new Lions' Skating Rink.

As committeeman on this venture Lion Carriere has given study to the matter for the past two months, and at this meeting, after presenting an outline of his proposals, he was given an emphatic endorsement to proceed.

An agreement was forthcoming from the Argenteuil Agricultural Society some weeks ago, to sell to the Lions Club for a sum of $1 a tract of land in the vicinity of the midway at the exhibition grounds. This area would be sufficient to accommodate a skating rink and necessary buildings for machinery, canteen and dressing rooms, besides ample parking space. A condition of the sale is that the building shall be used by the Agricultural Society at Fair time, if suitable and if required for exhibition purposes.

Lion Mozart Carriere, by vote of the members, was now given authorization to negotiate the transfer, and the club's officers to sign the deed.

At this point Mr. Carrière proceeded to outline the plans for construction. This would provide for artificial ice with refrigeration pipes embedded in cement, a steel-roof arena without side walls (at this stage), the necessary equipment and housing, etc., all of which is estimated to cost a maximum of $90,000. This estimate includes removal of the equipment from its present location, also levelling and restoring the site, and the purchase of incidentals to make the ice system complete.

The speaker then gave his tentative ideas for the financing of this costly project. A similar challenge had been accepted by the club in first establishing its community rink, and in operating it each season. Despite the larger proportions of this present plan, the 30-odd members present at this meeting, after debating all angles, felt confident that with public support the amortisation could be successfully met and paid off over the years.

Unhurried deliberation resulted in a unanimous vote of the club, to proceed with the new rink, in anticipation that it will be sufficiently advanced in construction to permit skating, hockey and a full round of youth activities this coming winter.

Chairman of the building committee is Donat Saulnier, with Bert Rigg as assistant. Chairman of the financing is Horace Lamarche, with Jos. Dumais as assistant. . . All four clubmen, whether in their business or in experience with the present Lions' Rink, are well qualified for their role; and the club, echoing the sentiments of the community at large, warmly applauded the altruism of all here mentioned as participants.

President Keith Clarke, directing the agenda of this successful meeting, bespoke the support of the club for this year's Lions' Mammoth TV Auction, to be repeated this coming October. He discussed the procedures and hitches encountered in the 1963 effort, and the steps planned to ensure a still greater success this year.

A report was given on the $1,000 drawing — the club's major fund-raising effort each year — which will terminate at the coming Lachute Spring Fair. The Lions' Night grandstand program (Friday, June 19) is in the capable hands of Jacques Bourgoing.

Lion Ossie Carriere was congratulated as the leader in ticket sales. He was further congratulated (and fined) for his hole-in-one achievement on the golf course. Hal Joyce led the customary song session and Bernard Massicotte filled the role of tail-twister.

Much ado over land acquisition for widening of Main St. curve

Certain difficulties surround what appears, at first glance, a simple procedure, namely, the widening of the Main Street curve near the old fire station.

At a previous Council meeting the aldermen voted against a price of $2,000 asked by the firm of Geo. Y. Deacon Ltd. to acquire the necessary strip of land.

At the regular sitting last week a motion by Alderman F. Charlebois to offer $1,500 for this land, was also rejected. The vote was 5-4 against.

It was thereupon agreed to proceed with the homologation of this terrain; and a notice of motion to this effect, to be presented at a subsequent meeting, was given by Ald. Laurier Carrière.

Ald. Carriere and Ald. Dr. L. A. Middleton expressed the opinion this tract was not worth the asking price. Ald. Dr. R. A. Dumais pointed out that the town would have to meet other expenses, such as rebuilding of the sidewalk, cutting down trees and re-locating the fence. It was believed that by the procedure of homologation it would be possible to prescribe a larger area.

Aldermen Carrière, Middleton, McFaul, Lepage and Pariseau voted against the motion to pay $1,500 for the land.

Further Homologation

Notice of motion was given also by Ald. Charlebois for a by-law to homologate a stretch on the west side of Mary Street, between Main and Grace Streets.

Exchange of explanations

It is recalled that the town employees (manual workers) received union recognition just recently, and through their representatives are negotiating for a work contract with the municipal corporation.

The union, United Mine Workers of America, now complains that it is experiencing difficulty in negotiating with the Council, and also deplores the laying-off of certain workers for their union activity. . . Council, at its meeting last week, heard a letter from the Union to this effect, in which the writers asked for an explanation.

The Council has acknowledged the letter, and expressed surprise at the complaint. There has been no change in administration affecting the employees, and no dismissals, except the dropping of 50 casual workers on the completion of special works for which they were hired. . .

The Council, in its reply, now asked for explanations.

24 Road mishaps on police file last month

Accident statistics at police headquarters show 24 road mishaps in town last month, with three persons injured. There were 25 arrests for traffic and other offences.

The town police force responded to 349 calls by telephone, collected $829 in traffic fines, and total revenues for the month were $1,472.

The report, prepared by Sgt. J. R. Chartrand, acting chief, was presented at Council by Commissioner Linton W. Armstrong, who recommended also that Cst. Gérard Dubeau (3rd class) be promoted to 2nd class rating.

At this sitting the councillors decided to call for tenders on a new patrol vehicle, and voted unanimously that loudspeakers be totally prohibited on the streets of Lachute.

Fire Department

Fire Chief Don MacCulloch in his monthly report listed 15 fire calls — 12 in the town limits, one in Chatham, one in St. Jerusalem, and one in Ayersville.

Expenses for the month were $423 and revenues $375.

Ch. of Commerce to operate tourist information booth

The Chamber of Commerce plans to operate the tourist information booth, on the Main Street riverbank, again this year. However, for this purpose it will require aid from the municipal treasury to the extent of $600 — according to a communication to Town Cuncil signed by Bertrand L'Heureux, the C. of C. president.

The sum of $600 is to meet the salary of four students engaged on shifts at the booth over a period of 10 weeks; that is, $60 a week.

Mayor Dave Campbell indicated two alternatives: to make an outright grant, or to pay the students' salaries with incidental group insurance, unemployment insurance, payroll entries, and so forth.

Marcel Grondin, spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce, pointed out however that a student is not eligible in the matter of insurance. Mr. Grondin suggested also that the Council could engage attendants over 45 years of age, and thus benefit from the federal "older persons incentive" employment aid.

Finally, on proposal of Ald. Laurier Carrière, the matter was delegated to the donations committee for study and decision.

Week's Epigram

Sentiments and Sidelights

The peace-loving and long-suffering public are grateful. . . Council has finally banned the use of loudspeakers on the town thoroughfares.

A number of local exhibitors have livestock entered in the Ormstown Exhibition which opens this evening (Wednesday). Many visitors will be fair-going from this area, and Col. Ernest Emmett is in attendance as usual with his uniformed patrol officers.

Among the three hole-in-one golfers saluted last week — this was no new triumph for one of these notables, Alf Shand, who is assistant pro at the local club. It is the third time for the braw young Scotsman; but he was thrilled just the same, for it was his first ace on a Canadian course.

Tattoo by crack bandsmen of Black Watch RHR

The Black Watch (3rd Battalion RHR) pipe and drum band and military band will give a joint performance at Lachute Fair as feature entertainers on the Legion Branch 70 program, Saturday evening of next week before the grandstand on the exhibition grounds. This military tattoo is a spectacle worth seeing and hearing. The bandsmen, who are in command of Lt.-Col. W. R. Redpath, CD, are seen above on parade passing the stately McGill University entrance on Sherbrooke Street, Montreal.

Their program includes well-loved Scots airs and traditional military selections, altogether a stirring repertoire, featuring the massed and individual bands and appropriate solo parts. They will play regardless of the weather, rain or shine.

Stage set for '64 Lachute Fair, year's major community venture

Lachute will once again be host to thousands of visitors, next week for the 1964 Lachute Spring Fair. Records are expected to be broken as far as attendance is concerned, and the exhibits are at an all-time high.

The local service organizations are finalizing their plans for providing entertainment. At least three bands will be heard at different times. The famous Black Watch Band sponsored by the Lachute Branch of the Legion, on Saturday evening; the Shawbridge Boys' Band and local Cadet Band, on Saturday afternoon.

Rotary Night (Thursday) will highlight Ronnie Prophet and other crowd-pleasing events.

Friday night will see the Purple and Gold Revue, sponsored by the Lions Club.

Harness racing Saturday afternoon will be under management of the Richelieu Club.

A top-notch horse show will be seen every afternoon and evening. . . These are a few of the entertainment features at Lachute Fair, with the King Reid midway shows for lighter amusement. Further details on these attractions are published elsewhere in this issue.

Advance membership tickets at $3 each may be obtained at Cliff Cunningham's, Bank of Montreal, Muir Bros.' or Russell Rodgers'. Community-minded people are urged to get ready for the biggest show ever — the Lachute Spring Fair, June 17 to 20, inclusive.

Barbershoppers attend annual Quartets Parade

On Saturday evening, May 23, a number of local members of the "Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America" (S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.) with their wives and friends attended the 14th Annual Parade of Quartets and harmony show, presented by the Montreal Chapter and held in Plateau Hall, Montreal.

The Imposters, a Quartet which hails from the Illinois district, who were district champs in 1962 and 1963, and who in Toronto last year were 6th place finalists in international competition, presented a wonderful display of their talents. The Crosscountrymen, too, from Boston, Mass., who have worked together for only one year, presented rousing renditions of many familiar numbers. The Montreal Chorus, under their very capable director, Harry Frazer, were well received, along with the Four Alouettes Quartet, of Montreal.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Red (The Old Red-head) Storey, former referee of the NHL and star of many other sports. Red's pleasant personality, humor and wit really enlightened the performance on Saturday night.

A most enjoyable evening is reported by the local folks who attended, and they are now planning to attend next year's Parade. At this time the Barbershop's most popular quartet, now turned professional, "The Buffalo Bills", stars of Meredith Wilson's three-year-run' Broadway show and of the moving picture of the same name, will be there. — Plan now to attend!

Fragments from Council fare

Réal Lepine appeared before the councillors last week on behalf of the Knights of Columbus, asking for the installation of a street light on Robert Street at the rear of the K. of C. Hall. . . For another segment of population, he also requested the paving of Cedar Ave. (in the Cruise development) or the laying of salt to subdue the dust.

Mme René Laurin of Evelina Street, in the same area, asked for the removal of a hydrant in front of her property.

Gaetan Cousineau, businessman, asked that parking be permitted on Bethany Street in the section affecting his premises.

All the foregoing requests were referred to the committeemen concerned.

June 24 will be proclaimed a civic fete, at request of the St. Jean Baptiste Society.

Council took note of a letter from the Department of Public Works stating that repairs would be made to Barron's Bridge at the department's expense.

Council gave ratification to the purchase of pipe, to serve the Mady-Hay subdivision on the Brownsburg Road.

The Rotary Club was given permission to sell tickets for its drawing, Friday night in the centre of Main Street opposite the Clyde Street intersection.

Members of three committees — finance, roads and filtration — were asked to look into applications for the position of city supervisor, in possession of the secretary's office.

Bills amounting to $46,626.46 were approved for payment.

Fernand Dion was appointed as evaluator to replace Alcidas Laurin, who has resigned; Dr. J. P. Dorion and Philippe Desjardins are other members of this committee. Dr. Dorion receives $4 an hour as chairman, the other valuators receive $3 and the secretary $1.50 an hour for their services.

Plans prepared by the C.P.R. in connection with fuel tanks for L. J. Dumais Ltée were accepted by the Council. . . The sitting was then adjourned until June 15 at 7.30 p.m.

At Junior Red Cross presentation

Persistence pays off, grant to Centre d'Art

Large delegation at Council meet

The Centre d'Art re-iterated its plea for a municipal grant at last week's Council meeting, and was rewarded with a donation of $500. The request was presented by Dr. Marc Papineau, president of the organization, who stated that, without this civic aid, the Centre would find difficulty in continuing its activities.

It was not without argument that the Centre d'Art received this grant; the director, Jean Laforest, was called upon to answer many questions. Finally, the resolution was carried on a vote supported by Aldermen Dr. Dumais, Dr. Middleton, Charlebois, Pariseau, Armstrong, McFaul and Carrjere. Voting against the measure were Aldermen Desjardins and Lepage.

In a letter addressed to the Council last week, the directorate of the Centre stated that: (1) The Centre d'Art is not a "small, select group"; it has 350 members. (2) The Centre was in no way "dissatisfied" with the grant given last year. (3) If only half of the ($1,000) grant requested were voted by Council, the Centre could make necessary curtailments to balance its budget for 1964-65.

This was the second request this year; the first approach was refused a few weeks ago. Dr. Papineau and Mr. Laforest were supported by a strong delegation of directors and members of the Centre d'Art, approximately 50 in number.

Fisherman's body found last week

The body of a Montebello citizen, Urbain Prégent, 30, was found under the Rouge River bridge on Tuesday last.

The victim had left his home at 7.30 Monday evening to go fishing. When he failed to return, his wife called an uncle, Roland Blais, and together they searched the likely spots, finally discovering the man's car near the bridge, between Calumet and Pte. au Chene. At 9.30 they found the victim lying dead on some logs under the bridge.

The body was brought here to the Menard morgue, and Cpl. J.-P. Dallaire of the Provincial Police detachment made an investigation.

35 Years in priesthood

MGR. LOUIS-J. RODRIGUE, parish priest at St. Eustache, who recently celebrated his 35th anniversary in the priesthood. Son of the late Dr. Alex Rodrigue of Lachute, and brother of Miss Juliette Rodrigue, Lic. Mus., he is well known in this community.

Canon Rodrigue has been parish priest at St. Eustache since 1953. He was a former professor of History and superior of the Ste. Therese Seminary. . . Friends extend congratulations on his long record.

Hawkesbury put under tutelage by province

Hawkesbury (O — Mayor Victor Bruneau informed council this week that the town has been put under provincial trusteeship for overspending by $67,000 in 1963.

Mayor Bruneau said the trusteeship was imposed late last week. It is the second time in 20 years that the town has been put under provincial supervision. Hawkesbury was under trusteeship from 1943 to 1956 while large debts incurred during the 1930's were discharged.

"We cannot blame this deficit on anyone in particular," said Mayor Bruneau. "But expenditures have not been watched carefully enough by committee chairmen."

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

At long last, controls are being put upon insecticides and pesticides. Our Western Provinces are showing the way to the rest of the country. Manitoba has banned the use of Dieldrin and Aldrin for general spraying; this is a chemical much used in the control of grasshoppers. Now the farmers are compelled to use a less hazardous spray, after dairy farmers were fined for selling cream containing poisonous pesticides. Alberta has enacted legislation to license all custom sprayers; before obtaining a license they must attend instruction courses on its use, and the necessary protective clothing to be worn. Saskatchewan has adopted new rules for releasing this poison to farmers; other sprays are being checked and the after-effects studied. The United States gave final approval to a law which will ban all chemical insecticides until they have been tested and approved by the public health service.

One would assume the Federal Government would be the power behind the scenes to ban these sprays. However, it seems to have been left to the provincial authority; why this is so I can only guess. This country is going to be so far behind on these controls at the Federal level, that we may still be poisoned by them another couple of generations from now. All kinds of instructions are given with certain sprays, whether for household or farm, but never do the manufacturers state just what effect these killers will have on pets or on wildlife. Millions of fish have been killed by sprays, along with the countless waterbirds, and the sprays are certainly on the increase. Naturally the manufacturers will not voluntarily state how deadly these chemicals are to everything that comes in contact with them — but when these same companies try to disparage and undermine "The Silent Spring", written by the late Rachael Carson, they are obviously trying to cover up. We know this, yet we do nothing about it. We should know by now that the diminishing flights of waterbirds into Canada is not natural. Proof of the inroads into our bird populations has been given by Ducks Unlimited. So what is the reasons for delays in banning some of these sprays? It is logical to assume the Federal Government would have the final say on the use of sprays, etc., yet they have delayed until the provincial governments have stepped in.

I was talking to a couple of enthusiasts from Albany who have visited this and other counties fishing. They did not seem to have had a good trip; as a matter of fact, the impression was that they would never return to this province again. Queried on this, they mentioned poor services, added cost for meals, overcharges in every facility, and as they progressed north, the total lack of English spoken (unless a tip was forthcoming, then the receivers could and did talk English). In another case of visitors to the parks, by contrast, the service and facilities were excellent, but once again the disregard for English-speaking visitors. Maybe the Minister should take a long, hard look at some of the things going on in these areas. Certainly, I realize the Minister cannot do all this by himself, but he has supposedly competent men in his department, even disregarding political appointments.

Fishing has been very spotty. I worked one of our local creeks last Sunday, with excellent results, a friend had fished this same water the previous day and caught 12 of the choicest brookies one could wish for; dozens of small ones also, but having barbless hooks, he released these without injury or damage. His lure was a real summer fly, the very light green caterpillar. I tried this on Sunday, but no strike; however they did strike very well for a Yellow Caddis Nymph. It was strange catching these fish, too. Usually they would be taken in fairly fast water with plenty of cover in the way of rocks, but this time they were all in the dead water, under lily pads and so forth. You just never can tell about fish.

Deep trolling has really not started yet, all fish being taken very close to the surface. In most cases also, these seem to have been hooked about 75 feet behind a boat, with spinning lures and the Balsa Wood Minnow type. With the water still very cold, it is natural they are not going to be down very deep; anyone trying trolling this week-end should remember this.

Another good Northern was taken from the North River this past week. As you may be aware, the fish biologists are working on the river right now, taking samples of water, specimens of fish, etc., and they still want the insides of any musky you have taken, with details of the length, etc. You know what to do with them — bottle the entrails and take them to Adelard Gagné, game warden, who will forward them to the specialists for further study. For my personal information I would like to hear of anyone catching a Northern — weight, length and so on — so that we can try and do something about this river of ours. Already much has been done, but there is still a lot more, and we can help in this matter.

The poor weather has been a real boon to ducks nesting along the river; very few boats have been out and they have not been disturbed too much. A few blue herons are with us, along with a small group of bitterns. I think before the summer is over we will have a good number of these water birds. Plover and sand pipers are few — this may be due to insecticides where birds are feeding along the shorelines. There are a few Orioles but not too many in this vicinity. To watch these birds weaving their nests from some slender branch, is really a lesson in staying sober! Another rare sight — a lady phoned me about an osprey she saw diving into the Ottawa River; this must have been a great spectacle, like jets on the wing.

I heard of a couple of "sports" who have been netting the West River lake this past week. They have a small gill net that seems to be catching fish. Most of us thought this was a thing of the past, but I guess it will never stop; there are always those who will disregard limits, laws and everything decent. With the heavy fines imposed on poachers who were caught with deer out of season and so on, the practice of killing just for profit has been given a blast. A few more cases like this, and the boys will get it into their heads the government is no longer fooling. The same applies to the fishing too. Heavy penalties for these offences will do more to curb the meat-for-sale operations than anything else. Not too soon, either.

One final tip to anglers. When you have finished with your fishing reels, especially after they have been used around sandbeds, clean them thoroughly. This fine sand will cut your gears fast, and gears are not to be picked up anywhere, dirt cheap; so to save yourself some grief, clean the reel. Another thing, if you don't know anything about the reel, be sure to mark all the parts and check just where they come from. Don't pull them apart while out fishing — this is a sure way to lose some vital part. And I almost forgot, don't blame your kids if they capitalize on an excuse for pulling them apart, either. Right now I'll bet we have the most mechanical-minded kids in the country — at least, that's the way it appears from fathers and mothers in the fishing fraternity.

Hunting season Oct. 17-Nov. 30 in this County

Lionel Bertrand, Quebec minister of tourism, fish and game, has stated that the opening and closing dates of the deer hunting season in some areas have been changed. Affecting hunters in this area is the following change:

In Maskinonge County and the area between Highways 57, 31 and 8 in the counties of Papineau, Argenteuil and Terrebonne, general hunting will start October 17 and close November 30. The bow and arrow hunting will open October 3.

The hunting season in these and other areas was modified to cater to hunters who planned their outing according to last year's schedule, Mr. Bertrand said.

The hare hunting season will open September 26 and close February 28 in most parts of Quebec.

Hare hunting with traps or snares remains forbidden in the section of Terrebonne County south of Highway 41 and in the counties of Deux-Montagnes, L'Assomption, Laval, Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Beauharnois, Huntingdon, Chateauguay, Napierville, Laprairie, St. Jean, Iberville, Rouville, St. Hyacinthe, Richelieu, Vercheres, Chambly and Stanstead.

This ruling applies to all islands within these counties and around Montreal.

Wherever it is forbidden to use traps or snares, the Tourism, Fish and Game Department says, the daily limit will be five hares for each hunter. There will be no limit on possession anywhere in the province.

Inter-school track meet, several new records set

Brownsburg High School, with 139 points, was the aggregate winner in a five-school sports meet arranged recently by the Argenteuil Teachers' Association and reported briefly in these pages last week.

Schools participating were Brownsburg, Grenville, Lachute, Morin Heights and Arundel (which ranked in that order).

Following are the results in detail, showing new time and distance records established in a number of the events:

GIRLS

Class I —

50-yd. Dash — (1) Linda Brown, GHS; (2) Geraldine Ellis, GHS; (3) Lena Proswemuk and Elizabeth Whalley, MHHS. Time, 7.1 sec.

Standing Broad Jump — (1) Elizabeth Whalley, MHHS; (2) Lena Proswemuk, MHHS; (3) Nancy Langille, LHS. Dist., 6'6" (new record).

Softball Throw — (1) Julie Paul, LHS; (2) Linda Brown, GHS; (3) Elizabeth Whalley, MHHS. Dist., 104'6" (new record).

220-yd. Relay — (1) Grenville; (2) Brownsburg; (3) Lachute. Time, 38.0 sec.

Class II —

75-yd. Dash — (1) Martha Whalley, MHHS; (2) Audrey Jackson, BHS; (3) Nancy Kettyle, LHS. Time, 10.0 sec.

Broad Jump — (1) Nancy Kettyle, LHS; (2) Beverley Bauer, BHS; (3) Audrey Jackson, BHS. Dist., 12' (new record).

High Jump — (1) Nancy Kettyle, LHS; (2) Beverley Bauer, BHS; (3) Susan Orchard, MHHS. Height, 4'.

Softball Throw — (1) Carolyn de Bassecourt, MHHS; (2) Connie Moore, GHS; (3) Linda Cowan, BHS. Dist., 118'6".

220-yd. Relay — (1) Brownsburg; (2) Lachute; (3) Grenville. Time, 35.6 sec.

Class III —

100-yd. Dash — (1) Carolyn Summers, BHS; (2) Nancy Boyd, GHS; (3) Rosemary Steere, BHS. Time, 13.0 sec.

120 Participants in fish derby at Lake Wentworth

At least 120 fishing enthusiasts — members of the sponsoring group, the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association Inc. — took part in a fish derby at Lake Wentworth last Sunday. Randolph Elliott, of Lachute, took the prize catch, a 2 lb. 10 oz. grey trout, and other winners were Yvon Gagnon, H.-P. Campeau, Gérard Fortin, Florian Campeau and Philippe Bourgeois.

A bean-feed on the lakeshore concluded the day, and many attendance prizes were drawn for.

Paul-Emile Gravel was the organizer of this event, and received fine co-operation from many helpers and donors.

Boating Clinic

— BY STAN DAVIES —

Driving a boat is much like driving a car as far as the rules of the road are concerned, but there are differences, as these questions from readers show:

If I'm overtaking another boat must I pass on his left? (as done on the highway.)

ANSWER: No. You can pass on either side. But you must keep clear of him. If you have a whistle or horn and you want to be real courteous, give him one blast to show you'll pass on his right, two blasts to show you'll pass on his left.

Sail boats have the right of way over power boats; so can a sailboat passing a power boat in a channel make him move over?

ANSWER: If they are meeting head-on, or close to it, the power boat is obliged to get out of the sailboat's way. But if the sailboat is overtaking a slower power-boat, the sailboat has to keep clear of the power boat.

Does a boat coming into harbor have right of way over one leaving?

ANSWER: Entering or leaving has no bearing on right of way. Although, there might be an exception if there was a current at the harbor entrance . . . caused by the tide or river flow. The boat going against the current must keep clear of the boat going with the current. The one bucking the current is more manouevrable . . . that's why.

Must every boat operated in Canada carry a horn?

ANSWER: No, only boats 26 feet or more must carry a "sound signalling device.". . . as the Regulations say.

What does it mean if you see a boat's red light at night?

ANSWER: It could mean a lot of things, but above all it means that you have to stay out of his way. If you see his green light, it means he has to stay out of your way . . . you have the right of way.

Where can I find out about the Rules of the Road for boats?

ANSWER: Get a booklet called "Safety Afloat" published by the Department of Transport at Ottawa. It's distributed free by RCMP offices, customs offices, most yacht clubs, marinas, boat yards, and marine dealers. If you can't get one, send me a post card care of this newspaper and I'll send you the 1964 edition.

Special Presentations

The Lachute Protestant Board of School Commissioners presented each member of the senior girls' basketball team with a trophy in recognition of the team's victory in the Provincial Interscholastic Tournament. This is the second successive year that the LHS team has won this honor, and the fourth time in the 12-year history of this tournament.

An expression of thanks to the School Board was made on behalf of the team by the captain, Sheila Owens.

A special presentation was also made to the manager, Jean Rogers, by the members of the team.

The Students' Council presented to the library a 30-volume set of Encyclopedia Americana. This presentation was made to the principal, Mr. Royal, by the presidents of the Students' Council, Judy Kettyle.

It was announced that John Villeneuve, of Grade X, was chosen to represent LHS at the United Nations bilingual camp, to be held in Montreal during the last week of August. The Students' Council is sponsoring this pupil.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Principal Ken Royal congratulated all those who had received activity awards, and especially the winners of the various trophies.

Major-Gen. Phelan as reviewing officer

The annual inspection of the Highland Cadet Battalion "D" Company was witnessed by parents and friends last Wednesday at the armoury on Robert Street, Lachute.

Inspecting officer was Maj.-Gen. F. R. Phelan, CB, DSO, MC, VD; and Lt.-Col. T. McLean, sponsor of the Unit (who sent a telegram of good wishes in his unavoidable absence) was represented by Major Chas. Murphy from Montreal — accompanied by Capt. John Clowes and Lt. D. Deagan, all of the 37th Field Regt. RCA (M). Also present was Capt. J. A. P. Haydon, MC, of Ottawa.

The boys gave a good demonstration of foot drill, rifle drill, band playing, first aid, and morse signalling, and were highly complimented by Maj.-Gen. Phelan in his remarks, interspersed with humor and anecdotes.

Capt. Robert Haydon, chief instructor, m.c.'d the proceedings and extended a welcome to the guests. In his remarks he explained that the cadet movement provides training for good citizenship; it is not primarily "training to be a soldier", but follows the tenets of military discipline in its aim to equip young men for civil leadership and responsibility.

Major W. E. Butterfield, Arthur Whiteway (drums and first-aid), and Emmanuel Parisien (bugles), are other instructors who also played a part in this efficient demonstration. Notable progress was evident in the achievements of the young bandsmen, who gave a really creditable performance. Young Tommy Whiteway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Whiteway, is mascot and color bearer for the Unit, proving popular with the spectators on this occasion.

A number of promotions in the ranks were handed out by Maj.-Gen. Phelan, also morse code, St. John's Ambulance certificates and Province of Quebec Rifle Association awards. In addition, the Strathcona medal for efficiency was presented to Cpl. G. Logan, and the Walker-Kingsbury award to the best turned-out cadet on parade, to Cpl. Harry Butterfield.

Wives of the instructing officers served refreshments to the gathering on conclusion of the proceedings.

Opposition to dog by-law is voiced at B'burg Council

(Our District Correspondent)

The Brownsburg Town Council had an unusually high number of visitors at the regular monthly meeting, when a delegation of property owners attended to ask that the "dog by-law" be scrapped. The citizens in the group based their request on the belief that it was not fair to keep a dog tied up continually. At the same time, they asked Council, "If we must keep our dogs tied up on our own property, why must we have a license — of what use is it?" Councillor Gerald Vowles provided a number of answers to the question, although none of them did much to satisfy the visitors. In regard to changing the law, Councillor Vowles stated that for every one present objecting to the regulation there had been many more asking for its adoption in the past few months. Council's only suggestion was to promote a petition asking that the by-law be repealed, at the same time pointing out that there might well be a counter-petition circulated by those in favor of keeping the dogs on the owners' property.

The Woodbine Avenue North sewer and water extension came a little closer to reality, as Council passed a motion, at the request of the provincial government, to adopt the minutes of the public meeting at which the by-law governing the borrowing of the money for the project had been passed. In addition, Council also changed the wording of the by-law, to state that an increase in water tax would take place only if insufficient revenue were obtained at the present tax level.

A representative of the provincial government attended the meeting to describe the aims of the Quebec Civil Protection Organization, which is devoted to setting up and co-ordinating a civil protection system for the municipalities in the province. Though the description of the system appeared to be simple enough, only Councillor Gerald Vowles voted to sign up for the many benefits which would be realized. The remainder of the Council members seemed to have some doubts and voted to put off the decision for another week. In essence, for a small yearly fee the municipalities in assigned areas would have the use of centrally located disaster equipment to use in emergencies, and would also have the opportunity of having municipal employees and others trained in rescue techniques, fire fighting and first aid.

Council came up with a temporary answer to the question of mobile homes — they issued a temporary permit to cover the "installation".

Tug-of-war warriors and greased-pole gladiators for Rotary Night at the Fair

Some people claim its takes "pull" to get along in the world. Others maintain it's push. . . Everybody will agree that it takes pull to win a tug-of-war match. Those who have tried will agree that it takes more than pull; it takes teamwork and timing.

With the surprise announcement that the Canadian International Paper team, four-time winners in the "Rotary pull", will be unable to participate this year — the 1962 and 1963 runners-up, Canadian Industries Limited, may bring back to Brownsburg the glories that belonged to the old-time "Dominion Cartridge" teams, first gained early in the century.

Another unexpected change is necessary in the rodeo or calf-catching events — for which suitable calves are not available this time.

