Appreciable boost in municipal revenues from higher sales tax

The Quebec Department of Revenue last week made public the total amounts municipalities will receive under the generalized six-percent sales tax in the 1964-65 fiscal year.

Previously, the taxes ranged from four percent to six percent. In Lachute the tax was four per ment.

The list indicated the municipalities, which just recently received their first bi-weekly cheques based on the new system, will receive a total of 24 percent more revenue, depending on whether or not they previously levied their own municipal taxes.

In centres which were already imposing a tax, the increase includes compensation from Quebec for the costs of collection, also 10% interest on the amount.

In a compilation of revenues to all municipalities, the following centres in this County and district are shown. (The annotation "min." indicates that the 2% collected by the province in such municipalities is less than the actual benefit they will receive.)

Argenteuil

Arundel (min.)	$ 1,140.00
Ayersville (see Lachute)	—
Barkmere (min.)	140.00

By way of comparison, Lachute's sales tax revenue in 1963-64 was $202,032.13. Its revenue under provincial administration for 1964-65 is calculated at $222,235.34.

Fireworks on St. Jean Baptiste

Thousands of onlookers gathered at the Richelieu Park for the St. Jean Baptiste celebrations on Tuesday evening of last week, and witnessed a spectacular fireworks display. This picture, which lacks only the fascination of brilliant color, was taken by our photographer, Syd Drew, from the rear of his home on Main Street.

Drowning occurs at Brownsburg

Gerald Duval, 22, a native of Vankleek Hill, Ont., who had been living with his brother in Brownsburg, was the victim of a drowning mishap on Tuesday evening of last week. The incident occurred in the West River, just above the C-I-L dam.

According to Traffic Officer Gilles Lavigne, of the Q.P.P., who investigated the drowning along with Brownsburg Police Chief Richard Bell — the victim was swimming alone when he cried for help and disappeared beneath the water. Several children in the water nearby summoned Police Chief Bell, who a short time later pulled the victim from the water. Assisted by Dr. A. R. Cote, the two gave mouth-to-mouth respiration for more than an hour before the victim was pronounced dead. No inquest will be held.

Sentiments and Sidelights

The 1st Lachute Boy Scout Troop, with a number of Brownsburg boys, has a group attending camp at Tamaracouta for two weeks. The Catholic Boy Scouts are camping at Morin Heights, this being the second consecutive year they have camped in the same spot.

The mother of a well-known townsman here (Roger E. Régimbal) received a Medal of Merit recently from the Catholic diocese of North Bay, Ont. Bishop Alexander Carter presented the award to Mme Léo Régimbal in recognition of her years devoted to religious and welfare work. She has had 14 children, three of whom are in holy orders.

Cpl. Bob Lachapelle, who ends a tour of duty with the Cdn. Signals Squadron in Egypt and is posted to Ottawa, wrote recently from the Middle East: "I never received a Watchman more than two weeks old at any time during my stay here — so your paper gives people all over the world a feeling of 'closeness' to the folks at home."

Cottages entered in river area

Break-ins at summer cottages in the St. Andrews East and Carillon area have been reported to Provincial Police — the miscreants in this type of entry apparently having changed their area of operation, from the northern part of the County to closer to the Ottawa River.

The Miracle Feeds trophy, presented here by Farmers' Supply Co., was won by Erskine Rodger with his Woodlea herd, for the "best display of Ayrshires" at Lachute Fair. Montrealer, 37, killed in crash at Grece's Point

Robert Nicholson, 37, of 2073 St. Urbain Street, Montreal, was instantly killed Saturday afternoon when the car in which he was driving swerved out of control, hitting a tree. Mr. Nicholson was thrown from the car, which then rolled over him.

The accident occurred near Grece's Point when the driver of the car, Edward Jackson, 25, of the same address, attempted to avoid an oncoming car which was passing a third vehicle. Jackson, and Charles Meetz, of the same address, received minor injuries and were treated at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, being released shortly afterwards.

The vehicle rolled and skidded 387 feet in the field adjacent to the highway. The victim was seated in the rear of the car, at the time of the accident. He was a native of Watford, Northern Ontario. The body was transported to the morgue in Lachute. The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Labonté, and the officer-in-charge of the local detachment, Cpl. J. P. Dallaire, stated an inquest, under Joint District Coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, would be held at a later date.

CNIB picnic July 8

The annual picnic for the sightless people of the County of Argenteuil, sponsored by the CNIB, will be held on Wednesday, July 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Brownsburg Rotary Park. Any blind person visiting hereabouts on this date, is cordially invited to attend the picnic. Refreshments will be provided, served by the Women's Auxiliary of the CNIB. For further information please call the CNIB Office, LO 2-2686.

Three vacancies Wentworth North

St. Michel —Wednesday, July 8, will be nomination day at Laurel, with three councillors concluding their term — Honoré Hoff, Jr., Fernand Paradis and Anthony Streko.

Those who have signified their intention of being candidates (as at June 26 reporting) are — Honoré Hoff, Jr., Seat No. 2; Lionel Rose, Seat 4; and Roland Mercure, Seat 6.

If other nominations occur, election contests will be held on Monday, July 13.

Summer series starting July 11, four Saturday concerts in Lachute

The Canadian Amateur Musicians will this summer again present a series of four concerts, to be held on four consecutive Saturdays in July and August in the auditorium of the Lachute High School.

The concerts will be given in conjunction with the 12th annual summer Music Centre of CAMMAC (Canadian Amateur Musicians — Musiciens Amateurs du Canada). The first concert on July 11 will be given by Le Petit Ensemble Vocal under the direction of George Little. The program will consist of six Motets and Chansons by Heinrich Scuetz, followed by a first performance of A Chaucer Suite for Alto, Tenor and Baritone by John Beckwith. Another group of seven works by Claudio Monteverdi for soloists and ensemble will complete this first concert.

The second concert on July 18 features the Sinnhoffer String Quartet from Munich, Germany. Their program consists of the Quartet in F. K. 168 by Mozart, Quartet No. 2, op. 16 by Boris Blacher, and the Quartet in A Minor, op. 51, No. 2 by Johannes Brahms.

Jan Simons, bass, with John Newmark at the piano, will give a recital on Saturday, July 25. This third concert in the series will be made up of three songs by Purcell, three by Fauré, and three more by Vaughan-Williams. The remainder of the concert will be devoted to a performance of Schumann's Dichterliebe, op. 48.

The fourth and last concert will take place on August 1, and features Mario Duschenes, flute, Otto Joachim, viola, and John Newmark, piano. On the program: Trio in D by C. P. E. Bach, Sonate pour Alto et Piano by Milhaud, and "Expansions" for flute and piano by Otto Joachim. The trio in F, op. 11 by Haydn will be followed by a Rondo for Flute solo by Kelsey Jones, and Trio in G. Major, again by C. P. E. Bach.

Persons interested in selling tickets for these concerts are asked to contact J. F. Gorman (LO 2-2229).

Week's Epigram

Economic pressures are forcing people into large cities. The desire for living space is sending them back to the country . . . Why is our civilization — clever enough to send rockets to the moon — not smart enough to spread balanced communities across the land?

— Walker Riley

Michelle Lefebvre — Jacques Lefebvre

Two of family are graduates

The Lachute family of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lefebvre has the distinction of having two graduates this year from the same university. At the recent convocation of the University of Montreal, Jacques Lefebvre received the degree in Chemical Engineering, and Miss Michelle Lefebvre received her diploma as Licentiate in Philosophy.

"Over Ninety" Birthday Club

Congratulations are extended to a former resident, Miss Fanny Globensky, who will be 95 years of age on July 6. Miss Globensky resided many years in Upper Lachute and is very well known to many people in the district. She is comparatively well and active for her age. At present she is living with friends in Chomedey.

Diocesan Order of Merit

A column for the sportsman

— By BOB ATCHISON —

Stories about the protective instincts of parent birds towards their young sound unbelievable, but most are well verified. A caller the other day told me about a duck and her young. A couple of local fishermen were drifting down the river one evening spinning, and had pulled into a clump of weeds and grass. As they attempted to clear themselves from the mess, a duck flew up, startling the bow man so badly that he fell into the water! We know just how this long grass feels in the water, so you can imagine how fast he got out. However, it was not all over. As he was climbing back the duck flew past them again, forcing the climber to get back in the water. It did not approach the stern man at all, just concentrated on the bow man. To make this story short, before they got free of the weeds he was in the water three times! Needless to state they don't intend to try and find her nest at this time. . . Another instance makes you wonder, too. One of our better local farmers was weeding the corn with his tractor the other morning when a tiny sandpiper bore down on the machine, even attacking the tires of the tractor. Now, when you consider the size of this bird, (about 2 ounces soaking wet) and the size of the tires — then you begin to wonder just what we humans are lacking in courage. . . It appears that no matter the size of the antagonist, any animal will instinctively protect its young, even though this means suicide.

Our moose are still in evidence. The latest report is from the Dunany area. A motorist almost struck one recently on his way home to Montreal. . . Not too much has been heard of the lynx lately, however; but these animals are experts at hiding, and with everything growing so profusely in the bush, it would be surprising to even hear one, let alone see it. . . A number of beavers are around; some have been damming up a creek, and they sure have made a good job. They will doubtless have to be cleared out before long, unless the farmers don't mind their land being flooded.

As most fishermen know, the woods these days are bone dry. Swamps and sink-holes have all dried up. Not even the frogs can be heard in some of the bigger swamps I know of. And creeks are down so low, the fish are going to have a tough time to survive. . . This is a long way of saying — for the love of our bush, PLEASE BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE. This is more emphatic, more pressing, than the usual warning; it presents a real danger to all. Once again: Be extra careful — don't smoke; don't light fires of any kind; don't leave empty bottles where the sun can shine on them, don't litter grounds either. There are many more don'ts, but if you can remember these, it will help.

Fishing in the West River the other Sunday, I hooked what I thought to be an extra good brookie. This fish took a Spider fly, fished in very slack water. It turned out to be a Grey, of about one pound. I was surprised, as this didn't look too promising even for brookies. I was having fun with a fly rod, not caring much what it might produce; and believe it or not, among all the lilly pads in water no more than two feet deep, I caught seven trout. It just shows you cannot afford to pass up any type of water, if you want sport. One of the fairly good creeks in this area is just about finished for the year; you fishermen know the one I mean, running down from Lake Sir John into the North River. It could be, we will be lacking water even in the town, if the level continues to drop.

This sort of thing invariably happens about this time of year — thoughtless people picking up any young animal that happens to be around. This is a tragic thing for the youngster and for the older animals, too. Some folk seem to think when they spot a young animal that it has been abandoned by the parents; this is not so, most of the time. I can only repeat what has been frequently publicized — DO NOT PICK UP ANY YOUNG ANIMAL, supposedly to help them. Another thing most of you are unaware of — it's against the law to have any wild animal in your possession unless you have a special permit.

The North River has produced a few very good Northerns; also, some musky have also been taken, but not in any great size. We were told of a Northern that weighed 30 lbs. plus, caught right around the "Bull's Tongue" near Cote St. Louis. There will no doubt be many more before the season is over, possibly better than in former years, if that is possible. (Maybe this is the year for the world's record!) With the provincial biologists stating this river is the breeding area for musky for both the Ottawa and St. Lawrence, there should be plenty of fishermen in from Montreal. This may be good too; at least the government will have to do something about towns and industries dumping sewage and discards into this water. This will apply also to the farms, homes, etc. One thing is sure, the Town of Lachute is going to have to wake up and quit stalling around on sewage disposal.

It has taken some time for the rabbits to even show themselves. It is recalled how few there were this past winter. . . We remember also the number of skunks we had during the winter, which made it look bad for this summer. But I guess our fears of an influx of these animals with what appeared to be rabies, has not materialized; actually there are very few skunks to be found at all. Good old Nature may have taken a hand.

Black squirrels are very definitely increasing, and I don't think there is anything nicer on the landscape. The red variety are much fewer, but this appears to be natural, when the blacks are so numerous. A few friendly little chipmunks are starting to show up, and with all the birds and animals around we have a small-game paradise in this County.

I heard of a case near Arundel where trout are being sold openly. It appears that trout can be bought if you are in the know. Also certain motels and hotels are supposed to be serving these fish on the menu; likely, even venison can be had this way. And that district is no exception. . . This condition is not the fault of our Game Wardens, but rather the operators and owners of these establishments. A dangerous shortage of wildlife can be blamed on this type, with whom the dollar is a prime consideration — a very poor outlook for game in this province.

Water Skiing

WITH CLINT WARD

More Fun on Two Skis

New skiers are often impatient to learn how to ski on one ski but a little extra time learning with and becoming "expert" on two skis will pay dividends later. It will also build your stamina for slalom skiing which is more tiring than skiing on two skis.

Try wake jumping for lots of thrills and spills. With practice you should be able to jump from one side of the wake and land beyond the other wake. Simply cut out as far as you can to one side of the boat and then cut back at the wake building up as much speed as you can. When you reach the wake straighten your legs but keep your upper body bent forward so that your weight is over the centre of the skis. Maintain this position until you land. The problem with wake jumping is to time the jump at the place on the wake that will give the most lift. If you have built up enough speed you will be crossing the wake very fast and it is easy to jump too late. Practice and experience will teach the correct timing. Practice jumping in both directions so that you can clear the wake going either way.

The skier salute is a standard water ski trick and is an excellent introduction to skiing on one ski. The salute can be done with one leg bent but a really good salute finishes with both legs straight. Begin by lifting one ski from the water. Lift it toe first otherwise the tip will catch and you will get a quick dunking.

As the toe is lifted continue the ski up until it is vertical. Your skiing leg and the lifted leg should both be straight and to do this you will have to lean back on the rope. Practice this with either leg so you can decide which foot you would like to ski on when learning to ski on a slalom ski.

The rope between the knees is another simple stunt that is sometimes used in water ski show routines. Reach forward and pull in on the handle. Place it behind your knees and then let go. You can carry your arms out to the sides or place your hands on your hips.

After you become familiar with two skis, you are ready for learning to ski on one, and we will go into this next week.

New booklet for boat travel enthusiasts

Quebec — In order to inform pleasure boating enthusiasts on available services at the places where they can dock, the Department of Tourism, Fish and Game has published a new booklet entitled "Pleasure Boating in Québec".

The information was compiled with the co-operation of the Department of Natural Resources, and boat owners will appreciate the information contained in this publication.

The Hon. Lionel Bertrand, Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game, notes that it is possible errors or omissions may have been made while issuing this material for the first time, since the list groups about 60 pleasure boating ports in 48 separate localities. The Tourist Branch had a limited number of copies printed, in order to take into account corrections or changes which may be suggested when the time comes to print a new edition.

The nature and services of the stopping places are classified into six divisions: docking (draft at dock, launching ramp, docking capacity and tides); supplies (gas, diesel oil, drinking water and food); repairs (battery charge, spare parts, shipyard); lodging (hotel, motel, tourist home, camping ground); recreation (golf, beach, water skiing, tourist attractions, fishing, information); other facilities (hospital, yacht club, sea plane base, airstrip, railway or bus station).

The list includes not only the services available at each port, but also in the immediate and surrounding vicinity.

Green Valley Club, Field Day, June 2 — Mrs. N. Lang was the low net winner with a net 89. Congratulations, Mrs. Lang! Other ladies competing from Lachute were Mrs. R. Gravel, Mrs. M. Carrière, and Mrs. F. Feldman.

Laval, Silver Field Day, June 12 — Mrs. Teddy Champagne came second with a net gross of 83. Congratulations, Mrs. Champagne, and hooray for us that you are playing out of Lachute Golf Club!

Seigniory Ladies' Invitation Golf Tournament (36 holes), June 17 and 18. — The following ladies from Lachute Golf Club took part in this popular two-day event: Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, Mrs. Armand Desrosiers, Mrs. Howard Watson, Mrs. René Côté, Miss Doris Mitchell, Miss P. Baird, Mrs. Teddy Champagne, Miss Gil Ducas, Miss Pearl Jelenick and Miss Pearl Harrington. Congratulations to Mrs. Côté, who came out the combined low net winner for the two days, and to Miss Ducas, who was the low net winner for the first day. How's that for a fine showing from our club, ladies!

Mount Bruno Field Day, June 25 — Six ladies from Lachute Golf Club took part in this tournament. They were: Mrs. R. Gravel, Mrs. A. Desrosiers, Mrs. L. Genièle, Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. D. Carrière and Miss D. Mitchell.

Coming Event

Member-Guest Day golf tournament, July 7. — Luncheon will be served to the members and their guests in the Tartan Room, where later the presentation of prizes for this event will take place.

Wins fish derby with grey trout

Kenneth Graham, of Lachute, scored again, with the biggest fish in the Bark Lake fishing derby held last Sunday by the local Association. His catch was a 5 lb. 9 oz. grey trout. Patrick Lalonde, Lachute, had second prize with a 3 lb. 3 oz. specimen of the same variety.

The weather was perfect, and some 60 members of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association took part. A bean feed at the day's end concluded activities on the lakeshore.

Hole-in-one by former townsboy

Don Maidens, who left Lachute last fall for employment in the Niagara district, has taken up golf as a pastime and appears to be doing very well. The following item was clipped from one of the Ontario papers:

The second hole-in-one at the Oaklands Golf and Country Club this season was recorded when local linksman Don Maidens aced the 125-yard third hole. Maidens canned his tee shot on the frequently-difficult "gulley hole" with a No. 7 iron. He was playing in a foursome which included Mickey MacRae (also formerly of the Lachute district).

Speaks highly of CNIB work

Speaking recently at the 34th annual meeting of Quebec Division of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, W. Earle McLaughlin, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada and honorary chairman of the CNIB, referred to the CNIB as a voluntary agency whose objectives are the social and economic rehabilitation of the blind and the prevention of blindness. He paid tribute to the work being accomplished, saying: "I wish to emphasize the high standard of CNIB services. It is recognized not only in Canada but internationally. . . At home, the CNIB is the only service organization for the blind which operates in every province of Canada and in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. It has 49 offices and service centres. It is the only organization in Canada which concerns itself with every phase of work for the blind and with the prevention of blindness."

BIRTHS

O'BRIEN — Stewart and Jeannine (née Brisebois) are happy to announce the birth of a son, Joseph Douglas Steven, on May 19, 1964, at the Smith Clinic.

MORROW — To Dennis and Sheila (née Pelly), on June 21, 1964, at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, a son (8 lbs. 13 ozs.). Both well.

MASON — Bruce and Anna (née Todd) are happy to announce the birth of a son, Robert Murray (brother for Elaine) on June 18, 1964, at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

FOX — In loving memory of William Fox, who passed away July 1, 1959. — Always remembered by John, Greta and family.

"The one we loved is out of sight,
Though never out of mind,
And always cherished in the hearts
Of those he left behind."

HARRIS — In loving and cherished memory of our dear Betty, who left us July 7, 1952. — Sadly missed by Mum and Dad.

"Deep in our hearts you will always stay, Loved and remembered every day."

HEATLIE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away July 2, 1960. — Always remembered by his loving wife and family.

LEROY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Maude Margaret Leroy, who passed away June 28, 1963. — Ever remembered by her family.

MacRAE — In loving memory of a dear son, brother and uncle, Cameron A., who passed away June 22, 1963. Always remembered by Mother, Ethel, Dorothy, Russell and Reid.

"Sheltered by the Rock of Ages,
Anchored on the golden shore,
In the loving arms of Jesus,
He is safe for ever more."

MacRAE — In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, Cameron A., who passed away June 22, 1963. — Sadly missed by Grace, Emile, Jill and Patsy.

"The golden gate stood open
One year ago today,
With farewells left unspoken,
You sadly slipped away.
God knew that you were weary,
The hill too steep to climb,
He gently took your hand in His
And whispered 'Peace, be thine'."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our little daughter, Shirley Joanne, whom God called to rest on July 2, 1949. — "Loved and sadly missed by Mum, Dad, Ronald, Julie and Sherri.

"Somewhere back of the sunset
Where loveliness never dies,
Wee Joanne dwells in the land of glory,
Midst the blue and gold of the skies."

MacTAVISH — In loving memory of our dear little granddaughter, Shirley Joanne, who left us on July 2, 1949. — Always cherished by Grandpa and Grandma MacMillan, and Uncle Carl.

"It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone,
For part of us went with you, wee Joanne,
The day God called you home."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Glen of Harrington

Mrs. Al Reim and daughter, Leah, are spending a short visit with Mrs. Reim's sister, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mr. Wilson and family, at Brampton, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Barlow, of Chateauguay Heights, were guests of Mrs. T. A. Parker on Monday last.

W.A. Meeting

Mrs. Whitcombe and Mrs. Kestor were hostesses, at their home, for the June meeting of the W.A. Twelve members were present. It was decided to hold a rummage sale on the church grounds, July 11; tea will be served. Capt. and Mrs. Buckle were present, and the former, introduced by the president, gave an interesting talk on the Anglican Church Army, which was followed by a question period and singing. Capt. Buckle was thanked by Mrs. E. Tomalty, and a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses in conclusion.

Mrs. M. Whittaker has returned from New Glasgow, N.S., where she attended the wedding of her sister, Miss Mary Love, to Mr. Alistair Murray-Wardlaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Purcell, accompanied by Mrs. T. A. Parker, attended the Purcell - Thomas wedding in Harrington last Saturday. Attending the reception in the evening were Mrs. G. Tomalty, Miss Maggie Burns, Mrs. Donald Colquhoun and Mr. Oliver Purcell.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Purcell, Mrs. Alice Chamberlain, and Mr. M. Purcell, of Monetville, Ont., and Mrs. Ed Smith, of Toronto, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ellis, of Kilmar, for a visit to former neighbors and relatives in this district.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson were Mrs. Edith Hay and daughter, Mrs. Ken Wilson and daughter Heather, of Hudson, and Mrs. John Jetty, of Montreal.

Mr. Charles Leroy, of Quebec City, was an overnight guest of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. Purcell.

Service next Sunday at St. John the Divine (The Glen) will be at 7.30 p.m.

Calumet

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson were guests last week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Badger, at Bolton Glen and Knowlton.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson were Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Tebrault and family of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Saunders, of Valleyfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacLean and family, of Calumet.

Mrs. Margaret Arthurs spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kennedy at their cottage in Pointe-au-Chene.

Sympathy is extended to the McVicar family, in the death of a devoted husband and father, the late Victor McVicar, at his home in Harrington.

Miss Margaret Bowles is spending a few days in Montreal, visiting friends.

Late George Licop

Many of the older townsfolk learned with regret of the death of Mr. George Licop, who was struck by a car while crossing the road in the town of Labelle, on Sunday afternoon. He was taken to the Hôtel Dieu in St. Jerome, where he passed away, later being brought to the MacKimmie Funeral Home in Lachute.

Mr. Licop was a native of Belgium and was 82 years of age. He came to Canada in 1907 and had been an unassuming and respected citizen of this town for upwards of 40 years. He was in the tailoring business, and at one time owned the building between Beaton's Pharmacy and the Cinema Lachute, then known as the Licop Block.

Mr. Licop returned frequently to his native land to visit relatives and friends, and since retiring was regularly seen taking his usual walk about town, enjoying his customary cigar.

The funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon at the MacKimmie Funeral Chapel, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, with interment in Lachute.

Pollock-Hamilton wedding at Notre Dame de Grace

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Douglas Pollock

The marriage of Cheryl Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hamilton, of Montreal and Lachute, to Mr. Hugh Douglas Pollock, son of Mrs. William Pollock and the late Mr. William Pollock, of Lachute, took place on June 20 at 3 p.m. in Knox Crescent and Kensington Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Clifton MacKay officiating. White poms and pink glads were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white silk organza dress having a tunic, designed with a scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Appliqués of Alençon lace were used on the bodice and edged the scalloped tunic. A pleated overskirt extended into a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a lace gown, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink carnations and stephanotis.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Mrs. John Bird, Mrs. Ronald Noble, sister of the groom, and Miss Sandra Workman. They wore frocks of French blue silk organza over taffeta, sheath style, with a scooped neckline and cape sleeves, and a matching overskirt snapped in front with a bow. They wore matching headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of yellow Sweetheart roses and Shasta daisies.

Mr. David Pollock, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Mr. Keith Pollock, brother of the groom, Mr. John Bird, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Gary Benson, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Hamilton, the bride's mother, wore a sheath gown of blue Chantilly lace over taffeta, with matching accessories and a pink corsage. Mrs. Pollock, mother of the groom, wore a pink silk shantung two-piece dress, with matching hat, navy blue accessories and a white corsage.

A reception was held in the church hall, catered to by the Evening Guild, of which the bride's mother is a member.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Pollock left for an extended trip to Prince Edward Island and the United States. The bride travelled in a pink printed dress of silk with a standing collar, and a pink linen overcoat. She wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Halifax girl is bride of Garth Hazel, Brownsburg

Hazel - Green

The marriage of Greta Elaine Green and Garth Herbert Hazel took place recently in Saint Margaret's of Scotland Church, Halifax. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Green, of Halifax, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Hazel, of Brownsburg. The Rev. W. E. Ingraham performed the ceremony. Mrs. M. Sheck played the wedding music and Miss Nancy Green, the bride's sister, was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of organza trimmed with appliqués of Chantilly lace on the bodice and full skirt. The neckline was bateau style and the sleeves were long. A tiara of seed pearls held her shoulder-length veil in place and she carried a bouquet of roses.

Miss Amy Hazel, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Diane Green, Miss Nancy Green and Miss Donna Green, sisters of the bride. They wore street-length dresses of blue with matching pillboxes and carried nosegays of assorted flowers.

Rodney Burns was best man and the ushers were Mattie Durnford and Gerald Green.

The mother of the bride wore a pale blue dress with white tulle hat and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a pale pink sheath dress with matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white roses.

A reception was held in the church hall, where Mr. Ingraham proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving on their wedding trip through New Brunswick and Quebec, the bride wore a pink three-piece fine wool suit with white tulle hat, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The couple are residing in Brownsburg, where Mr. Hazel is employed at the C-I-L plant.

Pentecostal picnic and godspeed to mission teacher

Brownsburg — On Monday, June 29, the Pentecostal pastors and families of Section 7, Eastern Ontario and Quebec Districts, gathered in the Rotary Park at 2 p.m. for their annual picnic. At 5.30 o'clock the ladies of the church served their guests a plentiful meal in the Brownsburg Legion Hall.

The day's activities concluded with a Fellowship Rally at 8 p.m., which took the form of a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. Eli Chiarelli and family. Mr. Chiarelli has just resigned as principal of the school in Cookshire, Que., to take over similar duties in the secondary school of the mission station in Kenya, East Africa. A presentation was made to the family, and the congregation committed them to God for the task to which they have been called.

Editor's note

Women's Institute prize-winners, also some of the leading livestock exhibitors and still more pictures of Lachute Spring Fair, will appear in next issue of The Watchman. This is due to late arrival of material and unusual demands on space.

Bible School at Harrington

A Vacation Bible School will be held in the Harrington Intermediate School, for the children of Harrington and surrounding districts. The school will again be under the leadership of Miss Leishman, the Rev. A. Voth and Mr. Glen Jackson, with volunteer workers for handicraft. Supervised activities and games are also planned, and a very good attendance has already been enrolled.

The theme for the school this year will be "Around the World with Christ."

Strawberry Queen chosen at Grenv'l

Grenville — At the annual strawberry festival last Saturday on the Anglican rectory grounds, Miss Judith Harries was chosen to be the Strawberry Queen, by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Younkie, of Lachute.

The weatherman must have known that this was to be the "best ever"; and favored the occasion with glorious sunshine. The festivities commenced at 2.30 p.m. with the crowning of the Strawberry Queen, and a parade through the village, led by the Campbell-Harrington Pipe Band. Upon their return the band entertained those present with a varied program of highland music.

During the afternoon the more adventurous were enjoying boat trips on the old canal, through courtesy of Allen Motor Sales, Hawesbury, Deacon Motor Sales, Lachute, and Mr. C. Graves, Calumet. At the same time children were enjoying rides on ponies loaned by Mr. J. Bennett and Mr. H. Lessard, both of Grenville, while adults tried their hand at games of skill.

A ham and salad supper, followed by strawberries and ice cream, was served by the ladies of the parish.

What World Conditions Mean

When the news tells of global war, devastating earthquakes and outbreaks of disease and famine, the world is gripped by fear. Is there any valid reason to react otherwise? Yes! These things occurring in unprecedented measure all in one generation comprise the visible sign of Christ's return in heavenly glory. They mean woe for the old world and point to its early end, but they prove that deliverance is near for those who fear God and keep his commandments. Jesus said: "As these things start to occur, raise yourselves erect and lift your heads up, because your deliverance is getting near . . . when you see these things occurring, know that the kingdom of God is near. Truly I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away until all things occur" — (Luke 21: 28-32). We are living in that generation.

How important, then, to stay awake, to keep balanced, to be informed of the significance of the vital issues of our day. The magazine Awake! is dedicated to help you do just that. It is not narrow in scope but presents knowledge from many fields of human endeavor. While squarely facing the problems of our day, it realistically points to the establishment of God's righteous new world.

This semi-monthly 32-page magazine may be had for one year at the subscription rate of $1 by mailing your request to — Watch Tower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, Ont.

THE COW JUMPED OVER THE MOON

I hate to do this — making a direct copy of someone else's brainwave, but I rather liked this one, and hope you will too. I got it from the Boston Globe (Nov. 23, 1958).

On lawn or meadow or morass,
Whenever he can find the stock
The hopper eats his weight in grass
In fifteen minutes by the clock.

The cow, upon the other hand,
To make a corresponding show
Must ruminate on grassy land
Two months and fifteen days or so.

How stolid are the cows that browse —
How slow and seemingly asleep!
The hopper doubtless laughs at cows
Who never seem to like to leap.

But still and all, we must allow
With truth prevailing late or soon,
The records show it was the cow
And not the hopper cleared the moon!

And just to fill up space and waste your time, here's one about a motorist down South whose car got stuck in a mudhole. A colored man with a team of mules showed up shortly and agreed to pull the car out for three dollars. The motorist agreed and paid him.

"Did anyone else get his car stuck here?" asked the driver.

"Oh, yassuh!" replied the darkey. "You is the fourteenth car Ah've pulled out so far today."

"You must be plenty tired."

"Yassuh. Ah sure am plenty tired."

"Never mind. You'll get a good rest tonight."

"No, Suh. At night de boss makes me haul water for de mudhole!"

Be seein' ya!

Change of Guard Ottawa spectacle again this summer

Visitors to the city of Ottawa this summer will again be able to see the Changing the Guard ceremoney, performed on Parliament Hill by a detachment of the 2nd Battalion Canadian Guards, from Camp Petawawa.

The half-hour ceremony starts at 10 a.m., continuing until September 8.

This is the sixth consecutive year that the historic military rite has been performed in the city, and the fifth year for the 2nd Battalion.

Although Changing the Guard ceremony takes place on Parliament Hill, the sentries are actually mounted at Government House, the official residence of the Governor-General. Number one sentry post is located at the main entrance to the residence, number two post at the main gate, and number three post at St. Thomas Gate.

Approximately 250 all ranks are involved, including the regimental band and the battalion's pipes and drums.

Last year the ceremony drew an estimated half million spectators.

Fashion show held at Q.W.I. annual convention

One of the features of the 1964 Convention of the Quebec Women's Institutes was a fashion show put on by the members of the Q.W.I. from all parts of the province, under the direction of their sewing technician, Mrs. A. Wells, who was also the commentator.

The garments were made by the ladies and modelled by them. The styles ranged from sleep wear through sports clothes, afternoon and evening dresses.

This is the second year that a fashion show has been sponsored by the Q.W.I. during their annual convention and has been enthusiastically received by the attending delegates.

Among the models at this display was Mrs. E. L. Jackson, of St. Andrews East.

EDITORIAL NOTES...

"In this Parliament are three Estates, the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder sits a Fourth Estate more important far than all."
— Edmund Burke

For editors and readers

AMONG THE week's meetings and assemblies, we found interest in the proceedings of the Canadian Authors' Association at Halifax — one of our readers from Ottawa, in attendance there, having sent us notes from the program.

Although most of the addresses at that conference had a "trade" slant, there is one particularly which held interest for news readers as much as news publishers, in this turbulent stage of Canada's evolution. The talk, by Robert Choquette of Montreal, associate commissioner of the Centennial Commission, was relayed in part by the Canadian Press.

The writer's mission is to build, not destroy, said this observer. Some editors are inflaming readers with "spectacular" accounts of extremist or separatist activities in Quebec, giving the impression that the whole country is on the verge of a split.

Mr. Choquette asked newspaper men to "tone down incidents of the minority" which he said may be "good news material" but not a true picture of the whole nation.

Referring to what is going on in French Canada and to the problems facing Confederation as it approaches its 100th birthday, he said: "French Canada is seeking its identity. Only yesterday it was still isolated from the main stream of world events. Today we are facing a phenomenon that is troubling some and intoxicating others. Traditional values and established customs are being openly questioned."

The position of Quebec could be better understood by English-speaking Canadians if they imagined themselves living in the only province in which English was the dominant language. Canadians with British traditions could no more give up their heritage and culture because they lived in a French-speaking country, than French Canadians can in a nation that is predominantly English-speaking, he said. "The people of Quebec cannot be forced to become what they psychologically and socially cannot become, any more than the apple can be forced to become an orange."

However, Quebec would be glad to forsake independence for a stronger partnership in Confederation. But unity is not necessarily the same as uniformity. . . "Why don't we call it unity because of diversity or variety, instead of despite it?"

Mr. Choquette said government leaders in the past "avoided the question" of bilingualism and biculturalism, because they were afraid it might become a problem. But no difficulty can be resolved that way. Future historians may say the current crisis was inevitable and necessary for Canada to achieve maturity, he predicted.

But in the meantime "we must remain optimistic . . . to defy the arguments of fatalists who claim Confederation is dying or dead." Understanding, tolerance and good will are necessary to bring the two cultures of Canada closer together.