The laughable antics of the "Greased Pole Gladiators", so well received by the audience last year, is to be repeated. This idea of Bill Brass', which he called the "Bull Fight", requires two teenage boys to keep their balance on a shiny, smooth cedar pole (no grease) while walloping the stuffing out of each other with suitable weapons — the kind of energetic action that brothers have always expended, early on a Sunday morning with mother's best pillows!

The first 16 boys, aged 14 to 16, who telephone Mr. John Leggitt at LE 3-4435 (half from Lachute and half Brownsburg) will partake in an elimination contest, Thursday night at the Fair. A stop-watch will help keep the event active.

For the young — and those who would like to be — Ronnie Prophet, the local "Wonder Boy" who has been bringing Torontonians up-to-date at their Brown Derby Club, will journey to our Fair with his latest comedy, music and song.

Having taken part in the Sir George Williams Winter Carnival, the CBC Talent Caravan, as well as playing at the Candlelight Room of the Monterey in Montreal, Ronnie's varied experience should help to make this a very entertaining evening.

In the Tugging Past

But let us go back to the turn of the century when the "stuff" of present day folk-songs was being made. . . Archie McFaul captained the "Chatham Farmers" tug-of-war boys that defeated the "Dominion Cartridge" team, anchored by Ed Therrien. "The strongest man I ever saw", said Leonard Wilson, who recalls the event and knew the lifting ability of this powerful workman and athlete, Therrien.

Just when the D.C. team started its winning streak is uncertain. Likewise, is the date when the Lachute Fair (now 139 years old) first became interested in this sport.

However, Brownsburg has the J. T. Ayers Cup for the event, won in 1926 at Lachute Fair. Popular "Jack" Ayers presented it to captain and coach Ernie Zimmer.

Lemuel Wilson, 80 this summer, captained various successful "Dominion Cartridge" teams. It was Lem who coached the 1960 and 1961 teams in the present round of pulls. His son, Wes, is continuing and hopes with his men that this, his third year, will be a winner for the cartridge men.

However, rumor has it that Bell Telephone, St. Philippe and Thurso have strong teams. Ayers, Boyd's Express, and the Golf Club, all think it their turn, and Windsor Hotel hopes to be "in the money". Eight teams make an ideal number for an evenly-matched elimination contest. Pulls will be restricted to two minutes maximum, as in the past Rotary events.

The co-operation of industrial and other organizations and the enthusiastic participation of the contenders, is much appreciated by the Rotary Club in their endeavor to help the youth of this district.

Driving tests

The Quebec Motor Vehicle mobile license testing unit will be in Lachute all day Tuesday of next week, June 16, as well as on Wednesday morning, June 17. The unit will be situated at the Court House, and any persons desirous of taking their driving test are requested to be on hand at this time.

Tug-of-war favorites

Thrills and spills, humor and fun, King Reid shows return to Lachute

"Fun galore in '64," is this year's theme of the King Reid Shows, which appear at the Lachute Fair next Wednesday to Saturday, June 17-20.

This year King Reid introduces two brand new rides — the Scooter, with 20 smashing, dashing bumper cars, and the Rock-O-Plane, newest ride sensation, being used for the first time in the East.

Hailed as the greatest collection of top shows, thrilling rides and extravaganza of fun ever offered, the King Reid shows has been the top truck carnival in eastern Canada for 17 years.

A battery of neon-emblazoned ferris wheels will be the landmark of the shows at the Exhibition Grounds.

King Reid, master showman, assured the Agricultural Society directors that visitors this year will run the gamut in thrills, spills, humor and fun. This goes for people of all ages, from four to 94 — and that it is the "world's cleanest midway".

Featured will be an elaborate stage show, "Jazz Festival," an all colored Afro-Rumba Calypso Revue headlining Maracca, King of the Calypso, and Tiajuana, with a comely chorus of sepia beauties.

Other shows include Irene Burton's Wild Life Exhibit, a menagerie of wild animals and an exotic aviary collected from the four corners of the earth. Among them are the Crested Crane from Africa with a six-foot wingspread; the black-shouldered Peacock from India; a Kinkajou from South America; the man-eating King Vulture, highest flying bird in the world; Coati-Mundi from South America; an Agouti, a jungle rat from South America; an Albino Ferret from the Peruvian Andes; and the many-colored feathered pheasants.

Also featured is Pete Hennen's Super Circus Show, containing its "congress of human oddities" — Elizabeth, the monkey-faced girl; Charlette Bobo, the elephant-skin girl; Roy, the electric-hide boy; Francis Duggins, the rubber-skin boy, whose contortions are incredible; the Oriental Blade Box into which 18 swords are crossed through the body of a living girl; Chief Diablo, who eats fire; Sealo, the boy with arms and legs like a seal; and Joe Crossen, the anatomical wonder with complete muscular control, who also swallows swords.

On the Midway also are the Hi-Hat and Torchy, all-girl revues direct from Las Vegas' leading night clubs.

Thrills galore will be in store for visitors on the King Reid Midway, in the very latest of rides, including a giant Merry-Go-Round, the thrilling Tilt-A-Whirl, a daring Dipsy Doodle, fabulous Ferris Wheels, a rollicking Roller Coaster, the sensational Merry Mixer, and a careening Rock 'N Roll Ride.

The small fry will find a new and enlarged King Reid Kiddieland in an area specially set aside for them. They will thrill to the Speed Boat Ride, Roto Whip and many others tailor-made for them.

On Wednesday evening last in the school auditorium, the Arundel Girl Guides held their closing exercises under the leadership of Capt. McCarty and Lieut. McMahon. Games and singing made up the program, and during the evening Lieut. McMahon presented the Captain with a beautiful cup and saucer, in appreciation of her leadership during the season. Refreshments were served, bringing the meeting to a close. The Guides are now disbanded for the summer months.

Women's Institute

The W.I. held its monthly meeting on June 2, in the school. The president, Mrs. Alvin Graham, conducted the business meeting. Plans were completed for the annual bazaar and program, July 11. The meeting was then turned over to the publicity convener, Mrs. Rathwell Morrison, who introduced as speaker for the evening Miss Florence Limoges, lecturer for the Bell Telephone. Her subject, "Your Voice and You", proved of great interest; and at the conclusion of this address, the speaker was thanked by Mrs. Gordon Cooke.

Rotarian took European tour

At the last regular meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club, the members were treated to an interesting series of slides taken on a tour to England and Europe by Mr. John Chalmers.

Leaving Dorval Airport on April 30, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers joined a group of fellow Rotarians on this trip sponsored by the Montreal Lakeshore Rotary Club, with their first stop in London. From London they motored to Dover, where they took a ferry to Ostend, Belgium — then by bus through Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Switzerland and on into Italy as far as Rome. Their return trip through Italy, took them to Paris and on back to London. In all, the European trip consisted of approximately 2,500 miles by autobus. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brain, of Hawkesbury, were also in the group.

Rotarian John Chalmers highly recommended this tour to fellow clubmen, and his slides well illustrated his enthusiasm for such a tour. He was thanked on behalf of the club by René Dagenais.

Regional C. of C. to convene at Ste. Therese

The regional Chamber of Commerce for Argenteuil, Deux Montagnes and Terrebonne will hold their third convention next Sunday, June 14, at the Ste. Therese Seminary.

The mayor, René A. Robert, will welcome the delegates at 1.30 p.m. There will be well qualified speakers, and at 3 p.m. the business session of the group will deal with relevant problems.

At 5.30 the gathering will be guests of the city at a cocktail, and the closing banquet will be held at 7 p.m.

During the afternoon the ladies will be entertained on the terrace of the Thorncliffe, with a fashion show around 4 p.m.

Argent'l Duplicate Bridge Club

On Tuesday evening, June 2, the Duplicate Bridge Club were invited to attend the tournament of the Metropolitan Commercial Bridge League of Montreal, held at the civic hall of the Town of Mount Royal. Eleven pairs competed from Lachute, and a fine evening of bridge was enjoyed.

The overall winning pair of this tournament had a total of 151 points. The pairs from Lachute aggregated the following points:

Mrs. L. T. Porter and Mrs. H. A. Peverley —	122.
Mrs. R. Rogers and Mrs. Geo. Muir —	121.
Mrs. J. Thorpe and Mrs. H. Booth —	120.
Mr. S. Seary and Mr. D. Seary —	116.
Mrs. E. M. Jones and Mme H. Filfe —	115½.
Mrs. R. Fraser and Mrs. S. McFaul —	108.
Mr. T. Gagne and Mr. L. Lamoureux —	106½.
Mrs. J. MacKimmie and Mrs. T. Johnston	95.
Mrs. D. Heggie and Mrs. M. Scott —	94½.
Mrs. D. McIsaacs and Mrs. L. Walsh —	94.
Mrs. C. B. Rutledge and Mrs. J. Gorman —	81½.

The purpose of this tournament was to raise funds for the Cerebral Palsy Association. It was therefore gratifying to learn that from 96 tables over $650 was raised for this worthy cause.

The winners of the Argenteuil Bridge, held on Monday, June 1 were:

N. & S., Mrs. M. Scott and Mrs. D. Heggie.

E. & W., Mrs. C. Stephens and Miss H. Smith.

Boost payment for jurymen

Quebec — Daily payment to persons serving on juries will increase from $10 to $25 a day, starting June 15.

An Order-in-Council approved last week also raises payment to jurymen from $5 to $12.50 for a half day's service.

The increase in the daily stipend is a result of numerous complaints to the Attorney-General's department from persons who served on juries who claimed they lost money for accepting a public duty.

Unique occasion marked in Odd Fellows' Order

Walker K. McArthur and Robert A. Giles, who were both presented with 50-year jewels worn by their fathers — the two generations, fathers and sons, representing over 212 years membership in the Odd Fellows Laurentian Lodge.

At the regular meeting of Laurentian Lodge No. 14, IOOF, held at Brownsburg on Tuesday, June 2, members of long standing were presented with their 50-year veteran jewels. They were W. K. McArthur and R. A. Giles, both having joined the order in the month of June, 1914, on their 21st birthdays.

The occasion was somewhat unique in that both participants were presented with the former jewels worn by their respective fathers, and which represented a combined period of over 212 years' membership in the Order.

A large delegation of Grand Lodge officers attended from Montreal and district, among whom were the Provincial Grand Master, Lindsay Demerse; P. Grinton, Gr. Representative; J. M. Devers, Sov. Gr. Chaplain; G. Hayward, Gr. Treasurer; G. Glass, Gr. Guard; C. L. Vidito, Gr. Herald; L. Drouyn, Gr. High Priest; W. Duffy, P.G.R. and Roy Walker, Gr. Scribe.

Bro. McArthur was escorted by Bro. Winston Duffy, P.G.R., and his jewel presented by Bro. Roy Walker, P.G.M.

Bro. Giles was escorted by Bro. W. J. Deacon, and received his jewel from Bro. J. Devers.

A number of those attending brought their wives, and prior to the meeting all were entertained at a buffet dinner by Mr. and Mrs. McArthur. The ladies later attended the social part of the gathering and the presentations.

The evening was presided over by Bro. C. R. Cunningham, Noble Grand of Laurentian Lodge.

Two Baptist churches to observe anniversaries — 139th and 78th

This coming Sunday, June 14, will mark the 139th anniversary of the historic Dalesville Baptist Church, while Lachute Baptist Church will observe its 78th anniversary.

The Rev. John R. Boyd, a former member of the Lachute Baptist Church and for 27 years pastor of the Berean Baptist Church in Sudbury, Ont., where he has exercised an effective ministry in his own pulpit — and an extensive ministry in reaching out to many parts of the land by radio and the printed page — will be the guest preacher, at 11 a.m. in Dalesville and at 7.30 p.m. in Lachute. Mrs. Roscoe Evans of Buckingham, Que., will be the soloist at both these services.

The public are heartily invited to join with these congregations in worship and thanksgiving to God — for His blessings bestowed upon so many through these churches, which have served long in their respective communities.

Parish assistant at Mille Isles for summer season

Mr. George Beach

Mr. George Beach, assistant in the Anglican Parish of Mille Isles, has taken up residence at the Barrett house in Mille Isles, and will work with the Rev. Horace G. Baugh in his parish. In addition he will spend one day a week in New Glasgow and Kilkenny.

Born in Barrow-in-Furness, Northwest England, he came to Canada in 1951. Employed on the staff of TCA in the Economic and Production Services Department, he joined the Evening Division of the Montreal Diocesan Theological College, later becoming a full-time student. He is married, with one daughter. He is organizing a Confirmation class in Mille Isles, and during the past two weeks has had 19 offering themselves for Confirmation.

Jehovah's Witnesses

Do you Fear what Others Think?
Or do you allow God's Word to direct your actions?

Men not only contradict God, they contradict one another. How can they be reliable guides — unless their words are based on God's words? But how can you know whether they are or not? By going directly to God's Word as your source of authority. Search for yourself and let God be true! Obtain the book that has already helped millions. Send for and read: "LET GOD BE TRUE". It is only 50c.

Accent on youth

YOUTH will claim the spotlight in many activities at the Lachute Spring Fair next week. From the various projects and competitions, we single out for mention the entertainment to be brought by the Lions Club, the Boys' and Girls' Club "Purple and Gold Revue", and the Lachute Army Cadet and Shawbridge Farm boys' bands, which will combine in a parade and performance on Saturday afternoon. . . Our special interest here is in these latter groups, with which we are more closely familiar.

The Lachute Cadet Band has been in operation only a year or so, and having witnessed their progress at the Highland Cadet "D" Company inspection last week, we were favorably impressed by their achievement. We pay tribute here to the men who give time and effort to the training of these boys, not only in band music but in drill, first aid, signalling, marksmanship, and all other branches of their activity. The same applies to our Boy Scouts and Girl Guides (among whose sponsors there is a recurring search for adult leaders) — also to the Air Cadet Squadron, and similar youth groups. To the faithful few in all these enterprises, we doff our hats in recognition of a real community debt.

Returning to the boys' drum and bugle bands, which Fair-goers will see in action next week — there has been considerable practice and precision training in this work. In close-up recital, a discerning audience may observe the obvious interest and enjoyment of these young bandsmen. Their execution may not be perfect, their tempo not always precise, but here indeed is an example of teamwork that has required great patience and perseverance. Boys thus captivated in their interest, and intent to succeed, are not wasting their leisure hours on the streets, hatching up mischief. Their surplus energy finds expression in constructive channels — and we voice a word of appreciation to all concerned.

Incidental to all this, there is also an answer to those who may be critical of cadet training as an "instrument of war" or conducive to aggressive psychology. In the words of Capt. Robert Haydon, chief training officer of the Unit: "The aim of the cadet movement is to create good citizens, not to make good soldiers. The military discipline is our mode of training, only to instill the qualities of responsibility and leadership, and to cultivate the spirit of co-operation." Two or three hundred boys have passed through this training and entered into citizenship with accrued benefits. There are now 55 in active membership here, with a maximum quota of 75.

Water Safety Week

JUNE 7 TO 13 is Red Cross Water Safety Week in Canada. This year the Red Cross asks us to think before we make any manoeuvres in or on the water. "Think . . . don't sink! Be water wise." That's pretty sound advice, and it takes only a few seconds to put it to work.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the number of accidental drownings in Canada in 1954 was 1,125. This represents a drowning rate of about 7.3 persons per 100-thousand of population. Now, 10 years later, our population has increased by about one-third. In spite of the fact that more people are enjoying water recreation, Canada's drowning rate has not increased in direct proportion to the rise in population. It may be safe to say that it has decreased, for it is estimated that the 1964 rate may be as low as 6.3 persons per 100-thousand of population.

This is no accident! More people are becoming aware of the hazards of water recreation, and are acting in a safer and more intelligent manner these days. This is due, in most part, to the efforts of the Water Safety Service of the Canadian Red Cross Society over the past 19 years.

Through this service, hundreds of thousands of Canadians have learned the good habits of water recreation, and therefore, have been able to enjoy water safety.

In 1962, 44,094 students took Water Safety courses in the Province of Quebec. During the same year, the Red Cross trained 573 instructor candidates and 287 qualified.

Nearly 300,000 persons register for Canadian Red Cross Water Safety courses each year. Yet — there will be about 1,250 accidental drownings in Canada in 1964.

Sauce for the goose?

ACCORDING TO the Communist newspaper Pravda, the Soviet Union will win the current ideological war with Communist China because of Russia's demonstrated prosperity. The "upsurge of well being of the working people" in the Soviet Union the paper notes, proves that Moscow and not Peking is on the right ideological track.

This is a very interesting argument which undoubtedly has some merit. Compared with conditions in China, the average Soviet citizen is probably quite well off.

Yet it would seem that if prosperity and well-being are to be the proof of the viability of Communism, that the Soviet Union — while it may well win its dispute with fellow communists in Peking — is by the same token doomed to lose the ideological cold war with the West.

If there is one thing which has become conspicuously noticeable about the economics of Soviet communism, it is its utter inability to match the capitalist economy's productivity.

Billboards and accidents

ACCIDENTS ARE three times more numerous in areas with billboards and other advertising along the New York Thruway than in areas without advertising. This is the conclusion of a report prepared by Madigan-Hyland Inc. of New York. Studying accident records for 1961 and 1962, it was found that there was an annual average of 1.7 accidents per mile due to driver inattention on the 13.1% of the Thruway where advertising devices were visible, and only .5 of an accident per mile from this cause on stretches where advertising devices were not visible. The study found also that, regardless of the density of traffic, advertising was a factor in causing a higher accident rate.

The Thruway Authority has power to regulate all advertising within 660 feet of the edge of the right-of-way.

Goldwater Makes It

By RAY ARGYLE

Senator Barry Goldwater's victory in the California Republican primary, as narrow as it was, virtually assures his nomination for president. It also will probably wreck the Republican party, sending the two-party system in the United States into the twilight for the next four or eight years.

Ray Argyle

To many Canadians, it seemed fantastic that the wildly extremist Goldwater could have ever been a serious candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

But American politics makes a fertile field for extremism. The average Canadian has little idea of how widespread the far right wing has become in the U.S. in recent years.

The right wing, of which Goldwater became the ready spokesman, was made up of otherwise intelligent people who were, more than anything, perplexed by the refusal of the rest of the world to ardently embrace their concept of Americanism. They became disillusioned with the United Nations, tired of fighting brush-fire wars in far-off lands, and anxious for a quick and easy victory over Communism.

The late John Kennedy was the first president to warn his fellow Americans in blunt terms that he had to expect diversity in today's world and that the U.S. could not expect to re-make the rest of the world in its own image.

President Johnson is carrying forward this theme.

It was Goldwater's extreme statements about using atom bombs in Vietnam to "defoliate the jungles" which at last convinced thoughtful Americans that here was a dangerous and impulsive man, whose political philosophy, if he had one, was far-removed from the mainstream of progressive America.

But apparently this was not good enough for the radical right in California. Gov. Goldwater now goes into the Republican convention at San Francisco next month virtually unstoppable in his pursuit of the nomination.

On the convention's opening day at the Cow Palace, Sen. Goldwater will have around 600 assured votes of the 655 needed to nominate. As his total mounts through the roll call of the states, there will likely be last-minute switches and he could be over the top by the time Wisconsin's delegation casts its ballots.

The liberal forces in the Republican party, centred around Gov. Rockefeller and Gov. Lodge, will be powerless to halt the Goldwater juggernaut.

It can reasonably be asked, what is it that Mr. Goldwater has on Republican delegates that they would choose a man who is obviously not the preference of a majority of rank-and-file voters, as indicated by his long succession of primary defeats prior to California?

The answer can only be that like the lemming, they go joyfully to their oblivion, unmindful of the common suicide on which they are so intent.

The Goldwater nomination makes no sense whatever in present-day America. Progressive Republicans will desert the party. He will drag down to defeat many capable Congressional candidates. The Goldwater nomination will send the Republican party into eclipse for many years to come. And perhaps this isn't such a bad thing.

Rural dweller is skeptical on annexation

TO THE EDITOR

So part of St. Jerusalem now has the unique distinction of being twice annexed to the Town of Lachute. The first time was sometime in December, according to The Watchman edition Dec. 18, if you will remember. Somehow it looks more official this time. So I guess we can believe it.

There is one thing which puzzles me in this statement, upon which I would seek clarification. It says "the part of the Parish affected is largely the urban section, adjoining Lachute Town, as compared with the rural section comprised in the remainder." How large is largely? The urban section is very small in size compared with the rural section, though much more populated, as the voting proved. I can only think that this means that the urban section is going to be the one largely to benefit — a point which we in the rural area tried to emphasize before the voting. In other words, the town can, in all common sense, offer the rural area — nothing. So draw some more lines on your map, gentlemen — those who get, and those who don't.

Now that the battle is over, it is time to clean up the mess left behind. What about mail delivery, school buses, fence mending, ditch-digging, road cleaning, snowplowing, etc., etc.? Oh, I know that a project of this magnitude cannot be settled all at once, but it is time to put the thinking caps on, town fathers. If there is going to be a lighter side to this whole affair, I think it will come as we watch the town fathers desperately trying to avoid indigestion while masticating this giant chunk of real estate.

And we will be watching.

SUGAR AND SPICE

The Image Has Changed

By BILL SMILEY

As the school year draws towards its close, I can't help looking back on the past 10 months, my first hitch as head of the English department in our factory, with a mingling of amazement and amusement.

Bill Smiley

I am amazed that I have not gone down for the third time in a sea of paper. There were times when I rose to the surface only long enough to gulp a breath of ink, before being swept under by another wave of essays, or book report forms, or memos.

My amusement stems from another source—the old-fashioned image of the English teacher. There just ain't no such thing as a modern image of same.

For many years the image of the English teacher was fairly concrete.

It was that of a wispy, gentle spinster of either sex, wholly dedicated to the written word. The only person in town who actually read poetry. Some kind of a nut who actually believed Shakespeare was thrilling theatre.

When I hold up that image beside the gallery of characters who taught English in my department this year, I chortle. There isn't even the most remote resemblance.

Let's see, now. There's Jack, a vast young man of great good nature and courtly manner, who is a dead ringer for Henry VIII on one of the latter's good days. He's a beer drinker, a collector of antiques and a former advertising salesman.

There's Mac, a former golf pro. He's also an ex-bus driver, ex-house painter, ex-airman. He's an inveterate punster who writes some pretty funny stuff. As witness our production this year of his master-piece, "Julius Seize 'er", in which the principal character was Dr. Bladder from Gaul.

There's Jeanette, five-foot-nothing, 98 pounds of doe-eyed French-Canadian, who spent the first six months trying to convince the other teachers she was not one of the students, who can pin a six-foot 200-pound lout into paralyzed, petrified panic with one flash of those eyes.

There's Geoff, the young Englishman who came here after a year of teaching in a good English grammar school. He planned to spend a year in Canada, as a lark. He was horrified at the free-and-easy attitude of our teen-agers. He was appalled at our materialism and love of comfort. Now he has a car on the never-never plan, and is beefing about his salary. In short, he's become a typical Canadian.

We also have a gal who graduated in music, a former ambulance driver, an ex-chartered accountant, a dream-shattered social worker, and a lady who got sick of housekeeping

Not only do these birds not fit the old image of the English teacher; they don't fit the new one, either. There's not a beard in the bunch, an esthete in the ensemble, a pansy in the patch.

And not one, thank goodness, is "dedicated" to the teaching of English. None shivers in ecstasy over a sonnet, bursts into tears over the beauty of an ode. But I daresay my polyglot, hardworking crew has taught the kids more about English and about life than many an old gal whose idea of heaven was to make a journey to England and stand in reverence before the graves of the poets.

For Parents Only ...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints on Child Training.

(Copyright)

What about stealing?

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Stealing to parents on the North American continent is regarded as one of the worst things a child can do, while in Great Britain cruelty to animals is the Number One disgrace."

This is one of the ideas of the famous anthropologist, Dr. Margaret Mead, who comments on the thought-provoking National Film Board's Four Families (in India, Japan, France and Western Canada).

What about a child stealing? Do you feel that because a father and mother would never steal, their son or daughter will have a respect for other people's property? Is honesty, not only the best policy, but something a child inherits?

A very little child may bring home another child's plaything quite openly. He has no very clear idea of the idea of ownership. If he sees a toy he likes and wants, he picks it up and makes off with it.

A parent should not be too alarmed about this, neither should they do nothing about it. They haven't a small thief on their hands who must be filled with guilt. But they do have a child who must learn that an article which does not belong to him, must be returned to its rightful owner.

The older school age child knows he is doing wrong when he steals. Why does he do it? If he steals money it may be that he has a much smaller allowance than his friends and he is trying, in this way, to keep up with them. If he is shy and lonely, perhaps he takes money (he finds at home) to try to buy popularity. By treating his acquaintance with candy he believes he will become a welcome member of their gang.

Social workers have discovered that there is often a very direct connection between unhappiness and youthful thieving, especially in early adolescence. The child may get into trouble with the law whose parents are very busy with their own lives and give their son or daughter little companionship or affection.

Some children even seem to steal to force their parents to notice them. Others appear determined to bring disgrace on their family in a move to get even with parents who are too strict or unfair in their rules and who do not give the child a happy home life.

It is natural for a child to want similar possessions to those of the other children in a school class. Teen-age girls are acutely conscious of fewer and poorer clothes, than their chums. Sometimes, they are tempted to steal articles to wear.

What should a parent do who finds out that a son or daughter has stolen something? Sometimes an effort is made to hide the whole incident because they want to avoid gossip and disgrace.

But the important thing is for the child to realize he is not allowed to steal. Mother or Dad must see to it that the stolen article is returned with the least public shame or fuss possible. At the same time the child must feel the parents' loving concern. He has made a mistake in stealing but his parents believe he won't repeat this.

Stealing by a gang of adolescents, usually boys, sometimes to express their rebellion against grown-ups, is quite a different matter from individuals thieving. Often a boy from a good home, in a desire to belong with the other fellows, will go along with them on a "swiping" adventure. He gets a thrill from the danger and a sense of accomplishment in outwitting store clerks and police.

This is best prevented by home, school and community projects and athletics. Hobbies are good, and happy family times. Isaac Watts' words are true:

"Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling, and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. Look for the blue box with the red band at all drug counters. You can depend on Dodd's. 60

The season for chicken broilers; perfect for outdoor cooking

Succulent chickens roasting on spits, and hungry-eyed children eager for "seconds", make outdoor cooking a real pleasure in summertime. Whether you are planning a family cook-out or an indoor dinner for friends, chicken broilers are a perfect choice for any occasion.

Chicken broilers or broiler-fryers are in plentiful supply right now and are an economical meat buy. It pays to get an extra chicken or two to hold in the freezer for ready use.

These tender young chickens are marketed from 6 to 10 weeks of age, and weigh from 1½ to 4 pounds. To choose good broilers, look for the trade mark. You will find it on a metal tag on the breast of the bird or printed on the transparent bag or an insert inside the bag. The most commonly found grade is Canada Grade A (red tag) which ensures a well formed, well fleshed bird.

Broilers are sold fresh or frozen. They are available whole or split down the back into 2 halves; cut into 4 quarters; or cut into pieces — breasts, drumsticks, thighs, and wings. Large food stores sell rotisserie cooked broilers too. This is a convenience item and cost versus time saving must be considered.

When buying chicken for your family, allow ¾ pound per person as an average serving.

There are many ways to cook broilers. Whole birds may be roasted, barbecued, or rotisserie cooked. Cut-up chickens may be fried, butter baked, broil-baked, butterbaked or barbecued.

The home economists of the Consumer Section suggest boning the legs and breasts of the broilers, filling them with your favorite bread stuffing, and "butter baking" them. Here is a recipe they have tried and found successful:

Butter Baked Chicken Rolls

"Tender boned chicken pieces with a savory stuffing baked in butter to golden perfection."

3 Whole chicken breasts (or 6 whole chicken legs with drumstick and thigh), 3 cups bread stuffing, salt, pepper, paprika, ¼ cup melted butter.

To bone chicken breast: To remove the centre bone or keel bone place whole breast skin side down and press sides flat. Cut the pearl-like cartilage at the neck end of the keel bone and with fingers snap out keel bone.

To remove rib bones, use a small sharp pointed knife and cut between the flesh and rib cage, as close as possible to the rib bones, from centre of breast to outer edge. Repeat on other half of breast.

To bone the leg: Place leg skin side down. With a small sharp pointed knife, cut down the centre, from top of thigh to tip of drumstick, following the leg bones. Scrape meat away from bones with point of knife and lift out bones.

To stuff and butter bake the chicken: Place 1 cup well-seasoned bread stuffing on boned breast. Fold over and fasten with skewers. Place ¼ cup stuffing on thigh end of leg. Fold drumstick end over top and fasten with skewers.

Sprinkle chicken with salt, pepper and paprika. Arrange in greased baking dish and pour melted butter over it. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until tender. Turn and baste at half time. Cooking time: breasts about 1¼ hours; legs about 1¼ hours. 6 servings.

Pickled eggs

The Poultry Products Institute of Canada frequently receive requests for their pickled egg recipe, and since summer is a good time to serve these nippy appetizers or salad garnishes, the recipe is offered below. They may be eaten out of hand with a cold beverage or sliced or quartered and served to dress up a potato or seafood salad. To add a little glamour they may be tinted by letting them stand for a few minutes in beet juice, or add just a drop or two of yellow or green food coloring to the pickling mixture. Do not tint them too dark. They are much more attractive when just lightly tinted.

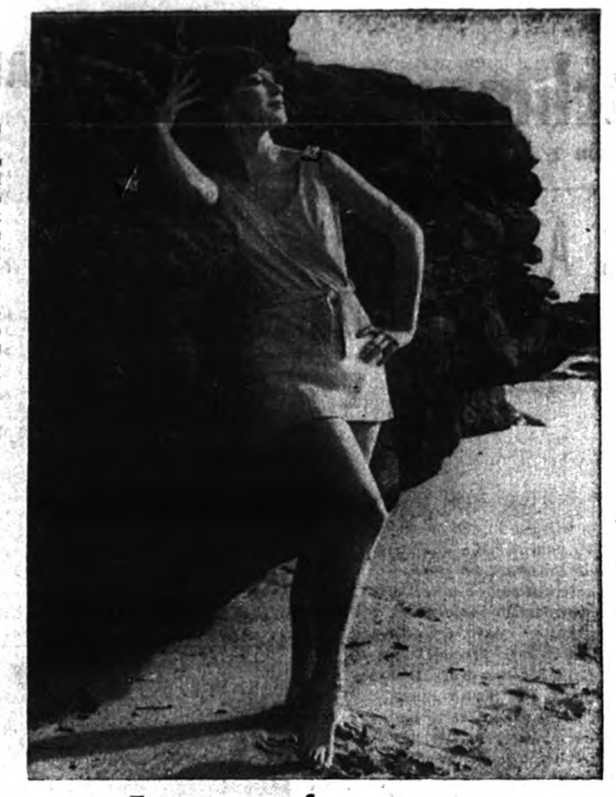

Pickled Eggs

3 Cups white vinegar, 1½ cups water, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 teaspoon pepper berries (or ground black pepper), 2 tablespoons sliced ginger root (or ½ teaspoon celery seed).

Put the spices into a small cotton bag or a bag made from several thicknesses of cheese cloth. Put the bag into the vinegar with salt and water and boil 10 minutes. Remove spice bag and let solution cool. Hard-cook a dozen eggs, dash into cold water to cool rapidly and remove shells. Pack eggs into half-gallon, quart or pint sealers. Pour in pickling solution at least two days before using.

(Note: If preferred, spices may be omitted or sugar added. Sliced onion or clove of garlic may be added if desired).

Pickled eggs may be used sliced as a garnish, in salads, as a relish, served whole or cut in half to eat out of hand.

Texstyles Column

— By —
MADELEINE LEVASON

Here is bad news for any consumer who still clings to the hope that someday she will "know all about the new fabrics". Developments come so thick and fast that textile experts are hard put keeping up with them.

It is said that the science of making textiles has advanced more in the past 25 years than in any other period of human history. Certainly each new development seems to lead to others, and so much has happened in modern textile research we can expect much more.

The consumer who is bewildered by the variety of fibres, fabrics, finishes and performance qualities, must learn to concentrate on tags and labels that tell her what fabrics will and won't do for her.

A recent Texstyles column dealt with the development of laminated fabrics in Canada. I wrote then: "Only four years ago the plastic foam, first developed as an insulator for aircraft, was adapted as lining for cold weather clothing. Look what has happened to laminates since then.

Well, look what has happened to laminates since you read that column.

A brand new development has set the home furnishings industry agog and aroused the interest of Canadian manufacturers of men's,

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

With summer coming on, nervousness about the possibility of food poisoning looms a little larger than it does in the winter. It's picnic time, when food stays out of the refrigerator for long periods before it is eaten. Hot, humid weather does give food-poisoning bacteria their favorite growing climate.

There are a few sensible precautions which help prevent bacterial growth.

Guilty food may not look or smell or even taste spoiled. If you have any reason to be suspicious, boil the food before you try tasting it, or throw it out and eat something else.

Cleanliness from start to finish is the most important single factor in preventing food poisoning. Start by buying it in a clean store. Wash all food, even though you will be cooking it. Prepare, cook, store, and eat it in clean surroundings. If you have an open cut or sore, cover it before you handle food. All food should be protected from insects, animals, and people who have coughs or sneezes.

Heat Destroys

Very high temperatures will destroy most bacteria. Foods cooked quickly, at high temperatures, are more likely to be safe than uncooked foods or those cooked slowly at low temperatures.

Commercially canned foods are almost sure to be uncontaminated until the cans are open, then they must be handled the same way as any other food.

Bacteria don't like acid atmospheres. Acid ingredients such as vinegar, lemon juice, salad dressings, pickles and ketchup can help protect your picnic sandwich fillings.

Continuous refrigeration helps, too. The longer the time between preparing and eating the food, the greater the danger of food poisoning bacteria developing. Prepare food as close to mealtime as possible and keep it covered and cold until it is time to serve it.

Be Suspicious

One advtantage is that the foods you want to take on picnics most often are among the foods least susceptible to food poisoning bacteria. They include bread, cheese (except cream and cottage), cured or pickled meats, peanut butter, washed raw or cooked fruits, washed raw or cooked vegetables, most commercially canned food and sweet foods such as jams and jellies.

Foods which are most susceptible because they are perishable and because they give bacteria a better medium for growth include: milk and cream, cream-filled pies, cakes and pastries, fresh meat especially minced, fish and poultry and bread stuffings, especially those prepared ahead of cooking time.

One thing to keep in mind is that inexperienced people preparing large quantities of food in unfamiliar surroundings may overlook some safety precautions in the efforts to get everything done. If the church or club is having a summer party, everyone should be aware of the precautions, and be a bit fussy about following them.

Japanese women go for pharmacy

Pharmaceutical colleges in Japan report that the trend first noted in 1960 towards a predominance of women students has continued and shows no sign of slackening.

Until 1960, most pharmacy students were male but in that year, the number of women who passed government examinations exceeded the number of males. Since that time, the ratio of six women graduates to every four or five men has been normal.

The total number of pharmacists in Japan still shows men in the lead with 38,000 and 24,000 women, but it is expected that this gap will be narrowed in future years.

women's and children's clothing. A chemical quilting process that eliminates sewing is the new development in laminates "hot out of the lab".

Quilting by chemistry is described as a major breakthrough which offers many advantages to manufacturers of clothing and furnishings, as well as promising more exciting things to come. Quilting designs can be applied to any type of material that has been laminated to a particular foam. The chemical draws the fabric into the design and sets permanently.

Patterns are applied by rollers in the same way prints are applied to cloth. No sewing means no stitches to break in production, washing or cleaning. No needle holes also means more waterproofness for outerwear, all obvious advantages for quilted housecoats, ski jackets and snow suits.

However, the most exciting fashion aspect of the first chemically quilted fabrics was the intricacy of the designs. Elaborate patterns which would be mechanically or economically impossible to produce by the usual stitching methods, were shown on a variety of fabrics.

The thick three-dimensional quilted effects obtained by the chemical stitching will look even more luxurious on furniture, bedspreads, pillows, mattresses and other decorative accessories. The draping qualities of the new fabrics are also being tried out in insulated draperies.

Although the new fabrics were only recently unveiled for the clothing and furniture trades, production is forging ahead. Canadian consumers won't have to wait long for a personal look at chemical quilting.

Succeeds to presidency of A&P

Gaetan N. Provost, Executive Vice-President and a Director of the Great A&P Tea Co., Ltd., since 1961, was elected President at the annual meeting of the company's Board of Directors. The announcement was made by Lawrence M. Cazayoux, Vice-Chairman of the Board. Mr. Provost succeeds Lawrence W. Beebe, who retired on May 1, after heading A&P in Canada for 35 years.

Mr. Provost, a native of Marieville, Que., joined the company in 1930 as an office clerk in Montreal. He later became a Store Manager and Assistant Sales Manager in that city. In 1936 he was named Office Manager in Montreal and in 1938 was assigned to the A&P's Toronto sales headquarters.

In World War II, he served in the RCAF for three years, enlisting as a Pilot Officer and retiring as a Squadron Leader. In 1945 he joined the company's sales department in Montreal and three years later was appointed Sales Manager of A&P's entire retailing operations in Canada. He was promoted to Superintendent in 1955, and in 1961 was elected a Director and Executive Vice-President.

A&P operates retail food stores in the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta.

Sharing

Even a jot, we own not,
just share;
But lucky to know it everywhere.

Sometimes I laugh to share the sunrise with God;
And a tear too has been known to steal, to the sod.

Add life-giving blood to growing things
Like flowers and trees, and birds with wings!

Wisdom should tell you,
your loved ones are shared;
No matter how much you've cared, and cared.

The thing that's you, we call it soul,
Is shared with God, 'til we reach our goal.

Funny, isn't it, that knowing all this,
So often, the point we sadly miss . . .

The wealthy, conscience-smitten, lie awake,
Figuring how, their things, they can take —

With them . . . wherever they go . . .
Never seeing the secret, to share, and live —

As God did to them, in trust, to forgive

Those less fortunate than they Who stand sometimes, in their every way.

Strange how their fortunes, wrapped up in shares
Bring worry, mistrust, and very great cares.

Our English language, not always
Leaves "share" meaning two things, like "love" and "visit".

"Share", to the wealthy means money.
If 'twere not so tragic it would be funny.

Moth and rust, share wealth, so fleeting
Even to the rich, in the midst of their eating . . .

While millions starve, on God's good Earth;
Because of our souls' barren-like dearth.

God shares His whole World with birds, beasts and men Wondering and hoping, when, when, when? . . .

Will they open their eyes and really see
That sharing, is the only path to Me!

A SUMMER BURNING

I've been reading Hal Boyle's book, A Summer Burning, just published by Doubleday & Company. It has filled me with nostalgia for my own boyhood in a small Manitoba town. Boyle's novel has a farm locale, but that's fine by me because we town kids spent every possible hour on nearby farms, and usually worked on a farm in Summer holidays.

What I remember, however, is the small town itself and the things we did. There was a local grist mill. There was a water tower which even the most timid boy in town climbed. The daredevils stood with only one foot on the little pipe at its very top.

The skating rink was the social centre in Winter. Every boy in town, I think, had a season's ticket. Best sport of all was to get into the rink in Spring, after the season had closed, and steal some skating. The thrill of wondering about being caught at it was half the fun. Adults don't seem to skate very much these days. We skated almost every night in Winter, and in the Spring we either "broke-in" to the rink (the caretaker always left a window open for us), or trudged a mile or two to the nearby ponds. Finding rubber ice was big stuff.

There was, in my town as in all others, a Chinese restaurant. This was the gathering spot for the kids. How Barry Lee put up with us I don't know. He's an old man now, but he remembers every youngster from the town. A favorite sport is to go back home and call at Barry's He ALWAYS remembers the name!

Saturday night was a big night. All the farmers came to town, the movies changed, and there was a dance in the Town Hall.

These are things you will remember when you read Boyle's book, A Summer Burning. You'll enjoy his recollections; but you'll enjoy even more the way his story prompts your own memory to bring up long-forgotten adventures.

I haven't quite finished the novel yet. I won't tell you the story, for that would spoil it. I'm reading it slowly, a chapter at a time, savouring it. I hope you get yourself a copy and read it too. If you come from a farm or a small town, it will be a genuine joy to you.

'Open house' at Eastern Breeders

Eastern Breeders are holding "open house" at both the Kemptville and Belleville Barns from 2 to 4 p.m. for the first three Sundays in June. All facilities, barns, laboratories and offices are open for inspection, with directors and staff on hand to explain this example of "Science in action in Agriculture".

To add to the enjoyment of a family visit, refreshments are available, and there will be a guessing game which has a prize of five free services to E.B.I. outstanding sires. Members of Eastern Breeders and the general public are most welcome.

NATION'S BUSINESS RIDES ANOTHER WAVE

The press kit that lies on my desk announces the realization of another miracle in this age of never ending miracles.

On a warm early May afternoon the voices of the presidents of our two operating railroads in Canada, Mr. N. R. Crump, Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific, and Mr. Donald Gordon, Chairman and President, Canadian National, joined in a ceremony with that of the Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, Minister of Transport in the Federal Government, to inaugurate a new microwave network.

I was fascinated, as I am sure most Canadians will be, by some of the statistics concerning this new service, which not only adds to the rapid transmission of business data, but to the defence system of our country.

How far we have come from those days of radio when we hovered over tiny crystal sets, earphones glued to our human auditory systems while our fingers sensitively tried to bring in sound by scratching a little round disc with a piece of wire as fine as a hair!

Covering an area of more than 3,000 miles between Montreal and Vancouver, this new microwave wonder cost $41,000,000. Let me write that, it is so much more impressive — forty-one million dollars! Initially available are duplicate two-way radio frequency channels capable of providing 600 voice channels. Additional channels may be added to increase capacity to 3,600. There are 127 towers supporting two or more dish-shaped antennae. These relay the microwave signals over the network.

It would be foreign to my feminine nature, or technical know-how, to write about most of the mechanical and engineering feats accomplished during the network's construction. But one or two I can appreciate and be thrilled by man's ingenuity in face of supposedly unsurmountable obstacles.

In Layman's Words

Weather during the 18 months it took to complete the undertaking ranged from 95 degrees above to 54 below zero. Many places where towers had to be erected, for microwaves travel only in a straight line, there were no topographical maps available, making calculations and path profiles difficult. Helicopters were used in one instance to lower power line poles into holes which had been dynamited out of rock and in another, the tops of two mountains were sheered off, making it possible to erect other towers in a direct line.

After mayors of eight Canadian cities received Mr. Pickersgill's message over the system and had replied with their congratulations, Donald Gordon summed up the new network's worth to the nation in these words: "The value of this microwave system has been mentioned before but I don't think it hurts to underline it. No society in our time can hope to expand and develop without the aid of a nationwide communication system for the transmission not only of the human voice, but even more importantly the avalanche of data that is consumed everyday in any highly technical society. And I might mention what perhaps is less generally known, namely, that this system has added a powerful Canadian communications link between the United Kingdom, New Zealand and Australia. In a very real sense then this microwave system represents an important contribution to the welfare of a very large section of humanity."

The serpent and rod are the symbols of the healer and doctor. Medical corpsmen are schooled at Camp Borden, Ont.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY,
Macdonald College

How good are your pastures? Does an acre give you the feed for $40 worth of milk or for $300?

Here is an easy way to find out this summer. Take the figure for the total amount of milk the herd produced during the season. Divide into it the number of acres of pasture used.

The answer is the number of lbs. milk per acre. If yours is less than 2,000 lbs. per acre, don't tell anyone about it; if you are turning out between 7,000 and 10,000 lbs. per acre, then you are up with the country's best.

These figures aren't exaggerated; they are within the normal range of pasture yields. You have seen farms where ten cows find a poor living on thirty acres. His neighbor may have forty cows on twenty acres.

What's the difference? Last year, as one of the judges for the pasture competition in eastern Ontario, I had a chance to compare. Perhaps I can use Gerard Massie, who has been the winner in Glengarry County for two years, for an example.

If I remember correctly, Gerard's pastures scored 167 out of a possible 200. Here is how they looked to the judges.

The three small fields were close to the barns; cows didn't have to walk far. Full score. Shade and water in the fields. Full score.

Stand was thick and vigorous; good balance between grass and legumes; winterkilling in some spots; some criticism of the tall Fescue present; 25 out of 30.

Fertility program was excellent; manure one autumn, commercial fertilizer by soil test the next; sometimes both. Superphosphate in the stable in winter. Score 26 out of 30.

Grazing system very good. Each small field divided by an electric fence, for a total of six plots.

Cows moved to fresh plot every three or four days. A smaller, fresh strip daily would have earned him a perfect score.

Clipping and harrowing were both efficient. Gerard ran the chain harrows over the pastures several times a year to keep them from getting spotty. He clipped them once or twice. Full score.

Weeds were hard to find. He didn't spray with chemicals, but relied on a clean field to start and the competition of a vigorous, fertile sod: 13 out of 15.

His pastures were not overgrazed. He took the cows off while there was still 3 in. or 4 in. left. One section was somewhat undergrazed, but it was a good fault.

His "provision for early pasture" was a section seeded to early Dupuis alfalfa. His "provision for late pasture" in October was an aftermath field shut off during September.

In the category "efficient use of forage crops and grain supplement", he scored high. Grain went only to those cows milking over 25 lbs. a day. Dry hay was in racks in the barnyard at all times. Minerals were in boxes in the fields.

Altogether, Gerard had a very good program, and he competed strongly in the zone contest. More important, he found it paid; his milk yield was around 7,000 lbs. per acre, for an annual cash outlay of less than $15.

If any group would like to sponsor a local pasture competition, I would be pleased to be asked to judge. Fifteen or twenty is a good number.

Last week, I was down in Vermont for two days, learning more about farm bookkeeping with computers. It is nothing less than uncanny to watch those macnines translate holes in a card into facts, figures and statements. I hope the day never comes when I have to say "yes, sir" to a metal box, flashing red, yellow and green lights.

Pat Taylor, Grade IX student at Lachute High School, receives from Mansiel Wilson, president of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, the Sterling Pollock Trophy and $100 award as first prize winner in a province-wide Conservation essay contest. Principal Fred Royal (left), who arranged the presentation before the assembled school and staff, looks on approvingly.

This trophy stays in possession of LHS for one year. Miss Taylor received a duplicate trophy to be retained by her. In thanking the donors, she stated the cash would be used in furthering her education after graduating.

LHS girl wins province-wide essay contest on Conservation

Patricia Taylor, 15-year-old Grade IX student of Lachute High School, received the Sterling Pollock Trophy and a $100 cheque for the best English essay in the provincial contest organized by Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations. Subject of the 1964 contest was Conservation.

Manny R. Wilson, well known Argenteuil County citizen and president of Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, presented the trophy and a cheque to the winner. Also present was Michel Berthiaume, of l'Ecole Secondaire, who was presented with a $10 cash award as third prize winner in the French-language competitors. Fifteen other money prizes will also be forwarded to other students in Quebec. . . Mr. Wilson regretted the absence of Mr. Sterling Pollock, donor of the award (also a member of a well known local family), through reasons of health.

The event took place in the assembly hall of the Lachute High School last Thursday afternoon, in the presence of the teachers and the student body. Principal Fred Royal introduced the guests, and publicly thanked the Federation for its efforts in Conservation and its interest in education.

Following the presentation of the prizes, Mr. Wilson explained the objectives of the Federation.

Also in attendance, in addition to the teaching staff and the students, were Hector Lepage, president, and Denis St-Jacques, secretary, of the Argenteuil Fish and Game Association; representatives of the press; Rev. Frère Emile Bayard, director of l'Ecole Secondaire; Ernest Pleau, director of the Federation and president of the Montreal Sportsman's Show; and Paul E. Pageau, the secretary-manager of the Federation.

Miss M. MacLachlan, the Grade IX-A teacher at Lachute High School, was presented with an attache case, as a gift for her contribution to the Essay Contest.

Pair charged with assaulting girl

Two local youths, aged 19 and 21 respectively, are in Quebec Provincial Police cells following their arrest Monday night on a charge of criminal assault on a 13-year-old Hawkesbury girl.

The incident is reported to have occurred in Grenville on Sunday afternoon, June 7. According to investigating police officers, the two youths picked up the young girl in a Hawkesbury restaurant and offered to take her for a drive. They crossed the bridge and in the Grenvilla area stopped in front of a trailer home, where she was attacked.

The pair will appear in St. Jerome court on Friday of this week.

Recognition by Red Cross

Miss Marion MacLachlan was honored with the presentation of a Red Cross service badge of merit, in recognition of her outstanding work in promoting Junior Red Cross activities among school-agers since 1946. Miss MacLachlan (left) is Grade IX teacher at Lachute High School.

Seen making the presentation is Mrs. Fernand Legault, president of the Lachute Red Cross Unit. The ceremony took place before pupils and staff in the school auditorium last Thursday (in conjunction with Conservation essay contest awards, reported elsewhere on this page). Mrs. Legault was accompanied on the platform by Mrs. Harry Booth, secretary of the local Red Cross.

LACHUTE SPRING FAIR OPENS

Keen public interest foreseen

Human effort has exerted its utmost, to ensure the high interest and successful outcome of Lachute Spring Fair, which opened its doors today (Wednesday) for a four-day run. . . It remains only for the weatherman to co-operate; and his mood, at this season of the year, is unpredictable. Earlier this week — in a gamut of rain showers, high winds and near-frost, interspersed with warm, sunny spells — the weather was anyone's guess; so the Fair directors, and all concerned, have their fingers crossed for considerate treatment.

Secretary-manager Ken Riley stated, earlier in the preparations, that more new exhibitors were being attracted this year. There is the greatest entry of heavy horses this fair has ever seen, including a full house of four-horse and six-horse outfits which will make a really impressive show. Both the Light Draft and Heavy Draft classes are filled beyond those of previous years, and this promises to be "the greatest horse show in eastern Canada with exception of the Royal Winter Fair".

The poultry building will be filled to capacity with its variety of poultry and waterfowl. Also, the sheep and swine entries are excellent again this year. In the livestock classes at Lachute, the top breeders in Canada are numbered in all entry lists.

The grandstand will ring with excitement, featuring an excellent horse show each afternoon and evening, while the service clubs have a good program of entertainment for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, with the Richelieu Club holding races Saturday afternoon.

Another Saturday addition will be the joint bands of the Lachute Army Cadets and the Shawbridge Boys' Farm. . . Other information on entertainment is given in this issue.

Doctor appointed to hospital post

Dr. J. Lester McCallum, a native of this County and graduate of Lachute Academy, has been promoted to the rank of Senior Physician at the Montreal General Hospital. He also has been appointed Chief Examiner in Medicine for the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada for a five-year term.

It happened 75 years ago

The Watchman, June 21, 1889:

The first attempt at street lighting in Lachute was inaugurated this week when the Edison Co. started their new dynamo in the paper mill. Mr. Wilson has erected four lights outside, of 32 candlepower. The light at Lamarche's corner was beautiful to behold. The night was not dark, yet from Todd's corner to the post-office every plank in the sidewalk was distinctly visible. . . The street lights will be kept burning until 12 o'clock, when by simply pulling a plug they will be turned off. . . The citizens are grateful to Mr. Wilson for his generosity in this important step.

Big-time rhubarb!

A giant rhubarb stalk from the garden of Roland Maxwell, Beech Ridge, is seen here displayed by Hector Lepage of Lachute. The stem is actually 7½ inches in circumference and the leaf is 42 inches across.

Requests, representations, other details at adjourned Council meeting

On behalf of the Richelieu Club, Jean-Louis Blais asked Town Council, and was granted, permission to use the civic auditorium on Friday evening, July 3, for a bingo in aid of the club's charity funds. The applicant was not so lucky in requesting permission to use loudspeakers. These are now banned on the streets. . . Alderman François Charlebois was the only one ready to revoke the decision. The mayor informed him there had been numerous complaints, and the alderman asked him if he would produce for Council a list of those who had protested this practice.

The Carrefour du Livre sent a letter acknowledging the town's grant of $1,500.

The St. Jean Baptiste Society was authorized to hold a parade and sell tags on the streets.

Council acknowledged a cheque of $3,280 — representing 50 per cent reimbursement, as the fifth payment on a $32,500 five-year grant. This was in connection with municipal waterworks improvement and debt service, through the Department of Municipal Affairs.

A letter from Dr. Gustave Prévost asking Council to proceed on the construction of a sewage treatment plant, was filed for attention.

Council declined to amend the zoning law so that Albert Mady might add a dining room to his Brownsburg Road establishment.

Further to the move to procure Thursday evening business hours, the councillors asked the Chamber of Commerce to submit a clearcut opinion and recommendation on this subject.

Ald. Ed McFaul gave notice of motion for the homologation of land along Main Street West, and Ald. L. W. Armstrong gave notice for a by-law concerning the cleaning and maintenance of municipal streets in general.

Ald. Lepage asked that the curfew law be applied more rigidly.

Sgt. Chartrand, who has been acting police chief since March 1, received a bonus of $300 for services and responsibilities assumed — being at the rate of $20 for 15 weeks, without affecting his present salary.

Near closing for Concerts membership

Budgeting their expenditures, and selecting the remaining concerts, is on the early agenda of the Community Concerts Association directors. The membership returns will be called in from canvassers who have not finally reported. There is still time for intending subscribers to enrol for the 1964-65 season, for which at least one outstanding attraction has been reserved (the Golden Curtain Quartet) and two other entertainments remain to be chosen.

The campaign co-chairmen, Miss Juliette Rodrigue (LO 2-6057) and Mrs. G. R. Rigby (LO 2-5733) will gladly attend to any last-minute applicants for membership.

Divided vote - $300 grant given for tourist kiosk

At an adjourned Council sitting Monday evening, the Chamber of Commerce was voted a grant of $300 towards maintenance of the tourist information kiosk this coming season. Like other requests for aid, passing of this measure was not unruffled or screne, however. . .

The mayor, Dave Campbell, presided, and the chairman of the civic grants committee, Ald. J. O. Desjardins, was absent. The vote resulted in a 4-4 division. . . Mayor Campbell declined to cast the deciding vote, but relinquished his seat to the pro-mayor, Ald. Laurier Carrière, to vote as he saw fit. Mr. Carrière turned the tide in favor, and the $300 was granted. . . Explaining this procedure, the mayor observed that he had already "had words" with the Chamber of Commerce, and on this occasion preferred to abstain from the vote.

The $300 grant was passed on amendment to the original motion, which was for a $250 grant.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce was President Bertrand L'Heureux, who submitted a request for $600. The season's salaries for the tourist bureau ran to $585 last year, and there were 664 car drivers stopping for information, he said. "We received a total of $806 to establish this facility, including $100 from the town, and we finished the season with a $243 deficit."

To stand trial in libel action by union organizer

At court in St. Jerome last week, three men were sent to trial on a charge of defamatory libel — François Gagné, Maurice Therrien and Luc Labonne. Judge Camille L. de Martigny, presiding at the arraignment, will decide June 25 on grounds for trial of a fourth man involved, Doris Champagne. All four are on provisional release, having furnished individual bail of $500.

The four were brought to court in an action by Lucien Giroux, union organizer, charging they had distributed a defamatory letter against him. The plaintiff is represented by Lucien Thinel, of St. Jerome. Attorney for the defendants is Antonio Lamer, of Montreal.

The incident occurred last fall when the letter, allegedly attacking the character and integrity of the plaintiff, was distributed among workers at Dominion Ayers Wood Products. Originating with a rival union, the circular denounced Lucien Giroux, who was then organizer for the "Confédération des Syndicats Nationaux".

The trial of the three mentioned will come up at the fall assizes in St. Jerome.

Rotary fund raisers for park, swimming pool

This eye-catching booth of the Rotary Club caught the attention of Main Street shopping crowds. Parked on the Lacasse Automobiles display ground, the Rotarians sold 10-gallon straw hats for Lachute Fair, also tickets on their drawing for four portable TV sets. A perennial customer and supporter is Gordon (Dick) Hampton, seen at the right with Rotarian Keith Wilson. Salesmen on the float are Rotarians Raymond Underhill (left) and Alex Kerr.

Hooded bandits rob bank at Arundel

The Arundel branch of the Bank of Montreal was the scene of another hold-up on Friday afternoon of last week, when two yellow-hooded bandits, with hands in their pockets suggesting they were armed with revolvers, fled with over $11,500 from the bank.

Q.P.P. Agent Jean-Paul Dallaire, officer in charge of the local detachment, reported the pair walked into the bank shortly before the three o'clock closing time and forced the employees, Miss Lois Grey and Jean-Jacques Piché, to lie on the floor, while Manager J. Harkins was forced to open the safe. A customer in the bank at the time of the robbery, Mrs. Mary Graham, was ordered to sit near the wall with her child and stay quiet, and she would not be hurt.

It is reported that the bandits were in the bank almost 15 minutes, and it was stated by Officer Dallaire that the summons to the robbery was received actually while the hold-up was taking place. However, there was no police car in the northern part of the County at the time, and by the time the cars were dispatched from Lachute to Arundel, the robbers had left little evidence of their direction or destination.

It was reported that two cars had been used during the robbery, and one of these was found in the bush on White's Road on Monday of this week, near the home of Charlie Davis. The car had been stolen in Montreal on Friday, the day of the robbery.

The thieves are reported to have stolen the bank manager's revolver during the hold-up.

The Q.P.P. hold-up squad is working with the local detachment, in connection with the robbery.

On June 22, 1962, three masked men entered the bank around noon and staged a hold-up which netted them an estimated $9,000. Manager at that time was D. P. Murray. . . One bandit was killed and three others escaped with $5,700 on July 27 of the previous year, following another successful robbery. Manager Chas. Ferran saw the bandits about to enter the bank and rushed to his upstairs apartment. He fired at the departing thugs with a shotgun, and a bandit's body was later found abandoned in the getaway truck. Prior to leaving the village on that occasion, the bandits riddled the street with machine-gun bullets.

Snow in June

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Another one of those "queer" government manoeuvres. I have just heard of leases being cancelled in some private clubs in the Arundel - St. Jovite area. One in particular, burns me up. Some of you fishermen may know of this club; Fraser or Hess lake is the location. Now this club has been leased for 28 years under the one group, a reasonable club that is quite unlike some of the bigger outfits who care nothing for laws or regulations. Naturally, in this long period many improvements have been made, cottages, roads, etc. . . With no warning, the lease is up, and with no reimbursement for improvements or anything left on the property. We all know that leases are subject to cancellation at any time, so we assume the operators know this; what I am really interested in, is — what happens to these lakes, the fish, game, etc., if these areas are to be taken over by some development company for resale? Or will it be like other cases where leases have been cancelled and given to someone else? Remember all the publicity given when certain of the northern leases were stopped. Great shouts of triumph from the government! Actually, they do not tell you that more land is under lease right now than ever before. Is this going to be another Carillon Island joke? It sure looks as though someone is going to make a sackful out of this. . . Another question is — why the lack of publicity on these happenings?

The whole country seems to have been favored with good fishing during this past week; but as you know, no tried-and-true method of catching them has been developed as yet. This would be the reason some fellows, fishing the same lakes as others, did not come up with anything worthwhile. Take the recent fish derby; most of the tried and proven lures failed to connect at all (trolling or spinning), while a couple of the ardent anglers who believe in trying EVERYTHING, got catches. The winning specimen was taken on a Firey fly, trolling type. This particular fly has been exceptional so far; in almost every case this year, fish have been taken.