At this convention an Ottawa printer, Victor Cowley, was awarded $1,000 for winning a contest for new lyrics for "The Maple Leaf Forever". There were 1,280 entries. Mr. Cowley's new lyrics make no mention of any ethnic group or ancestry, but the refrain mentions the Queen.

More than two sides

AT WESTMINSTER College, Fulton, Mo., March 5, 1946, Winston Churchill delivered a memorable address in which he said: "From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent."

It apparently wasn't the original reference to the now-famous Iron Curtain, but it did serve to put the international political situation in perspective. Simply stated, the world was divided into two camps — East and West.

But 18 years later, it's evident that things aren't so simple any more. And External Affairs Minister Paul Martin explained it during a foreign affairs debate in Parliament:

"For years in NATO and in all the Western capitals we have been speaking rather loosely about East-West relations. I think it is time we admitted that this shorthand phrase is no longer adequate. . .

"We must think more of a four-way relationship between the West, the Soviet Communists, the Chinese Communists and the non-aligned countries, instead of the old East-West terms."

Admittedly, this division makes it difficult for anyone who likes to separate the world into good guys and bad guys. The world doesn't somehow fit into neat little categories any longer.

But if it takes a little more thought to keep track of where various nations and groups stand on the important issues of the day, there is also a comforting aspect of the whole situation.

With just two sides diametrically opposed to each other, the chances of an explosion are considerable. But when the two sides break down into a muliplicity of attitudes, the result is often that formerly immovable positions of all parties become modified.

And when you discover that your views are not as inflexible as they once were, there is less inclination to pick a fight with anyone who disagrees with those views.

From our point of view, there is an additional benefit. The blurred lines of division mean that, in some quarters at least, there is less emotion and therefore a better climate for logical thinking.

As Mr. Martin said: "We can now begin to draw a new balance sheet and get away from too exclusive preoccupation with only one of the Communist giants."

Oft-broken law

THE CANADIAN Medical Association is the latest organization to take up discussion of growing demands for repeal of the Criminal Code's sanction against distribution of means of birth control or instruction in methods.

Within the last few weeks conferences of the Presbyterian, Anglican, United and Baptist churches, the Voice of Women and the National Council of Women of Canada have approved resolutions calling for repeal of the widely violated law.

"That law is being violated hundreds and thousands of times every day," says Toronto obstetrician Louis J. Harris, chairman of the CMA's maternal welfare committee.

"Practically all hospitals — with the possible exception of Roman Catholic hospitals — and practically all doctors discuss birth control with their patients."

Although enforcement is rare (there have been only two notable prosecutions, one successful, in the last three decades) — some doctors, religious leaders and welfare workers feel uncomfortable disseminating advice which violates the written law.

Roman Catholic leaders deflate a widespread belief that their church, which opposes artificial aids to birth control, is against changing the law.

"It is not a good law because it infringes on private morality," says Rev. James Roberts, a member of the matrimonial tribunal of Vancouver's Catholic archdiocese. "The Catholic church by no means intends to foist on the general public its own methods to achieve responsible parenthood."

In fact, the Roman Catholic Church is in as difficult a position as the operator of a secular planned parenthood clinic in regard to the letter of the law.

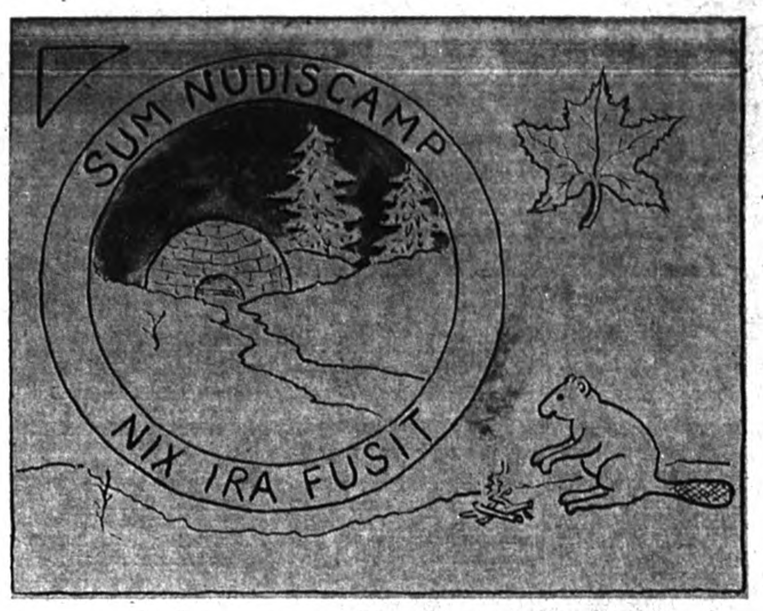

Advice on the Catholic-approved rhythm method of planning families could be interpreted as an offence under Section 150 of the Criminal Code, which forbids the dispensing of "instructions . . . intended or represented as a method of preventing conception. . ."

In the face of near-unanimous condemnation of the present law, the government might do well to reconsider its position towards a private member's bill which seeks to repeal Section 150. Drafted by New Democrat Robert Prittie of Burnaby-Richmond, the bill died on the order paper last session and is awaiting its turn again now.

Let's have something strictly original!

Uncle Walt, Watchman columnist, has submitted the above suggestion for a "distinctive" flag design — an igloo and two spruce trees rampant on a field of snow against a dull grey sky. Maple leaf in upper right hand corner. Canadian beaver warming his hands over campfire at lower right. (Apt inscription in circle severely taxed the designer's knowledge of Latin.)

A Canadian compromise — Is it possible or not?

— Contributed by Norman Thorburn —

It was Pierre Letondal, my old friend, whom I hadn't seen for years, who got out of the car. . .

"Bonjour, mon ami, comment ça va?" he said. "Ca fait longtemps que je t'ai pas vu."

"Yes, it's a long time since we saw each other," I replied.

"Don't insult me, Pierre. That is the most easterly road in Lachute."

"Lachute, voyons, have you been taken over by Lachute, mon ami?"

"Oui, oui, Pierre, c'est bien trop vrai," I answered. "Even Lake Sir John is now part of Lachute."

"Lachute has grown like a mushroom," said Pierre.

"Le ravissement du paysage, the rape of the countryside," I replied.

The discussion continued. . . Quebec for a large province has very limited agricultural resources. How can she hope to be independent, when her agriculture will be almost non-existent soon. Mechanization and automation are driving young French-Canadians off the farms, out of the woods, off the railroads and from the factories. Said Pierre: "This is the root cause of the trouble in Quebec, just as the mechanical cotton-picker and other machines drove the Negroes off the southern farms in the U.S.A., and caused the trouble there."

One has to be skilled in skulduggery, to match the machinations of aspiring politicos, and business men, right here in Quebec, I told him.

"You English," he said, "You always like to ruin the reputation of Quebec. You call it the backward province, priest-ridden Quebec. Well, don't call it that any longer; it isn't true any more. Before, Quebecers were always preparing themselves for the next world. Today, we are preparing ourselves for this world!

"Freedom of thought will not be circumscribed by dogma any more. We are going places in Quebec. We want more scientists and engineers."

"Two things have saved the French-Canadians," I remarked, "the devotion of your priests, and the American Revolution, which divided the Anglo-Saxon race. Democracy, never in too robust health in this province, is now like a very old actress, worn-out from playing many difficult roles, about to be ushered off the stage of Quebec.

"You have the R.I.N., a separatist group whose idol is Castro, and undoubtedly, a fascist-type organization will oppose them. In North America we are almost in the same position as Europe was, before the advent to power of Mussolini and Hitler."

"I think we should have a flag we can all agree upon", said Pierre. "A flag without the spirit of the people behind it is only a rag."

"Well, Pierre, all I can say is the Maple Leaf is the only flag that could replace the Red Ensign in the affection of English-Canadians."

I recalled that in 1911, the year I entered Fairmount School in Montreal, we used to parade around the classroom many times. One boy, the leader, held a Union Jack in his hands and we sang martial songs like, "Soldier boy, soldier boy, where are you going, bearing so proudly the Red, White and Blue". We also sang, "For every mother's son, there is glory to be won, there is fame or shame to be found, when the rolling of the drum says 'Come, come, come' and the stir-r-ring drum taps call." — I still enjoy, over a half-century later, singing those songs.

"So you see, Pierre, it's going to be hard to convince our older generation that we need a new flag. — But we also sang, 53 years ago, the 'Maple Leaf for Ever'. The song says Maple Leaf, not Maple Leaves!"

Here Pierre reminisced: "My brother-in-law, Marius Letourneau, went to Detroit 20 years ago. The other day he came home to see us. What a change in him! The children speak poor French, and he has learned to hate the Negroes. They come into white districts in Detroit, he said, and the whites move out. I never knew French-Canadians to be anti-Negro, but he is. They are

Canada Catches Up

By RAY ARGYLE

The national medicare program recommended by the Royal Commission on Health Services offers as near-perfect a solution to Canada's health problems as can be found at this time. Its sweeping recommendations, receiving the cautious approval of even the Canadian Medical Association, show how rapidly social attitudes are changing in this country.

Ray Argyle

It was only a few years ago that Canadians were being told that such benevolence would sap the will of the people and turn us into robots. We would be helpless to fend for ourselves and would be dependent on Big Brother for our most meagre needs.

It is strange to me that Canadians ever fell for such guff. But we did for many long years, with the result that Canada has been until recently one of the most backward countries of the Western world in providing social benefits.

The Royal Commission on Health Services, headed by Supreme Court justice Emmett Hall, has recommended:

- A comprehensive medical care program administered by the provinces, paid half by them and half by Ottawa, at a starting annual cost of $466 million.
- Complete medical service for all, free eye and dental care for children under 18 and many others, fluoridation of all community water services; new medical and nursing schools, and many other innovations.

It is significant that the Hall Commission recommendations parallel so closely the medicare program of Saskatchewan. The CCF, for all its failure to win broad political power in Canada, has provided a tremendous service in nudging the country toward many of the measures for which it stands.

I predict that the national medicare scheme as called for by Justice Hall will never be a major political issue in this country.

Prime Minister Pearson, at time of writing, has not yet committed himself to accepting the Commission's report in toto. But the Liberal Party is firmly on record favoring national co-operative medical insurance.

The service as set up by the province will have to include protection for the medical profession, such as free choice of doctor by patient and vice versa.

There also will have to be protection for the public against the few who might abuse the scheme by taking up doctors' time on non-existent maladies. A good many people do this now.

The greatest challenge facing Canada in the wake of the Hall report will be to revamp, modernize and expand our medical education system.

The Commission rightly recognizes the trend toward increasing specialization in medicine and faces up to the shortage of new doctors and nurses and the high cost of a medical education. We are turning out only 800 doctors per year and 20 countries have more doctors per capita than Canada.

After national medicare, there will remain one further step to consolidate the health services of Canada. That will be to abolish the price tag on a medical education, to ensure by public support that no capable student will be denied an opportunity to become a doctor because he lacks money for his education.

Loafing Without Honor

By BILL SMILEY

"You're a lazy bum, Bill Smiley." That's a recurrent theme around our place the minute the long, hot days of July begin. And it isn't me talking to myself, I might add.

Bill Smiley

The Bible tells us that a prophet is not without honor, save in his own country. These days, a philosopher is not without honor, save in his own back yard, when summer comes. And he'd look pretty silly sitting out there meditating in January.

I KNOW the hedge needs trimming and the lawn needs mowing and the flowerbeds need weeding and the back porch needs painting and the kids need a clip on the ear. I don't have to be told over and over again, like a retarded child.

But there are a lot of other things that need doing a whole lot more. So I wish my wife would just shut up about those petty, menial chores and let me get on with something worthwhile.

There's bird-watching to be done. Who is going to enjoy the three robins and the flicker strutting under the sprinkler, just like three dowagers and a gigolo, if I'm not there?

Who's going to shout back insults to the starlings, warn the sparrows that the cat is stalking, and scare off the gulls as they swoop closer and closer to the barbecue, if I'm not on hand?

There's ruminating to be done. Somewhere on this crazy continent there has to be one man sitting quietly, thinking seriously — if you'll bare with me — about the psychological and moral effects of the topless swim suit.

There's planning to be done. How can a chap plan a golf game and a fishing jaunt and a camping trip and a summer course and a column and a speech and how to avoid doing any of them, if he's muddling about with a paint brush or a pair of shears?

There's a lot of figuring to be done. Who else around here is going to figure out how to get the mortgage extended, meet the note at the bank, and stay out of debtors' prison, when our outgo exceeds our income by an indecent row of digits?

There's cold beer to be drunk. Any simpleton can jam up the fridge with it, and leave it there, taking up valuable space. It takes a touch of the artist to keep it moving at just the right speed so that you're never stuck if you feel like a cold one, but are just fresh out when a gang of thirsty visitors arrives.

There are books to be read, clouds to be counted, squirrel-fights to referee. Who's going to listen to the trees making love, the acorns dropping, the bees droning, if I'm sweating around behind the roar of the lawnmower?

So. Next time you drive past our place, and see a recumbent figure on a lawn chair, inert, and your wife says, "That Bill Smiley is a lazy bum, isn't he?" don't agree like the coward you are. Just retort, "Nuts. He's a philosopher without honor in his own back yard."

Visit Stratford's Festival

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"I wish Helen was more interested in her English literature: She thinks Shakespeare's plays are too difficult, although when she was younger she read Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare."

"Our John used to hate drama. But last summer we motored to Stratford. We had to drag him in to see "The Comedy of Errors", but afterwards, stubborn as he is, he admitted he wouldn't have missed it for anything."

During its first four seasons the audiences at the Stratford Festival totalled some 400,000 who came to see 260 performances. The quiet little Ontario city of Stratford has had thousands of visitors from distant places who have come to see Shakespearean drama. Successful performances of a wide variety of plays have gained critical approval. The Stratford Festival highlights the theatre in Canada in its twelve week season.

A great many school age boys and girls, particularly adolescents, who have had the privilege of going to Stratford, have a new respect, even a liking for the plays which they study, after such an experience.

The Canada Council and some other organizations have helped to finance the trip for a few outstanding scholars. Campers at certain camps and Youth Hostel travellers have also had this exciting experience. Hundreds of parents have sacrificed to include a Festival Visit in their summer plans. This project is one which is to be highly commended.

The idea of a Stratford, Ontario Shakespearean Festival originated with Tom Patterson a dozen years ago. He was a young man full of enthusiasm and he persuaded Tyrone Guthrie, former manager of the famous London theatre, Old Vic, to come to Stratford as his first director.

With characteristic drive Tom Patterson also collected money for this ambitious project. The season opened in 1953 in a giant tent. Both theatres featured a circular stage and very simple scenery. Instead of bells and buzzers, a trumpet fanfare announced to those chatting in the corridors or strolling outdoors that the performance would begin soon.

It has been our privilege to see Shakespeare plays both in this tent and in the permanent theatre which later replaced it. Our son and two daughters, on different summers have been to Stratford and this is an experience we commend for more young Canadians.

Stratford is a delightful place to visit with its graceful weeping willows bending over the water of the curving Avon River, its green banks and its lovely homes. Lovely swans may be seen by visitors, from boats or strolling along the paths. The Shakespearean garden is a joy to see.

Alistair Horne, a visitor to Canada, has given his impressions in his book, Canada and the Canadians, and in his opinion the most remarkable artistic accomplishment in Canada since World War II has been the birth of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, "which in a few short years has transformed the Canadian theatre, by its example, if nothing else."

Those who are planning to see Richard II or King Lear this summer can be confident of immense pleasure to come. Right now is time to plan, if possible, for a Stratford Festival visit.

To Europe and Mediterranean countries

Misses Mary Jane and Suzanne Ayers (daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, Lachute), and Miss Michelle Gouin, of Montreal, left aboard the liner Franconia recently for a 68-day tour of Europe. Countries on their itinerary are England, Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy, France, Spain and Portugal. They will return at the end of August.

NEW SALAD BOOKLET

Free new "Salad" booklet now available from Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, prepared by the home economists of the Consumer Section. The 32-page booklet includes many tempting salad recipes as well as information on the buying, preparation and storage of salad fruits and vegetables.

— Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa

Salads highlight the picnic

Salads are a popular choice for a picnic. They should be included often. They are so convenient since they can be prepared ahead. This gives more time for fun and enjoyment for the whole family. Be sure to chill all salad ingredients before taking to the picnic then pack in foil or polyethylene bags, keeping the greens cold to assure crispness. Just before serving add the salad dressing.

Substantial salads are excellent for filling up those empty spaces when appetites are sharp. The following two picnic salads — complete meals in a bowl — are suggested by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. Either of these "travelling salads" can be featured as the main dish, or as a hearty accompaniment to hot barbecued meats.

Picnic Salad

"The combination of baked beans, wieners and crispy cabbage makes this salad substantial outdoor fare."

1 Can (20-ounce) baked beans, 1 tablespoon of finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, 6 wieners (about ¼ pound) cooked and sliced, 3 cups finely shredded cabbage.

Combine all ingredients except cabbage. Chill. Just before serving, add cabbage and toss lightly. 6 servings.

Macaroni and Ham Salad

"A 'take along' main dish salad satisfying enough for the most ravenous camper."

1½ Cups macaroni (elbows, shells, bows, wheels, etc.), 1½ cups diced cooked ham, 1 cup shredded carrots, 1 cup thinly sliced celery, ¼ cup thinly sliced green onion tops, 1 small clove garlic, crushed (optional), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain and run cold water through macaroni to chill and separate pieces, then drain thoroughly. Combine macaroni, ham and vegetables and toss lightly. Chill. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, add salad dressing and toss to coat pieces. Serve on lettuce and garnish with hard-cooked or devilled eggs and tomato wedges. 6 servings.

Teatime Topics

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When the main menu may be barbecued, or a casual summer buffet, it might be fun to cap dinner with a fancy dessert, and a cool one.

A coffee parfait which looks like a lot more trouble than it is, is one idea.

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine; 2½ cups of strong, cold coffee; ½ cup sugar; 1 tablespoon brandy flavoring; 1 cup heavy cream; ½ cup salted almonds.

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup of the cold coffee. Heat remaining coffee to the boiling point. Add softened gelatine and sugar and stir until gelatine dissolves. Add flavoring. Pour into shallow pan, to a depth of about half an inch. Chill until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Whip cream and sweeten to taste. Arrange alternating layers of coffee jelly cubes, whipped cream and almonds in tall dessert glasses. Makes six servings.

Coffee Raisin Pilau

Another fancy one: 1 5-oz. package pre-cooked rice; regular strength coffee; ½ cup golden raisins; ½ cup chopped walnuts; ½ teaspoon nutmeg; 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Prepare pre-cooked rice according to package directions, using coffee instead of water. Stir in remaining ingredients except cream and mix well. Cool. Fold in whipped cream, reserving enough for garnishing. Spoon into sherbet glasses. Top with remaining whipped cream and a few walnut meats. Makes six servings.

Try A Sherbet

For a lighter, seasonal dessert, there is rhubarb sherbet.

Three cups cut rhubarb (½-inch pieces); 1 cup water, envelope gelatine (1 tablespoon); ¼ cup cold water; 1 cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; red food coloring; 1 egg white; 2 tablespoons sugar.

Combine rhubarb and the 1 cup water in a saucepan, cover and cook until tender. Meanwhile soak gelatine in the ¼ cup water for five minutes. Press rhubarb through a sieve. Add soaked gelatine to hot sieved rhubarb and stir until dissolved. Stir in sugar and salt. Add food coloring if necessary to give a pink tint. Chill, then turn into freezer trays and freeze to a rather firm mush.

Make a meringue of the egg white and remaining sugar. Turn rhubarb mixture into a chilled bowl, crush with a fork, then beat for one minute with a rotary beater and immediately fold in meringue. Quickly return to freezer trays and freeze until firm. Makes six to eight servings.

Plan a picnic for a hot summer day

What could be more fun than a picnic on a hot summer day? Whether you are planning an extended trip, a week-end jaunt to a fishing stream or an afternoon hike to your favorite picnic spot, sensible pre-planning is necessary to make your meals a success.

Why not reserve a handy area in the house for picnic supplies? Paper cups and plates, napkins, cutlery, and outdoor cooking equipment should be gathered together in one spot. Items that store well at room temperature such as canned goods, spreads, sauces, and drinks, packaged biscuits, and potato chips can be added to the collection.

Freezers can be used to store sandwiches, cooked meats, and home baked pies, cakes and cookies for outdoor fare. Remove from the freezer just before leaving and by the time you reach your picnic spot the frozen food will be ready to use.

Remember, when packing food to be carried any distance, foods should be kept hot or cool, never lukewarm, to lessen the danger of food spoilage. There are many different types of thermos jars and coolers on the market to suit every budget and taste.

The same principles of menu planning are used whether cooking out-of-doors or indoors. Outdoor meals need to be as carefully planned for appetite appeal and good nutrition as other meals. Simplicity and ease of preparation are the keynotes for successful outdoor meals.

It is wise to have only two courses. Start with a meat or main dish served cold or hot. With the meat, serve a vegetable and/or salad, and bread or rolls. The dessert should be simple. Fresh fruit in season is a perfect choice. Cakes and cookies are welcome too. Milk or juice for the children and a suitable beverage for the adults complete the menu.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY,
Macdonald College

This week's Notebook is written in Fredericton, N.B., where I am attending the convention of the Agricultural Institute of Canada. And at the moment, I feel quite bewildered. I am lost among the 200 or so lectures, papers, and talks I could attend during this four-day meeting. They are all interesting and valuable, but there is time to hear only a tenth. For instance, the Canadian Society of Animal Production is discussing everything from the future of the livestock industry to rotational pastures for dairy cows and rations for baby chicks. The Agronomy Society is dealing with such topics as the corn crop, influence of cutting time on alfalfa survival, and the response of barley varieties to fertilizers.

Then, also, separate programs are presented by the Agricultural Engineers, by the Plant Disease group, by Horticulture, Soil Science, the Society for Rural Extension and the Agricultural Economists. Some of the subjects are theoretical, some are quite practical.

Mr. E. Grant, of the Fredericton Research Station, talked about the effect of different fertilizers on timothy survival. Afterwards, he took a group out to the fields to see these plots.

Three years ago he had a field of timothy which he divided into small blocks. To these, he annually applies nitrogen, phosphorous and potash in all possible combinations and rates. The difference between them, after three years, is amazing. The timothy has completely gone in some plots; in others, it is more vigorous than ever. The weed population is different in every plot, too.

The healthiest plots are the result of nitrogen and potash in about equal amounts, starting at 80 lbs. of each per acre. Oddly, it seems to take very little phosphorous to keep timothy going once it is started.

The poorest plots are receiving potash alone — there is no timothy left in them. In the plots receiving nitrogen alone, the timothy had been crowded out by a dense mat of bluegrass. And very high rates make little difference to this pattern.

The lesson which stands out so clearly here is the need for the right balance between fertilizer nutrients. And, incidentally, the successful balance here is the same as in barnyard manure.

Another interesting observation is the amount of re-growth on these fertilized plots when the first cut is made early. They normally take two cuts each year. It seems that timothy receives a severe set-back if the first cut is delayed until the new, young shoots are taken also.

An informal session was held one evening to talk over the program of ARDA across Canada. Each province reported encouraging progress, though slow. There are many soil and water conservation projects under way, and several for alternate land use, such as community pastures and reforestation projects.

The success of community development projects, though, seems to depend on a spontaneous getting together of interested people within a community who see a need.

I am surprised to learn that the Atlantic provinces do not produce enough milk for their own needs; there is a deficit of a billion pounds a year. The conditions seem so ideal for dairying — good summer rainfall for pasture and forage — but the trouble seems to be lack of lime and low natural fertility in the soil; many small farms are dropping out but others are developing into larger, economically healthy units.

The conference will end up with a tour of the potato growing area in the valley of the St. John River. It is interesting to see how a vigorous industry can be built up co-operatively in an area so far removed from its market. These provinces now supply 40% of the country's potatoes.

Canadian compromise – Is it possible?

having lots of trouble in the U.S.A. too."

"Yes", I replied, "and Barry Goldwater — like a knight in shining armour astride his pacing charger, lance in hand, in the olden days — sits in the cock-pit of his supersonic jet, ready to take off for the jungles of Viet-Nam, where he would jettison his load of nuclear bombs."

"You know, Pierre, there are thousands of us Anglo-Quebecers who speak your language. We would dislike to live somewhere where we could never again speak French. You don't seem to understand, I enjoy speaking to you in your own tongue."

"Yes, I believe you, but there are many English-speaking politicians who hardly know a word of French. That is not right, even Lester Pearson can hardly talk French.

"Yes, Pierre, but Pearson is a peace-maker. The whole world applauded his devotion to peace, when he won the Nobel prize. If any man can make a compromise with your people, I think it is he. Since the days of Sir Guy Carleton, we have been making compromises with your people. Carleton saved your people from the Americans. You named a large boulevard in Montreal in his honor, Dorchester. And there's also an important street named Dorchester, in his honor, in Quebec City."

I observed to my friend that there are three million people of French descent in the U.S.A.

"Yes," said Pierre, "but very few speak French. There remain only a very few places where French is spoken, in the States."

"There are French-Canadians in New Brunswick too, les Acadiens, Pierre."

"The Acadians are not the same as us at all. There is more difference between the Acadians and the French of Quebec, than there is between you and the Americans — much more, I think. The French of Ontario are like us, however."

As he left me to get in his car, my wife asked him how he liked discussing politics with her husband.

"We were not discussing politics, we were discussing 'la grande politique'. How do you say that in English, m'sieu ?"

"Statecraft," I ventured.

CHECKMATE ON ANNEXATION

Adjustments and procedures halted — court hearing for injunction July 9

The Superior Court of the District of Terrebonne will hear a plea for issuance of an interim injunction to have Lachute's annexation by-law declared illegal, nul and void. The lawsuit to set aside the annexation of part of St. Jerusalem, sanctioned only recently by Quebec Order in Council, is taken by Norman R. Romer, J. E. Bourbonnière, and Lake Sir John Estates Ltd. Messrs. Romer and Bourbonnière are residents of St. Jerusalem affected by the annexation, and the former is president of the lake resort corporation here named.

The appellants are seeking an immediate injunction against Lachute Town, its officers, employees and representatives, to stop every initiative, action or service towards effecting the amalgamation of territory in St. Jerusalem with the Town of Lachute, and to cease immediately all procedures whatever towards application of the by-law.

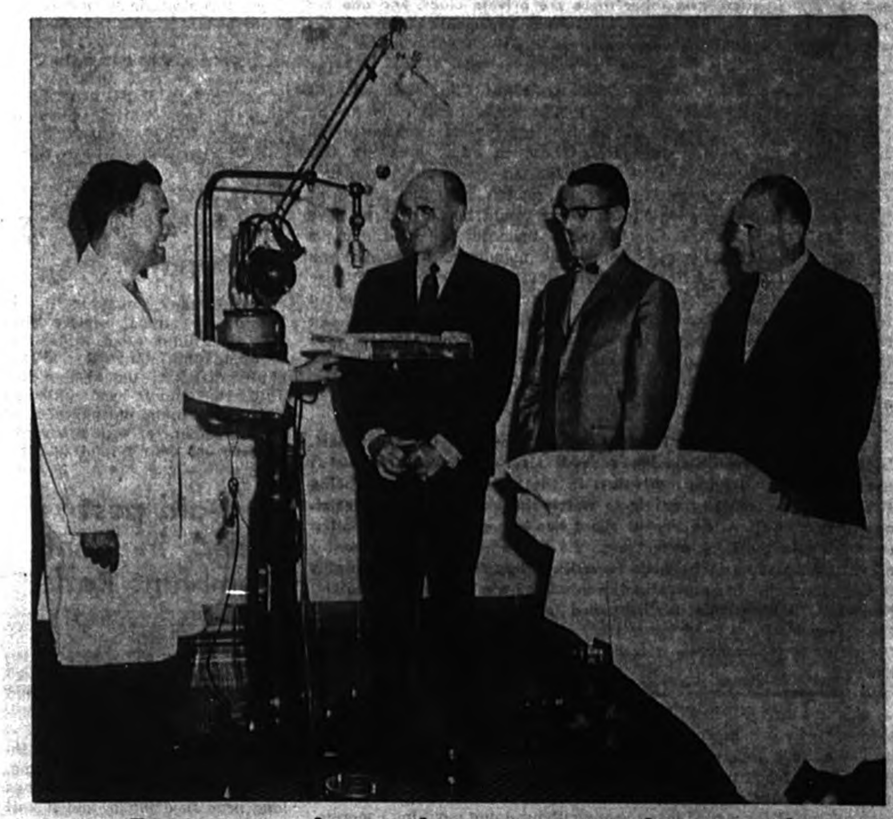

The plea will be heard Thursday, July 9, in the court at St. Jerome. The Corporation of Lachute Town is the defendant, with St. Jerusalem Parish and the Quebec Attorney-General as mis-en-cause.

Request for in injunction instituted by Messrs. Romer, Bourbonniere and Lake Sir John Estates Ltd., is based on charges that the annexation by-law, the referendum, and amendments to the by-law did not follow requirements of the law, and that certain essential formalities were not fulfilled.

It is further alleged that the annexation is not logical in the boundaries that it prescribes, and if put into effect, will seriously and irreparably impoverish the Parish of St. Jerusalem and cause hardship to its taxpayers; that the territory annexed contains two-thirds of the total Parish valuation and of its population, but only one-third of its land area. It is further argued that if the amalgamation is allowed and an industrial area created, as intended, in the neighborhood of the proprietors involved, this will adversely affect their properties.

Acting for the appellants is the law firm of Gilbert, Tardif and Lafleur, Montreal, while Jean-Claude Paquin is attorney for the Town, with privilege to retain the services of a consultant if he sees fit.

Mayor Dave Campbell informed the councillors of this action at the July sitting last week, and ordered the suspension of all work and services by town employees in the annexation area, until the court hearing.

Equipment donated to Argenteuil Hospital

Dr. Victor Jekyll, of St. Jerome, made an acceptable donation to the Argenteuil Hospital last week in the form of a mobile drill unit, fully equipped, for bedside or operating room work, either dental or surgical. Dr. Jekyll, a veteran dental practitioner, had this unit made to his own specifications some years ago, and it has been used in the Army clinic at Ste. Therese, one of the Civil Defence bases in which he practices. An Army transport brought the equipment to its new home.

The money will help equip a workshop for the training of refugees. Accepting the donation is Mr. A. Van Goor of Holland, treasurer of the Near Eastern Council of Churches in Gaza.

Cpl. Lachapelle returned last week by air to Trenton, and is here on one month's leave before being posted to Ottawa.

Richelieu Park offered as a civic playground

The Richelieu Club has made a formal offer to Lachute Town Corporation, to hand over the Richelieu Park as a municipally-owned recreation spot. This has been talked of for several weeks, but was officially announced by Mayor Dave Campbell at Council last week.

A committee of three — Aldermen Laurier Carrière, Linton Armstrong and Nelson Lepage — was appointed to study the proposal and to report back in two weeks time.

It may be recalled that, to meet an acute need for summer recreation, the club acquired an extensive tract of land between Paquin Avenue and the North River, now known as the Richelieu Park. That was five years ago. The club has since constructed a public swimming pool and pavillion, including a restaurant. It has improved the playground and installed gymnastic and play equipment, besides picnic tables and outdoor fireplaces, etc., costing thousands of dollars. The club's total investment amounts to $50,000, and the Richelieu members personally endorsed promissory notes for the loan, advanced by the Caisse Populaire de Lachute.

The debt still outstanding is in the neighborhood of $25,000, and if the municipality takes over the enterprise "as is", it will also assume responsibility for the debt.

Accident verdicts in three inquests

Inquests into the death of Aurel Duval, 23, of Rouyn, who was killed near St. Philippe on February 29 of this year; also of Joseph Mella, a 64-year-old Ville St. Michel resident who was instantly killed when a car in which he was a passenger crashed into a stone on a hill near 16 Island Lake early May 18; and of Harvey Wilson, 44-year-old electrician at the Brownsburg C-I-L plant, who was electrocuted while engaged in a routine change-over at the plant on June 20, were held on Tuesday evening of last week under direction of Joint District Coroner Dr. J. C. MacKimmie. In all cases, the coroner's jury returned verdicts of accidental deaths.

A total of 28 witnesses were heard in connection with the three fatalities, according to J. P. Dallaire, officer-in-charge of the Q.P.P. here, who investigated all three deaths, assisted by other members of the local detachment.

In the recent election for school commissioners at the Morin Heights Protestant School, the Rev. Horace G. Baugh was re-elected and Peter Whalley was elected by a good majority over the third candidate, Mr. Alton Riddell.

Police Department report for June

There were 359 calls upon the services of the police department last month, according to Sgt. J. R. Chartrand's report, submitted to Council by Commissioner L. W. Armstrong.

There were 30 arrests for various offences, and 63 investigations of accidents and various incidents. A total of 64 tickets were issued for traffic violations, and $868.55 collected in traffic fines.

Two of the police personnel, Réal Arcouette and J. M. Beauregard, having served a probationary period as corporals, were now installed permanently in that rank, on recommendation of Sgt. Chartrand.

Installation of water meters, all consumers, by November 1

Between now and November 1, all residential properties will have water meters installed — according to a decision at the regular Council meeting last week. The decision was not unanimous; five aldermen voted for and two against. (Two of the councillors were absent, Messrs. J. O. Desjardins and P. Pariseau. Mayor Dave Campbell presided.)

Tenders will be invited from manufacturers supplying water meters, and a by-law will be presented to borrow sufficient funds for the cost and installation.

Aldermen Dr. L. A. Middleton and Ed McFaul stressed that general installation of meters would reduce water consumption from 40 to 60 percent in volume, saving proportionate costs in treatment at the filtration plant (electricity bill, chemicals, etc.)

Ald. Dr. Dumais claimed this also was a logical solution, without which an outlay of $75,000 would be required to increase the output of the plant.

Meters and installation will cost in the neighborhood of $45,000. It is reckoned there will be about 1,500 installations required for domestic consumers alone. Already 168 meters have been installed in some of the larger outlets such as business establishments, industries, apartment blocks, etc.