For anyone wanting to tie it and try it, here it is; first of all it is a tandem fly, that is, a large up-eye, short shank hook at the rear, tied in with heavy mono line to a long shank down-eye size 6, the rear fly should be a No. 4 for best results. Here is my way of tieing it: use a 20-lb. mono about 3 inches long, lay on the shank of the short hook, whip waxed thread over it right down to the bend; then use red tinsel, wind this right up to the eye, tie in very well, then use a soft Guinea Hen (Gallena) hackle feather; do not peel this but leave it double so that it is bushy — also, do not trim this, as the more action to the feather the better it will be. Run the mono through the eye of the short shank, place on TOP of the long shank, bind in with waxed thread as before. Red tinsel to the eye; then cut about 20 strands of BLUE bucktail, tie in along the body, place about 24 fonds of peacock-tail feather on top of this; tie in very securely, as this takes a real beating when trolled. Use another long Guinea hackle; again, do not peel; wind this in, smoothing it back toward the bucktail and feathers; in other words have the hackle outside of the wings. Lacquer this, and that is all. — Good luck with it.

Fishing up towards Dunany, I had a wonderful opportunity of watching a mother fox with two kits, for about 10 minutes. I had been fishing down a small creek, with very high and noisy winds prevailing. Coming into an open spot I spotted one very small animal. I waited for a short time; another came out, followed by the mother. At the time the winds were in the right direction, away from me. The kits were very young, as they still were shaky on their feet. The mother was, I would gather, giving them the ins and outs of self-sufficiency; one of the young was intent on digging away at a small hole. The mother, however, was not very interested in this; it could have been a hovel for some mice that had long since departed. That did not deter the digger, however, for the earth really flew. . . Just about this time the wind changed — a short yap, and there was nothing! Too bad, as this was more interesting than trying to fish.

Some favorable reports on our parks from recent tourists. A Mr. Bannon of New York City stated that the parks he had visited in the past weeks had changed so much that, if the progress continued, within a few years they would be equal to parks in the State of New York. This is saying a lot, too, as the N.Y. parks are some of the best in the world. Everything was being done to make the tourists stay as long as possible, and there was no trouble with the language, this visitor reported. The Minister knows well that, if progress is to be made, English must be spoken by these park personnel. There was only one case of language difficulty that I heard of, and if this is the only one, then we are well on the way to growing up.

Most of us know the Safety Afloat manual by heart, and try to observe the laws and tips printed therein. However, there are still those few who think the regulations are for everyone else, not for them. I have been informed Lake Louise is getting to be a hot-rod lake already in the season. Near-misses, swampings, etc., have been caused by a couple of smart and stupid youngsters driving boats much too powerful for them, without a parent or adult accompanying them. . . A powerboat must slow down to pass a slower-moving boat, and the slower boat always has the right of way — a rule disregarded by these drivers. Another touchy point, some of these boats have been cutting in close to others, either to show off or to deliberately swamp them. Most parents would not think of letting a youngster drive their cars without some sort of control, yet it appears these same parents are allowing them to drive boats with the same killing-potential. . . It should be realized that all young people like to show off, even the girls; and what's more, in an emergency, there's the mental capacity of these youngsters to be considered. I do agree the young can and should handle boats, BUT, with proper supervision only. This could save a tragedy.

Reading up on hamsters, and why they make such good pets — I never knew that this is the only fur-bearing animal that has never developed rabies. Also, it is not subject to the diseases of our most popular pets. This little animal is friendly, very clean, easily handled, very affectionate — in other words, a good choice for a pet.

This is not the time to write of hunting, yet certain conditions continue which require some mention. You all will remember the talk on schooling of hunters, this past couple of years; how everyone was going to be taught to handle guns — at least, after all the briefs were in, this is what was said. However, nothing has been done by the government, only by private outfits. This is very strange; to me, it is not private citizens who should have to do this, but the government. What's the reason for this? I will admit a lot of humans could be shot, but that doesn't make it an open season for EVERYONE. With the influx of new "hunters" increasing every year, it is about time something was done. I still say that, before a hunter is allowed to have a license, he should have to pass a test. Even though this is no guarantee he is not trigger-happy, at least there would be less of the so-called "accidental" type of shootings.

I don't know just how many of you saw the geese flying around this past week. There was a flight of about 50 in all, seemingly heading up north; but these could be geese that were staying around the Lake of Two Mountains, feeling they had gone far enough and deciding to stay for the summer. . . This would be wonderful for local wildlife watchers.

The North River has produced some excellent doré this past week or so. One young lad (who would rather fish than eat) has been getting very good catches. Only about 10 years of age, his favorite bait has been the very small Red Devil — and from some of the catches he has shown me, I don't blame him for using this. . . One older enthusiast has been catching his share of eels. Boy, these are one thing a fisherman can do without. Netting them, is just about fatal to your nets too. Even after they have been well washed and dried, they still get slimy when put back into water; and getting this slime on the handle is a sure way to drop your net in the water. . . Perch are starting to co-operate a bit more; once the lily pads start growing, they will be better. This also applies to the Northerns; they like to lie in wait under these pads for some unsuspecting minnow or fish to come along.

A black squirrel is visiting around our feeders these days, and he sure gets a going-over from the birds, even down to the very smallest. I guess this is because squirrels are death on eggs, any type. The wife says she saw a humming bird the other day, the one we had in the area last year. (There is no use in arguing about this; we never win a battle of words with a female.) We still have the white-crowned sparrows and a few young grackles feeding; the young grackles do not sport the beautiful blue-black the older birds do, but more of a blue-brown, still they are very pretty. Even the starlings look good. . . Incidentally, bird books printed by the government may be had at the Queen's Printer store on St. Catherine Street, right near Peel — along with a treasury of good, varied, informative reading on many Canadian subjects. Well worth a visit.

Third-prize winner in Conservation essay contest

Young Michel Berthiaume of l'Ecole Secondaire receives cheque as third-prize winner (French-language section) of the province-wide essay contest. Presenting the award is Manny Wilson, president of Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, which sponsored the contest. At the right is Rev. Bro. Emile Bayard, director of the school.

Alf Shand led golf field of 27 — Mt. Bruno tourney

Alf Shand, teaching pro of the Lachute Golf Club, led a field of 27 assistant pros last Friday to capture a tournament held at the Mount Bruno Country Club. Shand fired an even par 70.

Sherbrooke Golf Club's John Hanak was second with 72, followed by Andrien Bigras of the Joliet Golf Club with 74.

Fishing's good!

At Bark Lake last Sunday a 7-lb. 5-oz. grey trout was hooked by Dalma Lemay, of Lachute, who is shown above with his catch. This lake will be the scene of the next fish derby by the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association, on June 28.

Water Skiing with CLINT WARD

Dock Start

Most people learn to water ski by beginning in the water — a water start, but it isn't long before they want to begin at the dock — a dock start.

Actually a dock start is quite simple and after a fall or two most skiers are able to master it.

Put your skis on and stand on the edge of the dock with your skis extending over the water up to about the middle of the toe-binding. Sit down on the dock to the side of the skis, and then swing the skis over the side of the dock. Always face directly at the back of the boat and parallel to its course as it pulls away from the dock, even if this means sitting at an angle to the dock. The ideal dock surface should be about 10 to 14 inches from the water and as you sit at the edge your knees should be slightly bent and the tips of the skis out of the water.

The rope should be carefully coiled and held, with the handle, in one hand while the rope pays out through the fingers of your other hand. If you make sure that the rope is pulled from the coil at 90 degrees then you will never have any trouble with a tangled rope. When two or three coils are left, throw them out and away from you and yell, "hit it". Just as the rope becomes taut transfer your weight to the skis and with your back and arms straight, and lean back against the pull of the boat.

Don't be discouraged if you fall the first few times. If you are pulled forward, you have not kept your back straight or resisted the pull of the rope. If you fall backwards, you have let your arms bend or perhaps transferred your weight from the dock to the skis too soon.

There is a delicate bit of timing required in a dock start and it will take a little practice before you are absolutely comfortable with it.

A variation of a dock start that expert skiers sometimes use is the "jump start". To do this stand at the edge of the dock and when 4 or 5 coils are left throw them out and away and yell "hit it". Just as the rope becomes taut, jump up and slightly out and let the pull of the boat carry you onto the water. The timing must be precise, for if you jump too soon you may not clear the dock and if you jump too late you will be pulled forward and into the water. As you are being pulled from the dock your weight must be well back as there will be an even greater tendency to be pulled forward than in a sitting dock start. One last caution: Don't try to jump out too far to clear the dock as this usually causes one or both tips to drop and catch in the water.

HI-HO, COME TO THE FAIR!

Old favorites on band program by Black Watch

President Jos. Sewell and his Legion 70 directors are really enthused about the Black Watch bands engaged for the Legion Night grandstand show this coming Saturday at Lachute Sring Fair. There are two distinct units, the regimental pipe band and the military band, which play individually and in joint performance with all the spectacle and precision of martial tradition. Lt. Col. W. R. Redpath, CD, is the commanding officer, justly proud of these bands of the 3rd Batallion Black Watch (RHR) of Canada.

Scots, and descendants of Auld Scotia, will thrill particularly to some of the immortal airs in the repertoire of this program. To mention a few: the massed bands in "Bonny Dundee" and the marches "Scotland the Brave", "Colonel Bogey" and "My Home".

The military band will be heard in such marches as "Mary of Argyle", "Annie Laurie" and "Sons of the Brave", while a soloist bandsman will play "Loch Lomond" and "Wonderland by Night".

Spines will tingle with the flourish of kilts and the lilt of pipes and drums, as they strike up such stirring tunes as "Strathspey — Thick Lies the Mist", "The Battle's O'er", "Royal Scots Polka", and the rollicking reel, "Jock Wilson's Ball".

From these samples in a full, diversified program, not Scots alone but all nationalities are assured of a rare musical treat on Legion Night at the Fair. Among other features on the evening's bill will be the drawing for a fibreglass boat, outboard motor and trailer, also sponsored by Legion 70.

Ayers pacer wins Connaught event

Hull, Que. (CP) — Ben Direct, a 10-year-old brown gelding from Ayers Stables Limited, Lachute, Que., nosed out Wellaway in an upset photo-finish win in the feature race Sunday at Connaught Park.

Driven by Roland Lascelles, Ben Direct won the $800 invitation mile pace in the fast time of 2:06.0. He paid $87.30, $12.50 and $4.90 in winning his third race in 12 starts this year.

Pleasant Way was third.

On a wing and a song

Hitch-hiking to the Fair? Not "The Wonder Boy" Ronnie Prophet, guest star of tonight's Rotary Club grandstand performance. He will be flying in from Toronto, where he is presently featured at the Brown Derby, a well-known Toronto night club. A well-known entertainer on radio, TV, records and better known in person, Ronnie is returning to his home county for this one-night performance. . . If you can't make it any other way,, you'll still have time to hitch-hike to see the show at the Lachute Fair, tonight (Thursday).

'Queer' people in freak show, King Reid feature

This year visitors to Lachute Spring Fair will be intrigued with "Elizabeth, The Monkey Girl" and "Sealo", appearing in the King Reid Midway.

These people are part of a circus sideshow known as "Strange People" and there are 10 acts to the show. Others are the Frog Man and Rubber Man; they are sure to amaze you when you see these acts. On the outside, Ted Connors announces the acts and gives a few previews of what may be seen on the inside.

Elizabeth the Monkey Girl resembles a man disguised in girl's clothing. Every exposed part of her body is covered with hair. Her beard is thick and long, and her arms and legs are hairy. Without a doubt, she is a freak.

The Monkey Girl is 34 years old and was born Clarabelle Strouse in Florida. She has eight older sisters, all of whom are normal, and a brother who lives in Texas. Her parents, now dead, were show people too, both being trapeze and aerial artists.

"Sealo, the Seal Boy" has hands, but no arms,. He was born in 1903 in Pittsburgh, and is a high school and college graduate. One of 12 children, he had a twin sister born also without arms, but she died shortly after birth. Sealo is a happy fellow: "I like this life and have a lot of fun." He can do almost as much without arms as the average person can with them. He travels alone and gets along fine. Sealo performs difficult tasks for his audiences and can write as well as most people.

Other King Reid (actually a U.S. Senator) attractions include a "Rubber Man", one of the greatest contortionists alive; "The Frog Boy", who actually has many of the characteristics of a frog; "The Elephant Skin Girl", covered from head to toes with thick, wrinkled skin much like that of an elephant; "The Human Block Head", who drives nails into his nostrils and into his forehead. King Reid, as usual, also has a sword swallower.

Program given by Centre students in drama, diction

About 40 pupils of the Centre Dramatique gave a presentation of their elocutionary and dramatic training, on the stage at Cinema Lachute last Saturday afternoon.

Poems, monologues and mime were presented by the youngsters in various grades of instruction, and the relatives and friends witnessing this performance heard the first radiophonic accompaniment of sound effects in public recital. Four players in the dramatic class gave an excellent performance of a one-act comedy.

Joint chairmen were Fernand Berthiaume, president of the local St. Jean Baptiste Society, and Claude Bruchési, director of the "Société du Bon Parler Français". Both congratulated the pupils and warmly commended the directors of the Centre Dramatique, Jean Laforest and Mme Armande (Lebrun) Laforest, on their painstaking work in training these youngsters.

Mr. Bruchési who is a professor at Collège Brebeuf and the University of Montreal, read comments on successful entrants in examinations of the "Société du Bon Parler Français", and further commended the directors of the Centre on their work.

Regional Chambers endorse resolutions from Lachute

President Bertrand L'Heureux with a number of delegates from Lachute Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by their wives, attended a regional convention of the Argenteuil - Deux Montagnes - Terrebonne Chambers of Commerce, last Sunday at Ste. Therese — the ladies being entertained at an afternoon fashion show at the Thorncliff in Rosemere.

Unanimous endorsement was given to three resolutions presented by the Lachute group: (1) concerning rebuilding of Route 8; (2) on bilingual trade schools; and (3) regarding the Carillon Park.

Sessions were held in the Seminary at Ste. Therese. President Robert Matte represented the Brownsburg C. of C. and was presented with the charter for that branch. Grenville was not represented and this group will receive its charter at a later date.

Roger Harel, director of Ste. Therese schools, was the speaker, and the Hon. Lionel Bertrand, M.P.P. for Terrebonne and Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game, was among the notables in attendance.

H'wksby native ordained in U.S.

The Rev. R. Pattee Kirby was ordained to the Episcopal priesthood recently in the Diocese of Tennessee, at St. Andrew's School Chapel in that State. The Rev. Kirby, a native of Hawkesbury, received his seminary training at the School of Theology of the University of the South. He has been employed as science and mathematics master by St. Andrew's School, a prep school for boys operated by the Order of the Holy Cross, a monastic order of the Episcopal Church. He will continue to teach. He and his wife, the former Patricia Facel of Beaumont, Texas, and his two children, Karen, aged 13, and Peter, aged 10, live on the campus of the school.

Richelieu clubmen at Hydro plant

Richelieu Club members and their wives were guests of Hydro Quebec on a visit to the Carillon power project last week. They were graciously conducted by the chief engineer and his staff to view highlights of the plant and to learn something of its operation.

The tour was followed by a cold buffet supper at the Spot Ball Club in St. Andrews, where President Gaetan Leclair and his wife headed the proceedings. Two new members were welcomed into the club.

The next Richelieu meeting will be held June 23 at the recreation park on Paquin Avenue, when the club will play host to the graduates and the teachers of l'Ecole Secondaire.

County W. Inst. June meetings

Arundel. — Miss Limoges, lecturer for the Bell Telephone Company, spoke on "The World of the Telephone" and how it affects the lives of womenfolk. Plans were made for a bazaar to be held in July.

Brownsburg. — Miss Carol Lane, women's travel director of Shell Oil Co. of Canada, gave an interesting talk on "Tips for Travelling". Arrangements were made to bring in Christmas stockings for next meeting, also arrangements for a group trip to Dunham for the unveiling of a plaque on July 15.

Dalesville - Louisa. — An illustrated lecture was given by a guest on his trip through Hawaii and California, including Disneyland. An art exhibition by a local artist was also given.

Frontier. — A discussion on how to help New Canadians and a "Front Page Challenge" contest were held.

Jerusalem - Bethany. — A casserole supper was held by this branch, and plans to sell a quilt, made by members, at the local Fair; also arrangements made for a group to visit the "Moore" home of Canadian antiquity.

Lachute. — A talk was given by a member on food values, and whole wheat products of the Paramount Farms Bakery, Sutton, Que. Refreshments were served and samples given of 12 varieties of bread from this bakery.

Lakefield. — The roll-call of this branch was a cookie recipe. A jumbled letter contest was held, "What should be in a bride's cedar chest?" Plans for a food sale were also made.

Morin Heights. — A discussion was held on tulips, their origin and care. There was a jumbled letter quiz on flowers. The roll-call was "A wild flower of Argenteuil".

Mille Isles members heard an article by the convener of Citizenship, on "How to get along with the aged". A discussion was held on "Places to travel to, and why".

Pioneer. — A highlight in this branch since May meeting was the celebration of its 50th anniversary. A bring-and-buy auction was a notable success.

Upper Lachute-East End branch viewed slides shown by a member on her trip through the U.S.A. and across Canada. The members discussed the making and filling of Christmas stockings for the "Save the Children Fund".

MOTORIST, TAKE HEED!

Throughout the summer months ahead, Lachute youngsters will be out on streets and play areas in more numerous quantity than during the school year, and will unfortunately make an easier target for incautious motorists. And perhaps the lessening of direct authority over them — no more homework, more relaxed bedtime hours, etc. — will tend to make them even less aware than usual of traffic hazards. If so, then the little people of our Argenteuil communities will be at a double disadvantage come the "School's Out, Hooray!" that they're so anxiously waiting for.

A child streaking out from behind a parked car is still a child; a motorist has adult responsibilities, one of which is "running interference" for such children. Let's live up to our responsibilities and take heed, not lives.

I'll bet Milady has never suspected a connection between the telephone and cosmetics, yet a form of beauty preparations is actually used to manufacture telephone parts! For example, rouge is used as an abrasive to polish lenses, and machinery is kept whistle clean with Freon — the gas that puts the "zing" in hair sprays. Beeswax — the "body" in eye shadow — doubles as a preservative for small wooden parts, and spermaceti — the wax in lipstick — serves as a lubricant. Talcum powder has a use in telephone circuits to prevent echoes in conversations, and isopropyl alcohol — an ingredient in cologne — acts as a finishing solution for telephone parts. Although cosmetics undoubtedly subtract years from a woman's age, they add years to the life of a telephone!

RCMP man wed in St. John's, Nfld.; couple feted here

Clark - Howell

The marriage of Miss Peggy Phyllis Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howell, of St. John's, Nfld., to Cst. John MacKenzie Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Douglas Clark, of Brownsburg, Que., took place at St. James United Church, St. John's, Nfld., at 7.30 p.m. on May 29, with the Rev. Mr. Penney officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Wm. Gordon, as matron of honor, and Mrs. James Hackett, Mrs. Neville Henderson and Miss Joan Holloway, as attendants. Little Gail Evans, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Cst. Richard Ivory acted as best man, and Csts. William Smith, Ronald Dowe and James Hackett were ushers. A guard of honor was formed by Csts. Tinkham, Joudray, Newman, Sisk, Campbell and Henry.

Old citizen of this district laid to rest

The late Benjamin Rogers

An old and well known resident, Mr. Benjamin F. Rogers, passed away in his 90th year at Lakefield, Que., on June 9 after a short illness. Born at Mille Isles in 1875, he was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rogers.

He was married to Ellen Armstrong in 1899; his wife predeceased him in 1942, also one daughter, Norah, in 1921.

Mr. Rogers leaves to mourn his loss three daughters and one son — Helena, of Montreal, Bessie (Mrs. Grant Hollingworth), of Vancouver, Grace (Mrs. Russell Hurdman), of Breckenridge, Que., and Earl, of Lachute. He is also survived by seven grandchildren.

The funeral service was held on Thursday afternoon, June 11, from MacKimmie Funeral Chapel, conducted by the Rev. James Armour in the presence of many relatives, friends and neighbors.

The pall-bearers were — Messrs. Ben Hammond, Norman Patterson, Russell Rodgers, Herbert Kyle, Stuart Armstrong and Allan Griffith. Interment was made in the family plot at Lachute Cemetery.

Mrs. J. Provencal, lifelong resident, mourned in Avoca

Avoca — A lifelong resident of this community, Mrs. Joseph Provencal, passed away suddenly at her late residence in Avoca on June 2, in her 82nd year.

Born at Avoca, May 12, 1883, she was the former Kate MacLean, daughter of the late Duncan MacLean and his wife Elizabeth MacVicar. She spent her entire life in this community, where she had many friends and relatives.

Funeral service was conducted from the Grenville Funeral Home on June 5 by the Rev. Roy Hisey, Lachute Baptist minister, assisted by Mr. Steeves and the Rev. Anthony Reid, rector of St. Mary's Church (Avoca) and Montebello. Hymns sung were favorites of the family, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Abide With Me".

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Ronnie Kelly, Guy Kelly, Scott MacLean, Roland MacCullouch, Gordon Crawford and Delwin Young.

She leaves to mourn her passing her beloved husband, Joseph Provencal, and one son, Jimmy, also four sisters, Mrs. Rory MacCullouch (Hannah), Mrs. George Gunn (Mary), Mrs. John Angus Dewar (Rachel), and Mrs. Waterman (Myrtle); also five brothers, Mr. Walter MacLean, Dougal MacLean, Duncan MacLean, David MacLean and Willie Andrews.

Interment was made in the Avoca Cemetery.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all my friends and relatives for their visits, phone calls, cards and get-well wishes, during my stay at the Smith Clinic. Also special thanks to the 2nd floor nurses.

— Gloria Andrews

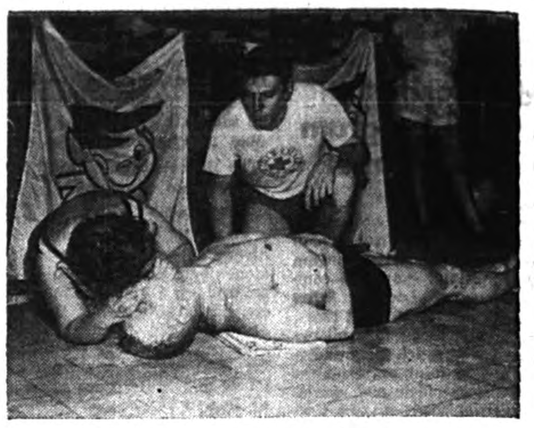

FAMOUS CANADIAN ARMY BADGES

Royal Canadian Dental Corps

Fulfilling a tri-service role are RCDC personnel who may be found on ships at sea as well as at military and RCAF land stations.

The Crown signifies allegiance to the Queen, the wreath of maple leaves denotes the Canadian character of the Corps, while the monogram "RCDC", is the Corps itself.

Rescue breathing

The mouth-to-mouth technique of resuscitation is taught by Red Cross Water Safety instructors of the Province of Quebec. This easy-to-learn method gives the best results. Red Cross Water Safety courses are given free to some 50,000 youngsters of this province each year.

25th Anniversary surprise gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Cunningham, a popular town couple, were greeted by 50-odd friends and relatives, in a surprise gathering which awaited them at their home Saturday evening on their return from the Golf Club. The gesture was an informal greeting on their silver wedding (June 10), and a number of relatives and district friends joined folk from this town and vicinity to mark the occasion, and to present Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham with a silver dish and a sum of money.

Spokesman for the group was Cliff's brother, Mr. Howard Cunningham, of Cornwall, who made the presentation and extended good wishes. Others from a distance besides Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cunningham were their father, Mr. H. W. Cunningham, of Summerstown, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Keen, of St. Laurent; Mr. and Mrs. Fay Shaver, of Chesterville, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goldup, of Gananoque, Ont.; Miss Mona Bates, of Toronto; and Miss Janet McOuat, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Mr. Howard Cunningham had been groomsman for his brother at their wedding, and Mrs. Keith Clarke, who had been a bridesmaid, was also present for the gathering — at which a mock marriage was performed by Mr. Cliff Armstrong and a nuptial "cast", in traditionally humorous style.

Recent activities at United Church in Brownsburg

Brownsburg — The U.C.W. held their unit meetings recently, and the central meeting last Wednesday evening took the form of pot-luck supper, which was very well planned and served by Mrs. J. Tomalty and her committee.

Mrs. W. Campbell led a very impressive devotional service immediately following the supper. This was followed by the business portion, which showed, by the conveners' and treasurer's reports, that the first six months of 1964 have been profitable ones.

Following the business, Mrs. Thompson from Lachute displayed and explained some very interesting books useful for U.C.W. work, or for one's own spiritual enjoyment.

Mrs. C. Duncan, regional vice-president, brought greetings from the presbytery and gave a very interesting account of the recent meeting in Montreal. She displayed an interesting scrapbook containing pictures and accounts of happenings in United Church work. She was thanked by Mrs. J. Leggitt.

Sunday morning service was well attended, when the Rev. T. D. Richards conducted a reception service; five new members joined by profession of faith and four by transfer from other congregations.

Next Sunday, June 21, will be Communion service.

The following Sunday, June 28, and until September, church service will be held at 9 o'clock on Sunday mornings.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all friends, relatives and neighbors, for their encouragement and many acts of kindness in sending gifts and flowers, get-well cards and visits, during my stay in hospital.

Social function ends Bridge Club season

The closing dinner of the Duplicate Bridge Club's 1963-64 session was held at the Lachute Legion Hall on June 9. Many members and guests were present, including the president of the Lachute Association for Retarded Children, Mr. W. Younkie and Mrs. Younkie.

The excellent dinner was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Association under chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Joyce, assisted by the convener, Mrs. Fred Stein. The table decorations were attractively designed by Mrs. Gordon Davidson.

Following the dinner the trophy and prizes were presented by Mr. S. Seary, the winner being Mr. Gordon Davidson, with the highest average score of 57.4%. The second prize was won by Mrs. M. Scott with 57.3%, and the 3rd by Baron and Baroness E. H. Faulkenhausen with equal scores averaging 57%. The trophy was donated by Dow's Brewery.

Mr. Younkie outlined briefly the aims and achievements of the Retarded Children's Association. An interesting film was shown depicting the day-to-day activities of the school, with a running commentary by the principal, Mrs. B. C. Fillingham; the concluding scenes showed the Christmas party program presented by the children. Mr. Younkie, upon receiving a cheque of $300 from the Bridge Club, expressed his appreciation on behalf of the Association. The gift made a total of $600 given by the Club during this session.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards. Winners of the evening games were:

North & South: Mrs. L. Walsh and Mrs. D. McIsaac — 63.8%.

East & West: Mr. B. Fillingham and Mr. G. P. Reynolds — 65.6%.

Winner for "500" table, Mrs. Theo Gagné.

The Lachute Legion have graciously donated the use of their hall to the club for bridge on Monday evenings throughout the summer. The games begin at 7.45 p.m. and anyone interested in playing will be most welcome.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

SO NOW I KNOW!

When I was about 14 years old I bought a book for ten cents entitled, "Magic and Mystery and The Black Art Fully Exposed". Among the many tricks and experiments was one called, "How To Eat Fire". It began: "Coat the inside of the mouth with liquid storax.". . .

So off I went to a drugstore for a nickelsworth of liquid storax. The druggist stared at me in blank amazement and said he had never heard of it. Neither had anyone else! It never occurred to me to look it up in the dictionary, but the word is there. The definition, Balsamic Resin. I looked it up again just recently, having come across the word in a crossword puzzle, whose clue was "liquid balsam". — Not that I am still interested in fire eating, having known a few professionals in circuses and carnivals. I know other ways to entertain people.

But this all goes to show how educational crossword puzzles can be. In just one issue of the New York Herald-Tribune's book for July, my vocabulary has been enriched by the following words:

Pleonastic. — That means redundant, or superfluous.

Porrect. — It means stretched out.

Pallions. — Small pieces.

Acronical. — Occurring at nightfall.

Caliginous. — This means obscure.

And here's a prize winner — onomatopeia, meaning echoism.

Now can some reader please tell me what echoism is? Perhaps I'll dream up the answer when I'm acronically porrect.

Be seein' ya!

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

A fabulous dream

THE IDEA of a 750-foot-wide system of canals connecting the Pacific Ocean with the Great Lakes is one that will challenge the imagination of even the most far-sighted person.

For one thing, it would cost $100,000,000,000 and would take at least 30 years to build. And when you recall that it took 50 years of talk before a start was made on the St. Lawrence Seaway, you have reason if you are sceptical to doubt that this grandiose scheme will ever get past the discussion stage.

The plan, now being discussed in the United States Congress, would use surplus water from rivers in Alaska, British Columbia and the Yukon which now drain unused water from the western slopes of the Rockies into the Pacific.

The flow would be diverted in three directions, with tunnels, canals and other conveyances taking the water to the Gulf of California, the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico. Along the way it would irrigate 50,000,000 acres of land.

And the waterway across Canada would provide a shipping route between Atlantic and Pacific.

A major effect would be to restore the levels of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River which now are at their lowest point in more than a century.

One of the scheme's supporters, Senator Frank E. Moss of Utah, says "it is almost inevitable" that it will be carried through. And although some might declare his vision is blurred by his enthusiasm, who's to say with absolute certainty that he's wrong?

It would be by far the biggest project of its kind ever tackled. But somehow each succeeding generation seems able to summon up the courage to do things thought impossible by those who have gone before.

We shouldn't forget the thought of man flying to the moon was once dismissed as a fantastic dream. Fortunately that didn't halt the scientists who now are preparing to turn it into reality.

Dad — on the carpet of comparisons

AN INTERNATIONAL expert on "dadhood" has the temerity to question the quality of Canadian fathers almost on the eve of Father's Day (a grand old institution developed by the greeting card companies and encouraged by the haberdasher).

Canadian dads, says Professor Tadeusz Grygier of the University of Toronto, rate not so well in the masculinity stakes against their English counterparts.

The Canadian father — and the American, too — is befuddled about his role as the masculine parent, Dr. Grygier concludes from a series of personality studies on both sides of the Atlantic during the last decade or so.

The Englishman is generally more masculine by Western standards, and as a father figure, he is superior to the North American version, the professor says.

"In practically all groups of North American males the tendency was to be less definitely masculine than a typical Englishman's behavior, attitude to objects, activities, leisure and occupations."

The personality yardstick involved assessment of such things as strenuous physical exercise, introducing new ideas, examining tools and gadgets in shops, and sailing in rough weather.

In North America, demarcation of interests between men and women is not as well defined as in England, and still less than in continental Europe.

"Perhaps there is a general tendency for the North American male not to be such a clear model for a boy on 'how to be a man', as they are in England or on the continent," Dr. Grygier says.

Reversing Freud somewhat, the professor finds also that slipshod fathers have more to do with shaping juvenile delinquents than do careless mothers.

So, "Canadads", unite! Don some English tweeds, assume that English stiff upper lip, and go sailing in rough weather... You have nothing to lose but your apron strings — or perhaps an ear, from a flying rolling pin.

The law and the facts

THAT CANADA should have two national anthems and two flags is quite in order, writes J. B. McGeachy in The Financial Post. There are precedents. After their revolution, the Americans kept the tune of the British anthem but asked God to save, instead of George III, George Washington. Soon a new set of verses to go with the melody, beginning "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was produced. "Hail Columbia" appeared in 1798. The War of 1812 brought forth the barely singable "Star Spangled Banner." Through the 19th century and part of the 20th these three songs were in constant use as national anthems. Congress didn't plump for "Star Spangled Banner" until 1931.

And if the U.S. could have three anthems for more than 100 years, Canada can surely afford two. A case for a plurality of flags can also be established. Canadians will continue to show more than one flag and sing more than one national song no matter what the regulations say; and the law might as well agree with the facts.

Viewpoints and perspectives

A MEMER of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation received from a friend in England a letter that included these comments:

"I was immensely interested to read about the delegation from Home and School presenting briefs to the Prime Minister, asking for the creation of a Federal Office of Education, and increased efforts in the area of Guidance.

"I think that Canada (and the U.S.) are ahead of us in having this purposeful and self-directed organization of parents. Whereas, we leave it all to the professionals, except for uttering an occasional moan."

FACT FIRST, SYMBOL SECOND. — When the country isn't united no new flag design is going to improve the situation... Five years from now it may be quite simple for the occupants of what now is Canada to agree heartily on one national flag or, for that matter, two.
— Agassiz (B.C.) Advance

CAUSES CONCERN. — The practice of some people capturing wild animals and keeping them penned up is again causing concern to conservation officials. Should these animals be set free when they are larger and older, as is often done, the animal has difficulty in adjusting to its natural environment and is prey to other animals and starvation.
— Humboldt (Sask.) Journal

ONE PROBLEM of a provincial border has arisen with the extension of the 6 per cent sales tax to all of Quebec province — says the Fort Erie Letter-Review. Quebec revenue minister Eric Kierans is hoping for co-operation from the Ontario government. Shoppers in Hull will be able to cross the Ottawa River to shop in Ontario where the tax is only 3 per cent... Ontario taxpayers will not be amused by Mr. Kierans' remark that it would be much simpler if Ontario also had a 6 per cent tax. Presumably Mr. Kierans hopes that Ontario retailers will be prevented in some way from charging no sales tax on goods shipped across the provincial border.

RECREATION, unfortunately, all too often is the woebegone waif in the municipal spectrum. Where money must and can be found for other aspects of community life, recreation often is obliged to live out an impoverished role. Would there really be such a clamor from the taxpayer if we improved recreation's lot?
— Atikokan (Ont.) Progress

LOOKING FOR AID. — People on welfare are not the only ones who seek to get all they can in the way of handouts. Among individuals and organized bodies alike, the old-time free enterprising spirit of self-reliance has gradually been replaced by the idea of looking to government for assistance.

OVER THE YEARS With The Lachute Watchman

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, June 21, 1889 —

Brownsburg — John McLeod, recently from Dakota, has commenced blacksmithing at the corner.

The Suez Canal directors recommended an annual dividend for 1889 of 38 per cent.

Arch Mitchell has for sale all kinds of buggies, spring carts and buckboards, with latest improvements and fitted for travelling all kinds of roads. (Advt.)

Brownsburg — Capt. Jas. McLean and Lady have arrived from Valparaiso, Chili. The captain looks as if the world had treated him well during his seven years' absence.

The undersigned announces that he has leased the tinshop lately occupied by John McNiece, West Ward, and will execute tinsmith work and repairs at low prices. — Robt. McArthur. (Advt.)

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, June 19, 1914 —

The hose and sprinkler purchased by the donors for Lachute Cemetery is in charge of the caretaker, W. A. Morrison, and is free to those caring for their own lots.

A Lachute Boy Scout saved his friend's life in the North River. Keith Douglas, an Academy boy, was in serious difficulties, and John Hope, the Scout in question, plunged in fully dressed and brought the unconscious boy to shore; he was later able to walk home.

London and Lancashire Life Insurance — R. A. Giles, Agent. (Advt.)

The B.Y.P.U. of Dalesville now has about 30 members.

Cushing — Men of all sizes, conditions and nationalities have arrived here, and work on the CNR construction is going ahead.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 22, 1939 —

The firm of R. McArthur & Son, Lachute, started in the plumbing and tinsmithing business here just 50 years ago.

The Hon. H. A. Dussault, Quebec Minister of Colonization, expressed warm commendation for the quality of livestock at our annual Lachute Fair last week.

George Leggett, Jr., is spending his vacation at home after completing his first year of Arts at Bishop's College.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hay are visiting here from Vancouver, B.C.

A double christening took place at Trinity Church, Calumet; the children baptized were Rosemary Whinfield and Penelope Foreman.

Saturday excursions by CPR — to Montreal $1.15, to Ottawa $1.85. (Advt.)

Lachute Orange Lodge and other primary lodges in the County will attend divine service at Oka United Church on Sunday.

SUGAR AND SPICE

Dear Old Dad

By BILL SMILEY

Probably the biggest piece of pure poppycock on our calendar is the Sunday in June designated as Father's Day.

Bill Smiley

It is almost as silly as celebrating the birthday of Queen Victoria (on the nearest Monday), or adopting that pretty, but uninspiring thing, the maple leaf, as our flag symbol.

That's because, like queens' birthdays and flags, fathers are anachronisms, things that belong to the dear, dead past of empires and gallantry and family solidarity.

The empire has disappeared, the flag has become something to quibble about, and fathers have turned into cartoon characters.

We have become increasingly a mother-dominated society. But in trying to prove that Mom doesn't have clay feet, we have casually accepted the theory that father has a dough head.

The word "father" is never used any more, as a term of address. The only place it crops up in in sociological and psychological terms, such as "father image" or "father figure."

It's been a wild swing of the pendulum, and it is a sad and bitter thing, this degeneration from Father to Daddy, but I can't help pointing out that we have brought it upon ourselves, chaps.

The Trojans opened the gates and dragged in that big, wooden horse. The Arab let the camel stick his nose into the tent, to keep warm. Father achieved the same end by relinquishing the purse-strings to that brave, little woman with a heart of gold and a will of iron—Mom.

Next, he began to listen to a lot of third-rate tripe, mostly in the form of articles in women's magazines. Thus, he fell prey to such clap-trap as "family togetherness," and "being a pal" to his children, and "talking things out" with his wife.

Then, under the bullying of his wife and the relentless heckling of his children, he forsook principles for possessions, and happily hopped aboard the treadmill of proving that he could bring home as much bacon as the poor, harassed, coronary-bound character next door.

Slaving like a pit pony, and attacked for it by his family, he was still expected to help with the dishes, mow the lawn, entertain at parties arranged by his wife, and drive 300 miles on the week end to visit relatives.

Thus, the comfortable paunch which was a measure of Father's success became Dad's potbelly, a sign that he wasn't doing his 5BX. Thus, Father's ominous look and cuff on the ear became Daddy's wi[illegible] that he would cut off the allowance. Thus Father's majestic carving of the family roast became Dad's inept spooning out of the meatballs smothered in canned mushroom soup.

Not a pretty picture? Right. What are you going to do about it, Jack? Will you join me in trying to convert dithering Daddy into fearless Father?

Shall we grow beards, get rid of the blubber, pound the kids once a week, and tell the old lady we're going fishing when we damnwell feel like it?

What's that? You agree, and you'll join the movement on Monday, but right now you have to help Mom do the shopping? All right. Don't say you weren't asked.

Emotions and the Flag

By RAY ARGYLE

The emotion-drenched flag issue broke like a summer squall over parliament last week. And while the maple leaf design may not be flying by July 1, it now seems clear it will be waving over Canada for the Queen's visit in October.

Ray Argyle

The flag battle has brought into sharp focus a cleavage which has long existed in Canada but has traditionally been kept simmering below the surface.

It is one which cuts across all levels of Canadian life — a division between those patriotic Canadians who put their first loyalty to Canada, and those patriotic Canadians who see loyalty to Britain and Canada as something inseparable and indistinguishable.

It is not inconsistent to term both elements patriotic and loyal.

On the one hand, there are those Canadians who, while respecting the British heritage which is such a vital part of our way of life, never the less feel the time has come for our first loyalty to be extended to the Canadian nations that sprawls over the breast of the American continent from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland.

They are emotional about it.

On the other hand, there are those Canadians who cannot conceive of a Canadian loyalty existing apart from a higher loyalty to Britain and to the Crown.

And they, too, are emotional about it.

This second group, which finds its major strength among what I call the Canadian Establishment — the military, certain top-bracket political and business elements and moneyed society — is now a minority in Canadian life.

Support for the maple leaf flag is not confined to French Canada alone. It can be found among various ethnic groups of other than French or British origin, but also among many hundreds of thousands of Canadians of British ancestry. The latest Gallup Poll shows 63 per cent of urban Canadians favoring the maple leaf design.

Governments are elected to govern and to lead, not to throw decisions back to the people. A referendum at this time, as suggested in some quarters, would have tragic consequences, and would fan further the sparks of disunity that already glow across Canada.

Among the myths which have sprung up over the flag proposal are these:

The three maple leaves are said in some quarters to represent British, French and other ethnic groups. This is not so. The design is taken from the national emblem of Canada approved by King George V in 1921 on the advice of Conservative prime minister R. L. Borden.

The maple leaf is not, according to some, a national Canadian symbol. While it may be true that the maple leaf tree is native to eastern Canada, the maple leaf has long had a national Canadian identity. Army newspapers in the war were called The Maple Leaf. The Canadian club in London was the Maple Leaf club. Canadians from all parts of Canada who travel abroad find it convenient to wear a maple leaf badge.

The Red Ensign, according to its advocates, "has always been Canada's flag." This is simply not so. It was accepted in 1945 as nothing more than a temporary banner to be used until such time as Canada had a national flag.

"Like My Daddy"

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I want to grow up and be a man like my daddy!" Rufus Jones once overheard his only son, Lowell, say to a little group of his playmates when they were discussing what they wanted to be when they were big. Lowell never grew to manhood but died at the age of eleven. His portrait hung above Dr. Jones mantel in his study at Hartford. This father, forty years after his boy's death, wrote about overhearing his little lad saying he wanted to be like him:

"Few things in my life ever touched me as those words did, or have given me a greater impulse to dedication. What kind of man was I going to be, if I was to be a pattern for my boy?"

This is a sobering question for any man. A father is the first "hero" in a little child's eyes. What boastful words kindergarten children can say to their chums about their father!

"My daddy is the strongest man in our town! He could beat your daddy up without even trying!"

"We've got the fastest car in our block — you should see my dad drive!"

Not until most youngsters are approaching adolescence do they look at their parents with critical eyes. Then, in their desire to prove to themselves and the world how mature, how independent they are, they begin to see all kinds of things about their fathers and mothers which they would like to change. Mark Twain once remarked: "When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years."

Fathers color their children's attitudes to work. A son or a daughter quickly senses whether or not dad gets satisfaction out of his job, even with all the petty irritations which are found in every vocation. They also absorb much of his attitude of respect or disdain for hard manual toil. Masaryk, that great leader in Czechoslovakia, followed a wise plan. He once explained to a friend:

"I take my boys every year to the blacksmith's shop where my father worked. I place their hands on the anvil on which he hammered. I then ask them to repeat after me their desire to be men like my father, that is my greatest wish for my little sons."

A son or daughter gets a first picture of what marriage is like, and what a home may be, from the life in the family. The greatest education for happy married life takes place when a boy and girl see mother and dad working together as partners, still in love with each other, and with a zest for life. It is not by chance that social workers have discovered that frequently young men and women from broken homes have little stability in their own marriages.

One of the greatest gifts a father can give to his son is to share his leisure with him. In one of the outstanding recent biographies "A Man Called Peter," the story of Peter Marshall by Catherine, his wife, published by McGraw and Hill, there is a delightful chapter "Man wi His Laddie." In it she quotes from one of her husband's lectures:

"I shall not soon forget the indictment I heard in our little boy's prayer one night. 'Thank you, God,' he prayed, 'that you let my daddy stay home this one evening!'"

Memorial library planned by P.C. Women's group

— Plans for a memorial library at national Progressive Conservative headquarters, Ottawa, as a centennial project of the Canadian Women's PC Associations, were outlined at the recent annual meeting of the Western Ontario Women's PC Association, held in London, Ont.

Miss Kaye McFarland, of Napanee, chairman of the Ontario Women's Advisory Committee, told some 300 delegates that a contribution of one dollar will be requested from each PC woman to help establish and maintain the library. The library will be a memorial to Sir John A. Macdonald and George Etienne Cartier, two of the fathers of Confederation.

"We hope to get it off the ground soon and we hope to have your support," Miss McFarland said. A memorial book containing the names of contributors will be placed in the library.

Do you think carpet would be hard to clean in rooms frequented by active children and family pets? Do you think food spills, accidents and traffic grime would make carpeting impractical? You are dead wrong.

Carpet is being laid by the acre in hospitals, schools and other public institutions today because it is easier to keep clean — "hospital clean" — and cheaper to maintain than other types of flooring. Of course, it is also the most effective muffler of noise and creates an atmosphere of comfort anywhere.

Skeptical homemakers should hear Jack Horton, executive housekeeper of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital, discuss the obvious cleanliness of 13,000 square yards of the hospital's corridor carpeting, to say nothing of the floor coverings in the private patients' rooms. He talks in terms of improved infection control, bacteriological count and 45 per cent savings on maintenance costs despite traffic and spillages such as a private home may never see.

The Royal Victoria was the first hospital in Canada to install carpeting and after two years of constant use the installation received its first wet shampoo this spring.

Despite the traffic of thousands of feet, the wheels of beds, and other vehicles, plus innumerable accidents with bottles of blood, chemicals, medicines, body fluids, the carpet does not appear soiled or worn.

Immediate spot cleaning is the rule. Apart from this the carpet cleaning consists of a daily vacuuming plus a dry shampoo every two or three months. The all-important hospital cleanliness has been scientifically tested and proved better than that of conventional floorings which are given the daily wet mop and waxing treatment. Savings on labor costs add up to at least 45 per cent.

The corridor carpet is a heavy duty all-wool type with uncut pile. In coloring it is mainly blue with a tweed effect in yellow and rose, colorings which are repeated in the cheerful modern decorating scheme of the hospital wing. Wool and nylon blend carpet in a plain blue is used in the solariums of the wing. Another wool carpeting, this one a standard pile with rubber backing, has been installed in the patients' rooms.

The Canadian Carpet Institute, whose member firms produce 90 percent of all carpets made in Canada, reports that new schools and university buildings are being carpeted today at a great rate.

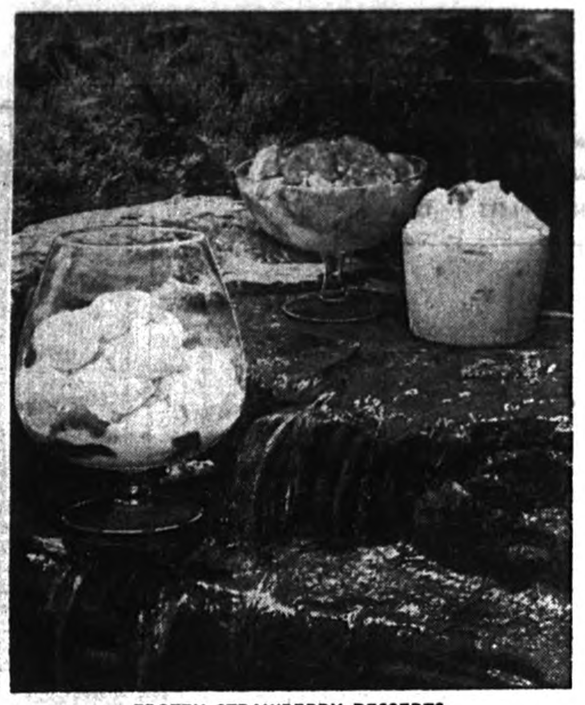

The absorption of noise and the labor and cost savings are well-established reasons for the trend. There are some other interesting aspects worth noting by homemakers.

Studies of the results in carpeted schools in the United States have shown that besides reducing noise by 50 per cent, carpet has a beneficial psychological effect on school children. Carpeted corridors are found to eliminate loud talking and horseplay and to promote more dignified behaviour and neater dress habits. Carpeted classroom floors are also said to encourage group projects and activities with children sitting around on the floor, an area they favor at home.

The long list of advantages offered by carpeted floors may still be lengthened. New studies are underway on the thermal qualities in terms of savings on heating costs, an important consideration in any type of building.

Visit old school

Stanstead, Que. — Thirty-five Grade 5 pupils got a realistic picture of the educational past when they spent a day in school at a 145-year-old, one-room red brick schoolhouse which hasn't been used since 1927. The day, part of the 100th-anniversary celebrations of the Quebec Association of Protestant Teachers, included lighting the old wood stove and carrying water.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY DESSERTS

Cool — cool — cool as a waterfall is this trio of frozen desserts ready for our summer tables. In the foreground is delicious fresh strawberry ice cream, behind are a creamy smooth sherbet and a party parfait — both frosted with jewel red strawberries.

— Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa

Come strawberry time!

The strawberry is without doubt the queen of berries. Its rich red color and irresistible perfume enhance the most ordinary meal. A joy to look at, a pleasure to eat, strawberries should be served often during their too brief appearance.

Did you know that fresh strawberries are high in Vitamin "C"? Five large berries will supply all of this vitamin that you need in a day.

To get the best value for your food dollar, look for these points. Choose berries that are bright red in color, firm, and well formed. Be sure that the green hulls are attached. Berries that are soft and show decay spots deteriorate rapidly. Remember, flavor depends on the variety of berry and the degree of maturity, not on the size.

To store, empty the berries carefully from the box, pick them over removing any that are soft or decayed, place the sorted berries in the refrigerator in a covered bowl or moisture-proof bag. Be sure to use them as soon as possible since they spoil rapidly.

Just before serving, wash the berries gently and quickly in cold water. Do not soak in water since they will lose a great deal of their original food value and become water logged. Hull the berries after washing. Drain thoroughly in a colander or on several thicknesses of paper toweling.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, offer three cool and tempting desserts featuring these June rubies.

Strawberry Parfait

"A deluxe blend of frozen cream and jewel-red berries."

1 Pint box of strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup water, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ pint whipping cream (1¼ cups).

Wash and hull strawberries, then crush and press through a sieve. Combine sugar and water and boil to the thread stage (230 to 234° F.). Meanwhile combine egg whites and salt and beat until stiff but not dry. Pour hot syrup slowly over egg whites, beating constantly, then continue to beat until mixture is cool. Fold in sieved strawberries. Whip the cream and fold into egg mixture. Turn into freezer trays or parfait glasses and freeze until firm. Let stand at room temperature 10 to 15 minutes before serving. 6 to 8 servings.

Strawberry Chiffon Pie

"A soft pink cloud in a tender pastry shell."

1 Pint box of strawberries, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 envelope gelatin (1 tablespoon), ¼ cup cold water, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup whipping cream, 9-inch baked pastry shell.

Wash and hull berries, then crush thoroughly (about 1½ cups crushed). Stir in the ½ cup sugar and lemon juice. Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve over hot water. Add to strawberry mixture and combine thoroughly. Chill until mixture is partially set, then beat thoroughly. Make a meringue of the egg whites, salt and remaining sugar and fold into gelatin mixture. Beat the cream until stiff, then fold gently but thoroughly into gelatin mixture. Turn into baked pastry shell and chill until firm. If desired, garnish with additional whipped cream and strawberries.

Strawberry Sherbet

"A cool and refreshing ending to any meal."

3 Cups washed and hulled strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup hot water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 envelope gelatin (1 tablespoon), ½ cup cold water, 1 egg white, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Crush and sieve strawberries. Add sugar, salt, hot water and lemon juice. Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve over hot water. Add to strawberry mixture, combine thoroughly and chill. Pour into freezer trays and freeze to a rather firm mush. Make a meringue of the egg white and remaining sugar. Turn strawberry mixture into a chilled bowl, crush with a fork, then beat for 1 minute with a rotary beater and immediately fold in meringue. Quickly return to freezer trays and freeze until firm. 6 to 8 servings.

Father's Day

If you are looking for a gift for Father's Day you might consider a present which will promote the healthy outdoor activity which is so important in an age of sedentary occupations. For the fisherman, golfer or hunter, a gift of sports equipment is always appropriate, or you may want to give a gift of sportswear.

For the father who has retired or is about to retire, there are a wide variety of tools and other hobby equipment which will help him to use his leisure time to the best advantage.

This Father's Day, give a gift which will promote health as well as being a symbol of your respect and affection.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When a shoe doesn't fit properly, your feet let you know about it in no uncertain terms. But they may not until after you've paid for the shoes and taken them home, and there is not a lot that can be done then.

There are a few tips on shoe fit which can help tell you whether you and your feet are really going to be happy with new shoes.

Probably the first thing to do is to decide when and where and how long you will be wearing a pair of shoes, and buy something reasonably sensible for the purpose.

The shape of the shoe should conform to the shape of your toes, with the big toe straight and the shoe toe ½ to ¾ of an inch longer than your toes. In this year's open styles, be sure neither toes nor heels extend over the edge of the sole of the shoe.

The widest part of your foot, at the ball joint, should match the widest part of the shoe.

Should Flex

The shoe should be flexible at the base of the toes.

The shoe arch should match your arch without pressing against it.

The shoe upper should not cut into your foot. The fit from the ball of your foot to your heel should be smooth and not gap when you take a step.

The heel should give your foot firm and comfortable support. It should not pinch, slip, or allow your foot to slide side to side or forward.

Ask the salesman what the brand and shoe last numbers are on shoes you like. You may be able to find them again when you shop.

When you buy a fabric shoe the best bet is a firm, close weave which will keep its shape and wear longer than a loose weave.

For comfort and wear, plastic shoes should be fabric-lined. Linings in any shoes help protect both your feet and the shoes. They should be smooth and without wrinkles. If they are fabric they should be closely woven, unsized, and treated to resist perspiration, fungus growth or mildew.

Must 'Breathe'

Ideally, soles should be durable, flexible, waterproof and able to permit perspiration to evaporate. Rubber and plastic will take hard wear but may not be porous, in which case they may not be as healthy as leather soles.

Counters and toe boxes at the front strengthen shoes and help them keep their shape. Welting, a narrow strip of leather or plastic which joins the separate parts of a shoe sole will add life to it. Welting may be decorative or hidden.

Children's feet need especially good care. Their shoes should be ½ to ¾ of an inch longer than the longest toe. The shoe size of pre-schoolers should be checked every four to eight weeks, an older child's every two to three months.

Shoes should not be handed down when they have been outgrown. Growing feet need an accurate fit.

WE SELL OUR GAS, WHY NOT MORE WATER ?

It has been some time since the two governments of Canada and the United States started negotiations for the Columbia River development project. Hardly had the ink dried on newspaper headings announcing that the B.C. and Federal Governments had found the solution to their disagreement and the treaty between the two countries was about to be signed, when I discovered a news item in the Christian Science Monitor that had eluded me in our own Metropolitan dailies.

Perhaps I am aware of water problems and those of potential power developments because of my exposure to such gigantic undertakings as the Grand Rapids project in northern Manitoba and the earth rolled dam in Saskatchewan. I wrote about them two summers ago.

To the south of us there are states starving for water. Now an imaginative proposal has been made by a Los Angeles firm to develop North American water resources on a massive scale. And because most of the water the Parsons Company visualizes for their project has sources in Canada, I am going to quote directly from the article.

"It, (the Parsons' Plan), would meet much of the continent's forseeable water needs for 100 years, including those of northern Mexico.

"It would pay for itself in half that time at an estimated cost, including financing, of $100 billion.

"It would make possible eight times as much new irrigated land in Mexico as the Aswan High Dam will be giving Egypt.

"It would give extra water to two Canadian provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan, as well as big blocks of power clear across Canada to Quebec.

"It would double California's water supply, give large additional supplies to Texas and to the mountain states, and even send some to the Eastern Seaboard.

"It would increase by 50 per cent the hydro-electric power output of Niagara Falls, lifting the water level of the Great Lakes in the process.

"It might, indeed, open up the Northwest Passage that history says was a lodestar to the exploration of this continent and make transcontinental ship navigation really possible.

Reservoir Proposed

"Briefly, the plan would convert the so-called Rocky Mountain Trench of British Columbia, adjacent to Banff and Jasper National Parks, into a 500-mile-long storage reservoir. It collects about 20 per cent of the surplus water from the Fraser, Yukon, Peace, Athabasca, and other rivers.

"One canal system would cut across Canada to Lake Superior, providing a navigable waterway from Vancouver, B.C. Another, by an intricate series of lift-pump systems, would flow south.

"All in all, the plan would bring supplementary water to 33 of the United States.

"Recently, following a long series of private conferences with numerous American water problem specialists, the company began discussing its plan with the Canadian Government and British Columbia officials.

"Parsons people say that their motive now in making known their proposal is to determine how ready American enterprise is to do the job and to solicit encouragement to go ahead."

THINGS CAN SNOWBALL

One thing that pleases me about life is the way things can snowball. A little bit of effort to get things started can have big results.

I noticed that the other day, when announcing that it was going to open in Winnipeg, the Mercantile Bank of Canada explained why, in these words: "Our decision came after a study of the vigorous and intelligent efforts of Manitoba to become a major exporter."

I'm a Manitoba boy, and if anyone had suggested 15 or 20 years ago that we'd become a major exporter of anything but wheat, I'd have laughed at him. Just the same, a few manufacturers began to investigate the possibilities. Governments began to offer inducements and encouragement. Soon everyone was talking it up, and some firms, after a few frustrating years of effort and many headaches, began to get overseas orders. Banks began to take a mighty close look at this new surge and these prodigious efforts and decided they'd be able to help.

The big thing is not to give up. Keep pushing that snowball, and even if it rolls only an inch or two at a time, it starts to gather momentum and to grow.

Canadians are starting to grow, starting to highball. You can feel it in the air. They're beginning to look at the world as a possible market, the way the British did in their greatest days. Canadian labor deserves a great deal of credit, too, because they've backed management in this export drive by quality performance and common-sense wage negotiations. The new crop of labor leaders would rather be smart than tough, and they know that in the long run that attitude will get a higher standard of living. It has been a lucky combination of top-flight men in management and labor that has given us this spurt. The snowball is rolling and it may yet be true that the sixties will bring the biggest boom — solid boom — that Canada has ever known.

Government meets crossfire of criticism from Opposition

LEGISLATURE IN REVIEW

By Cy Fox, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec (CP) — Quebec recently heard charges of high taxes and lax official conduct hurled at the Liberal government by Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson and one of his top lieutenants.

Mr. Johnson led off with a speech at St. Pascal, 120 miles northeast of Quebec City, in which he insisted that the tax policies of the Lesage administration will serve to "accentuate social inequality and give rise to pauperism."

The head of the Union Nationale was reviving the howls that went up from his ranks when the government ordered last month that sales taxes across the province be made a uniform six percent.

He told a meeting of his St. Pascal supporters that such steps by the Liberals meant extra taxes amounting to $94,000,000 in areas "where unemployment is going up and incomes are going down."

In the Legislative Assembly, the Opposition leader highlighted his attack with a warning to the government that any faults ascribed to the former Union Nationale government would not be tolerated as an excuse for current government members who might be guilty of the same lapses.

Mr. Johnson fired his statement at the Liberal benches after Jean-Baptiste Crepeau (L — Montreal-Mercier) made a debating distinction between patronage and what he called "the system of robbery organized in all areas under the Union Nationale."

Evidence of anti-government enthusiasm among Union Nationale members also came from Paul Allard (UN, for Beauce) who demanded the resignation of attorney-general René Hamel.

Mr. Allard claimed that Mr. Hamel strayed seriously from his line of duty in tolerating what the Opposition member called "sentences that were too light" in instances of liquor law violations. Mr. Allard said he knew of 117 cases in which the law had not been implemented with all the vigor provided for in the statutes concerned.

He also called for the resignation of Family and Welfare minister Emilien Lafrance who, he said, "cannot in all logic remain in a cabinet where one of the members contrives to favor violations of the Liquor Commission laws."

Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault replied to the Opposition assault with an attack of his own on the record of the Union Nationale government in the matter of liquor law enforcement.

Mr. Johnson, in his St. Pascal speech, claimed that the expenditures of the Lesage government this year will be more than twice those of the Union Nationale administration in 1960.

Four years ago the budget was $600,000,000, he said, while "today the Liberals have a budget of $1,500,000,000". He claimed that Quebecers pay a sales tax "three times more than under the Union Nationale and twice that paid in neighboring provinces."

The Opposition leader apparently has chosen to emphasize this version of government costs in the face of a Liberal campaign to persuade the people of the province that the government stands for "a dynamic Quebec in a dynamic Canada."

Education minister Paul Gérin-Lajoie, a close advisor to Premier Lesage, summed up the government's case again in this debate, by contending that the province must have active, positive leadership for the "maximum development of our resources, human and material."

Farms are bigger

A recent U.S.D.A. report concludes that the growing point in agriculture is the larger commercial family farm rather than the larger-than-family farm. The growing size of farms is often interpreted as a growing predominance of the large factory system or large corporate business in agriculture. This is in error, says the report. Family farms are becoming fewer, but also bigger.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY, Macdonald College

This past week has been one of those when there has been too much to see and do and too little time to write about it. The Fair at Ormstown, and Forage Day at Ottawa, a tour of the Eastern Townships with CBC farm commentator Glen Powell, the Poultry Breeders Conference at the College, and Lachute Fair were all on the schedule.