Statistics from the experience of other municipalities indicate that the installation of meters will effect a considerable saving, and it is seen possible that the town may in future be able to reduce its water rate. However, this is only conjecture, and no change in rate is in the offing. The Council will be studying this factor while viewing the costs and financing of the new measure.

The original by-law to permit the installation of meters was adopted as far back as 1952, in the mayoralty of Jas. W. McGibbon.

Brevities at Council

At Council session there was much incidental business arising from corespondence, complaints and so forth.

The Chamber of Commerce sent acknowledgment of the $300 grant towards operation of the tourist booth on the riverbank, and received permission to decorate the site with the three Province of Quebec flags and flagstaffs belonging to the town.

A complaint was received from Mme Roland Bonin, Elizabeth Street, backed by a letter from the property owner, Mme Jeanne L. Lavigne, concerning inadequate drainage of surface water.

There were several requests from Lachute's "new citizens" in St. Jerusalem, but these will be advised to refer their troubles to the Parish Council, until court proceedings over annexation are settled.

To the councilmen whose term expires next November, Mayor Dave Campbell gave the job of studying applications received for the position of town manager. Other notices will be published in the Montreal newspapers inviting further applications.

Council adopted a new regulation on street cleanliness, which decrees it is forbidden to throw papers, containers or discards of any kind on the streets, lanes or sidewalks. A fine of up to $40 is provided, to enforce this law.

Bills totalling $28,370.71 were passed for payment, and the mayor and secretary were authorized to sign documents accepting a new street in the Hay-Mady subdivision.

As a sequel to a letter in "L'Argenteuil" complaining that the town authorities had failed to display flags at the park on St. Jean Baptiste Day, Ald. François Charlebois brought this matter up at the council table. It was here apparent there had been no ill will, just oversight. It had never been a practice to fly flags on this occasion, and no one had thought to ask the caretaker to do so.

All-round shuffle of council at Wentworth North

In consequence of a ruling of the Department of Municipal Affairs which extends from two years to three years the council mandate in Wentworth North, all the councillors and the mayor, if desiring to remain in office, must stand for nomination this year. . .

Nomination day is Wednesday (today) from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and according to rumors to date, there are no fewer than 14 aldermanic candidates and three for the mayoralty, intending to enter their nomination. If election contests are on the bill, as it appears, these will take place next Monday, July 13.

The present Council has comprised the following members: Sylvio Deslauriers, mayor; Gaston Gagné, Honoré Hoff, Jr., Georges E. Rochon, Fernand Paradis, André Constantineau and Anthony Strecko.

Wentworth North embraces the rural municipalities of St. Michel, Laurel and Montfort.

Telegraph wires scrambled by mischief-makers

Provincial Police are investigating a complaint sent in Monday morning from Canadian Pacific Telegraph, which uncovered a hodge-podge of wire causing a short circuit on the telegraph line between Lachute and Ottawa. It is reported that the lines were out of commission for more than five hours.

The trouble was located in Ayersville near Bradford Street, and it is believed the culprits are known to the police, who are continuing their investigation.

Provincial police investigate cases of criminal assault

A Montreal man, aged 32, was arrested on Tuesday of last week following a complaint by a 19-year-old Temiscaming girl, who several days previously had been attacked with violence and criminally assaulted. The man is presently in St. Jerome jail, pending trial.

According to J. P. Dallaire, officer-in-charge of the local Q.P.P. detachment, the girl had been working as a waitress in a district restaurant. Having decided to move to another location, she requested a ride to Ottawa from a restaurant customer. Shortly after departing on the trip however, the driver turned his car and headed towards Lachute, stopping on the way to commit the assault. He left the girl on Highway 41, a short distance east of Lachute, along with her baggage.

A description of the man, along with the identification of a company crest on his jacket, resulted in the arrest.

Q.P.P. officers also reported a similar case involving a 13-year-old boy and an eight-year-old girl. This case is in the hands of the Juvenile authorities.

In recent mishap

Waiting on tables at the Lachute Golf Club Chalet, Mrs. Alfred Williams suffered a severed artery in her wrist recently when she stumbled with a trayload of dishes.

This accident having occurred shortly after the annexation of St. Jerusalem (in that area) to the Town of Lachute — it happened that the Lachute police force was called, and officers responded immediately. The lady's injury was serious, and the policemen gave first-aid to stem the loss of blood, until she was safely removed to the Argenteuil Hospital and given remedial measures by Drs. M. Papineau and M. Sylvestre. Although realeased from hospital some days later, Mrs. Williams was required to undergo further surgery.

Airline hostess for 'Air Canada'

Miss Lisette Marie Cecile Bilodeau, of St. Jacques Street, was accepted recently as an airline hostess on Air Canada (T.C.A.) after completing an intensive five-weeks course in Montreal. Born at Arvida, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Bilodeau, and was educated here, then working as a translator in Montreal before joining the airline last May. She will be stationed at Toronto.

Laurentian Concert series opens here

Saturday, July 11, at 8.45 p.m., George Little will present Le Petit Ensemble Vocal (photographed above) in the first of a series of summer concerts by CAMMAC, to be heard in the Lachute High School auditorium. The program will consist of the following selections — Heinrich Schuetz: six Motets and Chansons; John Beckwith: A Chaucer Suite for Alto, Tenor and Baritone (first performance); Claudio Monteverdi: works for soloists and ensemble.

Neighbors protest conditions alleged at garbage dump

A heated complaint from Louis-Georges St. Jacques was voiced at Council last week in regard to the garbage site. The corporation was charged with violating public health regulations and, likewise, its contract with Lebert Hume, proprietor of the land.

According to Mr. St. Jacques, the dump is no more than 1,100 feet from his property, whereas it should be at least 1,800 feet; also, garbage is being burned, whereas the contract states it must be buried and covered with lime.

Other neighboring land-owners are also dissatisfied, said Mr. St. Jacques. But Ald. Dr. R. A. Dumais, in charge of this department, cited the Health Department report, that this was one of the best-maintained depositories in the province and that all requirements of the Department are fulfilled.

However, after due discussion, it was agreed that the alderman would meet the complainant at the spot, together with Dr. L. Turcotte and Col. E. Emmett, of the County Health Unit.

Council took note of an offer from Mr. Hume, of any further area the town might require for garbage disposal, on a condition that he be entitled to any salvagable scrap. The Council being in agreement, the mayor and secretary were authorized to sign documents of transfer.

RCAF officer transferred

Flight Lieutenant Willis N. "Moe" Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Morrison, Lachute, has been transferred from the Duluth NORAD Sector Headquarters, Minn., to RCAF Station Cold Lake, Alberta.

For the past four years, Flt. Lt. Morrison has been the NORAD Intelligence Officer at the Duluth Sector. This sector is responsible for the air defence of some 517,000 square miles of North America, including the western two-thirds of Ontario, almost all of Manitoba, and a large section of mid-western United States.

A graduate of Lachute High School, F/L Morrison enlisted in the RCAF in February 1952. Upon completion of his pilot training he served in England and France, flying F-86 Sabres with the RCAF's 439 Fighter Squadron.

F/L Morrison leaves Duluth early in July to take a pilot's refresher course on T-33 jet trainers and F-86 Sabres, prior to reporting to RCAF Station Cold Lake. At Cold Lake he will be attached to the Operational Training Unit flying CF-104's.

F/L Morrison is married to the former Madeleine Tondeur, of Elk Point, Alberta.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

The C.I.P. have latterly allowed fishermen to travel over the lands and forests they lease, and I'm pretty sure that all fishermen are glad about this. But with thousands availing themselves of this golden opportunity, it is only natural some minor problems should crop up. For instance, the C.I.P. lease certain areas of land from the provincial government for the wood only; now, on the same leased areas there may be private clubs, whose territories have also been leased from the government. These the C.I.P. do NOT have any control over, so if anyone travelling in the bush should come across this situation, remember these are private clubs, and one has no right to trespass on them. . . Respect the rights of others and everything will go along very well.

There has been some sales talk about flies and nymphs that are supposedly designed for fishing in the Laurentians only. No matter what claims are made about this, the insects we have in the Laurentians are no different from those in other areas in this country — with one possible exception, the dates of emergence (the hatch, that is) may be later or sooner, and the period of hatching may be faster or slower. You would not expect to have the same insects in the far north, yet in Labrador the same nymphs are to be found that crawl around the mountains here. Take a couple of examples — the Dance flies of the order Diptera; these are often mistaken for Black Gnats and seeing them way up north this would be natural, as they are very much darker in color.. The same applies to the Dobson fly, also found in the northern parts of the country. There is no such thing as a special fly never tied before — or for that matter, any flies that are native to one certain area, at least not on this continent.

Latterly, the fishing has been very poor, for the most part. Last Wednesday while fishing a small river I was able to watch about 50 trout all lying motionless in the water. The water being slow and clear, it was possible to watch them as we tried to catch one or two. Believe me I spent about two hours on and off, floating everything in the book over them. Even Nymphs got no response; all they did was to part a little from the group to allow the Nymphs to float through. In desperation, eventually I was just about climbing the trees. I know this has happened to many sports, so they will know how I felt. I don't know the reason for this aloofness; maybe the water is too warm — it could be they are too well fed — who knows?

The water level is still going down in the creeks and rivers. In a couple of cases in my "circuit", the creeks are almost dried right up. We have had continued warnings of declining water supply, yet we have taken no heed. Federal governments have been appointing study groups on this, but if memory serves me well, they have been operating for a good many years without doing anything concrete. It just could be too late to do anything now. It is frightening to think of our largest inland canals dependent on an adequate flow of water. The causes are multiple, but one of the biggest might be our continuing draining of wetlands for developments, along with the greater use by industry. It's strange how we humans take our resources for granted, and imperil them by our own folly.

At long last, first aid stations are being opened in our parks. These are free, according to report. At any rate, just the knowledge they are there, will give reassurance to campers and outdoorsmen who frequent these parks. I don't imagine a physician will be on hand — this couldn't be expected — but a trained first-aider will help a lot. I've often wondered just when we were going to get something like this.

You may remember some couple of months ago when the budget for the Wildlife Service was so short, it was stated the coming year would see an end to this problem. It may surprise you to know, the budget is now 50% less than it was last year. It doesn't make sense at all to have game wardens if they cannot patrol their areas through financial stringency. Wildlife is one of our most important natural resources, yet we are allowing it be be pillaged by commercial poachers — seemingly with the approval of the Department, too. This tightening of purse-strings seems to tie in with the wide-open season for moose — slackening the protection on our wildlife. Honestly, there seems to be so much buck-passing in this department, by a certain few intent on getting all they can, that it's time something was done. All the so-called conservation clubs in this province might direct their efforts to checking on this trend, to promote conservation at the top level. . .

I wonder where the Federation of Fish and Game Clubs was on this deal; could it be they didn't know? With all the members of this Association, combining all clubs together for the benefit of the province, surely they should have some voice? True, it's easy for me to criticize without really knowing what's happening — but with so many members affiliated, this great organization should certainly wield some influence in vital matters.

The increase in the woodcock in this district looks very good; plenty of young can be seen around the marshy areas that have not dried up, and if they all manage to survive, we will have more of these birds around than ever before. The partridge are also plentiful; and the rabbits, too, are starting to pick up once more.

There is one good prospect for deer — the number of people owning fair tracts of countryside, who are going to post the lands in this area. With the authorities being so lax in protection, this is the only way for anyone to safeguard his property and to preserve what wildlife we have. It may entail some trouble at first for these owners, but one conviction for trespassing will do the trick, I have no doubt. Of course, you will get no help from the government in this, but if it is effective, at least you will have the satisfaction of having done it yourself.

A brief mention of the latest fishing contest in this County. The winning fish, taken by Ken Graham, weighed some 5 lbs. 8 ounces, a grey trout. The second specimen was also a grey, of 3 lbs. some odd ounces, both good fish. However, the third was a red trout measured in ounces only. With some 55 members taking part in this frolic, the fishing was very poor. It's too bad that such contests have to be held with trout involved, and I feel it was fortunate that the fishing was so poor. It doesn't take too long to get rid of all the adult fish in any lake — then we beef about the lakes being fished out. Of course, our club is only following the example of others in this practice, and they certainly cannot be blamed for this. . . However, I would like to see some laws against this sort of thing.

Boating Clinic

— BY STAN DAVIES —

Many boaters still don't realize that when they buy gasoline for their boat they are entitled to a rebate of the provincial tax (or a part of it) in most provinces.

There are some new rules out too, which many are unaware of as these letters show:

I just learned I can get the tax back on the gas I buy for my boat. How? (E.U.P. Hawkesbury, Ont.)

Answer: Write for applications from the Inspector of Gasoline Tax Refunds, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 2, in respect of gasoline bought in Ontario; and since you live in Hawkesbury, undoubtedly some was bought in La Belle Province, write to Director Gasoline Service, Parliament Buildings, Quebec. Ontario gives you eight months from the date of invoice to apply for a refund of the tax, Quebec gives you a year.

I bought a boat and the seller wants to take the removable numbers off it. Can he?

Answer: Starting this year, a boat keeps the number it now has for life. Even though you have to get a new license when a boat changes hands the number stays the same. You bought the boat, you bought the number too.

Is nylon rope worth the extra cost? (P.T. Valleyfield, P.Q.)

Answer: In any application where it will get wet, then have to dry out, there's no question about it. It is. All the synthetic ropes can be stored wet, whereas manila can't; it will mildew. In dry applications the synthetic ropes may not be worth the exta.

What's the difference between a motor sailer and an auxiliary sailboat?

Answer: A motor sailer is a power boat first and a sailboat second. It is designed to perform best under power, and sail only when the wind is strong. A sailboat is designed strictly for the wind. The auxiliary is just an afterthought.

What does abaft mean? (A.N. Calgary).

Answer: It means at, or near the stern, behind. Aft of amidships. On the other side of. . . It's a word very little used in pleasure boating, and I think rightly so; some of the old salty language of the sea is confusing.

Must I signal in fog? (A.C. Kingston, Ontario).

Answer: This depends on the length of the boat. Boats under 26 feet are not required by law to carry sound signalling devices. So obviously they can't signal. Boats 26 feet and over must when under way, (moving) sound at intervals not greater than one minute, three distinct blasts on whistle or horn. If anchored, it must sound a bell for five seconds every two minutes.

Service clubs field day July 15 at Dunany

The Dunany Country Club is holding its annual service club field day, for members of service clubs in the Montreal and Lachute districts, on Wednesday, July 15. Many local clubmen enjoy this annual outing, meeting with members of fellow organizations from the city and suburbs.

First-aid post added, in Mont Tremblant Park

Quebec — A first-aid station will be operated this year at Lac Munroe in Mont-Tremblant Park, under supervision of Marcel Martin, a medical student and graduate of the St. John's Ambulance Corps.

The Hon. Lionel Bertrand, Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game, recognizes that this facility has long been in demand, and it will create a sense of security among the campers who spend a day or more in the park, either under canvas or in a trailer. This first-aid service is free of charge; it is added to other improvements already in operation, and further steps are being taken by the Department for the public benefit.

As far as access is concerned, that part of the gravel road leading to the park will be entirely paved, but in the meantime, dust laying oil will be applied. Other improvements are under way. By the end of July, a belt-road in the interior of the park will provide an entrance by way of St. Faustin and an exit by St. Donat, or vice versa. It is worthy of note, that masses are being held in the park every Sunday.

In Mont-Tremblant Park the Department provides more than 100 boats, 1,500 picnic tables and 500 double toilets. This year, from the opening date in May up to June 14, 11,456 campers had visited the Park, compared to 9,871 for the same period in 1963.

To pave road in Oka Park

Quebec — A mile-long road, leading from Highway 29 to the Oka Provincial Park, will be paved shortly. Up to two weeks ago, some 1,500 cars entered this popular family picnic spot.

The Oka Park has a beach two miles in length on Lac des Deux-Montagnes. One section of the Park is allotted to camping, and although it will be completed only in the course of the summer, some 50 groups have already checked in. Other improvements are under way.

Press and radio representatives view radar base at Lac St. Denis

In an attempt to familiarize residents of the area on various aspects of the Lac St. Denis RCAF Radar Base, Wing Commander Lionel P. Dupuis, Commanding Officer, and Public Relations Officer Flight Lieutenant Don Woodcock, arranged a tour of the base just recently, for district representatives of the press and radio. Following is one of several articles which will appear in subsequent weeks, on the operation, personnel, and other points of interest in this project, which from a financial and payroll point of view, ranks among this County's biggest enterprises:

Driving along Route 30 between Morin Heights and St. Adolphe d'Howard, the first sign of the Radar Station at Lac St. Denis is the three huge white radomes high above the lake.

These are the covers or domes that protect the Radar antennas, which are up to 30 feet long and 8 feet wide, from the elements.

The antennas, rotating at a constant rate day and night, must be shielded from wind, rain and snow which would creat vibrations and variations. The domes also allow maintenance to be carried out under any weather conditions.

The radomes are rigid, constructed of fibre glass and held in place by a steel structure. The tallest dome is 75 feet above the ground.

Beneath the domes on the different floors of the main building are a mass of scopes, radar screens, videos and control consoles. A glance into some of the rooms gives an impression of science fiction gone mad. Except that the people are ordinary people calmly going about their complicated and delicate tasks, amid this world of beeps and blips and pictures on scopes.

To understand how the base operates, it should be first borne in mind that the basic principle used is that of a signal transmitted from the site which bounces back into the Radar antennas from any target. By the time the signal returns it is very weak and must be amplified before it can be converted into digital data and sent to the Master Computor at North Bay, Ont., headquarters of Ottawa Norad Sector.

The study of the information brought back by the signal and its conversion into digital data form must be done almost instantly. This is possible on the site through the use of the data processing machine called FST-2, which processes hundreds of bits of information and performs prodigious calculations in a split second.

This computor, designed by Burroughs Co. who make the small adding machines found in many offices, is similar to but much smaller than the main computor at North Bay, and only does one job while the main computor performs many different functions.

Because of the high speed with which electronic components operate, laborious computations are completed in fractions of a second. Ingenious arrangements of circuitry allow the computor to employ variations of high speed addition in all its computations so that it is unnecessary for the computor to know who to subtract, multiply and divide — the methods normally used by human mathematicians.

The computor contains more than 1,000 miles of wire and can correct its own minor errors by rerouting the electric current through another circuit, thus bypassing the trouble area.

When a major malfunction occurs the computor informs attendants by sounding an alarm and indicating the nature of the trouble by means of lights or by printing a notice on a typewriter.

The computor at Sector Headquarters, provided with all the necessary information from each Radar station, furnishes solutions to the complicated problems of Air Defence rapidly and accurately so that an up-to-the-minute picture is available to the commander for evaluation and tactical action.

This huge computor provides information on the interceptors available, and will select the appropriate one and direct it to the target, as decided by the Weapons Director.

The heart of the operation at the Site Radar Station is the Operations and Data Monitoring Centre (DMCC). Here is where the information being processed is carefully monitored to ensure top quality, where maintenance and testing procedures are coordinated and all operational messages and actions are handled. Within the Tower buildings can be found refrigeration equipment to keep the coputor and radar cool, large diesel engines for generating a steady supply of electricity, kitchen facilities for emergencies, administrative offices and supplies of spare parts. Four diesel engines — two operating, one standing ready and one normally under overhaul — provide all the electricity used within the Tower area. Commercial power is, of course, used on the domestic part of the unit. Water is provided under pressure from the domestic water system which provides treated and purified lake water to the unit.

One other section of the Radar Squadron is the GATR site located just north of St. Adolphe on another high hill. GATR stands for Ground Air Transmitter and Receiver, and it is through the radios contained in this building that the interceptor aircraft are controlled and directed.

Glen of Harrington

Mrs. John Richardson, of Grenville, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson and family, of Toronto, were the guests of Major and Mrs. Ben Richardson and family, at the home of Mrs. T. A. Parker during the past week.

Mrs. Bert Bailey, and the Misses Pat and Elizabeth, of Chomedey, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. Purcell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Thompson and family spent Saturday last visiting friends at Hudson, Que.

Service next Sunday at St. John the Divine will be Holy Communion at 7.30 p.m., with the Rev. C. R. Lang, of Lachute, in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tomalty, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tomalty and daughter, Margo, all of Montreal, were Sunday visitors at Mrs. E. Tomalty's — Margo remaining for a few weeks as the guest of her aunt.

Christening

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bates, of The Glen, was baptized recently by the Rev. C. R. Lang, of Lachute, in the Church of the Redeemer, Weir. The child was given the names Michael Patrick James. The sponsors were Miss Joan Bates and Mr. James Bates.

Major and Mrs. Richardson (daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. T. A. Parker) were in Montreal on July 1 to meet friends from England, Mrs. and Miss Leversuch, who arrived on the "Franconia" to spend the summer in Western Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Kerr, who have been visiting in Northern Ontario, called on their cousin, Mrs. Ken Dewar, at Macdonald Lake, on their return trip to Montreal... Other guests of Mrs. Ken Dewar were an uncle, Mr. Jack Campbell, and his son, Mr. Eddie Campbell, from Franktown, Ont. — the former remaining for a few weeks' holiday.

Mrs. Doug Dewar, Ken and Dianni, of Ottawa, will be spending the next two months at their cottage on Macdonald Lake. Mr. Dewar is joining his family for a two-weeks holiday, this week.

Mabel

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Long and son, of Montreal, spent the week-end camping at Mr. Cecil Clark's farm.

Mr. and Mrs. James Seary and boys, of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, are holidaying at the McAndrew house here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Dahl and three daughters, of Waltham, Mass., have been vacationing in this area. They were entertained at a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tomalty on Saturday, where other guests included several from Montreal, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Phil Abbott from the State of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cunning, of Vankleek Hill, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tomalty, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tomalty, visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson in Ottawa on Sunday.

Cushing

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weir spent the week-end at their summer home in Cushing, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Weir and daughter, Jayne, and Miss D. Baker, of St. Anne's.

Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Weir and Miss O. C. Hartley are spending a few days in the United States.

Miss Annie McDowell, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mrs. Florence McGain.

Quite a number of Cushing residents attended the Presbyterian supper at St. Andrews last Saturday afternoon.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Bailey on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Patterson, of Montreal. Mrs. R. T. Holmes went to Montreal with them, to spend a few days with Miss Florence Holmes.

Mr. Jan Kaprusiak and sons, Stanley and Victor, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, of the Monalea Road, on Wednesday last.

Mr. Lawson O'Brien, of Ottawa, visited Miss Ruby O'Brien and brothers, over the week-end. Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Percy McAdam and Mr. Dale McAdam, of Brownsburg, also Mr. A. Bryant, of St. Sauveur.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Burton spent the week-end at their summer home.

Businessman died at Dunany

A well known Montrealer, William B. Osler, died Tuesday at his summer home in Dunany, in his 64th year. Funeral rites are being held Thursday in Montreal.

Mr. Osler had been associated with Harrison Bros. Ltd. since its inception in 1930, being secretary-treasurer and general manager. He was a past-president of the Montreal Bakers Association.

He was also a member of the M.A.A.A., Heather Curling Club, Richelieu Fish and Game Club, and Dunany Golf and Country Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Eileen Yearwood; a son, William, of Dorval; two daughters, Mrs. M. J. (Patricia) Irwin and Elaine; and a brother, Coll, all of Montreal.

Sentiments and Sidelights

At Council meeting last week, permission was given for the Tour du St.-Laurent Cycliste Inc. to hold their annual bicycle race through Lachute, on August 3. However, in keeping with regulations now in effect, the accompanying car crews will not be able to use loudspeakers here.

The Canadian Cancer Society's booth at the Lachute Fair this year was more than successful, thanks to the generosity of those who contributed while visiting the exhibition building. The Society wishes to extend thanks to these supporters and also to the many volunteers who kindly gave their time as attendants at the booth.

A lady resident of East Ward had a Union Jack removed from her flagpole overnight. With meticulous care the flag was cut in shreds, placed in a paper bag and stuffed in her mailbox.

It happens that a member of this resident's family died as a result of war service with the Canadian forces, and that the lady herself gave voluntary service in civilian defence work in Britain during World War II. . . That the vandals might be aware of these facts, or care in the least, is a vain and idle thought.

Coming up in August is another prize contest in the two local papers — with the support of merchants and businessmen, but saving them much of the work entailed in reporting customers' coupons. There will be a cash award of $60 each week. More information later.

The roads committee of Town Council is proceeding with the re-paving of two streets, Mary and Harriett, both of which are busy school thoroughfares. Benoit Morrissette is the contractor, whose lowest bid ($12,986) secured the job. Other street improvements are on the program for the near future.

Pity the poor editor. He is driven to near-insanity in an effort to keep mistakes out of his newspaper. Just think what a task it is, when, even in a short phrase like this, "to be or not to be," by transposition alone, it is possible to make 2,758,009 errors.

"Yes, my water bill has actually gone down since the town put meters in."

"Why that's great, but how does it work?"

"We only pay for what we use, that's how! No more carrying the guy who's taking hundreds of gallons a day in leaks, broken plumbing and wastage."

"That's only fair! You mean that on a flat rate we're probably paying for water somebody else uses?"

"Exactly!"

"So with metering everybody pays a fair bill."

"That's right, and after all, it's easy to stop wasting water, and so everybody benefits."

"But surely, the municipality can't afford to lose water revenues can it?"

"Ah! that's the point. Because so much water is saved, it costs the waterworks less in processing and pumping, it reduces the strain on our sewage facilities and it means no drought restriction problems. Save tax money too."

"Why, there's more to water metering than you'd think. The sooner we get meters the better I say. I'd rather be charged as an individual for my water than just be made to pay what I'm told. I'm going to talk to all my neighbours about this."

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacTavish, accompanied by their daughter, Elizabeth, and Mr. MacTavish's mother, Mrs. D. MacTavish, left June 29 for a motor trip to British Columbia; they expect to be gone about a month.

A shower was held in the Kilmar Community Hall recently for Mrs. Eric Bigelow, who is the proud mother of twin girls. Mrs. Bigelow received many useful gifts for the babies, and an enjoyable time was reported by all attending the event.

Morin Heights

Mrs. Wm. Barrett and family, of Roxboro, are spending the summer months here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Basler, of Bellevue Hotel.

Family in Car Crash

On Saturday last Mr. Wm. Stock's car was hit head-on by a truck from Montreal when the latter pulled out to pass a car on a hill on the road to St. Sauveur. Mrs. Stock was rushed to St. Jerome Hospital with a fractured hip, and Miss Sandra Stock with a broken ankle. Mr. Stock, who was driving, was badly shaken up, bruised, and suffered shock. . . Friends take this opportunity of extending best wishes for their speedy recovery.

Bereaved by Accident

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Max Greenspoon and family, of St. Jerome, in the sudden death of their daughter, Barbara, 18, who was killed Saturday night in a car accident near Lac L'Achigan.

Mrs. Bruce Thomson and children, of St. Laurent, are spending the summer months at their cottage at Mille Isles. Mr. Thomson will be there week-ends and for his vacation.

Mrs. Eric McCullough, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John Campbell, and her daughter Heather, who is on a month's vacation from the Montreal General Hospital, are spending July at Lake Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Nesbitt had her sister, Mrs. Bazil McLean, of New York City, and Miss Margaret Middleton, of Vancouver, as guests for a week recently.

Old Resident Brought For Burial

The death occurred recently in the Montreal General Hospital of William Forsyth of Montreal, formerly of Kenogami and Morin Heights, in his 93rd year. The funeral service was held here in the United Church, conducted by the Rev. Robt. Blair, of Ville d'Anjou, and the Rev. W. Ball, with burial in Hillside Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Lemuel Seale, Leslie Seale, Willis Seale, Tommy Seale, Charlie Campbell and Oliver Kirkpatrick.

Mr. Forsyth is survived by his wife, formerly Ida Dey, and two step-children, Carl Watson, of Jonquière, and Miss Doris Watson, R.N., of Ile Perrot.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hawkins, of St. Laurent, spent July 1 at their cottage at Mille Isles. Their guests for the day were her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Donaldson and family, Cameron, Cathy and Freddie, of Montreal West.

Sympathy Expressed

Sympathy is extended to the Captain family, of Mille Isles, in the sudden death of their friend, Roger Hardouin, of Montreal, on Monday last. The funeral service was held in Montreal on Thursday, with burial in Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

Messrs. Henry, Oliver and Matt Kirkpatrick with their nephews, Elwood Kirkpatrick and Douglas McCullough, spent Saturday in Mattawa attending the funeral of their sister, Mrs. Harrison Carruthers.

To Mexico for summer course

Miss Leola Caya, a member of the Lachute High School staff, boarded a DC-8 jet recently destined for Mexico City, where she will study the Spanish language at the National University of Mexico (the oldest in North America). Miss Caya will be back in Lachute in time for school opening in September.

Retiring teacher, former resident, feted in Ontario

Miss Catherine Burwash, a former pupil at the Lachute Academy who took up teaching as a profession, has now retired after 39 years of faithful service, 33 of which were spent in Whitby, Ont., all at Henry Street (Whitby and District) School.

Miss Burwash was the focal point of a mass tribute at her school recently, as hundreds of her former History and English students paid homage to her.

Over 300 well-wishers attended the function, at which Miss Burwash was presented with a cultured pearl necklace, and a diamond-and-pearl ring in recognition of her service and dedication. In her name a scholarship fund has been established, to offer $200 each year to a Henry student with highest combined marks in History and English, in Upper School (Grade 13) departmental examinations.

Former friends and schoolmates of Miss Burwash will join with The Watchman in extending sincere congratulations.

Married recently at United Church

Kelly - Jackson

The marriage of Gloria Jean, eldest daughter of Mrs. Florence Jackson, of Lachute, to Mr. Guy Nicholas Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kelly, of Avoca, took place recently in the Lachute United Church. The Rev. Harold Thompson officiated. Mr. Lowell Hopkins played the wedding music. Baskets of white poms with pink and white gladioli were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Harry Lister of Morin Heights, wore a long gown of silk organza having a Chantilly lace bodice with scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full hooped skirt of organza had appliqués of Chantilly lace, with flowing panels at the back forming a slight chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a flower coronet; she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white baby mums, her only ornament being a single strand of pearls.

The bride's attendants were Miss Margaret Cox, as maid of honor, and Miss May Jackson, the bride's sister, as bridesmaid. They wore frocks of blue silk organza over taffeta, with matching lace boleros and blue nylon gloves. Blue pillboxes with shoulder-length veils formed their headdresses. They carried nosegays of white and blue mums. The bride's flower girl, Miss Sandra Warwick, wore a frock of pink embroidered cotton with headband to match, and pink nylon gloves. She carried a nosegay of pink and white baby mums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Joe Kelly, as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Walter Gauley, cousin of the bride, Mr. Percy Jackson, brother of the bride, and Mr. Eddie Young, nephew of the groom.

Mrs. Jackson, the bride's mother, wore a three-piece ensemble of pink lace linen, with pink tulle hat, white accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Kelly, the groom's mother, wore a two-piece dress of navy blue linen, with white collar, a white hat, white accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the Lachute Orange Hall. Later Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left for a trip to Port Colborne, Niagara and other points in Ontario. The bride travelled in a blue linen suit with white nylon hat and white accessories. She wore a pink carnation corsage. ... The couple will reside in Avoca, Que.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Ottawa, St. Flavian, Montreal, Avoca, Morin Heights, Niagara-on-the-Lake and Chesterville.

Closing event at Bible School

Vacation Bible School for the Harrington district is nearing conclusion; children from Harrington, Avoca, Kilmar, Lake Keatley and Rivington have been attending the morning classes.

The leaders and assisting volunteers are striving to make this week one the children will remember for a long time.

On Friday night, July 10, the closing exercises will be most interesting, and it is hoped to have all the parents, friends and relatives at the school to see and hear what the children have learned. The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening. A good program is planned, with the children taking part.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express sincere thanks to all my relatives and friends for their visits, phone calls, cards and flowers during my stay in the Smith Clinic; also special thanks to everyone at the Clinic who helped make my stay more comfortable. — Mrs. Everett Young

W.I. technician instructing in Labrador villages

Following the recent Q.W.I. Convention at Macdonald College, Miss Janet McOuat (of Lachute), who is one of the Q.W.I. technicians, left for the north shore of the St. Lawrence, answering a call for help from the area to teach nutrition and cooking. These fishing villages, stretching from Seven Islands to the Labrador border, have neither roads, electricity, running water or telephones. During the summer months the families leave for the islands to fish, so Miss McOuat will therefore for this year stop at only the two larger settlements, Blanc Sablon and La Tabatiere, where, in consequence of the fish canneries, the women are there the year round. She expects to spend a month in these two places, having journeyed there by plane, and hoping to return by boat.

Garden Club members visit Long Lake home

Members of the Garden Club were entertained at a luncheon on Monday of this week, at the summer home of Mrs. J. R. McOuat, Long Lake.

Many gardening problems were discussed, and complaints were heard of destruction being done by groundhogs; one of the members reported having trapped 13 of these marauders.

Warnings were voiced on the careless handling of poisonous pesticides and insecticides. A particular hazard to naturally inquisitive children occurs in colorful spray containers and spray-dust "bombs", even empty receptacles, left in accessible places. These are fascinating, and dangerous, to children.

At the close, one of the members read a poem by John Beattie, which had been a long-time favorite of the late Mr. J. S. Giles, entitled, "In The Garden"...

IN THE GARDEN
By John Beattie,
Seaforth, Ont.

Have you walked alone in the garden,
Just at the break of day,
And watched the skyline brighten
With the glow of the sun's first ray?

You are seeing a new creation,
You are watching the finger of God
Bringing light and heat and dew-drops,
Putting life in the cold grey clod.

Put aside your spade for a moment,
Let alone your rake and hoe;
There's someone close beside you,
There is something He wants to know.

He says, "I've a wonderful message
For each of the children of men;
Leave all your mistakes behind you,
And start life over again."

And there in the garden at daybreak,
With everything fresh and still,
You are sure there is someone speaking,
And your heart makes answer, "I will."