The Forage Crops Field Day at the Central Experimental Farm was well attended. Perhaps five hundred took the chance to see the work that is being done at Ottawa.

Our bus stopped first at the grass breeding plots. There were displays of new varieties — Delta bluegrass, Hercules Orchard grass, Norlea perennial rye, Frontier reed canary grass, Duraturf red fescue. And there were varieties without names yet — a pasture-type timothy and a new winter-hardy orchard grass, wilt resistant alfalfas.

In our block there were plant introductions from all over the world. Perhaps, among them, there might be something new and different for this country. Hungarian clover, with pale yellow blossoms, might prove to be longer-lived than red clover. Mountain Rye grass from Siberia starts growing very early in the spring and stays green in the fall. Zig-Zag clover looks very exciting as a pasture clover, if some way can be found to make it produce seed.

Another stop was at the fertility trials; the contrast between fertilized and unfertilized blocks was very striking. From the one, they were making grass silage which must have been running 10 or 12 tons to the acre. The other wasn't tall enough for a cat to hide in.

There was also a trial which gave me a chance to assess the value of nitrogen alone on an old, run-out sod. Here are the yields: Timothy, no fertilizer, one ton hay per acre; with 150 lbs. ammonium nitrate, 1½ tons per acre.

Another demonstration which caught my eye was labelled Spread Hay Harvest". Three ways were suggested. Plant different fields to early, medium and late varieties. Graze some fields early and lightly; there they had 8 cows per acre in for 6 days early in May. Harvest some for grass silage.

At the corn and soybean stop, we were shown 1200 plots of breeding material. The search was for earlier high yielding varieties. It was pointed out that this country imports $40 million corn and $65 million soybeans from the States each year.

An interesting group of visitors to our booth at the Ormstown Fair were six agriculture students from Laval University. Although, only one of the group could speak English, and my French is still terrible, we compared notes for an hour.

I learned that their summer job is barberry eradication. They have two sprayer-equipped jeeps, and are using Brush-kill in oil to kill the barberry bushes. They figure it will take three years' repeated spraying to do the job.

This is part of an interprovincial campaign to destroy the barberry. It is the host plant for the stem rust fungus which attacks grain. The plant breeders can't develop new strains of cereals fast enough to keep ahead of the rust. They are predicting serious losses to rust in the years ahead if the barberry isn't completely eradicated. It takes twelve years to breed a new oat, but only three to build up a rust epidemic. The organism overwinters and breeds on the barberry.

It seems that most of the barberry is in the south-west corner of the province. If you know of any infested areas, I would be pleased to pass on the information to this crew. Incidentally, it is the common barberry, the one with three-pronged thorns, that gives the trouble. The ornamental barberry, identified by its single thorn, is innocent.

Things 'n Stuff

THE MISSING CIGARETTES

A lady bought a large wall-to-wall carpet and had the firm send a man up to lay it in her living room. This job took him the best part of a morning, but he was finished at last, and reached for his shirt pocket for a cigarette before leaving the house. The cigarettes were not there!. . . He returned to the living room to look for them. They were nowhere in sight, but he noticed a slight bulge in the middle of the carpet. It was certainly not worthwhile to take the tacks out of two sides of the carpet just to retrieve a few smokes, so he stamped on the bulge to flatten it out so it would not be noticed. Then he left the house and got into his truck. And there, on the seat of the truck were the missing cigarettes! Now what, he thought to himself, could have caused the bulge in the carpet?. . .

Shortly after returning to the office, the phone rang. A lady's voice said: "I would like to speak to the man who laid my carpet this morning."

"That's me, Madam," he replied. "Anything wrong?"

"Oh no." she said. "I just wanted to know if, while you were in my house, did you see anything of my budgie bird? I can't find him anywhere."

And he quite truthfully replied: "No, Madam. I did not see any bird at all."

Local Ayrshires qualified for breeders' awards

Among Ayrshire fanciers of this area, John P. Bradley & Son, Lachute, have been awarded a Gold Seal Certificate for "Brookview Vivian", a well known showring winner bred at the Lachute Road farm. She has produced 100,004 lbs. milk, 4,098 lbs. fat, 4.10% in 3,637 days. She is classified Excellent and is a two-time winner at Lachute Fair and was Reserve Grand Champion in 1956. Her sire is "Glengarry Bombardier".

The Silver Seal certificate has been awarded to "Woodlea Rosebud", bred and owned by W. Erskine Rodger, East Settlement. Her record in six lactations is 82,103 lbs. milk, averaging 3.96% fat. This cow is classified Very Good.

Two more Gold Seal ratings are noted in this area among the 14 thus cited in Western Quebec breeders' honors. These are two cows in the René Trepanier herd at Oka, Que.

IN CANADA. U-N Secretary-General U Thant made a two-day visit to Ottawa to discuss Canada's role in the U-N. Topics of discussion with Prime Minister Lester Pearson and External Affairs Minister Paul Martin were Cyprus, a proposed U-N peace force, the Congo and problems in Indo-China.

TO CURB SMOKING

A chemical known as lobeline offers the greatest promise of helping smokers who want to break the tobacco habit, Reader's Digest reports. The drug, which can be produced synthetically, is similar in chemical structure and in effect to nicotine. Thus it can help to ease the craving for nicotine.

Old resident of Calumet district widely mourned

Late Mrs. Annie B. Bennett

The death of Mrs. Annie B. (Falle) Bennett occurred suddenly at the Convalescent Home, Hawkesbury, on June 2. She was the daughter of the late Edwin Andrews and his wife, Barbara MacLean.

Mrs. Bennett was in her 81st year. Born in Harrington, July 11, 1883, she lived in that vicinity then moved to Montreal, where she married William J. Falle; the latter predeceased her in 1938. Also one son, William Jr., and daughter-in-law, Alice, predeceased her some years ago.

In 1954 she moved back to this district, where she married Peter Bennett and took up residence in Calumet. Mr. Bennett predeceased her in 1960, and after his death, she spent much of her time with her brother, Edward.

Left to mourn her loss are her two sons, George of Winnipeg, and Leonard of Beaurepaire, also 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Of her immediate family there remain one brother, Edward, of Avoca, one sister, Mrs. H. Handy (Nellie), of Montreal, one half-brother, William, of Ottawa, one half-sister, Mrs. Bill Waterman (Myrtle), of Montreal, as well as many nieces and nephews, also many step-brothers and step-sisters.

The body rested at Grenville Funeral Home, and the funeral was held from the chapel on Friday, June 5. Service was conducted by the Rev. J. F. Parkes, a very close friend of the family for many years. Hymns sung were, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "What A Friend We Have In Jesus".

Pall-bearers were four of her nephews — Elmer and Claude Andrews, Elvie Rourke, William MacDonald, and two of her grandsons, Carl and Dean Falle. Interment was in the Avoca Cemetery. The large gathering and the many floral tributes bore testimony of the esteem in which the late Mrs. Bennett was held.

Attendance and entries confirm '64 Spring Fair biggest and best

Labors rewarded with success in all phases

Four days of fine weather favored the 139th annual Lachute Spring Fair last week, and contributed immeasurably to its success in terms of attendance. From other viewpoints — the quality and number were there to make the livestock and craft exhibits outstanding; the service clubs filled their assignment, to top the grandstand horse and livestock shows with rollicking entertainment each evening; and for the thrills of more glamorous amusement, the King Reid midway filled the bill for all comers.

Those who came to see what's new in farm equipment, automobiles, trailers and other wares, found plenty to interest them in the section of the exhibition grounds devoted to this purpose.

In the barns one viewed, at close quarters, the qualities which produced prize animals in the judging rings; and in "stable row" were the lighter steeds, and their owners and attendants, which put Lachute perennially at the top for its spectacular horse shows.

Busy quarters were the Farm Forum and Legion Auxiliary booths, which catered to the inner man at strategic spots on the show grounds.

There was a stream of visitors to the main building. Downstairs was a display by Gatineau Power Co. and Hydro Quebec; a Macdonald College educational exhibit in charge of Walker Riley (Watchman columnist) and Gaylen Driver, Quebec Farm Forum secretary; also a Canadian Cancer Society display attended by local ladies. . . On the second floor were all the regular displays; Women's Institute crafts, floriculture and cookery; Cercle des Fermières needlecraft; and products of students' training in cabinet-making, metal work and dressmaking, from Lachute High School.

The Canadian National Institute of the Blind, with the field secretary, Tony Zaplaski, demonstrating the craft of rubber mat making, featured items for sale made by the blind. Sponsored by the Lions Club, this was a rendezvous for many CNIB friends and supporters.

Two other service clubs, the Legion and Rotary, had many active helpers to promote ticket sales at their respective booths.

Other displays by local firms were those of Keith Canning, where scooters and motorcycles fascinated the youthful, and utility machines interested older folks; also J. L. St. Jacques Ltée, with building products.

In the entertainment programs, the Rotarians won approval of the grandstand crowd on Thursday evening with the tug-of-war finals and other items reported elsewhere. . . On Friday, after a magnificent turnout of four and six-horse outfits in the evening horse show, the Lions presented a "Purple and Gold Revue", a juvenile troupe sponsored by the Montreal Lions Club to encourage talent and showmanship. . . On Saturday night the Black Watch tattoo, presenting the regiment's military and pipe-and-drum bands, gave a spine-tingling recital of Scots and martial music.

Afternoon features on Saturday were the Richelieu trotting races with pari-mutuel, in which a card of eight events evoked high interest among the crowd. Also warmly applauded at the grandstand were the combined bands of the Army Cadet Corps (Lachute) and Shawbridge Boys' Farm; these young bandsmen gave a good account of themselves and proved a pleasing addition to the Fair's attractions.

President "Bud" MacGeorge, as versatile announcer for many of the grandstand events, in this capacity fills a liaison of good will between fair-goers and "the management", Argenteuil Agricultural Society. To him and his directors, and to Secretary Ken Riley for the immense volume of detail involved in this annual production, great credit is due for the outcome of Lachute Spring Fair 1964.

Some of the results in livestock judging will be mentioned in next week's issue.

Lions Club ends year, new officers installed

Service club routine is largely down-to-earth business for the community, with the spice of fellowship thrown in; these are the ingredients of the regular meetings, and of the committee and executive sessions in between. . . .

At the Lions Club last week, a meeting in La Lorraine Motel which concluded the year's regular suppers, held an essence of deeper sincerity as officers went out and officers came in. It was an occasion on which the members took a more serious view of their club and the fulfilment of its aims through the passing years.

President Keith Clarke paid tribute to colleagues at the head-table, signalled out for their ready response and loyal service through the year, each in his role or special assignment. The president handed the gavel of office to his successor, Mozart Carriere, and the president-elect and his new executive were impressively installed by Horace Lamarche, ex-Deputy District Governor.

Other business included plans for Lions' Night at Lachute Fair, and a final report on the drawing to be held that night, in which Lion Ozzie Carriere had excelled as top salesman. (Winners are listed on page 5.)

Hal Joyce led a song session with a bilingual boost, and four clubmen in the Barbershoppers sang a selection in choice harmony. Lions Gabriel Valois and Don Titman were presented with trophies as winners of the 30th Anniversary theme song contest in French and English.

In thanking the club for the honor accorded to him as new president, Mozart Carriere also reported on the Lions Rink project, of which he is chairman. He stated that the Agricultural Society ground had been surveyed for this purpose and the deed of transfer would be negotiated after the Lachute Spring Fair.

Officers installed for the coming year were as follows:

President, Mozart Carriere.
Vice-presidents, Clayton Robinson, Paul Deslauriers, Bill Jones.
Secretary, Dr. Eric Mongeon.
Treasurer, Jacques Bourgoing.
Inter-club Chairman, Roger Gravel.
Directors, R. Regimbal, Ian Gordon, Bert Rigg, J.-P. Paquin, L.-J. Dumais, Don Hay, Horace Lamarche, G. Valois.
Lion Tamer, Hal Joyce.
Tail Twister, Ray Desormeaux.
Bulletin Editor, Ray Church.

A letter from the Mayor and Council to those who are "new citizens of Lachute" by the enactment of Annexation, appears on page 4 of this issue.

Home damaged by fire outbreak in East Ward

Two upstairs bedrooms in the home of William (Bill) Black, 115 Gilbert Street, were seriously damaged by fire late Friday evening, as firemen were hampered by intense heat and smoke in locating the source and extent of the blaze.

Mr. Black had retired and was awakened by smoke. He informed the other residents of the house, and instructed them to summon the fire department while he attempted to extinguish the blaze, which by this time had broken through the wall near the chimney. The fire call was received at 10.50 p.m., and both pumper trucks and a fire crew were at the scene within several minutes. The flames had ignited the wall surrounding the double-brick chimney and had apparently been burning for some time before the outbreak was discovered. Firemen had to open the walls and ceiling in the two bedrooms adjacent to the chimney in order to extinguish the blaze. Heat and smoke damage resulted in the bedrooms, with some water damage in other sections of the dwelling.

Mr. Black reported that a small fire had been lit in the stove at supper time, and it is believed that a crack in the chimney allowed sparks to escape and ignite the wall. Firemen were at the scene until shortly before one o'clock a.m.

Awaits trial on assault charge

Murray Staniforth, 23-year-old Arundel resident, held at St. Jerome jail charged with criminal assault, has been held over for trial at the October assizes, following a decision handed down by Judge Camille de Martigny at his preliminary hearing. No bail will be allowed.

A 33-year-old companion, Richard Trudel, was found hanged in his cell on Thursday, May 28. One of the prison guards was suspended from his job for an indefinite period, following a charge of negligence.

School results for Grades I to IX will be available for publication in next issue of The Watchman.

Council submits new contract modifying workers' demands

City Fathers have submitted a counter-proposal for consideration of the town-employee union group (manual workers), District 50 of the United Mine Workers of America, and Alderman Laurier Carrière, chairman of the finance committee, was authorized by his civic colleagues to negotiate the contract.

It is recalled this group was recognized by the Quebec Labor Relations Board as an official bargaining agent, in this first case of negotiations between the corporation and its employees.

Among clauses drawn up by the Town in its new proposal are the following:

"The Town agrees to exercise no discrimination against any of its employees due to their affiliation or non-affiliation; to prevent no employee from joining the Union; nor to interfere with or influence any internal business of the Union.

"An employee chosen by the Union to take part in its assemblies may absent himself from work, without salary, on eight days' notice given to his foreman; however, such absences may not exceed a total of five working days in the year.

"All Union activity, except affairs permitted by the present agreement, shall be forbidden at all times, in town premises or anywhere during working hours."

The proposed agreement also gives procedure for the adjustment of grievances, and time limits for submitting such complaints, while one or other of the contracting parties may seek arbitration under provisions of the Act affecting city and school corporations.

With certain exceptions, the Town also specifies that a work week shall be 49 hours — five days of 9 hours and a half-day (Saturday) of 4 hours. (The exceptions apply to employees on rotation, and certain others.). . The Union group had proposed a 45-hour week.

Hours worked in excess of this schedule shall be considered as overtime, payable at "time and a half" rate. Overtime, when expressly required, shall be obligatory, but not in excess of 9 hours within a 24-hour day. The same overtime pay shall apply for hours of work required on a Sunday or statutory holiday.

The agreement provides for five days of statutory holiday.

Annual vacations with pay shall be given at the rate of one week after a year's continuous service (May 1 to April 30); and two weeks after four years' service.

The new proposal offers pay rates as follows; laborers $1.25 an hour — $1.30 an hour after the agreement has been in force for one year; truck and mechanical drivers $1.35 — after one year of this agreement, $1.40; mechanics $1.50 — and $1.55.

(The Union had asked for 30c an hour increase for the first year, plus 20c an hour for the second year of the contract. Also requested was a 10% bonus for evening shift workers at the filtration plant and a 15% bonus for the night shift.)

Electrician victim of fatality at B'burg C-I-L plant

The death of Harvey Wilson, 44-year-old electrician at C-I-L Brownsburg Works (Explosives and Ammunition Division) occurred at 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, while engaged in a routine procedure, making a connection to a 550-volt power line.

Wilson, working on a pole on the plant premises, collapsed, and was held by his safety belt. His helper, Roger Filion, was standing below, and within a short time fellow workers had climbed up to the unconscious victim and were applying artificial respiration. Dr. J. C. MacKimmie was summoned from Lachute; he also climbed to the man's assistance, but despite human effort, and the use of an oxygen therapy apparatus from the plant, the victim failed to respond.

Plant officials conducted their inquiry Saturday and Sunday, but failed to discover the cause of the tragedy. All possible causes of the accident are being thoroughly investigated. The late Harvey Wilson had been an employee of C-I-L for 25 years and was a qualified electrician.

Provincial police were notified, and an inquest will be held under Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, joint district coroner.

The victim is mourned by his wife and two daughters, besides numerous relatives in this district. The sympathy of many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

Worker groups unionize in two industries

Local 348 of the United Textile Workers of America recently signed a collective labor agreement with Lowe Bros. Dairy, Lachute, on behalf of in-plant employees of that company. Chairman of the local group is Robert Lacelle, and secretary J.-L. Beauregard. The agreement is for a two-year period.

Principal gains for the employees are a 15% salary increase in three stages, the first (5%) being retroactive to January 1 of this year; also benefits in the way of vacations and statutory holidays.

Another group under the same industrial union, Local 389, has signed its first collective agreement with L'Heureux Enr., cleaners, of this town. Salary increases here range from 14 to 19 cents an hour, with provision for higher-paid annual vacations, and nine statutory holidays in the year.

François Gagné, representative from United Textile Workers, piloted the negotiations between workers and management in both cases.

Charities appeal 11% higher than previous campaign

A meeting was held last week to take final accounting of the Charities Federation campaign. The total collected was $91,714.80, made up of the following divisions:

Rural	$ 3,915.37
St. Eustache	8,093.18
Laurentian Zone	10,098.22
Lachute (L. Chevrier)	9,625.92
St. Jerome	32,779.84
Ste. Therese	17,500.48
Terrebonne	7,931.78

Outside industries had contributed $1,770 to make the total above reported, according to Mtre Maurice Labelle, the general chairman for the diocese, who cordially thanked all who had played a part. The result was 11 per cent higher than in the previous campaign.

Dr. Chas. Roy, of Lachute, in charge of the budget for affiliated funds and services, then gave his report, which showed five new agencies on the list of those assisted. He spoke of the municipalization of recreation in the City of Ste. Therese, which is now established and a successful pilot venture. The Federation will discontinue its grants for recreation groups (Loisirs) but will provide them with professional services.

Mtre. Labelle congratulated Mme Richard Ayers as president of the Visiting Nurses division, one of the newer welfare efforts.

It was unanimously advocated to change the name of this enterprise to "Laurentian Federation of Charities".

Minor accidents; law and order over Fair time

Lachute's acting police chief, Sgt. Real Chartrand, reports a quiet week and week-end, aside from heavy traffic and long hours of duty during the exhibition. A number of minor accidents were investigated, including two three-car mishaps, but no injuries were reported.

Holiday services at post-office

District post offices are open only for short periods today, St. Jean Baptiste Day, and on Wednesday of next week, July 1, will be closed entirely. However, outgoing mail will be processed as usual, and all in-coming mail will be sorted ready for distribution the following day. There will be no wicket or mail-box service, and the lobby of the post office will be locked.

Photography show at St. Andrews by Argenteuil Art Association

A photographic display sponsored by the Argenteuil Art Association — a digression from the customary type of exhibitions — has rewarded members and friends of the Association with a widely varied array of quality photographs. The directors, gratified by the response to this experiment, desire that the Society should share this exhibit with all interested. The public are cordially invited to visit the show on its remaining days — to Monday, June 28, inclusive, from 2.30 to 5 p.m. daily (and 7 to 9 p.m. Friday) at the municipal hall in St. Andrews East.

The exhibition, with Mrs. L. T. Porter (president) and a number of directors present, was formally opened Saturday afternoon by Mr. Mansiel Wilson of Cushing, who is himself an enthusiastic camera fan. He commended the high quality, and wide interest, of the entries, and welcomed new members who had been attracted by this innovation in the A.A.A. program.

There are over 120 photographs on display. Admirably classified by the selection committee, they are grouped as to subject, in five categories — the largest of which, understandably, is Landscapes. In this collection, color has played a part in some really beautiful effects — sky formations, reflections, autumn vistas and homely glimpses of the farm.

General Interest pictures include phenomena of forest and stream, night shots, a fire scene, and some rare examples of church architecture by an authority on this subject.

Still Life is represented by two entries, both successful efforts. Scientific pictures show some real feats of photography, including speed shots of a bullet in flight, some immensely magnified cross-sections of wood fibre, and other interesting subjects. There is also a division devoted to People; while the Nature scenes show candid shots of wildlife, flora and fauna, by outdoor enthusiasts with combined camera skill.

Altogether this is a display with a wide and colorful range of interest.

Fete of St. Jean Baptiste fittingly celebrated here

Today (Wednesday) is the fete of St. Jean Baptiste, the patron saint of French Canada. . . Tuesday night, on the eve of this civic holiday, a mammoth parade and celebration was held in town, sponsored by the Lachute-Ayersville St. Jean Baptiste Society — culminating with a patriotic and colorful program at the Richelieu Park, by kind hospitality of the service club executive.

Representatives of town and provincial authorities, and of the local and diocesan branches of the Society, were present and took part in the program. The federal deputy sent regrets for his absence, due to sessional duties in Ottawa.

The parade included cars with representatives of the principal service clubs and fraternal groups, bands, Ayersville Air Cadets, Catholic Boy Scouts and Guides, the Kalinka folklore troupe, horses and riders, and various floats. Marshal of the parade was Marcel Grondin and the feature was well organized by the Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment was presented at the grounds by the Guides and the Kalinka troupe, concluding with the traditional bonfire and fireworks. The Rev. Yvon Maillioux, curé of Ayersville, blessed the floodlighting ceremony, and Paul Laliberté and his assistants managed the fireworks show.

Altogether, it was a fitting celebration to mark this annual fete.

Argenteuil Outdoors

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

A funny story is supposed to start the day off right, so here goes. One of our neighbors is, like ourselves, ardent about birds. Seeing a young robin fall from its nest last Sunday he did the right thing, according to him — put it back in the nest. Catching the little one was no trouble, but troubles started from then on. I wonder how many of you have tried to climb a tree with one hand. Anyway, he reached the nest and proceeded to put the young one back. All this time the parent birds had not been too excited; however, things changed rapidly. As he reached to put the young one back, the (presumed) lady bird went into action. Diving down on the visitor she almost parted his hair (even though it's very thin). At this our soft-hearted friend started to climb down — not wasting any time, if you know what I mean. Before he gets near the ground, the other bird clobbers him on the nose, then uses the bridge of his nose as a spur-sharpener! A real mess of scratches. Taking heart the other strikes at his forehead with claws and beak, and with that, the friend's glasses fall off. Letting go, he lands safely, finds his glasses unbroken, and beats a hasty retreat, with the two birds in hot pursuit. . . I think he has sworn off helping little birds back into their nests!

Some of the local fishermen who went North this past week were disappointed. One group told me the water was very cold, and during their stay not one rise was seen. In four days of fishing they caught only three greys, the largest about 4 lbs., and with numerous others fishing this lake, not one good fish was taken.

Some of our lakes, however, have been quite productive. Silver Lake seems to have hit its peak for this time of year. Lake Macdonald is starting to come into shape, some good bass with the odd smattering of greys being taken. Reds are (I have heard) extra hard to catch this year; seemingly this has something to do with the water — they may still be very sluggish. You will remember last year this lake was very good at the start of the season, but it dropped off badly later on. Lake Louisa has been better than last year; the greys are responding to depth trolling, but there is still the odd one taken in the shallows with spinning gear.

This past week we had stopped feeding the birds, but have decided to start back again. But it's funny how soon they learn the handouts have stopped and how quickly they desert you. . . While out fishing, I have noticed a great number of scarlet tanagers around, more than last year. Wading a creek fishing, and trying to watch these birds, is not exactly conducive to comfort, but it's well worth it, to me. Another high spot of the week was seeing some of the young ducks disporting themselves. We have seen only one hatch, with five youngsters — so I guess this mother was a novice. I don't think it will be too long before we have plenty of them in evidence. Cold weather and lack of motor boats on the river, gave them an early-season break.

With netting going on, particularly in the area of St. Michel, in these quarters there seems to be little regard for the game laws. Somehow you'd think they would smarten up and realize the supply is diminishing, and that in future it will be still less. Of course, you cannot blame them altogether, a market must be found for this sort of thing; and the buyers are more to blame than anyone else. If there were no sale, there would be no incentive to law breaking. I do think a check should be made on some of the small out-of-the-way hotels which serve game of all kinds. Even in this area, if you have the price you can get trout at any time. As for a steak of venison, I presume this is also to be had at any time.

I have had several more complaints about Lake Louisa and boats running around in hazardous manner — cutting off slower boats, with danger of swamping, etc. I would suggest a call to the Provincial Police or the RCMP might have some effect. One youth, reportedly between 16 and 18, is repeatedly mentioned as a prime offender. Maybe some of you residents should take stock of your youngsters and YOUR boats. We have laws for protection on the waters, as we have on the highways; why not see they are observed?

This is a tip that may save you a good fish. Ken Graham was telling me how he had hooked a good fish but lost it due to the line breaking; this was on a fly rod. So here's a tip on the handling of any fish on this type of equipment. In the first place, no fish can be "horsed in" without the risk of losing it. The higher the rod is held, the less chance of a fish pulling free. You see, the tip of the rod will keep tension on the line at all times. Another good thing to remember, a fly reel is not used like a spinning outfit. It is much better to strip the line off by hand than try to use the reel. Another point — when pulling your fish in, don't use the reel either; rather, strip your line in by hand and allow it to fall into the water, if the fish does decide to take another run, then all you have to do is keep a little tension on the line as it runs through your fingers. This also applies to your false casting; let the line drop, just make sure it is not all tangled up.

A few of the fishermen have been complaining also about their lines sinking. This is only natural; no matter how well a line is made it has to be dressed every once in a while. This is easily done, and well worth the time. To begin with, if you are in the field and wish to do this, use a clean piece of cloth (OK, use your handkerchief). After it has been stretched between a couple of trees, wipe the line free of dirt. This done, you can now put on some line dressing; either Muscilin or Silicote are good. They are applied the same way, with a small cloth. Run this over the line, making sure you do the whole thing, then allow it to dry for a few minutes and polish it. Do this with a separate cloth; you can tell when it is right, the cloth will squeak as you draw it along the line. The difference this makes in your line in handling qualities, is almost unbelievable. If you are using the line a lot, then you may have to dress it a couple of times a week. I usually dress mine every time out, and this saves a lot of headaches.

Once more a group of "ban the gun" people are getting hot under the collar in the U.S. It appears they want all guns banned from sale — thinking no doubt that this type of thing will forestall any more of the tragic events of last fall. What they don't seem to realize is that, anyone wishing to commit a crime will get a gun, no matter how it may be banned. Only an exceedingly small fraction of guns purchased are ever used for criminal intent, yet legitimate owners are going to have to suffer. It seems strange to me, but we have this type of reasoning in our own country too. Take as an example the pistol law; trying to purchase a hand-gun in this country is as hard as trying to abolish the income tax. Yet we do nothing about this law. Certainly some of the guns will be purchased by law-breaking elements, but don't we deserve some protection from these same elements? It appears the police cannot protect law-abiding citizens. I often wonder how many holdups would be committed if the culprits knew they might have to shoot it out with their intended victims. Not too many, I'm sure.

"Heigh-ho, come to the Fair" — said B. of M.

The most enthusiastic business office to support the 1964 Lachute Spring Fair was the Bank of Montreal local branch, whose premises and staff were "decorated" in the real spirit of the occasion and conducted business in this setting last Thursday and Friday. . . On Saturday, with banks being closed, the staff here pictured were doubtless all enjoying themselves at the fair grounds.

Fishing contest Sunday, June 28 at Bark Lake

Another fishing derby is announced for members of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association, to be held this Sunday, June 28, at Bark Lake, near Arundel. The contest opens bright and early at 4 a.m., and terminates at 4 p.m. Any enthusiasts not affiliated with the club may procure membership cards at the box office on the lakeside. At this spot the committeemen will also weigh-in and register the catches at the end of the day. No fish will be registered after 4.30 p.m. Entry fee is $1, and the contest will be held rain or shine. A bean supper will be served to all competitors.

Further information is available from Jacques Navion (LO 2-8081) or Claude Parent (LE 3-4823), who are joint organizers of the event.

Some good catches have been reported recently from Bark Lake, and fishermen are looking forward to this occasion with keen anticipation.

Boating Clinic

— BY STAN DAVIES —

Back in 1956 when the boating boom was mushrooming, remember how boating accidents skyrocketed too? But ever since, all across Canada there has been a steady decline in boating fatalities despite the fact that the number of boats has still been climbing.

I think it's due to a growing awareness of safety measures, as some of these questions I've been asked indicate. . .

If my engine quits out of earshot of shore what's the Canadian distress sign?

(E. P. St. Boniface, Man.)

Answer: One that's recognized all over North America is the waving of a piece of light colored material (like a short) in a circular motion in front of you, to imitate a pinwheel.

In the new fire extinguishers there's a fine white powder that shoots out when you press the handle. I'm told it's poisonous. Is it? (K.T. Montreal)

(K.R. St. Thomas, Ont.)

Answer: Yes, with one stipulation. You must show a white light somewhere on your boat that is visible all around the horizon and can be seen for two miles. Even if your lake isn't two miles across it makes no difference.

Does the law say that every boat must carry a rope?

(E.T. Calgary)

Answer: Please don't call it "a rope". On a boat, a piece of rope that's being put to a specific use is called "a line". Boats OVER 26 feet long must carry "One bouyant heaving line of not less than 50 feet in length," and must carry one anchor with not less "than 50 feet of cable, rope or chain." So says the Small Vessel Regulations. But be nautical, call it the anchor "line". Boats 26 feet long or under aren't required to carry rope.

Every time I gas up my little cabin cruiser, the dock attendant tells me to shut the cabin door. I hate to ask him why?