Then again you turn to your labor,
To your rake, your hoe and spade,
And somehow life's burdens seem lighter —
After the promise you've made.

Tea was served by the hostess later in the afternoon, and everyone reported a most worthwhile meeting and a very pleasant outing.

Q.W.I. resolution on auto dumps

At the recent 50th annual convention of Quebec Women's Institutes, held at Macdonald College, two matters of concern which will take the form of resolutions are the increasing number and unsightliness of car dumps, and the poor quality and poor grading of potatoes put on the market by Quebec producers.

The new president is Mrs. J. Ossington; 1st vice-president is Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, Dalesville, and Miss Hannah Smith, of Lachute, was appointed Education convener, among other officers and conveners appointed.

A highlight of the convention was the QWI fashion show; materials for the 23 costumes were donated by the Dominion Textile Co. Ltd., and they were made and modelled by the members. Among the models were a number of members from branches in this County, and garments made here were in the display.

Plans for next year call for a drama contest among the branch Institutes, the winning play to be put on at the Convention.

An informative talk by the Montreal lawyer, Mrs. A. Pattison, on Bill 16 was followed by many questions from the delegates on matters concerning legal rights of women and children in Quebec.

Jehovah's Witnesses

Global Paradise Now Near

Does that sound odd at this time of discord, upheaval and hostility abroad? . . . Not if you know it is God's time to turn earth into a paradise. When Jehovah planted paradise in Eden it was His purpose for it to spread till it clothed the entire earth. A crazed world cannot block his purpose. During this generation Jehovah will prepare the ground for the global garden by plowing under this wilderness of evil. At Armageddon he will "bring to ruin those ruining the earth." (Rev. 11 :18). That righteous war will sweep wicked men and frightening weapons from the earth and will bring the power of Satan and his demons to nothing. In its wake no menaces, human or demonic, will remain to plague the global paradise, for only its advocates will survive the war that clears the way before it.

In that new world, the elements will not storm against it, and animals will be under man's loving domination. Disease will give way to health, life will supplant death, love will replace fear, and men will not even learn war any more. Past woes will be forgotten, "for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21:4). An idle dream? No, a divine promise sure of fulfillment. Convince yourself by reading the book, "From Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained". Ask any Witness you may meet, or write to: Watch Tower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19.

Town of Lachute

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the new valuation roll of the Town of Lachute (excluding the part of St. Jerusalem d'Argenteuil recently annexed) is now deposited at my office. Said new roll so deposited includes the information required by the Cities and Towns Act, including the valuation of properties and their rental value, and shall remain open to the inspection of any interested person or representatives during office hours.

The Council shall proceed with the revision and homologation of said valuation roll at its regular session of August 5, 1964, or at any adjournment of same.

During such time any person who thinks himself entitled to complain, for himself or for another, concerning the roll as drawn up, may appeal therefrom to the council or board of revision, by giving for that purpose a written notice to the clerk or to the secretary of the board of revision, stating the grounds of his complaint, and, if he complains that the valuation of the property is too high, he shall mention, in the notice, the amount of the valuation considered by him to be just.

Given at Lachute, this 3rd day of July 1964.

It's vacation time

IN THIS season of languid weather, it is likely that you are among millions of Canadians relaxing at the lakeside or having fun in the water. Or maybe you're lucky enough to have a power boat to go skimming through the cool breeze and refreshing spray.

Whatever your holiday pleasure, if it involves water recreation, you have an exhilarating vacation in store. It somehow sets you free of all last winter's drudgery, helps you to forget the more mundane aspects of life, and makes you feel glad to be alive.

No matter what kind of water recreation you like best, treat water with its due respect. "Think — don't sink ! Be water wise !" Learn and recognize the dangers. Be able to save yourself when in difficulty. Help others to play safe too.

There's nothing worse than a holiday interrupted by tragedy. When you take water safety with you on your vacation, you can afford to be carefree.

You can afford to enjoy the sun and the water without fear, because you have confidence that you will always be one step ahead of the game.

Complete your holiday plans with a check on your water safety knowledge. For boat owners, a reliable guide is the booklet "Safety Afloat"; write to the Marine Regulations Branch of the Department of Transport, Ottawa, for your free copy.

The case of illegal immigrants

IT'S DIFFICULT to believe that in present-day Canada a man can spend 100 days in jail without being brought to trial. The idea runs contrary to the principle of law. . . Yet it happened in Toronto. And it wasn't an isolated case.

Eric Claude Hooper, 27, of Buffalo, N.Y., was picked up several months ago as an illegal immigrant after he went to Toronto to see his wife and child, who live there. He had been deported three times before.

He apparently refused to answer questions put by officers of the immigration department, and was kept in Don Jail. The affair came to light when Allan Mintz, a young Toronto lawyer, happened on Hooper while doing Legal Aid work. By then Hooper had been in jail 96 days. But when the matter reached the newspapers, and the House of Commons, the department dropped a charge of failure to answer questions, and deported Hooper to Buffalo.

Another case involved Harold Nurse, 31-year-old limbo dancer from Trinidad who came to Canada in 1956. Also picked up as an illegal immigrant, he spent 87 days in jail without trial before publicity helped get his bail reduced. . . And a Greek sailor spent 102 days in prison in London, Ont., before deportation last April 28.

Immigration Minister René Tremblay admitted that action has been slow in some cases. But he insisted that holding persons in jail even after a deportation order is issued, is within the terms of the immigration act.

He told the Commons that henceforth information on all persons detained under immigration procedures is to be sent promptly to Ottawa and the file is to be checked daily by senior officers. And after first rejecting the suggestion that a royal commission inquiry into the whole matter be ordered, he agreed that an investigation would be carried out by Toronto lawyer Joseph Sedgwick.

It has been estimated that 500 men jump ship in Canadian ports each year and that about 2,000 are living in Canada illegally at present. Others come as visitors from the United States and other countries, and simply stay on. It's understandable that the immigration department wants to discourage this practice, and one way is by taking illegal immigrants to court and seeking fines or jail sentences as well as deportation.

Could-happen-here department

MOST EVERYWHERE — be it Yoho, N.B., or Yellowknife, N.W.T. — there are trends comparable to these cited by the Fort Erie Letter-Review in three unrelated news notes:

The extent to which business is pushed around by laws is indicated by a comment in a recent speech by Mr. L. B. Worthington, president of the United States Steel Corporation. Says Mr. Worthington: "The only way he (the businessman) can be absolutely certain of not inadvertently violating some regulation or legislation is not to go into business at all."

The Engineering profession does not do itself much credit when it makes obvious and expensive errors at the owners' or public expense. An example in New York is that an elaborate system for taking care of automobile traffic overlooked completely that there are pedestrians in the neighborhood who, under the new system, have no safe way at all of getting across the streets.

* * *

St. John's, Nfld., harbor was tied up for about 50 days. The damage was very serious and in fact the St. John's Telegram suggests it has been in some degree irreparable. The Telegram thinks quarrelling between employers and unions can impair western freedom, the heritage of all free citizens.

Britain is bustling

EVEN TO THE casual traveller in Britain, great changes are apparent, says Amy Booth in The Financial Post's feature report on Britain. Unemployment is down to about 2%. — This means virtually full employment. New capital spending by the government for the current fiscal year will jump 56% to £858 million ($2,316 million). Consumer spending last year rose 5% overall to £19,400 million and the main factor in increased expenditures on durables was a 14% jump in spending on cars and motorcycles. All these and many other increases in sensitive economic indicators point to good things ahead this year.

The limiting factor to further industrial expansion is a shortage of plant capacity, and skilled labor costs and selling prices are rising. This is the crux of one of the most difficult problems which Britain has to face. If rising wages and other cost factors push selling prices beyond competitive world market levels, Britain is in serious balance-of-payments difficulties. This can only lead to a cutback in production, less spending power at home and then another long fight back uphill. There are few countries in the world where the economy is more delicately balanced.

The situation underfoot

THERE IS increased demand, according to a footwear expert, for yachting shoes and related items — notes The Printed Word, with a conclusion also that "presumably the related items would include the yacht." All this comes about because of increased leisure time and shorter work weeks.

Sales data about shoes reveal the kind of life Canadians lead, a casual one requiring ski and curling boots in addition to the proper shoes to wear when afloat. The increase in the number of styles for the elderly demonstrates that we are living longer, maybe because we are sailing about on yachts and such.

About 21,000 people are busy in 75 Canadian communities making the 47 million pairs of Canadian shoes that come on the market each year.

75 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 5, 1889 —

Among other weighty questions discussed in some quarters is the following: "Ought a young preacher to smoke or chew tobacco ?"

Status Quo — The Mess We're In

There was an old boy whose name was Mike
Who imagined Canadians
all alike;
If Hitler, himself, Autobahned to Der Tag —
Why not, me too, with a Maple Leaf flag ?

All this, while grandiose budgets
totter,
And Little John, in vain he sputters
At $25.00 an hour too —
Payable, cash, by me and you !

Not to mention, unthinkable
bankruptcies
Plaguing the honest guy into nuthouses !
Small wonder Lesage winks
at Anglo for Franco;
Mieux "Fleurs des Lits" underwriting the banko !

The Trilliums tho', they grow and grow;
Clashing but little with Parliament's glow.
Niagara, it seems, has power too,
And good, free roads, for Canuck or Jew.

Je ne parle pas Français, oh can't you see
I'm a citizen from Anglo-Scottish
B.C. ?
If secession's serious, we'd prefer
Seattle
To Wolfe and Montcalm repeating the battle !

And Hudson could bay after
Louis Rielle
While all of Acadia went to hell !
Terra Nova, our new-found land
Could fish with Iceland to beat the band !

Our prairie farmers, not to be beat,
Could subsidize a new brand of wheat,
Instant, like pudding-mix or jell-o.
Wall Street's dream ! — How the Bulls would bellow !

The Army, Air Force and Navy, undone,
Could appoint a Russian, just for fun,
To handle Bomarc. — What consternation !
In Martin Luther King's adopted nation !

Really, you know, old Mike and John —
This simply cannot go on and on !
'Stead of arguing fantastic, about summer recess,
Why not earn your pay, and clean up the mess !

Dominion Day, 1964

Brownsburg — The Sunday School here is now in a very prosperous condition, with Mr. R. Morrison as superintendent.

Brownsburg — The lakes and streams of the north have been popular with enthusiasts of the piscatorial pastime.

Boissevain, Man. — Messrs. Jos. Watchorn, of Morin, and Alexander Chambers, of Shrewsbury, are now here preparatory to buying land. Mr. McRuer of Lachute, Geo. and Matthew Rogers of Lakefield, also joined the Argenteuil newcomers lately, and other Lakefielders are expected.

Principal J. W. McOuat, B.A., notes that the school grant to Lachute has been somewhat reduced. The whole sum distributed amongst Academies of the province is $5,475, and there are 18 such schools.

50 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 3, 1914 —

Dr. Bruneau, who recently opened an office in the Painter house, has accepted an invitation to a vacant practice in Swift Current, Sask.

A Magistrate's Court case was heard before G. F. Calder, J.P., in which four languages were used. THIS WEEK & NEXT

At The Cow Palace

By RAY ARGYLE

The Republican Party convention at San Francisco next week will be one of the most bitter in its history. It threatens to repeat the disaster of 1912 when a split between conservative and progressive wings saw the GOP turn its back on the reform movement of Teddy Roosevelt.

Ray Argyle

The same disaster now threatens to overtake the Republican party, but with vastly greater consequences. The consequences will be the greater because American political behavior now has a world-wide effect. This is why the prominence of Barry Goldwater in the Republican presidential sweepstakes has caused such consternation abroad and here in Canada.

The Senator's vote against the civil rights act makes a burlesque of his claim to represent the mainstream of Republican thinking. That the party of Lincoln might be led 100 years later by a man willing to bid for the White House on the votes of southern white racists is repugnant to millions of friends of America.

As Republican delegates stream to the Cow Palace in San Francisco one question dominates the conversation of friends and foes of the Arizona senator: "Can Goldwater be stopped?"

The answer can only be a tentative maybe. It is just possible that Sen. Goldwater might, after all, snatch defeat from the jaws of victory.

The late-starting campaign of Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton has been well publicized and well financed, but it has not had much time to do its work.

In the wake of Sen. Goldwater's narrow California primary victory, Gov. Scranton has been faced not only with winning over enough of the senator's delegates to stop Goldwater from hitting the magic 655 figure needed for nomination on the first ballot, but to stop Goldwater from replacing any losses with new converts among the remaining nearly 600 delegates.

It has been a tremendous task that Gov. Scranton has set for himself. To pull it off would be to achieve one of the greatest political coups of the century. But even a failure will be to Scranton's credit—it will have demonstrated that there is still some leadership in the Republican party. And it will have brought his name and face to millions of Americans with time remaining to build up support for an all-out drive on the White House in 1968.

The fact that the Republican party today finds itself in the dilemma of putting up a virtual know-nothing like Goldwater for the world's toughest job can be traced back to the abdication of responsibility by the party's nominal leaders.

Ex-President Eisenhower has played the sorriest role in this dreadful little drama. Dick Nixon showed himself for nothing more than the chameleon-like opportunist he has always been. Only Nelson Rockefeller showed any political principle, and he washed this out by muddying his own personal life.

The fate of the Republican party on the eve of San Francisco rests not in the hands of skilled and enlightened men of vision whom one might expect to find at the helm of a great political party in the United States of 1964. It rests in the hands of the minor functionaries who see in Sen. Goldwater a rebel to their liking. Mediocrity has taken over once again in the Republican party and it will take a miracle to dislodge it.

SUGAR AND SPICE

That Was Some Holiday

I feel sorry for my kids, because the Twelfth of July, for them, is merely the day their mother says, "Oh, dear, this is your aunt's birthday and I forgot to send a card."

Bill Smiley

A whole generation of Canadians has arisen to whom the mighty Twelfth is just another day to go water - skiing, or enjoy a barbecue.

The poor youngsters. They don't know what they've missed. What a grand and glorious day the Twelfth was, when I was a boy, compared to the feeble, orderly skeleton it is today!

About the middle of June, the lodge rooms of the Orangemen and the Young Britons began to throb and thump and shrill and squeal as the fife and drum units tuned up for the big day.

When the Twelfth arrived, it was always the absolutely hottest, brightest day of the whole summer.

Beginning about 10 a.m., the first isolated lodges would begin to arrive in town, and shabby and ashamed was the lodge that could not produce at least one drum and one fife.

They were hard, lean, bronzed men, those from the farming and hill communities around the town. There was a lurking hint of violence behind the great good humor of their uproarious greetings.

When the hotels opened, the streets were suddenly denuded of the hundreds of white - shirted, blue-trousered, straw - hatted men, and everywhere perspiring women produced lunches and sat in the shade with their broods, looking anxious.

About 1:30, the grand parade would get under way, after a great deal of rearing and backing and shouting among the various mounted lodge masters, on their old white plow-horses, decked out like chargers.

And the whole town would be out to see them, Protestants and R.C.'s and Jews and Holy Rollers alike. Down the blazing street they'd come, a mile and a half of solid Orangemen, sweating out the beer in the strange, dignified "walk," to the wild squeal of the fifes and the rattle and blam and thud of the drums.

And there'd be a cheer as one elated Irishman broke ranks and did a rumpety step-dance and slipped back into his place in line. And a round of clapping for a ladies' lodge, trim and dainty in their white dresses and fancy hats.

Then to the park for the speeches. Ah, what grand, unenlightened, intolerant speeches we had in those days, when everyone was bigoted and prejudiced and didn't even know it.

It was there that I first learned of the perfidy of the "roamin' catholics," whoever they were, and the danger of the pope, whatever that was, and the bravery and goodness of King Billy, whoever he was, and it was there that I first learned that somebody had got licked at the Battle of the Boyne, wherever that was.

There is something as pitiful and gallant and stirring and faded about the Twelfth, nowadays, as there is about Anzac Day or Armistice Day.

Fellow-Ulstermen! Let's stop hating James II (or is it William of Orange?). I'll love my wife and anybody else's wife who shows up on the Twelfth? How about you?

For Vacation Fun

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"You can do anything with children if you play with them" is an old German proverb. The modern parent might add that their children often seem to prefer the company of chums their own age to that of any grown companion. But adults can make summer much more satisfying if they make definite plans for vacation fun.

The school age child may have the opportunity to go away to a camp. If he is at home he will likely have many schemes of his own.

The new books by Canadians would be excellent family book investments. The first is for reading pleasure, "That Summer with Lexy" (Welch) by Audrey McKim, a vivid, sympathetic and often humorous account of an intermediate girl's projects when she is at home on vacation. The second is, "Come to My Party" (Home Evangel) by Margaret Epp which is full of original suggestions for programs, games and refreshments. A tiny, delightfully illustrated small child's book is "A Pocketful of Proverbs" (Longman's) by Joan Walsh Anglund.

Indoors is a poor place for children to "let off steam" even if there is a "rumpus room" or a play area of their own. If because of very bad weather or ill-health, a younger child must play inside, mother must provide material for play and some supervision to prevent "a mad house."

Have a cupboard with emergency indoor play supplies such as paper of all kinds — and newspaper and cardboard boxes of various sizes, wrapping, tissue, blunt scissors, paste, plasticene, large crayons, poster paints, blackboard and colored chalk and carpentry tools a child can handle. An old alarm clock which can be taken apart by a mechanically inclined boy will keep him busy a long time.

The out-of-doors is an excellent setting for children's play. This physical exercise in the fresh air and sunshine gives children the chance to use some of their surplus vitality. They are quite uninhibited as they call out and laugh, without incurring the wrath of parents or other adults.

Every pre-school boy or girl should have outdoor play in a back yard. Even a small space at home is a great boon to young children and parents alike, especially if there is a sand pile in one corner, a teeter-totter, a swing, a slide and climbing apparatus. A play house, built out of wooden boxes or a wooden frame covered with awnings and an inexpensive pup tent are good investments. Have a broom, simple washing equipment, furniture, doll dishes and a doll carriage, if possible.

Game equipment such as toy animals, trucks, trains and aeroplanes of miniature size never lose their popularity. A skipping rope, rubber horse shoes, balls, are all inexpensive.

If there is a safe cement runway a little child can pull a wagon, push a wheelbarrow or ride his tricycle and another child can roller skate or play hop scotch. This is a great asset.

Plastic wading pools are very popular and can be a wonderful source of fun. A small child must be supervised when playing in water, even if it is just running through the spray from a hose. He might slip and hurt himself or get too chilled. Parents must be as careful as those who are responsible for water fun in community pools or public beaches.

It is not good for a child to feel that he is a nuisance when he is playing. If homes have insufficient play area, parents should co-operate with other parents and public-minded citizens to see to it that there is provision for outdoor recreation. A tiny tot is content at home but the older youngster wants to go farther afield with his friends.

The playground workers and those who conduct day camps deserve cordial support from mothers and fathers. A balance of community and family projects can keep a school age child busy and happy during the summer weeks when he is at home.

Codfish in cool, jellied ring, centred with Piquante Dressing and framed in a ruffle of crisp lettuce, is a picture of good eating.

— Department of Fisheries of Canada

Old friend in new guise

Cod is one of the most abundant of Canada's fish, and frozen cod fillets, attractively packaged and moderately priced, are to be found in most grocery stores across the country. This fish, as you may have discovered, is a very adaptable one. It can be cooked by any method and while it is usually served hot, it is also delicious served cold.

From the Consumer Branch of the Department of Fisheries of Canada comes a recipe for an attractive, jellied salad containing cooked, flaked cod. This cooling dish strikes a happy combination of tart and sweet flavors. Grated carrot gives it a sunny color, green pepper lends crunch, and the cod supplies a substantial, satisfying quality. Served with zesty Piquante Dressing, it makes a perfect main dish for lunch or supper on the porch.

Jellied Cod Ring

2 Cups (1 pound) cooked flaked cod fillets, 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup cold water, ½ cup vinegar, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 cup grated carrot, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, salad greens, piquante dressing.

Mix unflavored gelatin, sugar, and salt. Add boiling water and stir to dissolve gelatin. Add cold water, vinegar, and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in carrot, green pepper, and fish. Pour into a 1-quart ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving platter and garnish with greens. Serve with Paquante Dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Piquante Dressing

½ Cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons French dressing, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Chill.

Vacation-spoiler

Poison ivy is a common menace that can spoil vacations, picnics or hikes. The attractive low-growing plant, with its rich green foliage of three leaflets on a stem, exudes an oily secretion that causes burning, itchy blisters. It is possible to offset the results of contact by washing the skin with strong household soap or detergent as quickly as possible. If you have walked through weeds or into a ditch in which were plants you could not identify, wash your skin anyway, within minutes if possible. If itching spots or blisters appear, dab calamine lotion on the spots; if the rash is severe, see a doctor.

Couple married at Harrington

Purcell - Thomas

The marriage of Miss Karen Thomas and Mr. Edward Purcell took place in "Our Lady of Victory" Church at Harrington, on Saturday, June 27. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Thomas, of Harrington, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Purcell, of Kilmar. The Rev. Father Gougeon officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza trimmed with seed pearls. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a small crown, and she wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. Her bouquet was of red roses.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Larry Moore, as matron of honor, also by Mrs. Walter Dewar, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Clarence Ellis, sister of the groom, as attendants; they wore identical street-length dresses of blue organza with matching headpieces trimmed with short veils, and they carried bouquets of white mums and pink carnations.

The flower girl was Marie Milway, niece of the bride; she also wore a short dress of blue organza with white accessories, and carried a basket of white mums and pink carnations.

Mr. David Purcell, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Aldege Thomas and Mr. Clarence Ellis.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece suit of pink knit with matching hat and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of pale blue organza over flowered taffeta, with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

After the wedding a luncheon was served in the Harrington Intermediate School, followed by a reception in the evening, which was attended by a large group of relatives and friends.

Out-of-town guests in attendance included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Larocque, Mr. and Mrs. L. Deslauriers, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lachance, Mr. and Mrs. B. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lavoie, all of Ansonville, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. B. Joseph, of South Porcupine, Ont.; Mrs. L. Thomas, from California; Mrs. Z. Thomas, of Bryson, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith, of Brampton, Ont.; Mrs. Edgar Smith, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. W. Purcell, Mr. M. Purcell and Mr. J. Gorrill, of Monetville, Ont.; Mrs. J. Chamberlain, of Estaire, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. P. Gorrill and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. Moore, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McKenna and Mr. and Mrs. J. Mason, of Montreal.

Leaving on their motor trip to Monetville and Timmins, Ont., the bride wore a two-piece suit of aqua silk with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The couple will reside in Grenville.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY,
Macdonald College

The effects of the drought look rather serious. All areas I have visited in Quebec have hay crops less than half normal.

Any fields of standing hay have been snapped up at high prices. I heard of one today selling for $38 an acre. Our neighbors south of the border are short too, and are combing the country with tractor-trailers.

Even at this late date, measures can be taken to relieve the hay shortage. The oats may be cut green for hay or silage. In fact, this is the way to make the most of the oat crop. Next winter, it will be easier to buy grain than hay.

Fertilizing good hay fields after the first cut will produce greater aftermath growth. You can't lose, even if moisture is still short by fall — those fields will be ready to go early next spring.

Anything you can do to stretch the pasture season into late fall will take the pressure off the hay mow. In southern areas, it is still not too late, if there is a field ready, to plant Sudan grass or Sudax. These are hot weather crops, and are ready for grazing eight weeks after planting. Drill shallow at 25 lbs. per acre. Fertilize with about 300 lbs. 10-10-10.

Oats can be planted any time for excellent supplementary pasture. If fall rye is mixed with them, they can be sown the last half of August for good late fall and early spring grazing.

Rape is a crop worth considering. It will keep the young cattle out of the barn until the snow flies. While not generally recommended for milking cows, we have fed it on the home farm without trouble. We avoided off-flavors in the milk by pasturing for twenty minutes only, right after milking.

Plant rapeseed in 21 inch or 28 inch rows, 1½ lbs. per acre, in early July. Fertilize well to avoid stunted plants. Garton's Early Giant is a good variety.

Our convention in Fredericton concluded with a tour up the St. John River Valley. For me, this was the highlight. It took us into the community of New Denmark, in the heart of New Brunswick's potato growing area.

Ninety years ago, a colony of Danish people left Europe with all their possessions. By river boat, they went 150 miles up the St. John River to found their new settlement in the bush of New Brunswick.

Out of the hardship of those early years has arisen a tidy, prosperous, community of happy people. Each year, they remember the early pioneers and their good fortune with a great celebration.

It was a beautiful sight to stand on the height of land looking across miles and miles of red, rolling potato fields to the endless spruce forests out beyond.

We visited the farm of Hans Larsen. I don't know how many acres he had altogether, but some of those rolling, stony fields had been continuously in potatoes for seventeen years. And the product he showed us in storage left no doubt about quality.

There was little evidence of serious erosion, a surprising fact considering the steep hills and continuous cultivation. In addition, the rows ran up and down the slopes in defiance of accepted principles of soil conservation. Credit for this phenomenon is locally given to the abundant small stones, which literally seem to hold the soil down!

We saw through the factory in Grand Falls, where the surplus and cull potatoes are converted to starch. The product is sold mainly for paper sizing.

Typical of the optimism of the community was the comment of the garageman who changed a tire for us. Commenting on local economic conditions, he did not say there was "unemployment", but "just a slight surplus of manpower".

On July 1st, Galen Driver and I attended the Farmers' Picnic at Ormstown. Complete with bands, baseball, races and speeches, this event has been held in the Chateauguay Valley for over 80 years. It is good to hold on to tradition, to provide an element of stability in this fast changing society.

Injunction hearing to be resumed Thursday

Hearing on the injunction case against Lachute Town was opened last Thursday in Superior Court at St. Jerome, before Justice René Duranleau; the hearing was adjourned and will be resumed tomorrow, Thursday.

The case of Norman R. Romer, J. E. Bourbonniere and Sir John Lake Estates Ltd. versus Lachute Municipality, asks for an interim injunction on the annexation of part of St. Jerusalem Parish, which was sanctioned by order-in-council of the Lieutenant Governor.

The only witness heard last Thursday was Douglas Bradford, secretary-treasurer of St. Jerusalem, who testified that the parish council had never approved the Annexation by-law or its subsequent amendments; the matter was put before the taxpayers at a public meeting. (It is recalled this meeting was in September 1963 and the taxpayers pronounced themselves in favor of annexation by a majority vote of 71.)

According to the plaintiffs' attorneys, this meeting of the taxpayers did not officially commit the parish council; and the appellants blame the Municipality of Lachute Town for not announcing a requirement for 50 percent of the taxpayers and 75 per cent of valuation — thus contravening certain articles of the Cities and Towns Act.

Argument between Judge Duranleau and the attorneys here centred around legal technicalities, and there was reference to jurisprudence established in previous cases of this kind.

To the appellants' objection to an industrial development prejudicing their properties in Lake Sir John area, J. C. Paquin, counsel for the Town, argued that there is a zoning by-law to safeguard against this.

Conclusion of the hearing was held over until Thursday of this week.

Accident verdicts in three traffic deaths

Accidental death was the verdict given in the case of Eugene Leroux and his daughter, Gabrielle, of Hawkesbury, who were killed in a car accident June 26. A jury under Dr. J. C. MacKimmie, district coroner, heard the evidence at an inquest last Thursday evening at the civic hall in Lachute.

The dual fatality occurred near the Bertrand Hall just west of St. Philippe when Mr. Leroux, his wife, daughter, and her boyfriend, were returning home from Repentigny.

Jean-Louis Sauriol, 22, of Chomedey, and Jean Lampron, 27, of Montreal, whose respective cars were ahead of the victim's automobile, testified that Leroux was attempting to pass them on the highway when he lost control and crashed into the ditch. Both Mr. Leroux and his daughter were killed on the spot.

Mrs. Leroux and Jean-Claude Trottier, 21, of Hawkesbury, who occupied the car with the two victims, could remember no details of the accident. Mrs. Leroux, in the front seat with her husband, affirmed that he was a careful driver and had never before had an accident. Trottier, in the rear seat, was leaning his head backward, and had seen nothing; he was hurled against the top of the car and lost consciousness.

The jury, with Theo Gagné as spokesman, gave their verdict without retiring for deliberation.

A highway fatality on the riverfront road June 27 which claimed the life of a 37-year-old Montrealer, Robert Nicholson, was the result of an accident — according to the verdict of a jury empanelled by Dr. J. C. MacKimmie. However, on suggestion of the coroner, the jurors added a rider recommending that the provincial authorities enact a clause to prohibit three people from riding in a two-seater sports automobile.

The car in which the victim was a passenger was owned by Miss Heather Gosham of Montreal West, but was loaned to Edward Jackson, 25, also of Montreal. Nicholson was on a "jumper seat" behind the two front bucket seats. Seated sideways in this small space, the upper part of his body was actually outside the topless car.

The accident occurred on Route 29 between Grece's Point and Carillon. Paul Bertrand, 41, a boat captain at Grece's Point, had heard the crash and was the first on the scene. He saw the car upside down and heard cries from beneath. He succeeded in raising the car to release the driver, Jackson, whose left foot was caught in the pedals. The witness also saw Nicholson dead on the road pavement, and the other injured occupant, Charles F. Meetz, was groaning not far from the spot.

Carol Labonté, provincial police officer, who arrived from Lachute to investigate, testified as to measurements of tracks and road width, also stating he had found beer bottles and some empty bottles.

Edward Jackson, according to his testimony, was driving at 50 miles an hour and lost control of the sports car when another automobile passed him on a curve.

A nurse and owner of the car, Heather Gosham — also Francis Gregory, of Beloeil, a friend of the trio who was driving his own car, and Charles Meetz who was injured in the accident — were other witnesses heard.

Misappropriation of corporation funds at Grenv'l

The secretary-treasurer of the Grenville Catholic school commission and municipal council, Charles Boucher, will appear before magistrate's court at St. Jerome on Thursday facing a charge of fraud to the amount of $22,863. The trial follows his arraignment last week, when he was allowed bail of $500.

The charge arose after an audit by the accounting firm of Patenaude & Prefontaine, Hawkesbury. Mr. Boucher has since been replaced by Luc Poulin, and the case placed in the hands of the town's legal counsel, Jean-Claude Paquin, of Lachute. The Department of Municipal Affairs was informed there was $14,255 missing in the school funds and $8,608 in the municipal treasury.

Records set in Museum visitors

There is an uptrend this season in the number of visitors to the Carillon Museum, according to figures noted by the curator, Mr. Alvin Heatlie. On the first and second Sundays of July, there was the largest influx on these days ever recorded in the Museum register.

The interior of the newly renovated Museum is cool and inviting these hot days, and visitors have been noted from Ohio, Pennsylvania, British Columbia and other distant points. Several have remarked that the County of Argenteuil is fortunate to have a historical centre of this calibre.

Link with early navigation from Grenv'l-Ottawa

Ottawa (C) — The wreck of "The Ivy," a Montreal-built cargo vessel which sank in the Ottawa River 74 years ago when its boilers exploded, was discovered by skin divers last week-end.

A team of eight divers from the Underwater Society of Ottawa located the wreck of the 76-ton, 100-foot wooden-hulled ship in 35 feet of water close to the Interprovincial Bridge linking the capital and Hull.

The divers began salvage work on the ship as a Centennial project aimed at the possible establishment of a museum on Ottawa River navigation.

The ship was built in Montreal in 1874 and was used to carry freight between Grenville, Que., and Ottawa. It sank September 25, 1890.

Break-in, robbery

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Porter at St. Andrews was entered this week during the owners' brief absence, and a number of articles were stolen. Provincial police are investigating.

New manager, Gatineau Co'y

Raymond Carignan, in the employ of Gatineau Power since 1947, has been appointed district manager here, succeeding J. Rod Carreau. Mr. Carignan served here as assistant manager from 1949 to 1957, then being promoted as manager for Papineauville district. He has been serving in that capacity until his recent appointment here.

Permanent bureau for issuance of new driver permits

To meet increasing needs of license applicants in the district, the Quebec Department of Transport and Communications has established a permanent office for issuance of driving permits, at 2074 Blvd. Labelle, Lafontaine, St. Jerome, which is open daily, Monday to Friday inclusive, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

All applicants for new driving permits must produce either a birth certificate or a passport. These are the only documents acceptable for the purpose.

Three classifications of permit are issued by the Motor Vehicles Bureau: (1) Temporary or Learner's Permit, (2) Driver's Permit, and (3) Chauffeur's Permit.

In regard to the Learner's Permit, the law states: "It is forbidden to drive a motor vehicle on the highway unless in possession of a driver's permit, a chauffeur's permit, or a temporary (learner's) permit issued by the bureau. . . Minors under age 21, in order to obtain a temporary permit, must produce proof of insurance, signature of father (or parent or guardian if father is deceased) and birth certificate." (Proof of insurance must be supplied on Form V-219 procurable from the license bureau or any insurance agent. Signature of father must be furnished on Form V1 A-EX).

Applicants for new driver's licenses should appear before the bureau with any acceptable make or model of car, to undergo their tests. In the case of a chauffeur's permit, however, the car must be a standard-shift model of at least six cylinders.

It is useless to apply at the bureau unless the above requirements are fulfilled. . . A qualified staff is on duty, and Fernand Cyr, officer in charge, gives the telephone number (GE 8-6507). The bureau is in the Provincial Police building, at the above-stated address.

Army Cadets and Militia on camp training courses

On Thursday, July 9, eight members of the Lachute Army Cadets left Lachute for seven weeks' camp at Farnham, Que.

During the seven weeks these young men will be under canvas at Farnham, and in addition to the military subjects in their respective courses, will all enjoy recreational facilities of swimming, softball, and every evening, films either in French or English.

Certain members of the 131st Field Battery RCA (M) have, or will be, also taking training during the summer. Maj. W. E. Butterfield joined 1 RCHA at Camp Gagetown for one week of field manoeuvres, Capt. R. W. Haydon will be attending Camp Bouchard at Ste. Therese for two weeks for his final qualifications for field rank. Sgts. L. Hooker, H. Ward, J. Carriere, F. Barron and D. St. Jacques will be going to Longueuil for one week, for the Part 2 course for completion of Senior NCO qualifications.