Answer: I hope he makes you put out your cigarette, too. The reason is, that gasoline fumes are much heavier than air and will pour down into the boat during refuelling. The vapor will lie for hours, in the cabin or the bilges like a time bomb just waiting for a spark. This attendant is doing you a favor.

Where can I learn all about lights on boats, and all the other rules? (P.R. Edmonton)

Answer: Take a Canadian Power Squadrons course next winter. It'll be the best time you ever spent. Failing that, a good text is Charles F. Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling.

Must a canoe carry lights at night?

Answer: Navigational lights are not required. But the law says: "a white light must be shown if there is danger of collision." A flashlight will do. And surely nobody would go out in a canoe at night without a flashlight. Or would they?

Full round of Rotary activities at the Fair

New champion "tuggers" are dark horses from St. Philippe — Les Casquettes Rouges tug-of-war team. They won over C-I-L in the final draw at the Rotary Night contest.

The match between the seven teams (the Windsor Hotel outfit didn't show up, perhaps because they saw the size of the monster Thurso team) was one to remember for all who were there, particularly the C-I-L team and its supporters. . . But more of that later.

Ronnie Prophet showed himself a professional entertainer with his one-man show. A large audience applauded his masterful technique with the guitar. At times he caused it to reverberate through the amplifiers without his hands on the instrument, in a somewhat spooky fashion, as if sounding an echo to his tunes.

He sang part of his popular recording of a take-off on the song, "My boomerang won't come back", in response to a request from the audience; this received hearty applause, as did his impersonations of Louis Armstrong, Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, a Beetle, and an auctioneer. It was a case of a Prophet being appreciated in his home country!

The Greased Pole

A switch from music and song, muscle and might, was the pounding of pillows. Two teenage "greased pole gladiators", on newly-skinned poles, tried to unseat each other, amid howls of laughter. To keep the contests full of action, "fight promoters" John Leggitt and Andy Hardie used stop-watches and replaced ammunition and mounts as required.

Graham Tomalty showed himself best at giving and receiving blows while still remaining upright on the pole. Elain Laurin was last man down. Ross Graham and Ron Boa both survived to the third round; Paul Chalmers, Terry Morrow, Grant Boa and Arthur McElroy the second, and Geo. Chalmers, David Nixon, John Leggitt Jr., Brian Wilson, Terry Swail, Sidney Bates and G. DeGray were in there swatting.

The Tug-of-War

In the first round, C-I-L defeated Ayers in a very good contest lasting 58 seconds. Then the audience gasped as the monster Thurso men took the field, sponsored by and called the "Lafontaine Hotel" team. Looking like 400 lbs. per man, they claim only 2,058 lbs. for eight men, and they felt so confident of winning that they didn't bother with any spares. All other teams carried two, according to the rules.

Thurso eliminated the Golf Club in 12 seconds, giving the impression they were only going through the motions.

Bell Telephone at 1,825 lbs. outpulled the lightest (1,380-lb.) team, Boyd's Express, in 51 seconds.

St. Philippe then won by default, when Windsor Hotel failed to present their promised team. Their commitment had kept out a Vankleek Hill team, which had applied for entry.

In the semi-finals, David and Goliath met in the form of C-I-L and the Thurso squad. Impossible, unfair, thought the audience — but there was no weight restriction, nor had there been any, in past Rotary contests.

It was certainly the case of the underdog trying his best. The audience was 100% with C-I-L, but with a feeling of futility. The rope tightened, the gun sounded, and the tape moved steadily to the Thurso end, as expected. . .

Pulls, pillows and poles — Prophet as star trouper

But wait, it stopped — it wavered — it moved back a little. The little guy was holding his own. Seconds ticked by that seemed like hours, as the rope gradually moved back. Spectators roared and urged the lighter team to superhuman effort as some of the huskies fell to their knees, to get pulled to defeat as the tape moved slowly but surely to the C-I-L end. In one minute and 49 seconds they had won, with not an ounce of energy to spare. When it is considered that they were outweighed by 479 lbs. (or 60 lbs. per man) this achievement can be better appreciated.

In the other semi-final, St. Philippe team, strong and fresh, defeated the Bell Telephone "Dial Club" in 32 seconds.

The finals followed the second part of the Prophet show.

C-I-L held St. Philippe for the full two minutes, but were unable to get the tape back past centre, being too exhausted from their pull with Thurso.

It was a memorable contest.

The final winners, the Red Caps of St. Philippe, might have been called the Campeau team, since five of that name took part and one was on reserve — except that they commandeered their mayor (of Chatham) Bill Morrow, big and strong.

They weighed 1,782 lbs. (or 222¾ lbs. per man) compared to their opponents, C-I-L 1,589 lbs., at 198¼ per man.

It appears that a total team weight restriction will be imposed for any future contests. Two weight classes used by some international athletic associations are 1,540 lbs. for eight men — 193 lbs. per man; another is 1,750 lbs. or 219 lbs. per man, average. These classifications restrict the total team weight, not that of any member.

It was the third year in a row that the "Cartridge" team (this year with four new men) had taken second prize, Canadian Refractories having won that position for the first two years of the contest. This year their courage and teamwork was deservingly applauded by the large number in the stands and the crowds in the green ring.

Rotarian Ross Cole kept the audience informed through the microphone-speaker, kindly provided by Imperial Tobacco Co.

The trophy, a mahogany-mounted group of three victory figures, was presented to team captain, Noel Lemay, a farmer and sportsman of St. Philippe, by Rotary President Don Wilson.

Members of his team, coached by Laurence Derouin, local merchant, were — (anchorman) Jean Jacques Campeau, Gerard Louis-Seize, Rolland Campeau, Florian Campeau, Maurice Campeau, Howard Garland, Henri-Paul Campeau, Bill Morrow (mayor of Chatham), Hillary McCart and Raymond Campeau, the last of two being reserves.

The C-I-L "Plus Tens" were coached by Wes Wilson, assisted by Mac Thiebaud, captain Bill MacKiddie, anchorman George Taylor, Paul Guimond, Art Keatley, George Pasco, Rosaire Whissell, Ron Bigras, Don MacKiddie, Paul Guerard and Bernard Belanger.

The contests were carried off with harmony and efficiency by the chief judge and starter, Duncan Graham — himself a veteran puller in Scotland. The sportsmanship shown by the teams was appreciated by the crowd, and the efforts of all participants showed that courage and stamina are not dead in this world of so-called ease and armchair living. The co-operation of the various companies and organizations in the district, was appreciated by the Rotary Club.

Rotary Drawing

Four portable G.E. television sets were drawn for, in front of the grandstand Saturday night, during the intermission of the Black Watch band concert. Officials were called impromptu from the grandstand, to make the draw. The president of the Agricultural Society, Bud MacGeorge, drew lucky number 4264, held by Mr. Paul Hecht, of Montreal. Second ticket was drawn by secretary-manager of the Fair, Ken Riley. This was number 3687, held by Winnie and Doris White, Brownsburg. Don Hay, Bank of Montreal manager, pulled out 2721, held by Ken Riley, of Lachute, who had just taken his seat back in the stands. Mayor Dave Campbell drew the final number, 4896, held by Daniel Langevin, of St. Bernadin, Ont. . . Thus, one TV set went to Lachute, one to Brownsburg, one to Montreal, and another to Ontario.

Altogether the Rotary program was a lot of work for many people. But public support will get the thanks of the many young people the Rotary Club tries to help — with a special bow to Farmers' Supply Co., who graciously allowed the club to use their Fair booth as headquarters.

With the co-operation of Brownsburg Lumber Company at their dam, the youngsters will be able to swim at the park, where the "servicemen" have been sweating and hammering the equipment into shape recently. . . To all who co-operated, many thanks. (See pictures opposite.)

D-Day veteran and community figure died in mishap

The late Harvey Wilson

On Saturday, June 20, Harvey Elmer Wilson, aged 44, was accidentally electrocuted at the C-I-L plant in Brownsburg.

Harvey was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson, of Brownsburg, who were both formerly affiliated with C-I-L.

As a young man he attended Brownsburg High School, and in 1939 enlisted in the Black Watch R.H.R. of Canada. He landed with the invasion forces on D-Day, served through the European campaign, and was one of a very small number of men who returned with the regiment in November, 1946.

On his discharge, Harvey returned to C-I-L and made his home in Brownsburg. In 1946 he married the former Anna Abran, and they have two daughters, Cathy and Shirley.

Harvey helped organize and devoted all his spare time to community projects. He was an active member of the Canadian Legion, Brownsburg Fire Department, the Local Union, and the Brownsburg Curling Club.

He is survived by his widow, Anna, and two daughters, Cathy and Shirley; one brother, Melvin, of Lachute; two sisters, Gwyneth (Mrs. Eddie Laurin), Lachute, Rhoda (Mrs. Ken Dion), St. Sauveur; his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abran; also nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the Brownsburg United Church to Brownsburg Cemetery, under direction of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 71, Brownsburg. The service was conducted by the Rev. Richards, assisted by the Rev. C. R. Lang.

Pall-bearers representing the Legion were Robert Creswell, Donald Graham, and George Gates, and representing the Brownsburg Fire Department, George Pasco, Herbie Hazel and Fern Brisson.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harcourt and daughters, of Lachine, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gillies, of Beaurepaire, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pinkerton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Griffith and daughter, Miss Karen Griffith, of Calgary, and Mr. Gilbert Warwick, of Detroit, were guests of Capt. and Mrs. T. W. Weir on Monday.

Mrs. E. Turner and Mr. Harry Turner, of Grece's Point, were in Montreal recently to attend the wedding of Mrs. Turner's granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thomson and family spent last Monday in Ottawa.

Mrs. Wm. Usher was in Peterborough on Sunday and was a guest at a silver wedding celebration at the Empress Hotel for Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Fugler (the former Ethel Dowd), of Toronto. Mrs. Usher accompanied the Rev. and Mrs. N. S. Dowd, and Mrs. Pat Judd of Ottawa to her niece's family dinner. Dr. and Mrs. Ainslie Dowd, of Beloeil, Dr. and Mrs. Emerson Dowd, and Mr. Stewart Dowd, of Toronto, Mrs. Fugler, Sr., and Mr. George Fugler, of Hamilton, were among the guests.

Best wishes of this community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Villeneuve and family, also to Miss Agnes White, in their new residence. The Villeneuve family and Miss White left Friday to join Mr. and Mrs. Villeneuve at Cumberland, Ont., where they will reside.

Mr. Bryan Holmes, of St. Laurent, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hartley and family for the week-end.

Knee - Pearson Marriage Solemnized in Rosemount

A pretty wedding took place at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Rosemount, on May 30, when Dorothy Pearson, of Montreal, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Knee, also of Montreal.

The bride, given away by her uncle, Mr. George Alexander, was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Pearson, as maid of honor, and Miss Kathy Greenway as bridesmaid.

Mr. Alex McPhee acted as best man, and ushers were Sgmn. Ernest Pearson, brother of the bride, Mr. Harry Turner and Mr. George Knee, brother of the groom.

The reception was held at the Hotel, with 80 guests present. Later the couple left on their honeymoon for the U.S.A., and will spend some time at White Acres Ranch.

Open letter on Annexation

TO THE NEW CITIZENS OF LACHUTE:

The annexation of a part of the Parish of St. Jerusalem by the Town of Lachute, effective January 1, 1964, has been approved by Order in Council No. 1018.

As the Parish Council had administered this section from January 1 to date, certain adjustments will have to be made both as regards taxes and expenses.

We trust these adjustments will be made to the mutual satisfaction of both the Parish and the Town as quickly as possible, but in the meantime, the residents of the affected area may call upon the Town of Lachute for all services normally requested from the Parish.

Until further notice, which will be given in the local papers, all monies due to the Parish for taxes or other debts may be paid to the Parish of St. Jerusalem.

Valuation of property and census of the area will be taken as soon as possible, in order to prepare voters' lists for the November election of Town Council.

May we suggest that you check your electric bills — you are now entitled, as a citizen of Lachute, to a lower rate.

The Council and citizens of Lachute welcome you to the Town, and trust that by the addition of this territory the area as a whole may prosper.

— LACHUTE TOWN COUNCIL

Wed 50 Years

The community extends good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morgan, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this past week.

Bishop at Saint Sauveur

Bishop Maguire of Montreal was at the Church of Saint Francis recently for Confirmation and for the dedication of a magnificent Bishop's chair.

Following the service the Bishop signed the deed for purchase of a large piece of land situated behind the church, at a cost of $12,400. This land will gradually be developed as a park area, to fit in with the beautiful grounds surrounding the church.

The Bishop visited the Boys' Farm and Training School for luncheon and was given a tour of the buildings. He will return to the Parish on September 5 and 6, for Confirmation at Mille Isles.

Bell Falls

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, of Dorion, spent the week-end with Mrs. W. H. Warren, and Sunday afternoon she accompanied them on a drive to Forest Lake.

Recent visitors of Mr. John MacRae were Mr. David McNeil, Sr., of Port Colborne, Mr. Wm. Webb and Melody, of Como.

Mrs. Agnes Brown, of Montreal, is visiting Mrs. Adam Page.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Page were Mr. and Mrs. Morrison and family, also Mrs. Mary Betts, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Erving MacLean, Judy and Jordy, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. MacLean in Ottawa.

Mrs. E. MacLeod visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin MacLeod in Lachine, and with Mrs. Christie Brerton and Mrs. Edgar Brerton in Verdun.

Friends wish a speedy recovery to Mrs. Melvin MacLeod, who has returned from the Montreal General Hospital; also to Mr. John Dobbie, who is a patient in the Smith Clinic, and Mrs. Alex MacTavish, who has returned from hospital in Montreal.

Recently celebrated golden wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Duncan Campbell, of Lachute, who observed their golden wedding anniversary on June 10. . . They were married in 1914 in St. Jude's Church, Montreal, the Rev. Canon J. J. Willis officiating. They resided in Lachine until a few years ago, when they moved to Lachute. They have three sons, one daughter, 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Campbell, held a reception at their home in Dorval for the couple on Sunday, June 14, where they received congratulations and good wishes, beautiful flowers and gifts from relatives and friends.

Loved resident mourned by kin and many friends

Late Mrs. Horace Riddell

The community was saddened on Friday last, June 19, by the sudden passing of one of its esteemed residents, Mrs. Horace E. Riddell.

Mrs. Riddell, the former Olive Anita Kerr, spent her lifetime in this community, except for a few years she resided in Western Canada.

Left to mourn her loss are her sons, Clayton and Basil, of Don Mills, Ont., Owen, of Belleville, Ont., Grant, of Calgary, Alta., Wayne, of Montreal, and Peter, of Lachute. Her husband, Horace, predeceased her in 1943, also two sons, Cpl. Gerald, who was killed in France in 1944, and Billy, who died in infancy. Also left to mourn her loss are 11 grandchildren, and two sisters, Lewena (Mrs. Wilfred Morrison) and Lillian (Mrs. Ben Chapman).

The late Mrs. Riddell was a member of the Lachute United Church. She was an active worker in the Women's Missionary Society, of which she was a life member, having held executive positions for several years. She was also associated with the Church Bowling League and was a team captain for many years.

She was a devoted mother, a loyal and sincere friend, and will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

Her funeral service which was largely attended, was held at the Lachute United Church on Monday, June 22, and was conducted by the Rev. Harold Thompson.

Pall-bearers were six nephews — Messrs. Earle Chapman, Lloyd Kerr, Keith Morrison, Alton Riddell, Malcolm Riddell and Stanford Riddell.

Interment took place in the Lachute Cemetery.

Stewart Jones, President

Bill Jones, Vice-President

Mrs. E. M. Jones, Secretary

Old established firm under new name

In the business life of Lachute, as in many comparable centres, the "family firm" is a stable factor in steady progress. It is therefore a healthy sign when one of these firms reorganizes its setup to meet changes of the times and passing years. . .

The old-established house of Gall & Jones, Lachute, assumes next week the new name of Jones Insurance Inc., carrying on under the same policy and personnel which has built up its considerable business clientele.

In the new corporation Stewart Jones is president, Bill Jones vice-president, and Mrs. E. M. Jones secretary. Mrs. Jones' son, Bob, will join the office staff for the summer months, until returning to complete his business course in September.

Also on the staff are Mrs. Albert Blute, with 17 years' service, and Miss Donna Cooke, who has been with the firm for two and a half years. Messrs. Stewart and Bill Jones are both chartered insurance brokers.

This firm was established by the late James W. Gall in 1912. In 1931 a partnership was formed with Edward M. Jones. Both these businessmen subsequently passed to their reward, Mr. Gall in 1947 and Mr. Jones more latterly, in 1962. Meanwhile Stewart Jones, brother of "Ed", had joined the business in 1946, on his discharge from war service, and Bill (Ed's son) in 1957.

Winners picked in Lions Club annual drawing

After the Purple and Gold Revue program, in front of Lachute Fair grandstand Friday night, Mayor Dave Campbell performed an annual rite — drawing the winning tickets in the Lions Club $1,000 prize fund-raising effort. Following is a complete list of the winners, as furnished by Mozart Carrière, chairman of this project:

$1,000 — Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Pine Hill, Que.

$250 — Jean-Paul Carrière, Lachute; Donald K. Barbour, Lachute.

$100 — Mrs. Lionel Laurin, Lachute; Jas. D. O'Farrel, Chambly, Brent Swail, Lachute.

B.Sc. degree from Cornell

Robert (Bob) Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Hay, Lachute, was awarded his Master of Science degree (in Material Sciences) at Cornell University convocation on June 13.

Bob Hay, a graduate of Lachute High School, studied at McGill and received the Bachelor of Engineering degree (in Metallurgy) in 1961. He has been engaged in research while studying at Cornell for the past two years. He is married and has two young sons; the family reside in Ithaca, N.Y.

Friends here extend their congratulations.

Sermon theme at anniversary of Baptist churches

"How Big Is God?"

The Rev. John Boyd, guest preacher at the anniversary services of Dalesville and Lachute Baptist Churches, said in the course of his sermon topic: "The number one problem in the world today is that most people have too small a concept of God." Mr. Boyd explained, "We do not need more people, but a better concept of God. . . We measure ourselves against sin, but we measure God against His self-sufficiency."

The meetings were well attended. The special soloist was Mrs. Roscoe Evans, who sang very acceptably. Special anniversary donations were made to both churches. Dalesville received a gift of fine shrubbery, donated by Mr. and Mrs. George McGibbon, and the Lachute church was presented with two lovely pulpit chairs, by Mr. and Mrs. Smith and other members of the Boyd family.

Social and Personal

Word has been received from Mrs. Albert Mady, who was recently called home to Lebanon, of the passing of her father. Mrs. Mady left by air from Dorval on Saturday, June 15, arriving two days later — a day prior to the death of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickenson and son, Bill, of Pierrefonds, were week-end guests of Mrs. Dickenson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Carpenter, of Buffalo, have been spending a week's vacation here, visiting many relatives and friends in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Steele and two daughters, Shirley and Peggy Ann, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kettyle over the week-end.

Winner of Drawing Held by Legion Br. 70

Major Price, O/C of the Black Watch band, drew the winning ticket in the Branch 70 drawing, concluding the Legion Night tattoo at the fair grounds last Saturday. The prize of a fibreglass boat, outboard motor and trailer went to Harold Patenaude, of Franklin Centre, Que.

(Results of drawings by other groups and commercial firms are reported in articles appearing in this issue.)

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Courville, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Belliveau and son, from Montreal, former Lachute residents, were here last Saturday to attend the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McGuire, of Brownsburg, are on vacation visiting the former's relatives in Fredericton, N.B.

Christening Ceremony

The Rev. Harold Thompson officiated at a christening ceremony Sunday morning at Lachute United Church, when the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dawson, of Vide Sac, received the names Linda Mary. . . Relatives and immediate friends were entertained afterwards at the home of the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Walker Dawson, Lachute. Among relatives from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rea, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Quernie, of Sudbury, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dawson and son, Steven, from Chambly, Que.

Silver Wedding in Toronto

Congratulations and best wishes were extended by friends and relatives to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Powell (the former Violet Kettyle), of Toronto, who celebrated their 25th anniversary last week. Among many lovely gifts received by the couple was a silver tea service and a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mr. and Mrs. Powell were married in Lachute Baptist Church on June 17, 1939, by the Rev. C. Hardy.

Year in review at Centre d'Art; officers elected

The annual meeting of the Centre d'Art d'Argenteuil was held just recently, and the year's reports were heard and reviewed.

New officers were elected for the ensuing year. Mme Paul Laliberté succeeds Dr. Marc Papineau as president. Vice-president is Marcel Gionet; secretary, Raymond Beaulieu; treasurer, Mme Raymond Beaulieu. The directors are Dr. M. Papineau (past-president), Mme Jacques Beaudoin and Don Titman.

The report of the managing directors, Jean Laforest and Mme Armande (Lebrun) Laforest, stressed the need for stabilization. The past year had seen the Centre's program fulfilled, but at considerable effort, and under conditions which underlined the need of a permanent set-up and directorate. Faced with the impossibility of depending upon benevolent financing, the directorate must assess its aims and objectives, and reconcile these with the means of fulfilment.

Commenting on this report the retiring president, Dr. Papineau, felt the in-coming executive must aim for a balanced budget with new sources of revenue.

Daily Vacation Bible School at People's Church

"Many parents in the district are asking about the Summer Bible School — many of the children are eagerly looking forward to it — so we dare not disappoint them," says the Rev. C. W. Sorley, of People's Church, Lachute.

The theme of the school this year is: "Making Time Count for Christ". . . Many of the children just waste their time in summer months, but those who attend Summer Bible School have a wonderful time, singing, playing and studying. Thus they invest their time wisely, and have a good time doing it.

The school will be a little later this year, commencing July 20 and continuing for two weeks to July 31.

The Rev. Mr. Sorley extends an invitation to ALL girls and boys in the community.

Jehovah's Witnesses

The Earth Abideth Forever

You may survive Armageddon into God's New World Eccl. 1 : 4

"Then there will be great tribulation such as has not occurred since the world's beginning until now, no, nor will occur again." With these words Jesus foretold of the greatest trouble ever to hit the earth — the universal war of Armaggedon. (Matt. 24:21). Who will survive? Not many. All the nations will be destroyed in this fiery outpouring of God's wrath. With over two billion dead, "the slain of Jehovah shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; they shall not be lamented, neither gathered, nor buried; they shall be dung upon the face of the ground." (Jer. 25: 32, 33.) The death toll will be so all-surpassed that there will be too many bodies for the survivors to bury.

But will there be nothing to survive for? No, indeed. The destruction of this evil, demon-controlled world, together with its god Satan the Devil, will not leave a vacuum. It will be replaced by a new world of righteousness, and the earth will become a paradise. From that new world God will preserve survivors. There is no need to die. Would you like to know how you may survive "the war of the great day of God the Almighty" that will come upon this generation?

— Ask any Jehovah's Witness you may meet, for the little booklet "After Armageddon God's New World". Price 5 cents.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

"Check the tide of unreason"

MASON WADE, recognized as an outstanding authority on the history of French in Canada, makes pertinent comment in an article exclusive to The Financial Post. This is how Wade assesses the far-reaching changes brought about in Quebec by the Lesage administration:

"It needs to be stressed once more that Quebec is in the midst of an intellectual revolution, as well as a social and economic one, and this revolution, like most, is a continuing one. Those who are now guiding Quebec's destinies are understandably haunted by the fear they may not be able to control the forces of change which were unleashed by the downfall of the Duplessis regime. This is why the sense of dedication which has been remarked among the men engaged in remaking Quebec is accompanied by an acute realization that they have little time at their disposal to adapt the province to a very rapidly evolving situation. There can be no question in present-day Quebec of turning the clock back; the question is rather how far ahead it should be set.

"Violence, aside from verbal violence, is not part of the Quebec tradition. But there has been no great wave of French-Canadian reaction against the incidents of terroristic violence which began a year ago and still continue. Many of those opposed to separatism have become so emotionally involved in the struggle for equality that they think the terrorists may be doing a useful service by waking up English Canada to the seriousness of French Canada's determination to enjoy equal status with English Canada.

"Rene Levesque probably assesses Quebec public opinion better than anyone else in the province, as well as having a deep understanding of both the French and English temperaments. When he observes that he is scared when he looks over his shoulder at the rising generation in Quebec, he is issuing a warning that should be taken very seriously.

"All who wish Canada well must hope that the sincerely democratic politicians and civil servants who are working so vigorously to restore the prestige of democracy will succeed in checking the tide of unreason which is running so strongly in Quebec."

Allergies and unknown factors

IF YOU ARE allergic to something, you have a lot of company; about half of us are!

Pollen in the air can start hay fever, certain foods may start hives. Possible allergens are countless — house dust, animal fur, feathers, cosmetics, bleaches, medicines, foods, pollen. Some people even are allergic to heat, cold or sunlight. And one case was reported of a woman being allergic to her husband.

Most common results of allergy are four illnesses — hay fever, asthma, skin ailments and digestive disturbances — says the Health League of Canada. Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages. Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes of the lungs. Food allergies, a sensitivity to one or more foods, can affect the skin, the digestive tract or the respiratory system. Skin allergies cause itching, sometimes rash.

Reaction to an allergen varies with individuals. One person may be only slightly upset by eating an egg. Another could become violently ill from the small trace of egg in salad dressings.

There are still many unknown factors about the reason someone suddenly becomes allergic to something. Allergic diseases are not usually fatal, but they cause untold discomfort and suffering. Although worry and stress might be the contributing factor, allergy is not an imaginary illness. It is very real to the sufferer.

Sometimes the allergen is known and can be avoided. Sometimes many tests by a physician are required to arrive at the true cause. Medical care is necessary in all cases for relief of discomfort and for protection.

If you suspect you are allergic to something, see your doctor. Self-diagnosis and treatment is not only futile, it might even be dangerous.

All but independent

PRIME MINISTER PEARSON told an immense gathering of Rotarians at their international convention in Canada that there is a determination to build a separate Canadian nation on this continent with a separate Canadian identity. One newspaper interpreted this to mean that Canada was merely on the way, but certain to become, independent — observes the Fort Erie Letter-Review.

Canada has been, for all intents and purposes, truly independent for many years. Canada became a self-governing part of the old British Empire in 1867 and it is that Confederation that most Canadians will celebrate three years from now.

Other steps toward independence include the change from a self-governing dominion to a self-governing member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Perhaps the clearest indication of independence came when the Canadian government under a Liberal Prime Minister, Mr. King, before World War II refused under any circumstances to allow the Royal Air Force to be trained in Canada, where conditions for training were much better than in any part of Britain.

In the Byng incident of almost 40 years ago, Baron Byng, the Governor General, refused to take Prime Minister King's suggestion of consulting Downing Street as to the justification to grant a dissolution in favor of the Liberals. The fat really would have been in the fire if the Governor General had not remembered that the British government had no authority in the case — concludes the Review writer.

Mr. Pearson is to be commended for directing (these facts) to the attention of an audience composed mostly of U.S. residents.

Don't be fooled

DON'T BE FOOLED — The words "Made in Canda" on a box may apply only to the container — not the contents, warns an observer. This is the latest gimmick practised on a gullible public, according to the Better Business Bureau (BBB) of Metropolitan Toronto Inc. The deception artists go even further — the BBB has seen boxes with these words in bold print: "Made in Canada by Canadian Workmen". The average buyer, the bureau says, infers that the contents are Canadian-made, whereas, in fact, complaints to the bureau indicate very often that the box contains imported items. "The distributors of such items may have a perfectly good reason for packaging imported goods in this way," the bureau says, "but the buying public is left in a confused and sometimes outraged state of mind."

Viewpoints and perspectives

BRAMPTON, ONT., got into the news when five employees of a local factory were dismissed for allegedly drinking alcoholic beverages on company property. Four hundred workers refused to cross picket lines set up by 65 strikers. The strike was patently illegal and the company certainly seems to have been justified in dismissing all the picketers when they tried to come back to work.

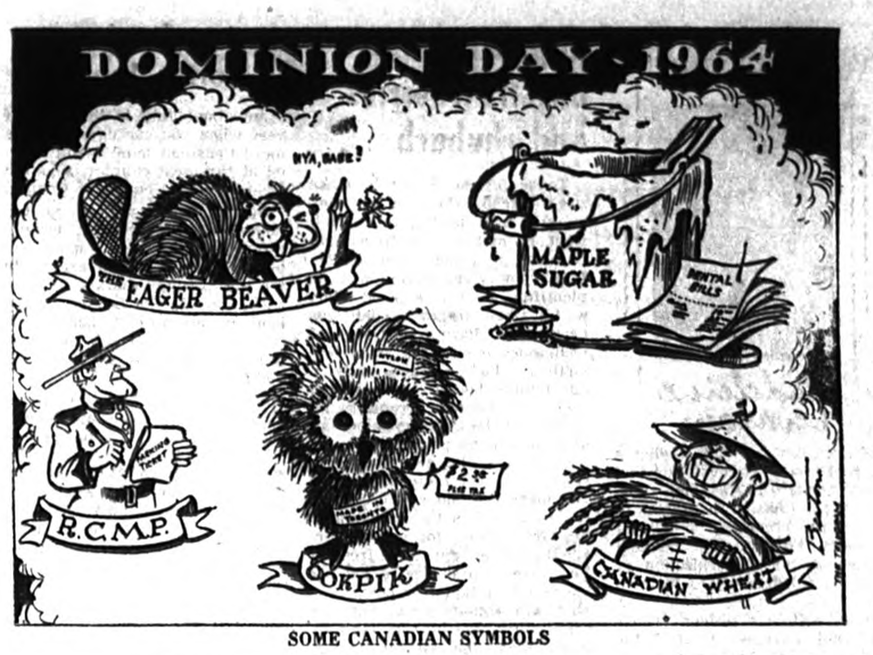

There are frequent illustrations of childishness on the part of poorly disciplined workers who apparently believe that membership in a union entitles them to violate company rules and even the law itself.

UNLESS THERE is a major change in the attitude of many who seek the pleasures of the lakes each summer, some of them will finish up in the obituary columns of their weekly papers. Every year we see things done, in and on the water, which make us think that some folks leave their brains ashore when they step into a boat.