All this summer activity will mean that both the Cadets and Militia will have stronger teams of instructors, capable of passing on their knowledge to other members of their units.

Elections in several County municipalities

Wentworth Township

Nominations for three seats in the Municipality of Wentworth were held on Wednesday of last week, Nelson Morrison being re-elected by acclamation, and R. O. "Dick" MacLean being elected by acclamation to replace Frank Megan, the latter a Montreal resident of Lake Louisa.

One contest was held in the Monday election, Douglas Boyd (contractor) being defeated by William Haldimand (retired) by a majority of 16 votes. Both contestants are year-round residents of the municipality and former councillors. Mr. Haldimand polled 96 votes compared to 80 for Mr. Boyd; there were two spoiled ballots.

The Council now comprises Mayor Clarence Neil, Councillors Gilbert Boyd, Paul MacLaren, Bill Hooper, Nelson Morrison, Dick MacLean and W. W. Haldimand.

Linton W. Armstrong is secretary of the municipality.

Township of Gore

In Gore Township, Herbert Kyle and Haddon McDonald were re-elected by acclamation. In a contest for Seat No. 5, Percy Rodgers won a majority vote against George Wm. Cunningham, 71-22.

Mrs. Leonard Legg is secretary for this municipality.

Morin Heights

In the Municipality of Morin Heights the secretary, William Stock, reports only one contest.

Raymond Meilleur was given an acclamation for Seat 5.

In a three-way contest for Seat 3, Gordon Barclay (91 votes) was the winner, against Lucien Jarry (76) and Raymond Paul Leclerc (68).

Mille Isles

Seat No. 6 — Gilbert Ryan 127, Ian MacBeth 29.

Duncan Dawson is secretary-treasurer of the municipality.

Wentworth North

At Wentworth North, where there was a "general election" last Monday, all municipal councillors were re-elected with one exception, being a newcomer to the municipal ranks. According to decree by the Department of Municipal Affairs, the mandate of office is three years in this municipality, a change which created the necessity of an all-round election. Following are the results:

Mayoralty — Sylvio Deslauriers 189 (re-elected), Georges Lebeau 149.

Seat No. 1 — Gaston Gagné 180 (re-elected), Fernand Courte 146.

Seat No. 3 — Georges-E. Rochon 166 (re-elected), Walter Ferguson 158.

Seat No. 4 — Fernand Paradis 171 (re-elected), Armand Millette 154.

Seat No. 5 — Télesphore Paradis 165, William Reid 159.

Seat No. 6 — Anthony Strecko 167 (re-elected), Jack Steele 160.

H.-P. Savaria, secretary-treasurer, was clerk of the election.

At Renaissance Club golf tourney

At the Montreal Renaissance Club annual golf tournament, a successful event held recently at Lachute Golf and Country Club, W. M. Cottingham, former Minister of Mines, is seen above with Daniel Johnson, leader of the U.N. Opposition, presenting the women's award to Laurette Martel for a low score of 98. This is the Paul Sauvé Trophy, one of ten trophies presented at the tournament, in which 400 persons took part.

Man drowned Sunday in Ottawa River, hurled from boat while towing skier

A search in the Ottawa River had failed (up until Tuesday p.m.) to recover the body of Claude Caseault, 33, of St. Jerome, who was drowned last Sunday afternoon when the motorboat which he was driving flipped after having struck a submerged object.

According to Q.P.P. officer Gérard Jeanrie, who made the investigation, the victim was driving a boat owned by his father-in-law, Romeo Paquette, of St. Antoine. The latter has a cottage on the river near the accident, which occurred a short distance upstream from the village of St. Andrews East. He was accompanied by Dorius Ladouceur, of Ste. Scholastique, and the boat was pulling Miss Lise Guenette on water skis. The victim was believed to have been knocked from the boat when the craft flipped over backwards. Mr. Ladouceur was trapped underneath, but managed to escape and hold onto the boat until he and Miss Guenette were rescued by the occupant of another boat nearby.

The incident occurred about 5 p.m., and according to the police, there were no lifejackets in the boat, although the skier was equipped with a ski-belt.

The victim is survived by his wife and two children. Date of the inquest will be set following the recovery of the body.

(Comments on the Local Scene)

The Gatineau Power Company had a well-equipped booth at the recent Lachute Fair, and conducted a lucky drawing for visitors at this spot, with a Cascade 40-gallon water heater as the prize. The winner of this drawing was John Black, of Brownsburg.

"Golf and Club News" edition for July features a retrospect on Lachute Golf Club, and commends the initiative of its management in providing a regulation golf course floodlighted for play after sundown — only the third club to achieve this innovation in America, and, presumably, in the world. There is a portrait of Gilbert E. Ayers, sparkplug of this big venture — night photographs by Syd Drew — and a highly complimentary story on the golfing facilities of this community.

The summer passes quickly. Keep in mind the Carillon Museum, your County showplace of historic associations. In its shady grounds on the Ottawa river-shore, this is an ideal place for a close-to-home family outing — an interesting spot to show your visitors.

J. P. Dallaire, officer-in-charge of the Provincial Police, reports no automobile accidents over the past week-end, other than a few minor mishaps. One attempt to pass a counterfeit $20 bill was reported from the Derouin Self-Service Store, St. Philippe; this is presently being investigated by the RCMP.

Firemen were summoned to a fire of a minor nature around 7 p.m. Saturday, when an appeal for help was sent from Ayersville. On the arrival of the apparatus and men, they were confronted with a burning motor on a bench saw!

'Know Merchants' contest, six weeks in local papers

The Watchman and L'Argenteuil will feature a "Know Your Merchants" contest for eight weeks commencing August 12, with 48 prizes of $10 shopping value.

There will be a page of advertisers in each edition, in which there will be intentional errors (misspelling or transposition) in six merchants' names. The page will contain a coupon for readers to correct these errors and return to the publishers; those not received before the Thursday, one week after publication, will not be eligible.

Every week, six readers will be rewarded each with a $10 credit slip by a store mentioned — the drawing taking place on the premises of one of these advertisers. There is no limit to the number of replies one may send in.

This new form of contest will give a guarantee of readership to all merchants who participate, since the page will be carefully read by shoppers who stand to benefit.

Raymond Church, staffer at Giles Publishing, invites the participation of any businessmen whom he has so far been able to visit personally. All interested may communicate with him at — LO 2-2494.

Harrington — An electric storm which struck this area last Saturday evening destroyed the Roman Catholic Church here, inflicting a severe loss to the community. The structure was built in 1900.

Lodge is luncheon host to young busload from West

Granddaughter of old-time citizen among teen group

A bus load of high school students from Alaska, the State of Washington, British Columbia and Alberta, on their way to the United Nations, is due in Lachute on Thursday, July 16. They will be entertained to lunch by the local Odd Fellows, at Lachute Bar-B-Q restaurant, Bethany Road.

The young people are a contingent of the nearly 1,200 high school students taking part in the 15th annual "United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth" sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of America. While in New York the students have opportunity to observe the United Nations in action, have briefings on political questions and on the various specialized agencies of the UN, and visit the headquarters of member UN nations, where they interview staff members. They will study at close hand some of the issues facing the United Nations when the General Assembly is called into session this fall, such as which government of China should be recognized, plans for financing peace keeping machinery, the Apartheid problem, and various critical phases of Human Rights.

Time is given in New York for the young people to have various educational experiences and sightseeing. This year, a day at the New York World's Fair offers a fascinating sidelight.

The students taking part in the UN Pilgrimage for Youth are generally selected by competition from among 16 and 17-year-olds in high school, who vie with one another through examinations, interviews, and public speaking contests. The winning award

Canadian horses shipped to France

Three hundred and thirty horses sailed from Montreal recently aboard a freighter bound for Le Havre, France.

The animals acquired in Quebec and Eastern Ontario by an exporting firm were destined for a slaughter plant in Paris, France.

Accompanying the shipment was Dr. R. Toupin, Canada Department of Agriculture veterinarian here in Lachute.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

As fishermen we often wonder how it is that good waters are ished out. On looking over some of the weekly reports from C.I.P. nce opening their properties to fishermen, it certainly gives the ason why. I do not have the exact figures on people availing emselves of this fishing, but 4,000 a week would be a safe estimate. ow, assuming only 100 people will catch five fish per week — then y the season was late in starting, May 15 — and you have a total 500 fish per week; or, in this nine-week period, a grand total of 500 fish. Now let us assume only 50% of these fish were adult d capable of breeding; then, allowing for loss through different uses, say 100 hatch out of all the eggs laid per fish. . . It doesn't e any genius to figure that the fish resources of these areas are trouble.

We humans sure can put the hex on Nature and her doings. agine the time when even our coarse fish, as we know them today, limited. You may say this will never happen, but believe me, it happened in other areas. It certainly looks as though we are ded for all manner of troubles. Maybe the season will have to shortened, less fish allowed, and the laws tightened; there are ny things to be considered, but something had better be done n. I believe this is one good way of convincing us that WE NEED IVATE ORGANIZATIONS in our province. True, some of the bs are worthless in terms of conservation, but with more good bs than the bad ones, it is surely to our advantage to have some them around. I do believe though, we have far too many in this vince; and as far as I am concerned, the provincial authority uld be running these, not the individual. But of course, there disadvantages to this idea; by the "friendship" route, club waters d be depleted in a much shorter period. Right now, with the protection on our wildlife resources — fish, deer, moose, etc. his could soon be a province of nothing-at-all.

The younger set are starting to show the way to some of us -Seens". Take this case: Suzy Stephens was out fishing in one our northern lakes this past week, with the old duffer. She ted, and landed, a grey 20 inches long; it was played so well it was possible to lift the fish into the boat without a net. This self is good going, but she took this fish on a fly rod, with a ing fly and about 60 feet of line out. Knowing just how big is (not much bigger than the fish), this was no small achieve-t. And to make matters worse, the "experienced" fisherman mpanying her in the boat, got a big fat zero. Could be the imer needs some lessons from the young lady.

Fishing has been generally poor this past week. In only a couple ases I heard of good catches — not in this area either, much er north. The water has warmed up very rapidly, so this is of the reasons. Fish are not anxious to strike in this kind of r, it has not enough oxygen for them to get excited about; so deep trolling is now in order. A few will be taken up near urface in the evenings, especially on the fly, but it will mean ing over patiently to get anything at all.

The bass are hitting well at times, but even these have slowed reatly. Lake Sir John is fair; Lake Louisa produces the odd of fair size. From what I have been told, Lake Macdonald is t the best. Even the North River is poor, not even a small this past week, which means fishing is really horrible.

Numerous muskrats are in the district, also beaver. This animal certainly increased in the last couple of years. Dams can be almost everywhere you go, and some are real engineering jobs. only trouble is that a lot of good lands are being flooded, with ge to trees, and, in some cases too, good grazing grounds. e is a good point to all this though. The ducks will really have ll in some of these wet areas, far enough away from humans; should have good watering places for the rest of the summer. now the ducks may be more important than the trees.

The bear that has been frequenting the Lakefield road vicinity, been seen once again, feeding on the raspberries that are now e edible stage. They happen to be private berries, well, maybe rivate, but we always had first call on them. There will be pickings from this patch. The bear likely has youngsters with so she will be left severely alone — by me and by anyone else wants to stay healthy.

The moose have not been seen for some time, but I would guess will be sitting it out in some nice muddy swamp, to get rid of llies. But if you care to rise early enough they may be spotted, ure, in some nice peaceful lake early in the morning, getting d. But that's too early for me.

The camping sites for this area have not materialized, as yet, hey will come in time. In my opinion, the town itself is slow anything along this line. The money and services resulting good camping grounds close by, is impossible to estimate. ing a site capable of accommodating 500 camps — not only the es for the camp sites, for electricity, car service, food costs, ing, and so on. There is a never-ending list of services that d bring money into the town. Yet no one seems to be interested. 't mean to promote a fly-by-night camping enterprise, but one by the town, with all essential services provided by the corpor-. Don't you think this could be a revenue producer?

Our river is much cleaner this year than it has been in some But, this does not apply to the roads and ditches. Garbage be seen everywhere you care to look — including empty oil The good old sewer hounds, they never fail us.

I have not received one complaint on motor boats this past it looks as though we are starting to grow up a little. I d have expected loud protests just about now, with all the sters coming up for the summer. But for the time being re all on their best behaviour. Reading of incidents in other of the province, we seem to be very lucky. It would be nice ve it stay that way.

An oft-repeated story about Carillon: A number of the fishermen frequent this area have told me of getting strikes from some that lets them hang on for a while, then when it gets tired of ng, just takes off! Nothing they seem to do will hold it for length of time. None of them have even seen this fish so it's ne's guess as to what it might be. It invariably strikes at a ing lure, and the best bait seems to be the Red Devil, always e large size. Somehow or other, I don't think this one is going taken for some time. Then, it could be a world record; we'll to wait and see.

The Members' Guest Day tournament, held on Tuesday, July 7, got off to a very good start but unfortunately the weather turned stormy and many of the ladies were thoroughly and prematurely showered! The tournament was very efficiently organized by Mrs. Roger Regimbal and her committee of Mrs. Hal Joyce and Mrs. Norma Rogers. Mrs. Tom Johnston kindly assisted. The winners were as follows:

1st low gross — Miss P. Vautrin, Laval, 94 and —
2nd low gross — Mrs. R. Stephens, Lachute, 94 (tie)
3rd low gross — Mrs. J. Toole, Summerlea 96
1st low net — Mrs. S. Brown, Lachute, 72
2nd low net — Mrs. C. Lavoie, Laval, 73
3rd low net — Mrs. F. Stein, Lachute, 75
4th low net — Mrs. M. Lorenger, Rosemere, 77
5th low net — Mrs. M. Cayne, Lachute, 77 and —
6th low net — Miss E. Ayers, Lachute, 77 (tie).

Prizes were given to the above winners, as well as a prize for the "most honest golfer" going to Mrs. M. Knox of Whitlock! Ladies representing 20 different golf clubs took part in this event. Following the tournament, a delicious luncheon was most attractively served in the Tartan Room. Thanks are due to Miss Evelyne Ayers and the other ladies of the entertainment and decorating committee for helping to make this day, despite the weather, a very pleasant one.

Junior Members' Activities

Mrs. B. Fillingham, Junior Chairman, reports that her committee are taking a very active interest in all the Junior events. On Friday, July 3, the first of the weekly Junior tournaments took place, with a field of about 15 juniors. These weekly tournaments will take place at nine o'clock every Friday morning during July and August. The winner of the 18-hole group was Robert Landry, and for the 9-hole group, Jan MacKimmie.

It should be noted that free group golf lessons are offered to the Juniors every Monday morning at 9.30 by our kindly and ever-patient golf pro, Louis de Breyne, assisted by Alf Shand.

Congratulations from the entire club go to Billy MacKimmie for his spectacular hole-in-one on the 185-yard ninth hole of Course No. 1! Billy scored his ace on June 22, a truly memorable date for the annals of Lachute Juniors.

Jacques Bourgoing in senior Que.-Ontario tennis tourney

Quebec senior tennis players met Ontario in their annual inter-provincial matches last week-end.

The matches originated two years ago in Toronto, and Quebec and Ontario were tied one apiece in competition for the Dickensen-Harrison trophy. The matches consist of four singles and six doubles.

Representing Quebec in singles were Jan Nordstrom, Jean Chartrand, Willet Tibbitts and Claude Fung-A-Ling. Four doubles players were chosen among Dr. George Leclerc, Lance Damant, Sam Brumer, Stan Roberts, Paul Haynes, John Saunders, and Jacques Bourgoing of Lachute.

Singles

I. Norstrom (Q) defeated R. Tailby (O) — 8-4
J. Bourgoing (Q) defeated C. Coleman (O) — 8-6
J. Chartrand (Q) defeated D. Grant (O) — 8-3
J. Dickinson (O) defeated W. Tibbitts (Q) — 8-5.

Doubles

B. Cook, R. Tailby (O) defeated I. Norstrom, J. Chartrand — 8-6
J. Bonus, C. Coleman (O) defeated C. Fung-A-Ling, W. Tibbitts (Q) 8-5
B. Cook, J. Dickinson (O) defeated J. Saunders, S. Robert (Q) — 8-4
J. Bonus, D. Grant (O) defeated J. Bourgoing, G. Carter (Q) — 8-5.

As a final outcome, Ontario defeated Quebec 5 to 3.

Due to wet weather, the tournament was played indoors at the Toronto Cricket Club — which was somewhat to the disadvantage of the Quebec players, most of whom were unaccustomed to the smooth cement floor.

Val Morin pro wins Cedarbrook event with 69 —

Alf Shand, Lachute ranks close second in district pros

At a pro-member tournament at Cedarbrook Golf Club last Friday, Jack Bisseger of Val Morin topped the pro golfers with a 69 score over the 72-par course, and Alf Shand of Lachute ran a close second with a 71 count.

There was an imposing field of district professionals at this event at the Ste. Sophie course. Ray Periard, assistant pro at Pinegrove, was next with 72, a spot he shared with Norm Doyle, Jack Kay of Pinegrove and Adrien Bigras of Joliette.

Jules Huot of Laval, Henry Dubiel of Hillsdale, Henry Chatelaine of Green Valley, Bud McCunn of Kanawaki, Stan Kolar of Ottawa, Jim Arnold of Chantecler and Andre Gagnier of Cedarbrook all posted one over par 73s. Jim Swarbrick of Marlborough posted a 74.

Frank Sirianni and J. Backler fired a 143 total to take the team award while the CPGA Trophy for low net went to Phil Saulzman with a 69. Low gross honors among members was won by F. Wener with a 74.

Violence only fogs the issue

THE RECENT SENTENCING of six young men in Montreal to prison terms, closes a chapter in the story of political terrorism in Quebec.

Police say they have smashed the ALQ, the Quebec Liberation Army. This may well be true. But only a year ago they destroyed another terrorist group, the Quebec Liberation Front, after it killed one man and maimed another in bombing attacks on federal government installations in the province.

There's no assurance that still another group won't spring up, especially since the holdup money and stocks of weapons stolen, are still partly unrecovered.

But it's essential that people in other parts of Canada realize that the terrorists represent only the extremist fringe of Quebec's nationalists.

The great majority of the province's people are disgusted with such violence and it would be tragic if other Canadians were to allow the terrorism to obscure the fact that there are legitimate problems involved in Quebec's relations with the rest of Canada that can be solved only with sympathetic understanding.

Quebec's covered bridges

RECENT VISITORS from Southern Ontario, on a drive through Argenteuil County and northern parts, were intrigued by two covered bridges encountered on their route. When asked how many of these structures remained in Quebec, we guessed haphazardly they might be "counted on your fingertips". . .

By coincidence, a new booklet issued by the Quebec Department of Tourism, Fish and Game has since enlightened us on this subject, and it seems there are no fewer than 266 covered bridges still actually in use in this province. The average citizen knows only a few of these bridges, since they are invariably found on secondary and side-roads. The list of these curiosities was compiled with co-operation of the Department of Public Works, which is responsible for construction and maintenance of bridges.

"Tourists, especially those who come here from the United States, often look for such bridges, since they are rapidly disappearing under the double assault of time and modern highway requirements", says the Hon. Lionel Bertrand, minister of this department. "The Tourist Branch has published this list for the benefit of visitors, but no doubt it will also be of interest to Quebec residents, especially amateur photographers."

The shortest of Quebec's covered bridges is only 12 feet long; it spans the Du Berger River, at Orsainville, a suburb of Quebec City. The longest covered bridge still in existence is in the Beauce region, at Notre-Dame-de-la-Providence; it is 495 feet long and spans the Chaudière River.

Not only Quebec

A PROMINENT Quebecer feels that Ottawa's foreign trade policies are working against the best interests of his province. The result, he says, is that Quebec living standards are lower than those in Ontario and that the annual income in French Canada is well below that prevailing in several western provinces.

"The reason for this," Pierre Bourgault recently told the annual Geneva Park Conference, "is that the federal government in Ottawa does not serve our interests. It sells wheat to Russia to help the Western farmers, then buys Polish textiles in return, and in Quebec where we make 57% of Canada's textiles, our factories have to slow down".

The complaint which Mr. Bourgault has raised is by no means applicable to Quebec alone. In a great many other parts of the country a variety of manufacturing industries have been most adversely affected by imports which have flooded into the country in the wake of grain and resource products sales deals.

A bold program

THE REPORT of the royal commission on health services constitutes one of the boldest programs for action ever presented by such an investigation in this country.

The commission, headed by Supreme Court Justice Emmett Hall and including two doctors, a nurse, a dentist and an economist, studied Canada's health needs for three years and concluded that the most satisfactory and efficient method of filling these needs would be through a communal, tax-supported medical care program more extensive than Saskatchewan's.

Among radical sub-recommendations were suggestions that the provinces might help finance the program through lotteries, that all community water supplies should be fluoridated, that special measures should be instituted to combat alcoholism and drug addiction. The report said the program should be instituted quickly — a federal-provincial conference should be held within six months — with the provinces running their own programs and the federal government supplying half the funds.

The commission's report included the disarming statement that "state medicine" would not work in Canada, defining this as a system whereby medical practitioners receive salaries instead of fees for service. However, it left no doubt that government should be responsible for organizing and operating a medical care program.

Despite the disclaiming of state medicine, the critics — including organized medicine — were quick off the mark.

A common argument against the program includes a thesis that government-run medical care is socialism; socialism saps individual enterprise; therefore, government-run medical care is bad.

Without going into the validity of such logic, it nevertheless raises the question of whether a criterion of rugged individualism in a civilized community is the need to forego the benefits of communally produced scientific advances because of inability to pay.

Some points made by the commission are arguable — the report attempted with careful statistics to forestall predictable opposition based on the country's alleged inability to pay for the program — and they should be argued thoroughly.

But the commission revealed the thought behind its recommendations with the following observation: "The field of health services illustrates, perhaps better than any other, the paradox of our age, which is the enormous gap between our scientific knowledge and skills on the one hand and our organizational and financial arrangements to apply them to the needs of men on the other."

Viewpoints and perspectives

QUEBEC MAKES FRENCH CARS, IF. . . — Guarantees from Ottawa that they will be allowed to import parts duty-free or at low rates of duty for a considerable period, are being sought by the two French automobile manufacturers considering moving into Quebec, reports The Financial Post. Renault and Peugeot have made it quite clear they are not interested in simply a "Volvo-type deal" which extends concessions for only five years. This request poses problems for the federal government. If the auto parts export incentive program (the Drury plan) is to be fully effective, Ottawa can't start making side deals to lower the tariff wall for third parties. The wall has to remain high to provide a practical incentive. The French say they are going to have to rely on parts imports for a long time.

LIFE INSURANCE companies had $3,366 million invested in Quebec at the beginning of 1963, and liabilities to policy holders in Quebec of $2,271 million. . . The companies believe that this effectively disproves the contention heard occasionally that insurance companies withdraw savings from Quebec and invest them somewhere else.

THINK OF FUTURE. — The student nowadays is well advised to study the (labor) market in great detail before he embarks on a career. Far too many of our school dropouts are due to offer of a temporary and sometimes highly-paid job. Today a completed education is essential to a successful career.

Gives viewpoints in opposition to St. Jerusalem annexation measure

TO THE EDITOR
(Too late for last issue)

July 4, 1964

Editor, The Watchman

With reference to the action which is being taken on behalf of the 80-odd property-owners at Sir John's Lake, and numerous others in the Parish of St. Jerusalem who are opposed to the present boundaries of the area annexed by the Town of Lachute, I would like to make clear the following points:

(a) We have every sympathy with, and fully understand, the desire of the Town of Lachute to acquire additional land for "Industrial Expansion" (the sole reason given in its Annexation By-law).

(b) We understand and sympathize with the residents and business concerns in the urban section of St. Jerusalem adjacent to the Town of Lachute, who wish to have full town services, and willingly concede them their democratic right to have their wishes respected.

Had the Lachute Council confined itself to sufficient territory to achieve these two objectives, it would have had no serious opposition from anyone, and would have preserved the harmonious relationship which is most desirable between all the residents, both old and new, of this attractive district. However, to reach out seven miles up into the mountain and lake district, makes no sense either geographically or in any other way; and to use the majority vote of the more populous urban area to override the unanimous wishes of all the property-owners in this northern section, is unfair, undemocratic, and indeed, immoral.

As we do not wish, and have been advised that the Town of Lachute is not in a position to provide, such town services as paved streets and sidewalks, street lighting, sewers, watermains, police protection, etc., etc. — all we desire is the same democratic right to remain in peace in the Parish of St. Jerusalem, as we are glad to concede to all those in the urban section who wish to be annexed. We believe this is a matter which could have been, and still can be, settled by men of goodwill in a sensible manner fair to all, without the use of tactics designed to deprive people of their rights.

In closing, I would like to point out that over three-quarters of a million dollars has already been spent locally for labor and materials at Sir John's Lake, on food, gas, clothes, etc., which makes this the best "industry" which is ever likely to be established in this particular area, and it would be most unfortunate for everyone concerned, including the building suppliers, lumber dealers, electricians, plumbers, building contractors, storekeepers, and all of their employees, if this development is retarded and spoilt by the unreasonable actions of a few short-sighted and possibly malicious people.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Norman Romer

No Time For Recess

By RAY ARGYLE

Parliament has entered a tense and crucial period. It will either break the log-jam which has stalled enactment of a long list of legislation, or degenerate into hopeless disorder out of which can come only a new election.

The flag debate is but a symptom of Parliament's surliness. Members of the House of Commons have frittered away so much time on inconsequential argument it is little wonder the Prime Minister has had to lay down an ultimatum on business to be completed before a summer recess is taken.

Ray Argyle

After just over a year in office, this Parliament has probably less public prestige than any in Canada's history.

The pay hike to $18,000 which the members voted themselves and the incessant name-calling and political jockeying which has gone on, are the chief reasons for the public's low opinion of the present House.

As a consequence, the decline of Parliament is now one of the favorite themes of political observers in Ottawa.

Has parliament declined under the Pearson minority government? Is the House of Commons no longer the effective depository of public leadership in Canada? Are our present crop of MPs really less responsible and more partisanly opportunistic than those of early Parliaments? Has this Parliament failed Canada?

The answer to these questions, I would submit, is "No."

The situation appears worse than it actually is because of the Government's minority position. A minority government is a vulnerable government. The chief opposition party could naturally be expected to press every opportunity to embarrass and discredit the administration.

The safest course for a minority government might be to walk a careful tightrope on controversial issues to avoid tackling problems which generate heated and emotional debate. But this would not get the business of the country done and would be a worse indictment of Parliament than the political jockeying which has characterized the present House.

I believe the Government has performed creditably since it took office in the spring of 1962. The Prime Minister has sometimes blundered in his tactics, but his overall program has been constructive, progressive and courageous.

Opposition parties defend their behavior on the grounds that it is the Opposition's duty to oppose, to challenge and to scrutinize. So it is. But it is not the Opposition's duty to obstruct.

When does opposition turn to obstruction? I believe it does so when the Opposition adopts tactics designed not to fully debate the issues, but to prevent legislation from coming to a vote. This is the case at present in the flag debate. Mr. Diefenbaker's tactics appear to be aimed at indefinitely delaying the vote on the flag.

Is it too much to ask that Canadians expect all their MPs to debate the issues, to vote on them and then to abide by majority rule?

MISUNDERSTANDINGS

A lady who was greatly overweight went to a doctor for advice. He studied her case and then typed out a rigid diet for her. She read it to herself — Breakfast, one slice dry toast, no butter, One leaf of lettuce, half a grapefruit, no sugar, no milk, etc. The items for lunch and supper were equally frugal, but the lady's face just beamed with pleasure, much to the doctor's surprise.

"Why, Doctor," she exclaimed. "This is simply wonderful. There's not a single item on the list that I dislike. But tell me one thing. Do I eat these before meals or after?"

A teen-age girl telephoned to the director of a summer camp for girls, to ask what activities were available. The director said:

"If you give me your address I will be glad to mail you one of my brochures."

"Oh, don't go to that trouble," replied the applicant. "Mother says I'm too young to wear one!"

Be seein' ya!

Frontier W.I. Entertainers Sister Branch

Frontier Women's Institute entertained the members of Lakefield Branch in St. Mungo's Hall on Tuesday of last week. Mille Isles members were not able to be present, much to the regret of Frontier Branch.

After the business meeting John Heatlie led a "hootenany" beginning with a highly appropriate selection, "The More We Get Together". The evening's enjoyment was increased by selections given by a male quartet, N. Tomalty, G. Witham, M. McElroy and M. Witham, songs by the Witham brothers, piano solos by Mrs. Nelson Tomalty, and songs by Cama Bailey of Cushing and Janice Noble of Lachute. Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield, in her usual humorous manner, thanked the performers and all who had helped to make the evening enjoyable, and Mrs. A. Heatlie, president, added her personal thanks.

Members of Frontier Branch wish to thank all who gave of their time and talent, with a special thank-you to Mrs. Burke for printing the programs.

Late V. MacVicar 39 yrs. postmaster at Rivington, Que.

Rivington —

Friends and relatives were shocked when informed of the sudden passing of a well known Argenteuil resident, Victor MacVicar, at his home early Sunday evening, June 28.

Born and educated in this district, he was the son of the late Walter MacVicar and his wife, Rachael MacIntosh, and was in his 74th year. After spending a few or his earlier years in Elbow, Sask., where he occupied a ranch, he returned home and in 1923 married Laura Trineer, taking over his father's business as general storekeeper (which he still operated until his death) on the spot familiarly known as "MacVicar's Corner". On his premises for many years was the switchboard for the Arundel Development Co. He also served as postmaster of the Rivington post-office for 39 years.

Mr. MacVicar was an employee for a number of years of Canadian Refractories Limited at Kilmar, until his retirement in 1955.

The last rites of the L.O.L., L.O.B.A., and A.F.&A.M. were conducted in the chapel Tuesday evening, with many visiting lodges represented. Mr. MacVicar was a past-Master of Grenville Masonic Lodge 101, a past-Master of Harrington B.P.L. and L.O.L. 2839, also a 35-year member of Harrington L.O.B.A. 503.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, three sons and three daughters — Fraser, of Edmonton, Alta., Gordon, of Grenville, Que., LAC Alvin MacVicar, of Trenton, Ont.; Mrs. Robert Todd (Freda), of Brampton, Ont., Mrs. Robert Zimmerman (Stella), of Baden, Germany, Mrs. Andrew Formazie (Elsie), of Montreal; also his sister, Mrs. Sarah Brown, of Pickering, Ont., a brother, Donald, of Vananda, B.C., and 12 grandchildren.

He was predeceased by four sons — Harry (who died of wounds in Holland), John, Arthur and Thomas Edward; also a brother, Alex, who died in World War I.

The funeral service, held Wednesday, July 1, in the chapel of the Grenville Funeral Home, was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Voth, who spoke impressively on Mr. MacVicar's home life and his devotion to his wife and family. Requested hymns sung were "Unto the Hills" and "Blest Be the Tie that Binds".

The number of friends and mourners, the long funeral procession, and the profusion of flowers, gave some token of the respect in which the deceased was held.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. John Fox, Joseph Stewart, Scott MacLean, Fred McGill, Denis Swail, Clarence McMahon, Richard Young and Irving Pearson.

Among those attending from a distance were — Mrs. Sarah Brown, Mrs. Bruce Diamond (niece), Miss Su Anne Diamond, of Pickering, Ont.; Mr. Alex Brown (nephew), Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler, Mr. and Mrs. John McVicar, Mr. and Mrs. L. Urquhart, Mrs. Ruby Watts, all of Montreal; and Miss Lillian MacVicar, of Cornwall, Ont.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Watson and Maureen, of Montreal West, were guests of Mrs. Wm. Usher on Saturday. Sunday guests included Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Keatley, Beth and Evans, of Arnprior. Recent guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Watson and family, of Hawkesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Store, of Montreal, were guests of Miss Olive Hartley on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hartley returned to Montreal after spending a week at the cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hartley and daughter, Linda, of the Town of Mount Royal, are vacationing at their cottage; their guests last Wednesday included Mr. and Mrs. F. Orr, of Montreal.

Billy Beattie, of Monalea, is spending this week as the guest of his friend, Sydney Hartley.

Miss Doreen Hartley spent the week-end as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Holmes at Orford, Que.

Sgmn. Dick Pearson, of Kingston, Miss Margaret Pearson and Mrs. J. Pearson, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. E. Turner at Grece's Point.

Miss Agnes White, of Cumberland, visited Mrs. Usher on Sunday and called on other friends while here.

Mrs. J. D. Weir and Miss Olive Hartley, accompanied by Mrs. A. Taylor, spent several days last week travelling in the U.S.A., visiting Burlington, New York and Massena.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pinkerton included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Forth, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Higginson, of Burk's Falls.

APPRECIATION

I take this opportunity to thank relatives and friends for their visits, phone calls, cards and flowers during my stay in the Royal Victoria Hospital. Also, special thanks to the Rev. C. R. Lang for his much appreciated visit.

GOD CREATED MAN TO LIVE FOREVER

Most people do not know the real purpose of man. That is why many live empty lives. They see only war, trouble, sorrow, pain and death. Is there not a better purpose for man than that? Yes, there is. God created man to live forever. The first man, Adam, never would have died had he obeyed his Creator. Because he sinned death came upon all men. But that is not the end of the matter.

Christ Jesus, by his death, provided a release from sin and laid the foundation of a new world. That new world will come in during this generation — after God's war of Armageddon. The Bible tells us what that new world will be like and how God "will wipe out every tear from their eyes, and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be any more." — Revelation 21:4.

So pain, sorrow and death are not man's inescapable fate. God wants this earth filled with righteous people, all living in perfect peace, health and happiness. Accept God's purpose for man; learn about the new world and what the requirements are for gaining life in it. Learn why this is the grandest time to be living in all history. Learn more about the real purpose of man by reading the Watchtower Magazine. Twenty-four issues of this hope-inspiring journal (a one-year subscription) are yours for only $1. — Write Watch Tower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Community Worker Feted On Departure for Toronto

Mrs. T. Ponech, who is leaving shortly for Toronto, was entertained by a large group of friends, at a farewell tea last Friday at the Lachute Golf and Country Club.

During the tea Mrs. B. Fillingham, the hostess, presented Mrs. Ponech with an initialed gold cigarette case on behalf of her friends; Mrs. Wes Younkie made the presentation of a beautiful china floral centrepiece, on behalf of the Lachute Association for Retarded Children; also, a bracelet and earring set was presented by Mrs. C. Stephens on behalf of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. In her remarks, Mrs. Stephens mentioned that Mrs. Ponech had been the first president of this group. . . She has also been a teacher at the School for Retarded Children for three years.

Best wishes will go with Mrs. Ponech on her departure, from a wide community of associates among whom she will be greatly missed.

Bryerton family reunion for California relative

Relatives of Mr. George J. Bryerton, of Sacramento, Calif. (a former resident of Carillon, Que.), met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Brochocki in St. Eustache recently for a luncheon and farewell get-together, before he left for his home on June 28. Mrs. Brochocki is the former Miss Betty Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Poole.

Mr. Bryerton had been visiting his sister, Mrs. W. Villeneuve, and other relatives in Lachute, since June 16.

Many readers will remember George Bryerton as one of the 14 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryerton, of whom there are now only five surviving — Mrs. Villeneuve (Annie), George, Robert, Mrs. T. F. O'Reilly (Tessie), of Toronto, who unfortunately was unable to be present on account of ill health, and Mrs. E. G. Poole (Maidie), of St. Laurent, Que.

Vacation School closing exercises at Harrington

On Friday night of last week, some 275 people gathered at the closing exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School, which was held at the Harrington Intermediate School.

The theme of the week was, "Around the World with Christ". This vacation school was a joint effort involving workers and children from three denominations (Baptist, Pentecostal and United). A total of 161 children from Avoca, Calumet, Harrington, Kilmar, Pointe-au-Chene and Rivington gathered at the Harrington Intermediate School for morning classes.

The teachers at the four-department school were Mrs. John Rourke, Miss Ruby Leishman, the Rev. Arthur Voth and Mr. Glenn Jackson. The school administration was under capable leadership of Mrs. Chapman Meyer and Miss Patricia Bates. Also assisting in different capacities were Miss Irma Bates, Miss Gail Brown, Miss Brynn Carson, Mrs. Hilda Eastwood, Mrs. Ernie Fox, Mrs. Tom Fox, Mrs. Donald Hart, Miss Gloria Hotchkiss, Miss Marjory Jenkins, Miss Bertha Kelly, Miss Barbara MacCullouch, Miss Sadie MacCullouch, Miss Hattie MacLean, Miss Carol Madden, Mr. Herb Meyer, Miss Marjory Morrison, Mrs. Heinz Schnurr, Miss Ursula Schnurr, Mrs. Lloyd Thomas and Mrs. John White.

A "Diller Dollar" student-participation contest was won by Georgine Ward. Every student received a merit award through this contest.

The "steering committee" of the Vacation School wish to express sincere thanks to all the teachers, leaders, handicraft helpers, secretaries, drivers, friends and children who contributed so liberally of their time and talents to make "VBS '64" such a resounding success.

First concert held by CAMMAC at High School

Leading off the summer series of the Canadian Amateur Musicians Assn. concerts was Le Petit Ensemble Vocal composed of Claire Masella, soprano, Renée Beaumier, soprano, Marcelle Dumontet, mezzo-soprano, René Lacourse, tenor, and Claude Létourneau, baritone. This concert, as will be the case of other recitals during the next three Saturday evenings, was held at Lachute High School.

The first six renditions were by Heinrich Schuetz, the items being sung either in five or four part, and as solos. Director of the ensemble is George Little, of Montreal, who is also the founder of the Summer Music Centre held in the Laurentians near Arundel.

Claimed as the first performance of A Chaucer Suite by John Beckwith, of Toronto, an ultra modern composition was sung by a trio composed of Marcelle Dumontet, René Lacourse and Claude Létourneau.

After the interval, the ensemble sang seven numbers by Claude Monteverdi, the five-part singing being especially effective.

This is the first time in many years of musical activity in the Laurentians that these concerts have been held in Lachute, and it is hoped that local people will realize this fine opportunity of hearing good music during the summer months. Tickets are available at the door.

Next Saturday's concert will feature the Sinnhoffer String Quartet from Munich, Germany. They will play Mozart: String Quartet in F, K. 168; Boris Blacher: Quartet No. 2, op. 16; Brahms: Quartet in A Minor, op. 51/2.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all friends and relatives, for cards, gifts and visits I received during my illness at the Smith Clinic. Special thanks to the staff of the Clinic, who were so kind to me during my stay. — Mrs. Ross Keatley

Witnesses to hold prov'l convention in Granby, Que.

"French - speaking Jehovah's Witnesses of Lachute anxiously await the opening of their provincial convention, which will take place at Granby's municipal stadium on July 23 to 26," stated Mr. Henry Purucker, presiding minister for the Witnesses in Lachute and sorrounding area.

The Witnesses are presently visiting each home in Granby, canvassing for accommodations. Due to the hospitality of local residents, several hundred accommodations have already been found. No problems are anticipated as to whether sufficient lodgings will be available.

During the four days the Witnesses will hear approximately 20 speakers dealing with various subjects, such as how to prevent juvenile delinquency and manifest love to one's neighbor. The sessions will last about seven hours each day. There are 23 departments now busy to ensure the success of this assembly, the first to take place in Granby, Que.

Mr. Purucker states the Witnesses had a large increase last year, when one new member joined the organization every eight minutes, or 172 new persons each day.

Bible School opens Jly. 20 at People's Church

The 1964 Summer Bible School of the People's Church will commence July 20, at 9 a.m. The theme of the School this year is, "Making Time Count for Christ".

Mrs. C. R. Sorley will take care of the Nursery Department, ages 3 and 4, where the little ones will learn about "God's Big World".

Mrs. Elsie Stephens will supervise the Beginners' Department, ages 5 and 6. The stories here will be about "God's Word and God's World".

Miss Audrey Morrison will have a busy time looking after the lively Primary Department. The pupils who will enter second, third and fourth grade, form this department. The theme here is "God's Family".

Mrs. Wilfred Morrison will have charge of the Junior Department, teaching the theme, "The Christian's Time and Talents".

Pastor Sorley will teach the Intermediate Department, the theme here being "Answering Whys of Young People".

This school is conducted annually for two weeks, and a hearty invitation is extended to all the children in the community to come and enjoy it.

BELL LINES

by JIM MENZIES

LOWER TRANS-CANADA LONG DISTANCE RATES

You've probably read the news stories about the lower Trans-Canada Long Distance rates that went into effect last month. It occurred to me that reductions have been implemented so often over the years that they're in danger of not being "news" anymore! However, they're refreshingly different, considering the price trends of just about everything else.

Trans-Canada Long Distance Service is made possible by close co-operation among the various telephone companies over whose territory a call travels. Before 1928, there was no interconnection of lines between the main Canadian telephone companies, so a call between Lachute and, say, Edmonton, had to travel over American lines. By 1932, however, an all-Canadian East-West route was completed and, of course, continued expansion has occurred since then. Today your call may speed over actual telephone lines, or through the air via micro-wave (alongside television programs!), or over radio-relay systems that reach out to isolated sites, some well beyond the Arctic Circle. Telephone companies certainly don't just sit on the accounts collected from customers: money is continually ploughed back into the Canadian economy to provide better and better service, and a higher standard of living for all.

TAILORED TELEPHONES

On the average, masculine fingers are 10 per cent longer and 20 per cent wider than feminine fingers. Also, on the telephone, men's voices are two decibels louder than women's, and men tend to talk even louder when talking with other men. "Who cares?" you ask. Well, telephone engineers care very much. They even care about the average distance between the human mouth and ear: the handset must "fit" both for ideal transmission and reception (the mouthpiece should be held from one-half to one inch from the lips). Careful study of these human factors has led to the best possible design for items of telephone equipment.

WHERE YOU ARE

Ever notice how some folks in our Lachute district answer the phone promptly when you call them? Well, they MIGHT just always be right beside the telephone. But it's more likely that these prompt-answerers have discovered the convenience of having extension telephones where THEY are. In the kitchen, for example, where the lady of the house spends so much time. She can make and take calls with ease . . . keep an eye on what's cooking at the same time. Some people find it handy to have extension telephones in the family room, or Dad's workshop. And, of course, a bedroom extension is not only convenient, it adds a reassuring sense of security, knowing a phone's close at hand. Extension phones come in three models — wall phone, regular desk set, and the little Princess with its glowing night-light. Why not call our Business Office, or ask the telephone service man?

Summer Sunshine – Friend or Foe?

– By NANCY CLEAVER –

"The sun with one eye vieweth all the world," wrote Shakespeare, but Nature's gifts such as sunlight, fire and water, can be friend or foe. Children in hot countries go about with little on. The ultra-violet rays of the sun are not kept from direct contact with most of their body. Thus they rarely have that tragic bone disease, rickets.

In temperate countries, modern mothers are well aware of the value of sunshine in the warm months, and cod liver oil preparations in the winter. The ultra-violet rays in direct sunshine produce vitamin D in the skin. This is useful in building strong bones and good teeth. These rays cannot penetrate window panes or clothing.

A mother must take special care with her baby's sunbaths. His eyes must be protected both from direct sunlight and from bright glare. His sunbaths can be started when he's about a month old, when the air is warm. One minute on his front and then one on his back is long enough the first time. Exposure to sunshine can be increased by a minute a day.

Sunlight reflected at a beach from water and sand can inflict a burn on anyone, so at the first of the holiday there, delay baby's sunbath a few days. In the hot vacation months, baby's sunbath is best given before 11.00 a.m. or after 3.00 p.m., while in spring and fall the midday sun is most beneficial.

There is a great difference in individuals in the amount of sun they can tolerate. Blonds and dry-skinned people burn usually more readily than brunettes or oily skinned folk. It is the loss of too much of the natural oil of the skin which causes a burn.

Thus the various protective lotions and creams should be applied before going out into the sunshine and also after coming out of the water.

Children at a cottage or near a beach often want to be out in the sun after their swim. It is a lazy relaxing time. Often they compete with each other to see who can get the darkest tan. Mother's supervision is not very popular but she can provide them with their own jar of sun tan oil and suggest that they change their positions fairly often.

Even a school-age child can realize that with too much sun he will defeat his own goal. His skin will start to peel and he will lose the tan he has already acquired.

Sometimes a boy will be out in a boat for a trip, or fishing on a partly cloudy or maybe windy day for several hours. He may consider his mother "fussy" when she tells him to rub on some cream or put on his shirt. He may discover, to his sorrow, that night or the next day, that he has scorned any precautions, because the sun was not shining brightly, and his skin is a painful bright red. This is one mistake he won't make twice.

Sunstroke is much less common than sunburn, and also more serious. The symptoms are very high temperature, hot, dry skin, dry mouth, headache and dizziness, nausea and rapid pulse. The patient may become unconscious, so a doctor should be called at once. Place the patient in a cool spot, remove clothes, apply cold compresses to head and bathe the body, while waiting for his arrival.

Salad month a food adventure

Salad Month is the highlight of this season's good eating, and few food groups have as much to offer in variety and attractiveness. No cooking, unless you are partial to potato salad, and no hot dish to cope with on a hot day, your salad can be a sparkling, cool, attractive picture. It can be the main feature of your meal with an assist from cold meat, fish, hard cooked eggs or cheese; or it can be a side dish, but the salad, excellent supplier of vitamins, minerals and in some cases protein, should appear in your daily diet, whether you are slimming, trying to put on weight or just enjoying being a gourmet. In these days, fresh vegetables are available all year round, brought from distant places, but there's something special about the vegetables produced under Canada's own sunny skies.

Make Salad Month a food adventure — make every day salad day.

Ice Cream a year-round favorite

Ice cream has become a year-round favorite now that there's such a host of delicious flavors at our fingertips . . . more flavors than there are days of the week, in fact. Because this economical and convenient dairy food really comes into its own during the hot summer months, the Canadian Dairy Foods Service Bureau brings you a new twist on that old party favorite, cake and ice cream. It's a rhubarb upside down cake baked in a ring mold, then served while it's still warm with generous scoops of ice cream in the centre.

RHUBARB ICE CREAM RING
(Makes 10 Servings)

1 teaspoon grated orange rind; ⅓ cup sugar; 4 teaspoons flour; 1¼ cups raw rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces; 1 tablespoon butter; 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; ½ teaspoon baking soda; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ cup sugar; 6 tablespoons butter, chilled; ¾ cup buttermilk; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 pint fresh strawberry ice cream.

Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine orange rind, ⅓ cup sugar and the 4 teaspoons flour. Mix in rhubarb and spoon into bottom of a 9-inch ring pan. Dot with the 1 tablespoon butter. Place in preheated oven while preparing batter. Sift together into a bowl the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and ½ cup sugar. Cut butter in finely. Combine buttermilk and vanilla. Make a well in dry ingredients and add liquids all at once. Combine lightly. Spoon batter over hot rhubarb mixture. Bake in preheated oven 30 to 35 minutes. Turn out onto serving plate. Heap center of cake with large scoops of fresh strawberry ice cream and serve immediately.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY,
Macdonald College

It was very quiet this past week — just one day away from base. "Wink" Keeler, Field Superintendent of the Agronomy Department, invited me along on a tour of the College's test plots.

First stop was at the Provincial farm at St. Hyacinthe where the Veterinary School and the A.I. unit are located. The Dairy School has been closed, but the new building for the courses in Technical Agriculture is coming along fine.

The field crops at the St. Hyacinthe school looked really good. On July 2 they were baling a field of second-cut alfalfa. The first cut had been made on May 29. Tile drainage, lime, fertilizer and management are their formula.

The test plots were back across the railway tracks, where Macdonald College shares space with Laval University. The variety of corn, oats, barley and sugar beets all looked good.

It was the "Date of Planting" trial on corn that caught my eye. Planted at weekly intervals, the plots now looked like stairs. The first planting, made on May 6 and later frozen to the ground, was still well ahead of the rest. Now, we are wondering, how much earlier can we go?

Next stop was at St. Remi, at a private farm in the heart of the vegetable-growing area. Several varieties of sugar beets were being grown in a search for a new, high-yielding one. Most of the seed came from Holland.

Then there were plots at the Ecole d'Agriculture, Ste. Martine. Neither of the winter barley varieties, Dover or Hudson, had survived the winter. The winter wheat looked very good; all varieties had survived, and some were beginning to ripen. The corn plots were disappointing, though. Dry weather, crows, and poorly worked soil had taken their toll.

Final call was at Charles Reid's farm, Huntingdon, to see cereal plots. It was my first look at the new Dorval oat growing in comparison with the older varieties. Too early in the season to tell much about performance, but the lighter green of the leaves was quite a striking identity mark.

By the time we finished making notes there, it was raining. We brought back a substantial amount of Reid's clay on our boots.

The 4-H regional judging competition was held at Macdonald College on July 8. Seven teams of boys and girls from Ormstown, Lachute, Vaudreuil, Huntingdon, Howick and Frelighsburg competed for the honor of representing district 4 at the Quebec Fair, September 5.

Clayton Murphy and Anne deVries of the Huntingdon club won over John Cameron and Jean Leger, Vaudreuil, by the narrow margin of eight points. Highest single score was made by Robert Rodgers, Lachute.

Congratulations to the local leaders for the splendid showings made by their teams, and to Bernard Prieur, St. Remi, Supervisor No. 4 District, and to Roland Barette, the new chief of Young Farmers Clubs, for the success of the day.

It was a million-dollar rain that fell last week. While it was too late for the first crop of hay, it is wonderful to see the grass bouncing back. Though the hay crop is short, some of the best quality feed in years has gone into the barns.

Price support for the 1964 sugar beet crop will remain at last year's level of $13.72 per ton, according to an Ottawa announcement.

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Avoca

Mrs. Wm. H. Kelly, of Aylmer East, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Allan MacPhee, and her aunt, Mrs. Tom Young. She was accompanied by them on a trip into the Laurentians, also by Mrs. Charlie Steele of Grenville — calling on friends in Arundel and other points.

The Orange picnic held on Saturday, and the annual evening dance in the Community Hall, were well attended and enjoyed by all, renewing old acquaintances. The good attendance was appreciated greatly by the members of L.O.L. 721.

We are happy to welcome home from hospital, much improved in health, Mrs. Sandy Bates and Mr. Jim Trineer, who were patients in the Smith Clinic at Hawkesbury.

Friends of Mr. Hugh Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, are pleased to hear of his rapid progress. Hugh has recovered sufficiently from his serious back ailment to be moved from the Montreal Neurogical Institute to the Rehabilitation Institute on Darlington Avenue. Best wishes are extended from all, for his continued progress to better health.

Recent callers at the home of Mrs. MacPhee and Mrs. Young were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harries, Judith and Trevor, of Calumet, Mrs. Burns and daughter, Andrea, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McFaul, from Winter Park, Florida, are on a two weeks' vacation with their mother, Mrs. George Kelly, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith.

The Rev. Capt. Howard Doig, of Vancouver, B.C., with Mrs. Doig and children, Margaret and Charles, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, visiting friends and relatives prior to taking up residence in Toronto.

Mrs. Allan MacPhee and Mrs. Tom Young were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bennett Friday afternoon. Mrs. Duncan Shaw, of Montreal, was also a guest.

Many from here attended the closing exercises of the Harrington Vacation Bible School on Friday evening. The leaders are to be commended in the work done by their pupils.

Miss Betty Jean MacLean, and a friend from Port Colborne, are vacationing with friends and relatives this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Findlay and son, Donald, from Ottawa, called on many friends in these parts on Saturday. Mrs. Findlay, the former Ruth Haughton, is well known by residents here.

Destroyed by Lightning

Lightning struck and totally destroyed an old landmark in Harrington during an electric storm Saturday evening, the Roman Catholic Church, which was built in 1900 by pioneers of that district. Sympathy is extended to members of this parish.

Mrs. Sandy Bates and Mr. John Dobbie wish to thank all who remembered them so kindly during their sojourn in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, with cards, letters, telephone calls and frequent visits. These kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brannen and family, of Ottawa, are spending six weeks' vacation at their cottage in Pointe-au-Chene.

Grenville

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Millar, Town of Mount Royal, were Sunday guests of Mr. S. C. Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray have returned from a holiday trip by motor to the West Coast and other points, and are guests of Miss Eva White. Other guests of Miss White during the week included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rourke, Mr. Kenneth Rourke, of Rawdon, Que., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ryan, of Roxboro, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Birch, Loralee and Neil, of Hammond, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Corl Gauley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gauley, of Chatboro, Mr. Russell Gauley, of Vankleek Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Hartland Dewar, of Brownsburg, were Sunday guests of Mr. Garfield Moncrieff and Miss Gertrude Moncrieff.

Mrs. Rhoda Allingsham, of White Plains, N.Y., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bessie Canning, for the summer months. Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Lefebrve and Miss Madeleine Lefebvre, of Montreal, were week-end guests.

Arundel

Mrs. William Crone, of Rockway Valley, had Mrs. Oswald visiting her from Montreal last week-end.

Miss Margaret Norman is occupying her cottage for the summer.

Mrs. Edward Graham is now home convalescing from surgery, and is progressing nicely.

Mrs. Alvin Graham's week-end guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Graham, of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Graham, of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Kuester are occupying their cottage.

Mrs. James and family spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staniforth — Mr. James joining them over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie, of Eston, Sask., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gray and will visit around, among friends and relatives in Arundel.

Mr. and Mrs. Haylock, of Montreal, have been spending their holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald and family are leaving for a two-weeks vacation to the Maritimes, returning by the way of the U.S. During their absence, the pulpit will be occupied on Sunday, 19th, by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough of Lachute, and on Sunday, 26th, by Mr. Dick Griffith, of Valois United Church.

Grace Church W.A. held its monthly meeting on Tuesday evening of last week, at the home of Mrs. Howard Davis. Routine business was dealt with, and plans made to hold a home-cooking sale on July 18 and August 15.

Women's Institute Event

The Women's Institute held its annual bazaar in the auditorium on Saturday evening last. Despite a severe electrical storm at the most inconvenient time, there was a good crowd, which was very gratifying to the workers. A substantial sum was taken in, which will be used in the work of the W.I., largely to benefit the school in such gifts as a scholarship, library books and school prizes. The committee extend sincere thanks for the co-operation of workers and the public who so generously supported them. During the evening, a half-hour program was given under leadership of Mrs. Keith Rathwell. A fire drill was staged by some of the younger school children, and two groups of choruses were sung by a newly formed group consisting of Farm Forum members. This was under the leadership of Mr. Barton, who has had experience in such work.

Arundel Tree Farm

Despite the pupils being on holidays, the work of the Arundel Tree Farm keeps progressing. A pre-fab building is expected very shortly from Vancouver, which will be used as a centre to instruct adults and young people in conservation of the woods and wildlife. When the structure is completed there will be a formal opening, which will be further mentioned in The Watchman.

Bell Falls

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and family, of Dorion, visited Mrs. W. H. Warren on Sunday. Some friends from Gaspé accompanied them, and they enjoyed a picnic on Bell Falls beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Carruthers and Geraldine spent their vacation at their cottage.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. E. MacLeod on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin MacLeod and Sheldon, Miss Betty Richie and Miss Betty MacLaughlin, all of Lachine.

Mrs. Laughie Page and Sue are spending the summer months at their cottage.

Friends wish a speedy recovery to Mr. Dan MacRae, who is a patient in the Smith Clinc.

RCAF radar base at Lac St. Denis

THE MEN — EXCELLENCE AND VIGILANCE

The personnel who man the radar sites are experts in a complicated field. They operate the modern complex equipment which provides us with a warning of any unknown aircraft approaching our country.

Wing Commander Lionel P. Dupuis, Commanding Officer of II Radar Squadron, Lac St. Denis and the officer and non-commissioned officers under his command bring an enthusiasm to their work that would be hard to match in any other branch of the service.

The men go to school regularly so that they never get "outdated" and new men are quickly brought up to the standard necessary in an exacting job. They have their own library of technical and maintenance information which is used over and over again in the constant training program for all technicians.

The officers of II Radar Squadron came from many different fields to serve at the unit. The Commanding Officer is a pilot with many flying hours in his log book. He was formerly Commanding Officer of RCAF Station St. Sylvestre, P.Q., and prior to coming to Lac St. Denis he served on a joint military committee in the U.S.A.

The Chief Ground Environment Officer, Squadron Leader Henry J. McGill is a Telecommunications man by trade and well qualified for his duties here. His last assignment was at Griffith AFB, New York. Working for him are two aircrew officers, one in charge of operations and data monitoring and the other in charge of the technical personnel. Flight Lieutenant Don Woodcock, a Radio Officer with a number of years in anti-submarine flying, is the Squadron Control Operations Officer. Flight Lieutenant Gordon Helm, the Squadron Telecommunications Officer, is also a pilot. He has just completed a long course in electronics to qualify him for his present duties. Flying Officer Bob Davison, our Chief Administrative Officer, came to us from the Canadian Joint Staff at Washington, D.C.

Two Warrant Officers, Warrant Officer Class Two Norman J. Terrio and Warrant Officer Class Two Alfred M. Curran, are the senior non-commissioned officers on the unit.

Warrant Officer Terrio in charge of the GATR Radio equipment, has had a long and varied career in Communications. He will retire this fall after 30 years service. Warrant Officer Curran is the man who supervises the Trade Training program and the administration of the Tower area. He came here from the Radar Squadron at Senneterre, P.Q., and prior to that had been an instructor in telephone communciations at Clinton, Ontario for some years. Flight Sergeant L. Arthur Desjardins is the Station Warrant Officer in charge of station discipline and is Flying Officer Davison's right-hand man. He has served more than 24 years with the RCAF.

Senior NCO of the Radar Shop is Flight Sergeant Tom Melnyk. An ardent sportsman, Flight Sergeant Melnyk is the man behind most of our Squadron sporting activities. He supervises the maintenance of the Radar. He has four sergeants in charge of maintenance crews who provide 24 hour a day service.

Supporting the maintenance and and operations people are Sergeant McGowan whose central kitchen provides meals to all messes. Sergeant "Bob" McGowan has served 16 years in the service at various units. His home is in Toronto. Flight Sergeant Ralph A. Genest, another "old timer", has 22 years service to his credit. He is the Mechanical Equipment Officer who provides the transportation needs of the station.

These men, highly skilled, enthusiastic and hard-working, keep the Radar and Computor equipment at Lac St. Denis "On the Air". The station, and the other Radar Squadrons in the country, are the sentries of the sky. . . Vigilance is their watchword.

92 Years young, buys sporty car

The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, 92 years of age and still active in the four churches of Lakefield Anglican Parish, has a keen eye and a soft spot for sporty cars. He liked the look of this Chrysler 300 Saratoga 4-door hardtop at Welden Motors Limited — and after due deliberation, brought in his 1963 Chrysler and traded it for the 1964 model. Although he no longer drives himself, the Rev. Mr. Baugh made this purchase on his own choice and initiative. He is seen here receiving the car keys from Jas. Welden, Sr., president of the dealer company.

Olympic-sized swimming pool at Two Mountains

The City of Two Mountains, as the first step in an ambitious recreational program, has opened an Olympic-size community pool.

The new pool will be administered by the Gyro Club of Two Mountains, which will be responsible for registration, rules and regulations, program, and liaison with city council.

Gyro President Lionel Griffin described the pool as "the culmination of a five-year dream" of the club members. Mayor Larry Cool executed a high dive from the three-metre board at the official opening.

It is now proposed to complete a giant sports complex in the area, including soccer and football fields, baseball diamonds, hockey rinks and other facilities.

The pool, which cost $65,000, is managed by Bob McHargh of the Lake of Two Mountains High School.

GOVERNMENT OF QUÉBEC

45 REGIONAL OFFICES TO SERVE THE PUBLIC

The 45 regional offices of the Department of Family and Social Welfare control the public funds used in the search for the causes of misery and its relief. In fact, the regional offices are the means used by the State to get closer to the population in order to determine its needs and serve it better.

Here are some of the tasks performed by these regional offices:

— Informing the public regarding the allowances and other forms of assistance available through the Dept. of Family and Social Welfare.

— Supplying the public with the necessary forms required.

— Helping applicants to fill such forms.

— Directing applicants to private organizations capable of helping them.

— Accelerating the procedures required for the proper study of each application.

—Interviewing people receiving assistance or allowances when changes occur in their social, family or financial status or when they wish their case re-assessed.

Surveillance and control are also formal duties of these offices. In co-operation with private welfare organizations, they try to find ways and means of providing the best possible services available according to actual circumstances and also to obtain the maximum and fairest results from the application of the unemployment insurance law.

The services rendered by such offices are no substitute to those offered by municipal welfare and social agencies operating under certain laws of the Provincial Department of Family and Social Welfare.

Here are the addresses of your regional offices:

MONT LAURIER:

Water Skiing WITH CLINT WARD

Water Start On One Ski

The learning process on one ski is usually filled with many falls. As it wastes a lot of time to do starts on two skis, then discard one and so on, it is wise to begin at once learning a one ski water start.

Many skiers have difficulty with this start but in actual fact if you observe a few simple principles it is quite easy. One thing to remember is that during a one ski start the pull on the arms will be greater than a two ski start. The reason for this is because the body weight is now supported by only half the surface as during a two ski start. Many boats being used for water skiing just haven't the power to pull a skier out of the water on one ski, so make sure before you become discouraged at not making the start that it isn't the fault of the boat. If your boat really works at getting you out on two skis then chances are it will not have the power for a one ski water start.

Correct water start position, on one ski

The position of the body in the water prior to the start is important. As in a two ski start the knee of the skiing leg should be right up into the chest. The arms should be straight and the rope should be between the ski and the absent second ski.

The free leg should be extended down and behind you, toes pointed back, and roughly parallel to the ski. The tip of the ski should be out of the water. When you have given the signal "hit it" remember to keep the arms straight and be ready for the pull.

The free leg should be dragged behind you and slightly to one side as it is a help for stability and also provides a measure of added lift as the water rushes past your shin. As the ski begins to "plane out", stand up with your leg, still keeping your arms straight and still dragging the back leg. Only when you are well up should you attempt to move your back leg to the skiing position. Don't be discouraged if you don't make it the first time or the second!!

A reader from Calgary, Alberta, has written to me and asked if there is a national body governing water skiing as there is in other sports. The answer is definitely yes. It is the Canadian Water Ski Association. This organization supervises and sanctions all tournament skiing in Canada as well as promoting skiing safety. Members receive crests and decals, rules and regulations and in informative bimonthly booklet, called "The Canadian Water Skier". The growth of any sport depends upon a strong National organization and if you are keen on the sport I would suggest that you write to the membership secretary, Mr. Dennis Gillingham, 59 Russell St., St. Catharines, Ontario.

Director of the Educational Bus Tour visiting this town on Thursday is Mr. Hollis S. Rice, of Spokane, Wash., with associate leaders Mrs. Laura Freshwater and Miss Freda Allcock, from British Columbia and Alberta. A total of 40 students are travelling with the group.

The visiting group will arrive here about 12.15 noon, according to Cliff Cunningham, Noble Grand of the Laurentian Lodge, which is entertaining the visitors. They will be served lunch before proceeding to Montreal en route to New York.

Member of Party Related Here

Mr. Bert Mitchell, an old citizen of Lachute and Chatham, will be on hand to meet one of the party, Monda Blanch, of Wetaskiwin, Alta., who is the granddaughter of his old school chum, Joseph Christie. Before moving to Alberta, Mr. Christie lived on what later became the Burke farm at Centreville, and attended the North River school. Monda won this trip through a public speaking contest and her parents notified Mr. Mitchell that she will be among the party. Monda is also directly related to the former McCoy family here (Mrs. F. A. Brennian and her sisters).

Town agrees on Richelieu Park take-over

With slight modifications on offer submitted by club

On condition that the Richelieu Club would modify its proposal in two clauses, Town Council agreed last week that the corporation will take over the Richelieu Park as a civic recreation spot. Terms of the transfer are the nominal price of $1, plus $25,000 debt to the Caisse Populaire, of which the town will relieve its present owners, the Richelieu Club.

Aldermen L. W. Armstrong and Dr. L. A. Middleton sponsored the Council resolution, supported by all councillors present with the exception of Nelson Lepage, who dissented. Aldermen Pariseau and Desjardins were absent, however, while Ald. F. Charlebois, being a member of the Richelieu Club, asked, and was granted, permission to stay out of the discussion.

In a submission to the Council, the club listed the assets at $90,000, comprising —

Land	$30,000
Swimming Pool	40,000
Chalet & Restaurant	10,000
Equipment and Games	6,500
Lights	3,000
Various	500

With a debt of $25,000 plus accrued interest of $1,667, the "deal" represented a "profit" of $64,000 to the municipality. In return, the town fathers will rent the pool and restaurant back to the Richelieu Club for a nominal $1 a year, and the club will continue to operate these as concessions, to its own profit or loss as the case may be. (In the past year, the latter was the case.)

Ald. Lepage explained his objection in the fact that this would give everything "to the other end of town", and nothing to the centre or west end.

Ald. Dr. Middleton claimed the town should have acquired public recreation facilities long before this. "This offer from the Richelieu Club is the finest opportunity I have seen yet, but I mention an objection, and it's a serious one. I don't see why it should continue indefinitely to be known as 'Richelieu Swimming Pool'. This is ridiculous, and the town should not be saddled with a servitude of this kind."

The mayor suggested that the actual pool could be identified with the club by a plaque, and other organizations wishing to use the terrain could erect buildings or booths, to be similarly identified.

Casualties and damages in rash of road mishaps

A rash of automobile accidents — one of which involved six cars and resulted in damage estimated at $10,900 and seven persons hospitalized — kept Provincial Police here busy over the week-end. The most serious mishap occurred a short distance west of Pointe-au-Chene, on Route 8, shortly after six o'clock Saturday evening.

This accident occurred when a car owned and driven by André Deschatelais, 23, of Montebello, pulled out to pass a car driven by Huguette Periard, of Ottawa. According to investigating police, the Periard car was hit from behind and, the driver losing control, ended up against a tree. The Deschatelais car then swerved out of control and, skidding some 168 feet, crashed into four on-coming vehicles. The injured were taken to hospitals in Lachute, Hawkesbury and Ottawa.

At the same time, a car driven by Roger Cyr, 30, of Buckingham, was involved in an accident with a hay wagon pulled by a tractor, at the intersection of Routes 8 and 8-A. There were three riders on the tractor and none was seriously injured. Mr. Cyr was treated in the Smith Clinic for several severe fractures, and later transferred to Buckingham hospital.

Simon's Crossing claimed accidents to five cars over the week-end, the most serious of which occurred at 12.05 a.m. Sunday involving an auto driven by Etienne Matte, of Ste. Therese. The driver was accompanied by Henri Foucault, of St. Jerome, who reportedly lost an eye in the mishap. Both were taken to the Argenteuil Hospital.

A minor mishap occurred near Lake Louisa early Saturday evening when a car driven by Edward Brooks, 20, of Montreal, swerved out of control on a curve. Three occupants were treated in the Argenteuil Hospital for minor injuries.

Brownsburg seeks bids for issue of $68,500 bonds

Brownsburg Village Council is asking tenders for the purchase of $68,500 worth of debentures. This is a loan authorized by By-law 117 providing $8,500 for sewerage and waterworks, and By-law 118 to raise $60,000 for the erection of a municipal building.

Bids will be opened and considered at a Council meeting on Monday, July 27.

It is specified that the bonds, dated June 30, 1964, shall be redeemable in series from June 30, 1965, to June 30, 1984. Rate of interest must be not lower than 5 percent and not higher than 6 percent, payable semi-annually. Interest may be the same for the whole issue or vary according to redemption dates.