THIS WEEK & NEXT

Poverty In Canada

By RAY ARGYLE

Canada has a new organization this week, dedicated to finding out how the average family in this country is getting along and where it is heading.

Ray Argyle

The Vanier Institute on the Family came into being after experts in many fields had sat down at Ottawa for a conference on the family called under the sponsorship of Governor-General and Mrs. George Vanier.

While the new group will doubtless study many trends in family life in Canada, much emphasis will be put on trying to find solutions to the problems we already recognize exist.

One of the greatest of these is poverty, which must represent the most serious threat to the stability of family life in Canada today.

Canada boasts of an affluent society. Indeed, for many fortunate Canadians our society is a comfortable and prosperous one.

Families whose bread-winners hold well-paying jobs have their problems, of course. Making marriage work is never easy. Relationships between parents and their children are changing, and the current generation of parents appears to be caught in the change-over from the era of the stern father to an era in which the family as a whole unit is the chief trademark of Canadian life.

But is it really sensible for Canada to attempt to support an affluent society on an average family income of less than $5,000 per year?

The 20 per cent. of Canadians who live on family incomes of less than $3,000 annually can't adequately clothe and house themselves, let alone share in the abundance which this country is capable of offering.

What appears to be happening in North America today is that the gap between the skilled and the unskilled, the affluent and the poor, is constantly widening. These two great masses of society, in fact, are becoming strangers to each other. The poor are more and more shunted into run-down districts, their children confined to poorly-equipped schools, the doors of the world of affluence closed to them.

What would eliminate poverty in Canada? The obvious answer is full employment at decent wages.

This will not be achieved, until the great majority of Canada's unemployed acquire the skills and the training that industry demands today. The simple fact is that this country has no use for poorly educated, untrained men and women.

Social welfare assistance is needed and should be provided, but this will not solve any basic problem unless the children of today's poor can somehow be kept in school and then provided with whatever technical or academic training each is capable of absorbing and using.

This is the only way that the chain of poverty, extending within individual families from generation to generation, can ever be broken.

Along the road, it would help if lower income families recognized they need good management of their limited financial means. They would find more rewarding and happier lives by avoiding the purchase of flossy consumer goods which they don't need and can't afford.

Finally, family planning is needed to reverse the trend now so common across Canada where it is the poorest families who have the most children.

As I drove the long, tired road home Sunday night, I began to realize why so many fellows of my age are cracking up.

Bill Smiley

The old lady was sitting there, talking as though word-rationing was going into effect at midnight. The radio alternated between shouts of some group noisier and nausiouser than the Beatles, courtesy of my daughter, and the smug announcements of the disc jockey, who broke in every few minutes to tell us with triumph of another fatality on roads or water.

After 17 years, I've given up trying to do anything about my wife's talking jags. After 13 years, I've abandoned all hope of improving my daughter's taste or temperament.

But by George, I still have some love for my fellow man.

Once a year, whether I like it or not, I publish some safety hints on hunting, driving, trying to get along with women, or a similar perilous undertaking, strictly in the public interest.

For example. When canoeing, never kneel in the bottom of the thing. It's too hard on the knees. Use a long-handled paddle, and paddle standing up. That way, you can jump if she rolls over. If you're merely a passenger, stand in the bow, so that you can warn of rocks, large turtles, or waterfalls.

If you're boating with an outboard motor, don't be afraid to display a little panache. Always approach a dock straight on and at top speed. At the last conceivable moment, cut your motor and swing the tiller hard over. Some day you might cut the tiller and swing the motor, but who wants to live forever?

Never take life jackets when you go fishing. You're liable to trip over one of them, and fall overboard, while innocently walking up to the bow for a cold beer. If you insist on taking lifejackets, tie them to your tackle box. Fisherman are a drug on the market, but good tackle is expensive.

Speaking of fishing, don't look around before you wind up to cast. It's considered a slur on the agility of your companions. It's up to the other guys in the boat to keep an eye on you. If they want to keep an eye, that is.

Never swim where there's a crowd. You went on your holidays to get away from people, remember? Pick out a nice lonely spot and dive in.

It's old fashioned, but best way to teach kids to swim is to throw them off a dock. It can be embarrassing if you can't swim yourself, and they refuse to float.

About fires. Never scatter sand and water on your bonfire when you leave. Maybe the next fellow doesn't have a match to start his own. This is known as common courtesy because it's so common.

You have to use a little common sense to get your barbecue charcoal going, too. We've tried a couple of those commercial fluids, but there's not enough action. What I do now is give the charcoal a good sloshing with lawnmower gas. Then everybody hits the deck. I stand away back and hurl lighted matches at the thing. It may not be the status way to do it, but it sure as hell gets that charcoal going.

Well, that's about it. Just follow these safety hints, and you will never have any more worries about summer. Or anything else.

Adolescent Acne

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

What can teen-age boys or girls afflicted with poor complexions do to improve their appearance? At this self-conscious age, it is of utmost importance to their self-confidence that they look as attractive as possible — particularly to the other sex.

If a teen-ager has a severe case of acne he should lose no time in seeking expert advice from a doctor — and then follow his instructions to the letter. But if pimples and blackheads are only an occasional "headache", then an adolescent can use common sense in tackling this handicap.

The "sweet tooth" which dentists deplore, is at the root of many complexion upsets. The clear condition of the skin has a direct relation to a simple, well-balanced diet. Chocolate, rich foods such as pastries and nuts eaten in excess, frequently result in an outbreak of pimples.

"What is one man's food is another man's poison" — and so there is no sure diet sheet for every acne sufferer. If this is a sore point for the teen-ager in your home encourage him to do some experimenting in food selection. See if he will follow a strict regime for a fortnight, avoiding chocolate in any form — icings, milk shakes, sundaes or candy. Fat foods such as "French fries" should be shunned too.

At the same time the consumption of plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables, and drinking an abundance of water will prevent constipation. This is frequently a contributing factor in skin eruptions. Fruit juice, celery and carrot sticks, frozen fruit-juice cubes colored with vegetable coloring, are good "between meal" snacks.

An understanding of the basic reasons for complexion defects is helpful in overcoming them. An adolescent wants to know why he and so many of his chums are plagued by acne.

At puberty the sabaceous glands of the skin are apt to become over-active, producing a greasy product. If this collects underneath the skin, instead of being thrown off, a reddish area on the face appears. Frequently this symptom is followed by a "head" of yellowish pus. Unfortunately, an ugly pimple may leave a tiny scar.

A daily rigorous cleansing routine can do wonders to get rid of this undesirable greasy material on the skin's surface. Two or three times a day a bland soap should be used. Scrub the face with a wash cloth. Rinse with cold water to close the pores. Frequent showers and tub baths are also desirable, especially after exercise.

Boys sometimes appear to be more troubled with acne than girls. But they are not tempted to apply a foundation cream for a powder base! The last thing a girl should do is to use a greasy cream on her skin if she is bothered by pimples or blackheads.

Warm soapy water will often loosen blackheads. A tiny "blackhead remover" may be purchased at a drug store. This should be sterilized by boiling each time before using it. It is less apt to injure the surrounding tissue when taking out a blackhead than the usual method of squeezing with the fingers. If a blackhead is stubborn and will not come out, continue to work on it. Pat the afflicted area with alcohol after treating it.

The best thing to do with pimples is to leave them strictly alone! Resist the urge to squeeze them! Let Nature pursue her own healing process. Sometimes an antiseptic salve or lotion, used in moderation, appears to help this condition. But to get rid of it, requires patient vigilance.

Acne is a teen-age hurdle for many adolescents but only rarely does it persist into the twenties. This may be small comfort, to the miserable sufferer from pimples and blackheads. But like many other ills of the flesh, it does disappear in time! Disciplined eating and faithful cleansing not only help to cure it but may prevent future outbreaks. They are well worth trying!

Modern textiles are playing a big part in a quiet revolution that is taking place in Canadian religious institutions. Thousands of nuns are becoming important customers for easy care Canadian fabrics as the modernization of centuries-old dress gains momentum.

Some religious orders, which have not changed their habit (costume) since the 18th century, are adopting streamlined clothing with all the practical wash and wear advantages enjoyed by regular consumers.

Nuns who act as buyers or purchasing agents for religious institutions are famed as wise customers who demand utmost value, and they invariably get VIP treatment from tradespeople. Their approval of a new fabric means a more substantial order. It means a continuing loyal customer who will not be lost to a new fashion color or fad next season.

The modernization of nuns' dress is taking place with active encouragement from the Vatican. The habit is less voluminous and in some cases above the ankle in length. Wimples are disappearing, veils are lighter and shorter, and the firmly starched dickies are being replaced by wash and wear neckpieces.

Terylene fibre blends are favorites with the nuns, who are apparently just as keen on labor saving fabrics as other women. The easy care fibre in uncrushable blends with worsted for winter dress and in tropical weight for summer is usually accented by no-iron Terylene and cotton in white dickies.

All-white habits of wash and wear textiles are being sent from Canada to missionary nuns. Canadian nuns in Africa are known as the "best dressed" for their immaculate garb. These are quick drying taffeta which the nuns wash and dry each day during their two hour siesta.

Besides the labor savings in care of their clothing some institutions are actually having their outfits factory made. A manufacturer in the Maritimes worked out a simple sketch to indicate measurement requirements which he supplies to one large order in quantity. He sorts out the sketches for cutting cloth and then finishes each habit according to individual measurements.

Another Canadian manufacturer recently discovered a new source of business from the religious institutions; high-necked, cap-sleeved cover-up bathing suits of black stretch nylon.

The manufacturer was somewhat startled to find that he was getting substantial orders for the suit from nuns. He now refers to the style as the "sister suit" although he designed it originally for physical culture classes. Whenever the nuns swim, they must be just as interested in modern physical fitness as they are in modern textiles.

Capitalize now on strawberries and rhubarb

Today it's so simple to make sweet spreads when you use commercial fruit pectin, that you'll want to make some from each fruit as it comes into season. Right now strawberries will be plentiful, so get a good start with this fragrant, delicious berry. You have your choice of techniques too — the short boil method which requires only a one minute boil or the new "no cook" method which requires no cooking of the fruit, no skimming of foam and no paraffining.

Of course, the cooked jam is stored at room temperature. If you make the "no cook" type, it can be stored in the refrigerator for three weeks; for longer storage it must be kept in the freezer. You have your choice of pectins too — either liquid or powdered. They are equally good, but are not interchangeable in recipes. Just follow the kitchen tested recipes that come with each bottle or package of pectin and success is ensured.

Rhubarb Strawberry Jam

Yield: about 6 medium (8 oz.) glasses

1½ Cups prepared strawberries (about 1½ pts. ripe strawberries), ½ cup prepared rhubarb (about ½ lb.), 4 cups (1¾ lbs.) sugar, ¾ cup water, 1 box (1¾ oz.) powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Thoroughly crush about 1½ pints of fully ripe strawberries. Measure 1½ cups into large bowl or pan. Grind (do not peel) about ½ pound rhubarb. Measure ½ cup. Add to the strawberries.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar, add to fruits, mix well, and let stand. Mix water and powdered fruit pectin in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit mixture. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (There will be a few remaining sugar crystals.) Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with tight lids. When jam is set (may take up to 24 hours), store in freezer. If jam will be used within 2 or 3 weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator.

Rhubarb Marmalade

Yield: about 8 medium glasses (4 lbs. marmalade)

3½ Cups prepared fruit (1 orange, 1 lemon, and about 1 lb. red-stalked rhubarb), 6 cups (2 lbs. 10 oz.) sugar, ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin, few drops red food coloring (optional).

First, prepare the fruit. Remove skins in quarters from 1 medium-sized orange and 1 medium-sized lemon. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife or scissors, slice remaining rind very fine, or chop or grind. Add ¾ cup water and ¼ teaspoon soda; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Section or chop peeled fruit; discard seeds. Add pulp and juice to undrained cooked rind and simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer. Slice thin or chop (do not peel) about 1 pound red-stalked rhubarb. Combine fruits and measure 3½ cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the marmalade. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. If desired, add a few drops red food coloring. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ¼ inch hot paraffin.

Spring lamb in June, July

June and July is the time of year when you can expect to see more Canadian lamb being offered at the meat counter, says the Meat Packers Council of Canada.

Spring lamb, as far as the housewife is concerned, usually refers to lambs born last December or January which are ready for the "spring" market in June and July. To the farmer, spring lamb can also refer to lambs born in the spring and fed over the summer period to be ready for the fall market.

Then there are hothouse lambs. These are lambs born last December or January, but instead of being marketed in June or July when they weigh 75 or 80 lbs., they're sold around Easter time when they weigh only 25 to 35 lbs. Most of the hothouse lamb business is done with European people, who are quite fond of the small lamb delicacy.

Lambs not sold for this specialized Easter trade are carried over until they become mature. These are the ones that will be coming into the stores during the next few weeks. This year's spring run could be a little smaller than usual, but still large enough to make more lamb available than at other times in the year, except of course, for the fall.

Nothing beats a good roast of fresh Canadian lamb when it is available. Per capita consumption in Canada is only about 4 lbs. a year, at least half of which is imported frozen from New Zealand and Australia.

Lamb is the tenderest and most easily digested of all meats. The key to enjoying a good lamb roast is to serve it hot on a pre-heated dinner plate. In this way, it will stay juicy and flavorful throughout the entire meal.

Punch card grocery shopping

Punch cards and electronic computers are the latest thing to hit supermarkets in Sweden and France, notes the Meat Packers Council of Canada. At least one supermarket in France and two in Sweden are trying out the revolutionary system for grocery shopping.

How does it work? Well, you simply enter the supermarket, select a few colored cards, drop them into an electronic computer, and then pick up your groceries wrapped and packaged.

On the shelf beside each group of items, there are colored punch cards. For example, canned vegetables might have pink cards, punched to identify canned peas or canned corn, etc. Breakfast cereals might have green cards, and so on. As the cards are run through the computer, the information is relayed to the stock room where employees collect and parcel up the various items. Within a few minutes, the grocery order has been filled and is ready to be picked up.

The new system has some advantages. It's fairly fast, and shoplifters are practically put out of business. One of the stores has even worked out a bonus plan allowing shoppers who drop more than ten cards in the computer to get a discount.

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Recife is a city half the size of Montreal on the coast in north-eastern Brazil. Over 50 per cent of its people are illiterate, and one out of four of the babies born there dies in infancy.

Many of its citizens are refugees from large estate farms who have gone to the city to try to find work. They live in jerry-built homes in swampy areas around the city where land and water are available but work is not, food is not, and there is constant danger of flooding.

An international vice-president of the YWCA from Brazil, Marly de Barros, was in Toronto recently to talk about a project the Canadian and Brazilian YWCA's are sponsoring through the Freedom from Hunger Campaign to help the people in one part of Recife.

Build on Base

They have chosen the Torre swamp area, Mrs. de Barros said, because it has had some help from the local parish church and authorities, so there is something to build on.

The first part of the project has started. It consists of the work of one part-time nutritionist who lives at the Recife Y residence. She works from one room in Torre, visiting homes, organizing local groups to start a creche for the children of working mothers, teaching nutrition and hygiene and trying to provide some meals for children.

In the autumn, a full-time administrator, Ruth Hillis, now of Corpus Christi, Texas, will take over. Miss Hillis, who was in Toronto with Mrs. de Barros, was in Recife in 1946 to help organize the YWCA, the city's first women's organization.

Under her supervision a headquarters building will be established in Recife. It will be a nutrition and health education centre, a teaching workshop and nursery centre. Social welfare organizations and local volunteers will be able to work together there.

Need $30,000

Stages one and two will need about $30,000 between 1964 and 1966.

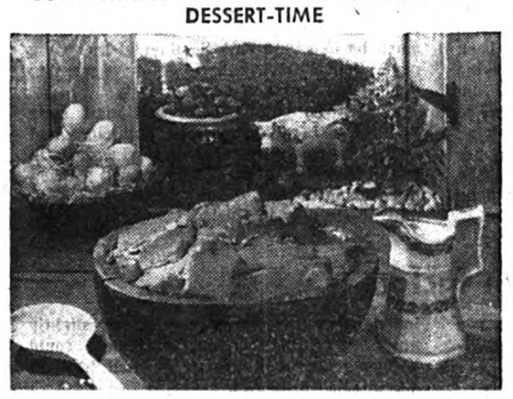

Stage three is still a dream, the women said. It will take a total of about $200,000 to realize it. They want to help rehabilitate the people of Torre as fully as possible, with training in nutrition, health, job skills and skills as basic as literacy, cooperating with government authorities who can provide public housing, sanitation and flood control.

Help is already being given to them by local volunteers including a doctor and social workers; by the British Consul, the mayor of Recife, the U.S. Food for Peace Program and the regional Brazilian Freedom from Hunger Committee.

The YWCA is active in five Brazilian centres, Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Recife, Porto Alegre and Curitibo. Mrs. de Barros said four more communities are requesting new associations. She said most of their programs are similar to those in Canada, with the emphasis on offering residences and food services in expanding urban areas.

SUMMERTIME IS DELICIOUSLY REFRESHING DESSERT-TIME

Summer means sunny parks with vacationing children at play, market stands piled high with fresh produce and flower gardens in full bloom. And certainly it is the season for light, frosty desserts. For a refreshing warm-weather snack or a delightful dinner finale, Strawberry Milk Ice has a lovely rosy hue, a luscious fruit flavor and delicate texture. Easily prepared with economical and convenient instant pasteurized powdered skim milk, this delicious frozen dessert has a bonus of built-in nutrients. It's perfect for summertime, at party-time or, indeed, anytime.

STRAWBERRY MILK ICE

(MAKES ABOUT 2½ QUARTS)

1-2/3 to 2 cups sugar
2 pints fresh strawberries, * sliced
Water
3-½ cups instant pasteurized powdered skim milk
Red food colouring (optional)
2 envelopes unflavoured gelatine

Mix sugar and strawberries; cover and chill until sugar dissolves. Drain strawberries, reserving syrup; force strawberries through sieve. Combine pureed strawberries and syrup with enough water to measure 6-½ cups. Stir in instant skim milk powder; add food colouring if desired. Sprinkle gelatine over 1 cup cold water to soften. Stir over low heat until dissolved. Add to strawberry mixture. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze 1 inch from edge of pan. Remove from trays and beat until smooth; freeze until firm.

* or 4 packags (10 ounces each) frozen strawberries, thawed and omitting sugar.

Longtime citizen of Morin district died suddenly

The late Chester Thomas Pollock

Morin Heights — This Laurentian community was saddened on Sunday, June 7, to learn of the sudden passing of Chester Thomas Pollock, beloved husband of Amy Stonebridge. Mr. Pollock was spending the week-end at his cottage at Cote St. Gabriel, when he suffered a heart attack.

Born in Morin Heights, March 18, 1904, the son of the late Thomas and Margaret Pollock, he had spent most of his lifetime in this community. For a number of years he operated a general store at Cote St. Gabriel, and later the Pollock General Transport. Upon selling the latter business, he moved to Montreal. A great lover of the outdoors and an ardent sportsman, he spent much of his time in the Laurentians.

Surviving are his widow and his family — Grace (Mrs. R. Cumming, Mildred (Mrs. Owen LeGallee), Chester, Jr., Clifford, Beryl and Charlotte (Mrs. Stuart Sketchley); and his only sister, Mrs. Mildred Havill. His youngest son, Kenneth, died accidentally four years ago.

The funeral was held June 10 from D. A. Collins Inc., Montreal, to Trinity Anglican Church, Morin Heights, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh officiating. Pall-bearers were Earl Black, Percy Black, Lyle Kilpatrick, Wesley Morrow, Leslie Seale and Donald Wood. The organist was Mrs. George Watchorn, and hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus". Interment was in the family plot at Trinity Cemetery, Morin Heights.

Avoca

Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, with Kathleen and Carolyn, of Aylmer East, Que., spent Sunday last with her mother, Mrs. Allan MacPhee, and her aunt.

Congratulations are extended to Dr. Lester MacCallum on his notable success in the medical profession.

Won B.A. Degree

Miss Kathleen Kelly, granddaughter of Mrs. Allan MacPhee, recently received her Bachelor of Arts degree from St. Patrick's College in Ottawa, and is now working on research in Sociology at Carleton University, Ottawa. Friends wish her every success.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bates and little granddaughter, Laura Hart, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Mace, from Niagara Falls, Ont., spent the week-end with Mrs. Sandy Bates, and attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Carol Ann Bates.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Andrews, with Mr. and Mrs. Keith Duncan, from Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Robin Andrews, from Brockville, attended the Smith-Bates wedding and occupied their cottage here for the week-end.

Will any who have not sent in their Cancer Society donation to Mrs. Allan MacPhee, kindly do so as soon as possible.

Mr. Douglas Kelly, with his daughter and two sons, from Port Colborne, Ont., attended the wedding of his nephew, Mr. Jerry Smith, on Saturday. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Kelly.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith on the week-end were — Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bates and family, from Eganville, and Mrs. Sam Smith, also Mr. Ted Smith, from Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Copeland and family, of Fergus, Ont.

Congratulations and best wishes from this community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith (the former Carol Ann Bates) who were married Saturday evening in the Avoca Baptist Church.

Get-well wishes from friends and relatives are sent to Mrs. Everett Young, Mrs. Hazel Kennedy and Mr. John Dobbie, all patients in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury; and to Mrs. Dougal MacLean, in the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hand spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Arthurs.

Mr. and Mrs. Dona Currie and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ball and Maureen, and Miss Nancy MacLeod, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie MacLeod.

Mrs. Sandy Bates is spending this week in Lachute with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Campbell.

Mrs. Rita Perigo spent the week-end with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bunny Bates.

Lake Keatley

Mr. and Mrs. John Swift returned home after a pleasant trip to Erie, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Watson and family, of Montreal, spent the week-end at their cottage on Lake McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones and family spent Sunday at "Campsie Cottage," and called on Mr. and Mrs. Dave MacVicar. . . Mr. Sandy Jones and Miss Ann Hawkins, of Ottawa, spent the week-end at Lake Keatley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brigden and Kathy, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Sanford MacVicar. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dossy Barnes and Nancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams spent several days in Haweksbury last week.

Mr. Ross Pounding and friends, of Montreal, called on his father here over the week-end.

Of farmers and the stubborn soil; Spring Fair; St. John the Baptist

"Sunnyacres Sketches"

By Margaret Cook

We are just in from digging in the garden, preparatory to putting in some petunias. The soil is like coarse cocoa. Now, I understand the reason why farmers complain. They are lacking irrigation, dependent on the whims of weather. It must be ulcer-promoting to see a crop being slowly toasted on top, and dehydrated below ground. The head of the house has just emptied an oil-drumful of water on the thirsting peas, beans, lettuce, strawberries and raspberries. Strangely, the last are thriving, but the strawberries are having a hard time. The rabbits have eaten the tops off the peas, leaving the beans untouched, which proves that rabbits have palates. It is all very frustrating after hours of work with the stubborn soil.

Maddeningly, the flower-garden, which is my territory, is thriving. There are well over a hundred shades of lupins, pink, white, and navy blue. The lemon lillies are nearby, very sweet scented. Lower down, the zinnias are in bloom, although they were put in only three weeks ago. A few late narcissi are to be found on the shady side of the house, and a rose bush, which must have heard me threatening to throw it out last autumn, is covered with buds and blossoms. It is what is commonly called a tea-rose, small, fragrant and white with a faint creamy tinge at the heart. Such a rose belongs to my earliest memories, a whole row of roses along the driveway, but the tea-rose was my favorite. I plan to put red petunias on either side of it, as a foil. Also, that position will enable me to feast my eyes as I sip my second cup of coffee at breakfast. I gulp the first one.

We write in the midst of a heat wave. The broadcast says 85 in Montreal; up here the temperature is in the high 70's. Last night, there was a difference of 12 degrees. Laurentian nights are ever thus, cool and scented. As one lies in bed, luxuriating in the cool breeze, instead of the raucous blast of horns, the grinding of gears, the put-put of exhausts, we hear the whippoorwill ("Mrs. Cook's whippoorwill," says a Dalesville friend), the barking of a fox, and, once in a while, the piercing sweetness of a thrush's notes. Sometimes, an owl adds his queer, puffy comment. I can never hear the conventional "Hoo-hoo". I expect it is a different kind of owl. Speaking of owls, I once took a live one into a house, and the owner, a maiden lady of stern virtue, promptly fainted, or pretended to do so. Seems an owl in a house, is only just less lethal than an open umbrella. Fascinating things, superstitions. I've made a point of ignoring them all my life.

The Lachute Fair is being held, and, while I rejoice that such good weather attends it, I cannot bring myself to face the dust, heat, and crowds. I should love to see Erskine's cows, and Melville's horses, and the excellent handicrafts of the ladies of the County. The spirit is willing, but the flesh cringes with apologies to St. Paul, the psalmist, or Shakespeare (I am not sure which, and am too lazy to look it up). Anyway, county fairs are a good thing, and the Argenteuil Agricultural Society goes back a long way — to the 1820's, if I remember correctly.

Having mentioned St. Paul, I must, in the interest of biculturalism, give a nod to St. John the Baptist, whose day will coincide with the appearance of this article. Personally, I have always thought the Baptist a wild, dreary type, and our French compatriots welcome to him. But as our rector said crisply on the Saint's day last year, "Contrary to public opinion, St. John the Baptist was not a French Canadian," so here's to St. John the Baptist!

As a theological - political note of no value whatever, I record that, demurely kneeling in a certain church in the Eastern Townships last week, I was mightily amused to note that the blue robe of the Virgin, in a stained-glass window, was liberally be-sprinkled with white fleurs-de-lys! As this is a very old church, I doubt the designer had any sinister or sneaky purpose!

From saints to mice. — A lady mouse made a nest in the little pan under one of the griddles of the electric stove. There were three little mice, not babies, sort of pre-teen. The head of the house captured them in a milk bottle and took them outside. We then set up traps for mamma, who has so far eluded us. So, I am writing with my feet elevated on a stool. My mind tells me this is ridiculous, but again, the body recoils. Peter, the cat, urged to look for a mouse, said he was not interested, and walked away, waving a plume-like tail. This may be age — he will be 14 in August, or just the instinctive, feline desire to make up his own mind. A dog would have said "Sure, I would love to catch you a mouse," lying through his grinning teeth. This is very flattering to one's pride, but I, for one, have never liked yes-yes people.

Something tells me the space is gone — and it's not the typewriter, for I forgot it. I write this laboriously by hand, and think ruefully of the added work for the linotype man. . . The editor? Well, he's used to my handwriting.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY, Macdonald College

Nearly half of the enquiries that come into our office are from city people. They want information on raising poultry, or where to buy a farm, or how to get started in farming.

A few days ago, for instance, there was a chap in his early forties, a chemical engineer employed with a large Montreal firm. He had made his decision; he was going farming. He had no experience; he was prepared to sacrifice all he had; he knew it would be tough. But he couldn't take the city any longer.

Yesterday, there was a letter from a boy in his late teens. He wanted help to find a job on a farm for experience before managing his own. Today, there was a phone call from a lady who had bought a place in Brome County. It hadn't been worked for a few years, what should she plant on it?

How can you tell these people that the odds are against them? How do you say that life-long farmers are having a struggle, that it takes all the experience and intelligence a man can muster to stay in business?

But you can't dismiss these requests lightly. They are appeals for help from folks who are seriously, even desperately, trying to escape from the city.

Economic pressures are forcing people to gather into large cities. Equal and opposite forces of emotion and the desire for living space are sending them back to the country and small towns.

Why are we, a civilization clever enough to send rockets to the moon, not smart enough to find some way to spread balanced communities out across the land?

Hay conditioners save one day's drying time. That seems to be the summary of the information Jim Cooper sent across to me from the Engineering Department There is no question, that these machines are a good thing.

Whether you can afford to buy a conditioner is another matter. According to Ohio figures, one will cost you $2 per ton if you have 17 acres hay to cut three times. But with three cuttings from 67 acres, the cost drops to 38c or 40c per ton. Custom rates, south of the border, run around 2c per bale.

How much improvement can be expected from conditioning hay? Again quoting one U.S. trial, there was an increase of 203 pounds digestible dry matter per acre for unconditioned hay. At 2c lb. that was $4.06 extra value per acre for conditioned hay. Yield wasn't given, but if we guess at three tons per acre, it makes the conditioned hay worth $1.35 per ton more.

The improvement comes from reducing the time the hay is on the ground, and lessening the risk of rain. In Missouri, the chances of storing the hay without rain are 17 in 100 times if conventional methods are used. Field conditioning hay cuts one day from the schedule; the odds rise to 28 out of 100.

Again, I should point out that these are U.S. figures. For our own use, we must plug in local values and yields.

Two types of conditioners are in common use — crimpers and crushers. Crushed hay dries just a little faster than crimped hay.

Flail harvesters also have been used to condition hay. The back plate and the knives are removed so that the material is shredded but not chopped. Roto speed is reduced just short of plugging. Flailed hay seems to dry faster than crushed or crimped, and to turn the water better, if rained upon.

For spraying weeds in fields of oats or mixed grain that are not seeded down, 2, 4-D is still your best buy. It is effective and it is cheap — 60c to $1 an acre for material. Use not more than 4 oz. acid per acre in the ester form, or 8 oz. 2, 4-D amine, in 5 to 20 gallons water.

Oats can be treated from the six inch to the "shot-blade" stage of growth. Early treatment is preferable. Oats are less susceptible to injury from MCPA than 2, 4-D, and can be used at an earlier stage of growth.

If the field is seeded down, the spray material will cost you about $3.50. For Red Clover and Alsike you can use MCPB up to 16 oz. acid per acre. For alfalfa and trefoil, 20 oz., 2,4-DB. Sweet clover won't tolerate any of these sprays.

This past week, it was Lachute Fair. Galen Driver and I took turns manning the College display in the main building. It was a wonderful chance to meet people, to talk over problems, and to just say "hello".

Fishing can be fun IF you hook fish - BUT if you hook someone else it can be expensive.