Five drownings week-end toll

Father perished attempting to save four-yr.-old son

A double drowning occurred around 8.15 Friday evening in the West River, when four-year-old Wilfred Mallette tumbled from a rowboat into about 20 feet of water. His 50-year-old father, Michel, immediately jumped into the murky water in an attempt to rescue the child, and both were drowned. The bodies were recovered approximately 30 minutes later.

Eleven members of the Mallette family were in the rowboat at the time of the accident, which occurred near the Hamford Street bridge.

The two bodies were recovered by François Poirier and Claude Larocque.

Death was declared to be accidental and no inquest will be held.

Two similar drowning mishaps occurred at approximately the same time Saturday afternoon, in different sections of the County. François Pleau, 21, of Starsfield, Ont., accompanied by Ronald Belanger, 20, of Vankleek Hill, was canoeing on the Ottawa River near Grenville when their canoe was capsized by a large wave. Belanger managed to hold on to the craft until he was rescued, but Pleau is reported to have panicked and headed for shore. He tired and managed to reach a channel-marker buoy, but his grip failed and he slipped beneath the water before help arrived. Two frogmen from Hawkesbury arrived on the scene, but failed to recover the body. This was found Tuesday morning by Hydro-Quebec employees, in the vicinity of Keith Canning's at Stonefield.

A similar fatality was reported to Provincial Police on Lac St. Joseph, near St. Adolphe d'Howard, at 2.30 Saturday afternoon (just 15 minutes later than the Ottawa River drowning).

Gregory Lee, a 30-year-old Montrealer, was accompanied by Bruno Spagnal, 24, also of Montreal, in a canoe on Lac St. Joseph. The two were attending the YMCA camp on the lake. The canoe is reported to have turned over, and the victim immediately disappeared from view. His companion held on to the overturned canoe until help arrived. The body was recovered a short time later and transported to the morgue in Lachute, and burial was made here.

Michel Birchman, 26, of St. Janvier, drowned Saturday in Lac Robert, near St. Canut, while swimming in the artificial lake.

Body Recovered

The body of Claude Caseault, 33, of St. Jerome, who was drowned in the Ottawa River when the motor boat he was driving overturned, was discovered by his brother in St. Andrews bay last Thursday night shortly after eight o'clock. The accident occurred Sunday afternoon, and an inquest will be held to determine the cause.

Hearing concluded - judgment Aug. 6 on suit for injunction on Annexation

Justice René Duranleau of the Superior Court heard remaining witnesses last Thursday in the case for an interim injunction against Lachute Town, and after the opposing lawyers have submitted their notes for full deliberation of the judge, a decision will be rendered August 6 — two weeks hence.

The case to halt the annexation of part of St. Jerusalem Parish opened at St. Jerome court house on July 9 with the testimony of one witness, Douglas Bradford, secretary of the parish. The hearing was resumed last Thursday, 16th, with three other witnesses called to testify, André Miron, a plumbing tradesman at Lake Sir John Estates Ltd., Norman Romer, president of that corporation, and Mme Yvette Raymond, secretary of Lachute Town.

Mr. Miron, on behalf of the appellants for the injunction, stated that plumbing and waterworks in the Sir John residential subdivision would jump 18 per cent in cost if that area were finally annexed to Lachute. In cross-examination by the town attorneys, he admitted however that this had not happened since annexation had come into effect two months ago.

Mr. Romer, another of the appellants, gave a detailed description of the Lake Sir John development — the area, the purchase price, the total investment, nature of the properties etc. He claimed he had already suffered through the annexation measure in losing the sale of lots, and that any industry which might establish in the vicinity would depreciate the value of the property. In his own deeds of sale, it had been stipulated that no business venture of any kind could be conducted on these properties.

Cross-examined, Mr. Romer did not know whether taxes would go up, and he admitted that the St. Jerusalem zoning by-law prevented the establishment of industries in his area. The attorney for the defendants reminded this witness that, in a petition to the Minister of Municipal Affairs, the Hon. Pierre Laporte, in 1963 (to which he had given his signature) Mr. Romer had not noticeably objected to the annexation proposal. . . The paragraph referred to was the first in this letter. The petition was discussed between the attorneys, and Justice Duranleau asked for the said letter, to read in its entirety.

The last witness was Mme Yvette Raymond, secretary-treasurer of Lachute Town, who stated there had been no question of the Council amending the zoning by-law.

Having heard the witness and attorneys, the judge requested the latter to submit their notes in writing and stated he would render judgment August 6.

Observations on Lawsuit

Following are observations of this newspaper's reporter, to fill in the background and atmosphere of the proceedings. . .

The opening paragraph of the petition above referred to, reads as follows: "We understand and have every sympathy with the desire of the Town of Lachute to provide for 'Industrial Expansion' by annexing the urban and other areas adjacent to the town suitable for this purpose, and with the desire of the majority of the property-owners in these areas to join the Town of Lachute, and we are not opposed to this annexation".

The plaintiffs in this case are asking both an injunction and a nullification of the annexation by-law. The injunction can be granted only by a judge of the Superior Court, while a setting-aside and halting of the by-law rests with a judge of the Magistrate's Court.

Annexation having been in effect since May 30 last, Justice Duranleau advised Lachute Town to continue its fire protection and other services to residents of the annexed area, but to undertake nothing in the way of inter-municipal projects — at least, until August 6.

At one point in the hearing, Judge Duranleau remarked that the public welfare was to be considered before individual interests.

Mtre. Jean-Claude Paquin, of the law firm of Legault & Paquin is presenting the interests of Lachute Town, with collaboration of a Montreal authority on municipal law, Emé Lacroix, Q.C. . . . The case for the appellants is being upheld by Mtre Lafleur assisted by Mtre Valiquette, both of Montreal.

Heated argument on water meters

Neptune m'frs given order for 1,000 units

All is not unanimous in regard to the installing of water meters around town — judging, at least, by sentiments expressed at the civic board and by taxpayers at last week's Council sitting.

Enabling legislation was passed in 1951, and latterly the city fathers decided to act upon this and to install meters in all residential properties. Despite the controversies, the seven councillors present voted for the purchase of 1,000 meters from the Neptune company at $20.17 per unit — this price being lower than a bid from Rockwell, at $22.23 each. . . Two councillors were absent, at this adjourned meeting of the civic body.

As spokesman for the objecting taxpayers, it was Dr. Zoël Saindon who asked the Council to delay their decision for six months, so that the public might study the question more fully. Somewhat incensed, Mayor Dave Campbell retorted: "You think your elected councillors have not already studied the matter? We have studied, we have taken the experience of other municipalities which use meters, and consulted all sorts of people versed in the subject. . . Anyway," he added, addressing Dr. Saindon, "you are out of order."

This last remark spurred the doctor to complain that he could not be heard by Council, and to protest that the mayor's attitude was undemocratic. "When can one put questions to the Council, if it is not at a public meeting?" he asked, and got no answer.

This controversy had a chilling effect on the audience, but seemed to incite certain aldermen to more heated exchanges.

Said the mayor: "The by-law is passed, and Council has voted to buy meters. We've received two bids from two different companies. Now, if you do not want to purchase, it's up to you."

Ald. François Charlebois, in previous disagreement on this question, was all for delaying the matter. But the mayor reminded him, Council was well convinced of the saving in water consumption which could be achieved through metering; and further — according to Mayor Campbell — the question should be settled without delay, since the town's contract for water supply to St. Jerusalem expires in a few months' time.

Ald. Dr. Middleton: "In the past eight days we have used all the output of Lake Sir John, and we have to do something to remedy this situation. If we had a drought, a serious drought, we would be in a bad position."

Ald. Lepage: "Do you think they would use less water if we installed meters?"

Ald. Charlebois to Dr. Middleton: "Do you know how many towns are using water meters?"

Dr. Middleton: "I return the question to you. Do YOU know?"

Ald. Charlebois: "I am not opposed to meters, but I think we should wait a while."

Mayor Campbell then read a list of some 25 communities which had installed meters, and on this note the argument concluded. . . Water meters will be installed in all homes between now and the fall, and the Neptune company gets the order.

Week's Epigram

The truth is that in human service there is no low or high degree; the woman who scrubs is as worthy of respect as the man who preaches.

A link with early Lachute residents —

'United Nations Pilgrimage' entertained here

This "United Nations Pilgrimage of Youth" safari, sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of America, stopped off in Lachute last week, and the group were guests of the local I.O.O.F. Lodge for lunch at Lachute Bar-B-Q Restaurant. The visitors were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Walker McArthur (left) and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cunningham (near right-hand side). At centre is the Rev. H. S. Rice, the tour director, with Sister Mrs. Laura Freshwater and Sister Miss Freda E. Alcock, tour leaders.

Among the 30-odd youths and young ladies from the Pacific Coast and Far West, was Monda Blanch, of Wetaskiwin, Alta., granddaughter of an old-time resident here (Joseph Christie). She was greeted by Albert Mitchell, a school chum of Mr. Christie's in the early days. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Miss Monda Blanch are seen at the extreme right of this picture. (Monda was also met by one of her relatives, Mrs. F. A. Brennan, with her daughter and granddaughter, visiting here from California.)

Amateur musicians gather under guidance of expert professionals in Laurentians

The 1964 season of CAMMAC Music Centre opened earlier this month when about 80 amateur musicians gathered at White Forest Lodge on Lake Macdonald.

Each year during July amateur musicians perfect their musical skills and acquire new ones at the Centre, under the direction of expert professionals.

The international aspect of the Centre adds to the pleasure of participation. Visitors this year are from all parts of Canada, as well as the United States and Europe. Staff members include well-known Canadian musicians such as George Little and Mario Duschenes, directors, Jan Simons, assistant-director, Louis Spritzer and Otto Joachim, as well as Miriam Samuelson from Vermont, and the Sinnhoffer String Quartet, from Munich, Germany, which was sent to Canada by the Goethe Institute. This diversity of nationalities at the Centre, has stimulated the formation of three extra-musical courses in English, French and German conversation. Not only do participants increase their understanding of each other, but they also learn to interpret with greater intelligence the choral repertoire, ranging from folksongs of French Canada to madrigals by Monteverdi and cantatas by Bach.

As many as 29 courses are given in the mornings, from which adults (12 to 80 years) may choose; these include choral music, voice training, chamber music, recorder and guitar. Children from 4 to 11 years are instructed in the Orff Method, music reading, recorder, instrumental ensemble playing, folk dancing, art and swimming.

The two main objectives of CAMMAC Music Centre are the restoration of the amateur to the status enjoyed at the time of the Renaissance and the remoulding of the family group — in these days under stress from disintegrating forces — by means of cultural activity within the family. Thus the Centre offers courses at all levels for both adults and children; the program may be followed for one to four weeks, and hotel and camping accommodation are available.

The Centre sponsors the "Laurentian Concerts" Saturday evenings at 8.15, at the Lachute High School. The second concert, last Saturday, featured the Zinnhoffer String Quartet, while Jan Simons, John Newmark, Mario Duschenes and Otto Joachim will be heard in succeeding recitals.

"Over Ninety" Birthday Club

Congratulations are extended to Mr. John Millar, who has been residing at the Thompson nursing home on Meikle Street. Mr. Millar was 92 years of age last Friday, 17th.

This venerable gentleman distinguished himself in his 92nd year (only four months ago) by successfully surviving the amputation of a leg — an operation from which he fully recovered. Unfortunately, trouble has now developed in his other leg and Mr. Millar was taken to the Montreal General Hospital again last week, for medical attention.

Q.P.P. rush blood consignments to Argent'l Hospital

An emergency appeal for blood by the Argenteuil Hospital was met by Provincial Police in Montreal, St. Eustache and Lachute on two occasions last week. Immediately after the emergency call was received, a Montreal-stationed provincial policeman picked up the needed blood at the Red Cross blood bank and rushed it to the outskirts of the city, where he was met by a St. Eustache car. This car in turn was relieved of the life-precious shipment near St. Hermas, and the local Q.P.P. car delivered the blood to the local hospital.

Art display opens Saturday, for one week

Opening Saturday afternoon at the municipal hall, St. Andrews East, is the second of this season's exhibitions sponsored by the Argenteuil Art Association Inc. Following a very successful photographic show which produced excellent examples of amateur and professional work, it is expected that the coming exhibition, exclusively of paintings, will create equal interest, and be viewed by many people.

The exhibition will feature works by four local painters — Winnie Strassle (Dunany), Marie Bray (Kilmar), Albert Laforest (Montreal and Carillon) and Don Titman (Lachute).

Hours of the exhibition are 2.30 to 5 p.m. daily, plus 7 to 9 p.m. Friday — continuing until Sunday, August 2, inclusive.

"ARGENTEUIL OUTDOORS"

By BOB ATCHISON

Some of you readers may be more familiar with this subject — the Higginson properties near Calumet. For many years the owners of this waterfront area have kept it closed to shooting, with the result that a good many ducks stop off there. Early in the spring and late in the fall there are hundreds of them. Now this will be a thing of the past, at least if the town of Calumet has its way. It seems they wish to expropriate this land — for what purpose I cannot seem to find out. Is this an idea of letting some of the gentry get in some good killing before we are depleted of ducks? . . . As you all know, the Carillon sanctuary is no more, due to the development on this island, and it will be natural for any water bird to head for this little haven. But what is going to happen now, is anyone's guess.

There have been two recent reports of moose seen in the district, at different places and at different times. One a young bull, the other a cow. The carcass of a young moose was found up around Shrewsbury; how long it had been there is not known, and there is slim chance of catching the parties responsible. Possibly it was shot just for the fun of it, as the meat had not been cut up. Some of these killers must be really bright people.

New guns are showing up these days. We are impressed with the Remington 600, a bolt-action carbine in three calibres, 35, 308 and 222. With a ventilated rib, this is a choice gun — very light, only 5½ lbs. You know, I have often wondered just why the 35 calibre did not hold its own with other types. To me the 35 is a top gun for deer shooting and sport of this type — you know the kind, jump and shoot. This 35 has always been a very good brush gun, yet it has not hung on the way the others have. Winchester have come out with the new 94; I shouldn't say new, as this gun is as old as the hills, but some new features have been added — a heavier breech, engraved, saddle ring, etc. This is in 30.30 only for the present, but it is said that it will be developed for the 308 by next year. It will be late August before this gun is on the market, so you will have to wait until then to see it. More and more European guns are coming into Canada; some of these are very good, while others will give you trouble. One 22 I tried was fine, only the full magazine could not be fired. In other words, it jammed after a few rounds. This may have been due to ammunition — but I leave it to you; four different kinds were tried.

Much publicity is being given to the sighting and training outfit the Province now provides for shooters. Any club may use this, and all help will be given in setting up a good program. This is, at least, a start in the right direction; maybe a little too late to have any real effect on the shooters of today, but it certainly will help those coming on the sporting scene. We all know that education has been touted as the thing for this Province, but this has proved useless, both for the game and for the human. Maybe something else could be tried.

A few of us were shooting the breeze the other day, and the talk naturally centred on fishing and hunting. Just what is happening to it in this province? Some of the boys picked on the poachers, some, the poor protection services, while others blame it on the don't-give-a-damn attitude of the people, including the government. . . On the first reason — poaching. This is a very big problem, not only in this area but elsewhere. You wonder just what is going on when you see a Warden driving around in a real classy car, especially when you are given a rundown on other circumstances. But to me this doesn't mean a thing. The blame can certainly be put on the poachers in a big way, but stopping them is another problem. There is one thing that would put a quick stop to this practice — much stiffer penalties. The present fines are no real deterrent. As a matter of fact, a poacher can pay his fine with one deer shot out of season. . . I have not too much to say about our protection services. Due to shortages in their budget, no real progress can be made in stamping out malpractices in the wildlife field. . . And for the attitude of the people, this is another thing. Most of us seem to think game laws are for everyone to break knowingly. There is absolutely no co-operation to stamp out lawless practices. After all, we don't squeal. If the law-breakers are smart enough to get away with it, good luck to them. . . A deplorable attitude, believe me.

In my opinion (for what it is worth) the government is to blame for this whole mess — that is, the "brain trust" end of it. With extended limits, seasons, etc., their don't care attitude is the real cause of the trouble. Deer, as we know, had a rough time of it from human hands last year, resulting I believe in the worst kill in the province for some years. With the season being extended in certain areas, it does not appear the government is really interested in conservation, does it?

I know I beef about this a lot, with seemingly no response in expression of your opinions. Maybe you don't care; after all there are other things more important to worry about. This may be true, but to me it is tragic to see "La Belle Province" cleaned out of its natural resources. And this is coming, just as sure as the Maker made little birds.

While still in this beefing mood, what has happened to the Pure Waters we are promised? My gosh, the streams and rivers are more polluted now than they ever were. Don't believe me — take the time to go down to Montreal Harbor, and from there go up to Lake St. Louis. In some stretches you may need a gas mask to counteract the stench. It's a great sight to see raw sewage drifting down with the sluggish current. Any outsider would sure get a great impression. Taking a long look at this — what happens at the World's Fair; do they issue gas masks to everyone, with compliments of the management? Maybe I should suggest this, or better still, have them take an open boat trip to some of these places.

How come the Tourist Bureau does not have maps for this area? A visitor called in to enquire about good summer motels, etc.; he could not find out just where to go, as the directions were not specific. I do know maps cost money, but I think they would pay for themselves in the long run. It could be that the ads would pay the shot, too.

While fishing last Sunday, I found a wood duck's nest in a stump of a tree; there were five young ones in it too. I'm sure no human is going to get in close to them, not if I can help it.

Garbage question 'finally' settled, other problems persist, at B'burg

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — After many months of negotiating, planning, investigating — the Brownsburg Council appears to have once again "finally" settled the question of what to do with the town garbage. For $7,500 a year, an outside contractor will be picking up the refuse in his own trucks and taking it to a site of his own choosing, out of the Brownsburg area. Should commercial establishments desire extra service, they will be required to make arrangements with the contractor. Council estimates had set the cost of their own garbage disposal system at a substantially higher figure. Being careful not to burn their bridges behind them, Council members decided to go ahead with the purchase of the local dump site and hold on to the garbage truck for the present. One other individual who offered a tender for the contract stated a price of $11,000, or $8,500 if the town provided a dump site.

Another item of importance to local home builders — while the Woodbine Avenue water and sewerage extension managed to squeak through by a narrow margin, the proposed extension in the Cedar Crest Homes area was chopped off suddenly. A letter from Mr. Gustave Prevost, chairman of the Water Purification Board, stated that no further sewerage extensions would be permitted in Brownsburg until the town adopts the proposal for a sewage treatment plant.

In an effort to catch up on the ways of municipal government, newly-elected Councillor Harold Barber asked a number of questions which continue to bother a good many local citizens. . . "What alternative do we have? If we don't build the sewerage plant, what happens?" "What do other towns do about sewerage projects?". . . The answer to the second question was easily provided by another of the Council members: "Lachute is still conducting a study on the question of water purification, so it appears that as long as a town has not turned down the provincial government's request to build a sewage disposal system, they are eligible to proceed with further building projects. The answer to the other question was not forthcoming, and while efforts are being made to convince the government of the importance of completing projects already started, councillors and taxpayers alike still wonder, "What will happen if we don't build a sewage disposal system?"

Still on the subject of water, a number of citizens from the western section of the town appeared, to ask for improved service in regard to their water supply. This is another problem which has been in evidence for a number of years. While some areas of the southern and eastern sections of town have more than adequate water pressure, the homeowners in the higher areas have encountered difficulty in getting water to the second floor of their homes. Council was unable to promise anything at all, aside from an indication that the questions would be looked into.

Water Skiing
WITH CLINT WARD

Many boaters seem to think there is a great mystery to the knots and the ropes and lines used around a boat. Actually it's possible to get by adequately knowing only one knot . . . the bowline.

But here are some of the questions I'm asked concerning ropes and knots:

I bought rope advertised as being made from sisal. What is it; is it any good?

Answer: Sisal rope is made from a fibre grown in Mexico and South America. It is not as good as manila, grown in the East Indies. Manila rope will stand more wear and abuse than any other natural fibre rope. Other fibres used are sisal, hemp, jute, cotton. Synthetic fibres used are nylon, dacron, polyethylene, and polypropylene, (the last two float).

Is a splice stronger than a knot in joining two lines?

Answer: Very much so. A splice can attain 90 per cent of the strength of the original rope, whereas a knot is seldom better than 65 per cent as strong.

How does mildew harm rope?

Answer: It doesn't harm ropes made of artificial fibres. That's why they are so popular. They can be stored wet. Mildew is a fungus which feeds on natural-fibre ropes and destroys the fibres. Mildew thrives under warm, wet conditions.

Which type of rope is strongest? (K.R. Banff)

Answer: The synthetic fibres . . . by far. Here's a comparison: three-eighths inch manila has a tensile strength of 1,350 pounds, but three-eighths nylon has a strength of 3,400 pounds. This means that synthetic ropes can be much smaller to have the same strength.

What's a heaving line? (P.T.T. Dorion, Quebec)

Answer: This is a light rope carried on bigger boats . . . cruisers and yachts . . . which may be tossed or "heaved" to someone on the dockside, and then used to haul a heavier line ashore to tie up the boat. The light rope used for towing water skiers is ideal as a heaving line.

I notice water-ski tow rope is braided, not laid in twists like ordinary rope. Why?

Answer: It resists kinking, despite being repeatedly coiled. Braiding gives it a greater springiness, too. Undoubtedly you've noticed water-ski tow ropes also float. They are made of two new synthetics, polyethylene and polypropylene.

What knots do I need to know to tie up a boat? (T.S. Fort William)

Answer: The one knot every boater should know is the bowline. It makes the noose or loop that well never slip. It can be used in a hundred ways. Appended is a sketch of how to tie a bowline and how it may be used.

Named a director of Blue Bonnets

A business item in the Montreal press last week contained an announcement of interest here — J.-Louis Lévesque, president of Blue Bonnets Raceway Inc., having announced the election to the board of directors of Ernest G. Ayers, Charles John Jackson and Raymond Lemay.

Mr. Ayers, well known here, is president of Ayers Stable Ltd., a director of Ayers Limited and of Dominion Ayers Ltd. He is also a director junior of F. I. C. Funds Inc.

Alf Shand ranks fourth in PGA points for season

Jack Kay, of Pinegrove, continues to head the list of points earned to date toward the $1,000 O'Keefe-Quebec PGA Points Performance Prize, with a commanding lead over his nearest rival, Jack Bissegar, of Val Morin. The standings, released following last Friday's Quebec Open, show Kay with 49.66 points and Bissegar with 38.00.

Stan Kolar's Quebec Open win moves him closer to the O'Keefe Points Performance money, pushing close behind Bissegar in third spot with 31.00 points. In fourth spot with 30.00 points is Alf Shand, of Lachute.

These results show standings at the half-way mark with three of the six qualifying tournaments played. Points standings also include Adrian Bigras, of Ste. Dorothee, 5th with 21.58; Bobby Rousseau, of Joliette, 6th with 20.00 points; Stan Horne, of Islesmere and Jean Guy Periard, of Boucherville, tied for 7th position with 15.99 points; and Damien Gauthier, of Municipal, and Jules Huot, of Laval, with 15.66 and 13.25, respectively.

Farm Safety Week, July 19-25

The farmer's vital stake

FARMERS have a big stake in the safe operation of their farm equipment — their lives.

Accidents involving farm machinery continue to take many lives or cause injuries that result in costly medical bills and lost time. Most of these could be prevented by a little care and thought on the part of the operators.

Because fatigue breeds carelessness, all machinery operators should take regular "breaks" when working long hours.

Carelessness all too often has resulted in a tractor driver being fatally crushed beneath his overturned machine — usually because he turned too sharply at high speeds or took unnecessary chances when operating the tractor on the side of a hill or embankment.

Moving belts, chains, gears and shafts that are improperly shielded are invitations to mishaps, especially if loose clothing is worn while working near them.

Attempting to repair or adjust a machine while it is running is an obvious danger, but many accidents stem from this practice.

An accidentally engaged clutch and the use of inadequate supports to prop up a machine for repairs, rate fairly high on the list of accident causes.

Some further advice:

When using a tractor or any other machine equipped with a seat, do not attempt to operate it except when in the seat. Never allow children to ride on the tractor.

Turn off the ignition key before dismounting from a tractor. This is even more important when it is hitched to a cutting machine.

New angle on life jackets — a personal fit

IN ALL BOATING accidents where fatalities occurred which where investigated last year by the Ontario Safety League, not one victim was wearing a government approved life jacket in good condition. Everyone taking part in boating, canoeing, or water skiing is constantly being reminded to use government approved life jackets.

It is important to have not only government approved jackets, but tested equipment. All life jackets should be tested by the future wearer in safe testing conditions. This is advisable because each person has a different centre of gravity and floats or sinks in a correspondingly different fashion. Be sure the life jacket you have chosen automatically turns you over on your back with your face out of the water under any circumstances. If necessary try out different styles of government approved life jackets until you find the one that will do this consistently. Then make this your personal jacket and be sure that it is with you at all times in the boat and when you are water skiing.

Too large life jackets on children can be dangerous. Manufactured in three sizes the life jackets are designed to be worn: by children weighing up to 45 pounds, from 45 to 90 pounds, and adult sizes. When a child wears a life jacket that is too large, the flotation is often at the wrong place on the child's body to effectively keep the face out of water. Never buy a large size jacket thinking the child will grow into it; this could be tragic economy. Always fasten your life jacket securely so it will not shift with impact or when the body is immersed. Children should have their "personal" life jackets which have been tested on them and proven effective.

Life jackets will not save lives on dry land or on the bottom of a boat — concludes The Winchester Press, from which this editorial is quoted.

School and university examinations

EXAMINATIONS have been in the headlines in France (and the province of Ontario too — notes the Fort Erie Letter-Review). In France the Sureté Nationale announced that the philosophy paper in the Baccalaureate examination had fallen into unauthorized hands and had been sold to candidates at prices ranging from $30 to $300. The paper in question listed three topics and students were given four hours to write an essay on one of the three.

Strong criticism of the Baccalaureate examination has been expressed in France for many years. One of the criticisms has been the difficulty of fair grading of essays by the large number of teachers who act as examiners. Another criticism has been the great strain under which French students are placed because of the very high standard set.

In Ontario a Grade 13 study committee has reported and Education Minister William Davis has announced, that in future Grade 13 students will be judged partly on the year's work. This should help to reduce the nervous strain of examination time — a factor which deserves consideration also in Quebec!

Not everyone agrees that it is wise to make the educational process pleasant and easy. Certainly the universities and special schools of France bear a superior reputation, partly because of the high admission standard. Curriculum changes that would stress the stretching of minds rather than the stuffing of minds with facts, should be welcomed. It is refreshing these days to read of kindergarten children coping with arithmetical problems, and enjoying them. Standards need not be relaxed if educational methods can be developed to assist students to achieve their full potential.

Why not be courteous?

A NONDESCRIPT couple showed up at the office of the president of Harvard University years ago. "You will have to be brief" the president said, tartly. "I'm a very busy man and can give you only a few moments." Not wishing to impose on such an important person and such important time, the man and wife got up and left immediately.

Their mission was to give Harvard millions of dollars, but they gave it instead to start a new university in the West. It was named for the donor, Leland Stanford.

Just the other day an elderly man was seen wandering the corridors of Chase Manhatten Bank's giant headquarters building in New York. "Can I help you, sir?" a courteous employee asked. "I hope so," the man replied. "I just left another bank where I stood around for 10 minutes and nobody even spoke to me." The old gentleman opened a trust account for half a million dollars. A few days later he named the bank executor for his $800,000 will.

Losses do not often run into the millions for lack of courtesy, but many concerns lose profitable business because they fail to show elementary consideration and kindness.

Viewpoints and perspectives

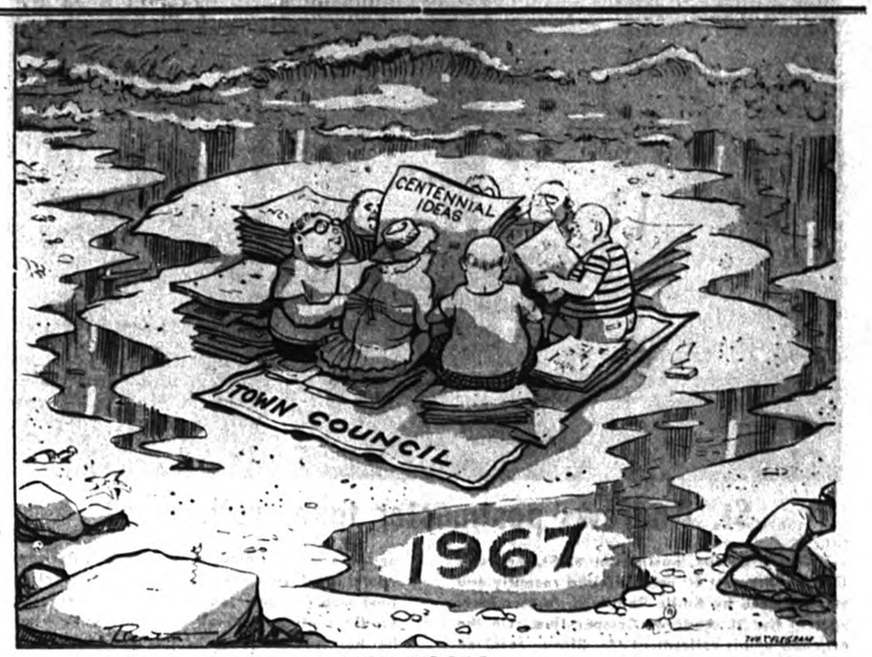

CHANGED ATTITUDE. — There is a changing attitude in New Brunswick fish and game circles. Instead of "how much can I get", the younger sportsman is more concerned with scientific wildlife management and continuing supply of our renewable natural resources. Today he invariably asks, "What can I do to help?".

— Woodstock (N.B.) Sentinel-Press

WHY SAVE SECONDS? — If you drive at 35 where the safe speed would be 30, the B.C. Automobile Association says the time you save in one mile is no more than 17 seconds. However frantic life may be, nobody would notice reducing a meal hour by one minute; sleeping time by five minutes; the time spent under a shower by 30 seconds.

SUGAR AND SPICE

Man's Worst Madness

By BILL SMILEY

Great strides have been made in the twentieth century toward the conquering of disease. One after another, typhoid, smallpox diptheira, polio and whooping cough have been knocked on the head. And the medical people are hot on the trail of cancer.

That's why it's so discouraging to realize that while today's medicine-men have had their noses glued to a test-tube, a little virus that at first seemed harmless, has sneaked around behind them, spread with the stealth of spilled maple syrup, and is now resulting in an epidemic of appalling proportions.

Worse still, there is no drug that will kill it for it is not a physical ailment but a mental aberration. Already this highly contagious mania has hit so many people that it's not likely anything will stop its ravages of the race except the radio-active fallout that will stop everything one of these days.

Its symptoms are unmistakeable, its victims easily discerned. When under an attack, they will: suddenly leave work in the middle of th aftrnoon; miss the funerals of close relatives; skip meals, though they love their victuals; desert their loved ones at all sorts of odd hours; inexplicable recover from pain or illness that would have them moaning in bed, in the winter. Oh yes, this disease is most prevalent in summer, as polio was.

This mental illness to which I refer, of course, is that ancient and honourable state of mind – it's not a game and don't ever think it is- called golf.

Don't snort, gentle reader. Perhaps you have thus far escaped the anaconda coils of this serpent-like sport but you're not safe unless you're over 90, bed ridden, and the relatives are sitting around wishing you'd hurry up and die so they could get out and hit a

Just the other day I was sitting on a bench at the 7th tee. An elderly man came up, playing with two others. He let them go on without him, and collapsed beside me. "Played whuff six holes today," he wheezed triumphantly. "Had a whuff heart attack two weeks ago, whuff. Gotta take it easy. Played whuff three holes yesterday. I'll make whuff nine tomorrow."

Golf used to be a game for rich people and a few professionals. It was associated with country clubs, snobbery and social climbing. But something has happened in the last decade, and we rabble have stormed the barricades and infiltrated the fairways. Go out to a course any day and you'll see a butcher and a baker, a printer and preacher, a hair dresser and HOTEL KEEPER, HURLING THEMSELVES WITH UNANIMOUS VIGOUR AND INACCURACY IN THE GENERAL DIRECTION OF THE BOUNCY LITTLE FIEND OF A BALL.

Old ladies who should be home knitting garments for grandchildren sweat happily around the course, hacking divots as big as dishpans. Attractive young women who should be sitting around at a beach or bar, just looking beautiful, putting languidly about in long, tanned legs and short, tight shorts. Thereby wrecking the concentration of old codgers, who are distracted into slicing $1.50 balls into the rough, after spending $300 in lessons to get rid of that slice.

Oh, I know. The whole thing is ridiculous. "What could be sillier," I used to say before the virus entered my veins, than walking around hitting a little ball with a stick". I still think it's crazy, a mere obsession. And the day I break 100, I'm going to throw away my clubs and start living again, which will probably be about the same day I'm elected president of the Women's Institute.

CONFIDENCE

When we were youngsters, our teachers used to make us learn about the products which make each country famous and prosperous. Canada, of course, was the breadbasket to the world, first in newsprint, nickel, etc., etc. One very important thing was missed.

Confidence didn't get a mention. Yet, in my opinion, it is one of the most valuable assets of a nation or an individual. Minerals buried underground are worthless without the confidence to dig them up and find markets for them. Talents, in the individual, often lie dormant unless there is the confidence to put them to use.

I believe it was the head of the now-famous IBM company that advised young men to "double your rate of failure." In short, to get out and do things, and learn by your mistakes.

There is an air of confidence in Canada today. Not enough, however. There are still far too many who seem to make it their business to talk Canada down, to emphasize problems, to nag instead of brag.

Sure, Canada has faults, and they should be pointed out. But we have umpteen virtues for every fault, and THAT deserves a mention too.

Canada, with an adverse climate and a small population, is doing some pretty big things in the world. We are now a factor to be considered in the competitive world of trade instead of a country called upon only when a war is threatened. Our products have an excellent reputation abroad. Our business management is the best it has ever been, and labor management has matured in wisdom with it.

We've every reason for confidence. Let's begin to show it!

THIS WEEK & NEXT

The Wallace Smear

By RAY ARGYLE

Canadians usually look on the U.S. civil rights revolution as a purely American dilemma. We found out differently last week, when the controversy overflowed into Canada with Alabama governor George Wallace's appearance at the Lions International convention in Toronto.

The fact that this smooth-spoken racist was given a platform to spread his demagoguery before Canadians was not the fault of the Lions — in fact it was the source of considerable embarrassment to them.

The Governor was in Canada by virtue of Lions custom of bringing to each convention the governor of the home state of the Lions International president. This year's president is from Alabama, hence the invitation to Gov. Wallace.

Toronto has its own outspoken anti-discrimination organizations, and when they heard the Alabama governor was coming to Canada they sent pickets to protest his appearance. Some of the Lions felt they were being unfairly smeared by injection of political issues over which they had no control.

Canadian groups have of course every right to engage in non-violent demonstrations. But at the same time only the most rabid civil rights advocate would criticize the Lions for a situation for which they are blameless.

There is no reason, however, to be so tolerant of Gov. Wallace.

The Alaama governor is an articulate spokesman for the south's dying segregationist society. He has the Southern politician's classic ability of sugar-coating the evils of segregation to make it look as if the white man is the protector and guardian not only of the Negro but of civilization itself in Dixie, U.S.A.

Gov. Wallace also is well-informed about Canada's treatment of its minorities and about our restrictive immigration polices. He has often cuttingly criticized Canadians—with considerable justification—for our sometimes hypocritical attitudes on the color question.

One of his favorite themes is that Canada doesn't have a color problem simply because we don't allow colored people in an number to migrate to Canada.

Gov. Wallace is not without grounds for his criticism of Canada. Our immigration policies pretend to be non-discriminatory but this is not true. By favoring skilled workers and educated persons, we effectively bar untrained coloreds while attracting the very people which emerging nations can least afford to lose—the skilled and educated.

Our treatment of native Indians is a national disgrace. We have never made a serious effort to integrate either the Indians or Eskimos into our society. We leave them in their ignorance and privation because we don't give a damn what becomes of them.

But as bad as all this is, it is pretty pale stuff compared to the vicious Southern conspiracy to downhole the Negro, to keep him in a state of uneducated poverty, to deny him political and civil rights, all for the basic purpose of maintaining a pool of cheap labor. When a Southern white family boasts—as they are wont to—of getting a maid for $15 a week, it's clear that economic exploitation is the real reason for racial discrimination.

Early resident of Shrewsbury died in 93rd year

The late Miss Susan Good

An impressive funeral service was held in St. John's Church, Shrewsbury, on Sunday, July 19, for Susan Good, dearly beloved daughter of the late Capt. Wm. Good and Mary Ann Oborne.

The late Miss Good, who was born in Shrewsbury on June 15, 1872, and passed away in the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Montreal on July 16, was a descendant of one of the earliest pioneer families of the district. She was a genuine Christian woman and, being a keen devotee of nature, the love of the country of her forefathers remained with her throughout her life.

From an early age until her 75th birthday, Miss Good was secretary in a law office in Montreal, where her kindly spirit gained her the respect and esteem of all who came in contact with her. She was deeply concerned with the underprivileged, and gave of her time and money unstintingly on their behalf.

Fine weather contributed to a beautiful service, impressively conducted in the historical old Shrewsbury Church by the Rev. C. R. Lang, of Lachute, assisted by the Rev. H. G. Lester of Kingston, a nephew of the deceased. Mrs. Keith Morrison was organist.

The remains were subsequently laid to rest beside her parents in the peaceful cemetery adjoining the church. She was loved by all who knew her — a fact well evidenced by those in attendance and the large number of floral tributes.

Chief mourners were a brother, John A. Good, and his son Clarence, of Shrewsbury; Mr. Wm. Horwood, of Dunany; H. E. Horwood, of Montreal; Miss Ruth Lester, of Montreal; Mr. A. G. Lester, of Montreal; and the Rev. Harold Lester of Kingston.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Earle Horwood, Robin Good, Wes Copeland, Dough Smith, Victor Woods and Keith Morrison.

Among those attending from a distance were numerous friends and relatives from Lachute, Montreal and Kingston.

He leaves to mourn him are his wife, Jeanne; three daughters, Anne, Marilyn and Carmen; two brothers, David and Ernest, of Lachute; three sisters, Laura, Bertha and Florence, of Montreal, Blanche, of Lachute, and Nellie, of Westlock, Alta. Funeral held from Jos. Lavigne's Funeral Parlor in Montreal, interment, Lachute Protestant Cemetery, Wednesday, July 22.

IN MEMORIAM

RAYMOND (Jennie and John) — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, who passed away July 25, 1963, and a dear father and grandfather, who passed away July 15, 1940. — Always remembered by daughter, Mabel, Henry, granddaughters and great-grandchildren.

"Often think of days gone by, when we were all together. As time fades and shadows fall, sweet remembrance outlasts all."

St. Andrews postmaster takes retirement

Ovilda Giroux, postmaster at St. Andrews East for the past 30 years, retired recently and was replaced by Emile Robillard, former manager of the St. Andrews Co-operative. On the occasion of his retirement Mr. Giroux received from the Hon. Mr. Nicholson, Postmaster General, a certificate in appreciation of his services — presented, above, by L.-P. Pariseau, postal staff supervisor (left). . . The retired postmaster (right) took occasion to express a kindly sentiment to all residents with whom he has had business in the years since his appointment, in December 1933.

Pleasing concert by string quartet

The second concert of the CAMMAC Summer School of Music featured the Sinnhoffer String Quartet from Munich, Germany, a youthful foursome that will possibly be touring the world for many years to come. Their program featured both modern and romantic music — and last Saturday evening at Lachute High School was well worth the effort of attending on such a warm night.

The Quartet Op. 16, No. 2 by Boris Blacher, was the first number on this concert, a modern composition of difficult tones and movements, and one that needed interpretation to the uninitiated. A change on the program brought a beautiful string quartet of Beethoven, a composition full of beauty in all the four parts. Following the interval, A Minor Op. 51, No. 2 by J. Brahms, was played by the Quartet, and this rendition had great appeal for the audience.

Next week's concert is one of the highlights of the summer, when Jan Simons, a very popular baritone of Montreal and one of the teachers at the Music Camp, will feature music of Purcell, Faure and Vaughan-Williams. He is to be accompanied by one of the foremost piano masters of the world, John Newmark. The late Kathleen Ferrier, renowned English contralto, when touring the U.S.A., always requested John Newmark as accompanist, claiming his was the finest to be had anywhere. This concert will be at Lachute High School, starting at 8.30 next Saturday.

The final concert of the season, on Saturday, August 1, will feature the now famous trio of Mario Duchesnes, flute; Otto Joachim, viola; and John Newmark, piano. This is another musical treat that should not be missed.

Says no juvenile delinquency in 'Witness' families

"Jehovah's Witnesses recognize that any program to combat juvenile delinquency should start in the home," says Henry Purucker, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses for Lachute and surrounding area.

Mr. Purucker is one of the organizers of the convention to be held by French-speaking Jehovah's Witnesses in Granby this week-end, July 23 to 26. In order to bring up their children in the best way possible, Jehovah's Witnesses follow the teachings of the Bible, which are far from being out of date, even for our 20th century. They consider that the parents' good conduct and example in the home are good factors for combatting delinquency — states Mr. Purucker.

The Witnesses believe the best method of overcoming juvenile delinquency is to prevent it. In order to protect their children, they make it their duty to study the Bible with them at least once a week.

Passed exams in pianoforte

The following piano pupils have been successful in obtaining certificates from different institutions. They are all studying Piano and Theory from Miss Juliette Rodrigue, local piano tutor.

Conservatory of Toronto — Ann Gorman, Grade VIII, with Honors.

McGill University — Winnie Hadley, Grade VI, with Honors; Linda Drew, Grade IV, with High Distinction.

Grandparents Are Important

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Grandparents are important! In two delightful stories to read aloud, grandmothers play important roles. In "No Roses for Harry", Grandmother knits the family dog a green sweater with red roses, and in "Pelle's New Suit" a Swiss boy has one grandmother spin the wool from his pet sheep while the other grandmother weaves the cloth for it. What do the grandparents in your family do for your children? What do you and your children do for them?

The attitude of the mother and father to the grandparent is very important. A child senses, without hearing any words, whether or not there is love and trust in the relationship between his elders.

Parents are often greatly indebted to a grandmother who helps out on the ever present "baby-sitter" problem. At the same time, much as mother and dad appreciate freedom from the responsibility of looking after their children for a short time, grandparents should not be imposed on. They have had their turn in raising a family, they are older now and should not be left with small youngsters for long periods of time. The child's presence should be a joy and not a burden to the grandparents.

Have you heard a mother complain that grandma or grandpa upset their child's schedule or gave him candies between meals? A mother can avoid a good deal of conflict if she will talk over with a grandparent her doctor's ideas on child raising, such as "Candy after meals, because sweets before eating take away the child's appetite."

Grandparents are usually reasonable if they know exactly what are the most important rules which are being followed in a child's routine. They can see that not only mother and father, but all the adults who care for a child, should stick to the same general pattern. It is confusing for a child to have different regulations when different people are minding him. At the same time a schedule should be a bit flexible to allow for special occasions.

There is one place where grandparents have an advantage over father or mother. Usually they have a good deal more leisure than a parent. There is frequently a very fine bond between a child and a grandparent. They enjoy each other's company. Grandma and grandpa greatly enrich a small child's life when they read, sing, tell stories, play building blocks or go for a walk with him.

If a grandparent has a warm bond with an older grandchild, and restrains the impulse to sit in judgment or give unasked advice, the adolescent may often seek the grandparents in order to have someone to discuss problems or worries. Just to be "a listening ear" is a very great service, especially to youth.

How many adults have fond memories of good times with a grandparent! How much poorer their childhood would have been if a grandmother or grandfather had not been generous in countless ways! What a sense of loss came over them when they knew they would never again hear granddad's voice of see granny's welcoming smile!

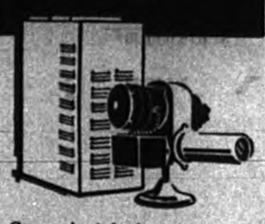

Show your appreciation of your child's older relatives. Teach your son or daughter to be courteous, loving and patient with all older folk.

Where your food dollar goes

According to a 16-year study of spending in grocery and food stores by U.S. consumers, every dollar goes something like this: dry groceries 29c; meat 25c; non-foods 19c; produce 10c; dairy products 8c; baked goods 7c; and frozen foods 4c.

Expressed another way, out of each $20 bill spent in a supermarket, $16.17 or a little over 80% is used for edible food items for human consumption. The balance of $3.83 buys non-foods such as laundry supplies, health and beauty aids, tobacco, paper products, etc. Today there are over 8,000 food and non-food items and services competing for the consumer's dollar.

Outdoor salads

Delightfully cool and hunger-satisfying are these outdoor salads. In the foreground is a 'made-on-the-spot' salad — a hand-made foil bowl holds crispy greens brought to the picnic in plastic bags. Behind it is a real meal in a bowl — a hearty mixture of chilled ham and macaroni.

Recipes for these salads and many more can be found in the new booklet "Salads" prepared by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. Single copies may be obtained free from the Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Salads go with dairy products

(Consumer Section)

"Sour cram is the dairy food special in this cabbage and carrot

Mexicali Salad

1 Cup shredded raw carrot, 1½ cups finely shredded cabbage, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ¼ cup diced celery, ¼ cup sliced radishes, ¼ cup sliced green onion, 2 medium tomatoes diced (about 1¼ cups), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup French dressing, ¼ cup commercial sour cream.

Combine vegetables, salt and pepper, add French dressing and toss to coat pieces. Refrigerate for ½ hour. Just before serving drain off dressing, add sour cream, and toss to coat pieces. Six servings.

Cucumber and Sour Cream Salad

"Hardly needs any explanation — sour cream complements the cool cucumbers to perfection."

3 Medium cucumbers (about 6 inches long), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup commercial sour cream, 2 tablespoons white vinegar, ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.

Peel and slice cucumbers thinly. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well and let stand 30 minutes, stirring occasionally; or, for crisper slices, cover with ice water. Drain thoroughly, pressing out excess liquid. Combine sour cream with water. Drain thoroughly, pressing out excess liquid. Combine sour cream with remaining ingredients, add the drained cucumbers and mix well. Six servings.

'Please pass the pickled eggs'

This summer eggs are so plentiful and low priced we will be able to use lots of them for summer meals and outdoor eating. All sizes are good buys.

Eggs are sold by grade in retail stores across Canada. Look for the grade name on the carton. Most of the eggs sold are "Canada Grade A". They are sized by weight — Extra Large, Large, Medium, Small and PeeWee.

Large-size eggs weigh 2 ounces or over, Medium 1¾ to 2 ounces, Small 1½ to 1¾ ounces. This means that the volume that you get from one dozen eggs will vary according to size.

Pickled Eggs

Pickled eggs are a favorite snack any time of the year, but they are especially welcome during the hot summer months. Their spicy piquant flavor adds zest and interest to meals.

Perhaps the favorite way to eat them is whole — out of hand, but they can be sliced or quartered and served on garnish plates, in salads or in hot dishes where hard-cooked eggs are indicated.

Pickled eggs require careful preparation and a subtle blending of seasonings for best results. The home economists of the Consumer Section have developed the following recipe for pickled eggs. They think it is especially suited to the Canadian palate.

12 Hard-cooked eggs (shelled) 2 cups white vinegar, ¾ cup water, 2 teaspoons salt, 12 whole cloves, 2 medium pieces ginger root, 1 teaspoon whole pepper berries, 1 medium bay leaf (optional).

Place eggs in a jar. Combine vinegar, water and salt in a small saucepan. Add spices tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Boil gently, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Remove spice bag and chill vinegar. Pour over eggs, adding more vinegar if necessary to completely cover. Cover jars (to prevent evaporation) and let stand for at least two days before using. These eggs will keep for a month at room temperature. However, the longer they stand, the stronger the vinegar flavor.

POPULATION

Canada's population at April 1, 1964, totalled 19,180,000, an increase of 334,000 from one year earlier, and of 942,000 since the 1961 census.

Dollard des Ormeaux' historic exploit

— Contributed by Norman Thorburn —

Writer opposes Quebec's conviction as to site of Long Sault Battle

Many writers who make or have made Argenteuil County their home, have during their literary career taken a guess as to where the Battle of the Long Sault was fought.

I was working in Notary Beaudoin's office in the last provincial elections, when Mr. James Kirby entered one day. I already knew Mr. Kirby. We began to talk about Dollard des Ormeaux.

Mr. Kirby expressed his view that the battle was fought on the Ross farm, across the river from Grece's Point.

Mr. Beaudoin told us that a nun once showed him a letter, in Dollard's handwriting and signed by him. Mr. Beaudoin offered the sister $50 for it, but she willed the letter to the Catholic Church before she died.

James Kirby is almost 80 years of age, and was born in West Hawkesbury. He lived close to the Long Sault Rapids almost all his life. He is not a historian, nor an archaeologist, so perhaps you ask, "What does he know about the Battle of the Long Sault?" Let me tell you that few people living today know the Long Sault, as it was in the 19th Century, better than that humble retired resident of East Settlement, James Kirby.

Few people living today know what he maintains was Dollard's old fort, on the Ross farm, as it was in the 19th Century.

In 1897, Mr. Kirby's father bought the Watson farm, which adjoined the Ross farm. He and all the neighbors around that countryside believed that the old fort on the Ross farm was where Dollard made his last stand, against his country's dreaded enemies, the Iroquois.

The fence line between the Ross and Watson farms ran down to the Ottawa River, at the foot of the Long Sault Rapids. It is generally agreed that it was at the foot of the Long Sault Rapids, that Dollard fought his battle.

The Carillon Rapids were not an integral part of the Long Sault Rapids at all, according to Mr. Kirby; they were some miles distant from them.

Coming down the river from the Hawkesbury-Grenville area, he knew the course of navigation in the Long Sault Rapids, as well as he knew his own mother. All the currents, channels, eddies, shoals, whirlpools and rocks, both above and below the water's surface, he knew them all. Coming down the river from Grenville and Hawkesbury, all canoes, boats or rafts going through the Long Sault Rapids steered to the Ontario side of a big rock, called the Goose. At 100-yard intervals going down the rapids were several smaller rocks called the Goslings. The Quebec side of the rapids was not navigable and all traffic through the rapids followed a narrow, swift-flowing channel on the Ontario side.

Mr. Kirby, as a youth, used to get work as a barge helper on the canal on the Quebec side of the rapids that went from Grece's Point to Grenville. Along the banks of the canal were posts at 100-yard intervals, where the barges sometimes tied up for the night. Jim Kirby's duty was to lift the ropes over the posts, as the horse-drawn barges approached them.

He would come home to the old Watson farm on the huge rafts, that ran through the rapids. As he approached the foot of the Long Sault, near his home, he dove into the river and swam to the shore.

At the end of the fence line between the Ross and Watson farms, the swift-flowing current suddenly left the Ontario side and shot across the river to Grece's Point. There it ended up in swirling eddies and deadly whirlpools, where no Iroquois canoe could possibly have stayed afloat; it would have been smashed to pieces.

The Iroquois, coming down the Long Sault Rapids, would certainly have had to keep to the Ontario side of the river, in the narrow and swift-flowing channel through the rapids. Dollard was a French soldier; he had ambitions, he had studied military strategy. He didn't want to commit suicide, if he could avoid it. His whole force of French and Indian allies numbered only 25 men. His plan was to trap the Iroquois in the swift-flowing rapids and slaughter them en masse.

A quarter of a mile west of the old fort on the Ross Farm, the Little Rideau River flowed, and cascaded into the Ottawa with a drop of 20 feet. Here in the cedars 20 feet above the Ottawa, was an ideal spot to slaughter the Iroquois as they approached, and Mr. Kirby believes that it was here Dollard first engaged the Iroquois. No arrowheads were found here in 1897, because the Indians would be unable to shoot arrows while their war-canoes were running the rapids. The Indians were trapped, as Dollard planned, and they couldn't hide from his bullets. Volley after volley poured down on the hapless Iroquois, as they ran the gauntlet of French fire.

Mr. Kirby and his young friends, most of whom have now gone to their eternal rest, found most of their arrowheads and tomahawks in the water, about 100 yards from the fort. They recovered the arrowheads and tomahawks from the river with long rakes. They found artifacts around the fort too, and probably some of these had been picked up before 1897. The fort itself was about 40 feet in length by 20 feet wide.

Dollard and his men had cut off some trees about 5 feet high along the intended line of the walls of the fort. Inside the fort the virgin cedars had been dug up with shovels, and the main roots chopped off. Some of these cedars were almost a foot in diameter. He laid the trunks of these cedars in the openings between the stumps of the others he had cut off 5 feet from the ground. The fort was stronger facing the north and west, where he thought the Iroquois would attack. The sand in the fort was 3 feet deep, on a rock base. They had thrown sand up on the walls of the fort from the inside, to cover up all the cracks in the walls.

Those Iroquois who escaped from the French fire, made for the shore and united their forces, and finally, unable to overcome the French from the front, attacked them from the rear.

Many of the Iroquois' arrows overshot the fort, and landed in the river. Jim Kirby says that about 400 arrowheads and tomahawks were collected in the river, and around the fort, in the years of 1897-1898. One boy found a small metallic object, badly corroded. He polished and scraped it, and it shone with a golden gleam. It was a brass button. Dollard, and some at least of his men, were wearing the uniform of the French Army.

Jim Kirby and his young friends searched for human remains, but found none.

No effort was made by either the federal or Ontario governments to preserve the site. When, after many years' absence, Mr. Kirby returned to the haunts of his youth, he found that tramping cows and horses had destroyed much of the fort.

Quebecers, both French and English, remain sentimentally and emotionally attached to the idea that Carillon was the site of Dollard's last stand. I can't withstand the blinding glare of truth. Mr. Kirby has converted me to his opinion.

It is handy to know several ways to prepare favorite salads.

Chicken can be combined with any number of things to give it a slightly different taste for sandwiches or plain salad.

For one, try: 1 cup chopped cooked chicken; 3 thinly sliced radishes; 4 chopped ripe olives; ¼ cup diced green pepper; salad dressing or mayonnaise to moisten; salt and pepper; rosemary, curry or garlic powder (optional).

Combine ingredients, season to taste. Yields about six sandwiches.

Miss Mireille Charron (left) and Mrs. Jeannine Campbell, who work in the C-I-L plant at Brownsburg, are seen modelling two of the latest summer dresses in colorful "Terylene" for practical wear. The electronics lab technician is Hubert Charron who was momentarily distracted by this invasion.

Annual picnic for sightless folk, enjoyable event

The annual picnic for the sightless people of Lachute district, sponsored by the CNIB and its Women's Auxiliary, was held on Wednesday, July 8, at the Brownsburg Rotary Park. This year the event was favored with perfect weather, and a good time was enjoyed. A picnic in the "wide open spaces" is a real treat indeed for blind people, whose outings are somewhat limited due to their visual handicap.

The refreshments were provided and served by members of the Women's Auxiliary. The CNIB is deeply indebted to the following for their kind donations — Lowe Bros. Dairy, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, J. R. Desjardins, and Chevrier Lachute Ltée. The institute would also like to thank the volunteer drivers — Miss E. Chisholm, Mrs. George McGibbon, Mrs. T. Hall, Mrs. C. Mansour, Mrs. Clifford Lowe, Mrs. E. Gordon, Mr. Gordon McOuat, Mrs. J. Gorman and Mrs. John Bradley.

The institute, and all sightless people present at this picnic, are grateful to the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary and the volunteer drivers, for making their day a very enjoyable one.

Machine packs hot dogs

One of the food concessions at Yankee Stadium has come out with a new packaging machine for hot dogs (or franks-in-buns, as some Americans call them). The machine feeds cut hot dogs completely wrapped and sealed in individual cellophane packs.

A plunger pushes the weiner and bun through heated rollers. As they are wrapped in cellophane, they pass through two more rollers which heat-seal the film and separate the packages. It is reported that concessionaires in other parks and stadiums, as well as fairs and exhibitions, are interested in the new hot dog machine.

Lady resident was long associated with this town

Late Mrs. Robt. Hamilton

A funeral service, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, was held July 15 at Lachute United Church for Mrs. Robert Hamilton, a resident of this town for many, many years.

She was born 87 years ago at Covey Hill, Que., where her early childhood was spent.

The deceased lady was formerly Miss Andria F. Barr, daughter of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. James Barr, of Montreal. In 1900 she married the late Robert Hamilton, who predeceased her in 1946.

She was a member of the Lachute United Church and very keenly interested in its activities, and was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society. She was also interested in the activities of the Curling Club.

The late Mrs. Hamilton is survived by three daughters, Mary Evelyn, of Lachute, Lillian (Mrs. James C. Calder), Town of Mount Royal, Shirley (Mrs. E. J. Boyd), of St. Laurent; two sisters, Mrs. D. W. Massie, of Montreal, and Mrs. W. W. Perry, of Vancouver; two granddaughters, Mrs. Mavriplis (Linda Calder), Mrs. Ticehurst (Brenda Calder); one grandson, Robert Boyd; and three great-grandchildren, Cleo, Demetri and Katherine Mavriplis. . . A daughter, Roberta, predeceased her in 1921.

The pall-bearers were Mr. Ralph Wight, Mr. Gordon Dobbie, Mr. Cecil McFaul, Mr. Meredith Massie, Mr. Gordon McOuat and Mr. Bob Boyd.

WAR HEROES

In the first World War 70 Canadians won the Victoria Cross, and 16 Canadians received the award in World War II.

— Quick Canadian Facts

Insist on clean eating places

On a long trip it is not always convenient to pack a picnic lunch and it becomes necessary to take a chance on finding an eating place along the way. A restaurant does not have to be fancy in order to serve good, wholesome food, and the decision on the atmosphere in which you wish to eat is a matter of personal preference. The premises, however, should be clean, and screens should be provided on doors and windows, to prevent flies and insects from getting in. Washrooms should be neat and tidy, and proper towelling available.

Chipped dishes may harbour diseases, and should not be accepted, nor should smeared or dirty glasses, or improperly washed forks and spoons. If dishes are dirty or cracked, ask for them to be replaced.

Link with Irish settlers in Parish of St. Columba

The late Michael Mooney

The Lachute district lost a link with one of the pioneer Irish families in St. Columba Parish, in the death of Michael Mooney on July 4, in his 76th year. Interment was on July 7.

A son of William Mooney and his wife, Alice, he was a lifelong resident of the parish. In 1927 he married Helen Drennan, who pre-deceased him in 1956. Surviving are two sons and a daughter, Alec, now of Montreal, Eileen (Mrs. James Walt), of Brantford, Ont., and Jim, at home; also two sisters, Elizabeth (Mrs. Arthur Gowling), of Ottawa, and Agnes. Two sisters, Mary Ellen and Alice, and one brother, James, predeceased him. There are five grandchildren.

Mr. Mooney was well known as a successful farmer in the Lachute area, but the Mooney name was to become synonymous with a special brand of Irish hospitality to hundreds of people in Ottawa and Montreal during the years between 1936 and 1956, when Mooney's Log Cabin was operating as a summer hotel.

Numerous floral and spiritual offerings gave testimony of his many friends.

Pall-bearers who assisted were — Messrs. Lawrence Silverson, Harry Todd, Ross MacAdam, Jack Hodge, Watson Berry and Marcel Joly.

Those attending from distant points included, in addition to the members of the family — F. A. Baxter and Sandy Baxter, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. John P. Whelan and Maureen, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien and Orian, Mr. and Mrs. W. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLaughlin and John, all of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Consedine, of Hudson, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lefebvre, Mr. and Mrs. Réal Lefebvre, Mr. and Mrs. J. St. Aubin, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grenier, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ranger, from Valleyfield; Miss Marguerite Mulhall, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Colford, Messrs. Bruce Greenhalgh, Michael Cregan and David Lowe, all of Montreal.

WATCHMAN WANT ADS BRING RESULTS.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY, Macdonald College

My comments two weeks ago about a hay shortage brought quick response from the Eastern Townships. It looks as if the crop there is at least average and there is hay for sale. After a slow start, the rains came just in time to give a thick bottom growth. Prices asked seem very reasonable for either standing or baled hay.

I was in the Counties of Compton, Richmond and Wolfe last week; all the crops looked very good. Cy Rolfe's three acres of garden corn were almost in tassel; it is a few days later than last year, but give it another month, it will be ready to eat. The blackbirds are already lined up on the fence waiting for it.

Arthur Martin's field of Keystone barley near East Angus is well worth seeing. The chemical, M.C.P.A., has done a good job of weed control on it. And if you want to see a striking demonstration of fertilizer on grass, have a look at his pastures. Two weeks ago he fertilized them, but one half of the drill was blocked. The field is now a remarkable pattern of green and brown strips.

Wells Coates is another good pasture manager. He has several small fields of ladino which he grazes in turn, then rests for two or three weeks. Right now he is pasturing off the oats.

Wells has had very good results cleaning up a fence row with chemicals. Six weeks ago, he had the foliage sprayed with Brush-Kill (a mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T) in water. The brush is all brown now and shows no sign of regrowth. The cost was less than $20., including rented equipment.

Another effective method, especially if the brush is tall, is the "basal bark treatment." You use a knapsack sprayer to wet the bottom twelve inches of the trunks thoroughly with these same chemicals in fuel oil. Two men working on opposite sides of a fencerow can cover a lot of ground in a day. This treatment can be used any time of the year when there is no snow on the growth.

Ernie MacAulay is planning to use 2,4-D to clean brush out of his rough pasture. Hardhack, a spiraea, is gradually taking over. He hopes spraying once this summer with 32 oz. of 2,4-D acid in 100 gallons of water, and the same next spring, will do the job.

Have you noticed how brown the leaves of the birch trees are this summer? The villain is a small white grub which works in between the two surfaces of the leaf.

The adult of the Birch Leaf Miner is a small fly which lays its eggs on the developing leaves. When they hatch, the larvae burrow into the leaf and feed on it. Later, they drop and pupate underground. Since the life cycle is only six weeks, there could be two, or even three generations in a summer.

The birch trees are rarely killed, but for shade trees around the house, treatment may be worthwhile. Don McArthur of the Department of Woodlot Management says that Cygon, a Cyanamid product, is showing promise as a systemic insecticide. You paint a band, six inches to a foot wide around the trunk of the tree, early in the season. The chemical is absorbed and in a week or so is carried into the leaf where it is ready to poison the first bug that bites it. It can be used as a spray on the leaves if the grubs get there first. Two treatments during the season should do the trick.

Cairn unveiled at Dunham, to first Q.W.I. branch

By chartered bus and private cars, between four and five hundred members of the Quebec Women's Institutes converged on Dunham, Que., last week from widely scattered parts of the province, to watch the unveiling of a cairn commemorating the formation of the first Women's Institute in the Province of Quebec, June 27, 1911.

This has been named an historic site by the Commission of Historic Sites, which provided the bronze plaque and assisted with the cost of erecting the monument, made of local fieldstone.

The Q.W.I. president, Mrs. J. Ossington, opened the ceremony by introducing Mrs. G. Brown, daughter of Mrs. Geo. Beach the founder and first president, who read the minutes of the first meeting. She was followed by Mrs. G. D. Harvey, a past-president of the Q.W.I., who gave a resumé of the history of the Dunham Institute and the growth of the Q.W.I., with a special tribute to Mrs. Beach.

Mrs. W. S. McElroy, a charter member of Dunham W.I., although confined to a wheelchair, was presented and assisted in the unveiling. The cairn was draped in the Q.W.I. colors of blue and gold, and the same colors appeared in bouquets of flowers placed at the foot of the monument.

Other guests spoke briefly — Mr. Glen Brown, M.L.A., representing Quebec Department of Agriculture, and Mr. John Bland of the Historic Sites Commission.

After the short ceremony, the members gathered on the lawn of the United Church where, as guests of the Institutes of Missisquoi County, they enjoyed tea and spent a delightful afternoon.

DISTRICT NEWS

Glen of Harrington

Week-end visitors at Mrs. T. A. Parker's were Mr. and Mrs. Rae Farmer and family, of Roxboro, Que., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Veale and family, of Brampton, Ont., and Mr. Edward Wilson, of Verdun, Que.

Members of St. John the Divine attended the Bible study evening held recently by Capt. and Mrs. Buckle, at their present residence in Arundel.

Mr. Robert Mancini, of Greenfield Park, was the week-end guest of his sister, Mrs. Grant Thompson, Mr. Thompson and family.

Bible School Closing

During the Sunday evening service at St. John the Divine, Miss Leishman, who had completed a week of Vacation Bible School in the Glen, held the closing exercises. The children's program was pleasing to hear, and was enjoyed by all. Miss Leishman is to be commended for her fine work with these young children, and all will be looking forward to her return next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Flood, Jr., of Grenville, spent a few days as guests of the former's sister, Mrs. E. Tomalty, on their return from a holiday spent at Cape Breton Island.

Service in St. John the Divine will be held at 7.30 p.m. next Sunday. All are welcome.

Calumet

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Arthurs last week-end were Miss Marjory Arthurs, of Macdonald College, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Arthurs, from Duvernay, Mrs. Walter Murray, Gladys and Bob Murray, of Grenville.

Mrs. Margaret Arthurs spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kennedy at their cottage in Pointe-au-Chene, and on Monday visited her sister, Mrs. Jos. Arthurs, in Avoca.

Judy Lajeunesse, of Masson, Que., is spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. Leonard Reeves.

Mrs. Ed Young, of Pointe-au-Chene, spent a day last week with her sister, Mrs. Margaret Arthurs.

Miss Jennie Bates and a friend, from Lachute, spent Thursday visiting friends in Calumet.

Lions Elect International President

Claude M. DeVoras of Wichita, Kansas, was elected President of Lions International at the Association's 47th annual convention in Toronto, Canada, July 8-11. Lions International, with 720,000 members in 124 countries, is the world's largest service club organization.

Lions International is best known for its many youth programs, community service projects, sight conservation activities and aid to the blind. Last year Lions Clubs around the globe completed more than 400,000 individual community projects.

Suntanning has dubious benefits

Now, at the peak of the vacation season, the Health League of Canada calls attention to the Canadian Medical Association's observations on the "dubious" benefit of sun-tanning.

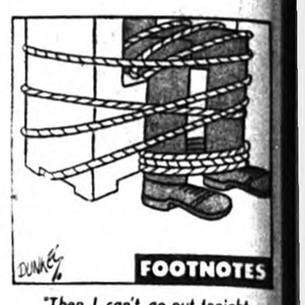

Gradual exposure to the sun is the safest and simplest method of acquiring an attractive tan. As a general rule, begin with 15 minutes exposure the first day, and increase the time by a few minutes a day. The time of the day is important, with the midday period, when the sun is directly overhead, the hottest for burning purposes.

Actually, the slim possible benefits of tanning are more than offset by its potential hazards. One skin specialist who has studied the problem said recently that he foresees the day when tanning will no longer be a status symbol and the fair, creamy complexion will once again be the vogue.

Continued tanning brings gradual changes in the blood vessels of the exposed surfaces. The connective tissue of the skin degenerates, causing wrinkles and a coarsening of texture. The [illegible] of the neck becomes permanently reddened and freckle-like dark spots appear on the skin. These spots can sometimes be the start of skin cancer.

Sun bleaches the hair, too, and over a period of time the sun-bleached hair becomes brittle and unmanageable. However, the damaged hair will eventually grow out.

The only really beneficial effect of sunlight on the skin is formation of Vitamin D, but the average diet already provides an adequate supply of this vitamin.
